THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 51 QUINCY MASS MONDAY EVENING MARCH 2 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

SUDDEN DEATH OF PASTOR'S WIFE

Mrs. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson Attended Church Services on Sunday Morning

Has Taken Active and Helpful Interest in Husband's Work

Mrs. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson, wife of the minister of the First Parish church, died at a little after five o'clock this morning from heart failure, following a convulsive attack. She attended church on Sunday morning as usual, but soon after returning home felt faint and lay down on her bed. Dr. Hunting and Dr. Sargent administered powerful heart stimulants which were kept up at intervals during the afternoon and night, but the heart was too much weakened to respond and shortly after five o'clock, she passed away. Dr. Hunting and her husband being with her at the time.

Mrs. Hudson was born in Blue Hill Maine, Nov. 12, 1859, her maiden name being Margaret E. Chatto, and in 1877 was graduated from The Castine Normal School. In 1880, she was married to Wendell Benson of Mt. Desert, Maine who was then engaged in business in Chicago, afterward removing to Omaha and later to Salt Lake City.

In March, 1894, Mr. Benson died, and in November, 1896, she was married to Mr. Hudson with whom she has lived in his three parishes, at Buffalo, N. Y., Newton and Quincy, Mass., in all of which places she made a host of friends who will sincerely mourn her loss.

Besides her husband she leaves one daughter, by her first marriage, who is herself married and living in Portland, Me.

Prior to a severe illness a few years ago, Mrs. Hudson was a very active, efficient and self-sacrificing worker, both in the church and in general educational and philanthropic lines, and in spite of the limitations of her strength she has taken an active and helpful interest in all phases of her husband's work in Quincy. Even those who had known her for only a short time, felt in her a sincere and sympathetic friend, and all who knew her well will deeply sympathize with both minister and parish.

Funeral services wil be held from the First Parish church, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

QUINCY POST OFFICE.

Letters unclaimed for the week ending Feb. 28: Tavelli Battista, Mrs. Paul Butler, Santiago Coromino, E. Geen, Miss Marion D. McKenney, J. F. Minkle, Olga Puronen, Mrs. Etta Smith, Girolomo Vukov, Johan Walkeajarn, Nikita Zayczuk, 823 Washington st.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL

MONDAY, TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY MARCH 2, 3, 4 MATINEES DAILY

THE TALK OF ALL AMERICA

Exactly as presented at TREMONT THEATRE, BOSTON, ASTOR THEATRE, NEW YORK, and every large city in the United States

QUO VADIS

SEE

THE BURNING OF ROME.

THE LIONS ABOUT TO DEVOUR THE CHRISTIANS.

THE EXCITING CHARIOT RACES.

ETC., ETC.

Matinee at 2.30. Evening at 7.45.

Reserved Seats at Mrs. D. P. Taylor's, 1291 Hancock Street.

SAT. MATINEE and NIGHT VAUDEVILLE and PICTURES

Feb. 27-3t

AUTO OWNERS

It has been said, how can we sell

Goodrich, Goodyear and Firestone Tires

at the low prices.

We are going after the tire business for 1914, and we want every auto owner to be acquainted with the fact, and for 10 days we will give FREE with every tire

1 CHAMPION X SPARK PLUG or 1 GAL. OF VACUUM OIL

With the tires to be sold as cheap or cheaper than our competitors can sell.

Give us a trial and be convinced.

CENTRAL GARAGE

Tel. 1035-W COR. WASHINGTON AND POND STS

Feb. 25-tf

WELL KNOWN AT QUINCY POINT

Walter S. Redding Passes Away At Age of 80

Walter S. Redding, a resident of Quincy Point for the past 28 years, died Saturday afternoon at his home, 756 Washington street aged 80 years.

Mr. Redding came to Quincy from Malden. He was engaged in the stained glass business, making a speciality of stained glass windows for churches and public buildings, under the firm name of Cook, Redding & Co., and later under the name of Redding, Baird & Co., their place of business being on Franklin street, Boston.

Mr. Redding was married three times, and he leaves three children by his second wife, and two by his third wife. They are Mrs. Peter B .Mead, Mrs. Harry L. Whiton, Mrs. George Thomas, Charles W. Redding of Plymouth, and Harry Redding of Quincy.

Mr. Redding was a member of the Barnicoat Firemen's Veteran association. Funeral services will be held this afternoon from his late residence on Washington street.

WILLIAM H. STEVENSON.

William H. Stevenson entered his home at 141 Washington street Sunday afternoon, after spending a short time in his yard, and died suddenly. The cause of death was given as heart disease. For several yers he has been a sufferer from asthma which is thought to have affected his heart. He was in his 42d year.

Mr. Stevenson was the proprietor of the grocery at Washington and Canal streets. He is a former resident of Woburn and has lived in this city for three years. He is survived by his wife and one daughter. He was a member of Rural Lodge of Masons. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 1 P. M.

MRS. NOAH L. WHITCOMB.

Mary C. Whitcomb, widow of Noah L. Whitcomb, one of the early residents of this city, died Saturday at her home at 31 Parker street. Mrs. Whitcomb was in her 82d year. She is survived by one daughter, Marietta Whitcomb.

MRS. JUSTIN K. HARDWICK.

Esther A. Hardwick, wife of Justin K. Hardwick, died Saturday at her home at 107 Granite street in her 78th year. She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Jennie and Edith Hardwick.

OTHER DEATHS.

Sid Abdullah, who boarded at 29 Winter street, died at the Boston City Hospital on Sunday. He was in his 25th year and was an employee at the Fore River shipyard.

Isaac Sussman, one of the Jewish residents of this city, died at his home at 62 Massachusetts avenue this morning. He was in his 41st year and was formerly a foreman in several shoe manufacturing establishments. He is survived by his wife and family.

James H. Coleran of 24 Norton street, North Weymouth, died at his home Saturday. He was the husband of Sarah Ash Coleran.

PRATT'S BREAD is liked by the most discriminating people. Grocers sell it.

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer

Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50.
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
Feb. 27-1m

MISS MARION FARWELL
MAGAZINES

Motor, Garden, Poultry, Household, Children's, General Literature, all kinds.
20 Briggs St., Wollaston, Mass. Tel. Quincy 947-2
At Wollaston Automobile Show, Wollaston Centre Garage, Feb. 28--March 5
Feb. 19-12t

Have Your Picture Taken in Our Studio
394 WATER STREET, QUINCY

Workmanship guaranteed. Special attention given to outside work. Photos taken evenings by electric light.
ortrait Enlarging. PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order
E. C. GREIFELD, Artist
Feb. 12-1m

OPENING OF AUTO SHOW

Several Makes of Cars Are Exhibited

The second annual automobile show at the Wollaston Centre garage was opened Saturday night and will continue during this week, closing on Thursday night. The attendance was large and not only included residents from Quincy, but auto enthusiasts from all parts of Greater Boston. The affair is under the personal direction of Temple A. Winsloe and is on a much more magnificent scale than the 1913 show which was the first to be held in the city.

The garage has been decorated in a simple but highly attractive manner and is on the Venetian courtyard order. The whole floor is given over to exhibitors, and the Jeffrey machines of which Mr. Winsloe is the sole agent in this city, occupies the centre square

Manager Winsloe was at the entrance of the exhibit and personally welcomed the guests of the evening and aside from being solicitous for their comfort he attended to their wants during the evening.

Promptly at eight o'clock Sullivan's orchestra opened the musical program. They were assisted by William McDevitt of Boston, as soloist. The program was:

Lutspeil Overture Keler Bela
Seranade Italianne Verdi
Vocal solo, Last Night was the End of the World William McDevitt Dream, Society Waltz "Sit Down" by Jean Schartz
Violin solos Berceuse Goddard
Vocal solos, Goodbye Foster
Miss Louise K. Sullivan
Puppen Paradise Gruenwald
Vocal solo selected
William McDevitt
Apple Blosom Time Gounod
Waltz, from "Her little Highness" DeKoven

The cars on exhibition are Maxwell, White, Overland, Krit, Oakland, Chevrolet, Regal, Trix, Case, Ford, Detroit-Babcock, Electric and the Jeffreys. The novelty of the show is the Imp , a low cycle car which looks like a miniature automobile or a red devil, which made a big hit in New York.

Monday has been set aside for special guests who include members of the Weymouth Board of Trade, Old Colony Driving Club, Weymouth Monday Club, Cochato Club of Braintree, Braintree Philergians and the Milton Club.

"Quincy Day" is Tuesday and the special guests will include members of the Quincy Board of Trade, Granite City Club, Congregational Men's Club, Sachem Club, Quincy Woman's Club, Wollaston Women's Club, Squantum Women's Club and the Houghs Neck Associates

Manager Winsloe has given over Wednesday to the South Shore towns and the guests will be from Hingham, Hull, Cohasset, Scituate, Norwell and Marshfield and on Thursday, members of theChicatawbut Club of Stoughton, Randolph Library Associates, Sharon Fortnightly Club anh the Holbrook Ladies' Club

One of the most interesting exhibits is a cutting and welding machine of the Tolman Manufacturing Co. The latest hunch contrivances and lubricants are on exhibition. Experienced demonstrators with an inside knowledge of the material on exhibition are in charge of the booths.

Among the exhibitors is C. P. Gould of Quincy, local agents of the Ford and Case automobiles.

A program of rare musical merit will be given afternoon and evening during the show by the Sullivan Sisters and they will be assisted by William McDevitt whose repertoire of songs out-numbers that of most singers.

Hon. James M. Curley, mayor of Boston, is expected to be present this evening and Gov. David I. Walsh is expected Tuesday evening, Quincy night.

To Cure a Cold in One Day
Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE Tablets Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

MY SLOGAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

MENS MEETING WELL ATTENDED

Anxious to Hear Address on Three Famous Fools

The third of the Men's meetings was held at Kincaide's Theatre on Sunday. So much interest has been awakened in these meetings that there was a large attendance although it was a very rainy day.

Secretary Bromley of the Y. M. C. A. led the meeting, and got the men to enter heartily into the singing of the hymns. A mens chorus occupied seats on the platform. Rev. A. E. Hillman of the Swedish M. E. church read the scriptures and led in prayer. A double quartette from the chorus sang "Nearer My God to Thee" and was recalled. The men enjoyed very much the polished violin selections by Prof. Albert M. Kanrich of Boston.

Ora Samuel Gray proved to be a strong speaker for men's meetings, and his plain talk should be productive of a great good. He said there were three kinds of fools—the B. F. the M. F., and the D. F. By this he meant the born fools, the made fools, and the doctors of philosophy. He aroused interest by telling several of Sam Jones' stories.

Coming to the serious part of his address he said the man who mocks at sin is a fool. He had no use for the two-faced man who was religious only on Sundays. One needs courage to be a real true man today. It costs something now to be a man. Don't build on the sand. Don't build your moral character on intemperance.

Mr. Gray spoke plainly about building on the sand of impurity and criticised men who live a double life. No man goes down alone. At the close he asked any who wanted to be prayed for to lift their hands and several did.

Rev. Mr. Hillman pronounced the benediction. At the close all the men were invited to the Y. M. C. A. building.

$21,000 FOR FORE RIVER

Army Engineers Will Recommend This Appropriation

A dispatch from Washington announces that the Board of Army Engineers have disapproved an expenditure of $154,000 to $390,000 to deepen the Weymouth Fore river, but does recommend an expenditure of $21,000 to widen the channel below the Fore River bridge.

The reason for turning down the first project is given that the appropriation was unwarranted as it would benefit but a single industry namely the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation.

AT QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

"Quo Vadis," that marvellous photo drama spectacle that has made the name of the producer, George Kleine, already famous on this continent, and which has thrilled vast audiences week after week in New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia and various other cities, is playing at Music hall Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with matinees every day.

Certainly no scene ever pictured or portrayed upon the stage is more impressive or carries stronger weight for good than that incident where the figure of Christ appears to Peter and commands him to return to Rome. It is a splendid specimen of dissolving photography and only one of a remarkable group. In fact, it is said, there are so many great scenes in this glorious photo drama production of "Quo Vadis" it is difficult to pick out any one to praise more than the other.

PRATT'S BREAD—try it with a bowl of milk and blueberries. All grocers.

MARCH COMES IN LIKE A LION

High Wind and Rain Causes Damage in Different Parts of City

Fire Alarm Wire Falls Across Power Wires Causing Display

There is an old saying that if March comes in like a lion it will go out like a lamb. The month certainly came in like a lion for a more disagreeable day than Sunday would be hard to find. It began to rain during the night and Sunday morning there was a warm southeast rain and gale. The rain fell in torrents and the wind blew a gale. The streets and sidewalks were turned into running rivers and under the warm rain the snow and ice rapidly disappeared.

The ground being frozen hard however the water did not soak into the ground but ran along the streets. The water that was not carried off by the surface drainage ran into cellars, with the result that many cellars usually dry contained much water. Butler's brook was filled and overflowing and the meadows along its sides were converted into ponds. So with Town brook.

The streets in some places, especially where the street was on a side hill was converted into a running river upon which the water was several inches deep.

The weather cleared late in the evening however and this morning the temperature was some cooler, and it was found that much of the snow had disappeared.

Shortly before 6 o'clock Sunday night a fire alarm wire on No. 1, circuit, which is in the Fore River district, dropped onto one of the heavily charged power wires of the street railway which conveys the current to Brockton. The result was an electrical display that illuminated the heavens, and while it was magnificent to look upon it was extremely dangerous No. 1 circuit of the fire alarm was burnt out as were also several of the boxes and bells on the circuit.

The circuit was immediately cut out and men were put at work trying to patch up the circuit so that it would work in case of fire. Linemen of the Fire department, Street railway and Electric Light companies rushed to the scene and cleared the wires.

In addition to this limbs were torn from trees by the high wind and scattered about the streets.

Commissioner Brown said this morning that he had men out all day Sunday looking after the flood of water as well as clearing the streets of dead limbs. The worst trouble was at

(Continued on Page Six.)

Big Winter Profits

from your cows always result if you use

Pratts Animal Regulator

You get more milk per cow and feed costs less—none is wasted. All the nourishment in the feed is fully available to increase the secretion of milk. This is the standard tonic in use 42 years.

Refuse substitutes; insist on Pratts.
Packages 25c, 50c, $1.00—25 lb. pail $3.00.
"Satisfaction Guaranteed or Money Back"
Keep the stable clean and sanitary with Pratts Disinfectant—Strong, effective and not expensive.
317 Get Pratts Almanac.

A. J. Richards & Son, C. W. & G. W. Nightingale, Nathan Tmes, E. H. Doble & Co., and Grain Dealers, and General Stores everywhere. 4199.

FOY'S —ADAMS MARKET CITY SQUARE —WATER ST. MARKET QUINCY ADAMS

We Sell Advertised Goods

We believe in Advertising. It has been a big factor in the building of our business from a "one-man" shop in 1899 to the two modern markets with 36 employees that are today at your service. Our great success is due to doing what we have advertised to do, namely; selling only the best Meats and Groceries; keeping our store scrupulously clean, and giving our patrons the best possible service. In other words, living up to our advertising.

We sell advertised goods, On our counters and shelves you'll find nearly all the Nationally Advertised Food Products. Their advertising is a guarantee of High Quality, Purity, and a uniformity of Excellence. You can be sure its good, if its advertised. You can be sure its good if we sell it.

You've just had a sample. Now order a box.

SHREDDED WHEAT BISCUIT 10c

Made in the cleanest, finest, most hygenic food factory in the world.

"SUNKIST" ORANGES 23c doz

Seedless, tree-ripened, thin-skinned, Fibreless Fruit. Picked, wrapped and packed by gloved hands,

All kinds of CAMPBELL'S SOUPS 3 cans 25c

Made of the very choicest materials in the World's Cleanest Kitchen.

National Biscuit Co.'s Products; Heinz 57 Varieties; Quaker Oats; Chase & Sanborn Teas and Coffee; Hatchet Canned Goods; Armour and Swift's Ham, Bacon, Lard, etc.; in short, everything from Fleischmann's Yeast to Gold Medal Flour—at very lowest prices. Lets have your order.

Telephone R. E. FOY & CO. Free Delivery

March 2-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1434 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass. by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

It is suspected that some of Gen. Coxey's army of the unemployed will walk a little faster as they pass a woodpile.

Capt. Inch of the Volturno was presented with the keys of London, but they won't admit him to a comfortable lodging until he pays four shillings to the hotel clerk.

If they keep on building trolley lines around Jerusalem, Wall street may take a notion to study up a little about that city.

Nothing has been done yet about the annual spring floods, as you can't do anything when the water is up, and at other times no damage is being done by them.

It is believed the 300th anniversary celebration of the Landing of the Pilgrims will be well attended, particularly if a good series of baseball games is provided.

It might be convenient for the railroad presidents to live in Washington, as most of their work nowadays consists in answering the questions of government officials.

The Cleveland tax commissioners think they can get $35,000,000 out of John D. Rockefeller, but the lawyers will get quite a slice of it some years hence when the United States Supreme Court renders its verdict.

Congress has gone and voted for a railroad in Alaska, just as though that territory had a lot of electoral votes.

They are agitating for prohibition in California and the tourists may have to be satisfied by drinking in the scenery.

IDENTIFYING CRIMINALS.

The recent death of Dr. Alphonse Bertillon of Paris revives interest in former discussions as to the relative merits of his system of identifying criminals, and the finger print method.

The ordinary identification of criminals by photographs and descriptions is at best uncertain and cumbersome. In a big office 100,000 pictures may have been collected in the rogues' gallery, and it would take any one a week to go through them. The thousand shades of expression on the human face, particularly when a man is reluctant to enter this "hall of fame," makes identification often dubious.

In the five-cent thrillers that you buy at the news stand, the detective can always recognize a given face after intervals of many years. Real detectives are not gifted with such powers of memory.

The system of measurements which Dr. Bertillon invented has been very widely used. It was claimed that no two people in the world could show measurements corresponding in all particulars.

The system encountered the objection that it took a man with much experience in such measuring to produce reliable results. Errors were occasionally made, and measurements by different men varied, even those made by the same man at different times. As a result, the Bertillon system has been to an extent discarded in favor of the finger print method.

The criminal who is held merely on a finger print laughs at the dirty little smooch produced against him. But as the enlargement is shown, and the wonderful individuality explained, he pales at the certainty of this demonstration. No two men have the same finger marks. A number of thieves have in this way been jailed as the result of marks unconsciously left on windows.

WILL FURNISH BECKER ALIBI

Strong Arm Squad to Take the Witness Stand

THE CONFERENCE AT HARLEM

Counsel For Former Police Lieutenant Claims It Did Not Occur—Mrs. Becker to Contradict Story of Schepps—Widow of Slain Gambler Plainly Expresses Her Opinion

New York, March 2.—Twelve members of the strong arm squad will take the stand at the second trial of Charles Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal to testify in favor of their former chief, according to Joseph A. Shay, chief counsel for Becker.

They will be called in an effort to prove that the Harlem conference, the alleged meeting of Becker and Rose, Vallon, Schepps and Webber in a vacant lot at One Hundred and Twenty-Fourth street and Seventh avenue, did not occur.

While neither of the four informers agreed on the date of the Harlem conference, when Becker is alleged to have ordered the murder of Herman Rosenthal, they said that it was one night after Becker had raided a negro crap game and that they were pretty sure it was in the last week in June, 1912.

The members of the strong arm squad, Shay said, will testify that one or more of them were with him during all the night in the last week in June when the crap game was raided.

Mrs. Charles Becker will be another witness. Shay said she would contradict the story of Schepps that he visited Becker's home on June 17, 1912, the day after the murder, discussed the crime with Becker and asked him to advise Rose what to do.

Mrs. Rosenthal, widow of the murdered gambler, thus expressed herself at the outcome of the Becker victory appeal for a new trial:

"Charles A. Becker, the man who instigated the murder of my husband, and who ordered it carried out, will possibly go free. Those four poor, ignorant tools, who, for a few dollars, would do almost anything, have got to die for Herman's death. I suppose that is what is called justice.

"Becker is the man who should be electrocuted and not the four poor tools. Two of those four boys in the death house at Sing Sing have wives. And all of the four have parents. Imagine their feelings. All this sorrow because of Becker.

"Now Becker is loudly shouting, 'Harry Vallon killed Herman Rosenthal.' He knows he does not tell the truth when he makes such a statement.

"Becker had been grafting from gamblers and he knew Herman was going to tell everything. Because of what Becker knew Herman would do is why Herman was so treacherously slain."

OCCUPIES DEATH CELL

Woman's Apparent Indifference to Her Fate Disappears

Auburn, N. Y. March 2.—Mrs. Cynthia Buffum, calm and indifferent to her fate, even after the gate of Auburn prison closed on her, finally broke down as Matron Daly prepared to take her up to the cell where Mary Farmer, the last woman to be electrocuted in this state, was imprisoned.

Mrs. Buffum, convicted of murder in the first degree for poisoning her husband, Willis Buffum, was brought here from Little Valley under sentence to die in the electric chair during the week beginning April 5.

At no time during the journey to Auburn had Mrs. Buffum given any sign that she realized the seriousness of her position under the jury's verdict and the court's sentence.

A death watch was installed in the woman's prison.

CONGRESSIONAL PROGRAM

Trusts and Rural Credits the Only Measures to Be Pushed

Washington, March 2.—Trust legislation and a new law to embrace rural credits before adjournment of congress are the only measures on the "must" list of the administration for the present session of congress.

This, of course, excepts the necessary appropriation bills, which now are being rapidly disposed of. Should the trust bills prolong the session, some party leaders believe the rural credits bill might be put over until next session, but the Democrats earnestly desire to establish a system of rural banks before the approaching congressional campaign.

Postal Service Gets $310,000,000

Washington, March 2.—The senate passed the postoffice appropriation bill, carrying $310,000,000. This is the largest single appropriation bill ever passed by congress.

He Was Sensitive.

Blobbs—You're pretty much stuck on Miss Gobbs, aren't you, old man? Hobbs—I was once, but after what she said to me last night I'm not going to pay any more attention to her. Blobbs—Gee! What did she say? Hobbs—"No!"—Cleveland Leader.

MR. AND MRS. BECKER

Pictures Taken at First Meeting After Favorable Decision

© 1914, by American Press Association.

GET $400.000 BACK PAY

Over Nine Thousand Men Collect From Boston Elevated

Boston, March 2.—Ninety-five hundred Elevated railway employes today receive the back pay due them, amounting to $400,000, under the Elevated arbitration award of six weeks ago.

The sum varies in each instance from a few cents to almost $130, according to the wage increase given each class of employes, and the time worked by each person since May 1 last, to which date the decision goes back.

FIRST VICTORY FOR AMERICAN DRIVER

Pullen Sets New Record In International Auto Contest

Santa Monica, Cal., March 2.—Edwin Pullen won the fifth international grand prize race over 403 miles of the Santa Monica course. A new record of 77.2 miles an hour was established. It was also the first time in the history of the event that an American finished first.

The winner gained his place by a serious accident which jeopardized the life of Driver Marquis, when his car, the most dangerous foreign motor in the contest, turned turtle at a turn and crushed him.

Thereafter it was no race. Pullen was forty miles ahead of the second car at the finish and fifty-five miles ahead of the third.

400 CENTURIES OLD

Experts Find Drops of Liquid Blood In Antidiluvian Body

Paris, March 2.—The taxidermists of the Natural History museum are preparing the body of a huge mammoth, which lived 40,000 years ago, and was recently found frozen in a Siberian ice block. The animal was so large that it had to be quartered before being brought to the Paris museum.

The experts found in a vein a few drops of brownish substance which proved on analysis to be blood which had remained liquid through 400 centuries.

The carcass was in excellent condition, the hide being intact, and the flesh showing no signs of decomposition.

GETS MAXIMUM SENTENCE

Five Years In Prison and Fine of $1000 For Black Hander

Chicago, March 2.—Conviction and sentence to the severest penalty allowed by the law followed swiftly on a "Black Hand" outrage committed here when Judge Landis sentenced Salvatore Serianni to five years in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $1000.

Serianni placed a bomb on the night of Feb. 13 that wrecked the grocery store of Leonardo Melone. He was arrested almost immediately and confessed to having sent "Black Hand" letters to Melone.

Blames Cigarets For Suicide

New York, March 2.—Samuel A. Crane, 21 years old, was found dead in bed with a note beside him saying he had taken his life because he could not shake off the cigaret habit. He had committed suicide by inhaling gas.

Medal For "Moonlight" Schools

Louisville, March 2.—The Clara Barton medal has been presented to Mrs. Cora Stewart for her work in establishing the "moonlight schools" which have reduced illiteracy in the Kentucky mountains.

FINAL CRUSADE IS EXPECTED

Huerta to Take the Field In Person Against Villa

THE GOVERNMENT'S MASTERY

Question Likely to Be Settled When Dictator With Army of Twenty Thousand Veterans Meets Rebel Leader at Torreon—Engagement of Great Magnitude Is Predicted

Washington, March 2.—Charge O'Shaughnessy cabled the state department from Mexico City that Dictator Victoriano Huerta will quit the capital and take the field in person against the constitutionalist forces at Torreon.

This will pit the two most foremost militarists of Mexico—Pancho Villa and Huerta—in a struggle which may go far toward settling the strife between the federalists and the constitutionalists for mastery of the Mexican government.

Huerta, according to dispatches from the Texas border, has 20,000 well armed and seasoned troops at Torreon. Villa, pleading recently to the charge that he had been skulking at Chihuahua and unnecessarily slow ni attacking the government troops at Torreon, said he had but 15,000 men, irregular troops, poorly armed, with no commissariat and wearied by their struggles, to drive the federalists from the north.

A meeting between the two forces is inevitable if Huerta takes the field, and that it will be a battle which will make other conflicts in Mexico's series of wars seemingly insignificant is conceded on all sides, even by the heartiest enemies Huerta has here. He is recognized here as a soldier, par excellence, and second to none in the republic since political conditions sent former President Diaz out of the country.

The news has given Washington a thrill, because if it proves true a final grapple between the contending forces may be expected. Huerta has boasted that his army is in good shape and that he has 150,000 well equipped men to take the field.

Not only has Huerta maintained his army, but there are some observers of the situation here who think that Huerta has not been so badly defeated in the north of Mexico.

The belief is expressed here that the bad odor in which Villa has found himself since Benton's execution has given Huerta good reason to chuckle. The defeat of the federal forces at Juarez could not have been calculated to work greater disadvantage to the constitutionalist cause than circumstances have made it.

If Huerta takes the field an engagement of such magnitude is expected that foreigners in Torreon may be warned away from the place or else an effort may be made to put them in a place of safety while Villa and Huerta fight for the supremacy of Mexico.

Benton Commission Stopped

Juarez, Mex., March 2.—The Benton investigation commission was prevented from proceeding to Chihuahua to examine the slain Briton's body by rebel orders.

Colonel Avila, military commander here, declined to permit them to board the regular passenger train which was waiting.

SCARLET FEVER SCARE

All Schools and Theatre at Bridgewater Closed by Health Board

Bridgewater, Mass., March 2.—An unprecedented visitation of scarlet fever has thrown the town into an uproar. Twenty-five cases are already known. All public schools, including the state normal school, have been ordered closed until March 17 by order of the state board of health.

Meetings of the various Sunday schools were forbidden yesterday. The Princess theatre, the local moving picture show, has been closed.

Several cases are reported among the employes of two shoe companies. There are three cases in West Bridgewater.

CUTS THROAT AND WRIST

Boston Broker Commits Suicide In a Providence Hotel

Providence, March 2.—Frank H. Jeffries, a Boston broker, committed suicide in a local hotel by cutting his throat and an artery in his left wrist while in a bathtub.

Jeffries was 45 years old and appeared to be prosperous. He had lived quietly at the hotel for three weeks.

Information was obtained that Jeffries and his wife separated a few months ago. This action is reported to have preyed upon the husband's mind, and may have resulted in his suicide.

SALOON SHUTTERS UP

Breweries Also Close Under Tennessee Prohibition Law

Memphis, March 2.—Eight hundred saloons closed their doors at midnight Saturday, when the new state prohibition law went into effect.

At that hour the last drop of brew was drained from the vats of every brewery in the state, and every liquor dispensary went out of business.

QUINCY REAL ESTATE SALES.

William E. Badger et al to Rena M. O'Brien, Copeland street.

Jennie M. Brown to Stanley P. Hall, Warmile street.

Wilton A. Dunham to Cyrille Grenier, Adams Shore.

Joshua W. Ellis to John E. Williams, Beacon street.

Silas M. Foley to Joseph T. Hayes, Holmes street.

William E. Griffiths to Ann Griffiths, Granite street.

Flora C. Lathrop to Marcus E. Wight, Edison Park.

Norman D. Loud to Charles H. Morris, Hobart street.

Mandarin Asso. to Edwin O. Bleiler, Babcock street.

Carl P. Mellows et al to Louise L. Mellows, Conant road.

William F. Mooers to Julia French, Charles street.

Charles H. Morris to Emily A. Scott, Hobart street.

Theodore Nickerson to Ellen H. Murdock, Marlboro street.

Edgar Norton to George B. Buzzell, Newport avenue.

Rena M. O'Brien to Alice B. Mannex, Copeland street.

John H. O'Brien to William F. Mooers, Charles street.

Horace W. Richmond to Louise A. Broughton, Standish avenue.

Hattie M. Spear to Hattie F. Fay, Saville avenue, Faxon road.

Arthur A. Tripp to Betsey Johnson, Liberty street, Brook road.

Marcus E. Wight to Robert Russell, Edison Park.

Elmer B. Williams et al to Ralph L. Anderson, Cummings avenue.

Fred W. Wood et al trs to Mary A. Jacobs, Beach street.

Under Land Registration Act.

Frank A. Ware to Clara E. Brown, Montclair avenue.

BRAINTREE REAL ESTATE SALES

Alva M. Dow to Willard E. Dow, Brockton avenue.

Frederick W. Hollis et al to W. Frederick Kimball, Hollis avenue.

W. Frederick Kimball to Frederick W. Hollis et al trs, Hollis avenue.

Herbert L. Parker to Mary L. Parker, Hancock street.

George S. Parker by mortagee to Herbert L. Parker, Hancock street.

James H. Parks to Willard M. Davenport, Thayers avenue.

John H. G. Robinson to Sarah A. Bodycott, Morrison road.

Thomas F. Sheehan to James F. McGahan, Morrison road.

Jacob W. Wilbur to Briget Hennebury, Dewey road (2).

Jacob W. Wilbur to Julia Wilbur, Hillside avenue.

Julia Wilbur to Bridget Hennebury Hillside avenue.

WILLING TO MAKE GOOD.

Michael J. O'Brien recently came to Quincy from New York and found employment at the Fore River yards. Sunday he got wet outside, and to balance things up he got wet inside. It was while in the latter condition that he smashed several windows in a building at the corner of East Howard and South streets. Officer Johnson then took him in and sent him to the police station. This morning Michael said that he did not remember anything about smashing the windows, but if he did he was willing to make good. His case was placed on probation on condition that he make restitution.

SOUTH AMERICAN TOURIST.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce delegation of South America tourists attended the funeral of O. S. Chandler, a Weymouth shoe manufacturer and one of the party, which took place Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church of Weymouth. Mr. Chandler died suddenly on Wednesday. The high altitudes of South America affected him greatly and after his return a reaction set in which eventually caused his death.

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN

Who Are "Just Ready to Drop."

When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about— and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, you need help.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N. Y., saying: "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the other medicines I ever took.

If the careworn, run-down women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they too would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderful strength creator and body-builder, and we sell it under a guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

If It's Strong Enough For The State It's Strong Enough For You!

This bank is a legal depository for funds of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. It is a strong and substantial institution. It is managed with the best interests of its depositors in mind. It is safe-guarded by both state and federal regulation. Its officers and directors are men known to you as successful and level-headed. It is a good place for you to bank.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-1o-tf

SHAMOKIN COAL RANGE
FREE BURNING
Like The Shamokin of 20 years ago

C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

Advertise in the Ledger

Among Our Churches

CHURCH REPORTS.

If your church is not well represented in this department, it is because your church has not appointed a good press correspondent.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

The Sunday morning service at Bethany church was almost a memorial service for four who passed away during the week: Edward Southworth, Dr John F. Welch, Karl Sidelinger and George Everett Bishop, and also William H. Fay. It was the communion Sunday, and the pastor's text was: "Faithful unto death, the crown of life." He emphasized the importance of being faithful, and told of the reward—the crown. The hymns were appropriate to the day: "Bless be the tie that binds," "For all the saints," and "Love's offering."

Nine united with the church: Malcolm C. Sargent, Miss Helena W. Stockford, George Mearns, Mrs. Annie M. Ellis Mearns, Mrs. Jessie Kay, Miss Edith E. Skinner, Miss Lottie J. Medlin, Mrs. Eliza Medlin and Miss Gertrude J. Scott.

At the Sunday evening service Rev. Samuel E. Bartlett had an interesting message, speaking on "A great experiment." Telling of the progress of Christianity in the East.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Rev. A. E. Weston of Hemet, Cal., preached at the services on Sunday and will address the Women's Missionary Society tonight.

The Ladies Aid Society will meet on Wednesday evening in the church parlor at 7.30 o'clock.

On Friday evening at eight o'clock the Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor will give a sketch entitled "Deceptions Web." An enjoyable time is assured all who attend.

Next Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock the members of the Loyal Ladies and Clan MacGregor will worship with us in a body. John D. Mackay chairman of the School Committee and Rev. J. A. Matheson will address those present. There will be special singing by the Orpheus male quartette, consisting of James E. McFarlane, Everett Clark, Alfred O. Halderson and Frank Z. Wharton. The Loyal Ladies will meet in the lecture room at 7.15. Clan MacGregor will gather in their rooms at 7. Every member of these societies is invited to attend these services.

HALL PLACE M. E.

The text of the Sunday morning sermon at the Hall Place M. E. church was taken from the 48th Psalm 12-13.

D. H. McNeil led an interesting devotional service on the subject "A song of trust and deliverance." A good number were present. At the close of the service a consecration service was held at which every one present consecrated their lives anew to the service of the Master. The evening service was combined with that of the Epworth League.

A meeting of the Ladies Aid is called for Tuesday.

On Thursday, March 5, the Pilgrim Union of Epworth Leagues will meet at the Stanton avenue M. E. church. It is hoped a large number from West Quincy will go as the league is desirous of bringing the banner back.

SWEDISH CONGREGATIONAL.

Rev. E. A. Skogsbergh of Minneapolis was greeted by a large congregation Sunday morning. He will preach again this evening and also on Tuesday at 2.30 P. M. to parents and at 7.30 to the public. Communion was observed at the Sunday morning service and one was admitted to membership.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

"The Early Church" was the subject of the Sunday morning sermon, delivered in a well filled auditorium, although the weather was most unfavorable. There were six characteristics of that church which stand out very prominently. It was (1) A praying church; (2) An evangelistic church; (3) A giving church; (4) A transformed church; (5) A joyous church (6) A spiritual church. A church is made up of individuals, and it's "up to" the members to make it fulfil its purpose. If every Christian has the above characteristics in his own life, the church of which he is a part, will have them also.

At this service, Errald V. Estes, W. H. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Banks, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Pitt, Mrs. Olea and Miss Marion Gardner, and Miss Mildred Kingsley received the right hand of fellowship.

At 12.15 the regular session of the Sunday school was held in the chapel Subject of the lesson, "Trusting in riches and trusting in God."

The Junior meeting was omitted but the Senior C. E. society held its monthly consecration service at 6.00.

PARK AND DOWNS.

The downpour of rain Sunday and the condition of sidewalks required courage to venture from the shelter of one's home yet the services at this church though not showing its usual large number of worshippers was fairly well attended. The beautiful and sacred communion service was celebrated in the morning.

In the evening, the pastor gave a very helpful talk, taking for his subject "Destroying power of sin." Sin is the destroyer, it destroys character, it destroys love and friendship; it destroys confidence; destroys ideals. It destroys ambition and hope and all high spirituality. It works out its own punishment. It renders the sinner unfit to be a competent judge of his own actions. Therefore he weaves about himself a tangled web, in which he is at last destroyed. Man needs another viewpoint than his own; he needs another judge than himself and only Christ is sufficient for this purpose.

Next Sabbath evening, the pastor will analyze the recent report of the Massachusetts vice commission. This is a sermon designed for the youth and the parents. It is hoped the attendance will be large, as the subject will be of great interest. Mr. Ayers is an intense speaker and always holds the closest attention of his hearers.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

At the morning service, Rev. Carl G. Horst, preached upon "The Immanence of God" from the text "In Him we live and move and have our being"—Acts 17-28 This was the first in the series of sermons upon "Fundamentals in Twentieth Century Christianity."

The first of special Lenten services for the deepening of the moral and religious life was held Sunday evening. The Rev. Charles F. Dole, D. D., of Boston, was the visiting preacher.

The Y. P. R. U. held a helpful meeting at 6.30 and listened to a fine address on "Comradeship and enthusiasm" by Frederick M. Eliot of the Harvard Divinity school.

The annual collection for the American Unitarian Association, the national missionary society of the Unitarian church of this country and Canada, was taken Sunday at both morning and evening services.

All the members and friends of this church are invited to attend the Equal Suffrage League meeting in the Wollaston school hall this evening at 8 o'clock.

The Committee on Constitutional Amendments will give a public hearing at the State House, Wednesday, March 4 at 10.30 A. M., upon the proposed amendment prohibiting the use of public funds for sectarian purposes.

The Country Church Conference under the auspices of the Baptist, Congregational, Episcopal, Methodist, Unitarian and Universalist Social Service Commissions will be held in Boston, March 4 and 5.

The next vesper service will be held Sunday afternoon, March 8 at 4.30 o'clock. The Apollo Quartet will sing. It is hoped that the Rev. William Sullivan Associate Minister of Church of All Souls, New York City and author of "The Priest" and "Letters to his Holiness Pius X," will give the address.

The Wollaston Unitarian Club holds its next meeting, Tuesday, March 10, at 6.30 in the vestry.

The evening service of worship in King's Chapel, Boston, March 8 at 7.30 will be conducted by the Rev. William Sullivan of New York. The theme of his sermon is "The mission and message of the Unitarian faith."

The Girls' Choir guild is planning a pleasing entertainment and the young men for a social party.

The monthly supper and social of the church will be held Friday evening, March 6. Let all the old and the new members and friends of our church use this opportunity to get better acquainted.

QUINCY POINT CHURCH.

A communion service was held Sunday at the close of the morning service, and in the evening there was an illustrated lecture.

Before the Men's class of the church at noon the pastor discussed "What men can do for the church," and at the meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor he spoke on the Twelve Great Verses III, "The Love Verses," 1 John 4: 16.

At the People's Hour Service on Friday evening, Rev. Mr. Lang will talk on "Acquaintances with Charity and Benevolence."

A service for the aged seamen at the Sailors' Snug Harbor, Germantown, was conducted by Rev. Stephen C. Lang.

IN MEMORIAM.

Funeral services were held at the home of the late Washington Williams Saturday afternoon, Rev. George Mervyn Bailey, of the M. E. church officiating. The house was filled with neighbors, friends and relatives, and genuine sorrow was everywhere manifested.

Beautiful flowers in profusion, were massed about the casket and the room. The words of the clergyman were most kindly and appealing. The scripture readings were especially appropriate, and the spirit of the Master seemed to descend with comfort and healing, during the fervent prayer. As far as could be possible, Rev. Mr. Bailey brought peace and quiet to the troubled hearts, so sorely torn in this great bereavement.

The church quartette, Messers. Belcher and Cassidy, Mrs. Roberts and Miss Lovell, sang with much pathos and sweetness, "Sometime, we'll understand."

As the large company filed past the casket, to look for the last time on the familiar features, they were reminded of the happy wedding which took place two short years ago, when the daughter of the house Miss idabelle, became the bride of George P. Smith. In the same alcove, where the father lay now so silently, she stood with her husband and attendants, surrounded by beautiful flowers and loving friends and made a charming picture which is still fresh in our memories. And on that occasion, the proud and happy father was among the merriest of all that glad gathering.

But the house of feasting had changed to the house of mourning, and sadly we turned away, pondering on the mysteries of life and death.

The interment was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery. Mrs. Williams will stay for the present with her son Ellington, though her other son Edward, and her daughter, are anxious to have her with them. In her sudden and sad loneliness, she will be tenderly cared for by these who call her "the best of mothers," as she has been one of the "best of wives."

Beside the three children who are so well known as "Ellie," "Ted" and Ida, there are five little people at Ellie's home in Auburndale,—Gerard, Margery, Hazel and Elizabeth and baby George Edward, whose age is four weeks. Baby Betty at Ida's home on Brook street is eight months old. "Grandpa" Williams was very fond of these little folks and they were often at his home. He was especially fond of young people. He will be missed and mourned by the young, almost more than by the middle aged and the elderly. He leaves also one sister, Mrs. C. H. Burgess of Wollaston, and two brothers, Messrs. Alphonso and Herbert Williams of Boston.

Mr. Williams was born in Georgetown, Maine, 58 years ago. He was married in 1881 to Miss Lizzie Osborne of South Boston. They have resided at 42 Elm avenue for 16 years. In the prime of his life with much to live for his place is left vacant, and "Grandpa" has "gone away."

"Not now, but in the coming years,
It may be in the Better land,
We'll read the meaning of our tears,
And there, some time, we'll understand.

N. P. S.

HEARING ON TANGO DANCING

(Special from State House)

The committee on Social Welfare gave a hearing this morning on the bill to prevent tangoing, chicken flip, the lame duck, etc., introduced by Representative Lewis R. Sullivan of Boston.

Representative Sullivan appeared and said that much immorality prevailed as a result of the dance and that he saw 15 year old girls wearing transparent skirts in dance halls. He remarked that tangoing had become so popular that the Indians of the west had substituted it for their old war dance, and he said there are some Indians at the State House that like it better too.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

RIGOROUS SCHOOLING.

He Carried to His Death the Lesson He Learned at Eton.

Dr. Keate, the terrible head master of Eton, encountered one winter morning a small boy crying miserably and asked him what was the matter. The child replied that he was cold. "Cold!" roared Keate. "You must put up with cold, sir! You are not at a girls' school!"

It is a horrid anecdote, and I am kind heatred enough to wish that Dr. Keate, who was not without his genial moods, had taken the lad to some generous fire (presuming such a thing was to be found) and had warmed his frozen hands and feet. But it so chanced that in that little snivelling boy there lurked a spark of pride and a spark of fun, and both ignited at the rough touch of the master.

He probably stopped crying, and he certainly remembered the sharp appeal to manhood, for fifteen years later, with the Third dragoons, he charged at the strongly intrenched Sikhs (30,000 of the best fighting men of the Khalsa) on the curving banks of the Sutlej. And as the word was given he turned to his superior officer, a fellow Etonian, who was scanning the stout walls and the belching guns. "As old Keate would say, this is no girls' school," he chuckled, and rode to his death on the battlefield of Sobraon, which gave Lahore to England.—Agnes Repplier in Atlantic.

CORRECTED BY A SENTRY.

The Incident Which Led to Coleridge Retiring From the Army.

In his young days the poet Coleridge had a little love affair which ended in disaster, for the lady refused him. In despair he enlisted in a cavalry regiment, which he hoped would be ordered on foreign service, that he might end his blighted career on the tented field. For family reasons he dropped his correct name, but from a feeling of sentiment retained the initials, so Samuel Taylor Coleridge became Private Silas Tompkins Camberhatch.

The regiment did not leave the country, and it was not long before his soul wearied of barrack life and its utter absence of romance. His military life ended in a curious fashion. One day while Coleridge was doing a weary sentry go two officers strolled past. One of them made use of a Greek quotation, which the other corrected. The first insisted on his correctness, while the other was just as positive he was wrong.

While they disputed, the sentry suddenly presented arms and respectfully informed them that they were both in error. He gave the exact quotation, name of the author and other circumstances. If his musket had spoken the hearers could not have been more astonished. The incident led to an inquiry, and the poet was restored to the bosom of his family.—Argonaut.

Bavarian Distances.

In the Bavarian highlands signposts along the roads, instead of stating the number of miles or kilometers to the various villages, give the amount of time which the average pedestrian will supposedly take to traverse the distance. This is merely an official expression of the very general custom of the peasants in the region, who invariably tell inquirers on the roads not how far it is to a place, but how long it takes to get there.

For instance, one asks, "How far is it to Oberammergau?"

"A small half hour," will be the answer, or perhaps "A good half hour" or "A big half hour."

Which is puzzling until the stranger learns that a "small half hour" means twenty-five minutes, "a good half hour" thirty minutes and "a big half hour" thirty-five minutes.

Qualified to Paint Him.

Ambrose Patterson, the Australian painter, secured a commission once to paint a very lengthy and wealthy suburbanite. Patterson himself is a lank brush, shooting up beyond six foot one inch. He was rather priding himself on having been given this commission, bearing in mind the great pressure of artists round every possible job in Australia. Eventually, however, the sitter explained. "I was a long time lookin' for a sootable hartist," he said. "I'm six foot two an' a 'arf, and till I struck you I 'adn't seen a painter what 'ad enough 'ight to do a full length of me."—Argonaut.

Schiller and Goethe.

Schiller was, from all accounts, a much finer man than Goethe, but in mental grasp and artistic power the Sage of Weimar was head and shoulders above his dear friend Schiller. The Germans know this, and while they love Schiller far more than they do Goethe, they are not blind to the fact that the latter was much the greater intellect.—New York American.

Brutal Delay.

"His love is growing cold," she said, with a sigh.

"Why do you think so?" her mother asked.

"I told him he might call this evening at 8, and it was half a minute after that when he arrived."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Figures Don't Lie.

Hoax—Men live faster than women. Joax—That's right. My wife and I were the same age when we were married, but I'm fifty now, and she's just thirty-one.—Illustrated Bits.

Education.

Education does not consist of knowledge alone. It is the mental capacity of being able to establish and maintain harmony between ourselves and the world.

THE FORUM AT BRAINTREE

The second and last meeting of the forum was held in All Souls' church, Braintree, Sunday afternoon. Because of the heavy rain and high wind there was an attendance of only forty, but these few were amply repaid for venturing out.

Horace R. Drinkwater presided and introduced the speaker E. Philip Terry who gave an intensely interesting and enlightening lecture on Mexico and its present crisis.

Mr. Terry lived for eleven years in Mexico, and is the author of the standard book of travel concerning that country. He is a very pleasing speaker and his sarcastic flings at the present administration and its policy added spice to his talk.

Mr. Terry outlined the history of Mexico, telling of the primitive tribes that once lived there of the wonderful civilization which the Spaniards found and conquered, of the throwing off of the Spanish yoke, of Mexican independence up to the time of Diaz; of the reign of Diaz who is a personal friend by the way of Mr. Terry and of the conditions leading up to the present situation.

The speaker severely criticised President Wilson's present policy of delay and said if persisted in it would probably lead to international complications. He described Francesco Madero as an incompetent, and thinks it unlikely that Huerta was responsible for his death, it being his belief that Madero was killed when his followers attempted his rescue.

The amount of English and American capital, invested in Mexico amounts to the stupendous sum of one billion dollars for each nation. Up to date, one hundred Americans and many more Mexicans have been killed while five hundred million American dollars have been lost because of the Mexican revolution when without one cent's expenditure all this might have been averted had President Wilson seen fit to recognize Huerta. Diaz when leaving Mexico said it was a country which could be governed only by military rule.

According to Mr. Terry, this is still true and Huerta is the man for the place, and should be recognized by the United States. Should this be done, the other great nations would do likewise, Huerta would be able to borrow funds and could end the war.

Mr. Terry said that Wilson was looking for a "real nice man" to rule Mexico, but there are none in that country. He further said that Mr. Wilson wanted a man of about the calibre of the president of a young women's college, but that schoolmasters don't make good presidents, especially in Mexico.

Mr. Terry characterized Villa and Carrauza as common bandits. Carrauza he says is fighting not for love of country but to avenge the death of his friend Madero. He said that Wilson's special envoy, John Lind with his ignorance of the Spanish language has about as much chance of getting at the Mexican situation as a Zulu fresh from the bush would have of understanding the machinations of Tammany hall.

Mr. Terry thinks the present crisis a grave one and says it cannot be relieved by any amount of academic rhetoric or diluted grape juice. He does not believe in armed intervention but thinks the government of Huerta should be recognized, it being the best under the circumstances. He does however thinks many of the Mexican states are ready to secede to the U. S. and says it would be a comparatively easy matter for this country to send an army and subdue Mexico. At the close of his lecture Mr. Terry answered in a delightfully clear and interesting way several questions asked by interested auditors. The meeting was adjourned at about half past five o'clock.

LOVE LETTERS.

My letters—all dead paper, * * * mute and white—
And yet they seem alive and quivering
Against my tremulous hands, which loose the string
And let them drop down on my knee tonight.
This said * * * he wished to have me in his sight
Once, as a friend. This fixed a day in spring
To come and touch my hand, * * * a simple thing.
Yet I went for it—this * * * the paper's light * * *
Said, "Dear, I love thee," and I sank and quailed
As if God's future thundered on my past.
This said, I am thine, and so its ink has paled
With I fling at my heart that beat too fast.
And this, * * * O love, thy words have ill availed.
If what this said I dared repeat at last.

—E. B. Browning.

AUTOMOBILE NUMBERS

Saturday, March 7

And Again

Saturday, March 14

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Will Contain an Extra Section

Devoted to the Automobile Industry

In connection with the Boston Show

ALL LOCAL AGENTS AND GARAGES

Are Invited to take Large Spaces

Take Advantage of the Opportunity

WOLLASTON PARK

WHY NOT HAVE THE

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LEFT AT YOUR HOME

EVERY AFTERNOON

BY A RELIABLE BOY

GEORGE COBB

116 KEMPER STREET

Telephone Quincy 1965 M

Will Deliver Anywhere in the Park

→ TRY HIM ←

$1.00 WHILE THEY LAST

BARGAINS

HISTORIES OF QUINCY

Slightly damaged by water. Just the thing for students of history for reference, or to clip from.

Bargain price of

$1.00

while they last.

A few perfect copies for $3.50

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING COMPANY

LEDGER—PATRIOT OFFICE

Baked with great care and wrapped in Wax Paper. Dust proof between our bakery and your table. Ask for it.

YOUR GROCERS SELL IT

PRATT BREAD CO., 3190 WASHINGTON ST., BOSTON

Quincy Daily Ledg

FOR SALE AT
BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Talbredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bigelow & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
NANCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck.
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield Water st.
A. Pierson, 32 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity: Tuesday fair with rising temperature.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	6.19
Sun sets	5.34
Length of day	11.16
Moon sets	11.31
High water, A. M.	2.30
High water, P. M.	3.00
Days increase 2 hours, 10 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	44 degrees
Mar. 2 1913,	38 degrees
Mar. 2, 1912,	33 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

Economy.

Hinks—I have quit smoking altogether.

Winks—Why?

Hinks—I couldn't stand to see so much smoke go to waste.

SOCIAL JUSTICE.

Let us consider the criminal. We are foolish in our treatment of him. A man of criminal stock kills some one. His case comes up before a jury. Sympathy for him is aroused, and in some countries his chances of getting off are very good. I am not going to make the criminal responsible for what he does. Of course he is innocent. But that does not alter the fact that he must be dealt with sternly in order that society and the generations of the future may be protected. Sympathy with the criminal is an injustice to society. The pursuit of happiness for our own sakes as well as for others is a mean sort of thing. This is the beefsteak idea of happiness. More laudable than this is self denial practiced to insure the future progress of our race. —Dr. Josef Schumpeter of Vienna, One of Columbia University's Exchange Professors.

People on Mars are burning blue lights to attract our attention, says an astronomer. May be nothing more than a celebration of some Martian football victory.

IS QUINCY SATISFIED?

The Evidence Is Convincing. The Testimony Open to Investigation.

Before a statement can be accepted here, it must be supported by local testimony—by the evidence of someone residing in Quincy. Statements from unknown people in remote places may be true, but we cannot prove them. Here is a statement by a Quincy resident:

C. P. Russell, 37 Washington Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "My kidneys were weak and acted irregularly. I also suffered from pains in my back. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, and the first box relieved me. I intend to continue taking this medicine."

"When Your Back is Lame—Remember the Name." Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Russell had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

SPORT NEWS

The relay team of Quincy High school finished second in its school race at the schoolboy games Saturday. West Roxbury was first, East Boston High third and Charlestown High fourth. On the team were A. W. Anderson, J. Barber, R. T. Sears, W. H. Watson. The time was 2m 12s.

Clan MacGregor of this city is leading in the Scottish Clans bowling league with 64 points won and 12 lost. Their pinfall is 25,927. Morton of the local team has an average of 93 with Dell second with 92.

Mark Gill, high average man at the close of Granite conclave, I. O. H. league, is high man in the Columbus Club league of Boston. He is rolling with the Mt. Bowdoin council. His average is 100.

Poehler heads the bowlers of the Boston City league. His mark is 109. Walsh has 105, Christopher 104 and Taylor and Beatty 102.

Poehler is also leading in the Littlefield All Star league with an average of 110.

A team of Knights of Columbus bowlers, representing the league of Quincy council will roll against a picked team from John Adams Aerie, F. O. E. at the City Square alleys on Tuesday night. The council bowlers are averaging high and since eagle quintette will include Bernard Burke who totalled 370 six weeks ago, the match gives every indication of being fast.

Thomas Flaherty was the souvenir winner at the whist party in the Knights of Columbus rooms Saturday night under the auspices of Quincy council. Seven tables were in play and the whist was brisk and fast. Refreshments and an impromptu concert closed the evening.

The final matches of the Fore River bowling league will be rolled Friday night. The banquet is planned for March 21 but the date has not been definitely settled upon. The affair this year gives every indication of being a greater success than ever. The individual and team prizes will be awarded at the banquet.

The Braintree A. A. were defeated by the Milton A. C., 33 to 23, at the Kidder gymnasium, Milton Saturday night.

The Red Men of South Quincy were defeated at Milton Saturday night by Cunningham gym, 27 to 19. On the losing team were HHydler, Stronach, Summers, Veal and Martin.

Williston Seminary beat Dean Academy at Easthampton on Saturday, 22 to 16.

St. Josephs beat St. Alphonsus in an N. E. A. A. A. U. league game Saturday night, 15 to 10, and tied Quincy A. A. for the lead. The second team of the losers beat St. Joseph's second team, 14 to 11. The victory of the big team was due to fine passing.

SCHEDULE OF SPORTS.

BASKET BALL.

Tuesday—Melrose High at Quincy.
Friday—Brockton High at Brockton.

CHECKERS.

Monday—Michael Kiley vs. Napoleon B. Grignon at Ave Maria Council, K. of C. rooms.

COLISEUM ALLEYS.

Monday—Fore River league.
Tuesday—Clan MacGregor league.
Wednesday—Special—Olindy and Ross of Quincy vs Smith Bros. of Weymouth.
Friday—Fore River league.

ST. MARY'S ALLEYS.

Tuesday—Div. 22 vs Franco-American
Thursday—Ave Maria vs Foresters
Friday—St. Mary's vs Copeland Club

—That Chicago judge who says married men must be at home by midnight or take the consequences has not added anything to public knowledge. The benedicts have been taking the consequences in large doses for generations.

—More immigrants are being debarred from the United States than last year according to figures by the Bureau of Immigration. During the month of December, as also during the first six months of the present fiscal year, more than two per cent of those applying for admission were turned back to their native shores.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

BOWLING EXPERTS RALLY IN JERSEY

The National Championship Meet at Atlantic City.

PRIZES WILL TOTAL $20,000

Entry List Guarantees a Most Successful Session of the Alley Sharps—Officers of the Association and Present Holders of National Titles—Smith the All Around Leader.

The annual championship tournament of the National Bowling association occurs at Atlantic City early in April, and $20,000 in prizes will be offered.

The list of entries indicates that the meet will be one of the most successful ever held.

The officers of the association who are laboring to make the affair a success are as follows:

President, Elmer E. Dungan, Philadelphia; first vice president, Frank H. Coughlan, Newark, N. J.; second vice president, John T. Smith, Buffalo; secretary, Major M. W. Gage, Rochester, N. Y.; treasurer, William Cordes, Brooklyn.

The board of governors:
M. J. Costa, Philadelphia.
H. J. Bergman, Philadelphia.
W. H. Valentine, New York
Charles A. Parker, New York.
Joseph Thum, New York.
M. C. Wyman, New York.

Photo by American Press Association.

PRESIDENT E. E. DUNGAN.

Frank D. Woodworth, New York.
Fred Roth, Paterson, N. J.
Fred Maier, Rochester, N. Y.
Dr. F. N. Tate, Albany, N. Y.
Bernie Maurer, Syracuse, N. Y.
W. R. Stevenson, Wheeling W. Va.
S. N Williams, Richmond, Va
Fred Maines, Newark, N. J.
Frank Rutz, Rochester, N. Y.
J. Tamboer, Paterson, N. J.
C. R. Lee Scott, Baltimore, Md.
R. E. Krause, Utica, N. Y.
W. E. Ford, New Haven, Conn.
A. G. Rupert Darling, Montreal, Canada.

The present champions of the association are:

Five Men.—Bronx Centrals, New York; total, 2,938.

Two Men.—James Smith and Glenn Riddell, New York; total, 1,259.

Individual.—George Kumpf, Buffalo; total, 712; average, 237.1.

All Around.—James Smith, Brooklyn; total, 1,928; average, 214.2.

GUNBOAT'S COMPLAINT.

Able Fighter Says Buckley Just Drives Him Toward Money.

Gunboat Smith stepped out in front of an audience of over 1,500 people at a south side theater in Chicago a few days ago, blushed, stammered, swallowed his Adam's apple a couple of times, then managed to blurt out to the applauding crowd that he wasn't an actor, but a fighter, and open to meet Georges Carpentier or the big "dinge" for the championship of the world.

The "Gun" said that he had had sixty battles in his short and sweet young life, forty of them resulting in knockouts to the other fellow. The "Boat" is sailing along fine on the theatrical sea of prosperity. Smith is drawing down a salary of 1,000 iron men every week. He has seventeen weeks of this kind of "soft going," which will take him pretty much all over the country.

Smith punches the bag, shadow boxes, does a little calisthenics, makes a couple of bows, then beats it for the dressing room. "I know," said Gunboat, "getting the coin like this is softer'n takin' candy from a infant, but my manager, Jim Buckley, just drives me to do it, so what's a fellow goin' to do?"

South Atlantic Meet For Baltimore.

Dr. John W. H. Pollard of Washington and Lee university, president of the South Atlantic Intercollegiate association, has announced that the third annual track and field championships would be contested at Homewood, Baltimore, May 1 and 2.

The members of the association are Washington and Lee, Johns Hopkins, Georgetown, Virginia Polytechnic institute, Agricultural and Mechanical college of North Carolina, University of North Carolina and Roanoke college.

STORM SWEEPS NEW ENGLAND

Indications of Tremendous Damage by Record Floods

DISASTER ON LAND AND SEA

Heavy Snow Rapidly Melts In Northern States, While Many Accidents Are Recorded Along the Seaboard—Several Places In Massachusetts and Rhode Island Unroofed by Gale.

Boston, March 2.—Flood and ruin by land and wrecks by sea lay last night in the track of a storm of wind that rose at points to eighty-five miles an hour, and of rain that turned the winter snow into torrents, presaging more disasters to come.

All the northeastern seaboard was at the mercy of the gale, but New England was worst hit. The blasts drove two schooners ashore, drowning one man, and sank four barges in Long Island sound, resulting in thrilling rescues of the crews.

The wind reached such a height it unroofed houses and railroad cars, and left many places a hopless tangle of fallen trolley, light, telephone and telegraph wires.

Boston was the exact storm centre, although the damage done was comparatively slight, the barometer registering 28.56, the lowest recorded observation ever made here.

Floods which promise to be record breakers and do millions of damage are pouring down the rivers. The snowfall of four or five feet in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, dissolved into the streams with terrible rapidity by the warm rain, is adding itself to melted snows in this state to send the river levels up by alarming leaps and bounds.

The lumber schooner Jacob Winslow was piled on Block island and after her crew had been saved William Hannibal went back to guard her from threatened piracy by an unknown vessel and was pounded to pieces in wreckage when the gale practically destroyed the stranded vessel.

Eight persons were rescued from sinking barges by the crew of the tug Salutation, which was towing them, when they broke loose off Charles island, between New Haven and Bridgeport.

There was comparative darkness in thousands of homes, when electric light wires, sometimes supplying an entire town, were put out of commission. In scores of places in Boston, and hundreds more in adjoininig cities, the residents of entire sections had to resort to gas and candle light.

Several places were partially unroofed by the wind in Boston and many sings were blown down and plate glass windows smashed, but cities to the south suffered far more heavily from the gale.

In Rhode Island a hotel at Narragansett was partially unroofed, many Newport cottages were left open to the sky, and the tops were taken off five New Haven freight cars. In New London the roof was blown off a theatre.

The wind played strange pranks in Brockton. It blew the big grandstand and bleachers at the Highland baseball park out into the street, as though they had been a bunch of excelsior.

Added to the discomfort caused by the storm was the knowledge that it left some sections exposed to increased fire danger, through wrecking of fire alarm systems. The whole Quincy system, between the centre of the town and Quincy Point, was burned out, when the wind blew one of the wires against a high tension trolley wire.

BOMB BURSTS IN CHURCH

Explosion In London Edifice Attributed to Suffragettes

London, March 2.—A bomb was exploded in St. John's church, Westminster, last night, half an hour after the service had ended and the congregation departed for their homes. The bomb had been placed beneath a seat in the gallery above the pulpit.

The explosion, which is attributed to suffragettes, caused considerable damage to the interior of the church, including the shattering of several stained glass windows.

Cut Off With $1000

New York, March 2.—William C. Rhinelander, the disinherited son of the late William Rhinelander, has been cut off with $1000 by his mother, whose will leaves her $2,000,000 estate to her two other sons.

Bold Work of Cracksmen

Toledo, March 2.—Cracksmen carted a 200-pound safe from the residence of August Nex into the Lake Shore yards, 500 feet away, where they blew it open and escaped with $175.

Two Turkish Aviators Killed

Constantinople, March 2.—Two aviators of the Turkish army were killed while trying to fly from this city to Cairo, Egypt. The frame of the aeroplane collapsed.

Actress Fined For Queer Stunt

Washington, March 2.—Minnie Burke, a burlesque actress, who electrified Washington by tripping down the Capitol steps in scant attire, was fined $35.

BUNK IN CHURCH

Two Hundred Homeless Men Welcomed by New York Rector

New York, March 2.—Two hundred unemployed men who marched into the Roman Catholic Church of the Transfiguration on Mott street during the service last evening to demand shelter received a hearty welcome. When told that they could stay in the church and would be given food, several of the men knelt and prayed.

The men were led by Giuseppe Cavone, who afterward declared that all the men were unemployed, homeless and foodless and unable to bear the rigors of a night in the storm.

After the service Fr. Coppo, the rector, addressed the men and told them he was very sorry for them and would be happy to have them remain in the church all night.

The 200 were provided with hot coffee and sandwiches, members of the congregation helping to serve them. Afterward they made themselves comfortable for the night, some in the pews and others on the floor.

BOY KILLED IN POOLROOM

Meets Instant Death as Result of Blow on the Jaw

Everett, Mass., March 2.—A blow on the jaw, delivered with all the force behind Leo Shay's 200 pounds, instantly killed Charles Sutch, aged 18, in a poolroom in this city.

When Sutch fell limp, Shay, with others, tried to revive him, and when it became apparent that the young man was seriously injured the assailant ran to Dr. McAllester's office. Dr. Bruce was also called and both physicians said death followed a second blow instantly.

When the doctors told Shay that Sutch was dead, he left the poolroom and surrendered to the police. He was booked on the charge of manslaughter.

Bad feeling is said to have existed between Sutch and Shay as the result of a quarrel on a street car a few nights ago.

NO INDEPENDENCE FOR PORTO RICO

Garrison For Autonomy Under American Supervision

Washington, March 2.—Secretary Garrison told the house insular committee there was nothing in contemplation that in any way warranted an assumption that Porto Rico at any time would be independent of the United States. He favored the bill for an autonomy under supervision of the United States.

Garrison said he would like to see the time when heads of departments would have all the rights of speech on the floors of the two houses of congress, as in the British parliament, except the right to vote.

FROM SICILY TO ENGLAND

Marconi Is Preparing to Make Tests With Wireless Telephone

Syracuse, Sicily, March 2.—Experiments in wireless telegraphy and telephony will be made in a day or two by William Marconi on board the battleship Regina Elena. Vice Admiral Abruzzi personally superintended the preparation being made on the warship for the experiments.

Tests will be made in sending and receiving wireless telegraph and telephone messages to and from various points on the Mediterranean, and Marconi, it is said, hopes to be able to communicate with London by means of a wireless telephone apparatus.

Death Leap With Babe

North Attleboro, Mass., March 2.—Mrs. Ralph Dinsmore, 23, jumped from a bridge in front of an express train, with her 5-months'-old baby in her arms. The baby died instantly from a fractured skull. The mother is dying.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Arthur Jacket, aged 40, of Eliot, Me., was struck by a trolley car in that town and killed.

The body of Anthony Concka, a mill hand, was taken from the Amoskeag canal at Manchester, N. H. He is believed to have been a suicide.

Rev. E. B. Moore, a retired Congregational clergyman, died at Willimantic, Conn., aged 82. A widow, two sons and a daughter survive.

A Taunton, Mass., machine company secured a contract to manufacture several million dollars' worth of newspaper presses.

Louis Campagna, a St. Louis carman, swallowed ninety-seven nickels in a noved test of the capacity of his stomach.

Marguerite Thibodeau, 10, was run over by a freight train at St. Johnsbury, Vt. Both legs were cut off above the knees.

The ship William P. Frye, overdue from the Pacific coast, reached New York. She sailed from San Francisco for New York Sept. 19.

Patrick O'Brien of Boston, 46, married, was killed by a train in that city. He was crossing the tracks.

Abel S. Wolfe, 63 years old, the pioneer truck gardener of Worcester, Mass., and Democratic representative from the Sixth state district, died after an illness of only two days.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law and all other persons interested in the estate of Mary E. Ferguson late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, John W. Ferguson administrator of the estate of said deceased, has presented to said Court his petition for license to sell at private sale, in accordance with the offer named in said petition, or upon such terms as may be adjudged best, the whole of a certain parcel of the real estate of said deceased for the payment of debts, and charges of administration, and for other reasons set forth in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County, on the eleventh day of March A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to each person interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-seventh day of February in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE,
Register.
28-3t 28-2-9

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk ss. Probate Court.

To all persons interested in the estate of Elias A. Perkins late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, Fred A. Perkins the trustee under the will of said deceased, has presented for allowance, the first and final account of his trust under said will. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County on the fourth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed. And said trustee is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to all persons interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this nineteenth day of February in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
21-3t 21-25 Mar. 2

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

In effect Nov. 16, 1913

The letters in the same line as the figures below stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows.

a	Wollaston	f	Harrison Square
b	Norfolk Downs	g	Savin Hill
c	Atlantic	h	Cross Avenue
d	Neponset	i	South Boston
e	Pope's Hill	r	Quincy Adams
*	Saturdays Only	†	Except Saturday

Exp.—Express train.

TO BOSTON			FROM BOSTON
Leave	Stop	Arrive	Leave	Stop	Arrive
r 5 14	abcdefghi	5 41	5 44	ihgfedcba	6 14 r
r 6 19	abcd	6 40	6 09	ihgfedcba	6 39 r
r 6 32	e	6 49	6 29	a	6 57
			6 47	Exp	7 04
r 6 40	abcf	7 00	7 14	hgfedcba	7 41 r
r 7 08	abcd	7 30	7 34	a	7 52
7 28	a	7 46	7 37	a	7 56
r 7 32	Exp	7 49	7 44	c	8 03 r
r 7 42	ab	8 00	8 34	cba	8 55 r
r 8 13	abc	8 32	8 44	b	9 02
8 24	a	8 41	9 00	fedba	9 32 r
r 8 33	a	8 50	9 14	ihgfedcba	10 01 r
r 8 59	ad	9 16	10 51	Exp	11 10
r 9 18	abc	9 39	11 14	hgfedcba	11 41 r
r 10 04	a	10 21	11 43	a	12 07
r 10 10	abcdefghi	10 45	12 14	hgfedcba	12 11 r
11 12	a	11 28	12 20	a	12 38
11 24	abcdefgh	11 50	12 50	Exp	1 06
12 04	a	12 20	1 16	fedcba	1 40 r
			* 1 32	a	1 50
r 12 27	abcdefghi	12 53	1 44	a	2 01
r 1 16	a	1 34	2 14	fedcba	2 37 r
2 04	a	2 20	2 34	Exp	2 50
r 2 19	abcdefgh	2 47	3 14	hgfedcba	3 40 r
r 3 13	Exp	3 26	3 44	a	4 02
4 01	a	4 20	4 12	fedcba	4 55 r
r 4 26	abcdefgh	4 53	4 15	a	4 32
5 12	a	5 19	4 46	c	4 58
r 5 30	abcdefg	5 55	4 55	a	5 11
6 01	a	6 21	5 13	a	5 32
6 12	ab	6 32	5 19	bgfeca	5 43
6 57	a	7 15	5 28	ba	5 46 r
r 7 22	Exp	7 39	5 40		5 57
7 29	ab	7 43	5 58	a	6 17 r
r 8 09	abcdef	8 32	6 01	ledcb	6 24
9 00	a	9 18	6 16	a	6 35
r 9 10	abc	9 29	6 30	ecba	6 52 r
* 9 17	Exp.	9 32	6 59	fedcba	7 24 r
r 10 07	abcdef	10 30	7 11	a	7 28
* 10 19	a	10 37	8 04	fedcba	8 28 r
11 13	a	11 30	* 8 19	Exp	8 35
r 11 30	abcd	11 50	* 9 19	a	9 37
			9 34	b	9 53 r
			10 05	ba	10 24
			10 34	fedcba	11 02 r
			*11 06	a	11 25 r
			†11 09	fedcba	11 36 r
			*11 25	ba	11 43 r
			†11 29	ba	11 49
			12 05	cba	12 26 r

SUNDAYS

r 7 43	abc	8 03	8 29	ba	6 48 r
8 29	Exp	8 45	8 34	cba	8 55 r
r, 8 46	abcdefghi	9 13	10 39	cba	10 59
r 9 13	abc	9 33	12 14	ihgfedcba	12 42
9 31	a	9 47	12 44	Exp	1 01
10 25	ac	10 42	2 29	ihgfedcba	1 57 r
11 08	Exp	11 25	2 14	hgfedcba	2 42 r
r 11 18	abcdefghi	11 43	2 44	a	3 02
1 04	a	1 23	3 14	ihgfedcba	3 42 r
r 1 18	abcdefgh	1 43	4 26	cba	4 48 r
r 3 10	abc	3 30	5 14	ihgfedcba	5 43 r
r 4 16	abcdefghi	4 43	6 09	Exp	6 25
4 59	ab	5 16	6 14	ihgfedcba	6 42 r
5 06		5 23	7 02	cba	7 22 r
5 16	abcdefghi	6 43	8 14	ihgfedcba	8 41 r
7 21	Exp	7 36	8 39	a	8 56 r
7 29	abcdefghi	7 55	8 49	Exp	9 05
r 8 16	abcdefghi	8 43	9 29	ihgfedcba	9 57 r
9 46	a	10 04	10 44	cba	11 04 r
10 46	abc	11 05

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Thomas Gurney late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Rebecca Gurney of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eleventh day of March A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-fifth day of February in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Feb. 27-3t 27-2-9

Penniman's Garage

And Taxi Service

Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.

C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb 7tf

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Thomas Gurney late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Rebecca Gurney of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eleventh day of March A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-fifth day of February in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Feb. 27-3t 27-2-9

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 5, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice)

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 10.25 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.46 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.30 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 1.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.25, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 6.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight. Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street,—6.45 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 12.20 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Preston—6.07, 6.35 7.03 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.03 P. M. then 11.20, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.05 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.35, 6.55, 7.25, A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.25 P. M. then 11.42 P. M. and 12.12 midnight. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.30 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.49, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sunday 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.55 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 1.00 P. M.

THOMAS GAMMON,
Superintendent

THE HAPPY HUNTING GROUND

But the Game In Time Grows Scarce There

By F. A. MITCHEL

Miss Lelia Rathbone was born a flirt—an unconscious flirt. She didn't know that she was flirting even when she was deliberately drawing some youth into her toils. Nevertheless she was not surprised when she got him there. It did not occur to her that she had anything to do with his being there. All the other fellows got there. Why not he? This commenced when Miss Rathbone was fourteen years old—if not earlier—and lasted till she was double that age. The game was so plentiful that she had no idea that there would ever be a dearth of it.

Miss Rathbone, as I have said, began to bring down youths at a very early age and continued it as long as her heyday lasted, which was about the same duration as that of most girls. She had a comfortable home, and it did not occur to her that there was any reason why she should marry. What did she know of the waning interest in this world's affairs that comes to all who grow old, except in children—children of their own? At twenty she was at the summit of earthly contentment. The woods were as full of game as ever. At twenty-four there was a falling off, not in her attractiveness, but there were not as many men within range. At twenty-eight all the men seemed to have grown backward and were nothing but boys, while on looking in a mirror she saw unmistakable signs of change in herself. The bud had fully opened, and the rose was beginning to pass beyond bloom.

"WHAT A LITTLE FOOL I WAS IN THOSE DAYS!"

Meanwhile the fifteen years that had passed since she had begun to emerge from childhood had brought changes in her surroundings. She was far more alone than she had been. Social affairs, even tennis and golf, had lost much of their charm. Those of her friends who had married had passed from her to their children. They were as glad as ever to meet her, but she realized that their little ones had taken her place in the hearts of their parents. She began to envy her friends the possession of their children. The parents were still young, and their offspring were still children. Miss Rathbone had not reached an age to understand the value of a grown son or daughter to an old person.

When Miss Rathbone was nearing thirty she was still an attractive woman. Having come to realize what she had missed, or believed she had missed, in not having taken steps to build her own nest, she resolved to make hay during the brief season when the sun would still shine. She remembered regretfully the superfluity of game within range during past years and recognized the fact that the woods for her had been pretty well cleaned out. As after civilization has encroached on hunting grounds sportsmen must go farther for game, so did Miss Rathbone come to think that she must seek new fields. Spring was coming on, and she thought of summer resorts. But she knew that the only game to be found at such places are old men and boys. She had discovered that she had passed the age when a college student had ceased to be something for her to look up to.

Travel next suggested itself to her. When a young girl she had been more nearly caught in her own traps while touring in Europe than at any other time. She had found sightseeing in company with young men an admirable field for her flirtations. And as for an ocean voyage, after the wearing off of mal de mer, there seemed to be something about salt water to induce love. Miss Rathbone decided to join the hegira of those sailing for foreign ports the next season.

Miss Rathbone joined a party of her acquaintances who were going to make a three months' tour of Europe. How changed were her circumstances from that Miss Rathbone who had often had difficulty in staving off the importunities of several young men, each of whom was bent on receiving an answer to a proposal! Could it be possible that she was going abroad for the purpose of bringing down some bachelor who, having arrived at middle age, had lost much of that spirit which impels a man to tumble head over heels in love on the slightest provocation? But Miss Rathbone remembered that while the older man is not aggressive he is vulnerable.

During her trip abroad Miss Rathbone met bachelors, but found them confirmed celibates. They seemed to her like wild horses that had never been broken to a bit or a saddle. Their own comfort, their independence, were their gods. As for giving up any of their privileges, they had no such idea whatever. They were like the crow, which, utterly worthless for game, keeps carefully out of the huntsman's range.

During a sojourn at Lake Como Miss Rathbone fell in with a widower, Edwin Dudley, who was not much her senior and whose descent into the Avernus of bachelorhood had been averted by marriage. He had placed his only child, a boy, at school in Geneva and was taking a holiday in northern Italy, where at the time the climate was neither too hot nor too cold.

Mr. Dudley was staying at the same hotel as Miss Rathbone and first saw her one morning at breakfast on the stone balcony against which dashed the waters of the lake. The situation was propitious. Directly opposite rose a high mountain, looming up between the lake and the blue sky. To the right and to the left were cliffs and battlements innumerable, some near at hand, some mellowed by distance, some a velvet green, some brown, some red. Miss Rathbone felt a moiety of that spirit of the beautiful that she had experienced in her younger days. As for Mr. Dudley, he looked at her with manifest interest.

Americans abroad are very like a circle of intimate acquaintances at home, with this difference—at home they are hedged about by innumerable conventionalities; abroad they have much of the bonhomie of the old stagecoach days. Mr. Dudley had no difficulty in securing an introduction to Miss Rathbone, and he had scarcely done so when he invited her to go out on the lake with him in one of those rowboats pulled by lusty Italians the stern seats of which are supplied with cushions and canopies.

During this boat ride Mr. Dudley, perhaps following that disposition of Americans abroad to feel on short acquaintance as if they had known each other for years, developed a familiarity which would be accorded only to an old acquaintance. He rallied the lady on not having mated, declaring that it must certainly have been her own fault and wondering why she should prefer maidenhood to matrimony.

To this she replied evasively, but with becoming modesty, throwing the blame on the men. Mr. Dudley treated this for what it was worth, saying that he did not not doubt if some wizard could by incantation gather together the men she had refused they would prove to be more numerous than fish in the lake on which they were riding. To this Miss Rathbone smilingly demurred and declared that she had never had an offer.

"Nonsense!" exclaimed the gentleman. "Do you suppose that I am stupid enough to believe that a woman of your attractive personality has never received a proposal? I have no doubt that you have received hundreds of them."

"Well, how are you going to prove your assertion? A man refused by a woman will not tell about it."

"There is only one who will do that," said Dudley after some moments of silence. "A man who has once been refused and afterward accepted would be proud of his final success and would not be averse to letting it be known."

"I don't see how that helps the matter so long as I remain as I am."

"Right you are," replied the other. "Nevertheless you may some day yield to one of your old flames. If you marry I shall ask your husband if he was not refused by you before his final acceptance."

"You are quite welcome to do that," replied Miss Rathbone, "but it seems to me rather improbable that you should have the opportunity since the companions of my youth who are living are married."

"So be it, but take care lest I prove my assertion."

In extreme youth the sexes mate, they know not why. In later life they know very well why. They feel the need of companionship and a home. A man cannot make a home without a woman, and an old maid's home is at best cheerless. Mr. Dudley was looking for a wife just as eagerly as Miss Rathbone was looking for a husband. He proposed to her, and she accepted him.

"And now," he said, "I can prove to you that you maligned the men when you said that it was their fault that you had not married. I have found a man who is willing to admit that he has been refused by you."

"Indeed!" said the lady, surprised. "And who may that be?"

"Myself."

Miss Rathbone's eyes opened very wide.

"Don't you remember a scene on the terrace at B. when a boy of twenty told a lass of eighteen that he loved her."

"Are you Ned Dudley?"

"I am."

There was a silence, at the end of which Miss Rathbone said:

"What a little fool I was in those days!"

"A fool to refuse me?"

"Yes; you and a legion of others."

NEAT CHINA CUPBOARDS

Condition a Fair Indication of the Thrift and Skill of the Housewifes to Whom They May Belong.

A CHINA cupboard in the dining room is as attractive as it is convenient. However, whenever possible, it is an economical outlay to have made a special kitchen china cupboard. It can be made portable so that in case of removal it may be taken along.

The cupboard should be of strong wood, fitted throughout with fixed rimmed shelves, the doors being of wood or glass, inset according to individual preference. The cupboard should be of a fair height, but not so tall as to be a dust trap, and it should be placed in that part of the kitchen which has the most even temperature.

Unless there is real necessity for it and large storage room it is unwise to have too much china. Every housewife must regulate her household china by her own circumstances, but the regulation should be guided by common sense. It is foolish to buy dozens of articles when only quarter dozens are needed, and it is equally absurd to buy ugly china when artistic stuff is just as cheap and very much nicer to use.

An Ornamental Set.

An attractive addition to the china cupboard would be the egg and toast set for breakfast which is illustrated here. Among the useful and ornamental articles now shown in the shops are the egg and toast sets, the idea for which we have borrowed from the English. These individual sets are useful in the average American family when there is a guest or invalid to whom breakfast is to be served in his or her room. The set illustrated here includes a rack and tray, a marmalade jar and egg cup. The eggs are placed in the compartments attached to the metal handle.

ATTRACTIVE BREAKFAST SET.

China should always be boiled before it is used. This will more than double the average life of any piece of china. First of all wrap each article in a piece of old white rag; then place all pieces carefully in a rather shallow vessel. When all are in cover the china with cold water, set the pan over the fire and bring very carefully to the boiling point. Let it boil for ten minutes, then set back and let the water cool.

When the water is quite cool remove the china, unwrap each piece and wipe on a soft towel.

Care of China or Glass.

The most delicate china will not easily chip or crack after it has been treated in the foregoing manner.

China and glass must always be washed well before they are put away, and the china cupboard needs to be kept in a state of absolute cleanliness and order. It is most necessary that china shall be put only to the proper use. No china will keep nice if put to all manner of odd purposes for which it was never intended.

Never place even third best dinner plates in the oven or on a hot range "to keep things warm." The best economy is to buy a set of fireproof china vessels for such purposes and proper baking plates, etc., for other culinary purposes—that is, if the housewife would keep the contents of her china cupboard intact.

Making Labels Stick.

In the course of her duties the tidy and methodical housewife often finds it necessary to stick labels upon either glass or tin. In the ordinary way this is a difficult thing to do, as after a time the label peels off. Here, however, is a simple method. Procure from the chemist some tincture of benzoin (which is quite cheap) and coat thoroughly the part on which the label is to go. Let it dry; then stick on the label with glue in the ordinary way.

War on Moths.

A moth preventive that is very good and leaves a pleasant perfume in woolens and furs is made as follows: Take one ounce each of rhubarb, cloves and cedar powdered together, tied in bags. Laid between the clothes it is efficacious. Still more satisfactory is the habit of wetting storage trunk corners with kerosene.

The Mathematician

Father's looking very solemn.
Puts down figures in a column,
Adds 'em up and tries again
As he wears a look of pain.
Everybody stands and gazes,
While his language oft amazes
As he sadly plods along,
Getting every answer wrong.

Hour by hour he keeps on trying,
All his brain and nerve applying
To the sums he has to do—
Tears 'em up and starts anew.
Is he worrying? Well, rather!
Do not bother dear old father.
Shut your ears and turn your backs.
Leave him to his income tax.
—Washington Star.

"MY FIRST VALENTINE," BY MRS. CHAMP CLARK.

Wife of Speaker Tells Pretty Story of Girlhood Romance.

"Should I live to be 1,000 years old I could never forget my first valentine nor my sensations upon receiving it," said Mrs. Champ Clark, according to the Washington Post. "At that time I was staying with my sister, Mrs. Pitzer, and going to school at Clarksville, Mo. My sister was the oldest and I the youngest of a family of seven, and I regarded her with adoring admiration.

"The man I married was not the sender of my first valentine. At the time of which I write a different order of things prevailed. The girl of that period began her social career before she laid off pinafores and learned how to behave in company by helping her grownup sister entertain her beaus. As for the beaus, you had to keep them guessing in order to manage them at all.

"Now, in the Clarksville high school there was a youth against whose fascinations my sister felt it her duty to warn me. She said that he had the big head because all the girls were running after him, and she hoped she could trust me to treat him as he deserved. I promised not to give him a thought. Of course I couldn't keep that promise, for the youth was of a most engaging presence.

"And now came Feb. 14 and tremendous excitement over valentines. At my plate at the breakfast table was a rose tinted envelope. I opened and read the following:

VALENTINE.
Miss Genevieve
I do believe
You are the sweetest girl in town.
'Tis perfect bliss to tell you this,
Although on me you always frown.

You are so cold.
Am I too bold
To write my love in black and white?
Ah, pity me! For love of thee
I pine and sigh from morn till night.

No need to tell—
You know full well
How my affections round you twine.
Oh, do relent and give consent
To be my darling valentine!

"I can't begin to express even at this day the joy and pride I felt in the perusal of this tender missive.

"Years afterward I knew that it was not the handsome high school boy who sent the valentine. We were looking over some old letters and papers, my sister and I one day, and she picked up the faded envelope and, pulling out the old valentine, exclaimed: 'Dear me! There's that old valentine I wrote you when you were going to school at Clarksville.'

"'That you wrote!' I gasped. 'Did you write that valentine?'

"'Why, of course I did,' she replied. 'Did you think that I was going to let those other girls get ahead of you?'"

HATS OFF TO FORT M'HENRY.

Representative O'Hair Writes a Bit of Humor Into Congressional Record.

Representative Frank T. O'Hair of Illinois has graced a report filed with the house with an excellent sample of humor quite unusual in such documents. Mr. O'Hair was reporting on a bill to transfer Fort McHenry from the possession of the federal government to the city of Baltimore and suggested that persons passing the birthplace of "The Star Spangled Banner" doff their hats.

This is the way Mr. O'Hair rewrites history:

"It was in this fort that some American failed to haul down a star spangled banner one night. This little oversight so angered some Englishmen who were visiting in the harbor at the time that they immediately went away. Francis Scott Key, a plain American citizen, was present on this occasion and, noticing the aforesaid oversight, made mention of the fact and thereby gained almost as great a reputation as the banner."

WHY BABIES GROW BLIND.

Sage Foundation Blames Inefficient Nurses For 10,000 Cases.

Forty out of every hundred babies are born in the United States without the attendance of a doctor, and most midwives are neglectful of sanitary precautions and in many instances without a rudimentary knowledge of proper measures to employ in such cases, according to a report sent out by the Russell Sage foundation on behalf of the committee for the prevention of blindness.

"Specialists declare," says the report, "that blindness would practically never occur from babies' sore eyes if the eyes of every child were properly bathed and treated with prophylactic immediately after birth. It is estmated that 10,000 persons in this country are blind because of the lack of this attention."

Advertisers Ask Only A Fair Trial

By HOLLAND.

ADVERTISERS do not attempt to make you agree to buy their goods for the rest of your life. They only want you to give their wares a trial, to subject them to actual test by actual use, and then be guided by experience.

Could anything prove more clearly that the advertiser has supreme confidence in his product, that he is absolutely certain that it will please you, that it will be all he says it is?

It would indeed be foolish to spend money to induce you to buy an article that would prove unsatisfactory and would result in your telling friends and neighbors of your experience. Advertisers spend millions making their trademarks known, and in order to make their trademarks valuable they must stand for a certain standard of worth. Having made their trademarks known, manufacturers exert every effort to keep the goods up to the expected high grade.

YOU CAN'T GO WRONG IN FOLLOWING ADVERTISEMENTS.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the next of kin and all others interested in the estate of Eliza A. Sargent late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, William P. Thompson the administrator of the estate of said deceased, has presented to said Court for allowance the first account of his administration on said estate and application has been made for a distribution of the balance in his hands among the husband and next of kin of said deceased. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the fourth day of March A. D. 1914 at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why said account should not be allowed and distribution made according to said application. And the petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twelfth day of February in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t Feb. 17-24 Mar 2

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block—2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall—Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Keiba.)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

CLASSIFIED ADS - FOR THE PEOPLE -

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents. No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.

WANTED

WANTED—Cooks, general housework, parlor, chamber, nurse maid, housekeeper, green girls only first class positions. L. M. Flynn, 1535 Hancock street, Oldest Employment office in city. Phone 2235-W. 2-3t

WANTED—An intelligent young girl for general house work, in family of three. Tel. 114 Quincy. 28-6t

WANTED—By April 1st, small two-family house to rent, or single ten room house. Quincy or Wollaston. Tel. 1068-W. 28-3t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York, N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, coal hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1367-M. Quincy. Res. 22-tf

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Small, willow baby carriage. 34 Park Lane, Quincy. 27-6t

FOR SALE—One 35 x 4 Goodrich Non Skid tire $21.25. One 32 x 3 1-2 Goodrich Non Skid tire $14.25, both new. 1058 Hancock street, Quincy. Feb. 21-tf

FOR SALE—Upright piano in first class condition. Sell very reasonable as owner has no use for it. 46 Gay street, Quincy. 20-12t

FOR SALE—Two 1913 Ford Touring Cars in first class condition. Guaranteed. Also 1, 1910 Chalmers at the Quincy Garage, 87 Adams street, Quincy. 24-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

AGAIN WE SAY

Don't complain because your property is increasing in value by no effort of yours. Test it. Send us a list of it. We have people waiting for such property, both business and residential.

HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 886 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 Offices 84

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

Read Ledger Ads

MISCELLANEOUS

$20.00 REWARD will be paid for the arrest and conviction of party or parties who broke into and set fire to our Engine House on Feb. 26th and 27th 1914. Bay View Quarry Company. 28-tf

TO LET

TO LET—Rooms and board, 18 Washington street. 2-6t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 2-6t

TO LET—Four rooms on first floor, furnace, gas, set range. 55 Pleasant street. Elderly couple preferred. 28-3t

TO LET—Light housekeeping rooms, kitchenette and bath. Also room and board if desired. Write "B" Ledger Office. 27-3t

TO LET—In private family to refined people, two very fine corner rooms, newly furnished, with separate baths. Near centre. Write L. B. K. Ledger Office. 26-9t

TO LET—Upper tenement of five rooms and bath at 109 Franklin street. Apply to Harry W. Tirrell. Telephone Quincy 432-M. 24-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms, steam heat, bath, electric lights, $2.00 a week, 484 Quincy avenue, Newcomb Square. 20-12t

TO LET—At 143 Elm street, half house, six rooms and bath, modern conveniences, $22.50 per month. Apply to S. C. Hardwick, M. D., 159 Elm street, Quincy. Tel. 870. 18-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

RUSSELL PARK — Commodious house of seven rooms, large hall and bath. Modern, every convenience open fireplace, furnace, range, set tubs, electric lights, cemented cellar, etc. Best residential neighborhood. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further details or key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office. tf lpo

TO LET—40 Park lane, 6 rooms all modern improvements. Rent $23.00. Apply 22 Berkeley street. Tel. 349-M. 5-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

TO LET—173 Whitwell street, half house, modern conveniences, $20 per month. Ready for immediate occupancy. Apply Penniman's Stable, Granite street. 19-tf

UPPER APARTMENT. In two-family house on Spear Street. Five rooms, bath, large pantry and closets, also open attic with finished heated chamber. Every improvement, electric light, furnace, range etc. Ready for immediate occupancy. Telephone Quincy 278 M or enquire mornings of Miss Prescott at the Ledger Office. lpo

A few Choice House Lots
—ON—
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.
SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 2, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY.
SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

KINCAIDE THEATRE

MON. TUES., WED.
Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c

BUDD & CLAIRE
Those Two Englishmen

FAYE O'NEIL
Clever Character Change Artiste

MAURICE WOOD & CO.
Singing and Pianologue Sketch

LESSIK ANITA & CO.
European Juggling Artists

ANIMATED WEEKLY
World News in Pictures

Rex 2-Reel Feature
"THE FEMALE OF THE SPECIES"
A Thrilling Western Drama

"What Didn't Happen to Mary"
and
"Gee! But It's Great to be Stung"
Two Good Comedy Pictures

REGULAR ORCHESTRA

Feb. 28–3t

NEWSY BRIEFS

The public schools opened this morning after a week's vacation.

Sleighing continued good on the side streets, being the seventeenth consecutive day of sleighing.

Supt. Barbour has returned from Richmond, Va., where he has been attending an educational convention.

Town meetings are being held today in Braintree, Weymouth, Milton and other towns.

The College night of the Y. P. R. U. to have been held Friday evening has been postponed until the regular meeting April 3.

The Riverside Woman's club will have on open meeting Wednesday afternoon, when the ladies of Ward Two are invited to hear City Clerk Emery L. Crane give his lecture on "American wit and humor."

The funeral of Foxwell Mulligan was held from his home at 24 Wesson avenue, Sunday afternoon. Services were conducted in St. Mary's church by Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Friends of Miss Adaline McDowell, of 14 Quincy street, a student at Boston University, class 1917, who has been ill the past six weeks with inflammatory rheumatism will be pleased to learn that she will be able to resume her studies again shortly.

SOCIALISTS DANCE.

Members of the Scandinavian Socialist Labor party of Quincy and their friends attended the first of the series of Saturday night dancing parties in Electa hall. Nearly 125 were present. Music was furnished by Johnsons orchestra. The committee included John Fredericson, Hjalmar Sternberg, A. Swenson, Emile Wiskman, Charles Smith, H. Larson.

—Forest fires in the United States have caused an average annual loss of 70 human lives and the destruction of 25 million dollars worth of timber.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

DEATHS

HUDSON—In Quincy, March 2, Mrs. Margaret E., wife of Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, in her 55th year.
Funeral services at First Church, Quincy, at 3 P. M., Wednesday, March 4. Train leaves Boston at 2.34 P. M. 2-2t

STEVENSON—In Quincy, March 1, William Henry Stevenson in his 43rd year.
Funeral services at late home 141 Washington street, Wednesday, Mar. 4 at 1 P. M. Relatives and friends invited. 2-2t

HARDWICK—In Quincy, Feb. 28, Esther A., wife of Justin K. Hardwick in her 78th year.
Funeral services at late home 107 Granite street, Tuesday, March 3 at 2.30 P. M. Relatives and friends are invited to attend.

REDDING—In Quincy, Feb. 28, Walter S. Redding of 756 Washington street in his 80th year.

WHITCOMB—In Quincy Feb. 28, Mary C. widow of Noah L. Whitcomb of 31 Parker street, in her 82d year.

ABDULLAH—In Boston City Hospital March 1, Sid Abdullah of 29 Winter street in his 25th year.

SUSSMAN—In Quincy March 2, Isaac Sussman of 62 Massachusetts avenue in his 41st year.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Mayor Miller Very Busy With Annual Budget

Mayor Miller was too busy this morning with city matters to see any visitors, and several who waited for a time in the outer office were obliged to go away disappointed.

As the Mayor came from his office, and disappeared up stairs to the office of the City Auditor, he said that he had nothing in the news line; that the annual budget was demanding all of his attention today.

He further said that most of the departments were asking for increased amounts this year, and while there was no question but what they could use the amounts asked for, it was impossible to give them all they asked and keep the tax rate down. He said that he had promised during the campaign to have a lower tax rate this year and intended to do it.

The new office of the City Engineer in the basement was plastered Saturday, and in the afternoon the big safe of the City Engineer was moved from the street floor to the basement and placed in position. Today the carpenters are busy putting on the finish in the room and it will probably be ready for occupancy some time this week. Work will then be commenced cutting the new doors through into the office up stairs, and putting it in shape for the Mayor's office.

The Mayor's budget will be printed in full in Tuesday's Ledger and each item will be compared with the amount appropriated last year.

Mayor Miller attended the monthly meeting of the Massachusetts Mayors' club in Boston on Saturday afternoon.

Overseer of the Poor, Perry Green reports that he has seen several robins flying about near his home at Quincy Neck and he has also seen a blue heron on the water in the river. The appearance of these birds is a sure sign of an early spring.

YOUNG LAWYER CONGRATULATED

Banquet Served and Engraved Degree Presented

An engraved honorary master's degree was presented Isadore Abrams, Quincy's youngest attorney at banquet held in honor of his recent admission to the bar which took place at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Abrams at 26 North street, Sunday afternoon. The presentation was in behalf of the Pi Sigma Alpha Fraternity, and all of the members of the different universities that live in Boston were present.

Mr. Abrams graduated from the Boston University Law School in 1912 at the age of 19, the youngest man ever receiving a degree from that school. He was obliged to wait until his 21st year to try the bar examination and a few weeks ago received word of his acceptance.

A banquet was served the guests after the reception to the young man. He was assisted in receiving by his parents. After the banquet there was singing by professional cabaret singers. Guests attended from Providence Philadelphia, New York city, Boston and other places.

A CARD.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Sidelinger wish to thank all those that ministered so kindly to them in their recent bereavement. 2-1t

AN EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION.

Mrs. Edward Southworth and family wish to express their deep appreciation to the many friends for the profusion of floral tributes at the funeral service on Friday last. Individual acknowledgment will be made later, but lest some one many inadvertently be omitted this notice is sent. 2-1t

AN APPRECIATION.

Among the many floral tributes sent in remembrance of Karl, was one that calls for special mention. It was a beautiful basket of white sweet peas and pinks. The unselfish efforts of two young friends brought about this splendid tribute. It touched our hearts deeply and we wish to use this medium to thank all those interested and to express our appreciation.
WM. F. SIDELINGER,
MARY A. SIDELINGER,
Quincy, Mar 2, 1914.

LIVES UP TO ITS NAME

Water Street Has a Flood Which Wrecks Brick House

Springfield, Mass., March 2.—A bursting water main excavated a front yard on Water street, tumbled a four-family brick house and a big tree into the pit and caused a local flood which temporarily depeopled the neighborhood.

The destructive geyser started when a fire hydrant on a thirty-six-inch main blew off and let an eight-inch stream of water with 144 pounds pressure behind it rip up the surrounding earth.

The thundering noise, the trembling of the earth and the efforts of the police to rouse the neighborhood sent hundreds of lodgers, mostly foreigners, hurrying out into the night rain half clad and clutching whatever possessions they could snatch in their escape.

There were no injuies, though three women were carried from the doomed house beside the geyser just before the structure caved in. Every cellar in the neighborhood was flooded and the streets were filled with mud and sand. The damage is estimated at $8000.

CONFESSES MURDER

Deposed Officer of Miners' Union Implicates Four Other Men

Houghton, Mich., March 2.—In conection with the Painesdale murder mystery, which is said to have been one of the developments of the copper miners' strike, five members of the Western Federation of Miners were arrested here.

The arrests were made after an alleged confession by John Huhta, former secretary of the South Range local of the federation.

The five men are charged with the murder of Thomas Dally, Arthur and Harry Jane, non-union mine workers, on Dec. 7. They are held without bonds for hearing.

Huhta stipulated specifically that he was turning state's evidence and said that he was moved to confess by remorse and by anger toward the federation, which had removed him as secretary.

MARSHALL SUBMITS NEW DIVORCE CURE

Kiss Your Wife Every Day, Advises Vice President

New York, March 2.—"My cure for divorce is to kiss your wife every day as an act of good faith," said Vice President Marshall to an audience of 1000 men at the Bedford Branch of the Young Men's Christian association in Brooklyn.

Marshall spoke on "The New Puritan." He wondered, he said, how the old Puritan led the life he did—why, for instance, he didn't believe in kissing his wife on Sunday. "He did not, however, believe in kissing another man's wife on any day in the week," added Marshall.

Contrasting the old Puritan and the new, Marshall said the latter lacked the austerity of the old. "He smiles because he thinks God smiles. He believes in carrying his honeymoon through all the years of his married life."

THEFT FROM MAIL BAG

Anarchists Suspected of Getting Away With $200,000

Paris, March 2.—A bag which was stolen from a postoffice delivery wagon in the Rue Chauchat and which at that time contained $200,000 in cash, was found empty by a child in a lot in the suburb of Romainville. With it was another empty mail sack.

Some importance is attached to the finding of the sacks in Romainville, as the anarchist colony of which notorious automobile bandits were members is established there.

The police made a close search of the region in an endeavor to locate evidence concerning the theft, but their efforts have been without result. They have also endeavored to obtain a clue as to where the second sack was stolen.

MYSTERY IS SOLVED

Body of Headless Woman Identified by Her Former Landlady

Portsmouth, N. H., March 2.—The mystery which followed the finding of the headless body of a woman at Hampton Beach by the lifesavers Nov. 11, 1913, was cleared when the clothing in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Shaw of this city was identified as that of Mary L. Danielson.

Mrs. Mary Bullard, who conducts a boarding house on Water street, where the missing woman formerly roomed, made the identification. The authorities attach no foul play to the case.

1914 MARCH 1914

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
29	30	31

ASHAMED OF AMERICA

So Says Caleb Howard at Boston Meeting

"Conditions now are rotten, everything is rotten and I am ashamed of America" was the charge and admission of Cabel Howard of Quincy, one of the leaders of the recent Hopedale strike, at a mass meeting of the unemployed on Boston Common on Saturday. He urged all his hearer to join the I. W. W. and to hesitate before they joined any army that was to invade Mexica "to protect the interests of rich Americans."

Nearly 5000 persons stood in the snow and slush to listen to the speakers discuss present economic conditions. Most of those present seemed to have jobs, the unemployed being in the minority, although the meeting was held for their benefit.

MARCH COMES IN

(Continued from Page One.)

Federal avenue where a twelve inch drain became clogged up with rubbish with the result that streets were overflowed and many cellars were filled with water. Several of the Brockton street cars in running through the water on Independence avenue had their motors burnt out.

At Wollaston, particularly along the low lands in the vicinity of Brook street the cellars were filled to a depth of several feet of water, caused by the brooks filling up and the water backing up. A similar condition was at the Quincy Point district, and many cellars were filled to a depth of two feet with water.

A section of the fence on the bridge over the railroad at Beale street was blown down, but fortunately it was the southerly side of the bridge that blew down and it fell onto the bridge. Had it dropped onto the tracks below serious results might have followed.

Word was received by the Commissioner shortly before midnight that a tree had blown down on Sea street, near the Cavanagh property, and entirely blocked the street. The police department placed lanterns on the fallen tree and early this morning the Commissioner had his men on the spot to remove it.

Many limbs of trees all over the city were blown down and scattered over the streets.

The linemen succeeded in getting the burnt out fire alarm circuit in working shape Sunday night, but it will require a considerable outlay to replace such of the boxes and bells that were burnt out by the current of 13,000 volts that was sent over it when the wires became crossed with the power lines.

Much minor damage was done in Wollaston by the high winds on Sunday. Many large branches were blown off and several trees went down before the gale. Several blinds were whipped off their hinges and a number of conductors were blown from the houses.

SECOND NIGHT OF MINSTRELS

The large number that greeted the Wollaston Congregational minstrels in the Wollaston School hall, Saturday evening, showed that judgment was not at fault when it was thought necessary to repeat the show of the night before.

The hall was well filled and although it did not approach the record of the previous evening the audience was a responsive one. All of the performers received a good hand and encores were frequent.

Two performers were missed the second night: Frank V. Russell xylophone soloist and Captain Philip A. Carr who accompanied by Ernest W. Campbell gave a "Travel in mimicry" the evening before.

These omissions shortened the entertainment and brought the full program more within the usual length of time. Several of the numbers showed changes from the first night.

Thomas G. Breen had an entirely new monologue which contained many jokes and humorous stories of English life.

The other acts in the olio were good and the minstrel first part went through with a zip that brought bursts of applause from the audience.

Much credit for the success of the show was due to Percy Edgar and the efficient manner in which he performed his duties as stage manager.

Candy was on sale both evenings by the following members of the Ladies Benevolent Society, Mrs. Wyman Streeter, Mrs. Carroll E. Bates, Mrs. Walter E. Weld, Mrs. B. H. Bain and Mrs. George Fleming.

DAY NURSERY VALENTINE PARTY

There was a large attendance Saturday afternoon at the valentine dance given under the auspices of the Quincy Day Nursery association at Alpha hall. The affair was scheduled to have been held near Valentines day but a postponement was necessary.

Young people predominated and an enjoyable afternoon they had. Valentines were used as favors and many pretty specimens were also on sale. The party was matronized by Mrs. Henry M. Faxon, Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield, Mrs. Frederick L. Cheever, Mrs. Russell A. Sears and Mrs. Eugene C. Hultman. Dancing was enjoyed from 2 to 5.30 o'clock.

The following well known young men officiated as ushers: Thomas Barstow, Thomas Barbour, Roger Burgin, Tom Burgin, Willard Crocker, William H. Doble, Jr., Robert Davis, Wellington Glover, Lawrence MacQuarrie, Edward Miller, Jr., Karl Pfaffmann, Donald Crocker, Fred Rassmusen, Guy Shaw and Jack Wentworth.

DISTRICT COURT.

George E. Berry was fined $10 and Harry Bowden $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Raffalle Braddinelli was arraigned for assault on Selizir Passamanti at Quincy He was also arraigned for threatening assault. He was discharged on the first and was held in $300 on the threat case until April 29.

PARKER'S TWO SERMONS.

And How He Got the Morning Congregation Back at Night.

A characteristic story of Dr. Parker was told me the other day, writes "A Man of Kent" in the British Weekly, by a minister who had it from an old minister who was much interested in Joseph Parker's early work as a local preacher. One Saturday he met Parker and asked him whether he had an engagement for Sunday. "Yes," was the reply.

"Are your sermons ready, Joseph?" asked the minister.

"I have the morning sermon," was the reply, "but I am not sure about the evening."

"Well, Joseph, what is your text for the morning and how do you treat it?"

Parker went over his text and the outline of his sermon.

"But, Joseph," said the minister, "that is very clever, but it is not the real meaning of the text. If you will look at the commentaries you will see that you are wrong."

Parker thanked him and went his way. On the Monday the minister again met his friend.

"Well, Joseph, how did you get on yesterday?"

"Very well," was the reply.

"How did you manage?"

"Well," he said, "in the morning I preached my sermon and explained the text in my way, and at the close I said: 'This is how I understand it. But learned men understand it differently, and I will tell you in the evening how the learned men understand it.'"

They all came back in the evening, and Joseph had a happy day.

MEASURING A RIVER.

How Napoleon's Engineer Found Its Width Without Instruments.

An engineer found himself summoned one day into the presence of his commander. Napoleon stood on the bank of a wide river gazing across to where the enemy had planted batteries, which he desired to attack with artillery.

"How wide is that river?" was the question put to the engineer.

"Let me get my instruments," was the reply as he turned to go for them.

"I must know at once," the emperor insisted.

The engineer went down to the level bank of the river and, standing erect, gradually bent his head forward till the edge of his hat brim just touched the line from his eyes to the water line at the opposite bank of the river. Then, keeping his head bent as it was, he wheeled a quarter turn till his eyes looked along the hat brim and met the land at a point on the same side of the river on which he stood. Here he noted a rock or tree near the point at which his eyes met the ground and, calling a soldier, directed that a stake be driven near that point as he should direct. Then, by motioning just where to drive the stake, he fixed the point at which the line from hat brim and eye reached the bank. Turning to the emperor, he said, "Your majesty, the distance from where I stand to the stake is the width of the river."

And so it was, as you can readily see. If the emperor did not promote that officer—why, then the story does not end as it should.—St. Nicholas.

—It has been said that there are altogether only twenty-nine jokes in the world, and that most of these can be found in the specimens of Roman humor which have been preserved for us by the satirists and wits of the classical and post-classical periods. How far this may be true is a question.

NOW OPEN
Wollaston Auto Show

AFTERNOON AND EVENING
SULLIVAN SISTERS' ORCHESTRA
ASSISTED BY
MR. WILLIAM McDEVITT, Soloist
FEB. 28, MARCH 2, 3, 4 and 5
WOLLASTON CENTRE GARAGE
NEAR WOLLASTON STATION
10 A. M to 10 P. M.

March 2-4t

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.
Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.
Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.
18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
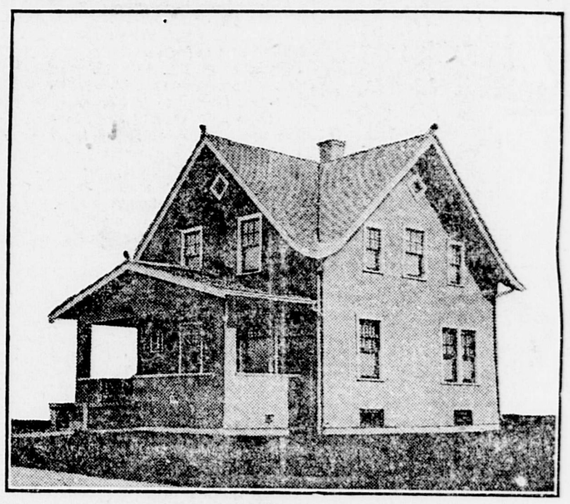
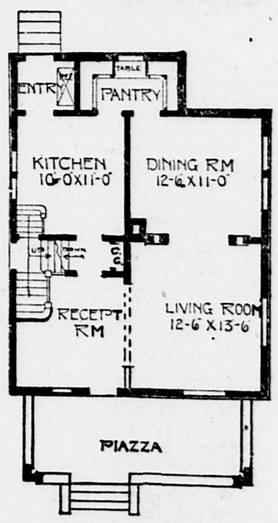
Feb. 10-1m

A SIMPLE ROUGH CAST COTTAGE.

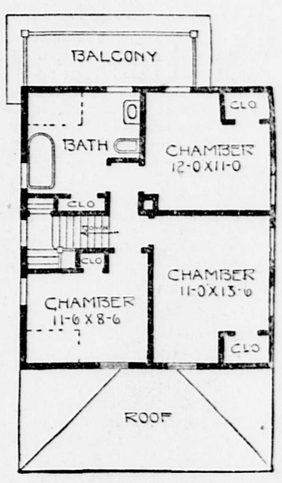
Design 737, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.



PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN.



SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

Here is a cottage plan that makes a very economical home to build. It provides for seven rooms and a bath. Size, 24 feet wide and 26 feet deep over the main part. First story, 9 feet; second story, 8 feet. First story finish, red oak or birch throughout; second story pine to paint, with maple or birch floors in both stories. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $2,300.

Upon receipt of $1 the publisher of this paper will supply a copy of Saxton's book of plans, "American Dwellings." It contains about 250 up to date designs of cottages, bungalows and residences costing from $1,000 to $6,000.

CHICHESTER S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-ches-ter s Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES
80 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar,
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

W. G. NASH
TAXI SERVICE
Prompt Attention to Weddings, etc.
Cars for all occasions
Day and Night Service
Headquarters, Central Garage
Telephone 1035 W. Feb. 26-6t

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 52 QUINCY MASS. TUESDAY EVENING MARCH 3 1914. PRICE TWO CENTS

MAYOR MILLER UNABLE TO REDUCE CITY APPROPRIATIONS

INCREASE OF $38,075.79 FOR CURRENT CITY EXPENSES

Mayor Miller Submits to City Council That $920,201.18 Needed for Department Expenses, Debt and Interest

Among the important matters that came up for consideration at Monday nights meeting of the City Council was the annual budget of the Mayor and Treasurer. As was anticipated the grand total for current expenses recommended by Mayor Miller is larger that last year.

The budget this year came in under the new form, in accordance with the system of auditing adopted by the State. The complete budget as recommended is published in full on another page, the amounts appropriated last year being given side by side with the amounts recommended this year.

Another matter of importance was a resolution declaring the City Council as being opposed to the so called decree plan for abolishing the grade crossings at Saville and Water streets, and placing itself on record as in favor of depression.

Although informed by the City Solicitor that the matter was probably finally settled, as he had been informed that the decree had been signed by the judges of the Superior court, the resolution was passed.

The only absent members were Councilmen Barrows and Sodergren.

LETTER OF THANKS.

A communication was received from Mrs. Ralph W. Hobbs, thanking the City Council for flowers sent on the day of the funeral of her husband. Placed on file.

ANNUAL APPROPRIATIONS.

The Mayor forwarded the annual budget which also included, the estimates of the School Committee. Referred to Finance Committee.

The Mayor in a communication recommended that the amount named in the budget for removal of snow be increased to $4,000 on account of the recent large expense. Referred to Finance Committee.

NEPONSET BOULEVARD.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Metropolitan Park Commission requesting concurence in the taking of land for the Neponset boulevard. To Committee on Streets.

APPOINTMENT.

The Mayor appointed Edward P. Powers a constable. Confirmed.

MORE FIREMEN.

The Mayor in a communication stated that the Chief Engineer desired fifteen additional permanent firemen, but he did not believe that number necessary and therefore recommended five new men.

Laid on the table until later when Councilman Ross offered on order increasing the number of permanent men by five. Referred to Committee on Fire Department.

RESTELLI REWARD.

The Mayor forwarded a copy of the bill passed by the legislature authorizing the City of Quincy to pay Patrick H. Milford and James R. Qualey the reward of $500 offered for the apprehension of Louis G. Restelli. Referred to Finance Committee.

PETITION.

The Mayor forwarded a petition for a sewer on Beach street. Referred to Committte on Sewers.

In compliance with the request of the Council, the Mayor forwarded a statement of the amount of water used by the several departments of the city and the cost of the same. Referred to Finance Committee. The statement was as follows:

Department	Gallons,	At 8c	At 12c
Fire (6 houses)	828.015	$67	$100
Schoolhouses	10,422,180	834	1250
City Hall	247,117	20	30
Hospital and Camp	1,600,000	128	192
Police station	323,997	26	39
Bath houses	824,100	66	99
City stables	1,655,820	132	196
Board of Health stales	1,427,062	114	171
Almshouse and stables	1,337,400	107	161
Water Works shop	228,037	11	15
Library	112,500	10	15
Cemetery	600,000	48	72
Sewer wash (Board of Health)	13,526,520	1082	1623
Fountains	9,052,515	724	1086
Parks and playgrounds	168,000	14	20
Sewer flushing, Street construction etc.	2,591,500	207	311
397 fire hydrants at $15,		14,955	14,955
Totals		$24,397	$26,620

PETITIONS.

Councilman Craig presented a petition that Gay and Summer streets and the sidewalks thereon be put in proper repair. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition was received for the acceptance of Davis street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

The Electric Light Co. petitioned for a location for poles on Dimmick street. Laid on the table until later when Concilman Gilliatt offered an order for a hearing March 16. Adopted.

The Electric Light Co. petitioned for a relocation of one pole on Chestnut street. Granted.

The Telephone Co. petitioned for attachments on Fayette street and Broadway. Granted.

Cordelia Clark petitioned to be refunded half cost of tar sidewalk. Referred to Finance Committee.

Several applications for minor licenses were received and referred to Committee on Licenses.

REPORTS.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order authorizing the Mayor to have the Annual Reports printed. Order passed.

The Committee on Licenses offered orders granting gasoline licenses to the Central garage and the Edmund Van Bever Co. Adopted.

The same committee offered orders granting pool table licenses to several parties. Adopted.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

Councilman Craig offered a resolve placing the City Council on record as against the so-called "Decree plan" for abolishing the grade crossings in Quincy, and favoring the so-called plan for depression. He said that he did not know if it would do any good, but it would let the people know "what we are here for."

Councilman Bailey said he understood that it would do no good to

(Continued on Page Two)

QUINCY MUSIC HALL

MONDAY, TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY MARCH 2, 3, 4 MATINEES DAILY

THE TALK OF ALL AMERICA

Exactly as presented at TREMONT THEATRE, BOSTON, ASTOR THEATRE, NEW YORK, and every large city in the United States

QUO VADIS

SEE

THE BURNING OF ROME.

THE LIONS ABOUT TO DEVOUR THE CHRISTIANS.

THE EXCITING CHARIOT RACES.

ETC., ETC.

Matinee at 2.30. Evening at 7.45.

Reserved Seats at Mrs. D. P. Taylor's, 1291 Hancock Street.

SAT. MATINEE and NIGHT VAUDEVILLE and PICTURES

Feb. 27- 5t

GRIGNON WINS AT CHECKERS

Referee Jordan Also Wins a Blindfold Game

Alfred Jordan, champion checker player of the world refereed the third and fourth matches in the 20 game series between Napoleon Grignon and Michael Kiley played Monday night at the Knights of Columbus rooms in West Quincy. Mr. Grignon won one, and the other was a draw.

Fans crowded the club rooms and in the gathering were checker enthusiasts from all parts of the city. Both games were the Edinborough, and the men played conservatively. Mr. Grignon is representing Ave Maria council, and Mr. Kiley the St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society. The returns on the play Monday night gives Mr. Grignon one up, three or four games having been drawn.

At the close of the regular matches Mr. Jordan announced that he would play anyone in the club blindfolded, and in a game with John Shevlin, a strong player, he was a easy winner although obliged to keep the run of the board in mind without looking at it.

Mr. Jordan was tendered a fine reception by those present and Mr. Grignon was also highly complimented on his victory. Although out of the game for some few years, he has always been considered in the front rank of local players. His victory over Mr. Kiley considered the best in the city, was a source of jubilation to many of his friends. The next match will be at St. Mary's hall and may be refereed by some other prominent member of the Boston Checker club.

MANY FUNERALS.

The body of Walter S. Redding, a former stained glass manufacturer of Boston, was taken to Middleton, Mass. this morning for burial. The funeral was held Monday at his home at 766 Washington street and was well attended. Services were conducted by Rev. Stephen C. Lang, pastor of the Quincy Point Congregational church.

Services over the body of Elias Livendale, who died at Jamaica Plain, were held Sunday afternoon in St. Pauls M. E. church by Rev. Axel Eman Hillman, pastor. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery. The deceased was 80 years of age, and one of the oldest, if not the oldest member of the church. Mr. Livendale lived with his daughter, Mrs. Antone Thompson and died at her home.

The funeral of Esther A. Hardwick wife of Justin K. Hardwick was held this afternoon from her home at 107 Granite street. Services were conducted by Rev. A. M. Thompson of this city, pastor of the St. Andrews church of Boston. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Rev. Leon H. Austin of Roslindale, a former pastor of the Quincy Point Congregational church officiated at the services for Mrs. Elizabeth J. Young, widow of Joel S. Young, whose funeral was held from her home at 11 West Howard street on Monday afternoon. The attendance was large. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

The body of Isaac Sussman was sent to New York, Monday night for burial. He died Monday from lobar pneumonia, contracted after an operation for a cancer.

The funeral of Mary C. Whitcomb, widow of Noah L. Whitcomb, was held this afternoon from her home at 31 Parker street where services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Matheson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

Piles Cured in 6 to 14 Days

Druggists refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. First application gives relief. 50c.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Preparations for Special Election of Next Week

The City Council Committee on Fire Department are to go on a view Friday afternoon looking at automobile fire apparatus. The committee will take the train leaving Quincy at 1.14.

The City Council Committees on Finance and Streets will hold forth at City Hall Friday evening.

The last meting of the Registrars of Voters to revise the voting lists for the special election in Ward Three next Tuesday will be held Friday at City Hall from noon until 9 P. M.

Notices of the special election in Ward Three are advertised in todays Daily Ledger.

Mayor Miller and City Solicitor Pinkham are attending the hearing at the State House today on the Mill Tax bill.

SEVERE TEST FOR RIVIDAVIA

Broadside Trials Will Probably Be Held Friday

Preparations are nearly complete for the sailing of the Rivadavia from the Commonwealth docks, Boston, on Friday for the balance of her trial runs. She will then return to Boston for ammunition and will resail for one of the most remarkable gun tests ever given a ship.

It is expected that her broadside trials will be given on Friday. They consist of simultaneous firing of every gun that can be trained to port, then of every gun that can be trained to starboard, followed by the firing of every gun that can be aimed forward, then aft, and both turrets together.

FIFTY-FIVE YEARS MARRIED

Grandchildren and Great Grandchild at Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Morgan of Wollaston celebrated their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary Monday evening at the home of their son Rev. Fred H. Morgan at 132 Brook street. The affair was attended by many relatives of the worthy couple, while many who were unable to attend sent congratulatory messages. Among those present were four grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan were married at South Effingham, N. H., where Mrs. Morgan's father, William S. Taylor recently celebrated his 98th birthday. Mr. Morgan is a veteran of the Civil War, having served in the 27th Maine regiment. Both are in excellent health and for many years have been members of the Wollaston Methodist church Before coming to Quincy they resided for many years in Lawrence, Mass.

EASTERN STAR ROLL CALL.

Monday evening was roll call night with Quincy chapter, Order Eastern Star, and there was a large attendance of members. Some responded with readings, some with vocal or instrumental music, while others made remarks. It was a pleasure to hear from older members. Refreshments were served.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE AT WOLLASTON

Addresses by Marion Booth Kelley, Joseph F. Kelley and Others

One Act Farce Presented--How the Vote Was Won

A local organized move for Equal Suffrage was brought to public attention in Wollaston by a large suffrage meeting in the Wollaston SSchool hall, Monday evening at which the local president Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney presided.

The speakers were Mrs. Marion Booth Kelley who made an ardent plea for Equal SuSffrage and who brought facts and figures to bear, and Joseph F. Kelley her husband, secretary of the Massachusetts Mens League for Woman Suffrage, also spoke.

A one act sketch "How the vote was won," concluded the program.

Those attending the meeting were greeted by a large corps of young lady ushers gown in white and wearing yellow ribbons adorned with the legend "Votes for women." They were: Mrs. Richard D. Jacobs, Miss Muriel Badger, Miss Gladys Duplessis, Mrs. Howard Penniman, Miss Marion McLoon, Miss Annie Leonard, Mrs. E. H. Boreland, Miss Isabelle Murphy, Miss Winifred White and Miss Helen Comins.

Mrs. Gurney in opening the meeting discussed the status of the suffrage question and told of the local movement in Wollaston.

Mrs. Kelley declared that the suffrage movement was not alone on the part of women. It was a movement of the sexes. Only as social change had been brought about affecting conditions in the home and in the factory had the need for equal suffrage been keenly felt.

"Women," she affirmed, "ask to have the tool of government to enable them to do the most effective service in the home and community in which they live. Problems have arisen that did not exist in the time of our grandmothers. The milk problem, housing conditions, factory inspection and now all decided by the male voters.

"For the neccessary protection of the home, women are asking with their husbands to enjoy the control of the power affecting conditions under which their children grow up. Women have just as vital, contribution to make to government as the business experience of the men affords. The knowledge of housekeeping affairs the experience of mothers are things women are asking to write into the statute books.

"Men emphasize matters of financial welfare; women matters of human welfare. Juvenile courts, free kindergartens, playgrounds medical inspection were all started by women.

"After it had proven effective the work was taken out of their hands and lost, thereby in efficiency. Efficient service is needed in the government."

Mrs. Kelley denied that women would not use the vote. Women were human and where issues were not in-

(Continued on Page Six.)

FOY'S —ADAMS MARKET CITY SQUARE —WATER ST. MARKET QUINCY ADAMS

We Sell Advertised Goods

We believe in Advertising. It has been a big factor in the building of our business from a "one-man" shop in 1899 to the two modern markets with 36 employees that are today at your service. Our great success is due to doing what we have advertised to do, namely; selling only the best Meats and Groceries; keeping our store scrupulously clean, and giving our patrons the best possible service. In other words, living up to our advertising.

We sell advertised goods, On our counters and shelves you'll find nearly all the Nationally Advertised Food Products. Their advertising is a guarantee of High Quality, Purity, and a uniformity of Excellence. You can be sure its good, if its advertised. You can be sure its good if we sell it.

You've just had a sample. Now order a box.

SHREDDED WHEAT BISCUIT 10c

Made in the cleanest, finest, most hygenic food factory in the world.

"SUNKIST" ORANGES 23c doz

Seedless, tree-ripened, thin-skinned, Fibreless Fruit. Picked, wrapped and packed by gloved hands,

All kinds of CAMPBELL'S SOUPS 3 cans 25c

Made of the very choicest materials in the World's Cleanest Kitchen.

National Biscuit Co's Products; Heinz 57 Varieties; Quaker Oats; Chase & Sanborn Teas and Coffee; Hatchet Canned Goods; Armour and Swift's Ham, Bacon, Lard, etc.; in short, everything from Fleischmann's Yeast to Gold Medal Flour—at very lowest prices. Lets have your order.

Telephone R. E. FOY & CO. Free Delivery

March 2-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1414 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

CITY APPROPRIATIONS.

There are two ways whereby the tax rate of a city may be reduced. One is to keep down the amount to be raised by taxation. The other is to increase the valuation of the taxable property. Mayor Miller has not availed himself of the former, because he has recommended an increase of $38,075.79 in appropriations for current expenses, which is rather above the average increase.

The only items that are materially reduced are those for street lighting, which is $2,000 less than the appropriation of 1913, and for horse shoeing and keeping in the Fire department which is $500 less. Only six items out of the 103 are reduced.

On the other hand, 45 of the items are increased, or are new this year. The new items are $468. for clerk of the City Auditor, $416. for new clerk to Assessors, $1,000 for Fire department horses, $250 for clothing in same department, $1200 for miscellaneous expenses of Board of Health, and $100 for expenses of inspectors, $5,000 for mothers aid, $3,000 for claims and awards, and $100 for advertising ordinances.

Some of the larger increase are: $5,387.00 for pay of police officers, $850 for miscellaneous expenses of inspector of buildings, $2,100 for contagious diseases, $500 for bridges, culverts and drains, $1000 for removal of snow, $1000 for street sprinkling, $500 for miscellaneous in Poor department, $400 for soldiers relief, $6,360 for school teachers, $750 for text books, $500 for operation of schools $500 for miscellaneous schools, $500 for evening schools, $4,080 for independent industrial schools, $750 for school supplies, and $825 for Public Library.

Over one-third of the total increase is in the School department, which will receive $13,140 more than in 1913 The total of $198,365 for schools is over 36 per cent of the total of $539,777.94 for current expenses.

Fortunately for the taxpayers the total of the items outside "current expenses" is less than in 1913, that is the Water department, Sewer department, debt, and interests this year require $380,423.24, where last year they required $397,886.92, a decrease of $17,463.68. This was because ex-Mayor Stone was successful in reducing the debt last year. It will help out considerable, for it makes the net increase in 1914 appropriations $20,612.11. The grand total of 1913 was $899,589.07, while this year it is $920,201.18.

The prospects are that the State and Metropolitan assessments will be increased, so that the chances are not bright just now for much of a reduction in the tax rate.

They are burning the midnight oil so assiduously at Yale college that a dozen students are dropped for tangoing all night with the girls.

Some of those superheated editors down in Mexico may have to eat their own words later, even at the risk of burning their mouths thereby.

Although there is impatience at the delay over the railroad rate cases, no one has suggested putting any more lawyers on the board to hurry up the decision.

From the way the Mexicans are thrusting themselves on Uncel Sam's hospitality, it looks as if he would have to fit up some more guest rooms.

Hold-up men get $40,000 out of an Alabama train, and motion picture plays will soon be circulating showing just how the trick can be pulled off.

LIGHT VOTE IS CAST IN MAINE

Ten Cities Elect Mayor and City Government

AUBURN GOES PROGRESSIVE

Republicans Win at Lewiston, Where Democrats Have Long Been In Power—Bath Goes From Democratic to Republican, Rockland from Republican to Democratic

Portland, Me., March 3.—Shifting control of municipal affairs, and the polling of light votes because of the storm, were features of the elections held in ten of Maine's score of cities.

The contests in most cases were between the two old parties, the Progressives naming an independent ticket in only one city, Auburn, where they were again successful against Republicans and Democrats.

Bath shifted from Democratic to Republican, while Rockland, for the first time in five years, turned from the Republican to the Democratic party. Ellsworth exchanged a Democratic mayor and Republican board of aldermen for a Republican mayor and Democratic aldermen. Hallowell Democrats retained the mayoralty but lost the city by one alderman.

The Democrats went down to defeat in Lewiston for the first time in nine years, being replaced by a combination of Progressives, Republicans and Citizens. South Portland Republicans regained the office of chief executive and retained the city government.

There were no changes in Auburn, Eastport, Saco and Waterville, city control remaining in the hands of the Progressives in Auburn, Republicans in Eastport and Saco, and Democrats in Waterville.

The mayors elected and the complexion of the municipal governments in the ten cities are as follows:

City.	Mayor.	City Govt.
Auburn—	*A. W. Fowles	Prog.
Bath—	A. J. Dunton	Rep.
Eastport—	E. M. Cherry	Rep.
Ellsworth—	A. C. Hagerthy	Dem.
Hallowell—	S. G. Otis	Rep.
Lewiston—	R. J. Wiseman	P-R-C
Rockland—	Philip Howard	Dem.
So. Portland—	C. E. West	Rep.
Saco—	*M. A Pillsbury	Rep.
Waterville—	L. E. Hillard	Dem.

*Re-elected. Present mayor defeated.

BAY STATE ELECTIONS

Milford Goes Dry After Twenty-One Years of License

Boston, March 3.—Three hundred towns in Massachusetts held their annual town meetings, and in many there were overturns in the government.

An overturn in the town government of Milford took place. The town went dry for the first time in twenty-one years.

In Saugus, women will outnumber men on the school board, and interesting developments are expected when they put their ideas for school reform into operation.

One feature of the elections of considerable interest in eastern Massachusetts was the fact that Middleton went license by only three votes.

TO FILE WRIT OF ERROR

Boston Newspaper Fined $100 For Contempt of Court

Boston, March 3.—Contempt proceedings against the Boston Journal in connection with reports published by it in the suit of Hall vs. Paine, Webber & Co., which case was on trial several weeks ago before Judge Brown and a jury in the superior court of Suffolk county, were heard by Brown.

After four witnesses had testified Brown found the newspaper guilty of contempt and imposed a fine of $100.

Through its counsel The Journal announced its intention of filing a writ of error with the supreme court of Massachusetts.

TAKE THEIR ASSAILANTS

Intended Holdup Victims Maul Two Alleged Highwaymen

Boston, March 3.—Captured and badly beaten by the very men they tried to rob is what fate handed out to Frank Jordan and Peter Mack, according to the police story when the two men were arraigned before Judge Parmenter, charged with highway robbery. They pleaded not guilty.

Herman Rodgers was the hero of the affair and was assisted by his brother Frank in turning the tables on the men with the aid of a loaded revolver. There were four in the party, but two escaped.

Sinking Schooner Abandoned

Savannah, Ga., March 3.—The schooner S. G. Haskell, Boston bound, was abandoned in a sinking condition, and her captain and crew of eight men were picked up by the steamer Roseland and brought to Savannah.

Record Flight With Passengers

Chartres, France, March 3.—A new world record for altitude with passengers was established here by Aviator Garaix, who ascended 10,890 feet with three persons.

INDICTMENT DISMISSED

Court Sustains Claim of Counsel For Alleged Tammany Bagman

New York, March 3.—The indictment charging Everett P. Fowler, the so-called Tammany bagman, with extortion, was dismissed by Supreme Court Justice Davis.

Fowler, it was charged, obtained a political contribution of $250 from Seneca P. Hull of Cortland, N. Y., who was competing for state highway contracts.

The indictment charges Fowler with extortion in New York county. His attorney, Mr. Littleton, claimed that if the facts in the indictment constituted a crime, the crime was committed either in Cortland county, where Hull resided, or in Onondaga county, where Fowler had his office in Syracuse.

Littleton argued that the crime could not be committed concurrently in three counties at one time, and on this ground Davis sustained the demurrer and dismissed the indictment.

INDEBTEDNESS OF STATES

That of Massachusetts Is 23.2 Per-cent of Whole Forty-Eight

Washington, March 3.—Preliminary figures made public by Director of the Census Harris showed that the total indebtedness of the 48 states of the union, less sinking fund assets, on June 30, 1913, was $342,251,000, an increase of $107,342,000 or nearly 50 percent over the total of 10 years ago.

Including sinking fund assets the total debt amounted to $419,157,000, of which sum about $19,000,000 represented the floating debt.

The funded debt was $400,000,000, of which about $359,000,000 was special debt obligations to public trust funds.

The total debt of Massachusetts, the report said, represented 23.2 percent of the debt of all states in the union. New York had 25 percent of the total for the 48 states.

TRIED BRIBERY ON CAPITOL CONTRACT

Charge Against Political Leader and an Architect

Oklahoma City, March 3.—"Dynamite Ed" Perry, widely known as a political leader in Oklahoma, and P. H. Weathers, an architect of this city, were arrested on a warrant charging them with having attempted to bribe P. J. Goulding, a member of a commission appointed by Governor Cruce to let the contract for the erection of a $1,500,000 state capitol building here. They were released on bonds of $2000 each.

Information filed by the county attorney charged that Perry offered to pay $15,000 to Goulding should building plans submitted by a contracting firm of which Weathers is head be accepted by the capitol commission.

HALPIN'S GREAT VICTORY

Bostonian Sets New Championship Records In 600-Yard Run

New York, March 3.—Thomas J. Halpin of the Boston A. A. won the 600-yard run in the national track and field meet, beating Abel R. Kiviat and Melvin W. Sheppard of the Irish-American A. C. of New York.

Halpin not only beat his two most formidable rivals at the distance, but he also set a new American indoor record and a new chompionship record. His time was 1m. 13 2-5s.

SUFFRAGE VOTE PUT OFF

But Measure Is Made "Unfinished Business" In the Senate

Washington, March 3.—Action by the senate within a few days on the proposed woman suffrage constitutional amendment seemed assured last night, after a day of debate, during which the measure was made the "unfinished business."

An immediate vote seemed imminent at one time when there was a chorus of demands for a roll call, but Senator Shafroth and others held up the vote to continue debate.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Miss Hannah F. Marsh, sister of George E. Marsh, who was murdered by William A. Dorr, died at her home at Peabody, Mass. She was 88.

A twenty-foot fall from a beam in the barn where he was playing at Livermore Falls, Me., caused the death of Nathan Taylor, 11 years old.

Burglars blew open the safe at 252 West One Hundred and Twenty-Fifth street, New York, escaping with $1500 in cash and some jewelry.

Wearing widow's weeds since June, thinking her husband was dead, Mrs. Ira Howland of New York, 16, had her spouse arrested when she found he was alive.

Miss Hazel Stewart, 17, a sophomore in the Farmington, Me., high school, shot herself through the heart with a rifle. No cause for the suicide is known.

Mrs. George O. Fogg, aged 60, wife of an automobile dealer of Winchester, was killed by an express train at Winchester, Mass.

After quitting the New York police force, saying "No cop can be honest," Vito G. Auditore was arrested, charged with receiving stolen goods.

CITY COUNCIL

(Continued from Page One.)

adopt the resolution now, and that the Council might as well resolve that the moon be made of green cheese.

In reply to question, City Solicitor Pinkham briefly stated the history of the grade crossing problem in Quincy. Coming down to the present administration he stated that the Mayor attended a conference of the Public Service Commission. The executive asked for certain changes, but was informed none could be made. Rather than have all that had been done toppled over and many more years wasted, the Mayor had approved the plan. This agreement had also been signed by the Attorney General for the state, and by counsel for the railroad and railway, and he had been informed that morning that the judge of the Superior court had approved and signed the decree.

Councilman Griffin asked if the city had any rights left, and the City Solicitor replied that he did not know of any steps the city could take, as no objection had ever been entered since last May when the decree was filed.

Councilman Little—Then it is useless to adopt this resolution?

City Solicitor Pinkham—Yes.

Councilman Carlson said that he had been told by an attorney that there was a question as to whether Saville street was a public street, and that there was an opportunity to have the matter changed now.

City Solicitor Pinkham replied that while the Commonwealth had raised the question as to Saville street, the fact that the railroad had signed the agreement settled that question.

Councilman Nelson thought more time should be had to consider the question, and moved to lay on the table. Motion lost.

In reply to a question by Councilman Gilliatt, the City Solicitor said it was like a law suit. The case had been tried out, and the party who lost had to take his loss.

Councilman Gilliatt then asked about an injunction.

The City Solicitor replied that simply meant getting the court to stop work. The city cannot place an injunction, but can ask the court for one. He doubted if individuals could do so in this case. In reply to further questions by Councilman Gilliatt, the City Solicitor said that it may be possible by agreement with the railroad company to get some changes.

The resolve was adopted on a rising vote of 11 yes and 8 no.

WATER EXTENSION.

Councilman Bailey offered an order for $36,000, of which sum $30,000 was for the extension of the water service and the sum of $6,000 for the purchase and installation of meters. Referred to Committee on Water Supply.

LIGHT ORDERS.

Councilman Ericson offered an order for lights on the corner of Parker and Carlson streets.

Councilman Gelotte an order for a light on Pleasant street.

Councilman Hadlock an order for two lights on Hovey street.

Councilman Craig orders for lights on Gordon street and Federal avenue.

Councilman Griffin an order for a light on Washington street near Bent place.

All referred to the Executive.

CLAIM ORDER.

Councilman Ross offered an order for $277 to reimburse Miss Beatrice H. Rothwell for expenses incurred in consequence of an accident at the Adams school while in the performance of her duties. Referred to Finance Committee.

MILL TAX BILL.

Councilman Ross offered a resolve for the City Solicitor to appear and favor the so-called Mill Tax bill. Adopted.

FIRE ALARM BOX.

Councilman Carlson offered an order for a fire alarm box on the corner of Appleton street and the Quincy Shore parkway. Referred to Committee on Fire Department.

Councilman Craig offered an order for $800 for a new drain through land of Harrigan at South Quincy. To Committee on Sewers.

WATER STREET SEWER.

Councilman Craig offered an order for the extension of the sewer on Water street between Quincy and Pleasant streets. To Committee on Sewers.

OUT OF ORDER.

Councilman Carlson offered an order relative to grade crossings which was ruled out of order, as the matter had been covered by the resolve previously adopted, and further because it ordered the Mayor to do certain things, and the Council had no right to order the Mayor to do anything.

Councilman Little desired to ask the Chief Engineer of the Fire department about call men. Councilman Ross raised a point of order that there was no matter before the Council at that time. The point was ruled well taken.

AUTO PUMP.

At this point Councilman Bailey was called to the chair.

President Whiton taking the floor moved that the order for a auto combination pump be withdrawn from the Committee. Voted.

President Whiton then said that there had been considerable talk in regard to that part of the order referring to a "Piston pump," and he moved that the order be amended by striking out those words. Continuing he said he was the one who drew the order, but it was not with the intention of throttling any one. Furthermore, it did not put the committee on record as to any make of pump. It had been said that he had throttled all but one make, and for that reason he desired to strike out the words. He wanted the best there was for the city, and the committee was not bound by any make of pump. He did not want to shut out anyone.

Councilman Williams said that the order had been drawn as the President had stated, who also said the committee could do as it pleased.

Councilman Ross did not see any ground for changing the order. He knew of three makes of piston pump. He did not think the President was trying to force the committee, who could look over all makes. Engineers that he had talked with, said the rotary pump should not be considered. There was no argument to change the order for the committee could do that if it desired.

The amendment was adopted.

THE CALENDAR.

In the calendar the following orders were passed under suspension of the rules:

Granting the Telephone Co., a location for poles on Quarry street.

Granting the Electric Light Co., a location for poles on Bennington street.

Granting the Telephone Co., underground conduits on Independence avenue and Franklin street.

Granting the Street Railway Co., a location for poles on Hancock street.

Adjourned at 8.56 until March 16.

Hospitality.

The appetite of the guest was a keen one, and he was doing full justice to the excellent dinner provided by his host. The little daughter of the house watched him open mouthed for awhile. Then finally she smiled on him brightly and said:

"Oh, I do wish you were here to dinner every day."

The guest beamed with satisfaction. "Do you, my dear? Why?" he inquired.

"Because," came the unexpected reply, "there won't be anything cold to eat tomorrow."—London Tit-Bits.

Discipline.

"How do you get your constituents so thoroughly accustomed to implicit reliance on your word?"

"Well," replied Senator Sorghum, "I made 'em understand at the outset that if they didn't accept my statements they'd have to listen to a long string of statistics.—Washington Post.

Wasted Effort.

"He never spanks his son, does he?"

"No; he's an efficiency crank."

"What's that got to do with it?"

"He says the upward stroke is lost motion."—Houston Post.

Indignant Denial.

"Prisoner, have you any collateral about you?"

"No, sah; an' dat man's a liar what said I eveh don teched any."—Baltimore American.

The gem cannot be polished without friction, nor man perfected without trials.

☞PRATT'S BREAD sales have increased because it satisfies. Your grocer.

YOU CAN'T EARN MONEY WHEN YOU'RE LAID UP

There are a lot of people in this town who cannot afford to be sick. Perhaps none of you feel that you can, but certainly some of you can't, for as soon as you are sick, your wages stop and worry and debts begin to pile up. The sensible thing for you to do, as soon as you feel run-down and worn out, no matter what the cause, is to take something just as quick as you can to build up strength and health. Make yourself more comfortable and provide against serious sickness.

We don't believe there is any other medicine made that will do as much towards saving your health and thus helping you save your money as Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. It is a medicine that gets right at the trouble and relieves it by toning the nerves, enriching the blood, and giving new strength and health to the whole body. It doesn't do this by means of alcohol or habit-forming drugs, because it contains none. Its strength and health-giving power is due to pure Olive Oil and the Hypophosphites, long endorsed by successful physicians, the one for its food value, the other for its tonic value. Here, for the first time, they are combined, and the result is a real nerve, blood and body-building medicine—a real strengthener that we are proud to tell you about. You don't need to hesitate in using it, because if it doesn't do all we say it will and satisfy you in every way, it will cost you nothing. If it doesn't make you strong and well again, come back and get your money. It will be given to you without word or question. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us, $1.00.

Edward J. Murphy, 1415 Hancock Cor. Granite Sts., Quincy, Mass.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

WHY THIS BANK IS LIKE A GOOD STORE

A successful store-keeper is liberal with his customers—his clerks are courteous and ready to oblige—he gives his trade good service. This bank like the merchant wants business, and to get and hold business it offers prompt and painstaking service. Perhaps you will be surprised to find out how many things we do for our depositors—come in and let us tell you about our services.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

AUTO OWNERS

It has been said, how can we sell

Goodrich, Goodyear and Firestone Tires

at the low prices.

We are going after the tire business for 1914, and we want every auto owner to be acquainted with the fact, and for 10 days we will give FREE with every tire

1 CHAMPION X SPARK PLUG or 1 GAL. OF VACUUM OIL

With the tires to be sold as cheap or cheaper than our competitors can sell.

Give us a trial and be convinced.

CENTRAL GARAGE

Tel. 1035-W COR. WASHINGTON AND POND STS

Feb. 25-tf

SHAMOKIN COAL

FREE BURNING

Like The Shamokin of 20 years ago

C. PATCH & SON, Inc.

1422 Hancock Street

Advertise in the Ledger

LIVELY RUNAWAY IN CITY SQUARE

There was a livelyrunaway in City Square this afternoon, and that it did not result in some one being seriously injured was a wonder. The horse that ran was one of Peter J. Williams, that had been left in front of the Adams building. Something frightened the horse and he ran up Hancock street at a rapid clip. When nearly opposite Wilson's hall the wheels of the ran-away team struck the laundry wagon of the South Weymouth laundry driv-en by H. W. Dyer. One of the rear wheels was taken off as clean as if cut with an axe, and as the laundry team toppled over the driver was thrown headfirst out of the team landing on the sidewalk. Fortunately however he escaped without injury.

The Williams horse continued on his way up Hancock street and when opposite Kincaide's it just grazed a buggy containing two men. This caused the horse to slip and he fell. He was grabbed before he could get up and continue on. The Williams team was not damaged although its contents was strewn along the street.

ALBERT S. BUSWELL.

A dispatch from Manchester, N. H., announces the death in that city on Sunday of Albert S. Buswell, a retired court officer of Boston, aged 70 years. Mr. Buswell was quite well known in Quincy where he was a frequent visi-tor at the time his daughter Mrs. Charles H. Moore resided in this city. Mr. Buswell was born in Hallowell, Me and was appointed to the police force of Boston in 1873. He served as such for fourteen years and was then ap-pointed as keeper of the city prison where he served until 1889, when he was appointed court officer which po-sition he held until retired, when he removed to New Hampshire. He was a veteran of the Civil war, having ser-ved four years. His son Warren Bus-well is an officer at the State Prison in Charlestown. Mr. and Mrs. Moore re-moved from Quincy several years ago. While in Quincy, Mr. Moore was em-ployed by the Quincy Beef Co. and re-sided on Upland road.

ON DANGEROUS LISIT.

Jeremiah McCarthy of 15 Baldwin street, Atlantic, received a punctured chest in Boston on Monday when a horse kicked him, and is on the dan-gerous list at the Boston City Hospi-tal. His ribs on both sides are frac-tured.

The accident occurred in a black-smith shop 384 Freeport street, Dor-chester, shortly afternoon, as Mc-Carthy was standing between two horses which he was leading into the shop. One horse became frightened at the tooting of the horn of a passing automobile and began to kick. His hoofs struck McCarthy on the side, fracturing his ribs and throwing him to the ground. The horse continued plunging and inflicted other injuries before McCarthy was rescued.

DISTRICT COURT.

Cora Mangson was arraigned for as-sault on Nellie Tobin at Braintree. Case placed on file on payment of $10 on account of costs.

George Barbour was fined $10 for creating a disturbance on a public conveyance at Braintree.

Not Triplets.

My little grandson was told by his mother to run across the street and in-quire of a lady who was going by with three little babies in a cart if they were triplets. He soon came back, looking much disappointed, and said: "No, they are not triplets. They were born the same day, but two of them are girls and the other one is a boy." —Exchange.

Catty.

"My husband," she said, "always wants me to look my best, no matter what the cost." "Well," her friend re-plied, "one can hardly blame him for feeling as he does."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Sprains and cuts call for quick treatment.
JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
Should be always at hand. Taken internally it relieves Coughs, Colds, Cramps, Sore Throat, Bowel Troubles.
IN USE 103 YEARS
25c and 50c Everywhere
Parsons' Pills
the best laxative
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc. Boston, Mass.

HOW TO PROTECT YOUR COMBS.

Well kept combs are now kept in special cases made of two flat pieces in tortoise shell, silver, ivory or whatever mounting is used for the toilet articles, weld-ed together at the ends and along the side, leaving the other side open. While the comb, after having been thoroughly washed and dried, slips snugly into this case, it easily slides out when the receptacle is held upside down.

The case in tortoise shell, silver and ivory must be made to order as toilet articles of those ma-terials usually are special pat-terns not duplicated in cheaper mountings.

Exceedingly pretty cases come in hand painted white celluloid and kindred ivory like composi-tions, and very dainty ones may be made of heavy white linen, hand embroidered with a mono-gram or a vine and finished along the edges with fine scallop-ing headed by a line of little buttonholes run through the baby ribbon.

THE FEMININE TRAVELER.

How to Travel With Greatest Comfort and Convenience.

If the feminine traveler is not carry-ing a specially fitted small hand bag she should have her toilet belongings in either fabric sacks or in flat cases, as these are the only sort that pack easily and without taking up an atom of unnecessary space.

For the bath things the best sort of bag is the one of knitted silk lined with rubber and holding separate rub-ber lined cases for the soap, face cloth and powders, or one of rubberized silk lined with oil silk and having pockets for the soap, etc., in the main portion, while at the bottom and to be reached only from the outer side is a special bag for the face cloth.

The nightgown and the kimono will easily go in one of the oblong envelope cases measuring a trifle less than the proportions of a medium sized suit case. These envelopes are most prac-tical when made of a dark shade of wool backed satin lined with white silk veiled with fine white batiste, em-broidered muslin or dotted swiss and finished at the edges with a silk cord ing, which on the flap runs into a loop fastening over an oriental button. Fit-ted into the lid of the suit case, this envelope's presence is scarcely noticed, yet the garments that it holds may be reached without disturbing any other article in the luggage.

To dispose of one's belongings while seated in the berth of a sleeping car is comparatively simple if there are special bags for those most important details of a woman's costume—the cor set and the footwear. The corset bag should be fully a yard long and a half yard wide and have substantial hang-ers, else it will be worthless. Instead of having it of thin silk like the ki-mono, make it in matching shade of satin and have the hangers of velvet rather than of satin ribbon. The shoe bag should be about half the size of that for the corset and at one of its outer sides should have a pocket for hosiery.

Handkerchiefs and gloves are most easily carried in round, flat bags with wide mouths, which when opened re-veal the entire contents of the recep-tacle at a glance. And if the woman traveler would keep her hat fresh she will protect it with a dark linen bag fastened along its open side with a row of small safety pins, meanwhile wearing a folding cap in tweed or rub-berized silk or a loose hood in chiffon cloth.

CLEANING HINT.

How to Renew Soiled Silk or Woolen Fabrics Successfully.

Grate raw potatoes to a fine pulp in clear water and pass the liquid through a coarse sieve into another vessel of water. Let the mixture stand until the fine white particles of the potato are precipitated, then pour the water off and preserve for use. This liquid will clean all sorts of silk, cot-ton or woolen goods without hurting them or spoiling the color. Two good sized potatoes are sufficient for a pint of water.

The article to be cleaned should be laid upon a linen cloth on a table and, having provided a clean sponge, dip it into the potato water and apply it to the article to be cleaned until the dirt is entirely separated, then wash in clean water several times.

The coarse pulp, which does not pass through the sieve, is of great use in cleaning wool draperies, carpets and other coarse goods.

How to Pare Potatoes Carefully.

A bete noire of the housekeeper is the paring of potatoes. As they are one of the commonest articles of diet it is necessary to get around this point in another than the usual way. Except for French or raw fried potatoes the skins can be removed just as well after they are slightly cooked as be-fore, and it is very much easier and far more economical. Rinse them off, drop them into boiling water and let them cook five minutes. This is just sufficient to loosen the skins. By hold ing them with a fork you can slip your knife under the skins and speedily remove them. The potatoes will then be ready to put back on the fire to pre-pare for boiling, mashing or any of the ways in which you intend to cook them.

PURE FOOD IN THE HOUSEHOLD

This Depends on the Housewife's Knowledge of Products and Qualities Almost as Much as on the Integrity of the Dealer.

THERE is such a thing as carry-ing the pure food idea too far. There is, of course, such a thing as being too fastidious and developing into a faddist. With the government supervision which is now in force we have a reasonable hope of receiving good food if we know how to choose it.

It is best for the housewife to choose a common sense diet without vexing herself over the too intricate problems. It is due to her family, however, that she should make very sure that she knows how to distinguish the good from the bad.

Meat should be firm and elastic to the touch and moist, but not wet. The cut surface of beef should glisten as if wet, though the finger touching it should not be perceptibly moistened.

Selecting Meat.

In color see that it is a bright red, marbled a little with veinings of fat distributed among the muscles. The veinings should be free from blood, and beef fat should contain no watery juice or jelly.

The suet fat should be ivory white, though in some cattle the fat will be found to be a deep yellow in color. Speaking in general terms, however, the whiter the fat the younger the ani-mal was when killed.

Mutton is somewhat less firm that beef in texture, and the color is paler. Young pork is soft to the touch and ex-tremely light in color, growing slightly darker and firmer as the age of the animal increases.

Beware of very small cuts of veal, for newly born calves are unfit for food and should not be put upon the market.

Good poultry should be yellowish in color or have a slightly pink tinge. It should be firm to the touch and have a strong, unbroken skin. Stale poultry loses its firmness, and the muscles show bluish in color and green over the crop and abdomen.

Fish of Quality.

The freshness of fish is indicated by firm, stiff flesh. If in really prime con-dition a fish should be rigid when held in a horizontal position. Any drooping of the tail indicates that the fish is not fresh, and the greater the drooping the more need has the housewife to look askance. Dull eyes, over which the skin is not transparent, and dirty look-ing gills exuding a brown fluid are all danger signals.

A good test for an egg is to candle it. This is an exceedingly simple proc-ess, yet one which dealers themselves find quite reliable in testing freshness. Look hard at an egg in the ordinary way, twist and turn it as you will, you can never tell whether it is fresh or not. Take the egg into a dark room wherein you have lit a candle. Now hold the egg between the light and the eye, with the wide end uppermost.

If you see distinctly a small dark shadow at the top you may conclude that the egg is new laid, for in such an egg the air cell between the mem-brane inclosing contents and the shell shows in this wise.

If no air cell can be seen the egg is not new laid, but is quite reason-ably fresh, for a stale or bad egg can-not show a clear appearance against the light. If the shadow thrown by the air cell, on the other hand, is too large it is a sign that the egg is grow-ing stale, and dark spots indicate clear-ly that the egg is unfit for use.

Testing Milk.

The knitting needle test is the sim-plest way of finding out whether milk is good. Use a very clean and bright steel needle, plunge it into the milk, withdraw it swiftly and hold it in a slanting direction for several seconds. If the milk is good a large drop will gather very slowly at the end of the needle and grow larger and larger be-fore falling, while milk which has been watered will race rapidly down the smooth surface and immediately drop off.

Household Hints.

Did you ever know that jam which has become hard and sugary can be greatly improved by placing it in the oven until the sugar melts, then taking it out and leaving it to cool?

When you make mince pies brush over the top crust with water and sprinkle with granulated sugar. The appearance will be much improved, and they will be brown and crisp.

Never have linen starched if you are going to put it away for a long time. It is apt to crack and even to rot. Rinse the articles quite free from starch, dry and fold away in blue pa-per, as this keeps them from turning yellow.

Methylated spirits serve as a remov-er of grease stains from light fabrics. Soak the stained part in the spirits and rub thoroughly, then rinse in plenty of clean water.

ESTIMATED EXPENSES 1914

City of Quincy

Mayor Miller and City Treasurer Curtis submitted to the City Council Monday evening the following estimates of city appropriations for 1914:

GENERAL GOVERNMENT.

	1914.	1913.
City Council—Salaries	$1,100 00	$900 00
Other expenses	475 00	475 00
Mayor—Salary	2,500 00	2,500 00
Other expenses	2,500 00	2,500 00
City Auditor—Salary	1,600 00	1,600 00
Clerk	468 00
Miscellaneous	350 00	350 00
City Treasurer—Salary	1,600 00	1,600 00
Clerk	780 00	780 00
Miscellaneous	500 00	500 00
Tax Collector—Salary	1,400 00	1,400 00
One clerk	780 00	780 00
One clerk	624 00	624 00
One clerk	468 00	416 00
Miscellaneous	1,650 00	1,680 00
Assessors—Salaries	2,900 00	2,900 00
Assistant Assessors—Salaries	600 00	600 00
One clerk	988 00	780 00
One clerk	728 00	728 00
One clerk	572 00	520 00
One clerk	416 00
Extra clerical	400 00	735 00
Other expenses	1,200 00	1,200 00
City Clerk—Salary	1,400 00	1,400 00
Clerk	676 00	676 00
Miscellaneous	750 00	975 00
City Messenger—Salary	250 00	250 00
City Solicitor—Salary	1,400 00	1,400 00
Other expenses	75 00	75 00
Registrars—Salaries	1,150 00	1,150 00
Election expenses	2,200 00	1,825 00
Commissioner of Public Works—Salary	2,400 00	2,400 00
Clerical	780 00	780 00
Other expenses	250 00	250 00
City Engineer—Salary	1,800 00	1,800 00
Office expenses	2,500 00	2,400 00

MAINTENANCE OF BUILDINGS.

Repair of Buildings and care of City Hall	12,000 00	12,000 00

PROTECTION OF LIFE AND PROPERTY.

Police Department
Chief of Police	1,500 00	1,500 00
Pay of men	39,629 94	34,242 94
Miscellaneous	4,600 00	3,800 00
Fire Department
Chief Engineer	1,400 00	1,400 00
Clothing	250 00
Fire alarm	1,000 00	1,000 00
Pay of men	36,500 00	36,237 21
Horse shoeing and keeping	3,500 00	4,000 00
Fuel and lighting	1,350 00	1,350 00
Repairs and fixtures	1,500 00	1,350 00
Hose	1,100 00	800 00
Horses	1,000 00
Other expenses	2,300 00	2,000 00
Inspection of Buildings
Inspector	1,000 00	1,000 00
Miscellaneous	1,000 00	150 00
Sealing of weights and measures
Sealer	1,000 00	1,000 00
Miscellaneous	400 00	325 00
Gypsy moth	7,000 00	7,000 00

HEALTH AND SANITATION.

Board of Health	950 00	950 00
Contagious diseases	10,600 00	8,500 00
One clerk	676 00	624 00
Inspection	780 00	780 00
Inspector of Milk	150 00	150 00
Miscellaneous	1,200 00
Inspector of Animals	200 00	200 00
Inspector of Provisions	200 00	200 00
Other expenses	100 00
Inspector of Plumbing	1,200 00	1,200 00
Garbage	8,600 00	8,250 00
Ashes	3,850 00	3,800 00
Scavenger	5,500 00	5,500 00
Cleaning brooks	800 00	500 00
Inspector of Milk—Miscellaneous	150 00	75 00
Vital Statistics	600 00	600 00

HIGHWAYS (INCLUDING BRIDGES)

Highway Expenses
(including excise tax)	40,000 00	40,000 00
Bridges, culverts and drains	3,500 00	3,000 00
Removal of snow	3,000 00	2,000 00
Street lighting	33,000 00	35,000 00
Street Sprinkling	11,000 00	10,000 00

CHARITIES AND SOLDIERS' BENEFITS.

Poor Department
Overseer	800 00	800 00
Clerk	572 00	520 00
Mothers' Aid	5,000 00
Miscellaneous	14,000 00	13,500 00
City Physician, Salary	300 00	300 00
State Aid	5,000 00	5,000 00
Soldiers' Relief	4,000 00	3,600 00
Military Aid	500 00	324 00

SCHOOLS AND LIBRARY.

School Department
Administration	5,900 00	5,500 00
Instruction	145,585 00	139,225 00
Text Books	4,750 00	4,000 00
Operation	21,800 00	21,300 00
Maintenance of plant	250 00	250 00
Miscellaneous	2,100 00	1,600 00
Evening schools	2,500 00	2,000 00
Independent industrial	7,680 00	3,600 00
Industrial evening	1,300 00	2,000 00
Supplies	6,000 00	5,250 00
Public Library
Expenses and dog tax	11,825 00	11,000 00
School Physicians	500 00	500 00

PARKS AND UNCLASSIFIED.

Park—Miscellaneous	2,500 00	2,500 00
Claims and Awards	3,000 00
G. A. R., Post 88	400 00	400 00
John A. Boyd, Camp 2, Spanish War Veterans	100 00	100 00
City Hospital and water	4,000 00	4,000 00
Advertising Ordinances	100 00

CEMETERIES.

Cemeteries	5,000 00	5,000 00
	$539,777 94	$501,702 15

BY THE WATER DEPARTMENT.

To be paid from water receipts of 1914, and taxes to be levied
Water debt falling due	$61,500 00	$57,500 00
Interest falling due	27,618 75	27,092 00
Maintenance and office expenses	14,000 00	16,450 00
Painting, inspection and care of hydrants	1,000 00	1,000 00
Clerical	1,352 00	1,352 00
	$105,470 75	$103,394 00

BY THE SEWER DEPARTMENT.

To be paid from sewer assessments and taxes to be levied
Sewer debt falling due	31,000 00	29,000 00
Interest falling due	23,845 00	23,296 50
Clerical	780 00	780 00
Maintenance and office expenses	2,200	2,200 00
Automobiles		620 00
	$57,825 00	$55,896 50

BY THE CITY TREASURER—BONDS COMING DUE.

City Debt	$145,695 00	$162,676 46
Street Improvement debt	7,300 00	7,300 00
Park debt	2,000 00	2,000 00
Refunding debt	15,000 00	15,000 00
	$169,995 00	$186,976 46

BY CITY TREASURER—INTEREST COMING DUE.

City debt	$23,367 99	$27,895 96
Street Improvement debt	2,564 50	2,840 00
Park debt	800 00	880 00
Refunding debt	5,400 00	6,000 00
Temporary notes	15,000 00	14,000 00
	$47,132 49	$51,615 96

RECAPITULATION—1914.

General Government
City Council	$1,575 00
Mayor	5,000 00
City Auditor	2,418 00
City Treasurer	2,880 00
Tax Collector	4,922 00
Assessors	7,804 00
City Clerk	2,826 00
City Messenger	250 00
City Solicitor	1,475 00
Registrars	3,350 00
Commissioner	3,430 00
City Engineer	4,300 00	$40,230 00
Maintenance of Buildings,		12,000 00
Protection of Life and Property.
Police	45,729 94
Fire	49,900 00
Inspection of Buildings	2,000 00
Sealer of Weights	1,400 00
Gypsy Moth	7,000 00	$106,029 94
Health and Sanitation
Board of Health	15,006 00
Garbage	8,600 00
Ashes	3,850 00
Scavenger	5,500 00
Cleaning Brooks	800 00
Vital Statistics	600 00	$35,556 00
Miscellaneous	1,200 00
Highways	43,500 00
Snow	3,000 00
Street Lighting	33,000 00
Street Sprinkling	11,000 00	$90,500 00
Charities and Soldiers' Benefits
Poor department	20,672 00
Soldiers' Benefits	9,500 00	30,172 00
Schools and Libraries.
School Department	198,365 00
Library	11,825 00	$210,190 00
Parks and Unclassified.
Parks	2,500 00
Unclassified	7,600 00	$10,100 00
Cemeteries.
Burial department	5,000 00	$5,000 00
Total		$539,777.94

NOW OPEN
Wollaston Auto Show
AFTERNOON AND EVENING
SULLIVAN SISTERS' ORCHESTRA
ASSISTED BY
MR. WILLIAM McDEVITT, Soloist
FEB. 28, MARCH 2, 3, 4 and 5
WOLLASTON CENTRE GARAGE
NEAR WOLLASTON STATION
10 A. M to 10 P. M.
March 2-4t

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT
BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield Water st
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Wednesday, fair with seasonable temperature, followed by rain or snow Thursday.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	6.16
Sun sets	5.38
Length of day	11.22
Moon sets	12.35
High water, A. M.	4.00
High water, P. M.	4.30
Days increase	2 hours, 16 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	45 degrees
Mar. 3, 1913,	35 degrees
Mar. 3, 1912,	25 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

History In the Remaking.

Teacher—What! Have you no idea at all why Washington crossed the Delaware?

Tommy—No, ma'am. Unless it was 'cause he see me keep in after school fer not knowin'!—Washington Star.

McLENNAN'S TAKE THREE

The Mold Loft league rolloff at the City Square alleys Monday evening resulted in a victory for the McLennans over the Stanfords 3 to 1. The Stanfords took the last string.

Smith with 311 was high man of the evening. He secured a single of 116.

McLENNAN'S

Robertson	87	87	82	256
McLennan	92	90	78	260
Henningsen	74	79	76	229
Sines	77	84	78	239
Wishart	97	88	80	265
	427	428	394	1249

STANFORDS.

Smith	106	89	116	311
McLean	73	72	77	222
Hamilton	66	86	80	232
Moe	75	82	76	233
Stanford	87	63	76	226
	407	392	425	1224

—At the impressively big annual meeting at Washington of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America, the need that most appealed to the the several speakers is more men to become scout commissioners and assistant scout commissioners to direct the rapidly growing army of boys engaged in a campaign having for its object the victory of good over evil.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

☞PRATT'S BREAD made of the best flour by the best bakers. Your grocer.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Coldin One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

SHIPYARD MEN HIT PINS HARD

Two Teams Went Over 1400 Mark in League Games

Good individual singles were made in the Fore River league matches at the Coliseum alleys Monday evening, as two teams went over the 1400 total mark.

Smith of the Yard was high man of the evening, his 318 easily leading a 304 total of O. Smith of the Electricians.

A single of 120 by Ryan of the Hull Draftsmen gave him the high mark for the matches. Other good singles were Smith 118, Dobos 117, O. Smith 115, Smith of Yard 114, Goodhue and Carlson 112. Other men also passed the century.

The Yard team administered a severe trouncing to the Argentine inspectors, taking all four points and leading them by a margin of 135 pins in the total.

YARD.

Goodhue	112	90	76	278
Mills	83	86	86	255
McKenzie	105	87	89	281
Robbins	100	93	90	282
Smith	96	114	108	318
	496	470	449	1415

ARGENTINE INSPECTORS.

Koozer	94	89	90	273
Cozzi	85	89	94	268
Gizzie	85	75	71	231
Wilkendorf	91	86	84	261
Santa Cruz	82	91	74	247
	437	430	413	1280

The Hull Draftsmen gave the Government Draftsmen a four to nothing drubbing, 127 points separating them in the totals.

HULL DRAFTSMEN.

Fromme	88	90	82	260
Sullivan	68	90	89	247
Kent	80	91	100	271
Ryan	85	120	88	293
Westland	95	82	96	723
	406	473	455	1344

GOVERNMENT DRAFTSMEN.

Melendy	90	86	80	256
Tavolai	73	85	82	240
Desmond	82	89	77	248
Frais	67	92	75	234
Mullen	89	79	71	239
	401	431	385	1217

The Machine Gallery, leaders of the league, took three out of four points from the Pipe Fitters. They lost the first string by 10 pins.

MACHINE GALLERY.

Williams	83	80	90	255
Carlson	80	81	112	273
Moran	82	85	89	256
Burke	83	98	101	282
Tirrell	92	106	105	303
	422	450	497	1369

PIPE FITTERS.

Kateon	100	73	93	266
Hamilton	74	79	84	237
Stenck	71	81	88	240
McCulloch	88	95	85	268
Richardson	99	92	97	288
	432	420	447	1299

The Electricians although beating the Blacksmiths 3 to 1 had a stiff lead to overcome, the latter having the first string by 60 pins.

ELECTRICIAN.

Dobos	77	117	107	301
Malnati	83	94	104	281
Smith	73	118	74	265
Fitzgerald	90	82	83	255
O. Smith	91	98	115	304
	414	509	483	1406

BLACKSMITH.

Flanigan	89	96	100	285
Neil	97	97	93	287
Duff	93	88	90	271
McLellan	89	82	88	259
Bergfors	106	85	86	277
	474	448	457	1379

—By cutting out red-tape details in the custom service, as recommended at a conference of collectors, the Treasury Department calculates to save some $100,000 per year in addition to improving the service. Official frills can be dispensed with to the entire satisfaction of the American public, and they certainly should be where it means economy.

—The wife of the assistant secretary of labor believes that children should be allowed to vote; probably on the theory that so many of the grown-ups vote like children it wouldn't do any harm to let the little ones have the fun of casting ballots, too.—Haverhill Gazette.

NEW FIRE ALARM.

Many changes in the Quincy fire alarm boxes have been noted in the Daily Ledger recently and a revised list of the boxes is printed below:

12 Palmer st. near Brockton av.
13 Shelton rd. and Sea st.
14 Church Turnout, Manet av.
15 Germantown, Sailor's Snug Har.
16 Sea st., near Rock Island rd.
17 Sea st., near Dunham's
18 Sea and Palmer sts.
19 Rock Island.
112 Sea st., near Willows.
113 Post Island.
114 Engine House, Houghs Neck.
116 Centre Road and Darrow Street.
117 Great Hill, Houghs Neck.
119 Rockland and Rhoda sts., Rock Is.
21 Whitwell and Granite sts.
23 Hancock st. and Cottage av.
24 Hancock and Chestnut sts.
25 Washington and Foster sts.
26 Hancock, opposite City Hall.
27 Washington and Elm sts.
28 Hancock and Greenleaf sts.
29 Butler rd. and Putnam st.
121 President's Hill.
122 Chestnut st. and Revere rd.
123 Hancock st., near Car Barn.
124 Adams and Goffe sts.
126 Russell Park.
221 Glendale rd. and Bedford st.
223 Whitwell st., near Hospital.
224 Adams st., near Whitwell st.
225 Field and Brackett sts.
226 Dimmock st. and Upland rd.
227 Newcomb and Canal sts.
228 Edgemere rd. and Putnam st.
235 Elm st. and Miller Stile rd.
242 (P) City Hospital.
31 Phipps, near Payne st.
32 Phipps st. and Kendrick av.
34 Franklin and High sts.
35 Hancock and School sts.
36 School and Franklin sts.
37 Franklin and Water sts.
38 Penn and Liberty sts.
39 Liberty and Plain sts.
136 Quincy and Pleasant sts.
137 Water st. and Brook rd.
138 Intervale st. and Brook av.
139 Vernon st.
221 Brook av. and Centre sts.
222 Centre and Granite sts.
231 Presidents and Independence av.
232 Independence and Federal av.
41 School and Granite sts.
42 Copeland and Granite sts.
43 Copeland and Common sts.
45 Crescent and Willard sts.
46 Copeland st., near Furnace av.
47 Bates av. and Grove st.
48 Willard and Robertson sts.
49 Willard and Doble sts.
143 Station st.
147 Granite Railway Yard.
412 Willard and West sts.
413 Buckley and Arthur sts.
431 Rogers st., off Hall Place.
432 Willard st. and Furnace av.
435 Reardon and Barry sts.
441 Smith st., near Quarry st.
442 Quarry st., near Hitchcock's.
443 West and Hayden sts.
445 Quarry and Common sts.
446 Copeland opp. Willard school.
447 Grove st. and Forest av.
51 Tubular Rivet and Stud Factory
52 Elmwood av. and Farrington st.
53 Winthrop and Warren av.
54 Hancock st., near Elm av.
56 Beale st. and Newport av.
57 Beach and Willow sts.
58 Beale and Adams sts.
59 Beale st. and Central av.
151 Billings rd. and Beach st.
152 Billings and Rawson rds.
153 Farrington st., near Wollastn F'y
154 Fenno st., near Sailors' Home.
155 Waren av., near Newton st.
512 Grand View and So. Central avs.
513 Foot of Beach st.
515 Quincy Mansion School.
524 Berlin and Woodbine sts.
552 Brook st. and North Central av.
553 Belmont st. and Lincoln av.
61 Hancock and Squantum sts.
62 Hancock and Atlantic sts.
63 Hancock st., near Atlantic Depot.
64 Billings st. and Newbury av.
64 (D) Auto Com. No. 2 House.
65 Squantum st. and Faxon road.
66 Prospect and Billings sts.
67 Squantunr and Atlantic sts.
68 Squantum st., Montclair school.
69 Sterling st. and Sagamore av.
161 Newport av. opp. Wollaston F'dy.
612 Hancock st. and Billings rd.
613 Hayward st., opp. Gear Works.
614 Glover and Newbury av.
615 Oak and Walnut sts.
7 Washington and Union sts.
71 Washington and Mill sts.
72 Washington and River sts.
73 Washington and Pray sts.
74 Washington and South sts.
75 Quincy av. near Mrs. Baxter's.
76 Washington and Wharf sts.
76 (D) Power House St. Ry.
78 Fore River Shipbuilding Works.
171 Main and Union sts.
172 South Walnut, near Oak st.
173 Main and Sumner sts.
174 North st., and Commonwealth av.
175 Quincy av. and Howard st.
272 Farnum and Edison sts.
273 (P) Baker Basin.
712 Broadway and Commonwealth av.
718 (P) Johnson's Lumber Wharf.
721 Scammell st. and Glencoe pl.
722 South st. and Winthrop park.
723 South st. and Clairmont av.
725 Howard and Winter sts.
8 Squantum st. and Huckins av.
81 Bellevue rd. and Ocean rd.
82 Bellevue rd. and Huckins av.
83 Bellevue rd. and Standish rd.
8? Dorchester and Pratt sts.

(D) Duplicate (P) Private

Inflammatory.

At a dinner of firemen recently the following sentiment was proposed: "The Ladies! Their eyes kindle the only flame which we cannot extinguish, and against which there is no insurance."

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

JAMES C. GILMORE
President of the New Federal Baseball League.

Photo by American Press Association.

SIGNS WITH THE GIANTS

Mathewson Turns Down Offer of $65,000 From Federal League

Marlin, Tex., March 3.—A flat offer of $65,000 for three seasons' work as manager of a Federal league team was wired to Christy Mathewson of the New York Giants by President Gilmore of the Federal league.

Asked whether there still was a possibility for him to consider the offer, Mathewson replied:

"No, none. I have signed with the Giants. Furthermore, the announcement of the Federal league that they will not try to get players who already have signed closes the matter."

President Hempstead of the Giants declined to make public the terms of the contract.

FIRES GREAT BLAST HALF MILE DISTANT

Wonderful Things Are Expected of Ultra-Violet Ray

Madrid, March 3.—An engineer named Iglesias Blanco made a successful experiment with an ultra-violet ray apparatus similar to that used by Giulio Ulivi, exploding a case of dynamite buried in the ground at a distance of half a mile.

He claims that with his invention he can explode the magazines of warships or the gasolene tanks of aeroplanes and dirigible balloons.

ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Shea Held In $5000 For Alleged Killing of Sutch In Poolroom

Malden, Mass., March 3.—Leo J. Shea, 26 years old, of Everett, pleaded not guilty to the killing of Charles E. Sutch, 18, in an Everett poolroom.

The young man is charged with manslaughter. He said he would like to waive examination, but Judge Bruce told him it would be better to put in a plea of not guilty. The case was continued.

In default of $5000 bail Shea was committed. He was shaking with emotion when he stood in the dock to answer the charge. Sutch was killed as the result of a blow on the point of his jaw.

WARNING TO AGITATORS

Will Not Be Allowed to Interrupt Church Services In Gotham

New York, March 3.—Police Commissioner McKay announced that he would instruct the police to arrest, hereafter, all agitators making attempts to hold up church services.

The action is due to the raids made by the unemployed on the Old First Presbyterian church, the Catholic Church of the Transfiguration, the Second Avenue Baptist church and the Labor temple.

Sixty unemployed men were fed yesterday at the Mayflower Mission of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, whose pastor, Rev. Dr. Hillis, announced that he would make provision for the destitute.

LOSE BIG COPPER SUIT

Hub Brokers Sought to Recover on Promissory Note For $265,416

Washington, March 3.—Paine, Webber & Co. of Boston lost their suit in the supreme court of the United States against the Copper Belle Mining company of Arizona for $265,416.

The case was on appeal from the supreme court of Arizona, which held there had been no legal consideration for the giving of the note to the Boston concern.

Box Factory Girls In Panic

Lynn, Mass., March 3.—Sixty employes of the Lynn Box company, mostly girls, fled in panic from the factory as flames were discovered in the building. The plant was destroyed. One of the girl employes was overcome and rescued by the workmen. The fire, which caused $50,000 loss, was probably cause by spontaneous combustion.

TWO OLD BARGES LOST IN STORM

Nine Men Swept Away With Tow In Sound

ALL ARE THOUGHT DROWNED

Hawsers Part While Tug Which Figured In Disaster Short Time Ago Is Towing Coal-Laden Craft Bound For Providence—Search Reveals No Signs of Missing Men

Providence, March 3.—Fears that nine lives were lost on the coal-laden barges Frank Pendleton and Josephus, which were torn loose from the tug Edgar F. Luckenbach off Fire island lightship in a severe gale, are expressed here. The tow was bound to this city from Norfolk.

Captain Partridge of the Luckenbach reported to the Luckenbach Transportation company, owners of the craft, that the barges were quickly swept out of sight after the hawsers parted.

With the tug Edward Luckenbach of the same line the Edgar F. Luckenbach searched the stormy waters of Long Island sound all day without hearing any news of the missing boats. Both barges were old and seafaring men here are of the opinion that they foundered quickly with all hands.

On the Frank Pendleton were Captain Alexander Engblom of New York, Albert Clark of Maine and Arthur Humphries and George Mosier of New London, Conn. The Josephus carried Captain Charles McInney of Philadelphia and a crew of four, whose names are not known here.

The Edgar F. Luckenbach figured in a disaster off Barnegat on Dec. 26 last, when she lost the barges Undaunted and A. G. Ropes, with eight men.

NEW YORK IN DISTRESS

New Jersey and Other States Also Suffer From the Storm

New York, March 3.—Points as far west as Cleveland and as far south as Baltimore were either battered by wind, stung with sleet and rain or buried in snow in a terrific storm, centrd over the states of New York and New Jersey.

In New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, between eight and eleven inches of snow, layers of it packed hard and frozen, covers the ground. Not in twenty-five years has Greater New York and environs experienced such a storm. At times the velocity of the wind reached eighty-four miles an hour. Eight deaths were reported.

Traffic everywhere in the storm area was demoralized, in some cases interrupted entirely. Hundreds of telegraph poles in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania were carried down.

All trains to and from the west and south were subject to indefinite delay. On the Pennsylvania railroad between this city and Philadelphia, more than 200 telegraph and telephone poles were down and many signal bridges had been prostrated.

Laborers, hard at work to keep the switches open, were frustrated by the drifting snow and the falling temperature, which crusted the rails with ice. It was the worst storm since the famous blizzard of 1888.

TO TEST FREE SUGAR ACT

Louisiana Wants to File Suit Against the United States

Washington, March 3.—Former Senator Bailey of Texas announced that leave will be asked from the supreme court to file, in the name of the state of Louisiana, an original suit against the United States to restrain the government from admitting Cuban sugar duty free under the provisions of the new tariff law.

The suit will be to test the validity of the new tariff act, which removes a 20 percent duty on Cuban sugar, imposed in the Cuban reciprocity treaty.

SEIZURE OF BAY RUM

Customs Men Get a Bottle Apiece or Board Fruit Steamer

Boston, March 3.—The "bay rum" squad of the customs service got busy again and once more paid an unexpected visit to a United Fruit company's steamship, the Tivives, which was tied up at Long wharf. But Uncle Sam barely paid expenses, for all that the six men got was a bottle apiece.

The half dozen bottles were confiscated and, with the forty bottles taken from the Carrillo last week will be sold at public auction.

NOT BOTHERED BY STORM

Wireless Flashes Messages From Washington to London

Washington, March 3.—A wireless message to London via the great naval towers at Arlington and the Eiffel tower of Paris informed the British foreign office that dispatches from the embassy here would be delayed for a day or two on account of damage done telegraph systems in America by the storm.

Ambassador Spring-Rice was tendered the use of the naval wireless by Secretary Daniels.

AUTOMOBILE NUMBERS

Saturday, March 7

And Again

Saturday, March 14

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Will Contain an Extra Section

Devoted to the Automobile Industry

In connection with the Boston Show

ALL LOCAL AGENTS AND GARAGES

Are Invited to take Large Spaces

Take Advantage of the Opportunity

$1.00 WHILE THEY LAST

BARGAINS

HISTORIES OF QUINCY

Slightly damaged by water. Just the thing for students of history for reference, or to clip from.

Bargain price of

$1.00

while they last.

A few perfect copies for $3.50

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING COMPANY
LEDGER—PATRIOT OFFICE

WOLLASTON PARK

WHY NOT HAVE THE

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LEFT AT YOUR HOME
EVERY AFTERNOON
BY A RELIABLE BOY

GEORGE COBB
116 KEMPER STREET
Telephone Quincy 1965 M

Will Deliver Anywhere in the Park

→ TRY HIM ←

A Strange Meeting

It Proved an Eventful One

By ARNOLD TREAT

Though we are apt not to realize it, we are very much hedged about. Those of us who are pleasantly situated are like one in a garden from which there is no egress unless he chooses to step into a jungle to be devoured by wild beasts. Women are more subject to this confinement than men, because they have not the same physical strength.

I will illustrate by a story—a story in which I bore a subordinate part.

I was in my younger days a pedestrian globe trotter. I presume that if the bicycle had then been invented I should have traveled on a wheel or later on a motor, but at that time no one had heard of either of these modes of conveyance, and, being fond of walking, I walked. At the time of my story I was making a pedestrian tour in Germany. The country is thickly settled, and there are many towns quite near together; consequently I found my method of progression easy, pleasant and healthful.

I started one morning from Dresden on the road to Leipzig and was trudging along merrily when I met on the road a girl about twenty years old whose appearance struck me the moment I looked at her. She was of the German type—hair very light, eyes very blue. Her apparel was that of a lady, only very much worn and soiled. Her shoes scarcely protected her from the ground, certainly not from the dampness. On her face was a look weary and sad. Indeed, she was a picture of affluence turned to poverty. I addressed her, taking care to do so respectfully, with my hat in my hand, and sympathetically. Evidently she had not been used, at least not recently, to being thus addressed, for she took my speaking to her kindly.

"Good morning, fraulein," I said to her. "It seems to me that you should be riding rather than walking."

"Alas, herr, I have not the means to pay for riding."

"Have you far to go?"

"I am going to Dresden."

She seemed to need sustenance. There could be no impropriety in my offering her food, and I had, besides the leather bag strapped to my back, a basket satchel slung to my waist containing a luncheon.

"I have come from Dresden this morning," I said, "and the distance is at least five miles. You cannot do that without being fortified."

I unslung my lunch basket, opened it and saw by the eager look in her eyes that she was very hungry. Looking about for a seat, I espied a flat stone by the roadside and led the way thither, the girl following me half reluctantly. There I took out the sandwiches, sausages, cheese and such other articles as are provided at a German inn and offered them to her. She ate as though she had had no food for some time. In the basket also was a pint bottle of wine, of which I took a sip only and insisted on her drinking the rest.

During her refreshment I gave her every opportunity to tell me the story which I felt sure was connected with her being so far out of her natural sphere, for not only her dress and appearance but her language bespoke the lady. This I was able to judge, for I had studied at Heidelberg and spoke German quite readily. But she disregarded my hints and could not be induced to speak of the past.

As to the present she was more communicative. She told me that she had been a member of a little strolling band that gave performances, her part being to sing. But they had taken all the contributions of those before whom they performed to themselves and gave her nothing. She had only just left them and was going to Dresden to look out for some other way of making a living.

"I can suggest an employment," I said, "by which I think you can earn money. You have a very beautiful head, neck and shoulders. There are artists in Dresden who would pay you to pose for them."

"Do you think so?" she asked, quite interested.

"If my artistic perceptive faculties are of any value they surely will."

This seemed to encourage her. When we had finished our luncheon and she had been also fortified by the wine she said to me:

"The only way I can make a return for what you have given me is to sing for you."

"No return is needed, but I should be happy to hear you sing."

She sang for me a German ballad. Her voice was without cultivation and came out, so to speak, by fits and starts, now ineffective, now gushing forth like a spring of abundant, clear water. At such times I was astonished at its volume. When she had finished I said to her:

"Fraulein, it is not as a model you should spend your time, but as a student of music. You have a voice that if cultivated will make much more money for you than posing for artists."

"Why do you say that?" she asked, looking at me eagerly.

"Because there are both richness and volume in your voice."

"But," she continued after a thoughtful silence, "to study music under the masters requires money, and that I have not."

I should have been only too glad to help her in this respect, but there is an unwritten law that a man cannot give to a woman except under certain exceptional circumstances.

"I will make another suggestion to you," I said, "supplementary to my first. Suppose you pose for artists, and if you make more than you require for your living you may give the surplus in exchange for instruction."

Her face lit up with hope. "Ach, herr, you have given me a valuable plan! And if it is successful I shall owe everything to you. You have told me that there is a value to artists in my head and neck, and you have told me that I have a voice. Neither of these things I knew before today. Goodby, and God bless you!"

"One moment," I said, "before we part. I should like you to carry back this basket affair in which I carried my luncheon to the landlady of the inn from which I came. She furnishes these receptacles to travelers as an advertisement to her hostelry."

I showed the girl the name of the inn sewed in worsted letters on the bag. While she was not looking at me I slipped a piece of gold into it, then handed it to her. I knew my landlady well and was sure that if she found the money inside she would compel the bearer to take it, having no right to it herself. It could not very well be returned to me. Regretting that I dared not do more for the poor girl, I bade her goodby, she appearing grateful for my sympathy.

Five years had passed. I had settled down a married man and had given up traveling abroad on foot. But I had not given up a taste for the fine arts to which I was born. One after another prima donnas were visiting New York. I went one night to the opera in New York when the Academy of Music was still the only opera house in that city. When the prima donna came upon the stage her face seemed familiar to me, and when she sang I recognized in her voice certain qualities that I had heard in that of the girl I had met between Leipzig and Dresden five years before. Perhaps I might not have recognized the face alone or the voice alone, but the two together convinced me that the lady on the stage was the girl I had met abroad.

I kept my seat till the end of the last act, when, taking out my card, I scribbled beneath my name in pencil, "On the road to Dresden; luncheon, with a pint of German wine," and sent it to the prima donna behind the scenes. It was not long before I received an invitation to meet the lady, whom I found waiting for me before driving to her hotel. The pressure of the hand with which she greeted me told me how well she remembered and how appreciative she was of the trifling favor I had done her.

"This is no place to talk," she said. "We people of the stage always sup after our work, and you must come with me for a return of the luncheon you gave me when I was famished."

I entered the carriage with her and on arriving at her hotel found set out in her private parlor an elaborate supper. We sat down to table together, and I asked her to tell me what had happened to her since we parted on the road five years before.

"I will begin back of that," she said. "I will tell you how I came into the condition you found me. But I tell it to you only because I consider that my being in my present position is due to your friendly advice."

Before proceeding further she showed me on a chain about her neck the gold coin I had slipped into the lunch basket which I had sent to my landlady.

"I am the daughter of a German baron. I was brought up, as most European girls are, to understand that my parents would choose the man I should marry. My father chose for me a man about his own age who was very wealthy and as disagreeable as he was wealthy. I was not in love with any one else, but I rebelled against marrying a man I loathed. My father told me to submit or leave the home in which I had been carefully brought up, not thinking that I would do the latter. That same night when all were in bed I left in the clothes in which you met me and with what money I could scrape together.

"Whether my father tried to find me or not I do not know. I think he has considered me dead to him. At any rate, I have never heard from him since I left home. As for my mother, though she might yearn for me, she would be too submissive to my father to oppose his will in anything.

"After leaving you I went to Dresden, where I posed for artists, as you suggested, and, getting a little money together, began the study of music. I did not need to make a living that way long, for my voice proved so promising that I was taken up by one who was glad to pay for the finishing of my education, I making a contract to sing under his management as soon as I had completed my studies."

I spent a pleasant hour listening to her recital, during which time she told me that she was wedded to her profession and would never take a husband, a resolution she kept. On the following day my wife called on her, invited her to our house, and she afterward spent the most of her leisure time there. She always wore the gold piece I had surreptitiously forced her to accept when she was without a kreutzer in the world.

Soon after my prima donna became famous, after one of her returns from America to the fatherland, she visited her parents. She found them quite reduced from their former grandeur. By this time their daughter was becoming rich, and she continued so long as they lived to pour gold into their laps.

BENTON PROBE STILL HELD UP

Permission to Examine Body Must Come From Carranza

WILSON'S POLICY UNCHANGED

United States Can Wait as Long as It Pleases to Accomplish Its Purpose In Mexico—International Law Furnishes No Precedent For Protecting Foreigners

Washington, March 3.—That General Villa has acknowledged the authority of General Carranza as his chief and will not permit the American commission to examine the body of William S. Benton until the Washington government has consulted Carranza, was the explanation made by President Wilson of the latest phase of the Mexican situation.

The president told callers that the desire of the commissioners to get further instructions from Washington, as well as orders from Villa himself, had necessitated a postponement, but Wilson takes it for granted that the commissioners will start in a few days.

The commissioners are Charles A. C. Perceval, British consul at Galveston; James Hambledon, a British subject being resident in Mexico; R. B. Thomas, a lawyer of El Paso; Dr. B. M. Worsham of El Paso, and Majors Davidson and Manley of the United States army.

Asked whether, in view of the new development, a change of policy was intended by the United States immediately, the president pointed out that a country of the size and power of the United States could afford to wait just as long as it pleased; that nobody doubted its power and nobody doubted that Huerta was eventually to retire; that there need be no hesitation in forming the judgment that what the United States wished to accomplish in Mexico would be accomplished, but that those people who were in haste to have things done were forgetting that they would have to do them themselves; that they would have to contribute brothers and sons and sweethearts to do it, if they wanted something done right away.

If they were willing to wait, the president indicated, such a step might not be necessary. The president was referring, it was presumed, to speeches in congress demanding radical action of some kind, or armed intervention, which he seemed to deplore.

The White House view is that, strictly speaking, there is no right of international law by which the United States could insist on acting for Great Britain, although the American goverment has been asked by the powers to use its good offices for the protection of foreigners.

If, however, England should not ask the United States to pursue the matter into further complication with Carranza, the American government would not feel obliged to go beyond an investigation of the facts through its own consular representatives.

The next step, it would appear from the official viewpoint here, is some intimation from Great Britain as to how far she expects the United States to push the Benton case.

On the other hand, there is every reason to believe that Carranza will be expected in the near future to give the American government further assurances that all foreigners, regardless of whether their governments have recognized Huerta or not, will be safe in northern Mexico.

Secretary Bryan cancelled his engagement to discuss the situation with the house foreign affairs committee and probably will enlighten some of the congressmen on Mexican affairs privately. Efforts to head off any agitation in congress that the executive departments might not be embarrassed in dealing with the affair are evident.

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, and Senor Riano, the Spanish ambassador, conferred with Secretary Bryan, but the subject of the discussion was not divulged.

HUB'S NEW FIRE HEAD

Deputy Chief Grady Is Named by Mayor to Succeed Cole

Boston, March 3.—John Grady, senior deputy chief of the fire department, was appointed fire commissioner by Mayor Curley. He will succeed the present commissioner, Charles H. Cole, whose resignation will take effect March 7.

An interesting feature of the appointment is that Grady will appoint his own successor as deputy chief.

Grady has been regarded as one of the ablest fire fighters in this country. He is easily one of the most popular superiors that the fire department has ever had. He was born in Boston in 1854.

Aviator Newberry Killed

Buenos Ayres, March 3.—While making a flight George Newberry, holder of several aeroplane records, was killed. A passenger in Newberry's machine was badly hurt.

Three Children Perish In Fire

Shreveport, La., March 3.—Three children were burned to death and two seriously injured when three cottages were destroyed by fire in West Shreveport.

YOUNG HERO PERISHES

Makes Valiant but Losing Fight to Save Life of His Chum

Salem, Mass., March 3.—With no grown man present to respond to a mother's cry of distress for the life of her child, 13-year-old George Call deliberately put out into the North river here on a cake of ice in an effort to save Charles Powars, 10 years old, who was floating away on another cake, while Mrs. Powars, the mother, knelt and prayed for them on the shore.

Poling his unique life saving craft alongside the ice float on which was his trembling little companion, the Call lad tried to drag him on board and make back to shore.

The other boy struggled in his might, the two ice floes crashed together and tipped over, and the next minute the two boys sunk in the icy water.

Even then the young knight errant put up a fight for his own life and that of his comrade that would have done credit to any professional life saver. He never gave up until he sank in utter exhaustion. Both bodies were recovered.

KILLED DURING HIS TRIAL

Man Accused of Murder Is Shot Down In St. Louis Saloon

St. Louis, March 3.—Wesley Simon, on trial here for murder, was killed during a recess of the court before which he was being tried. Simon was shot in a saloon by the principal witness for the prosecution.

Simon was placed on trial yesterday for the murder of Emmett Carroll in a gang feud. James Mooney, owner of the saloon, said Simon and Henry Zang, principal witness for the prosecution, entered the place together and each drank a glass of beer.

Suddenly Zang shot Simon twice in the stomach. He then left the saloon, walked to a police station and gave himself up.

OSBORN HEADS NEW YORK DEMOCRATS

New Chairman Was Choice of Glynn and Wilson

New York, March 3.—Thirty-three members of the Democratic state committee, most of whom were Tammany men, and Charles F. Murphy himself, unanimously voted into effect Governor Glynn's reorganization plans for the committee.

William C. Osborn, the governor's choice for chairman to succeed George H. Palmer, was elected without a dissenting vote. Osborn was also the choice of President Wilson. He also was vested with the power to name a treasurer, a campaign and a finance committee for the body. They will be named in about two weeks. Heretofore the treasurer always has been elected by the committee.

SUES FOR DIVORCE

Incidentally, the Wife of Sheriff Will Petition For His Recall

San Francisco, March 3.—In addition to having brought divorce proceedings against Frederick S. Eggers, sheriff of San Francisco county, his wife announced in a signed statement that she would circulate a petition for his recall from office. They have lived together for thirty-five years.

"This is not spite work," said Mrs. Eggers. "I simply do not believe Sheriff Eggers is fit to be in a public office."

In her statement Mrs. Eggers outlines testimony which she has given before the grand jury.

THANKS TO SEAMEN

Congress Remembers Them For Saving Those Aboard Volturno

Washington, March 3.—A joint resolution was adopted by the house extending the thanks of congress to Captain Kriebohm and crew of the steamer Krooland for heroic services in rescuing eighty-nine persons on the burning steamer Volturno in the north Atlantic ocean Oct. 9-10 last.

The resolution provides that Secretary Redfield of the department of commerce shall present a gold watch to the captain and gold, silver and bronze medals to the officers, petty officers and members of the crew.

CANNOT FIX PRICES

Watch Company's Appeal Dismissed by the Supreme Court

Washington, March 3.—The supreme court of the United States dismissed the appeal of the Waltham Watch company from a decision of the second federal circuit court of appeals in favor of Charles A. Keene, a New York jeweler, whom the company sued for selling Waltham watches below the regular prices fixed by contract agreement.

The Waltham company sued to enjoin Keene from violating the fixed price agreement and for an accounting and damage.

People on Mars are burning blue lights to attract our attention, says an astronomer. May be nothing more than a celebration of some Martian football victory.

CITY OF QUINCY

LIST OF CANDIDATES.

City Clerk's Office, March 2, 1914.

I hereby certify that the following is a list of all the candidates duly nominated to be voted for in the City of Quincy at the Special Election to be held March 10, 1914.

EMERY L. CRANE,
City Clerk.

FOR COUNCILMAN—Ward 3
Vote for One.

Charles F.B arnicoat, Republican 38 Bradford Street.

Robert T. Foye, Democratic
13 Quincy Street. 3-1t

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Melora E. Harris to Edwin W. Newcomb, dated October twentieth, 1900, and recorded with Norfolk County Deeds, Book 882, Page 387, for breach of the condition thereof and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold by public auction on the premises hereinafter described at four o'clock in the afternoon on Wednesday, the twenty-fifth day of March, A. D., 1914, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage and described therein as follows, viz.: "a certain lot of land, containing seven thousand seven (7007) square feet, situated in said Quincy and being lot No. 5 on a plan of building lots in Quincy, belonging to Caroline F. Newcomb, made by J. E. Starbuck, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds and Plans. Said lot is bounded as follows, viz.—northwesterly by lot No. 4 on said plan, being land of Reuben Hersey, one hundred and six and one half (106 1-2) feet; northeasterly on a certain private way, thirty (30) feet wide, called Newcombville Place, sixty-five (65) feet; southeasterly on lot No. 6 on said plan, being land of John Bergfors, one hundred and nine and one tenth (109.1) feet; southwesterly on land of Keenan sixty-five and eight tenths (65.8) feet."

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all tax titles, unpaid taxes, municipal liens and assessments, if any such there be. $100 will be required to be paid by the purchaser in cash at the time and place of sale; balance in ten days from date of sale on delivery of the deed.

EDWIN W. NEWCOMB,
Mortgagee.

Richard D. Chase and Co., Agents, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, March 3, 1914.

Mar. 3-3t 3-10-17

Executrix Notice

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executrix of the will of Charles Crane, late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, deceased, testate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

(Address)
66 Irving street, West Medford, Mass.
EDITH M. CRANE,
Executrix.

February 23, 1914. 24-3t 24-3-10

Penniman's Garage

And Taxi Service

Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.

C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block—2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

CREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall—Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 250—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust.
(Ask for Mr. Kribel)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

Read Ledger Ads

CLASSIFIED ADS FOR THE PEOPLE

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

☞In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.

WANTED

WANTED—Position by young lady cashier, office work or assistant bookkeeper. Apply to C. M. V. 249 Whitwell street, Quincy. 3-3t

WANTED—Cooks, general housework, parlor, chamber, nurse maid, housekeeper, green girls only first class positions. L. M. Flynn, 1535 Hancock street, Oldest Employment office in city. Phone 2235-W. 2-3t

WANTED—An intelligent young girl for general house work, in family of three. Tel. 114 Quincy. 28-6t

WANTED—By April 1st, small two-family house to rent, or single ten room house. Quincy or Wollaston. Tel. 1068-W. 28-3t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York, N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and piano moving boat hauling and hoisting. Myatt, 46 Baxter street. Tel 1307-M. Quincy Res. 22-tf

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Small, willow baby carriage. 34 Park Lane, Quincy. 27-6t

FOR SALE—One 35 x 4 Goodrich Non Skid tire $21.25. One 32 x 3 1-2 Goodrich Non Skid tire $14.25, both new. 1058 Hancock street, Quincy. Feb. 21-tf

FOR SALE—Upright piano in first class condition. Sell very reasonable as owner has no use for it. 46 Gay street, Quincy. 20-12t

FOR SALE—Two 1913 Ford Touring Cars in first class condition. Guaranteed. Also 1, 1910 Chalmers at the Quincy Garage, 87 Adams street, Quincy. 24-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson R. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

AGAIN WE SAY

Don't complain because your property is increasing in value by no effort of yours. Test it. Send us a list of it. We have people waiting for such property, both business and residential.

HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. C. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones {Residence 544-3 Offices 94

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD
FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY. SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

MISCELLANEOUS

MI-AS-MA-INE—Guaranteed to cure Malaria or money refunded. If not found at your druggist, see Agent at Sawyer Drug Co., 274 Tremont st., Boston, Mass. 3-6t

$20.00 REWARD will be paid for the arrest and conviction of party or parties who broke into and set fire to our Engine House on Feb. 26th and 27th 1914. Bay View Quarry Company. 28-tf

TO LET

TO LET—Furnished rooms centrally located, breakfast if desired, men or women. Write T. L. Ledger Office. 3-6t

TO LET—Flat of 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 3-6t

TO LET—Rooms and board, 18 Washington street. 2-6t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 2-6t

TO LET—Four rooms on first floor, furnace, gas, set range. 55 Pleasant street. Elderly couple preferred. 28-3t

TO LET—In private family to refined people, two very fine corner rooms, newly furnished, with separate baths. Near centre. Write L. B. K. Ledger Office. 26-9t

TO LET—Furnished rooms, steam heat, bath, electric lights, $2.00 a week, 484 Quincy avenue, Newcomb Square. 20-12t

TO LET—At 143 Elm street, half house, six rooms and bath, modern conveniences, $22.50 per month. Apply to S. C. Hardwick, M. D., 159 Elm street, Quincy. Tel. 870. 18-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

RUSSELL PARK — Commodious house of seven rooms, large hall and bath. Modern, every convenience open fireplace, furnace, range, set tubs, electric lights, cemented cellar, etc. Best residential neighborhood. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further details or key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office. tf lpo

TO LET—40 Park lane, 6 rooms all modern improvements. Rent $23.00. Apply 22 Berkeley street. Tel. 349-M. 5-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

TO LET—173 Whitwell street, half house, modern conveniences, $20 per month. Ready for immediate occupancy. Apply Penniman's Stable, Granite street. 19-tf

UPPER APARTMENT. In two-family house on Spear Street. Five rooms, bath, large pantry and closets, also open attic with finished heated chamber. Every improvement, electric light, furnace, range etc. Ready for immediate occupancy. Telephone Quincy 278 M or enquire mornings of Miss Prescott at the Ledger Office. lpo

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 3, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

KINCAIDE THEATRE

MON. TUES., WED.
Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c

BUDD & CLAIRE
Those Two Englishmen

FAYE O'NEIL
Clever Character Change Artiste

MAURICE WOOD & CO.
Singing and Pianologue Sketch

LESSIK ANITA & CO.
European Juggling Artists

ANIMATED WEEKLY
World News in Pictures

Rex 2-Reel Feature
"THE FEMALE OF THE SPECIES"
A Thrilling Western Drama

"What Didn't Happen to Mary"
and
"Gee! But It's Great to be Stung"
Two Good Comedy Pictures

REGULAR ORCHESTRA

Feb. 28—3t

A Modern Martyr.

Alys—Albert promised me he would not smoke a cigarette for two days.

Etheired — He'll keep his promise. That boy has wonderful will power.—Boston Globe.

JOHN SMITH.

John Smith, who until three years ago lived in West Quincy, died Sunday at Westerly, R. I., where he has made his home. His death followed a short illness. Mrs. Thomas Fallon of Glendale road, left on the receipt of a telegram Saturday relative to his condition and she reached there only a few minutes before his death. Mr. Smith was a granite cutter by trade and had many friends in this city. He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Fallon, and four sons Robert and George of Chicago and William of California and Daniel of Westerly.

The Campfire Girls are to have a union campfire meeting Thursday night in Keating hall beginning at seven o'clock.

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY. SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

CARD OF THANKS.

I desire to express my deep appreciation of the kindness and sympathy rendered by friends and neighbors in my recent bereavement.

Patrick Caven

Quincy, March 3. 3-1t

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bishop of Independence avenue wish to assure their friends that they appreciate the kind sympathy extended to them during their recent bereavement. Because of the quarantine it was doubly hard for us. We wish to thank all for their kindness.

BENJAMIN BISHOP,
ANNIE M. BISHOP.

3-1t

DEATHS

HUDSON—In Quincy, March 2, Mrs. Margaret E., wife of Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, in her 55th year.
Funeral services at First Church, Quincy, at 3 P. M., Wednesday, March 4. Train leaves Boston at 2.34 P. M. 2-2t

STEVENSON—In Quincy, March 1, William Henry Stevenson in his 43rd year.
Funeral services at late home 141 Washington street, Wednesday, Mar. 4 at 1 P. M. Relatives and friends invited. 2-2t

SMITH—In Westerly, R. I., March 1, John Smith, formerly of West Quincy.

SARGENT—In South Weymouth, Mar. 2, Mrs. Sarah J., widow of N. Augustus Sargent in her 88th year.

EVANS—In East Milton, March 1, Henry B. Evans of 31 Washington street, aged 73 years.

BUSWELL—In Manchester, N. H., Mar. 1, Mr. Albert S. Buswell, formerly of Boston, aged 70 years.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

NEW SELECTMAN AT BRAINTREE

The full vote of Braintree at the town meeting of Monday is given below. The new board of Selectmen are H. M. Storm, B. H. Woodsum and G. H. Holbrook, the last named defeating R. A. Gage by 127 votes.

TOWN CLERK	1	2	3	Total
*H. A. Monk	415	379	244	1038
TREASURER
*B. F. Dyer	386	366	233	985
SELECTMEN
W. C. Connell	159	111	77	347
R. A. Gage	218	210	78	496
*G. H. Holbrook	232	219	179	630
*H. M. Storm	305	330	230	865
*B. H. Woodsum	360	287	191	838
OVERSEERS OF POOR
W. C. Connell	161	108	75	344
R. A. Gage	214	202	76	492
*G. H. Holbrook	226	219	172	617
*H. M. Storm	294	326	227	847
*B. H. Woodsum	349	275	188	812
HIGHWAY SURVEYORS
W. C. Connell	159	106	72	337
R. A. Gage	211	204	75	490
*G. H. Holbrook	230	221	171	622
*H. M. Storm	297	319	229	845
*B. H. Woodsum	349	276	188	813
ASSESSOR, 3 years
W. C. Connell	166	114	123	403
*H. W. Mansfield	276	260	108	644
WATER COMMISSIONER, 3 years
J. F. Clinton	215	123	104	442
*J. Kelley	222	256	197	675
SCHOOL COMMITTEE, 3 years
*W. W. Gallagher	338	354	194	886
*Carrie F. Loring	317	336	186	839
AUDITORS
*W. A. McKean	318	348	190	856
*O. B. Oakman	332	335	192	859
*C. F. Tarbox	305	328	213	846
TAX COLLECTOR
*F. A. Smith	352	360	253	965
LIGHTING BOARD, 3 years
*N. P. Potter	372	347	203	922
BOARD OF HEALTH
*W. B. Skinner	304	318	204	826
FENCE VIEWERS
*G. E. Fogg	257	296	188	741
*C. S. Hannaford	256	287	181	724
*J. H. Spaulding	258	298	184	740
TREE WARDEN
*C. R. Bestick	228	285	183	696
C. H. Custance	196	94	47	337
CONSTABLES
*J. F. Gallivan	269	297	166	732
*C. A. Hobart	253	322	159	734
*H. F. Hunt	282	293	163	738
*J. Illingsworth	264	360	147	771
*A. Johnson	252	282	160	694
*Isaac Jones	258	284	157	699
*John Kelley	262	293	169	724
*W. E. Maybury	253	328	164	745
*T. McLaughlin	259	312	154	725
*J. F. Mohan	263	307	158	728
*J. R. Qualey	264	276	157	697
*J. P. Shay	261	284	161	706
*T. Slavin	261	284	155	700
*E. F. Starr	245	303	183	731
*H. S. Tarbox	235	302	169	706
LICENSE
Yes	143	59	86	298
*No	247	272	148	667
COMPENSATING LABORERS
*Yes	173	162	104	439
No	48	63	32	143
EIGHT HOUR LAW
*Yes	188	154	118	460
No	50	86	36	172

* Elected.

NO LICENSE IN WEYMOUTH

There was quite a falling off in the license vote in Weymouth Monday both on the part of those who favored license and those who opposed. The no-license people however prevailed, the vote being 951 to 696, as against a vote in 1913 of 1042 no and 780 yes.

The following officers were elected: A. Francis Barnes, Henry E. Hanley, Bradford Hawes, Edward W. Hunt, George L. Newton, Selectmen and overseers of poor; John A. Raymond, town clerk; John H. Stetson, treasurer; Charles H. Clapp, Lewis W. Callahan, 3 years, assessors; Winslow M. Tirrell, tax collector; Arthur H. Alden, Mrs. Sarah S. Howe, for 3 years, School Committee; George E. Bicknell, for 3 years, Water Commissioner; Dr. Fred L. Doucett, for 3 years, Board of Health; Louis A. Cook for 3 years, Park Commissioner; Frank N. Blanchard, John P. Hunt, William H. Pratt, auditors; William A. Drake, Francis M. Drown and J. Ellis Gardner, for 3 years, trustees of Tufts Library; Charles L. Merritt, tree warden; Henry A. Nash, commissioner of Ward 2 schoolhouse sinking fund bonds for 3 years.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS?
ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

TURNER WINS AT MILTON

The voters of Milton elected their town officers Monday and held the annual town meeting. Nearly 1100 votes were cast. Contrary to expectations the meeting did not develop any stormy scenes, the recommendations of the warrant committee being generally accepted.

The article that would give the firemen one day off in five this year was killed. Among the appropriations passed, was one of $1400 for a new automobile for Maurice Pierce, chief of police.

Maurice A. Duffy and George R. Eaton were re-elected to the board of Selectmen and Jacob A. Turner was chosen to succeed the late Henry Barnes. Mr. Turner years ago was a member of the board and is very familiar with its duties. Mr. Duffy enters upon his 12th term and Mr. Eaton his second.

The committees recommendation to develop the Brook Road playground and investigate the project of a municipal gym was passed, and $500 was appropriated to cover these expenses. Another policeman was voted for this section. Petersburg avenue in East Milton was not accepted as a town way.

There were 877 votes cast for no license against 182 for license. Last year the yes vote was 189 and the antis polled 866.

The appropriations: Town officers, $8,249; schools, 76,500; Board of Health $2,083; library $8,000; highways and bridges $75,000; Poor department, $6,500; Fire department, $2,500; police $25,500 town debt $347,000; suppression of moths, $8,500.

Other officers chosen were: G. Frank Kemp, town clerk; J. Porter Holmes treasurer; Walter D. Brooks, overseer of the poor; Charles H. Horne, assessor; Josiah Babcock, tax collector; Hestor Cunningham, Reginald L. Robbins, School Committee; Thomas B. Gordon, Water Commissioner.

BATES LOSES IN COHASSET

One of the surprises at Mondays town meetings was the defeat of Philander Bates of Cohasset for member of the board of selectmen, overseer of the poor and assessor, after a continuous service of forty years.

Mr. Bates has been called the man who filled the greatest number of public officers at one anl the same time, for aside from those mentioned above, he has been at the head of the highway department, the fire department and other town offices.

Politicians have been after his scalp many times, but he has always come out on top. Monday however he met his defeat at the hands of William O. Souther, Jr., who won by 26 votes, the totals being: Souther 293, Bates 267. The vote for license was increased but no-license won out.

OTHER TOWN MEETINGS.

Holbrook elected George W. Porter, Ellia A. White and John King as Selectmen, highway surveyors and Overseers of the Poor. The vote for license was No, 250, Yes, 138.

Randolph elected Jeremiah J. Desmond, Arthur W. Alden and James H. Dunphy as selectmen. The license vote was No, 438, Yes, 329.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

One can always be sure of seeing a good show at Kincaide Theatre and the program now being presented is no exception to the rule. It is overflowing with mirth and melody and two large audiences yesterday were on hand to enjoy it. You have that opportunity today and tomorrow.

Budd & Claire, two Englishmen, made many minutes of merriment with their delightful dancing and singing. Faye O'Neil proved a pleasing entertainer, singing several songs with costume changes and dancing the "Highland Fling" to perfection. Miss Maurice Wood, assisted by Sid Marion at the piano, introduce a novelty skit that stirred up a lot of interest. Lessik Anita & Co., jugglers from Europe, certainly did some very clever and difficult stunts. The Animated Weekly is full of interesting scenes the world over.

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY AND EVERYONE IN QUINCY

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

HOW TO KEEP YOUR FACE CLEAN.

Night is the time to wash your face.
Give it a good scrubbing.
The warm water should be soapy.
Then rinse with fairly cold water.
Next comes a gentle massage with cold cream.
Then in the morning a dash of cold water suffices.
A little pure borax may be added to this cold water.
Treated this way the complexion will be as fine as possible.

THE INFORMAL TEA.

How to Dispense Gracefully the Cup That Cheers.

The gentle art of impromptu hospitality is gradually dying out. No hostess of the present day seems to be prepared for unexpected guests. Even impromptu teas have been discarded for formal afternoon receptions, and only in a few old fashioned houses is the quaint old custom of serving 5 o'clock ten every day preserved. It is a most attractive custom, and it is a decided disparagement of the modern housekeepers that it should be allowed to die out. In England it is religiously observed, and visitors may always be sure of tea and crumpets if they call at 5 o'clock.

In most families of moderate means the woman of the house is seldom prepared to serve tea at a moment's notice. She seems to consider that she is very lucky if she and her home are sufficiently tidy to receive the guests at all.

Serving tea can always be quite simple and easy if the tea things are kept in good condition, ready to use. If the tea napkins and tray scarf are always placed near at hand and are laundered after each use, there will be no difficulty in fixing the tray in two minutes. Of course, if the hostess must stop and look for clean tea linen and polished tea silver, besides setting the tray and preparing the food, naturally 5 o'clock tea will assume bigger proportions than the average meal.

It is always a good idea to keep two or three tea tray sets of linen in use at the same time, so that a clean one may replace the soiled one instantly, but where only one can be afforded it may easily be washed out in a few moments. In such a case as this it is best to remove the tea linen immediately when the guests are gone and wash and iron it at once. In this way the set is clean for the next tea, whether it be tomorrow or next week.

Perhaps the housewives will urge as an excuse that it is impossible to prepare the food for tea at the last moment. But this is really very simple if the proper food is kept on hand. There are all kinds of delicious sweetened biscuits, crackers and cakes which come in moisture proof packages, and these may be kept indefinitely.

If sandwiches are desired there are pressed meats in tins, sardines, cheese, almost everything to be bought all cooked.

A most delicious sandwich and one which takes only a minute to prepare is made with crackers, pimento and cream cheese. The pimento and cheese may be bought already mixed in little glass jars. The crackers should be the plain, unsweetened, unsalted variety. This mixture may be spread on the crackers (with or without butter, to suit personal tastes) in a couple of minutes, and they are quite delicious.

KITCHEN ECONOMICS.

How to Make Palatable and Nourishing Soups From Leftovers.

The question of economy in the kitchen is easiest solved by the good cook. The woman who knows little or nothing about cooking finds it very difficult to make ends meet at times, while the woman who is either a natural born cook or has been trained to cook beautifully can always serve a dinner, even if there is nothing but scraps in the house.

To the housewife whose only knowledge of cooking is how to broil and roast meat and boil and bake potatoes and a few other vegetables—to this woman scraps seem fit for nothing but the rubbish heap. The idea that these scraps may be used would probably never occur to her, while the suggestion that not only might they be used, but that they might be made quite delicious, would seem preposterous.

One way to save the leftovers is to make them into a good soup. When there is a good butcher's bone for a solid foundation a great many of the scraps can be put into the soup pot for flavoring. The bones left over from roasts of lambs, veal or chicken can be made into fine soups with the aid of the celery leaves and any odds and ends of vegetables which happen to be on hand. A carrot, a turnip, a few onions, peas, all may be thrown into the soup pot. They all add strength and flavor.

How to Reduce the Gas Bills.

Speaking of gas bills—a word to the wise. If you are going to cook on a gas range you probably have a private meter. Through that meter there comes a flow of gas just twice the amount you need. A valve in the main pipe just below the meter controls this. Point it out to the man of the family and let him see what he can do to lower expenses by reducing the pressure which is responsible for the rapid registering of your meter.

BRIEFS

Theodore Parlee has moved his family from John street to their new house on Montclair avenue.

The regular meeting of the Board of Trade will be held Wednesday evening in the rooms of the Granite Manufacturers Association.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Ayers of Bowdoin street, Bellevue Park, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

Russell Dicey of Montclair is seriously ill in the Quincy City Hospital. Mr. Dicey was operated on Friday.

Mrs. Wesley Howard of Wollaston was shocked on Monday by the sudden death of her father, Willis C. Bates of Canton. He was a lumber dealer on Kilby street, Boston.

Mrs. Mary T. Piper of East Milton mourns the death of her father, Joseph H. Blake who died in Boston on Sunday, aged 74 years.

Rev. Samuel A. Eliot, president of the American Unitarian Association will officiate on Wednesday at the funeral of Mrs. Adelbert L. Hudson, wife of the pastor of the First Parish church.

The annual meeting of the Atlantic Memorial church will be held Wednesday evening. Encouraging reports are expected from the officers and committees. New officers will be elected.

Many Quincy people of Welsh descent attended the observance of St. Davids day in Boston Saturday evening. At the tea party Mrs. John Roberts of Goddard street and Mrs. John R. Walters of Copeland street poured.

The Parents and Teachers Association of the Washington school will meet Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The speaker will be Probation officer Fahey of the Quincy court relative to his work among children.

The newly organized Cadet class opens in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Wednesday afternoon. Younger boys, ten and eleven years of age, will be in this class and the work will be similar to that of the regular Junior class, but will be adapted to boys of fewer years and less strength.

The regular attendants at the district court were entertained by an amusing case from Braintree this morning, in which two women, employed in a shoe factory figured. The two women were Mrs. Cora Manguson of Brockton and Miss Nellie Tobin of Braintree, the Manguson woman being charged with assaulting the Tobin girl.

Miss Greenough of Denver, Colorado, gave a very sane and instructive talk on Equal Suffrage at the home of Mrs. Levi Turner, Hancock street, Norfolk Downs on Saturday evening. Miss Greenough has been a voter in Colorado for ten years and could speak on the question from experience.

Miss Baird, superintendent of the Boston District Nursing Association is to speak on Medical Work and Social Service at the Conference Wednesday morning at eleven o'clock at the Women's clubhouse. It is a joint conference of the Asociated Charities and Visiting Nursing Committee of the Quincy Women's club and the public is inivted to attend the meeting.

QUINCY DAY AT AUTO SHOW.

Not only Quincy people, but residents of neighboring towns, are interested in the Wollaston Automobile show now open at the Wollaston Centre garage. Monday was Weymouth, Braintree and Milton day. Today is Quincy day, the big day. A great variety of cars are exhibited.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Miss Verna M. Kelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton D. Kelley of Cleverly court, entertained her young friends Monday at her home, it being the eleventh anniversary of her birth. Games were played music and dancing enjoyed, and dainty refreshments were served. The guests included, Priscilla Greene, Dorothy Cain, Marion Cain, Esther Haley Alice Haley, Gladys Thayer, Joseph Riley, Mary Riley, Ethel Hayden, Gertrude Valee, Leon, Valee, Ernest Valee, Lillian Hendry, Laura Wight and Ellen Lorentsen.

Too Late For Classification

FOR SALE—1913 Ford Touring Car, in excellent condition. Apply to Edward D. Barrett, 27 Revere road, Quincy. 3-3t

TO LET—At North Weymouth, flat of 5 rooms, some improvements, near salt water and good place to keep hens. Rent reasonable to small family. Few minutes to trains to Boston. Apply at 445 Washington street, Quincy. March 3-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 3-6t

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-1o-tf

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.
Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.
Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.
18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-1m

EQUAL SUFFRAGE

(Continued from Page One.)

volved the vote was not large. She cited, however many reforms brought about by women in the suffrage states.

Let them share and solve the great problems that will produce an ideal type of citizenship and put in motion forces to accomplish righteousness and human betterment by the full power of the franchise.

After several questions were answered by the speaker, Mrs. Gurney introduced Mrs. Ida M. Ehrman of Los Angeles who has for two years enjoyed the franchise.

Mr. Kelley told of the Massachusetts Mens league with a membership of 700 from 86 cities and towns. "Thousands of thinking men," he said, "believe women should hold the franchise. The state needs the mother viewpoint, and we should give the women the vote whether they want it or not. It means the making of a broader and finer future for the human race."

During the intermission that followed a collection was taken and signature cards passed bearing the phrase, "I believe in votes for women."

The closing feature of the evening was the one act suffrage sketch "How the vote was won."

The parts were taken as follows:

Horace Cole, a clerk, Herbert J. Gurney.
Ethel, his wife, Mrs. Charles Sweet.
Winifred, her sister, Mrs. George Fleming.
Agatha Cole, Horace's sister, Miss Theodora Luard
Molly, his neice, Miss Marjorie Fay.
Madam Christine, distant relation Miss Elizabeth Hubbard.
Maudie Spark, his first cousin, Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney.
Miss Lizzie Wilkins, his aunt Mrs. George L. Badger.
Lily, his maid of all work, Mrs. Wilson Marsh.
Gerald Williams, his neighbor, Charles H. Hardwick.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

W. G. NASH
TAXI SERVICE
Prompt Attention to Weddings, etc.
Cars for all occasions
Day and Night Service
Headquarters, Central Garage
Telephone 1035 W. Feb. 26-6t

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES
20 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar.
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

SPECIAL CITY ELECTION
CITY OF QUINCY

City Clerk's Office, Feb. 25, 1914.

In accordance with the provisions of Section 278 of Chapter 835, Acts of 1913, notice is hereby given that meetings of the citizens of Ward Three of the City of Quincy qualified to vote will be held on TUESDAY, March 10, 1914, in the following places, namely:

Ward 3, Precinct 1, Doble's Hall, Franklin Street.

Ward 3, Precinct 2, Police Building, School Street.

The polls will be opened at 6 o'clock in the morning and will be closed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and all such citizens may, in the several precincts in which they are entitled to vote, between said hours, give in their votes for One Councilman from Ward Three.

Attest:
EMERY L. CRANE,
City Clerk.
3-1t

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administrator of the estate of Ellen M. Oldham late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, intestate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

RALPH W. OLDHAM, Adm.
(Address) 305 Safford Street, Wollaston.
March 2, 1914.
3-3t 3-10-17.

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS.

For the purpose of preparing the annual Register of Voters and of receiving evidence of qualifications from persons claiming a right to vote at the coming Special City Election, the Board of Registrars of Voters will be in session at Council Chamber, City Hall on FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1914, from 12 M. to 10 P. M. which will be the final session before the special election. Applicants must appear in person and bring tax bill. If a naturalized citizen, he must produce his papers of naturalization.

MICHAEL B. GEARY,
HENRY W. FRENCH,
DENNIS J. FORD,
EMERY L. CRANE.
Registrars.
3-1t

MY SLOGAN
for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50.
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
Feb. 27-1m

MISS MARION FARWELL
MAGAZINES
Motor, Garden, Poultry, Household, Children's, General Literature, all kinds.
20 Briggs St., Wollaston, Mass. Tel. Quincy 947-2
At Wollaston Automobile Show, Wollaston Centre Garage, Feb. 28—March 5
Feb. 19-12t

Have Your Picture Taken in Our Studio
394 WATER STREET, QUINCY
Workmanship guaranteed. Special attention given to outside work. Photos taken evenings by electric light.
ortrait Enlarging. PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order
E. C. GREIFELD, Artist
Feb. 12-1m

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS?
ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 53 QUINCY MASS WEDNESDAY EVENING MARCH 4 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

QUINCY MAY LOSE SEVERAL TRAINS

New Haven Railroad Has Decided on Immediate Curtailment of Service

Will Not Be Confined to Any Particular Division

Radical changes in the time table of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. are promised when the new schedule goes into effect Sunday, March 15. According to general reports there is to be a general curtailment of trains. In fact it is reported that Quincy will lose several of its present trains both outward and inward.

A general statement given out, says that a number of important changes will be made in the service between South Braintree and Boston, between the hours of 6 and 8 A. M. involving some discontinuances of service, and some changes at other hours during the day. A number of changes of a few minutes will be made in the schedules of other trains or by alter- West Quincy.

The "revision of passenger schedule" it is explained, "is in pursuance of a policy of needed but conservative retrenchment for the purpose of reducing operating expenses, and is in line with similar action recently taken by other important railroads. The discontinuance however is covered in a measure by a rearrangement of the schedule of other trains or by altering routes and introducing new stops and connections. These changes therefore will effect a delay in the running time of a number of trains.

In all it is reported that a score or more trains on the various divisions of the New Haven will be discontinued in whole or in part.

The Providence division is especially effected, several trains from Boston to Mansfield, and Boston to Taunton, being taken off. Trains are also taken off between Canton Junction and Mansfield and Taunton, and from North Easton to Boston.

Two trains are also to be discontinued between Cohasset and Greenbush on the South Shore division. The 8 A. M. Cape train from Boston is advanced to 7.37 A. M. and a number of changes will be made in the Newport trains.

A stock market report says: New Haven touched 65 3-8 Tuesday, which was the lowest point on record. The weakness of this issue is extremely discouraging to all investors, except to those having long pocketbooks, who are not obliged to sell their holdings. It seems certain that the road eventually will recover its dividend earning power, and yet at the present moment there is nothing in sight to justify even the present price of the stock. Steel common pays a 5 per cent dividend and is selling below New Haven, or almost at its price. Why, then, should New Haven, which plays nothing, expect to remain around 65?

The New Haven Road is the same fine phyiscal property thae it has always been and under the leadership of Mr. Elliott its morale has been lifted to a higher plane, but until it is unscrambled and business has revived no material improvement can be expected, and this is true even if the Pennsylvania Railroad should get control of the line, as many believe it will.

W. H. HASLETT
31 Bridge Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 1092 W

Plastering and Cementing
Concrete Houses
Outside Stucco Work
Cement Walks, Steps and Cellar Floors.

PETROSILO sanitary and fireproof flooring—guaranteed to wear longer than hard wood floor—no joints one continuous piece put over any floor.
Feb. 25- W-S. tf

PUBLIC OR PRIVATE.

Frederick L. Lane of the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Co. has notified President Marcus Copeland of the Onset Board of Trade that his company will not run a boat line from Boston to Onset because the residents of that town require that the pier be made a public landing. Absolute control of the landing, states President Lane, is necessary to a successful season.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

AT THE FOY STORES

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY SPECIALS

Money-saving inducements to introduce our good stores and good service to new friends. Of course all our old customers can share the savings too. COME.

Regular 20c the can—and well worth it
SIFTED SWEET WRINKLED PEAS
SHERMAN CO. BRAND 15c the can $1.60 the doz

AUNT JEMIMA'S PANCAKE FLOUR 8c pkg.

KIRKMAN'S WHITE FLOATING SOAP 12 boxes 40c

Crisp and Fresh from the Bakery—Regular 15c
CINNAMON BARS 10c lb

More than 100 kinds of cakes and crackers here to choose from—all fresh—and all invitingly priced.

R. E. FOY & CO.
March 4-2t

NEW ORGANIST CHRIST CHURCH

Frank Wrigley Tells Public Why He Resigned

Editor Daily Ledger:

My attention has just been drawn to the fact, that an announcement appears in the current issue of the "Diapason" to the effect that "Mr. Holmes has been appointed organist and choirmaster of Christ church, Quincy, succeeding E. Ehelbert Nevin."

Were it not for the veneration which we Quincy folk have for the memory of the late Mr. Nevin, such a "bull" would unquestionably provoke laughter. It is quite true of course that the illustrious composer did once fill the organ seat at Christ church, but it was in the "long ago," so far back in fact as 1890. I succeeded him in that year and held the position until I retired from it in 1897, and returned to England. George Shaul succeeded me and the office was held successively after him by Mr. Wheeler, the late Mr. Snyder and Wendell Luce. The last named gentleman retiring in 1909, I was offered and accepted the position once more.

As already announced in your columns I have just resigned again. I feel that my "motif" in so doing is very much misunderstood—I might almost say misrepresented—and take this opportunity to say I would have Quincy folk appreciate that I did not arrive at such a decision before giving the matter my very earnest consideration.

Christ church has been far more to me than a "position entailing remuneration." Did I not design and superintend the building of the present organ and was it not I who inaugurated the vested choir of men and boys in the early nineties?

Altogether the associations of Christ church are peculiarly dear to me, and as I look back retrospectively to the days when the church and all its allied institutions were flourishing under such ministers as the Rev. H. Evan Cotton, and the Rev. W. R. Breed—ministers who co-operated with the organist in the belief that musical services were vital to the life of the church—I am filled with regret that circumstances should now be so changed.

It is through the lack of this spirit of co-operation in the present rector that I have been compelled to tender my resignation to the vestry, a fact clearly stated to that body in my letter to them, but one which I consider should also be made clear to the general public. The newly appointed organist and choirmaster, Mr. Holmes, contrary to circulated rumour, has my heartiest good wishes, and my sincere hope in the interests of the parish is, that he will succeed in ingratiating himself in the good graces of the present rector, failing which he will experience the same difficulties and quickly follow in the same line as,

Your faithfully,
Frank Wrigley.

Quincy March 3, 1914.

WILLIAM H. STEVENSON.

The funeral of William H. Stevenson, a local grocer who died suddenly on Sunday, was held today from his home at 141 Washington street. Services were conducted by Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, rector of the Christ church. The body was sent to Woburn for burial where the deceased lived before coming to Quincy three years ago. Among those present was a delegation from Rural lodge of Masons.

Call Quincy 501--W

If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN. upholsterer, 1060 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School
Mar. 4 tf

LOST

CO-OPERATIVE BANK BOOK.

Co-operative Bank Book No. 3055 has been lost and application has been made for payment of the account in accordance with Section 40, Chapter 590 of the acts of 1908.
Payment has been stopped.
The Quincy Co-operative Bank,
by FRANK A. REED, Treas.
18-3t 18-25-4

WAS A NATIVE OF PRUSSIA

Joseph Suoroski, proprietor of a Boston tailoring establishment, and a former Chelsea resident, died Tuesday night at the home of his daughter Mrs. George S. Orcutt, 53 Marlboro street, Wollaston Park. He was in his 69th year.

Mr. Suoroski came to Quincy about a year ago, after having lived in Chelsea for 40 years. He was prominent in affairs of that place and a large property owner. He was a member of the firm of Lyons & Suoroski, of 26 Merchants Row, Boston for 45 years. He was born in Prussia and came to this country in his early youth. He is survived by five daughters, Miss Emma Suoroski and Mrs. George S. Orcutt, of Wollaston; Mrs. Donald McVichie of Luddington, Mich. Mrs. George Pebbles of Woodville, N. H., and Mrs. Charles Conbie of Manchester, N. H.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon and there will be services in the chapel at Woodlawn cemetery.

PRETTY WEDDING AT BRAINTREE

The magnificent mansion "Norcrest" Braintree with its tall, stately pillars, was the scene of a happy wedding, Tuesday evening when Miss F. Josephine Norris, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leonard F. Norris, became the wife of Dr. Joseph B. Twadelle of Boston. The wedding ceremony commenced promptly at 7.30, the Rev. Daniel Roy Freeman, of All Souls' church was officiating clergyman. The bride looked exceedingly charming in a gown of white satin with cluny lace tunic, carrying a large shower bouquet of sweet peas. She was given in marriage by her brother, F. Edgar Norris. The flower girls were Rebecca R. Bird of Wollaston and Frances B. Brazer of Newton Centre. A pretty reception followed from 8 to 10. The ushers, six in number, and intimate friends of bride and groom were: Elsworth A. Abercrombie, Jr., Herbert A. Mann, Harold Brackett and Lowell A. Norris, nephew of the bride, all of Braintree; Aaron Hobart, Jr., of Quincy and Homer A. Hunt of Harvard '16.

An orchestra furnished music during the evening and the couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. F. Edgar Norris. Refreshments were served. The large rooms were trimmed with hemlock branches and there were many calla lilies in bloom. All the rooms were lighted with numerous candles, a very pretty effect.

Mrs. Twadelle has lived in Braintree many years at "Norcrest," her brother's home, and has a great many friends, a large number being present to wish her well. Dr. and Mrs. Twadelle will reside in Boston.

STRUCK BY ELECTRIC.

But little hope is held out for the recovery of Miss Alice A. Smith, aged 67 who is at the Massachusetts General Hospital, where she was taken after an electric car struck her in Brookline on Tuesday. The forward trucks passed over her leg, severing it above the ankle. The toes on the right foot were crushed and the left side of her face was bruised.

Miss Smith is employed as a companion by Mrs. George H. French of 12 Strathmore road, Brookline. She is a native of Randolph and taught school there for years, going from there to Somerville where she resigned teaching about eight years ago. Her sister, Mrs. Antonnette T. May is spending the winter in Braintree.

HULL FIREMEN.

James Walsh was elected captain of the Automobile Fire Engine Co. of Hull Tuesday night. The election followed a banquet at the Central station, Waveland. The officers chosen are: James Walsh, captain; Frank Thomas, first lieutenant; William Hakhard, second lieutenant; Manuel Antoine, clerk; Victor Reynolds, treasurer.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS?
ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

QUESTIONS FOR CITY SOLICITOR

G. B. Bates Writes on Grade Crossing Decree

Editor Daily Ledger:

At a recent meeting of our City Council, the City Solicitor, in answer to a question put by one of the members of the Council, stated, in words to the effect, that His Honor, the Mayor, did not exceed his authority in accepting, on behalf of the City of Quincy, the decree plan of elevation as brought in by the Special Commission. Mr. Solicitor, I take exceptions to your answer and refer you to chapter 463, section 41, of the Acts of 1906 which in part says:

"If the board of aldermen of a city or the Selectmen of a town in which a public way and a railroad cross each other, and the directors of the railroad corporation are of the opinion that it is necessary for the security and convenience of the public that alterations should be made in such crossing, in the approaches thereto, in the location of the railroad or public way, or in the grades thereof, or in a bridge at such crossing, or that such crossing should be discontinued with or without building a new way in substitution therefore, and they agree as to the alterations which should be made, an instrument in writing, signed, in behalf of a city, by the mayor, authorized by the Board of Aldermen (which is in our city government our City Council and not the mayor and his solicitor) or in behalf of a town by the chairman of the board of selectmen, authorized by the board of selectmen, and by the president of the railroad corporation authorized by its board of directors." The remainder of this section treats with other matters which are irrelevant to the question at issue.

Mr. Solicitor, you also stated that the court had already decided that Saville street was a public way, and this being the case, I fail to see wherein this statute does not clearly apply to the Decree plan which our Mayor recently approved on behalf of our city without the authorization of our Council.

Mr. Solicitor, you also said, in answer to a question by Councilman Griffin, that to your knowledge there were no rights left to the City of Quincy in this matter. Well, Mr. Solicitor, if you were well versed in legislation along the lines of grade crossings you would not have made such a rash statement. I refer you to the case where the City of Northampton objected to a decree for the abolition of grade crossings in that city, filed with the court by the Special Commission. The City of Northampton petitioned the Legislature for an act, for the abolishing of the said crossings by a plan favorable to the city of Northampton and they in this way obtained what they wanted. The situation in the City of Quincy at the present time is identically the same as it was in Northampton, and I ask you, Mr. Solicitor, if you are going to do your duty and save your city from this abominable disgrace—a public calamity.

Therefore, Mr. Solicitor, in justice to his honor, the Mayor, and the people of Quincy, I believe an explanation on your part is due. Hoping that you will see your way clear to explain this matter as to where and how His Honor received his authority, I am, sincerely yours,

G. B. Bates.
Member of Grade Crossing Committee for the City of Quincy.

AVON ELECTION.

John T. Dolan, Frank P. McNiff and Fred T. Whitten were elected selectmen and overseers of the poor of Avon. The majority against license was almost doubled the votes being: Yes 88, no 171. Last year—Yes 63, no 108.

PRIVATE AND CLASS LESSONS.

Cornet, 'Cello, Mandolin, Guitar, Banjo, Violin, Piano and Harmony by thorough instructors. Violin FREE, at BOSTON SCHOOL OF MUSIC, No. 8 Washington street, Quincy.
Prof. R. G. Nichols
Director
Phone, Quincy 148J. M4-W & S. 8t

MAYOR MILLER ON GRADE CROSSINGS

Defends His Action in Approving Decree and Criticises Opponents

Gov. Walsh and Mayor Curley Expected at Auto Show

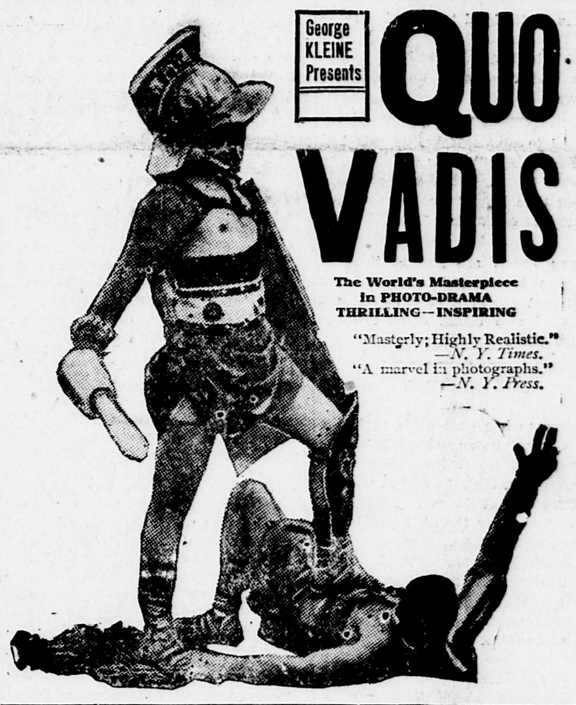
Mayor Miller was one of the speakers at the Wollaston automobile show at the Wollaston Centre garage Tuesday evening, and he took the opportunity to sail into those parties who have taken occasion to criticise his action in aproving the grade crossing plans as reported by the special commission. While he did not mention any names in his talk it was very evident whom he was slashing. He stated emphatically that as far as a Chinese wall was concerned, he did not know of any. He also stated that this subject had to deal entirely with Saville and Water streets and had nothing whatever to do with a change of the tracks at Wollaston. It was a red hot speech such as the Mayor so well knows how to make.

Others to speak at the exercises were James H. Wall of Houghs Neck, who dissolved friendship with the Mayor since the appointments were announced; and John L. Hamilton, president of the Board of Trade.

Thomas Breen, who represents Sir. Thomas Lipton, was present and rendered several vocal selections.

It was "Quincy day" and there was a very large attendance both afternoon and evening. In the afternoon members of the Quincy Women's club, Wollaston Women's club, Riverside Women's club, the Squantum Women's club, and Lady Associates of Houghs Neck, enjoyed tea and also the autos exhibited. Some returned in the

(Continued on Page Four.)



LAST TIME TONIGHT
AT QUINCY MUSIC HALL

SATURDAY MATINEE AND NIGHT VAUDEVILLE AND MOVING PICTURES.

NOW OPEN
Wollaston Auto Show

AFTERNOON AND EVENING
SULLIVAN SISTERS' ORCHESTRA
ASSISTED BY
MR. WILLIAM McDEVITT, Soloist
FEB. 28, MARCH 2, 3, 4 and 5
WOLLASTON CENTRE GARAGE
NEAR WOLLASTON STATION
10 A. M to 10 P. M.
March 2-4t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1880

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass. by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

The more exposed women wear their throats in winter, the heavier fur muffs they seem to want for their hands.

Bright colored wigs are now in style in Paris, but you don't have to buy a wig in order to grow hair of a color suited to your style.

When the poets wrote those moving verses about the pleasures of the imagination, they probably had just seen some one reading a seed catalog.

The reported engagement of Margaret Wilson is denied. The people who got reduced rates by buying three wedding presents for the Wilson girls all at one time will have to keep them in stock a little while longer.

It is pretty hard to tell what to do with Castillo, the Mexican bandit, but possibly he might feel at home if given a seat on one of the stock exchanges.

The late senator from Georgia had the resounding name of Augustus Octavius Bacon, but it was probably a long time before the common people stopped calling him "Gus."

Many towns are getting tired of the street loafers and "Mashers" who think that anything in a skirts is a "chippie" who comes down town to admire them.

THE $12 LIMIT.

Reference has been made that the City Council having failed last year to establish a tax limit for current city expenses, that the city is without a limit, and that the City Council can appropriate more than $12 per $1,000 for current expenses.

A reading of the law, however, would seem to indicate, that although the City Council did not fix a limit, the fact that they did not, does still confines it to $12.

The law says that after a hearing the City Council "may" fix a limit. Had the word "shall" been used it would have been possible for the Council to have raised more than the amount possible under the $12 limit. As it reads "may," the law is interpreted to mean that in the absence of the City Council fixing any rate, it remains at $12 as before.

There is another thing about the law of last year relative to the amount the City Council can appropriate for current expenses. One of these things it has been understood was that the City Council cannot increase any item above that recommended by the Mayor. Another provision however, makes it possible for the City Council to increase items. That is the City Council can request the Mayor to increase certain items and in case he fails to do so the Council can do it.

This section reads, that in case the "Mayor fails to transmit in writing to the City Council a recommendation for an appropriation of money for any purpose deemed by the Council to be necessary, and after having been so requested by the vote of Council, said Council after the expiration of seven days, may upon its own initiative make such an appropriation by a vote of two-thirds of its members."

Thus it has been argued, that if the City Council requests the Mayor in writing to increase the amount he originally named for any department to a larger sum, the Council may do so by a two-thirds vote.

Whether or not the Council will take advantage of this clause in the new law is problematical.

ABLE TO DRIVE OUT DEMOCRATS

Threats by Women at House Suffrage Hearing

THROW DOWN THE GAUNTLET

Say Constitutional Amendment Giving Them Right to Vote Must Be Adopted—Suffragists Divided on the Question—Cheers, Jeers, Hisses and Applause Enliven the Occasion

Washington, March 4.—All phases of the woman suffrage question were presented to the house judiciary committee, accompanied by cheers, jeers, hisses and applause.

Deserting sentimental phases of the suffrage argument, Mrs. Crystal E. Benedict and Mrs. Mary Beard, New York lawyers, threw down the gauntlet to the Democratic party in no uncertain terms, warning the committee that the political wrath of the 4,000,000 women in suffrage states would be visited upon the party unless favorable consideration was given the constitutional amendment for woman suffrage.

Anti-suffragists told the committee that woman suffrage would be harmful "not only to women but to the country." In the meanwhile, debate on the suffrage amendment was continuing in the senate.

The suffragists who appeared before the committee were divided. Mrs. Funk, Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. Kent, representing the National Woman Suffrage association, urged that if the committee would not report the proposed amendment, it should report an amendment to allow the suffrage question to be decided by referendum in the various states, instead of by the legislatures.

Mrs. Benedict, Mrs. Beard, Mrs. Evans of Boston and Dr. Cora S. King, for the Congressional union, declared the time had come to make the suffrage question one of political expediency.

Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Benedict warned the Democrats not to "dodge the issue," and declared that action on the suffrage question must be taken at this session of congress.

"Gentlemen," said Mrs. Beard, "you cannot answer us by shaking in our faces that tatterdemalion of a state's rights scarecrow, and then expect us not to read the newspapers when you repudiate your platform and violate express state rights in the matter of a presidential primary. You cannot tell us that the platform will not allow this suffrage discussion because it is silent, but will permit the repeal of the canal tolls exemption, which it expressly forbids.

"It is underestimating our resources to suppose that we cannot put these facts into the hands of 15,000,000 voters, including over 3,000,000 free women. The political party which enters into possession of the federal government March 4, 1917, will believe that woman suffrage is a matter of national concern and transcendent national importance."

The representatives of the National Woman Suffrage association disclaimed participation in the political warning of the Congressional union, and for some time the committee room was in confusion, with half a dozen women trying to explain things.

Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, president of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, conducted the opposition to the amendment.

Mrs. Henry White of Boston declared woman has succeeded in getting all of her legal rights without the ballot, and that the ballot was unnecessary.

"The wise state recognizes that woman must be preserved for the work she only can do for the state," said Miss Alice H. Chittinden of New York. "When a woman attempts to fight with the weapons of men she is playing a losing game."

Miss Margery Dorman of the Wage Earners' Anti-Suffrage league of New York said workng women did not need the ballot.

SMILES WHEN CONVICTED

New York Gunman Found Guilty of Killing Three Men

New York, March 4.—Oreste Shillitoni, a gunman known as the "Paperbox Kid," was convicted of murder in the first degree. Shillitoni shot and killed John Rizzo and Policemen Charles Teare and William Henry in a street battle.

Shillitoni was convicted on the testimony of Nellie de Carlo, 18 years old, the only witness to the triple tragedy the police could force to tell the truth. He accepted the verdict with a smile. Sentence will be imposed later.

WAITS ON UNITED STATES

Canada Feels Certain New Fisheries Treaty Will Be Ratified

Ottawa, March 4.—Canada is waiting on the United States to adopt legislation making the fisheries treaty between the two countries effective. Meantime the Canadian government will take no steps to abrogate the treaty, as had been threatened because of the long delay in its adoption.

These announcements were made in the house of commons by Mr. Hazen, minister of marine and fisheries.

HUSBAND BOWS IN GRIEF

Hears Former Chum Bare Domestic Secrets In Divorce Court

Cambridge, Mass., March 4.—Attorneys of long experience in the courts said that never before in the history of Massechusetts divorce courts has there been such a dramatic situation as was enacted in the court here yesterday.

Shifting from foot to foot, his head hung as if in shame, Chester C. Rumrill, Harvard graduate and broker, admitted on the witness stand that he loved the wife of his best friend and college chum and that their relations had long ago passed the bounds of mere friendship.

Edward L. Rantoul, face buried in hands, shoulders shaking with emotion, listened to his former friend. On the same stand he had declared that he still loved his wife and was willing to live with her again, in the hope that their differences could be settled.

In an anteroom of the court Mrs. Rantoul, herself refined and highly educated, wept as the voice of the man she admitted loving with a "heaven-sent love," came through the open door.

HAS MILES OF TANGO

Feature of Texas Independence Day Celebration at Galveston

Galveston, March 4.—Texas' independence day was marked by the formal opening of Broadway, Galveston's new street, by the board of city commissioners, which closed the celebration of that event with the world's largest tango party.

Broadway, which is 300 feet wide and 2½ miles long, was used for the dancing floor, the music being supplied by fifteen military bands borrowed from the regimental detachments of the army mobilized here.

The street was divided by a 100-foot esplanade planted with palms and other tropical plants. The new pavement just completed is for light traffic only, perfectly smooth and the most costly obtainable.

FIFTY DEATHS AND $10,000,000 LOSS

Result of Blizzard Which Swept the Eastern States

New York, March 4.—A bright sun and rising temperature gave aid to New York in its efforts to break the ice shackles placed upon the metropolis by the worst blizzard since 1888.

Reports trickling in over still tottering wires show that the death list as a result of the storm in the states along the coast will reach fifty.

The blizzard damage in the east is expected to reach $10,000,000. The cost of snow removal in New York city alone will be $2,000,000.

Six ships are ashore on the Atlantic coast, and many small craft were sunk in the ice. As the wind abated tugs put out to search for a string of missing barges.

PLEW IS HANGED

Penalty For Killing Wakefield That He Might Marry His Wife

Hartford, March 4.—James Plew, who murdered William Wakefield at Middlebury last summer that he might marry Mrs. Wakefield, was hanged in the state prison at Wethersfield this morning.

Except for the prison chaplain he had no visitors during the day. He evidenced no nervousness and seemed oblivious of the fact that he was soon to die. He expressed no regrets for himself, saying that he committed the murder and was ready to pay the penalty.

He displayed some interest when he heard that Mrs. Wakefield's case was argued before the supreme court and he hoped she would be granted a new trial.

Embrace After Sword Duel

Rome, March 4.—Deputies Balsano and Drago fought a duel with swords here. Both were wounded in the face, after which they declared their honor had been satisfied and embraced each other.

Louis Hill Heads Great Northern

St. Louis, March 4.—Louis W. Hill, son of J. J. Hill, was elected president of the Great Northern railroad at a meeting of the board of directors here. He succeeds Carl R. Gray.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Daniel J. Glynn, 61 years old, of Boston, fell down a flight of stairs at his home and died as a result of his injuries.

A royal decree dissolving the Swedish parliament was read in both chambers.

Francis Cogswell, superintendent of the Cambridge, Mass., school department, died following a brief illness caused by the infirmities of advanced age. He was 87 years old.

Four persons were injured and one trainman killed when a passenger train crashed into a freight train at Chicago.

The French cabinet council decided on April 26 as the date for the general parliamentary election in France.

While brooding over the death of his wife, Thomas F. Turner, 65, committed suicide at Abington, Mass., by hanging.

RETURN FROM BALKAN WARS

Two Quincy Greeks Tell of Experience as Soldiers

James Georgadis and George Ballajanopolis, two Greek patriots, who left Quincy to join the army of their homeland when the call for volunteers was sounded, have returned to Quincy, bearing honorable discharges, after thirteen months service. Both saw fighting in the Balkan and Bulgarian wars.

The former was with an infantry company that did scout and skirmish duty, and the latter was with the cavalry. Although they participated in numerous battles during their enlistment neither received injury.

They did however suffer the hardships occasioned by hunger and in telling of conditions describe the atrocities committed by the Bulgarians which hold that nation up to the eyes of the world as one whose vengeance admitted of no charity, only the cruelty of barbarians.

The men were at Pagaon when the Bulgarians suddenly attacked and sacked that city in the opening battle of that war. Most of the Greek army had been withdrawn, and it was an easy matter to overcome the small garrison which remained. Safety lay only in flight, but by a strange trick of fate they were left inside the lines and for 10 days they subsisted on grasses and roots obtained in nearby swamps.

Entering the city on the second night by stealth they beheld scenes which they say will never be blotted from their memory. In the streets lay massacred inhabitants, old and young having met with the same fate. The bodies of disemboweled women, with the horribly mutilated bodies of slain infants thrown across their breasts lay in the streets and wreck and ruin was everywhere.

Houses of worship were destroyed and they say that the heads of priests were set on poles at the entrances to the city. These, and hundreds of other atrocities were committed by the Bulgars they say in the name of war. Other cities and towns and inhabitants were similarly treated and they declare that civilized Europe stands ready to condone the acts.

All we ask is justice they say. Contributions may pour into the relief fund for the stricken Bulgarians. Our treatment of prisoners, women and children in flight and others, was humane. We ask for no offerings to help Greece in this the hour of her extremity. All we ask is justice and the fair opinion of the people who believe that the Bulgarians are a persecuted race whereas they were the persecutors and the women and children their prey.

ON HOSPITAL STAFF.

As a result of the annual hospital examinations held in New York City last week Carl H. Fornell of Cranch street received an appointment as house-officer in Bellevue hospital on the College of Physicians and Surgeons division of Columbia University. This is a large hospital having accommodations for 1300 patients. New buildings are in process of construction and when completed it will be a great medical center. Fornell has accepted the position and begins his duties Jan. 1. He is now president of the fourth year class at the Harvard Medical School, graduating next June. Fornell intends to practice in New York city.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—baked by experts in a light, well-ventilated building. All grocers.

INDIGESTION OVERCOME

Overcome by Simple Remedy.

Hurried and careless habits of eating, irregular meals and foods that do not harmonize, tend to weaken the digestive organs and result in different forms of stomach trouble.

Ir you are one of the unfortunates who have drifted into this condition, eat simple foods only, slowly, regularly and take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic.

Mrs. H. J. Smith, Thomasville, Ga., says: "I suffered from a stomach trouble, was tired, worn out and nervous. A friend advised me to take Vinol. My stomach trouble soon disapeared and now I eat heartily and have a perfect digestion and I wish every tired, weak woman could have Vinol, for I never spent any money in my life that did me so much good."

The recovery of Mrs. Smith was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cods' livers—aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron, which are contained in Vinol. We will return the purchase money every time Vinol fails to benefit. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

MILL TAX FOR SCHOOLS

Mayor Miller at State House in Favor

(Special from State House.)

Mayor Miller and Ex-Mayor Stone of Quincy were among the prominent citizens to appear before the committee on education at the State House on Tuesday in the interest of a bill to provide a public or common school fund. The bill provides that one mill of every $1 of assessable property in the commonwealth would be established as a fund for the maintenance of common schools. The fund would be divided equally among the cities and towns of the state.

The executive and former executive of Quincy said that the legislation is designed to take care of the poorer communities of the commonwealth. It would establish a uniform system of teaching and instruction that would be beneficial to every section of the commonwealth. Every child would thus be given an equal opportunity, and the fund would abolish the unfairness of education that arises from the failure of certain cities, and towns to faithfully provide conveniences and opportunities for Young America.

The bill was opposed principally by Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan of Boston. Mr. Sullivan said that the city of Boston now pays one third of the State tax and that if this bill were enacted would be burdened with an increased expenditure of $700,000 a year.

DRAMATIC SCENES.

The moment of most genuine dramatic power and suspense in George Kleine's truly wonderful photo-drama "Quo Vadis" which is playing for the last time tonight at Music hall occurs in third act or the seventh reel, when the Christians are about to be sacrificed for their alleged crime of the burning of Rome.

The scene shows the arena of the famous Coliseum on all sides are the great tiers of seats filled with the patricians and citizens of Rome out for a holiday, eager to witness the chariot races, the gladiator combats, the torture of the Christians and other features devised by the cruel heart of Nero for their pleasure and sport. In the foreground is a trap door with a huge chain which leads outside of the frame of the picture. Far off the little group of Christians kneel upon the sands, praying and stricken with terror.

The scene shifts to a close view of the kneeling Christians. The women clasp their children to their breasts and raise their eyes in supplication to Heaven. The lions approach them, coming faster and faster. The treacherous Chilo revolts at the outcome of his own villiany and faints at the sight, and the thousands of citizens and nobles look on with bated breath.

ODD FELLOWS ANNIVERSARY.

An effort is being made to secure the attendance of all the charter members of Mt. Wollaston lodge at the 30th anniversary of the lodge next Tuesday evening. Also those who were initiated into the lodge in March, 1884. A large class of new candidates will be initiated. Grand lodge officers are expected.

SCIENTIFIC FORESTRY

To Woodland, orchard and shade tree owners of Quincy:

The Massachusetts Forestry Association is bringing scientific forestry to the people of the State. Our field secretary, Mr. W. L. Hamel is in your city for the purpose of arousing interest in this important subject. He is a trained forester and will be glad to give you any advice or information concerning your shade-trees orchards or woodlands free of charge. All you need to do is to write a postcard to him addressed care of Mrs. J. D. Mackay, 75 Greenleaf street, and he will call to see you.

The advice he gives will be gratis but if you think it will be of advantage to you to have your trees pruned or cemented or your woodlot thinned, we recommend that Mr. Hamel do the work because of his training and experience. You can arrange with him as to the cost of doing the work and will not be under obligations to hire him, because of the advice he gives you which is free. The object of the Association is to protect the trees and this has proved the most efficient way of doing it.

Massachusetts Forestry Association,
21—S&W-tf

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

DO BUSINESS HERE AT HOME.

If you are a resident of Quincy, we suggest that you patronize the merchants of your home city. Why go to Boston for goods that can be bought handily and economically here? We stand for the interests of Quincy, and like the Quincy merchants we give our customers good value. For instance a safety deposit box in our vault for $5 a year that would cost you $10 in Boston.

THINK THIS OVER!
THINK OF YOUR HOME TOWN FIRST!

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences. Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.
Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.
Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.
18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-1m

AUTOMOBILE NUMBERS

Saturday, March 7
And Again
Saturday, March 14

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Will Contain an Extra Section

Devoted to the Automobile Industry

In connection with the Boston Show

ALL LOCAL AGENTS AND GARAGES
Are Invited to take Large Spaces
Take Advantage of the Opportunity

CARPETS
Oriental
Domestic RUGS
LINOLEUM
MATTINGS
AT LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES
John H. Pray & Sons Co.
646 Washington Street, Opp. Boylston Street

All Goods will be Delivered Free at Residences in Quincy
REPRESENTED IN QUINCY BY
Messrs. OTHO A. HAYWARD and WALTER J. WELLINGTON.

WHAT WOMEN'S CLUBS ARE DOING

News of Women's Clubs is a feature of the Daily Ledger every Wednesday. Secretaries of organizations should send notices of club activities, to reach the Club Editor not later than Tuesday night to insure insertion the ne t day.

By courtesy of the Watertown Woman's Club there is to be a "Presidents' conference" in the First Parish church Watertown, Thursday at 10.30 A. M. The topic for discussion will be "Club Problems—What is the special problem in your club?" and "The Relation of the Club to the Community—How is your club meeting the needs of your community?" There will be a box luncheon. Tea and coffee will be served by the hostess club at a nominal price. Take Newton car at Harvard square for Watertown square, where guides will be waiting.

• • •

Following the business meeting today at Hotel Somerset, Boston, of the New England Woman's Press Association friends of members were invited to be present at four o'clock when Mrs. M ry J. Lincoln spoke on "The Genesis of American Cookery."

• • •

Qu y W. C. T. U. meets Friday afternoon for its regular meeting at Fax all. At four o'clock the Faxon L l Legion meets at the same place.

• • •

The monthly meeting of the Study Club of the Civil Service Reform Department of the State Federation will be held in the lecture room of the Public Library, Boston, Saturday morning at 10.30. The subject to be considered is: What is the effect of political patronage upon railway companies, street car companies and all corporations wishing to secure franchises from State and towns?

• • •

Mrs. Phillips Rogers of Beach street, Wollaston is to be the hostess for the meeting on Monday afternoon of the Abigail Phillips Quincy Chapter D. A. R. of Wollaston. A paper on Historic Hingham will be read by Mrs. Walter E. Simmons of South Central avenue. Later in the month the Chapter is to have a dramatic e Negro in Music" will be the t of a paper by Mrs. Powhatan oll at the meeting Monday afterof Quincy Alliance in the First Parish parlor. Mrs. Edward B. Marsh and Mrs. Osborne Rogers have the program in charge.

• • •

• • •

At the monthly meeting of Bethany Women's Union next W dnesday afternoon in Bethany chapel Mrs. William G. Shaw will lead the devotions; Mrs. Edith Cary Page will sing, and the paper of the afternoon will be by Mrs. John D. Mackay subject—"What the Mothers of our Great Men did for them."

• • •

Wollaston Alliance is to have a luncheon at half past twelve in the vestry of the Unitarian church next Wednesday which will precede the regular afternoon meeting at half past two. The address of the afternoon will be by Mrs. Mary B. Davis of New York, subject "My Missionary Visit to the Great North West."

• • •

Club members and friends of Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard former president of the Quincy Women's Club, who is spending the late winter in Pasadena, California, are receiving cards and letters telling of a very enjoyable time. She has been a guest of the Browning, Shakespeare, and other clubs of Pasadena and finds club women are active along all lines.

The next meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A., Friday afternoon March 13 is to be a mothers' meeting. Mrs. J. Arthur Jewell will lead the devotional exercises and the speaker will be Mrs. Edward S. Tead.

• • •

Mrs. William E. Rowe, president of the Wollaston Woman's club is arranging for the third international congress on child welfare to be held in Washington April 22 to 27 under the auspices of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers Association. Mrs. Rowe is not only interested in this work in her own city but her interest extends to the state and nation.

• • •

Owing to her accident Miss Edith Randall has postponed the travel talk to have been given this week Friday under the auspices of the Quincy Women's Club. Notice of date will be announced later.

• • •

Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of Bethany church lectured Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Danver's Woman's Association in the Danvers town hall on "The New Leadership." He had a large and interested audience.

• • •

The president of the Massachusetts State Federation desires the names of all club members planning to attend the biennial in Chicago in June.

• • •

The Dorchester Woman's Club has sent out invitations to club presidents for an entertainment, reception and tea at the Dorchester Woman's clubhouse on Tuesday March 10 at half past two.

• • •

Junior Friday Club had a pleasant meeting Monday afternoon with Mrs. William H. Whitney of Brook street Wollaston. The program arranged by Mrs. Walter E. Burke was on Turkey, the present political condition and life of its people. The vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Ernest D. Gourd was filled by the election to membership of Mrs. James H. Slade.

• • •

"When that I was a little tiny boy" will be sung by Mrs. N. G. Nickerson at the meeting next week Thursday of the Atlantic Shakespeare Society. Act three of King Lear will be read with Miss Elizabeth Cook as chairman of the afternoon.

• • •

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

March promises to be a busy month for the Quincy Women's Club with the regular and special meetings of the various committees.

The executive board meets tomorrow morning at ten o'clock at the clubhouse.

Miss Randall's travel talk which was to have taken place Friday afternoon has been postponed because of her accident and notice of it will be sent out later to those who have subscribed for the series.

The Literature committee through its chairman, Mrs. Zenas S. Arnold, has invited club members to be their guests at an afternoon with "George Eliot" at the clubhouse, Monday, March 9 at three o'clock. It should prove an interesting afternoon and call out a large attendance.

The play "Our Boys"" given so successfully by the Program committee, Feb 10, which was to have been repeated at an evening performance to raise funds for the endowment fund of the National Federation, has had to be given up for the present because of Miss Randall's accident. She not only had a star part in the play but was chairman of the committee on the play.

Next Tuesday's meeting will be the annual and held at the clubhouse at half past two as usual. Following the business will be a lecture by Mrs. Glendower Evans of Boston on "The New Freedom" who comes to the club under the auspices of the Legislative committee, Mrs. Albert E. Avery chairman. Mrs. Evans is a worker for the uplift of humanity-women especially and has a message that all club women should hear. It is hoped there will be a large attendance Tuesday.

Thursday, March 12, will be given the fifth and last in the parlor talks on home decoration, under the auspices of the Art and Arts and Crafts committee. The meeting will be with Mrs. Herbert H. Albee of 377 Highland avenue at 2.30 and Ralph R. Kent will speak on Landscape Gardening.

Wednesday morning, March 18 at the clubhouse an opera talk is to be given by William L. Hubbard of the Boston Opera House. He has selected "Die Meistersinger" as the opera for his talk. Members of the Music committee, Mrs. Frank J. Moore, chairman, and the Custodian committee, Mrs. Charles R. Safford, chairman are receiving subscriptions for the talk at 25 cents each.

Although the meeting to study and enjoy art as announced by rMs. Tenney of the Art committee is some weeks ahead yet, the date being April 17, there is much interest being manifested and a large meeting is assured. Mr. Whitney is to lecture and the proceeds will be used to purchase a picture or pictures for the clubhouse as a memorial to Mrs. Charles L. Seavey, former chairman of the committee and active worker in the club.

• • •

WOLLASTON WOMAN'S CLUB.

There was a large attendance Tuesday afternoon at the Park and Downs church at the meeting of the Wollaston Woman's Club to listen to the dramatic reading of "Disraeli" by Otto C. Selzer.

Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, president called the assemblage together for a brief business meeting, reports being given by the secretary and treasurer. The corresponding secretary read communications relating to committee conferences and legislative matters, among the latter being several of importance.

It was decided to hold the dramatics at Quincy Music hall Wednesday afternoon May 6 and it was voted to suspend club rules for that date and allow members unlimited guest privilege. The president asked all those who had not received the paper last week to notify Mrs. Edward O. Woodward who would see that they had copies.

The next meeting, March 17 at the Park and Downs church would be reciprocity or presidents' day, the first to be held by the club and would also be in the nature of the club's first birthday. A fine program had been prepared and among the visiting presidents to speak would be Mrs. George W. Perkins president of the State Federation, Mrs. Mulligan former state president, Mrs. John Amee and Mrs Royal Whiton. A tea would be served.

A group of songs by Mrs. W. H. Spooner, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Waite, gave much pleasure and received hearty applause.

The afternoon's program was in the hands of the Literature and Library Extension committee and Mrs. Joseph K. Barber, chairman, introduced Mr Selzer who gave a dramatic reading of Parker's "Disraeli," as played by George Arliss. Mr. Selzer gave three scenes of the play with fine dramatic interpretation receiving appreciative applause after each scene. Those who had seen George Arliss in the part during the long run of the play in Boston found Mr. Selzer's interpretation particularly enjoyable. All pronounced it one of the best afternoons of the club season.

After the meeting many of the club members went over to the auto show and enjoyed the hospitality of Manager Winsloe at an afternoon tea.

The Civics committee, Mrs. Edward J. Badger, chairman is to give a historical pageant of trees of Wollaston illustrated with fancy dancing, at Wollaston School hall March 26 and 27.

• • •

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

The Civil Service Reform department of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs has sent to the clubs the following:

"This is the most critical year in the history of legislation giving preference to Spanish war veterans. Unless the club women of Massachusetts do their utmost to defeat all bills giving such preference, it is a foregone conclusion that Massachusetts will have established a system of class legislation. Last year these bills would have passed but for the veto of Governor Foss.

President Emeritus of Harvard College, Charles W. Eliot, vigorously opposes all such legislation. He says:

"That a young man enlisted for the short war with Spain in 1898 is no evidence whatever that he may be a competent civil servant in Massachusetts 16 years later.

"To give men enlisted for the Spanish war an addition of five percent to their marks comes near to giving them a monopoly of appointments and is unjust to other applicants.

"All places in the civil service of Massachusetts should be filled for merit alone, and that merit should have close relation to the work the candidates are expected to do." Club women are urged to write to the senator and representatives of their district urging them to oppose all such measures.

• •

ADAMS CHAPTER, D. R.

A regular meeting of Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution was held at the John Adams birthplace Monday afternoon. The principal business of the meeting was the election of delegates and alternates to the general association convention to be held in Minneapolis, Minn., in June. The following delegates and alternates were elected: Mrs. Nelson V. Titus, Mrs. Walter E. Piper, and Mrs. E. Granville Pratt, alternates, Mrs. Charles H. Sprague, Mrs. Susan G. Wilde and Miss Harriet B. Pierce. During the social hour which followed Mrs. E. Granville Pratt served tea.

• • •

AT THE CHILTON CLUB.

Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus first president of the Quincy Women's Club is to give an illustrated study of "A Noted Woman of a Noted Era" Friday morning March thirteenth at the Chilton Club, Boston and among those interested are: Mrs. Brooks Adams, Mrs. Thomas Bailey Aldrich, Mrs. Walter L. Badger, Mrs. Francis T. Bowles, Mrs. Henry Howard Brown, Mrs. William T. Councilman, Mrs. Richard H. Dana, Mrs. William S. Ely, Mrs. Harold C. Ernst, Miss Alice Farnsworth, Mrs. John Chipman Gray, Mrs. David S. Greenough, Miss Katharine Horsford, Mrs. Samuel Jason Mixter, Mrs. Robert M. Morse, Mrs. John Hamilton Rice, Mrs. Henry M. Rogers, Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears, Mrs. Eben C. Stanwood, Mrs. Oliver Crocker Stevens, Miss Adele G. Thayer, Mrs. Alden A. Thorndike, Mrs. Fiske Warren, Mrs. Bartlett Wendell and Mrs. Arthur Winslow.

LONDON—TODAY.

Devoting his first traveltalk to on exhaustive portrayal to "London-Today," E. M. Newman begins his annual series of five traveltalks at Symphony hall, Boston Friday evening and Saturday afternoon New pictures in color and motion will strikingly portray the myriad things of interest in the world's metropolis. The tumultuous streets and the busy River Thames, crowded with the commercial activities of the world's metropolis, art museums and galleries, public buildings, many literary and historic landmarks, and the delightful suburbs with their profusion of wild flowers, the exclusive West End with its magnificent homes, as well as the poorer districts in the Coster-inhabited East End, will all be visited. Mr. Newman paid particular attention to the human-interest side of the British capital, and found abundant opportunities for wonderful pictures of the people at work and play. Among the motion pictures will be the following; busy scenes in the Strand and Fleet street; In the financial center and the shopping district, life in whitechapel, riots and processions of the suffragettes, led by Miss Pankhurst; the national handicap beautiful Hyde Park, and others. As an added feature, he will depict the progress and effect of the suffrage movement, which has arrived at such gigantic proportions, that it is today England's gravest problem, and will vividly portray the activities of the militants.

BIG SUFFRAGE PARADE.

Mrs. Thomas Pelham Curtis, the well known society leader of Nahant and Boston, is to head the big Suffrage parade to be held in Boston on the afternoon of May 2. This was decided Monday by the committee which has the arrangements in charge and selected Mrs. Curtis as the chief marshal of the parade.

Mrs. Curtis will have a staff of prominent women each of whom will represent one of the Councillor Districts of the State. It is expected there will be several thousand women in line and that the parade will be by far the largest of its kind that has taken place in the New England States. Women from all over Massachusetts will march. Every city and town in the Commonwealth will be represented. It is expected also that one of the national officers of the Suffrage organization will also be in line.

Mrs. Curtis has for years been an ardent Suffragist. She is, nevertheless, very much of a home body and spends the larger part of her time looking after the needs of her home and the three children in it.

SCENE FROM QUO VADIS AT QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

CLUB EVENTS

MARCH

5—Q. W. Club—Ex. meeting—Clubhouse.
6—Q. W. C. T. U.—Faxon hall.
9—A. P. Q. Chapter, D. A. R.—Mrs. Rogers'.
9 —Quincy Alliance—First Parish Chapel.
10—Q. W. Club—Annual at Clubhouse.
11—Bethany Women's Union.
11—Wol. Alliance—Luncheon— Unitarian Vestry.
12—Q. W. Club—Art Com.—Lecture Mrs. Albee's.
12—W. W. Club—Board Meeting.
12—Atlantic Shakespeare Society.
13—Y. M. C. A. Aux.—Association Hall
13—Friday Club.
16—Junior Friday Club—Mrs. Lawton's.
16—Charitable Ten—Miss Newcomb's
16—Universalist Mission Circle—Mrs. Lombard.
17—W. W. Club—Reciprocity Day.
18—Q. W. Club—Opera Talk—Clubhouse.
18—Fragment Society—First Parish Chapel.
20—K. C. M. Club—Mrs. Crane's.
23—Quincy Alliance— First Parish Chapel
24—Q. W. Club—Clubhouse.
25—Wol. Alliance—Unitarian Vestry.
26—Hospital Aid Asso.
26—Atlantic Shakespeare Society.
26-27—Civics Com. W. W. C. Pageant, W. School Hall.
27—Friday Club.
27—Educational Conference at Waltham
30—Junior Friday Club—Mrs. Litchfield's.

KITTEN RESCUED.

Firemen from the Central fire station rescued a tiny kitten from the cross-arms of a pole on Liberty street, opposite Malnati's hall, this morning. Two days ago the kitten, climbed the pole to escape a dog and continued climbing. When the Police department learned of the kitten's predicament requested the Fire department to rescue it, and Michael Barry, and others acted immediately.

SQUANTUM BRIEFS.

Paul Lovejoy has completely recovered from his recent illness and returned to business in Maine, where he is located for the present.

Mrs. Fred Lovejoy, who was called home from New York where she was visiting by the sickness of her son Paul, returned to her sisters in Brooklyn on Sunday for an indifinite stay.

A. B. Aldrich, who has been ill at his home on Dorchester street, with typhoid fever, has been removed to the Quincy Hospital. His condition is reported very critical.

Summer people are beginning to return to Squantum early this season. Leon Cohen and family are among the first to move into their summer home.

Joseph M. Larkin, supervisor of apprentices at the Fore River shipyard addressed the boys of Weymouth High school this morning. His subject was vocational training. He referred often to the work at the Fore River shipyard and explained in detail the instruction given apprentices during their service. Mr. Larkin was tendered a vote of thanks at the close of his talk.

A bread made after a fixed formula by expert bakers, sold by Grocers under its trade-mark name "PETER PARLEY." It is wrapped for protection for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.

MY SLOGAN

Will you help me do this?

F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer

Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50.
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
Feb. 27-1m

No Roup
To be sure that every hen is safe from colds and roup use
Pratts ROUP PILLS
They are easy to give—are more effective than herald remedies and mistakes are impossible. Every patient gets a full dose—one pill. The best remedy in the world for roup, colds, etc., 25c, 50c and $1.00. Refuse substitutes insist on Pratts. Satisfaction Guaranteed or Money Back.
147 Get Pratts 160 page Poultry Book.
Grain Dealers & General Stores. 4193

DR. J. A. ZWICKER
Osteopath
79 Freeman Street
Norfolk Downs, Mass.
Tel. 1271 W. Feb. 25-w-s-tf-o-28-tf

SHAMOKIN RANGE COAL
FREE BURNING
Like The
Shamokin of 20 years ago
C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

AUTO OWNERS
It has been said, how can we sell
Goodrich, Goodyear and Firestone Tires
at the low prices.
We are going after the tire business for 1914, and we want every auto owner to be acquainted with the fact, and for 10 days we will give FREE with every tire
1 CHAMPION X SPARK PLUG or 1 GAL. OF VACUUM OIL
With the tires to be sold as cheap or cheaper than our competitors can sell.
Give us a trial and be convinced.
CENTRAL GARAGE
Tel. 1035-W COR. WASHINGTON AND POND STS
Feb. 25-tf

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT
BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Burgbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck.
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Fair with higher temperature and southwest winds probable for Thursday.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	6.14
Sun sets	5.39
Length of day	11.25
Moon sets	1.19
High water, A. M.	5.00
High water, P. M.	5.30
Days increase 2 hours, 19 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	52 degrees
Mar. 3, 1913,	37 degrees
Mar. 3, 1912,	26 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

Not a High Flier.

Old Saw—Young man, you should hitch your chariot to a star.

Young Buck—No, thanks. I never could see either money or sport in aviation.—Chicago News.

WEST QUINCY LEAGUE MATCH

Div. 22 A. O. H. beat the Franco-Americans 4 to 0 in a West Quincy league match at the St. Marys alleys Tuesday night. The Division opened up a lead of 56 pins in the first string and increased it until they reached 88 in the total. Welsh captured high score, 276, Amet secured 105, high single.

DIV. 22, A. O. H.

McDonald	85	98	86	269
Fitzgerald	100	78	94	272
Leary	86	90	76	252
Welch	93	100	83	276
Flaherty	92	79	82	253
	456	445	421	1322

FRANCO AMERICAN.

Amet	70	105	85	260
Lorando	85	86	74	245
John Brunett	76	70	74	220
Morrissette	86	81	100	267
Jos. Brunett	83	85	74	242
	400	427	407	1234

MILTON WINS.

The Supreme Court has upheld the action of the Milton assessors in imposing a supplementary tax of $2300 on the executors of the estate of Augustus Hemenway in December, 1912. When Mr. Hemenway died in 1876 he owned real estate in New York. It was sold by the executors, but not included in the probate account. The property brought over one and one-half million dollars and the proceeds were deposited in Boston Safe deposit vaults. An assessment of $900,000 was imposed and the tax paid under protest, and suit was entered. The Town of Milton, under the decision retains the $2300.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

O'NEIL TEAM INCREASES LEAD

Defeat Five of Capt. Michael By 3 to 1

The fives of Captains O'Neil and Michael, first and second place teams in the Clan MacGregor league, were matched against each other at the Coliseum alleys Tuesday night in the regular rolloffs. The O'Neils beat the Michaels 3 to 1, and increased their lead to 60 points won and 35 lost. The Michaels retain second place and are resting there comfortably.

Singles over the century were made by several of the bowlers and Peter Morton of the Michaels five took the high with 122. Mitchell was second with 120. Other good singles were by Raleigh 118, Troupe 115, Dell 113, P. Dackers, Mavers and Drummond 110 each Martin and Drummond 107.

Drummond and Dell tied for high total at 316 with Troupe pressing them with 313.

The league standing to date is:

Capt. O'Neil	60	36
Capt. Michael	57	39
Capt. Mavers	52	44
Capt. McKenzie	48	48
Capt. McLean	42	54
Capt. Thomson	32	64

The O'Neil-Michael contest resulted in the following score:

O'NEIL.

D. Dackers	89	82	76	247
Raleigh	88	95	118	301
Hughs	90	101	95	286
O'Neil	97	92	99	288
P. Dackers	86	110	98	294
	450	480	486	1416

MICHAELS.

Nicoll	82	85	97	264
Craig	84	87	81	252
A. Michael	89	85	87	261
J. Michael	95	84	81	260
Morton	122	96	82	300
	472	437	428	1337

The Mavers and McLeans tied at 458 in the first string, and the former took the point by passing them in the second. They dropped to 438 in the third, but their total was five more than McLeans, giving them a 3 to 1 victory.

MAVER.

Troupe	115	99	99	313
Michael	81	104	80	265
Maver	84	94	90	268
Martin	82	107	81	270
Dunbar	96	90	88	274
	458	494	438	1390

McLEAN.

Paterson	105	99	86	290
Marnock	76	85	79	240
Oswald	72	84	96	252
McLean	97	82	108	287
Dell	108	113	95	316
	458	463	464	1385

The Thomsons, who have been holding down last place the best part of the season rolled a 1400 score, beating the McKenzies 4 to 0.

THOMSON.

Troupe	98	96	92	286
Thomson	87	83	104	274
Hastings	98	81	87	266
Maver	93	110	95	298
Birnie	91	92	100	283
	467	462	478	1407

McKENZIE.

Gordon	81	85	79	245
Smith	81	91	77	249
McKenzie	87	83	90	260
Mitchel	90	84	120	294
Drummond	107	110	99	316
	446	453	465	1364

MAYOR MILLER

(Continued from Page One.)

evening with their husbands. The Quincy Board of Trade and other men's clubs were represented in the evening. Manager Winsloe reports the sale of three Jeffrey Sixes, and a Little Four Jeffrey.

This evening Manager Winsloe expects for a few minutes, Gov. Walsh and Mayor Curley of Boston. It is South Shore day. The very successful show will close Thursday night.

May Be Some Truth in This.

"There was a time in my romantic young life when I believed there was such a thing as a broken heart," commented Cordelia Killjoy, "but nowadays I think it is often mistaken for what is really a cracked head.'

Determining Factor.

Technique, sooner or later, determines the fate of a play.—William T. Price.

SPORT NEWS

Basket ball fans—listen—A series is proposed between the Braintree A. A., Quincy A. A. and Cunningham Gym at the close of the N. E. A. A. A. U. league season.

Coach Fred L. O'Brien of the Boston English High school base ball team has issued an order that all candidates must take up track work to develop speed in running bases. A similar order is being considered by the coaches at Quincy High.

Arthur Jordan and Michael Kiley indulged in two friendly games after the Grignon-Kiley match Monday night at the Knights of Columbus rooms in West Quincy. Both games were draws. Mr. Jordan who is champion of the world cleverly analyzed several games for the benefit of the fans. He leaves within a few weeks to play the champion of Scotland for a purse of $1000. He represents the Boston Checker Club.

The closest candle pin contest ever rolled in Manchester, N. H., occured Monday night between Paul Poehler of Quincy and Mark McQuesten, a New Hampshire crack. At the finish of the fifth string Poehler had a lead of nine pins, and the tenth started with the men tied at 953. McQuesten took the lead and held it until the last 10 boxes when Poehler through magnificent rolling clinched a lead and won by four pins. The final was Poehler 1065, McQuesten 1061. The champs high string was 126, made in the second. The loser had two strings of 115. He had but one lower than 100 and Poehler had two. The last string was 112 to 108.

Earl Bates whose 24 points beat Fall River remarked last night that he was given too much credit for his work in the game. "My scoring" he said, "was the result of the passing of a team that is deserving of great praise for the manner in which they played." With Earl Bates those who saw the game are all willing to agree that Quincy played fast basket ball.

Joseph O'Rourke, of the first Quincy A. A. team holds first position in the points scored in the N. E. A. A. A. U., league. He has 72 to his credit. O'Donnell of St. Joseph's and Mahoney of St. Mary's are tied for first place in the points scored by the second teams and also lead the entire league. They are credited with 73 each.

The basket ball season of Quincy High school closes in the local gym on March 10, when Winthrop and Quincy wrestle for second place in the interscholastic league. The game arranged for Salem has been cancelled owing to the disbanding of that team. On Friday Quincy goes to Brockton to record a second defeat against the quintette of Arthur Staff, former coach at Quincy High school, who has been at Brockton for two years. Hamlin who is suffering from friction burns on both arms is at present out of the game. All the other players are in good condition.

Four regular and a few postponed matches are all that remain on the Fore River league schedule. The regulars will be rolled at the Coliseum alleys Friday night and the dates of the others will be announced within a few days. The postponements were necessary because the team of the Argentine Inspectors was aboard the Rivadavia during her trial trips. The league has decided to hold the banquet at the American house, March 21. President Joseph M. Larkin will then award the seasons prizes. The present record holders will probably survive the balance of the matches, unless something out of the ordinary develops. The Machine Gallery holds the high team total, 1513 and the high team single, 529. L. Moran of their team has the high three string total, 338 and Bergfors of the Blacksmiths has the high single, 140. The Machine Gallery is also leading the league.

Napoleon Grignon and Michael Kiley play the fifth and sixth matches of their 20 game series in St. Mary's hall Thursday night. Grignon has one game up. The series has attracted the attention of enthusiasts in all parts of the city, and also the members of the Boston Checker Club.

Real Heroism.

To live well in the quiet routine of life; to fill a little space because God wills it; to go on cheerfully with a petty round of of little duties, little avocations; to smile for the joys of others when the heart is aching—who does this, his works will follow him. He may not be a hero to the world, but he is one of God's heroes.—Dean Farrar.

QUINCY HIGH WINS AGAIN

Takes Melrose Into Camp at Tune of 37 to 11

Quincy High beat Melrose 37 to 11 and the Juniors beat the Seniors and won the interclass championship, 19 to 18, at High school gymnasium Tuesday afternoon. The gallery of fans while small compared with the number that witnessed the Fall River game was very enthusiastic and cheered their favorites to the letter.

Quincy met with no difficulty in beating Melrose. At the close of the first period they had a lead of 20 to 4, all of the visitors' points of this half being secured on free tries. The game opened with a snap and Quincy immediately took the lead, Captain Jenkins tossing two baskets in rapid succession, to be followed by Earl Bates.

Throughout the first period the Quincy formations worked to perfection, but in the last few minutes of play the boys became rather indifferent. In the second period this was more pronounced, and the early part there was a display of listlessness on the part of Quincy, but Melrose could not attain results. The feature shots of the game were contributed by Captain Jenkins of Quincy and Little of the visitors. Earl Bates secured three baskets and shot seven fouls, missing but two.

The summary:

QUINCY	MELROSE
Bates rf	lb Dineen
Jenkins lf	rb Houghton
Brown lf
White c	c Knowlton
Martin rb	lf Little
Mullen rb
Crocker lb	rf Tirrell

Score—Quincy 37; Melrose 11. Goals from floor, Bates 3, Jenkins 7, White 4, Crocker, Little 2, Knowlton. Goals from fouls, Bates 7, Dineen 5. Referee Thompson. Scorer Mansur, Timer, Roache. Time 20 and 15m periods.

The uncertainty of basket ball was again demonstrated in the interclass game when the Seniors through Matheson's tossing of fouls and Cumming's shooting reached 18 points, one less than the Juniors' score at the close of the game. Given a few more seconds and the Seniors would have been champs, Morrison who got three for the winners, made the most spectacular shot of the day when he tossed a basket backwards at a distance of 15 feet from the goal.

JUNIORS	SENIORS
Morrison rf	lb Young
Barstow rf	lb Anderson
Davis lf	rb Atwood
	rb Sutermeister
Roache c	c Stedman
Safford rb	lf Cummings
McDonnell rb
Crosscup lb	rf Matheson

Score—Juniors 19; Seniors 18. Goals from floor Morrison 3, Davis 2, Roache, Safford, Matheson 3, Cummings 3, Stedman.

KNIGHTS of COLUMBUS WIN

A team of Knights of Columbus bowlers, all members of Quincy council, rolled against a quintette from John Adams aerie, F. O. E., at the City Square alleys Tuesday night and beat them 4 to 0. Rus Sullivan of the winners made the best score, 304, and Al Thompson, with 113, took high single. The losers had inumerable opportunities to make good but failed to buy up spares. A return match will be rolled later. The match was witnessed by a large gallery of members of both societies.

QUINCY COUNCIL.

Thompson	66	113	84	263
Mahon	92	98	89	279
R. Sullivan	103	90	111	304
Driscoll	82	83	82	247
Avery	99	91	91	287
	442	475	463	1380

JOHN ADAMS AERIE.

McArthur	83	74	90	247
Boyle	80	76	82	238
Muir	70	67	78	215
McDermott	83	81	72	236
Burke	91	87	91	269
	407	385	413	1205

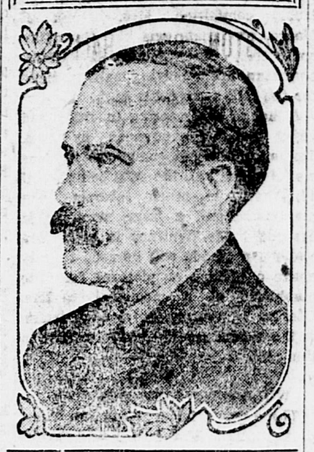
☞PRATT'S BREAD is always in favor because decilcious in flavor. Your grocer.

Only One "BROMO QUININE"

To get the genuine call for full name, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for signature of E. W. GROVE. Cures a Cold in One Day. 25c

WILLIAM R. GEORGE

Report Finds Him Culpable on Two Allegations



CHARGES SUSTAINED

Former George Junior Republic Head Severely Criticised

New York, March 4.—William R. George, founder and former head of the George Junior Republic at Freeville, N. Y., is further scored by the findings of three informal judges chosen to review charges recently made against him.

Previously the state board of charities had found George's acts detrimental to the Republic, and he retired as its head some time ago.

The present investigation concerned itself with three charges, two of which the judges found sustained. On the third a verdict of "not proven" was returned. The charges sustained were that George had made improper overtures to two girl citizens.

WARRANT AGAINST MELLEN TO STAND

Plea to Vacate It In Westport Case Denied by Court

Bridgeport, Conn., March 4.—Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, lost his first skirmish here to escape trial on manslaughter charges growing out of the wreck on his railroad at Westport, Oct. 3, 1912, when eight persons were killed.

Mellen's setback came when Justice Tuttle in the supreme court denied a motion to vacate the bench warrant on which Mellen was arrested and for the discharge of the prisoner. It is now believed Mellen's attorneys will fight the matter through to a higher court on a demurrer to Tuttle's judgment.

TRIBUTE TO GOETHALS

Canal Builder Receives Gold Medal From Geographical Society

Washington, March 4.—Washington paid tribute last night to Colonel Goethals, builder of the Panama canal. The occasion was the annual banquet of the National Geographical society, with Goethals present as the guest of honor and to receive from the hand of President Wilson a special gold medal awarded him by the society in recognition of his wonderful achievement.

Secretary Bryan of the state department was toastmaster, and gathered about the banquet table with the scientists of the society were President Wilson and his cabinet, justices of the supreme court, members of the diplomatic corps, high officers of the army and navy, leaders in both houses of congress, and other notable figures in the life of the national capital.

MRS. STEVENSON'S WILL

Bequest of $5 to "Ferocious" Woman a Queer Feature

Santa Barbara, Cal., March 4.—Mrs. Robert L. Stevenson's will, disposing of an estate valued at $120,500, was filed for probate here by Lloyd Osbourne, her son.

Under its terms, the estate goes to Mrs. Stevenson's daughter, Mrs. Isobel Strong, with instructions to pay Lloyd Osbourne $300 a month for life. Another provision of the will reads:

"To Katherine Durham Osbourne of incredible ferocity, who lived on my bounty for many years, at the same time pursuing me with malicious slander, I leave $5."

Cigarmakers Favor Strike

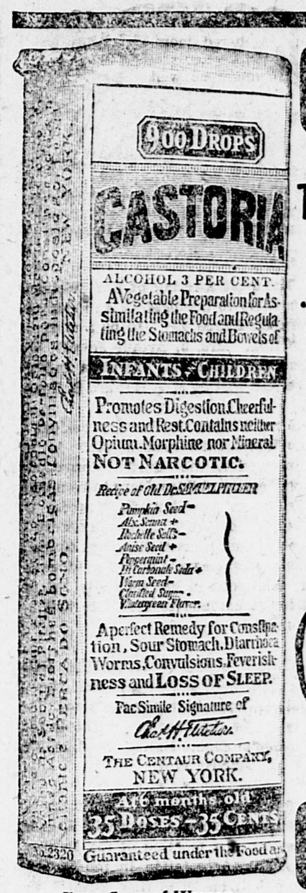
Reading, Pa., March 4.—A strike of 20,000 cigarmakers in the first and tinth revenue districts impends, following the taking of a strike vote by their union in which 64 percent favored war.

Seven Men Drown In Mine

Brussels, March 4.—Seven coal miners were drowned in a mine at Bracquegnies by the bursting into one of the galleries of a pit of a subterranean stream.

Autos Barred at Mount Desert

Mount Desert, Me., March 4.—This town, which includes Northeast Harbor, Tremonville and Seal Harbor, voted 251 to 58 to exclude automobiles.



Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over Thirty Years
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

In effect Nov. 16, 1913

The letters in the same line as the figures below stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows.

a Wollaston	f Harrison Square
b Norfolk Downs	g Savin Hill
c Atlantic	h Crescent Avenue
d Neponset	i South Boston
e Pope's Hill	r Quincy Adams
* Saturdays Only	† Except Saturday

Exp.—Express train.

TO BOSTON			FROM BOSTON
Leave	Stop	Arrive	Leave	Stop	Arrive
r 5 14 abcdefghi		5 41	5 44 ihgfedcba		6 14 r
r 6 10 abci		6 40	6 09 ihgfedcba		6 39 r
r 6 32 e		6 49	6 29 a		6 47
			6 47 Exp		7 04
r 6 40 abcf		7 00	7 14 hgfedcba		7 41 r
r 7 08 abcd		7 30	7 34 a		7 52
7 28 a		7 46	7 37 a		7 56
r 7 32 Exp		7 49	7 44 c		8 03 r
r 7 42 ab		8 00	8 34 cba		8 55 r
7 55 a		8 12	8 44 b		9 02
r 8 13 abc		8 32	9 09 fedba		9 32 r
8 24 a		8 41	9 44 a		10 01 r
r 8 33 a		8 50	10 14 ihgfedcba		10 41 r
r 8 59 ad		9 16	10 54 Exp		11 10
r 3 18 abc		9 39	11 14 hgfedcba		11 41 r
r 10 04 a		10 21	11 49 a		12 07
r 10 19 abcdefghi		10 45	12 14 hgfedcba		12 41 r
11 12 a		11 28	12 20 a		12 38
11 24 abcdefgh		11 50	12 56 Exp		1 06
12 04 a		12 20†	1 16 fedcba		1 40 r
			* 1 32 a		1 50
r 12 27 abcdefghi		12 53	1 44 a		2 01
r 1 16 a		1 34	2 14 fedcba		2 37 r
2 04 a		2 20	2 34 Exp		2 50
r 2 19 abcdefgh		2 46	3 14 hgfedcba		3 40 r
r 3 13 Exp		3 28	3 44 a		4 02
4 01 a		4 20	4 12 fedcba		4 35 r
r 4 26 abcdefgh		4 53	4 15 a		4 32
5 12 a		5 19	4 40 c		4 58
r 5 30 abcdefg		5 55	4 55 a		5 17
6 04 a		6 21	5 13 a		5 32
6 12 ab		6 32	5 19 bgfeca		5 43
6 57 a		7 15	5 23 ba		5 46 r
r 7 22 Exp		7 39	5 40		5 57
7 29 ab		7 48	5 58 a		6 17 r
r 8 09 abcdef		8 32	6 01 fedcb		6 24
9 00 a		9 18	6 16 a		6 35
r 9 10 abc		9 29	6 30 eeba		6 52 r
* 9 17 Exp.		9 32	6 59 fedcba		7 24 r
r 10 07 abcdef		10 30	7 11 a		7 28
* 10 19 a		10 37	8 04 fedcba		8 28 r
11 13 a		11 50	* 8 19 Exp		8 35
r 11 30 abcd		11 f0	9 19 a		9 37
			9 34 b		9 53 r
			10 05 ba		10 24
			10 34 fedcba		11 01 r
			*11 06 a		11 25 r
			11 09 fedcba		11 35 r
			*11 25 ba		11 43 r
			11 29 ba		11 49
			12 05 cba		12 23 r

SUNDAYS

r	7 43 abc		8 03	8 29 ba	8 48 r
	8 30 Exp		8 45	8 34 cba	8 55
r	8 46 abcdefghi		9 13	10 39 cba	10 59 r
r	9 13 abc		9 33	12 14 ihgfedcba	12 42
	9 31 a		9 47	12 44 Exp	1 01
	10 25 ac		10 42	1 29 ihgfedcba	1 57 r
	11 08 Exp		11 25	2 14 hgfedcba	2 42 r
r	11 16 abcdefghi		11 43	2 44 a	3 02
	1 04 a		1 23	3 14 hgfedcba	3 42 r
r	1 16 abcdefgh		1 43	4 26 cba	4 48 r
r	3 10 abc		3 30	5 14 ihgfedcba	5 42 r
r	4 16 abcdefghi		4 43	6 09 Exp	6 25
	4 59 ab		5 16	6 14 ihgfedcba	6 42 r
	5 06		5 23	7 02 cba	7 22 r
	6 16 abcdefghi		6 43	8 14 ihgfedcba	8 41 r
	7 21 Exp		7 36	8 39 a	8 56 r
	7 29 abcdefghi		7 55	8 49 Exp	9 05
r	8 16 abcdefghi		8 43	9 29 ihgfedcba	9 57 r
	9 46 a		10 04	10 44 cba	11 04 r
	10 46 abc		11 05

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 8, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.25 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.30, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 9.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.50 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.36 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 6.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight, Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street, 5.45 5.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 11.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Bellaire, 6.05, 6.35, 7.03 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.03 P. M. then 11.20, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.03 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.35, 6.55, 7.25, A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.25 P. M. then 11.42 P. M. and 12.12 midnight. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.15, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.20, 6.00, 6.25 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sunday 7.45 A. M. then same as week days

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 8.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M.

THOMAS GAMMON, Superintendent

A Well Constructed Plan

Conceived In Life and Carried Out After Death

By F. A. MITCHEL

Edward Travers was left an orphan when he was unable to take any care of himself whatever, but he was well taken care of. He lived with the family of a clergyman who took especial pains to bring him up properly, and, as for education, most of the time he taught the boy himself. When Ned passed to an age where it might be expected he would be curious as to his antecedents he asked the clergyman about them. The only reply he received was that his father had left detailed instructions with regard to the course to be pursued with his son, but they were to be communicated to him only as each link in the chain of the plan came up.

One day the man who had thus far had the care of the boy said to him: "You are now prepared for college and my work in your education is ended. It was arranged on your coming to us that when your college preparation should be completed I was to notify a certain person to that effect, who would provide the means to give you a university education."

"Must I go to college?"

"You must follow the course laid out for you or provide for yourself. If you refuse to do the former you will make a sacrifice. I have written the person it is my duty to notify that you will enter college in June next. You will hear from her within a few days."

"Her? Who is she?"

"I have only her name, Miss Arabella Twitchell. Your father, I have been told, was a very methodical business man, who thought out every step to be taken in what concerned him in advance. Those about him never thought of asking him questions, but followed his directions to the letter."

Ned received this information with deep thought. He did not like being ground out through a mill like a pound of coffee. He waited impatiently for a communication from Miss Twitchell. When it came it brought no more information than was absolutely essential. It informed him that he was to enter a certain college, where he was to follow a certain course of study which had been minutely laid out for him. He noticed that the subjects would give him a general though not a classical education.

One thing Miss Twitchell warned him against—the forming of any matrimonial alliance. "Your future career is provided for in every particular," she wrote, "even in the matter of a wife. But this can only be in case the young lady it has been arranged you shall marry is living when you have reached the age of twenty-one. If she is dead, you will be at liberty to marry whom you please."

Young Travers was not more affected by this part of what had been provided for him than any other. At the time he was informed of it he was seventeen years old and had no sweetheart. Consequently the effect upon him was different from what it would have been had he been older and not fancy free. There was romance in there being a girl in the world who was to be his wife. He wondered what she was like. He pictured her according to his fancy, a willowy creature with golden hair and mild blue eyes. She was amiable, kind, loving. The likeness he had drawn in his imagination was the last object he saw before going to sleep at night and the first when he awoke in the morning—that is, when he was not especially interested in something tangible.

Edward Travers during his student days was in no great danger of breaking in upon what his father had prearranged for him so far as marriage was concerned. College students are at a mating age, but they seldom marry. In the first place, they are not allowed to marry by the college laws; in the second, their time is spent with members of their own sex, and in the third few of them have the means with which to support a wife. Be this as it may, Ned Travers went through the course without forming any especial attachment with a girl, though he had hosts of friends of his own sex.

Just before graduating he wrote to Miss Twitchell to ask what was the next thing on the program that had been laid out for him. To his surprise the reply came back, "Marriage." Why he should be married before entering upon his life's work he could not understand. And what means would he have on which to support a wife? Surely some income would be provided. But would it come from the girl he was to marry or property that he would inherit?

This matrimonial part of his career now began to loom up before him in its true importance. It had ceased to be a romance and had become a reality. He had begun to dread lest he find the girl who was intended for him unattractive. She might be homely; she might be some old maid whom he was to marry because she had money and nothing but money to recommend her.

Another feature was displeasing. Suppose the girl did not wish to marry him. Nothing had been said about this, but he had often thought about it. He did not see how a girl could be forced to marry him if she did not wish it. Miss Twitchell in her letter informed him that on taking his degree he was to come to her for further instructions. He wrote her to ask what would happen if the girl he was to marry would not have him. Her reply was that provision had been made for such a contingency, but since it did not concern him she had no information to impart on the subject.

Travers wondered more than ever. This was going through life in a groove. He might as well have been a car traveling on steel rails. Truly, that father of his must have been a very singular man. And yet might not it all be for his good? Might not his father have taken this means of forcing his son to benefit by his own experience? Nevertheless it must have been a difficult problem, this tying up of the fate of the son by the father, the tieup to be effective after the father's death.

Travers had often wondered who this Miss Twitchell might be. He rather expected to find her as peculiar as his father must have been. He found her an elderly lady, with nothing especially queer about her. She received him kindly and said that his home was for the present to be with her. She lived in a country place, and Travers reached her in June. At that season there was nothing unpleasant about his remaining with her, at least temporarily.

As soon as he arrived Miss Twitchell said to him: "I have nothing to do with the plan your father has laid out for you except to introduce you to the girl you are to marry. But I am obliged before doing so to make a journey. I shall have to be away a month. You are to remain here while I am absent. I have servants here and a housekeeper. The housekeeper is essential to your being here, for I am obliged to leave my niece in the house, and it would not be proper to leave you under the same roof with a young lady without a chaperon."

"Is your niece the person I am to marry?" Travers asked.

"I am glad you spoke of that," replied Miss Twitchell, "for in doing so you have relieved me of an embarrassment. I should have disliked warning you against one closely related to me—indeed, whom I have brought up. I said that I would introduce you to the girl that it has been arranged you shall marry, after my return. I beg of you not to complicate matters by making love to Lulu. Unless you can assure me that you will not do so I shall have to send her away during my absence. The trouble is that I have no place to send her. This is her home, and it would pain me to turn her out of it, even for a short period."

"I beg of you," said Travers, "not to put her to this inconvenience on my account. I will do my best not to fall in love with her. I have become much interested in and curious about this plan that has been laid down for me and would not for the world do anything to interfere with it. I shall certainly not become involved with any woman until I have met the one provided for me. Then, if I don't like her, I shall break away from my father's intentions and do as I please. Of course I speak with the proviso that the girl accepts me."

Travers asked Miss Twitchell why she could not make the introduction before she left, but got no satisfaction. Neither would she give him any information as to the girl's appearance, age or characteristics. Her action was in perfect keeping with everything else pertaining to this singular affair. The last injunction given him by Miss Twitchell was that he was to say nothing to Miss Louise Maryweather as to why he was there. He promised anything that was required of him since it was now only a month before the mystery would be solved.

The first thing Miss Twitchell did after her return was to summon Travers and Miss Maryweather before her together.

"I charged you two before I went away to keep from falling in love with each other. I have received information since my departure that you have given every evidence of having disregarded my warning."

"I am resolved," said Travers, "not to be hampered with walking on this chalk line, drawn almost before I was born, any longer. I shall hereafter do as I like."

"And I," said Miss Maryweather, "will not be tied down by a lot of regulations with the making of which I had nothing to do."

"This means, I suppose," said Miss Twitchell, "that you have fallen in love with each other and are engaged?"

"That's about it," replied Travers.

"And you, Lulu—do you admit that?"

"I do," said the girl with a blush.

"Very well. The mystery pertaining to both of you is solved. You, Ned Travers, are the son of the late senior partner of the Travers & Maryweather manufacturing firm, and you, Lulu, are the daughter of the late junior partner in the same concern. Singularly enough, both men were widowers, each with one child. They formed an agreement that you two were to be brought up to marry each other, own the stock of the company jointly and you, Ned, eventually to manage the business.

"To complete this arrangement your marriage comes next; then Ned is to spend the time in the factory necessary to learn the business, after which he and you, Lulu, owning jointly nearly all the stock, are to elect him president, and he is to be manager."

"All's well that ends well," said Travers, embracing his fiancee. "I must confess that the affair has been managed very adroitly."

"The most adroit part of it," said Miss Maryweather, "is auntie's having us here together, telling us that we mustn't fall in love with each other. Had she told us we must, all might have been spoiled."

WILL ADD 500 TO UNEMPLOYED

Mayor Curley Feels Compelled to Reduce Payrolls

STIRS BOSTON CITY HALL

Public Works Department Likely to Be First to Suffer, but Laborers and Mechanics Will Not Be Disturbed—Only Way, He Says, to Meet Distasteful Situation

Boston, March 4.—City employes who have been expecting something heavy to fall on them since Mayor Curley took office take little comfort in the announcement made public by him that in all probability he will be obliged to reduce the payrolls by at least 500 men before many weeks pass.

The announcement was made at a hearing before the street commissioners on a petition to lay a spur track across West First street, South Boston, to the old American sugar refinery plant. The mayor was advocating this improvement and saying that, if the permit were granted, it would mean the establishment of new industries there and afford employment for hundreds of men. The street commissioners granted the permit.

The mayor said he regarded the employment problem as one of the most serious in the country today and one that gave him great concern, considering the fact that the city finances made it imperative to drop at least 500 men without much delay. The idea of adding to the city's unemployed, which had been estimated at 20,000, was particularly distasteful, but there seemed to be no other way to meet the situation.

When this statement spread about city hall it added to the demoralization that has existed in the various departments from the first week in February. There has been a feeling from the first that not only would Curley reduce the salaries that his predecessor had increased in the last few months of his administration, but make wholesale discharges as well in order to provide places for friends loyal to him in his many contests.

Where Curley intended to begin his pruning nobody could imagine, though naturally the largest department of the city, that of public works, was generally conceded to be the one that would immediately suffer in a campaign of this character.

So far as known, the mayor does not intend to disturb any laborers who are receiving $2.50 a day or mechanics. Time and again he has assured them that their positions would be safe and that, if any employes were to be dropped, the list would be compiled from the $1000 a year men and over. All department heads who have been warned to keep their payrolls down to the lowest possible basis have been told to keep the laborers and mechanics at work.

It is recalled that during the late Mayor Hibbard's first year of office 1000 men lost their positions for several months. Mayor Fitzgerald, however, made no such reduction in the city force.

MANY IMMIGRANTS INSANE

Stress of Life In America Becomes Too Great For Them

Washington, March 4.—Stress and strain of American life quickly develop latent insanity among immigrants, who become burdens to the states in which they have gone to live, according to statements before the senate committee on immigration by state medical officers, who urged radical amendment of the pending immigration bill.

The committee took under advisement amendments urging that "persons with constitutional psychopathic inferiority," described as the seed of congenital insanity, be excluded.

Dr. Woodbury of Pennsylvania said that 45 percent of the indigent insane in that state were of foreign birth.

MINISTERS IN A SCRAP

Use Fists In Argument Over Possession of Documents

Hartford, March 4.—After a debate on Socialism in Unity hall, Rev. John W. Hill and Rev. J. C. Hogan of Monroe, N. Y., engaged in a heated argument in an anteroom, during which Hogan claims Hill struck him with his fist. Friends separated the two.

During his debate Hogan produced what he purported to be copies of court records of cases in which Hill figured. The arguments started, it is said, when Hill tried to secure possession of the documents to prevent publication.

War Veteran's Sudden Death

Beverly, Mass., March 4.—Stricken in the city hall Edward F. Hobbs, 73-year-old Civil war veteran, died before medical assistance could be summoned. He was about to draw state aid. He is survived by his widow and a daughter.

Actress Fined For Queer Stunt

Washington, March 2.—Minnie Burke, a burlesque actress, who electrified Washington by tripping down the Capitol steps in scant attire, was fined $35.

DIVORCE FOR MRS. FRENCH

Elopement of Daughter Said to Have Led to the Action

Newport, R. I., March 4.—Society people and others who crowded the superior court expecting to hear sensational disclosures in the divorce case of Mrs. Pauline L. French against Amos F. French, the New York banker, were disappointed, as Mrs. French was granted the divorce one minute after the clerk had spent six minutes reading depositions.

The elopement of Julia French with "Jack" Geraghty is said to have led up to the divorce action. French never forgave his daughter, and it is said he became angry when Mrs. French became reconciled with their daughter.

Mrs. French separated from her husband in 1911 and came to Newport with her children to live with her mother, Mrs. Stuyvesant Leroy. In her deposition, Mrs. French said her husband ignored her and contributed nothing toward her support and that she was obliged to rely on the generosity of her mother.

MONK GOES TO PRISON

Thirty-One of His Followers Are Also Sentenced For Treason

Buda-Pest, March 4.—Sentence was pronounced at Marmeroe-Szigett on thirty-two of the thirty-five Ruthenians who have been on trial since Dec. 29, charged with inciting to rebellion against the Austro-Hungarian government. The principal prisoner, Father Alexius, a Russian monk, was condemned to 4½ years imprisonment.

The other thirty-one convicts were condemned to terms ranging between six months to 2½ years in prison, and all in addition were fined small sums. Twenty-three others were acquitted.

Evidence was given during the course of the trial that it was Russia's intention eventually to conquer a great part of Hungary. The movement was said to have beeen promoted and financed by Russia.

SIXTY-ONE YEARS IN ACTIVE SERVICE

Bishop Bowman Was Grand Old Man of Methodism

Orange, N. Y., March 4.—Bishop Thomas Bowman, formerly president of De Pauw university, died here at the home of his daughter. He was 97 years of age.

Bowman was the patriarch of Methodism in America. He had been affectionately known for a generation as the "Grand Old Man of the Faith."

Sixty-one years of Bowman's life were spent in active church service, the longest record known for continuous church work. He never took a vacation. Thirty-seven years were passed in preaching and teaching and twenty-four as a bishop.

He served for a year as chaplain of the United States senate (1864-65) and became acquainted with Abraham Lincoln. He early became suspicious of attempts to assassinate Lincoln and was one of the first to warn him.

MISSING BARGES SAFE

The Josephus and Frank Pendleton Anchored Inside Sandy Hook

Providence, March 4.—A report was received here that the barges Josephus and Frank Pendleton, thought to have been lost with their nine men off Fire island during Sunday's gale, are safe at anchor inside Sandy Hook.

Mrs. Frank Zuram, wife of the captan of the barge Sea King, was given this information by the Scully Transportation company's offices in New York when she called them on the telephone to learn if anything had been heard from her husband, whose barge was in tow of the John Scully.

The company had heard nothing from the Scully and her tow, but no fears were felt for their safety.

WHILE MEN HESITATE

Woman Dashes Through Flames and Rescues Little Daughter

Danbury, Conn., March 4.—With the hallway leading to her apartments on fire, Mrs. George E. Henschkel brushed aside several men who had made ineffectual efforts to enter, plunged through the blinding smoke and flames and carried her 3-year-old daughter Elizabeth safely out of a blazing bedroom through a rear door last night.

Both were burned about the head and body, but the burns are not serious. During the mother's absence, it is presumed, the child played with matches, setting the bedroom on fire. The monetary loss was not heavy.

THAW BRIEFS DELAYED

Jerome's Request For Five Additional Days Is Granted

Concord, N. H., March 4.—Final briefs for the state of New York in the matter of the extradition of Harry K. Thaw were to have been filed here yesterday according to the order of Judge Aldrich of the federal court, but it was announced that William T. Jerome, representing the New York attorney general, had been granted five additional days at his request.

The document will be filed probably next Monday, after which counsel for Thaw will have fifteen days in which to reply.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—At North Weymouth, flat of 5 rooms, some improvements, near salt water and good place to keep hens. Rent reasonable to small family. Few minutes to trains to Boston. Apply at 445 Washington street, Quincy. March 3-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 3-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms centrally located, breakfast if desired, men or women. Write T. L. Ledger Office. 3-6t

TO LET—Flat of 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 3-6t

TO LET—Rooms and board, 18 Washington street. 2-6t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 2-6t

TO LET—In private family to refined people, two very fine corner rooms, newly furnished, with separate baths. Near centre. Write L. B. K. Ledger Office. 26-9t

TO LET—Furnished rooms, steam heat, bath, electric lights, $2.00 a week, 484 Quincy avenue, Newcomb Square. 20-12t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

RUSSELL PARK — Commodious house of seven rooms, large hall and bath. Modern, every convenience open fireplace, furnace, range, set tubs, electric lights, cemented cellar, etc. Best residential neighborhood Ready for immediate occupancy. For further details or key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office. tf lpo

TO LET—40 Park lane, 6 rooms all modern improvements. Rent $23.00. Apply 22 Berkeley street. Tel. 349-M. 5-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block—2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall—Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust.
(Apply for Mr. Mythen.)
Greenleaf Block. ('Phone 2104) Quincy

Read Ledger Ads

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.

TO LET

TO LET—173 Whitwell street, hall house, modern conveniences, $20 per month. Ready for immediate occupancy. Apply Penniman's Stable Granite street. 19-tf

UPPER APARTMENT. In two-family house on Spear Street. Five rooms, bath, large pantry and closets, also open attic with finished heated chamber. Every improvement, electric light, furnace, range etc. Ready for immediate occupancy. Telephone Quincy 278 M or enquire mornings of Miss Prescott at the Ledger Office. lpo

FOR SALE

PRIVATE SALE —Thursday and Friday, household furniture. Refrigerator, Bureaus, China Closet, Rugs, Stands, Draperies, Pictures at 255 Farrington street, Wollaston. 4-2t

AIR COMPRESSORS — We are specializing on Air Compressors, all makes, types, and sizes. Ask us for prices. Geo. S. Githens, 200 Congress Street, Boston. Feb. 11-Wed. tf

FOR SALE—1913 Ford Touring Car, in excellent condition. Apply to Edward D. Barrett, 27 Revere road, Quincy. 3-3t

FOR SALE—Small, willow baby carriage. 34 Park Lane, Quincy. 27-6t

FOR SALE—Upright piano in first class condition. Sell very reasonable as owner has no use for it. 46 Gay street, Quincy. 20-12t

FOR SALE—Two 1913 Ford Touring Cars in first class condition. Guaranteed. Also 1, 1910 Chalmers at the Quincy Garage, 87 Adams street, Quincy. 24-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

LOST

LOST—Between Quincy Electric Light Station and depot, gold watch charm, marked L. U. Engineering Society. Suitable reward. R. J. Green, General Electric Co., 84 State street, Boston. 4-3t

FOUND

FOUND—A watch on Federal avenue. Owner can have by calling at 29 Garfield street, proving property and paying cost. 4-3t

WANTED

WOMEN sell guaranteed hosiery to wearer, 80 per cent profit. Quick sales, repeat orders. Make $15 daily. Experience unnecessary. INTERNATIONAL MILLS, 3038 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa. 17-14t S and W.

WANTED—Position by young lady cashier, office work or assistant bookkeeper. Apply to C. M. V. 249 Whitwell street, Quincy. 3-3t

WANTED—Cooks, general housework, parlor, chamber, nurse maid, housekeeper, green girls only first class positions. L. M. Flynn, 1535 Hancock street, Oldest Employment office in city. Phone 2235-W. 2-3t

WANTED—An intelligent young girl for general house work, in family of three. Tel. 114 Quincy. 28-6t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York. N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

MI-AS-MA-INE—Guaranteed to cure Malaria or money refunded. If not found at your druggist, see Agent at Sawyer Drug Co., 274 Tremont st., Boston, Mass. 3-6t

$20.00 REWARD will be paid for the arrest and conviction of party or parties who broke into and set fire to our Engine House on Feb. 26th and 27th 1914. Bay View Quarry Company. 28-tf

AGAIN WE SAY

Don't complain because your property is increasing in value by no effort of yours. Test it. Send us a list of it. We have people waiting for such property, both business and residential.

HENRY W. SAVACE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 / Office 885-M

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 5, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

KINCAIDE THEATRE

THURS., FRI. SAT.
Every Afternoon at 2.30. 5. 10. 15c.
Evenings at 7.45. 10. 15. 25c
Program Subject to Change
WILLIAM McKAY & CO.
Presenting their Comedy Playlet
"HONEST JOHN McGUIRE"
VALLEY FORGE FOUR
Comedy Singing and Talking
McCARVEY
The Male Prima Donna
HALL & O'BRIEN
Singing Talking and Dancing
Great 2-Reel Feature
"BY RADIUMS RAYS"
A modern Melodrama featuring Herbert Rawlinson and Edna Maison
Louie Webber in her own Drama
"WOMAN'S BURDEN"
"SCOOPED BY A HEN COOP"
A cackling Comedy
KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA
Mar. 4—3t

Credit Suspended.

Bob—Ain't it awful that Dick is going to get married?
Jack—What's awful about it?
Bob—Why, Dick was such an easy guy to borrow money from! — New York Globe.

BRIEFS

Maple lodge, K. and L. of H., hold a whist party tonight.

Robert Newall of Billings street is spending the week with his mother in Springfield.

City Clerk Crane gives his talk on humorists before the Riverside club at Quincy Point this afternoon.

Aubrey R. Keith a former councilman of the city, expects to leave this week for Texas where he has real estate interests.

An enjoyable evening is looked forward to Friday evening at the Wollaston Congregational church when a concert is to be given by the Standish Male quartet.

Lawrence F. Loring has returned from Florida and is to be sent to Munich, Germany by the United States government for four months study in the industrial schools.

The Seneca Club of South Quincy is occupying its new club rooms in the Pinel block. The organization is composed of the younger men of South Quincy.

Rev. Richard E. Armstrong will deliver an illustrated lecture before the Town River Yacht club tonight. The lecture is free to all members. On Thursday evening there will be a whist party for members only.

Probation Officer Francis J. Fahey gave a talk on the probation system before the Cochato club at Braintree this week, and he speaks tonight before the Parents and Teachers association of the Washington school.

Marinus Houghton, an 89 year old resident of Wollaston, died this morning at the home of his son, Charles Houghton, 39 Clay street. He is survived by his wife, three daughters and four sons.

Owing to the death of Mrs. A. L. Hudson the supper which the ladies of the First Parish church were to serve Monday evening preceding the annual parish meeting of the church has been given up.

But little of the snow and ice remains on the main thoroughfares or on streets where the street railway tracks are located. Considerable snow however still remains on many streets and on some of these a sleigh would not run bad.

The concert program to be rendered by Poole's Boston orchestra at the annual ball of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows, Mar. 12, is an excellent one, including selections from Ganne, Remick, Offenbach. Lampe and Davis. Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock.

It was the horse of Bruce & Warners express which ran away in City Square Tuesday noon and not that of Peter J. Williams. The animal became frightened when a heavy piece of plank fell and landed in the street near the horse.

Rev. Fr. John F. Quirk, S. J., has been appointed to the chair of moral philosophy and metaphysics at Boston College. He succeeds the late Rev. Fr. William P. Brett, who died two weeks ago. Father Quirk is a former member of the faculty of the college and in such capacity directed the studies of many Quincy graduates who are much impressed with the appointment.

FRANCHISE TAX CHARGES

New Method of Distribution to Cities and Towns

(Special from State House.)

If the recommendations of Governor Walsh for a revision of the tax law are adopted, the tax rate of some places will be materially changed. Figures obtained today from the office of the Tax Commissioner show that the tax rate of Quincy might be ten cents less.

The recommendations of the Governor are, briefly: That the corporate franchise taxes paid into the treasury of the commonwealth by railroad, telephone and telegraph companies and trust companies be retained by the commonwealth instead of being distributed to cities and towns in proportion to the residence of the shareholders.

That the franchise taxes of gas and electric light companies, except such portions thereof as correspond to the shares of the capital stock owned by non-residents of Massachusetts, be distributed to the cities and towns where the property of the gas and electric light companies is located, instead of being distributed to the cities and towns where the stockholders reside.

If the first recommendation is enacted there will be a material addition to the revenue of the commonwealth. If the second is enacted, the revenue of the commonwealth will not be affected. It provides a different method of distributing to cities and towns that part of the taxes paid by gas and electric light corporations. The same amount would be distributed as last year, but it would not be distributed to cities and towns where stockholders reside.

The purpose of the proposed legislation is to make more adequate distribution of the money derived from corporation taxes. This change will have the material effect of reducing the taxes and increasing the taxes in certain cities and towns. For the most part it will increase low taxes and decrease high tax rates.

Miss Esther Jenkins of Billings street, spent the week end with relatives in Dedham.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express our deep appreciation of the kindness and sympathy rendered by friends and neighbors in our recent bereavement.
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Young
Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stetson Pierce
Quincy, Mar. 4 1t

MARRIAGES

TWADELLE—NORRIS—In Braintree March 3, by Rev. Daniel Roy Freeman, Dr. Joseph J. Twadelle of Boston and Miss F. Josephine Norris.

DEATHS

TOWNSEND—At City Hospital, Quincy, March 2, Jaconetta , infant daughter of Arthur S. and Cora H. W. Townsend.

GILLETTE—In South Braintree, March 4, Mrs. Abbie R. Gillette, 21 Hancock street, aged 75 years, 7 months and 22 days.

SUOROSKI—In Wollaston Park, March 4, Joseph Suoroski of 53 Marlboro street, aged 69 years.

HOUGHTON—In Wollaston March 4, Marinus Houghton, of 39 Clay street in his 89th year.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

YOU should not place your orders for any
MEMORIAL WORK
Without Consulting
AVARD L. WALKER
MORTUARY ARCHITECT
3636 WASHINGTON STREET
FOREST HILLS, BOSTON, MASS.
Tel. Quincy 282-W
March 4-3mos-w-s

METHODIST CLUB OF WOLLASTON

"The islands of the Pacific"" was the title of an interesting lecture delivered by William H. Bain before the Wollaston Methodist club Tuesday evening. The lectuer was illustrated by stereopticon and contained many descriptions of interest, places out of the ordinary paths of travel. By special invitation the ladies were present.

Hawai, Samoa and New Zealand were the islands most intimately treated, the city of Honolulu coming in for much description. Types of buildings, volcanos and mountain scenery were amon g the things touched on. Samoa with its tropical scenery and native huts formed an interesting land for the traveller.

The socialistic laws of New Zealand were gone into and the lecture closed with the tale of Pylorus Jack, a large white fish who for the last 27 years has been piloting ships back and forth through a devious channel.

Besides the reading of an interesting number of the Wolaston Herald by T. E. Perley, and the reports of the secretary and treasurer other business was dispensed with. President Eric H. Ewertz presided.

SLEIGH ARTIES

A sleigh party from Mattapan called at Lee's Inn Friday night, Feb. 27, and enjoyed an excellent supper after which games and singing were enjoyed until a late hour. Those in the party were Rev. G. L. McKim, Mrs. A. L. Pine and Mrs. Hattie Robinson who acted as chaperons. The following young people, all members of Rev. McKims church, were: Edith Fisher, Lillian and Vera Graham, Helen Huntley, Hazel Dinson, Jack Ross, F. A. Robinson, Leroy Pine, Eben Fisher, J. C. Pine, Thomas Urkhart and F. I. Gentles.

A party of young people from South Boston and Dorchester headed for Lee's Inn Saturday night in pungs experienced some difficulty in reaching their destination. It had thawed considerably during the day and evening and they soon found their four horses could not pull the pung so a stop was made on the way and two extra horses were hired to finish the trip.

After the appetizing supper served by the Lee's an excellent musical programme delighted the guests. As they departed three rousing cheers were given Squantum, the Lee's and for the good supper.

Mrs. Daniel Fagan and Mrs. William Corbett of Dorchester chaperoned the following young people: The Misses Eagan, Mary Corbett, Regina Lyons, Kitty Tessier, Gertrude LYon, Mildred O'Neil, Basy Howe, Geraldine Corbett, Bessie Forsythe, Mollie Fitzpatrick, Edwina Tobin, Frank W. Murray, J. F. Brennan, J. F. Doyle, F. J. Corbett and J. Ballatine.

MANY CANDIDATES.

There was quite an attendance of City officials at the regular communication of Wollaston Masonic lodge Tuesday evening. They included Mayor Miller, Commissioner Brown, Mr. Musgrave of the Board of Health, and several members of the City Council. The third degree was exemplified on a number of candidates. The lodge has a large class in waiting for the degrees and several special communications will be necessary before the summer vacation.

LAWN PARTY.

All the players in Boston have been invited by Miss Lotta Crabtree, vice president of the Players' Equal Suffrage League, to a social to be given Friday afternoon on the lawn of her home at Squantum. It is expected that blooded horses, of which Miss Crabtree is the owner, will be exhibited. Among those who will attend is Miss Mary Shaw, who is coming from New York.

MASONS MANY YEARS.

At the regular meeting of Rural lodge, A. F. & A. M., this week, a reception will be given to brothers who have been members about fifty years. Two have a record of over fifty years, and there are eight who joined the lodge previous to 1870. One member completes fifty years at this communication.

WARD THREE MEETING.

The Ward Three Improvement Association will elect its officers in Clan MacGregor hall tonight. The Grade crossing question will be discussed after the committee appointed to appear at the State House at a recent hearing makes its report. The members believe that their report will precipitate a warm debate.

ENGLAND WILL STAND ASIDE

Any Intervention in Mexico Must Be by America

FORMAL STATEMENT BY GREY

Obstacles Placed In Way of Investigation of Benton's Death Show Guilt of Those Involved—Reserves Right to Secure Reparation If Uncle Sam Does Not Use Force

London, March 4.—That intervention in Mexico by the United States is thought imminent is made plain by the anxiously awaited speech by Sir Edward Grey, British foreign minister, delivered in parliament.

Grey suggests that the obstacles placed in the way of investigating the death of Benton show the guilt of those involved. He absolves the United States from all responsibility in the matter and says that England has no right to ask her to use force in her behalf.

The words used by Grey read very much like sarcasm when he says "the United States has shown at least as much interest in the death of a British subject as it has in the case of outrages on American citizens."

Great Britain, he says, will not use force to avenge violence to a British subject, but in event of the United States not intervening by armed force will seek proper reparation when the opportune moment arrives.

Grey declared that Great Britain would maintain her policy of protecting British subjects, and made this statement:

"If the United States does not desire to take steps on its own behalf, or that of Great Britain, the British government will reserve the right to itself to secure reparation. We have no intention of sending a force to any part of Mexico, but we do not intend to let the matter rest."

This is the first formal announcement that the British government will demand reparation for the death of Benton. Grey declared that there was every indication of the purpose of the Mexicans (meaning the constitutionalists) to conceal the truth regarding the death of Benton. He said that all efforts to secure a complete investigation of Benton's death had thus far failed, but that communications with the United States were proceeding.

The foreign secretary made it plain that England would exact full satisfaction, either through the United States or by itself. In conclusion he said:

"If the United States thinks it proper to act further in behalf of British subjects, this government will gladly await the result, but if the United States does not consider it desirable to act, Benton's violent death necessitates that the British government do whatever it can in its own behalf."

Another American Murdered

El Paso, Tex., March 4.—Anti-Mexican bitterness burst into flames again here when confirmation was received of the murder of John Harmon, an American, at Madera, Mex. This was fanned by claims of Mexican officials that Harmon was killed in a private quarrel and that his death had no political significance.

United States Consul Edwards, who has been trying in vain to get some trace of Gustav Bauch, another American who has been missing for nearly two weeks following his arrest by General Villa, has turned his attention to the murder of Harmon.

GOELET DIVORCE SUIT

Report That Defendant Is to Receive $40,000 Annually

Newport, R. I., March 4.—Mrs. Robert W. Goelet is to receive $40,000 annually for the maintenaance of herself and two children, according to reports of a pre-arranged settlement on which the divorce trial will be based.

The terms of settlement agreed upon, it is said, provide that Mrs. Goelet shall receive $20,000 annually in case she remarries and the children will then be cared for by Goelet. The charges in the suit are extreme cruelty, gross misbehavior and violation of the marriage contract.

ADMITS SEVEN MURDERS

Boy of Fifteen Killed His Employer and Family With an Axe

Nantes, March 4.—The trial opened here of Marcel Rodudeau, 15, who killed seven people at Fasbriagt-en-Landreau.

The boy was a vine cutter. He became angry during a discussion with his employer, seized an axe and with a single blow killed the man instantly. The murderer then entered his employer's house, where he killed his employer's wife and a servant. Then in another room he killed his employer's mother and three children.

Leaves $10,000,000 to Daughter

Colorado Springs, Col., March 4.—Allenson S. Hall, former American consul to the Argentine Republic, who died in this city a week ago, left his entire estate, estimated at $10,000,000, to his daughter, Mrs. Carolyn H. Sturgis of this city. Mrs. Sturgis is the wife of the dean of forestry at Colorado college.

CONFERENCE AT CLUBHOUSE

Miss Baird, superintendent of the Boston District Nursing Association, addressed a meeting of the District Nursing Committee and the Associated Charities of Quincy this morning in the Women's clubhouse.

Miss Baird spoke of the many different lines of work done by District Nursing Associations everywhere, but more especially in the cities of Boston, Providence and Cleveland; where the work is especially well organized. The importance of social training was emphasized, especially in pre natal and maternity nursing work, also the importance of having all persons receiving care by the nurses pay for the same as far as they are able to.

The Health Centres where people in need of care may secure the services for a small fee of dentist, doctor or nurse, and where mothers receive instruction in preparing for the expected child and in caring for all their children, was described in detail.

The talk was very interesting and was listened to carefully by a number of club women and associated Charity workers.

DISTRICT COURT.

Victor Hendricks was fined $10 for drunkenness at Quincy and Morris J. Sheehan $15 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

A Designing Woman.

"If I don't marry her she threatens to make me pay $20,000 for breach of promise."

"Well?"

"And if I do marry her she swears she will get a divorce, with a fifty dollar a week alimony."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Mount Vernon.

Mount Vernon passed into the hands of the Mount Vernon association just prior to the war between the states. It was purchased from the Washington heirs for $200,000. Of the purchase money about half was raised by Edward Everett through his lectures and the balance by the ladies of the association. Each state represented in the association has a special room in the mansion. The place is kept in faultless repair and vandalism is made well nigh impossible by the careful watching. During the war Mount Vernon was, by mutual consent, neutral ground, and the wearers of the blue and the wearers of the gray often met before the tomb of the great American, who was loved equally by north and south.

Give Your Neighbor an Equal Chance

By HOLLAND.

IF you have been buying goods of a mail order house you doubtless think it has been to your advantage to do so. You have believed that you were saving money or were getting better goods. Let us see if this is true.

Have you tried to do business with your local merchant—your neighbor—on the terms that the mail order house exacts? No? Then suppose you try it.

Just go into the store, plank down your cash and tell what you want. You might even tell the merchant that you will wait a few days for the goods. See if your local merchant can't serve you better and as cheaply as the mail order house.

The local merchant usually extends credit for two, four or six months. The mail order house demands cash in advance. It uses your money as working capital. It loses nothing in interest, nothing in bad debts or on slow paying customers. Try this cash in advance plan on the local merchant—the man you know—and see if he can't make it to your advantage to

SPEND YOUR MONEY
WHERE YOU MAKE IT.

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

$1.00 WHILE THEY LAST

BARGAINS

HISTORIES OF QUINCY

Slightly damaged by water. Just the thing for students of history for reference, or to clip from.

Bargain price of

$1.00

while they last.

A few perfect copies for $3.50

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING COMPANY
LEDGER—PATRIOT OFFICE

MANY TO PAY RESPECTS.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hudson, wife of Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson pastor of the First Parish church, will be held this afternoon in the church in whose welfare Mrs. Hudson was deeply interested and in which she was an indefatigable worker. Seats on one side of the centre aisle are reserved for the members of the Woman's Alliance and for the members of the Fragment Society both of which societies will attend the services in a body. Seats are also reserved on the opposite side of the church for the men of the church. The services are being conducted by Dr. Eliot president of the Unitarian Association.

AVIATOR ATWOOD MARRIED..

Harry W. Atwood, the well known aviator, who was the chief attraction at the last aviation meet at Squantum, was married Tuesday evening at Reading to Miss Ruth Satherwaite of that city, whom he first met at the New England school for aviation, and who has made a number of flights with him. The license shows that Atwood's first wife divorced him for desertion. A week ago Atwood was sued by Cecile Harris a hotel employe at Cleveland, O., for breach of promise, asking for $50,000 damages. Atwood and his bride declare the suit a cruel case of blackmail.

GARDNER CLUB.

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the Gardner Club of Christ church will hold an initiation and thereby expects to increase its membership by four.

In addition to the initiation, several of the present members will probably receive their second degree. On account of the large waiting list, and the elaborateness of its ritual, the club has not been able to confer many second degrees as yet.

March 12 the club will be entertained by a stereopticon lecture on Japan of today, and two weeks later will hear a similar talk on "Our great Northwest and the Rocky mountains."

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

CITY HALL NOTES.

The City Treasurer has asked bids for a temporary loan of $100,000 in anticipation of taxes, Joan to mature Nov. 19, 1914.

MISS MARION FARWELL
MAGAZINES
Motor, Garden, Poultry, Household, Children's, General Literature, all kinds.
20 Briggs St., Wollaston, Mass. Tel. Quincy 947-2
At Wollaston Automobile Show, Wollaston Centre Garage, Feb. 28--March 5
Feb. 19-12t

Have Your Picture Taken in Our Studio
394 WATER STREET, QUINCY
Workmanship guaranteed. Special attention given to outside work. Photos taken evenings by electric light.
Portrait Enlarging. PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order
E. C. GREIFELD, Artist
Feb. 12-1m

W. G. NASH
TAXI SERVICE
Prompt Attention to Weddings, etc.
Cars for all occasions
Day and Night Service
Headquarters, Central Garage
Telephone 1035 W. Feb. 26-6t

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES
20 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar,
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

RAGE
UINCY
ASE CARS n hand d Car, $550 for for Town Car
uincy 435
. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf
INS
QUINCY
ter. Just of history from.
while they last.
for $3.50
SHING COMPANY
OFFICE HALL NOTES.
easurer has asked bids
y loan of $100,000 in anaxes, Joan to mature
RION FARWELL
GAZINES
ultry, Household, Children's,
Literature, all kinds.
ston, Mass. Tel. Quincy 947-2
on Automobile Show,
Garage, Feb. 28--March 5
Feb. 19-12t
re Taken in Our Studio
R STREET, QUINCY
ranteed. Special attention de work. Photos taken by electric light.
PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order
REIFELD, Artist
Feb. 12-1m
G. NASH
SERVICE
tion to Weddings, etc.
all occasions
d Night Service
's, Central Garage
35 W. Feb. 26-6t
an's Garage
Taxi Service
orage and Supplies
Day and Night.
Touring Cars for all orner Washington and ts.
NNIMAN, Prop.
ephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf
Y REGISTRY
R NURSES
Road, Quincy, Mass.
y trained and practical dants and nursery assis-
charge will be made to
g for Nurses.
L. CRANE, Registrar,
131-W.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

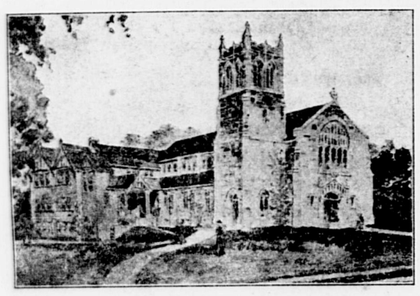
Vol. 29 No. 54 QUINCY, MASS. THURSDAY EVENING MARCH 5 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

LAST DOLLAR RAISED FOR PARISH HOUSE

Children, Grandchildren and Great Grandchild Make Pledges at Wollaston

Era of Prosperity for Wollaston Congregational Church

With the singing of "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," members of the Wollaston Congregational church celebrated the raising of the last dollar for their new $25,000 parish house, at a meeting in the vestry Wednesday evening.



This means that the building will be erected as soon as action is taken by the building committee, elected at the meeting, and that the edifice will be entirely free from debt.

The building committee as elected consists of: Charles P. Hutchins, Charles A. Campbell, Abner L. Baker, Edward S. Tenney and Henry C. Smalley. Herbert T. Whitman was nominated but declined to serve.

This committee was given full power regarding the plans, building and location of the new parish house, and was authorized to increase its membership as it saw fit.

The meeting of Wednesday evening

(Continued on Page Three.)

SHAMOKIN COAL
RANGE
FREE BURNING
Like The
Shamokin of 20 years ago
C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

MEETING OF TRADE BOARD

New Industries and Postal District Considered

A regular meeting of the Board of Trade was held Wednesday evening, but owing to the severe weather since the last meeting coupled with the fire which damaged the rooms of the Board more or less, making committee meetings impossible, there was little business.

The rooms of the Board now look very attractive, the walls having been retinted and the furniture varnished.

The first business was the election of new members, two being elected, Eben Prescott and A. R. McDonald.

Joseph Walker had nothing new to report for the granite industries, although he called attention to the hearing to be held Thursday before the Directors of the Port of Boston, as to the use of granite or concrete for the new dock in Boston. A committee from the Board and a committee from the Granite Manufacturers attended the hearing.

BANQUET A SUCCESS.

Secretary Hall reported that all bills for the banquet had been met and that there was a small balance on the right side.

John F. Merrill, reporting for new industries, said that he had looked up several sites for new industries along the line of the railroad. While told that sites were wanted, he did not know what industry wanted them.

TRAIN SERVICE.

The committee on transportation brought up the matter of train service, which it has been announced would be curtailed March 15. The committee said that Mr. Smith of the railroad promised to notify the committee for a conference before the new timetable was made up, but had not done so. The committee however would meet Mr. Smith in regard to the matter on Thursday.

John R. Richards reported in regard to a comfort station in City Square. He said that a conference had been had with the Street Railroad Co., and that the matter now looked very favorable, and that Quincy would receive attention.

SLOGAN OF 1914.

Owing to the weather conditions for the past month it was voted to extend the period for remission of initiation fee to new members for ninety days from the March meeting. In connection with this, the President made a strong appeal for new members. The slogan for this year was 500 members and he hoped that every member would try and bring in one new name at the next meeting.

Secretary Hall said that business men were ready to advance the necessary money for a Board of Trade building which would mean various committee rooms, banquet hall, Board of Trade club rooms and stores on the street floor as soon as the membership reached 1000 members.

TO ADVERTISE CITY.

The matter of a sign advertising Quincy as a city of homes was then taken up and discussed. It was brought out that a committee had reported on the matter late last year but nothing had been done, and a motion was made that the committee look into the cost of a 25 foot sign to be illuminated at night.

A. L. Whitman said that last year the Gas Company agreed to light the sign for $50 a year for each light, the number of lights necessary depending on the size of the sign, probably requiring three for a 25 foot sign. The committee had been unable to get any figures from the Electric Light Co.

NEW INDUSTRIES.

John R. Richards said that many suggestions for new industries had been taken up, but had not amounted to anything. There were other matters that entered into these questions that were of more importance. That is, you must get at the foundation. In this question he took up the price of gas and went over the various arguments he made while a member of the City Council.

In reply, Councilman Ericson said that Quincy was full of gas. He de-

(Continued on Page Four.)

CLERGYMEN ARE MOURNERS

At Funeral of Wife of Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson

The First Parish church was filled with mourners Wednesday afternoon who came to pay their last tribute of respect to Mrs. Margaret E. Hudson, wife of Rev. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson, minister of the church, whose sudden death early Monday morning cast an air of sadness over the entire parish where she had greatly endeared herself during the past two years by her untiring devotion and energetic work in behalf of the parish.

Especially was her work appreciated by the members of the Woman's Alliance and the Fragment Society, both of which organizations were present in a body and occupied seats at the left of the center aisle.

Hundreds of beautiful floral pieces were arranged about the high pulpit, the entire front being covered with a mass of calla lilies, roses, carnations and sweet peas, about which were entwined beautiful fernery. Two large bouquets of carnations rested on the table at the right and large bouquets were placed at the entrance to the minister's pew in the main aisle.

The ushers and bearers were from members of the Junior Laymen and Young People's Religious Union, being Herbert Barker, Chester Bennett, Richard Blackmur, Willard Crocker, Robert Davis, Kenneth Edwards, Allan Miller, Walter Nicoll, Eric Patch, Samuel Sears, Winslow Sears and Frederick Schenkelberger.

The services were conducted by Rev. Samuel A. Eliot, D. D., president of the American Unitarian Association and were of a simple, yet very impressive nature.

As the funeral cortege entered the church, it was met by Dr. Eliot, who read from the scriptures, and he preceded it down the main aisle. Rev. Mr. Hudson, the bereaved husband, was arm in arm with Henry M. Faxon chairman of the Parish Assessors, while directly behind were Frederick H. Smith and Thomas Fenno, also Parish Assessors.

The casket upon which rested a bouquet of beautiful roses, was borne down the aisle by Frederick M. Atwood, Paul Blackmur, Richard Z. Crane, William C. Edwards, Henry H. Faxon and John S. Pfaffmann.

After reading passages from the scriptures, Dr. Eliot spoke briefly in an eulogistic manner of Mrs. Hudson, whom he said he had known for 25 years. He recalled that she more often said yes than no, and spoke of her noble character and the inspiration her example had given.

William E. Weston presided at the organ and during the services the church quartette, Mrs. James H. Slade Miss May Gleason, Tracy Engle and Herbert Kearns sang the hymn, "Hark! Hark! My Soul," "Crossing the bar" and at the close of the services chanted the Lord's prayer.

Aside from the many who have been active in the work of the parish there were a number of clergymen present. These included Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham of the Arlington street church, Boston; Rev. Charles E. Park of the First church, Boston; Rev. George W. Fox, secretary emeritus of the American Unitarian Association; Rev. L. C. Cornish of the Old Ship church at Hingham, Rev. Carl G. Horst of the Wollaston Unitarian church, Rev. Harry Lutz of the Channing church at Newton, where Rev. Mr. Hudson was formerly located and Dr. Charles Pearson chairman of the standing committee of the Channing church.

Among the local clergymen present, aside from Rev. Mr. Horst, were Rev. William B. Ayers of the Park and Downs church, Rev. T. G. Martin of the Hall Place church, Rev. Richard E. Armstrong of Christ church and Rev. A. M. Thompson, formerly of the United Presbtyerian church.

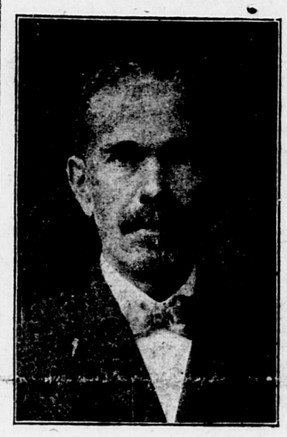
After the benediction the audience stood with bowed heads as the casket was borne from the church. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

☞PRATT'S BREAD is wholesome, nutritious, crisp and delicious. Get it of your grocer.

ASSESSOR BATES REMOVED FROM OFFICE

Mayor Miller Says His Utterances and Letters to Press Are Harmful to Morale of City

The expected has happened, and as a result there is another break in the Mayor's official family. This time it is his Principal Assessor whose head has dropped into the basket. Ever since the Mayor signed his approval to the "decree plan" for abolishing the grade crossings at Saville and Water street Mr. Bates has continued his attacks on the parties at interest in the matter. The last straw, however came at the hearing before the legislative committee on railroads at the State House, Feb. 19, on the petition to reopen the hearings in Quincy. At this hearing Mr. Bates made certain statements about an invisible commission and added—"and they have fixed the Mayor too."



MAYOR MILLER.

The Mayor and others present heard the statement and considering the fact that Mr. Bates was one of the official family at City Hall they created considerable comment. The Mayor then decided to act and informed the Daily Ledger that he should demand of Mr. Bates to make a public retraction. It was a few days later, however, before the Mayor had an opportunity to interview Mr. Bates, and at this interview he emphatically denied making the statement attributed to him although the Mayor had personally heard it.

In order that there might be no question in regard to the matter, the Mayor asked for a stenographic transcript of the statements made at the hearing. These he received Tuesday night, and as he states in his letter to Mr. Bates they bore out the facts that the statement was made.

Wednesday the Mayor acted. This action was taken in the following letter which was sent to Mr. Bates Wednesday night, notifying him that he should consider his office vacant after Saturday, March 7. The letter which was written in the Mayor's characteristic manner read as follows:

Mr. Gustave B. Bates, Chairman Board of Assessors:

Dear Sir—At a hearing given at the State House, on Feb. 19, before the Railroad Committee of the Legislature on the abolition of the grade crossing at Saville street in Quincy and Water street at Quincy Adams, by the so-called depression plan, you made a statement that an invisible commission consisting of Faxon, King and Whitman had fixed the special commissioners on these crossings. Then after a pause you added "and they have fixed our Mayor too."

Now sir, I have never had such language used about me, and I cannot stand it now, as I shall guard my honor at all hazards, especially when such statements are absolutely without foundation.

These statements were heard plainly and distinctly by Walter S. Pinkham, Ezekiel C. Sargent, Henry M. Faxon and many others. So it is evident that you have lost faith in your Mayor and superior officer, and as such statements as these and others you have made in your letters to the public press, are harmful to the morals of City Hall, I therefore feel that I have but one honorable course left, and that is to remove you from office.

Therefore I shall consider the office vacant after Saturday, March 7, 1914.

Yours truly,
(Signed) John L. Miller,
Mayor

MAYOR INTERVIEWED.

The Mayor said this morning that this letter was simply a warning to Mr. Bates of what was to happen. In order to officially remove him from office it will be necessary to file a notice with the City Clerk and to serve a copy of the order of removal on Mr. Bates by a constable authorized to serve civil process. This will be done today or Friday.

Just who the Mayor will appoint to fill the vacancy thus caused is not known for the Mayor said this morning that he had not as yet made up his mind.

There was a rumor about City Square Wednesday night that the Mayor had removed Mr. Bates and a call at Mr. Bates' house by telephone found that Mr. Bates was ill in bed, but reing the Mayor said that he understood that Mr. Bates was ill in bid, but remarked that he was not too sick to prevent him from writing letters to the public press.

MR. BATES INTERVIEWED.

Mr. Bates for the past three days has been confined to his bed with a severe cold, and is under the doctor's care. It is expected that he will be able to sit up by Saturday.

When seen this morning, Mr. Bates said that he had received the letter from Mayor Miller and would reply when able to get on his feet. "My official relations," he said, "with Mayor Miller have been pleasant, but on the grade crossing question we are as far apart as the two poles, and I intend to maintain my position until the question is finally settled."

ASSESSOR BATES.

—Fire in the J. A. Rice Block at Rockland on Monday evening caused a loss of $40,000.

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY.

The Granite Tailoring Co.

The former business of 64 Washington St. has moved to 1465 Hancock St.

Our new store is now open for business, old and new customers are cordially invited to call and inspect our new store of Ladies' and Misses' Suits, Coats, Skirts, Waists, Furs and One Piece Dresses, etc, the same low prices and High Class Ladies' Tailoring and Dressmaking, also all kinds of Dveing, Cleansing, Pressing and Remodelling.

H. SARKIN, Prop.
1465 Hancock St, Quincy
Next to Kincaide's Annex. March 5-3t

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences. Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 531-W Quincy
Feb. 10-1m

AT THE FOY STORES

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY SPECIALS

Money-saving inducements to introduce our good stores and good service to new friends. Of course all our old customers can share the savings too. COME.

Regular 20c the can—and well worth it
SIFTED SWEET WRINKLED PEAS
SHERMAN CO. BRAND 15c the can $1.60 the doz

AUNT JEMIMA'S PANCAKE FLOUR 8c pkg.

KIRKMAN'S WHITE FLOATING SOAP 12 boxes 40c

Crisp and Fresh from the Bakery—Regular 15c
CINNAMON BARS 10c lb

☞ More than 100 kinds of cakes and crackers here to choose from—all fresh—and all invitingly priced.

R. E. FOY & CO.
March 4-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1426 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass. by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

The English bishops are likely to cut the word "obey" out of the women's marriage vow, but it is not believed the time is yet ripe to insert it in the men's part of the service.

THE TRUSTS.

An interesting report on this subject "Is the Trust form efficient" has just been issued by Commissioner Davies of the Bureau of Corporations. While Mr. Davies does not pronounce definite opinions, he seems to lean to the idea that many big combines carry in themselves the seeds of their own decay.

This subject is too vast for any off-hand opinion. One conclusion seems fairly well warranted now. That is, that a great many small producers are surviving in better shape than was thought possible a few years ago.

There is still a chance for the "little fellow" who is industrious, who watches every detail of his business with personal interest, and who in particular tries to meet the individual needs of his customers. Personal attention counts.

In the big corporation important executive positions are sometimes given away on grounds of family relationship or personal friendship. A man gets too sure of his job. If he has not much to gain by improving his efficiency, he may fall into routine methods. The small producer, who has everything to gain, is spurred on every day by hope and ambition.

DeVINNE AND PRINTING.

The technical principles of printing laid down by Theodore L. De Vinne, called the dean of the craft, who has just died, would not interest the public. Many printers know nothing of the different schools of type casting. But there are principles for which Mr. DeVinne worked that are of vital importance to every reader.

He always contended for simple printing, conveying ideas with the greatest ease and lucidity. When authors demanded some eccentric type, Mr. DeVinne ridiculed the affectation as placing manner above matter.

The average book that comes down from your grandfather was pretty well printed, the type was substantial the imprint fairly black and stands out with clear luster today. Later in an affected attempt at delicacy and refinement, there came in finer cut type, which made a page look dull grey instead of black and white. This tendency and "hair lines," Mr. DeVinne consistently opposed.

Also at that time the majority of standard books and newspapers were printed in exceedingly fine type. Millions of people suffer from poor eyesight today simply because it was once customary to use type faces of about half the size now commonly handled.

Mr. DeVinne stood for type cutting that would create characters legible not merely to clear eyed youth, but to spectacled and near sighted age. He wanted type faces that would stand the battering of the print shop. He was a large factor in the change which has brought in recent years a tendency to a blacker and more legible type.

There are many fads in modern printing. One of these is to cut out paragraph indentations, on the on the ground that a page looks better as a whole without the irregularity of the short line introducing a paragraph. Yet to the reader, paragraph indentations mark breaks in the thought, which tends to lucidity and to relieve strain. The writer does not know Mr. DeVinne's opinion on this point, but he would gamble that it had his veto.

ARMY INVADES GOTHAM CHURCH

Nearly Two Hundred Men Heedless of Police Warning

ALL ARE PROMPTLY ARRESTED

Good Intentions of Priests Prove Useless When They Try to Pacify Unemployed, Many of Whom Are Found to Be Armed With Weapons of Various Descriptions

New York, March 5.—One hundred and ninety men who, under the leadership of the Industrial Workers of the World, have been marching on church edifices recently, were arrested last night in St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic church on West Broadway, after they had disregarded warnings that if they entered the church it would be under peril of arrest.

As the men neared the church, detectives informed Frank Tannenbaum, who had headed the demonstrations made during the last few days, that if the men entered the building they would do so at their peril. Tannenbaum, instead of heeding the advice, called on the men to follow him.

A Lenten service was in progress in the church when the men marched in. Women screamed when they saw the intruders, who, paying little attention to this, quickly occupied seats well in front. When the last of the men had entered the church, the detectives ordered the doors locked.

Meanwhile the reserves from nearby police stations had been called out, and patrol wagons were rushed to the scene. The necessary preliminary arrangements for this had been made at police headquarters during the day.

When the policemen entered the church building, pandemonium ensued. For half an hour there was the wildest disorder, due in a measure to the efforts of the police to separate the intruders from the worshipers. Rev. J. C. Schnieder and several other priests, who tried to pacify the men by talking to them, found their good intentions useless.

The men were taken from the church in twos and conveyed in patrol wagons to the nearest police stations. Later they were brought into the domestic relations court for a preliminary hearing.

Tannenbaum was the first man arraigned. He gave his age as 21 and stated that he was an Austrian, a waiter by trade and that he had no home.

Heiman Finklestein, the next man, furnished a sensation when over $700 in bills was found in his pockets. He stated that he was a machinist. Asked why he did not spend some of the money to live upon, he replied: "Why should I spend my last cent?"

Only ten of the total of 190 men gave their birthplace as America. Loaded socks, pieces of steel, razors and slungshots were among the things found on some of the men. A search of the church after the men had been taken away revealed other implements of the same kind, left behind by some of the more foresighted.

Competent stenographers of the police department were at a Rutgers square meeting last night, previous to the invasion of the church, and took down all the speeches. Some of the statements made by Tannenbaum will be used as evidence against him on the charge of inciting a riot.

At the special sitting of court at which the men were brought up, Magistrate Campbell held Tannenbaum for the second district court, charged with a felony. Bail was fixed at $5000. The other prisoners were brought up in batches of about fifty and charged with disorderly conduct.

INCOME RETURNS MIXED

Nearly Ten Percent Found to Have Been Filed Incorrectly

Washington, March 5.—"It will take three years to educate the people of the United States along the lines of the income tax law."

This was the way a high official of the internal revenue department summed up the situation after looking over the reports from income tax collectors.

It is estimated that out of 600,000 individual returns, nearly 10 percent have been filed wrong.

QUICKER THAN THE CABLE

Early Success of Radio-Telephony Is Predicted by Marconi

Rome, March 5.—William Marconi delivered a lecture before King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, all the notables in Rome and a great throng of the public generally.

He predicted the early success of radio-telephony, declaring the human voice could be projected across the ocean by this method more quickly than a message by cable.

Freight Rate Increases Suspended

Washington March 5.—The interstate commerce commission dealt a blow to four western railroads by suspending proposed increases in freight rates. They were held up until September.

Death of Cardinal Kopp

Berlin, March 5.—Cardinal George Kopp, 76 years old, the highest Roman Catholic prelate in Germany, died at Troppau, Austrian Silesia.

NEAR-RIOT IN COURT

Women Who Are Forced Out Declare They Will Raid Siegel Stores

New York, March 5.—More than 100 men and women depositors in the failed Henry Siegel private bank indulged in a near-riot in the United States district court here when a hearing of charges against Siegel and his partner, Frank E. Vogel, was postponed to permit District Attorney Whitman further time to investigate the financal doings of the two department store magnates.

Furious when the postponement was ordered, one woman grabbed a gavel and pounded vigorously, demanding Siegel's immediate arrest. The others applauded loudly. Quelled by United States Marshal Henkel and ousted from the courtroom, the women declared that they would go to the Siegel stores here, which are running under receivership, and there take by force goods to the value of the deposits they had lost in Siegel's bank.

HUB FIRE CHIEF TO QUIT

Said to Be Due to Recent Promotion of His Deputy

Boston, March 5.—The retirement of John A. Mullen, chief of the Boston fire department, is regarded by the rank and file of firemen as a matter of only a few days.

Although the chief declined to discuss the matter for publication, he has talked about it freely with a number of his most intimate friends. A breach between the chief and his deputy has been observed for several years.

Although the chief is 63 years old and was entitled to retirement several years ago, his leave taking from the service will be voluntary. Under the law he is entitled to a pension of $2250 a year.

FLOATS FOR HOUR IN LARGE SEWER

Chemicals From Tanneries Keep Little Fellow From Sinking

Peabody, Mass., March 5.—Borne 1000 feet through a huge sewer pipe that carries away refuse from the Peabody tanneries, and kept afloat by the chemicals dissolved in the water, 5-year-old George McKinnon was rescued from the sluggish stream after being in the water nearly an hour.

Though the child is still in a critical condition from his long exposure to the noxious fumes of the chemicals, and has been unable to give a coherent account of his experience, the physicians attending him believe he will be in his usual good health in a few days.

The child was rescued by George McKinnon, a passerby, when he was carried from the sewer into open water.

FOUND IN OUTBUILDING

Packages Containing $5633 In $6400 Express Theft Are Recovered

Farmington, Ills., March 5.—Of $6400 stolen from the Adams Express agent here Feb. 17, $5633 has just been recovered in an outbuilding near the express office. The money was in the original packages, the seals being unbroken.

Express company detectives are here and they put Agent Brown through a severe examination, but his story that he was beaten by two unidentified men remained unshaken.

Drops Dead as Boat Sinks

Wood's Hole, Mass., March 5.—While attempting to save his pies from the galley of a sinking lighter at the stone pier near Eel pond channel, Ira Brightman, 67, cook of the craft, dropped dead from heart failure.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Mashisa Matsuda, Japanese minister of justice, died at Tokio. He was born in 1845. He was educated in France by government order, studying law and politics.

A new anti-typhoid serum is announced by Staff Surgeon Fornes of the German army.

John H. Parker of Saugus, Mass., a manufacturer, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, giving liabilities at $477,951.

While there was a substantial increase in deposits, the profits of Maine savings banks the past year were $15,704 less than in 1912.

Professor Raymond Dodge has declined the appointment tendered him by the directors of the Carnegie nutrition laboratory at Boston.

High water in the Merrimack river caused the shutdown of the cotton mill of Jackson Bros. at Nashua, N. H., throwing 1500 hands out of work.

The body of Thomas Devine, 55, who lived alone at Whitman, Mass., was found at the bottom of a flight of stairs at his home.

J. C. Stuart, 53, vice president and general manager of the Erie railroad, died at Garden City, L. I.

In the Massachusetts senate the committee on ways and means reported ought to pass on the house bill making an appropriation of $131,000 for the representation of the commonwealth at the Panama exposition.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is recovering from the shock of a fall on the White House floor. She sustained no injuries.

JOHN B. MOORE

He Resigns as Chief Counsellor of State Department

© 1913, by American Press Association.

QUITS STATE DEPARTMENT

Resignation of Counsellor Moore Is Accepted by President

Washington, March 5.—John B. Moore, counsellor in the state department, who ranks as acting secretary, resigned, and President Wilson accepted the resignation.

Moore's impending resignation has been rumored for several weeks but each time met with unqualified denial. Various reports have had it that there was a lack of harmony in his views and those of higher officials but they never were supported by anything official.

Moore is an authority on international law. No announcement as to his successor was made.

SHEEP DEVOURED BY HORDES OF WOLVES

Driven From Mountains In Italy by Heavy Snows

Rome, March 5.—Hordes of starving wolves, driven from the Apennine mountains by the heavy snows, descended into the valleys of the Abruzzi provinces in the vicinity of Rome, and devoured hundreds of sheep.

The wolves afterward took refuge in the caverns of Mt. Soracte, twenty-five miles north of Rome.

Parties of armed peasants went to hunt them and killed a large number of the animals.

BRYAN GOING TO CHILE

Accepts Invitation to Attend the Pan-American Conference

Washington, March 5.—Secretary Bryan informed the governing board of the Pan-American union, composed of the representatives of all the American republics, that he had accepted the invitation of Chile and would visit Santiago next September, at the time of the meeting there of the fifth Pan-American conference.

President Wilson has approved the plan and unless some unforeseen development interferes the secretary will leave here about the middle of August.

MRS. JEWELL JAILED

"Handsome Widow" Guilty of Using the Mails to Defraud

New Haven, March 5.—Mrs. Addie Jewell, whose various advertisements as "a handsome widow in search for a housekeeper's position" had netted her a considerable income, pleaded guilty of using the mails to defraud, in the federal court, and was sentenced to six months in jail.

At one time twelve inspectors were trying to find her. Mrs. Jewell's husband is serving a sentence as an accomplice.

GIVEN MAXIMUM SENTENCE

Boy Who Killed Seven Persons Goes to Prison For Twenty Years

Nantes, France, March 5.—Marcel Redureau, the 15-year-old lad who killed seven persons with an axe at Basbridge-en-Landreau, was found guilty of the charge against him and sentenced to twenty years in prison.

The sentence is the maximum allowed by the law. The trial of Redureau began Tuesday.

Explorers In Controversy

London, March 5.—An international race across the Antarctic continent is in prospect unless Shackleton and the Austrian explorer, Dr. Koenig, settle their differences. Both assert a prior claim to a starting base on Weddell sea. Shackleton refuses to give way.

Great Fields Of Ice

St. John's, March 5.—Ice fields extending 200 miles off the Newfoundland coast were reported by the steamer Riverdale, Aberdeen for Philadelphia, which put in here to replenish her coal bunkers.

WARD THREE ASSOCIATION

Committee Appointed on New Railroad Crossing

Contrary to expectations Alfred J. Pinel's report of the last grade crossing hearing at the State House provoked no discussion among the members of the Ward Three Improvement Association at their organization meeting in Clan MacGregor hall Wednesday night. The program consisted of an election of officers and the adoption of by-laws.

Mr. Pinel told of the hearing before the railroad committee two weeks ago and in closing said that two Lowell representatives said that they believed Mayor Miller has exceeded his authority in signing the decree and that they believed it to be the first step incidental to impeachment. Mr. Pinel added that the men spoke unofficially and after the hearing.

Alfred J. Pinel was elected president, George Gauthier, vice president, Peter J. Cahill secretary, and Amos L. Litchfield treasurer. Councilman Charles S. Ross declined his nomination as vice president because he believed a person holding a political office should not hold an office in the organization.

A special committee was appointed to appear in favor of the petition presented to the City Council asking they purchase a piece of land for a right of way on Federal avenue, opposite the end of Quincy street. This land has been in use for crossing purposes for 30 years. The committee includes Andrew Milne, Andrew Milne, Jr., George Gauthier, E. F. Brault, Alexander Cowe, Karl Leaf, Archie Grassick, Alex Emslie and James Joss.

Joseph G. Grossman, through whose efforts the society was organized, declined to serve as its secretary, owing to pressure of other duties.

The society has been organized to promote the interest of the mercantile and manufacturing busines of Ward Three, to broaden and strengthen its business relations, to enhance the attractiveness of South Quincy as a place of residence, to secure and maintain the highest standard of municipal government and by all legitimate means to work united for the material prosperity and general welfare of the ward.

The dues were set at $1 annually, and one article of the by-laws states that members may express their views on any subject which may not be considered strictly association business but affecting the good of the ward.

HIT BY AUTO.

John M. Dexter, aged about 10 years of Newbury street was run over by an automobile near the corner of Hancock and Atlantic streets, early Wednesday evening. There were a number of boys playing in the street at that time, and seeing the auto approaching, some of the boys ran to the sidewalk. The Dexter boy first ran toward the sidewalk and then turned back. The driver of the car Louis Santemello saw an accident was hardly avoidable and did his best to avoid it by steering his car toward the sidewalk, so that in addition to striking the boy he ran into a telephone pole. Theboy was attended by Dr. M. T. Sweeney, who found that one of his legs was fractured and in addition he was considerably cut about the face. The body was taken in the automobile and hurried to the City Hospital.

—Many of the forest fires attributed to railroads are caused not by sparks from locomotives but by cigar and cigarrette butts thrown from smokingcar windows.

LESS DYSPEPSIA NOW
—HERE'S THE REASON

The fact that there is less dyspepsia and indigestion in this community than there used to be is largely, we believe, due to the extensive use of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, hundreds of packages of which we have sold. No wonder we have faith in them. No wonder we are willing to offer them to you for trial entirely at our risk.

Among other things, they contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two of the greatest digestive aids known to medical science. They soothe the inflamed stomach, allay pain, check heartburn and distress, help to digest the food, and tend to quickly restore the stomach to its natural, comfortable, healthy state.

There is no red tape about our guarantee. It means just what it says. We'll ask you no questions. Your word is enough for us. If Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets don't restore your stomach to health and make your digestion easy and comfortable, we want you to come back for your money. They are sold only at the 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00

Edward J. Murphy, 1415 Hancock Cor. Granite Sts., Quincy, Mass.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

WHAT IS A SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX?

It is a strong steel box, in a doubly-locked compartment in our fire and burglar-proof vault. You have the keys to it. It is absolutely PRIVATE and absolutely secure. You can go to it freely at any time during business hours.

This costs you only $5 per year—only half what you would have to pay for a smaller box in Boston.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

AUTOMOBILE NUMBERS

Saturday, March 7
And Again
Saturday, March 14

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Will Contain an Extra Section
Devoted to the Automobile Industry
In connection with the Boston Show

ALL LOCAL AGENTS AND GARAGES
Are Invited to take Large Spaces
Take Advantage of the Opportunity

At ATLANTIC
Quincy Daily Ledger
On Sale after 3.30 P. M.
—AT—
BRANSCHIED & MARTENS
Why not put in an order and have it left every day at your home?

THE EDUCATIONAL FIELD

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY
HIGH SCHOOL PUBLIC SCHOOLS
WOODWARD INSTITUTE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Through the courtesy and generosity of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, the Public Library has been presented with fifty-four beautiful and instructive photographs, which are now hung in the art gallery where hey will make well worth the while a visit from any interested.

A plan of the entire plant precedes the collection, which begins with several different views of the shipyard. These include a general view, two of the machine shop, and three of the docks, one having in the foreground the Argentine battleship Rivadavia, another the Duncan, and the last showing the fitting out of the docks for the New Orleans.

Following these are photographs of some noted ships built at Quincy, many of the pictures having as a background the scenery so well known to Quincy people. The seven masted schooner T. W .Lawson, the U. S. Cruiser Salem, Lightship Relief, Torpedo boat destroyer Duncan, Submarine boat K-1, Artillery tug General Anderson, the battleships Vermont, North Dakota, Nevada, and the Argentine battleship Rivadavia, are among those exhibited. The variety of these names show the scope of this great industry of Quincy.

Then are seen views of the oil carrying Steamship Richmond, with a large chart giving all the plans of the general arrangement, and of other useful barges and steamships. Among these are the car float which is used to take 28 loaded freight cars by means of two transfer tugs through New York harbor, the steamers for carrying sulphur, coal, molasses, and other freight. The collection ends with photographs of several boats with plans, including the New Orleans and the steam trawler "Swell" and general plans of proposed boats and steamers.

NEW SCHOOL TERM.

The new term of school has opened with an atendance considerably greater than the closing weeks of the winter term. It has been many years since there has been so much absence from school as in the month of February. An unusually wintry month combined with prevailing contagious diseases to reduce the attendance in many school rooms to a very low point.

EVENING SCHOOL

The Adams evening school is continuing for another series of 20 nights, instead of closing last week at the experation of the sixtieth night, as had originally been planned. This action by the School Committee is in response to a request from the pupils themselves, and in recognition of the unusually large attendance all through the term. The evening class for granite workers has finished its second term and the classes for machinists and mold loft men will finish next week.

MILL TAX BILL.

Quincy was well represented at the hearing before the Committee on Education of the Legislature, on Tuesday, on the so-called "Mill-Tax bill." This law provides for a State tax of one mill to the dollar of assessed valuation throughout the State; the proceeds then to be divided among the cities and towns in proportion to their school population, and to their evening school attendent. As this law would benefit Quincy very largely no doubt every effort will be made by the legislature from this city to secure its passage. The cities about Boston all have a large school population, with only an average valuation. Taxable property is leaving these cities in great amounts as the owner seek residence where the taxation rate is lower. Consequently the burden of taxation for schools is being borne by people of little or moderate means, while much wealth escapes its share in that support. Very naturally, places like Boston, Brookline, Melrose, Nahant, and Dover oppose such a law, while manufacturing communities are in favor of it.

The same law, in Governor Wolcott's administration, passed both houses only to receive his veto. It is hoped that this year it will receive better treatment than on that occasion, as the need is more urgently seen at the present time.

SCHOOL MASTERS' CLUB.

The Quincy School Masters' Club held a meeting Wednesday evening at the High school to discuss "Current Tendencies in Education." Mr. Perkins of the Coddington school spoke from the standpoint of the grammar school, Mr. Collins from the High school view point, and Mr. Barbour from the view point of the colleges.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL

Francis J. Fahey, probation officer, addressed the members of the Washington School Parents-Teachers Association Wednesday night. He talked about his work with adults and children and emphasized particularly the importance of careful home training, saying that he thought that almost every case of delinquent children he considered to be the parent's fault. He also spoke of the importance of the strict observance of the curfew law, and of the bad influence of the public dance hall. The entertainment of the evening included two violin solos by David Sckeckner of the eighth grade. Vice President James H. Bartlett presided in the absence of president Elijah Barrows.

HIGH SCHOOL FOR ELEVATION

Debate the Grade Crossing Plans Before the City

A regular meeting of the Quincy High SSchool Debating Society was held Wednesday evening, President Leon White in the chair.

The question "Resolved, that the Decree Plan of elevation is best for the city," was debated and the judges decided for the affirmative.

The affirmative team was made up of Horton Page, Norbert McAnarney and Reginald Gay. The negative was upheld by Fred Attwood, Earle Bates and Sturgis Hunt. The rebuttals were taken up by Horton Page and Fred Attwood, Lawrence Martin, John Dingwell and Frances Townsend were the judges.

After the debate a discussion on the subject followed and the society went on record as in favor of elevation.

The question for March 18 will be "Resolved, that Quincy should be annexed to Botson." On the affirmative of this question are Fred Rasmussen, Thomas Barstow and Cyril Brigham, while onthe negative team are Francis Townsend, John Breen, and Arthur Bowen.

MAPLE LODGE.

Maple lodge, K. L. of H., acted on two applications at its meeting in Protection hall Wednesday night and made plans for the visitation of the Grand officers on March 18. Mrs. Charles McHugh of Somerville, the deputy, was present. A whist party was held after adjournment at which thirteen tables were in play. The winners were Mrs. C. W. Prescott of Somerville, Mrs. H. W. Tirrell, Mrs. Mary O'Neil, Mrs. Ida Dutton of Quincy, Leon Merchant of Weymouth, Fred Bennett of Braintree, Charles L. Bean and Herbert Baker of Quincy.

LENTEN DEVOTIONS.

Midweek Lenten devotions were held in St. Johns and St. Mary's churches Wednesday night, and both edifices were thronged with parish members. Rev. Fr. Walter A. Quinlan delivered the sermon at St. Johns church and Rev. Fr. J. Killicuddy of St. Margarets church, Dorchester, preached at St. Marys church. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament followed at both churches.

SURPRISE AT SQUANTUM

Presentation of Mrs. Reed of Women's Club

The regular meeting of the Squantum Women's club held at the home of Mrs. James Foster, Park Avenue, Wednesday afternoon developed into some thing more than a regular business meeting. President Mrs. William Reed presided, and the various reports were read and approved. Everybody seemed to be wearing an unusally happy smile and apepared anxious to have the president come to the new business which came in due time.

Before then however a goodly amount of routine business was transacted including the plans of two social events in the near future. One to be a supper and whist to be held in Squantum and the other a musical to be given in town. The dates were not decided on and members who were not present today are to be consulted before plans are completed.

Mrs. Reed made only a partial list of her committees.

It was at this point that Mrs. Reed called for a five-minute recess for suggestions or new business. Mrs. Charles Ramsdell, the club's treasurer, introduced a pleasing novelty. She told the president that several of the members had arranged a playlet which they wished to give before the club. All but President Reed were in the secret of the playlet:' To introduce the characters, Mrs. Ramsdell said it was necessary that those who take part retire to an adjoining room and that the club members turn their backs when the re-entered. This was all faithfully carried out.

When the club members turned to greet the players in the skit they expressed great surprise to find each member of the cast carrying handsome gifts. Mrs. Ramsdell then in a most charming manner presented President Reed with a handsome chafing dish and tray, silver fork and spoon, chop dish, a pepper and salt set, and a cut glass nappie. The gifts were from the club members as a testimonial to Mrs. Reed's earnest work in behalf of the club.

President Reed was so overcome at this testimonial of good fellowship that she could not respond for some moments. Then she expressed her deepest appreciaiton for the valuable gifts and the spirit manifested. It was all a very happy affair and Mrs. Ramsdell's novel introduction made a big hit with the clubwomen.

Throughout the meeting however there was a vein of sorrow over the death of Mrs. Edward Eagar, formerly the club's treasurer, who had passed away since the last meeting. President Reed spoke very feelingly of the great work Mrs. Eagar had done for the club, of her exemplary life and of her deep love for Squantum.

The members present were—Mrs. William A. Reed, Mrs. S. H. Adams, Mrs. James H. Foster, Mrs. John Holmes, Mrs. Charles Bostwick, Mrs. Helen McGowan, Mrs. Matthew McGrain, Mrs. Charles Watts, Mrs. Underhill, Mrs. William Donovan, Mrs. Gustave Wunderlich, Mrs. Hiram A. Morse, Mrs. Charles H. Ramsdell, Mrs. T. F. Callahan, Mrs. George Hersey, Mrs. Herbert A. Smith and Mrs. Frank Anderson.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB MEETING

A monthly business meeting of the young Women's Club was held Tuesday evening at the High school, Miss Packard, the president, in the chair. After the meeting Miss Hobart, secretary of the Massachusetts Federation of Girls' Clubs spoke on the necessity of the Young Womens Club to join the federation. Prizes were awarded the contestants who took part in the animal game, where each had to draw a picture of an animal. Hattie Waterhouse received first prize and Laura Churchill the second. Esther Sidelinger drew silhouttes of all the members. It was decided that the annual gentlemen's night take place April 8 in Alpha hall in the form of a drama and dance. The drama will be presented by the dramatic class of the Young Women's Club under the direction of Mrs. Gurney. Sadie Berman was appointed chairman of the monthly social to be held in April. The entertainment Tuesday was in the form of a baby party, many of the members appearing in childrens dress. Dancing was enjoyed after adjournment.

THERMOMETERS.

Difference In Principle Between the Fahrenheit and Centigrade.

The difference in the numbering of the Fahrenheit and the centigrade thermometers is a difference in principle, that between circular measure and the neat simplicity of the decimal system.

When Fahrenheit had found that his thermometer was capable of giving him a means of measuring heat the necessity for a scale presented itself. He was able to establish two constants of temperature—that at which a mixture of salt and snow melts at one end of the scale, that at which water boils at sea level establishes the other. Evidently with some reference to the fact that in circular measure the maximum distance possible to measure from one point to another is 180 degrees, he scaled 180 equal parts between these two limits. He scaled the thermometer below his freezing point to its reading on a winter day colder than the oldest inhabitant could remember to have experienced, and here he established his zero. It chanced to be 32 degrees below his freezing point.

The centigrade, on the other hand, establishes its zero at freezing point and 100 degrees at the boiling point. These constants are selected because they may be so conveniently reproduced at any time and therefore obviate the necessity of maintaining an officially scaled standard, as must be the case with measures of length and capacity.—New York Sun.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

Different Methods on Which Arc and Incandescent Lamps Work.

The arc light and the incandescent light work on totally different principles. It was noted many years ago that when an electric circuit was broken the current jumped across a slight gap, producing a brilliant flame. The shape of this flame was roughly an arc from one conductor to the other. Thus the word "arc" was adopted. All arc lamps burn in the air and not in vacuum. The light is produced by the current leaping across a small air gap between the two electrodes, or carbon pencils, and heating the tips of the carbons white hot. Floating particles of white hot carbon also add to the brilliancy. A mechanism is necessary to "feed" in the carbons as fast as they burn away, or otherwise the gap would increase until the current could not jump across and the light would go out.

The incandescent lamp, common in most homes and office buildings, is obtained from a piece of white hot wire, heated by the passage of an electric current. The wire must be inclosed in a glass bulb from which the air has been exhausted, otherwise it would quickly be burned up and consumed. The wire filament is now made of tungsten, which resists the flow of electricity with so much vigor that the current, in working to get by the obstruction, heats the wire to incandescence, hence the name.—New York World.

The Human Machine.

Is there one of us who does not sometimes treat a person like a machine? Do we always think of the railroad conductor as more than a machine for taking tickets? Do we not often treat our fellow creatures like masks on flat cars without substance and personality? I have been striving for years to overcome in myself and in my medical fellows the professional habit of treating a person as a "case" or a walking disease. But the habit of impersonality persists, like original sin, in myriad forms and unexpected ways. If law courts we treat a human being as a "prisoner at the bar," as the "plaintiff" or "defendant," to the exclusion of the fact that he is as real and sensitive as ourselves.—Atlantic.

Juvenile Logic.

Marie is a very bright kindergarten pupil. She came home to her parents the other day and told them that the kindergarten teacher had said she will grow up to be a very nice looking young lady if she is a good girl, but will grow up to be a very ugly woman if she is a naughty girl. "Is that true, mamma?" asked Marie, and she was informed that if the teacher said so it was true. Marie then sat still for awhile, pondering seriously. "But, mamma," she suddenly burst forth again, "why was the kindergarten teacher so naughty when she was a little girl?"—Philadelphia Record.

Feathered Police.

"Our aerial police force" is the picturesque and at the same time accurate phrase that the state ornithologist of Massachusetts has applied to the birds. They concentrate rapidly on any unusual irruption of insects or of the smaller animals that we class as vermin. They guard alike the property of rich and poor, demand no salary, accept no "graft" and ask only to be protected in the performance of their beneficent work.—Youth's Companion.

Cubic Feet.

A cubic foot of water contains one and one-half gallons (1,728 cubic inches) and weighs sixty-two and one-half pounds. One cubic foot of bituminous coal weighs from forty-seven to fifty pounds. One cubic foot of anthracite coal weighs about fifty-three pounds.

Fate of the Peacemaker.

"Your face seems cut up. Accident?"

"No, fight. Tried to stop a husband who was beating his wife."

"And the husband hit you?"

"No, the wife." — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

LAST DOLLAR RAISED

(Continued from Page One.)

was an adjourned session of the annual meeting held in January, and its object was to complete financial arrangements and take definite steps for the erection of the parish house.

Since the annual meeting the finance committee had collected $12,500 in subscriptions, and had secured pledges from two individuals to give $5,000 each if the remainder of the $25,000 was raised.

This brought to the meeting a deficit of $2,500 and those present set about raising it with a will which brought the result above mentioned. Rufus B. Tobey, chairman of the finance committee, took his position at the blackboard and, as fast as the pledges came in, marked them down. It took a little over a half an hour to raise the necessary $2,500.

Pledges were started at $100, and when a number of these had been received the amount was dropped to $50 and lower.

Toward the end of the campaign there came a lull. Then someone pledged ten dollars for his son. This started the ball rolling again, and pledges came in speedily from all parts of the house. When the children ran out, grandchildren were mentioned and the subscriptions were brought to a close when one elderly gentleman present pledged five dollars for his great grand child.

When the accounting was made, the finance committee found that they still lacked $250 of the desired amount, and amid loud applause agreed to guarantee the remaining deficit themselves.

The meeting was called to order by the moderator, Charles P. Hutchins and was opened with a prayer by Dr. Isaiah W. Sneath. The minutes of the annual meeting, pertinent to the matter of a parish house, were read by the clerk, Charles F. West, and Rufus B. Tobey chairman of the finance committee gave his report.

The new parish house will be built of stone, and will be thoroughly modern throughout. It will form part of a plan that includes the building of a stone church sometime in the near future. The parish house will be located in the rear of the present church edifice, and will be temporarily connected to it with a covered passage way. This will open a means of communication between the two buildings, and will allow the placing of coat rooms, toilets and boilers, for the heating of the parish house, in the basement of the present church edifice.

The tentative plans for the parish house as presented to the members of the church, call for a three story stone edifice to cost $25,000.

On the ground floor will be a large social room with a seating capacity of 255 at a meeting or 170 at supper. Connected with it will be a kitchen of modern equipment with unexcelled facilities for efficient preparation and serving of food.

On the second floor will be a large Sunday School room, class rooms and a ladies' parlor. On the third story will be a balcony to the Sunday School room, with quarters for the primary department having a capacity of 97.

If the present plans are carried out, the parish house will form but a part of the $60,000 plant herewith pictured. These plans would in time do away with the present church building of wood, replacing it with the stone church and parish house.

The buildings will be placed well back from the street, giving opportunity for a broad lawn to properly set them off. The site is located at the corner of Winthrop and Lincoln avenues. The parish house portion is all that will be attempted for at least three years, and the building committee has full power to alter or replace any and all present plans.

The chairman of the building committee declined to state when work would be started on the parish house but it is understood that building operations will begin in a month or six weeks.

Features of the project have been the unbounded enthusiasm of the pastor, Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath Ph. D., and the untiring efforts and hearty financial support of certain men in the church.

The half tone in this article illustrates the new plant of the church when completed.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS?
ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

MY SLOGAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50.
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
Feb. 27-1m

SIMPLICITY BLOUSE FOR WEAR WITH THE PLAIN TAILORED SKIRT

ATTRACTIVE SILK BLOUSE.

THE blouse shown here was fashioned in washable white silk, the sleeves having narrow cuffs in dark blue. The sleeves are without shoulder seams and applied to give a yoked effect. The low rolling collar is finished with a corded ornament, and a little patch pocket adorns the left side of the blouse. Chiffon, taffeta, China silk, voile, crepe or linen might be used in duplicating the design.

$1.00 WHILE THEY LAST

BARGAINS

HISTORIES OF QUINCY

Slightly damaged by water. Just the thing for students of history for reference, or to clip from.

Bargain price of

$1.00

while they last.

A few perfect copies for $3.50

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING COMPANY
LEDGER—PATRIOT OFFICE

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Why Newspaper Advertising Pays:

1. The newspaper advertisement is not buried—it is accessible.
2. The newspaper advertisement of a commodity continually or daily needed is read by the very people whose continual or daily need the advertiser desires to supply.
3. The newspaper advertisement may be seen thirty times a month—it is not limited to one appearance.

Through the daily newspaper the advertiser can make a local and intimate appeal to his prospective customer in his own community and in his own vernacular.

TRY A LEDGER AD

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE BY

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Burbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck.
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield Water st.
A. Pierson, 32 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Unsettled with possible rain Friday, Saturday, fair.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	6.12
Sun sets	5.40
Length of day	11.28
Moon sets	2.39
High water, A. M.	5.45
High water, P. M.	6.15
Days increase 2 hours, 22 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	43 degrees
Mar. 5 1913,	37 degrees
Mar. 5, 1912,	28 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	22

According to the Rules.

Professor of Criminal Law—Can you cite a case in which a deadly assault is justifiable?

The Fullback—Yes, sir; when the other side has the ball.—Washington Star.

PATRIOTISM.

What is patriotism? Is it a narrow affection for the spot where a man was born? Are the clods where we tread entitled to this ardent preference because they are greener? No, sir; this is not the character of the virtue, and it soars higher for its object. It is an extended self love, mingled with all the enjoyments of life, and twisting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that honor his own and cherishes it not only as precious, but sacred. He is willing to risk his life in its defense and is conscious that he gains protection while he gives it.—Fisher Ames, in Congress, 1796.

Good Backs for Bad

Quincy Residents are Learning How to Exchange the Old Back For a Stronger One.

Does your back ache, feel weak and painful?

Do you suffer headaches, languor and depression?

Is the urine discolored, passages irregular?

The kidneys may be calling for help. Weak kidneys cannot do their work. Give them the help they need.

To cure a kidney backache you must cure the kidneys.

Use a tested and proven kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test.

Convincing proof of merit in Quincy endorsement:

Mrs. S. Nelson, 177 Washington St., Quincy, Mass., says: "One of my family had pains across the small of the back. Four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills were used and they made a great improvement. Doan's Kidney Pills deserve great credit for what they have done in this case."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

TENNIS LEAGUE BOWLING

Points Taken by Green, Jenner and Litchfield

The weekly matches of the Wollaston Tennis Club league were rolled at the Coliseum alleys Wednesday night. Jenner was high man of the evening with a three string total of 312. High single went to C. Baker, with 122. Most of the bowling was of the average variety.

The Greens beat the Bakers 4 to 0, having a lead of nearly 100 pins.

CAPT. GREEN

Murray	89	118	85	292
Hiller	89	80	89	258
Raymond	95	80	85	260
Brown	88	104	90	282
Green	86	94	81	261
	447	476	430	1353

CAPT. BAKER.

Powers	83	83	83	249
Hutton	78	88	74	240
Carr	52	78	70	200
Estes	97	83	90	270
C. Baker	80	122	95	297
	390	454	412	1256

The match between Jenner's men and Monroe's was close. The former took the first by 14 pins, lost the second by one, took the third by four and the total by 17.

CAPT. JENNER.

Oldham	83	80	67	230
Barker	73	74	69	216
Ela	75	82	76	233
A. Raymond	80	83	88	251
Jenner	115	99	98	312
	426	418	398	1242

CAPT. MONROE.

R. Baker	94	98	82	274
L. Smith	72	74	72	218
Nelson	77	85	77	239
Gardiner	74	82	75	231
Monroe	95	80	88	263
	412	419	394	1225

The Hoxies fell easy prey to the Litchfields. They opened up a lead of 52 in the first, lost 29 of them in the second, added 37 in the third and closed with a 69 lead and a score of 3 to 1.

CAPT. LITCHFIELD.

Geddes	94	104	86	284
Nickerson	94	80	98	272
Cranshaw	86	63	71	220
Crossly	85	85	89	259
Litchfield	102	89	94	285
	461	421	438	1320

CAPT. HOXIE

Albee	81	80	76	237
W. Smith	79	96	78	253
Bartlett	85	86	86	257
Hillman	77	92	80	249
Hoxie	87	95	81	263
	409	449	401	1259

DECIDED BY LAST EVENT

Cambridge Wins Return Meet with Quincy

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. lost the return meet at Cambridge Wednesday night by the score of 31 to 23 points. The Cambridge boys were swamped in the meet held here in February losing out by 41 1-2 to 12 1-2 points; this gave Quincy the meet by the score of 64 1-2 to Cambridge 43 1-2 points.

The meet this week was not decided until the last event was over. The score stood 25 to 20 when the three broad jumps was called, and it was necessary for the Quincy boys to take first and second in this event for them to win the victory. It seemed that Djerf of Quincy was going to get first place, as his mark of 28 ft. 7 1-2 inches look good, and only two more men were to jump for Cambridge. However Burlinghame leaped 29 ft. 1 in. on his last trial, and Harvey the last man to jump also beat out Glover who has stood second in the standing. This gave Cambridge 6 points more, while Quincy added but 3 to its score.

Joe Phelan did fine work for Quincy, winning the 20 yard dash and the 175 yards, making a new track record for the latter distance. Glover, Djerf and Brown also did good work in their events.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

SPORT NEWS

Hern Smith and Connell of Weymouth beat Jim Olindy and Louis Ross in a 10 string match at the Coliseum alleys Wednesday night by a margin of 101 pins. The totals were 2094 to 1993. Smith averaged 105, Connell 104 plus Ross 102 plus and Olindy almost 97. High string of 125 was made by Smith. The summary:

Smith—99, 89, 122, 125, 111, 108, 97, 107, 97, 95—1050. Connell—93, 96, 124, 97, 100, 100, 120, 93, 112, 109—1044. Total 2094.

Ross—115, 114, 114, 88, 88, 101, 106. 108, 91, 99—1024. Olindy—95, 87, 85, 103, 89, 101, 112, 114, 98, 85—969. Total 1993.

The Makaria and Davis classes will bowl a league match at the Y. M. C. A. alleys Friday evening.

The Houghs Neck A. A. beat the Warmington Pets at the City Square alleys Wednesday night by 40 pins. The match is the first of the All Star series. Lemon of the winners was the only man to triple, his total being 311. Johnson of the losers had high single 114.

JUST COAX THE SPRING.

How to Start a Clock After Winding It Too Tightly.

If in winding a clock actuated by a spring you have given the key a turn too much and so have wound the spring so tight that the clock won't run you don't have to take the clock to a clockmaker to have the spring unwound. You can start it yourself if you will go about it the right way and exercise a little patience.

Jarring or shaking the clock does no good. What you want to do is to hold it up and turn it right and left quickly, but gently, to oscillate the balance wheel. The object of this, of course, is to set the clock in action and free the spring from the binding restraint upon it, give the spring a little play, a chance to exercise its own power. If your own strong arm were bound tightly to your side you couldn't use it at all, but if you could work your arm free just a little bit you could then break loose. It is so with the tightly wound clock spring. Give it just a little of play and it will then be able to exert itself.

With your first oscillation the balance wheel will stop after half a dozen ticks, but that has helped. Keep this up for ten or fifteen minutes and you will then have given the clock spring play enough to enable it to exert its own power and keep the clock going.—New York Sun.

AERIAL PANTRIES.

How the Meat Supply Is Kept Safe In One Alaskan Town.

"Very patriotic lot of people live here, I see," is the remark made by almost every newcomer to the frontier town of Knik, Alaska, at the head of Cook's inlet, when they see that almost every house is supplied with a flagpole.

And they are right about the patriotism, but it just happens that the poles are not for flags, but for meat.

Knik is on the trail to Iditarod and the Kuskokwim valley, and in the summer the sled dogs and the flies are so thick that it is impossible to keep meat in ordinary caches near the ground.

There is no butcher shop in Knik and the only fresh meat is moose or Alaska sheep brought in by the hunters. It's very handy for the housewives of Knik to have the meat supply of the town up in the air. If hubby has poor luck with his gun and the supply runs out, all she has to do is to go to the door, pick out her neighbor who has the largest supply on hand and go borrow a steak or two.

The meat is fastened securely to a rope and it is run up to the top of the pole very much the same as a flag would be.—Milwaukee Journal.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

QUINCY REGISTRY
FOR NURSES
20 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar.
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

MEETING OF TRADE BOARD

(Continued from Page One.)

fended the Gas Company and queried why it was the Electric company was never attacked.

Mr. Richards replied that users of electric power had no complaint to make.

Ex-Mayor Stone said that the people were getting their electric power cheap at the expense of the citizens who were paying more for electric house lights than any other city in the district.

Councilman Ericson said one reason for attacking the Gas Co., was that its stock was held by non residents while the stock of the Electric Co., was held by residents of Quincy.

The motion that the committee again take up the matter of a sign was voted.

POSTAL DISTRICT.

A communication was read, relative to the advisability of having the Quincy post office taken out of the Boston office and made an independent office. The letter also spoke of the injury to local dailies which now have to pay a cent for each paper mailed in the Boston district, and compared this with other places which could send their papers all over the country for a cent a pound. It was also stated that letters for Atlantic and Wollaston had to go to Boston and then come back to their destination.

In order to get information in regard to the matter Postmaster Hammond was called by telephone and a few minutes later came to the meeting and explained the system. He said that he had always lived in Quincy and that he had its interest at heart. All of us are a little mite selfish. The claim of the writer of the letter in regard to papers postage was true.

Mail from Quincy for Atlantic and Wollaston does not go through the Boston office but goes direct to those offices. Between the direct mails letters were forwarded to Boston and sorted at the South Station and then forwarded to their destination, and did not go to the main Boston office at all.

He could not see any advantages to be obtained by being an independent office, while on the other hand Quincy had many advantages it could not have obtained if it was not a part of the Bston office.

Mr. Ross asked about mail dropped in the box at Norfolk Downs in the early evening..

In reply Mr. Hammond said that mail dropped in a box here up to 7.30 was collected and forwarded to Boston on the 9.15 train and that a letter mailed in a box at that time would be delivered in New York, Worcester or Providence the following morning.

A special pouch of mail for western points was made up at the Quincy office and went direct without going through the Boston office. In the city proper all mail was collected from the boxes at 10 o'clock P. M. and was forwarded to Boston on the 11.25 P. M. train.

Being a part of Boston, enabled Quincy to have more carriers than it would otherwise have as the receipts would not warrant the service we are now getting.

Mr. Ross thought that 7.30 a little early for the collection at Norfolk Downs, but was informed by Mr. Hammond that when an independent office the box mentioned was collected at 5.30.

Continuing he said that some of the carriers in the centre started out early in the morning and it often happened that they had to awaken people to deliver their mail.

When one asked for these new changes they want to stop a minute and think what they are now getting. Think how much more it is costing than the office is paying, and that we are getting these things simply because we are a part of Boston.

It was voted that the sense of the meeting be, that the office should remain a part of the Boston district.

Mr. Hammond was then asked what he thought of cent postage and in reply said, that he believed, omitting himself, that when we begin to pay better salaries to the men it would be time for one cent postage. He also said that the claim of the railroads that they were losing money on account of the parcel post was true.

At this point Mr. Hammond filed an application and was unanimously elected to membership.

☞PRATT'S BREAD is baked by experts in proved ovens. Sold by grocers.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on Box. 25c

NOW DEPENDING UPON CARRANZA

No Immediate New Steps In Mexican Situation

TRUTH OF BENTON EPISODE

Will Be Ferreted Out by Leader of Constitutionalists—Expected to Test His Power Over Villa—Washington Policy of "Watchful Waiting" Will Be Continued For the Present

Washington, March 5.—While Great Britain's failure to press for action by the United States in the Benton case relieves the administration of extraneous pressure in this particular case it exposes a flaw in the Monroe doctrine which may develop into a fracture of that famous policy.

General Carranza, in his refusal to permit the United States to act for foreigners in Mexico, probably is advised by Latin-Americans who are hostile to this feature of our relations with the countries to the south.

Carranza's announcement that he had appointed a special commission to investigate the recent execution by General Villa of Benton, coupled with the declaration from Great Britain that she would not look to the United States for action as a result of the incident, is generally accepted as meaning the abandonment of the expedition of American and British representatives who were to have gone to Chihuahua to examine Benton's body.

England's withdrawal at this time and Carranza's professed determination to investigate the Benton killing of his own accord will put the United States, it is believed, in the position of a patient observer of developments with no present necessity for further inquiry into the Benton episode.

The decision of Carranza to ferret out the truth of the Benton execution will mean a test of his authority over Villa, according to many officials here, and will further demonstrate whether the constitutionalists intend to afford protection to foreigners and make reparation for injury done them.

One of the reasons why there is little tendency to press the inquiry on the part of the United States or Great Britain is the fact that by this time Benton's body must be badly decomposed. Evidence of a conclusive character as yet undisclosed has been in the hands of officials for several days.

Next steps in the situation seem to depend on Carranza. His declaration that the United States has no right to inquire about the welfare of any foreign subjects but her own will not be accepted by the Washington government. Carranza's friends here are hopeful that he will eventually alter his position on this point and reveal a friendly attitude toward the United States.

HIDDEN UNDER THE FLOOR

Hoard of $2250 Found In Shanty of Man Dead Two Months

Titicut, Mass., March 5.—Workmen engaged in repairing the shanty occupied for twenty years by James Barron, flagman at the crossing here who died two months ago, found beneath the floor in a canvas bag bills and silver amounting to $2250, representing Barron's life savings.

Barron, who was 65 years old at the time of his death, was employed for many years before he came here in an oyster house.

The local authorities do not know whether Barron had any relatives, but are searching for them.

VICTIM OF HIS PRODUCT

Pioneer Manufacturer of X-Ray Tubes Dies of Poisoning

Hartford, March 5.—Henry Green, pioneer manufacturer of X-ray tubes, died at his home here of carcinoma of the liver, induced by X-ray poisoning, aged 54.

He developed the first focusing tubes to be successfully operated and gave many public demonstrations, later beginning the manufacture of tubes on a commercial basis. John L. Bauer, a glass blower, who aided him in the development of the tubes, died from the same disease in 1913.

LID IS PARTLY ON

Saloons In Alaska Forbidden to Sell Liquor on Sundays

Fairbanks, Alaska, March 5.—Acting under instructions from the attorney general of the United States, District Attorney Crossley ordered all saloons to close from Saturday midnight until Sunday midnight.

Similar action has been taken at Nome, Valdez and Juneau. Heretofore the saloons have remained open continuously night and day.

Fire In Worcester School

Worcester, Mass., March 5.—Twelve hundred pupils of the Worcester classical high school filed out in perfect order in one minute and a quarter when fire was discovered in the building. The damage is about $1200.

Quadruplets Are Doing Well

Flatwood, Tenn., March 5.—Quadruplets, three boys and a girl, all healthy and normal, were born to Mrs. Corbett Covlinger, wife of a farmer. All are doing well.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Ralph W. Hobbs late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Emma A. Hobbs of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the eighteenth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this second day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 5-3t. 5-9-16.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS—STATE HOUSE, BOSTON MAR. 4, 1914. The Committee on Agriculture will give a hearing to parties interested in H. 1742, for protecting birds by licensing cats; H. 1743, on manufactured cream; S. 357 on lighting fires in open air;—at room 453, State House, on Tuesday, March 10th at 10.30 A. M. A. Charles F. Ward, Chairman. Herbert L. Ray Clerk of the Committee.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS—STATE HOUSE, BOSTON MAR. 4, 1914. The Committee on Joint Judiciary will give a hearing to parties interested in S. 334, to prohibit gambling in connection with baseball, bowling, horse-racing; S. 372, on appointment of Auditors; H. 1613, on Equitable Process after Judgment; H. 1614, to prevent fraudulent or unfair ex parte orders; H. 1777, to define term residence in law on marriage records; H. 1778, on verification of Pleadings in Personal actions;—at room 247, State House, on Friday, March 6th at 10.30 A. M. Clarence W. Hobbs, Jr. Chairman. Robert Robinson, Clerk of the Committee.

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

In effect Nov. 16, 1913

The letters in the same line as the figures below stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows.

a Wollaston	f Harrison Square
b Norfolk Downs	g Savin Hill a
c Atlantic	h Cross Avenue
d Neponset	i South Boston
e Pope's Hill	r Quincy Adams
* Saturdays Only	† Except Saturday

Exp.—Express train.

TO BOSTON			FROM BOSTON
Leave	Stop	Arrive	Leave	Stop	Arrive
r 5 14	abcdefghi	5 41	5 44	ihgfedcba	6 14 r
r 6 19	abcl	6 40	6?0	ihgfedcba	6 39 r
r 6 32	e	6 49	6 29	a	6 47
			6 47	Exp	7 04
r 6 40	abcf	7 06	7 14	hgfedcba	7 41 r
r 7 08	abcd	7 30	7 34	a	7 52
7 28	a	7 46	7 37	a	7 56
r 7 32	Exp	7 49	7 44	c	8 03 r
r 7 42	ab	8 00	8 31	eba	8 55 r
7 55	a	8 12	8 44	b	9 02
r 8 13	abe	8 32	9 09	fedba	9 32 r
8 24	a	8 41	9 41	a	10 01 r
r 8 33	a	8 50	10 14	ihgfedcba	10 41 r
r 8 59	ad	9 16	10 54	Exp	11 10
r 9 18	abc	9 39	11 14	hgfedcba	11 41 r
r 10 04	a	10 21	11 49	a	12 07
r 10 19	abcdefghi	10 45	12 14	hgfedcba	12 41 r
11 12	a	11 28	12 20	a	12 38
11 24	abcdefghi	11 50	12 50	Exp	1 06
12 04	a	12 20	1 16	fedcba	1 40 r
			* 1 32	a	1 50
r 12 27	abcdefghi	12 53	1 44	a	2 01
r 1 16	a	1 34	2 14	fedcba	2 37 r
2 04	a	2 20	2 34	Exp	2 50
r 2 19	abcdefghi	2 46	3 14	hgfedcba	3 40 r
r 3 13	Exp	3 28	3 41	a	4 02
4 01	a	4 20	4 12	fedcba	4 35 r
r 4 26	abcdefghi	4 53	4 15	a	4 32
5 02	a	5 19	4 40	c	4 58
r 5 30	abcdefg	5 55	4 55	a	5 11
6 04	a	6 21	5 13	a	5 32
6 12	ab	6 32	5 19	hgfeca	5 43
6 57	a	7 15	5 28	ba	5 46 r
r 7 22	Exp	7 39	5 40		5 57
7 29	ab	7 48	5 58	a	6 17 r
r 8 09	abcdef	8 32	6 01	fedcb	6 24
9 00	a	9 18	6 16	a	6 35
r 9 10	abc	9 29	6 30	ecba	6 52 r
* 9 17	Exp.	9 32	6 59	fedcba	7 24 r
r 10 07	abcdef	10 39	7 11	a	7 28
* 10 19	a	10 37	8 04	fedcba	8 28 r
11 13	a	11 30	* 8 19	Exp	8 35
r 11 30	abcd	11 50	9 19	a	9 37
			9 34	b	9 53 r
			10 05	ba	10 24
			10 34	fedcba	11 02 r
			*11 00	a	11 25 r
			†11 09	fedcba	11 35 r
			*11 25	ba	11 45 r
			†11 29	ba	11 49
			12 05	cba	12 26 r

SUNDAYS

r 7 43	abc	8 03	8 29	ba	8 48
8 30	Exp	8 45	8 54	cba	8 55 r
r 8 46	abcdefghi	9 13	10 39	cba	10 59 r
r 9 13	abc	9 33	12 14	ihgfedcba	12 42
9 31	a	9 47	12 44	Exp	1 01
10 25	ac	10 42	1 29	ihgfedcba	1 57 r
11 08	Exp	11 25	2 14	hgfedcba	2 42 r
r 11 16	abcdefghi	11 43	2 44	a	3 02
1 04	a	1 23	3 14	ihgfedcba	3 42 r
r 1 16	abcdefgh	1 43	4 26	cba	4 48 r
r 3 10	abc	3 30	5 14	ihgfedcba	5 42 r
r 4 16	abcdefghi	4 43	6 09	Exp	6 25
4 59	ab	5 16	6 14	ihgfedcba	6 42 r
5 06		5 23	7 02	cba	7 22 r
6 14	abcdefghi	6 43	8 14	ihgfedcba	8 41 r
7 21	Exp	7 36	8 39	a	8 56 r
7 29	abcdefghi	7 55	8 49	Exp	9 05
r 8 16	abcdefghi	8 43	9 29	ihgfedcba	9 57 r
9 46	a	10 04	10 44	cba	11 04 r
0 46	abc	11 05

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To Sarah J. Clark of Quincy in said County of Norfolk, and to her heirs apparent or presumptive:

Whereas, a petition for conservatorship has been presented to said Court, by Abbie M. Kribs of said Quincy alleging that said Sarah J. Clark has become incapacitated by reason of sickness to properly care for her property, and praying that Delcevare King of said Quincy or some other suitable person, may be appointed conservator of her property, agreeably to the law in such case made and provided. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in and for said County of Norfolk, on the eleventh day of March A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why a conservator should not be appointed as afore said. And said petitioner is hereby directed to cause you to be notified of the time and place appointed for the hearing of said petition, by serving said Sarah J. Clark with a copy of this order, seven days at least before said Court; and by mailing to said heirs apparent or presumptive at the last known post office address of each, a copy of the same, seven days at least before said Court, or instead of said mailing, by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this nineteenth day of February in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Feb. 26-3t 26-5-9

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1253-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy. Feb. 27-tf

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 5, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice)

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree 6.35 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.35 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 9.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.30 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 8.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 6.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight. Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Adams Street, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. then 12.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Wollaston—6.05, 6.55, 7.03 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.03 P. M. then 11.20, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.25 P. M. then 11.42 P. M. and 12.12 midnight. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.05, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 20 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15, 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sundays 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 11.00 P. M.

THOMAS SAMMON, Superintendent.

Flanagan's Boy

Story of St. Patrick's Day

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"Larry will never be coming home," sighed Dennis Flanagan as he looked out into the March twilight. "It's five years since he went away to seek his fortune, Molly, and do you never wonder what he's found?"

Molly Delaney looked at her uncle through unshed tears.

"I am always wondering that, Uncle Dennis," she answered.

"Light the lamp, Molly, and read his latest letter," requested Dennis.

When the lamp was lighted it disclosed a comfortable sitting room, clean and cozy and warm. It showed Dennis in his big rocking chair, his helpless rheumatic feet propped on a stool. Lovely Molly Delaney, with her misty black hair and her Irish blue eyes, sat down at the table and opened the worn envelope that contained Larry Flanagan's letter and read:

Dear Father—Although it's five years since I left you with high hopes in my heart that my returning would be soon, I fear that I must wait a little longer before seeing your dear face again and feeling the hearty clasp of your hand. Gold is an alluring jade. She has led me a pretty chase in this bleak, cold country, and now she is only just in sight. Please God, when next I write it will be to tell you that I have struck it rich, that I am coming home to buy a grand house for you and Molly, and we will all be happy together. Remember that I promised Molly that when I came home I'd bring her a bunch of emerald shamrocks, the real jewels, and now they are just within my reach. A boy from Hazenville is due here tomorrow, and with his coming I expect to hear direct news from you both. With love from your dutiful son, LARRY.

Molly lifted her eyes and looked across the table at Dennis Flanagan.

"Uncle Dennis, I'm afraid that Larry will never come home," she whispered.

The old man lifted a tremulous hand.

"Hush, child; I've a feeling that Larry will come back to us. I had a dream last night. I thought there came a knocking at the door and I opened it to see our Larry. Instead of wearing fine clothes and a silk hat, poor Larry was in rags. And instead of pinning a bunch of emerald shamrocks on your bosom, where they'd be out of place on that flimsy cotton gown, my dear, our poor Larry carried a little pot of the living green plant from old Ireland. And then I woke up."

Molly was sobbing softly.

"I don't care how poor he is, Uncle Dennis, if he will only come home to us."

"No more do I, childie," whimpered Dennis.

"Don't sorrow, Uncle Dennis," comforted the girl, slipping to her knees beside him. "Larry will soon come home. If this last quest for gold should prove useless, I can see him turning about and coming back to us. Between the lines of his letter I could read that he was hungering for the ones he had left behind."

"God bless you, daughter," smiled Dennis more cheerfully.

* * * * * * *

The Alaska twilight had fallen swiftly like a dull gray blanket tossed over the frozen world; then a ghostly moon appeared over the eastern mountains and revealed bleak expanses of glistening snow and the dark masses of pine trees.

Under the shoulder of the hill crouched a little cabin, and before the blazing fire on its hearth two young men were sitting. The "boy from Hazenville" had arrived, and Larry Flanagan was listening to his story of home and the home folks.

"And my old father helpless with the rheumatism?" repeated Larry incredulously; "Why, Mike Dolan, the old scout never wrote a word of it to me! But, thank heaven, the railroad stocks will keep him comfortable, but"—

Mike Dolan looked at the big framed man, whose brown hair was graying on the temples and whose handsome face had taken on new lines of doggedness during the past five years. Was it possible that Larry did not know that the little western railroad had blown up and that old Dennis Flanagan's stock was worthless?

"Larry," he interrupted soberly, "didn't you know that the railroad busted and your father lost every penny?"

"You lie!" cried Larry savagely, for he was struck to the heart by the news.

Mike Dolan smiled pityingly.

"It's all true, Larry, and what's more true is that your little cousin Molly is a wonderful girl. When the bad news came the lass opened a millinery shop, and with her clever fingers she certainly has made money hand over fist. She's taken good care of your father, and"— "Whisht, man," cried Larry in an agonized tone, "I cannot bear to hear any more! Look at me, Mike Dolan! Laugh at me! I came away to make my fortune. I said when I returned I would bring Molly a bunch of shamrock made from emeralds, with diamond dewdrops on 'em, and look at this!" He swept his arm in a gesture that included the four corners of the rough cabin. "Me, still striving to make good that promise, and Molly—sweet little Molly Delaney—not bothering her dear head about emeralds or diamonds, but doing her duty day by day! Laugh at me, Mike Dolan, for I am a blind fool!"

But Mike Dolan did not laugh.

* * * * * * *

On the 17th of March Dennis Flanagan and his niece sat down to supper.

All day long Dennis had listened for the postman's ring at the doorbell, but in vain. There came a newspaper from his old home in County Antrim, Ireland, but beyond that there was nothing. Always before they had received some word from Larry in his faraway home, and, though the delay might be attributed to the mails and the heavy snowstorms reported in the northwest, Dennis was heavy hearted.

"May the blessed saint whose day it is protect him wherever he is!" sighed Dennis as he took a cup of tea from Molly's hand.

"I'm sure we will hear from Larry in the morning," cried Molly hopefully. "Look, Uncle Dennis, at the sweet pot of shamrock I brought home."

Dennis looked at her keenly.

"Molly, lass, and do you not pine for the real emeralds, the jewels that Larry promised?" he asked.

Molly laughed scornfully. Her cheeks flushed rosily, and her blue eyes shone with love for the absent lover-cousin.

"Uncle Dennis, you make me ashamed! Don't you believe I'd rather see a lad who has two green eyes—eyes the color of that bunch of shamrock—than all the jewels in the world? Those emerald eyes of Larry Flanagan's are the only jewels I would wear against my heart!" She hung her head in sudden sweet shame.

Dennis' wrinkled hand was stretched across the table toward her.

"Then, Molly, lass," he whispered, "maybe it'll come all right, for again I dreamed the dream of Larry coming home, poor and needy instead of rich and"—

"Who wanted him rich, Uncle Dennis?" cried the girl hotly. "We were satisfied, you and I. We pleaded with him not to go away and leave us. But there; perhaps it was for the best, but there is an ache behind it all!"

"What is that?" Dennis lifted his head.

"The music of the band. The knights o' green are parading. Shall we go down to the corner of the street and watch them, Uncle Dennis?"

"Yes. 'Twasn't so many years ago that I marched with 'em meself on St. Patrick's day, and Larry—I hoped by this time he would be back among them, brave in a green and gold uniform. Help me on with my overcoat, dearie."

So the old man, leaning on the arm of the slender, upright girl, went down to the corner and with swelling heart watched the passing of the gallant knights who marched in honor of the good St. Patrick.

As the tail of the procession passed out of sight Dennis Flanagan and his niece turned toward home.

Molly knew that the old man's heart was far away in Alaska with the beloved son, who was vainly seeking the will o' the wisp, gold.

Tonight gold and the luxuries it brings seemed a tiny thing to the girl with the aching heart.

Again they were seated about the glowing little stove in the sitting room when there came a soft knocking at the door to the porch.

Molly crossed the room and opened the door only to fall back against the lintel white lipped and staring.

"Uncle Dennis, Uncle Dennis, I'm seeing visions!" she sobbed, pointing to the snow covered porch.

Dennis hobbled to her side and saw the form of a man huddled on the door mat.

"Poor soul!" he muttered, turning the face toward the light, and then he fell back, with a startled cry.

"Heavens, Molly, it's our own Larry! 'Tis my dream come true!" he moaned.

Molly recovered her courage when she realized that she was actually needed to allay suffering. She rubbed the cold face with snow and poured a strong stimulant through the white lips. After awhile Larry opened his eyes, smiled, shook himself and slowly staggered to his feet.

When he was safely inside, supported on either side by father and sweetheart, he looked down at them from tender green eyes that were rarely beautiful.

Dennis and Molly looked at him hungrily.

Larry, who had gone forth so gallantly to seek his fortune, who had promised to bring back emerald shamrocks to deck his sweetheart's breast—Larry was shabby and obviously poor and undeniably hungry, for he was thin and pale and worn.

But he was Larry, come home to them once more!

Clasped in his father's trembling arms, Larry soothed the old man's excitement, while Molly hurried to and fro making a pot of strong coffee and broiling a piece of beefsteak.

When she had set the table with the meal Larry's eyes beckoned her across the room, and she came and stood before him.

"Molly, darling," said Larry in a low tone, "my fine promises are for nothing. I come home poorer than when I went away, and the emeralds I was to bring home, lassie"—his voice shook—"are missing. I find you have been as a daughter to my father. My heart is broken with the shame of it all, and"— Molly's soft hand closed his lips.

"Be still," she smiled at him, while Dennis chuckled in his corner. "Be still, Larry. You have brought home jewels to me worth more than emeralds. Your true eyes of emerald green are my jewels, and your love and constancy shall always grow green in my heart, and the little bit of living green yonder"—she pointed to the shamrock on the table—"is more to me than lifeless gems or cold gold."

While Larry held her close to him Dennis nodded his head at his son.

"'Tis true, lad. A good woman is above rubies, but our little Molly is far above rubies and gold and emeralds."

In the News and Out of the Ordinary

A bottle thrown in the sea at Canarsie, N. Y., July 6, 1912, has been found at Bandorra docks, County Mayo, Ireland.

Paterson (N. J.) man was arrested for running a beer pipe to a house next door, by that means serving customers on Sunday.

The new dances will be taught passengers aboard a ship leaving New York March 11 for a cruise of twenty-seven days

The aldermen of Mendota, Ill., fixed the mayor's salary at 10 cents a day on the ground that he is wealthy and needs no salary at all. The mayor insisted that he receive $300 a year.

A woman who owns twenty-seven cats and keeps some of them in every room of her house is not necessarily insane, according to the report of a commission in the case of Miss Jennie Butts of McLean, N. Y.

MOTHERS TOLD HOW TO TREAT SICK CHILDREN.

Recognizing the Nature of Ailments of a Dangerous Character.

At the Willoughby House settlement, Brooklyn, recently, Dr. Walter B. Ludlum, addressing an audience of mothers on "The Care of Sick Babies," said that babies' diseases go fast, and that many of their troubles will disappear if left alone.

"But," he said, "there is another group that won't improve without treatment. If we begin at the top of the baby we must classify meningitis as one of the most serious complaints.

"There is one sort of meningitis from which every child dies. There is another kind, however, in which the child is almost sure to get well if the disease is taken in time. If the baby is troubled with headaches and if he holds his head too far back call the doctor quick.

"The baby's eyes can usually be kept in good condition by bathing them with a solution of borax and water. But if the eyes begin to run and this continues even two or three days it may be serious.

"A running nose is not uncommon, especially if a child has a cold. But if it keeps on running after the cold is over that is a sign of adenoids. If blood comes from inside the nose it may mean diphtheria.

"There are two kinds of croup. One looks bad, but isn't; the other is as bad as the first one looks. While waiting for the doctor it is a good plan to give the baby a dose of ipecac or salted water.

"In nineteen cases out of twenty convulsions come from the stomach. The baby should be put into a hot bath at once, care being taken not to burn it, and as soon as it can swallow it should be given a dose of castor oil.

"Teething causes almost no trouble to a healthy child.

"Bronchitis is a serious disease in a baby, for it often results in pneumonia, but it is readily subject to treatment, and that should begin at once. To keep the baby's lungs strong it should always sleep in a room with the windows open, and, except in the very severest weather, it does the baby good to sleep outdoors.

"In stomach troubles the first thing to do is to stop feeding the baby. Cutting off the food and giving a dose of castor oil is frequently all that is necessary to put the child in good condition again."

FLORIDA AND HER VETERANS.

State's Confederate Pension Allowance the Largest—Next Reunion.

Interesting in connection with the twenty-fourth annual reunion at Jacksonville, Fla., May 6, 7 and 8, is the fact that Florida pays out more money per capita for the support of dependent ex-Confederate soldiers than any other southern state. Florida's allowance for this purpose has been $600,000 a year, but the legislature has passed a still more liberal pension law, which will authorize additional payments of approximately $150,000 a year, making the total $750,000 per annum paid to Confederate pensioners by the state.

Florida is not only caring for the living, but the memory of the dead is also kept green. Throughout the state Confederate monuments have been erected by both public and private means. All told, there are twenty, or possibly more, and others are yet to be erected. A home for ex-Confederate soldiers is maintained at Jacksonville. Last year the state appropriated $5,000 to the Confederate soldiers' home at Jacksonville. Two Confederate monuments have been erected at Jacksonville, and a monument will be dedicated to the women of the Confederacy during the coming reunion. This monument is a companion to the handsome state memorial unveiled last May on the battlefield of Chickamauga.

A New Navy Christening Formula.

The old christening words, "I christen thee," for vessels of the United States navy will be supplanted in the future by "I name thee in the name of the United States," according to an announcement made by the Society of Sponsors for the United States navy.

FIRE OFFICERS' PAY CUT

Mayor of Boston Chops Off Increase Granted by Fitzgerald

Boston, March 5.—All of the officers of Boston's fire department and several of the employes of the fire alarm, construction and clerical branches of that service, had their salaries slashed by Mayor Curley yesterday.

In all the mayor lopped, at one swoop, $63,831 off the payrolls of the department, cutting the salaries of every officer in the department from Chief Mullen to the newest lieutenant. None but the privates in the department escaped.

The cut represents the last increases which these officers received from ex-Mayor Fitzgerald's hands.

It was announced by the mayor last night that he is going to confer with Police Commissioner O'Meara with a view to administering the same treatment to the members of the police department higher than the rank of patrolman.

ORGANS ARE DISTINCT

Twins Joined In Region of Stomach Separated by Surgeons

Paris, March 5.—The delicate operation of separating the "Siamese twins," Madeleine-Suzanne, who were born united, was performed here.

The twins were born Nov. 28, 1913. At birth they weighed ten pounds. Both children appeared perfectly healthy.

Madeleine-Suzanne were joined together in the region of the stomach. The juncture was of a superficial kind, and radiography examination showed there was no organ of importance in the uniting membrane. The organs of the children were entirely distinct.

The operaton on twins so joined, although always dangerous to life, was considered justified by French scientists in view of the tragic deaths of former pairs.

HISS THE BRITISH ARMY AT MOVIES

Alleged Attempt to Lure Irishmen Resented at Dublin

Dublin, March 5.—A film which the war office is exhibiting to advertise the army, when shown for the first time in this city, drew forth hooting and hissing from a section of the back seats and cheers for the kaiser and the Germans.

There was a prolonged uproar after which one of the men who interrupted the exhibition made a speech of protest against what he declared to be an attempt to lure Irishmen into the British army. It looked for a time as if there would be a fight, but the manager succeeded in pouring oil on the troubled waters.

WHITE WOMEN PROTEST

Threaten Judge For Sentencing Negro For Stealing a Kiss

Los Angeles, Cal., March 5.—Protests, threats of recall and denunciations from white women poured in on Judge Willis of the criminal department of the superior court because he sentenced to thirty years' imprisonment Charles Guyton, a young negro, convicted of highway robbery, although his only loot was a white girl's kiss.

Willis explained that the negro had been convicted of highway robbery. He had taken a dime from the white girl, although he gave it back after he had kissed her, and he had subjected six other white women to similar treatment, besides criminally attacking two negro girls.

CAUTIONED TO BOIL MILK

Advice of Board of Health to Citizens of Wakefield

Wakefield, Mass., March 5.—At an informal meeting of the local board of health last night it was decided to publish a warning cautioning all persons in the town to boil milk before it is used.

This is taken as a precautionary measure, it was stated, and is in no sense foundation for alarm. The epidemic of tonsilitis, which has reached 500 cases, has begun to abate and there has been no increase in the number of scarlet fever and diphtheria cases.

GILL IS RE-ELECTED

Recalled Mayor of Seattle Will Again Go Into Office

Seattle, March 5.—Hiram C. Gill, two years ago recalled from the mayor's chair, has been elected to the same office by a plurality of 14,000.

James D. Trenholme, business men's candidate, was Gill's opponent. Gill promised strict enforcement of liquor selling and vice laws.

Says Tenth of Women Are "Slavers"

Denver, March 5.—"Ten percent of the women of this country are engaged directly or indirectly in white slavery," Judge Lindsey declared at a discussion of the Civil Federation.

Actress Fined For Queer Stunt

Washington, March 2.—Minnie Burke, a burlesque actress, who electrified Washington by tripping down the Capitol steps in scant attire, was fined $35.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS — CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING — WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.

TO LET

TO LET—At North Weymouth, flat of 5 rooms, some improvements, near salt water and good place to keep hens. Rent reasonable to small family. Few minutes to trains to Boston. Apply at 445 Washington street, Quincy. March 3-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 3-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms centrally located, breakfast if desired, men or women. Write T. L. Ledger Office. 3-6t

TO LET—Flat of 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 3-6t

TO LET—Rooms and board, 18 Washington street. 2-6t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 2-6t

TO LET—In private family to refined people, two very fine corner rooms, newly furnished, with separate baths. Near centre. Write L. B. K. Ledger Office. 26-9t

TO LET—Furnished rooms, steam heat, bath, electric lights, $2.00 a week, 484 Quincy avenue, Newcomb Square. 20-12t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

RUSSELL PARK — Commodious house of seven rooms, large hall and bath. Modern, every convenience open fireplace, furnace, range, set tubs, electric lights, cemented cellar, etc. Best residential neighborhood. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further details or key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office. tf lpo

TO LET—40 Park lane, 6 rooms all modern improvements. Rent $23.00. Apply 22 Berkeley street. Tel. 349-M. 5-tf

TO LET—Single house, 3 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block—2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $2 a month

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)
Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 982—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall—Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block. ('Phone 21066) Quincy

Read Ledger Ads

LOST

LOST—Wednesday a Fur Boa, between Common street and Adams street bridge. Finder please return to Dennen's Restaurant and receive reward. 5tf

LOST—Between Quincy Electric Light Station and depot, gold watch charm, marked L. U. Engineering Society. Suitable reward. R. J. Green, General Electric Co., 84 State street, Boston. 4-3t

FOUND

FOUND—A watch on Federal avenue. Owner can have by calling at 29 Garfield street, proving property and paying cost. 4-3t

WANTED

WANTED—A young lady for clerical work in purchasing department. No experience necessary. Must be neat, quick and bright, Quincy or Dorchester lady preferred. $6.00 per week to start. Address G. S. Mar. 5-2t

WANTED—A small shed or building, about 16x20, suitable to be made into a garage. Will move from premises. State lowest price. Address M. M. Ledger office. 5-6t

WANTED—Ladies to make bow ties for Easter. We pay you. Send stamped reply envelope for particulars. Ribbon Works, Plainville, Conn. 5-1t

WANTED—Position by young lady cashier, office work or assistant bookkeeper. Apply to C. M. V. 249 Whitwell street, Quincy. 3-3t

WANTED—An intelligent young girl for general house work, in family of three. Tel. 114 Quincy. 28-6t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York. N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

MI-AS-MA-INE—Guaranteed to cure Malaria or money refunded. If not found at your druggist, see Agent at Sawyer Drug Co., 274 Tremont st., Boston, Mass. 3-6t

$20.00 REWARD will be paid for the arrest and conviction of party or parties who broke into and set fire to our Engine House on Feb. 26th and 27th 1914. Bay View Quarry Company. 28-tf

TO LET

TO LET—Single house, seven rooms and bath, all modern improvements. Apply P. J. Williams, 19 Independence Ave. Tel. Quincy 369. 5-6t

TO LET—8 rooms, arranged for one or two families. Improvements. $25. 20 Broadway, Quincy, Mass. 5-1t

TO LET—173 Whitwell street, half house, modern conveniences, $20 per month. Ready for immediate occupancy. Apply Penniman's Stable, Granite street. 19-tf

UPPER APARTMENT. In two-family house on Spear Street. Five rooms, bath, large pantry and closets, also open attic with finished heated chamber. Every improvement, electric light, furnace, range etc. Ready for immediate occupancy. Telephone Quincy 278 M or enquire mornings of Miss Prescott at the Ledger Office. lpo

FOR SALE

PRIVATE SALE—Thursday and Friday, household furniture. Refrigerator, Bureaus, China Closet, Rugs, Stands, Draperies, Pictures at 255 Farrington street, Wollaston. 4-2t

FOR SALE—1913 Ford Touring Car, in excellent condition. Apply to Edward D. Barrett, 27 Revere road, Quincy. 3-3t

FOR SALE—Small, willow baby carriage. 34 Park Lane, Quincy. 27-6t

FOR SALE—Upright piano in first class condition. Sell very reasonable as owner has no use for it. 46 Gay street, Quincy. 20-12t

FOR SALE—Two 1913 Ford Touring Cars in first class condition. Guaranteed. Also 1, 1910 Chalmers at the Quincy Garage, 87 Adams street, Quincy. 24-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

A few Choice House Lots — ON — PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX

are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

JUST LOOK HERE

Two Suite House in Wollaston—7large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.

HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. C. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 33 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 / Office 83-M

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

KINCAIDE THEATRE

THURS., FRI. SAT.
Every Afternoon at 2.30. 5. 10. 15c.
Evenings at 7.45. 10. 15. 25c
Program Subject to Change

WILLIAM McKAY & CO.
Presenting their Comedy Playlet
"HONEST JOHN McGUIRE"

VALLEY FORGE FOUR
Comedy Singing and Talking

McCARVEY
The Male Prima Donna

HALL & O'BRIEN
Singing Talking and Dancing

Great 2-Reel Feature
"BY RADIUMS RAYS"
A modern Melodrama featuring Herbert Rawlinson and Edna Maison
Louie Webber in her own Drama
"WOMAN'S BURDEN"

"SCOOPED BY A HENCOOP"
A cackling Comedy

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

Mar. 4—3t

BRIEFS

David Haley and family have recently moved into their new house on Cleverly Court.

The Swedish Socialist Club will hold a dancing party in Electa hall tonight. A prize dance will be held and the judge will be Elmer Baker.

Rev. W. E. Dowty of St. Paul's church, Malden, preached at Christ church Wednesday evening at the Lenten service. His theme was the "Istability of temporal things." Music was by the regular choir and there was a good attendance.

Ten tables were in play Wednesday evening at the weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club. The prize winners were Frank W. White and George W. Jones. Escalloped oysters were served after the tournament.

Rufus B. Tobey of Lincoln avenue, left today for Nebraska, whither he was called by the illness of his brother. His stay is uncertain and will depend upon conditions found on his arrival.

The ice companies anounce that hereafter the price of ice will be at the rate of 35 cents per hundred pounds for fifty pounds and over and that the price for less than fifty pounds will be at the rate of 40 cents per hundred pounds.

Twenty-five members, more than half of whom were women, attended the annual banquet of the Wollaston Swimming Club at the Revere House, Boston, Wednesday night. President John B. Quinn was toastmaster and several of those present contributed musical numbers.

The second monthly whist of the Abigail Adams circle, Independent Companions of America, was held in Clan MacGregor hall, Tuesday evening, after the regular meeting. Prizes were awarded P. Hines, Mrs. Louis Berman, John Caponicolos, Mrs. Kane, Mr. Maulsson, Mrs. S. Kennedy and D. J. O'Brien. Consolations went to E. White and E. MacIntosh.

Col. Goethals is so opposed to fuss and feathers, that he talks as if he did not want to be present the day the canal is opened. His wife should insist, though, that he put on his best uniform and sit out on the piazza.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

CHICHESTER S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-ches-ter s Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

Call Quincy 501--W

If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN, upholsterer, 1000 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School

Mar. 4 tf

CARD OF THANKS.

In my recent bereavement the very many acts of kindness, the beautiful flowers, the words of comfort affect me deeply, and I desire to express my appreciation for all this to my many friends.

Mrs. William H. Stevenson.
Quincy, March 5 L-1t P 7 1w

BIRTHS

HALLIGAN—In West Quincy, March 2, a son to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Halligan of Rogers street.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

ATLANTIC CHURCH IS PROSPERING

Vote to Buy Lot Adjourning Church For Enlargement of the Plant

Annual Reports Were Very Encouraging---Officers Elected

The Memorial Congregational church of Atlantic had a well filled vestry Wednesday evening at its annual meeting and election of officers.

The reports of the different branches of church work were received with enthusiasm. The pastor's report showed that everything was working well and that so far the attendance Sunday mornings in 1914 had surpassed anything in the history of the church. Rev. T. W. Davison reported having made 724 pastoral calls and 56 visits to the sick. In closing his report he paid a warm tribute to the late Mrs. W. L. Buckley.

H. B. Wells' report as clerk showed that the church had received 36 members during the year, but was carrying a larger non-resident list on account of the removals.

Paul Butler, the treasurer, reported that almost $5,000.00 had gone through the treasury last year, and that he had $161.71 balance on church expenses and every bill paid; also a good sum in the benevolent fund.

Spencer Appollonio's report as collector showed that F. M. Burditt, who was elected one year ago as collector, had done thorough work in that office and left the office in the most prosperous condition, as more had contributed at that time than at any period in the history of the church, but during the year Mr. Burditt and many others had removed so that the present collectors and finance committee would have to work hard to keep up to Mr. Burditt's mark.

Mrs. Harry W. Read reported for the Ladies Benevolent Society and told of the many activities of the Ladies, and that after their reducing the mortgage to $3,000.00 they had already started work with the thought of taking off a little more in the future and had now about $125.00 in their treasury and an Easter sale coming. This report received a rising vote of thanks.

W. F. Cummings reported for the Sunday school, and told of the new activities of the cradle roll, and that at present, the school was planning a kindergarten under the direction of Mrs. Eugene Hayford, so that mothers could come to church and leave children in the care of Mrs. Hayford and her assistants. The Sunday School had done two-thirds of the work last summer in putting granolithic walks and walls around the church.

Mrs. H. B. Wells reported for the Music committee and the Junior Endeavor, and spoke words of appreciation for the two music directors John C. Ward and Mrs. Spencer Apollonio, and the faithful choir. Also that the Juniors were proud in having given the new communion set to the church and were now planning to pay the expenses of some missionary Thornton Read reported for the Y. P. S. C. E. and stated that he did not wish the older members of the church to imagine the society had an age limit.

Mrs. W. F. Cummings reported for the Hospitality committee, and expressed her appreciation of the faithfulness of the committee that had worked so faithfully every Sunday in the year.

Mrs. Isabel S. Smith reported for the missionary committee and that her Sunday school class, "The Gleaners," had given the committee substantial aid in helping the committee attain what it did for missions and benevolences.

After the reports the following officers were elected for the coming year.

Moderator—L. D. Gurney.

Deacons for two years—John LaTure and Herbert Tucker.

Clerk—H. B. Wells.

Treasurer—Paul Butler.

Collector—Spencer Apollonio.

Assistant Collectors—Wm. F. Davy and David Hamilton.

Finance Committee George L. Culburn, J. Harvey Holt and H. B. Wells.

Auditor—M. F. Baker.

Ushers—Edwin French, P. A. Hall, C. A. Hadlock, B. F. Thomas, Frank Damon and Thorton Reed.

House committee—W. F. Cummings, W. L. Buckley, William Coulson, G. L. Damon, H. L. Hallett, James Rattray and Mrs. I. S. Smith.

Hospitality Committee—John W. Abbott, Mrs. W. F. Cummings, Wm. H. Davis, Henry Von Emden, Mrs. John A. Murray, Mrs. C. A. Stearns, Mrs. B. F. Thomas and Mrs. J. A. Welsh.

Music committee—Miss Edith L. Abbott, Spencer Apollonio, Mrs. A. H. Hall, Mrs. John C. Ward, Hargrave Heap and Miss H. C. Davison.

Missionary Committee—Mrs. T. W. Davison, Mrs. J. W. Abbott, Mrs. A. T. Beede, Mrs. H. F. Beale, Miss Jessie French, Mrs. L. D. Gurney, and Mrs. E. S. Tead.

After the election of officers the church unanimously voted to buy the lot of land north of the church to have for Church and community purposes in the future.

This was entirely a new undertaking, and some wanted to raise the money at the meeting, but the pastor rather advised a committee of ten to make a campaign for funds and raise the money in a month. Five or six men volunteered to act on such a committee, and others will report in a few days.

J. W. Abbott, who volunteered to serve on the committee raised $50.00 in less than five minutes before the meeting adjourned.

The treasurer, Paul Butler was authorized to buy the land at once, and Councilmen H. E. Beeman said the city needed money and if the church bought it before April the city would be out the taxes, but the land is to be bought as soon as the title is looked up.

The committee in charge of the supper were—Mrs. T. W. Davison, Mrs. A. H. Hall, Mrs. Wm. Hersey, Mrs. A. H. Beede, Mrs. J. W. Abbott, Mrs. H. F. Beale, Mrs. Andrew Robertson, Mrs. Welcome Young, Mrs. H. B. Wells and Miss Ada Harding.

LAST DAY OF AUTO SHOW

Well Worth a Visit From All Quincy People

There was another large attendance at the Wollaston Automobile show on Wednesday, both afternoon and evening, and everybody was congratulating Manager Winsloe on the large and successful show. The Sullivan Sisters' orchestra and the soloists are very popular with the audiences and always make a great hit.

A telephone was received early in the evening saying that Gov. Walsh and Mayor Curley were on their way, but they did not arrive before 10 o'clock. The Mayor is expected tonight, the closing night.

PLAYLET AT KINCAIDE'S.

William McKey and Company present a playlet entitled "Honest John McGuire." The story is true to the political life of any city in the Union. Mr. McKey appears in the title role, portraying a political boss in close touch with the governor. Miss Evelyn Forbes takes the part of Miss Delancy, adopted daughter of the attorney-general. The plot is an interesting one and the piece is full of action. —Detroit News. This is one of the attractions now at Kincaide Theatre.

CITY HALL NOTES.

City Clerk Crane is attending a meeting of the City Clerks' association in Boston today.

An inspector from the State department of records was at City Hall today looking over the vaults and safes in various offices. The inspector said that all wooden shelving, and in fact all wooden boxes, etc., would have to be taken out and replaced by steel.

STATES FACT AND SITUATION

Repeal of Panama Tolls Exemption Is Necessary

PRESIDENT BEFORE CONGRESS

Says Justice, Wisdom and Policy Call For Change of Law Which Carries Grave and Far-Reaching Implications to Interest of Country—We Should Voluntarily Withdraw

Washington, March 5.—President Wilson went before congress today and delivered a message urging the repeal of the Panama canal tolls exemption section. He said:

To the Members of Congress:

I have come to you upon an errand which can be very briefly performed, but I beg that you will not measure its importance by the number of sentences in which I speak.

No communication I have addressed to the congress has carried with it graver or more far-reaching implications to the interest of the country, and I come now to speak upon a matter with regard to which I am charged in a peculiar degree, by the complication itself, with personal responsibility.

I have come to ask for the repeal of that provision of the Panama canal act of Aug. 24, 1912, which exempts vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States from payment of tolls and to urge upon you the justice, the wisdom and the large policy of such a repeal with the utmost insistence of which I am capable.

In my judgment, very fully considered and materially formed, that exemption constitutes a mistaken economic policy from every point of view and is, moreover, in plain contravention of the treaty with Great Britain concerning the canal executed on Nov. 18, 1901.

I have not come to you to urge my personal view. I have come to state to you a fact and a situation. Whatever might be our own differences of opinion concerning this much debated measure, its meaning is not debated outside the United States.

Everywhere the language of the treaty is given but one interpretation, and that interpretation precludes the exemption I am asking you to repeal. We consented to the treaty, its language accepted, if we did not originate it, and we are too big, too powerful, too self respecting a nation to interpret with too strained or refined a reading the words of our own promises just because we have power enough to give us leave to read them as we please. The last thing to do is the only thing we can afford to do, a voluntary withdrawal from a position everywhere questioned and misunderstood.

We ought to revoke our action without raising the queston whether we were right or wrong, and so once more preserve our reputation for generosity and the redemption of every obligation without quibble or hesitation. I ask this of you in support of the foreign policy of the adminstration.

I shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequences if you do not grant this to me in ungrudging measure.

COUNT GETS THE LIMIT

Bomb Planter Goes to Sing Sing Despite Distinguished Lineage

New York, March 5.—After the attorney for Pietro Giambruno, one of the six bomb planters found guilty, had pleaded for his client on the ground that he is a real count, the scion of a noble Palermo family, Giambruno received the maximum sentence of not less than three years and six months, nor more than nine years and six months in prison.

On learning that the prisoner was a count, Judge Mulqueen remarked that he wished he could impose a heavier sentence. Giambruno is the second of the six to be sent to Sing Sing.

DIFFERENCES PATCHED

House and Senate Agree Upon Compromise In Postal Bill

Washington, March 5.—Disputed points between house and senate on the postal appropriation bill were compromised and the measure was accepted by the senate and went to the house for final passage.

The postmaster general would be empowered to fix the time limit for delivery of parcel post in congested zones. The pay of substitute clerks and carriers was compromised at 35 cents an hour, and $1200 a year maximum for rural carriers was agreed upon.

Arraigned on Death Charge

Malden, Mass., March 5.—Leo J. Shea, charged with manslaughter as a result of the death of Charles E. Sutch in a poolroom fight in Everett, was arraigned in the court here. His case was continued till March 13. He failed to secure $5000 bail.

Gale and Wave Devastate Islands

Sidney, N. S. W., March 5.—A hurricane devastated Cook island and Aitutaki island in the archipelago south of the Society islands. A huge wave swept over Mauko island in the same group, destroying an entire village.

BROODING OVER MISTAKES.

It Does No Good and Is Merely Committing a Second Fault.

Mistakes are to be laughed at. If one were to take seriously every little mistake he made life would become a burden to him. Laugh at your own little mistakes and do not feel grieved if others laugh at them. Laughing will help you remember to avoid them another time quite as well as giving away to serious regrets.

Some people are forever taking themselves to task for some shortcoming. They are the overconscientious ones. If we act foolishly on the impulse of a moment it is no more fair to punish ourselves than to punish a child for a little mistake. It is right to look for the error and acknowledge it. If one has wronged another he ought to confess it and be more careful, then put it out of mind.

To grow morose and solemn is to commit a second fault. No one is doing any good to himself or others by constantly eating the bread of penitence. The only time to remember a mistake is when one is tempted again to the same fault. Daily and hourly keeping up self reproach, one is worn out. This does not mean never to listen to the warnings of conscience, but to see the fault, start afresh and keep cheerful and hopeful. — Milwaukee Journal.

LINCOLN TOLD A STORY.

It Was So Good It Inflicted and Then Remitted a Fine.

Abraham Lincoln, during his early career as a lawyer, traveled a circuit in Illinois. Judge David Davis and Lincoln were close friends, says the author of "Lincoln's Own Stories," and the judge always showed a keen appreciation of Lincoln's stories.

"I was never fined but once for contempt of court," said a man who was a clerk of court in Lincoln's day. "Davis fined me $5. Mr. Lincoln had just come in, and, leaning over my desk, had told me a story so irresistibly funny that I broke out in a loud laugh. The judge called me to order, saying:

"'This must be stopped. Mr. Lincoln, you are constantly disturbing this court with your stories.'

"Then he said to me:

"'You may fine yourself $5.'

"I apologized to the court, but told the judge that the story was worth the money. Shortly afterward the judge called me to him.

"'What was that story that Lincoln told you?' he asked.

"I told him, and he laughed aloud in spite of himself.

"'Remit your fine!' he ordered."

King Edward's Memory of Faces.

On one occasion Louis Sterne, an engineer and inventor and a friend of Charles Dickens, showed King Edward when Prince of Wales his exhibits at South Kensington and the Crystal palace.

"The next time I met the prince," said Mr. Sterne, "I was crossing Piccadilly, at the top of St. James' street, before the days of refuges. In trying to escape being run down I ran directly into the arms of his royal highness. He at once recognized me and said, 'Mr. Sterne, you should give this traffic time and never cross the bows.' I expressed surprise that he should recognize me, to which he replied that he never forgot either face or name if associated with any matter of interest." —London Telegraph.

A Useful Dunce.

During the war between the states General Sedgwick had on his staff a very dull lieutenant, who seemed never to be able to do anything without making mistakes. One day a friend asked the general:

"Why do you keep Jones on your staff? He seems a perfect dunce."

"Do you know," replied General Sedgwick, "Jones is one of the most useful members of my staff? Before I issue an order I always have Jones read it. If he can tell what it means I am sure there can be no chance that any one will misunderstand it."

Her Club.

Mrs. Subbubs had joined a club for the first time. Mrs. Townley asked her what the club was for, its aims and so on.

"I really don't know," said Mrs. Subbubs.

"You don't know? Why did you join a club when you don't see its object?"

"Because it meets on Mondays, and that's the only day in the week I had nowhere to go."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Then He Subsided.

"I never saw such a woman in all my life," said Bass. "You are never satisfied with anything."

"People who know the man I took for a husband," replied Mrs. B., "think, on the contrary, that I am easily satisfied."—Liverpool Mercury.

Primitive Printing.

In many of the monasteries of Tibet and Siberia the Buddhist monks still print in the manner which has been handed down from generation to generation. Movable type is not used, but each page is carved upon a solid wood block.—London Mail.

Good Help.

Visitor—Do you help your mother with the housework, Stella? Stella (aged five)—Yes, ma'am; I help mostly by keeping out of her way.—Chicago News.

Custom, though never so ancient, without truth is but an old error.—Cyprian.

NOW OPEN
Wollaston Auto Show
AFTERNOON AND EVENING
SULLIVAN SISTERS' ORCHESTRA
ASSISTED BY
MR. WILLIAM McDEVITT, Soloist
FEB. 28, MARCH 2, 3, 4 and 5
WOLLASTON CENTRE GARAGE
NEAR WOLLASTON STATION
10 A. M to 10 P. M.
March 24t

QUINCY SHORE IMPROVEMENT

Senator Langelier Before Committee in Favor

(Special from State House.)

Senator Louis Langelier of Quincy appeared before the legislative committee on Metropolitan Affairs Wednesday in advocacy of a resolve for an appropriation of $3000 for the removal of surplus and objectionable material from the beach at the Quincy Shore reservation between Appleton and Beach streets, Atlantic.

Senator Langelier said that the section described in the bill is populated by both summer and permanent residents. Wollaston beach, he said, has materially developed in the past few years, but he doubted if the growth would continue unless the beach were improved. He said that refuse matter has piled upon the beach and that seaweed and other objectionable matter has taken root.

More than a score of Quincy's citizens appeared at the committee hearing to announce their advocacy of the petition. The chairman of the committee said that Senator Langelier had presented the petition so forcibly that no further evidence was necessary.

The resolve provides that the money appropriated would be expended under the direction of the Metropolitan Park Commission.

MISS GROSSMAN ENTERTAINS

An entertainment under the auspices of the Y. W. H. A. was held at the home of Miss Anna R. Grossman on Federal avenue, Wednesday evening. The house was very prettily decorated with white and blue bunting, the Y. W. H. A. colors, and with hot house flowers.

A novelty was given in the form of a mysterious supper, served by the hostess, who was assisted by Sadie Berman and Etta R. Grossman. The supper proved a surprise for the participants and it evoked many laughs. The fortunes of the young ladies were told in a mysterious way, the cards on which were written the fortunes dropping mysteriously from the ceiling.

Vocal solos were rendered by Rose Swartz and piano solos by the following: Etta Litchman, Anna R. Grossman, Sadie Berman, Marion Litchman, and Etta Grossman. Games were enjoyed. A light lunch was served by the committee in charge, which consisted of Sadie Berman, chairman, Etta R. Grossman, Mollie Sherad, and Anna R. Grossman.

RIVERSIDE CLUB.

City Clerk Crane gave his talk on American wit and humor before the Riverside Women's Club of Quincy Point Wednesday afternoon. In addition to Mr. Crane's talk there were vocal solos by Miss Cora Barnicoat with Miss Olive Barnicoat as accompanist. The afternoon was in charge of the committee on educational matters who are Mrs. Ida Crane, Mrs. Gertrude Stone, Mrs. Margaret Ward, Mrs. Muriel Arnold and Mrs. Alice Peterson.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Edward Southworth late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Thomas J. Emery of Cambridge, in the County of Middlesex who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond as provided by statute;

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the eighteenth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this third day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t March 5-9-16

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of John F. Welch late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Emma F. Welch of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the eighteenth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this third day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
5-3t 5-9-16

MISS MARION FARWELL
MAGAZINES
Motor, Garden, Poultry, Household, Children's, General Literature, all kinds.
20 Briggs St., Wollaston, Mass. Tel. Quincy 947-2
At Wollaston Automobile Show, Wollaston Centre Garage, Feb. 28--March 5
Feb. 19-12t

Have Your Picture Taken in Our Studio
394 WATER STREET, QUINCY
Workmanship guaranteed. Special attention given to outside work. Photos taken evenings by electric light.
Portrait Enlarging. PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order
E. C. GREIFELD, Artist
Feb. 12 1m

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

PEN
Show
VENING ORCHESTRA
TT, Soloist
4 and 5
GARAGE
TATION
P. M.
March 24t

ealth of Massachusetts.
Probate Court.
s-at-law, next-of-kin, and
persons interested in the Edward Southworth late in said County, deceased:
a certain instrument pure the last will and testa-
d deceased has been pre-id Court for Probate, by Emery of Cambridge, in of Middlesex who prays testamentary may be is-n, the executor therein out giving a surety on his as provided by statute;
eby cited to appear at a rt to be held at Dedham ty of Norfolk, on the ay of March A. D. 1914, at in the forenoon, to show
you have, why the same
e granted. And said peti-eby directed to give pub-ereof by publishing this in each week, for three eeks, in the Quincy Daily wspaper published in said ast publication to be one before said Court, and by stpaid, or delivering a citation to all known per-ted in the estate, seven t before said Court.
James H. Flint, Esquire, id Court, this third day of e year one thousand nine d fourteen.
R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t March 5-9-16

ealth of Massachusetts.
s. Probate Court.
s-at-law, next-of-kin, and
persons interested in the John F. Welch late of said County, deceased:
a certain instrument pure the last will and testa-deceased has been pre-id Court for Probate, by Welch of said Quincy who letters testamentary may her, the executrix therein out giving a surety on her
: You are hereby cited to Probate Court to be held
n said County of Norfolk, enth day of March A. D.
o'clock in the forenoon, to if any you have, why the not be granted. And er is hereby directed to notice thereof by publish-tion once in each week, ccessive weeks, in the Ledger a newspaper said Quincy the last pub-
e one day at least before
and by mailing, postpaid,
a copy of this citation to ersons interested in the days at least before said
ames H. Flint, Esquire, d Court, this third day of e year one thousand nine fourteen.
R. McCOOLE, Register.
5-3t 5-9-16

ARION FARWELL
AGAZINES
Poultry, Household, Children's,
Literature, all kinds.
llaston, Mass. Tel. Quincy 947-2
ston Automobile Show, re Garage, Feb. 28--March 5
Feb. 19-12t

cture Taken in Our Studio
TER STREET, QUINCY
guaranteed. Special attention tside work. Photos taken ngs by electric light.
PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order
CREIFELD, Artist
Feb. 12 1m

han's Garage
Taxi Service
Storage and Supplies
n Day and Night.
d Touring Cars for all corner Washington and
eets.
ENNIMAN, Prop.
elephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

BE FOR THE LEDGER.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 55 QUINCY, MASS FRIDAY EVENING MARCH 6 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

NOTABLE MASONIC ANNIVERSARY

Francis P. Loud Completes Fifty Years As a Member of Rural Lodge of Quincy

Other Veteran Members Unite in Celebrating the Event

Seven hundred years in Masonry is the proud record of fifteen of the oldest members of Rural lodge A. F and A. M. At the regular March communication of the lodge on Thursday evening seven of these members were present, who had to their credit 335 years, an average of 48 years. It is a grand record both for the lodge and for the individual members. The occasion of the notable gathering was to take notice of the anniversary of Brother Francis P. Loud, who this month completes 50 years as a member of Rural lodge. The arrangements were in charge of Worshipful Master H. Everett Crane and Brother Frank F. Prescott.

A list of the veteran members follows, together with the dates when they were admitted to the lodge, those marked with an asterisk being present at the meeting:

1858,Oct. 21—Franklin Curtis.
1863, Jan. 29—*Albert Keating.
1864, March 31—*Francis P. Loud.
1864, August 25*—Charles E. Pierce
1865, August 3—Edward Whicher.
1866, March 1—*Richard M. Sanborn.
1867, June 13—Anthony Dyke.
1868, December 24—Warren H. Foss
1870, September 8—John W. Hersey
1872, February 15—*Henry O. Studley.
1872, September 12—George S. Patterson.
1874, January 29—Richard Folson.
1874, June 25—*Dr. John A. Gordon
1874, November 20—James McGilvray.
1889, February 14—*James F. Merrill, who was member of another lodge as early as January 1864.

*Present at meeting.

Brother Prescott was chairman of the committee appointed to escort the veterans into the lodge, and he was assisted by Past Master Henry O. Fairbanks (1886), Past Master Charles L. Hammond (1891), Past Master Joseph Prout (1904), Past Master Hartley L. White (1906), Past Master Charles Sampson (1908), Past Master Frank A. Reed (1911), and Past Master Edward White, a visiting brother.

The Worshipful Master welcomed the veteran members most cordially and invited them to take seats at his left. Brother Prescott then introduced each individually, saying, Membership in Rural lodge can be recommended to all who would live to a good old age. He doubted if there is another lodge of Masons in Massachusetts with six members who took their degrees 50 years ago. Marriage can also be recommended to members of Rural lodge because the three oldest members have today their helpmates of their youthful days.

FRANCIS P. LOUD.

Brother Francis P. Loud completes 50 years in Rural lodge this month. His wife is also living, and it was in 1907 that they observed their golden wedding. It was between his two enlistments in the Civil War that he became a Mason.

Brother Loud's experience in the war was different from most of the Quincy veterans because he was a bandmaster. He was mustered into the Second Regiment band, May 11, 1861, for three years. This was the band organized by P. S. Gilmore, who later obtained fame in connection with the World's Peace Jubilee in Boston. Brother Loud became bandmaster about six months after the regiment reached the front. The regiment was known as the Col. George H. Gordon regiment and was mustered at Camp Andrews in West Roxbury. The officers were largely Harvard College men and the rank and file included bank men, merchants and others and most of them Masons.

When the regiment left Boston, July 8, 1861, for the front, the most popular tune played by the band was "The Girl I left behind Me." They went into camp on the Potomac July 12, 1861. During the first battle of Bull Run this regiment occupied Maryland Heights. It arrived at Balls Bluff too late to take part in the engagement, but was in the engagement at Cedar Mountain, and at Antietam when the Union lost 2011 killed, 9416 wounded, and 1043 missing, while the Confederates lost 3500 killed, 16,399 wounded and 6000 missing.

ANTHONY DYKE.

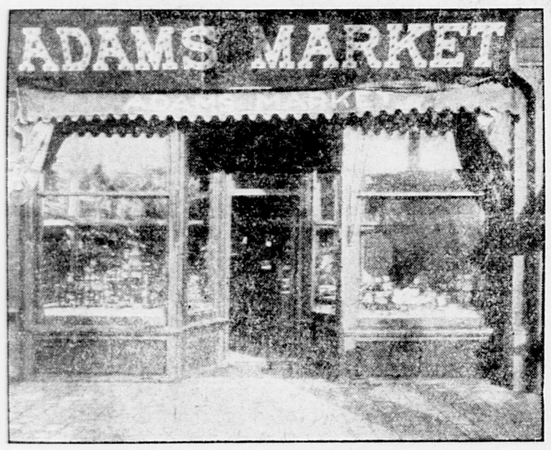
Popular selections of the band in those days were "When Johnny comes Marching Home," "Yankee Doodle," "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America."

Mr. Loud re-enlisted as a musician in the 58th regiment, M. V. M., and was in Grant's campaign, until the close of the war. It was during these last 16 months that he saw much service and it was very interesting to hear him tell his experiences and al-

(Continued on Page Six.)

Open Tonight until 9—Saturday until 10 P. M.



Quincy's Finest Food Store
Welcomes your order—large or small

Right in the very heart of Quincy—City Square—this modern market with its 15 cheerful, courteous employees is at your service. You will find here the best of everything in eatables—Groceries, Meats, Fruits, Vegetables and Bakery Goods—Fresh every day. The store's cleanliness is attractive, and prices are also inviting. We welcome your order, large or small. Call or Phone.

FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
Selected 1914 Spring Lamb.
Fore Quarters 12 1c 2 lb Leg and Loin 18 c lb
FRESH PORK ROAST 18c lb
SMALL SUGAR-CURED HAMS 20c lb

Strawberries -- Cranberries -- Apples -- Grape Fruit -- Rhubarb -- New Cabbage -- Cucumbers -- Celery -- Lettuce -- Radishes --
AT LOWEST MARKET PRICES

LARGE CAL. NAVEL ORANGES 29 c doz
FRESH OYSTERS Solid Packed in Sealed Carton 25 c pint

Telephone Quincy 153 or 1760
THE ADAMS MARKET
R. E. FOY & COMPANY
March 6-2t

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Change in Board of Assessors Comes at Bad Time

There was nothing new in the Bates removal at City Hall this morning. The Mayor said that he had not served notice on Mr. Bates removing him from office as yet, but that he thought that the necessary notice would be served Saturday morning, He is not ready to announce as yet just whom he has selected for Mr. Bates successor. The change in assessors, especially that of the chairman, comes at rather a bad time as under the present law the assessors start on their field work the first of April. The present board has about completed its arrangements to commence field work, and the putting in of a new chairman at the last meeting may possibly delay their start. It is probable that the new assessor will be named Monday.

City Clerk Crane has appointed Miss Marguerite S. Lyons, his clerk, as assistant city clerk. The appointment was made Thursday. Under the new law no one can receive or issue marriage licenses except the city clerk or assistant city clerk, and in order to comply with this law Miss Lyons was appointed. Miss Lyons succeeded Miss Ross as clerk to the City Clerk during the first year of Mayor Stone's administration, and she has proved herself a valuable assistant to that official.

The only other time that a lady has held the position Assistant City Clerk or City Clerk in Quincy was at the time of the death of ex-Mayor Harrison A. Keith. At that time Miss Ross was appointed as clerk until the vacancy was filled.

Today is the last day of registration for the special election to be held in Ward Three next Tuesday to elect a member of the City Council to fill the vacancy caused by the ineligibility of Alexander Cowe to serve. The registrars will be in session at City Hall today from 12 o'clock noon until 9 o'clock tonight. No great rush is anticipated. There are but two candidates seeking the election Robert T. Foy and Charles F. Barnicoat. For this reason a large vote is not anticipated.

For the first time since he assumed the office of Chief Engineer, on the first Monday in February, Chief Billings is taking an afternoon off today. He is accompanying the Committee on Fire Department to Chelsea to look over fire apparatus. Mayor Miller and President Whiton of the Council are also in the party.

The new office of the City Engineer Sargent in the basement of City Hall is about ready for occupancy, and it is probable that he will move in Saturday.

The State inspector who inspected the safes and vaults at City Hall on Thursday condemned several of them. The result will be that the City Council will be asked to make a special appropriation to provide either new safes or to change those now in use so as to conform to the requirements.

The City Council Committee on Fire Department Matters are in Chelsea this afternoon, looking at some of the automobile steamers of that department.

The City Council Committee on Finance meet tonight to act on the budget, while in the opposite room the Committee on Streets will be in session.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. King (nee Evelyn Jones) of Everett are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, born Friday, March 6.

The Granite Tailoring Co.
The former business of 64 Washington St. has moved to 1465 Hancock St.
Our new store is now open for business, old and new customers are cordially invited to call and inspect our new store of Ladies' and Misses' Suits, Coats, Skirts, Waists, Furs and One Piece Dresses, etc, the same low prices and High Class Ladies' Tailoring and Dressmaking, also all kinds of Dyeing, Cleansing, Pressing and Remodelling.
H. SARKIN, Prop.
1465 Hancock St, Quincy
Next to Kincaide's Annex. March 5-3t

BOSTON'S MAYOR AT OUR AUTO SHOW

Also Lieutenant Governor Barry and Other Officials Who Make Addresses

Closing of Very Successful Show at Wollaston Garage

The second annual auto show at the Wollaston Centre garage closed Thursday night with so enthusiastic a crowd present that when the notables arrived they received a reception which surpassed any ever accorded visitors to Quincy.

Lieut. Gov. Edward Barry, Hon. James M. Curley, mayor of Boston; and James A. Galvin, street commissioner of Boston and one of the candidates for Congress from the 12th district to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mayor Curley, were the special guests. All gave short addresses and held a reception afterwards.

The slogan sounded by all the speakers was boom Boston, Quincy, Massachusetts, boom from early morning until late at night, and when the speakers finished the booming commenced in the guise of heavy applause and cheers.

MAYOR CURLEY.

Mayor Curley was presented by Temple A. Winsloe, who is personally directing the show. Several minutes elapsed before the executive of the metropolis was given the opportunity to announce his subject. He launched into a speech which rung with enthusiasm for Boston's and Quincy's future and spoke of the splendid openings for municipal development that existed in both cities.

He remarked that inasmuch as he was at an auto show he would confine himself to autos and said his efforts were for the establishment of this industry on a much firmer basis in Quincy and Boston. Each municipality he said benefits through each other's advancement.

In the course of his remarks he said that owing to the financial condition of Boston at the present time, she was not prepared to annex Quincy, but he said that before his mayoralty term expired he hoped to see Quincy and some other places inside the circle. He said he favored cities and towns within 10 miles of Boston being a part of the larger city.

Mayor Curley said that he was astounded that so large an outpouring of citizens should attend an auto show in this city and he extended sincere thanks for the fine reception accorded him.

As Mayor Curley mounted the speakers platform, the orchestra played the "Star Spangled Banner" and at the close of his address they struck up "America"" and everyone in the building took up the air. More applause followed and when it subsided Mr. Winsloe presented Lieut.-Gov. Barry.

LIEUT. GOV. BARRY.

His reception was also as demonstrative as that accorded Mayor Curley. He devoted his talk to a development of the automobile industry in Massachusetts and complimented the people of Quincy on their auto show. He said that the waterfront should be developed that South Boston is going to reap vast benefits from the development of hers, and that Quincy, with its magnificent stretch of shore line had a similar opportunity.

He said he regretted that the people of the East lacked the business characteristics of the West for he said our friends on the other side of the states have and will continue the development of their section along industrial lines. He spoke of his friendship for Mr. Winsloe in the days gone by, and said he was glad that he accepted the invitation to attend Quincy's annual auto show and that he would be present next year.

He asked permission to introduce Mr. Galvin to the gathering, because he said he had known him and been associated with him in so many different capacities that he felt it an honor to present a man of his type. Mr. Galvin was likewise given a fine reception and at the close of an impressive speech in which he touched on everything but his candidacy for congress, was given more applause.

Among those noticed in the throng were Dr. John T. Reynolds and Thomas Musgrave of the Board of Health, Dr. C. A. Bartlett, city physician and well known professional and business men of this city and Boston. An orchestral concert was contributed by the Sullivan sisters, during which Miss Louise Sullivan rendered several solos and responded to three encores. Vocal solos were given by William McDevitt and George S. Hoar.

JAMES M. CURLEY
Mayor of Boston.

MANAGER WINSLOE.

Thursday afternoon guests from below the Milton line were taken from Mattapan square to the garage by auto and ten machines were in constant use the greater part of the afternoon and evening. Among those present was Mrs. Horace Willard and the teachers and pupils at the Quincy Mansion school.

Refreshments were served and many sales were reported at the close of the days business. Mr. Winsloe this morning said that he was highly gratified at the success of his second annual and that preparations would immediately be made to reepat the event next spring.

HEAVY SNOW PREDICTED

The weather forecaster at the Blue Hill observatory reports that heavy snow, accompanied with East winds, will continue throughout the night.

FALSE ALARM.

The alarm from Box 227 at 9.55 Thursday night was a false alarm. The recall sounded inside of five minutes.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY
Agent for FORD and CASE CARS
A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock
Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.
For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass. by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

The two favorite methods of suicide at present are taking mercury tablets and becoming an innocent bystander in Mexico.

The last newspaper directory shows that there are 24,527 publications in the United States, and yet some people think the exchange editor does not have anything to do.

The New York unemployed would perhaps have been willing to shovel snow if they could have been allowed to sit down at the job.

It becomes more and more evident that the churches of Quincy are prospering in a great degree. The annual meetings show very encouraging reports, and money is raised without great difficulty for new edifices, additions and improvements. It is a healthy indication for the city. Congratulations are due at this time to the Wollaston Congregational church and the Memorial Congregational church of Atlantic.

Congratulations to Rural lodge of Masons on having so many veteran memers and congratulations to these memers. We shall watch with interest the Boston papers to learn if any other lodge in Massachusetts has so many fifty-year members. Few lodges of any order can boast of a history of extending over 100 years, but it was in 1801 that Rural lodge was instituted. With the exception of twenty years from 1834 to 1853 regular meetings have been held. The lodge has had 43 masters, and now has 360 members. One member is 95 years of age and six took their degrees over 50 years ago.

CRIMES OF VIOLENCE.

A few days ago three gunmen entered a loan and clothing store in a congested suburban district of Boston. Hundreds of people were constantly passing. The gunmen shot a clerk, inflicting a dangerous wound, then made for the cash drawer.

Such daring acts are happening constantly in the greatest and most conservative centers of population.

Any men who contemplate such attacks, evidently well planned in advance, must know that anything out of the ordinary atracts attention on a city street. A litter of puppies in a store window will draw a jam. The discharge of revolver shots in a retail store is much more unusual than puppies.

It should be evident to the meanest mind that a gathering knot of people would observe their escape. They might run into the arms of policemen. Anyway they could easily drop clues leading to early arrest.

Establishments of the character thus raided rarely carry more than a hundred or two dollars in cash. For this trifling prize they were taking chances of long prison terms and the electric chair.

All which suggests that the ordinary criminal is a man whose mind works poorly. He fails to see obvious facts. A recent study of 200 boys of a criminal school showed that 85 had drunkards for parents, 24 had an insane father or mother, 52 had parents afflicted with epilepsy or nervous diseases. Commonly the criminal is the wreckage left from abnormal or degenerate parents.

The only way to appeal to persons of this deficient type is to anchor them at some useful trade. The schools have a big problem in handling the boy of unfortunate heredity, who begins to show signs of lawlessness. Such boys are apt to take in ideas very slowly from books. Frequently good training at hand work will interest them along the line of normal living.

FOREIGNERS TO BE PROTECTED

New Step Marked by Beginning of Benton Investigation

CARRANZA MEANS BUSINESS

Wants Exact Result of Commission's Finding, Regardless of Political or Personal Feeling—Attitude of Washington Government Unchanged Pending Action of Rebel Leader

Juarez, Mex., March 6.—Investigation into the execution by General Villa of William S. Benton, the British subject, and into the disappearance of Gustave Bauch, the German-American, was begun here by the Mexican commission appointed by General Carranza, chief of the constitutionalists. Seventy men, heads of departments, clerks and secretaries, brought with them official papers of the rebel government.

All possible haste in reporting will be required of the commission. This was announced from Carranza's headquarters when assurances were given that the committeemen had been instructed to report confidentially to Carranza the exact result of their finding, regardless of political or personal feeling.

The commission will review the findings of the alleged court martial independently of the Anglo-American commission, the work of which has been retarded by diplomatic technicalities. The new commission is composed of General Frauto, Dr. Silva and Migued Lara.

They expect to ascertain, according to their instructions, whether the arrest and conviction of Benton were according to due form of law and justice. Unless some flaw in the proceedings is discovered they are not expected to exhume the Briton's body. The Anglo-American commission meanwhile is inactive, waiting instructions from Washington.

Appointment of the commission resulted, it was made known, from some difference of opinion among Carranza's advisers. While it was asserted those surrounding the constitutionalist commander-in-chief realized his delicate position as a result of the Benton death, they had argued that his act in refusing information to the Washington government had created a false impression in the United States and England in regard to his implied meaning in the matter.

From those in close touch with Carranza and his policies it was learned that the appointment of the Benton commission was but the first step in a series of acts which would be calculated to do away with what was considered a misunderstanding and convince the world of the good intentions of Carranza toward the welfare of all individual foreigners in Mexico.

ACTION IS WELCOMED

Washington Awaits Outcome of Carranza's Stand In the Matter

Washington, March 6.—The apparent lull on the part of the United States in pursuing its inquiry into the death of William S. Benton and into the mysterious disappearance of Gustav Bauch is only temporary, according to those well informed on the intentions of the Washington administration. The United States, it is explained, simply is awaiting the outcome of the investigation instituted by General Carannza himself not only into the Benton execution but in the Bauch case.

Outwardly it is apparent that Carranza's determination to supply information about the Benton case, though technically denying the United States the right to ask it, is favorably received here, and his prompt ordering of the inquiry into the Bauch case likewise is welcomed.

Upon the results of the investigation and Caranza's subsequent action depend in a large measure the policy which the American government will pursue toward the constitutionalists.

Much evidence of a conclusive character about Benton's death already has been gathered. Should the Carranza commission controvert important points satisfactorily proved here it is unlikely that the Washington government will remain silent on the question.

APPEALS FOR HIS SON

Once Rich Mexican Cannot Pay Ransom Asked by Villa

El Paso, Tex., March 6.—General Luis Terrazas appealed to Marion Letcher, American consul at Chihuahua, now in this city awaiting instructions, to save his son, Luis, whose life has been made the forfeit if 500,000 pesos ransom money is not paid over to General Villa, the rebel leader.

Letcher declared himself deeply moved by the appeal of the octogenarian head of the great Mexican family, whose wide possessions have been confiscated by the constitutionalists, but he had to reply that he was helpless in the matter.

"I am 80 years old and neither life nor money mean much to me," said Terrazas. "My son Luis has thirteen children and they need him. I would gladly return to Chihuahua and Villa could kill me instead of my son.

REBEL LEADERS

Men Who Control Affairs In the North of Mexico

Photos by American Press Association

[At the top is General Carranza, who is slated for the presidency in the event Huerta is overthrown, and below General Villa, leader of the rebel troops.]

MRS. RANTOUL IS DENIED DIVORCE

All the Parties In Suit Move In High Society Circles

Cambridge, Mass., March 6.—Mrs. Rantoul's plea that she be divorced from Edward L. Rantoul was denied by Judge Hardy, who filed his decision in the Middlesex courts without comment.

Mrs. Rantoul accused her husband of cruelty and abuse, but admitted on the witness stand that she had a "heaven-sent love" for Chester C. Rumrill, a millionaire. Rumrill, Rantoul and Mrs. Rantoul move in the highest circles in Boston.

Mrs. Rantoul received the news that she had lost her suit with a smile, saying: "I was as ready to lose as I was to win." Rantoul likewise was pleased at the verdict. He repeatedly said in the trial that he still loves his wife—that he would be glad to have her return to him.

POLICE CUT HELD UP

Mayor of Boston to Hold Another Conference With Commissioner

Boston, March 6.—The much-heralded cut in the salary increases recently given the officers of the police department failed to materialize at yesterday's conference between Mayor Curley and Police Commissioner O'Meara.

Following the conference rumors were circulated that there was a hitch in the mayor's program for reductions because of the necessity of having joint action by both the mayor and the police commissioner.

The mayor said the matter would be taken up again next week.

ELLIS IS CONVICTED

Gets Fifteen Years For Murdering His Wife In Hotel

Chicago, March 6.—William C. Ellis of Cincinnati was found guilty of murdering his wife, Mrs. Eleanor H. Ellis, last October, in a Chicago hotel. Punishment was fixed at imprisonment in the state penitentiary for fifteen years.

The jury reached a decision after deliberating three and one-half hours

Love's Dream Shattered

New York, March 6.—That she thought a kiss was enough to make her his wife and that Augustus H. Hall carried diamonds as big as goose eggs in his pockets, was the testimony of Mrs. Emma L. Hall, suing for divorce.

Soldier Weds at 69

Washington, March 6.—Brigadier General Greene C. Goodloe, U. S. M. C., retired, 69 years old, and Miss Marion C. Johnson, 28, were married at the general's home here.

Japanese Premier Quits

Tokio, March 6.—The Japanese premier placed his resignation in the hands of the mikado because the house of peers reduced the naval estimates.

Fate of the Peacemaker.

"Your face seems cut up. Accident?"

"No, fight. Tried to stop a husband who was beating his wife."

"And the husband hit you?"

"No, the wife." — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ALL OPPONENTS OF DEMOCRATS

Invited to Share In Maine Republican Convention

RADICAL CHANGE IN CALL

Chairman of State Committee Says State Should Lead In New Republicanism—Ballot Reform, Woman Suffrage and Fifty-Four-Hour Law to Be Considered

Augusta, Me., March 6.—An appeal intended to secure the participation "of all electors of Maine who are opposed to free trade and other declared policies of the Democratic party" was made by the Republican state committee in the call for the Republican state convention to be held here April 9.

"All those who believe in the liberal and progressive principles contained in the platform of the Republican party, adopted in 1912, those who are prepared to join in drafting a platform liberal in principle and those who will accept the platform as a solemn and binding contract with the people of Maine," are urged to unite in electing delegates to this convention.

Chairman Parkhurst of the state committee explained the committee's reasons for the change in the usual manner of issuing the call. He said:

"The change from the usual form of convention call was determined upon and adopted by the members of the committee in recognition of the new relation which the party convention bears to the machinery of government.

"At this convention it will be the duty and privilege of the delegate membership to propose, to consider and to pass upon every declaration of principle to be included in the party platform and to select as members of the new party committeemen who will correctly interpret and continue fully responsive to the spirit of the new republicanism which now dominates the Republican party.

"Individual and associate action in several counties indicates that among other suggestions that will be submitted to this convention are planks in favor of ballot reform, woman suffrage and the fifty-four-hour law."

Parkhurst remarked that the result of the state election next September "will be awaited with the deepest interest from Maine to California. It is therefore eminently fitting that Maine should lead in the adoption of the principles of the New Republicanism."

FOR ATTACK ON GIRL

Prisoner Is Told He Is Lucky to Escape With Long Sentence

Hartford, March 6.—"I sentence you to not less than twenty years and not more than twenty-five years in state prison, and you may thank heaven you live in a more or less temperate zone," said Judge Case in the superior court, in passing sentence on Everett Brown, a negro, 28 years old, who was found guilty by a jury of assault upon Mary Staukiewicz, aged 14.

In his argument State Attorney Alcorn said that the fact that Brown lived north of the Mason and Dixon line was the reason he had had a trial. The judge cautioned Alcorn not to continue further on that line.

THAW EXPENSE TO STATE

Bill In Assembly Asks Officials to Account For Every Cent

Albany, March 6.—Attorney General Carmody and Comptroller Schmer were asked by resolutions introduced in the assembly to account to the legislature immediately for every cent spent by the state in the prosecution of Harry K. Thaw.

The resolutions were introduced by John D. Golden of New York. In one Golden asks Carmody to give out an itemized statement of the money William T. Jerome has spent since Thaw's escape from Matteawan. The comptroller is asked in the other to report on the amount the state spent during the Thaw trials.

CAUGHT RAIDING SAFE

Yeggmen Visited by Police While at Work In Brooklyn Theatre

New York, March 6.—Watched by the police since August Lehman was murdered in a Junius street coal yard Feb. 18, John J. Deegan and Clarence Cullen were arrested after a pistol fight with police, who declare they found the pair preparing to blow a safe in a moving picture house in Brooklyn.

Five detectives declare they saw the two pry open a window in the theatre and enter. Detectives McCurdy and Drum followed through the open window and surprised the men hard at work on a safe.

Mars Has Spring Freshet

Flagstaff, Ari., March 6.—A late spring freshet has occurred on Mars in the region north of the Proponis, according to announcement from the Lowell observatory.

Few Takers of Canadian Loan

London, March 6.—The underwriters of the $25,000,000 Canadian government loan have been left with 78 percent of the issue on their hands.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

MORE CALL MEN ADVOCATED

Permanent Men Would Be Expensive for City

Editor Daily Ledger:

I have read in the Daily Ledger of March 3, where the City Council is going to buy that $10,000 pumping engine, and throw one of the best steam fire engines into the junk shop. I would like to ask the Council who is working up this scheme; if they know what they are doing; and explain to the people why this piece of apparatus is needed.

I think it is a big mistake, the same as they made two years ago when they discharged twenty call men, and put on ten permanent men. It cost the city $1,800 per year for twenty call men and for ten permanent men $9,100 per year.

I see the Chief wants fifteen more permanent men, which would mean $13,650 per year, and with the ten men added in 1912 would make twenty-five men. The cost of these twenty-five men would be $22,750 per year. That is going some with a $10,000 pumping engine making a total of $32,750.

There are only two or three permanent men at a fire at one time. Do they take the place of the twenty call men discharged?

Put back ten call men at $1,000 per year. Put a tractor on the steamer and there will be three horses to use in the department. That would be more like business.

Expert.

APPLE GROWERS.

The fourth edition of "Apple Growing," a bulletin issued by the Massachusetts State Board of Agriculture, has just come from the press. It is the most pretentious bulletin that has been issued by this board, and the fact that it has already run through three editions and that five thousand copies have been ordered for the present edition, bears eloquent testimony to the interest now being taken in New England and especially Massachusetts apple growing.

The present publication contains 230 pages and 51 illustrations, and the articles aim to cover in a comprehensive way the whole field of apple growing from the planting of the nursery trees to the marketing of the product.

This bulletin will be mailed free of charge upon application to the State Board of Agriculture, 136 State House, Boston.

NEW TELEPHONES.

The subscribers connected with the Quincy exchange for the week ending March 4, were:

1443M Embleton, Wm. K. Willow str.
21092 Burns, Grace Mrs., Beale st.
644M Lamb, John P., Sewall st.
1007W Loomis, Henry R., Dimmick st.
1761W Mitchell, J. C., Webster st.
2036M Copp, Lyman, Appleton st.
409M Martin, A. D., Independence ave.
1646W Clark, A. W., Pleasant st.
1658M Collett, F. A., W. Squantum st.
1739M Berry, Fred E., Cross st.
21086 Hancock b'l'dg, Washington st.
1674W Clark, John A., Thayer st.
1581W McPherson, Andrew, So. Central ave.
1712M Farrell, M., Willard st.
1748M Tipton, Willis, G., Dysart st.
1753W Hart, Leo. J., Stanton st.

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY

ANAEMIC SINCE CHILDHOOD

How Miss Holmes Regained Her Health.

If you are anaemic, you need more iron in your blood, and the tell-tale symptoms are a pale face—colorless lips, ashen finger nails, poor circulation, and short breath, and more serious diseases are easily contracted when in this condition.

What Vinol did for Miss Yvonne Holmes of Fall River, Mass., it will do for every anaemic run-down person. She says: "I have been weak and anaemic since childhood, always had 'that tired feeling.' Tonic after tonic was tried with little or no result until Vinol was recommended, and after taking three bottles, my appetite and digestion have been improved. I do not suffer any more from insomnia, nor do I have distressing headaches as formerly, and I am stronger than I have been for years."

We ask every anaemic or run-down, weak person in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol with the undertsanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy Mass.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

"THE SECRET OF SUCCESS IS TO BE READY FOR ONE'S OPPORTUNITIES"—DICKENS.

It is not enough to know an opportunity when you see it; you must be prepared to grasp it and make it your own.

Moral: A Bank account helps you to be ready for opportunities.

Our $5 Box Is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

SHAMOKIN COAL

RANGE

FREE BURNING

Like The Shamokin of 20 years ago

C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Why Newspaper Advertising Pays:

1. The newspaper advertisement is not buried—it is accessible.

2. The newspaper advertisement of a commodity continually or daily needed is read by the very people whose continual or daily need the advertiser desires to supply.

3. The newspaper advertisement may be seen thirty times a month—it is not limited to one appearance.

Through the daily newspaper the advertiser can make a local and intimate appeal to his prospective customer in his own community and in his own vernacular.

TRY A LEDGER AD

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Bowling Contests Athletic Leagues
Illustrated Lectures Banquets
Basket Ball Conferences

Three of the Sunday School basket ball games which were scheduled for last Saturday afternoon were not played through a misunderstanding. These will be run off this afternoon, Park and Downs playing Wollaston Methodist at 4.00 o'clock, K. O. K. A. 2nd vs Union Chapel at 4.15 and Sacred Heart vs United Presbyterian at 6.30.

The regular games for Saturday afternoon include K. O. K. A. vs Washington St. Congregational and Christ church vs Wollaston Baptist in the first class and Swedish Lutheran vs Washington St. Congregational and Wollaston Congregational vs First Presbyterian in the second class. Each team must have its full quota of players on the floor at the hour appointed for the game, or it will have to forfeit.

The all-around games tournaments for the three divisions of the Boys' department are nearly completed and the probable winners are Cumming in the Student class with a total of 278 points, McNeil in the Employed Boys who has 271, and either Wester or Nelson who are tied at 353 in the Junior group.

State Boys' Day on March 14 will be a busy day for the Y. M. C. A. Juniors and Students who will go out among their friends in the city and endeavor to raise by small contributions funds for obtaining a camp equipment or some other big thing on which the boys decide.

The second meeting of the Mother and Son banquet committee was held Wednesday evening and plans for the big event on March 18 were practically completed. A committee of fathers is to serve the banquet and the committee feels confident that it can turn out as good a banquet as has ever been served in the Association hall.

The newly organized Cadet class held its first session Wednesday afternoon and the little fellows entered into the work of the class with great enthusiasm. This class is to meet weekly on Wednesdays from 4.15 to 5.30. In its membership are boys ten and eleven years old.

B. A. A. and the Pil[illegible] are to roll off the last match in the Junior bowling championship Saturday morning after Gym class. The former team is ahead to date, and unless the Pilgrims win by an overwhelming score, will win the championship.

Entries for the Hobbs bowling tournament are still coming in and all the contestants are hustling to get their 5 strings bowled before the time limit, March 15. Brooks is in the lead to date with an average of [illegible] plus and LaRose is second with [illegible] plus.

Makaria and the Davis class roll off their match in the Sunday School bowling league tonight. These two teams are having a hot contest for second place in the league and the match promises to be interesting.

The next fireside talk will be given by William Coon, manager of the Larkin Co. for Boston, next Wednesday evening, March 11 at 8 o'clock. His subject is "What a poor boy can accomplish." This address is illustrated by a series of specially prepared slides showing what John D. Larkin has accomplished during his life.

Sunday afternoon, Rev. J. Franklin Knotts of Somerville will deliver the address at the big Men's meeting in Kincaide's theatre. Mr. Knotts first became famous in driving the saloons out of Lynn, and now he is considered one of the ablest and most aggressive pastors in greater Boston, and is called a very forceful speaker. The Orpheus Male quartette will sing several selections.

Rev. S. C. Lang and General Secretary Bromley are conducting noon meetings for the men at the Gear Works every Thursday.

In the Employed Boys' gym competition, Tufts has a commanding lead with a total of 44.6 points. Yale is second with 35.1. In the Junior class the Pilgrims, Capt. Hendry, are still ahead but the Wanderers have cut down the lead to 2.3 points.

The Boys' department competition is also nearing completion and to date B. A. A. is ahead in team attendance and total attendance at meeting. The State Boys' day on Saturday, March 14, will make a big difference to the four teams because the results of the day count 50 per cent of the total for the second term. All four captains are getting their men lined up for a good all day hustle for contributions on that day.

The wind-up dates in the gym work are set as follows: Annual all-round track championship, March 21; Junior exhibition, March 27. Annual gym banquet, April 3.

The Silent Five plays Hingham and the Employed Boys meet the Roxbury Centre team on Saturday evening on the local floor. The first and second teams go to Malden for games with the first and second teams of the Malden Association.

One of the crowning features of the series of Men's meetings in Kincaide's theatre will take place on Sunday, March 15, when Mrs. Elizabeth Packard Larson of St. Paul, Minnesota, will give a reading of Black Rock, Ralph Connor's famous story of the Northwest. She will be assisted by Prof. Albert Kanrich, violinist and Miss Ruth Hardy, soloist.

Only One "BROMO QUININE"
To get the genuine call for full name, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for signature of E. W. GROVE. Cures a Cold in One Day. 25c

MY SLOGAN
for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21tf

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

GRAND BANQUET TO ROYAL CHIEF

Members of Clan MacGregor Anticipate Great Time

Clan MacGregor, No. 5, O. S. C., is to tender a monster reception to Royal Chief Alex D. Findlay of Seattle, Wash., on the occasion of his visit to Quincy on Friday, March 13.

The clan has secured Quincy Music hall and Chief Angus D. Martin and his amusement committee have perfected plans necessary to make the affair a success.

Caterer Carroll D. Whittemore of Boston is to purvey a banquet, and it is needless to say that Music hall will be crowded.

Royal Chief Findlay will be accompanied by a number of the Royal Clan officers who live in this vicinity, and as he is a fine speaker those who have the privilege of meeting and hearing him will enjoy a treat.

The clan will meet at the Clan hall on Sunday, March 8, at 7 o'clock and parade to the First Presbyterian church to attend divine service.

HERBERT THOMAS.

Herbert Thomas, who lived at Billings road and Hancock street, died Thursday in his 34th year. He was the brother of James Thomas, a former member of the Quincy Board of Health. He was a member of John Hancock lodge, I. O. O. F., and Rural lodge of Masons and is survived by a wife and three children.

PRIZE DANCE.

Nine couples were entered in the prize waltz at the Skandinavian Socialist Labor Club Social in Electa hall Thursday evening. Elmer Baker, the judge, declared the winners to be Miss Esther Johnson and Lars Haroldson. Dancing was enjoyed during the evening, music being furnished by Johnsen's orchestra.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

LIVE WIRE CANINES.

Queer Little Watchdogs on the Canalboats In Holland.

For many generations the breed of dog now known as the schipperke was nameless, but as they became familiar features along the banks of the canals in their native country, Holland, they won their present name, which means "little skipper." Tourists of the present day in Holland will see few canal boats that have not their two skippers, man and dog. His popularity is much more than national in extent. Travelers and dog breeders, attracted by the intelligence and nervous energy of this twelve pound mite, have carried him into other countries.

The schipperke is an excellent watchdog. For generations he has been trained to guard his master's boat. His bark is peculiarly rapid and piercing, and his oval eyes see everything. He has the reputation of never sleeping except in "cat naps" of a few minutes' duration. The activity, alertness and endurance of the schipperke are really astonishing. He has been compared to a bundle of "live wires."

The appearance the schipperke is an odd little fellow. As a rule, his coat is entirely black, abundant, thick and harsh except on the head, erect ears and legs. It increases to a mane or frill round the neck. The head is foxy in type, the muzzle fine, but not weak; the neck strong and rather short and the chest broad. Many of the schipperkes are born without tails. Those that are not so born have their tails docked when very young since custom insists on a tailless schipperke.—London Standard.

OLD ENGLISH FORMALITY.

When a Wife Never Called Her Husband by His First Name.

There is a curious picture of the formality of a former generation in Sir Algernon West's "One City and Many Men," wherein he states that in his youth it was considered highly improper for a wife to address her husband by his Christian name or for a son to address his parents without saying "sir" or "ma'am."

"I never heard my mother call my father by his Christian name," he writes, "and I recollect distinctly that the fame of a very fashionable and brilliant woman was seriously imperiled because after some great man's death a letter from her to him was discovered beginning with his Christian name.

"The formal 'sir' was current everywhere. At Eton we never recognized any departure from this practice, and letters between boy friends began, 'My dear sir.'

"A friend of mine dining with Lady Jersey heard her say she never recollected her father, Lord Westmoreland, though specially attached to her sister, Lady Lonsdale, calling her anything but Lady Lonsdale. And Henry Greville, who was present at the same dinner, said that he remembered his mother, Lady Charlotte, and her brother, the Duke of Portland, meeting in the morning at Welbeck abbey, when the salutations were:

"'How is your ladyship this morning?'

"'I am quite well. I am obliged to your grace.'"

Railroad Fatalities.

A contemporary has estimated that since the average length of a railroad journey in this country is thirty-four miles, and a passenger may take 2,275,122 such journeys with only one chance of being killed, it would take him, at two trips a day, 3,792 years to run the full gamut of risk. That is to say, if the one fatal accident happened to him in the present year it would have been necessary for him to start his railroad traveling, at two trips a day, in the year 1879 B. C. It must be borne in mind, however, that he might be killed on his first trip.

Schoolboy Blunders.

These mistakes by British schoolboys are reported by the London Times:

"When the last French attack at Waterloo proved a failure Napoleon turned very pale and rode at full gallop to St. Helena."

"A problem is a figure which you do things with which are absurd, and then you prove it."

"When Chaucer describes the prioress as 'amiable of port' he means that she was fond of wine."

"The mineral wealth of a country is ginger beer and lemonade."

A Giant Redwood.

The largest tree in the United States is said to be the mother of the forest, a giant redwood in the Calaveras big tree grove in California. It is supposed to contain 140,619 board feet of lumber. There are, however, many claimants for the honor of being the "largest tree" and the "oldest tree," and these claims, according to foresters, cannot always be verified.—Indianapolis News.

Sizing Up a Tip.

"I'm afraid I gave that waiter too big a tip," said the frugal diner.

"He seems quite appreciative."

"That's it. I merely wanted him to say 'Thank you.' I didn't expect him to bow and say 'Good night, sir.'"—Washington Star.

Principles.

We must be careful to have our principles and be ready to die for them. But we must be careful not to label our prejudices "principles" and proceed to die for them.

Friendship is the only thing in the world concerning the usefulness of which all mankind are agreed.—Cicero.

MAY END YEARLY FIGHT

Christian Scientists In Agreement With State Medical Board

Boston, March 6.—An agreement has been reached between the Christian Science church and the state board of registration in medicine on the provision of law in Massachusetts relative to the practice of Christian Science in the treatment of the sick.

This may end the annual contests before the Massachusetts legislature over the rights of the Scientists to practice their healing. The clause they have agreed shall be inserted into the proposed law reads as follows:

"Nothing in this act shall be held to apply to registered pharmacists, registered dentists, or registered optometrists, or to restrain the practice of clairvoyance, hypnotism or mind cure, or to apply to any person who ministers to or treats the sick or suffering by mental or spiritual means without the use of drugs or material remedy."

If the legislative committee agrees to it there will be no further contests with the Christian Science people.

HAS CHARGE OF CHILDREN

Mrs. Liggett Secures Divorce Decree Against Boston Banker

Augusta, Me., March 6.—Mrs. Margaret Liggett was granted a divorce from her husband, John E. Liggett, a Boston banker, on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment, by Justice Spear in the supreme judicial court. The suit was not contested.

Liggett is the son of Mrs. Laura L. Hill, widow of former Governor Hill of Maine. He recently became engaged in the banking business in Boston. He is reputed to be a millionaire.

The Liggetts were married ten years ago. They have two children, Lawrence, aged 9, and Margaret, aged 6. The care and custody of the children was given to the mother, although the father was given permission to visit them at proper times.

BOSTON FIRE CHIEF GIVES UP HIS JOB

Mullen Admits Action Is Not Desire of His Own

Boston, March 6.—Fire Chief John A. Mullin resigned from the Boston department last evening. That action, following so soon after positive declaration the day before that he had no present intention of stepping out of the department, caused surprise.

In view of the strained relations between Mullen and Assistant Chief Grady, who is Mayor Curley's choice for commissioner to succeed Commissioner Cole, it was only a question of a short time when Mullen would be retired.

The chief admitted he retired through no desire of his own, but because of conditions beyond his control. He will probably receive a pension of $2250 a year. He issued a statement reviewing his forty years in the fire department, during the last eight of which he served as chief.

'KELLY'S "ARMY" ROUTED

Clash With Police In Their Hike Toward National Capital

Oakland, Cal., March 6.—"General" Kelly's band of unemployed men, which started from San Francisco Tuesday, to march to Washington, was routed here by 250 policemen, armed with rifles.

The entire band was put aboard street cars and shipped to Richmond, a nearby town. No resistance was offered, the men ignoring Kelly's plea that they give battle to the police.

At Richmond, however, the travelers immediately began a riot, attempting to demolish a large wooden storage building. Policemen dispersed them by a free use of clubs and arrested several alleged ringleaders.

RITES FOR LOST SAILORS

Funeral Service Over Spot Where Men Are Supposed to Be Buried

Plymouth, Eng., March 6.—With impressive ceremony, a funeral service was read for the eleven men who perished with the lost submarine A-7.

While the burial rites of the Anglican church were read aboard the cruiser Forth, standing by over the spot in Plymouth sound where the A-7 is supposed to be buried in the sand, a duplicate service was read in the royal navy barracks at Keyham.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Chorus girls can't love was the answer of Sydney Henlein, a New York manufacturer, to a breach of promise of marriage suit brought by Lavina Mason, an actress. She asks $100,000 damages.

One of the Canadian marine department's buoys from the Gulf of St. Lawrence was picked up in Australian waters. The buoy slipped its moorings about two years ago.

Mrs. Ann Bowe, the oldest person in Woburn, Mass., died at the age of 103. Her husband died two years ago at the age of 101.

The new Women's University club of New York has a cosy smoking room. The club has 1100 members.

Several thousand dollars' worth of lobsters at the Portland, Me., docks were killed by the recent low temperatures.

THE PLAYHOUSE

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

The mid-week change of program brought another splendid show to Kincaide Theatre and it was enjoyed yesterday by large audiences afternoon and evening. The Valley Forge Four are a scream. Their makeup is cause for laughter and their jokes and songs are also full of fun. Hall & O'Brien in their singing, talking and dancing skit were well received. McGarvey, the male Prima Donna, made a great hit with all his hearers. The feature picture in two parts "By Radium's Rays" was mighty interesting.

Coming Monday is another great bill including, Arminta & Burke, aerial and tranpoline artists; Burns, Lawrence and Burns, Comedy Trio; Ashton & Munson, singing dancing and change artists; Lew Ward, character comedian.

GAIETY THEATRE.

The offering at the Gaiety Theatre next week will be "The Honeymoon Girls" with Phil Ott in the leading comedy part. That the play has proved so successful is not to be wondered at, when the talent involved in making, producing and acting it is considered. The company is one of exceptional merit. There is the Star, Phil Ott, one of the funniest comedians on the stage today, surrounded with a cotorie of capable associates.

Miss Alice Lazer, the prima donna, one of the sprightliest bits of femininity on the English speaking stage, Miss Violet May and Miss Nettie Nelson, two pretty talented girls and Virginia Ware, a native of New York and a rare beauty of the Spanish type, who is a pronounced success. Mr. Billy Inman, Bud Williamson, the Harmony Trio, Dave Mindler and several others just as prominent.

"LES MISERABLES."

"Les Miserables," Victor Hugo's world-famous story presented in motion pictures, Monday opens a week's engagement at Tremont Temple, Boston. The return of this spectacular photo-drama will afford an opportunity for those who did not witness it when it last appeared in Boston. The production is the same that scored such a tremendous hit last fall when its long run of 12 weeks had to be cut short because of previous bookings. All the interest derived by the reader in this universally read novel is admirably sustained in the pictures. One of the most spectacular of the group is the rebellion scene. The production is presented in nine reels and the entire set of pictures are remarkable for their clarity and vividness. The leading characters are portrayed by the most celebrated French actors. Jean Valjean, considered by eminent critics to be the greatest fiction character ever written, is ably handled by Henri Krauss, leading man of the Sarah Berhardt theatre in Paris. The engagement is for one week only.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

"Under Cover" continues in its reign of prosperity and popularity at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, where it is destined to establish a record that will mark an epoch in the theatrical history of that city. No play produced in years has attracted the attention of the playgoing public of New England as has this delightfully charming play. "Under Cover" deals with smuggling, a subject that is new to the stage and yet one that has been constantly discussed. It presents an interesting picture of how Steven Denby tries to smuggle into this country a pearl necklace valued at $200,000. The author has constructed an ingenious plot that keeps you interested from start to finish. One of the most delightful features is its magnetic charm. The characters are all real to life. Ethel Cartwright, a society girl of excellent breeding is forced into an unpleasant position through circumstances and is made to spy upon the supposed smuggler at the home of wealthy friends where she and Denby are guests. The play presents a series of thrills and laughs, two of the most popular elements to all classes of theatregoers. It is a clean wholesome play and may be witnessed by all the family. Next Thursday's matinee will be given in honor of Margaret Anglin who with several friends will occupy a box.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

"Within the Law," Bayard Veiller's intensely interesting new play of absorbing heart interest, presented under the managerial direction of Selwyn Company enters into the fourth week of its very successful engagement at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, where it is playing to capacity houses at every performance. In this thrilling drama of life of the present time in large cities, Mr. Veiller has placed upon the stage the career of a young woman who has served a prison sentence for a crime unjustly fastened on her. Upon being freed she finds that the penitentiary taint cannot be shaken off, and is compelled to take to the pavements, or develop a new mode of life along criminal lines, but just out of reach of the officers of the law. This latter course she adopts, acquiring amazing ingenuity and preying upon society almost at will, yet avoiding punishment by remaining always "within the law," using its falsities and technicalities to guard her against police interference. "Within the Law" has a strong human appeal and brings out with engrossing, dramatic emphasis certain often discussed phases of modern metropolitan life such as industrial slavery, sociology, questionable police practices and the difficulties that seem to prevent criminals from really reforming.

AUTOMOBILE NUMBERS

Saturday, March 7
And Again
Saturday, March 14

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Will Contain an Extra Section

Devoted to the Automobile Industry

In connection with the Boston Show

ALL LOCAL AGENTS AND GARAGES

Are Invited to take Large Spaces

Take Advantage of the Opportunity

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

"It's a corker," said a man who sat near me at the Hollis Street Theatre in Boston last Monday night when Miss Billie Burke opened her two weeks' engagement there in W. Somerset Maugham's newest play, "The Land of Promise." At the end of the third act he declared—"It's a crackerjack." And everyone in the big audience seemed to agree with him—the way they applauded. There is absolutely no mistake about the success of "The Land of Promise" or of Miss Burke as its heroine. The piece tells a gripping story of the experiences of Norah Marsh, a pretty English girl, in Manitoba. Norah has been earning her living nursing an old lady in England. The old lady dies and forgets to mention Norah in her will. No other job offers, so Norah goes out to Manitoba where her only brother has a farm. She can't please her sister-in-law and there is a quarrel and Norah offers to marry a farm hand who wants a wife to go with him to his claim on the frontier and help him work it. The big act of the play shows Norah and her husband arriving at his miserable shack in the wilderness. The man wants to be master. Norah rebels, but he is stronger than she and he has his way. It is a powerful scene and Miss Burke plays it splendidly. She is simple and direct and gets the sympathy of every woman and most of the men in the audience.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

The Gilbert & Sullivan Opera Company, with a cast headed by DeWolf Hopper, and including Herbert Waterous, John C. Thomas, Arthur Aldridge, Arthur Cunningham, Alice Brady, Sara M. Edwards, Gladys Caldwell, Florence Less, Gertrude Self and Maude Mordaunt, in a revival of Gilbert & Sullivan's best comic operas, "The Mikado," "Pinafore," "Iolanthe" and "The Pirates of Penzance," will be seen for a two weeks' engagement at the Shubert Theatre beginning Monday.

In preparing for these revivals, the Shuberts and Mr. Brady established a permanent Gilbert and Sullivan chorus. In "Pinafore" especially such demands are made upon the male chorus that perfect voices are absolutely essential. This is equally true of the peers chorus in "Iolanthe," and the policeman chorus in "The Pirates." The orchestra under the leadership of Frank Paret includes many special instrumentalists who travel with the organization. For the first week the following has been arranged: Monday and Tuesday evenings, "The Mikado," Wednesday matinee and night, "H. M. S. Pinafore," Thursday and Friday evenings, "The Pirates of Penzance," Saturday matinee and night, "The Mikado." The second week will open with the whimsical and tuneful "Iolanthe," being sung Monday and Tuesday evenings. Wednesday matinee and night and also Friday night will be devoted to "The Mikado." Thursday night "The Pirates of Penzance" will again be heard and "Pinafore" on Saturday matinee and evening will conclude the engagement.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

For the first time in stock in Boston "Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace," a brilliant English comedy by Hubert Henry Davies first acted in this country by Sir Charles Wyndham and his company, will be given at the Castle Square next week. It has an ingenious plot, its theme centering about the sacrificing devotion of true love, and it unfolds itself dramatically and with not a few comedy effects.

The novelty of the production made by Mr. Craig will be the appearance of the ladies in the cast wearing wigs in the latest Parisian fashion. Miss Mary Young will appear as Mrs. Gorringe, and others in the cast will be Mr. Carleton, Mr. Meek, Mr. Walker, and Miss Doris Olsson.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.
YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY.

$1.00 WHILE THEY LAST

BARGAINS

HISTORIES OF QUINCY

Slightly damaged by water. Just the thing for students of history for reference, or to clip from.

Bargain price of

$1.00

while they last.

A few perfect copies for $3.50

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING COMPANY
LEDGER—PATRIOT OFFICE

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck.
A. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
S. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George A. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Saturday, probably fair. Sunday, also fair.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	6.09
San sets	5.42
Length of day	11.33
Moon sets	4.15
High water, A. M.	7.45
High water, P. M.	8.30
Days increase 2 hours, 27 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	37 degrees
Mar. 6 1913,	46 degrees
Mar. 6, 1912,	31 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

The English Language.

Elsie (aged five)—I do hope some Dutchman will marry me when I grow up.

Aunt Mary—Why, my dear?

Elsie—'Cause I want to be a duchess.—Philadelphia Ledger.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The Witch of Salem will be the 2 reel feature at Music hall for the Saturday matinee and night. This powerful drama reveals the atrocious fanaticism of the Witchcraft period in Colonial America. The principals are extraordinarily well chosen—and the entire production startlingly realistic. Though to a rational person of today, the evidence on which Prudence is condemned to be burned at the stake, seems absurdly insufficient—to the inflammable imaginations of those times—like tinder, to which the merest accusation of black art was the spark—her condemnation appeared justifiable in the name of God and religion. The rumor starting that Prudence was a witch, it is by no means impossible to see how the idea waxed and spread among the colonists—until, already looking upon her with fear and loathing, they saw in every action of hers—however innocent— signs of the evil spirit, casting spells on everybody within her influence.

But she does not burn at the stake—and the emergency which saves her life but threatens to destine her to a fate worse than death gives a thrilling turn to the story. She changes a desperate chance, however, into a matchless opportunity to save the lives of the whole colony, and win their everlasting gratitude and forgiveness. She and John Hastings are married— and thus one Witch of Salem becomes a happy, honored goodwife who lives out her days in peace.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES

28 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.

MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar, Tel. Quincy 131-W.

GREAT CHECKER CONTEST

Napoleon Grignon Wins From Michael Kiley

Napoleon Grignon defeated Michael Kiley at St. Mary's hall Thursday night in the fifth game of their checker series. The sixth game was drawn by Mr. Kiley.

The men played the Edinborough choice and switched to several others before the final moves were made. An enthusiastic gallery was present. Alfred Jordan, champion of the world refereed the matches and at their close played and defeated James Bennett in two games. Mr. Jordan was blindfolded and won with ease.

The interest taken in the series is growing and Boston players will be present at the next match to see Mr. Grignon's style of game. His two defeats of Mr. Kiley place him in the front rank of the Boston Checker club since Mr. Kiley is considered one of their strongest players.

On the alleys Ave Maria council team lost four points to the Foresters of America in a West Quincy league match. The third string was tied but went to the Foresters on the rolloff. The scores were ordinary.

FORESTERS OF AMERICA.

Badot	76	92	70	238
Lorando	88	93	82	263
Bertrand	93	88	89	270
Hebert	84	63	91	238
Hastings	98	81	82	261
	439	417	414	1270

AVE MARIA COUNCIL.

Howley	87	80	93	260
Hebert	67	68	82	217
Corcoran	71	91	79	241
McCue	85	85	85	255
Garity	90	72	75	237
	400	396	414	1210

CARRIERS 1238 CLERKS 1235

Another match in the bowling series between employees at the Quincy Post Office was rolled at the City Square alleys Thursday night, and the Carriers defeated the Clerks by three pins. The sudden drop in the third string of the Carriers gave the Clerks the opportunity of tying the total and they almost succeeded. Con Connors was high man, with 287. High single went to Clark with 107 and Connors and Reardon were tied for second honors at 106.

CARRIERS.

Downey	83	78	61	222
Cunniff	77	78	64	219
Cain	93	87	90	270
Connors	90	91	106	287
King	76	88	76	240
	419	422	397	1238

P. O. CLERKS

Dunston	66	79	63	208
Reardon	74	93	106	273
Canavan	72	75	81	228
Clark	107	85	80	272
Joyce	81	85	88	254
	400	417	418	1235

BEADS AWARDED AT CAMPFIRE

Twenty-five campfire girls gathered in the Boys Scout hall, Keating building Thursday night at a union meeting under the auspices of Wampatuck campfire.

A ceremonial meeting was held and beads were awarded as honors to the members. Previous to the close of the meeting Mrs. W. W. Penniman, patriotic instructor of the Paul Revere Women's Relief Corps gave a talk on "The American Flag.""

The campfires represented were Moswatussett of Wollaston and Quosset of West Quincy. They were accompanied by their guardians, Miss Dorothy Saywood of the former and Miss Marjorie Fay of the latter.

The guests of the evening included Benjamin F. Hodgkinson, scout master of Quincy troop, of Boy Scouts, Miss Alice G. White of the Thomas Crane Public Library, and Miss Carlena Walker.

Punch and cake were served after the meeting by the Wampatuck girls and games were enjoyed.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—the staff of life for you and your wife. Get a loaf today.

SPORT NEWS

The Hull Draftsmen forfeited four points to the Machine Floor team of the Fore River league at the Coliseum alleys Thursday night. The matchr was to have been the first of the ones postponed. Broberg got high single, 117 and Cockett with a total of 337 had high three string total. The totals were 480, 471 and 478, a grand total of 1429.

It is understood that a movement is on foot among employees at the Fore River shipyard which may result in the formation of a soccer foot ball team. The past season has been a dead one locally. The men taking a prominent part in the discussion are former players. A few years ago the team called "Fore River" took the championship and the men believe that it can be again taken by a Quincy aggregation. Added incentive has been given with the provisional admission of the International Football Association to membership in the United State Association which will conduct the games at the Panama Exposition at SanFrancisco in 1915 and the recognition makes this country eligible for the Berlin, Germany games in 1916.

Costa, McPherson and Burke, a fast trio will roll against the Smith brothers and Connell, the Weymouth bowlers at the Coliseum alleys Monday night in a 10 string match. It should be one of the fastest held this winter.

BRIDE FROM WEST.

Leroy Morgan, who returned to East Milton this week created a mild sensation by announcing that he was accompanied by his bride, who was Miss Olive W. Coopes of South Pasadena, Cal. on a western trip but did not confide the secret of his going to any of his friends.

The ceremony was performed in South Pasadena on Feb. 18 by Rev. Charles W. Jackson of the Memorial Baptist church of that place and was witnessed only by the immediate members of the bride's family. She was given away by her father Charles W. Coopes and a relative, Lois Coopes was the flower girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan left after the ceremony on a honeymoon trip for the East. They stopped at Santa Fe, the Grand Canyon of Arizona and Montreal. They arrived in East Milton Sunday morning and shortly after Mr. Morgan made the announcement.

He is a member of the Morgan Construction Co., which has developed much property in Milton.

Bullets That Come Back.

Speaking about a purchase of a large quantity of zinc instead of sheet lead for the manufacture of coffins, two men interested in metals joined in the following discussion:

"That is a final consumption," said one. "That metal never comes back into the market." "There are others," replied his friend, "shot and bullets, for example." "You are only partially correct," replied the first. "Some of the bullets come back. They are so economical and so well organized in Germany that after military target practice the soldiers have to pick up and account for all the lead they have fired. They are no theorists about conservation over there. They are practitioners."—Engineering and Mining Journal.

To Bed With Drum and Shot.

From the following story it would seem that the cadets at West Point are not the only persons who sometimes find taps and the sunrise gun annoying.

The wife of one of the officers there had a colored maid who was giving satisfaction and was apparently well pleased with her position. Mrs. Brown was therefore amazed when Sallie came to her and told her she could not work there any longer.

"Will you tell me why you are leaving, Sallie?" her mistress asked.

"Mis' Lizzie," she answered, "Ah likes you an' Ah likes de kinnel an' Ah likes de chillen. But Ah can't stay nowhar whar Ah has to be drummed to bed at night and shot out of bed in de mawnin'."—New York Post.

Copper Consumption.

The United States is the chief consumer of copper.

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

MESSAGE STIRS CONGRESSMEN

Repeal of Free Panama Canal Tolls Seems Certain

WILL BE MUCH OPPOSITION

House Interstate and Foreign Commerc Committee In Favor of Exemption—Foreign Policy of United States Considered to Be Involved In the Panama Question

Washington, March 6.—That President Wilson's direct plea to congress for repeal of the provision of the Panama canal act which exempts American coastwise shipping from tolls will be granted seems virtually certain, despite the fact that there will be vigorous opposition to the repeal, both in the senate and the house.

Initiative action in the matter will be taken today, when the house interstate and foreign commerce committee will consider the message. It is stated that this committee will report a bill to repeal flatly the exemption provision.

In the senate Senator Chilton, a Democratic member of the interoceanic canals committee, introduced an amendment to the canal act which would give the president authority to make or suspend tolls by proclamation and to prescribe tolls in cases exempted. This would put it up directly to the president to eliminate the exemption.

Aside from the bearing of the message on the Panama tolls question, some of the phrases used by the president attracted widespread comment in congressional quarters, as relating to foreign relations in general. There was a disposition to regard some of his statements as in the nature of a warning on the difficulties involved in "other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence."

The president himself, in talking with callers, explained that these phrases had no significance beyond their bearing on the need of rigorous good faith in the Panama tolls question as an evidence of unwavering good faith on all other questions, and that nothing critical was pending in foreign relations. But the language of the message continued to be commented upon as having an application considerably broader than the Panama question.

Three points in particular were noted:

First, the president's statement that no communication he had yet addressed to congress carried "graver or more far-reaching implications to the interest of the country;" second, that everywhere outside the United States the language of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was given only one interpretation; and third, the concluding statement as to "other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequences."

The president further told his callers that while he had never received any formal communications on the subject he had understood that European nations generally took the same view as did Great Britain, that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was violated by the Panama canal act.

He pointed out that, in dealing with foreign affairs, nations which believed the United States did not keep a promise on so important a treaty as the Hay-Pauncefote convention would not be likely to be sincere on other delicate questions.

Word had come to the president of a general impression in Europe that the United States was "sailing as close to the wind as possible" in interpreting promises made in its treaties.

No pressure had been brought to bear by any nation to emphasize their view in this connection, but the president felt confident that foreign governments had this feeling on the subject.

The president said no particular thing had caused him to read the message, except a doubt that had existed in some quarters in congress as to how strongly convinced he was as to the necessity of repeal. He had felt that he wanted members of congress to realize that he very earnestly sought them to reverse their action of a year ago.

ACCOUNTS ARE CORRECT

Governor Finds That New York State Funds Are Intact

Albany, March 6.—The report by the department of efficiency and economy on the examination of the accounts of former State Treasurer Kennedy, who committed suicide in Buffalo recently, was transmitted to the legislature by Governor Glynn, in a special message.

The report shows the accounts were correctly kept and that all state funds are intact.

Pleased With "Man Worth While"

London, March 6.—King George and Queen Mary, inspecting the new Y. M. C. A., saw for the first time the verse about the man who "smiles when everything goes dead wrong" and became enthusiastic over it.

Earthquake In Alaska

Fairbanks, Alaska, March 6.—An earthquake lasting several seconds was felt here. Reports indicate the shock was felt throughout the interior of Alaska. No damage is reported.

POLICE DANCE IN COURT

But They Fail to Convict Defendants In "Tango Trial"

Lowell, Mass., March 6.—The famous "tango trial," the first case in which dancers have been arrested for alleged improper actions while dancing the tango, ended in the police court with a decision of "not guilty" and the defendants, Frank Hennessy and Angelina Marcotte, were discharged.

The case has been one of the most sensational of recent years in Lowell. The couple were arrested by a specially assigned police officer whose duty it is to watch dance halls for obnoxious methods of dancing. Two policemen gave the court an exhibition of how the tango was danced.

Judge Enwright in making his finding said: "I am very sorry I cannot find sufficient cause to hold these persons on the evidence presented. The police are absolutely justified in their endeavors to eliminate these questionable actions in dance halls."

GUEST PERISHES IN FIRE

Lives Probably Saved by Action of Elevator Boy and Telephone Girl

Boston, March 6.—The heroic action of John Mackay, an elevator boy, in running his car repeatedly through smoke and flames, and of a telephone girl, Miss Mary Murphy, who stuck to her post and warned the guests of the Quincy House, who were in their rooms on the upper floors of the hotel, last night prevented possible serious loss of life when the building was discovered in flames that cost the life of one man, the injury of five more and a loss of about $25,000.

After the blaze had been subdued, the body of W. R. Snow of Woodstock, N. B., was discovered in his room on the sixth floor, where the fire is believed to have started. He had been suffocated and was partly burned.

The origin of the blaze was a mystery. It started in a toilet room on the Brattle street side of the building.

BIG WAVE CATCHES SEAMEN ON STEAMER

One Is Instantly Killed and Three Are In a Hospital

Boston, March 6.—One seaman was killed and six injured by a gigantic wave which swept over the liner Cotswold Range Feb. 26. The vessel arrived in Boston five days late from Rotterdam.

H. Pieterse, the man who was killed, leaves a widow and thirteen children residing at Rotterdam. Piterse was 65 years old and was buried at sea the day after the accident. His neck was broken when the wave swept him off his feet and through a port in the bulwark.

Three of the injured men were so badly hurt that they were removed to a hospital shortly after the ship docked.

BELOW THE ESTIMATE

Fall In Anticipated Revenue From Income Tax Is Indicated

Washington, March 6.—Telegrams from internal revenue collectors received at the treasury department indicate that the tax on incomes for the ten months of 1913 will be slightly less than estimated and with the corporation tax added the total will not reach quite $100,000,000.

The corporation tax in 1913 was $36,000,000, but will be nearly $50,000,000 this year. One reason for the increase will be that the $5000 exemption previously allowed was abolished in the recent tariff act.

ZANG NOT INDICTED

Took Life of St. Louis Gangster During a Recess of Court

St. Louis, March 6.—Henry Zang, who killed Wesley Simon during a recess of the court before which Simon was being tried for a gang murder, was released. The grand jury which investigated the killing of Simon did not return an indictment against Zang.

Before being freed Zang was required to renew a $2000 bond for his appearance to answer to a charge of grand larceny, made two years ago.

CLAIMS SELF DEFENSE

Woman Says She Killed Husband Because He Abused Her

New Britain, Conn., March 6.—Mrs. Theresa S. Ruffiano shot and killed her husband, Luciano Ruffaro, with a revolver, at her home here.

After her arrest, Mrs. Ruffiano told the police that her husband had abused and threatened to kill her, and she shot him in self-defense.

Freed of Murder Charge

Auburn, Me., March 6.—Ernest Gagne of Lewiston, a baker, accused of manslaughter, on account of the death of William J. Driscoll, was found not guilty in the supreme court. The state claimed Gagne knocked Driscoll down, producing a fracture of the skull.

Avalance Kills Seventeen Soldiers

Vienna March 6.—Seventeen soldiers of the Emperor's Rifle regiment were overwhelmed and killed by an avalanche while they were engaged in maneuvering on the Ortler mountain, in the Tyrol.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by George W. Judkins, of Winchester, Mass., to Charles S. Judkins of Winchester, dated May 22nd. 1912, and recorded with Norfolk County Deeds, Book 1215, page 24, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction upon the premises on Monday the 16th day of March 1914, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed in and by said mortgage deed viz:—

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk in said Commonwealth called Squantum as shown on a plan made by H. T. Whitman, dated April 1898 and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 814, page 298, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the intersection of ground of the City of Boston and a proposed boulevard formerly known as the road to Squantum House, thence running Southeasterly by said ground of the City of Boston five hundred and thirty-two and 4-10 feet, thence Southwesterly by a private way called Standish Road four hundred thirty-six 44-100 feet, thence Northwesterly by a private way called Titus Road six hundred thirty-three 36-100 feet, and thence northeasterly by said boulevard three hundred and twenty-nine feet to the point of beginning, containing two hundred and fourteen thousand, five hundred and forty-six square feet, more or less. Being hereby conveyed subject to the right to construct and maintain a sewer given to the City of Quincy by an instrument dated July 12, 1897, recorded with said deeds, Libro 793, page 81 and to the restrictions contained in deed given by Lillie B. Titus to John McKnight dated September 14, 1897, recorded with Norfolk Deeds Libro 796, page 361. Subject also to the taking by the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board, March 26, 1901, recorded with said Deeds, Book 892, page 507, the location of which taking is thought to be identical with the taking by the City of Quincy hereinabove mentioned.

Said premises will be sold subject to prior mortgage given to Charles H. Lutton dated April 15, 1909, and recorded with said Norfolk Deeds Book 1107, page 283. On which there is now due on the principal Nine Thousand $9000 Dollars, and the accrued interest. Also subject to all unpaid taxes, assessments of municipal liens, if any there are.

$1000 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale and the balance to be paid in cash within ten days thereafter at the office of the mortgagee, 134 Congress Street, Boston, Tel. Main 325.

CHARLES S. JUDKINS,
Mortgagee.
Feb. 20-3t 20-27-6

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administrator of the estate of John H. Rooney late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, intestate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

MICHAEL T. SULLIVAN,
Adm.
(Address)
Durgin & Merrill Blk., Quincy, Mass.
February 20, 1914.
20-3t 20-27-6

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administrator of the estate of Catherine F. Rooney late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, intestate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

MICHAEL T. SULLIVAN,
Adm.
(Address)
Durgin & Merrill Blk., Quincy, Mass.
February 20, 1914.
20-3t 20-27-6

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 8, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 60 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.25 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 9.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.30 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 6.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight. Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street,—6.45 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 12.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Wollaston—6.05, 6.35, 7.05 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.20, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.05 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.25 P. M. then 11.42 P. M. and 12.12 midnight. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.35, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 15 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 10 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sundays 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 12.00 P. M.

THOMAS GAMSON,
Superintendent.

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

In effect Nov. 16, 1913

The letters in the same line as the figures below stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows.

a Wollaston	f Harrison Square
b Norfolk Downs	g Savin [illegible]
c Atlantic	h Cross Avenue
d Neponset	i South Boston
e Pope's Hill	r Quincy Adams
* Saturdays Only	† Except Saturday

Exp.—Express train.

TO BOSTON			FROM BOSTON
Leave	Stop	Arrive	Leave	Stop	Arrive
r 5 14	abcdefghi	5 41	5 44	hgfedcba	6 14 r
r 6 19	abci	6 40	6 09	hgfedcba	6 39 r
r 6 32	e	6 49	6 29	a	6 47
			6 47	Exp	7 04
r 6 40	abcf	7 00	7 14	hgfedcba	7 41 r
r 7 08	abcd	7 30	7 34	a	7 52
7 28	a	7 46	7 37	a	7-56
r 7 32	Exp	7 49	7 44	c	8 03 r
r 7 42	ab	8 00	8 34	cba	8 55 r
7 55	a	8 12	8 44	b	9 02
r 8 13	abc	8 32	9 09	fedba	9 32 r
8 24	a	8 41	9 44	a	10 01 r
r 8 33	a	50	10 14	hgfedcba	10 41 r
r 8 59	ad	[illegible]	10 54	Exp	11 10
r 9 18	abc	9 39	11 14	hgfedcba	11 41 r
r 10 04	a	10 21	11 49	a	12 07
r 10 19	abcdefghi	10 45	12 14	hgfedcba	12 41 r
11 12	a	11 28	12 20	a	12 38
11 24	abcdefgh	11 50	12 50	Exp	1 06
12 04	a	12 20	1 16	fedcba	1 39 r
			* 1 32	a	1 50
r 12 27	abcdefghi	12 53	1 44	a	2 01
r 1 16	a	1 34	2 14	fedcba	2 37 r
2 04	a	2 20	2 24	Exp	2 50
r 2 19	abcdefgh	2 45	3 14	hgfedcba	3 40 r
r 3 13	Exp	3 28	3 44	a	4 02
4 04	a	4 20	4 12	fedcba	4 35 r
r 4 26	abcdefgh	4 55	4 15	a	4 32
5 02	a	5 19	4 40	c	4 58
r 5 30	abcdefg	6 05	4 55	a	5 19
6 04	a	6 21	5 13	a	5 32
6 12	ab	6 32	5 19	hgfeca	5 43
6 57	a	7 15	5 28	ba	5 46 r
r 7 22	Exp	7 39	5 40		5 57
7 29	ab	7 48	5 58	a	6 17 r
r 8 09	abcdef	8 32	6 01	fedcb	6 24
9 00	a	9 18	6 16	a	6 35
r 9 19	abc	9 29	6 30	ecba	6 52 r
* 9 17	Exp.	9 32	6 59	fedcba	7 24 r
r 10 07	abcdef	10 30	7 11	a	7 28
* 10 19	a	10 37	8 04	fedcba	8 28 r
11 13	a	11 30	* 8 19	Exp	8 35
r 11 30	abcd	11 [illegible]	9 19	a	9 37
			9 34	b	9 53 r
			10 05	ba	10 24
			10 34	fedcba	11 02 r
			* 11 06	a	11 25 r
			† 11 09	fedcba	11 35 r
			* 11 25	ba	11 43 r
			† 11 29	ba	11 49
			12 05	cba	12 26 r

SUNDAYS

r	7 43	abc	8 03	6 29	ba 6 48
	8 30	Exp	8 45	8 34	cba 8 55 r
r	8 46	abcdefghi	9 13	10 39	cba 10 59 r
r	9 13	abc	9 33	12 14	ihgfedcba 12 42
	9 31	a	9 47	12 41	Exp 1 01
	10 25	ac	10 42	2 29	ihgfedcba 1 57 r
	11 08	Exp	11 25	2 14	hgfedcba 2 42 r
r	11 16	abcdefghi	11 43	2 44	a 3 02
	1 04	a	1 23	3 14	ihgfedcba 3 42 r
r	1 16	abcdefgh	1 43	4 26	cba 4 48 r
r	3 10	abc	3 30	5 14	ihgfedcba 5 42 r
r	4 16	abcdefghi	4 43	6 09	Exp 6 25
	4 59	ab	5 16	6 14	ihgfedcba 6 42 r
	5 06		5 23	7 02	cba 7 22 r
r	6 15	abcdefghi	6 43	8 14	ihgfedcba 8 41 r
	7 21	Exp	7 36	8 39	a 8 56 r
	7 29	abcdefghi	7 55	8 49	Exp 9 05
r	8 16	abcdefghi	8 43	9 29	ihgfedcba 9 57 r
	9 46	a	10 04	10 44	cba 11 04 r
	0 46	abc	11 05

A DEVOTED WIFE

She Proved More Efficient Than the Law

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

Charles Fosdick, newly married, having finished his dinner, rose from the table and said to his wife:

"I must do some work at the office tonight. If I'm not at home by 10 o'clock don't wait for me, but go to bed."

"Can't I help you with your accounts?" asked the wife.

"No; there is nothing to be done that two can work at. I think I can do it all and get home at a reasonable hour."

"I'll sit up for you, no matter how late you are."

It was half an hour after dark when Charlie Fosdick unlocked the office door of Converse & Co., private bankers, and, entering, turned on a light and went to work. He had been engaged some time when, looking up from his desk, he noticed that the door of the private room of Mr. Coolidge, the financial partner, who had also under his supervision the accounts of the concern, was ajar. This was noticeable, because Fosdick knew that when Coolidge left his room he invariably locked it. Fosdick went to the door, pushed it open and by the light that shone in from the counting room saw a sight that filled him with horror. A man lay on the floor. Fosdick ran in, turned on a light and saw the financial partner lying on his back, his glazed eyes staring at the ceiling.

Fosdick's first impulse was to run out and shout for some one. But it flashed upon him that he had better take counsel with himself as to what it would be better to do. Turning off the light, he left the room, closing the door behind him, and returned to his desk. He had been there but a few minutes when the night watchman entered.

"Hard at work, Mr. Fosdick?"

"I'm a little behind," was the reply.

The young man's heart was beating like a triphammer. Should he take the watchman into Coolidge's room and show him what had occurred? He had no time for consideration. The watchman went out, saying before doing so:

"Everything seems to be all right, doesn't it?"

"Oh, yes," was the reply, "everything is all right."

The man had no sooner gone than Fosdick saw that he had been on the horns of a dilemma and had chosen the wrong horn. If he had shown the watchman the body he might have had some chance to escape being hanged for Coolidge's murder. As it was, the watchman would swear that he, Fosdick, had been in the office between 9 and 10 o'clock on the evening of the murder and no one had been there later.

There was no hope but in flight. Catching up his hat and without having sufficient equanimity to turn off the light over his desk, he left the office and, running to his home, fell into the arms of his wife, trembling like a leaf.

"Charlie," she exclaimed, "for heaven's sake, what is it?"

It was some time before he could sufficiently collect his faculties to tell her what had occurred, and when he did he brought it out in disconnected, gasped sentences.

"Oh, Charlie!" she moaned. "Why didn't you give an alarm as soon as you saw the body?"

"Why didn't I? Because I must have been struck with madness. It was all fated. I shall die on the gallows."

Then the wife pulled herself together. She sat down on a sofa beside her husband with her arms about him and said:

"Probably the murder will not be discovered till morning. Mr. Coolidge was a bachelor, wasn't he?"

"Yes."

"Then it is not likely he will be missed from home during the night. You will not be sent for. You have a choice between two courses—either to go to Mr. Converse's house and tell him all that has occurred or disappear, hoping that during your absence some clew will be found as to the murderer."

Fosdick could not get over the scene between the night watchman and himself and how it would be used against him when brought to trial, and his wife saw that he was so frightened that he would present a bad appearance and be a very poor witness in his own behalf. Feeling that by flight he would not make the matter much worse than it was, she consented to his going. There was plenty of time to prepare a disguise, and she bent her inventive powers to dress him up to that end. He wore a full beard, and she shaved it all off, doing the work herself because his hand trembled so that he could not do it without cutting himself. Then she dressed him in some of her old garments, rouged and powdered him and sent him away, with all the money there was in the house, cautioning him to go to a foreign country before changing his apparel.

Fosdick did not get away from home till near midnight, but when he did he was effectively disguised. His wife did not let him go before arranging a cipher code by which he might communicate with her. A newspaper advertisement informed the couple that a steamer would sail for South American ports at 1 a. m., or in a couple of hours, the tide serving at that time. Fosdick under an assumed name got aboard and before the murder was discovered at 8 o'clock the same morning was well out at sea.

Before officers came to Fosdick's house to arrest him his wife had consulted a lawyer, to whom she had told the whole story and asked his advice as to further procedure. Without either commending or condemning Fosdick's flight the lawyer advised her to disclaim any knowledge of his movements, or, rather, to refuse to answer any questions whatever. Nothing was discovered to cast any suspicion on any one but Fosdick. Indeed, it did not appear that there was any need to look for a clew since his flight was taken as a confession of guilt. Mrs. Fosdick had a long interview with Mr. Converse, but he did not make it known to others whether or not he had gained any information from her. The truth is he did not. The wife did not dare trust any one except her attorney. Indeed, he strictly enjoined that she should trust no one else.

At the interview between Mr. Converse and Mrs. Fosdick the lady represented to him that she had no income; that she had studied bookkeeping and served as a bookkeeper before her marriage. She asked if she might not be given her husband's place. The fact that she had been left destitute and that her husband was a murderer excited a great deal of sympathy for her, in deference to which the head of the firm granted her request, and within a week after her husband's disappearance she entered upon her duties.

During Mrs. Fosdick's term of service with Converse & Co. her husband was in South America and soon after his arrival there secured a position in the interior of Brazil as an accountant on a coffee plantation. He dared not write his wife lest his letters be intercepted and his hiding place become known, but she sent him advertising cards, and he returned them with certain marks on them which she alone knew how to interpret.

Although the details of a plan to exonerate her husband had not been in Mrs. Fosdick's mind at the beginning, there was a plan in embryo. She needed the income she derived from her work, but this was not her prime motive in entering the service of Converse & Co. She hoped by keeping her eyes and ears open and her mouth shut to find a clew to the murderer. If Mr. Coolidge had been murdered by any one connected with the business this might be possible; if he had been murdered by some one on the outside it would not be possible.

Mrs. Fosdick noticed that John Carruthers, the head bookkeeper, kept certain of his books and papers in an old fashioned safe, opened by a key instead of a combination lock. Shortly before the end of the firm's fiscal year she announced to Mr. Erskine, who had taken Mr. Coolidge's place, that she must work nights. He asked her if in view of the tragedy that had occurred in the office she would not be afraid of being there alone. She said that her nerves were strong and she would not mind it.

One night while Mrs. Fosdick was working in the office Mr. Carruthers suddenly appeared there and caught her in the act of locking his safe. He was white as a cloth, and when he spoke to her her voice, in spite of an effort to control it, trembled.

"So it is you who have been tampering with my safe," he said. "I noticed bits of wax on the lock and suspected an impression had been made as a model for a key. I have been on the watch, have caught you and shall report the matter."

"I don't think you will, Mr. Carruthers."

"Why not?"

"Before I tell you I wish you to know that I am armed. The only other person who possessed your secret was doubtless unarmed, and his life was at your mercy."

Carruthers staggered and caught at a desk for support. Mrs. Fosdick took a revolver from under her dress and proceeded:

"My husband worked here the night of the murder and discovered Mr. Coolidge's body. Fearing that he would be held for the murder, he fled. It is time you took his place. The law works slowly and often unsatisfactorily. I am a practical woman and would rather get on without it. I have been through your books and have discovered a shortage of $50,000. Write me a confession that you murdered Mr. Coolidge—the only person who had knowledge of your deficiency—and you may go into concealment."

It did not take the man long to see that he had been offered the only chance there was for his life. He signed a confession, gave it to Mrs. Fosdick, and about the same hour in the morning as Fosdick had gone he sailed away into oblivion.

The next afternoon Mrs. Fosdick went into Mr. Converse's private office and was closeted with him for an hour, at the end of which time she left with means to go to South America and bring her husband home.

Converse & Co., in order to avoid shaking their credit, kept the deficiency a secret. And when Mr. Converse received a letter from Fosdick in South America stating that he and Mrs. Fosdick would make that country their future home it was determined to publish simply a statement that the firm had come upon undisputed evidence that Fosdick was innocent of the murder and to make no effort to find Carruthers.

Fosdick and his wife concluded to remain in South America because there were those in the United States who would never believe in his innocence. In his new home no one knew that he had fled from justice, or, rather, injustice.

Economy Hints

A penny saved is a penny earned.—Benjamin Franklin.

Laundry Hints.

AFTER washing pass the shirt through thin hot water starch before it is hung up to dry. This, you will find, will give just the right amount of stiffness to the body part of the shirt.

Then hang it out in the open air and when quite dry starch the cuffs in cold water starch in exactly the same way as you do a gentleman's shirt; then if there is an attached collar starch this and also the box plait which goes down the front.

Remember always to wet the part just beyond where the starch will go. This will prevent the starch spreading. When this is done sprinkle the remaining dry parts with cold water, roll it up tightly in a clean cloth and lay it aside for a short time until you are ready to iron it.

Take the shirt out of the cloth and place it with the neck part toward the edge of the table. Iron the collar first until it is perfectly dry; then iron the yoke on both sides.

Next do the cuffs and then run the iron inside the sleeve a little way so as to dry the gathers and the thicker parts. Now open the sleeve out as flat as possible and iron it front and back.

If you possess a sleeve board this will lighten your labors considerably, as it is almost impossible for the sleeve to be properly ironed if it lies flat on the table.

When ironing the sleeve without a board slip the hand inside once or twice to prevent the starch sticking. Pay special attention to the top part of the gathers.

First pin the two fronts together, top and bottom, and lay the fullness into plaits. Next lay the sleeves down the sides of the back and turn them upward again so that the cuffs show at the neck. Pin them into position and turn over the sides, also pinning them together.

Fold the end upward, making it a convenient size. On no account press these folds with an iron. They should all be done as lightly as possible to avoid undue creasing.

Cold water starch is made in the following way: Mix the starch to a smooth cream with cold water, then add borax dissolved in boiling water in the proportion of a dessertspoonful to a teacupful of starch.

KITCHEN ADVICE.

How to Settle Coffee Economically and Satisfactorily.

As the practical housekeeper knows or should know, the coffee bean after roasting and crushing is very light and dry. One of the sure tests made for pure coffee is to put a teaspoonful on top of a glass of water—right on top—for if pure most of the coffee floats until it absorbs enough water or is stirred under. Over the bean there is also a very fine light skin, which separates in the boiling process and clouds the liquid.

These floating particles must be treated by the settling process—that is, something must be done to carry all floating particles to the bottom of the pot and hold them there, leaving a clear, sparkling liquid above.

Naturally the agent must be much heavier than the objects acted upon; hence clear cold water, being of greater weight than the steaming coffee, if poured in the top of the pot at the finish in the proportion of one tablespoonful to each half pint will of itself act as a settler. If after this treatment and after standing where it will keep hot from three to five minutes the pot is handled gently it is possible to pour a clear cup from the original pot without transferring it into another receptacle.

Then there is the eggshell method. Wash the eggs as you use them; then when opened the shells may be crushed and added to ground coffee—a more economical method than that of using an egg for settling.

Once establish the idea that it is simply the presence of a heavier substance carrying all floating particles to the bottom of the pot and holding them there and the mystery vanishes regarding the question of settling the coffee.

How to Make English Scallops.

Here are some hints for the thrifty housekeeper who wants to reduce the cost of living. English scallops present potatoes in a palatable way. Apples are delicious cooked in the same manner and served with pork.

For each large potato put one tablespoonful of flour into a small bowl, mix it into a rather thick batter with cold water, season to taste with salt and pepper. Pare and cut white potatoes as for chips, have a deep pan of hot fat, dip the potatoes in the batter, drop them into the fat and cook until brown. Remove them with a fork, drain them on brown paper in the colander, serve in a hot uncovered dish with cold meat, steak or fish.

How to Wire a Minaret Tunic.

Do not use fine wire to make the new tunics stand out properly, as this bends entirely out of shape very easily, but use feather boning. This will give readily, but will also spring back into shape again.

A NATIONAL BODY TO GUARD GIRLS

Travelers' Aid Society Plans to Spread Out.

HAS BRANCHES IN 800 CITIES

Co-operating With the Y. W. C. A., It Has Saved Young Women of Country Towns From the Snares of a Big City—Now It Is Proposed to Broaden Scope of Its Activities.

How the activities of the Travelers' Aid society have spread through the country for the protection of young women going to the large cities was demonstrated recently when Miss Florence Lawlor, sixteen years old, who had run away from her Brooklyn home, was taken under the shelter of the Young Women's Christian association immediately on her arrival in Chicago.

Such work has been going on at railroad stations and piers of New York city for several years in an unobtrusive way. Every railroad station is covered by two young women workers of the society at a time, and in the course of a year they help hundreds of girls to avoid the pitfalls of a metropolis.

How the Society Originated.

The Travelers' Aid society is of English origin, and it was founded in 1883 in London. Its badge is a branching palm tree in the desert, the design on the protecting shield. Attention was called by the Young Women's Christian association in Boston to the need of some means of keeping in touch with hundreds of young persons from the smaller towns who seemed to be literally swallowed up in the cities.

Many inquiries were received at the Boston headquarters of the association, and the result was the starting of the American society. Halifax, Nova Scotia, established a society at the same time, and branches were started in Philadelphia and Chicago. The work there was carried on as a division of the Young Women's Christian association for many years, and in 1905 the Travelers' Aid society was organized. There is now a project on foot to separate the society completely from the Young Women's Christian association and establish it as a national body.

An especial effort is being made for the starting of a strong society in San Francisco for the purpose of protecting young women who may go to the Golden Gate during the Panama exposition.

Covers Eight Hundred Cities.

The society is now represented in 200 cities, and there are organizations which co-operate with it in 800 cities. The society investigates on request the inducements offered any girl or woman to come to the city. This service is free, and the agents are not permitted in any circumstances to receive fees.

There are numerous instances given in the annual report of the society which reveal its varied and useful activities. The last statistical report of the society shows that in 1913 it aided 24,506 persons. The number of persons met at the various railroad stations in New York or connecting with the city was 6,146. The number of persons definitely helped since the beginning of the work to Jan. 1 of this year is 82,382.

CORN OIL FOR COOKING.

Kansas Professor Sees a Wide Use For Byproduct of Cereal Factories.

The discovery that oil made from corn can be used economically as a substitute for other oils in cooking has been made by Professor L. E. Sayre of the school of pharmacy at the University of Kansas.

"The cheapness of corn oil suggests the possibility of economy in substituting it in place of the more expensive oils," says Professor Sayre. "Our experiments show the value of this substitution in medicinal preparations. We are continuing our work to determine its importance in cooking and to prove that corn oil may be used interchangeably with cottonseed and olive oils."

Corn oil is a byproduct from cereal manufacturing. It is comparatively cheap, selling at 50 cents a gallon for the refined grade. Olive oil sells at $3 a gallon and cottonseed oil at 75 cents. Corn oil has a pale yellow color and a pleasant taste similar to freshly ground cornmeal. Its properties, according to Professor Sayre, are very similar to those of olive and cottonseed oils.

HE'LL BE GREEN MARCH 17.

Justice Giegerich of the New York county supreme court bench has a sense of humor. Morris Greenspun, a manufacturer of lubricating oils, decided that he would be socially and commercially benefited if he changed his name to Green. He petitioned the court for permission to make the change, which he suggested should take place on March 7. Justice Giegerich granted the application making Greenspun Green, but he changed the date when the new name shall become effective. The justice fixed the date as March 17.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS — CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING — WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—At North Weymouth, flat of 5 rooms, some improvements, near salt water and good place to keep hens. Rent reasonable to small family. Few minutes to trains to Boston. Apply at 445 Washington street, Quincy. March 3-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 3-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms centrally located, breakfast if desired, men or women. Write T. L. Ledger Office. 3-6t

TO LET—Flat of 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 3-6t

TO LET—Rooms and board, 18 Washington street. 2-6t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 2-6t

TO LET—In private family to refined people, two very fine corner rooms, newly furnished, with separate baths. Near centre. Write L. B. K. Ledger Office. 26-9t

TO LET—Furnished rooms, steam heat, bath, electric lights, $2.00 a week, 484 Quincy avenue, Newcomb Square. 20-12t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

RUSSELL PARK — Commodious house of seven rooms, large hall and bath. Modern, every convenience open fireplace, furnace, range, set tubs, electric lights, cemented cellar, etc. Best residential neighborhood Ready for immediate occupancy. For further details or key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office. tf lpo

TO LET—40 Park lane, 6 rooms all modern improvements. Rent $23.00. Apply 22 Berkeley street. Tel. 349-M. 5-tf

TO LET—Single house, 4 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

TO LET

2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall—Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Pribe.)
Greenleaf Block. ('Phone 21066) Quincy

Read Ledger Ads

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ..

TO LET

TO LET—Upper apartment 7 rooms and bath, all improvements, Upland road. Apply at room 20 Adams building or 112 Upland road. 6-3t 11-13-14

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, seven rooms and bath, all modern improvements. Apply P. J. Williams, 19 Independence Ave. Tel. Quincy 369. 5-6t

TO LET—173 Whitwell street, half house, modern conveniences, $20 per month. Ready for immediate occupancy. Apply Penniman's Stable, Granite street. 19-tf

UPPER APARTMENT. In two-family house on Spear Street. Five rooms, bath, large pantry and closets also open attic with finished heated chamber. Every improvement, electric light, furnace, range etc. Ready for immediate occupancy. Telephone Quincy 278 M or enquire mornings of Miss Prescott at the Ledger Office. lpo

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Upright piano in first class condition. Sell very reasonable as owner has no use for it. 46 Gay street, Quincy. 20-12t

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

A few Choice House Lots — ON — PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX

are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

READ LEDGER ADS

If you want a situation, if you want to rent a house or to buy anything, look over our classified columns

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

LOST

LOST—Wednesday a Fur Boa, between Common street and Adams street bridge. Finder please return to Dennen's Restaurant and receive reward. 5tf

LOST—Between Quincy Electric Light Station and depot, gold watch charm, marked L. U. Engineering Society. Suitable reward. R. J. Green, General Electric Co., 84 State street, Boston. 4-3t

FOUND

FOUND—A watch on Federal avenue. Owner can have by calling at 29 Garfield street, proving property and paying cost. 4-3t

WANTED

WANTED—A young lady for clerical work in purchasing department. No experience necessary. Must be neat, quick and bright. Quincy or Dorchester lady preferred. $6.00 per week to start. Address G. S. Mar. 5-2t

WANTED—A small shed or building, about 16x20, suitable to be made into a garage. Will move from premises. State lowest price. Address M. M. Ledger office. 5-6t

WANTED—An intelligent young girl for general house work, in family of three. Tel. 114 Quincy. 28-6t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York. N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

MI-AS-MA-INE—Guaranteed to cure Malaria or money refunded. If not found at your druggist, see Agent at Sawyer Drug Co., 274 Tremont st., Boston, Mass. 3-6t

$20.00 REWARD will be paid for the arrest and conviction of party or parties who broke into and set fire to our Engine House on Feb. 26th and 27th 1914. Bay View Quarry Company. 28-tf

JUST LOOK HERE

Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.

HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property, Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 / Office 85-4

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

KINCAIDE THEATRE

THURS., FRI. SAT.
Every Afternoon at 2.30. 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c
Program Subject to Change
WILLIAM McKAY & CO.
Presenting their Comedy Playlet
"HONEST JOHN McGUIRE"
VALLEY FORGE FOUR
Comedy Singing and Talking
McCARVEY
The Male Prima Donna
HALL & O'BRIEN
Singing Talking and Dancing
Great 2-Reel Feature
"BY RADIUMS RAYS"
A modern Melodrama featuring Herbert Rawlinson and Edna Maison
Louie Webber in her own Drama
"WOMAN'S BURDEN"
"SCOOPED BY A HENCOOP"
A cackling Comedy
KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA
Mar. 4—3t

BRIEFS

More snow.

A 12-page edition of the Daily Ledger tomorrow, one section being devoted to automobiles.

Osborne Rogers who was confined to his home for several days threatened with pneumonia has so far recovered as to be able to be out in the middle of the day.

There was a break in the water main on Hancock street opposite Johnson avenue during the night. Workmen were set at work repairing the break early this morning.

Many people report that as a result of Sunday's storm minature lakes were created in their back yards. The surface water however has now about all soaked off.

The West Quincy Shiloderamatic is to present a drama entitled "Lazzaro il Mandriano" at the Finnish Temperance hall on Arthur street tonight.

The weather started in shortly before noon in a manner that gave the impression that a blizzard had arrived. Most people were in hopes that there would be no more snow storms this winter.

The funeral of Marinus Houghton was held Thursday afternoon from the home of his son, Charles Houghton, 39 Clay street. Services were conducted by Rev. Charles R. Campbell, pastor of the Highland Congregational church of Roxbury. Interment was in the Forest Hills cemetery.

Rev. William B. Ayres of the Park and Downs Congregational church, conducted the services held in the chapel at Woodlawn cemetery this afternoon over the body of Joseph Sworoski, a Boston tailor, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George S. Orcutt at 39 Marlborough street on Tuesday night.

MILTON

Joseph Blake, who lived in East Milton for many years, died at Boston on Monday. He was in his 85th year and was the father of Mrs. Mary Piper of Pond street. Mr. Blake was well known in Milton.

Reports cards were given out Friday at Milton High school. The pupils who have been receiving the marks A. and B the former for unusual excellence in studies and the later for excellence, will from now until the honor pupils are annuonced anxiously await their issuance.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the Holy Name Society of the Sacred Heart Church, Atlantic, February 22, 1914.

Whereas,—It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst our beloved brother Daniel J. Nyhan.

Whereas,—The Holy Name Society feels that it has sustained in his death a personal loss, one which is most sincerely regretted by the society of which body he was a faithful member.

Resolved,—That we tender our warmest heartfelt sympathy to the widow and children of our late esteemed associate and we earnestly pray our Divine Master to give them grace and strength to hear their affliction with fortitude and Christian resignation.

Be it further ordered,—That copies of these resoluticns be forwarded to the Quincy Telegram and Daily Ledger for publication. Also to the bereaved family and inserted in the records of the Holy Name Society.

TIMOTHY J. KEOHANE,
JOHN F. SULLIVAN,
JOHN J. HERNE,
Committee on Resolutions.
March 6-1t

BIRTHS

KING—In Everett, March 6, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Q. M. King, (Miss Evelyn Jones.)

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass

EXCEPTIONS ARE TAKEN

To Ruling of President of the City Council

Editor Daily Ledger:

In your report of Monday evening's Council session, referring to the order introduced by Councilman Carlson, you state that "the order was ruled out of order as the matter had been covered by a resolve previously adopted, and further because it ordered the Mayor to do certain things and the Council had no right to order the Mayor to do anything."

The order in question had no resemblance in substance or purport to the previously adopted resolve, and the Mayor was not "ordered" to do certain things. In the language of the order the Mayor was "instructed,"—a perfectly legitimate and parliamentary expression used by legislative bodies with reference to executive action.

I was one of those who assisted Councilman Carlson in the preparation of the said order, and after it was drawn it was submitted for examination to one of the ablest law firms in Massachusetts, who pronounced it legal and correct.

The president of the Council summarily ruled this instrument out of order by a "snap shot" decision. His subsequent quotation of the order makes it perfectly apparent that he could not possibly have had any knowledge of its character or provisions at the time of his hasty ruling.

After the session the President told the writer that he ruled as he did because "the Mayor was ordered to do certain things." When he was informed that in the language of the order the Mayor was "instructed," he replied that "this word would not be allowed either," giving as authority a clause from section 2, of Title 1 of the City Charter which reads: "The executive department shall never exercise any legislative power, and the legislative department shall never exercise any executive power.

This is particularly amusing, and sufficient evidence of his capacity (?) to read and understand a legal instrument, and undoubtedly explains a piece of arbitrary conduct which prevented the members of the City Council from exercising their right to discuss and pass upon a measure of preeminent importance to their constituents.

Levi H. Turner,
463 Hancock St., Quincy.

ENCAMPMENT ODD FELLOWS

Manet encampment of Quincy was represented Thursday at the annual session of the Grant Encampment of Massachusetts, I. O. O. F. at Odd Fellaws hall, Boston. The report of Grand Patriarch Johnson showed one new encampment instituted during the year and that the total membership in the state was now 10,987. The net increase in membership during the year was 104. The amount paid out in weekly benefits was $15,496.31, and the total amount for relief $20,703.91.

The new Grand Patriarch is Bert J. Whitmore of West Somerville. Later in the session the Grand Patriarch appointed Sam Wood, Jr., of Manet encampment as a member of the committee on appeals, and Frank W. Flowers also of Manet encampment a member of the committee on petitions.

LARGE CLASS FOR DEGREES

Grand Knight Wiliam. A. Carey and the officers of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, conferred the first degree on a class of 14 candidates in Colonial hall Thursday night. Members of Ave Maria council and their District Deputy Supreme Knight, Edward D. Barrett, witnessed the exemplification which was carried out with impressive ceremonies. An informal talk, entitled "Ramblings in the Newspaper World" was given by George B. Gavin of the Boston Globe. It was closely followed by the members and liberally applauded at its close.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

STONE FOR BOSTON DOCK

Quincy Men Before the Directors of Port

Representative Sandberg, James Duncan secretary-treasurer of the Granite Cutters International Union, President Hamilton of the Board of Trade and a committee representing the Granite Manufacturers' Association and Board of Trade, appeared at the hearing Thursday before the Directors of the Port of Boston to urge that Quincy granite be used in the new dock that the City of Boston is to build.

The question now hinges whether it shall be built of granite or of concrete. The latter is cheaper but in point of durability, granite is far ahead of concrete.

Representative Sandberg, Mr. Duncan and Mr. Hamilton made strong pleas in favor of Quincy granite. They pointed out the fact that while granite would cost a little more, it would not be anything like as expensive as some of the engineers had estimated. It was also argued that granite would last for centuries while concrete had not proved to be the best thing to use in salt water as the action of the water and tides caused it to chip and crumble. It was also pointed out that several jobs in salt water had not stood well, so that in the long run, granite would prove to be the cheapest. The directors took the matter under advisement.

MILTON

John Tuckerman is seriously ill at his home on Brackett street. He recently observed the 60th anniversary of his birth. Mr. Tuckerman was stricken Sunday and has not responded as readily to treatment as expected. It is thought that he will recover.

Henry Barnes, a 65 year old resident of East Milton, died Sunday after a short illness. His funeral was held from his late home on Wednesday afternoon. Services were conducted in the Church of the Mission of Aur Saviour by Rev. Boyd Edwards rector of the mission. Music was by the regular choir and burial was in the family lot in Milton cemetery.

The Senior class will break the custom of presenting Milton High school with pictures, busts, etc., and give the school a Victrola instead. The departure from the custom created some discussion among the members, but the class finally agreed that would be an acceptable gift. In order that pupils might appreciate its beauties it furnished the music at a dancing party at the close of the school session on Thursday. The affair was attended only by the members of the classes and a few of the teachers.

The toboggan slide will be taken down within a few weeks unless the flurry makes it possible to enjoy for a few more days of what has become in a few years the most popular sport in Milton. The slide which sets on the Cunningham park property has been in constant demand during the recent winter months and the trustees addition of eight toboggans to those purchased two years ago met with approval of all lovers of sliding. John Simpson, superintendent of the park, had completed arrangements to take down the slide, feeling that the back of winter was broken, but he has suspended operations.

MAINE POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

FOUGHT DEATH IN ANTARCTIC

Escape of Dr. Mawson Little Short of Miraculous.

ALONE, FACED STARVATION.

His Two Companions Had Perished In Icy Wastes—Their Leader's Thirty Days' Dogged Battle For Life One of the Finest Acts of Personal Courage Recorded In Polar Exploration.

Returning from two years and three months of exploration in the antarctic, Dr. Douglas Mawson, the young Australian geologist, tells a thrilling story of heroic endurance in a terrific fight with starvation in the barren ice fields. Two of his party of fifty which left Tasmania Dec. 2, 1911, perished. These men were Lieutenant B. E. S. Ninnis of the Royal Fusiliers and Dr. Xavier Mertz, a Swiss scientist. Forty-four of the expedition returned a year ago.

In December, 1912, these three were returning from a sledge journey along the 2,000 mile stretch of coast between Cape Adare and Gaussburg, the survey of which was the expedition's chief purpose. On Dec. 4 Mawson and Mertz crossed the crevasse of a glacier and shouted a warning to Ninnis, who was behind them. No answer coming, they looked back and were astonished to see no living thing upon the expanse of ice and snow.

They caught sight of an injured dog clinging to a ledge. About it were fragments of something, they could not tell what, but nothing to show that Ninnis had not plunged to the very bottom of the abyss.

Funeral Service Beside Crevasse.

For many hours the two called at intervals, but no answer came except the moaning of the dog. After awhile even these interludes in the eerie stillness ceased, and hope that Ninnis was alive or that if he were assistance could be rendered him was given up. The rope available fell far short of reaching the ledge, 150 feet below, on which the dog lay. Finally the burial service was read at the brink of the crevasse, and Mawson and Mertz resumed their journey.

The sledge that remained to them after this disaster bore "man food" for only one and one-half weeks.

Owing to the bad weather and the necessary reduction in rations, the dogs failed rapidly, and by the first of January none of them remained. The explorers were then still 100 miles from the hut; Mertz was breaking under the strain. Unable to proceed further on foot he was placed on the sledge. On Jan. 8 Mertz died.

Left Alone, Mawson Suffered Tortures.

Mawson himself was in such a condition then that little but his will kept him alive. Several times as he attempted to cross crevasses he fell in to the length of the rope that bound him to his sledge. Only by the greatest effort was he able to drag himself out again, and as the days went by his nails dropped off, his hair fell out and great patches of skin sloughed off under the wind, edged with bitter cold.

Reduced, literally, to the last stages of starvation, Mawson staggered on across the waste. Finally he saw in the snow a bit of something that fixed even his wavering glance. He made his way to it, found that it was food that must have been dropped by the searching party sent out for him, and with its spiritual, rather than physical comfort, set out on what proved to be the last stage of his endeavor.

The supply hut was but twenty miles distant, as it proved, but the lashing wind and drifting snow made it impossible for Mawson to go more than two miles. He returned to the spot where he found the trace of the searching party. When it finally picked him up he had been utterly alone in that wilderness for thirty days.

URGES POETRY FOR CHILDREN

Boon to the Voice and Creative Imagination, Says Woman Specialist.

"Failure to give poetry its rightful place in the education of the child is responsible for the harsh American voice and lack of creative imagination demonstrated by so many students," declared Mrs. Maggie W. Barry of Sherman, Tex., a southern educator and leader in the national women's federated clubs in an unusual speech delivered to the teachers of southern Wisconsin in convention at Madison.

"Failure to accept poetry as a normal expression," she asserted, according to the Wisconsin University Bulletin, "is responsible for such crimes against the joys of childhood as the task sometimes assigned of turning poetry into prose. A poet can no more find complete expression in prose than he can in architecture."

Wants Even "Growlers" Sterilized.

Health Officer Woodward of Washington has sent to the commissioners recommendations for new health regulations which, if approved, will go into effect July 1 next. The regulations provide for the sterilization of all cups, mugs and other drinking containers and tableware used in hotels, restaurants, cafes, and lunchrooms. Soda fountains and barrooms are included. Sterilization of "growlers" would be required as well as all bottles to be refilled with any class of beverage.

CLEVER WITH HIS FISTS.

John Paul Jones In a Fight Was as Quick as Chain Lightning.

The exploits of John Paul Jones, the famous commodore, have for many years formed interesting reading for young and old students of history, and a volume issued by M. MacDermot Crawford, under the title "The Sailor Whom England Feared," adds much that is worthy of note. The hero of the book is thus described in its pages:

"Though of low stature and slender build, his neck, arms and shoulders were those of a heavy set man. His neck was out of proportion to the rest of him. The strength of his arms and shoulders could scarcely be believed, and he had equal use of both hands, even to writing with the left as well as the right hand.

"He was past master in the art of boxing, and though there were many hard nuts to crack in the various crews he commanded, no one ever doubted that the commodore was the best man aboard. To all this he added a quickness of motion that cannot be described except by saying that he was quicker than chain lightning. When roused he would strike more blows and do more damage in a second than any other man could do in a minute.

"Even when calm and unruffled his gait and all his bodily motions were exactly like those of the panther—noiseless, sleek and the perfection of grace, yet always giving one the idea that it would be well to keep out of reach of his paws and teeth."

AN UMBRELLA TAIL.

It Serves Many Purposes For the South American Anteater.

One of the old natural history stories that have been only half believed is that the South American anteater uses its great bushy tail as an umbrella whenever it takes its walks abroad in a shower. The story is partly true. And the tail has other excellent uses, as one might suppose of so extraordinary an appendage, for perhaps no other animal of the woods has so much tail in proportion to body.

The tail is like a huge plume, but differs from the feather and from such flat, feather-like tails as form the rudders and balancing poles of the squirrels in having its hairs arranged in two enormous fringes along the upper and under surfaces of the tail—not along the sides of it.

The benefit of this arrangement is that when the anteater lies down at rest, with his tail bent sidewise, as is his wont, the long hairs of the tail completely cover the body like a cloak or umbrella and shed the rain like a sloping thatch. The hairy covering is also useful in keeping away trouble some or dangerous insects; and its dull gray tint harmonizes so well with the lights and shadows of the forest that it actually helps to hide the animal from its enemies while it sleeps.—Youth's Companion.

A Marvelous Makeup.

George Robey tells this story in an interview in London Motor: "I do no remove my makeup in driving from one London hall to another, but trave with the grease paint still upon my face. One night we had a little altercation with the driver of a vehicle, who quite forcibly declared that he had no seen us coming toward him, which was quite true, because he had been fas asleep. At last I looked out of the window at him, when, jumping back in surprise, he demanded, "Co's the old fright you've got aboard?' 'My master is Mr. George Robey,' responded my driver, with dignity. 'Well, you te. 'im,' said the man, scrambling up into his cart, 'that if 'e'd sit on the engine with that face and nose and them eyebrows, 'e wouldn't want no 'eadlight in a fog!' "

His Money Was Safe.

Schopenhauer, the German pessimist, was asked one day to dinner by a gentleman who had also invited a number of Prussian officers. Said one of the officers to Schopenhauer, "Why do you put a frederic under your plate?"

"I have made a vow," replied the philosopher, "to give this piece of money to a beggar the very first time I dine with the military without hearing talk about women and horses. It is fifty years since I made this vow, but I have not yet been called upon to bestow my frederic in alms."

Harder Still.

Senator Sheppard was talking about a pathetic figure in Texarkana, an old merchant who, after attaining a position of eminence, now saw his trade slowly deserting him for younger and more radical rivals.

"Poor old Blank is a pathetic figure," said Senator Sheppard. "He shows us that, hard as it is to climb up in the world, it is harder still to climb down."—New York Tribune.

Just What She Said.

"Does he ever try to flatter you?"

"Indeed he doesn't. He always tells me the plain, unvarnished truth."

"Why, I heard him tell you that you were bewilderingly beautiful."

"Didn't I tell you so!"—Houston Post.

A Mutual Pleasure.

Mother—Were you glad to get back to school and see your dear teacher? Little Son—Well, I—I was just about as glad as dear teacher was to get back and see me!

Time Wasted.

Madeline—He's a nice young man to take a girl fishing, I must say! May—Why, what did he do? Madeline—He fished!

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.
Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.
Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.
18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 18-1m

MASONIC ANNIVERSARY

(Continued from Page One.)

so of Lincoln and finally the review at Washington. He received close attention of the brothers and at the close was heartily applauded.

To Brother Franklin Curtis belongs the distinction and the honor of being the oldest member of Rural lodge. It was on October 21, 1858, over 55 years ago, that he was admitted, when Charles Breck was worshipful master. Brother Curtis was captain of the Minute Men who responded from Quincy, in 1861, at the first call of Lincoln. He has often said that he wondered how he ever had the courage to assume such a command over a company of friends who were called into active warfare. He was born in Quincy, in the house he now occupies on Franklin street. He was married in 1857, a few months before he was admitted to this lodge, and his wife continues the journey of life with him to day.

In 1860 he visited California. After the war he was a boot manufacturer for several years, and also interested in the fire department, being a member of the Tiger company and an engineer. He also was a town clerk of Quincy and is well posted on historical events of years ago.

Brother Curtis, although in good health, was unable to be present. He ventures out o fthe house very little during the day and thought it imprudent to attend an evening gathering. He sent congratulations to Brother Loud and the lodge.

Brother Albert Keating was admitted to this lodge, Jan. 29, 1863, over 51 years ago. He was immediately appointed junior deacon and served three years. He was junior deacon when Brother Loud was admitted. He also was one of President Lincoln's boys in 1861, going to the front with Co. H. He told of incidents of the war and Masonry.

Brother Charles E. Pierce will complete 50 years in this lodge August 25. He was admitted in 1864. Brother Pierce was also one of the Minute Men of 1861 who responded in Co. H. of Quincy, and he recalled incidents of the Civil war.

Brother Richard M. Sanborn of the firm of Sanborn & Damon was also present. He took his degrees as early as 1863 and has been a member of Rural lodge since 1866. He also is a veteran of the Civil War.

Brother Henry O. Studley was pleased to be present with the older veterans. He also is a Civil war veteran, but did not join the lodge until some years after the close of the war.

Brother John A. Gordon was the youngest veteran present, having been but 40 years of Masonry. He is the well known physician and popular with the brethren.

Although James F. Merrill was admitted to Rural lodge in 1889, it was in 1864 that he took his degrees in Masonry, and has already observed his 50th anniversary in the order. He also was a Civil war veteran.

Worshipful Master Crane presented bouquets of choice flowers to 50-year veterans, and Brother Pierce thanked him on behalf of the brothers. It was the pleasure of many of the members to greet personally these veterans, and congratulate them.

The oldest in years among the members is Brother Anthony Dyke of South Braintree who will be 96 years old in September. It was not prudent for him to attend the meeting. He was an engineer on the Old Colony Railroad many years ago, and ran the Fall River line steamboat train for many years.

Brother Edward Whicher, one of the veterans is seriously ill at Rockland, and the lodge sent him a remembrance.

At this meeting of the lodge four well known gentlemen took the entered the apprentice degree and a special communication will be necessary next week to give the same degree to five others. Rural lodge is having large accessions this year to membership.

—At the impressively big annual meeting at Washington of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America, the need that most appealed to the the several speakers is more men to become scout commissioners and assistant scout commissioners to direct the rapidly growing army of boys engaged in a campaign having for its object the victory of good over evil.

(ADVERTISE.)

TALK ON PERU AND EQUADOR

An informal talk on Equador and Peru, by Miss Mary Dwyer, secretary to President Lowell of Harvard University, was the feature at the regular meeting of the Quincy Catholic Club in the rooms of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, Thursday night. There was a large atendance.

During the evening a musical program was presented which included vocal solos by Miss Isabelle Murphy, and piano solos by Miss Margaret Hartery. President Miss Mary Lyons presided.

Miss Dwyer who was a member of the Harvard expedition which toured the western coasts of South America, presented the customs of the people in so delightful a manner and so quaintly described the territory that the members regretted its finish. Refreshments were served.

SUICIDE BY HANGING

Dawn revealed the body of Nils Hendrickson, a 74 year old Swedish resident, swinging on a rope tied to the piazza of his home at 65 Smith street. The discovery was made by a milkman, William Hyonen of 9 Pine road, about 6 o'clock. He aroused the neighborhood and among those that appeared was Patrick Bradley, a member of the Fore River Shipyard police. He took charge of the situation and cut down the body after it was viewed by Medical Examiner Dr. Fred E. Jones. It was removed to the Hall undertaking rooms.

Mr. Henrickson has been living alone since the death of his wife which occured 15 years ago. He conducted a cobbling shop in the front room and lived in two others. He is thought to have committed suicide after 10 o'clock for at that time a light was burning in his sleeping room. This morning it was not burning.

The finding of the body created much excitement in the vicinity. Neighbors who knew him say that he was a quiet, inoffensive man. The cause of the suicide was probably melancholia, the result of having lived alone for so many years.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Hjalmar Johnson of Coddington street and one son, Carl Hendrickson of West Quincy.

GUEST OF DAILY LEDGER.

C. W. Robbins, formerly editor and publisher of the Oldtown, Me., Enterprise is in town today calling on old friends. Before going to Maine, Mr. Robbins was connected with the Rockland, Mass., Standard. During his active newspaper life he was identified with the Massachusetts press association and took many of the annual trips of that association throughout the country, with the late George W. Prescott, for many years publisher of the Patriot and Daily Ledger.

☞PRATT'S BREAD is best because more care is used in the making. Grocers.

Call Quincy 501--W
If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN, upholsterer, 1060 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School
Mar. 4 tf

Have Your Picture Taken in Our Studio
394 WATER STREET, QUINCY
Workmanship guaranteed. Special attention given to outside work. Photos taken evenings by electric light.
ortrait Enlarging. PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order
E. C. CREIFELD, Artist
Feb. 13 1m

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

DOUBLE NUMBER TODAY

TWELVE PAGE ISSUE

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Vol. 29 No. 56 QUINCY, MASS. SATURDAY EVENING MARCH 7 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

ASSESSOR BATES REPLIES TO MAYOR

Says the End of Grade Crossing Controversy Is Not Even in Sight

Not Sorry Over Being Removed from Office of Assessor

Although given a solar plexus blow by Mayor Miller, Gus Bates is not easily downed and comes back smiling, and more determined than ever to fight the grade crossing problem to the last ditch, whether he is chairman of the board of assessors or not. In coming back he makes public some interesting correspondence which has passed between the Chief Executive and himself.

He takes exceptions with the Mayor in regard to what was said at the hearing before the legislative committee, and what Mr. Bates declares he says and what the official stenographic report quotes him as saying are somewhat different. That he does not feel badly over being removed from office is evident by his letter to the Mayor, in reply to the letter of the Chief Executive to him declaring the office vacant.

Mr. Bates letters to the Mayor in which he makes public some of the correspondence with the Chief Executive follow:

Hon. John L. Miller, Mayor of Quincy:

Dear Sir,—Your letter of March 4, informing me that you shall consider the office of Principal Assessor vacant after Saturday, March 7, was duly received and noted. I have not the slightest objection to your removing me from office, but I most emphatically deny your reason therefor. What I did say was—"Whether the Mayor of Quincy was fixed I do not know." For this statement I have nothing to retract or apologize for.

I also received another letter from you which I trust the press will give as much publicity as they did your letter of removal. This will show to our citizens how I became their principal assessor, and what your instructions to me were.

Quincy, Mass. Dec. 15, 1913.

G. B. Bates, Saville Street, Quincy, Mass.

Dear Mr. Bates:—My mind has been casting around for a chief assessor. One that will do his duty without fear or favor. And I think you are the man. What do you say? I know it would be a sacrifice to your business. But some one must make it, if we ever get this city out of the hands of the grafters. Please be mum on this to any press or outsiders.

I am, very truly yours,
John L. Miller,
211 Franklin St.

Now, Mr. Mayor, it is for the people to decide whether or not I was following instructions. By your recent official acts, it is evident that you did not mean what you wrote. If I had previously known you were so unreliable, I would not have allowed myself to have been caught in this trap.

Let me say to you, in all kindness, that the end of the grade crossing controversy is not even in sight, and I shall maintain my stand, in the fight for depression for the people of Quincy, to the end.

Very truly yours.
G. B. Bates

LIFE PROBLEMS.

In response to many requests from young people and parents for another lecture on the life problems of young people, the pastor of Bethany Congregational church will speak Sunday morning at 10.30 on "When we Consider" and at the pleasant Sunday evening service at 7.30 will have as his subject "Rebecca looking for a Husband." The evening message is of especial importance to young people.

DISTRICT COURT.

John J. Doyle was arraigned for assault at Randolph. Case continued until March 21.

Gus Kamppala, was fined $10 for drunkenness at Quincy, and given time to raise the money.

Pi Eta Society Play

Applications for tickets to "A BUG IN A RUG" to be given by the PI ETA SOCIETY under the auspices of the QUINCY TENNIS CLUB, on Friday, March twenty-seventh, will be received by James H. Slade, Treas., 17 Edgemere Road, Quincy.

As the tickets will be distributed in the order of application, you will recognize the importance of applying early. Tickets are $1.00 each and are reserved.

Executive Committee
Quincy Tennis Club
March 7-6t

D. E. WADSWORTH & CO.

Great
Mark Down Sale

Ladies' Coats, Suits, Skirts and Shirt Waists

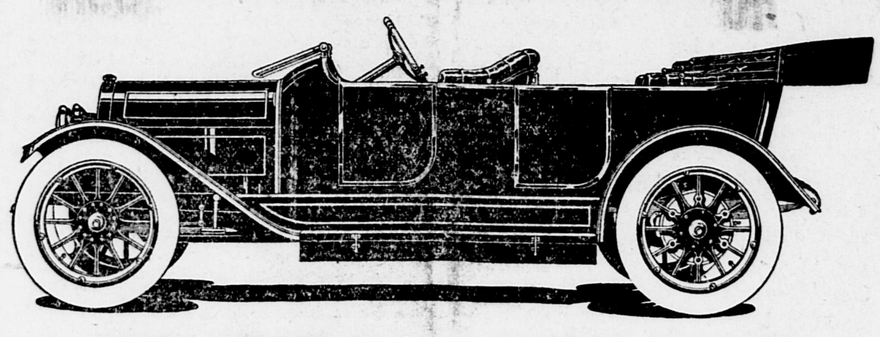
Children's Coats and Dresses

THE SHIRT WAIST STORE

AUTOMOBILE NUMBER TODAY



EVERY READER SHOULD RECEIVE 12 PAGES

MR. BATES NOW EX-ASSESSOR

Official Notice Was Served Today-City Hall Notes

Zip went the axe this morning, and off went the official head of G. B. Bates, chairman of the Board of Assessors. As announced by the Mayor three days ago in a letter to Mr. Bates that he should consider the office vacant on March 7, the Mayor completed the final act this morning when he filed a notice with the City Clerk that Mr. Bates had been removed for the good of the service. Chief Burrell was summoned and given an official notice to serve on Mr. Bates.

Mr. Bates, who has been ill for several days, came to City Hall this morning and performed the duties of the office, his last act being to approve the weekly pay roll.

It was just 10.50 when Chief Burrell entered the Assessor's office. Mr. Bates greeted him with a smile and said that he was waiting for him. He took the notice of his removal good naturedly and Chief Burrell without stopping to make any conversation came out and filed his return with the City Clerk.

The Mayor said this noon that he had not as yet selected a successor for Mr. Bates but that he probably would name a man next week. He said that he intended to be careful this time and not make any more mistakes, but be sure and get the right man.

Mr. Bates remained in his office attending to his duties until noon when he drew what salary there was coming to him. He then shook hands with the office force and said good bye. When he started out the back door with his bag in hand he was asked if the bag contained his goods and chattels and he replied yes, and continuing said "yes, I am going for a time."

This morning the gentleman whom rumor says is slated to be appointed to the position of assessor was at City Hall and disappeared into the Mayor's office for a conference.

There was a rumor about City Square Friday night that Charles H. Johnson, who was chairman of the Board of Assessors for several years and who was removed from office by ex-Mayor Shea might succeed Mr. Bates.

The Finance Committee of the City Council got down to business with the Mayors budget Friday evening, and made considerable progress. Many of the department heads were summoned to appear before the committee to tell why they needed the sums asked for their departments. The session of the committee however was an executive one. It is expected that the committee will make its report at the meeting of the City Council March 16, which will be earlier than in some years.

The Registrars of Voters, who were in session in the Council chamber from 12 o'clock noon until 1 o'clock in the evening on Friday, would have appreciated it if moving pictures had been thrown on the wall of the chamber for their amusement, for it was a long and tiresome afternoon and evening. The session was held to revise the lists for the special election in Ward Three to be held next Tuesday. During the ten hours in which the registrars were in session 13 names were added to the lists, so that it can be seen that time hung heavily on their hands.

In regard to the removal of Chief Burrell who early in the year was asked to resign, the matter has been dropped. Three weeks ago the Daily Ledger was informed by the Mayor that he did not intend to do anything more in regard to Chief Burrill and that he intended to withdraw the request. He impressed it upon the Ledger however that this statement was not to be used until released.

Thursday afternoon the Chief had occasion to visit the Mayor's office in connection with a police department case, and the conversation drifted around to the letter asking for his resignation. The Mayor at this time told the chief that he did not intend to press the demand for the resignation and that it was withdrawn. Police matters in general were then talked over and the Mayor spoke of some of the things which he desired to see carried out.

DRAMA AT WEST QUINCY

The Philodramatic Society of West Quincy presented a drama, Lazzaro il Mandriano, in the Finnish Temperance hall, Friday night, before an enthusiastic audience. The weather affected the attendance. The drama, one of the strongest penned, was given in rare manner and required frequently a display of unusual talent to fully carry out the effect. The cast did their part well and merited the wholesome applause received. The affair was produced by a committee headed by Giudice DiNicola.

SERVICES FOR CLANSMEN.

Clan MacGregor and the Loyal Ladies will attend the evening service at the First Presbyterian church, Water street, on Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Matheson will address the two societies on that occasion. Clansmen John D. Mackay, chairman of the School Board, wil make a short address. There will be special singing by the choir assisted by the Orpheus Male Quartette of Boston. The clan will meen in their hall at seven o'clock and the Loyal Ladies will meet in the lecture room of the church at the same time.

MAINE
POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

NEW INDUSTRY FOR CITY OF QUINCY

Auto Fire Apparatus to be Manufactured at Our Fore River Shipyard

Committee of City Council Go On Tour of Inspection

The storm of Friday afternoon did not prevent a number of the members of the City Council from going to Chelsea to look at a piece of automobile fire apparatus; although the Mayor who intended to go thought the weather too stormy, in the party were President Whiton of the City Council; Councilman Ross, Nelson and Williams of the Committee on Fire Matters; Councilman Bailey, chairman of the Finance Committee, Councilman Gilliatt, chairman of the Street Committee and Chief Engineer Billings.

The party went direct to the central fire station in Chelsea and arrived just as the auto pump was returning from an alarm. On account of the weather the apparatus was not taken out for trial, but her engines were started up and the committee saw the machinery in motion. The apparatus is what is known as a Robertson and was made by a company in St. Louis.

Members of the committee talked confidentially with the firemen who handle the apparatus and also with the chief, all of whom spoke of the apparatus in the highest terms.

The apparatus has been in commission for some time and has never as yet failed when needed. While the committee is non-committal they were very much pleased with what they saw.

Other makes of apparatus will be seen before the committee makes its report, as Chairman Ross of the Fire Committee intends to secure all the information obtainable before calling an executive meeting of the committee to act on the order.

Information came to the committee on Friday that the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation is to go into the manufacture of auto fire apparatus, and that there is now under construction at this plant a large auto fire engine.

Chief Billings has visited the plant several times to look over the piece of apparatus building and has offered the company the services of his department to try out the apparatus when ready, which it is expected will be very soon.

SLEIGHS OUT AGAIN.

The snow storm which began Friday morning spent itself during the late evening and night, but left the ground covered with several inches of the white mantle. Late in the afternoon and during the early evening, the weather moderated somewhat, and the snow almost turned to rain so that it packed down solid. Commissioner Brown had his ploughs out early in the afternoon and kept the sidewalks ploughed out so that walking was not bad. Bright and early this morning the ploughs were out and run along the gutters so that in case of a sudden thaw the surplus water would run off. The sun came out bright about 7 o'clock but later became clouded in and there was a light fall of snow. The weather indications however are that Sunday and Monday will be fair, with no marked change in the temperature. A few sleighs are out, making 21 days of sleighing thus far this winter.

(ADVERTISE.)

The Granite Tailoring Co.

The former business of 64 Washington St. has moved to 1465 Hancock St.

Our new store is now open for business, old and new customers are cordially invited to call and inspect our new store of Ladies' and Misses' Suits, Coats, Skirts, Waists, Furs and One Piece Dresses, etc, the same low prices and High Class Ladies' Tailoring and Dressmaking, also all kinds of Dyeing, Cleansing, Pressing and Remodelling.

H. SARKIN, Prop.
1465 Hancock St., Quincy
Next to Kincaide's Annex. March 5-6t

Opening of Studio Delayed

Unavoidable delays and necessary changes, will delay the opening of my studio until March 16th.

Pierce's Studio, Adams Building
March 7-1t

The Pierian Sodality Orchestra
OF HARVARD UNIVERSITY
ASSISTED BY AN ITALIAN VOCAL TRIO
WILL GIVE A CONCERT IN
ALPHA HALL, QUINCY, MARCH 12th, 1914, AT EIGHT O'CLOCK
UNDER AUSPICES OF
THE SAMOSET CLUB OF WOLLASTON
TICKETS 75 CENTS
On sale in Quincy at The Rexall Store
EDWARD J. MURPHY
For sale in Wollaston at BROOKS' DRUG STORE
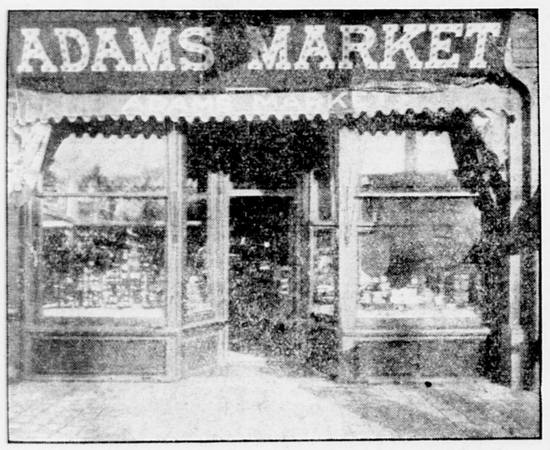
Mar. 7—11 2t

THE PI ETA SOCIETY
of Harvard University
Announces its Annual Production
"A BUG IN A RUG"
to be presented in
Quincy Music Hall, Friday, Mar. 27
Under the auspices of the
QUINCY TENNIS CLUB
5t-Feb. 27, M 7, 14, 21, 26

Open Tonight until 9 — Saturday until 10 P. M.



Quincy's Finest Food Store
Welcomes your order—large or small

Right in the very heart of Quincy—City Square—this modern market with its 15 cheerful, courteous employees is at your service. You will find here the best of everything in eatables—Groceries, Meats, Fruits, Vegetables and Bakery Goods—Fresh every day. The store's cleanliness is attractive, and prices are also inviting. We welcome your order, large or small. Call or Phone.

FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
Selected 1914 Spring Lamb
Fore Quarters 12 1c 2 lb Leg and Loin 18 c lb
FRESH PORK ROAST 18c lb
SMALL SUGAR-CURED HAMS 20c lb

Strawberries -- Cranberries -- Apples -- Grape Fruit -- Rhubarb
—New Cabbage -- Cucumbers -- Celery -- Lettuce -- Radishes --
AT LOWEST MARKET PRICES

LARGE CAL. NAVEL ORANGES 29 c doz
FRESH OYSTERS Solid Packed in Sealed Carton 25 c pint

Telephone Quincy 153 or 1760
THE ADAMS MARKET
R. E. FOY & COMPANY
March 6-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

If all other sources of news dry up, there is always Harry Thaw.

The next question is what Gen. Villa will do for recreation, when he gets everybody executed?

John D. Rockefeller may shovel his own snow, but a bank clerk could not do it without suffering some social obloquy.

Strange to say Archdeacon Stuck has not yet invited Doc. Cook to join the society of Mt. McKinley Climbers.

A New Jersey youth has been given five to ten years in jail for manslaughter by speeding an automobile. In many places it is customary to release them for this offence on their promise not to let it occur again too frequently.

By convenient mislaying of the spade at this time, you will save yourself trouble later when your wife suggests digging up a new garden plot.

New York's commissioner of education says there are too many stenographers, but he will find very few women who will take dictation.

There is a campaign to reduce illiteracy, but grave fears are expressed by the politicians of what would happen if every one could read his ballot.

There is a general feeling, that if a boy does not play marbles for keeps, how will he be able to get money away from other people when he grows up?

DIPLOMACY.

Bills are expected to pass in Congress, providing for the raising of the United States legation in Argentina to the rank of an embassy.

An ambassador is traditionally supposed to be a personal representative of his sovereign. He is supposed to be entitled to the same direct personal access to the ruler to whom he is accredited, as his own sovereign would be if present.

There is a touch of absurdity, when the governments of two republics use these pretentious tags and labels. They are supposed to have thrown overboard the ornamental baggage of kings and emperors. Yet no doubt it is good business in this case. Argentina is a great country, inhabited by proud and sensitive people. No doubt it has hurt their self esteem that they must do business with a mere "minister," when our government was sending abroad "ambassadors" to other governments.

The objection has always been made to raising legations to ambassadorial grade, that the diplomat bearing the bigger title must launch out on more elaborate entertaining. It used to be said that Ambassador Reid spent $250,000 a year maintaining his dignity in the artificial life of London diplomacy.

Students of diplomatic problems seem pretty well agreed that something must be done to give our ambassadors and ministers more uniform quarters. When a millionaire gets the appointment, he may lease some gaudy house and play the game to the limit. If he lacks good taste, he creates a false impression.

The next appointee, if a poor man, must go into a shabby side street, and hire quarters next to Switzerland or Costa Rica. The United States looks pretty small during that regime. What is needed are permanent quarters, under which rich and poor representatives could live along in turn, in an ample but simple dignity, without such startling contrasts.

$200,000 FUND FOR DEFENSE

Tannenbaum's Friends intend to Fight In His Behalf

HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY

Under $7500 Bail on Charge of Inciting Riot After Police and Priests Submit Testimony—Does Not Take Stand Himself and No Defense Is Made by His Attorney

New York, March 7.—Frank Tannebaum, the 21-year-old Industrial Worker of the World and leader of a small army of unemployed which has been invading churches in this city for the purpose of getting food and lodging, was held for the grand jury in connection with the raid of Wednesday night on St. Alphonsus' church by Tannenbaum and 190 of his followers.

Tannenbaum, who had been released on $7500 bail after his preliminary hearing, was held in the same bail. The charge against him is inciting a riot, a felony.

Two members of his "army" of unemployed were earlier in the day sentenced each to thirty days at hard labor.

Tannenbaum did not take the stand in his own defense. The evidence submitted to Magistrate Freschi consisted of reports of speeches made by Tannenbaum and others in Rutgers square, which had been taken by a police stenographer, and testimony by police officials and Fathers Schneider and Kessler of St. Alphonsus' church.

Detective Gildea testified that Tannenbaum had called on the crowd to follow him to the church. Asked at the door of the building whether he had permission to enter it, Tannenbaum had replied, "No," said the detective, who then acompanied him to the rectory, where Schneider was asked for food and shelter or money for the unemployed. Tannenbaum's requests for these were answered by the priest with the statement that he was not able to furnish them.

Gildea said he had asked Schneider whether he wanted to admit the unemployed to the church, receiving a negative answer. Gildea added that Tannenbaum had called upon the men to keep their seats when they had beeen asked by Kesssler to leave.

The testimony of Detective Gegan and Schneider and Kessler corroborated that of Gildea. Another witness, William Huff, testified that he had been praying in the church and had been interrupted by the intruders.

A motion by the defense that the case against Tannenbaum be dismissed on the ground that he had committed no act of violence against property or person was denied. It became evident early in the hearing that Tannenbaum's attorney would make no defense at this time.

Max Apel, secretary of the International Workingmen's Defense league, organized last Wednesday night, stated that $30,000 had already been raised for the defense of Tannenbaum. By the end of the week, he said, the sum of $200,000 would be available for the purpose.

Frank S. Hamilton and Harry Kline, lieutenants of Tannenbaum, will meanwhile carry on the movement inaugurated by Apel. A mass meeting would be held for the unemployed on Union square, he said, and the next place to be visited by the men would be Temple Beth-El.

OWNER OF MUCH LAND

Death of Conrad, Who Was Once Talked of For Vice Presidency

Winchester, Va., March 7.—William G. Conrad, who owned large properties in Helena and Great Falls, Mont., and was reputed to be worth $25,000,000, died here.

It is said Conrad owned land in every county in Montana. He was interested in railroad building and mines, and was urged to run as vice president with Bryan in 1908, but refused. His home was in Virginia and he had gone west after serving in the confederate army. He was 67 years old.

A PECULIAR FATALITY

Providence Man Meets Death by Falling Into Coalhod

Providence, March 7.—John Leach, a fish dealer, was suffocated at his home. He was found dead with his head in a coalhod, which was jammed tightly beneath the water pipes in the kitchen.

It is supposed that while sleeping in a chair, he fell out and struck his head on the coalhod, which slid beneath the pipes. Leach's position was such that it would have beeen impossible for him to have extricated himself.

New Steamship Service Opens

Boston, March 7.—The United Fruit company's liner Limon arrived here, inaugurating the new weekly passenger and freight service between Santa Marta, Colombia, South America and this port.

To Find Work For Unemployed

Albany, March 7.—Governor Glynn asked the legislature to enact a measure he has prepared for the aid of the unemployed. It contemplates the establishment of public employment bureaus at various points.

DR. ANNA HOWARD SHAW.

President of National American Woman Suffrage Association.

© by American Press Association.

MUST GIVE UP TRIP

Dr. Shaw Cannot Participate In Southern Suffrage Campaign

New York, March 7.—Dr. Anna H. Shaw, president of the National American Woman Suffrage association, said she would be unable to participate personally in the suffrage campaign which the association is about to undertake in the south.

An accident which Dr. Shaw suffered several weeks ago compels her to remain at home.

Jane Addams, first vice president of the association, will take Dr. Shaw's place on the southern trip.

POLICEMAN DYING FROM PISTOL SHOTS

Burglars Also Badly Wounded by New York Police

New York, March 7.—Fancy night stick work on the head of a gunman-burglar proved efficacious when Policeman Baer found James Casey robbing Huyler's store on East Thirty-Fourth street. Casey was beaten into submission and arrested.

Shot through the stomach in a gun fight with three burglars in Brooklyn Policeman Wynn is dying in St. John's hospital. Beside him is George Stevens, 18, a burglar, shot through the chest, and in the Swedish hospital is William McHenry, 25, burglar, with a bullet through his back. All three are expected to die.

There were three burglars in the gang who were raiding a drug store. The third thief, James Martin, was beaten into submission after his pals fell and were captured.

$1,500,000 LINEN FRAUD

Defendant In Oxford Mills Case Halts Trial to Plead Guilty

New York, March 7.—Samuel E. Findley, one of the eight defendants on trial for defrauding investors in the stock of the Oxford linen mills, interrupted the taking of testimony to plead guilty. Findlay and others were indicted for misuse of the mails.

Through the Sterling Debenture company, which handled the stock of the Oxford linen mills, it is alleged that they obtained $1,500,000 from investors by representing that they had a new process to make linen thread out of flax straw.

It was testified at the trial in the federal court that the company had a list of 1,000,000 names. The mailing department had at times as many as 500 employes and sent out 20,000 circulars a day.

TO GET RID OF "ARMY"

Counties Paying Fares of Kelly's Men to "Pass Them Along"

San Francisco, March 7.—"Pass them along" is the plan on which California communities are dealing with "General" Kelly's army of unemployed, now on its way to Washington, and as a result the tourists are traveling in comfort.

It cost Contra Costa county $709.50 in railroad fares to ship the army to Solano county, which at once made preparations to send it to Sacramento county.

The army consists of 1172 men and is growing in numbers daily.

SIGNED AT RECORD SALARY

Speaker to Receive $18,000 and Big Bonus From the Red Sox

New York, March 7.—President Lannin of the Boston Red Sox announced in the corridor of the Hotel Biltmore that Tris Speaker had just signed a contract with that team, at a salary of $18,000.

Aside from this salary, which is the largest that has ever been paid a player. Lannin said Speaker will receive a large cash bonus.

Auto Bandits Get $10,000

St. Louis, March 7.—Joan Lucas, paymaster of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe company, was robbed of $10,000 at Eighteenth and Washington streets by auto bandits.

SLAYERS WILL BE PUNISHED

Huerta Says Killing of Benton Was Cold-Blooded

MURDER WARRANT IS ISSUED

Slaying of Briton Charged to Villa and Carranza, Who Are Placed In Bandit Class—Successor Acceptable to Wilson Being Sought by Provisional President of Mexico

Mexico City, March 7.—A government warrant charging General Villa with murder and General Carranza with being an accessory was drawn up by the ministry of justice and immediately signed by Provisional President Huerta.

The warrant holds both the constitutionalist leaders responsible for the death of William S. Benton, the wealthy British rancher executed at Juarez.

The signing of the warrant put both men in the position of being fugitives from justice and either can be shot down by government soldiers or any government officer upon refusal to surrender.

"Both Carranza and Villa are in the bandit class now," said Huerta, after he had the warrant issued. "The Mexican government intends to protect foreigners. Benton's execution was a cold-blooded murder and his slayers are going to be punished."

Huerta, it is said, is still planning to take the field against the rebels and conciliate the United States by selecting a successor acceptable to President Wilson.

The first actual step in this direction, according to those close to Huerta, was the appointment of Senor Rojas as foreign minister, in place of Querido Moheno. Rojas has not been of the Huerta party and he is friendly to the United States. It is said Huerta intends to put Rojas in the provisional president's chair if the United States will consent.

Carranza to Take Up Bauch Case

Washington, March 7.—Secretary Bryan received a note from General Carranza, signed by Senor Fabela, acting secretary of foreign affairs of the cabinet of the constitutionalists, assuring the American government that the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Gustav Bauch would be promptly investigated.

President Wilson told callers that he did not think General Carranza intended to offend the United States government by denying information to the United States government about Benton.

BEGGAR A REAL MISER

Frisco Police Find $23,000 on Old Man Taken Into Custody

San Francisco, March 7.—For twenty years William Kahler, aged 70, has been a beggar, eating food taken from refuse cans and sleeping wherever he coulld find shelter.

The sidewalk on which Kahler had made his bed appeared so uncomfortable to a patrolman that he arrested the old man and took him to a police station so that he might have a comfortable mattress and blankets.

When Kahler was searched a hump on his back, supposed to be a deformity, proved to be a tin box packed with gold coin and paper money. Various false pockets in Kahler's clothes were emptied of additional money. In all he had $23,000.

ATTRIBUTED TO JEALOUSY

Woman Shoots Her Housekeeper, Who May Not Recover

Worcester, Mass., March 7.—Mrs. Agnes F. Sisson, housekeeper for Mrs. Mary J. Powers, who was shot twice by Mrs. Powers, will probably die from her injuries. It is believed Mrs. Powers was laboring under an hallucination that her housekeeper was winning the affections of her husband, Lorenzo J. Powers.

Mrs. Powers has been an invalid for about eight years. Mrs. Sisson, who is 59 years old, was working in the kitchen when Mrs. Powers shot her.

Mrs. Powers was taken to a hospital where her mental condition will be observed for several days.

BEATEN BY THIEVES

Police Hunting For Assailant of Telephone Chief Clerk

Fitchburg, Mass., March 7.—The police are searching for a thief or thieves who assaulted Fred G. Sargent, chief clerk and cashier of the plant department of the local office of the New England Telephone company, and left him unconscious after ransacking the office.

The assault and robbery were not discovered for some hours. Sargent is in a serious condition in a hospital.

Electric Carpet In Senate

Washington, March 7.—The new carpet on the senate floor generates electricity. When the pages run about the chamber they become storage batteries and shock senators whom they touch.

Condemns Friedmann Cure

Berlin, March 7.—Professor Vulpius, the Heidelberg specialist, writes in a medical journal a severe condemnation of Dr. Friedmann's tuberculosis treatment.

QUINCY CHORAL SOCIETY.

Although the spring concert of the Quincy Choral Society will not occur until April 21, all preparations are well under way for a fine presentation of Elijah.

Several eminent soloists have been engaged to assist the chorus among them Madame Marie Sundelius, a charming Swedish soprano who is well known to Quincy audiences. With a delightful personality, rare artistry and power of expression she has created an enviable reputation for herself.

Miss Edith Castle, contralto, is possessed of a strong full voice but one of great purity and sweetness.

Bernard Ferguson, baritone, is soloist at St. Paul's Cathedral, Boston. His voice is rich and flexible and he is an artist through and through.

John E. Daniels, tenor at the First Universalist church, Boston, has a wide reputation as a concert singer having a voice of beautiful quality and using it with fine effect.

With the fine list of soloists, a carefully trained chorus and the Brockton Philharmonic orchestra of eighteen pieces, the performance of Elijah promises to be the great event in musical circles next month.

WOLLASTON VESPERS.

Vesper services at the Wollaston Unitarian church, corner Beale and Farrington streets always bring out congregations that tax the seating capacity of the church. Another one of these helpful services will be held Sunday afternoon, at 4.30 o'clock. The musical selections will be rendered by the Apollo quartet of Boston one of the best quartets with Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, organist. Following is the order of service:

Organ prelude.
Devotional Service.
Chant "The Lord's Prayer."
Congregational hymn 780.
Anthem, "Sunset," Van de Water.
Responsive reading, Psalms p. 76.
Chant: "Now unto the King eternal."
Anthem, "Draw me to Thee" Nevin.
First scripture lesson.
Anthem, "Softly and Tenderly."
Second scripture lesson.
Anthem, "Lord and Father." Scott
Congregational hymn 163.
Annual offering for American Unitarian Asso.
Anthem, "The Lost Chord" Sullivan
(By request)
Sermon
Congregational hymn 169.
Benediction.
Choral Response.
Organ Postlude.

MENS' MEETING.

The fourth of the seriesof Sunday afternoon meetings for men under Y. M. C. A. auspices will be held in the cozy comfortable Kincaide Theatre Sunday afternoon at 3.30. The doors will open promptly at 3 o'clock and the first to come will of course get the best seats, all of which are free to men and boys over 14 years of age.

The Orpheus Male Quartet of Boston will sing several selections and the Mens' chorus will as usual be on hand to help. The speaker is a live wire who not only has done, but is today doing things worth while, J. Franklin Knotts, of Somerville, formerly of Lynn. While in Lynn Mr. Knotts was in the foremost of the fight over license and helped to drive the saloons from the city. His message will hold the interest of every man. And if the men of Quincy and neighboring towns realize what a wonderful opportunity they have in hearing a man of Mr. Knott's experience and ability they will pack Kincaide Theatre to the doors tomorrow.

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. not only earnestly invites men to come and enjoy this great meeting, but asks them to bring with them every man they can.

PRIVATE AND CLASS LESSONS.

Cornet, 'Cello, Mandolin, Guitar, Banjo, Violin, Piano and Harmony by thorough instructors. Violin FREE, at BOSTON SCHOOL OF MUSIC, No. 8 Washington street, Quincy.
Prof. R. G. Nichols
Director
Phone, Quincy 148J. M4-W & S. 8t

Keep it always at hand
JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
For Aches, Pains, Colds, Sore Throat, Bowel Troubles, Rheumatism. Used internally and externally.
IN USE 103 YEARS
25c and 50c Bottles
Parsons' Pills tone the system
L. S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc. Boston, Mass.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000
OPEN A BANK ACCOUNT HERE
Do business in a business-like way, and secure for yourself the great number of privileges that are yours without cost as a result. Office hours are convenient and employees obliging and polite. There is much information and advice that is free to our depositors, and we are always ready to consult with you if you wish.
Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.
GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

SHAMOKIN COAL
RANGE
FREE BURNING
Like The Shamokin of 20 years ago
C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

CARPETS
Oriental Domestic RUGS
LINOLEUM
MATTINGS
AT LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES
John H. Pray & Sons Co.
646 Washington Street, Opp. Boylston Street

All Goods will be Delivered Free at Residences in Quincy
REPRESENTED IN QUINCY BY
Messrs. OTHO A. HAYWARD and WALTER J. WELLINGTON.

Surrounded by their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Morgan observed the 55th anniversary of their marriage at the home of their son, Rev. Frederick H. Morgan of Brook street, Wollaston, Monday with many friends and relatives present. They were married at South Effingham, N. H., where Mrs. Morgan's father, W. S. Taylor, recently observed his 98th birthday. Mr. Morgan served in the 27th Maine regiment in the civil war. Both are members of the Wollaston M. E. church and lived a number of years in Lawrence.

* * *

Mrs. Ernest L. Spaulding of Jaffrey, New Hampshire, has been the guest the past week of her relatives Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Packard of Standish avenue.

* * *

F. M. Burdett visited friends in Atlantic Wednesday and Thursday.

* * *

Moving pictures and living pictures will make up an entertaining evening next Wednesday for the meeting of the Pickwick club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, 145 Warren avenue, Wollaston. Miss Juliette C. Bostwick and Arthur W. Hall have the program in charge.

* * *

Mrs. John F. Tobin of Rawson road has had as guests the past month, her sister Mrs. John Allan and daughter, Miss Lettie D. Allan of Toronto, Ontario.

* * *

Mrs. Annie Turner who has been spending a few weeks with her son in Washington, Pa., returned this week.

* * *

Madam Lotta Crabtree, a famous actress in her day and a summer resident of Squantum for many years, gave a reception yesterday at Hotel Brewster, Boston in honor of Mary Shaw the well known actress. The reception was held from three until six o'clock in the pink banquet hall. Billie Burke, Margaret Anglin, Jane Cowl and Florence Nash poured tea; Miss Shaw read her skit "Our Friends the Antis', Margaret Sawyer sang, accompanied by Prof. John T. Marshall of the Boston Symphony orchestra. Mrs. Guy W. Currier (Marie Burress) presided and actors from all the Boston theatres were among the guests.

* * *

Mrs. Carl E. Holmes and young daughter Etta May of Standish avenue returned the first of the week from Roxbury where she went some three weeks ago to visit her sister. While there Mrs. Holmes was taken ill and underwent an operation at the Hart Hospital, Moreland street and is now convalescing slowly but satisfactorily.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Willey and daughter Gladys formerly of Atlantic have been guests this week of Atlantic friends.

* * *

William N. Bain, well known in Wollaston has gone to [illegible], Alberta, to attend to the planting of his wheat lands. He is planning to return to Boston in June.

* * *

There was an attendance of over four hundred at the Washington's birthday dance given by Miss Corlew at the Copley-Plaza, Boston, among them being members of Miss Corlew's class in dancing at Wollaston, accompanied by their mothers. It was a delightful as well as beautiful party and a social event for the young people of Boston's suburbs.

The Pi Eta Society play "A Bug in a Rug" is to be given in Quincy this month under the auspices of the Quincy Tennis Club. The date for the Quincy performance is Friday evening March 27th at Music hall and James H. Slade is receiving subscriptions for the play. In the cast of Harvard men are several from Quincy whose friends are looking forward to their performance. Last season's presentation was a good one and brought out a large attendance of society people but it is thought there will be a much larger audience this year.

* * *

Mrs. Coyle Allan of Worcester spent a few days this week with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harding of Botolph street.

* * *

Misses Enid and Hester Ayers of Beverly have been spending a week with their cousin, Mrs. V. J. Beede, of Billings street.

* * *

Lysander S. Richards and daughter Miss Eleanor Richards who have been passing the winter in Washington have returned north and are at Hotel Nottingham, Boston, to stay until their return to their Marshfield Hills home.

* * *

Leroy Morgan returned to East Milton Sunday from a six weeks' trip to California and surprised his friends by announcing his marriage on Feb. 18th at South Pasedena, to Miss Olive W. Coopes of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan are to make their home in Milton.

* * *

The Billiken Club of Atlantic held a most successful dance in Poland hall, Saturday evening.

* * *

Mollie Draper of Dorchester has been visiting friends in Atlantic.

* *

Marjorie Helen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hastings M. Moles of Standish avenue, observed her fourth anniversary Tuesday by entertaining a company of little friends in the afternoon. Mrs. Moles, served ice cream, cake and confectionery. The centre of attraction on the table was a cake frosted and ornamented with four candles. The little hostess was the recipient of many pleasing birthday reminders. The young folks from Auburndale, Brookline and Braintree were accompanied by their mothers.

* * *

Society people were much interested in the Wollaston Automobile show and afternoon and evening the show rooms were thronged with people. The tea room on the second floor attracted the ladies who enjoyed the hospitality of Manager Winsloe. The room was a bower of pink roses on a white lattice and a soft light was cast over the tea table by pink shaded candelabra. Daintily dressed young ladies presided at the tea urn and others assisted in serving the guests.

LAWYER PASS LIE IN HIS COURTROOM

Former District Attorney Uses His Fists With Vigor

Boston, March 7.—A lively row in which former Assistant United States District Attorney E. M. Sullivan knocked Attorney Joseph Jacobs to the floor with his clenched fist occurred in the United States bankruptcy courtroom.

Jacobs, who was anxious to control the trusteeship in the bankruptcy case of the Barry Manufacturing company, had accused Sulivan in open court of soliciting the receivership from him. Sullivan vigorously protested that he had not. The referee declined to listen to Jacobs, saying he had no reason to mistrust Sullivan.

As the referee left his seat at recess Sullivan crossed the room and hit Jacobs twice over the right eye. The latter dropped to the floor and started to kick Sullivan in the shins.

Friends parted the combatants and took Sullivan out of the courtroom. Jacobs was bleeding from a skin wound on the forehead and his glasses were knocked off.

No bread could be more delicious, wholesome and satisfying. Take home a loaf and you will be convinced.

ALL LEADING GROCERY STORES.

MY SLOGAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.

Will you help me do this?

F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.

Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer

Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50. House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.

All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered. Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.

46 Warwick St., Wollaston.

Feb. 27-1m

DR. J. A. ZWICKER
Osteopath
79 Freeman Street
Norfolk Downs, Mass.
Tel. 1271 W. Feb. 25-w-s-tf-o-28-tf

BRAINTREE

Mrs. Ruby Thompson of Plain street is seriously ill and is being cared for by Mrs. Thompson of New Hampshire.

Dr. William Gallagher returned Monday from a three days' business trip to New York.

The Thayer Academy pupils will hold their annual indoor meet this year at Bates' Opera House, Friday evening, March 27.

Miss Mildred Dyer of Pond street is spending a week with her grandmother, Mrs. Jefferson Thayer, at Quincy Point.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. George Reed of Franklin street because of the death of their infant son, who passed away February 27th.

Ernest Margerson left for Provincetown Monday where he has secured a position of engineer. His family will join him the first of April.

The new bungalow which Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reed are building on Grove street is nearly ready for occupancy.

C. M. Lothrop and daughter Miss Hazel resumed their duties at the waiting room in the square Monday, after a two weeks' illness of tonsilitis.

A delegation from Antietam Camp S. of V. attended the inspection of James L. Bates Camp at East Weymouth, Thursday evening.

Horses are seemingly unlucky just at present. Last week one of T. J. Cain's horses fell on Grove street and broke his leg and on Wednesday of this week, L. W. Hollis lost a valued horse.

Anthony Dyke, the oldest resident in town, set a good example to the younger generation by casting his ballot at the town election Monday. Mr. Dyke is 96 year of age, and is hale and hearty.

After a three months' visit with her mother, Mrs. J. J. McLellan of Pond street, Mrs. George E. DeMerritte will start Monday, on her return trip to Edmundton, Alberta, Canada. Mrs. DeMerritte is exceedingly interested in the Northwest and enjoys the pioneer life there.

Miss Agnes Braman Hayward's evening class in dancing held on Friday evenings in Cochato hall closed last evening with a ball. It was a very pretty and successful affair. The matrons were Mrs. Bird, Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Crocker and Mrs. Kneeland.

Some fine scores were made on the Cochato alleys this week. Ralph B. Woodsum had a single of 124. E. R. Olin had a 3 string total of 312. Team 4 led both on single and three string totals 493 single, 1479 three string total.

A buffet lunch was served after the basket ball games at the B. A. A. Thursday night, in honor of the visiting teams. Frank E. M. South and Robert Tonner were in charge of the lunch. Dancing was enjoyed, Miss Eva Leary presiding at piano.

On Tuesday evening, March 10, there will be an illustrated lecture on "Sea Scouting," at the Union Congregational church, by secretary Shaw of the National sea scouting committee.

Miss Pauline Scollard and Miss Mary Cahill of Hobart street, students at the state Normal school in Bridgewater are enjoying a two weeks' vacation, school being closed on account of an epidemic of scarlet fever.

A 25 foot cabin dory is now being completed at George Loring's shop on Allen street. She has a 6 1-2 foot beam and will have for power a one cylinder 6 H. P. Gray engine. She is owned by Mr. Roberts of Campello and will be used at Houghs Neck the coming season.

The first assignment of machinery reached the East Braintree Bleaching and Dye works this week. The International Braid Company are still moving out and will be all cleared by the latter part of next week and then the first real work of the bleachery will begin.

Following the regular business meeting of Sunset lodge N. E. O. P. in Odd Fellows' hall, Thursday evening, the semi-monthly whist party was held. The souvenirs went as follows: special prize, William Mooney; first ladies, Mrs. Rebbeca Trainor; second ladies, Mrs. George Billings; first gentlemens, Arthur Charnock; second gentlemens, A. D. Atkinson. Refreshments were served.

Chief Fred A. Tenney was presented a gold chief's badge at a meeting of the fire department of South Braintree at the engine house, Monday evening. The presentation speech was made by Henry A. Barnes. Chief Tenney responded. He is the youngest chief that ever held office in the fire department of the town, and is very popular with the members of the department, and a good fire fighter. Light refreshments followed the presentation.

THE COST OF SHIPBUILDING

Is Excessive Because Work Is Not Standardized

Comparative cost of shipbuilding in America and abroad was discussed recently before the committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries of the National House. Chairman Alexander referred to a recent proposal of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company to build 10 ships here for the coastwise trade, the resultant bids showing that American builders wanted about 70 per cent more for the construction than they could be bought for abroad. Cost of material was the same, he said, because it could be brought in free of duty, and the labor cost was but from 15 to 25 per cent higher here than abroad. Mr. Dollar explained the difference in price as due to lack of standardization.

"A certain locomotive works in the United States pays about 50 per cent higher wages than are paid in Europe, but they successfully compete in China, Japan and India, because they thave their engines standardized and are making them by the dozens. Now you go to an English shipbuilder and tell him you want an 8000-ton ship. He may tell you that is not in his class—that he builds 500 or 6000-ton ships—and refer you to his neighbor, who specilalizes in 8000-ton ships. He builds them by the dozens and can make the price cheaper." He explained that he had recently ordered a duplicate of a ship Mr. Swayne was having built, and as a result both got their ships cheaper. Mr. Swayne said that with the opening of the Panama canal the 8000-ton cargo vessel would soon become a standard, and the business of building them would become an industry in itself.

"The 8000-ton vessell would cost us in England today normally," he said, "about $275,000, while in the United States about $425,000—a difference of $150,000. What we have to overcome are the interest, depreciation and the insurance—about 6 per cent each. That 18 per cent per annum or $150,000 is $27,000, which is a serious matter. But the trade between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts is destined to be a very heavy trade, and vessels of this size unquestionably will be used largely in it. When this type of vessel becomes standardized it will soon bring the price down, because it will not be long before somebody will come along with a proposition for several ships of one kind. The minute this ship becomes standardized and the price comes down to the European level, American ships will get into the foreign trade. Then there will be an American cargo ship-owning class—which there is not now—and they will see to it that American regulations are adjusted to give them fair treatment. Now there are no American cargo ship owners to make their voice heard."

BRAINTREE Y. M. C. A.

Committees have been appointed in the Braintree Y. M. C. A. as follows:

Finance—James E. Folsom, chairman, M. L.Urann, W. O.Hastings, Charles R. Hill, Walter A. Poore, James H. Stedman, Thomas Patterson, Rev. J. A. Mitchell

Boys' Work—Frederick C. Folsom, chairman, Rev. Nelson A. Price, H. A. Bryant, John A. Hillier, Ernest Vaughan, Fred Watson.

Camp Property, Buildings and Supplies—H. A. Bryant, chairman, M. L. Urann, James E. Folsom, Rev. A. L. Ryan, George McDonald.

Membership—Fred H. Hardy, chairman, A. L. Slater, Fred Watson, Rev. Tyler E. Gale.

Auditing—M. A. Belyea, H. T. Cushman.

Educational and Social Work—R. L. Wiggin, chairman, Rev. M. Oakman Patton, Rev. Harry Grimes, Benj. H. Woodsum, Jr.

Mrs. W. Nichols of Botolph street has returned from Reading where she has been on account of the severe illness of her father.

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES

20 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.

MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Up-to-Date Newsy Locals of Neighboring Towns

Mary Kelley, widow of the late James Kelley of Milton died Thursday. Her funeral will be from the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Hughes, 65 Oak street, Milton, Sunday.

James Keating of Weymouth died Thursday. A high mass of requiem was celebrated this morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart.

Gov. Walsh will ask the public service commission and the transit board to take action on a five cent fare to Hyde Park. The Boston Elevated holds that the taking over of the Bay State road in that place is a necessary factor.

Mrs. L. O. Tead of Atlantic spoke on Childrens Rights before the Lexington Woman's Association in the chapel of the Hancock Congregational church, Lexington Friday afternoon.

Waltham readers last year took 117,954 books from the public library. The total volumes in the library are 38,516.

Capt. E. S. Manson, who died in Dorchester on Friday, was skipper of old time clippers and one of the Board of Boston Pilot Commissioners. He was born in Scituate where his funeral will be on Monday.

The Steam Trawler Ripple built at Quincy and three sailing boats landed fresh fish at T wharf Friday and wholesale prices were easier despite stormy weather.

Chandler Cox, a veteran of the Civil War died at Randolph Thursday night. He was a member of Capt. Horace Niles Post, G. A. R.

A block of wooden stores in Canton, opposite the railroad station on Washington street were destroyed by fire Friday morning. The loss was $10,000. The spread of flames to the tenement section nearby was checked by the firemen.

Two grasshoppers were found under a covering of snow in Foxboro on Thursday by Ober Nichols. They are now bottled alive.

Stephen A. Pope ended his life with gas at his home in Dorchester on Friday. He was the son of James A. Pope of Milton and was born on Adams street. Until three months ago he was connected with the firm of E. A. Carlisle & Pope Co. of Boston. He was 57 years old and married.

SUDDEN DEATH.

The police ambulance left for a Quincy Point boarding house on Friday to carry Isaac Dunn, an employee at the Fore River shipyard, to a hospital, and learned on their arrival that he had died suddenly while they were making the trip.

Dunn was an angle iron worker at the shipyard and was taken ill last week. Several days elapsed before medical aid was summoned. Because of his improved condition on Friday preparations were made to take him to a hospital where his recovery would be certain. An unexpected setback suddenly occurred and caused his death before plans could be carried out.

DIVORCE PETITIONS.

Two suits for divorce were filed with the clerk of the Norfolk Superior court on Friday. Mrs. Carrie E. Morgenson of Houghs Neck charges Lander B. Morgenson, of parts unknown, with desertion, in a petition for divorce.

Minnie L. Merritt of Brockton has filed a suit against her husband Louis A. Merritt of this city. She charges him with desertion, cruel and abusive treatment. They were married at Pittsfield, Me., Feb. 9, 1895. She wishes to resume her maiden name, Minnie L. Rice.

BRIEFS

Dr. E. E. Davis has sold his house no Chestnut street to Albert Nelson.

The North End five of raintree are to play the Wanderers at the Palace rink, Brockton, this evening.

Kitchen Kinks.

To give plaster casts an alabaster effect dip them into a strong solution of alum water.

When the rug curls up it can be made to lie flat by making it very damp on the under side.

Two tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar to one white of an egg will make excellent meringues.

Elasticity is restored to rubber by soaking it in one part ammonia and two parts clear water until the desired results are obtained.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

For Your Baby.
The Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher. is the only guarantee that you have the Genuine
CASTORIA
prepared by him for over 30 years.
YOU'LL give YOUR baby the BEST
Your Physician Knows Fletcher's Castoria.
Sold only in one size bottle, never in bulk or otherwise; to protect the babies.
The Centaur Company, Chas. H. Fletcher Pres't.

MALDEN CONFERENCE.

The Conservation department of the State Federation by invitation of the Maplewood New Century Club of Malden is to hold a conservation conference in Pythian hall, Maplewood square Monday afternoon at two o'clock. Mrs. Mary Lathrop Tucker will speak on Waterways of the United States; Harris A. Reynolds on Shade Trees, Forests, etc., after which there will be a discussion followed by an afternoon tea and social. Club members attending should present their visiting card with name of club they represent. Sullivan square cars marked Broadway Salem street, or Lebanon and Salem street run to Maplewood Square without change, passing the door of hall, running time 30 minutes.

MORNING CONFERENCE.

The morning conferences which are being held in the Women's Club house are steadily increasing in interest. Next Wednesday morning Miss Caldwell, who is a visitor for a number of Day Nurseries, will talk about her work in the North and South Ends of Boston, and about Day Nursery work in general.

Miss Caldwell has had several years experience as an investigator and visitor, and she is a most interesting speaker. About thirty ladies attended last weeks' conference, and it is expected that many more will come next week. The next conference is under the auspices of the Day Nursery Committee of the Womens' Club, Mrs. E. Hultman chairman, and the Associated Charities. Any one interested is cordially invited to attend.

GARDNER CLUB INITIATES TWO

Thursday evening Chester Moyle and Ralph Prout were made members of the Gardner club of Christ church. A large attendance witnessed the conferring of two degrees on each of the candidates. The two initiations were well carried out, and the first degree was especially interesting to the members present.

At the last meting of the club it was voted to join in the Laymen's League a federation of men's clubs of Greater Boston and thereby be assured of always obtaining good speakers when desired.

Next Thursday the club will hold an open meeting to which any man, who feels at all interested is cordially invited. The feature of the evening will be an illustrated talk entitled "Japan of today." This will give those present a chance to decide for themselves whether or not the "Yellow Peril" and the peaceful "Japanese Schoolboy" are realities.

TREES AT COST.

To encourage planting, the Civic Committee of the Quincy Woman's Club will supply the following plants at a nominal cost: two year old dwarf pear tree, at twenty cents each—Bartlett, Seckel and Dutchess; two year old grape vines—black, white or red, at seven cents each, and Cuthbert raspberries at three cents each. All stock is of the best quality and orders should be sent to Mrs. H. H. Kitson, chairman, before April 1.

$1.00 WHILE THEY LAST

BARGAINS

HISTORIES OF QUINCY

Slightly damaged by water. Just the thing for students of history for reference, or to clip from.

Bargain price of

$1.00

while they last.

A few perfect copies for $3.50

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING COMPANY
LEDGER—PATRIOT OFFICE

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE BY
BOSTON—South Station after 5.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck.
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
H. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George H. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity.
Generally fair, Sunday and Monday. No marked change in temperature.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	6.09
Sun sets	5.42
Length of day	11.33
Moon sets	4.15
High water, A. M.	7.45
High water, P. M.	8.30
Days increase	2 hours, 27 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	42 degrees
Mar. 7 1913,	26 degrees
Mar. 7, 1912,	32 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

BRIEFS

Mr. Wood is confined to his home on Madison street by illness.

Friends are glad to see Mrs. John Murray about again. Her absence of nearly a week was caused by illness.

Rev. M. O. Patton of Emmanuel church, Braintree is to preach at the Wednesday night service at Christ church.

Rev. William H. Osmond, rector, Church of the Holy Trinity Marlboro will preach at St. Chrysostom's church, Thursday evening, at 7.45 o'clock.

The next regular meeting of the Wollaston Parents-Teachers Association will be held in Wollaston school hall, Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Joseph Lee of Boston will speak on playgrounds.

Arthur A. Hall who has been employed in Washington, Pa., for several months returned this week. Mr. Hall visited the Billy Sunday revival meetings at Pittsfield recently and expresses confidence in Billy Sunday as a revivalist.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Atlantic M. E. church is to give an entertainment Tuesday evening in the vestry. The Hecker Food House of Boston is to demonstrate their griddle cakes and maple syrup which will be supplemented by the ladies with coffee, sandwiches etc. There will also be a sale and music.

Members of Loyal Ladies and Clan MacGregor are to worship in the First Presbyterian church on Sunday evening at 7.30. John Mackay of the Board of Education and Rev. James A. Matheson will speak. Music will be furnished by the Orpheus male quartet. The Loyal Ladies will meet in the church lecture room at 7.15. The Clan will gather at their rooms at seven o'clock.

The Women's Guild of Christ church is to hold an all day sewing meeting Thursday from ten until three o'clock with luncheon at one o'clock. The sewing will be for the Hospital Aid Association. At three o'clock Mrs. Tuckerman of Boston will speak on "Work among the Older Girls." At half past three the Guild will attend services in the church.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

WILLIAM R. DIMOCK
Carpenter and Builder
Plans furnished and estimates given. All work personally and promptly attended to 133 PROSPECT AVENUE
WOLLASTON
Telephone 1238 W Quincy.

GAIN FOR MACHINE FLOOR

In Final Games of Fore River Shipyard League

The last of the Fore River league regular matches were rolled on the Coliseum alleys Friday night. Wilkendorf of the Argentine Inspectors took high single with 118. Several good individual strings were rolled. Tovolia had high total, 285.

The Argentine Inspectors and the Government Draftsmen took two points each.

ARGENTINE INSPECTORS.

Koozer	110	78	90	278
Cozzi	92	81	94	267
Gozzi	90	91	72	253
Wilkendorf	68	118	86	272
Santa Cruz	90	87	84	261
	450	455	426	1331

GOVERNMENT DRAFTSMEN.

Melendy	96	74	88	258
Tovolia	94	83	108	285
Anderson	87	116	74	277
Fernandez	106	67	83	285
O'Neil	72	101	76	249
	454	441	429	1324

The Machine Floor beat the Foundry 3 to 1.

MACHINE FLOOR.

Ryan	77	105	85	267
Russell	87	77	107	271
Mills	80	112	75	267
Cockett	89	83	97	269
Vosi	84	92	80	256
	417	469	444	1330

FOUNDRY.

Troupe	82	86	109	277
Williamson	90	82	103	275
Kent	74	92	73	239
Steward	80	79	94	253
Dunbar	93	82	79	254
	409	421	458	1298

LADY BOWLERS BREAK RECORD

Quincy Team Roll a Grand Total of 1315

The Quincy team in the Greater Boston Ladies' League broke the world's competition record for women at candle pins while rolling against the East Bostons at Littlefield's alleys Friday night. The old mark, 1311, was made by the Quincy team on Feb. 6, and Friday night they added four more pins to their record.

Mrs. Paul Poehler tripled, the first time it ever occurred in a women's match. Her opening string was 108, the second 95 and the last 97. The East Boston team scored 1189.

QUINCY.

	1	2	3	Total
McLellan	100	98	89	287
Berlo	79	97	65	241
Caples	84	71	95	250
Millin	69	78	90	287
Poehler	109	95	97	300
	440	439	436	1315

EAST BOSTON.

Mann	85	71	79	235
McCarthy	63	87	80	230
Sterling	81	66	67	214
Welsh	81	84	81	246
Oreston	77	96	91	254
	387	404	398	1189

Helps For Housewives.

Varnish stains on cloth may be removed by first wetting the spots with alcohol two or three times and then rubbing with a clean cloth. If the color is injured sponge afterward with chloroform to restore it unless the color is blue, in which case vinegar should be used.

To keep your hands and nails nice use equal parts of glycerin, rosewater and eau de cologne, which should be kept in a small bottle placed on your washstand. Every time you wash your hands rub them with a little before drying them.

For those who do their washing at home it may be interesting to know that some ammonia in the water in which new flannels are washed will take all the roughness off and save both labor and soap.

Do not use flannel leaves in needlebooks, as the sulphur in the flannel rusts the steel, so you should use leaves of linen or chamois instead and then you will have bright needles.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

SPORT NEWS

The Parish club of the Hingham Episcopal church wil send their basket ball team to Quincy tonight to play the Silent Five at the Y. M. C. A. Early in the season the local team defeated the Hingham aggregation by a very close score and a rattling good game is expected tonight, as the visitors have been greatly strengthened since the other game was played. The Employed boys' team will play a team from the Roxbury Evening Center.

The first and second teams of the Y. M. C. A. will play at the Malden Y. M. C. A. tonight leaving Quincy on the 6.12 train.

Dr. J. P. Murphy, the local dentist, was high man at the City Square alleys Friday night with a single of 138. G. Johnson had rolled 131 a short while before and all thought he would hold the honor until the appearance of the doctor, who opened with a savage attack and bowled consistently. Fred Erickson was high Thursday with 122, G. Anderson got 136 on Wednesday, John Caine had 111 on Tuesday and Russell Sullivan and Frank Gillis tied with 115 apiece last Monday.

The defeat of Quincy High by Brockton in that city Friday afternoon was summoned up briefly by one of their instructors who said after the game that his team did not win the game for Brockton but that the side lines did, meaning of course that the fans of our neighboring city want their team to win at any cost. It was a new experience for Quincy players. A Quincy gallery has never attempted to win the game for their team. On the contrary they attend to see the game, regardless of who is the victor, as long as the contest is a good one. Their sympathies are naturally with their home team but a sensational basket or good play by a visitor always receives the applause it merits.

MAKARIA WINS FROM DAVIS

The Makaria class cleaned up four points in the Sunday School bowling league last night on the Y. M. C. A. alleys. This victory puts the Bethany organization within close touch of the leaders of the league, the Rand class of Wollaston only 2 points separating the two teams. Henry Prescott did the best work of the evening getting a high single of 105 and a total for the three strings of 280. The Davis class did very poor work and their high man had the low mark of 234 for a total.

The full score:

MAKARIA CLASS.

A. MacFarlane	71	*88	81	240
R. MacFarlane	73	87	72	232
Prescott	105	96	79	280
Tytler	80	72	80	232
Nicoll	82	83	82	247
	411	426	394	1231

DAVIS CLASS.

Hedman	59	76	63	198
Mundle	66	73	65	204
Llerman	73	76	71	220
Smith	67	81	81	229
Neal	83	77	74	234
	348	383	354	1085

*Rolled by England

BILLIARD RECORDS.

Billiard enthusiasts have been discussing records made in the game in recent years and the following information, is authentic according to 1913 figures.

Straight rail, 5 by 10 table, best run 1535 points, made by Maurice Vignaux in Paris.

Straight rail, 4 1-2 by 9 table, best run, 3000 points, Jake Schaefer, San Francisco.

Fourteen inch balk line, anchor barred, best run, 359, Frank Ives, Chicago.

Fourteen inch balk line, anchor in, best average, 101, Jake Schaefer, N. Y. and Frank Ives, Chicago.

Fourteen inch balk line, anchor barred, best average, Frank Ives 63 1-3, fourteen inch balk line, (1 shot in), high run, 213, Hoppe, Oct. 19, 1910

Eighteen inch balk line, best run, 200, Frank Ives.

Eighteen inch balk line, best average, 50 Frank Ives.

Eighteen inch balk line (no shot in), best run, 111, Jake Schaefer.

Eighteen inch balk line (no shot in), best average, 19 3-13, Frank Ives.

High run, 18.2 balk line, 1,009, single innings, W. W. Spink, Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2, 1912.

BROCKTON 22 QUINCY 17

Quincy Not Familiar With Boundary Lines

Quincy High school was defeated by Brockton yesterday at baseball 22-17. The defeat may be directly to the fact that the local boys were lost on a floor where boundary lines were used, and to a basket thrown after a foul had been called and which the referee himself, after the game, admitted to have been doubtful. It was the first game this year where Quincy has been up against boundary lines and on almost any other floor would have had little difficulty in winning.

Brockton presented a much stronger and much better organized team than on its trip to Quincy. The speed with which they returned the ball into the play after it had gone outside took the Quincy team off its feet, and almost always some Brockton man was uncovered enough to receive the pass in.

This forced Quincy to play the men and not the ball, and consequently fouls were numerous. R. Jenkins scored ten times in eighteen free tries in this manner for Brockton. Crocker was Quincy's chief offender, seven of the fouls being called on him.

The Quincy forwards were guarded every moment. Bates did not have a single open shot at the basket, and both of J. Jenkins' baskets were shot out of difficult plays. All of the Quincy team were slow, getting the ball in from outside.

Hamlin appeared at guard for Quincy for the first time since the Salem game, and played well. He scored three baskets. For Brockton R. Jenkins was the star, playing a fine floor game, in addition to scoring eighteen of Brockton's points.

The line-ups:

Q. H. S.	B. H. S.
J. Jenkins lf	lf R. Jenkins
Bates rf	rf Mitchell
White c	c Fred Hill
Hamlin rb	rb Jones
Crocker lb	lb Frank Hill
Martin lb

Score, Brockton 22, Quincy 17. Goals from floor, R. Jenkins 4, Mitchell, Jones, J. Jenkins 2, Hamlin 3. Goals from fouls, Bates 7, R. Jenkins 10. Referee, Roberts. Umpire Thompson. Timer Atwood. Time 20 min. periods Quincy's second team went down to defeat between periods before Brockton second, 17-14. Brown played best for Quincy and LaRocque and Swanberg for Brockton.

The line-up:

Q. H. S. 2nd	B. H. S. 2nd
Matheson rf	rf LaRocque
Browne lf	lf Swanberg
Roach c	c Emery
Mullen rb	rb Gardner
Crosscup lb	lb Cohen

Score: Brockton 17, Quincy 14.

Goals from floor LaRocque 3, Emery Gardner, Browne 2, Mullen. Goals from fouls, Swanberg 7, Matheson 4, Roache 4.

EASY FOR THE ST. MARYS

The St. Mary's team of the West Quincy league took four points from the Copeland Club on St. Mary's alleys Friday night. Frank McPherson was high man with a total of 282 and single of 107. St. Marys lead the league having lost but one point in four matches.

ST. MARYS.

L. Donovan	77	96	93	266
G. Reinhalter	83	81	90	254
T. Joyce	94	85	82	261
R. Elcock	75	87	90	252
F. McPherson	107	93	82	282
	436	442	437	1315

COPELAND CLUB.

J. Donovan	70	89	76	235
T. Rogers	91	66	84	241
J. Desmond	69	78	80	227
J. Buzzi	101	77	90	268
E. Desmond	83	77	75	235
	414	387	405	1206

This makes St. Mary's won 15 and lost 1.

Bedroom Door Knockers.

Among the clever novelties now being shown are little knockers for bedroom doors. These are made of various kinds of metal and come in quaint figures, such as the Canterbury pilgrims, knights, goblins, gnomes and various legendary characters. They are about four inches high, of very good workmanship and would indeed add a touch of individuality to the door of a guest room or other bedroom in a house. They range from $2 up in price.

SUCCUMBS TO OPERATION

Death of George Vanderbilt, Owner of Famous Biltmore Estate

Washington, March 7.—George W. Vanderbilt of New York died here from the effects of an operation for appendicitis.

Vanderbilt's death came unexpectedly. He was operated upon last Tuesday, and subsequent reports issued from his residence declared that his condition was improving and that no alarm was felt for his recovery.

Vanderbilt was the youngest and probably the least known of the sons of the late William H. Vanderbilt. He never took an active part in the business and financial world. He was a student and a traveler, and his chief interest was his magnificent estate at Biltmore, near Asheville, N. C., where he spent the greater part of his time.

Vanderbilt was born in the old Vanderbilt home at New Dorp, S. I., Nov. 14, 1862. His fortune was never a factor in Wall street. He was supposed, however, to be one of America's wealthiest men.

In 1898 Vanderbilt married Miss Edith S. Dresser. Mrs. Vanderbilt and one daughter survive him.

REFUSES TO CUT SALARIES

Boston Fire Commissioner Also Declines to Name Successor

Boston, March 7.—Fire Commissioner Cole on the eve of his retirement from the Boston fire department threw down the gauntlet to Mayor Curley by refusing to appoint his own successor, Deputy Chief Grady, chief of the department, and by declining to reduce the salaries of the officials of the department as ordered by Curley.

In a letter sent by special messenger to the mayor last evening, Cole asked the mayor to accept his resignation at once and to appoint an acting fire commissioner if he, the mayor, desired the salary reductions to go into effect today.

GIRL HELD AS BABY SLAYER IS FREED

No Proof That She Caused Death by Suffocation

Chelsea, Mass., March 7.—Mary T. Reynaud, aged 15, who appeared in court attired in a gingham dress and who looked not more than 10 years old, was placed on trial ch fref with murdering her new-born babe and was found not guilty.

In his decision Judge Bosson, referring to the report of the medical examiner, said: "The child died from suffocation, but there is no evidence to show that it was caused by any act of Mary."

Bosson said the police should make another charge against the girl. His advice was followed and the girl was taken to the Home of the Good Shepherd in Boston.

ECKERT WILL IS BROKEN

Both of General's Sons Will Equally Share Large Estate

New York, March 7.—The decision of the jury which set aside the will of the late General Thomas R. T. Eckert and enabled his son Clendenin to share the estate equally with his brother, Thomas T. Eckert, Jr., was affirmed by the appellate division of the supreme court.

By the terms of the will, Thomas T. Eckert, Jr., received about $1,500,000, while his brother was left $50,000 outright and a life interest in $100,000.

Clendenin contested the will on the ground that his father, who died at the age of 92, was not fit mentally to make a will when this instrument was made, a month before his death, and that he was unduly influenced.

ASHURST THREATENED

Told He Must Not Let Suffrage Amendment Reach Vote

Washington, March 7.—Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont served notice by telegraph on Senator Ashurst that the suffragettes would declare war on him if he permitted the woman suffrage constitutional amendment to go to a vote in the senate at this time, when there is doubt that it might command the necessary two-thirds vote.

"Mrs. Belmont is one of the leaders, if not the leader, of the whole movement," volunteered Senator James. Ashurst added she was a very excellent woman.

Firemen Have Dangerous Task

Everett, Mass., March 7.—The Everett and Chelsea fire departments were given one of the most dangerous tasks of the year during a fire which did $40,000 damage to the factory of the National Metallic Bed company, and for a time threatened destruction to adjoining factories and buildings.

Double Crime of Rejected Suitor

New York, March 7.—Mrs. Mabel Garcia, a well-to-do Cuban, and owner of a cigar factory, was shot and killed in her home here by Victor Reynolds, a young employe of hers, whose attentions she had rejected. Reynolds committed suicide.

French Women In Ring Battle

Paris, March 7.—Mlle M. Carpentier and Mlle. Warner fought a furious ring battle at Chantilly to decide the world's female boxing championship. Mlle. Warner was knocked out in the fourth round.

SCIENTIFIC FORESTRY

To Woodland, orchard and shade tree owners of Quincy:

The Massachusetts Forestry Association is bringing scientific forestry to the people of the State. Our field secretary, Mr. W. L. Hamel is in your city for the purpose of arousing interest in this important subject. He is a trained forester and will be glad to give you any advice or information concerning your shade-trees orchards or woodlands free of charge. All you need to do is to write a postcard to him addressed care of Mrs. J. D. Mackay, 75 Greenleaf street, and he will call to see you.

The advice he gives will be gratis but if you think it will be of advantage to you to have your trees pruned or cemented or your woodlot thinned, we recommend that Mr. Hamel do the work because of his training and experience. You can arrange with him as to the cost of doing the work and will not be under obligations to hire him, because of the advice he gives you which is free. The object of the Association is to protect the trees and this has proved the most efficient way of doing it.

Massachusetts Forestry Association.
21—S&W-tf

W. H. HASLETT
31 Bridge Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 1092 W
Plastering and Cementing
Concrete Houses
Outside Stucco Work
Cement Walks, Steps and Cellar Floors.

PETROSILO sanitary and fireproof flooring—guaranteed to wear longer than hard wood floor—no joints one continuous piece put over any floor.
Feb. 25- W-S. tf

Have Your Picture Taken in Our Studio
394 WATER STREET, QUINCY
Workmanship guaranteed. Special attention given to outside work. Photos taken evenings by electric light.
ortrait Enlarging. PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order
E. C. GREIFELD, Artist
Feb. 12-1m

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

In effect Nov. 16, 1913

The letters in the same line as the figures below stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows.

a Wollaston	f Harrison Square
b Norfolk Downs	g Savin Hill
c Atlantic	h Crescent Avenue
d Neponset	i South Boston
e Pope's Hill	r Quincy Adams
* Saturdays Only	† Except Saturday

Exp.—Express train.

TO BOSTON Leave	Stop	Arrive	FROM BOSTON Leave	Stop	Arrive
r 5 14 abcdefghi	5 41		5 44 ihgfedcba		6 14 r
r 6 19 abcd	6 40		6 06 ihgfedcba		6 30 r
r 6 32 e	6 49		6 29 a		6 47
			6 47 Exp		7 04
r 6 40 abcf	7 00		7 14 hgfedcba		7 41 r
r 7 09 abcd	7 30		7 34 a		7 52
7 28 a	7 46		7 37 a		7 56
r 7 32 Exp	7 49		7 44 c		8 02 r
r 7 42 ab	8 00		8 34 cba		8 55 r
7 55 a	8 12		8 44 b		9 02
r 8 13 abc	8 32		9 09 fedba		9 32 r
8 21 a	8 41		9 44 a		10 01 r
r 8 33 a	50		10 14 ihgfedcba		10 41 r
r 8 59 ad	[illegible]		10 54 Exp		11 10
r 9 18 abc	9 39		11 14 hgfedcba		11 41 r
r 10 04 a	10 21		11 49 a		12 07
r 10 19 abcdefghi	10 45		12 14 hgfedcba		12 41 r
11 12 a	11 28		12 20 a		12 23
11 24 abcdefgh	11 50		12 56 Exp		1 06
12 04 a	12 20		1 16 fedcba		1 40 r
			* 1 32 a		1 50
r 12 27 abcdefghi	12 53		1 44 a		2 01
r 1 16 a	1 34		2 14 fedcba		2 57 r
2 04 a	2 20		2 24 Exp		2 50
r 2 19 abcdefgh	2 45		3 14 hgfedcba		3 40 r
r 3 12 Exp	3 28		3 41 a		4 02
4 04 a	4 20		4 12 fedcba		4 35 r
r 4 26 abcdefgh	4 53		4 15 a		4 32
5 02 a	5 19		4 40 c		4 58
r 5 30 abcdefg	5 55		4 55 a		5 11
6 04 a	6 21		5 13 a		5 32
6 12 ab	6 32		5 19 hgfeca		5 43
6 57 a	7 15		5 28 ba		5 46 r
r 7 22 Exp	7 39		5 40		5 57
7 29 ab	7 48		5 58 a		6 17 r
r 8 09 abcdef	8 32		6 01 fedcb		6 24
9 00 a	9 18		6 16 a		6 35
r 9 10 abc	9 29		6 30 ecba		6 52 r
* 9 17 Exp.	9 32		6 59 fedcba		7 24 r
r 10 07 abcdef	10 30		7 11 a		7 22
* 10 19 a	10 37		8 04 fedcba		8 28 r
11 13 a	11 30		* 8 19 Exp		8 35
r 11 30 abcd	11 50		9 19 a		9 37
			9 34 b		9 53 r
			10 05 ba		10 24
			10 54 fedcba		11 02 r
			* 11 06 a		11 25 r
			† 11 09 fedcba		11 35 r
			* 11 25 ba		11 43 r
			† 11 29 ba		11 49
			12 05 cba		12 26 r

SUNDAYS

r 7 43 abc		8 03	6 29 ba		6 48
8 30 Exp		8 45	8 34 cba		8 55 r
r 8 46 abcdefghi		9 13	10 39 cba		10 59 r
r 9 13 abc		9 33	12 14 ihgfedcba		12 42
9 31 a		9 47	12 44 Exp		1 01
10 25 ac		10 42	2 29 ihgfedcba		1 57 r
11 08 Exp		11 25	2 14 hgfedcba		2 42 r
r 11 16 abcdefghi		11 43	2 44 a		3 02
1 04 a		1 23	3 14 ihgfedcba		3 42 r
r 1 16 abcdefgh		1 43	4 26 cba		4 48 r
r 3 10 abc		3 30	5 14 ihgfedcba		5 42 r
r 4 16 abcdefghi		4 43	6 09 Exp		6 25
4 59 ab		5 16	6 14 ihgfedcba		6 42 r
5 06		5 23	7 02 cba		7 22 r
6 15 abcdefghi		6 43	8 14 ihgfedcba		8 41 r
7 21 Exp		7 36	8 39 a		8 56 r
7 29 abcdefghi		7 55	8 49 Exp		9 05
r 8 16 abcdefghi		8 43	9 29 ihgfedcba		9 57 r
9 46 a		10 04	10 44 cba		11 04 r
0 46 abc		11 05

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Francis C. Field late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by William A. Field of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eleventh day of March A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twentieth day of February in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Feb. 21-3t 21-28-7

CHICHESTER S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-ches-ter's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER'S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 5, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.25 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 9.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.30 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 20 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 6.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight. Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 6.35, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15, 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sundays 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.25, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 8.15, 9.00 A. M ..ery 60 minutes to 11.00 P. M.

THOMAS GAMMON,
Superintendent.

wealth of Massachusetts,
ss. Probate Court.
rs-at-law, next-of-kin, and r persons interested in the Francis C. Field late of n said County, deceased:
, a certain instrument pur-
be the last will and testaid deceased has been presaid Court for Probate, by Field of said Quincy who letters testamentary may to him, the executor there-without giving a surety on bond; You are hereby pear at a Probate Court to Quincy in said County of the eleventh day of March at nine o'clock in the fore-now cause, if any you have, ame should not be granted.
etitioner is hereby directed blic notice thereof by pub-citation once in each week, uccessive weeks, in the ly Ledger a newspaper n said Quincy the last pub-be one day at least before
and by mailing, postpaid,
g a copy of this citation to persons interested in the n days at least before said

James H. Flint, Esquire, aid Court, this twentieth ruary in the year one thou-hundred and fourteen.
R. McCOOLE, Register.
Feb. 21-3t 21-28-7

ESTER S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
adies! Ask your Druggist for hester's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic es, with Blue Ribbon.
Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHESTER
S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25
Years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
LD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

S N.A CURTIS
R and GLAZIER
D STAINED GLASS
R and PAPER HANGER
FURNITURE REFINISHED ce, off Spear Street, Quincy

Street Railway Company
TIME TABLE
ffect April 5, 1913.
to change without notice.
eave QUINCY for
, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every
to 10.50 P. M. Sundays,
then same as week days.
ve Braintree, 6.25 A. M.,
30 minutes to 10.35 P. M.
55 A. M. and then same as
, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P.
s, 7.30 A. M., then same as
Return, leave Brockton
, and every 30 minutes to Sundays, 8 A. M. then same ca.
incy, and East Milton, 6.30
. M., and every 20 minutes
M. (Wednesdays and Sat-
50 P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A.
me as week days. Return
Milton, 6.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M.
minutes to 11.45 P. M.
ys and Saturdays, 12.10
Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then ek days.
ymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35,
. M. every 20 minutes to then 11.50 P. M. Sundays,
then same as week days.
ve East Weymouth, 5.50,
.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every
to 11.45 P. M. Sundays,
then same as week days.
eek, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40,
. M. every 30 minutes to
then 11.50 P. M. Sundays,
. M. every 30 minutes to Return leave Hough's
6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00,
. M. every 30 minutes to
. then 12.10 midnight.
30, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M.
nutes to 11.35 P. M.
via Hancock Street,—5.45
M. and every 30 min. to then 12.50 midnight. Sun-
. M. then same as week
rs, leave Neponset, 6.40
M. and every 30 minutes
then 12.35 midnight. Sun-
. M. then same as week

via Wollaston—6.25, 6.55, nd every 30 minutes to then 11.30, 12.55 P. M.
0 A. M., then same as week
rs, leave Neponset, 6.25,
. M. and every 30 minutes
M. then 11.42 P. M. and
ght. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. s week days.
via Norfolk Downs, 6.25,
8.30 A. M. and every 30
0 P. M. (Wednesdays and
1 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A.
same as week days. Re-
Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and utes to 10.30 P. M. Wed-
Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.)
A. M. then same as week

Landing, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30
55 A. M. then every 30
ll and including 10.55 P.
ys, 7.25, A. M. then same
ys. Return, leave Wey-ding, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15, hen every 30 minutes un-ding 11.15 P. M. Sundays
hen same as week days.

e NEPONSET for
, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55,
. M. every 60 minutes to hen 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25,
35, 10.35 P. M. Wednes-
Saturdays, 11.30, P. M.
5, A. M. every 60 minutes
. Return, leave Squan-
30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00
60 minutes to 5.00 P. M.
6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00,
P. M. Wednesdays and
11.50 P. M. Sundays,
M. every 60 minutes to

THOMAS GAMMON,
Superintendent.

CAROL'S ISLAND

Or the Mystery Solved

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Carol Atwood watched Captain Hussey as he stowed her suit case and the covered basket in the bow of the little motorboat; then she took her place, while the captain pushed away from the landing steps and grasped the wheel all in one agile motion, born of long experience on the waters of Gull lake.

"Where is the island?" asked Carol after they had fairly started on the blue water.

"Ye can't glimpse it till we turn Pine Tree p'int; kinder queer that your cousin, or—was Steve Atwood your cousin, did ye say?" asked the captain inquisitively.

"He was my father's cousin," replied Carol, with an air of reserve.

"Well, I was saying it's mighty queer that out of all his money he should leave you nothing but Pine island here. You can't do nothing but sell it, miss. I hear you're from New York city. Work there?"

"Yes."

"So I heard. It was all printed in the newspaper when Steve Atwood died—how he left Pine island to a little cousin who was a bookkeeper or something like that in the city. The paper said it was too bad that Mr. Atwood hadn't left a sum of money so his orphan cousin could do something with it but I dunno—you can sell the island if you want to. There's summer folks would like it for a camp.

Carol made no reply. Her blue eyes were dreamily fixed on Pine Tree point, but her thoughts were far from Gull lake and the odd inheritance left by her eccentric relative, Stephen Atwood, the many times millionaire. How easy it would have been had Cousin Stephen only left her a sum of money instead of the valueless island in this Maine lake! She sighed bitterly as she remembered the clause in Stephen Atwood's will which said that the island was not to be sold within five years after his death.

If he had left her a sum of money she might have given up that office position and gone away to seek the health that was so necessary to her successful future. She was pale and delicate looking, city born and bred, and the struggle to earn her bread and butter was growing more difficult every day. She had craved her allotted vacation. She was taking her annual two weeks' vacation in the month of May instead of August, so that she might look over the property.

The breeze ruffled the placid surface of the lake, pickerel leaped now and then, and occasionally from the bushy thicket along the shore mild eyed deer peered at the speeding boat and its passengers.

"There's Pine island," pointed the captain as they rounded Pine Tree point into the upper end of the beautiful lake.

"It is beautiful!" cried Carol, breathless with delight, as she gazed at the small green island that was her very own.

It was set like an emerald in the blue of the lake, and from amid the thick growth of pines Carol could glimpse a red roof.

"You be'ant going to stop there alone!" argued Captain Hussey as he brought the boat up to a small stone landing.

"For a few days," said Carol practically. "I'm not afraid up here in this beautiful country. Why, there is more to fear in the big city where I have always lived."

"That's all very well," decided the old man, "but I guess I'll leave old Watch with you. He can have a little vacation here along with you and hunt rabbits to his heart's content. You can bring him back with you."

Watch, the big collie, who had been asleep at his master's feet, pricked his beautiful ears at the sound of his name and leaped ashore to jump around Carol, who had reached the landing without assistance.

"Now, that is kind of you, Captain Hussey!" cried the girl, taking his reluctant hands into her little white ones. "I believe that you brought Watch along on purpose."

"The missus made me do it," protested the captain as he picked up the basket of provisions packed by his wife for the young stranger. "She thinks you're crazy to stay here all alone for two weeks, and I ain't telling what I think about it. You know I done all I could to keep you away, but I ain't never found the woman yet that would listen to reason—no, ma'am! But I'll try and run over every day and see how you get along. And now I'll look into the boathouse and see if that tidy little skiff is still there. If it is you can use it to run away from the island if things get too lonesome for you. Can you row?"

"Oh, yes!" laughed Carol. "I've learned to do that on my summer vacations."

"Good! Well, if anything bothers you or you get lonesome you jest pack into the skiff and come over to the mainland. You'll find the latchstring always out on the Hussey house."

"Thank you a thousand times!" cried Carol gratefully.

First Captain Hussey took the bunch of keys from Carol and unlocked the boathouse. Here everything was in perfect order, the cedar trimmed rowboat, the oars, the fishing nets and poles all arranged with a careful hand.

Captain Hussey dropped the skiff into the water beneath the boathouse, laid the oars in it and showed Carol how in a moment of emergency she might run down the short flight of steps, get into the boat and emerge through the swinging doors into the lake.

"It's all lovely," murmured Carol as they walked through the pines toward the little log house among the trees.

"It's kind of a tidy little place," assented the captain as he unlocked the front door. "I've heard say that out of all his houses your cousin Stephen liked this best. Ain't that just the way? Millions of money, palaces to live in, and him coming way up here to live in his log cabin and cook his own meals! It does beat all!"

"I wonder why."

"I've heard that he had poor health for awhile, and he got well up here. And he always said that his riches wa'n't nothing without health. Seems like he valued health more than money. You look kinder delikit yourself," added the captain, looking with concern at the girl's face, pale in the gloom of the darkened house.

"I'll feel better after I've been here a few days," laughed Carol. "If Cousin Stephen could regain his health here, perhaps I can find mine also."

"Did you ever see your cousin, Stephen Atwood?"

"Yes, once. A year ago he sent for me to come to his office. He questioned me closely, but he made no remark upon my answers. I never heard from him afterward. Two months ago I heard of his death in California, and I was notified that he had left Pine island to me. I thought it rather a ghastly joke at first, but there is this lovely little house, and, Captain Hussey, I've a great mind to stay here all summer!" A pink color flew into her cheeks at the notion.

"Never!" gasped the captain. "How'd you live, miss?"

"Maybe I could take a woman boarder," said Carol hopefully. "I'll advertise at once."

"That ain't a bad idee," muttered the captain. "I think I know of some one right now, Miss Halpin and her nephew. They're artists, and they'd admire a green little spot like this. Want me to speak to 'em? They're stopping at the Benner House, and you know what that is!"

"If you only would, dear Captain Hussey!" cried the delighted Carol. "I'll row over to the mainland tomorrow and find out. If they want to come I'll send in my resignation to the office at once."

"I'll see about it soon's I get ashore," promised the captain as he departed.

Carol felt very much alone as she went all over the little house, with Watch trotting patiently at her heels. She found the log cabin furnished plainly, but with every comfort for snug housekeeping and lazy enjoyment. Soon every window was wide open to the pine scented breeze and a small fire was crackling on the living room hearth just for the very homeliness of its blaze.

It was fun to light the blue flame oil stove in the kitchen and to prepare her evening meal with the dainty aluminium cooking utensils. From Mrs. Hussey's generous basket there came forth homemade bread and butter, preserves, cakes and pies, besides groceries from the store.

The next morning Carol awoke feeling strangely strong and energetic. She found everything so attractive that she was quite bewildered as to what to do first. Should she satisfy her longing to go out at once or remain indoors long enough to prepare at least a semblance of a breakfast? She decided on the latter course and flew around doing her light housekeeping, singing all the while. Then she donned a white linen sailor suit and a duck hat and went over to the mainland, leaving Watch on guard.

On the village dock Carol met Captain Hussey with a middle aged woman and a sunburned young man, whom he introduced as her new boarders, Miss Halpin and her nephew, Gerald Lane.

Together they went back to Pine island, and then began the most wonderful summer in Carol Atwood's existence. The island, which she had at first deemed a white elephant on her hands, turned out to be a treasure island indeed, for during those long days of free life under the pines Carol recovered her health—nay, she found new health, for she became round and rosy and sunburned and strong as a young Indian maiden.

She found happiness as well as health. How else could it have ended with a beautiful girl like Carol and a handsome, heart free youth like Gerald Lane living there under the kindly chaperonage of Miss Eugenia Halpin?

And the queerest thing of all was that one day while Carol was rummaging among some books in the living room she found a small tin dispatch box bearing her own name on the outside, and in the box was a letter addressed to her in a crabbed handwriting which proved to be that of her eccentric cousin, Stephen Atwood.

And the letter told her that Stephen Atwood believed her to be a sensible girl, and if she fulfilled that belief she would seek Pine island to regain her health, and in the course of time she would find this letter, which declared that, while health was greater than wealth, a blending of each was desirable in this world, so Carol would find placed to her credit in a certain city bank the sum of $50,000, and the bank book was there to prove it!

Pine island is the summer home of Gerald and Carol Lane, and to them each year comes their aunt, Miss Halpin, who loves to tell visitors of the romance woven into the story of the island, while she reproduces its beauties on canvas.

SUNDAY SERVICES

A new announcement of services is required each week. No notices accepted to run indefinitely. When possible the subject of sermon should be given, also special services. Generous space will be given in the news columns for church news, music and week day gatherings.

First Parish Church—City Square, Rev. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson, minister. Residence Miller Stile Inn, Tel. 2107Z. Office hours at church 9 to 12 A. M. Monday, Wednesday and Friday Tel. 1290. Morning service at 10.30 A. M. Rev. Lewis G. Wilson Sec'y of the American Unitarian Association will preach. SundaySchool at 12 noon. Mr. Henry W. Porter Supt. No meeting of ministers class. Visitors are welcome.

Bethany Congregational Church—Junction Hancock and Chestnut streets. Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, Pastor. 10.30 Morning worship message by the pastor "When we consider" 12.00 Bible school Classes for all ages Visitors always welcome. 6.00 Christian Endeavor Meeting Topic: "How to prevent poverty' Ps. 72: 1—19. 7.30 Pleasant Sunday Evening service; Lecture by the pastor "Rebecca seeking a Husban l."

Christ Church, Episcopal—Quincy corner Elm street and Quincy avenue. Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, rector. Second Sunday in Lent 8.00 A. M. Holy Communion. 9.30 A. M. Sunday School 10.45 Morning Prayer and sermon. 7.30 Evening Prayer and address.

First Church of Christ, Scientist—Quincy, Alpha Hall, cor. Hancock street and Cottage ave. Morning service and Sunday School at 10.45. Subject: "Man." Golden Text: "This only have I found, that God hath made man upright." Wednesday 7.45 P. M. a testimony and experience meeting. Reading room open from 3 to 5 P. M. week days, holidays excepted. Also Saturday from 7 to 9 P. M.

International Bible Students Association, (undenominational) New Colonial Hall Hancock Building Quincy Centre. Free public lectures every Sunday afternoon at 3.00 o'clock for the promotion of Christian Knowledge; and are entirely free, no collection taken. Lecture, Sunday March 8th by A. E. Spencer, Waltham. Subject: "The Three Tabernacles" Matt. 16: 28 17: 1.

Spiritualist Meetings—Electa Hall, Johnson building, Quincy Sq. Russ H. Gilbert speaker. Evening Service at 7.30 P. M. Subject "The Christs of Today" Miss Mabelle A. Leighton, message bearer.

Washington Street Congregational Church—Quincy Point. Rev. Stephen C. Lang pastor. 10.45 Morning Worship. Subject of sermon "Unquestioned Authority." 12M. Bible school Men's class, Subject: "The Church of Apostolic Times." 6.30 Christian Endeavor. 7.30 Evening Service with good singing and brief address by the pastor. "The Spirit of God." Public cordially invited.

First Presbyterian Church—Water and Quincy Streets. Rev. J. A. Matheson Minister, Tel 1524-M. Morning worship at 10.30. Bible School and mens class 11.45. Jr. Christian Endeavor 2.30 Y. P. S. C. E. 6.30 Members of the Loyal Ladies and Clan MacGregor at 7.30. Addresses by John Mackay and Rev. James A. Matheson. Congregational Prayer and praise service Thursday 7.30.

First United Presbyterian Church—Corner of School and Pleasant streets. Rev. D. B McLeod, M. A., pastor. Residence 40 Bradford St., Preaching by the pastor at 10.30 and 7 Subject: "Many Crowns" Evening Subject: "Wonderful Love." Sabbath School and Bible Class at 11.45 Junior Endeavor at 3. Senior Endeavor at 6. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.30. Communion at Sabbath Evening service. You are welcome to all our Services.

Calvary Baptist Church—Franklin street Rev. C. C. Tilley, Pastor. Residence 26 Richie Road. Morning Service at 10.30. Subject: "Hastening the Coming Day" Sunday school at 11.45 Evening service at 7. Subject: "What is the Greatest Sin." Regular prayer meeting on Thursday evening at 7.30.

St. Paul's Swedish M. E. Church—Corner Granite and Fort Streets, Quincy, Rev. A. E. Hillman, pastor. Residence 121 Glendale Road. Morning service at 10.30 A. M. Subject: "When Jesus gave thanks." Sunday School at 12 M. Classes for all ages. Epworth League Prayer Service at 6. P. M. Evening service at 7 P. M. Subject: "Silent harps and unsung songs." All Scandinavians cordially invited.

Swedish Baptist Church—Brewers Cor. Paul Hallin, pastor Residence 101 Glendale Road. Sermon by the pastor at 10.45 A. M., and 7.30 P. M. The pastor will speak at both services on "The life of Christ." Good singing. Sunday School at 9.30 A. M.; Y. P. S. C.E. at 6.45 P. M. Strangers cordfally invited.

Hall Place M. E. Church—West Quincy Rev. T. C. Martin, pastor, Residence, 12 Hall Place. Fourth Quarterly Conference Sunday at 9.30. Morning worship at 10.30. Sermon by Rev. Dillon Bronson, D. D. Sunday School at 12 M. Epworth League at 6.15. Evening service at 7 P. M. Junior League at 4 P. M. Friday. Prayer meeting Friday at 7.30.

Wollaston Congregational—Corner Lincoln and Winthrop avenues, Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath, Ph. D., pastor. Res. No. 20 Marion street Telephone Quincy 1116 M. Morning Worship 10.45 Sermon by Pastor "The Transformation of the Unlikely" 12.15. Sunday School Chas A. Campbell, Supt. Women's Class led by Mrs. A. A. Lincoln. Men's Class led by Dr. Sneath. Junior Endeavor meeting 4 P. M. led by Ruth L. Smith. Y. P. S. C. E. consecration meeting at 6 P. M. leader Eugene Smith. Pastors Round Table in Vestry Thursday Evening 7 o'clock. Subject "Confession of Christ." Regular Mid-Week Service Thursday 7.45 P. M. in Vestry leader. Deacon Thompson Topic: 'The Gethsemane Scenes" All are welcome to these services.

First Universalist Church—Washington Street, Quincy. Rev. Merrill C. Ward, pastor Residence 2 Greenough Avenue, Jamaica Plain, Telephone Jamaica 616 W. Third in a series of Lenten sermons on "Helps to the Christian Life" Subject Sunday at 3.00 P. M. "Faith in God Sunday school at 2 o'clock. Y. P. C. U. at 4.20.

Wollaston Unitarian Church—Corner Beale and Farrington streets. Rev. Carl G. Horst, minister. Residence 39 Grand View ave. Telephone Quincy 317-1. Kindergarten for children of three years and over, in the vestry in charge of a trained kindergartner, at 10.45 Service of worship with sermon on Fundamentals of Twentieth Century Christianity at 10.45 Sunday School with classes for all at 12.00. Ministers class meets in Church Auditorium. Vesper Service at 4.30. Annual collection for American Unitarian Association at both Morning and Afternoon services All seats free, and a cordial welcome for all.

Wollaston Baptist Church—Cor. Prospect and Warren avenues. Rev. Joseph Walther minister. Morning service at 10.45 Sermon by the minister. Sunday School at 12.15. Junior Endeavor 3.30. Senior Endeavor at 6. Evening service by the minister. All who have no other church home, invited to these services.

Wollaston Methodist Episcopal—Church—Rev. George Mervyn Bailey, Pastor Residence, 52 Brook Street Telephone, Quincy 378-2 10.45 Divine Worship with sermon by the pastor. Theme: "The Silent Conflict Upon the Unseen Battlefield." 12 M. Sunday School J. A. Sedgwick Supt. Pastor in charge of Men's Class 6 P. M. Epworth League Leader: Miss Dodge of Beverly. 7 P. M. Song service pastor's message Subject: "The Truth About the Four Men who Interrupted a Great Preacher and stopped the sermon." Seats Free. Everybody welcome.

St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church—Hancock street. Wollaston—Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra, rector, residence, the rectory. 253 Hancock street. Holy Communion at 8 A. M. Morning prayer and sermon at 10.30. Sunday School at 12. Evening Prayer and address at 7.30.

Memorial Congregational Church—Atlantic Rev. Thomas W. Davison, pastor. Morning service 10.45. Sermon by the pastor Theme: "God in the affairs of Men." Sunday School 12. M. Junior Endeavor at 3.30 P. M. Adult Bible Class at 5.30 P. M. Y. P. S. C. E. at 6. P. M. Evening service at 7 o'clock. A cordial welcome to all.

Atlantic M. E. Church—corner Newbury avenue and Squantum Streets. Rev. E. C. Pollard, pastor. Residence 19 Wesley Street, Newton, phone 2467 W. Morning service at 10.45 by the pastor. Theme "The universal reign of Christ." a missionary excursion to foreign fields. Sunday School 12. M. Catechism class 3.30. Epworth League at 6 P. M. Revival service at 7. P. M. The pastor will be assistsd Sunday evening by Evangelist Noble of Newton Highlands.

TOMB OF OSIRIS FOUND

Hidden Sanctuary of Time of Pyramids Disclosed at Abydos

London, March 7.—Professor Naville, in a letter published in The Times on excavations of the Egypt exploration fund at Abydos, expresses the belief that they have found "what Greek authors called the tomb of Osiris, where the head of the god is supposed to be preserved."

The excavations began at the door which Petrie discovered two years ago. The doorway, Naville thinks, was the entrance to a passageway leading to a subterranean chapel under the temple of Seti I.

"We should have never expected what we found," he continues. "Between the doorway and the temple is a complete sanctuary, evidently of the time of the Pyramids, very much ruined but built with huge materials."

In giving details of the structure Naville says texts on the walls prove it to be the burial place of Osiris.

HORSE MEAT IN MARKETS

Montreal Authorities Are Unable to Prevent its Sale

Montreal, March 7.—The startling discovery that horses are being killed for food and the meat served in local restaurants was made here. The prices of meats have soared to such heights as to be beyond the reach of the poorer people of Montreal.

Outside abattoirs are not under government inspection, and realizing the needs of the poor they began to buy old horses. There they have slaughtered and cut up for beef. The same has been brought into Montreal as just "plain beef" and sold at so much lower prices than other meats that it has been an attraction for the poorer class to buy.

The board of health is utterly helpless to prevent the killing of horses and their sale for meat or their use in restaurants. There is no law which has any bearing on the case.

PRATT'S BREAD—always crisp, clean, pure and wholesome. Try it. Grocers.

WOOD! WOOD! WOOD!
BY THE CORD
OR SAWED AND SPLIT
ENGLISH, BEDDING AND SALT HAY
R. ALLEN GAGE
36 River St., Braintree
Telephone 138-M for prices: Jan 21 tf W&S

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

Call Quincy 501--W
If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN, upholsterer, 1060 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School
Mar. 4 tf

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING
WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—At North Weymouth, flat of 5 rooms, some improvements, near salt water and good place to keep hens. Rent reasonable to small family. Few minutes to trains to Boston. Apply at 445 Washington street, Quincy. March 3-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 3-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms centrally located, breakfast if desired, men or women. Write T. L. Ledger Office. 3-6t

TO LET—Flat of 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 3-6t

TO LET—Rooms and board, 18 Washington street. 2-6t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 2-6t

TO LET—In private family to refined people, two very fine corner rooms, newly furnished, with separate baths. Near centre. Write L. B. K. Ledger Office. 26-9t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—40 Park lane, 6 rooms all modern improvements. Rent $23.00. Apply 22 Berkeley street. Tel. 349-M. 5-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

UPPER APARTMENT. In two-family house on Spear Street. Five rooms, bath, large pantry and closets, also open attic with finished heated chamber. Every improvement, electric light, furnace, range etc. Ready for immediate occupancy. Telephone Quincy 278 M or enquire mornings of Miss Prescott at the Ledger Office. 1po

TO LET
Large Front Office Greenleaf Block—2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.
Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.
Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.
Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month
Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.
City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.
Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.
GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)
Offices—Large or small.
Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.
Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.
Furnished Rooms—With care steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week
HALLS
Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.
New Colonial Hall—Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.
Hancock Hall—Hancock Building City Square—Capacity 150.
Quincy Real Estate Trust.
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

Read Ledger Ads

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. .. ..

TO LET

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, seven rooms and bath, all modern improvements. Apply P. J. Williams, 19 Independence Ave. Tel. Quincy 369. 5-6t

TO LET—172 Whitwell street, half house, modern conveniences, $20 per month. Ready for immediate occupancy. Apply Penniman's Stable, Granite street. 19-tf

RUSSELL PARK — Commodious house of seven rooms, large hall and bath. Modern, every convenience open fireplace, furnace, range, set tubs, electric lights, cemented cellar etc. Best residential neighborhood. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further details or key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office. tf lpo

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Three good work horses. Apply to John J. Gallagher, 230 Water street, Quincy Adams. 7-6t

FOR SALE—Single brass bed and spring. Nearly new. Price $8.00. 26 Cummings avenue, Norfolk Downs. 7-1t

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy. Feb. 27-tf

A few Choice House Lots
—ON—
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.
SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

READ LEDGER ADS
If you want a situation, if you want to rent a house or to buy anything, look over our classified columns

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

LOST

LOST—Ruby top spaniel pup. Reward if returned to Bessie Grant 247 Washington street. 7-3t

LOST—Wednesday a Fur Boa, between Common street and Adams street bridge. Finder please return to Dennen's Restaurant and receive reward. 5tf

WANTED

SALESMAN WANTED—High class traveling salesman to sell pumps, tanks to garages, stores etc. Big money for right man. Milwaukee Tank Words, Milwaukee, Wis. 7-1t

WANTED—Two young men to share large sunny room, bath etc. With or without board. Apply 25 High School avenue. (Next Fire Station.) 7-3t

WOMEN sell guaranteed hosiery to wearer, 80 per cent profit. Quick sales, repeat orders. Make $15 daily. Experience unnecessary. INTERNATIONAL MILLS, 3038 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa. 17-14t S and W.

WANTED—A small shed or building, about 16x20, suitable to be made into a garage. Will move from premises. State lowest price. Address M. M. Ledger office. 5-6t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York. N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

MI-AS-MA-INE—Guaranteed to cure Malaria or money refunded. If not found at your druggist, see Agent at Sawyer Drug Co., 274 Tremont st., Boston, Mass. 3-6t

$20.00 REWARD will be paid for the arrest and conviction of party or parties who broke into and set fire to our Engine House on Feb. 26th and 27th 1914. Bay View Quarry Company. 28-tf

JUST LOOK HERE
Two Suite House in Wollaston—7large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 685 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 33 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 / Office 685-M

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1686 W

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c

MON., TUES., WED.
Program Subject to Change

ARMINTA & BURKE
Aerial and Trampoline Comedy

BURNS--LAWRENCE--BURNS
Novel Comedy Entertainers

ASHTON & MUNSON
Singing, Dancing and Changes

LEW WARD
Clever Character Comedian

AN MATED WEEKLY
World News in Moving Pictures

"IN THE FALL OF '64"
A Stirring Military Production in two parts

"HIS ROYAL PANTS"
A Comedy Triumph

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA
HELEN C. QUALEY, Leader

Mar. 7 3t-o-1w

PHILERGIAN NOTES.

The Museum of Fine Arts announce a loan exhibition by Walter Gay, also an exhibition of work of the late Marcia Oakes Woodbury.

The next meeting of class in Modern Literature will be March 9 at the home of Mrs. C. T. Crane. The following meeting March 26th will be with Mrs. T. A. Watson instead of with Mrs. Avery.

The next meeting of the Philergians will be the annual dramatics in Bates Opera house, March 17 at 2 P. M.

Tuesday, March 3 was reciprocity day. Mrs. Minot Beale played selections on the violin, accompanied on the piano by Luther Churchill.

Mrs. George O. Jenkins, president of the Whitman Womans' club said "We started the visiting nurse which is now self supporting, our travelling library of 90 to 100 volumes go to small towns on the cape and in Maine. We give a Simmons scholarship. Classes in dressmaking, domestic science and basketry are very successful. The club wishes to do much more for the benefit of the town especially helping the young people.

Mrs. Esther M. Andrews, president of the Boston Council of Jewish women said "We have members of the Boston school committee talk to us on the needs of the schools and then do all that we can to assist. We support religious and vocational training schools. Our junior council is composed of young women between the ages of 15 and 25. The immigrant aid department meets immigrants on arrival, assists them to go to school, to learn the language and to do skilled labor if possible. Later they join a club and help other immigrants as they have been helped."

Mrs. Fred A. Simmons, president of the Brockton Woman's club told of contributing to the city charities and having needy children treated at the hospital for eye, ear, nose and throat troubles. An art exhibit is held annually. A scholarship is given for Maryville college. The club aids the Y. M. C. A. in entertaining girls evenings, it also gives vacations to women and children at Lake Shore Home, Sharon.

Mrs. J. Harry Poole, former president of the Brockton Women's club spoke on the endowment fund of the general federation, explaining the need of the fund to extend work in every department. Mrs. E. L. Webber is xchairman of a committee to complete the quota of the fund assigned to the Philergians and each member will be called upon.

Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee, Mrs. F. Eugene Dyer, Mrs. R. L. Wiggin, Miss Annie Shaw and Mrs. Walter S. Davis.

Manet encampment, I. O. O. F., will receive an official visit Friday evening March 13, from Grand Patriarch Whitmore and the board of grand officers. The grand patriarch was at one time deputy of this encampment.

The annual meeting of the Wollaston Co-operative Bank is to be held Tuesday night in the banking rooms.

With Teams and Trucks

KINCAIDE MOVES HOUSEHOLD GOODS

Our light and heavy Trucks and Teams are ready to move you anywhere anytime you say. Our men are courteous, careful, thoroughly-experienced movers. This store stands back of their work and guarantees you complete satisfaction. Charges are reasonable. Let's have your order early. Write, call or Telephone Quincy 1200.

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO. 1495 Hancock St.

NEWSY BRIEFS

Miss Lena G. Bayley of South Weymouth, a sister of Harold Bayley of this city, died suddenly on Thursday.

At the Y. M. C. A. last night the United Presbyterian Sunday School defeated Sacred Heart, 15 to 11 at basket ball.

Among those contributing to the Quincy Day Nursery last month were Mrs. George H. Wilson, Mrs. Eugene C. Hultman and Mrs. N .S. Hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. William Barnes have returned to their home on Botolph street having been called to Pittsfield by the death of Mr. Barnes' sister.

The funeral of Herbert Thomas, of 399 Hancock street will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 P. M. from St. Chrysostoms church.

The Wollaston W. C. T. U. will meet on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. W. Shephard, 23 Marion street and Mrs. Isaiah W. Sneath will speak on "Sabbath Observance."

The Eastern Players of Quincy are to give the entertainment next Friday evening at the Milton Town hall under the auspices of Huntington F. Wolcott W. R. C.

Dorothy Q. Lodge of Odd Ladies held a whist party Monday. Several souvenirs were awarded the first prize being a five pound box of chocolates. April sixth they are to hold another party.

All who are interested in the Quincy Day Nursery will want to hear Miss Caldwell speak on Day Nursery work at the conference Wednesday March 11 at 10.30 A. M. in the rooms of the Quincy Associated Charities, Women's clubhouse, Goffe street.

The regular business meeting of Ward Six Patriotic Association was held at headquarters, Thursday evening, with a large and enthusiastic number present. It was voted to celebrate the fourth of July this year. The annual election of officers will be at the next regular meeting, April 2.

The Weber male quartet assisted by Miss Grace Sanborn Cole, reader, will give an invitation concert under the auspices of Bethany Brotherhood, at the Bethany church Friday evening, March 13. The members of the quartet, A. C. Prescott and A. F. Cole, tenors; G. H. Woods and W. E. Davison bass, are too well known to Quincy audiences to need any introduction and a fine concert is assured.

Charles Bradley, Jr., of Oliver W. Peabody Camp Sons of Veterans of Milton, conducted the inspection of Col. Abner B. Packard Camp, in Grand Army hall Friday night. Two applications and one transfer were accepted and the initiation of these candidates will take place March 20. Inspector Bradley announced that he was pleased with the condition of the camp.

The missionary excursion to have been held last Sunday evening at the Atlantic Methodist church was postponed until next Sunday when the pastor invites the Sunday school, Epworth League and church to accompany him on an imaginary modern airship around the globe, catching a birds-eye view of the mission fields, its missionaries, converts, peoples and landscapes. The journey will be an interesting one.

BRAINTREE

Mr. and Mrs. Byron T. Whitmarsh have the sympathy of their many friends in the loss of their infant son.

Harold Parker of Elm street has purchased the 28-foot motor boat "Pontiac" owned by J. O. Severance of Weymouth Heights.

Thayer Academy Girls' basketball team played Bridgewater High Girls at Thayer gymnasium this Saturday afternoon.

Next Tuesday evening Antietam Camp 32 S. of V. will entertain their inspector, Frank Stoddard of Quincy.

The next meeting of the Grange will be Monday evening when there will be a lecture on Savings Bank Life Insurance by Mr. H. W. Kimball. A special invitation has been sent each of the neighboring granges to be present on this evening. At the last meeting of the Grange the cake sale proved most successful. While the attendance was smaller than usual because of several other attractions the social part was more than usually entertaining.

MYSTERY OVER COFFEE

Wollaston Unitarian Supper and Entertainment

The monthly sociable was held in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church, Friday evening, and a program of music and readings enjoyed.

Piano solos were played by Dr. John Merrill and Mrs. Aylmer Hatch contributed several whistling solos. A number of readings were given by George E. Brown including "Hashimura Togo in bachellors hall" by Wallace Irwin and "Uncle Podger hangs a picture" by Jerome K. Jerome. Mrs. R. W. Oldham was chairman of the entertainment committee.

One of the striking features of the supper was the coffee which was of exceptional excellence. Who made it, is a grim secret, but it is rumored that it was the work of a lady very much opposed to coffee drinking.

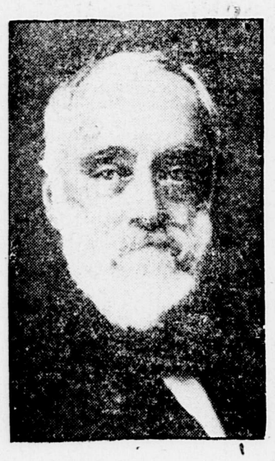
The supper was served by a corps of young ladies including Misses Priscilla Robinson, Martha Robinson, Gretchen Horst, Ednah Sanborn, Charlotte Barstow, Katherine Reed Elizabeth Reed, Dorothy Sprague, Marcia Adams, Katharine Adams, Anna Weston and Helen Thompson.

Composing the committee were Mrs. William E. Rowe, Mrs. A. C. Armstrong, Mrs. Frank W. White, Mrs. W. Everett Simmons, Jr., Mrs. Charles E. Monroe, Mrs. Aylmer Hatch, Miss Maria Weston, Mrs. N. S. Robinson, Mrs. A. H. Richards, Mrs. Charles T. Baker,, Mrs. Charles H. Brooks and Mrs. H. T. P. Bates.

FIFTY-SIXTH YEAR AS MASON

Franklin Curtis Senior Member of Rural Lodge

The report of the veteran's night of Rural lodge, A. F. & A. M., would have been more complete if accompanied by a half tone of Bro. Franklin Curtis, the senior member but kindly loaned by the Boston Globe arrived too late. It was on Oct. 21, 1858, that Mr. Curtis was admitted to the lodge.



FRANKLIN CURTIS.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. Orrin S. Hammock of Hillsdale, N. J., formerly of Quincy, died suddenly early Friday morning. She was taken ill Tuesday night with bronchitis and pleurisy as her heart became very weak; she soon passed away.,

MRS. JOHN MURPHY.

Mary Murphy, widow of John Murphy, died Friday afternoon at her home off 28 Revere road. Mrs. Murphy was the mother of John Murphy, a conductor employed by the Bay State Street Railroad Co., and Daniel Murphy. While the pneumonia epidemic raged last fall Mrs. Murphy contracted the sickness and after a period of treatment at the Quincy City Hospital was discharged. Within a week she suffered a relapse, the effects of which she never fully recovered from.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

CONCERT AT WOLLASTON

Standish Male Quartette and a Reader

A novel program of music and readings was given by the Standish Male Quartette of Boston under the auspices of the Ladies Benevolent Society in the Wollaston Congregational church, Friday evening. Especial interest was centred on the quartette because of the fact that the reader and baritone of the organization is the brother of Henry F. VanBuskirk of Wollaston.

Composing the quartette were: W. C. Mooney, first tenor; Otto E. Lewis second tenor; R. L. VanBuskirk, baritone and W. H. Corliss, basso. The program was a varied one of excellence and a number of unusual features added much to the entertainment of those present.

R. L. Van Buskirk received much applause in his role as a reader. Among his longer selections were: "The house by the side of the road" by Sam Walter Foss, "When the folks is gone," "Out to old Aunt Mary's" "Little Ah Sid" and "Candle light time." W. H. Corliss, the basso, also found favor in his two selections "Where the breakers roll" and "Any old port in a storm."

The quartette selections were numerous and well rendered containing many surprises. Among the numbers were: "The serenader," "When I was a bachelor," "Little cotton dolly" "When the mercury went down," "The angel of light," "Fatherland," "Peter Gray" and "Watermelons."

A feature of the evening was the part devoted to plantation melodies with banjo accompaniment and old familiar songs. In this part were: "Old black Joe," "Back to Dixie," "Kentucky home," "Dixie," "My old cabin home," "Shine, shine moon," "Nellie Gray," "Swanee river," "Silver threads among the gold," and "Loves old sweet song."

The evening closed with a religious selection "I'm a pilgrim"

CO-OPERATIVE BANK WANTED

The Atlantic Improvement Association had one of the most enthusiastic meetings in its history Friday night, when fourteen of the leading citizens of the community became members of the organization.

The speaker of the evening, Dr. G. G. S. Perkins, president of the Boston Co-operative Bank, gave an interesting talk on the value and safety of the co-operative bank. After his address many of the members asked questions as to the working and loans of the bank, while Mr. Perkins answered to the satisfaction of all.

In the business meeting Councilman C. E. Carlson stated the legal technicalities why Ocean street was not accepted and improved by the city last year when every abutter requested it, and the community wanted it as one of the avenues to the Boulevard.

Mr. Carlson also gave a strong enthusiastic talk on the advisaiblity of starting a co-operative bank in Atlantic, and the men present were asked how many of them would favor such a project and the meeting unanimously favored it. Mr. Carlson said he had looked into the legal part of applying for a charter, and found that it could be organized if there were one thousand shares subscribed and that he could easily get over two hundred in Squantum. Those at the Association said they would be responsible for over two hundred shares. The feeling was strong that such an institution would help greatly in the development that is now going on in Atlantic.

It was reported that there was some political move on foot to try and remove Dennis O'Neil from the street department of Atlantic. This report aroused all from the old citizen to the latest comer, as O'Neil is one of the most popular and appreciated men in Atlantic. Expressions of appreciation were made of how Mr. o'Neil had handled the work during the difficult storms of this season.

The chair was asked to appoint a committee of five to confer with Mayor Miller at once, and let him know how much Dennis O'Neil is appreciated in the community and request the Mayor to consider the faithful work he has done and reward him accordingly. The sentiment was expressed that Mr. O'Neil had been a sacrifice on account of politics in the past and that the city should be above that today.

STANDING BY THE PRESIDENT

Tolls Bill Requested by Wilson Is Promptly Reported

COMMITTEE STANDS 17 TO 4

Measure Provides For Repeal of Exemption Clause In Canal Act—Administration Rushing For Action—Poindexter Asks About "Other Matters"—Mann Says We Fear Japan

Washington, March 7.—The bill to repeal the canal toll exemption, requested by President Wilson, as reported by the house committee, is brief and to the point. It simply provides that the sentence in the Panama canal act reading:

"No tolls shall be levied upon vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States," shall be repealed.

Members who voted against it pointed out that another provision relating to minimum tolls also must be repeal or the whole question still will be open and the United States may, in its discretion, allow American vessels free use of the canal.

Chairman Adamson immediately began work upon a report to the house and declared he would press the repeal just as rapidly as possible. The committee also voted to ask for a special rule to expedite the repeal. With three days allowed for the minority report, it is probable no effort will be made to take up the bill in the house before next Thursday. At the White House there was every evidence that the administration was pushing for action.

The bill was favorably reported by a vote of 17 to 4. Representatives Doremus of Michigan and O'Shaunessy of Rhode Island, Democrats, Knowland of California, Republican, and Lafferty of Washington, Progressive, voted against it. Similar action on the Root bill by the senate committee on interoceanic canals was promised. In both senate and house it was confidently predicted that more than a sufficient number of votes would be assured in favor of the repeal when the members were brought face to face with the issue.

Senator Poindexter, Progressive, introduced a resolution calling on President Wilson to explain what matters "of even greater delicacy and nearer consequences" he refrred to in his address to congress as depending on the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption.

The resolution, with a similar one by Senator Jones, went over under the rules.

Republican Leader Mann told the house that after reading London dispatches giving the British view of the president's tolls address, he now understood what the president meant by saying that unless congress ungrudgingly supported the administration's foreign policy, "I shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequences." Mann read from a London dispatch headed "Thinks United States Fears Japan."

"After reading that dispatch," said Mann, "I can appreciate the significance of the last remark of the president in his message calling for protection of this government from a war with Japan and for this government to act at the behest of Europe. I do not court, but am not afraid of, war with Japan or anyone else, and I would not yield what I believe to be right through fear, whatever else I might do."

NEGLECTFUL PHYSICIANS

They Failed to Report 450 Births In Providence During a Year

Providence, March 7.—Superintendent of Health Chapin has issued warning to all physicians in this city to report all births that come to their professional attention.

He says that in 1913 there were 450 births which have not yet been reported. Ninety-six physicians are responsible for this neglect, he finds.

Sixteen physicians last year recorded no births at all, although one attended forty-two births.

ON MURDER CHARGE

Grand Jury Reports Indictments Against Two Armenian Boys

Cambridge, Mass., March 7.—Two Armenian boys of Watertown—Nishan Aprahanian and Manoog Gurabedian—accused of causing the death of Ismayel Igillo, a Turk, in that town on Feb. 16, were indicted on the charge of murder in the report of the Middlesex grand jury.

Leo J. Shea, who killed Charles Butch in an Everett pooltoom, was indicted for manslaughter.

Fined For Imprisoning Snowbird

New York, March 7.—Michael Kametz, a hotel proprietor, was fined $20 and costs by Justice of the Peace Johnson at Hackensack for not releasing a snowbird that flew into his barroom during a storm.

Principles.

We must be careful to have our principles and be ready to die for them. But we must be careful not to label our prejudices "principles" and proceed to die for them.

Put the "KICK" in the Eggs

If you want big hatches of husky chicks, the kind that live and grow. Infertile eggs and small hatches of weak chicks are the rule when the breeding stock is in poor condition, weak and run-down.

Pratts Poultry Regulator

will quickly correct this condition in your flock because it acts directly on the digestive and reproductive organs, strengthening them, toning them up, invigorating them. 25c, 50c, $1; 25-lb. Pail, $2.50; 100-lb. Bags, $9.

After the chicks are hatched you should raise them all.

Pratts White Diarrhea Remedy 25c, 50c controls bowel troubles. Use it for all broods as a preventive.

Pratts Baby Chick Food

makes chicks grow at an astonishing rate, with big bones, plenty of muscle and unbounded strength and vigor. You can rely upon this scientific food mixture to carry through the critical period all worth-while chicks, and give them that favorable start upon which future profits depend.

In boxes and bags, 25c up. "Your money back if it fails."

A. J. Richards & Son, C. W. & G. W. Nightingale Nathan mgs. E. F. Doble & Co., and Grain Dealers, and General Stores everywhere.

4199.

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER

Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy

Feb. 10-1m

COMEDY BY ENDEAVORERS

"Deceptions Web," a two-act comedy was successfully given in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church Friday night by the Christian Endeavor Society. The attendance was very large and appreciative. The comedy was laughable during the entire performance.

The play was produced under the direction of Miss Georgie Michael, and George Shirley was stage manager. Candy was on sale during the evening.

The part of Simeon Brown, a victim of the installment plan, was taken by George McDonnell. Everett M. Clark was Ford Dayton, George Shirley was Sam Houghton of an installment firm, James H. Jenkins was Nichols Dodge of a jewelry firm, James A. Matheson, Jr., was a young druggist, Thomas A. McLay a slave. Margaret E. McIntosh took the part of Brown's wife who had a weakness for bargains, Edith Elrick filled in as Phylis Lee who lost her dog, and Margaret Sullivan, a new girl, who wished to be called Margarita and other names, was presented by Miss Georgie Michael. William K. Falconer and William T. Cummings acted the detective roles.

The first scene was in the front parlor of the home of a bargain hunter during peace, and the second scene was the same in a state of seige. The affair was very successful.

The social committee of the society had charge of the production and orchestra music was furnished by a trio of three members, Miss Edna Crockett, Miss Jessie Shirley and Wendell Clark.

DANCING PARTY EASTERN STAR

Quincy chapter, Order of Eastern Star, held its annual dancing party in Alpha hall, Friday night, and the threatening weather in no way affected the attendance. There were 175 couples present that entered into the spirit of the occasion, and participated in the dancing until midnight.

The decorations were simple, consisting mostly of palms and ferns which were massed about the orchestra. Punch and refreshments were served from the platform.

The grand march, formed unexpectedly, was headed by Miss Mildred L. Crowley and William L. Tarbox. The march was played by the first six young ladies on modern instruments with piano accompaniment and after the marchers had circled the hall twice tin horns were distributed by Dora Peterson and Fred Gibbs and all joined in furnishing the music.

The affair was attended by members of several out of town chapters, and was one of the most successful of the year.,

Music was furnished by Reeds orchestra of Dorchester.

The committee was Mrs. Gertrude Cassey, Miss Mildred L. Crowley, Miss Margaret Milne, Miss Jessie Raymond, Mrs. Amy Musgrave, William L. Tarbox, Thomas Cassey and Charles L. Gilliatt.

☞PRATT'S BREAD costs a little more—is worth a good deal more. Ask your grocer.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Ms. Anna Peterson of 9 Cranch street was pleasantly surprised Friday evening by her sons and their wives and a few other friends, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. Many tokens of remembrance were brought by the surprisers who also showered her with congratulations and wished her many more birthdays. Games of various kinds were enjoyed during the evening and refreshments were served.

Too Late For Classification

FOUND—A man's watch on Glendale road. Owner may have same by proving property and paying charges. Apply at 24 Euclid avenue. 7-1t

FOR SALE—22 ft. motor boat, 5 h. p. 2 cylinder engineer. One year old. Price reasonable. A. D. Thompson. 47 Main street. 7-6t

DEATHS

MURPHY—In Quincy, March 6, Mary, (nee White,) widow of the late John J. Murphy.
Funeral from her late residence, rear of 28 Revere road, Sunday, March 8 at 2.15 P. M. Services at St. John's church at 3 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited to attend. High mass of requiem for the repose of her soul at St. John's church Monday at 7 A. M.

THOMAS—In Wollaston, March 5, Herbert Thomas of 399 Hancock street, in his 34th year.
Funeral Services on Sunday March 8, at St. Chrysostom's church, at 2 P. M. Relatives and friends invited.

HAMMACK—In Hillsdale, N. J., March 6, sudenly, Mrs. Orrin S. Hammack (Jennie Dinnie.)
Services will be held at 2.30 Sunday afternoon at the residence of Albert Maynard Parker, Presidents hill, Quincy. Friends welcome.

KELLEY—In Milton, March 5, Mrs. Mary Kelley, widow of James Kelley of 65 Oak street.

BAYLEY—In South Weymouth, March 5, Miss Lena Gertrude Bayley, daughter of Frederick B. Bayley, in her 42d year.

KEATING—In Weymouth, March 5, James Keating of Broad street.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

YOU should not place your orders for any
MEMORIAL WORK
Without Consulting
AVARD L. WALKER
MORTUARY ARCHITECT
3636 WASHINGTON STREET
FOREST HILLS, BOSTON, MASS.
Tel. Quincy 282-W
March 4-3mos-ws

...ist Five
...uicks are
...ition, weak

...tor
...acts directly on the
...them up, invigorating

...Remedy

...od
...nscle and unbounded
...to carry through
...orable start.
...fails."

...T and BUILDER
...ildings of all kinds,
...nd built.
...properly anticipate your
...ms will save you more
...d. A call will bring us

581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-1m

...THDAY PARTY.

...Peterson of 9 Cranch ...pleasantly surprised Fri... by her sons and their ...few other friends, the oc... her birthday anniversary. ... of remembrance were ...the surprisers who also ...er with congratulations ...er many more birthdays. ...rious kinds were enjoyed ...vening and refreshments

...e For Classification

... man's watch on Glen... Owner may have same by ...erty and paying charges. ...Euclid avenue. 7-1t

...—22 ft. motor boat, 5 h. p. ...ngineer. One year old. ...nable. A. D. Thompson. ...eet. 7-6t

DEATHS

...n Quincy, March 6, Mary, ...,) widow of the late John

...om her late residence, ...8 Revere road, Sunday, ...t 2.15 P. M. Services at ...church at 3 o'clock. Rel... friends invited to attend. ... of requiem for the repose ... at St. John's church Mon... . M.

...n Wollaston, March 5, ...Thomas of 399 Hancock ...is 34th year. ...rvices on Sunday March ...hrysostom's church, at 2 ...atives and friends invi...

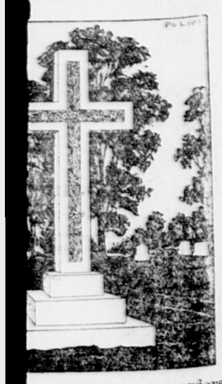
...In Hillsdale, N. J., March ... Mrs. Orrin S. Hammack ...nnie.) ...ill be held at 2.30 Sunday ...t the residence of Albert ...Parker, Presidents hill, ...riends welcome.

... Milton, March 5, Mrs. ...y, widow of James Kelley ...street.

... South Weymouth, March ...Lena Gertrude Bayley, ...f Frederick B. Bayley, in ...ar.

...n Weymouth, March 5, ...ting of Broad street.

...1870 Telephone
...N HALL
...AL DIRECTOR
...nd Ambulance Service
... Street. Quincy, Mass.



...d not place your orders

...ORIAL WORK
...thout Consulting
...D L. WALKER
...UARY ARCHITECT
...ASHINGTON STREET
...LLS, BOSTON, MASS.
...l, Quincy 282-W
March 4-3mos-w-s

AUTOMOBILE SECTION

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Vol. 29 No. 56 QUINCY, MASS SATURDAY EVENING MARCH 7 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

Pleasure Car Section
March 7 to 14

Commercial Car Section
March 17 to 21

MECHANICS' BUILDING, BOSTON, the SCENE of GREAT AUTO EXHIBITION

THE 1914 SHOW

TO BE THE MOST ELABORATE AUTOMOBILE EXHIBITION EVER HELD IN NEW ENGLAND

Another Boston automobile show, more gorgeous in its setting, with a larger and more varied display of motor cars and accessories, will open this evening in Mechanics building, and will be on every day next week. The lavish hand of the artist has turned this great exhibition hall, covering six acres of space, into one great harmonious riot of color that makes a beautiful background for the bright glistening models. Thousands upon thousands of electric lights will make "The Greatest Auto Shows on Earth" resplendent with illumination. Every representative manufacturer in America and Europe will display his cars at this show.

The decorations are by far more gorgeous than anything ever attempted in a public building in Boston before. A fortune has been expended in beautifying these great exhibition halls. The general motif for the magnificent decorations for this year is Italian in character, nearly all the details being from drawings made by the architect, Ernest W. Campbell, while on a special tour through Italy and various countries of Europe last year. In general the first of the large halls presents a scene that is Roman in style. The entrance lobby faced on either side by marbleized panels is completely transformed, having elliptical arches springing from fluted pilasters spanning the corridor. White statues stand out in bold relief against a dense background of foliage.

As one enters the building to exhibition hall they pass through the Roman arch. All the massive beam work is completely concealed by handsomely painted entablatures in the Roman style of architecture in the form of a moulded cornice, while the brackets are covered with masking pieces showing a massive carved decoration, of the same period. Electric lights to the number of thousands are used to enhance the beauty of the arches. Massive columns in verte antique bronze, surmounted by large illuminated glass globes serve as sign posts, bearing the name of the exhibitor and defining each space.

The side walls are treated with the marble cornice effect, the scenic paintings between, and Italian traceries over the windows. At the end of the main aisle the stairway leading to the balcony is so designed that a brilliant effect of electrical display and marble statuary is presented. Beautiful foliage and floral decorations form a striking feature at this point. The Roman canopy or awning effect is carefully wrought out in the overhead lightwell treatment.

In striking contrast to the stately purity of design in the exhibition hall, one can revel in gorgeousness of the Venetian coloring in the grand hall. The great proscenium arch curtain with its tormentors or side curtains is strikingly beautiful with its rendering in carved and mosaic effects. This great piece of art work is 140 feet long and 45 feet high.

The stage cyclorama of Venice 90 feet long and 30 feet high presents a striking view in prospective as seen through the gorgeous banners of the city of Doges. The various parts of Grand Hall from every point of view, form studies worthy of the most critically artistic minds. The entire ceiling is covered with a massive canopy effect pierced to represent open carved work, from which are pendant eight electroliers each composed of 12 Venetian wrought iron lanterns illuminated. Garlands of bright flowers are festooned far below each of the lamps, while a multitude of brilliant streams of light stretch from canopy to canopy and then off to meet the arches surrounding the entire hall from ceiling to the bottom of the second balcony.

The arches are studies adapted from the Ducal palace and their execution at the hands of the artiste are little short of marvelous. The face of the balcony represents accurately the carved decorations seen along the various canals of Venice. Projecting balustrades filled with flowers rich in magnificent carvings are seen at regular intervals and between these in light hues are many crests of the Ducal rulers.

Opposite the stage is seen the great "piece de resistance" of the show "The Grand Canal of Venice" 159 feet long and 40 feet high, painted by the master of scenic art in this country. The view of this from the stage through a vista of color with the gilded carvings and wonderful decoration effects of the orchestra court is one never to be forgotten.

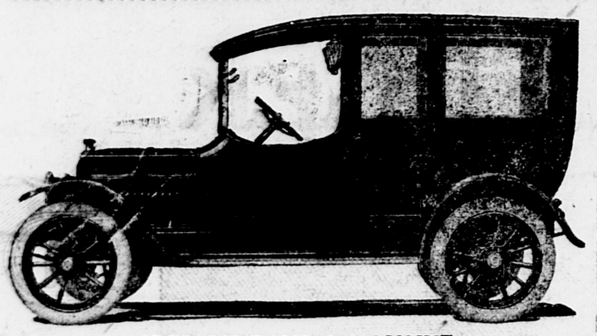
Such is the setting for the several hundred automobiles that will be on exhibition, and it is one great harmonious whole. Manager Chester I. Campbell has had an army of men working out the details of this great show, and when the building opens at 8 o'clock tonight everything will be ready for the accommodation of the thousands and thousands that flock annually to this opening.

The big day, of course, will be next Wednesday which has been designated as "Society Day." Boston's bluest blood and the smart set always turn out to the Boston Automobile show on the day designated to them. Governor Walsh and his staff and Mayor Curley and the members of the city council also attend the automobile show on this day.

In all there are 280 exhibitors. Of this number 90 will display different types of motor cars. All of the representative American makers will be exhibitors. There will be almost two dozen makes that will be shown to the retail trade of New England for the first time. This will include the cycle car which is of course brand new.

There will be a lot for even the motor wise to observe at this big exposition. The Accessory department will have a hundred new "wrinkles" that will have an absorbing interest. Everything new and up to the minute in motor car construction will be on exhibition.

The pleasure car section will close next Saturday night and the following Tuesday evening the commercial motor vehicle show will open in the same building and be on until the following Saturday night.



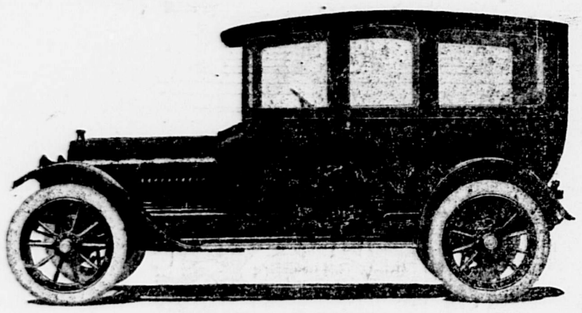
JEFFERY FOUR LIMOUSINE

THE WOLLASTON CENTRE GARAGE

IS AGENT FOR

Several of the Best Cars

Exhibited at the Boston Show



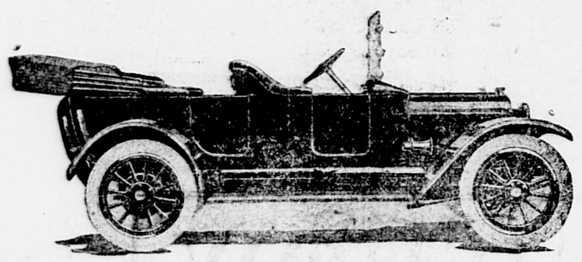
JEFFERY SIX SEDAN

JEFFERY FOUR JEFFERY SIX

1914 CROSS CONNTRY

NEW KRIT REGAL

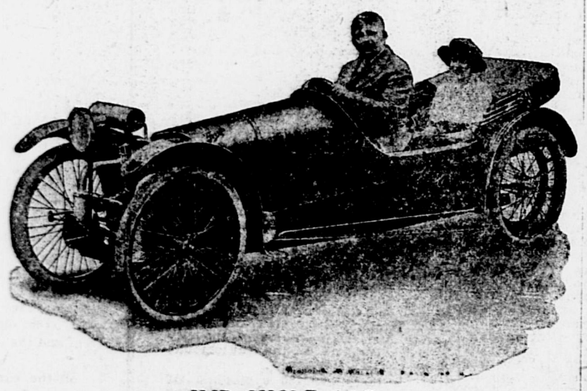
METZ WHITE CARS



REGAL

The Sensation of the Day is the

IMP CYCLE CAR



IMP CYCLE CAR

Also Lowest Prices on Used Cars

WOLLASTON CENTRE GARAGE

NEAR WOLLASTON DEPOT

CARS MUST BE BUILT RIGHT FOR THE SERVICE

Better construction, less complaint, declares Wetherbee. Selling motor cars to day is entirely different from 10 years ago, says George Wetherbee of the Hollander Motor company, New England distributors of the Cartercar. According to Mr. Wetherbee the arguments and features which were most important then are fading into insignificance today.

"People no longer buy automobiles merely for the pleasure of owning them," says Mr. Wetherbee. "They use their heads and the salesmen who make the sales today are those who can show the goods. Just a few years ago the buyer would pick out the car that looked the best to him and perhaps if he were unusually deliberative he would see if the seats were comfortable. It was such a luxury to have any kind of a motor car at all that he did not think it right to expect very much in the way of service. Then if his car fell down, he would think that it was only a mechanical affair anyway, and he ought not to expect more."

"Very frequently we make sales by simply showing our chassis. Only last winter at Philadelphia we sold a sedan to William Jennings Bryan after he had simply looked at the chassis, and he had never seen this model in operation. He said that the principle was right, and that was what he was after. And if more buyers were particular in getting cars with the right construction there would be fewer complaints about the service. A car to give satisfactory service must be built right, and the wise buyer will make certain of this before he invests his money.

"It is this great change in motor car buyers that is largely responsible for the unusual popularity of the Cartercar with its gearless transmission," continued Mr. Wetherbee.

An interesting and attractive book recently issued by Nordyke & Marmon Company is called "The Marmon Forty-Eight in Service." This book is a decided innovation in the field of automobile literature, and is causing much favorable comment wherever it goes. Its obvious purpose is to acquaint owners and prospective owners of motor cars with the very wide distribution enjoyed by the Marmon Forty-Eight.

This purpose is admirably carried out by means of photographs which carry more conviction than pages of reading matter could do, and with less fatigue to the reader. Truly, "he who runs may read" this book.

A single page of reading matter by way of introduction, is followed by 44 pages of photographic reproductions, showing the Marmon Forty-Eight in use in widely separated parts of the United States and Canada.

A feature that adds tremendously to the pleasing effect is the color scheme. A sepia brown ink on dull finish buff paper, lends an air of distinctiveness and "tone" to the book, that could hardly have been secured with any other combination of color for this particular subject.

The illustrations are remarkably well chosen, and show beyond a doubt that the Marmon Forty-Eight is in use in places that vary widely in climatic conditions. The name and address of the owner of the car accompanies each photograph, and in many instances the accompanying scenery is so characteristic as to indicate at a glance the approximate location.

The book indicates that the Marmon Forty-Eight has secured a widespread adoption among discriminating owners. Every name is an indication that those who want a car, not merely for its appearance, nor for its easy running qualities alone, nor for its dependability alone, but for all these, choose the Marmon Forty-Eight.

"In my opinion, one of the chief values of the automobile show lies in its bringing the manufacturer of motor cars into direct touch with the public," says Walter C. Marmon, president of the Nordyke & Marmon Company.

"It enables the actual producer to meet face to face the man for whom his product is intended, and that is what every manufacturer is seeking. We have all confidence in our cars, naturally based on solid facts, and through the medium of the automobile show we can put the essentials before the buyer in just the way we want. Then if we profit or not depends entirely on oudselves.

"Often in securing cars through the dealer, the public loses sight of the fact that he is really dealing with the maker of the car, and the relation between the two is likely to be forgotten. But back of every car sold is a personal interest on the part of the manufacturer. I have often wished that every man who looks at a Marmon car could be brought to our factory and could follow the car through its development from raw material to finished product. He would see all the facts just as they are, and the result of his choice whether it fell on the Marmon or not, would be based on a bed rock of knowledge of car building. The same is true of any maker of cars, I believe.

"By going through a factory such as the Marmon, the man looking for a car, realizes that all the talk about selling him a car for years of service is not mere pretty phrasing on the part of the salesman, but in based on vital truth. He sees that every operation, from the making of the blue print design to the final testing of the car is based on the keynote of service. It explains to him the reason why large factories, like the Marmon, do not turn out more cars than they do, because he sees that every piece of material and every completed part is subjected to scores of tests in an effort to search out any possible weakness. The workmanship is thorough.

"So many people do not think of the factory organization back of the car on the salesroom floor. They see only that the manufacturer has something to sell, without realizing that he is staking his reputation and fortune on the very thing before their eyes. In a foctory such as that of Nordyke & Marmon Company, where for over 60 years all efforts have been directed toward producing machinery that would give service that will reflect credit on the name of the maker, the problem is a serious one indeed, for all depends on getting the plain facts directly into the hands of the public.

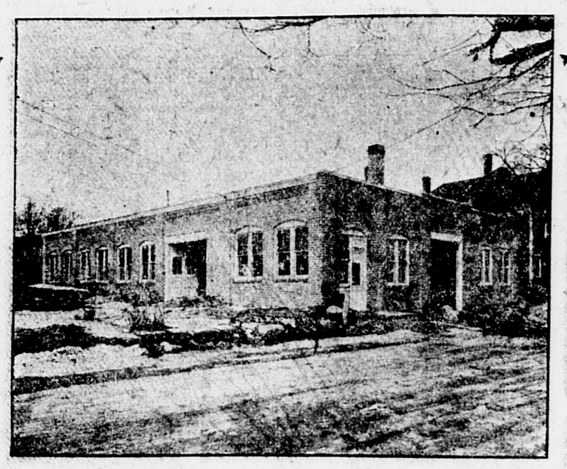
"The solution of the problem has been worked out through the medium of automobile shows, for the manufacturer can come there in the spirit of the man who builds the car to talk to the man who wants to buy, and the effectiveness is not lost by the appeal being made through the man between. That the result is most satisfactory is shown by the great increase in the size and effectiveness of the automobile shows. They have a vital relation to the industry and they have come to stay."

PENNIMAN'S

NEW GARAGE

IS CONVENIENTLY LOCATED

AND STEAM HEATED



RENTING AND STORAGE

OILS AND SUPPLIES

NIGHT AND DAY TAXI SERVICE

37 Years in Carriage Service

TELEPHONE QUINCY 207

PENNIMAN'S NEW GARAGE

WASHINGTON ST., CORNER WIBIRD ST.

IS NEWSY EVERY DAY

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

IS NEWSY EVERY DAY

AUTOMOBILE TIRES

OILS, GREASES AND OTHER SUPPLIES

A BUSY CORNER IN OUR TIRE DEPARTMENT

We carry in stock the

FISK, FIRESTONE, LEE, LEE PUNCTURE PROOF, GOODRICH, GOODYEAR AND AJAX AUTOMOBILE TIRES

Should any tires of these makes bought of us prove defective they can be adjusted here.

Our prices are not only the lowest on these tires but our service is the best. No other dealer in this city is in a position to give the service that we do.

We carry in stock

Mobiloil, Havoline, Eagleine, Polarine, Packard and Monogram Oils

Prices on these Oils by the barrel, delivered, from 28c to 45c per gallon.

REMEMBER—Our Slogan for 1914 is the sale of 2000 Automobile Tires and 5000 Gallons of Oil.

F. W. BENT

Tel 619-R 1058 HANCOCK STREET

THE QUINCY GARAGE

87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand

Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435

Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.

Dec. 12-lo-tf

TO OUR READERS:

Your attention is called to this Letter. If you are intereated call at the exhibit mentioned or write them.

HOLLANDER MOTOR CO.

1112 Boylston Street

Distributors for Cartercar

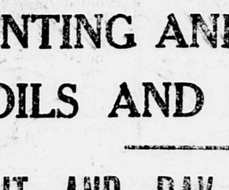
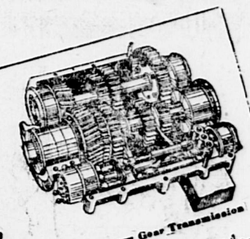
The Gearless Transmission



Cartercar Gearless Transmission



Ordinary Gear Transmission

BOSTON, MASS. March 5th, 1914.

To the Editor:

Feeling certain that you are acquainted with a number of persons in your city who contemplate purchasing cars this year, we are taking the liberty of addressing you this letter. We believe after you know something about the Cartercar you will feel perfectly justified in placing us in touch with every possible buyer in your city.

The Gearless Transmission is the secret of the Cartercar's success. It insures jerkless starting, because when the friction wheel is thrown suddenly into engagement with the motor, it slips for a few revolutions before gripping tightly. It is, however, positive in engagement because the coefficient of friction between the disc and the friction wheel is exceptionally high. Its strength is such that the Cartercar can negotiate hills, mud and sand that no other gasolene car would attempt. The friction ring is good for about 8000 miles and is very easily replaced at a cost of $5.00. It is economical on power and gasolene. There are but few moving parts to create friction, and a greater percentage of the motor's power reaches the rear axle than in a bevel-gear, shaft-driven car.

It saves wear on tires and car. It is the jerking of the gear-driven car that destroys tires, strains the motor, which loosens nuts and bolts, and causes no little discomfort to the passengers. As explained above, this jerk does not occur in the Cartercar. It is superlative in easy of operation. The absence of heavy gears to shift, or clutch to release, make the Cartercar ideal for the ladies to drive. Electrical starting and lighting equipment, a reliable motor, and one-lever control make the Cartercar the easiest driven gasolene car. The Touring Cars sell for $1250 and $1700, the Roadsters for $1250 and $1600. We shall exhibit the different models of the Cartercar at the Boston Automobile Show, spaces 326 and 327.

We trust that by this means we shall become acquainted with residents of your city who are contemplating buying cars this year.

Youre very truly,
Hollander Motor Co.
G. M. Wetherbee Mgr.

P. S. We would like to secure a good agent in your city, and can offer a splendid opportunity to a live man.

TIRES
ER SUPPLIES

PARTMENT
E PROOF, GOODRICH,
OBILE TIRES
rove defective they can be lowest on these tires er in this city is in a d and Monogram Oils 28c to 45c per gallon.
e sale of 2000 Automobile
NT
058 HANCOCK STREET
ARAGE
QUINCY
CASE CARS
ys on hand
ock
Ford Car, $550 for
$750 for Town Car
all Quincy 435
C. P. COULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

AUTO SHOW HEAD TELLS OF GROWTH

Manager Says It Will Be Poor Man in 10 Years Without a Car.

By CHESTER I. CAMPBELL,
(Manager Boston Automobile Show)

Colossal is the only word that describes the automobile industry. No other industry in the world has ever attained a position where, year after year for 14 years, its sales were limited only by the supply, and at this time there is no indication that there will be any material change.

To me, the Boston Automobile show always brings a flood of happy reflections, for I have been intimately connected with the growth of the automobile industry, yet year after year when the show is a matter of history, I am forced to conclude that after all, the sales surface has only been scratched.

In 1912, when 287,000 automobiles were made and sold in the United States, I had the belief that the zenith amazement I find that in 1913 there there was 53,000 cars registered in the were 375,000 cars sold by American manufacturers and dealers. This shows over a 30 per cent increase, despite the financial depression that existed at this time. Thus is continued the unparalleled record of unbroken gains each year since 1902, when the automobile industry may be said to have taken a position in American life.

During the year of the first automobile show in Boston, only a few hundred cars were sold, while the record of the past year shows that lighted to explain any particular or state of Massachusetts.

In 1908, which was the first real big production year, there were 55,000 cars made, followed by 82,000 in 1909, 185,000 in 1910, 210,000 in 1911, 270,000 in 1912, and during the last year 375,000 cars, at an average selling price of $850, or at a total of $318,000,000.

It would be hard to predict what is going to happen in the motor car industry in the future, but it seems almost certain that it will grow and grow and grow, and it will indeed be a poor man 10 years hence that will not have a motor-powered vehicle. In fact, many persons who cannot afford to own them have automobiles today, but the same may be said of everything in this American life of ours, yet how many persons do we find who are willing to give them up? There was a time when the motor cars were considered toys and luxuries for the rich, but that time has long since passed, because the general public and business interests have found that it saves time and shortens the distance.

One would be conservative in saying that there is over 1,000,000 cars in use in the United States. More than that number have been built in this country in the past five years The exact figures are difficult to obtain. Reports from the various state secretaries show approximately 1,250,000 cars registered in 1913. No doubt there are many duplicates in this. New York state has the greatest number of cars, with 153,500 in actual use. California shows up wonderfully well with 76,000 cars in actual use. Although the registration gives California 122,000, the authorities in that state say that one-third of this number are duplicate registrations. Illinois has 99,112, Ohio 87,365, Pennsylvania 80,032, Iowa 63,104, Michigan 54,321, Massachusetts 5[illegible] and New Jersey 49,922.

The motor truck industry has shown a wonderful growth. The merchant has been rather slow in some respects to accept it because of it being such a radical change from the horse-drawn vehicle.

It has been demonstrated beyond a doubt that the motor truck cuts down the cost of transportation and is a great time saver. There are now trucks being made for every use.

The growth of these is noticeable on the city streets. It is rarely that one travels 100 yards but a motor truck whizzes by. During the past year increase has been remarkable. In proportion, the motor [illegible] shows a much bigger gain than the pleasure vehicle.

I especially recommend that every thinking business man should attend the Boston truck show, which opens in Mechanics building on March 17 and closes on March 21. No matter what line of business it is that requires transportation, there will be a truck at the Boston show to meet its requirements. It will be a most comprehensive display and the attendants will be men who will be delighted to explain any particular or detail.

WINTON RECALLS NEW YORK RIDE

One cannot delve very deeply into the pioneer days of long distance touring without running across the Winton and Alexander Winton himself.

When the durability and speed of automobiles were an unknown quantity and the public, prior to buying, demanded to be shown, the Winton company led the way. July 28, 1897, Mr. Winton left Cleveland in a Winton phaeton with New York as his destination. His arrival in the metropolis Aug. 7, marked the successful finish of the first long distance automobile trip in America.

The first automobile to make the trip from coast to coast was a two-cylinder Winton, driven by Dr. H. Nelson Jackson, of Burlington, Vt. Dr. Jackson left San Francisco May 23, 1903, and arrived in New York July 26.

The first automobile to be driven across the United States from south to north was a two-cylyinder Winton. C. L. Roy of Seattle drove this car from Tijuana, Mexico, to Seattle, May 8 to June 7, 1904.

While disclaiming any predilection toward talking of old times, Mr. Winton "reminisces" most interestingly of that first ride of his to New York. He says:

"That first trip to New York recalls itself because present conditions are so different. It was in 1897. I left Cleveland July 28, in a vehicle having a two-cylinder vertical motor, and followed the Buffalo-Albany route. The roads were fearfully wet and I made the mistake of trying the west side of the Hudson from Albany, but at Coxackie I ferried across to the east side and had better roads and easier traveling. I arrived in New York on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 7, having consumed 78 hours and 43 minutes running time. As I came down Broadway I regretted the daylight, for I was literally clad in dust and sadly in need of a bath.

"There was not at that time, so far as I know, another gasoline automobile in New York, and, chug-chugging my lonesome way through the Broadway throng, scaring horses and surprising pedestrians, I felt like a man without a friend, the recipient of no sympathy from his fellow-men. To have been the first human being to drive a motor car from Cleveland to New York, should have given me a feeling of elation, but the friendlessness of New York sank into my spirit and left no place for elation. To be sure, the crowds were curious to examine my strange-looking machine, but any dime museum exhibit would have attracted equal attention, and I was in no mood for a public exhibition.

"Indeed, so strenuously did this feeling possess me that I drove straight to the freight yards, and arranged for the transporation of the vehicle to Cleveland."

THE MANAGER OF THE BOSTON AUTO SHOW LIVE WIRE

Chester I. Campbell.
Manager of the Boston Auto Show.

HUPMOBILE MAKES A GREAT SHOWING

Fresh from its laurels at the Paris Salon and the London Olympia, the Hupmobile makes a brave showing with four models, a specially assigned chassis and display boards on which are arranged various important parts in the construction of the car.

The models include a standard touring car, a larger six-passenger model; and roadster with a convenient turtle back compartment for luggage, and a unique three passenger coupe with an unusual dome like arrangement for ventilation.

Those mechanically inclined may dissect the various parts of the mechanism in the Hupmobile through the display board parts, which show piece by piece the mechanical essentials. One of these boards is devoted entirely to the mechanism of the starting and lighting system.

Outside of the starting and lighting plant, and a new fashioned rain vision wind shield and lamps and additions to the upholstery the Hupmobile practically retains its characteristic appearance.

The special chassis, however, shows a number of minor mechanical refinements that add to the smoothness of operation and also demonstrates the unusually simple system of wiring for self-starting and ignition purposes.

"It seems to be a trait of human nature for people to be unusually interested in the lost and found advertisements. However, one would hardly expect to find a nucleus in motor car publicity," said Frank J. Mooney, advertising manager of the Hupp Motor Car company.

"Recently I received a most pathetic letter, enclosing a clipping from a Hupmobile advertisement which had a sketch of various types of people throughout the world. A young man, whose name I will not mention, wrote me and said that one of the pictures was a speaking likeness of his father who had been missing for eight years, and during all that time the young man had been making desperate efforts to locate his father, and he asked us if we could give him some information as to th eoriginal sketch.

"I got in touch with the artist and found that he had made the sketch from memory. However, after cudgeling his brain he seemed to remember the face that had given him the idea and after a good deal of circuitous investigation the man was located and we put the two in touch with each other, and they actually turned out to be father and son, and let us hope that they lived happily ever after, as all good stories end."

MUST BUILT CARS RIGHT FOR SERVICE

It is fair to presume that one of the most important announcements made at the big Chicago automobile show was that the Cartercar company of Pontiac, Mich., closed for a 105-car shipment to Omaha, Neb.

This is unquestionably one of the largest trainload shipments ever made into the west and is the greatest single order ever received by the Cartercar company. Mr. Harry R. Radford, vice-president and general manager of the Pontiac concern, was responcible for the closing of the big order, and it marks one of the biggest achievements of his highly successful selling career.

"Safety First," Aim of Goodrich Company

"Safety first," has been a principle of the B. F. Goodrich company, I might say since the day Dr. B. F. Goodrich opened his original little factory in Akron.

That was 44 years ago.

Dr. Goodrich not only had certain well-founded ideas about rubber manufacturing, but he had certain very helpful ideas about the method of manufacturing. He may not have had the phrase "Safety First" in his mind—most probably he would not have expressed his thought in just these words, but the underlying principle of the "Safety First" movement of today was there.

It was his policy to protect his employes and to teach them to protect themselves. That policy still governs The B. F. Goodrich company, and it is unnecessary to predict that it always will. The Goodrich company believes that a workman who takes care of himself will take care of the product.

"Safety First" as an operating principle is one great step in securing efficiency. It is, after all, a manifestation of co-operation—and of the kind of co-operation which is expressed from the farthest corner of the factory to the desk of the chief officer.

In our big plant—the largest rubber manufacturing plant in the world—we use a great number of placards to help on the 'Safety First" idea. They are fair-sized placards, each one bearing in large red letters the caption, "Safety First," followed by some terse words of advice, encouragement and inspiration. Some of them simply say: "Keep smiling;" others may read: "If you love your work it will reciprocate," or 'Do it now—but do it right," and so on.

We impress upon each member of our organization the fact that "Safety First" does not end with himself or his working associates, but that it must be extended to our customers through our products. This means that we build "Safety First" into our tires and other goods. This is an era of safety tread tires, to make a concrete illustration. From a one-time novelty the safety tread feature is fast becoming an every-day necessity.

We studied this matter very seriously. We decided that if we were to establish a safety tread standard it must be peculiarly Goodrich, and that it must be a development of the Goodrich method of construction, which has always been "Safety First." Consequently the now famous Goodrich safety tread was evolved. It was designed on logical lines. Instead of giving the tread a lot of irregular projections, simply to provide a rough surface, we worked out the groups of five bars and a crosstie which are now known as the "Safety First symbol." The principle upon which each group of thick, tough rubber fingers works is almost human. They dig down and grip the roadway, but more than that, they give an even, jarless ride. The groups of fingers work intelligently, because they are designed on scientific principles. There can be no undue strain on the structure of the tire being disributed normally and evenly at all times, even though the fingers are stopping a skid or preventing a slide, or backing up the brake in an emergency. All this could not happen right along if back of the tread were not a conscientiously built tire; and right there comes in Dr. Goodrich's original principle of making the tire safe and sure from the beginning.

Our "Safety First" advertising campaign, which is of course centered upon the Goodrich safety tread tire, has undoubtedly been a great factor in spreading the general "Safety First" propaganda. We have often been told of how our headline "Safety First" impressed the importance of watchfulness and care upon not only working men but the owners and directors of big institutions.

The thought I want to bring out is that "Safety First" is only a crusade for human thoughtfulness for the safety of the individual and his fellows but that it really has a basic principle which every manufacturer can adopt—that of putting "Safety First" to the consumer, not only in service but in enduring value.

Lozier Head Tells of Six-Four Controversy

Now that the discussion as to the merits of the four and six cylinder cars, begun at the New York show, has been renewed with fresh vigor at Chicago, Paul Smith, sales manager of the Lozier company, thinks that an impartial view of the situation is in order. As Mr. Smith represents a company manufacturing cars of both types, he at least cannot be accused of a biased opinion.

"Just to clear up the situation to our own satisfaction," said Mr. Smith yesterday, "a representative of a company building four-cylinder cars and myself made a canvass of the cars on exhibition in New York during show week. We realized, of course, that a great increase in the number of six-cylinder cars had taken place in the past year, but we also wanted to determine whether this increase justified the many stories that this was overwhelmingly a six-cylinder show.

"Briefly, we discovered that of the 75 makers exhibiting gasoline cars at the Grand Central Palace, 58 makers showed four-cylinder cars and 46 makers showed sixes. Our tabulation showed 104 six-cylinder models on view and 132 four-cylinder cars. Seventeen makers showed six exclusively and twenty-nine showed four exclusively. At the importer's show held at the Hotel Astor, eleven of the 12 exhibitors showed four-cylinder cars exclusively while the other exhibitor showed both sixes and fours.

"Naturally, the superior showing of fours led us to the conclusion that the six press agents in their enthusiasm had drawn the long bow. The New York exhibit is practically duplicated at Chicago and the facts are so easy to obtain, that the doubtful purchaser really needs to take no man's word on the situation.

"Probably the fact that impressed us most after looking over the many six and four-cylinder cars, was the absence of low priced sixes in the exhibits of the pioneer six manufacturers. It seems to be the concensus of opinion among the makers who have built sixes for five years or more, that the six selling at a figure under $3000 is not a good investment in a business way. On the other hand, the fact that a definite field exists for sixes is shown in the great sale of six-cylinder cars in the field above this price.

"Our own experience both at New York and Chicago indicates that the four is more than holding its own in the popular priced field. We have had scores of interested people at our exhibit tell us that 'utility and luxury have to be coupled in my selection of a car and I find these two qualities to a greater degree in the medium priced four than in the six' of around the same figure.'

When it is considered that one maker of fours in the $2000 field is reported to be selling daily about twice as many automobiles as two other makers of six-cylinder cars in the same field combined, it would seem that there are at least some arguments on the side of the four.

"The biggest single selling argument of the coming year, whether the manufacturer is building sixes or fours, will center about the question of weight. Increase in the price of gasoline and the excessive cost of tires has sounded the doom of the super-heavy car. The ideal 1914 car must be strong enough and possessed of sufficient power to answer all purposes, but the danger mark in weight must be given the closest attention if the cars are to be sold."

Owners of High Cost Cars Need Low-Priced

Harry Fosdick, general manager of the Henry Brunn Carriage Co., Buffalo, the New York distr butor for the Hupmobile, has a theory that breaks down the false barrier of "class" in selling motor cars. Mr. Fosdick conducts his business on the basis that a man who has bought a high priced car not only might buy a low priced car, but actually needs one.

"The man who owns a big costly car," said Mr. Fosdick, "must pay more to operate it than the man who owns a small car. Although the car may harmonize with his social position, it costs a good deal more money to run it, and even if the man can afford it, there is no reason why he should not effect an economy if possible."

"Perhaps much of the service of the car is rendered to the man's wife in trips around town and in shopping. But it does not require much argument to convince a man that it costs less to run a small car than it is a very desirable vehicle to use in short trips around town. Of course, when the owner and his wife wants to take what you might call a "regular ride," they probably can see nothing but the "classy" car, but for errands about town and short trips, a little car fills the needs. Of course, we know that the little car will do the big car's work on all occasions, but we would not recommend that to the owner for it might result in no sale at all.

"In proof that this sale theory is correct, we have made quite a number of sales to men who are willing to supplement their large cars with smaller ones."

Distinctive among the exhibits at the NewYork show just closed was the Hupmobile showing. Fresh from its laurels at the Paris salon and the London Olympia, the Hupp Motor Car Co. made a brave display of Hupmobiles with its four pleasure models.

The models included a standard touring car, a larger six-passenger model; a roadster with convenient turtle back compartment for luggage, and a unique three-passenger coupe, with an unusual dome-like arrangement for ventilation.

The new 1914 models show many improvements and refinements over the types of last year. There is the electric starting and lighting system, new fashioned rain vision windshield, a specially designed tire carrier, which carries the tire the same way as it rests on the wheel and does away with the bother of strapping down which necessarily eliminates the wear and tear thus caused, over size tires and better upholstering.

Those mechanically inclined were able to note throughout the entire chassis and various parts of the mecranism many minor improvements which will tend to make for better mechanism many minor improvements parts. The addition of the self-starter does not change to any great extent the appearance of the motor and adds but very little in weight.

The cars are all fully equipped and with the new color scheme of black with scarlet lake running gear, the different types makes a very distinguished appearance, which is uncommon in the low price field.

WING TELLS OF THE FEATURES OF MARMON

Frank E. Wing, distributor of Marmon cars, in commenting on the growth and development of the motor car in this country observes that because a manufacturer did several things "first," it does not necessarily prove that now he is up-to-the-minute or ahead of it, but it is an indication.

The following are a few of the features which Mr. Wing says the Marmon had in 1901:

First double side entrance touring car ever built in the United States.

First side entrance car in the world.

First pressed steel frame in this country.

First three-point suspension.

First straight line drive.

First selective three speed forward sliding gear transmission.

First positive force-feed oiling system in this country.

First to use cast aluminum for bodies.

First throttle and spark control not moving with the steering column.

First to use external and internal contracting double brakes.

The Marmon six cylinder motors built in 1901 is also claimed to be one of the first six cylinder motors built in this country. It is worthy of notice that many of these features are today common practice in automobile manufacture.

BIG DISPLAY OF STUDEBAKER CARS

All New Models Equipped With Separate Unit Electric System.

An exclusively Studebaker exhibit at the Boston show is that of the Donovan Motor Car company, Studebaker distributors. The array of body types includes all the varieties of the Studebaker "Four" and "Six" chassis.

All the new Studebaker models are equipped with a built-in, separate-unit electric system which automatically generates and furnishes current for cranking, lighting and ignition. All are quipped with full floating axles, centralized dash equipment, left steer, center control, gasoline tank in dash, demountable rims, jiffy curtains and Gray & Davis lamps.

The "Four" touring cars seats five, has a wheel-base of 108 inches and is equipped with 32x3 1-2 Goodrich tires. It is priced at $1050.

The "Six" Touring car is of seven-passenger capacity, has a wheel base of 121 inches, 34x4 Goodrich tires and sells for $1575.

Both the "Four" and "Six" chassis are furnished with an attractive type of convertible body, known as the Landau-Roadster and priced at $1200 and $1800 respectively. Disappearing windows, a special windshield, and ingenious curtains and top make it possible to enclose the interior as tightly as a coupe, without in the least interfering with the use of the car as an open roadster, when desired. All the convertible equipment is self-contained.

The "SIX" chassis is also furnished with a five-passenger Sedan body, the interior and general arrangement of which is especially attractive. By manufacturing these Sedans in large quantities, it is possible for Studebaker to market them at $2250.

Besides the exhibit of passenger cars, Studebaker is also represented in the commercial field by the new Studebaker delivery car which is furnished either with panel or express body, at $1150. It has a load capacity of 1500 pounds, is equipped with electric starting and lighting apparatus, has a full floating rear axle and is fitted with 34x4 1-2 inch tires.

FUNDAMENTALS OF IDEAL NON-SKID

The Problem of Tire Designer Is Problem of All Transportation.

"The purpose of a tire is to provide traction, to prevent noise, to cushion the car and occupants from road inequalities, and to prevent crystallization of the delicate parts of the mechanism, by eliminating jar and vibration," says H. B. Limric, local manager The B. F. Goodrich company.

"There has arisen a new need for tires, due perhaps to the tendency to drive cars the year round. With the coming of fall and winter weather with their dangerous street conditions, the danger from skidding is increased. So the problem of safe traction has become uppermost in the minds of motorists, and has brought out much constructive thought along lines of tire designing.

Innumerable non-skids have been placed on the market, some good and some bad. Some had irregular projections which caused the entire weight of the car to center upon certain points of the fabric. As a result, the fabric weakened prematurely at these points. Some had sharp projections which quickly tore, and showed wear after being worn a short while. Then these sharp cut crevices filled with dirt. These were styled 'mud slingers' because the centrifugal action of the tire caused it to throw dirt. You probably have experienced such a tire yourself.

"Then, others increased the vibration of the tire by placing the projections too far apart. To overcome this the projections were brought close together so close in fact that the desired traction became no more certain than with a smooth tread.

"Consequently, no single factor in the tire industry has been given so much thought as the idea of safe traction. We ourselves have tried out innumerable devices, and found them wanting. For years we searched for a tire that would render motoring safe and still give long mileage.

Our designers worked on a tread, that would be free from vibration, that would not strain the fabric, that would ride smooth like a plain tire and not utilize more power, that would resist abrasion and still give positive traction.

"So they invented a tire consisting of five long bars extending circumferentially on the tread connected by a crosstie. As skidding is a resultant between the forward movement of the car and motion sidewise, it was found that these five long bars resisted side sway more effectively, by holding the tire straight on its course. Yet to gain such certain traction it was not necessary to sacrifice any other desirable qualities.

The long bars ride like one continuous tread, so it is as economical as a smooth tread. The cross tie gives traction forward. The edges are rounded and do not tear off and show wear. And the tire is not a 'mud slinger.'

"The problem of the tire designer is the problem of all transportation. What the steel rails are to the railroad the tire must be to the motor car. It must provide smooth traction —economical traction—but above all, certain, safe traction. That is why we have called it the 'Safety Tread,' because safety from the very first has been our ideal.

SAFETY FIRST
Goodrich
Safety Tread
Tires
Five Bars and a Cross Tie—The Safety First Symbol
The Tread that makes the Brake Effective

Next time you buy a non-skid tire look at the tire itself and be sure it's a Goodrich Safety Tread.

You can tell it by the "Safety First" design shown above—five bars and a crosstie.

You can see the imprint of Safety Treads everywhere, showing how the thick, tough bars and crosstie make a Safety First roadway for the car.

The thick, tough Goodrich fingers dig down and grip—they help stop the skid—they make the brake effective.

Goodrich
Safety Tread Tires

not only set the standard of tire value, but maintain it as well

Goodrich worth is not a claim, it is a condition, protected, re-inforced, sound and sure. The face value of Goodrich Tires is guaranteed by the service and quality put in them by the makers, and by the security owners have that they are buying the best tires made.

The quality of Goodrich Tires today is the standard by which all high grade tires are judged. This is because they represent the perfection of tire-making and tire-knowledge--which gives Goodrich Tires their leadership.

Here are the prices for the best tires ever produced in the Goodrich factory:

Size	Smooth Tread Prices	Safety Tread Prices	Grey Inner Tube Prices
30 x 3	$11.70	$12.65	$2.80
30 x 3½	15.75	17.00	3.50
32 x 3½	16.75	18.10	3.70
33 x 4	23.55	25.25	4.75
34 x 4	24.35	26.05	4.90
34 x 4½	33.00	35.00	6.15
35 x 4½	34.00	36.05	6.30
36 x 4½	35.00	37.10	6.45
37 x 5	41.95	44.45	7.70
38 x 5½	54.00	57.30	8.33

BOSTON BRANCH
851-857 Boylston Street

The B. F. Goodrich Company
Factories: Akron, Ohio
Branches in All Principal Cities
There is nothing in Goodrich Advertising that isn't in Goodrich Goods

"SALON-SEDAN" PEERLESS FEATURE

The "Salon-Sedan," a car with an interior resembling a cosy and luxuriously furnished drawing room will be the feature of the Peerless exhibit at the Boston automobile show. The car is a fit successor of the famous "Colonial Brougham" of last season.

In the body there are no seats of the ordinary motor car type but chairs are used instead. These are adapted from the Georgian period and were designed and built by the Rorheimer-Brocks Art Studios. They have mahogany frames and are upholstered with heavy figured wool tapestry and have extra cushions of English down.

In fact, the carefully harmonized and tasteful fittings of the tiny "salon" into which the interior has been made have all been imported from the leading workshops of Europe. They have been arranged with striking originality to produce a motor car that is wholly unique.

Like all sedans, the body is short and rather low. It is cowled in front and decked behind. The extra tires are carried on the rear deck. There is only one door to the car—on the left side. It has been built without a moulding so that both sides of the body have the same appearance.

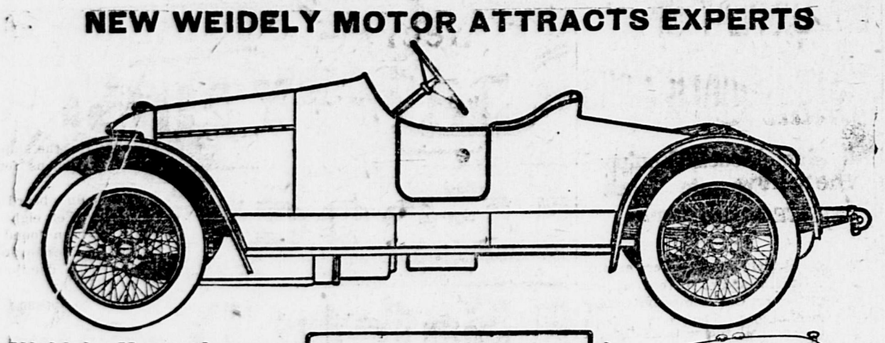
The body might be described as semi-stream-line. That is, it is pure stream line except for a small offset at the dash. The chassis is the stardard "48-Six" painted black. The colors of the body exterior are similar to those of the interior, but it reverses the usual practice in that the darker shades are at the bottom and the lighter ones at the top.

The interior colors of the car are dark mahogany, ivory and green blending from the darker to the lighter shades. Dark green linoleum covers the floor boards and is bound with German silver moulding. The carpet is high piled English axminster.

At the floor and the side walls is a base board of mahogany about four inches wide. Above this is wool frieze cloth and a chair rail of the same design as the baseboard, only smaller. Around the windows is a veneering of ivory enamel and the sashless panes are set in a veneering of 3-4 inches wide mahogany. The shades are silk taffeta. The festooned draperies are silk broche lined with silk taffeta. The dome ceiling is lined with plain wool tapestry laid in a panel with flush lights in each of the four corners.

Pillows are of Italian brocade with silk tinseled velvet border. A toilet case is of mahogany with fittings of silver and mahogany colored goat skin. All the interior metal parts are quadruple silver plated. At the rear corners are two disappearing Pullman electric lights for reading. Compartments are furnished for gloves, books, papers and slip covers.

NEW WEIDELY MOTOR ATTRACTS EXPERTS



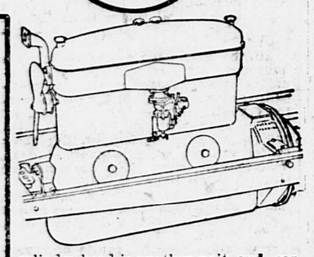
Weidely Motor Attracts.

Economy the Keynote

The new Weidely motor, in addition to being a valve-in-the-head type with overhead camshaft, incorporates not a few other interesting details, all of which point toward the simplification of parts and the elimination of unnecessary fittings. The valves are all in the heads without cages, and are operated by a single camshaft located directly above them. This camshaft is driven from the crankshaft by a vertical shaft through worm gears—spirals at right angles—and the whole mechanism, shafting, gears, camshafts and valves, is completely inclosed and copiously lubricated.

The six cylinders are cast in en-block, together with the entire crankcase. The cylinder head is another unit and carries all the valves and the camshaft, and intake pipe, while covering it is a cap that makes an oil tight housing for the valve mechanism. Even the water pipes have been eliminated, the raditor being bolted to the motor itself without any rubber connections.

GEO·A·WEIDELY



Canvas Shows Motor Car Industry Will Be Helped

A careful canvass of more than 600 responsible dealers identified with the Jeffery organization throughout the United States soliciting their opinion of the present business situation has just been completed by E. S. Jordan, sales manager, in charge of the distribution of the new Jeffery Four and Six.

The widespread character of the information gathered in this canvass is assured owing to the fact that the Jeffery Company has responsible dealers in towns of all sizes in every state in the union.

The reliability of the information was made certain by the character of the questions asked and the insistence of the Jeffery Company upon the dealer corroborating his own judgment by asking the judgment of other people in other lines of trade.

The result is interesting to all students of economics, bankers, business men and quite likely to the administration at Washington. The conclusions reached are as follows:

The revision of the tariff has had very little to do with the increase conservatism of bankers, manufacturers and property owners.

The farmer, upon whom the prosperity of the country largely depends, has not been affected except by rumor. He has lots of money and will buy in the spring, but not extravagantly.

The sentiment west of Philadelphia among automobile dealers and buyers has changed but slightly within the year. In the east the opinion of Wall street has more weight and people are not buying so many expensive cars.

Except for the conservatism of bankers in extending credit to dealers the motor car business, as far as substantial companies are concerned, will be just as big as last year.

Since 1910 people have been overbuying a little with the result that they feel the necessity of saving more.

The first effect upon the motor car industry is shown in the decreased sale of heavy cars and the increased sales of medium priced light cars that are economical.

The passage of the currency bill has relieved a great deal of tension as far as loans from small town banks is concerned, as they were holding up apparently waiting for the big banks to pass the word along.

Now companies and new capital are being put into the motor car business in cities all through the country, but the demand is for medium priced light cars of quality.

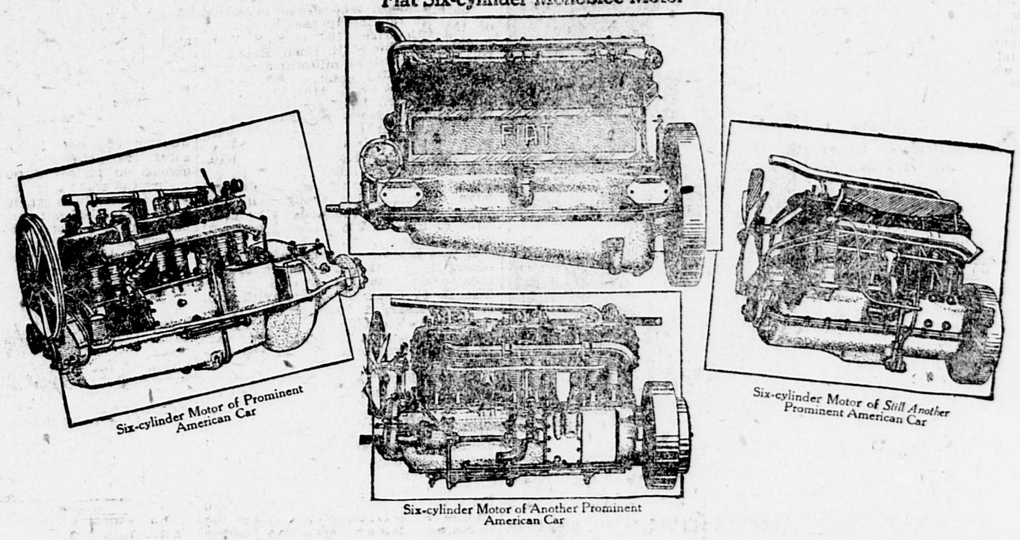
There is every indication that the period of retrenchment, while it may extend through the month of January, will be relived by better business in February with the general opening up in all lines with the opening of spring.

The motor car industry as a whole will be benefitted, rather than injured by the conservatism of the past two months as it will eliminate from the field undesirable elements which have always been detrimental to the progress of the conservative and more businesslike companies.

E. S. JORDAN, THE SALES MANAGER OF THE JEFFERY CAR

Compare the Simplicity of These Motors

Fiat Six-cylinder Monobloc Motor



Six-cylinder Motor of Prominent American Car

Six-cylinder Motor of Another Prominent American Car

Six-cylinder Motor of Still Another Prominent American Car

Which Represents the Most Designing Genius?

Is it the motor of many outward parts, variously distributed, or the one of simplicity, with working members entirely closed, each occupying a normal position in a perfect, well-balanced whole?

Motor simplicity is the goal toward which all engineers have bent their energies since the first successful car.

FIAT

Guaranteed for One Year

Fiat reached that goal first. History repeats itself and other engineers are following in the footsteps of Fiat Motor Simplicity.

Where is there a car today without somewhere in its vital parts an essential feature borrowed from a Fiat of former years? Think this over and realize what it means.

See the Fiat Exhibit at the Boston Show. See for yourself the wonderful cars on display there. You will then realize why Fiat is called "The Master Car."

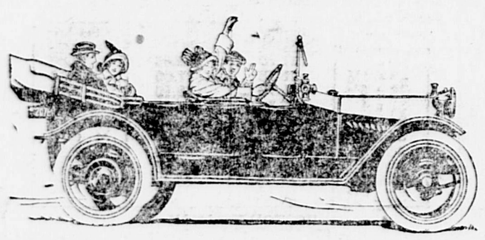
FIAT MOTOR SALES COMPANY

839-841 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass.

New York, Broadway at 57th Street — Providence, 26-28 Snow Street

Hupmobile

The Car of the American Family



"32" H.P. Touring Car or Roadster, $1050 f. o. b., Detroit

With Electrical Starter, Oversize Tires and Other Optional Equipment, $1200 f. o. b. Detroit

The New Hupmobile brings to you, in its regular equipment, greatly increased value.

Though retaining its characteristic lines for the most part, these lines have been markedly refined, adding greater symmetry to what was originally the most beautiful car of its class.

The top has been made higher, giving more head room, but without disturbing the Hupmobile's fine proportions.

At a slightly added cost the Hupmobile may now be had with the Westinghouse two-unit electric starting and lighting system and independent magneto ignition, oversize tires and the additional equipment detailed below.

We want you to inspect this car in the most critical—"show me"—fashion. We know that when you do so, you will agree with us that it is the best car of its class in the world.

Regular Equipment

Electric horn, rain vision ventilating windshield, silk mohair top with envelope, Hupmobile Jiffy curtains, speedometer, cocoa mat in tonneau, rear shock absorber, Prest-O-Lite tank, gas headlights, oil side and tail lamps, tools. Trimmings black and nickel. Body color black, running gear scarlet lake with black stripe on wheels.

Optional Equipment

The additional equipment—optional at a very moderate cost—comprises the Westinghouse two-unit electric starting system; 16 candle power headlights, adjustable for focus; combination electric and oil side and tail lamps; 100 ampere hour storage battery; overside 33x4 inch tires; demountable rims; one extra rim and tire carrier.

Wentworth-Fosdick Company

926 Commonwealth Ave., Boston Tel. Brookline, 4970

WING SHOWS THE MARMON MODELS

Frank E. Wing, N. E. Distributor of Marmon cars is showing a complete line of the 13th year models of Marmon cars at the Boston Automobile show now in progress at Mechanics building, Boston.

The Marmon models for 1914 include Model "41" and Model "48" and the famous four cylinder Model "32."

The latest Marmon is a medium six, known as Model "41," being considerably smaller than the 6-48 and coming about midway in point of size between that and the four-cylinder Marmon "32."

The car has six cylinders with a bore of four and one-quarter inches and a five and one-half inch stroke. They are of the L-head pattern cast three in a block. The new Marmon has a full rear axle with a housing of pressed steel.

The body is of the convex curved type, of substantial and durable sheet metal construction. The doors open outward on concealed hinges, with door handles inside. There are several new features not before found on any car. The front doors are cut back of the forward edge of the front seat cushions, thus giving easy entrance to the front of the car, especially on the left, or driver's seat. The steering column is adjustable, premitting the driver to alter its angle to suit himself.

The motor is designed for flexibility and simplicity and has several refinements, chief among which is the lubrication of the valve mechanism. In addition to the hollow crank shaft circulating system of lubrication which has been in use on Marmon cars for many years, special provision is made in the "41" motor for lubricating the cam shaft and valve tappets. Oil is delivered in a tunnel in which the cam shaft is mounted and through which the oil circulates. Its only escape being out through the tappets and into the valve tappet chamber.

The seven main bearings of the crank shaft are lubricated by oil from a reservior so placed that the level of the oil is below the sweep of the cranks. A gear pump, driven by gears from the cam shaft, delivers oil under pressure from this reservoir to all the bearings of the crank shaft. The crank shaft is hollow, and holes in the shaft register with groves in the bearings, allowing the oil to flow through the shaft into the connecting rod bearings and through tubes along the connecting rods to the piston pin bearings.

Motor and transmission are suspended at three points with a special construction designed to prevent strains from being transmitted from the frame. The motor and transmissions are mounted in a line with the rear axle, an arrangement designed to reduce the wear on the universal joints to a minimum.

In appearrance the "41" body has a low modified stream line effect and is very roomy, with large carrying space delivered to the purchaser the car is complete, with all the details of equipment that anyone could desire.

TEST STAFF GIVES CAR A HARD TEST.

A most unusual motor car test was made last week when Teddy Tetzlaff, the great racing driver, went for a drive over the country roads of California in a Cartercar. Tetzlaff has always driven the most powerful geered racing cars he could secure, but when he drove the Cartercar up 50 per cent grades and on the rough country roads at the rate of 55 miles an hour he was astonished, and enthusiastically exclaimed that the car was a wonder.

Tetzlaff is an expert mechanician, but he would hardly believe that such efficiency could be embodied in such a simple car. The Cartercar is the car that has been attracting so much attention because of its ability to climb 50 per cent grades and carry a full load at the time.

This was the first car to successfully adopt the simple form of gearless transmission, and although it has not been pushed to any great extent, it is today one of the most popular medium-priced cars.

"We have only one man in our complaint department," says George Wetherbee of the Hollander Motor company, "and he is going to be transferred and his work added to the duties of the sales manager."

SAXON SPACE ON THE MAIN AISLE

On account of the large crowds that have wanted to see the Saxon at every automobile show where it has been exhibited, the Whitten-Gilmore Company have secured a special space, 134-B, on the main floor, for the display of this car, and as a result it will not be shown in the Chalmers exhibit, which line of cars is also handled by this company. The space selected for the Saxon is on the main floor on the main aisle, and will be easily found by all interested.

The Saxon is a high grade, well designed, carefully built, small automobile, with four-cylinder motor, standard tread, standard features, produced by an experienced organization, soundly financed and well managed. It is made with a two-passenger body only. The motor is of the "L" head type, with fully enclosed valves, cylinders are 2.5-8 inch by 4 inch, the crank shaft is of special drop forged steel, of unusual size, and is carried on two bronze, babbitt-lined bearings. The carburetor is of special design, and 25 miles can be secured easily from one gallon of gasoline. Ignition is by the Atwater-Kent system with six dry cells. The transmission is of the sliding gear progressive type with two speeds forward and reverse, and the clutch is asbestos lined, dry plate, five-disc type, similar to the clutch used on some of the highest priced cars. The Saxon axles, both front and rear, are of the same type of construction as used on large cars selling from $2000 up. The Saxon has left-hand drive with gear shift and emergency brake levers in the centre. Both service and emergency brakes are located on the rear wheel hubs.

The car is equipped with wire wheels, with 25-inch by 3-inch clincher tires. The body is exceptionally large and roomy, and is of the streamline type. The seat is 40 inches wide by 16 inches deep, and ample leg room is provided. The spring suspension is of the cantilever type. By this method the body is suspended between the axles rather than over them.

CARTERCAR AGENT SAYS WOMEN SHUN GEAR SHIFT

The bugbear of motoring, as far as women are concerned, is the shifting of gears, according to George Wetherbee, the New England distributor of the Cartercar, who avers that if it was not for the fact that most automobiles require this feature that there would be a great many more women motorists.

"The gearless friction drive transmission of the Cartercar eliminates the gears and the clutch and for that reason we feel perfectly safe in saying that the Cartercar is essentially a woman's car," says Mr. Wetherbee. "It is operated as easily as an electric vehicle, but has the range of any gasoline car. Any woman or child can operate the Cartercar in a few minutes after they have sat under the steering wheel.

"Mrs. James J. Storrow, the wife of the well known financier, is the owner of two Cartercars and several other types of automobiles that require gear shifting. She finds the Cartercar ideal for her use and gets the ease of operation and range that she would not get with an electric vehicle. Although she has five automobiles she may be seen any day driving along the roads at Lincoln in her Cartercar roadster or in inclement weather in her Cartercar limousine.

"While the Catercar is essentially a woman's car, yet it is strong and powerful and as a hill-climber has no superior.

WEATHERBY SEES AN END OF SPEED MANIA

That there is an abundance of speed in the modern motor car for the average owner is the opinion of George Weatherby of the Hollander Motor company, distributors of the Cartercar company, Pontiac, Mich. Mr. Weatherby says that most owners do not want to burn up the road, so to speak, but prefer a car that will run at a moderately high speed, and keep it up.

"When the first cars came out all we heard was more speed, more speed," said Mr. Weatherby, "and one was led to believe that owners would never be satisfied, no matter what rate their cars would travel. But now the owners are satisfied, and, in fact, I do not believe that one car in ten is ever let out to the highest speed that it is capable of attaining. I have never ridden with any owner on ordinary roads when he let his car out as fast as it would go. He feels that about 35 or 40 miles an hour is as fast as he cares to go, and feel safe.

"Today, when the prospective buyer goes into a salesroom and looks at a car he does not seem particular about speed but confines his attention to reliability and efficiency. He wants to know whether the car will travel the hills and sand and mud, and whether his wife and daughters can drive it, and what his upkeep expense will be.

"We find that buyers are especially delighted with the gearless transmission in our car, because they realize that it has to do with upkeep, and efficiency.

SOCIETY WOMAN WILL DRIVE CARTERCAR SELF

The fact that Mrs. James J. Storrow, the well-known society woman of Boston and Lincoln, is to drive her own limousine and dispense with the chauffeur will no doubt be quite an impetus to other members of the "fair sex" in the Back Bay society to drive their own car.

The Hollander Motor company has just delivered to Mrs. Storrow a sedan type of limousine, which she selected because of its simplicity in operation, and she announced to Manager George Wetherbee that she was to drive this car herself. Mrs. Storrow wanted a car with a longer range than an electric vehicle and at the same time one which could be easily operated.

She hit upon the Cartercar Sedan because there was no gears to shift and the method of operation was so simple that most any beginner could climb into the car and operate it. The car was delivered during the past week to Mrs. Storrow.

AUTO SHOW

MECHANICS BUILDING BOSTON

PLEASURE CAR EXHIBIT

MARCH 7 TO 14

Admission 50c; Except Wednesday, March 11, "Society Day" $1
Commercial Vehicle Exhibit Opens Tues., March 17, 8 P. M.

PLEASURE CAR SECTION March 7-14 — EXHIBITS MORE COMPLETE DECORATIONS MORE SUPERB — COMMERCIAL VEHICLE SECTION March 17-21

DIRECTION CHESTER I. CAMPBELL

That WEIDELY Motor

Don't Miss It—In the Premier Six— At the Boston Show

See the motor with the valves in the head, and a single cam-shaft operating directly over them.

The motor without rocker-arms, push-rods and rollers—the six-cylinder motor with the fewest parts.

Examine this small motor with greater power and speed than other six-cylinder motors of larger size.

The six cylinder motor that travels farther on a gallon of gasoline than FOUR-cylinder motors of equally rated power.

Here is a motor of the standard poppet-valve type made wonderfully efficient merely through simplification.

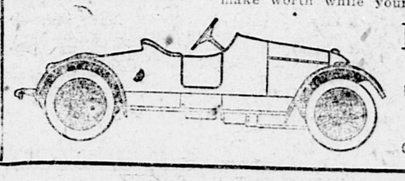
The difference in its efficiency is simply the difference between what "we get and what the other fellow wastes."

Come see the Premier—the only car in America with the Weidely Motor. Note the symmetrical body lines—harmony and balance—all in keeping with the remarkable simplicity and "up-to-dateness" of the power plant.

Clean motor appearance is not obtained by side-plate coverings, but by the elimination of unnecessary parts.

PREMIER

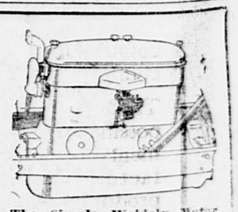
The Premier Six with the Weidely Motor is considered the finest example of six construction in America. It was the sensation at the New York and Chicago Shows. The Premier is one car in the Boston show which will make worth while your visit.



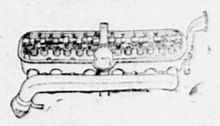
PREMIER MOTOR MFG. CO.

Indianapolis, Indiana

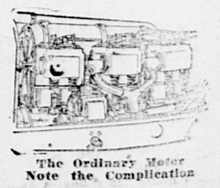
PREMIER MOTOR CAR CO.
Distributors,
652 Beacon St., Boston



The Simple Weidely Motor



Note the Cam Shaft on



The Ordinary Motor
Note the Complication

Winton Repair Expense Contest for Chauffeurs

Each year since 1907, the Winton Motor Car Co. has conducted a repair expense contest for employed chauffeurs driving Winton Sixes for individual owners.

In that time, the Winton company has divided $18,000 cash among the prize winners.

The total prize award for the sixth contest, which ended Nov. 30, 1913, was $3500.

First and second prizes went to Massachusetts men. John L. Dondero of Boston won $1000 for driving 27,542 miles without repair expense to his employer, P. M. Hauthaway; and and Thomas Murren of Medford won $500 for driving 18,273 miles without repair expense to his employer, J. M. Anderson. Other awards were as follows.

Third prize, $250, to William Newsome, chauffeur for M. R. Hirsch, Atlanta, who drove 18,258 miles at a repair expense of $3.00.

Fourth prize, $150, to E. P. Brubaker, chauffeur for James W. Stevens, Chicago, who drove 16,000 miles with no repair expense.

Fifth prize, $100, to W. B. Chalfont, chauffeur for Charles Class, Philadelphia, who drove 16,376.2 miles with no repair expense.

Sixth prize, $100 to J. Walter Tracy, chauffeur for James C. Biggert, Grafton, Pa., who drove 16,000 miles at a repair expense of $9.04.

Seventh prize, $100 to Robert Clements, chauffeur for F. H. Jones, Andover, Mass., who drove 14,869 miles with no repair expense.

Eighth prize $100, to F. S. Weaver, chauffeur for S. R. Bush, Easton, Pa., who drove 14,400 miles at a repair expense of five cents.

Ninth prize, $100, to John F. O'Leary, chauffeur for J. R. McAllister, Philadelphia, Pa., who drove 13,479.1 miles at a repair expense of 40 cents.

Tenth prize, $100, to H. F. Smith, chauffeur for Frank Burke, Chicago, Ill., who drove 13,046.5 miles with no repair expense.

Eleventh prize, $100, to Wm. L. Peters, chauffeur for Mrs. W. L. Kier, Pittsburg, who drove 13,271 miles at a repair expense of $2.15.

Twelfth prize, $100, to F. H. Newman, chauffeur for Geo. C. Fenton, Orange, Mass., who drove 13,824.5 miles at a repair expense of $4.31.

Thirteenth prize, $100, to D. L. Olson, chauffeur for J. L. Knoll, Minneapolis, who drove 12,991.2 miles with no repair expense.

Fourteenth prize, $100, to Jos. H. Gallo, chauffeur for Harry Livingston, New York City, who drove 12,947 miles with no repair expense.

Fifteenth prize, $100, to W. C. Ball, chauffeur for F. F. Rowe, Kalamazoo, Mich., who drove 13,049 miles at a repair expense of $4.

Sixteenth prize, $100,to C. C. Finley, chauffeur for Norman D. Fraser, Chicago, who drove 12,806.7 miles at a repair expense of $1.40.

Seventeenth prize, $100, to Chas. E. Williams, chauffeur for Gustav Lange, Bronx, N. Y., who drove 12,315.6 miles at a repair expense of 10 cents.

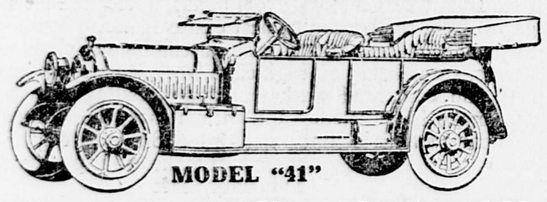
Eighteenth prize, $100, to Wm. L. Ahrens, chauffeur for R. H. Reid, Brooklyn, N. Y., who drove 12,633 miles at a repair expense of $4.41.

Nineteenth prize, $100, to Wm. A. Moeller, chauffeur for Wm. A. Pope, Chicago, who drove 11,590 miles at a repair expense of $2.60.

Twentieth prize, $100, to E. G. Salzmann, chauffeur for A. M. Taylor, Philadelphia, who drove 10,964 miles with no repair expense.

In the six years covered by these contests, 99 money-winning chauffeurs have driven Winton Six cars 1,329,960 miles on toal repair expense of $333.71. This mileage is equal to 53 times the distance around the earth at the equator. The everage repair expense all told is 25.1 cents per 1000 miles—undoubtedly the world's lowest record.

MARMON
"The Easiest Riding Car In The World"



MODEL "41"

Marmon "Medium Six" $3250

A remarkable medium-sized six-cylinder car of ample capacity and power to take you over the most difficult roads and grades in comfort.

A car that throttles down to a crawl or goes at breathless speed without gear shifting.

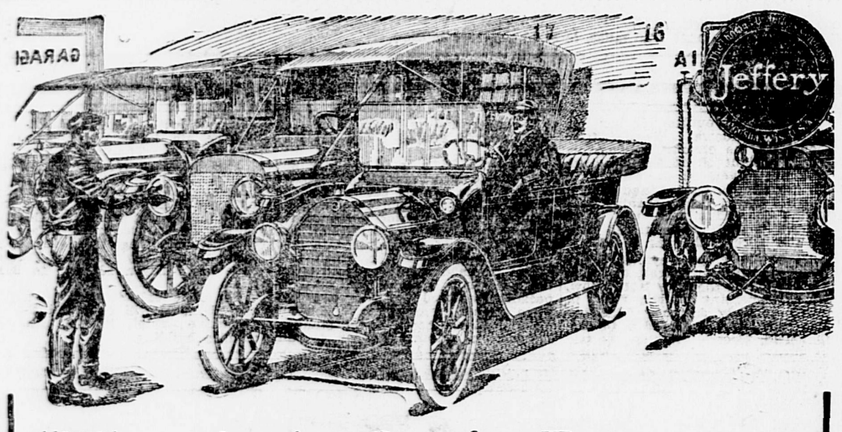
A car of beauty, with every convenience and luxury known to motordom—and not a few that have been heretofore unknown.

Six-cylinder engine, 41 to 70 horsepower, a marvel of velvety smoothness and silent power. An improvement on the famous automatic, force-feed oiling system, originated and developed on Marmon cars, eliminates noise by operating valve mechanism in circulating oil bath. 132-inch wheel base. Three-point support for both engine and transmission. Straight line shaft drive and full floating rear axle. 25-gallon gasoline tank and tire-holder mounted on frame in rear. Electric starting, lighting, horn, power tire pump and equipment for every requirement. Touring Car for five or four passengers, Roadster or Speedster, $3,250; Limousine, $4,750; Chassis, $2,000. F. O. B. factory, Indianapolis.

Marmon "48," "41" and "32" Are on Display at Mechanics Bldg.

Frank E. Wing, 562 COMMONWEALTH AVENUE
Service Bldg., 682 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.
NEW ENGLAND DISTRIBUTOR
Manufactured exclusively by Nordyke & Marmon Co., Indianapolis, Ind. Est. 1851

Over Sixty Years of Successful Manufacturing



"There's the Car for Economy"

NO one knows this better than the expert mechanic at your garage. He's been expecting this sweeping change in automobile construction. He knows that the demand for economy has been growing and growing because he hears the constant protest and complaint of owners of heavy cars with big motors.

Now the heavy car is doomed. It costs too much to run. The light car, the high grade car, the car of comfort, quality and speed will take its place. The Jeffery is here.

The Jeffery Four is the first high grade, light weight, quality car of comfort produced in this country to sell at $1550. The same type of car has been sold before at $2500 and more. It is the car of motor wise Europe. The man who before had to buy the big, bulky car is coming down for economy and the man who before had to buy the cheap car to gain economy is coming to the Jeffery standard for comfort and appearance.

Three things made the Jeffery Four possible at this price—capital, equipment and experience. Few manufacturers in the United States could produce a car of this quality at this price. Two of these would not do it because they are entrenched in the low priced field. Some could not do it for at least eighteen months. All others could hardly hope to accomplish it, lacking capital, equipment and experience.

That dealers were quick to recognize these facts is shown by their contracting for over 6000 Jeffery cars in 60 days. That the public welcomed the car built to answer their cry for economy is plainly shown by scores of telegrams from dealers reporting hitherto unheard of business for this season and demanding immediate shipment in advance of their schedules. Good mechanics knew that it must be so, but they did not expect this ultimate type of car to come so soon.

Electric lighting and starting; imported annular ball bearings throughout; Spicer universal joints; Daimler leather coupling; full floating rear axle; Vanadium steel springs and axle. Bosch duplex ignition; Rayfield carburetor. Jeffery Four equipment includes Neverleek top; top cover; rain vision windshield; electric lighted dash with Stewart-Warner speedometer, ammeter, air and oil pressure gauges, four position light switch and small storage compartments; Klaxet horn; foot rest; extra demountable rim with carrier, and complete tool and tire equipment.

C. P. Rockwell, Inc.
640 Commonwealth Ave. Boston, Mass.

SAXON $395

A Good Small Car

See It at the Show
MAIN FLOOR—SPACE 134B.

The first real automobile, with 4-cylinder motor, 96-inch wheelbase, standard tread, streamline body and other standard features, selling at less than $500. Built by a strong experienced organization.

TEWHILL-GILMORE CO.
620 COMMONWEALTH AVE.

Represented in Lynn by C. E. Whitten

AUTOMOBILE NUMBERS

Saturday, March 7

And Again

Saturday, March 14

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Will Contain an Extra Section

Devoted to the Automobile Industry

In connection with the Boston Show

ALL LOCAL AGENTS AND GARAGES

Are Invited to take Large Spaces

Take Advantage of the Opportunity

An Ignoble Secret

But It Proved a Valuable One

By CHARLES LEWIS PHELPS

"My son," said my father when I went to sea, "you're going into the world, and a rough one you'll find it. I've been a sailor myself, as you know, for fifty years and am glad to find a snug harbor here at home. You'll have to go through some pretty narrow holes, and your getting through at all will depend on your courage, your coolness and your wits. I can give you a way by which I once saved myself from being put under the table at a drinking bout. We'd gone ashore, a liberty party. I was a beardless boy at the time, and my mates, who were all older than I, thought it would be a fine thing to get me drunk. We went into an inn and called for drinks. The landlord, seeing their game and disposed to favor me on account of my youth, I suppose, beckoned to me to come into a side room and, pointing to a tumbler on the table, told me to drink it. The stuff was olive oil. That olive oil kept me sober when all the rest of the gang one by one slid down under the table. That's all the experience I can give you, my boy. The day may come when it will help you out if some one is trying to lay you out."

It would seem that this was but a poor quantum of experience for a father to give his boy, but the time did come when it served me well, and that time wasn't long coming, either. Anyway, it was while I was still before the mast. We sailed for the West Indies, taking out a cargo of cotton goods to make clothes for the negroes, and were to bring back dried fruits and whatever could be bought cheap and sold dear when we got back to England. We first struck the Bahamas, then Haiti and lastly Jamaica. Those were the days of the buccaneers, and Kingston, Jamaica, was a rendezvous for them.

One day when we were at anchor off Kingston a piratical looking chap came aboard and had a long talk with our captain. The next day he came back with a box in the bottom of his boat. It wasn't more than three feet square, but it was hoisted on deck by block and tackle, and it took four men to carry it below. Considering the looks of the man who brought it and its weight, I suspected that it was full of gold that had been looted from some Spanish ship, to be transferred to England.

The next day we sailed back through the Windward passage, striking the Atlantic to the southward of Turks Islands and after that pointing due north. When we were about 26 degrees north of the equator one morning we noticed a ship that carried a good deal of sail for her tonnage coming out from among the Bahamas in the neighborhood of San Salvador. I saw that our captain had his eye on her, suspicious like, and every few minutes he would bring his glass to bear on her. After rounding San Salvador she pointed due north on the course we were sailing, but after a few hours she seemed to be a little nearer us.

About noon the captain called the crew aft and told us that the ship to the westward looked mighty suspicious. True, she showed British colors, but there were plenty of British ships in those days that had been privateers when the war between England and Spain was on that didn't have to change much to become pirates. The vessel was apparently sailing the same course as we, but really a point or two toward us. She was between us and the islands, and all she had to do was to keep getting nearer all the while till she joined us. If we sheered off she would, if she was after us, sheer off too.

True enough, the ship kept edging nearer to us all that afternoon. Toward evening the captain ordered out every bit of canvas we had and turned the ship's nose due eastward. The other vessel turned at once to follow us, showing distinctly that she would overhaul us if she could. She ran up more canvas, and it was soon evident that her sailing qualities were far better than ours.

I'm not going to describe a chase that soon brought the ship up with us or the fight that was sure to be a losing one for us, because these chases and fights are all the same. And I'm not going to tell how the captain and most of the crew walked the plank. I watching them struggling in the water. When it came my turn an idea popped into my head. The pirate captain, a man with a long black curly beard, was superintending the job, and as I was ordered on to the plank I said:

"Captain, there's a treasure aboard the ship, but I don't believe you can find it."

A covetous look came into his face, and he ordered me to step aside.

"I'll help you to hunt for it if you'll let the rest of us off," I continued.

He agreed to the proposition at once. If there was a treasure aboard he didn't care to drown any man who might be able to give him any information about it. He could continue the plank walking after finding it. So he ordered me and four men who had not yet been put into the sea to be left where we were and the plank hauled in.

"Now, young man," he said to me, "tell me about the treasure."

I told him about the box that had been brought aboard, but since I had not seen it stored I couldn't tell him where it was. But I would know it if I saw it again. All I could do was to hunt for it among the cargo, and that was like looking for a needle in a haystack. It was rather late in the day to begin then, for it was growing dark. I told him there was some choice wine in the ship which I could point out to him that had been taken aboard when we had touched at a Spanish port on our way southward, and the ship was well stocked with provisions for the homeward voyage.

He decided to remain aboard himself with a prize crew of eight men till the treasure had been found. He ordered one of his captives to prepare a supper, and I filled a demijohn of wine and brought it to him.

He seemed to wish to appear friendly to me. His reason was plain. I might help him in the matter of the treasure and I might stand in his way. From what I had told him he believed that a box of gold coins—probably pieces of eight—had been brought aboard to be taken to England, for pirate ships were fitted out there, and investors must get their share of the plunder. When supper was ready my captor invited me to join him, and I accepted his invitation.

A scheme was forming in my mind. There was but little chance it would win, but it was not hopeless. We were five unarmed prisoners, guarded by eight pirates. With death staring us in the face we were all ready for any desperate enterprise. I hoped a possibility for such might arise during the night and would have liked to speak to my mates about it, but dared not be seen talking with any of them. I therefore went in to supper with the captain without having been able to tell them to be on the lookout.

There was hard drinking in those days, and many a villain who would have been invincible while sober got his deserts from his thirst for liquor. It was soon plain to me that the captain was bound to drink hard, but he was smart enough not to get drunk, leaving me sober. He would not begin a fresh bottle himself without forcing me to finish the one before me.

Suddenly I remembered the experience with olive oil that my father had given me. There was none on the table, but a-plenty in the ship, that had been taken aboard when we took on the wine. I told the captain that with his permission I would make him a salad such as he had never before tasted, but to do so I must go for some oil. He consented, and, taking a small pitcher, I filled it and drank half of it. Then, replacing what I had taken, I carried it, with a head of lettuce taken on with supplies at Kingston, and went back to my host. I then prepared a salad of the lettuce and fruits, which the captain pronounced excellent.

After this I kept up with the captain in finishing my bottle, then began to get ahead of him. It piqued him to be beaten by a beardless boy, and he poured down bottle after bottle, I doing the same, but feeling comparatively little effect from the fumes of the wine.

Suddenly I heard a loud laugh forward. It was followed by a shout, then a yelp. My heart bounded with delight. The crew had doubtless seen me drawing the wine from the cask and had appropriated more of it to their own use. The captain heard the noise, and it tended to sober him since he knew what it meant. He started to rise from the table, but was unable to do so. I passed him his bottle and filled his glass. He forgot what he had intended to do and drained it.

I now waited for the captain to fall into a stupor and the men outside to follow his example. Their shouts grew louder for awhile, then fainter as one after another they dropped off into unconsciousness. Meanwhile the captain was snoring under the table.

Seizing a pair of pistols, I went out, battered in the door of the cubbyhole in which my mates were confined and released them. As soon as they were armed we held a consultation as to what to do next. We decided to bind the captain and his men with a view—if we could get away—to take them to England for trial. Rope is easily found on a ship, and without awakening the pirates we bound them and put each one in a separate compartment.

Our next problem was to get away from the pirate vessel, which was standing near us. We must not hoist a sail for fear of being heard. Besides, there was a scant breeze. The night was cloudy, with no moon. We lowered a boat, muffled the oars, attached a hawser to the capstan, took the other end to the boat and pulled away. We could see the pirate, but not plainly, and hoped that our movement would not be noticed.

It was not long before we lost sight of her. Then we redoubled our efforts and after an hour's pull returned to our ship, hoisted a jib and with this slender motive power sailed till we dared hoist more canvas. When day came the pirate was hull down on the southern horizon.

Our crew was small, but we managed to get the vessel safely to England. I made a search for the treasure box and found it under the flooring in the captain's cabin. We concluded that since we could not return it to its owners we were justified in keeping it ourselves. So we divided it among us, and every man jack of us was made rich.

The only person I told how I had made my money was my father, who had furnished me with the information that had enabled me not only to make it, but to save my life. I gave the old man every comfort for the rest of his life.

Was ever man saved from death and made rich by being told how to put another under the table?

NATION'S GREATEST

Auto Show

OPEN TONIGHT

ALL NEXT WEEK

10 A. M. 10.30 P. M.

Mechanics' Building

BOSTON

ADMISSION 50c. "SOCIETY DAY" WEDNESDAY MARCH 11 $1

3 -- ORCHESTRAS -- 3

Personal Direction—CHESTER I. CAMPBELL

Motor Truck Show

OPENS TUESDAY EV'NG, MARCH 17

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Is On Sale Daily

After 3.30 P. M.

AT SOUTH STATION, BOSTON

THE NEW KRIT

Greatest Automobile Test The World Has Ever Known

Individual owners have put their Winton Six cars to a test of strenuous service covering more than three million miles.

Figures compiled from the sworn statements of 286 owners appear on this page.

Ninety of these 286 cars established the world's lowest repair expense record of 25.1 cents per 1000 miles.

The performances of the remaining 196 cars are shown in the table.

And the grand totals for 286 cars show that in traveling 3,117,487.5 miles the whole repair expense averaged only $1.32 per 1000 miles—less than one-seventh of one cent per mile.

This was the most exhaustive automobile test the world has ever known.

The only kind of test that proves anything for individual buyers—the test of service in the use of the owner.

Look over these figures, and then send for a copy of our Repair Expense Book, which gives the records in detail.

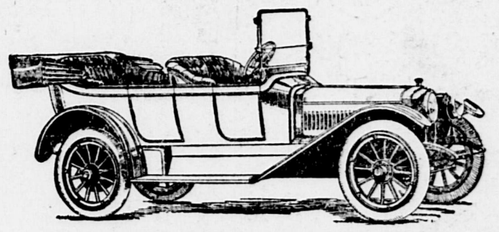
We are the pioneer makers of sixes exclusively.

Our present model is the same car we have made for six years without a single radical change. Now in its seventh season.

Behind the Winton Six is a substantial company. Free from watered stock, from bonds, notes, and mortgages, from the burden of past extravagances; owning its plant scot free, taking cash discounts on all purchases, specializing on high-class work, employing expert and contented workmen, and pursuing policies that make for efficiency and permanence, the Winton Company stands behind the Winton Six with a guarantee that makes your purchase enduringly safe.

The Winton Six is a manufactured car, not an assembled car. Also it is the only car in the world whose repair cost is definitely known through the sworn statements of individual owners.

We shall be glad to send you our Repair Expense Book that gives the million-mile facts and figures in detail, together with our thoroughly descriptive catalog.



WINTON SIX

SEE IT AT THE BOSTON SHOW

Complete Record of Every Car Traveling 5000 Miles or More in the Six Annual Winton Six Repair Expense Tests of 1908, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912, and 1913

CLASSIFICATION	Number of Cars	MILEAGE Total Miles	MILEAGE Average per Car	REPAIR EXPENSE Total	REPAIR EXPENSE Average per Car	REPAIR EXPENSE Average per 1000 miles
Cars making the world's lowest repair expense record	90	1,329,960	14,777.3	$ 333.71	$ 3.71	$0.251
Cars making the poorest records	53	552,098.3	10,416.9	3398.31	64.12	6.16
*Cars running without repair expense	72	601,604.2	8,355.6	.....	....	....
Cars not otherwise classified	71	633,825	8,927	380.47	5.36	.60
Totals for six years	286	3,117,487.5	10,900.3	$4112.49	$14.38	$1.32

*NOT INCLUDED IN ANY OTHER CLASSIFICATION.
Average repair expense for 286 cars, traveling 3,117,487.5 miles, is $1.32 per 1000 miles.

FIAT EXHIBIT AT SPACES 113-114

The Fiat exhibit will be found at its usual spaces, 113 and 114 Mechanics building. The cars on exhibition are in a class by themselves in the way of design, style, finish, etc. Every car shown is the product of the American factory at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., which has been in operation for the past four years, during which time they have been steadily increasing their output each year.

It is not the policy of the Fiat company to manufacture quantity, but quality. The American Fiat is a duplicate of the foreign car to the smallest detail. The entire design is created by the Italian engineers at Turin, Italy, and after the cars have been thoroughly tested over mountainous roads and they have proven to come up to the Fiat standard, they are accepted by the engineers who stamp their approval to the blueprints which are sent to the Poughkeepsie plant where the car is built in accordance with the blueprints. The foreign factory keep engineers from Italy at Poughkeepsie all the time to supervise the building of Fiat cars.

A large percentage of the materials used throughout the car is imported on account of the special steels used, which cannot be duplicated in America, and which makes the Fiat car a longer-life car than any other.

The Fiat Company bears the reputation of being one of the oldest car manufacturers in existence, having manufactured automobiles for the past 17 years during which time they have turned out and sold over 50,000 Fiat cars. Fiat cars can be found in every civilized country of the world. There can be found more Fiat cars of 1904 to 1913 cars in the hands of their original owners than any other car manufactured. The reason for this is that the chassis design of Fiat cars is from three to five years in advance of any car manufactured. Fiat design is the simplest.

The monobloc motor as created by Fiat engineers as now used by the Fiat Company for the past five years, not only in their small 20 horsepower cars, but in cars ranging in power from this model to 90 horsepower. The monobloc motor construction gives a better balanced engine and a more rigid engine, and by the reduction of 50 per cent in parts, an easier engine to keep in its original condition. The carburetor on all Fiat cars is of the double jet type water jacket float feed, and a mileage of 33 1-3 per cent greater can be obtained from Fiat cars with a Fiat carburetor than any other carburetor.

Taking everything into consideration the Fiat car weighs less by 300 to 700 pounds, than any of its competitors. The car as turned out by the Poughkeepsie plant carries full up-to-date equipment, including electric self-starter, Westinghouse type Fiat applied.

The exhibit at the Boston show will consist of six cars, namely: The model 56—50 h. p. 6-cylinder stock chassis which will give the prospective purchaser an opportunity to see the chassis just as it is turned out of the Poughkeepsie plant. The price of this chassis is $4650.

Model 56—50 h. p. 6-cylinder 7-passenger touring car fully equipped and finished Fiat maroon, the price of which is $5150.

Model 55—55 h. p. 4-cylinder landaulet. The body of this car is of the special Rothschilds limousine landaulet type which gives the same size windows in the rear that are found on up-to-date limousines. This car is also fully equipped with electric lighting and starting outfits. It has the frameless windows, three-quarter windows for the chauffeur, is upholstered in a light Bedford cord, has pillar lamps in addition to dash lamps, which are electric lighted, and special step lights which upon opening the limousine door illuminate the step. The finish is Fiat green striped with gold. The price of this car is $5850.

Model 55—55 h. p. 4-cylinder gentleman's roadster, a duplicate of which was exhibited at the New York show, which is something entirely new in the way of body design. This car is also completely equipped with top, wind shield, electric lights, electric self-starter and is finished in blue with a gold stripe. The price is $4650.

Model 55—55 h. p. 4-cylinder special inside drive, seating capacity seven people. This car is the most beautiful car that has ever been exhibited. The exterior finish of this body is wonderful. Everything, even to the backs of the front seats is of inlaid mahogany. The finish is a cream trimmed with black and is upholstered in a light Bedford cord especially imported for this car. The price of this car complete is $7400.

Model 55—55 horse power standard 5-passenger touring car fully equipped with electric lights, electric starter, etc, finished in blue with an ivory stripe. The price is $4650.

Fiat cars are rapidly increasing in popularity due to the fact that the Fiat company do not constantly come out with a new type or yearly model and Fiat owners will drive their cars 150,000 to 200,000 miles before they consider changing them for a new car, and in many instances Fiat cars have been driven 250,000 to 300,000 miles.

The Fiat exhibit should not be missed, as it will be found the most attractive exhibit in the entire Mechanics building.

$475

METZ "22" ROADSTER

THE GEARLESS CAR

No Clutch To Slip --- No Gears To Strip

WINNER OF THE GLIDDEN TOUR

BOSTON SHOW
ALL NEXT WEEK
MAIN FLOOR,
BOOTH B-150.

COMPLETELY EQUIPPED FULLY GUARANTEED

Most Economical Car To Operate

The METZ "22" saves you money when you buy it, and every hour you run it. It travels 28 to 32 miles on ONE gallon of gasoline, 100 miles on ONE pint of lubricating oil, and 10,000 to 12,000 miles on a single set of tires.

Standard equipment throughout, including 22 1-2 H. P. four-cylinder water-cooled motor, Bosch magneto, extension top, wind shield, full elliptic springs all around, 5 lamps and gas generator, artillery wheels, best quality Goodrich clincher tires, left-hand drive, center control and gearless transmission, which entirely does away with gear troubles.

America's classic road event, the annual Glidden Tour, was won last July by the METZ team of three cars, and they were the only cars that held PERFECT scores for the entire eight days of the contest.

The METZ "22" is everything you want in a car—Stylish, Speedy, wonderfully Economical and always Reliable. Made in three styles of body and equipment, all on exhibition next week at the Boston show, booth B-150, Main Floor.

Write for New Illustrated Catalog "XX"

METZ COMPANY, WALTHAM, MASS.

Boston Branch, 907 Boylston Street Phone, Back Bay, 3647

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 57 QUINCY, MASS MONDAY EVENING MARCH 9 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

GENERAL ALARM TO CALL FIREMEN

Permanent Men Unable to Cope with Sunday Morning Blaze

Hibernian Hall on Franklin Street Damaged $7,000

An investigation of the fire in Hibernian hall Sunday morning, for which Chief Billings sounded a general alarm was made Sunday. Its origin is said to have been in a barrel of waste paper under the stairway leading into the rear of the building. A broken electric wire on the second floor was at first connected with its start, but firemen said Sunday that a plaster hook in the hands of a fireman, came in contact with it and that it parted in the explosion that followed.

Twenty call men responded to the general alarm which was sounded at 3.40, 15 minutes after the first alarm was sounded from box 37 by Officer Malone. Seven arrived on the auto chemical from Atlantic six with the West Quincy apparatus and five with the Quincy Point hose wagon. With his force of permanent men augmented to a good sized company, Chief Billings had no difficulty in getting under control a blaze which threatened to burn the building to the ground.

The damage is mostly at the rear of the building, along a wide ventilator which extended up to the roof and in the attic over the hall which is on the second floor.

The building was occupied in front by the Quincy Adams Social club and the barber shop of Carlo Bracchi. The rest of the building is used as the headquarters of Div. 5, A. O. H., by whom the building was erected eight years ago.

When the fire burst through the roof a shower of slate fell and the burning embers settled on nearby houses but resulted in no new fires. For several minutes this eruption made it dangerous for the firefighters but they continued the hard task confronting them and none were injured.

Three hot air explosions, in quick succession, followed the bursting through the roof of the fire and the reflection illuminated the sky so that it was visible at a long distance. The fourth explosion occurred when the plaster hook hit the electric wire. None of the firemen were injured although several were thrown against the building when the explosion occurred.

The loss is estimated at $7,000.

The charters of the organizations using the building for meeting purposes were removed by janitor McNeil. In most cases the glass in the frames cracked when the cold air struck them. The furniture in the rooms of the Quincy Adams Social club was removed by members and citizens. The lodge room was used by Div. 5, A. O. H., Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., Quincy herd, No. 1, Benevolent Order of Buffaloes and Quincy and St. Mary's branches of the Irish National Foresters.

Hibernian hall is one of the few buildings in the city owned by fraternal organizations. It is a well equipped building and its hall has been used for moving pictures. The hall lessee suspended business there three weeks ago and since that time it has not been in constant use. The stage and dressing rooms on the second floor were partially destroyed. The building cost $13,000 and was insured for $10,000.

The smoke from the building lay low and to the east of the fire and people as far away as Bigelow street were obliged to close the windows of their sleeping rooms. It extended as far as City Square but despite stories to the effect that a strong smell of fire permeated the City Square section for half an hour previous to the sounding of the alarm, people who were in that section say that they detected none and did not realize that a serious fire was in progress until they reached St. John's church which is but a short distance from the fire. At four o'clock however volumes of thick smoke hung over the territory.

The people living in houses adjoining the fire were roused by Patrolman Malone after he had pulled the alarm.

The fire had spread to the rear of the building and broken out before it was visible to most of the residents. They hastened to the scene and many remained until the all out was sounded at seven o'clock.

Pi Eta Society Play

Applications for tickets to "A BUG IN A RUG" to be given by the PI ETA SOCIETY under the auspices of the QUINCY TENNIS CLUB, on Friday, March twenty-seventh, will be received by James H. Slade, Treas., 17 Edgemere Road, Quincy.

As the tickets will be distributed in the order of application, you will recognize the importance of applying early. Tickets are $1.00 each and are reserved.

Executive Committee
Quincy Tennis Club
March 7-6t

Chalmers

The Master "Sixes"

What we claim for the Chalmers "Six" we ask you to let us prove. Come to the Chalmers space at the show—see this great car and let us show you its superiority. We will demonstrate the words non-stallable, silent power, gasoline economy, flexibility, zero upkeep, etc.

Master "Six" $2175 Master "Light Six" $1800

MECHANICS BUILDING
MAIN FLOOR—SPACES 108 and 109

The WHITTEN-GILMORE Co.
620 COMMONWEALTH AVE.

Represented in Lynn by C. E. Whitten
Lowell, Chalmers Motor Co. of Lowell
Lawrence and Haverhill, Smith Motor Car Co.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Finance Committee at Work on Appropriations

Tonight will be an off night for the City Council, for there will be no meeting of that body this week. Several committee meetings were held last week and others are scheduled for this week, so the chances are that the meeting of the Council next Monday will be an important one. The Finance Committee has held one meeting on the annual appropriation order and another is scheduled for this evening, and it is probable that the order will be reported at the meeting next Monday evening. As sent to the Council the budget is nearly $40,000 in excess of last year, and even now some of the departments claim they can not get along with the amounts credited with them. In the School Committee budget the Mayor scaled down some items and the School Committee declare that the amount named will not be sufficient to carry them through. However the Finance Committee will doubtless whittle down some of the items as forwarded by the Mayor.

The annual theatre party and dinner of the young lady clerks at City Hall was held Saturday afternoon. During the first part of the afternoon they saw the play "Within the law," after which they separated, part going to Filene's for dinner and part to Young's hotel. All report having had a good time.

The Mayor said this noon that he not selected the gentleman whom he should appoint as assessor to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of Mr. Bates. He further said that he might possibly be able to announce it Wednesday. There have been many rumors as to whom would be selected but the Mayor has not dropped the slightest hint. One of these rumors places the mantle on the shoulders of William L. Buckley of Atlantic. Mr. Buckley is said to have been the man whom the Mayor had selected for Chief of Police and who when informed by the Mayor that he had decided not to remove Chief Burrell, replied that he was very glad to hear that the Mayor had changed his mind, as he felt a little small at the possibility of throwing another man out of a job.

The furnishing of the City Engineers office have been removed to his new office in the basement and the carpenters are ready to go to work making the necessary changes to convert the office into an office for the Mayor.

CANDIDATE FOR JUNIOR VICE

Commander John S. Blagdon of John A. Boyd Camp 2, U. S. W. V., is a candidate for department junior vice commander. He has been twice elected commander of the Boyd camp and is assistant department adjutant on the department staff this year. He was one o fthe organizers of Col. Fred B. Bogan camp 14, under the old Legion charter and is a charter member.

Little Miss Marion G. Connelly of 169 Willard street celebrated her first birthday at her home Sunday. Though little Marion was rather young to realize what was going on she greatly enjoyed all her little friends running about, and also her many little presents. A lunch was served.

BULLET HOLE IN LEFT BREAST

Assailant Arrested and Held in $5000 Bonds

As a result of a row among a lot of Italians about 9 o'clock Sunday night, near the corner of Canal and Brackett streets, Teber Talopi aged 40 years of Elm place is at the City Hospital with a bullet hole in his left breast, and Domenico Bolea is under $5000 bonds for his appearance in court March 18, to answer the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Just how the row started is not known, but it is alleged that during the row Bolea pulled a revolver and aimed it at one man but that the shot struck Talopi.

Officer Broberg was on Washington street at the time and hearing the shots rushed to the scene. Bolea by that time had flown but was later captured in a house on Newcomb street in which he had taken refuge.

The ambulance was called and the injured man removed to the City Hospital where he was attended by City Physician Bartlett. His wound, although near the heart, is not considered necessarily a dangerous one. sarily a dangerous one.

In addition to Bolea, the alleged assailant, four others were arrested for disturbing the peace. They gave their names as Frank Balgno, John Balgno, Gussippe DiLorne and George DiStepano. They were held in court under $200 bonds until March 18.

DISTRICT COURT.

Domenico Bolea was arraigned for assault with a dangerous weapon at Quincy and was held in $5000 until March 18.

Frank Balgna, John Balgna, Guissippe DiLorne and George DiStepano were arraigned for disturbing the peace at Quincy, and were held in $200 each until March 18.

William Dean of Randolph was fined $15 for drunkenness, Patrick Gloss and Patrick Ward $15 each for drunkenness at Quincy, and Fred L. Hayden, John Cullen and Edward Gleason were sentenced to one month in the house of correction for drunkenness at Quincy.

HOME RULE BILL.

The Home Rule bill was discussed by Daniel Donahue, George D. Cahill, Patrick Cremins and Peter McConarty at the meeting of Quincy Branch, No. 61, United Irish Land League, in Cahills hall, Sunday night. Vice President Samuel T. Drew presided. There were 50 members present. Peter McConarty, Samuel T. Drew, David Warner, Frank Clinton, David Horrigan, Henry Murphy were appointed to arrange for an entertainment on March 16, in honor of St. Patricks day.

Do not fail to hear Joseph Lee's address on "The value of a public playground" at the Wollaston school hall this evening at 8 o'clock.

MAINE POTATOES

25c PECK

— AT —

Carlson's Restaurant

10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall

March 6-1m

CHRISTIANITY THE KEYNOTE

Subject of J. F. Knotts at Men's Meeting

There was an attendance of nearly five hundred men at the third in the series of Sunday afternoon meetings at Kincaide's theatre under the auspices of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. The meeting opened with gospel singing under the direction of A. F. Bromley, the general secretary, the audience being led by a chorus of forty voices. There was also singing by the Orpheus male quartette.

After scripture reading and prayer, Mr. Bromley spoke briefly of the meetings saying that twelve hundred men had taken part in the meetings. He also spoke of the meeting for next Sunday when he said Mrs. Elizabeth Packard Larson, of St. Paul, would give a dramatic and lyric recital of "Black Rock," or "The miner's guardian angel" from Ralph Connor's great book. There would be singing by Ruth Louise Hardy, with Albert M. Kanrich, violinist, and Edward Bullock, pianist.

He also said that boys under fourteen years of age would not be admitted to the Sunday afternoon meetings unless accompanied by their parents and guardians, but that they were welcome at the Saturday meetings at the Y. M. C. A. building.

The speaker of the afternoon was J. Franklin Knotts, known as the man who drove the saloon out of Lynn. His theme was "Christianity and what it stood for." He proved himself to be a forcible speaker and he held the closest attention throughout his address. Many men, he said, are wasting energy for the things which when they get them fail. Christianity was the true solution of life. Man is here to be developed, healthfully and morally. Christianity was the true conception of life. The chief function of religion is to develop men to live right and not wrong, morally and not immorally; to live the right kind of lives. No man can do his best when he lives in one world alone. We are here to become like God and like him to live forever. The christian life was the highest type of man and the noblest life.

The power of Christianity is to destroy evil and build up good, one in the place of the other. Christianity saves us from without and from within. The trouble with men is not their neighbors across the way, but themselves. What a mystery one man is to another. The greatest problem therefore is to master yourself, physically, morally and intellectually. Make your life one of obedience to God, for life is not worth the living but for our faith in God.

The meeting closed with a prayer by Secretary Bromley, and the singing of gospel hymns.

Before the meeting adjourned the Secretary extended an invitation to all present to visit the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. where a lunch would be served and an opportunity for a social hour given.

QUINCY POST OFFICE.

Letters unclaimed for week ending March 7: Muxezry Apmumyky, Pasquale Cieri, Santiago Coromina 2, John L. Crowell, Howard F. Hersey, (2) David A. Hinks, Profor Hricmk, Luigia Jalinino, Raymond Kadas, Oneju Kardalik, Ubany Kopninryky, Edmund McWade, Vincenzo Mulara, A. Nield, Mrs. Lucy F. Perkins, Frank Rufo, Cugopy Tyuamoky, and one directed simply to Elsie.

Odd Fellows' Ball

The Annual Concert and Ball
-- of --
Mt. Wollaston Lodge, I. O. O. F.
Will be held at
Music Hall, Quincy
Thursday Evening, Mar. 12
POOLE'S ORCHESTRA
Concert 8 to 9. Dancing 9 to 2
Special Cars after Ball
March 9-3t

CLAN MacGREGOR AT CHURCH SERVICE

Addresses by John D. Mackay and the Rev. J. A. Matheson

Loyal Ladies Also Attend in Body Church Crowded

Portable seats had to be brought into the Water street Presbyterian church Sunday evening in order to accommodate all who attended. There were large delegations from Clan MacGregor and Loyal Ladies present on the invitation of the pastor. The clansmen had come from their hall in a body, while the Loyal Ladies had met in the lecture room of the church. Special music was furnished by the Orpheus male quartette of Boston.

Clansman John D. Mackay who had been invited by the pastor to address the congregation spoke on the duty the citizen owed the church. He said in part: "Scottish people are highly esteemed in this country, principally because of the fact that they are supposed to have religion woven into the web and woof of their characters. Any person of Scottish blood, whether he be Catholic or Protestant; whether he be Trinitarian or Unitarian, impairs the credit of his race when he becomes irreligious or unreligious. The men who are entrusted with responsibilities in our nation, and in all spheres of life are not those who occupy the seats of the scorners, but those who are enjoying the ministrations of religion, and supporting some branch or other of the Christian church."

The pastor, Rev. J. A. Matheson, preached a forceful sermon, pointing out how much the church and societies like those before him had in common. He discussed several of what he called "points of contact" and said it was significant that the men and women who were most active and useful in the two orders were people who were church members. He said the church was above all other organizations, that she was serving man and serving God, and deserved the support and co-operation of the people. "The church," he said, "is at once the most democratic and the most select organization in the world. Her mission is divine. She is entitled to your best, for she instructs you in the greatest of all mysteries, the mystery of Godliness."

TREES AT COST.

To encourage planting, the Civic Committee of the Quincy Woman's Club will supply the following plants at a nominal cost: two year old dwarf pear tree, at twenty cents each—Bartlett, Seckel and Dutchess; two year old grape vines—black, white or red, at seven cents each, and Cuthbert raspberries at three cents each. All stock is of the best quality and orders should be sent to Mrs. H. H. Kitson, chairman, before April 1.

UNION C. E. RALLY.

The bi-monthly rally of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union will be held in the Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic this evening. Mayor Miller will speak on "What young people can do for Quincy," and Rev. C. C. Tilley of Calvary Baptist Church, South Quincy, will also give an address.

(ADVERTISE.)

QUINCY SAVINGS BANK

The Annual Meeting of the members of the Quincy Savings Bank Corporation, for the election of Trustees, and any other business that may legally come before them, will be held on

TUESDAY, APRIL 14, 1914,

at 4.30 o'clock P. M. at the Banking Rooms, 1374 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

GEORGE E. ADAMS, Clerk.
9-6t Mon.

Government Markers

Friends of deceased veterans of the Civil War, wishing government markers, fort their graves, will confer a favor upon Post No. 88 G. A. R. by sending their name, Company, and Regiment, at once, to Francis P. Loud, Q. M., Quincy, Mass. 9-6t

AT THE FOY STORES

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

Low Prices on all Standard Makes of

COCOA and CHOCOLATE

Made from the nut of the cocoa tree, these are two of the purest, most delicious of food products. In fact, there are few articles of food which possess such valuable and important dietary properties as these. Used in cooking, or as a beverage, they are beneficial and nutritious. We recommend their liberal use. Note our low prices.

FOY'S COCOA
Put up especially for us.
So good it bears our name.
1-2 lb can 15c 1-4 lb can 8c

BAKER'S COCOA and LOWNEY'S COCOA 19c half pound can

HASTY LUNCH COCOA 15c can PRISCILLA MINUTE COCOA 25c
HERSEY'S COCOA 18c can BENSDORF'S COCOA (Imported) 30c

BAKER'S CHOCOLATE 33c the pound
DOT CHOCOLATE Fine for confections 40c the pound

R. E. FOY & COMPANY

March 9-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass. by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

About the only way to do the new dances correctly is to do them differently from any one else.

In spite of the demand from the Improvement Societies for a "Paint-up Week," most of the men are not anxious to have their wives observe it.

The department of agriculture is starting out to make farm houses better, though of course barns always have to be fixed up first.

Seven of the recent suicides in Milwaukee chewed gum, but no way has been found to get rid of the other gum chewers.

As President Wilson seems to catch cold easily, he should beware how he gets overheated shoveling the snow paths at the White House.

Mr. Thornton, who has been hired to run the Great Eastern Railroad in England, will have to arrange a few smashups if they want American methods introduced.

The Interstate Commerce Commission having so little to do, it is believed they should run down to Jayville for a day or two and look up that dangerous grade crossing.

The stores have Tango skirts, Tango shoes, etc., but they never seem to name any clothes after ordinary wholesome gymnastic exercises.

Many people are inquiring why the newspapers give space to Congress now that the ball players are actually trying out in Southern practice.

BILL BOARDS.

The city of St. Louis has finally won in litigation extending over nine years, against the operations of a bill-board combine. The statute was moderate, merely limiting height of such boardings to 14 feet and a maximum area of 500 square feet. If such regulations are not established, there will be no limits to the deformed advertising that will grow up in vacant city lots and suburbs.

If it is constitutional to limit bill-boards to certain heights and lengths why can not this limitation be carried indefinitely in the interest of the public good?

To travellers on American railroads, one of the most disgusting sights is the way advertising bill-boards thrust themselves against country scenery. one escapes from the routine of home scenes or the restless crowding of cities, one looks with anticipation for the serene peace of rivers and hills and forests. Yet on almost any line with heavy travel, the coarse appeal to dollars thrusts itself at you in the most grotesque form, shutting out the hoped for message from Mother Nature.

On some lines there is an almost continuous succession of these obnoxious and ugly notices. People pay down good money for the refreshment of country scenes, and are solicited against their will to buy some one's corsets or tooth paste.

A great many people conceive a strong feeling of dislike against the company that chooses this method of advertising. One would think that publicity seekers would begin to think that they are not buying the good will of the public, when they choose a method of advertising that is so unpopular.

Meanwhile the end of this tiresome litigation in St. Louis will encourage a host of improvement societies and civic associations, which have always believed that bill-boards could be outlawed or greatly curbed through legal means.

SIMS MEASURE LIKELY TO WIN

Tolls Repeal Will Soon Be Placed Before House

BOTH SIDES EAGER TO TALK

Forcible Protest Promised From Minority—Denial of European Pressure Upon United States—No Present Intention of Aggressive Action of Any Sort by Foreign Powers

Washington, March 9.—The Sims bill for repeal of the coastwise shipping exemption clause of the Panama canal act probably will be laid before the house in about ten days. Democratic Leader Underwood and Chairman Adamson of the house committee on interstate commerce reached an agreement to press the measure after the passage of the rivers and harbors appropriation bill, which will follow the disposition of the agricultural bill this week.

While no canvass of the house has been made, it is thought that about fifty Democrats will vote against the administration. House Republicans are similarly divided.

While a rule to expedite consideration will be available, it may not be necessary, as both sides are eager for discussion. Representative Sims, author of the bill, predicted that it would become law without much delay.

A minority report from the committee will be prepared by Representative Knowland, Republican. Representative Lafferty, Progressive, probably will join with him. Knowland said he proposed to make his minority protest against repeal of the exemption a vigorous criticism of the president's demand, and that it would be too forcible for Doremus and O'Shaunessy, as Democrats, who voted with him, to sign.

The idea that has gained hold in the United States that Great Britain has directly played the Benton case to force repeal of the canal tolls exemption clause is not credited by diplomatists here. The restraint exercised by Foreign Secretary Grey in speaking of the attitude of the British government toward the Benton case shows, according to diplomatic opinion here, that Great Britain was not endeavoring to force the situation in any way.

Quite to the contrary, it is asserted that Europe is anxious to avoid any action which can be construed as forcing the United States to intervene in Mexico. The European governments realize that if the blame for American intervention in Mexico can be laid at their doors it will serve to decrease their prestige in Latin America.

The European representatives here are taking advantage of every opportunity to emphasize the fact that no pressure is being brought to bear on the United States.

There is no present intention of aggressive action of any sort by European powers, it is said. The state department feels entirely secure from this at the present time. If the United States enters upon the task of subduing Mexico it will be necessary for her to feel secure from attack or even from serious annoyance from any other quarter.

FLEE IN NIGHTCLOTHES

Twenty Patients Escape When Sanitarium Cottages Burn

East Bridgewater, Mass., March 9.—Fire last night in a small cottage of the Millet sanatorium spread to two other buildings and forced twenty tuberculosis patients to flee through snow, clad only in their night clothing, for shelter in the main building.

The main building was not threatened by the flames, for the breeze blew in the opposite direction. The fire started from an overheated stove. The blaze was confined to the three cottages. The loss is about $3000.

DEATH OF GENERAL AMES

Long a Leader In Rhode Island Business and Politics

Providence, March 9.—General William Ames, prominent in the business and political life of Rhode Island for half a century, died at his home after a month's illness. He was 73 years old.

After a brilliant military record in the Civil war, Ames entered a business careeer and later was United States collector of internal revenue for the First Rhode Island District.

Justice Clabaugh's Sudden Death

Washington, March 9.—Chief Justice Harry H. Clabaugh, 58, of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, died suddenly of heart failure. He was on his way to Georgetown university to lecture when stricken.

Held For Shooting Policeman

Clinton, Mass., March 9.—John Gaw was arraigned in the local court, charged with shooting Policeman William O'Toole at the home of Mrs. Alice Gaw. He was held in $2500 for the grand jury. Gaw pleaded not guilty.

Death of Siamese Twin

Paris, March 9.—Madeleine, the Siamese twin, who was separated from her sister, Suzanne, by means of a delicate surgical operation, died of convulsions.

MAJOR KOEHLER

Army Officer's Trial Is Being Held Behind Closed Doors

Photo by American Press Association.

TESTIMONY HURTS KOEHLER

Witness For Defense Said to Have Strengthened Case Against Him

New London, Conn., March 9.—Despite the secrecy which surrounds the court martial at Fort Terry of Major Benjamin M. Koehler on charges involving immorality, it was learned that Sergeant Harvey Kernan of the hospital corps, called as a witness for the defense, had turned out to be an excellent witness for the prosecution.

It is believed he testified that Koehler was a man of the highest character, but he related alleged events when he and Koehler were in New York on recruiting service which are said to have strengthened the case of the major's accusers.

SUICIDE IN MIDST OF ART TREASURES

Blakeslee Shoots Himself In His New York Galleries

New York, March 9.—Theron J. Blakeslee, noted American art dealer, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head in the exhibition room of his galleries, surrounded by the costliest gems of his $1,000,000 stock of paintings. Financial difficulties, it is thought, prompted Blakeslee's act.

Paul Mersch, son-in-law, and representative of Charles Sedelmeyer, art dealer of Paris, was a horrified witness of Blakeslee's self-destruction. With Theron Davis, personal counsel of the art dealer, Mersch had spent several hours in the Blakeslee galleries.

Blakeslee was 61 years old. He entered the art field in Boston and came to this city in 1885.

THIEVES KILL WATCHMAN

Soldier Held as Witness to Murder In Vermont Coal Yard

Burlington, Vt., March 9.—Henry Bushey of Winsooki, a suburb, died of a bullet wound received while he was pursuing coal thieves near the sheds of the American Woolen company in that village. Bushey was employed by the company as a watchman.

Christopher B. Chandler, a cavalryman from Fort Ethan Allen, who accompanied him, is held as a witness in the hope that he may be able to identify the man who fired the shot.

HAPPY DAYS FOR BEANTOWN

Big Shipment of Hub's Favorite Food Arrives From France

Boston, March 9.—The arrival of the British freight steamer Yearby from Marseilles with 2500 sacks of beans for Boston will place the home of the seductive "thousand on" in the seventh heaven for many weeks to come.

Each pound contains a thousand beans and each sack holds a full 100 pounds. Therefore 250,000,000 beans have been brought into historic Beantown.

Student Sues City For $5000

Worcester, Mass., March 9.—The city of Worcester is sued for $5000 by Hector J. Demars, 20, for injuries he claims to have suffered as a high school student here, when directed by a teacher to perform a chemical experiment and injured in an explosion that resulted.

Woman's Income Is $200,000

Chicago, March 9.—Mrs. Mollie N. Neuberger, a Chicago business woman, told internal revenue officials she would pay an income tax on an estimated yearly income of $200,000. The tax will amount to nearly $30,000.

ANOTHER MILITANT ROW

Sylvia Pankhurst Arrested and an American May Be Deported

London, March 9.—Militant suffragettes again engaged in a battle with the police on their favorite field, Trafalgar square, and in a pouring rain.

The arrest of Sylvia Pankhurst for the sixth time under the "cat and mouse" law precipitated the conflict. In addition to Miss Pankhurst, seven women and three men were arrested.

Among those taken into custody was Miss Zelie Emerson of Jackson, Mich. Miss Emerson has been arrested several times for participation in suffragette demonstrations and recently Home Secretary McKenna declared:

"If Miss Emerson again commits an offense bringing her within the provisions of the aliens act, the question of applying to the court for a recommendation for her expulsion as an undesirable alien will be considered."

NOTED LIBERAL LEADER

Death of Sir George Ross, Who Also Achieved Fame as a Writer

Toronto, March 9.—Sir George W. Ross, senator of the Dominion of Canada and formerly premier of the province of Ontario, is dead. He was born in 1841.

Ross, by profession a lawyer, was known popularly as "the father of new Ontario" owing to his immense activities in the development of that province. He was recognized as one of the best public speakers in the dominion.

He was at one time strongly in favor of reciprocal trade relations between Canada and the United States, and a resolution introduced by him in 1882 gave birth to the movement in favor of reciprocity. He was knighted by King George in 1910.

Ross was a prolific writer on education, temperance and contemporary history.

PLUNGES DIRK INTO HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW

Revenge of Lowell Man For Failing to Secure Dowry

Lowell, Mass., March 9.—The refusal of James Colohelas to give a dowry to the man who married his sister resulted last night in the woman's brother being stabbed twice in the stomach. He is in a dangerous condition.

The police are searching for Mikitas Kalampokas, who eloped with the young woman about a month ago.

According to the police, Kalampokas and his young wife, who was Mary Colohelas, went to her brother's home to secure her clothing and also to demand the customary dowry. Colohelas is said to have been much opposed to the wedding, and refused to give the dowry because his permission had not been asked by Kalampokas.

The police say that Kalampokas became angry and drew a dirk, which he plunged into the body of his wife's brother. In the excitement the woman was slightly cut on the wrist, and her husband escaped.

ALLEGED SURTAX ON SHOES

Charges of Bay State Manufacturers Have Reached Washington

Washington, March 9.—Representative Gilmore talked with Assistant Secretary of State Osborne about charges of shoe manufacturers in Massachusetts that Russia, France and Germany have discriminated unfairly against American shoes by imposing duties of 40 to 60 cents a pair as against duties for half that sum against English shoes.

The state department will ask our ambassadors in these countries to take up the matter of discrimination and ask that it cease.

Tolstoi Statue Is Forbidden

St. Petersburg, March 9.—The minister of the interior has forbidden public subscriptions to a monument to the late Count Tolstoi, on account of his views aginst the government and against the orthodox church.

Not Engaged to McAdoo

Washington, March 9. — Mrs. Woodrow Wilson authorized a denial of reports that Miss Eleanor Wilson is engaged to marry Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Miss Euphemia (Effie) Germon, a popular actress of fifty years ago, died at the Actors' Fund Home in Staten Island.

Peter Guy, chief of the Bucklin tribe of Romany gypsies, dropped dead at Paterson, N. J., from heart disease.

Three yachts, two motorboats, thirty dories, a dozen gasolene engines and Frank Cole's boat building establishment were destroyed by fire at Kingston, Mass.

Two-year-old Thelma Berrett of Saugus, Mass., died as a result of burns received when she set herself afire while playing with matches.

While dancing the tango, Mrs. Ernest C. Hawkins, a Batavia, N. Y., society woman, suffered a stroke of apoplexy and died.

A serum injected into the skull of a victim of paresis at a Verona, N. J., hospital enabled him to regain his power of speech.

QUINCY REAL ESTATE SALES.

Matilda A. Atwood to Marcus E. Wight, Farnum street.

Hilda Carlson to Edward E. Cox, Eddie street.

Florence S. A. Davis to Albert Nelson, Foster street, Chestnut street.

Walter E. Elcock to Alfred T. Marion, Coddington street.

Edwin H. Keene et al trs to George H. Walker, Farrington street.

Aubrey R. Keith to Mary Jones, River street.

Annie M. Kelley to Frederick E. Tupper, Sea street.

Annie M. Kelley to William P. Holcombe, Forest avenue, Grove street.

John F. Mahon to Frederick E. Tupper, Sea street.

Henry F. Marden et al to Lillian F. Lovell, Phillips street.

James R. Murphy to Patrick Cassidy, Albatross & Mallard roads.

Herbert M. Shaw to Nettie Shay, Beach street.

Annie L. Specht to Louis S. Cleaves, Phillips street.

Frederick E. Tupper to August Erfeldt et al, Sea street.

Catherine R. White to Theodore C. Hay, Bromfield street.

Fred W. Wood et al trs to R. Josephine Mackenzie, Billings road.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Inspector of Buildings Merrill has issued the following building permits:

Lincoln Polishing Mill, miscellaneous.

Abner Tabb, Beale street miscellaneous.

A. Lorando, Gilbert street, miscellaneous.

Mary E. Williams, Alden street alteration.

W. L. Buckley, Walnut street, removal.

C. A. Baird, Sea avenue, alteration.

Arthur C. Beale, Phillips street, dwelling.

Fred E. Nightingale, Granite street, mercantile.

A. R. McDonald, Phillips street, garage.

Meadow Brook Ice Co., Penn street, garage.

SCHOOL REPORT.

The annual report of the School Committee and Superintendent of Schools is out today and makes a volume of 101 pages. Aside from the usual reports relative to finances, school attendance and industrial schools, the report this year contains an outline of all the laws relating to the employment of children. In view of the new laws relative to the employment of children of school age this part of the report will be read with interest. The extracts given are in relation to the employment of children under 12 years, under 14 years, under 15 years, under 16 and between 14 and 16, girls under 18 and of children between 16 and 18 years, boys 16 to 18 years and girls 16 to 21 years, children under 18 years, children 18 to 21 years, children under 21 years and boys from 18 to 21 years.

JUDSON INDICTED.

Daniel H. Judson, a former Wollaston resident, and William P. Gainey, were indicted by the Suffolk Grand Jury for assault with intent to murder John J. Gately on Feb. 5. Gatley was a clerk in a pawn dealers' store in Roxbury and was shot in an attempt to rob the store. The men surrendered to the Worcester police. They were also indicted on a charge for assault with intent to rob Patrick Kennedy, a Boston business man. Judson was employed at the Wollaston station.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—not made by guess-work, but by a scientific formula. Leading grocers sell it.

WHY 7000 DRUGGISTS
Guarantee and Recommend Vinol.

If any one should know the value of a medicine it is the retail druggist who sells it.

Therefore, when over seven thousand of the best retail druggists in the country recommend Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, as the greatest tonic reconstructor and strength creator they have ever sold, it must indicate the value of Vinol.

We could publish columns of such testimony as the following:

J. C. Brady, druggist of Fall River, Mass., says: "In cases where cod liver oil, emulsions and other tonics fail, Vinol will heal, strengthen and cure."

C. A. Potterfield, druggist, of Charleston, W. Va., says: "It is a pleasure to sell Vinol as it gives such universal satisfaction."

Hunter & McGee, druggists, of Jackson, Miss., say: "We have great confidence in the strength creating and curative value of Vinol."

We ask every run-down, nervous, debilitated, aged or weak person or any person suffering from chronic coughs, colds or bronchitis, to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

MAYBE YOU DON'T REALIZE

That we can do a lot for you besides keeping your money in a safe place. We help you with your accounting, your credits, and your collections. We give free legal advice on business subjects. We have a wonderful fund of information that you would do well to remember. Call in and find out some of the advantages of being a "Granite Trust" depositor.

Our $5 Box Is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

SHAMOKIN COAL RANGE

FREE BURNING

Like The Shamokin of 20 years ago

C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

Advertise in the Ledger

Among Our Churches

CHURCH REPORTS.

If your church is not well represented in this department, it is because your church has not appointed a good press correspondent.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

The pastor, Rev. B. A. Willmott, preached at both the Sunday services at Bethany church, to large congregations; his topic in the morning was "When we consider" and in the evening "Rebecca looking for a husband."

Bethany union will holds its monthly meeting on Wednesday from 11 to 5. In the afternoon there will be an address by the pastor, and a paper by Mrs. John D. Mackay on "What the mothers of great men did for them."

Beryl Beane will be the leader of the Junior C. E. meeting on Thursday at 4.10.

Tickets will be required for the invitation concert to be given Friday evening under the auspices of Bethany Brotherhood. The Weber quartet will be assisted by a reader.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, pastor of St. Mary's church addressed the Holy Name Society Sunday afternoon on "The Real Meaning of Socialism." The majority of the membership of 450 were present.

Rev. Fr. John J. Powers, of Cambridge, a former curate will preach the sermon at the midweek Lenten devotions which will be held in the church on Wednesday night.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

At the Sunday morning service Rev. Carl G. Horst preached the second sermon in the series of Twentieth Century Christianity the special topic being "the old and new thought of man." The singing by the girls choir was much enjoyed.

The minister's preparatory class met after the morning worship and spent a helpful hour considering "Fundamentals of faith."

As usual the seating capacity of the church was taxed at the monthly vesper service Sunday at which the Apollo quartet of Boston rendered a fine musical program.

The Ladies' Aid Alliance meets in the vestry Wesdnesday, at 2.30. Mrs. Mary B. Davis of New York will speak on "My missionary trip to the great Northwest." Mrs. Davis is an exceptionally bright speaker, and there is no one better fitted than she to explain the wide scope of Alliance work.

The members of the Choir guild will give an entertainment in the vestry, Friday evening. The public is cordially invited.

The young married men will hold a social party in Brassee hall, Saturday evening, March 14.

Rev. Julian C. Jaynes of West Newton will be the visiting preacher at the special Lenten service next Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock. Mr. Jaynes is one of the ablest preachers in Greater Boston.

We extend hearty congratulations to our friends of the Wollaston Congregational church, in raising in so short a time the necessary funds for the erection of a parish house.

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

The theme of the Sunday morning sermon by Rev. George M. Bailey, the pastor, was taken from the text in Romans 7:21-23. "The silent conflict upon the unseen battlefield, which is the constant warfare between the good and the evil forces in the human life. The subject of the evening message was "The truth about the four men who interrupted a great preacher and stopped the sermon."

Assistant superintendent F. G. Bennett was in charge of the Sunday school and Mrs. George Crothers president of the W. C. T U. gave an interesting temperance talk to the school.

The Missionary meeting will be at the home of Mrs. L. C. Merrill on Monday afternoon, Mrs. S. N. Belcher reviewing the lesson study.

The Epworth League business meeting and social will be held in the church vestry on Friday evening.

The choir under the direction of Mrs F .G. Bennett is planning an "Olde Folke's Concert" to be given on the last day of the month which promises to be very interesting and attractive.

The Ladies' Aid Society will have a social gathering in the church next Monday evening at which time the holiday dime cards will be returned. Music and various diversions in honor of St. Patrick and the Emerald Isle will be enjoyed.

PARK AND DOWNS.

The Sunday morning subject was from the 25th chapter of Matthew—"I was afraid and went and buried Thy talent in the earth." The lesson to be derived—the use of the talents God has given us. The sermon was a most helpful lesson, tender and earnest in its appeal, strong in spirituality and power.

For his Sunday evening sermon the pastor analyzed some sections of the report of the Massachusetts Vice Commission. He said the value of the report lies chiefly in the causes given and the types of character involved. He emphasized that section of the report, that states that "In all the cities of the state a large number of young girls from 12 to 18 years of age roam the streets at night rapidly learning its lessons."

The minister spoke of the folly of parents permitting their children to remain away from home into the late hours of the evening. Then he dealt with that part of the report that described the type of woman interviewed by the Commission. "The mental capacity of most of them was that of children of 12. They were deficient in judgment and good sense. They were egotitical and vain. There was noticeable among them an absence of affection for their parents. Their regard was for the immediate pleasures without regard to consequences. Lack of forethought and responsibility was strikingly evident among them."

This traces the condition directly back to the homes. Such a character as that described is almost impossible to reform after maturity. What we must do is to begin at the sources. The social evil is not to be banished by laws, but by a whole altered social order. We must cleanse the homes. Change industrial conditions so that it will be financially possible for every man to adequately support and educate his family. And all the social arrangements and adjustments possible will not work the change unless the great machinery of Christianity begins to turn to a purpose and plant thought seeds and ideals in young brains now half empty and because empty, headed straight for the swelling ranks of sin. Empty brains of multitudes of youth; that's the great cause. Slow, laborious unintermittent christian education is the remedy. The marked ability of the speaker was brought out by the masterly manner in which he handled his subject.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

Late comers at the Sunday morning service had difficulty in finding seats, the church being crowded by eleven o'clock. "Secret discipleship" was the subject of the sermon which must have stirred the hearts of the large audience. The story was that of Joseph Arimathea, who was a disciple "in secret," because he feared the Jews. Rev. Joseph Walther, the pastor said that those who love Christ should declare their allegiance openly: (1) for Christ's sake: he deserves it, he needs it, he demands it. (2) For our own sake. (3) For the world's sake. in conclusion, he quoted the poem by Henry F. Lyte, "Jesus, I my cross have taken."

The large attendance extended through the Sunday School in all departments. The New Testament lessons afford great opportunities for discussion.

At the junior meeting at 3.30 Mrs. Walther spoke on "Pictures that teach beautiful lessons" mentioning among others, "The Angelus" and "The good shepherd." Seldon H. Nickerson was the leader of the Senior C. E. meeting and covered the subject "How to present poverty" very capably.

At 7 a song service was held in the auditorium with special music by the chorus choir, duet by Mrs. Walther (pianist) and Mrs. Drew (organist) and a solo by Miss Ruth L. Hardy. The subject of the sermon was "When is a man's heart not right?"

Tuesday evening at 7.45, a cottage prayer meeting will be held at the home of A. A. Polson, 54 Marshall street, Norfolk Downs.

Wednesday evening at 6.30 the Social and Benevolent Society will serve a chicken supper in the chapel.

Thursday evening at 7.45, the Nearer and Farther Lights Society will hold a public meeting in the chapel, in connection with the regular meeting for praise, prayer and testimony. An offering for missions will be taken. Speaker, Miss Annie L. Prince Moulmein, Burma.

Friday evening, at 7.45, a praise and preaching service will be held in Community hall, Montclair. Everyone invited to attend.

PROPAGATION OF FAITH.

The annual report of Rev. Fr. Joseph F. McGlinchey, the diocesan director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith is gratifying and is some $19,000 in excess of last year's contributions to Catholic missions. The sum total of $142,756.27 may surpass the returns of every other diocese in the world. The Quincy branches of the society have been generous in their contributions. The figures are St. John's church, $500.80, St. Mary's church $398.95, Church of the Sacred Heart $20.

AGAINST APPROPRIATION.

If Representative Fitzgerald of New York carrier to a successful issue his fight to prevent the Charlestown Navy Yard receiving an appropriation of $148,000 for equipment for construction of the Navy supply ship, it means far more than a hindrance to the work about to be begun. Rep. Fitzgerald's fears of competition with his home yard at Brooklyn sounds the elimination of the Charlestown yard as a Government shipbuilding plant.

PROSPERITY CONFERENCE.

The suggestion of a "prosperity conference" of the Mayors and Selectmen of all Massachusetts cities and towns to arrange for their commercial growth, made by Gov. David I. Walsh to the New England Association of Commercial Executives met with their favor and resulted in the appointment of a committee to take the matter in charge.

WORK POSTPONED.

The New Haven has officially announced that they cannot afford a new station for New Haven. Preliminary work, done in Mr. Mellen's regime will remain as it is. Considerable money was spent by the city in making approaches and streets.

BROTHERS ASK FOR BEER

One of Them Receives a Bullet Wound in the Leg Instead

Lynn, Mass., March 9.—As a result of an argument over beeer last night, John J. Hinton was shot in the left leg and Mariani Barnoba was locked up charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. The police also arrested Frank Evengeliste and three other men on the technical charge of drunkenness, and they will be held as witnesses.

Hinton, who is 22 years old, told the police that he and his brother Albert went to the house at 19 Bond street to get some beer. In response to their knocking three men came to the door. The Hintons said they asked for beer, whereupon Evengeliste knocked John Hinton down. The argument then degenerated into a melee.

A squad of police was rushed to the scene. There were four women and six children in the house, and when the police entered pandemonium broke loose.

UNPOPULAR WITH PEOPLE

Earle and His Companion Are Free, Though Declared Guilty

Remonstrance, France, March 9.—Although sentenced to two months' imprisonment for killing his son by his first wife, Ferdinand P. Earle is free, as the court ruled that he and his companion, Charlotte Herman, had already served the time of their sentence while waiting trial.

A sentence of one month was passed on Miss Herman. A fine of $5 was imposed on Earle and one of $3.25 on Miss Herman.

The judge awarded Mme. Fischbacher, Earle's first wife, damages against Earle aggregating $1400. She had sued for $5000.

Earle became very unpopular here during the trial. His brusqueness to the court provoked feeling against him. On his way to court he was hissed by the throng in the street.

The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

Pratt's Vienna Bread

Baked expressly for those who appreciate the best. Always uniform in quality and quantity.

YOUR GROCER

MY SLOGAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.

Will you help me do this?

F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer

Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Up-to-Date Newsy Locals o Neighboring Towns

Whitman re-elected its old board of Selectmen Saturday night. The license vote was Yes 482, No 662.

Thirty small boats and two motor boats stored in the boat building plant of Frank Cole, Rocky Nook, Kingston, were destroyed in the fire Saturday morning. The estimated loss is $15,000.

Two of the present board of selectmen of Plymouth, Chairman Alfred S. Burns and Herbert J. Maxwell, failed of re-election Saturday. The no-license partisans centered their fight against them and elected William T. Eldridge and John L. Morton. The town remains no license by a majority of 223.

The Hingham and Plymouth companies may be ordered to the front in event of intervention with Mexico.

Dr. Stanton Coit, president of the West London Ethical Society, is to make the principal address at the meetings of the Brookline Equal Suffrage Association tonight. The suffragists of the "world's richest town" declare their town is the citadel of anti-suffrage in Massachusetts, and many will attend the meeting.

Five sleeping shacks at the Millet, Sanatarium, Bridgewater, were burned early Sunday morning with a total loss of $2000. The patients were able to get out, but lost their bedding and furnishings. The main building was not threatened.

AIRSHIPS OF TODAY CAN CROSS OCEAN

Bell Points Out How Present Problems May Be Solved

Washington, March 9.—Transatlantic aeroplane flights with present day flying machines are a possibility of the near future, in the opinion of Dr. Alexander G. Bell, inventor of the telephone, who spoke here before the Federal School Men's club.

A system of gears for increasing the speeed of propellers in the decreased resistance of higher altitude, he said, probably would solve the problem. Machines of fifty miles an hour speed under ordinary conditions, he said, at proper altitude traveled 100 miles an hour.

"I think," he added, "we may safely say we will see airships crossing the Atlantic at a height of two miles above the earth, driven by warm and comfortable aeronauts."

BABY DERBY ARRIVES

First Grandson of Ex-President Roosevelt Born at New York

New York, March 9.—An eight-pound baby boy was born at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Derby. Mrs. Derby was Miss Ethel Roosevelt, youngest daughter of Theodore Roosevelt. The Derbys were married in April, 1913.

The new Derby baby is the first grandson of Roosevelt and there was much good-natured discussion of a name for him. There were many suggestions that he be called Theodore, but Derby said Richard, Jr., would be a good guess.

Riis' Lecutring Days About Over

Chicago, March 9.—The lecturing days of Jacob Riis are nearly ended. The travelef and author admitted it when he passed through Chicago on his way from New Orleans to Battle Creek, Mich., after suffering an attack of heart trouble.

Cigaret Causes Twenty-Four Deaths

Ekaterinoslav, Russia, March 9.—Twenty-four men were killed in an explosion of gas in a coal mine here. The explosion was caused by a miner opening his safety lamp in a gas-filled chamber to light a cigaret.

Police Chief Is Slain

St. Petersburg, March 9.—Lieutenant Colonel Chebaiff, chief of St. Petesrburg police, was assassinated in his office by Lieutenant Ivanoff, a junior officer. Revenge was the motive.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

MORGAN PROFITS ON NEW HAVEN

Amounted to $350,000 From Financial Investments

INVOLVED OVER $333,000,000

Banking House Lost $183,360 on Outright Purchases—Millbrook Company Affair Explained, but No Light as to Where Money Vanished—Mellen Disclaims Blame In the Matter

Boston, March 9.—The financial relations of the New Haven railroad and of J. P. Morgan & Co. since 1894 are described in full in a statement given out last night by the banking house in response to a request from Chairman Elliott of the railroad company's board of directors.

This statement shows that although the house of Morgan represented the New Haven in financial transactions involving more than $333,000,000, its total profit was only $350,000. On certain transactions the banking house suffered large losses, according to report.

On outright purchases the banking house lost $183,360.14, according to the statement. Commissions on other transactions before the Morgan company became fiscal agents of the New Haven made a profit of $148,645.25—in about seventeen years—while similar commissions while the company acted as the New Haven's fiscal agents aggregated, in less than three years, $384,980.01.

One of the most interesting features of the report is the Morgan company's version of the Millbrook company affair. It shows that the New Haven borrowed $11,155,000 for that company, through which the railroad administered the affairs of the New York, Westchester and Boston company. The Morgan company's connection with the matter is made clear by the statement.

Of the $12,000,000 invested by the New Haven in the Westchester road, Commissioner Prouty of the interstate commerce commission said: "So far as records go, this money has vanished ito thin air."

In the Morgan company's statement it appears that the loan was made and repaid, and that the securities put up against it were returned to the Millbrook company on Oct. 30, 1907. The Morgan statement, of course, does not answer the question: "What were the New Haven's relations with the Millbrook company in regard to the loan?"

Prouty pointed out in his report that the Westchester road cost the New Haven $34,000,000, a sum $12,000,000 more than the property was worth, from the New Haven's own valuation. What disposition was made by the New Haven of the money loaned by the house of Morgan has not been made clear.

The statement from J. P. Morgan & Co. goes on to say that the New Haven, in a letter from former President Mellen, took full responsibility for the New Haven's relations with the Millbrook company.

Mellen declared over the telephone last night that any of his acts in connection with the Millbrook company merely carried out the wishes of the board of directors. At that time the house of Morgan was represented in the road's directorate by J. P. Morgan himself.

According to the Morgan statement, $8,250,000 was advanced first in loans to Oakleigh Thorne. This was later made over to the Millbrook company, to which other loans were advanced in behalf of the New Haven to a total amount of $11,155,000.

START FLAMES IN REVENGE

Burglars Almost Cause Death of Whole Family of Seven

New York, March 9.—Burglars, disappointed in the amount of money they found in a cash register in the department store of Joseph Sheffer at Baldwins, L. I., deliberately set the house on fire and then ran away. Sheffer, his wife and their five children narrowly escaped being burned to death when trapped in their sleeping apartments on the second floor. The building was burned to the ground with a loss of $10,000.

The Sheffer children are Isabelle, 15 years old; Eugene, 12; Harry, 10; Simpson, 8, and Joseph, Jr., 6 months' old. It was the cries of the baby, choking with smoke, that awakened the family.

COLD TEA AND LEMON

Together With Coughing They Restore Girl When Near Death

New York, March 9.—After having hiccoughed almost constantly since Thanksgiving day, 11-year-old Hilda Caine of Sea Cliff, L. I., had a violent attack of coughing. Her mother gave her cold tea and lemon. The coughing stopped.

The coughing apparently had cured her and the tea and lemon had made the work certain. She was near death when the relief came.

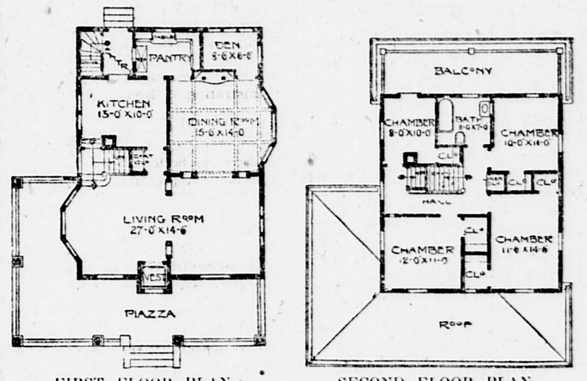
Rear Admiral Lyon Dead

Philadelphia, March 9.—Rear Admiral George A. Lyon, U. S. N., retired, died here and his body was taken to Erie, where funeral services will be held. He was 76 years old and was retired in 1899 with the rank of rear admiral.

MODIFIED NEW ENGLAND COLONIAL.

Design 605, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN. SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

In this colonial plan the living room and parlor are divided with a wide columned opening. This space may all be made into one large living room, and the vestibule can be left out entirely or built entire on the piazza, thus leaving the living room with regular lines. The dining roop has a beamed ceiling and a large sideboard across the rear. This room is made very pleasant by a projecting bay window, back of which there is a small conservatory for flowers or could be used for a den or sewing room. There is a combination open stairway to the second story and a rear entrance to basement from the entry. The ice can be put into the refrigerator in the pantry from the outside. This house has a grand piazza 10 feet wide, covering the entire front and part of one side. A sun room or sleeping porch can be built across the rear if desired. The second story has four chambers and liberal closet space, large bath and very convenient hall. Full basement under entire house. Finish in first story is planned for oak or red gum throughout, with oak floors; second story pine to paint or Washington fir. First story, 9 feet; second story, 8 feet in the clear. Space in attic where two rooms could be finished. Size of house 26 by 30 feet. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $4300 if strict economy is used.

Upon receipt of $1 the publisher of this paper will furnish a copy of Saxton's book of plans, "American Dwellings." It contains about 250 up to date designs of cottages, bungalows and residences costing from $1,000 to $6,000.

Try an Advertisement in

The Quincy Daily Ledger

Through the Daily Newspaper the Advertiser can make a local and intimate appeal to his prospective customer in his own community and in his own vernacular.

The Newspaper Advertisement is not buried—it is accessib'e. The Newspaper Advertisement of a commodity continually or daily needed is read by the very people whose continual or daily need the Advertiser desires to supply. The Newspaper Advertisement may be seen thirty times a month—it is not limited to one appearance.

Geo. W. Prescott Publishing Company

1424 Hancock Street, -- Quincy, Mass.

$1.00 WHILE THEY LAST

BARGAINS

HISTORIES OF QUINCY

Slightly damaged by water. Just the thing for students of history for reference, or to clip from.

Bargain price of

$1.00

while they last.

A few perfect copies for $3.50

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING COMPANY
LEDGER—PATRIOT OFFICE

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT
BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Burbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck.
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
M. H Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Fair Tuesday and Wednesday, with seasonable temperature.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	6.06
Sun sets	5.45
Length of day	11.39
Moon sets	5.21
High water, A. M.	9.45
High water, P. M.	10.15
Days increase	2 hours, 33 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	41 degrees
Mar. 10 1913,	31 degrees
Mar. 10, 1912,	48 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

WEST QUINCY LEAGUE.

The West Quincy league closed its second week Saturday night and its records are envied by bowlers of other leagues. The pinfall mark of 1528 and the single string record of 557, made by the St. Mary's team, will undoubtedly stand for some time to come. The high scores have stimulated much enthusiasm and frequently fans that witness the matches are armed with tin horns and cow bells. The St. Mary's team has lost but one point out of a possible 16, and easily leads the Foresters' team which is in second place.

This week matches promise to be as interesting as the ones rolled. Tuesday night, the St. Mary's and the Franco Americans meet and Div. 22 A. O. H. and the Foresters roll Thursday night. The teams of the Copeland club and Ave Maria council, Knights of Columbus roll Friday night.

The official league standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	PC
St. Mary's	15	1	.937
Foresters	9	7	.562
Copelands	8	8	.500
Ave Maria	7	9	.437
Div. 22	5	11	.312
Franco America	5	16	.312

High individual string, Thomas J. Shortle ,140.

High individual three string, F. McPherson, 329.

High team total, St. Mary's, 1528.

High team single, St. Mary's, 557.

The 10 high averages are Frank McPherson 97, Ralph Elcock 94, Thomas Joyce 93 plus, Joseph Brunot 93, Joseph Morrisett 91, John Welsh 90, James McDonald 90, Edward Howley 90, John J. King 90, William Lorandeau 89.

For the Old Man to Decide.

Old Gotrox (savagely)—So you want to marry my daughter, do you? Do you think two can live as cheaply as one?" Young Softly (slightly embarrassed)—"I—I hardly think you will notice any difference, sir."—Puck.

HERE AT HOME

Quincy Citizens Gladly Testify and Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Quincy citizen:

George R. Williams, supt. city work, 32 Chestnut St., Quincy, Mass., says: "In my work I have considerable heavy lifting and I also get on and off a wagon a great deal. My back and kidneys were affected and I suffered from severe pains in my back. I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for two years. They have always fixed me up in good shape. I keep them in the house and am glad to recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn, Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

QUINCY WINS FROM MALDEN

Jack Melville's Team from Roxbury Defeated

The Y. M. C. A. first and second basket ball teams had an easy time winning from the Malden teams on Saturday night at Malden. The score of the first team game was 29 to 25, while the second team ran up a total of 38 to Maldens 6 points.

The first team game started out as if the Malden team was going to slaughter the visitors as the score in the first half, with only five minutes left to play was 14 to 2 in Malden's favor. Trask and Flanders got very busy during the time remaining, and scored 14 points between them, Trask getting 5 and Flanders 2 goals. Malden was able to score but once in this time and the score was 16 to 16 at the end of the period.

There was nothing to it at all in the last half for the Quincy backs covered their men so well that only 4 goals were scored by Malden, while Quincy made 23 points. Trask was high score man, getting 10 goals, Price made 4 and Flanders 3 and Johnson 1. Fouls were shot by Trask twice and Price also shot one.

The second team game was one-sided from start to finish, Quincy winning by 38 to 6. Every man on the Quincy team scored at least two goals while Thomas made 6, Miller 5 and Bishop 4 and Croucher and Robertson 2 each. The work of Robertson and Croucher was of very good merit for neither of the Malden forwards were able to score from the floor. The team work and passing by the second team was the best that has been shown for some time.

The Employed Boys were at the same having a regular field day with Jack Melville's team from Roxbury on the Quincy floor, taking the visitors into camp by the large score of 75 to 12. John Osberg was the star performer of the evening, getting 21 goals from the floor. Joe Robertson also scored well, making 11 goals. The mark of Osbergs is the best of the year for Quincy teams and will probably stand as there are but a few games remaining on the schedule.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE.

By winning four points from the Davis Class Friday night the Makaria Class went up into second place in the Sunday School bowling league. The standing is now as follows:

	Won	Lost	PC	Total
Rand	7	1	.775	2347
Makaria	8	4	.666	3571
Davis	3	9	.250	3247
Clarke	2	6	.250	2219

Henry Prescott leads in high single score with 105, and also with three strings, 280.

A few postponed matches remain to be rolled in the Fore River bowling league, but their results will not affect the team standing although the individual records may be smashed.

The Machine Gallery which jumped into the lead when the season was quarter over finishes in first place with the Yard team in second. The standing:

	Won	Lost
Machine Gallery	77	11
Yard	71	17
Electricians	56	28
Machine Floor	54	34
Hull Draftsmen	52	32
Argentine Inspectors	42	23
Gov. Draftsmen	36	52
Blacksmiths	35	49
Ex-Apprentices	32	56
Pipe Fitters	19	65

High individual string, Bergfors of the Blacksmiths, 140.

High three string total, Moran, Machine Gallery, 338.

High team single, Machine Gallery, 529.

High team total, Machine Gallery, 1513.

Captain Paul Larkin of the base ball team at Quincy High school is looking over candidates and will issue a call for battery men to report for practice on Thursday. The school will be without the services of veteran pitchers and the new material will be developed by Coach French, a former Southern league twirler. "Twin" Murphy and James O'Connor will try for the berth and it is expected that others may appear. The infield will be coached by Frank L. Mansur and is practically intact, the players available being Captain Larkin for short stop, Pete Creedon for second, Earl Bates for third, and Art Sawyer and Captain Jenkins of the basket ball team for first base.

"Dun" Hamlin and Captain O'Donnell of the hockey team are out for the catchers position. Hamlin received several friction burns on the arms during the basket ball season but should be in shape for base ball. O'Donnell, if reports are true will make a strong bid for the place. The outfield possibilities are uncertain the only men that have announced their intention being "Buck" Reardon and "Whet" Brown.

The schedule has been completed by Manager Berman and during the season Quincy will face strong teams. It is expected that this year the team will receive the full support of the school, something which has been lacking the past two years. Captain Larkin is a very popular athlete and his leadership should appeal to the student body. He has also been chosen captain of the football team for next fall.

The Quincy Athletic Association Inc. has reorganized and its board of directors now consists of athletes who have assisted in making it one of the foremost organizations affiliated with the New England Amateur Athletic Association. Charles C. McHugh is president and William H. Flynn, secretary-treasurer. The directors are Matthew J. Cummings, Jr., Bernard J. Boyle, Ray McDonald, Daniel P. Cummings and J. Webster MacDonald. The reorganization assures a continuation of the fine record made by Quincy A. A., and it may be but a short time before it leads the other organizations. An amateur boxing tourney conducted under the direction of the N. E. A. A. A. U., at which only registered amateurs can compete, is booked for March 16 in Faxon hall. The affair can be witnessed only by members of the club.

The only Clan MacGregor matches of the week will be rolled at the Coliseum alleys Tuesday night. The matches will be McKenzies vs McLanes, O'Neils vs Mavers, Michaels vs Thomsons.

The National Duck and Candlepin bowling congress has officially recognized Mrs. Paul Poehler's record of 300 made when the Quincy team rolled up a total of 1315 in beating East Boston last week. The single string record 117, is credited to Miss Connarney of Waltham who has rolled in this city. The Quincy team leads the Greater Boston Ladies' league.

Paul Poehler has an average of 109 in the City and Littlefields' All Star leagues of Boston.

The Smith brothers and Connell of Weymouth roll against Burke, McPherson and Costa at the Coliseum alleys tonight.

Harry Paine, formerly of Quincy, entertained many Quincy bowlers at the Casino alleys, Boston Saturday night where he is manager.

Miss Rowena Foss of Thayer Academy threw 23 goals against West Bridgewater on Saturday and came within two baskets of the league record held by Miss Edith Kimball who played with Thayer. The Braintree team won 75 to 22.

Mark Gill of Atlantic leads the bowlers of the Columbus club league with an average of 100.

BASKET BALL LEAGUE.

The N. E. A. A. A. U. basket ball league has disbanded. The dropping out of St. Mary's of Cambridge hastened the end. The final standing is:

FIRST DIVISION

	Won	Lost
St. Josephs T. A. S.	10	4
Quincy A. A.	7	3
St. Alphonsus A. A.	7	6

SECOND DIVISION.

St. Alphonsus A. A.	9	4
St. Josephs T. A. S.	8	6
Quincy A. A.	3	7

To Patch Wall Paper.

Tear a piece slightly larger than the portion to be covered, to match, but torn with rough edges and without any definite shape. Then paste over and the patch will not be noticeable.

PRATT'S BREAD is good for growing children—nourishing and satisfying. Grocers sell it.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE Tablets Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

CHICHESTER S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-che-ster-s Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHE-STER S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

Stoddard May Get Place On International Polo Team

Photo by American Press Association.

L. E. STODDARD, the well known young polo player, will probably be chosen as a member of the American team which plays the British challengers for the Westchester cup next summer. Stoddard is one of the most promising players of the younger set and has been invited by the Polo association to participate in the tryouts to be begun April 1.

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

New Football Rule Bars Side Line Coach.

FRANCIS OUIMET'S PLANS.

Open Golf Champion to Sail April 14. Philadelphia May Row In Olympic Games—Add $10,000 to Kentucky Derby—Limit School Athletes to Twenty Years.

The intercollegiate football rules committee, meeting in New York, decided that hereafter coaches should be barred from the lines. This was the most radical change in the rules adopted at the meeting, which was one of the shortest in the committee's history. Other changes were as follows:

Intentional grounding of a forward pass was penalized by the loss of ten yards from the point of scrimmage.

When the ball from a free kick hits a goal post and bounds back into the field the play is counted as a touchback.

After the teams line up the team having the ball shall not enter the neutral zone in short formation.

A player out of bounds when the ball is put in play penalizes his team by the loss of five yards. Under the old rule there was no penalty for this offense the first time it was committed.

Although the proposals to number players, grade the value of a field goal according to the distance of the kick and move the goal posts back were discussed, no action was taken on these and other points. Chairman E. K. Hall of the committee announced that the committee had decided to wait and observe how the plan of numbering players worked out among the college teams which have voluntarily decided to adopt this system of identification during 1914.

Following the suggestion of Walter Camp, teams were given the right to use a fourth official in their games if they desired. This official will be known as "field judge," and his status will be further fixed by the codifying committee, consisting of William Langford, Trinity; W. N. Morice, Pennsylvania, and Nathan A. Tufts, Brown.

Plans are under way to have Philadelphia represented in the rowing races in the Olympic games at Berlin in 1916 by having crews in every event. Details are being worked out by William B. West of the West Philadelphia Boat club.

He has selected a committee consisting of George W. Orton, the trainer of the University of Pennsylvania track team; W. A. Stecher, director of the athletic work of the Philadelphia public schools, and W. J. Harmann, a gymnastic instructor, to pass upon the fitness of candidates for the crews James B. Juvenal, the former champion sculler of Philadelphia, will be the chief coach.

The crews will be picked from the membership of all the rowing clubs in Philadelphia and from other applicants who may develop into good oarsmen.

Francis Ouimet, the American open golf champion, arranged to sail on April 14 for England, where he will play in the amateur and open championships next spring. He will be accompanied by Arthur G. Lockwood, formerly of Weston-super-Mare, England, who has been in this country twelve years and is ranked among the leading amateurs here.

Upon reaching Liverpool Ouimet and Lockwood will visit the nearby links of Hoylake and then journey leisurely to the south of England, arriving early in May at Sandwich, where the amateur championship will be played. Their stay there for the first time will be brief. When they return a week before the championship tournament, which begins on May 18, they expect to be joined by J. D. Travers of Upper Montclair, N. J., the American amateur champion; Frederick Herreshoff of New York and Heinrich Schmidt of Worcester.

The open championship will be held at Prestwick, Scotland, beginning June 11. After the play there the American golfers will visit France. Ouimet expects to return in time to defend his title in this country.

The Kentucky Derby for 1914 will be the richest Derby ever run over the course at Churchill Downs. The New Louisville Jockey club has added $10,000 to this event, which is the largest amount that has ever been added to the classic event since the first Derby was run in 1875. The largest amount ever added was $5,000, while as a rule the added sum was $4,000 or $5,000.

With the usual number of entries the $10,000 added will bring the total value of the Derby to $14,000 or $15,000 and will make the race worth to the winning horse between $10,000 and $12,000.

The board of control of athletics of the board of education of Chicago voted to make the age limit for athletes in the schools twenty years instead of twenty-one years, as it is at present. This will limit the competition in athletics in the schools to students who are not over twenty years of age.

The finance committee of the city council of Vancouver, B. C., recommended that permission be granted for short boxing bouts not exceeding ten rounds. An effort will be made to open the game with a match between Harlem Tommy Murphy and Wolgast.

Penn's football team will play a game with the Navy eleven next fall. Oct. 17 is the date agreed upon. Aside from the annual game with the Army the game with the Quakers will be the first one the middies have ever played away from home. A two year contract has been signed. The Navy contest is the only new addition to the Quakers' schedule, which has just been published. Penn State and Brown have both been dropped. No mid-week games will be played this year.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of John F. Welch late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Emma F. Welch of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the eighteenth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this third day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
5-3t. 5-9-16

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Ralph W. Hobbs late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Emma A. Hobbs of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the eighteenth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this second day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 3-3t. 5-9-16.

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES

26 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.

MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar
Tel. Quincy 131-W

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 2 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

Call Quincy 501--W

If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN, upholsterer, 103 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School

Mar. 4 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

In effect Nov. 16, 1913

The letters in the same line as the figures below stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows.

a Wollaston	f Harrison Square
b Norfolk Downs	g Savin Hill
c Atlantic	h Cres[illegible] Avenue
d Neponset	i South Boston
e Pope's Hill	r Quincy Adams
* Saturdays Only	† Except Saturday

Exp.—Express train.

TO BOSTON			FROM BOSTON
Leave	Stop	Arrive	Leave	Stop	Arrive
r 5 14 abcdefghi		5 41	5 44 thgfedcba		6 14 r
r 6 19 abcd		6 40	6 09 thgfedcba		6 39 r
r 6 32 e		6 48	6 29 a		6 47
			6 47 Exp		7 04
r 6 40 abcf		7 00	7 14 hgfedcba		7 41 r
r 7 08 abcd		7 36	7 34 a		7 52
7 28 a		7 46	7 37 a		7 56
r 7 32 Exp		7 49	7 44 e		8 03 r
r 7 42 ab		8 00	8 34 cba		8 55 r
7 55 a		8 12	8 44 b		9 02
r 8 13 abc		8 32	9 09 fedba		9 32 r
8 24 a		8 41	9 44 a		10 01 r
r 8 33 a		50	10 14 thgfedcba		10 41 r
r 8 59 ad		9 [illegible]	10 54 Exp		11 10
r 9 18 abc		9 39	11 14 hgfedcba		11 41 r
r 10 04 a		10 21	11 49 a		12 07
r 10 19 abcdefghi		10 45	12 14 hgfedcba		12 41 r
11 12 a		11 28	12 20 a		12 33
11 24 abcfghi		11 50	12 56 Exp		1 06
12 04 a		12 20	1 16 fedcba		1 40 r
			* 1 32 a		1 50
r 12 27 abcdefghi		12 53	1 44 a		2 01
r 1 16 a		1 34	2 14 fedcba		2 37 r
2 04 a		2 20	2 34 Exp		2 50
r 2 19 abcdefgh		2 45	3 14 hgfedcba		3 40 r
r 3 13 Exp		3 28	3 44 a		4 02
4 04 a		4 20	4 12 fedcba		4 35 r
r 4 26 abcdefgh		4 53	4 15 a		4 32
5 02 a		5 19	4 40 c		4 58
r 5 30 abcdefg		5 55	4 55 a		5 11
6 04 a		6 21	5 13 a		5 32
6 12 ab		6 32	5 19 hgfcca		5 43
6 57 a		7 15	5 28 ba		5 46 r
r 7 22 Exp		7 39	5 40		5 57
7 29 ab		7 48	5 58 a		6 17 r
r 8 09 abcdef		8 32	6 01 fedcb		6 24
9 00 a		9 18	6 16 a		6 35
r 9 10 abc		9 29	6 30 ecba		6 52 r
* 9 17 Exp.		9 32	6 50 fedcba		7 24 r
r 10 07 abcdef		10 30	7 11 a		7 28
* 10 19 a		10 37	8 04 fedcba		8 28 r
11 13 a		11 30	* 8 19 Exp		8 35
r 11 30 abcd		11 [illegible]	9 19 a		9 37
			9 34 b		9 53 r
			10 05 ba		10 24
			10 34 fedcba		11 02 r
			*11 06 a		11 25 r
			†11 09 fedcba		11 55 r
			*11 25 ba		11 43 r
			†11 29 ba		11 49
			12 05 cba		12 26 r

SUNDAYS

r 7 43 abc	8 03	6 29 ba 6 48
8 30 Exp	8 46	8 34 cba 8 55 r
r 8 46 abcdefghi	9 12	10 29 cba 10 59 r
r 9 13 abc	9 33	12 14 thgfedcba 12 42
9 31 a	9 47	12 44 Exp 1 01
10 25 ac	10 42	1 29 thgfedcba 1 57 r
11 08 Exp	11 25	2 14 hgfedcba 2 42 r
r 11 16 abcdefghi	11 43	2 44 a 3 02
1 04 a	1 23	3 14 thgfedcba 3 42 r
r 1 16 abcdefgh	1 43	4 26 cba 4 48 r
r 3 10 abc	3 30	5 14 thgfedcba 5 42 r
r 4 16 abcdefghi	4 43	6 09 Exp 6 25
4 59 ab	5 16	6 14 thgfedcba 6 42 r
5 06	5 23	7 02 cba 7 22 r
6 13 abcdefghi	6 43	8 14 thgfedcba 8 41 r
7 21 Exp	7 36	8 39 a 8 56 r
7 49 abcdefghi	7 55	8 49 Exp 9 05
r 8 16 abcdefghi	8 43	9 29 thgfedcba 9 57 r
9 46 a	10 04	10 44 cba 11 04 r
9 46 abc	11 05

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 2, 1912.

(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.35 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 9.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 6.30 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 6.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street,—6.05 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 12.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Wollaston—6.05, 6.35, 7.03 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.03 P. M. then 11.20, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.03 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.25 P. M. then 11.42 P. M. and 12.12 midnight. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.35, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.20, 5.05, 6.20 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sundays 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 11.00 P. M.

THOMAS GAMMON, Superintendent.

ealth of Massachusetts.
ss. Probate Court.
s-at-law, next-of-kin, and
persons interested in the Ralph W. Hobbs late of said County, deceased:
a certain instrument pure the last will and testa-
d deceased has been pre-aid Court for Probate, by Hobbs of said Quincy who letters testamentary may her, the executrix therein
out giving a surety on her
: You are hereby cited
t a Probate Court to be nam in said County of Nor-eighteenth day of March at ten o'clock in the fore-w cause, if any you have,
ne should not be granted.
titioner is hereby directed ic notice thereof by pub-
citation once in each week, cessive weeks in the Quin-ger a newspaper published cy the last publication to t least before said Court, ng, postpaid, or delivering his citation to all known rested in the estate, seven before said Court.
James H. Flint, Esquire,
d Court, this second day
the year one thousand
d and fourteen.
R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 5-3t. 5-9-16.

Quincy 501--W
your furniture, mattresses and d in good order at low prices
upholsterer, 109 Hancock
Quincy High School
Mar.4 tf

S N. CURTIS
and GLAZIER
STAINED GLASS
and PAPER HANGER
NITURE REFINISHED
e, off Spear Street, Quincy

Street Railway Company
IME TABLE
fect April 5, 1912.
o change without notice.
ave QUINCY for
6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every
0 10.50 P. M. Sundays,
hen same as week days
e Braintree, 6.35 A. M.
minutes to 10.35 P. M.
5 A. M. and then same as
6.15, 6.50 a. M., and ever, o 8.50 P. M., then 9.20 P.
, 7.50 A. M., then same as
Return, leave Braintree
and every 30 minutes to ndays, 8 A. M. then same cy, and East Milton, 6.30
M., and every 20 minutes
. (Wednesdays and Sat-
P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A.
as week days. Return
Hill, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M.
minutes to 11.45 P. M.
and Saturday, 12.10
Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then days.
mouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35,
M. every 30 minutes to en 11.50 P. M. Sundays,
en same as week days.
East Weymouth, 5.50,
0, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every
11.45 P. M. Sundays,
en same as week days.
ck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40,
M. every 30 minutes to
en 11.50 P. M. Sundays,
M. every 30 minutes to
Return leave Hough's
00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, every 30 minutes to
then 12.10 midnight.
8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M
tes to 11.35 P. M. s Hancock Street,—5.45
M. and every 30 min. to en 12.50 midnight. Sun-
M. then same as week
, leave Neponset, 6.40
and every 30 minutes hen 12.35 midnight. Sun
M. then same as week
Wednesday—6.05, 6.35,
every 30 minutes to n 11.20, 11.50 P. M.
A. M., then same as week
leave Neponset, 6.25,
M. and every 20 minutes
then 11.42 P. M. and
Sundays, 7.25 A. M.
week days.
s Norfolk Downs, 6.35,
30 A. M. and every 30
P. M. (Wednesdays and
P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A.
ame as week days. Reponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and tes to 10.30 P. M. Wed-
Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.)
M. then same as week

Landing, 5.20, 5.50, 6.20
A. M. then every 30
and including 10.55 P.
, 7.25, A. M. then same
Return, leave Wey-
g, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15
n every 30 minutes un-ng 11.15 P. M. Sundays
n same as week days.
NEPONSET for
6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55
M. every 60 minutes to n 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25,
5, 10.35 P. M. Wednes-turdays, 11.30, P. M.
A. M. every 60 minutes
Return, leave Squan-
, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00
0 minutes to 5.00 P. M.
00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00
M. Wednesdays and
.50 P. M. Sundays.
d every 60 minutes to
THOMAS GAMBLE,
Superintendent.

Olivia's Prize Package

And the Secret It Revealed

By CLARISSA MACKIE

The red auction flag fluttered from a tree over the front gate and told to the village of Wayboro that the household effects of the late Zebedee Paine would be sold to the highest bidder.

Ada Paine, a niece of the dead man and his only known representative and heir, was here, there and everywhere, whispering a word of advice to one concerning some especially choice article, finding a comfortable seat for some good gossip of the neighborhood or detailing her own future plans to an interested group of listeners.

Miss Paine had been Zebedee's housekeeper for fifteen years preceding his death. It was Ada who had soothed the old man's last hours, and some people said that Ada Paine was now reaping the reward for which she had so ardently labored. Others said that young Zebedee Paine would never have left home and lost his life in the sea if it had not been for his black eyed cousin Ada's sharp tongue.

Olivia Deering walked slowly up the path and bent her head to enter the low, old fashioned doorway. She was a tall, stately woman with abundant brown hair lightly flecked with gray at the temples; her skin was clear and rosy and her hazel eyes shining and lustrous. She wore a simple white lawn dress and a plain hat.

People turned and stared and nodded at Olivia, and many of them wondered how many years had passed since Olivia had been under that roof. It was known that once she had called to see old Mr. Paine concerning the reported death of his son, and it was rumored that Olivia had not been permitted to see old Zebedee and that Ada Paine had sent her away with burning cheeks and anguished eyes.

"THANK GOD, I HAVE RETURNED IN TIME!"

Since then Olivia Deering and Ada Paine had not been on speaking terms.

Now Ada's black brows drew together in a frown when she saw Olivia's dignified form moving through the crowd.

"Some folks ain't got any sense of delicacy," sneered Ada in a stage whisper.

"I expect likely she wants to buy some of little Zebedee's belongings for a keepsake," tittered Louise Ramsell, the sharp tongued village dressmaker.

"There ain't going to be any personal belongings put under the hammer," said Ada hastily, not knowing that at that very moment the auctioneer's zealous assistant had just dug out from a hiding place in the garret an old mahogany workbox which had belonged to Mrs. Zebedee Paine and which Ada had hidden there herself long years ago.

And in the next room to the one in which Ada was now whispering to Louise Ramsell Olivia Deering was watching the auctioneer with a pallid face as he held the mahogany workbox high in the air above the curious crowd.

"And now this here mahogany box, locked fast, to be sold sight unseen. What am I offered?"

As in a dream Olivia lived the next few moments. She heard her own voice bidding steadily against that of some unknown person. For some unexplainable reason she wanted that workbox more than anything in the world. Then, because Wayboro folk preferred to know just what they were buying and very many of them possessed ancient workboxes similar to the one offered for sale, the other bidder dropped out, and Olivia found herself the possessor of it for the sum of $3.40.

Somehow after this purchase Olivia's interest in the sale ended, and, wrapping the box in her light summer shawl, she left the house. Her tall, graceful form hurried up the street, turned at a corner and went up a grassy road, where her little white painted cottage stood in a lovely garden at the end. From the white cottage Olivia could glimpse the sea, and winter and summer for twelve years its distant murmur had seemed to whisper some message to her from the lost lover of her youth.

Now she tossed aside her hat and sat in the window overlooking the sea. The mahogany box was in her lap, and her shapely fingers rested lightly upon it.

The box was heavy. Something moved about within it. Very likely it had not been opened since Zebedee went away to sea. Olivia recollected that Zebedee had told her that his dying mother had given him her workbox for his very own, and he had whispered that he kept Olivia's letters in it and a curl of her hair and the first roses she had ever given him.

Then all at once Zebedee had gone away to sea.

Without a word to Olivia he had left her, and Ada Paine, who was in love with her handsome young cousin, had whispered here and there that Zeb was tired of Olivia and was taking that way of getting out of his engagement.

Olivia was thinking of all these things as she sat there alone, looking at the sea, with the mahogany box in her lap.

Presently she looked down at the box without a key.

"I wonder," she said dreamily; "I wonder if he took my letters when he went away or if he left them behind?"

She went to a small table, and from the drawer she took a bunch of keys of assorted sizes. Finally one tiny twisted key fitted into the little lock. The bolt moved, and in response to Olivia's touch the cover of the box was raised.

For a long time she sat staring down at the contents of the mahogany box. They were so unexpected.

Instead of a bundle of old creased and yellowed love letters there was a little heap of unopened letters. Some were the letters she had written to Zebedee during the winter she spent with her aunt in Lansing, and others were his letters which she had never received because they had never passed through the postoffice, and it was on her return to Wayboro that she learned that Zebedee had gone away and that she was jilted. At that time Ada Paine had been assisting in the postoffice during spare time from her duties as her Uncle Zebedee's housekeeper.

Olivia wondered if there was any connection between the two circumstances.

There was the evidence that Zebedee had written to her. He had been faithful, and at last convinced of her fickleness he had gone away to sea to lose his life in a shipwreck.

From her seat in the window Olivia could look down the grassy road, and presently she saw Ada Paine's short, dumpy form hurrying toward the cottage.

Olivia gathered up the letters and concealed them in a locked trunk in the spare room. Then she made her way downstairs in time to open the door to Ada Paine's insistent rapping.

"Will you come in?" asked Olivia stiffly.

"Yes," panted Ada Paine as she hurried into the sitting room. Her black eyes darted here and there and finally rested on the mahogany box.

She crossed the room and held the box close to her breast.

"How dare you come to my house and buy this?" she demanded fiercely.

Olivia surveyed her coolly.

"It was a public auction. I had a perfect right to attend and to buy anything that was put up for sale."

"This is a mistake. It was not intended to be sold. It is mine—my personal property." There was anxious inquiry in Ada's sharp eyes as she looked at the pale, composed face of the woman she had wronged.

"If it is your box, Ada," said Olivia, "why does it contain letters that belong to me—letters that I never received from your Cousin Zeb, letters that he never received from me—why?"

Ada Paine gazed in horror at Olivia.

She dropped the box with a bitter cry and flung her hands over her face. For a long time they stood thus. They did not hear footsteps approaching by the grassy road and enter the house by an open side door.

"Ada, why did you suppress my letters to Zeb? Why did you withhold my letters to him? I never could understand his desertion. I believed him fickle, and he was true to me, and, Ada Paine, you have much to answer for. I loved Zebedee Paine, and he went to his death believing me to be false to him!" Olivia's self control wavered. A voice came from the doorway—a man's deep throated tones, thrilling with emotion.

"No, Olivia, I didn't go to my death. I am very much alive, dear. Thank God, I have returned in time to save my old home and, what is more precious, my sweetheart, my only love!"

Olivia turned to find herself in the arms of a handsome middle aged Zebedee, sun browned under tropic skies, where he had been held prisoner by a savage tribe of south sea islanders for the past three years, so that his self enforced exile had become actual imprisonment.

While he whispered in Olivia's willing ear the wretched woman who had so foully shadowed their lives suddenly dropped the mahogany box and fled from the house.

And it was a sign that the years of separation had not embittered their hearts that Olivia and Zebedee made haste to find Ada and to assure her of their forgiveness.

And Wayboro people, agog over these sudden happenings, whispered that when Olivia Deering bought the mahogany workbox she certainly had found a prize package, but this they could only guess because of the resultant happiness for all concerned, for no word of these things ever passed the lips of Olivia or her husband or their much chastened cousin.

BRITON DRIVEN FROM HIS RANCH

Property Confiscated by Mexican Constitutionalists

UNITED STATES AID ASKED

English Ambassador Requests Protection For Subject Who Fears to Complain to Villa—American Consul Fails to Change Carranza's Defiant Attitude Toward President Wilson

Washington, March 9.—Demands have been made upon the state department by Sir Cecil Spring-Rice for the government to use its good offices to protect W. D. Snyman, a British subject and ranch owner in Chihuahua. He has had his property confiscated by the constitutionalists.

In his appeal to the British ambassador here for aid, Snyman says he fears to make a personal request for protection to General Villa because of the fate of William S. Benton, who went to Villa with a similar complaint. The complaint will be presented to the constitutionalist authorities in Chihuahua. The American consul there will be directed to lend his voice in support of the representations of the British vice consul there.

George C. Carothers, the American consular agent, sent to try to persuade General Carranza to retreat from his defiant attitude toward the United States, has returned to Juarez from Nogales, with his mission a failure. What move will next be made is not known. The failure of Carothers to change Carranza's attitude is believed to have gone far toward breaking further the relations between the administration and the constitutionalists.

The commission appointed by Carranza to investigate the killing of Benton and the strange disappearance of Gustav Bauch is said to be ready to face any facts which their inquiry may uncover. It is believed that the constitutionalists realize the importance of a report on these incidents which will be sufficiently frank to satisfy public opinion in the United States and Great Britain.

It is believed Carranza will follow up the report with drastic action if any one is found guilty of having murdered either Benton or Bauch. In any event he is expected to offer liberal reparation.

It became known here that General Fraustro, president of Carranza's commission, has made an effort to obtain the services of at least one American physician in investigating the Benton case.

For the first time since the revolution began the American embassy at Mexico City is not defenseless. A consignment of arms shipped there secretly included machine guns, 250 Krag-Jorgensen rifles and 300,000 rounds of ammunition. It was landed at Vera Cruz from the steamship Monterey, and was accompanied to the capital by Mexican troops.

VERGARA'S BODY SECURED

Texas Rangers Bring Remains of Ranchman Across the Border

Laredo, Tex., March 9.—Texas Rangers, who secretly crossed into Mexico Saturday night, yesterday brought to the American side the mutilated body of Clemente Vergara, Texas ranchman, and established the fact of his execution after he was seized by Mexican federals.

Vergara was shot twice through the head and once through the neck, his skull was crushed as though from a blow from a rifle butt, and the charred fingers of the left hand indicated that he had been tortured before being put to death.

The body was not badly decomposed, despite its three weeks' burial. The body was brought into the United States at a point forty-five miles northwest of Laredo, opposite Hidalgo, and near the Vergera ranch.

American Consul Garrett of Nuevo Laredo, deputy sheriffs and other authorities were waiting to receive it and pending the arrival of the undertaker from Laredo, an armed force stood guard over the body.

Recovery of the body was made by a force of Texans, largely friends of Vergara, acting with a troop of Texas Rangers, under Captain Saunders, who has been investigating for Governor Colquitt the circumstances of Vergara's seizure by federals.

A secret investigation, in which many Mexicans have been questioned, is understood to have preceded the trip into Mexico. Leading the forces was a man who claimed to have been a witness to both the execution and the burial of Vergara.

TIMOTHY HEALY AT HEAD

League Formed to Keep Labor Before the Progressive Party

New York, March 9.—For the avowed purpose of keeping the interests of labor before the Progressive party, the Workingmen's Progressive Party league was organized here. Timothy Healy, head of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen, was elected president.

The league also plans to nominate for office workingmen or those identified with the labor movement whenever possible. Membership of the league will not be confined to labor men.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To Sarah J. Clark of Quincy in said County of Norfolk, and to her heirs apparent or presumptive:

Whereas, a petition for conservatorship has been presented to said Court, by Abbie M. Kribs of said Quincy alleging that said Sarah J. Clark has become incapacitated by reason of sickness to properly care for her property, and praying that Delcevare King of said Quincy or some other suitable person, may be appointed conservator of her property, agreeably to the law in such case made and provided. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in and for said County of Norfolk, on the eleventh day of March A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why a conservator should not be appointed as afore said. And said petitioner is hereby directed to cause you to be notified of the time and place appointed for the hearing of said petition, by serving said Sarah J. Clark with a copy of this order, seven days at least before said Court; and by mailing to said heirs apparent or presumptive at the last known post office address of each, a copy of the same, seven days at least before said Court, or instead of said mailing, by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this nineteenth day of February in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Feb. 26-3t 26-5-9

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law and all other persons interested in the estate of Mary E. Ferguson late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, John W. Ferguson administrator of the estate of said deceased, has presented to said Court his petition for license to sell at private sale, in accordance with the offer named in said petition, or upon such terms as may be adjudged best, the whole of a certain parcel of the real estate of said deceased for the payment of debts, and charges of administration, and for other reasons set forth in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County, on the eleventh day of March A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to each person interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-seventh day of February in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
28-3t 28-2-9

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Thomas Gurney late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Rebecca Gurney of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eleventh day of March A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-fifth day of February in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Feb. 27-3t 27-2-9

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Thomas J. Emery of Cambridge, in the County of Middlesex who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond as provided by statute; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the eighteenth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this third day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t March 5-9-16

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING
WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—Two well furnished front rooms in good location. Only one minute walk from station and city square. Apply to Mrs. Johnson, 14 Upland road. 9-3t

TO LET—6 room tenement, improvements. Apply 74 Arnold street, evenings. 9-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms for light housekeeping also single rooms. Apply at 44 Massachusetts avenue. 9-6t

TO LET—In private family to refined people, two very fine corner rooms, newly furnished, with separate baths. Near centre. Write L. B. K. Ledger Office. 9-6t

TO LET—At North Weymouth, flat of 5 rooms, some improvements, near salt water and good place to keep hens. Rent reasonable to small family. Few minutes to trains to Boston. Apply at 445 Washington street, Quincy. March 3-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 3-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms centrally located, breakfast if desired, men or women. Write T. L. Ledger Office. 3-6t

TO LET—Flat of 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 3-6t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—40 Park lane, 6 rooms all modern improvements. Rent $23.00. Apply 22 Berkeley street. Tel. 349-M. 5-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

UPPER APARTMENT. In two-family house on Spear Street. Five rooms, bath, large pantry and closets, also open attic with finished heated chamber. Every improvement, electric light, furnace, range etc. Ready for immediate occupancy. Telephone Quincy 278 M or enquire mornings of Miss Prescott at the Ledger Office. lpo

TO LET
Large Front Office Greenleaf Block—2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.
Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.
Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.
Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $2 a month
Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.
City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.
Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)
Offices—Large or small.
Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.
Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.
Furnished Rooms—With care steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week

HALLS
Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.
New Colonial Hall—Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 249—the best possible location for a Hall.
Hancock Hall—Hancock Building City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement... .. ....

TO LET

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, seven rooms and bath, all modern improvements. Apply P. J. Williams, 19 Independence Ave. Tel. Quincy 369. 5-6t

TO LET—173 Whitwell street, half house, modern conveniences, $20 per month. Ready for immediate occupancy. Apply Penniman's Stable, Granite street. 19-tf

RUSSELL PARK — Commodious house of seven rooms, large hall and bath. Modern, every convenience open fireplace, furnace, range, set tubs, electric lights, cemented cellar, etc. Best residential neighborhood Ready for immediate occupancy. For further details or key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office. tf lpo

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—22 ft. motor boat, 5 h. p. 2 cylinder engine. One year old. Price reasonable. A. D. Thompson, 47 Main street. 7-6t

FOR SALE—Three good work horses. Apply to John J. Gallagher, 230 Water street, Quincy Adams. 7-6t

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

READ LEDGER ADS
If you want a situation, if you want to rent a house or to buy anything, look over our classified columns

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

LOST

LOST—Ruby top spaniel pup. Reward if returned to Bessie Grant 247 Washington street. 7-3t

LOST—Friday afternoon, on Quincy Point car, pocketbook containing money and tickets. Finder please return to 30 Park avenue, South Weymouth. Reward. 9-3t

WANTED

WANTED—To buy a brown leghorn rooster, good strain. Address T. Ledger office. 9-2t

WANTED—Two young men to share large sunny room, bath etc. With or without board. Apply 25 High School avenue. (Next Fire Station.) 7-3t

WANTED—A small shed or building, about 16x20, suitable to be made into a garage. Will move from premises. State lowest price. Address M. M. Ledger office. 5-6t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York. N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

FASHIONABLE DRESSMAKING—Done with neatness and dispatch. Special attention given to evening gowns. Mrs. W. H. Russell, 392 Hancock street, Norfolk Downs. Telephone Quincy 493-W. 9-6t

MI-AS-MA-INE—Guaranteed to cure Malaria or money refunded. If not found at your druggist, see Agent at Sawyer Drug Co., 274 Tremont st., Boston, Mass. 3-6t

$20.00 REWARD will be paid for the arrest and conviction of party or parties who broke into and set fire to our Engine House on Feb. 26th and 27th 1914. Bay View Quarry Company. 28-tf

JUST LOOK HERE
Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. C. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 Office 835M

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30. 5. 10. 15c.
Evenings at 7.45. 10. 15. 25c

MON., TUES., WED.
Program Subject to Change

ARMINTA & BURKE
Aerial and Trampoline Comedy

BURNS--LAWRENCE--BURNS
Novel Comedy Entertainers

ASHTON & MUNSON
Singing, Dancing and Changes

LEW WARD
Clever Character Comedian

AN MATED WEEKLY
World News in Moving Pictures

'IN THE FALL OF '64"
A Stirring Military Production in two parts

"HIS ROYAL PANTS"
A Comedy Triumph

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA
HELEN G. QUALEY, Leader

Mar. 7 3t-o-1w

NEWSY BRIEFS

George P. Berry of Pierce street is now confined to his bed.

William Derby is seriously ill with the mumps.

Miss Sarah Melzard of Newton, formerly of Atlantic was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cherrington of Clive street.

The Sewing circle of Rebecca Wiswell tent will meet with Emma L. Ela of 197 Farrington street Tuesday afternoon.

The 47th annual encampment of the Massachusetts Department of the G. A. R. will be held in Faneuil hall, Boston, April 7.

Paul J. Revere Corps 103 will hold a regular meeting Tuesday afternoon. At 6 o'clock, with Post 88, they will be entertained at supper by the S. Agnes Parker sewing circle.

The Wollaston Unitarian club meets Tuesday evening, dinner at 6.30. Harris A. Reynolds, secretary of the Massachusetts Forestry Association, will speak on "State forestry and shade trees for Massachusetts."

Ida Marie Rogers who has been spending the winter with Mrs. L. J. Hayford, East Squantum street, begins this week her seventh season as "Samanth" in Quincy Adams Sawyer.

The funeral of Nils Hendrickson was held from the Hall Undertaking rooms Saturday afternoon. Services were conducted by Rev. Leander Hokenson. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

William Barton died at the Quincy City Hospital Sunday from the effects of an operation. His funeral will take place Tuesday morning from his home at 34 Elmwood avenue. He was a gardner by trade.

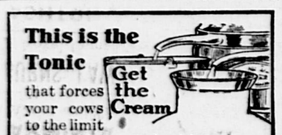
Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mullin of 190 Everett street, Wollaston, announce the engagement of their younger daughter Gertrude to Russell Oliver, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Oliver of 36 Mill street, Quincy.

The body of Isaac Dunn, who died in a Quincy Point boarding house was removed to the undertaking rooms of J. Dunbar in Weymouth on Saturday. His funeral was held from there this afternoon and burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Plain to Observation.

Wife—"Notice that third chorus girl in the first row. She used to go to school with me. Poor thing! She went on the stage because she had nothing to wear." Husband—"So I see."—London Opinion.

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY AND EVERYONE IN QUINCY.



Pratts
Animal Regulator

Pkgs. 25c, 50c, $1.00; 25 lb. pail $3.00

saves waste of feed, greatly increases milk yield and prolongs the profit paying period. The percentage of butter fat is always increased. Calves are born stronger and healthy and are kept so by the regular use of Pratts.

Refuse substitutes; insist on Pratts.

Satisfaction Guaranteed or Money Back

Get Pratts Stock Book

631

A. J. Richards & Son, C. W. & G. W. Nightingale, Nathan Ames, E. H. Doble & Co., and Grain Dealers and General Stores everywhere. 4199.

FLAG WOULD HELP TRADE

Congress Should Help Build Up Shipping

"The American people have taken almost no interest in foreign trade up to this time," says Robert H. Swayne, a San Francisco steamship agent. "We have been a nation which has produced foodstuffs which other nations have had to buy. But these conditions have changed. We no longer export such vast quantities of foodstuffs, and on the other hand we have manufactured products which we want to sell aroad. If foreign countries are to buy them from us we must exert ourselves to get that trade. In Europe they regard the development of shipping in the foreign trade as really the supreme factor in the development and progress of the country, and the American people must come to that conclusion. We are using foreign shipping for that purpose today; we have no American shipping to substitute for it.

"After the civil war we deliberately abandoned the sea. Our shipping had been as great as that of any nation. But we went out of wooden shipbuilding because steel vessels came into use. We had the coal and iron, and could have built steel ships just as well as England could, but we used the coal and iron to build railroads and develop the interior instead. It did not take long to gridiron England with railroads, then they turned to building steel and iron vessels. Now they have an entrenched business all over the world and it will take us some time to break into it, but it can be done and it will be done."

Mr. Swayne advocated putting American shipping under the control of a board or commission, which would sit continuously investigating the conditions. This would be similar to the English Board of Trade, and would handle all such matters of regulation as are now complained of in the United States.

"The shipowner who owns his ship under the American flag," said Captain Robert Dollar of San Francisco, "is going to pull for his home port, and he is going to develop the commerce between that port and all other ports. A man who owns a ship in London or Liverpool is not going to pull for trade for America. Few Americans are in the foreign trade because they can't sail American ships, and they will not sail foreign ships. But I do not know of any ship owner, and I do not believe there is any, that would not rather fly the flag of his country than to be compelled to fly the flag of any other nation."

WEDDING ANINVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Nils Nordquist Observe Twenty-Fifth

Mr. and Mrs. Nils Nordquist, two of Quincy's Swedish residents observed their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon at their home 184 Whitwell street, where they received and entertained upwards of one hundred of their friends.

Mr. Nordquist has been a resident of Quincy for twenty years, and he and Mrs. Nordquist are identified with the Swedish Lutheran church and many of those present were prominently identified with this church. In addition friends came from Milford, Dorchester, Waltham, Wollaston, Roslindale, Weymouth and Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Nordquist were assisted in receiving by their son Walfred and their daughter, Mrs. Ellen A. Johnson. Telegrams of a congratulatory nature were received from those unable to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Nordquist received many handsome remembrances from their friends, which included two silver service sets, and a candelabra from their children. In addition to these there were many other gifts, including beautiful flowers.

During the afternoon refreshments and a dinner was served. There were selections by a quartette, readings and solos by James Dunn, and an address of welcome by Peter Carlson.

Suburban Remedy.

Mrs. Knicker—"Did your doctor prescribe for your dyspepsia?" Mrs. Bocker—"Yes, he gave me a medicine to be taken after cooks."

BUSY WEEK FOR ODD FELLOWS

Anniversary, Grand Ball and a Visitation

This week is the Odd Fellows busy week. Tuesday evening, District Deputy Grand Master James L. Bennett and other grand officers will be guests of Mt. Wollaston lodge, when the 30th anniversary of the lodge will be observed by initiating twelve candidates. A banquet and historical address will follow.

Thursday evening, Mt. Wollaston lodge will hold its annual concert and ball at Music hall, with music by Poole's orchestra and supper by C. C. Whittemore. Concert from 8 to 9, and dancing from 9 to 2. Arrangements have been made to run special cars to all points at the close of the ball.

Friday evening, Manet encampment will receive a visit from Grand Patriarch Whitmore and board of Grand officers, their first visitation since election. Refreshments will be served.

ONE DEATH SINCE FRIDAY

The Daily Ledger has good news to report today—only one death in the city since Friday. After the unusually heavy death roll for a month and many sudden deaths, it is encouraging to note a return to normal.

Supt. Nicol at Mt. Wollaston cemetery reports that there have been 80 interments in the cemetery since January 1 which breaks all records. There are other cemeteries in the city and some bodies have been cremated.

BRAINTREE REAL ESTATE SALES

Charles H. Kendrick to George Wicks, Pond street.

Henry E. Reynolds to Kitchamakin Camp Inc., Great Pond.

Addie M. Rogers to E. Maud Rogers Franklin street, Elmwood avenue.

E. Maud Rogers to Addie M. Rogers Franklin street, Elmwood avenue.

MRS. HAMMACK.

The funeral of Mrs. Orrin S. Hammack, whose death occured suddenly at Hillsdale, N. J., on Friday was held from the home of her sister, Mrs. Albert M. Parker, on Presidents hill this afternoon. Services were conducted by Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of Bethany congregational church. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery The funeral was to have taken place Sunday but was postponed owing to a delay in the arrival of the body.

CORT THEATRE.

While the success of Margaret Anglin in Shakespeare at the Cort Theatre was a foregone conclusion, it is a matter of record that no such splendid performances of the exacting roles of Viola and Katherine have ever before been witnessed in a Boston playhouse as were given last week by Miss Anglin in her sumptuous revivals of "Twelfth Night" and "The Taming of the Shrew." Not only was Miss Anglin's performance a delight, but each and every member of her supporting company acquitted themselves in a manner which amply justifies the claim that the noted actress has surrounded herself with one of the best Shakespearean organizations ever assembled.

The second and last week of her engagement at the Cort is now in progress. The arrangement of plays is as follows: Monday, Thursday and Friday nights and Saturday matinee, "As You Like It," with Miss Anglin as Rosalind. "Twelfth Night" will be repeated Tuesday night and Wednesday matinee, and on Wednesday and Saturday nights, "The Taming of the Shrew" will be given for the last times. The final curtain at all performances will be down by 11 o'clock.

Kitty Gordon who ranks as one of the foremost comediennes on the musical comedy stage will follow Miss Anglin in "Pretty Mrs. Smith," a comedy with music that is said to be more than ordinarily delightful and tuneful.

An Actor's Life.

"What's he cryin' for?"

"Aw, he's tryin' to make out dat he's some swell kid wot's lost his nurse."—Chicago Journal.

The Lenten Maid

Demure and pretty, eyes cast down,
In plainest garb of sober brown,
The pomps of gay and social life
Renounced for a more serious strife—
Just for a time, as all may see—
Flirtation, frills, frivolity,
Aside her lively pleasures laid,
You see the dainty Lenten maid.

With air devout—that always wins—
She ponders meekly o'er her sins
And for their penance cuts her teas,
To lectures goes, with aim to seize
In Browning clubs, things of like kind,
The chances to improve her mind
And be a student real and staid,
This literary Lenten maid.

The sweetest little saint she makes
And more admiring ardor wakes
In this new aspect, sweet and good,
Than in her gay and flippant mood.
But soon 'twill pass; her study irks,
And she will toss down learned works
To come, in stylish garb arrayed,
The gorgeous, merry Easter maid.
—Baltimore American.

STEFANSSON, UNDAUNTED, TO MAKE LONGEST SLED TRIP

Sends Word From Alaska That Misfortunes Will Not Deter Him.

Gilbert H. Grosvenor, director and editor of the National Geographic society, has just received a letter from Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the arctic explorer, whose steamer, the Karluk, is gripped in the ice of the Arctic ocean, stating that he is planning the longest sled trip ever made, from Barrow, Alaska, to Prince Patrick island, across the Canadian boundary line practically 600 miles eastward. When Stefansson's letter was written from the northernmost point in Alaska he was unaware of the fate of the Karluk, other than that she had been frozen in the ice, and did not know that the power schooner Mary Sachs, purchased by him at Nome for use of the southern party of his Canadian expedition, had been crushed into small bits by the ice of the arctic coast of Alaska some time in November.

His letter follows:

"You have, I suppose, seen a newspaper account of our fortunes, or misfortunes, rather. At the best, as it is, we have lost a year of time; at the worst, the Karluk is gone, with half our equipment (the men are safe enough). I never looked on the expedition as a race. Macmillan may cover the region northwest of Prince Patrick island ahead of us. Amundsen may catch up to us. There is still the main work to do for which we set out, and, Karluk or no Karluk, we shall try to carry it out next year or some other year.

"I think I shall make for Prince Patrick island on the Mary Sachs next spring, leaving the Karluk to follow if she gets free. I may even go by sled this winter to look the ground over. It will be the longest sled trip ever made if I do go, but it looks easy to me."

The National Geographic society had planned to finance the Stefansson expedition, but at the request of Premier Borden of Canada relinquished its claim upon the explorer. The premier stated that his government was of the opinion that since Canada was the country to be explored it was more fitting for the expedition to go up under the Canadian flag and to be financed by the Canadian government.

INTERIOR OF EARTH RIGID.

Experiments at Yerkes Observatory So Indicate.

Advices received from the Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., say that it is very probable that the experiments there will result in declarations that the earth's interior is rigid.

The experiments have been conducted for six months under the direction of H. G. Gale, associate professor of physics. The university has appropriated $10,000 for the digging of an east and west ditch 500 feet long and six feet deep in which was placed a six inch pipe containing instruments to measure the tides. The measurements are an important part of the experiment to determine the earth's rigidity.

A second ditch running in north and south direction has been built. The ditches have been carefully packed so that the water would not freeze.

The university will not be ready for several months to publish the results of the experiments, but it is said that even if outside forces have acted on the device sufficiently to place some of the results in doubt the record will be a valuable contribution to the study of the earth's interior.

APPENDIX USEFUL AFTER ALL

Italian Savant Finds Maligned Organ Has Special Function.

Is the appendix after all to become a useful organ, and is appendicitis soon to go out of fashion? These questions may well be asked when one reads the report of an Italian savant, Signor Morgera, who tells the French Academy of Sciences of his experiments with dogfish.

Signor Morgera found that these marine animals possess an organ which would be analogous to the appendix in man. After taking out this gland Signor Morgera discovered that the contraction of the intestines and their necessary functions were disturbed.

Several French savants, Dr. Robinson, Professor Blanchard, Dr. Brumpt and others, seem also to be of the opinion that this much maligned organ of the human body has a particular and very important function which has been long ignored.

UPBUILDING THE NATIONAL GUARD

Defense League Appeals to Business Men of Country.

SEEKS 1,000 AS DIRECTORS

Campaign to Arouse Interest Carried Into Every State of the Union by Organization Which Declares Belief That Preparation For War Is the Best Guarantee of Peace.

Announcement has been made at the office of the National Defense league in Washington that the league is preparing to take up with all commercial organizations in every state in the Union the plan of interesting business men in the national guard, which has been so successfully carried out in Washington with the chamber of commerce and the board of trade in behalf of the District of Columbia national guard.

The league is now preparing to take up a nation wide campaign with all commercial organizations and to urge business men to take a greater interest in their local national guard organization, to assist and encourage their employees to serve in the national guard and to evince more personal interest in the second line of national defense.

Rifle Practice For Civilians.

Rifle practice for civilians is another matter that is engaging the attention of the National Defense league. Several months ago Chairman Kahn introduced a bill in the house providing for distribution to civilian rifle clubs and schools of 334,000 Krag-Jorgensen rifles now stored in government arsenals. The bill provides for free issue of 200 rounds of ammunition per gun per annum. The measure was approved by the war department and incorporated by a unanimous vote of the house military affairs committee in the pending army bill. Clubs are to be formed and rifles issued under supervision of the national board for promotion of rifle practice and under the authority of the war department.

The league and war department officials believe that a law of this kind will greatly stimulate rifle practice among schoolboys and civilians and will do much toward obtaining a force of 200,000 or 300,000 American riflemen who would be well trained in shooting and the backbone of a volunteer army in event of another war.

The league has recently urged the war department and state department to look into the matter of detailing United States army and navy officers to South American republics and to China to assist in reorganizing their armies and navies. The German government recently contracted with the republic of Paraguay to supply army officers to reorganize the Paraguayan army. League officials believe the United States should do this, if only for the accruing benefits for American trade in these countries, it being well known that wherever German army officers are procured by other nations for military purposes the agents of the German exporters follow close behind.

To Increase Directorate.

The league, which was organized on Feb. 3, 1913, is now preparing to increase its directorate to include 1,000 prominent citizens throughout the country. Governors of the various states are naming these directors. As soon as the new directorate is organized the league will begin publication of a monthly press bulletin for the purpose of enlisting public opinion to the necessity of better means of national defense.

While the National Defense league is working to strengthen all forces which would make the country better prepared for war, it states in its constitution:

"This league abhors war and believes in universal peace, but it firmly believes that preparation for war is the best guarantee of peace."

A LAMB WITHOUT A TAIL.

South Dakota Has Fat Rumped Specimen Imported From Siberia.

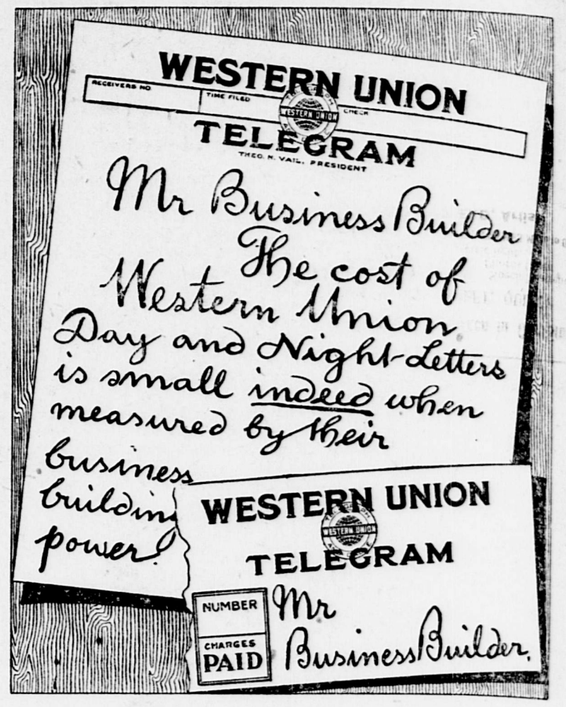
The only fat rumped lamb in the country made its appearance at the South Dakota State college at Brookings recently. It is the first daughter of one of the ewes which Professor N. E. Hansen brought from Siberia. Topping the scales at eleven pounds, she far outweighs the average lamb, which can claim only seven to nine pounds.

This lamb has no tail, but is decidedly fat rumped. In fact, this breed of sheep is fat rumped rather than fat tailed, the latter popular expression being a misnomer.

The mother ewe and the rest of the pen will soon be mated with ordinary sheep to discover whether any desirable qualities will result from the cross.

Shakespeare a Roundhead.

Shakespeare was a descendant of the bronze age invaders, the true or round headed Celts, says Professor Arthur Keith of London. That was a remarkable fact, the professor added, for it was this same short headed stock, spread abroad in central Europe, throughout Germany, France and Italy, which had produced the world's finest artists.



J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER

Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy

Feb. 10 1m

BEAUTIFUL DECORATIONS

Make a Great Hit at Boston Auto Show

Boston's annual automobile show opened Saturday night at the Mechanic's building in a most auspicious maner, and will remain open all the week. The show is one of the most complete ever held due largely to the efforts of Chester I. Campbell of this city. Ninety different makes of cars are shown of which 83 are gasoline, 6 electric and 1 steam. In addition to the cars there are the usual number of automobile accessories, two hundred exhibits of this nature being shown. The total number of automobiles shown is 350 and the value of the exhibits is estimated at $2,000,000 covering a space of 105,000 square feet. The building is elaborately decorated the expense of this work being estimated at $40,000.

This weeks show is devoted entirely to pleasure cars and next week will be given up to motor trucks. The first night's attendance was enormous, being a regular jam, and fully as large an attendance is expected every day this week. Especially will this be true on Wednesday which is called "Society day."

In the matter of decorations, this year's show surpasses all other years, the Venetian scene in the main hall is one to be admired. One may look at the scene, as from a steamer at Venice, for the city is seen through varied colored banners. It makes a very pretty background for the beautiful arch above the stage which is finished in carved mosaic effect.

Then there is a canopy screening of the ceiling, pierced to represent open carved work, while eight electroliers of Venetian design form a most beautiful light. These and the other decorations serve to add lustre to the many cars shown.

In addition to these there are several other new features shown, and it goes without saying that the automobile enthusiasts will throng the building all the week.

CLUB ROOM RAIDED.

The rooms of the Aetna Musical Club on Copeland street were raided Sunday afternoon and 40 bottles of beer were seized by the police. Only a few of the members were present during the raid, which was the result of complaints received by the police department. In the party was Captain Daniel R. McKay, Inspector Goodhue and Officers Hinchon, Whelan and Duane. Specific complaints will be lodged against the club members today. The club was organized for musical purposes by well known West Quincy Italians.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

BARNICOAT VS FOYE

Only Two Candidates at Special Election Tomorrow

The special election to fill the vacancy in the City Council from Ward Three, caused by the ineligibility of Alexander Cowe to serve, will be held tomorrow. While there were several candidates in the field looking for the nomination at the primaries, those defeated at the primary have abided by the will of the people and there will be no independent candidate. The only two names on the ballot therefore are Charles F. Barnicoat, Republican, and Robert T. Foy, Democrat.

It is not anticipated that the election will be largely attended. At the Municipal election Mr. Foy was the fourth highest man, when the returns were announced, and for a time it was thoughts that he would be entitled to the seat. The law, however, stated a special election was necessary.

Neither Mr. Foye nor Mr. Barnicoat seem to intend to let the special election go by default and will make a hustel to get the voters out, so that it is possible that the total vote will be much larger than it ordinarily would eb at a special election.

As usual the polls will be open at 6 A. M. and will close at 4 P. M.. As there is but one cross to count on each ballot the result should be known soon after the polls close.

MRS. JOHN MURPHY.

Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy conducted services in St. Johns church Sunday afternoon over the body of Mary Murphy, widow of John Murphy, whose funeral took place from her home off 28 Revere road. Burial was in St. Marys cemetery, West Quincy. This morning a high mass of requiem, celebrated by Father McCarthy, was well attended. Mrs. Murphy was the mother of John Murphy, a conductor on the Bay State Street Railway, and died Friday after a short illness.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

Have Your Picture Taken in Our Studio

394 WATER STREET, QUINCY

Workmanship guaranteed. Special attention given to outside work. Photos taken evenings by electric light.

ortrait Enlarging. PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order

E. C. GREIFELD, Artist

Feb. 12 1m

DEATHS

BARTON—In Quincy, March 8, William Barton of 34 Elmwood avenue, Wollaston.

Established 1870 Telephone

JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

...NION
...AM
...s Builder
...st of
...ion
...l-Letters
...when
...a
...UNION
...RAM
...ess Builder.

...CT and BUILDER
...uildings of all kinds,
...and built.
...properly anticipate your
...plans will save you more
...nd. A call will bring us
...l. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10 1m

...COAT
VS FOYE
...Candidates at Spe-
...lection Tomorrow
...ial election to fill the va-
...e City Council from Ward
...ed by the ineligibility of
...owe to serve, will be held
...While there were several
...n the field looking for the
...at the primaries, those de-
...e primary have abided by
...he people and there will
...ndent candidate. The on-
...s on the ballot therefore
...F. Barnicoat, Republican,
...Foy, Democrat.
...nticipated that the elect-
...argely attended. At the ...ection Mr. Foy was the ...st man, when the returns
...ed, and for a time it was
...t he would be entitled to
...he law, however, stated a
...on was necessary.
...Foye nor Mr. Barnicoat
...d to let the special elec-
...ault and will make a hus-
...e voters out, so that it is
...the total vote will be
...than it ordinarily would
...al election.
...he polls will be open at ...will close at 4 P. M.. As ...he cross to count on each
...ult should be known soon
...s close.

JOHN MURPHY.

...orence McCarthy conduct-
...n St. Johns church Sun-
...n over the body of Mary
...low of John Murphy,
...al took place from her
...evere road. Burial was
...s cemetery, West Quincy.
...a high mass of requiem,
...Father McCarthy, was
...Mrs. Murphy was the
...hn Murphy, a conductor
...State Street Railway, and ...after a short illness.

...SE IN THE LEDGER.

...cture Taken in Our Studio
...ER STREET, QUINCY
...uaranteed. Special attention
...tside work. Photos taken
...gs by electric light.
PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order
...GREIFELD, Artist
Feb. 12 1m

DEATHS

...Quincy, March 8, Wil-
...n of 34 Elmwood avenue,

...1870 Telephone
...N HALL
...AL DIRECTOR
...nd Ambulance Service
...t Street, Quincy, Mass.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 58 QUINCY, MASS TUESDAY EVENING MARCH 10 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

WILL CELEBRATE 275TH ANNIVERSARY

First Parish Church Will Then Be Free from Debt and in Good Condition

Annual Appropriations Include Increase in Pastor's Salary

The annual meeting of the First Congregational Society, the First Parish, was held Monday evening in the chapel. The meeting was one of the largest attended in a long time, and the reports of the Parish Assessors and other officers showed the parish to be in a most flourishing condition; with a growing interest and activity in all departments and with the most hearty co-operation of all.

One of the most encouraging reports was that of Mr. Faxon, who said that through contributions of the members of the parish and societies of the parish about $9,000 had been collected to cancel the debt of $8,309 so that the parish may celebrate its 275th anniversary in June free from debt.

During the first part of the meeting Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, the minister of the parish, brought a word of greeting. After speaking a word of appreciation for what had been done for him, especially during the past ten days, he said that now the people of the church were his family. He then referred to the growing interest the larger parish feeling among the parishioners. He was also glad to see the evidence of activity and the spirit of working together among the people of the church.

Speaking of the raising of the parish debt he said a fond hope had been realized, and a long step had been taken toward placing the parish where it belongs, a power of influence. Such a congregation of workers as we have will make a success of the church. He wanted to see the church become a bee hive of industry during the coming year, for all it has stood in the past. To see the people work together in unity and strength, and if so there was no reason why we may not grow, so that in ten years we can be the strongest church of our denomination in greater Boston. To become a strong church for the moral influence in Quincy, the city noble, the city beautiful and the city strong.

The Parish Assessors also reported that through the will of Lydia L. Morton, the sum of $3,000 had been placed in their hands and was being held in trust, the income to be paid to the following societies: Sunday School, $1,000; Unity Circle Kings Daughters, $1,000; Fragment society, $500; Woman's Alliance, $500.

The amount of other permanent funds are as follows: Adams fund, $20,000; Anne Beale fund, $1,000; Elizabeth F. C. Williams fund, $5,000; Sarah Vinal fund, $702.31; Caroline Wood fund $500; Organ fund $700; Joseph L. Whiton fund, $500. These funds are all duly invested.

On motion of Paul R. Blackmur it was voted that all legacies to the church be put into a legal trust, unless otherwise expressed by the donor, so that it shall be held as a permanent fund, the income only to be used.

The report of the treasurer showed the receipts of the year to have been $6,185.65, and the disbursements $6,173.69.

The first article in the warrant was to chose a moderator and Hon. Russell A. Sears was elected. There were nine articles in the warrant and the business was quickly dispatched.

Most interesting reports were made by Mrs. Wilson Marsh, for the Fragment society; Mrs. Thomas Fenno, for the Alliance; Miss Ruth Bass, for the Young Peoples Religious Union; Harry Porter, for the Sunday School; Mrs. G. F. Pfaffmann for the music committee, George F. Pfaffmann, for the trustees of the Adams fund and other officers of the parish. These reports showed them to be in a healthy condition and to be doing a splendid work.

275th ANNIVERSARY.

On motion of Joseph L. Whiton, a resolution was adopted that the society celebrate the 275th anniversary of the founding of the Society, and the parish assessors were authorized to take such action as they deemed best to carry out the resolution.

A vote of thanks was passed to George H. Field, who for so many years has served the society as its collector, and who voluntarily retired this year.

INCREASE FOR PASTOR.

The budget for the coming year as passed totaled $6,350, and included an increase of $500 of the minister's salary and an increase of $50 for music.

The parish officers elect are:

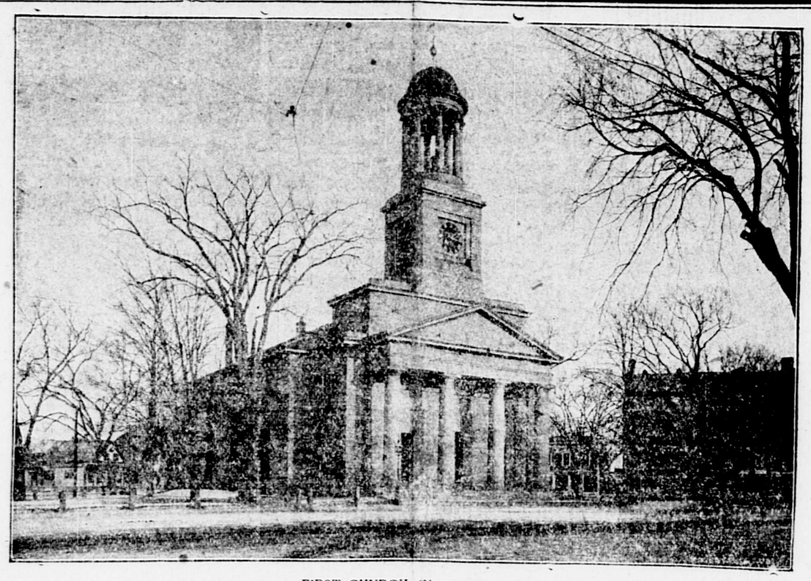
Parish Assessors, Henry M. Faxon, James H. Stetson, Frederick H. Smith

Clerk, J. Brooks Keyes.

Treasurer and Collector, Thomas Fenno.

Trustees of the Adams fund, L. H. H. Johnson, George F. Pfaffmann and Thomas Fenno.

Trustees of other funds, the Parish Assessors.



FIRST CHURCH (UNITARIAN)
Under each of the central pillars is buried a president of the United States

CLAN MacGREGOR WILL PARADE

Clan MacGregor No. 5 held a very enthusiastic meeting Monday night. Everything is in readiness for the big reception to be tendered to Royal Chief Alexander D. Findlay at Music hall on Friday of this week.

Clan MacGregor will meet at Dobles corner at 7 P. M., about which time a large delegation from Clan MacDonald of Brockton will arrive by special trolley car.

The members of both clans will then form in line and parade to Quincy station there to meet the Royal Chief and escort him to Music hall. The parade will be led by the pipers of both clans.

The Burns' Memorial Association has been incorporated and a meeting is to be held at Clan MacGregor hall on Tuesday, March 17. All interested in this matter are invited to attend.

Six new members were initiated by Clan MacGregor this week and several applications for membership were acted on.

TO ATTEND COMMUNION.

The Holy Name Society of St. Mary's parish will attend holy communion at St. Mary's church Sunday morning in a body. They will breakfast together in St. Mary's hall after the mass. Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, pastor and director of the society, anticipates that nearly 450 will go to confession and receive communion. The society of this parish is the largest in the Quincy parishes.

HOPE TO PROVE AN ALIBI

Man Arrested for Shooting Says He Is Innocent

Friends of Domenico Bolea, who is held in connection with the shooting of Teber Tolasi on Canal street Sunday night, are making a search of the city for evidence which they believe will satisfy the police that the wrong man is in custody. Bolea denies that he is in any way responsible for the shooting, and is now in Dedham jail where he was committed Monday awaiting the outcome of Tolasi's wounds. Bail was set at $5000.

The affair which took place in the heart of the Italian section is said to have been seen by witnesses. Many of the residents declare that Tolasi was shot in a gang fight which followed a street argument.

Bolea was arrested by Officer Broberg who ran to the spot when he heard the shots. At the station he reported that a gold watch, valued at $55 which he wore was stolen while he was standing in the crowd. When arrested the chain dangling from the lapel of his coat told its own story.

Some Italians in the city state freely that a Boston society has many members here and that they exercise strong arm methods in relieving people of their valuables, the money received from the sale of such articles, being spent over a gambling table.

At the Quincy City Hospital it was said this morning that Tolasi passed a comfortable night. One bullet, which lodged in the left breast has not been removed.

FAREWELL PARTY AND PRESENTATION

A pleasant gathering took place Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson, 80 Main street, the occasion being a farewell party in honor of Mrs. Rogerson of Baxter Lane, about thirty being present.

Mrs. Rogerson was the recipient of a very handsome travelling clock, Mr. McLewish making the presentation in a neat little speech. She also received a leather hand-bag and various other gifts.

Afterward songs, instrumental music, etc., were enjoyed. Refreshments were served, and altogether a delightful evening was spent.

Mrs. Rogerson left for Seattle, Washington, Monday morning and carries with her the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson, Miss Atkinson, Miss Madge Atkinson, Miss Frances Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. McLewish, Miss Helen Arnold, Miss Catherine Cameron, Arthur Keast, Fred Keast, Thomas Keast, Elvin Arnold, Mr. Mullinger, R. W. Parnaby, Bertie Parnaby, George MacDougall, Fred Hanson, Mr. Clem and Mr. Patrick.

WEDDED AT LYNN CHURCH

Miss Schlehuber the Bride of Carl W. Gram

Carl W. Gram, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore C. Gram of Wollaston, was united in marriage Monday evening to Miss Hazel Alma Schlehuber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Schlehuber of Lynn. The bride was prominent in Lynn club circles and has appeared frequently in amateur theatricals. She is also an accomplished dancer.

The ceremony took place at the First Universalist church in the presence of several hundred guests. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Frederick W. Perkins, pastor of the church.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Beatrice Bedard, as maid of honor, and by four bridesmaids, Miss Imogen B. Goddard, Miss Marjorie Kimball, Miss Lily F. Bennett and Miss Augusta B. Titus.

Acting as bride's matrons were Mrs. Harry M. Watts of Wollaston, a sister of the groom; Mrs. Charles A. Burnham, of Winchester; Mrs. Thomas R. Maxwell and Mrs. Charles E. Rich, of Lynn. The flower girl was Miss Audrey Schlehuber, a sister of the bride, and the ring bearer was Leonard Stillwell. The best man was Charles H. Pope of Winthrop.

The ushers were Harry M. Watts and Leonard Titus of Wollaston, Albert Brunker of Chicago, Edward F. Breed, Dr. Archibald H. Martin, C. Ernest Whitten of Lynn, George S. Parker of Milton and Arthur Shaw of Brookline.

The auditorium of the church and the vestry where the reception was held after the ceremony, were handsomely decorated. Assisting the bridal party in receiving were the parents of the bride and groom, eight hundred invitations being issued to the reception.

Mr. Gram was graduated at the Quincy High school and is a well known athlete. He won honors for Quincy High and is a member of the record holding relay team of the Boston Athletic Association.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Gram will reside in Milton.

MRS. ARTHUR F. CAPEN.

Mrs. Bessie L. Capen, wife of Arthur F. Capen, died Monday night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Bryant of 123 Beach street. A week ago Sunday, Mrs. Capen contracted a cold. Pneumonia speedily developed and death occurred Monday night at 6.30 o'clock. Mrs. Capen was a very popular member of the Wollaston Woman's Club and her last active work was reporting for their recent club paper. Mrs. Capen was also prominent in the affairs of the Park and Downs Congregational church and was chairman of the entertainment committee of the Women's Guild. Besides her parents she is survived by a brother Harold L. Bryant, principal of the High school at Northfield, Vt.

VOTING TODAY IN WARD THREE

Charles Barnicoat and Robert T. Foye the Rival Candidates

Special Election Necessary to Fill Vacancy in City Council

The indications this noon were that upwards of 400 votes would be polled at the special election today in Ward Three. Up to 9 o'clock this morning 149 votes had been polled in the two precincts. There is no one making a particular hustle to get out the voters, and there is an absence of the usual number of automobiles to bring voters to the polls, and it is evident that the man who waits today to be brought to the polls to vote will not vote.

The voting up to noon was proceeding quietly and the indications were that Charles F. Barnicoat, the Republican candidate, would have a substantial majority over Robert T. Foye, the Democrat. The polls will close at 4 o'clock this afternoon and the result will be known early tonight.

The report of the election will be made to the City Council next Monday evening, and if the successful candidate is present he may take the oath of office that night in time to vote on the anual appropriations.

VERDICT IN OLD ASSAULT CASE

A verdict of $112 was awarded William L. Sullivan of Quincy by the Norfolk Superior court jury on Monday, in his suit against ex-Councilman Frank E. Badger of Atlantic. Sullivan sued for $1,000 for allegea assault. In was alleged that early on the morning of Oct. 18, 1905, he and a friend were returning from a dance, and as a short cut were crossing Badger's yard. Mr. Badger who had been losing hens and was on the watch for thieves is alleged to have fired a shot at them, Sullivan receiving a shot in the right hand and right hip.

BRIDE RECENTLY FROM SCOTLAND

Miss Minnie Luke of Scotland arrived Sunday and found an expectant bridegroom awaiting her at the wharf in Boston. Monday evening in the presence of a house full of friends at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Kay of 66 Watson terrace they were united in marriage by Rev. B. A. Willmott of Bethany Congregational church. They will reside in Quincy.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

MEMBER OF MARINE CORPS

John J. Burke Served in China and the Philippines

John J. Burke, son of Mrs. Winifred Brown and the late John Burke, died Monday at his home at 850 Sea street. He was a member of the United States Marine Corps, and served in the Philippine Islands and in the Boxer uprising in China. He is a former resident of Brookline where his brother is an officer in the fire department of that town. A brother-in-law is a member of the Boston fire department.

His funeral will be held from his home Wednesday morning. A high mass of requiem will be celebrated in St. John's church. He will be given a soldiers' burial.

Pi Eta Society Play

Applications for tickets to "A BUG IN A RUG" to be given by the PI ETA SOCIETY under the auspices of the QUINCY TENNIS CLUB, on Friday, March twenty-seventh, will be received by James H. Slade, Treas., 17 Edgemere Road, Quincy.

As the tickets will be distributed in the order of application, you will recognize the importance of applying early. Tickets are $1.00 each and are reserved.

Executive Committee
Quincy Tennis Club
March 7-6t

AT THE FOY STORES

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

Low Prices on all Standard Makes of

COCOA and CHOCOLATE

Made from the nut of the cacao tree, these are two of the purest, most delicious of food products. In fact, there are few articles of food which possess such valuable and important dietary properties as these. Used in cooking, or as a beverage, they are beneficial and nutritious. We recommend their liberal use. Note our low prices.

FOY'S COCOA
Put up especially for us.
So good it bears our name.
1-2 lb can 15c 1-4 lb can 8c

BAKER'S COCOA and LOWNEY'S COCOA 19c half pound can

HASTY LUNCH COCOA 15c can HERSHEY'S COCOA 18c can
BENSDORP'S ROYAL DUTCH COCOA 30c

BAKER'S CHOCOLATE 33c the pound
DOT CHOCOLATE Fine for confections 40c the pound
PRISCILLA MINUET CHOCOLATE 25c

R. E. FOY & COMPANY

March 9-2t

Odd Fellows' Ball

The Annual Concert and Ball
-- of --
Mt. Wollaston Lodge, I. O. O. F.
Will be held at
Music Hall, Quincy
Thursday Evening, Mar. 12
POOLE'S ORCHESTRA
Concert 8 to 9. Dancing 9 to 2
Special Cars after Ball
March 9-3t

TOMORROW IS Society Day
AT THE AUTO SHOW
MECHANICS BUILDING

SQUANTUM'S NEW CHURCH

Prospects Good For Erection of One This Year

A movement looking to the building of a church in Squantum this spring was started Monday evening at the home of Councilman John R. Nelson. There was a lively interest in the project manifested and it was voted that a public meeting be held Tuesday evening, March 17, at the home of Mr. Nelson when the details of organization of a church society will be carried out. In the meantime the Rev. T. W. Davison of the Atlantic Memorial church, who is the father of the present church movement in Squantum, will make a personal canvass of Squantum homes to talk over the project with every resident.

It was reported at the meeting that a paper had been started by Swedish residents of Quincy looking to the building of a Swedish church in Squantum. A number of Swedish residents who attended the meeting did not favor this movement, but said the ypreferred to join in the building of one church which would be an ornament and a credit to the community, and which would be used for both services in the Swedish and American languages. Rev. Mr. Davison reported that he had heard that subscription papers were being passed asking for funds in his name. He stated emphatically that he had authorized no such subscription, and that he had not asked or authorized anyone to solicit money for a Squantum church at this time.

The special guest of the evening was Mr. Walker of Newton, representing the Home Missionary society. He spoke of the need of Christian work in Squantum and said he believed that the time had been reached for Squantum to have a church. He said that while his oganization had nothing to do with the building of a church, that in the matter of maintenance his society would give valuable aid and advice. He earnestly hoped that Squantum would manifest sufficient interest to get the hearty co-operation of Boston societies. When informed that Squantum had the right of way in two different funds for the building of churches, he said that the community was especially lucky and that it would be a great mistake if the residents did not join for immediate action in securing a church.

Rev. Mr. Davison said that although he could not state any definite amount, he believed that if the people of Squantum showed sufficient interest and possibly subscribed $1000 that the Boston societies could be depended upon for possibly $3000. He said he did not want to see anything started without at least the assurance of a $4000 building. He wanted to see a church that would be of the greatest interest to the community as a whole. He said it was necessary that Squantum people form a society to hold the church property and that if this interest was manifested he felt sure that the funds could be raised for a church building.

Councilman C. E. Carlson and Councilman John R. Nelson and others spoke earnestly in favor of the church movement as outlined by Rev. Mr. Davison.

The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

MAINE POTATOES

25c PECK

— AT —

Carlson's Restaurant

10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall

March 6-1m

MAYOR ATTENDS C. E. MEETING

Speaks on Good Citizenship at Atlantic Church

The small fee received by a city for a pony express license as compared with the large one required for a saloon license was discussed by Mayor John L. Miller at the bi-monthly meeting of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union held Monday night in the Atlantic Memorial church. The remarks of Mayor Miller were along the recommendations contained in his first official message to the City Council, following his inaugural.

The Union voted to place itself on record as being opposed to Sunday base ball and to ask the representatives from the Quincy districts to take a similar stand.

The topic of Mayor Millers address was "What young men can do to make Quincy a better place." He emphasized the need of young men becoming more active in municipal affairs and advocated the exerting of their influence on friends who are unregistered as voters. He said Boston was not the ideal place and that Quincy had its attractive points.

The banner for the best attendance was presented to the society of the Washington Street Congregational church. The second banner was given to the society of the First Presbyterian church for the best attendance at their consecration meetings.

Rev. C. C. Tilley of the Calvary Baptist church when presented by John Roache of Wollaston, president of the union, said that he would have to forego his topic "Good Citizenship" because it existed in Quincy. He gave a fine address that was humorous, interesting and rich with good advice.

Music was furnished by the union choir and the soloist of the evening was John Walker, chorister of an out of town union. The attendance at the meeting was very large.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

James H. Dwyer, W. McLean and H. A. Arnold were elected on Monday as Selectmen of Abington. The town remains dry by a plurality of 270.

The Cohasset appropriations were made Monday at the town meeting. Schools $30,000, police $7700, and the fire department $3000. The highways are covered by $20,000. Other figures are town officers $6500, lighting $6600 library $2250, poor $7500, debt $800 moth suppression $4500, tree warden $1000, Board of Health $1400 and incidentals $3000.

William J. Barry, James A. Cody and Arthur M. Thompson are the Rockland selectmen. The town remains dry by 140 votes.

Hingham has appropriated $39,840 for its schools, $18,485 for highways and bridges, and $7050 for its fire department. New roads are given $3200. Highways and bridges in Weymouth have received an appropriation on Monday of $13,500 and the fire department $8500. Police receive $6500 and street lights $10,700. An increase in the salaries of elementary school teachers requires $2000.

Deacon Samuel E. Guild died in Walpole Sunday night in his 79th year.

Hannah Hanley died in Weymouth Sunday night. She was the widow of William Hanley. Her funeral takes place Wednesday morning.

Helen Wardle died at Dedham on Monday in her 50th year. She was the wife of John Wardle of 80 Oakdale avenue.

The articles in the annual town warrant were referred to a committee which will hold public hearing.

Mrs. John Blackman of Canton, formerly of Walpole, died on Sunday, aged 85 years.

DEPARTMENTS CONSOLIDATE.

Seven of the departments of Beverly will be consolidated into a department of public works by vote of the alderman on the recommendation of Mayor H. A. McDonald. The departments affected will be the street, highway, sewer, bridge, water, park and forestry.

Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows observes its 30th anniversary this evening.

MONEY WAS WORTHLESS.

Mrs. Margaret McDonald accepted a worthless $10 bill as an advance payment for a room in her house on Chestnut street Monday afternoon, and returned $8 in good money to a man who left immediately.

A short time after the transaction Mrs. McDonald became suspicious of the appearance of the money and took it to a local merchant who told her she had been buncoed. The bill when examined proved to be two old state bills pasted together. The police were notified and a description sent out to surrounding cities and towns. The stranger has not been apprehended.

DISTRICT COURT.

Bart O'Keefe, was fined $10, Frederick Nutting $15 and William Manning $15 for drunkenness at Quincy. Thomas Kelly was arraigned for the same offence had his case continued until July 9.

Fank Anderson was arraigned for breaking and entering the store of Charles Mangs at Quincy. Case continued until March 14.

BRIEFS

Tomorrow will be Society day at the Boston Auto show.

Some of the streets are becoming quite dry, but others are very muddy.

Womens club notes in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

The Swedish Congregational church at Norwood has been celebrating its tenth anniversary.

Making Over Blankets.

An old blanket which seems to have passed its days of usefulness may be practically made over. Wash it and cover on both sides with cheesecloth. Tack it at intervals to form little tufts with bright colored yarn. Overcast buttonhole or brier stitch the edges with yarn, according to your time and fancy. Thus you have a new, durable, sanitary bed cover which is pretty, inexpensive and admirable as a "throw" for a nap or coolish nights in summer.

Colors For Stout Women.

Yellow increases the natural size of stout women. Satin also makes the look larger. Light blues should never be worn, but dark blues may be chosen according to one's complexion requirements. White is stationary. Black seal brown, navy blue and the deepest of crimsons are all tones that make the wearer look slimmer. Therefore reverse this order and you will possess a good line of colors for the thin woman to adopt.

What Did He Expect?

Customer—Say, tailor, look at this suit. It seems to bag all over.

Tailor—Sure it bags. It's a sack suit. —Chicago News.

Advertisers Ask Only A Fair Trial

By HOLLAND.

ADVERTISERS do not attempt to make you agree to buy their goods for the rest of your life. They only want you to give their wares a trial, to subject them to actual test by actual use, and then be guided by experience

Could anything prove more clearly that the advertiser has supreme confidence in his product, that he is absolutely certain that it will please you, that it will be all he says it is?

It would indeed be foolish to spend money to induce you to buy an article that would prove unsatisfactory and would result in your telling friends and neighbors of your experience. Advertisers spend millions making their trademarks known, and in order to make their trademarks valuable they must stand for a certain standard of worth. Having made their trademarks known, manufacturers exert every effort to keep the goods up to the expected high grade.

YOU CAN'T GO WRONG IN FOLLOWING ADVERTISEMENTS.

It's Here Today---
That Light Lozier Four--$2100

YOU'VE DREAMED—as thousands of others have dreamed, "Some day I'll own a Lozier, too."

THAT DREAM is now possible of realization. This Lozier at $2100 is within your reach at the price you want to pay.

YOU'VE ASKED many times, as others have asked, "Why doesn't some concern like Lozier build a car of quality and yet at a price within my reach"—or appropriation, which is the same thing.

LOZIER HEARD—heard you and heard thousands of others ask the same thing—for a car bearing the Lozier name-plate as a guarantee of Lozier quality and yet selling "around $2000."

AND THIS LOZIER FOUR is the response to that demand—that need—that desire. A Four built just as well as Lozier knows how—and what concern knows better or has a better reputation for embodying the best it knows in its product.

A "ONE HUNDRED PER CENT CAR" in every last detail—including the "hidden excellence" for which all Loziers are famous—seating up to seven passengers and yet selling for $2100.

NOT A "SIX," BECAUSE we found after going into the matter thoroughly, that a six could not be made at that price—and you said "around $2000" you will recall. Not at that price without skimping at many points in materials, work and finish. Points you might not notice when the car was new but which Lozier would know all the time—and Lozier standards permit no such practice.

SO IT'S A FOUR, as it should be—as it must be in a car of that passenger capacity and that price and made as it must be made before we will attach that Lozier name-plate.

THIS CAR IS BUILT FOR YOU—assuming now that you are one of that rapidly increasing class of buyers who ask about maintenance cost before asking the price. And who insist on proof—not mere claims or assertions.

YOU'LL WANT TO SEE THIS sensational car—of course. Not to see it—not to know all about it and be able to discuss it intelligently when the talk turns to the latest things automobile, is to argue yourself uninformed on a matter that is considered vital in the automobile trade at this moment.

YOU'LL WANT TO SEE THIS CAR because it is the Four that stemmed the tide of big, cheap sixes—big only in terms of wheel base and bulk and cheap only in first cost.

YOU'LL WANT TO SEE THIS FOUR for the same reason every man in the trade inspected and discussed it during the Automobile show. Because it is the car most worth seeing this year.

AND YOU'LL WANT TO SEE IT because this Lozier was designed for you—made to your heart's desire just as if, in response to that desire you have so often expressed, you, instead of Lozier had made it. You'll want to see this four.

DETAILS?—NOT HERE. Space forbids. Beside, there are some things one cannot adequately describe in cold type. Have to be seen to be fully appreciated and enjoyed. And you will enjoy some of the Perrin features in this Four—features you will find on many other fours—next season. This season they are exclusively Lozier.

CLEVER—YES. SIMPLE—VERILY. And sane and logical and right at every point. Design—like all Loziers just a little more artistic, just a little more individualistic—just a little more to your taste. But you'll have to see the car in order to appreciate fully.

OF COURSE YOU KNOW that more Lozier Fours were sold at retail during the New York show than of any other make in that class. Hundreds of demonstrations booked since—and we can get only so many Lozier Fours. So that's another—and perhaps the best—reason why you'll want to see this car at the earliest possible moment.

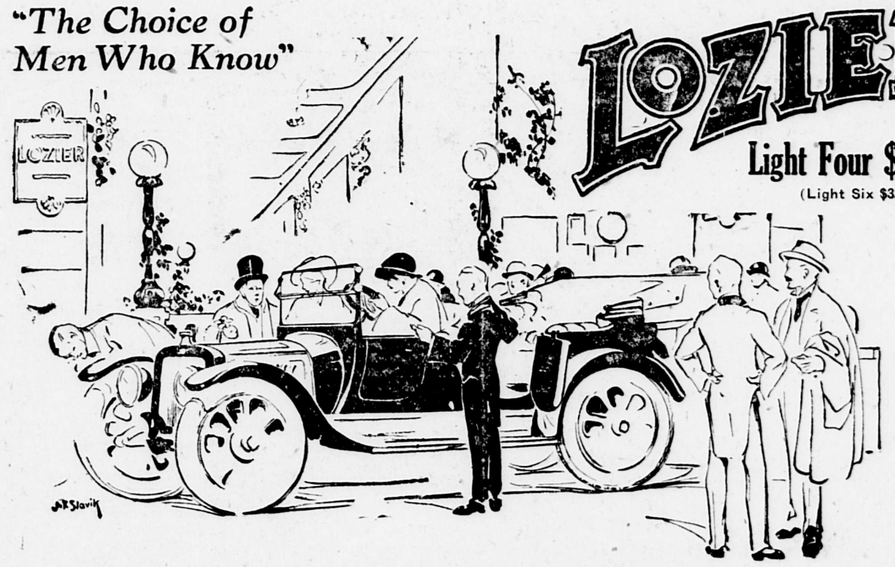
IT'S HERE—JUST ARRIVED today—for your inspection.

THIS AD WILL BE READ by thousands of people today. Not all of them will be in to see this car. But we expect the biggest crowd—the most enthusiastic reception committee that ever greeted a new model on its debut. You'll be there—of course.

"The Choice of Men Who Know"

LOZIER

Light Four $2100
(Light Six $3250)



Boston Auto Show
Spaces 132, 133

Wentworth-Fosdick Company
926 Commonwealth Ave., Boston Tel. Brookline, 4970

MRS. ORRIN S. HAMMACK.

The death of Mrs. Orrin S. Hammack has brought sorrow to a large circle of people in Quincy. Always of robust health, herself, her death came as an usual shock to her family and friends. Although her home for some years has been in New York and the past year in the recently erected home in New Jersey, she had endeared herself to a new circle of friends who today mourn her loss deeply, still those who knew her as a young woman in Quincy, remember her lovingly, for she won their love by her unselfish devotion to those about her. Unmindful of self-advancement, her one aim was to be helpful to others, and so her life was one of service. Where there was sickness or trouble, she was the first on the scene; where there were those in need of assistance she was active to secure it for them.

She retained the love and esteem of the friends made in her girlhood as well as those friends made in later life. She was a loving, devoted mother and wife, a tender daughter to her aged father, a fond sister and a true friend.

Such lives leave their impress in this busy life of ours.

(ADVERTISE.)

Piles Cured in 6 to 14 Days
Druggists refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. First application gives relief. 50c.

Sprains and cuts call for quick treatment.
JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
Should be always at hand. Taken internally it relieves Coughs, Colds, Cramps, Sore Throat, Bowel Troubles.
IN USE 103 YEARS
25c and 50c Everywhere
Parsons' Pills
the best laxative
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc.
Boston, Mass.

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

Advertise in the Ledger

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass. by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

Women have pockets in many of the new skirts, but they wil not use them principally to conceal their hands in.

It is perfectly safe to disobey all the laws you want to down in Mexico, but very dangerous to disobey Gen. Villa.

Seventy-five thousand disappointed job seekers have been hanging around the Ford factory in Detroit, but it is hoped that no one asked men of their talents to shovel snow.

The Philadelphia mint has been turning out 300,000 buffalo nickels daily, but many people who think they would make a handsome offering for the contribution box are unable to get any.

Any one who could run across the line and persuade Gen. Villa to return and become a guest at one of Uncle Sam's excellent boarding houses for an indefinite period, would find that trifling irregularities would be overlooked.

Alfred Noyes, the English poet, is to lecture at Princeton university. It is hoped that he does not encourage the college boys in the idle and disorderly habit of writing poetry.

Now that President Wilson has shaken hands with 1700 Knights of Pythias, the Washington people can no longer say that he isn't performing his duties.

RAILROAD SCANDAL.

Canadians have always claimed to be free from the more materialistic influences of "The States." They did not make so many inquiries into a man's income before establishing his status in society. And their simpler politics avoided trust and political abuses. At least so they say.

A report has just been submitted to the government of Canada, showing extravagance and waste, if not worse, on the National Transcontinental railway, the big railroad which the government has been building. The original estimate cost of this line was $61,415,000. The estimated cost to completion is now $161,000,000.

Ex-Senator A. J. Beveridge looked up Canadian methods a good deal at the time he investigated the Intercolonial railway management a few years ago. This 2000 mile road was part of the government's scheme for binding the scattered provinces together.

Mr. Beveridge found that the road was well managed in many ways. But he noted that a politician of influence would sometimes be at a railway station with a knot of his friends. The conductor, who might have secured his job through this politician, would recognize the party as one that must be placated. When he strolled through the car, he might fail to see the group. He would thus be pleased to show his power and importance, also to lay up a useful credit in the "pie-book."

Stations were located at points where the business would not warrant them, on account of the influence of some person of importance. Orders for supplies were often placed with firms that had correct political opinions. Overloading of freight cars was frequently overlooked, where the shipper showed his patriotism by supporting the right party.

How very American it all sounds!

It is true that Mr. Beveridge makes it plain that these evils have been largely done away with during recent years. They furnished too obvious ground for attack on the "ins" by the "outs." The United States has also been cleaning house. Such occurrences show that human nature is much alike, whether you live under a king or a president.

COUNTIES VOTE ON HOME RULE

They Will Be Excluded If Ballot Shows Majority

ANNOUNCEMENT BY ASQUITH

Favors Local Option on Irish Measure, Which He Introduces For Second Reading—Proposal Considered to Have "Drawn the Teeth" of Opposition In Ulster

London, March 10.—Facing perhaps the largest crowd that ever packed the floor and galleries of the house of commons, Prime Minister Asquith precipitated the Irish crisis by moving the twice enacted home rule bill for second reading and debate.

The premier followed his motion by outlining formally the government's proposed compromise with the protestants of Ulster, whereby Irish counties would be given "local option" in the matter of self-government.

The announcement was to the effect that before the bill became operative a poll should be taken of the parliamentary electors of each county to decide whether there should be an exclusion of the Ulster counties from the provisions of the bill for a period of six years from the first meeting of the new Irish parliament. If the majority of the voters was in favor of this scheme the county would automatically be excluded for the prescribed period.

The premier prefaced his speech with the declaration that the government made these suggestions, not because it was running away from the original bill, but merely to allow the bill to start with the greatest prospect of success.

While there was a possibility of acute dissatisfaction and civil strife in Ulster, said the premier, yet if the bill should be shipwrecked or postponed the outlook was equally formidable. Supporters of the bill were as convinced today as ever they had been of the soundness of its principles and machinery, continued the premier. He said they regarded it as a sincere and considerate attempt to place the Irish government on a solid foundation, without injustice or hardship to any class.

Asquith informed the house that the negotiations for a compromise last autumn had failed to result even in an approach to an agreement, but had made all to realize more than ever the difficulties of the situation. To meet Ulster's difficulties they had tried to devise home rule within home rule, but that proposition did not commend itself either to the Nationalists or the Unionists of Ireland.

The proposal of Asquith was considered to have "drawn the teeth" of the opposition in Ulster, where Sir Edward Carson has led a movement to resist home rule by force of arms and a "provisional" government, if necessary.

The right of individual Irish counties to reject home rule by popular vote was considered by politicians to completely nullify the danger from opposition in the north of Ireland.

SCALES ARE INACCURATE

Hundreds Will Be Seized In Massachusetts Drug Stores

Boston, March 10.—Apothecary scales and weights which have been in use for years without being tested or sealed have been found inaccurate by sealers of weights and measures, who have begun a campaign on drug stores throughout Massachusetts.

Reports that Commissioner Hanson has received to date indicate that hundreds of weights will be seized because they are inaccurate.

Although the inspection has hardly begun, so many weights have been condemned that the manufacturers are unable to fill orders received from druggists, according to information received by the commissioner.

SOME TIME BEFORE DECISION

New York Files Final Briefs In Thaw Case at Concord

Concord, N. H., March 10.—The final briefs for New York state in the Harry K. Thaw extradition case were filed with the clerk of the United States district court here.

Thaw's attorneys will file a reply before Judge Aldrich takes up the habeas corpus and bail questions for consideration. Decision is not expected inside of a month.

Killed While Hunting Wildcat

Ellsworth, Me., March 10.—Hunting a wildcat cost Roscoe D. Long, an East Blue Hill merchant, his life. A bullet, fired by Oscar Black, as the wildcat was crossing a ledge, bounced from the ledge and struck Long.

Coffin by Parcel Post

Hackensack, N. J., March 10.—Probably for the first time since the parcel post has been put in operation a coffin for an infant was sent through the mail, from New York to Englewood.

Steamship Sunk In Collision

Shanghai, March 10.—The Japanese steamship Hokuse Maru was sunk in a collision with a British steamer in the harbor here.

FREDERICK T. MARTIN

New York Society Leader Dies Suddenly In London

MARTIN'S DEATH SUDDEN

Breathes His Last Shortly After Being Stricken In London

London, March 10.—Frederick Townsend Martin, a New York society leader, died suddenly of angina pectoris at the Berkeley hotel.

He had been dining with Lord Howe at Curzon House, Mayfair. He returned in apparently excellent health. After undressing he complained of pain around the heart and died a short time afterward.

The body will be conveyed to his home in New York aboard the New York, leaving Southampton tomorrow.

"BACK TO AFRICA" SHIP AT PORTLAND

Nothing Known of Intentions of Those Aboard Curityba

Portland, Me., March 10.—The steamship Curityba, which steamed out of New York Sunday for the purpose, it was said, of flitting out here for a trip to Africa with negroes who expect to settle on the gold coast, anchored in the lower harbor.

Nothing was definitely known along the waterfront of the intentions of those on board or of "Chief Sam," described in New York dispatches as the leader of the "Back to Africa" movement.

ROBBED MILL PAYMASTER

Bandit Who Overlooked $1000 Is Caught by Maine Posse

Dexter, Me., March 10.—An armed posse of deputy sheriffs and citizens captured without a struggle William Micue, believed to be the lone bandit who forced Paymaster Gordon of the Morrison Woolen company at the point of an automatic pistol to turn over $55 to him and then fled.

The robber overlooked more than $1000 in small bills and currency which was also on the paymaster's desk when he departed suddenly from the mill, jumped into a sleigh and drove to Guilford. He had just entered the town when he was overtaken.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

Hundred and One New York Church Raiders, Are Liberated

New York, March 10.—One hundred and one of the 190 men who followed Frank Tannenbaum, the I. W. W. leader, into a Catholic church last Wednesday night, demanding food and shelter, pleaded guilty and were set at liberty under suspension of sentence.

Twelve pleaded not guilty. They were quickly convicted and remanded for sentence. The charge in all the cases was disorderly conduct.

CALLS HUSBAND "UNFIT"

Mrs. Rantoul Asks Court For Custody of Her Two Children

Cambridge, Mass., March 10.—Mrs. Lois B. Rantoul, who last week lost her divorce action against her husband, Edward L., filed a petition in the probate court here asking the custody of their two children, Harriet and Mabel.

Mrs. Rantoul states in the petition that her husband is unfit to have the custody of the children by reason of the fact that they are girls of tender years.

Austrian Women Want Suffrage

Vienna, March 10.—Hundreds of women's mass meetings throughout Austria adopted resolutions declaring that it was the general demand of Austrian women for the vote in parliamentary and local elections.

Asks For Jury of Women

Chicago, March 10.—A jury of women to decide the fate of a woman accused of murder is asked by counsel for Stella Czemerowska, under indictment for killing her fiance, Frank Boczynski, who jilted her.

WILSON AWAITS ACCURATE NEWS

Vergara Episode Not Yet Satisfactorily Explained

CONFLICT IS NOT EXPECTED

Neither Side In Mexico Cares to Clash With United States Arms—Mystery Surrounds Story of Recovery of Body of American Ranchman Killed In Mexico

Washington, March 10.—The administration continues unruffled over the news that the Texas Rangers convicted Huerta's soldiers of murdering an American and have brought the mutilated body back to American soil.

Official statements make it certain that American Consul Garrett of Laredo had received no permission from Mexican authority to recover the body of Vergara and that although he acted in sympathy if not concert with the Texas "invaders," he did so upon his own responsibility.

Dispatches from Texas disclose that the state department has steadily received information which it has not made public. According to Garrett, the method of Vergara's death and the names of his murderers have been known in detail by the state department.

Intervention however, is brought no nearer by the Texas episode, for it is not expected that either side in Mexico will invite a conflict with the United States, while the president's policy is to avoid it if possible. The administration made it clear that foreign governments, having recognized Huerta, must look to him for the protection of their subjects in Mexico, as they cannot deal with Carranza and only such protection in the north as is possible through Carranza will be afforded by the United States.

President Wilson expects a full report from Governor Colquitt and Consul Garrett as to the manner in which the body of Clemente Vergara, an American citizen, killed in Mexico, was returned to American soil.

After reading news dispatches, some saying Texas Rangers had crossed into Mexico, and had availed themselves of permission by the Mexican federal authorities to Garrett to recover the body, the president and Secretary Bryan conferred at length.

The president said afterward that no official information had been received; that he doubted very much whether Garrett had any permission to take the body, and that he would await a full report from Colquitt before making any comment.

The president pointed out that the Huerta government had supplied little information about Vergara.

The lid of secrecy regarding Mexico was lifted in the senate by Senator Fall, Republican, of New Mexico, who urged armed intervention for the protection of Americans and other foreigners in the stricken republic.

A long list of outrages upon Americans and other foreigners in Mexico was submitted by Fall in the course of his speech.

SECRETLY RETURNED

Nobody Tells Who Brought Vergara's Body From Mexico

Laredo, Tex., March 10.—A shovel sticking in the soft earth of the open grave and around the handle of the implement a card with the word "Recuerdos" (Remembrance), is the single trace of the mysterious night visit of a party of unidentified men to Hidalgo, Mex., cemetery who disinterred the body of Vergara and returned it to Texas for burial by his family.

Vergara's body secretly was placed at a lonely spot on the Rio Grande, forty-five miles above Laredo, in the early dawn of Sunday morning to be found by a United States official, a state officer and a county deputy sheriff, but who was responsible for its removal from Mexico is a question still unanswered.

The body is here awaiting an examination which state authorities hope may disclose something to aid them in placing blame for the ranchman's violent death after he was taken prisoner by Mexican federals. A superficial examination of the body disclosed two gunshot wounds in the head, one in the neck, a blow as if from a rifle butt which crushed the skull; and the mutilated left hand, twisted and charred by fire, suggested that torture had been inflicted before Vergara was executed.

Texas Rangers, of the troop of Captain Sanders, were first declared responsible for the return of Vergara's body from Mexico, but later this was denied. Sanders was one of the men who "were informed" that the body could be found at a designated place. The other two were American Consul Garrett of Neuvo Laredo, Mex., and Deputy Sheriff Petty.

They went to the scene ostensibly to secure further information on the Vergara case, but admitted later that they had been told that the body had been returned. Who were their informants was one of numerous questions each of the officials in turn refused to answer. They did say, however, that neither United States nor state officials had any part in the actual trip into Mexico.

AUXILIARY TO BUFFALOES

Fifty Have Already Made Application for Membership

The organization meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Quincy herd, Benevolent Order of Buffaloes, was held Monday evening, in Clan MacGregor hall. The membership enrollment was fifty and several applications were received. The charter of the organization will be open for a limited time. A membership of seventy-five is expected when the institution takes place.

The following officers were elected:

President,—Mrs. Katherine Cotter.
Vice president,—Mrs. Martha Davie
Secretary,—Miss Anna Finn.
Treasurer,—Mrs. John Kingdon.
Marshal,—Mrs. Lucy Greenwood.
Inner Guard,—Mrs. Sylvester Webster.
Outer Guard,—Mrs. Stuart MacKenzie.
Past President, — Mrs. Sidney Greenwood.

The following are on the entertainment committee: Miss Finn, Mrs. Seldon, Mrs. Kingdon, and Mrs. Cotter. The committee to arrange for the institution includes Mrs. Webster, Mrs. Davie, Mrs. Seldon, and Mrs. Greenwood.

A social entertainment will be held after every meeting. The society was formed primarily as an auxiliary to the Buffaloes, for mutual benefit, and for charitable work. An hour of whist followed the meeting.

QUINCY MAN TOASTMASTER.

The Daytona Daily News of Daytona, Florida, reports that ex-Councilman E. W. Branch of Quincy was toastmaster at a birthday party on March 2 to Jacob Wesley Wilbur at Wilbur-by-the-Sea. He also contributed a poem entitled "Contentment" to the tune of "Solomon Levi." It was a great event at that resort.

To Patch Wall Paper.

Tear a piece slightly larger than the portion to be covered, to match, but torn with rough edges and without any definite shape. Then paste over and the patch will not be noticeable.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Dennis Behan and Daniel Kelleher, both of Quincy in the County of Norfolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to The Quincy Co-operative Bank, a corporation duly established by law, and located at said Quincy dated August 5, 1903, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, book 955, page 27, for breach of the condition of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, on Friday, the third day of April, A. D. 1914, at half past four o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, and therein described as follows:

A certain lot of land with buildings thereon situated in said Quincy and being numbered sixteen (16) on a plan made by H. T. Whitman recorded with Norfolk Plans, book 12 plan 528.

Said parcel of land is bounded and described as follows, to wit:— Northerly on Payne Street sixty (60) feet; Easterly on lot numbered fifteen (15) on said plan, eighty-one and sixty one-hundredths (81.60) feet; Southerly on lot numbered eleven (11) and a small part of lot numbered twelve (12) on said plan, sixtyand one one-hundredth (60.01) feet, and Westerly on land now or formerly of James W. Pratt, eighty-two and eighty-eight one-hundredths (82.88) feet; containing 4934 square feet of land. Being the same premises conveyed to said Dennis Behan and Daniel Kelleher by deed dated August 7, 1903, duly recorded with Norfolk Deeds.

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all tax titles, unpaid taxes, municipal liens and assessments, if any such there be. $100 will be required to be paid by the purchaser in cash at the time and place of sale; balance in ten days from date of sale on delivery of the deed.

The Quincy Co-operative Bank, by
FRANK A. REED, Treasurer,
Mortgagee.
Charles H. Wilson, Attorney, Savings Bank Bldg., Quincy, Mass.
Quincy, March 9, 1914.
10-3t 10-17-24

EXECUTORS' NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscribers have been duly appointed executors of the will of Wilford C. Hunt late of Amherst in the State of New Hampshire deceased, testate, and have taken upon themselves that trust by giving bond, as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to HELEN D. RHINES,
AUDREY W. RICH,
Executors.
(Address)
Ferndale Road, Wollaston, Mass.
March 2, 1914.
10-3t 10-17-24

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

DO YOUR BANKING IN QUINCY

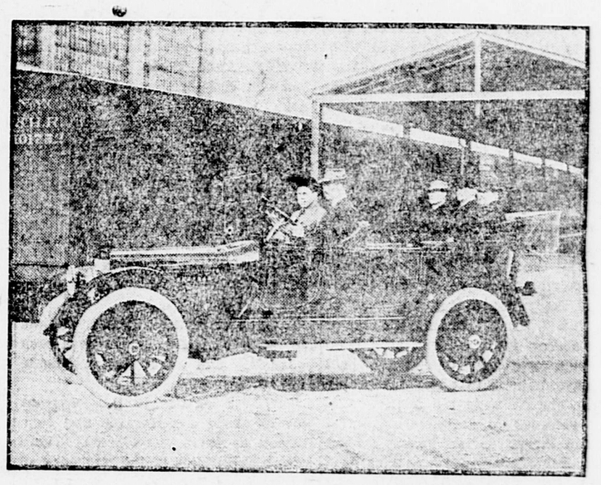
Stop a minute and think. Here is a home bank, a strong local institution. It is near the railroad station, and in the centre of city. It opens earlier and stays open later than the Boston banks. Its safety boxes are rented cheaper. You can know its officers personally. It offers you every privilege that you can get in any bank. Come in and get some facts about this.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

LOZIER "4" HAS 5000 ORDERS ON HAND

New York and Chicago Shows, as Well as Boston, Give Big Impetus to Sales by Company—New Model Attracting Attention Among Enthusiasts.



The first Lozier "Four" shipped from the Detroit factory of the Lozier Motor Company. The following officials are seated in the car, reading from left to right: Paul Smith, sales manager; J. C. Perrin, chief engineer; E. O. Pollard, production manager; N. R. Feltes, treasurer; J. M. Gilbert, president.

With the shipment of the first Lozier "Four" on February 11th, the two big Lozier factories at Detroit and Plattsburg received their formal introduction to a quantity production schedule. Sales Manager Paul Smith states that with about 5000 orders on hand for early delivery, Lozier forces will be working full tilt for some time to come.

"Lozier sales received a tremendous impetus from the two national shows at New York and Chicago," said Mr. Smith, in commenting upon the demand for the newest Lozier. "I don't believe the automobile manufacturer fully realizes the value of shows until he is able to use them in bringing out a brand new model. Interest in the new Lozier far exceeded that in any model we had ever before brought out. Hitherto we have always looked upon automobile shows as more or less expensive luxuries. Actual sales at New York and Chicago amounted to a greater volume of business than our combined show sales of the past three years. This certainly looks as though the annual shows can be made a paying proposition, providing always, of course, that your product strikes the popular fancy. Car orders on our books already assure us of the greatest year in our history and we expect an increased demand when demonstrating cars are in the hands of dealers."

Production Manager Pollard, in charge of the Lozier plants at Detroit and Plattsburg, is arranging his plans to allow for a production of up to forty cars per day. Coupled with this output the plants will probably be operated on double shifts if this is found necessary to meet deliveries.

E. Leroy Pelletier, Advertising Counsel of the Lozier company, is mapping out an extensive campaign for the coming year which will be confined largely to newspapers. Mr. Pelletier's wonderful success in the marketing of great quantities of automobiles has been achieved largely through concentration in newspapers and he is naturally planning the Lozier campaign along these lines.

$1.00 WHILE THEY LAST

BARGAINS

HISTORIES OF QUINCY

Slightly damaged by water. Just the thing for students of history for reference, or to clip from.

Bargain price of

$1.00

while they last.

A few perfect copies for $3.50

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING COMPANY
LEDGER—PATRIOT OFFICE

SQUANTUM'S NEW CHURCH

Prospects Good For Erection of One This Year

A movement looking to the building of a church in Squantum this spring was started Monday evening at the home of Councilman John R. Nelson. There was a lively interest in the project manifested and it was voted that a public meeting be held Tuesday evening, March 17, at the home of Mr. Nelson when the details of organization of a church society will be carried out. In the meantime the Rev. T. W. Davison of the Atlantic Memorial church, who is the father of the present church movement in Squantum, will make a personal canvass of Squantum homes to talk over the project with every resident.

It was reported at the meeting that a paper had been started by Swedish residents of Quincy looking to the building of a Swedish church in Squantum. A number of Swedish residents who attended the meeting did not favor this movement, but said the ypreferred to join in the building of one church which would be an ornament and a credit to the community, and which would be used for both services in the Swedish and American languages. Rev. Mr. Davison reported that he had heard that subscription papers were being passed asking for funds in his name. He stated emphatically that he had authorized no such subscription, and that he had not asked or authorized anyone to solicit money for a Squantum church at this time.

The special guest of the evening was Mr. Walker of Newton, representing the Home Missionary society. He spoke of the need of Christian work in Squantum and said he believed that the time had been reached for Squantum to have a church. He said that while his oganization had nothing to do with the building of a church, that in the matter of maintenance his society would give valuable aid and advice. He earnestly hoped that Squantum would manifest sufficient interest to get the hearty co-operation of Boston societies. When informed that Squantum had the right of way in two different funds for the building of churches, he said that the community was especially lucky and that it would be a great mistake if the residents did not join for immediate action in securing a church.

Rev. Mr. Davison said that although he could not state any definite amount, he believed that if the people of Squantum showed sufficient interest and possibly subscribed $1000 that the Boston societies could be depended upon for possibly $2000. He said he did not want to see anything started without at least the assurance of a $4000 building. He wanted to see a church that would be of the greatest interest to the community as a whole. He said it was necessary that Squantum people form a society to hold the church property and that if this interest was manifested he felt sure that the funds could be raised for a church building.

Councilman C. E. Carlson and Councilman John R. Nelson and others spoke earnestly in favor of the church movement as outlined by Rev. Mr. Davison.

The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

MAINE POTATOES

25c PECK

— AT —

Carlson's Restaurant

10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall

March 6-1m

MAYOR ATTENDS C. E. MEETING

Speaks on Good Citizenship at Atlantic Church

The small fee received by a city for a pony express license as compared with the large one required for a saloon license was discussed by Mayor John L. Miller at the bi-monthly meeting of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union held Monday night in the Atlantic Memorial church. The remarks of Mayor Miller were along the recommendations contained in his first official message to the City Council, following his inaugural.

The Union voted to place itself on record as being opposed to Sunday base ball and to ask the representatives from the Quincy districts to take a similar stand.

The topic of Mayor Millers address was "What young men can do to make Quincy a better place." He emphasized the need of young men becoming more active in municipal affairs and advocated the exerting of their influence on friends who are unregistered as voters. He said Boston was not the ideal place and that Quincy had its attractive points.

The banner for the best attendance was presented to the society of the Washington Street Congregational church. The second banner was given to the society of the First Presbyterian church for the best attendance at their consecration meetings.

Rev. C. C. Tilley of the Calvary Baptist church when presented by John Roache of Wollaston, president of the union, said that he would have to forego his topic "Good Citizenship" because it existed in Quincy. He gave a fine address that was humorous, interesting and rich with good advice.

Music was furnished by the union choir and the soloist of the evening was John Walker, chorister of an out of town union. The attendance at the meeting was very large.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

James H. Dwyer, W. McLean and H. A. Arnold were elected on Monday as Selectmen of Abington. The town remains dry by a plurality of 270.

The Cohasset appropriations were made Monday at the town meeting. Schools $30,000, police $7700, and the fire department $3000. The highways are covered by $20,000. Other figures are town officers $6500, lighting $6600 library $2250, poor $7500, debt $800 moth suppression $4500, tree warden $1000, Board of Health $1400 and incidentals $3000.

William J. Barry, James A. Cody and Arthur M. Thompson are the Rockland selectmen. The town remains dry by 140 votes.

Hingham has appropriated $39,840 for its schools, $18,485 for highways and bridges, and $7050 for its fire department. New roads are given $3200. Highways and bridges in Weymouth have received an appropriation on Monday of $13,500 and the fire department $8500. Police receive $6500 and street lights $10,700. An increase in the salaries of elementary school teachers requires $2000.

Deacon Samuel E. Guild died in Walpole Sunday night in his 79th year.

Hannah Hanley died in Weymouth Sunday night. She was the widow of William Hanley. Her funeral takes place Wednesday morning.

Helen Wardle died at Dedham on Monday in her 50th year. She was the wife of John Wardle of 80 Oakdale avenue.

The articles in the annual town warrant were referred to a committee which will hold public hearing.

Mrs. John Blackman of Canton, formerly of Walpole, died on Sunday, aged 85 years.

DEPARTMENTS CONSOLIDATE.

Seven of the departments of Beverly will be consolidated into a department of public works by vote of the alderman on the recommendation of Mayor H. A. McDonald. The departments affected will be the street, highway, sewer, bridge, water, park and forestry.

Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows observes its 30th anniversary this evening.

MONEY WAS WORTHLESS.

Mrs. Margaret McDonald accepted a worthless $10 bill as an advance payment for a room in her house on Chestnut street Monday afternoon, and returned $8 in good money to a man who left immediately.

A short time after the transaction Mrs. McDonald became suspicious of the appearance of the money and took it to a local merchant who told her she had been buncoed. The bill when examined proved to be two old state bills pasted together. The police were notified and a description sent out to surrounding cities and towns. The stranger has not been apprehended.

DISTRICT COURT.

Bart O'Keefe, was fined $10, Frederick Nutting $15 and William Manning $15 for drunkenness at Quincy. Thomas Kelly was arraigned for the same offence had his case continued until July 9.

Fank Anderson was arraigned for breaking and entering the store of Charles Mangs at Quincy. Case continued until March 14.

BRIEFS

Tomorrow will be Society day at the Boston Auto show.

Some of the streets are becoming quite dry, but others are very muddy.

Womens club notes in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

The Swedish Congregational church at Norwood has been celebrating its tenth anniversary.

Making Over Blankets.

An old blanket which seems to have passed its days of usefulness may be practically made over. Wash it and cover on both sides with cheesecloth. Tack it at intervals to form little tufts with bright colored yarn. Overcast, buttonhole or brier stitch the edges with yarn, according to your time and fancy. Thus you have a new, durable, sanitary bed cover which is pretty, inexpensive and admirable as a "throw" for a nap or coolish nights in summer.

Colors For Stout Women.

Yellow increases the natural size of stout women. Satin also makes the look larger. Light blues should never be worn, but dark blues may be chosen according to one's complexion requirements. White is stationary. Black seal brown, navy blue and the deepest of crimsons are all tones that make the wearer look slimmer. Therefore reverse this order and you will possess a good line of colors for the thin woman to adopt.

What Did He Expect?

Customer—Say, tailor, look at this suit. It seems to bag all over.
Tailor—Sure it bags. It's a sack suit. —Chicago News.

Advertisers Ask Only A Fair Trial

By HOLLAND.

ADVERTISERS do not attempt to make you agree to buy their goods for the rest of your life. They only want you to give their wares a trial, to subject them to actual test by actual use, and then be guided by experience

Could anything prove more clearly that the advertiser has supreme confidence in his product, that he is absolutely certain that it will please you, that it will be all he says it is?

It would indeed be foolish to spend money to induce you to buy an article that would prove unsatisfactory and would result in your telling friends and neighbors of your experience. Advertisers spend millions making their trademarks known, and in order to make their trademarks valuable they must stand for a certain standard of worth. Having made their trademarks known, manufacturers exert every effort to keep the goods up to the expected high grade.

YOU CAN'T GO WRONG IN FOLLOWING ADVERTISEMENTS.

It's Here Today---
That Light Lozier Four--$2100

YOU'VE DREAMED—as thousands of others have dreamed, "Some day I'll own a Lozier, too."

THAT DREAM is now possible of realization. This Lozier at $2100 is within your reach at the price you want to pay.

YOU'VE ASKED many times, as others have asked, "Why doesn't some concern like Lozier build a car of quality and yet at a price within my reach"—or appropriation, which is the same thing.

LOZIER HEARD—heard you and heard thousands of others ask the same thing—for a car bearing the Lozier name-plate as a guarantee of Lozier quality and yet selling "around $2000."

AND THIS LOZIER FOUR is the response to that demand—that need—that desire. A Four built just as well as Lozier knows how—and what concern knows better or has a better reputation for embodying the best it knows in its product.

A "ONE HUNDRED PER CENT CAR" in every last detail—including the "hidden excellence" for which all Loziers are famous—seating up to seven passengers and yet selling for $2100.

NOT A "SIX," BECAUSE we found after going into the matter thoroughly, that a six could not be made at that price—and you said "around $2000" you will recall. Not at that price without skimping at many points in materials, work and finish. Points you might not notice when the car was new but which Lozier would know all the time—and Lozier standards permit no such practice.

SO IT'S A FOUR, as it should be—as it must be in a car of that passenger capacity and that price and made as it must be made before we will attach that Lozier name-plate.

THIS CAR IS BUILT FOR YOU—assuming now that you are one of that rapidly increasing class of buyers who ask about maintenance cost before asking the price. And who insist on proof—not mere claims or assertions.

YOU'LL WANT TO SEE THIS sensational car—of course. Not to see it—not to know all about it and be able to discuss it intelligently when the talk turns to the latest things automobile, is to argue yourself uninformed on a matter that is considered vital in the automobile trade at this moment.

YOU'LL WANT TO SEE THIS CAR because it is the Four that stemmed the tide of big, cheap sixes—big only in terms of wheel base and bulk and cheap only in first cost.

YOU'LL WANT TO SEE THIS FOUR for the same reason every man in the trade inspected and discussed it during the Automobile show. Because it is the car most worth seeing this year.

AND YOU'LL WANT TO SEE IT because this Lozier was designed for you—made to your heart's desire just as if, in response to that desire you have so often expressed, you, instead of Lozier had made it. You'll want to see this four.

DETAILS?—NOT HERE. Space forbids. Beside, there are some things one cannot adequately describe in cold type. Have to be seen to be fully appreciated and enjoyed. And you will enjoy some of the Perrin features in this Four—features you will find on many other fours—next season. This season they are exclusively Lozier.

CLEVER—YES. SIMPLE—VERILY. And sane and logical and right at every point. Design—like all Loziers just a little more artistic, just a little more individualistic—just a little more to your taste. But you'll have to see the car in order to appreciate fully.

OF COURSE YOU KNOW that more Lozier Fours were sold at retail during the New York show than of any other make in that class. Hundreds of demonstrations booked since—and we can get only so many Lozier Fours. So that's another—and perhaps the best—reason why you'll want to see this car at the earliest possible moment.

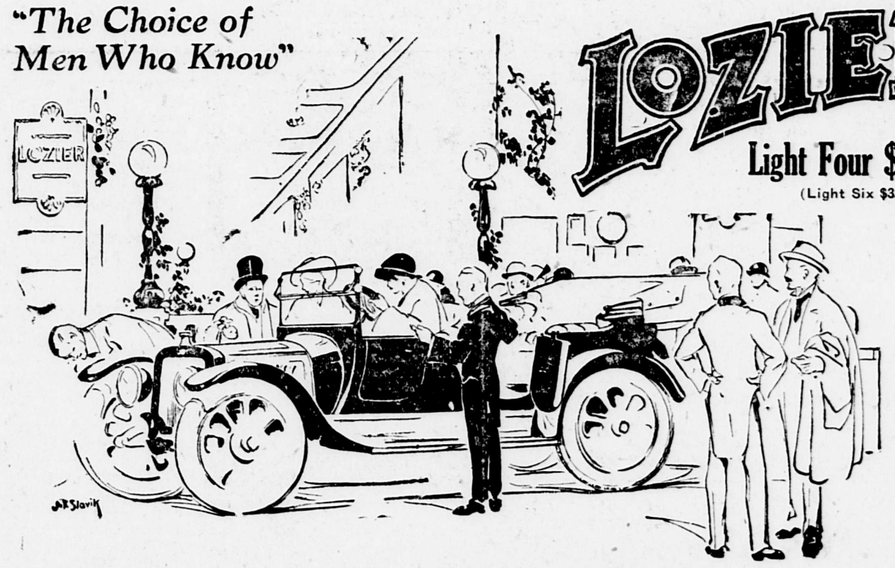
IT'S HERE—JUST ARRIVED today—for your inspection.

THIS AD WILL BE READ by thousands of people today. Not all of them will be in to see this car. But we expect the biggest crowd—the most enthusiastic reception committee that ever greeted a new model on its debut. You'll be there—of course.

"The Choice of Men Who Know"

LOZIER

Light Four $2100
(Light Six $3250)



Boston Auto Show
Spaces 132, 133

Wentworth-Fosdick Company
926 Commonwealth Ave., Boston Tel. Brookline, 4970

MRS. ORRIN S. HAMMACK.

The death of Mrs. Orrin S. Hammack has brought sorrow to a large circle of people in Quincy. Always of robust health, herself, her death came as an usual shock to her family and friends. Although her home for some years has been in New York and the past year in the recently erected home in New Jersey, she had endeared herself to a new circle of friends who today mourn her loss deeply, still those who knew her as a young woman in Quincy, remember her lovingly, for she won their love by her unselfish devotion to those about her. Unmindful of self-advancement, her one aim was to be helpful to others, and so her life was one of service. Where there was sickness or trouble, she was the first on the scene; where there were those in need of assistance she was active to secure it for them.

She retained the love and esteem of the friends made in her girlhood as well as those friends made in later life. She was a loving, devoted mother and wife, a tender daughter to her aged father, a fond sister and a true friend.

Such lives leave their impress in this busy life of ours.

(ADVERTISE.)

Piles Cured In 6 to 14 Days
Druggists refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. First application gives relief. 50c.

Sprains and cuts call for quick treatment.
JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
Should be always at hand. Taken internally it relieves Coughs, Colds, Cramps, Sore Throat, Bowel Troubles.
IN USE 103 YEARS
25c and 50c Everywhere
Parsons' Pills
the best laxative
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc.
Boston, Mass.

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

Advertise in the Ledger

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT
BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Burbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck.
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity.

Generally fair Wednesday. Thursday increasing cloudiness.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	6.04
Sun sets	5.46
Length of day	11.42
Moon sets	5.30
High water, A. M.	10.30
High water, P. M.	11.00
Days increase	2 hours, 36 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	36 degrees
Mar. 10 1913,	51 degrees
Mar. 10, 1912,	38 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

Famous Record Makers.

The Pullet—They say the ostrich can run faster than any other bird.

The Turkey—Mebbe so. But anyhow I hold the trotting record.—Chicago News.

SQUANTUM BRIEFS.

The regular meeting of the Squantum Improvement association takes place tonight at Lee's inn. A number of important matters come up for action and there will be a large attendance.

Francisco Cusumano returned to his Squantum home Monday after a two months absence in Florence, Italy. Mr. Cusumano formerly conducted a large business on Boylston street, Boston. He recently sold out his Boston store and returned to Italy on business connected with his Italian store.

The funeral of A. B. Aldrich, who died at the Quincy hospital Saturday night, was held at noon today at the chapel of Undertaker Fay at Wollaston. The Rev. T. W. Davison officiated. The Squantum Improvement association of which Mr. Aldrich was a member was represented by secretary James Foster, John Holmes and Herman Berghaus. The body was taken to Binghamton, N. Y., on an afternoon train. Mr. Aldrich had lived in Squantum for the past four years and was greatly liked. He was employed at the Boston office of a time clock concern of Binghamton, N. Y., which was his home. He is survived by a widow and two children who will leave Squantum for Binghamton.

For the Old Man to Decide.

Old Gotrox (savagely)—So you want to marry my daughter, do you? Do you think two can live as cheaply as one?" Young Softly (slightly embarrassed)—"I—I hardly think you will notice any difference, sir."—Puck.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

MY SLOGAN
for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21tf

TEN STRING BOWLING MATCH

Quincy Team Defeats Weymouth 2872 to 2833

Over four hundred bowling fans witnessed the special 10-string match at the Coliseum alleys Monday night in which Bernard Burke, DeCoste and McPherson defeated Connell and Harry and Herbert Smith of Weymouth by the slight margin of 29 pins. The grand total of 2872 against 2833 resulted in considerable excitement and much rooting by the gallery.

The strings were: Burke 1035, DeCoste 1002 and McPherson 865. The losers strings were: Harry Smith 911, Connell 953 and Herb Smith 969.

DeCoste nailed high single in his ninth when he made 123 in the prettiest string of the match. Connell was high man on the losing team with 119. Burke went over the century mark six times and DeCoste four. Connell and Harry Smith hit it three times, and Herb Smith five times.

The surprise of the evening was furnished when McPherson, a Boston bowler, who enjoys an average of 101 on the City league, failed to get one century string. To begin with his break ball was not working, and in addition he had all kinds of hard luck. His best string was 97, and he dropped to 80 in the third. Although credited with several strikes he did not buy up several easy spares.

The match was an ideal one and in the 10 strings the vagaries of the thin pin were well demonstrated. At one time the Weymouth boys were leading by six pins, but the Quincy bowlers came back. The outcome of the match looked rather uncertain until DeCoste chopped off his 123 in the eighth string, against Harry Smith which served as protection against Connells 119 and Herb Smiths last of 107. The scores:

QUINCY TEAM 2872

DeCoste	Burke	McPherson
111	104	83
95	109	87
99	93	80
99	98	81
78	116	97
96	84	81
99	94	90
101	103	90
123	104	82
101	100	94
1002	1005	865

WEYMOUTH TEAM 2833

Harry Smith	Connell	Herbetr Smith
84	86	87
84	87	86
101	86	111
80	107	100
99	103	86
100	81	104
90	87	101
100	99	96
80	119	91
93	98	107
911	953	969

GILL TEAM 1437 MULLEN 1354

Mark Gills team took third place in the Heptasophs league by defeating the team captained by Joseph Mullin in a roll-off for that position at the Coliseum alleys Monday night. Incidentally Gill got a total of 357 one of the highest of the year made in competition and the best ever made in the Heptasophs league.

His string of 134 was the best in the match. He rolled 116 and 107 in his second and third. McKay and Stevens also shot for 116, Lemieux 106, Cunniff 103, and Kalson 101. The scores were unusually good when the excitement of the special match and the rivalry of both teams is considered. The score:

	CAPT. GILL.
Kalson	95	81	101	277
Smith	90	82	86	258
Cunniff	103	88	88	279
Canty	86	90	90	266
Gill	134	107	116	357
	508	467	481	1437
	CAPT. MULLEN.
Lemieux	86	106	83	275
Birnie	74	79	79	232
McKay	87	87	116	290
Stevens	116	84	93	293
Mullen	88	91	85	264
	451	447	456	1354

☞PRATT'S BREAD is baked for those who want good bread. Grocers sell it.

GRIGNON IS LEADING

Now Has Three Games to One For Kiley

Michael Kiley won his first game from Napoleon Grignon at St. Mary's hall Monday night after three hours and one half play, and Mr. Grignon retaliated in the second by winning his third in the series. The games were witnesed by a crowd of nearly 100.

Alfred Jordan, champion of the world acted as referee for the third time, but was obliged to leave before the first game finished. Both games were the Edinborough. In the first Mr. Kiley had one man on this oponent and toward the last of the game threw him one and closed in. Mr. Grignon took the second game with ease.

The games were the seventh and eighth of a 20 game series betwen Mr. Kiley representing St. Mary's C. T. A. and Mr. Grignon playing for Ave. Maria council, Knights of Columbus. Four games have been drawn.

BASKET BALL AT Y. M. C. A.

Tonights game with the Cunningham Gym first and second teams at the Y. M. C. E. promises to be the best of the season for the East Milton athletes are still smarting over the defeat administered to them by the Y. M. C. A. boys on February 14 at Cunningham gym. This was the first time in three years that the Cunningham teams had been defeated on their floor and they did not take the defeat gracefully. The visitors will be a bit stronger in tonight's game than they were in the last set-to, for Sid Duggan who has been playing with the Quincy A. A. first team will be in their line-up, and undoubtedly will give Trask one of the games of his life.

The Y. M. C. A. first team will line up as follows: Price and Flanders forwards; Trask, center; Kenn and Johnson, backs. East Milton will play the following men, S. Hearn and D. Reid, forwards; Sid Duggan, center P. Hearn and J. Reid, backs.

The Quincy second team will have the team which has gone through one of the hardest seasons and has a record of 18 games won out of 23 played. Bishop and Thomas, forwards; Miller center; Croucher and Robertson, backs. Cunningham will have the following players: Robertson and Duggan, forwards; Stuart, center; Hyslop and Gustafson, backs. The second team game will be played at 8.15.

Mystery of a Bridegroom.

The mysterious disappearance of a bridegroom at a wedding is recalled by T. F. Thiselton Dyer in his "Strange Pages From Family Papers." The wedding took place in Lincolnshire about the year 1750. "In this instance the wedding party adjourned after the marriage ceremony to the bridegroom's residence and dispersed, some to ramble in the garden and others to rest in the house till the dinner hour. But the bridegroom was suddenly summoned away by a domestic who said that a stranger wished to speak with him, and henceforward he was never seen again. All kinds of inquiries were made, but to no purpose, and terrible as the dismay was of the poor bride at this inexplicable disappearance of the bridegroom, no trace could be found of him."

SHINING THOUGHTS.

Happiness is not the end of life; character is.

Flowers are the sweetest things that God ever made and forgot to put a soul into.

"I can forgive, but I cannot forget," is only another way of saying, "I cannot forgive."

The truest self respect is not to think of self.

What we call wisdom is the result, not the residuum of all the wisdom of past ages.

Never forget what a man says to you when he is angry. Anger is a bow that will shoot sometimes when another feeling will not.

Reason can tell us how love affects us, but cannot tell us what love is.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

FIRE VICTIMS MAY NUMBER 35

Perish When Quarters of Athletic Club Are Destroyed

A HUNDRED ON GUEST LIST

Hope That Any of Missing Are Alive Is Abandoned—Unconfirmed Report That Disaster Was Due to Robbers—Spectacular Escape of Dozen Men In $465,000 St. Louis Blaze

St. Louis, March 10.—Hope for thirty or thirty-five guests of the Missouri Athletic club who were in the club building when it caught fire has been abandoned and officers of the club now are almost positive that the twenty-three to twenty-nine men unaccounted for are dead.

Searchlights played on the smouldering ruins last night while firemen searched for additional bodies.

Meantime fifteen persons who were injured in the fire are under treatment at public and private hospitals.

Much difficulty was experienced in trying to identify the seven recovered bodies, some being identified under two or three different names.

The blaze was the most fatal in the city's history. It completely wrecked the seven-story building occupied jointly by the Missouri Athletic club and by the Boatmen's bank and caused a property loss estimated at $466,000.

The cause of the fire still is a mystery. Reports that it was due to efforts of bank robbers trying to dynamite into the Boatmen's bank are unconfirmed. Stories of explosions were denied by the night watchman of the bank. In the vaults of the Boatmen's bank, which occupied part of the first floor of the building, was more than $1,300,000 in currency. The vaults were unharmed.

The bank opened at the usual hour in temporary quarters a few blocks away.

The number of guests who had rooms in the clubhouse, either permanently or for the night, was about 100. Many of these escaped; some checked out before the fire; others, it is thought, were not there when the flames broke out; some were injured in leaving the clubhouse; and the rest are listed among the dead or unaccounted for.

The fire, which was discovered by a woman who was waiting in the club lobby for her escort, and who saw the reflection of the flames in the plate glass windows across the street, swept rapidly through the building.

Thirty-eight guests on the fifth floor were awakened by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Magill, who refused to leave until they had given the alarm to all within reach. Magill was house manager of the club. Mrs. Magill was badly burned.

Dramatic escapes were numerous. One of the most spectacular was that of a dozen men who descended from a fifth-floor window to the roof of an adjoining four-story building by means of an improvised rope made out of two sheets. One guest escaped by leaping over the chasm ten feet wide to the roof of an adjoining building, six stories below.

BEARDSLEY ON TRIAL

Will Claim That He Had Right to Defend His Home

Jamestown, N. Y., March 10.—Edward Beardsley, who shot Overseer of the Poor Putnam and then successfully defended his farmhouse against Sheriff Anderson and a posse of deputies for eight days, was placed on trial in supreme court in Mayville before Justice Bissell.

Beardsley shot Putnam when county officials came to take away the nine Beardsley children on complaint that they were living in improper conditions.

Beardsley's defense is that he had a right to defend his home.

INSPECTOR ABBOTT DEAD

Boston Official Was Expert on Pickpockets and Shoplifters

Boston, March 10.—Inspector Walter A. Abbott of police headquarters, one of the best known experts in the department on pickpockets and shoplifters, was found dead in bed at his home from heart disease.

He was 61 years of age and was rated as wealthy in the department. He was born in Rumford Falls, Me., and had been a member of the Boston police department thirty-two years.

Duke to Sell Large Lot of Land

London, March 10.—The Duke of Sutherland will sell by auction a portion of his estates in Sutherland, including about 300,000 acres. This is the largest area in the United Kingdom ever put under the hammer.

Children's Bill Is Defeated

Boston, March 10.—By a tie vote of 97 to 97 the house refused to reconsider its action of Friday in rejecting the bill authorizing cities and towns to provide outings or vacations for school children.

Moore May Run For Senator

Washington, March 10.—That John B. Moore, former counsellor of the state department, will be a candidate for the senate from New York to succeed Elihu Root is a story circulated here.

BEHIND BARBED WIRE

Mrs. Pankhurst Puts Up Hot Fight but Is Arrested

Glasgow, March 10.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the militant suffragettes, was arrested last night at a suffragette meeting in St. Andrew's hall after a fierce fight with the police, in which a score of women were hurt and several constables badly bruised.

In anticipation of trouble, the suffragettes had stretched a network of barbed wire across the platform. The wire was concealed by floral decorations and proved efficacious with the aid of masculine supporters of the suffragettes using flower pots, chairs and anything they could lay their hands on as missiles in holding back the police for a few minutes.

Finally, when the police stormed the platform, a number of women produced clubs from under their cloaks and used them vigorously against the attacking party.

The police succeeded in seizing Mrs. Pankhurst and dragging her to the street. Here a desperate effort was made to rescue her as the police forced her into a taxicab and drove away to the police station.

KELLEY'S "ARMY" ROUTED

Jobless Men Put on Train and Sent Back to San Francisco

Sacramento, Cal., March 10.—Three militia companies stood guard to see that "General" Kelly and 1700 unemployed men obeyed orders when a special train was made up to ship the men back to San Francisco.

Three hundred deputy sheriffs had previously fought double that number of members of the "army" armed with clubs in an attempt to drive them off the Southern Pacific right of way. A score of persons were injured before the members of the "army" were routed.

The marchers, who left San Francisco last week for the purpose, it was announced, of going to Washington, have been camped on Southern Pacific property.

Sanitation was becoming bad, city health authorities said, and it was asserted that if the army were permitted to remain it would become a menace to the health of the community.

BLAKESLEE NEED NOT HAVE WORRIED

Reassuring Report Comes While He Is Dying

New York, March 10.—If Theron J. Blakeslee, the art dealer who shot himself, had waited one hour longer he would not have committed suicide, according to the dead man's friends.

An appraiser's statement of the condition of Blakeslee's business that would have relieved him of all apprehension arrived at the galleries while the art dealer was dying.

The statement was prepared by accountants and appraisers of art who had been engaged by Blakeslee's creditors. From the time the appraisers went to work until he killed himself, Blakeslee was in dread that their estimate would fall below his own valuation of the paintings.

The report showed that Blakeslee's actual assets were double his present liabilities and any that might accrue within the next six months.

ALBANIANS DRIVEN OUT

Autonomous Rule Is Set Up by the Citizens of Koritsa

Athens, March 10.—Dispatches from Koritsa, where the Albanians had established government officials, say the inhabitants of the town revolted and drove out the Albanian authorities. The people afterward proclaimed an autonomous government.

As a result of the compulsory retirement of the Greeks from Epirus, after the recent insurrection, Greece has declared a blockade of Santi Quaranta to prevent unpleasant incidents with foreign shipping, but will withdraw the blockade if the powers object.

Raise In Freight Rates

Concord, N. H., March 10.—Increases in maximum rate on various commodities are allowed the Boston and Maine railroad by the public service commission.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Eighty spinners of the Pondville woolen mills at Auburn, Me., went on strike, demanding a wage increase because of overtime.

Mrs. D. E. Schuyler of New York, known on the stage as Miss Dickie Delaro, died at Milwaukee after an operation.

Premier Giolitti of Italy notified King Victor Emmanuel of the resignation of his cabinet.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, in denouncing the chewing of gum, declared it destroys the power of the salivary glands.

Despite radium treatment for several months for cancer, Mrs. Rachel McLaughlin died at Philadelphia.

Despondency caused Fred Boudreau, 35, a Lynn, Mass., shoemaker, to commit suicide by inhaling gas at his home.

James McKenney died of injuries received when he was knocked down at Providence by an automobile driven by James F. Pierce.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Melora E. Harris to Edwin W. Newcomb, dated October twentieth, 1900, and recorded with Norfolk County Deeds, Book 882, Page 387, for breach of the condition thereof and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold by public auction on the premises hereinafter described at four o'clock in the afternoon on Wednesday, the twenty-fifth day of March, A. D., 1914, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage and described therein as follows, viz.: "a certain lot of land, containing seven thousand seven (7007) square feet, situated in said Quincy and being lot No. 5 on a plan of building lots in Quincy, belonging to Caroline F. Newcomb, made by J. E. Starbuck, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds and Plans. Said lot is bounded as follows, viz.—northwesterly by lot No. 4 on said plan, being land of Reuben Hersey, one hundred and six and one half (106 1-2) feet; northeasterly on a certain private way, thirty (30) feet wide, called Newcombville Place, sixty-five (65) feet; southeasterly on lot No. 6 on said plan, being land of John Bergfors, one hundred and nine and one tenth (109.1) feet; southwesterly on land of Keenan sixty-five and eight tenths (65.8) feet."

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all tax titles, unpaid taxes, municipal liens and assessments, if any such there be. $100 will be required to be paid by the purchaser in cash at the time and place of sale; balance in ten days from date of sale on delivery of the deed.

EDWIN W. NEWCOMB,
Mortgagee.

Richard D. Chase and Co., Agents, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, March 3, 1914.

Mar. 3-3t 3-10-17

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

In effect Nov. 16, 1913

The letters in the same line as the figures below stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows.

a Wollaston	f Harrison Square
b Norfolk Downs	g Savin Hill
c Atlantic,	h Cross Avenue
d Neponset	i South Boston
e Pope's Hill	r Quincy Adams
* Saturdays Only	t Except Saturday

Exp.—Express train.

TO BOSTON			FROM BOSTON
Leave	Stop	Arrive	Leave	Stop	Arrive
r 5 14	abcdefghi	5 41	5 44	fhgfedcba	6 14 r
r 6 19	abcl	6 40	6 09	fhgfedcba	6 39 r
r 6 32	e	6 49	6 23	a	6 47
			6 47	Exp	7 04
r 6 40	abcf	7 00	7 14	hgfedcba	7 41 r
r 7 08	abcd	7 30	7 34	a	7 52
7 28	a	7 46	7 37	a	7 56
r 7 32	Exp	7 49	7 44	c	8 03 r
r 7 42	ab	8 00	8 34	cba	8 55 r
7 55	a	8 12	8 44	b	9 02
r 8 13	abc	8 32	9 09	fedba	9 32 r
8 24	a	8 41	9 44	a	10 01 r
r 8 33	a	50	10 14	fhgfedcba	10 41 r
r 8 59	ad	[illegible]	10 54	Exp	11 10
r 9 18	abc	9 39	11 14	hgfedcba	11 41 r
r 10 04	a	10 21	11 49	a	12 07
r 10 19	abcdefghi	10 45	12 14	hgfedcba	12 41 r
11 12	a	11 28	12 20	a	12 38
11 24	abcdefgh	11 50	12 50	Exp	1 06
12 04	a	12 20	1 16	fedcba	1 40 r
			* 1 32	a	1 50
r 12 27	abcdefghi	12 53	1 44	a	2 01
r 1 16	a	1 34	2 14	fedcba	2 37 r
2 04	a	2 20	2 34	Exp	2 50
r 2 19	abcdefgh	2 45	3 14	hgfedcba	3 40 r
r 3 13	Exp	3 28	3 44	a	4 02
4 04	a	4 20	4 12	fedcba	4 35 r
r 4 26	abcdefgh	4 53	4 15	a	4 32
5 02	a	5 19	4 40	c	4 58
r 5 30	abcdefg	5 55	4 55	a	5 11
6 04	a	6 21	5 13	a	5 32
6 12	ab	6 32	5 19	hgfeca	5 43
6 57	a	7 15	5 28	ba	5 46 r
r 7 22	Exp	7 39	5 40		5 57
7 29	ab	7 48	5 58	a	6 17 r
r 8 09	abcdef	8 32	6 01	fedcb	6 24
9 09	a	9 18	6 46	a	6 35
r 9 10	abc	9 29	6 30	ecba	6 52 r
* 9 17	Exp.	9 32	6 59	fedcba	7 24 r
r 10 07	abcdef	10 30	7 11	a	7 28
* 10 19	a	10 37	8 04	fedcba	8 28 r
11 13	a	11 30	* 8 19	Exp	8 35
r 11 30	abcd	11 50	9 19	a	9 37
			9 34	b	9 53 r
			10 05	ba	10 24
			10 34	fedcba	11 02 r
			* 11 06	a	11 25 r
			* 11 09	fedcba	11 35 r
			* 11 25	ba	11 43 r
			* 11 29	ba	11 49
			12 05	cba	12 26 r

SUNDAYS

r 7 43	abc	8 03	6 29	ba	6 48
8 30	Exp	8 45	8 34	cba	8 55 r
r 8 46	abcdefghi	9 13	10 39	cba	10 59 r
r 9 13	abc	9 33	12 14	fhgfedcba	12 42
9 31	a	9 47	12 44	Exp	1 01
10 25	ac	10 42	2 29	fhgfedcba	1 57 r
11 08	Exp	11 25	2 14	hgfedcba	2 42 r
r 11 16	abcdefghi	11 43	2 44	a	3 02
1 04	a	1 23	3 14	fhgfedcba	3 42 r
r 1 16	abcdefgh	1 43	4 26	cba	4 48 r
r 3 10	abc	3 30	5 14	fhgfedcba	5 49 r
r 4 16	abcdefghi	4 43	6 09	Exp	6 25
4 59	ab	5 16	6 14	fhgfedcba	6 42 r
5 06		5 23	7 02	cba	7 22 r
6 15	abcdefghi	6 43	8 14	fhgfedcba	8 41 r
7 21	Exp	7 36	8 39	a	8 56 r
7 29	abcdefghi	7 55	8 49	Exp	9 05
r 8 16	abcdefghi	8 43	9 29	fhgfedcba	9 57 r
9 46	a	10 04	10 44	cba	11 04 r
0 46	abc	11 03

Read Ledger Advs.

Executrix Notice

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executrix of the will of Charles Crane, late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, deceased, testate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

(Address)
66 Irving street, West Medford, Mass.
EDITH M. CRANE,
Executrix.
February 23, 1914. 24-3t 24-3-10

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administrator of the estate of Ellen M. Oldham late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, intestate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

RALPH W. OLDHAM, Adm.
(Address) 305 Safford Street, Wollaston.
March 2, 1914. 3-3t 3-10-17.

Call Quincy 501--W

If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN, upholsterer, 1020 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School

Mar. 4 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 5, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 8.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.20 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.20 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 8.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 9.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 6.30 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 8.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 6.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight. Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street,—5.45 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 12.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sundays 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 7.00 P. M.

THOMAS GAMMON,
Superintendent

Harp Newton's Gold Mine

Maiden Foils the Plans of a Robber Band

By JAMES A. RELLOCH

Dorine Way stood in the doorway of the schoolhouse and smiled a good night on her scholars as they filed past her into the sunshine of the autumn afternoon.

When the last one had gone Dorine returned to the schoolroom where two boys were sullenly conning their neglected lessons.

Davie Blair and Reddie Conklin were her black sheep, and Dorine often sighed when she thought of them.

Suddenly Davie held up a grimy hand and wriggled impatient fingers.

"I will hear your lesson now, Davie," said Miss Way. "You may come, too, Redmond."

When the hastily gabbled recitation was over, the two boys were dismissed. Dorine heard their feet clattering about the bare entry as they found their hats, and Davie's voice arose in eager invitation to his pal:

"Say, Red, wanter come with me? I'll show you where Harp Newton's cached the gold he's been taking out of his mine. I saw him the other day when he didn't know. I'm going to tell my father about it, and—well, all that land used to belong to my father once upon a time and"—

"THERE IS ONLY ONE CLAIM AND ONLY ONE MAN!" CRIED SIDNEY.

Davie's persuasive voice died away as the two boys left the schoolhouse, but Dorine could guess the import of Davie's remarks. Davie's parent, Jake Blair, was the bad man of the little western mining town. Yet such a clever bad man was he that he rarely had to pay the penalty of his misdoings. Jake Blair was a desperate character, and there were several killings laid at his door, but not one charge had ever been proved.

That little Davie was no worse than he was seemed a miracle in the eyes of the young schoolteacher. The boy's careless words to his chum, Reddy Conklin, revealed that the father's evil life had influenced that of the son.

Then there were Harp Newton and his little gold mine. Harp was from the east, and his great faith in the barren little claim, which wiseacres declared to have been "salted" by its former owner, was a matter of secret jest among the town loafers.

One would not openly laugh at Harp Newton. He was too big and brawny, and there was a steady glance from his cool gray eyes that could turn aside undue familiarity. He talked about his claim as if he actually expected to take gold out of it, and suddenly within the past few weeks he had grown grim lipped and silent concerning his affairs.

"Getting wise to how he's been stung," remarked Peter Hagen, the proprietor of the corner hotel.

Dorine Way had known Harp Newton ever since she had arrived in Mountain Gap, three months before. He boarded at the same house, Miss Flanagan's select boarding house, and the two young strangers were deeply interested in each other.

Davie Blair's big brother, Sidney, was also interested in the pretty schoolteacher.

Dorine closed her desk and put on her jaunty hat. She picked up her sweater and after locking the schoolhouse door walked slowly down the winding trail that led away from the town. Although it was growing late and the shadows were lengthening, Dorine felt that she must try to locate Harp Newton and tell him that his secret was known to Jake Blair and thus put the young prospector on his guard.

Harp had not been at the boarding house for several days. It was understood that he was camping on his claim for some unexplained reason.

Harp Newton's claim was on Eagle Ridge, three miles beyond the town, and Dorine could see the black outline of the ridge against the orange flame of the sunset.

"I must warn him," murmured Dorine, clinching her hands tightly. "If Jake Blair should surprise him, there might be shooting and he"— Dorine was thinking of Harp all the way to his little camp. There was a sweet, unspoken, half understanding between the young man and the girl, and so precious and airy was the delicate fabric of the dream that each hesitated to shatter it by spoken words.

"I wonder where he is," murmured Dorine to herself when she reached the point in the road where the trail branched off to Eagle ridge.

At that moment a man's tall figure detached itself from the shadowy trees and advanced toward her.

For an instant Dorine thought it was Harp Newton himself, but when the man laughed she recognized the voice of Sidney Blair. Instinctively she shrank back, for she feared and detested the man.

"Good afternoon, Miss Way," grinned Sidney, sweeping off his wide brimmed hat. "You're sure going off the trail."

"Good afternoon," returned Dorine quietly. "I am taking a little walk. One gets tired of the main trail."

"One gets tired climbing up Eagle ridge," laughed Sidney insolently.

Dorine flushed angrily. "I should not think that you had occasion to tax your strength in that direction," she said coolly. "I understand that there is only one claim on the ridge."

"There is only one claim and only one man!" cried Sidney hotly. "So I know where you're bound, my pretty girl, but if you value the life of that young—young blockhead you'll keep away from the ridge or I will know the reason why. You may laugh at me, Dorine Way, but if I can't have the girl I want I'll have something—the next best thing is gold and plenty of it"— Young Blair paused and bit his lip, conscious that he was betraying himself to the schoolteacher. His handsome face was distorted with jealous rage, and his great hands opened and closed nervously.

"Very well," said Dorine quietly, and she turned about and went meekly back along the trail, but as soon as she had turned the corner by the big bowlder, where she was out of sight of the young desperado, she slipped around into the shadow of the undergrowth and crouched there, hidden from view.

It seemed hours to Dorine before she heard voices coming up the trail. The sun had set, and it was dark now, but she had chosen well in hiding behind the big bowlder, for it was at the summit of a long rise of ground, and pedestrians invariably paused there to regain breath after the climb.

The voices came nearer, and finally there came the sound of footsteps that halted beside the big bowlder. Dorine listened keenly, hoping for news that would be of interest to Harp Newton. She guessed that the Blairs had found out that Harp was getting some gold out of his much ridiculed mine, and the sharp eyed Davie having discovered Harp's hiding place for his precious find, the news had been passed along to his big brother and his father. Result—the Blairs would possess themselves of the gold if they had to kill Harp Newton in the attempt.

She must save Harp Newton! That was the warning Dorine whispered with stiff lips as she listened behind the big bowlder at the top of the rise

The speakers were Jacob Blair and Sidney, his son.

"Little Davie's keen as a fox," were the first words Dorine heard. "I tell you, Sid, if the lad has put us on to something big it will be one grand thing for the little feller. We'll send him to college, eh?"

"You can try—if he ever gets promoted out of the first reader," sniffed the older brother scornfully. "See here, dad, the kid says Newton's cached his stuff behind the waterfall in the gap. He says there was a lot of it. Shall we take it tonight or wait until he digs out more?"

"Bird in the hand, you know, Sid," cautioned the older man.

"That's right. Then it's tonight?"

"Yes, we can come back about 1 o'clock. Things will be pretty quiet then. If we make good you better get away with the gold and I'll join you later with the kid. Remember, Sid, no gambling with that stuff. If you do I'll"— Dorine did not hear the rest of the threat, for the men walked on and left her alone there in the darkness with all the horrors of the lonely trail before her.

She shrank from the task, but she loved Harp Newton, and she shuddered at the very thought of what would happen if Sid Blair and his father carried out their evil plans.

Dorine flew down the trail, her stout stick over her shoulder, her sweater buttoned tightly around her so as not to impede her movements. At the branch of the trail she turned and plunged into the darkness of the path that led up to the ridge.

It was rumored that bears had been seen in the ridge woods, and when there came the sound of crashing twigs Dorine's heart stood still, and she clung panting to a young sapling.

"Who is there?" asked a man's deep voice, the voice of Harp Newton.

"Is that you, Harp?" quavered poor Dorine.

"Yes. Is it Dorine?" He was coming toward her gropingly. "Where are you? What are you doing here, child?"

Dorine panted out her story, and Harp's muttered ejaculations revealed the seriousness of the situation. When she had finished he said to her:

"Dorine, you've risked your life to come to me tonight. I've had a surprise for you. I was going to tell you when I came to tell you the story of my love—I have struck it rich on the ridge—richer than I ever dared dream about, and I'm trying to keep the matter secret until a big man from the east who is interested with me has time to come out and investigate.

"But, child, we're going to be rich—millionaires, if you please! I've been concealing the gold behind the waterfall, and now I've got to get it out before the Blairs get here. You must get away—out of the danger zone."

"Can't I stay near by? If anything should happen to you, Harp, some one you love should be there," said Dorine bravely.

Harp held her close to his heart with softly murmured words; then he led her swiftly, silently to a little grotto close to the waterfall. The grotto was screened by clumps of thorny chaparral, which made an effective barrier. The waterfall was opposite the grotto, and Harp told her that he would conceal himself in the cavity behind the waterfall, and from that dripping vantage point he could disable his enemies if they approached. But before doing so he took care to remove the heavy bags of ore from the hiding place and conceal it in a new and safer place known only to himself and Dorine.

Then with a few last instructions to the girl Harp went silently across the moonlit space toward the waterfall.

One hour passed, another and still another.

Dorine heard footsteps coming along the trail; they passed up to the crest of the ridge where Harp's camp was situated. It was evident that the marauders were searching for the young prospector.

Then for awhile the silence was broken by the tinkling rush of the waterfall behind whose shimmering veil Harp Newton was hiding with gun in hand.

Again the crackle of twigs, and the tall shadows of two men, stepping cautiously, advanced across the lighted space.

"How in thunder are we to get behind the waterfall?" growled Jake Blair.

"Make a dash for it. It's only a thin sheet of water, and once past it we're safe," retorted Sidney.

Dorine shuddered at the man's words. Safe, when behind that waterfall lurked death!

There was the whispering sound of cautious feet moving through the dead leaves under foot, muttered imprecations from father and son, then a swift rush, drowned by the murmur of the waterfall.

In the moonlight she could see only one form standing on the brink of the stream.

"All right, Sid?" she heard the old man's voice bellow.

An answering hail came back from the cave behind the waterfall, and a sickening fear rushed over Dorine. If Sidney Blair was safe something had happened to brave Harp Newton, and without Harp Newton life seemed very blank to Dorine Way.

Now there was another splash, and the place before the waterfall was empty. There were subdued sounds of a struggle, muffled shouts and finally silence.

Dorine hid her face in her hands and shuddered.

All at once Harp's voice sounded beside her.

"Come, Dorrie, girl. I've got the two rascals trussed up slick as you please, and I guess it's a job for the sheriff. I'm going to tote that ore away now and send the sheriff down to the waterfall after the Blairs. By tomorrow morning I should hear from Linwood.

"THE DORINE MINE?" SAID SHE.

and with everything O. K. the work on the Dorine mine can go on safely and satisfactorily."

"The Dorine mine?" questioned Dorine as they trudged up the trail toward the town, Harp pulling his ore on a drag hastily constructed from saplings.

"After my future wife," smiled Harp, pressing her hand. "And don't make it very far in the future, Dorrie. I'm jealous of all those pupils of yours."

"You mustn't be"— began Dorine, and then she cried remorsefully: "Poor little Davie Blair! He has no mother, Harp. What will become of him?"

"I'll take him on at the mine after school hours," said Harp, "and we can find a home for him."

But that was not necessary, for when morning broke the sheriff and his posse discovered that Jacob Blair and his son had vanished from the cave behind the waterfall, and a search of their home revealed the fact that they had taken little David along as well as all their valuables.

MUST SERVE SENTENCE

Supreme Court Decision In Case of Convicted Dynamiters

Washington, March 10.—President Frank M. Ryan and twenty-three members of the Bridge and Structural Steel Workers' union, convicted in the celebrated dynamite conspiracy cases, must serve their jail sentences, the supreme court decided.

The court refused to review their conviction in the lower federal courts at Indianapolis and Chicago. Denial of the writ of review exhausted the last resource of the defendants.

Confessions of Ortie McManigal and James B. McNamara, former secretary of the union, formed the basis of the convictions of the defendants, who appealed to the supreme court. They were tried and convicted at Indianapolis of conspiracy to transport dynamite in interstate commerce. Their conviction was recently affirmed by the appellate federal court at Chicago.

Dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times started the prosecution and disclosure of the alleged dynamite plots and outrages.

WELL KNOWN BY TRAVELERS

Noted Stage Driver In Rhode Island Takes His Own Life

Providence, March 10.—Nathaniel Church, for many years driver of the stage line between Tiverton and Little Compton, was found dead in a garage in the latter town from the effects of a gunshot wound, self-administered.

Church was a member of the general assembly for three years, 1885-86 in the house and 1887 in the senate.

He was a picturesque character and during the many years which he carried passengers and mail between the two towns he became known to all the travelers of that section. His wife survives him. Business troubles are given as the motive for suicide.

AMERICA'S LATEST BATTLESHIP READY

Crew All Prepared to Be Transferred to the Texas

Washington, March 10.—Ready to take her place with the Atlantic fleet, the superdreadnought Texas, the most powerful battleship in the world, will be delivered to the navy department at the Norfolk navy yard next Thursday by her builders, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company.

Most of her officers are now supervising the final touches. Her crew has been assembled and will be transferred to the Texas as soon as provisions and supplies can be taken aboard. Captain Grant is the commanding officer and Commander Moses is her executive officer. Ten fourteen-inch guns form the main armament of the Texas. Her maximum speed is above twenty-two knots.

ELECTIONS IN MAINE

Mayor of Belfast Defeated After Serving Nine Terms

Portland, Me., March 10.—No changes in party control resulted from the elections held in five Maine cities.

Edgar F. Hanson, a Democrat, who has served nine terms as mayor of Belfast, and headed a Citizens' ticket because of a disagreement with his party organization, was defeated by Robert F. Bunton, the regular Democratic nominee.

Mayors Smith of Biddeford and Newbert of Augusta, both Democrats, and Nickerson of Brewer, Republican, were re-elected.

Alderman Utterback, an independent candidate who was endorsed by the Progressives, was elected mayor of Bangor.

TEN MILITANTS FINED

Miss Emerson Not Among Those Arrested In London

London, March 10.—Ten of the militant suffragettes arrested during the demonstration in Trafalgar square, when Miss Sylvia Pnkhurst was captured by the police, were arraigned at Bow street police court.

Small fines were imposed by the magistrate with the option of serving a short term of imprisonment. Miss Zelie Emerson of Jackson, Mich., was not among the prisoners, the report of her arrest having been erroneous.

Lawyer Killed by Gas

Pawtucket, R. I., March 10.—In a room filled with gas that had escaped from a small stove, the body of W. W. Robinson, one of the best known lawyers here, was found in the Smith building, where he lived and had his office. Medical Examiner French announced that death was accidental.

Driven Out In Nightclothes

Utica, N. Y., March 10.—Seven persons fled in their nightclothes when flames swept a frame structure occupied on the ground floor as a department store. Several families lived in the upper floor.

Real Ability.

"What is the secret of success?" asked the fool.

"The ability to conceal your lack of ability," replied the sage.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS — CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING — WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.

TO LET

TO LET—Upper apartment 7 rooms and bath, all improvements, Upland road. Apply at room 20 Adams building or 112 Upland road. 10-5t eod

TO LET—Two well furnished front rooms in good location. Only one minute walk from station and city square. Apply to Mrs. Johnson, 14 Upland road. 9-3t

TO LET—6 room tenement, improvements. Apply 74 Arnold street, evenings. 9-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms for light housekeeping also single rooms. Apply at 44 Massachusetts avenue. 9-6t

TO LET—In private family to refined people, two very fine corner rooms, newly furnished, with separate baths. Near centre. Write L. B. K. Ledger Office. 9-6t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—40 Park lane, 6 rooms all modern improvements. Rent $23.00. Apply 22 Berkeley street. Tel. 349-M. 5-tf

TO LET—Single house, 3 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

UPPER APARTMENT. In two-family house on Spear Street. Five rooms, bath, large pantry and closets, also open attic with finished heated chamber. Every improvement, electric light, furnace, range etc. Ready for immediate occupancy. Telephone Quincy 278 M or enquire mornings of Miss Prescott at the Ledger Office. 1po

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate — Insurance
Auctioneer — Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Burgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC — JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 / Office 83-M

TO LET
Large Front Office Greenleaf Block—2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.
Office, Burgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.
Small Office Burgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.
Hancock Building — City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month
Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.
City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.
Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)
Offices—Large or small.
Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.
Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.
Furnished Rooms—With care steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week

HALLS
Music Hall — Music Hall Block—Capacity 962 — highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.
New Colonial Hall—Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.
Hancock Hall — Hancock Building City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Sriba.)
Greenleaf Block. ('Phone 21066) Quincy

TO LET

TO LET—Upper tenement of five rooms and bath at 109 Franklin street. Apply to Harry W. Tirrell. Telephone Quincy 432-M. 10-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, seven rooms and bath, all modern improvements. Apply P. J. Williams, 19 Independence Ave. Tel. Quincy 369. 5-6t

TO LET—173 Whitwell street, half house, modern conveniences, $20 per month. Ready for immediate occupancy. Apply Penniman's Stable, Granite street. 19-tf

RUSSELL PARK — Commodious house of seven rooms, large hall and bath. Modern, every convenience open fireplace, furnace, range, set tubs, electric lights, cemented cellar, etc. Best residential neighborhood Ready for immediate occupancy. For further details or key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office. tf lpo

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—22 ft. motor boat, 5 h. p. 2 cylinder engine. One year old. Price reasonable. A. D. Thompson, 47 Main street. 7-6t

FOR SALE—Three good work horses. Apply to John J. Gallagher, 230 Water street, Quincy Adams. 7-6t

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.
SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES
28 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar,
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

READ LEDGER ADS
If you want a situation, if you want to rent a house or to buy anything, look over our classified columns

LOST

LOST—Ruby top spaniel pup. Reward if returned to Bessie Grant 247 Washington street. 7-3t

LOST—Friday afternoon, on Quincy Point car, pocketbook containing money and tickets. Finder please return to 30 Park avenue, South Weymouth. Reward. 9-3t

WANTED

WANTED—25 girls to be managers for agents $25 per week. Excellent chance for advancement. Fred Sharboro, P. O. Box 94, Nashua, N. H. 10-3t

WANTED—In first class family of two adults where there are three other maids kept a good cook; best of wages. L. M. Flynn, 1535 Hancock street, Oldest Employment Office in City. Phone 2235-W. 10-3t

WANTED—To buy a brown leghorn rooster, good strain. Address T. Ledger office. 9-2t

WANTED—Two young men to share large sunny room, bath etc. With or without board. Apply 25 High School avenue. (Next Fire Station.) 7-3t

WANTED—A small shed or building, about 16x20, suitable to be made into a garage. Will move from premises. State lowest price. Address M. M. Ledger office. 5-6t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York. N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

AGENTS LOOK—$5 to $10 per day handling fancy goods which are fully guaranteed. Send 10c coin for sample and particulars. Miss Lucy Moran, 18 Linden street, Nashua, N. H. 10-3t

BOSTON GLOBE— Picture Game Answers. Our best answers to entire set of 77 pictures, now ready. Price 50 cents. Coin, stamps or money order. The White Company, Melrose, Highlands, Lock Box Q. 10-6t

FASHIONABLE DRESSMAKING—Done with neatness and dispatch. Special attention given to evening gowns. Mrs. W. H. Russell, 392 Hancock street, Norfolk Downs. Telephone Quincy 493-W. 9-6t

$20.00 REWARD will be paid for the arrest and conviction of party or parties who broke into and set fire to our Engine House on Feb. 26th and 27th 1914. Bay View Quarry Company. 28-tf

JUST LOOK HERE
Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. C. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c

MON., TUES., WED.
Program Subject to Change

ARMINTA & BURKE
Aerial and Trampoline Comedy

BURNS--LAWRENCE--BURNS
Novel Comedy Entertainers

ASHTON & MUNSON
Singing, Dancing and Changes

LEW WARD
Clever Character Comedian

AN MATED WEEKLY
World News in Moving Pictures

'IN THE FALL OF '64"
A Stirring Military Production in two parts

"HIS ROYAL PANTS"
A Comedy Triumph

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA
HELEN C. QUALEY, Leader

Mar. 7 3t-o-1w

Running Chances.

Bank Teller—This check is all right, but you must be introduced! Can't you bring in your husband?

Woman—Who, Jack? Why, if Jack thought you wanted an introduction to me he'd knock your block off!—Kansas City Star.

PROMPT ARREST.

It was reported to the police Monday that the store of Charles Mangs on Whitwell street was entered sometime Sunday and a number of small articles taken. Capt. Mackay who made an investigation of the break, later arrested Frank Anderson for the alleged break and he was arraigned in court this morning. His case was continued for a hearing until March 14.

The Sons of Veteran Auxiliary will hold a whist party Wednesday evening at Grand Army hall.

Government Markers

Friends of deceased veterans of the Civil War, wishing government markers, fort their graves, will confer a favor upon Post No. 88 G. A. R. by sending their name, Company, and Regiment, at once, to Francis P. Loud, Q. M., Quincy, Mass. 9-6t

Too Late For Classification

TO LET—Single house 6 rooms, improvements, 492 South street. Apply 96 Arnold street. 10-3t

MARRIAGES

AULD—LUKE—In Quincy, March 9, by Rev. B. A. Willmott, Robert Auld, Jr., and Miss Minnie Luke.

ANDERSON—AUTIO—In Allston, Mar. 7, by Rev. Alpo Setala, August Anderson and Linda Autio, both of Quincy.

GRAM—SCHLEHUBER — In Lynn, March 9, at the First Universalist church, by Rev. F. W. Perkins, Carl W. Gram of Wollaston and Miss Hazel Alma Schlehuber of Lynn.

DEATHS

BURKE—In Quincy, March 9, John J. Burke, son of Mrs. Winifred Brown and the late John Burke, of 850 Sea street, formerly of Brookline.

ALDRICH—In Quincy, March 7, A. B. Aldrich of Squantum, formerly of Binghamton, N. Y.

CAPEN—In Wollaston, March 9, Mrs. Arthur L. Capen.
Funeral services from late home 123 Beach street, Thursday, March 12 at 3 o'clock.

FAIRBANKS—In Milton, March 9, Charles F. Fairbanks, of 3 White street, aged 71 years.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass

ONLY $2,500 NOW NEEDED

Before Start is Made on Wollaston's Clubhouse

The first joint meeting for several months of the directors and members of the Sachem club held Monday evening in the permanent headquarters showed great progress along all lines, and a lively spirit of enthusiasm prevailing.

Briefly stated the club is planning to build a $25,000 club house. All that it needs to start is $15,0000 and a $10,000 mortgage. One month ago $5400 had been raised. Now the amount stands at $12,500—a gain of $7,100. Only $2.500 more is needed before the club house can be started.

A campaign committee has been organized, and during the next two weeks strenuous efforts will be made, not only to secure the $2,500 but to obtain a much larger sum in order to cut down the mortgage which will mean a saving an overhead expense from the start.

There was a large influx of new members received at the meeting Monday night, which denoted increased faith in the project.

There is no doubt that the minute work is started there will be a rush that will not only bring the club up to its limit of 300 but result also in a large waiting list.

Architect William Chapman is busy reducing the plans for builders estimates, and preparing the specifications in details. Already tenders have been made concerning certain contracts, and it is thought that very satisfactory figures can be arrived at and the building started in short order as soon as the small remainder of the money is raised.

THE ROAD TO HOUGHS NECK

Hearing in Favor of a State Appropriation

A hearing was held this morning before the Committee on Roads and Bridges, at the State House on the petition of Mayor Miller for a State appropriation to improve the highways between City Square and Houghs Neck known as Coddington and Sea streets.

Representative Sullivan was the only one to appear in favor of the proposed bill and he presented a copy of a resolve of the City Council favoring the enactment of the bill.

There was no opposition to the proposed bill.

NEWSY BRIEFS

The battleship Rivadavia is having another trial trip today.

Ex-Senator Eugene H. Sprague addressed the pupils of the High school on Monday.

Founder's day will be observed at the Woodward Institute on Friday evening.

Dr. Daniel B. Reardon has purchased the Russell homestead on Hancock street, corner of Russell park and will shortly occupy the premises. Mrs. Beckford it is understood will make her home in Amherst.

August Anderson of 86 Town Hill and Miss Linda Autio of 86 Arthur street were married at Allston on Sunday by Rev. Alpo Setala. The groom is connected with one of the local ice companies. They will live in this city.

Charles F. Fairbanks of Milton, aged 71, died on Monday after an operation. He was treasurer of the Bigelow carpet company. He leaves three sons and one daughter, Henry P., Charles F. Stephen and Miss Julia.

Miss Caldwell speaks tomorrow morning at 10.30 in the rooms of the Associated Charities, Goffe street, on Day Nursery work. Any interested in the work are invited to attend this conference.

The Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church has an all day sewing meeting tomorrow beginning at half past ten. The ladies will sew for parochial missions. Mrs. Hennigar and Mrs. Croucher have the luncheon in charge. The regular monthly business meeting will be held at half past two.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Board of Health Figures on Recent Deaths

Mayor Miller was not at his office at City Hall this morning, and rumor says that he was out making a personal hunt for an assessor. He is going slow in this matter and means to thoroughly investigate the parties he has in mind from which to make a selection.

The Finance Committee were in session until nearly midnight Monday night and it is reported that they finished their work on the budget.

A hearing is to be held before the Public Service committee of the Legislature Wednesday morning on the bill to place the Chief Engineer of the Quincy fire department under the civil service law. The City Council has taken action in opposition.

The legislative committee has given the petitioners who desired to have Squantum annexed to Boston leave to withdraw.

It has been remarked that there were an unusual number of deaths in Quincy during the month of February, and the burial permits issued by the Board of Health show that to have been a fact, although the total number of deaths in Quincy during the month of February was not as large as in December. When it is considered that there were but 28 days in February and 31 in December the rate was about the same.

The Board of eHalth reports that it issued 50 burial permits during the month of February and of this number 23 were buried in Mt. Wollaston cemetery. In December 1913 there were 57 deaths in Quincy. When compared with February, 1913, this year shows an increase of eight That is in February, 1913, there were 42 deaths and in February, 1914, there were 50 deaths.

During the first week in March there were also an unusual number of deaths in Quincy for during those seven days the Board of Health issued 11 permits of which number 4 were buried in Mt. Wollaston cemetery. There were also some out of town burials at Mt. Wollaston and at one time the receiving tomb was hardly large enough to accommodate the caskets.

They are telling a good joke on three well known citizens of Quincy, two of whom reside in Quincy Point and third who resides at Wollaston. Last Saturday morning, so the story goes, each of the three gentlemen received a telephone message, to the effect that the Mayor had appointed the Houghs Neck Asosciates to select a man to fill the vacancy as chairman of the Board of Assessors caused by the removal of Mr. Bates. The message further said that the Associates would meet at the home of Mr. Cavanagh at Houghs Neck Sunday afternoon, and the party was requested to be present for a conference with a committee of the Associates. The story goes on to say that the three men took the message in all seriousnss and that Sunday afternoon one after another filed into the home of Mr. Cavanagh, until at last all three were present. They sat for a time looking at each other waiting for something to drop or the committee to appear, but as nothing transpired it at last dawned upon them that they were victims of the telephone joker. With a disgusted look they took their departure, it being even said that one of the Quincy Point men walked across the marshes rather than be seen coming from Houghs Neck.

PAINFUL INJURY.

Abbott Johnson of Upland road received a painful injury to his right foot on Monday by having a heavy case fall upon it at his place of business in Boston. It was at first thought that a bone had been fractured, and after consulting his physician the Xray was put on it. This showed that fortunately no bones had been broken but that his toe had been badly bruised which will keep him confined to his home for a few days.

HERBERT THOMAS.

A delegation from Rural lodge, A. F. & A. M., and 100 members of John Hancock lodge, I. O. O. F., attended the funeral of their member, Herbert Thomas, which was held Sunday afternoon. Services were held in St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, at the close of which the Odd Fellows' service was read. The floral remembrances were many. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY AND EVERYONE IN QUINCY.

SAD OUTLOOK FOR FUTURE

Unless Attention is Given to Playgrounds

At the monthly meeting of the Wollaston Parents and Teachers Association in the School hall, Monday evening, Professor Ernest Hermann, supervisor of physical training at Newton, spoke on "The value of the public playground."

Professor Hermann found many old friends in the audience as he recently held the same office in this city. He took the place of Joseph Lee of Boston who was to speak on the same subject but was detained by an important meeting of the Boston School committee.

The speaker urged a broader motor training of the individual, beginning at an early age and continuing well along.

"The human brain," he said, "is the outcome of the muscular activities of the ages that are past. It is the human hand that has made the human brain. Upon the development of the motor brain does the psychic brain depend. Muscle power means brain power."

Quincy, stated Professor Hermann, was the first city to start an organized recess. Some 40 cities have now followed suit. He instanced the interest in this matter in the Buffalo schools.

Frank E. Parlin, former superintendent of schools in Quincy, was spoken of in highest terms, and the speaker predicted that he would soon be at the head of a very large school system.

"The playground," he said, "was started as an antidote for the bad boy. It is bigger than a place for the bad boy to let off steam. It is the biggest thing ever undertaken by the American people.

The speaker decried the present business life and the life of the child in the modern home, both of which make for the lack of exercise and strong constitutions. He urged th playground as a substitute for the healthy exercise of the farm. Unless the matter was attended to there was a sad outlook for future generations.

At the close of the address, the meeting voted to appoint a playground committee of ten which should report ways and means at the next meeting.

Vocal solos by C. S. Bates of Cohasset accompanied by Mrs. Herbert Y. Follett were enjoyed.

SONG SPARROWS ARRIVE.

Song sparrows arrived Sunday, and were heard singing in the Edwards meadow in the rear of Music hall. This is a reliable sign that spring is not far off. Robins, marsh hens, yellow hammer, woodpeckers and many of the hardier birds remain in winter, but bluebirds and song sparrows always migrate.

MASS FOR WILLIAM BARTON.

The funeral of William Barton, who died Sunday, was held from his home at 34 Elmwood avenue this morning. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at the Church of the Sacred Heart by Rev. Fr. James McDermott, O. M. I., of Lowell. Music was by the regular choir which rendered the Gregorian chant. Burial was in St. Marys cemetery.

THIS NEW MEDICINE SAVES YOU MONEY

We are druggists right here in your town and make a living out of the drug business, but it is because people have to have drugs and not because we like to see people suffer—we don't. Our duty is to render the best service we can, and when someone is ailing, we are interested in seeing them take the best medicine there is for their particular trouble. We don't recommend 'cure-alls," as we don't believe there are such things. We don't want you to spend more than you have to. Some of you get small wages, and when you're sick, none at all, and you should get the most you can for your money.

We recently came across a new remedy for increasing strength and building up people who are run-down and emaciated. We know that a slight trouble sometimes grows into a serious one, and to stop it in the beginning, will save you money in the end. This new compound is called Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. It is the best remedy, when you are run-down, tired out, nervous—no matter what the cause. It doesn't merely stimulate you and make you feel good for a few hours, but takes hold of the weakness and builds you up to a healthy, normal condition. It is a real nerve-food tonic and builder of good blood, strong muscle, good digestion. It contains Hypophosphites, which tone the nerves, and pure Olive Oil, which nourishes the nerves, the blood and the entire system. Pleasant to take. Contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. We promise that if you are not perfectly satisfied with it, we'll give back your money as soon as you tell us. Sold only at the 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. $1.00.

Edward J. Murphy, 1415 Hancock Cor. Granite Sts., Quincy, Mass.

THE CHALMERS EXHIBIT.

The exhibit of Chalmers cars this year by The Whitten-Gilmore Company is the most complete that this company has ever had, and for the first time in a number of years, they are showing something which has not been exhibited before in Boston or New England, and that is the new "Little Six" Chalmers Touring Car and Coupelet, known as the Model No. 26.

This particular model, which was shown for the first time at the New York Show has met with instant approval, and the only regret that the Chalmers agents throughout the country have had in regard to it has been their inability to get them to show.

The Chalmers exhibit consists of eight models including a beautiful chassis of the larger six-cylinder car, known as the Model No. 24. This model is shown in the five and six-passenger Touring Car, Roadster, and there are also on view of this model one inside drive Coupe and one Limousine. All these cars are equipped with the Chalmers-Entz electric system of starting and lighting, which has been found to be the simplest system on the market. The most striking quality of this system is its simplicity of operation. On the cowl of the dash is a single switch which operates both ignition and starting system. A movement of this switch from left to right starts the motor; one movement, that is all. To explain this system, you will find at the Chalmers exhibit a complete starting system, where it can be examined fully and its simplicity easily seen.

In addition to the starter there is a complete exhibit of Chalmers parts, which is more than interesting to anyone who is desirous of knowing the quality of the parts which go to make up all Chalmers cars.

The smaller "Six" is shown in a five-passenger Touring Car and in a Coupelet body, which is a two-passenger body of an entirely new design, giving the full protection of an enclosed car, but with a collapsible top which converts the car readily into an open Roadster. This smaller "Six" has the same lighting and starting system as the larger "Six," and has every feature that has made the larger car so popular. An extra tire on both models are carried in the rear, leaving the running boards absolutely clean and allowing entrance or exit from either side of the car. The regular equipment on both models includes top, rain vision and ventillating windshield, five demountable rims, tire carrier, speedometer, front and rear license brackets and electric horn. Both motors are of the "T" type with enclosed valves, and both have a multiple disc clutch with cork inserts.

Chalmers cars this year are shown in the same spaces where they have been exhibited for the past five years, spaces 108 and 109 on the main floor. There is so much that is new in the Chalmers exhibit that it will be necessary for everyone to look these cars over before coming to any decision in regard to the purchase of a car.

HOW SAXON GOT ITS NAME.

An interesting story of the way the Saxon car got its name is being told at the automobile show.

H. W. Ford, president of the Saxon Company, says the name "Saxon" was chosen because of the desire to embody in the car the characteristics of the Saxon race.

"For centuries," says Mr. Ford, "the Saxon race has been famous for integrity, endurance, simplicity, persistence, thrift and ability to 'make good' under all conditions.

"We set about to embody in the Saxon car the virtues of strength and simplicity, to build this car light, and to make it economical in initial cost, in operation and upkeep cost. Above all, we have sought to produce it as a car honestly built and designed to meet the demands of the greatest number of people, at the same time selling it at a cost they consider fair and can afford to pay."

"Standard Tread and Continental-made motor are two features which have done a great deal to make the Saxon the sensation it is here," says E. A. Gilmore of the Whitten-Gilmore Co., distributors for the Saxon car which is on exhibition at the Boston Show.

"Nine out of every ten of our visitors ask these two questions: 'Has it standard tread?' and then "What type of motor?' When we explained that this good looking $395 automobile has standard tread and a Continental motor, the inquirer is not only satisfied, but enthusiastic. The motor is of exclusive design and the and the Continental Company has turned over an entire section of its plant and organization to its production.

"This car has struck a popular chord in every section of the country. It is just the sort of automobile for the man who used to say he would buy when the price should come below $400. Somehow, those who have never owned a car have placed $400 or less as the figure at which they wanted to see cars sold. Now their dream is realized, particularly since they are able to buy for $395 a real automobile with accepted features of design."

☞PRATT'S BREAD never varies. It is made and baked by a fixed rule. Ask your grocer.

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

Chalmers
The Master "Sixes"

Come and see the cars that are breaking all Chalmers selling records.

These cars sell on merit alone—proved by the Chalmers Standard Road Test.

See the Master "Sixes" at the Motor Show. Then try them out in the test ride that proves.

Master "Six" $2175 Master "Light Six" $1800

MECHANICS BUILDING
MAIN FLOOR—SPACES 108 and 109

THE WHITTEN-GILMORE CO.
620 COMMONWEALTH AVE.

Represented in Lynn by C. E. Whitten
Lowell, Chalmers Motor Co. of Lowell
Lawrence and Haverhill, Smith Motor Car Co.

SHAMOKIN RANGE COAL
FREE BURNING
Like The
Shamokin of 20 years ago

C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.
Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.
Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.
18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

Have Your Picture Taken in Our Studio
394 WATER STREET, QUINCY
Workmanship guaranteed. Special attention given to outside work. Photos taken evenings by electric light.
Portrait Enlarging. PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order
E. C. GREIFELD, Artist
Feb. 12-1m

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 59 | QUINCY, MASS WEDNESDAY EVENING MARCH 11 1914 | PRICE TWO CENTS

GOOD RECORD AT BASKET BALL

Quincy High Closes Season with Victory Defeating Winthrop 26 to 23

Has Won 14 of the 19 Games Played This Season

Quincy High defeated Winthrop High 26 to 23 and tied them for second place in the Interscholastic basket ball league in the final game which was played in High school gym Tuesday afternoon. Quincy's second team also won from the visitors' second 13 to 11. Quincy closed its season with 14 victories out of 19 games played, losing to Winthrop, Salem and Brockton and to Wellesley twice.

The players met directly after the game and their choice of captain for the next fall quintette was Earl Bates the plucky and almost diminutive right forward whose work this season has been nothing short of sensational.

Nearly 350 members of the student body marched into the gallery and cheered their team to victory. The fine attendance marked the appreciation felt for the team and for the work of Coaches Mansur, French and Thompson, in developing the best basket ball five at the school for several years.

It was one of the hardest fought games ever seen in the gym. Players following the ball bumped each other frequently and time out was called for several such incidents. Tonry and Edwards, both of Winthrop, collided and were out of the game for the time out limit.

Crocker struck against the wall in the last period and then had a head-on collision with a Winthrop man which required his withdrawal. Martin succeeded him.

Although every man was covered throughout the game both teams managed to score, and at the end of the first period Quincy was leading 13 to 12. Earl Bates dissolved the 19 tie, which existed with but five minutes to play by tossing a pretty basket and getting another point on a free try. Winthrop then made two and Quincy in a burst of speed opened up a fast attack and Captain Jenkins tossed the two last baskets in the game. His throwing of the first and last point this season is considered a remarkable coincidence.

Quincy was presented with two points in the early part of the second period when the ball shot off of Tonry's finger tips on a toss-up and dropped into Quincy's net and counted for them.

Hamlin who is speedy and accurate played his best game of the season. He followed the ball constantly, covered his man well, intercepted passes and in addition threw two baskets.

Leon White at centre, aside from being a tower of strength was strong on the offensive and was of great assistance to the Quincy backfield in blocking Winthrop's opportunities for scores.

Captain Jenkins shot five baskets in the game, three in the first period and the final two of the season. His efforts carried him to all parts of the floor.

Crocker, up to the time he was tak-

(Continued on Page Four.)

W. H. HASLETT
31 Bridge Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 1092 W

Plastering and Cementing
Concrete Houses
Outside Stucco Work
Cement Walks, Steps and Cellar Floors.

PETROSILO sanitary and fireproof flooring—guaranteed to wear longer than hard wood floor—no joints one continuous piece put over any floor.

Feb. 25- W-S. tf

SAXON $395

Ordered your Saxon yet?

'Most everyone else has. This snappy, staunch little car has won everybody who has seen it. Think of it!—a real 2-passenger automobile, good and good-looking, with 4-cylinder motor, streamline body, 96-inch wheel base, wire wheels, standard tread—at $395.

See It at the Show

MAIN FLOOR—SPACE 134B

The WHITTEN-GILMORE Co.
620 COMMONWEALTH AVE.

Represented in Lynn by C. E. Whitten

Successful Poultry Raising

rests on a few definite principles. Perfect cleanliness is one of these. Adopt it, and you have made a long stride toward success.

Pratts Poultry Disinfectant
35c per quart; $1 per gallon

Is designed to make this work easy. Safe, sure, pleasant to use. It kills disease germs, destroys mould, makes the plant and equipment clean, sweet and sanitary.

"Your money back if it fails."

Pratts Powdered Lice Killer
Is fatal to lice. 25c and 50c

A. J. Richards & Son, C. W. & G. W. Nightingale, Nathan Ames, E. H. Doble & Co., and Grain Dealers, and General Stores everywhere. 4190

COCHATO CLUB FLOURISHING

Judge Albert E. Avery Completes Year as President

The annual meeting of the Cochato club, Braintree, was held in the club hall Tuesday evening. There being rumors of a contest for the presidency an unusual number of members were in attendance.

The reports of the executive committee, secretary and treasurer were the best in the club's history of fourteen years. There has been a good increase in membership, the club has been of more interest socially to its members. $400 has been paid on mortgage and nearly $500 remains in the treasury.

HON. ALBERT E. AVERY,
Judge of the Quincy District Court.

W. A. McKean has served the club from the beginning as treasurer and it was with regret that the club members heard of his desire to retire from that office. The names of Mrs. Lucy M. Wales, Mrs. Sarah E. Williams and Mr. W. A. McKean were voted as honorary members.

Election of officers was next in order. There were 124 ballots cast. Fred N. Manning as treasurer, and F. Edgar Norris for secretary, had no opponents and were elected. For executive committee there were thirty-five names on the ballot. The fifteen elected were: George L. Anderson, Albert E. Avery George A. Arnold, Edward S. Averill, Lester E. Bates, Frank H. Dearing, Albion C. Drinkwater, Horace R. Drinkwater, F. Eugene Dyer, Edwin L. Emerson, Herbert F. Kneeland, Frederic D. Lawley, William F. Rogers, George H. Wetherbee and George S. Young.

The executive committee elects the president for the year and are solid for Judge Albert E. Avery who has just completed one year in that office. Club members are indebted to Judge Avery and his family for their activity, labor and good judgment of the past year.

Meeting adjourned at 10.15 o'clock.

The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

By CHAS. H. JOHNSON, - Auctioneer
Office, Room 3 Adams Building. Tel. Con.

Receiver's Sale
At Public Auction
OF THE Valuable Granite Plant
— OF —
GIORDANI & CO.
Situated off Hill Place, West Quincy
Will be sold from premises on
SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1914
At 2.30 P. M.

Large cutting shed and office, about 45,000 square feet land, and the following personal property: One Compressor, Electric Motor, 2 Polishing Machines, Hoister and Derrick, Boiler, Pump, Surface Machine, Tools, Chains, lot of pneumatic tools, Office Furniture, Desk, Chairs, Table, lot of Lumber and Rough Stock. Here is an opportunity; extra equipped plant all ready for business will be sold in one lot. $100 deposit on day of sale, balance cash within 20 days from date of sale. Per order

Walter S. Pinkham, Attorney
Receiver

6t M11-13-14-18-19-20

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Opposition to Civil Service Bill for Fire Chief

City Solicitor Pinkham and the Committee on legislative Matters of the City Council attended the hearing at the State House this morning before the Committee on Public Service, to extend the provisions of the Civil Service law to the Chief of the Fire Department of the City of Quincy. In compliance with a resolve of the City Council, adopted at the meeting of January 19, they appeared in opposition to the enactment of the bill.

A similar bill was passed a few years ago, containing a provision for a referendum vote by the city at the municipal election. A vote on the question was taken at the following municipal election and was overwhelmingly defeated.

It is understood that the Mayor is also opposed to the bill, and in fact he stated to the Council the evening the resolution was adopted that he believed the matter should be left so that if the chief in office was not an efficient man he could be readily bounced.

The City Council Committee on Sewers and Water Supply met Tuesday evening and voted to go out on a view Saturday afternoon.

The joint Committee on Fire Department and Ordinances will meet Thursday evening and separate sessions of each committee will immediately follow the joint meeting.

Ex-Councilman Gauthier, who is making the alterations to the interior of City Hall so as to give the Mayor a larger office, had a gang of men at work Tuesday morning tearing down part of the partition between the Mayor's office and the room occupied by the City Engineer.

The Registrars of Voters met Tuesday evening to make up the jury list.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commission has just announced a competitive examination for first assistant to the Commissioner of Public Works at Quincy to be held in Boston, March 31. From the eligible list established by this examination names will be certified to fill one vacancy; salary $5 per day. Only male citizens of the United States who have been residents of Massachusetts for the past year, and of Quincy for the six months last past, have a right to apply. The examination will consist of the following subjects; a sworn statement of training and experience; letter-writing; arithmetic; and knowledge of the construction and maintenance of streets and related subjects. Blanks applications (form No. 1) can be obtained by applying to the Civil Service Commission, State House, Boston, and, when filled out, should be filed in the office of the Commission at once.

The Civil Service Commissioners also announce that examinations for the Quincy police, janitor and engineer service will be held March 26, and for fire department service and foreman of laborers service on March 30. In regard to the latter service it is understood that John C. Murray chairman of the Board of Health is now acting as foreman of the Board of Health, Harry Loud having been removed by abolishing the office.

Misses Helen Connor and Lily Ridge both popular young ladies of the Point district have returned from a pleasant stay at Lexington.

Odd Fellows' Ball

The Annual Concert and Ball
-- of --
Mt. Wollaston Lodge, I. O. O. F.
Will be held at
Music Hall, Quincy
Thursday Evening, Mar. 12
POOLE'S ORCHESTRA
Concert 8 to 9. Dancing 9 to 2
Special Cars after Ball

March 9-3t

ELKS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

John Hildebrand the New Exalted Ruler

The annual meeting of Quincy lodge of Elks was held Tuesday evening at Colonial hall and John Hildebrand was elected exalted ruler to succeed Philip H. Sullivan, who has held the office for two years. The new exalted ruler is a well known resident of Atlantic and for 25 years has been in charge of the press room at the Youth's Companion, Boston.

After the election a lodge of sorrow was held for ex-Councilman Ralph W. Hobbs, who died Feb. 20, the eulogy being given by Philip H. Sullivan.

The complete list of officers elect:

Exalted Ruler—John Hildebrand

Esteemed Leading Knight—Edward D. Larkin.

Esteemed Loyal Knight—Dr. James H. Maloney.

Esteemed Lecturing Knight—John R. S. Ross.

Secretary—William S. George.

Treasurer—Charles R. O'Connor.

Tyler—John W. Reveney.

Trustee for three years—John W. Sweeney.

Delegate to Annual Convention—Philip H. Sullivan.

Alternate Delegate—Robert J. Williams, Jr.

David A. Smith of Glencoe place, left the first of the week for an extended business trip through the southern states, going direct to Little Rock, Arkansas. Mr. Smith acts in capacity of demonstrator of machinery for the S. A. Woods Machine Co. of South Boston manufacturers of wood working machinery.

(ADVERTISE.)

ODD FELLOWS OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Several Who Joined Mt. Wollaston Lodge Thirty Years Ago in Attendance

Large Class of Young Men Initiated into the Order

Fourteen of the 42 survivors of those who entered Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows in March 1884, were present Tuesday evening at the 30th anniversary of the lodge, and the reunion was a happy occasion for them and for the large attendance of brethren which crowded I. O. O. F hall in the Adams building. In all these 30 years the lodge has occupied but two halls, having first been located in the Wilson building.

The lodge celebrated the anniversary by initiating the largest class since 1884, having a list of twelve young men. The work was finely exemplified by Noble Grand William S. Esau and the regular officers of the lodge, in the presence of Deputy Grand Master James Bennett, Grand Instructor William M. Webber, District Deputy Goodwin, members of their suites, and other visitors. The Grand officers complimented the officers on their work, and the lodge on its anniversary and activity.

Adjournment was then made to the banquet hall where one of Frank E. Badger's famous clam chowders was served with pickles, cold meats, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake. Cigars were also passed.

While at the tables there were addresses by District Deputy Goodwin and others.

EARLY HISTORY.

The historical address was by Past Grand Frank F. Prescott, one of the charter members in 1884, who said in part:

"March has been an eventful month with the Odd Fellows of Quincy. It was on March 10, 1884, that Mt. Wollaston lodge, No. 80, was instituted at Wilson's hall; it was on March 12, 1889, that the present Odd Fellows hall in the Adams building was dedicated; it was on March 27, 1891, that Manet Encampment No. 75 was instituted, and many of the annual concerts and balls have been held in March.

"It was early in January, 1884, that the agitation for a lodge of Odd Fellows in Quincy was started. The first preliminary meeting was held Saturday evening, Jan. 1, 1884, at which ten or more Odd Fellows of different lodges were present and much interested. Frank F. Prescott was elected secretary pro tem and the late George L. Gill, P. G., treasurer. Bro. Gill was a

(Continued on Page Two.)

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

R. E. FOY & CO. — 2 STORES —

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

Tasty Tea and Delicious Coffee at Foy's

We do a tremendous Tea and Coffee business because we give our customers great value for their money. We buy only the best grades—keep them always fresh—sell them at small profit per pound—and please our patrons perfectly. Let us serve you.

FOY QUALITY TEAS

All our Tea comes from Chase & Sanborn. We use great care in selecting the different blends, and then re-order the same each week. Thus the uniformity for which our Teas are noted. Try a pound.

GOOD TEA 40c lb. | CHOICE TEA 50c lb | FANCY TEA 60c lb

In lots of 3 lbs. you save a nickle a pound

ALL POPULAR PACKAGE TEAS

Chase & Sanborn's -- S. S. Pierce's -- Salada-- Lipton's -- Ridgway's -- At Low Prices

FOY QUALITY COFFEE

"QUALITY" is the name of our best coffee and it's well named. You can pay more for coffee but you can't buy a better grade. We get it daily fresh from the roaster—grind it as ordered—and guarantee it to give satisfaction It does.

33c lb.

ADVERTISED COFFEES, TOO

Chase & Sanborn's 38c can La Touraine 38c
Barrington Hall (steel cut) 40c can
Cafe Des Invalides 40c can
G. Washington 30c. Stanzalone 25c

March 11-2t

That WEIDELY Motor

Don't Miss It—In the Premier Six— At the Boston Show

See the motor with the valves in the head, and a single cam-shaft operating directly over them.

The motor without rocker-arms, push-rods and rollers—the six-cylinder motor with the fewest parts.

Examine this small motor with greater power and speed than other six-cylinder motors of larger size.

The six cylinder motor that travels farther on a gallon of gasoline than FOUR-cylinder motors of equally rated power.

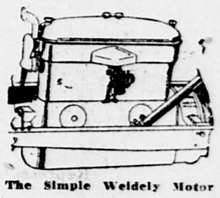
Here is a motor of the standard poppet-valve type made wonderfully efficient merely through simplification.

The difference in its efficiency is simply the difference between what "we get and what the other fellow wastes."

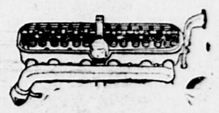
Come see the Premier—the only car in America with the Weidely Motor. Note the symmetrical body lines—harmony and balance—all in keeping with the remarkable simplicity and "up-to-dateness" of the power plant.

Clean motor appearance is not obtained by side-plate coverings, but by the elimination of unnecessary parts.

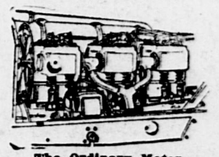
The Premier Six with the Weidely Motor is considered the finest example of six construction in America. It was the sensation at the New York and Chicago Shows. The Premier is one car in the Boston show which will make worth while your visit.



The Simple Weidely Motor

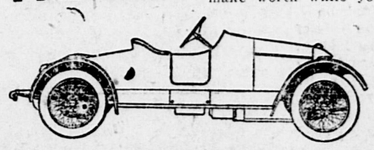


Note the Cam Shaft on Top



The Ordinary Motor Note the Complication

PREMIER



PREMIER MOTOR MFG. CO.
Indianapolis, Indiana
PREMIER MOTOR CAR CO.
Distributors,
652 Beacon St., Boston

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1869

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

Gen. Villa should realize that if he does not stop these executions, Uncle Sam may rise in his wrath and send him another postcard.

The newspapers note that Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President, rides horseback astride. Fortunately not so many people as formerly will rush to see her so as to be shocked.

Women are calling for wider skirts in which to do the new "dip" dances, but they don't seem to ask for them for the sake of freer movement while doing housework.

The Lord should be thanked for the good prospects for winter wheat following the heavy snowfall, but both political parties will probably claim credit.

Some solicitors for charity are so tactless just now as to ask money from people who have to pay an income tax.

It is believed that the small boy would be willing to observe clean-up week next May, if he can have immunity from Saturday night baths from now until that time.

It is expected that next year any one will be able to make out an income tax blank, without running down to Washington to find out how it should be done legally.

The dancing craze has made a lively market for ballgowns, flowers, dress suits, musicians, and livery stable services, while the demand for overalls and aprons remains quiescent.

INCOME TAX COMPLEXITIES.

To the average man, the making of a full and fair return of an income, and the writing of a law covering the various classes of income, seems fairly simple. But the putting into effect of the new statute has disclosed a multitude of irritating complexities that had not been thought out in advance. No doubt the law will be amended and simplified.

One of the more serious difficulties is the question how profits and losses in stocks and bonds should be treated. Many railroad and other stockholders saw the market valuation of their certificates shrink almost half during the year 1913. Are they entitled to deduct from their income this shrinkage? Or must they wait until they actually sell such stock?

It has been stated by some authority that such losses could be claimed as deductions, if actually charged off as losses on the books of the stockholder. But if so, the question would arise next year, whether the stockholder would remember to add the increment of value, should such stocks happen to take a rise.

The depreciation of property used for industrial purposes is another point of some difficulty. One imagines that depreciation charges will be much more common on factory books than they used to be. Formerly it was often said that a large charge for plant always looked well in case you had a fire.

When the powers that be set out to improve the law, they should realize how much it will add to their name and fame if it can be made to work with less friction. For every man who has cursed the administration because he believes the principle of the law is unfair and unjust, a score have muttered maledictions because of the bother and fuss imposed on them under the complexities of the statute as it stands.

MANY BODIES YET IN RUINS

Deaths In St. Louis Clubhouse Fire Reach About Thirty

BANK VAULTS FOUND INTACT

Nearly $1,300,000 In Coin and Currency Removed to Safe Quarters—No Satisfactory Explanation of Holocaust Is Found—Explosions During Fire Were Caused by Gas

St. Louis, March 11.—Ten bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the seven-story building occupied by the Missouri Athletic club which was destroyed by fire.

Twenty bodies are thought to be in the ruins, making the total death toll thirty.

Days probably will elapse before the ruins which fill the basement up to the first floor are completely explored, and it is feared that many of the bodies never will be recovered.

Fire Chief Swingley told President Kinsley of the board of public improvement that the work of the fire department was about finished and suggested that laborers from other city departments be put to work removing the debris.

The vaults of the Boatmen's bank, which occupied part of the building, were uncovered and found intact. Nearly $1,300,000 in coin and currency was removed under heavy police guard to the vaults of the St. Louis Union Trust company, where the money will be kept until a place can be provided in the temporary quarters of the Boatmen's bank.

No satisfactory explanation of the fire has been found. Explosions heard during the fire were attributed by the chief of the fire prevention bureau to gas that escaped when the meters melted under the intense heat.

Harry Davidson, night watchman for the athletic club, was on the third floor of the building, where the fire is supposed to have started, only fifteen minutes before the blaze was discovered. He found nothing there that indicated fire danger.

SLEPT FOUR DAYS

Doctors Puzzled Over Case of Woman In New Hampshire Hospital

Hanover, N. H., March 11.—The physicians connected with the Mary Hitchcock hospital are baffled by the case of Mrs. Sarah Seavey, 32 years old, who is confined at the hospital convalescing from a state of coma, in which she had been for four days and which was induced, in their opinion, by auto suggestion and sleeping tablets.

Mrs. Seavey awakened from her unconscious condition last Thursday, having been asleep since the previous Sunday. Since Thursday she has been in a very weakened state because of her remarkable experience.

BOY BANDITS SURRENDER

Overcome by Hunger After Seriously Wounding Would-Be Captor

Aurora, Ills., March 11.—Three boy fugitives from the state home at St. Charles, who eluded a posse of farmers in the woods near Big Rock Ills., all day, surrendering to Sheriff McBriarity last night. The boys had eaten nothing, they said, since leaving the home at St. Charles Monday night and were driven out of the woods by hunger.

Elmer Dean, a Big Rock farmer, who was shot through the throat when he tried to apprehend the boys, is in a hospital, where it is said he has a slight chance for his life.

AWED BY SOLDIERS

Rome Workmen Give Up Strike After a Battle In Streets

Rome, March 11.—Awed by the display of soldiery and checked by several cavalry charges that frustrated attempts at disorder, the workmen of Rome, who on Monday declared a general strike, decided to resume work.

This decision followed a serious affray with the police in the vicinity of the ministry of the interior. The mounted policemen fired volleys of ball cartridge into the crowd. Several strikers were wounded and one is reported to have been killed.

THREE CITY ELECTIONS

Democrats Win In Contests In the Granite State

Somersworth, N. H., March 11.—Fred H. Brown was elected mayor on the Democratic ticket over T. J. Morrison, Independent-Citizens' candidate.

George B. Cox, nominee of Democrats and Progressives, was elected mayor of Laconia, defeating W. D. Veasey, Republican, by a plurality of 44.

Mayor Daniel J. Daley, Democrat, was re-elected at Berlin's city election.

Vanderbilt's Body In Mausoleum

New York, March 11.—The body of George W. Vanderbilt was laid at rest in the family mausoleum in the Moravian cemetery at New Dorp, S. I., near the old Vanderbilt residence, where he was born fifty-two years ago. Bishop Greer conducted a brief service at the tomb.

NORFOLK COUNTY PROBATE COURT

Considerable Business at the Quincy Session Today

Judge Flint held probate court for Norfolk county at Quincy this morning and transacted the following business:

WILLS ALLOWED.

Of Emma L. Chamberlain late of Foxborough, Percy B. Richmond executor, bond $50,000.

Of Francis C. Field late of Quincy, William C. Field executor, bond $8,000

Of John F. Foster late of Avon, Leroy E. Foster executor, bond $700.

Of John Donovan late of Quincy, Jeremiah J. McAnarney executor, bond $10,000.

Of Sarah B. Plumer or Plummer late of Portsmouth, Patrick O'Loughlin executor, on estate not already administered upon, bond $1,000.

Of Reuben S. Swan late of Brookline, Emma A. Swan and Clifford M. Swan executors, bond $30,000.

Of John O'Neill late of Sharon, Annie O'Neill executrix, bond $25,000.

Of John Diskin late of Milton, Edward Liskin executor, bond $3,000.

ADMINISTRATIONS GRANTED.

Nelson A. Lasante on estate of Joseph W. Lasante late of Quincy, bond $500.

Herbert E. Curtis, on estate of Job L. Curtis late of Weymouth, bond 1,500.

Asa P. French, on estate of Sarah White late of Braintree, bond $100.

Edward A. McEttrick, on estate of William Fagan late of Brookline, bond 15,000.

D. Vinton Reeves, on estate of David V. Reeves late of Dedham, bond 1,000.

Helen Church on estate of Erancelia L. Church late of Brookline, bond $550.

Hannah F. Sullivan and Mary E. Sullivan, on estate of Timothy Sullivan late of Dedham, bond $1,000.

ACCOUNTS ALLOWED.

First and final of John J. Kerrigan, administrator of estate of Margaret Kerrigan late of Quincy, for $1,255.12.

First and final of Martha J. Howard, administratrix of estate of Margaret J. Ford late of Canton, for $502.41.

Final Judicial of Caroline A. Creey, trustee under will of Charlotte L. Richardson late of Wellesley, for $49.34.

First and final of Matthew McNamara, executor of will of Thomas McNamara late of Brookline, for $5007.19.

Fifth of Joseph R. Churchill trustee under will of Asaph Churchill late of Milton, for $5,294.41.

First and final of Frank W. Bailey, executor of will of Lucia S. Bailey late of Dedham, for $14,118.

First and final of George E. Hall, executor of will of Anna C. A. Hall late of Dedham for $76,352.50.

MISCELLANEOUS.

John W. Ferguson, administrator of estate of Mary E. Ferguson, was granted permission to sell real estate to the amount of $324.

Alice E. Foster was appointed guardian of Alice E. Foster, a minor of Avon, bond $3,000.

Grace F. W. Gage, administratrix of estate of Lydia F. Whiting late of Canton, was granted permission to sell real estate to the amount of $3,000.

William E. Duggan, administrator of estate of John Duggan late of Quincy, was granted permission to sell real estate to the amount of $1600.

Harold W. Gay was appointed trustee of certain estate of Margaret A. Creed late of Norwood, bond $1,000.

Annie M. Fallon, guardian of Edward R. Gary of Foxborough, was granted permission to sell real estate to the amount of $800.

Minot T. Garey, administrator of estate of W. B. Osborne late of Weymouth, was granted permission to sell real estate to the amount of $2295.54.

WOLLASTON WOMAN BURNED.

Mrs. William Sayward, of 110 Winthrop avenue, was quite seriously burned Tuesday evening when the fringe of a table covering took fire from the flying cap of a match. From what can be learned, Mrs. Sayward attempted to light a match by scratching it under the table. In an instant the covering was all ablaze and the flames communicated to the dress of Mrs. Sayward. The flames were extinguished by members of the family who rushed to her cries for assistance. She was quite seriously burned, but not necessarily dangerous. She is now confined to her home under the care of a nurse.

PRATT'S BREAD—try it with a bowl of milk and blueberries. All grocers.

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

(Continued from Page One)

member of the old Mt. Wollaston lodge which was instituted in 1845. The banner now enclosed in a case in our hall formerly belonged to the old lodge. We also have an oil painting of Past Grand Gill who was for many years town clerk of Quincy, and treasurer of the Quincy Savings bank.

"Jan. 11, 1884, the Quincy petition was forwarded to the Grand Secretary. It contained 24 names as charter members, and 72 candidates.

"Jan. 22, 1884, the committee on Charters of the Grand Lodge visited Quincy to look over the field. In the party were Samuel W. Hodges, Dr. Ambrose Lawrence, Charles B. Newton, Charles D. Cole and other prominent Odd Fellows of those days, who were entertained at supper. There were then 164 lodges in Massachusetts with membership of 28,264.

"Frequent meetings of the charter members followed and Past Grand Representative Charles B. Newton of Atlantic was a kind counsellor and friend. He was our first deputy and served five and one-half years.

"The petition of Mt. Wollaston lodge was granted by the Grand Lodge Feb 7, 1884, and No. 80, the number of the old Mt. Wollaston lodge was given us.

"The charter members who are members of the lodge today, are: Tobias H. Burke, P. G.; Frank F. Prescott, P. G.; Walter H. Ripley, P. G.; Edward Hodge, John F. Kemp, Henry A. Willey, James G. Crossman and Joseph H. Layton, and those present this evening are: Brothers Burke, Ripley, Hodge, Layton and Prescott.

"It was arranged that the reinstitution of Mt. Wollaston lodge should take place March 10, 1884, at 2 P. M. There were so many candidates to be initiated that it was impossible to initiate all on that day but it was voted—"That each charter member present the name of one candidate for the afternoon and another for the evening."

"The new officers from the start became proficient in the secret work and did not find it necessary to call on other lodges or degree staffs. The first rehearsal of the officers was held in the hall March 3, 1884, at which time a committee was selected for a supper on the night of institution.

"You will see that March was a busy month then, for other rehearsals were held March 5, 6, 7, and 8. Then came the eventful day which we celebrate today, March 10, 1884, and Mount Wollaston lodge, No. 80, I. O. O. F. was re-instituted by Grand Master Samuel Cochran of Hyde Park.

"The first elective officers were:
N. G.—William L. Qualey.
V. G.—James R. Qualey.
R. S.—Frank F. Prescott.
Treasurer—George L. Gill, P. G.
P. S.—Walter H. Ripley.

"Ninety-four were initiated into the lodge the first week, meetings being held five evenings—Mar. 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14. Extra meetings were also necessary in March 1884, to work the first, second and third degrees. At the end of March we had 176 members, and before the end of the year 1884 we had 194. Thus Mt. Wollaston lodge started with a large membership and a large sum in the treasury, and has continued to gain and flourish.

"The lodge has had 55 to 60 past grands, and has lost by death nearly 60 members. The present membership is 277. During the 30 years including tonight the lodge has initiated 463.

"It is worthy of note that 42 of the 176 who joined the lodge in March 1884, are members today. In the list which follows those marked with an asterisk are present this evening:

Ames, Samuel E.
*Burke, Tobias H.
*Burke, Thomas F.
Brewer, Frank
Bisson, Thomas
Crossman, James G.
Clare, Thomas
Clapp, Herbert E.
Carleton, Edward O.
*Curtis, Jesse F.
Dunstan, James
Dexter, Edward J. T.
Dennen, Joseph W.
*DeForest, Samuel
Dell, Alfred A.
Fuller, Benj. R.
*Field, John Q.. A.
*Ford, George H.
Flood, Frank
Grindell, Charles H.
Hammond, Charles L.
*Hodge, Edward
*Hodgkinson, Frank T.
Hayward, William V.
Kemp, John F.
*Layton, Joseph H.
Langley, George O.
Monk, George
*Mitchell E. Frank
McCormick, William A.
*Prescott, Frank F.
Pettengill, Charles F.
Packard, Frank C.
Pope, Asa A.
*Ripley, Walter H.
*Totman, Horace W.
Veazie, Francis
Willey, Henry A.
*Williams, Robert J.
*Willey, Celestine G.
Williams, Thomas H.
Williams, William J.

* Present.

"Albert S. Pinkerton of Worcester was Grand Master when the present Odd Fellows hall was dedicated March 12, 1889, and officiated at the ceremonies. The lodge then had 172 members, and cash assets of $2,500. Walter H. Cobb was the noble grand.

"At the 20th anniversary in March, 1904, Grand Master Sumner P. Lawrence and other grand officers were present, and the First Degree was exemplified by Past Grand Charles H. Hobart and his staff. Past Grand Cobb gave an historical sketch.

"A date which Odd Fellows look forward to with interest is the centennial of the order in 1919."

The committee on the anniversary included Past Grand Charles H. Wood, Past Grand Edward L. Goodridge, Past Grand Frank F. Prescott, Past Grand Abel Gomez, Joseph H. Layton and Bro. Williams.

TRIBUTE TO DR. WELCH.

The Directors of the Quincy Co-operative Bank, at their regular meeting of March 7, 1914, desire to put on record their deep sorrow for the loss of their beloved President, Dr. John F. Welch.

The personality of Dr. Welch has always been a large factor in the life and success of the Bank. Year in and year out, for nearly a quarter of a century, he has given his services freely and without pecuniary reward towards promoting the usefulness of the Bank, and incidentally as we believe, for the thrift and prosperity of the community.

His keen and active mind and memory have always guided the affairs of the Banks with a sure and masterful grasp, while at the same time he has always shown a charming courtesy and polite consideration for the opinions of every member of the Board.

Not the least of our losses will be to miss the pleasant greeting of his keen and kindly eyes, as we shall assemble at our future monthly meetings.

Though not strictly within the province of our Board, we can hardly take final leave of Dr. Welch without a word of tribute for the worthy manner in which he has honored and dignified what some of us may regard as the noblest of all professions—that of ministering to the sick and wounded of our poor humanity. During the past score of years not a few of our own members have had cause to be grateful for his wise, skilful and sympathetic professional care.

Likewise as a good citizen, we shall delight to remember Dr. Welch as always lending his strong and intelligent support to everything that was just and wholesome and decent in the community, and which made for the good name of the city in which most of his active life was spent.

The clerk is instructed to enter the above tribute on the records of the Bank, and to send a copy, with the sincere sympathy of each individual member, to the family of Dr. Welch.

JOHN F. HUNT,
J. A. SEDGWICK,
D. L. F. CHASE, Committee.
M 11-1t

BIRTHDAY GREETING.

William Histen of Dysart street entertained a party of friends at his home Monday evening the occasion being his birthday. Mr. Histen was assisted in receiving his guests by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Histen. Music games and dancing were enjoyed and during the evening an elaborate birthday luncheon was served. Mr. Histen received many beautiful gifts and was also surprised by being presented a gold piece by the young ladies present.

HOW A BROOKLYN GIRL
Got Strong and Well Again.

Grace D. Lamb of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I was all run-down and on the verge of nervous prostration. I could not sleep for pain in my back. In all I was a wreck. A friend told me what Vinol had done for her little girl so I tried it. I noticed an improvement after the first bottle. I could sleep well, my appetite improved, and after taking three bottles I a mstrong and well again."

Vinol is the most efficient strength creator for such women. It is the medicinal elements of the cod's livers contained in vinol aided by the blood making and strengthening properties of tonic iron which makes it so far superior to all other tonics to build up health and strength for weak, tired, ailing women. It contains no oil and has a delicious taste.

We give back your money if Vinol does not do all that we claim. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

DR. J. A. ZWICKER
Osteopath
79 Freeman Street
Norfolk Downs, Mass.
Tel. 1271 W. Feb. 25-w-s-tf-o-28-tf

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000
PERISHABLE PAPERS
are perhaps kept in your house with nothing between them and destruction or theft but a thin wall of wood. That isn't prudent, when for $5 you can encase them in steel—in a box accessible to YOU ONLY—in our fire and burglar proof vault. Use a Granite Trust Safety-deposit box and sleep well o'-nights
Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.
GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

SHAMOKIN COAL
RANGE
FREE BURNING
Like The
Shamokin of 20 years ago
C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY
Agent for FORD and CASE CARS
A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock
Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.
For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

Advertise in the Ledger

AMONG THE WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

News of Women's Clubs is a feature of the Daily Ledger every Wednesday. Secretaries of organizations should send notices of club activities, to reach the Club Editor not later than Tuesday night to insure insertion the next day.

Mrs. Ernest Cockayne is hostess and Mrs. Wilson Marsh chairman of this week's meeting of the Friday club. French poets, historian's and critics will be discussed.

• • •

The Universalist Mission Circle meets Monday afternoon with Mrs. Joseph W. Lombard of 16 Elm place.

• • •

Friday afternoon the Wollaston Christian Temperance Union meets with Mrs. S. W. Shephard of 22 Marion street; subject: "Sabbath Observance," leader Mrs. I. W. Sneath.

• • •

Members of the New England Wheaton Club meet Saturday at Hotel Vendome, Boston, when they will be entertained by a play to be given students. "Neath the Sceptre of Susan" was written and performed very successfully at Wheaton college by the students. It represents in costume and manner the time of long bygone period that will interest friends past and present of Wheaton.

• • •

Whatsoever circle, Kings Daughters, will meet next Monday with Mrs. Albert H. Sayward, 253 Belmont street.

• • •

The executive board of the Wollaston Woman's Club meets tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

• • •

Junior Friday Club meets Monday afternoon with Mrs. Perry Lawton of Presidents hill, with Mrs. William H. Whitney of Wollaston in charge of the program, subject, "Aegean Archipelago.

• • •

Clubhouses seem to be the desire of most clubs and in Quincy several of the clubs have one or are working for one. The Quincy Women's club started with one; the Wollaston club is to unite with the men's club in a club home; at Squantum members are busily at work raising funds for a clubhouse; the Riverside club uses the Riverside Boat Clubhouse and at Houghs Neck the club has purchased a building for temporary use intending later to have a more modern home.

• • •

Charitable Ten Circle of King's Daughters meets Monday afternoon with Miss Annie Newcomb of 35 Bigelow street.

• • •

Fragment Society of the First Parish church meets next Wednesday March 1.

• • •

Rev. Henry R. Rose, the well known lecturer is to speak on "The House of Dreams" tomorrow afternoon at the meeting of the Old Colony Club of Weymouth in the Second Universalist church. The lecture will be illustrated by one hundred beautiful lantern slides.

• • •

Musical people are subscribing for the opera talk to be given Wednesday morning March 18 at 10.45 at the clubhouse by Mr. Will... L. Hubbard of the Boston Opera house. The talk has been arranged by the Music committee of the Quincy Women's Club, Mrs. Frank J. Moore, chairman. Mr. Hubbard has selected "Die Meistersinger Von Nuernberg" as the opera for his talk.

• • •

Act three of King Lear is to be read tomorrow afternoon at the meeting of the Shakespeare Society of Atlantic. Miss Elizabeth Cook will be the chairman and Mrs. N. G. Nickerson the soloist.

The last of the series of five parlor talks on home decoration under the auspices of the Art, Arts and Crafts committee of the Quincy Women's Club is to be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Herbert H. Albee, 377 Highland avenue, Wollaston. Ralph R. Kent, the well known landscape architect will be the speaker, subject, "Landscape Gardening." The previous lectures have dwelt on interior decoration and at this time of year it is well to consider outside surroundings and the lecture promises to be of unusual interest.

• • •

There are mothers' and fathers' days, old folks' days, and others but the Foxboro Woman's club has added another to the list observing last week "Grandmothers' Day." Grandmothers are scare these days as there are no old ladies since women joined clubs and have become interested in outside affairs but doubtless there are a few in Foxboro or there would have been no observance of the day.

• • •

The Los Angeles Examiner of California of recent date in its club news has the following of interest to Quincy club women.

"The luncheons of the Friday Morning Club are always feasts in more than one sense, and last Friday's luncheon gathering was no exception to the rule. It was somewhat reminiscent of the biennial year when distinguished clubwomen from all corners of the country were continually "dropping in" and leaving behind inspiration, and taking away, perhaps, some. There was Mrs. E. W. Shepard, former president of the Woman's Club of Quincy, Mass. Quincy, the mother city of two Presidents, to say nothing of brainy women, and close to Boston, where is domiciled the staid old New England Club, preserver of staid New England traditions, of which Mrs. Shepard is also a member. Mrs. Shepard, genial and wholesome, brought greetings and left a message that surely ought to stir us."

• • •

An unusually enjoyable meeting is expected next Tuesday afternoon at the meeting of the Wollaston Woman's Club in the Park and Downs church for the club will be hostess to visiting club presidents and State Federation officers. Among the speakers will be Mrs. George W. Perkins, president of the State Federation, Mrs. John' Amee, Mrs. Henry Coolidge Mulligan and Mrs. Royal Whiton. The Wollaston club is nearly a year old so the meeting will also be in the nature of a birthday anniversary. Afternoon tea will be served during the reception.

• • •

The Massachusetts Society of the Daughters of the Revolution hold their annual meeting Tuesday March 17th in Chipman hall, Tremont Temple, Boston, beginning at ten o'clock. Names on the ballot for election are:

Regent—Mrs. Bolton, Brookline.
Vice Regent—Mrs. Smith, Newton.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Woodbury, Allston.
Corresponding — Mrs. Prescott, Somerville.
Treasurer—Mrs. Holbrook, So. Boston.
Register—Miss Todd, Lynn.
Librarian—Mrs. Buckley, Dorchester
Historian—Miss Smith, Boston.
Councillors—Mrs. Rowe, Allston, Mrs. Fitch, Brookline, Mrs. Coie, South Boston, Mrs. Sargent, Malden.

• • •

The regular meeting of Quincy Branch Alliance was held in the parlor of the First Parish church Monday afternoon. After the business meeting Mrs. Powhatan Bagnoll was introduced and interested her audience for an hour in speaking of "The Negro in Music." The hostesses of the afternoon were Mrs. John W. Sanborn and Mrs. Wilson Marsh.

• • •

There will be an open meeting of the Riverside club Wednesday Mar. 18 at 2.15 at the clubhouse, speaker, Miss Edith Randall, subject, "A German winter." The committee in charge are Mrs. Ida J. Crane, Mrs. Margaret Ward, Mrs. Muriel Arnold, Mrs Alice Peterson and Mrs. Gertrude Stone.

• • •

An all day sewing meeting is to be held tomorrow by the Woman's Guild of Christ church to sew for the Hospital Aid Association. Following the luncheon at one o'clock there will be an address at three by Mrs. Tuckerman of Boston on work among older girls and at half past three the Guild will attend services in the church. During Lent a series of Friday night talks are being given in the parish house with China as the subject.

• • •

Mrs. Edward S. Tead is to speak Friday afternoon at the mothers' meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary in Association hall. Mrs. J. Arthur Jewell will lead the devotional exercises.

• • •

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, president, called the meeting of the Quincy Women's club to order at half past two Tuesday afternoon for the usual business session. Reports were given by the clerk and treasurer. Members paying their yearly dues by mail were asked to enclose an addressed stamped envelope for the return of their membership ticket, also to notify the corresponding secretary of any change of address or correction for the year book.

Fine reports of the State Federation meeting at Dorchester were given, Mrs. Edward S. Tenney reporting for the morning, and Mrs. George L. Badger for the afternoon session.

The president spoke of the postponement of the dramatics because of the accident to Miss Randall and the necessity of raising the money now to complete the $100 the club wished to give to the General Federation endowment fund in memory of Lydia L. Morton. The executive board recommended taking from the club treasury the amount necessary to complete the $100; about fifty already having been contributed.

Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, a former president spoke feelingly of Mrs. Morton "our beloved president who had passed on," of her love for the club and interest expressed in many practical ways. Her motion to make the club's contribution $100 in memory of Mrs. Morton was carried unanimously.

Mrs. George E. Paffmann spoke for the Young Women's Club which now meets every Tuesday evening in the High school gym and asked members for their support and encouragement. Hoped members would attend the meetings Tuesday night and see what was being done. May 8 the club would have a gentlemen's night at Alpha hall giving a play to be followed by dancing. It was hoped members of the mother club would buy tickets and assist the young women.

Mrs. Tenney said that tickets were now ready for the art talk on April 17 at the clubhouse and hoped all would honor the memory of Mrs. Charles L. Seavey by securing one or two of them. The proceeds would be used to purchase pictures for the clubhouse in memory of Mrs. Seavey.

Mrs. Kitson for the Civics committee urged members to send in their names to Mrs. John D. Mackay and have their trees examined by the expert men now in the city for that purpose. Their services were for all citizens interested in the welfare of their trees, it only being necessary to communicate with Mrs. Mackay to get this service. Mrs. Kitson also announced that she could supply fruit trees, vines and bushes from a first class nursery at greatly reduced prices.

Mrs. Miller for the Education committee asked for contributions of money, candy, grabs, etc. for the annual May festival for children to be held at Music hall, May 2; children 10 cents, adults 25.

Mrs. Arnold for the Program committee announced the program for the next meeting at the clubhouse March 24 would be "Hobbies" and promised an interesting program.

The president announced that for the fifth time this year the club had lost a member by death Mrs. Arthur F. Capen of Wollaston Park passing away Monday night.

Preceding the speaker of the afternoon the club had the pleasure of listening to two songs by its Glee club. They sang "Little Pappose" and "Cradle Song".

Mrs. Albert E. Avery, chairman of the Legislative committee introduced Mrs. Glendower Evans of Boston who took for her subject President Wilson's book "The New Freedom" which she considered an important one. She told first of her trip to Washington with a delegation of working girls to interview the President on suffrage and to get his influence for their cause. Mrs. Evans has a quick wit and interesting personality. Her experiences are entertaining in the telling although underneath is a serious and vital question to solve.

She believes in suffrage as women are a part of the people of the country, with a vital interest in its government especially as it affects the home. Children should learn citizenship from the mother in the home the same as they do religion. We should be born to brotherhood to make for citizenship.

Mrs. Evans is a woman with time and talent to devote to the uplifting of women. Her trimly gowned figure, motherly face with piercing brown eyes, crowned with silvering hair inspires one to do and think and accounts for her success not only with and for women but men as well.

"The New Freedom" tells of conditions but does not solve the problem of dealing with the coming of the immigrant to our shores, the new conditions to face. Life for every one has changed, is more complex. Years ago with small communities the form of government was close to the people and they knew personally those in control, but we had now got far from the home.

Mrs. Evans was given close attention and her flashes of humor received quick recognition. It would have been a pleasure to have listened to just one more story of her experiences but like all good things there had to be an end.

Mrs. E. Granville Pratt was the hostess for the afternoon, the pourers being Mrs. Henry M. Faxon and Mrs. Clarence Burgin assisted by Mrs. Price, Mrs. Sturtevant, Mrs. Bushnell and Mrs. Sedgwick. The tea served was a gift from the R. E. Foy Co., of City Square which all pronounced delicious. Mr. Foy by letter also announced he would allow the club a commission on all tea of that brand sold to members of the club.

• • •

WOLLASTON D. A. R.

The March meeting of the Abigail Phillips Quincy chapter D. A. R. of Wollaston was held with Mrs. Phillips Rogers of Wollaston, the regent, Mrs. E. E. Jameson, presiding. The treasury was found to be in such excellent condition that the chapter felt able to indulge itself in some things it had long desired, and also to enjoy the luxury of giving. Accordingly in addition to the printing of the "By Laws" as already arranged, it was voted to purchase a flag for the salute at each meeting, Mesdames Sayward and Reynolds having this matter in charge, and sums of money were ordered sent to Morgan Memorial, Boston, the International college at Springfield, the Associated Charities of Quincy, and to the furnishing of the Massachusetts room in continental hall in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Bessie Shaw Reynolds was welcomed to membership, her papers having been returned approved. A nominating committee consisting of Mesdames Walter F. Jones, James H. Broughton, Frank C. Blake, Charles Pinkham, and George Taylor, was appointed to prepare a ticket for officers for the next two years.

The paper of the afternoon by Mrs. W. E. Simmons of Wollaston upon "Old Hingham" brought back vividly to the members their pilgrimage to Hingham last fall. It also contained descriptions of some of the old homes in Hingham which Mrs. Simmons had visited as a guest. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Rogers, assisted by members of the chapter.

• • •

VISITING NURSING.

The report of the Visiting Nurses for the month of February is as follows: Number of visits 251, Metropolitan visits 70; fees $37.00; carfares $10.15; doctors calling 14; number of patients 49; free patients 21; pay patients 18; Metropolitan patients 10; first calls in obstetrics 3; districts visited—Quincy, West Quincy, South Quincy, Quincy Point, Wollaston, Norfolk Downs and Atlantic. Donations of old linen were received from Mrs. Adams of Wollaston and infants clothes from Mrs. Ogden of Quincy.

• • •

GEORGE ELIOT AFTERNOON.

Members of the Quincy Women's Club were guests Monday afternoon at the Clubhouse of the Literature committee of the club at an afternoon with George Eliot. Mrs. Zenas S. Arnold chairman of the committee in introduction said of all English writers living or dead, in or out of England, the one woman who shows greatest power is George Eliot.

Mrs. Theodore Hardwick gave an interesting discussion of the sad fortunes of the Rev. Amos Barton, giving the characters rather than an outline of the story, which was very instructive. Amos Barton was a man of very commonplace appearance—a face of no particular complexion—features of no shape—in fact was not remarkable in any way. Mrs. Barton was a fair, gentle Madonna whom one would not expect to find the wife of such a man but George Eliot says "Let that successful, well shapen, discreet gentleman put up with something less than the best in the matrimonial department and let the sweet woman go to make sunshine for the poor devil whose legs are not models, whose efforts are often blunders." She shows Amos Barton to be a man after all with a heart underneath all his blundering ways. The wife gives her life for him and the children but does not take all the love out of the world at her death for she has given to it Patty who brightens the sunset of Amos Barton's life.

Mrs. Arnold read the short poem, "Two Lovers" with fine interpretation.

Mrs. Otho A. Hayward gave a very full synopsis of Romola, the Florentine beauty, devoted to her blind father a collector of rare books. All is serene until Tito appears who is engaged in research. After becoming the husband of Romola, by his deception and dual life he kills her love for him and she disguises herself and goes away. She meets Savonarola who sends her back, it being a supreme offering made by woman he tells her. She becomes an angel of mercy in the little fishing village.

Mrs. Horace Rice discussed Adam Bede who showed strength and decision in his every movement. Hetty a farmer's niece, a pretty little minx of whom her aunt said the naughtier she behaved the prettier she looked. The young squire above her in station caught her fancy. Adam, in love with her, she saw as a poor man unable to give her what her uncle gave her. The tragedy which follows brings out Adam's character.

Mrs. Pinkham gave George Eliot's place in the Victorian period of which 1850 was a centre. In all her books she teaches one great lesson—the casting away of self in obedience to the call of duty. That there is a far greater tragedy than death of the physical life. She teaches tolerance for other people's opinions—great sympathy—her humor is always kindly Most people think she falls short on spiritual side. Her works are devided in three groups: first—Mill on the Floss, Silas Marner, Adam Bede; second Romola; third—Felix Holt, Middlemarch and Daniel Deronda.

It was a meaty and enjoyable literary afternoon and those attending feel indebted to the committee for the pleasure planned and carried out so successfully by them.

• • •

(Continued on Page Six.)

CLUB EVENTS

MARCH

12—Q. W. Club—Art Com.—Lecture Mrs. Albee's.
12—W. W. Club—Board Meeting.
12—Atlantic Shakespeare Society.
13—Y. M. C. A. Aux.—Association Hall
13—Friday Club.
13—Wol. W. C. T. U.—Mrs. Shephard's
16—Junior Friday Club—Mrs. Lawton's.
16—Charitable Ten—Miss Newcomb's
16—Universalist Mission Circle—Mrs. Lombard.
17—W. W. Club—Reciprocity Day.
18—Q. W. Club—Opera Talk—Clubhouse.
18—Fragment Society—First Parish Chapel.
18—Riverside Club—Clubhouse.
20—K. C. M. Club—Mrs. Crane's.
23—Quincy Alliance— First Parish Chapel
24—Q. W. Club—Clubhouse.
25—Wol. Alliance—Unitarian Vestry.
26—Hospital Aid Asso.
26—Atlantic Shakespeare Society.
26-27—Civics Com. W. W. C. Pageant, W. School Hall.
27—Friday Club.
27—Educational Conference at Waltham
30—Junior Friday Club—Mrs. Litchfield's.

ALMA GLUCK—HAROLD BAUER.

Alma Gluck, the brilliant young soprano, and Harold Bauer, pianist, will give the concert in Symphony hall, Boston, Sunday afternoon, Miss Gluck has been the greater part of the year studying with Madame Sembrich and all lovers of singing will be interested to see the results the great Polish mistress has secured from the already remarkable talent of the young American soprano. The feature of the programme will be Schumann's song cycle, "A Woman's Love and Life" which will be sung by Miss Gluck with Mr. Bauer playing the piano accompaniment. The programme is as follows:—

Duet: Song Cycle "Frauenlfebe und Leben" Rob. Schumann
Miss Gluck and Mr. Bauer
Sonata, B minor Chopin
Mr. Bauer
Oriental Romance Rimsky-Korsakon
Revery Zimbalist
Liuba's Air from the Czar's Bride Rimsky-Korsakoff
Hopak Moussorgsky
Miss Gluck
Three Preludes Debussy
Impromptu, G-flat Schubert
Etude en forme de Valse Saint-Saens
Mr. Bauer
June Morning Willeby
Green River Carpenter
To a Butterfly John Powell
'Way Down South Sidney Homer
Red, Red Rose R. L. Cottenet
Miss Gluck

The Pierian Sodality Orchestra
OF HARVARD UNIVERSITY
ASSISTED BY AN ITALIAN VOCAL TRIO
WILL GIVE A CONCERT IN
ALPHA HALL, QUINCY, MARCH 12th, 1914, AT EIGHT O'CLOCK
UNDER AUSPICES OF
THE SAMOSET CLUB OF WOLLASTON
TICKETS 75 CENTS
On sale in Quincy at The Rexall Store EDWARD J. MURPHY
For sale in Wollaston at BROOKS' DRUG STORE
Mar. 7—11 2t

NEWMAN TRAVEL TALK.

The subject of E. M. Newman's second Travel talk at Symphony hall, Boston, Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, is to be "Paris—Art, Life, Fashion." In new color views and motion pictures, he will present phases of the "City of Pleasure" never before reproduced, in addition to the more familiar places unalterably associated with that remarkable capital. Mr. Newman spent much time in the "Real Latin Quarter" among the artists and models, in order to be able to show how they live in unpretentious studios, eking out an existence against frightful odds, living in the hope that some day one of their pictures will be accepted by the Salon. The more familiar boulevards, the Montmartre and its cabarets, the places famed in history, the art galleries and their treasures, the department stores and the exclusive shops, including a gorgeous collection of the latest fashions by the world's most famous designers will also be brought vividly before the easy-chair-travellers. The fashions will be kept right up to the minute by new pictures sent to Mr. Newman from week to week as the novelties appear, by his assistant who remained in Paris. A thrilling episode will be a ride over the city in a dirigible balloon following a delightful ramble through the history-laden palaces and gardens at Versailles and Fontainebleau.

PECK TRAVEL TALKS.

Friday evening and Saturday Matinee, Arthur K. Peck will deliver the second of his Travel Talks in Tremont Temple, Boston. His subject is "Paris, Napoleon, The Louvre and Glimpses of Rural France." His narrative is descriptive of three different tours of the city:—Paris historical; Paris the Mecca of fashion and the tourists; Paris, the art centre. From the humble homes of the peasants he journeys to the luxurious palaces of the kings, and then zigzags across the city and to Versailles and Fontainbleau, following the historical events of the French Revolution and the rise of Napoleon in logical sequence. A wonderful series of illustrations is shown, made directly from negatives of the famous portraits of kings, queens, princes and revolutionary leaders, and from negatives of The Tuilleries taken in 1871 before the destruction of the palace by the Communists. These supplement a series of views of the buildings and regal apartments, so that the historical story is amply and correctly illustrated. Mr. Peck has imported a series of slides made from negatives taken in the world famed galleries of the Louvre and Luxembourg and colored by the leading colorists, thereby bringing to his audience miniatures of the gems of one of the world's greatest art collections.

In his description of Paris the tourist's Mecca, the lecturer invites his hearers to share the pleasures and mishaps of an American tourist in the great capital.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

MANY FEATURES IN OAKLAND 1914 LINE

Wide Range of Body Designs—All Models Are Completely Equipped

The Oakland line for 1914 consists of four and six-cylinder types, designated as Models 36, 43, 48, 60 and 62, which are offered in a wide range of body designs.

Cars with both right and left hand drive are included. Models 43 and 60 have right hand drive and 36, 48 and 62 left side drive and center control. The stream line body is a feature of several of the models, a rounded hood tapering and sloping to the German silver "V" shaped radiator.

All of the models are equipped with the Delco starting, lighting and ignition system. The improved equipment of the six volt type is used.

Model 62 is a five-passenger, six-cylinder car with 138-inch wheel base and 5 1-4x5 1-4-inch cylinders, cast in pairs. This car follows the stream line body design and is finished in dark blue with heavy gold striping.

Several bodies are fitted on the six-cylinder Model 60 chassis—a five and seven passenger touring car and a two passenger speedster.

The touring cars are finished in blue and the speedster in a bright canary yellow.

The Oakland Light-Six is called Model 6-48, and is fitted with several types of bodies. All of the body designs are of the stream line type, very similar to that of Model 62, in that the cowl and hood slope and form an unbroken line. The touring car is five passenger and is finished in blue, and there are also speedster and roadster types, both two passenger. The roadster is finished in blue or gray, while the speedster has a very novel appearance in its black and white finish.

Model 43 is a four-cylinder car of the same body design as Model 60. Characteristic of these two cars is the aluminum steps between which is placed the tool box. Model 43 touring car is finished in both blue and gray and upon this chassis is also built a closed car, the four-passenger Sedan. Several unique features of body construction are found in this car, which is finished in blue and upholstered in whipcord or leather.

The remaining four-cylinder car, Model 36, has a stream line body of a slightly different construction. It is of five-passenger type, finished in blue or gray. The two-passenger Roadster of the same model is likewise finished in blue and gray with black running gear.

The Oakland Cabriolet is also built upon this chassis. This is a two-in-one body and may be changed instantly from a closed car to a roadster.

All of the models are completely equipped, one of the features being the new style tire irons. The newest type crowned fenders are also used on several of the cars. Many mechanical features are incorporated.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

ADMINISTRATRIX NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administratrix of the estate of Edmund Griffiths, late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, deceased, intestate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to Ann Griffiths, Admx.

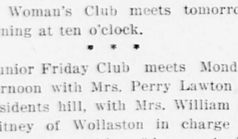
(Address)
304 Granite Street,
Quincy, March 11th, 1914
March 11-3t 11-18-25



A bread of superlative excellence, carefully baked and wrapped in waxed tissue for your protection.
ASK YOUR GROCER

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

Pi Eta Society Play

Applications for tickets to "A BUG IN A RUG" to be given by the PI ETA SOCIETY under the auspices of the QUINCY TENNIS CLUB, on Friday, March twenty-seventh, will be received by James H. Slade, Treas., 17 Edgemere Road, Quincy.

As the tickets will be distributed in the order of application, you will recognize the importance of applying early. Tickets are $1.00 each and are reserved.

Executive Committee
Quincy Tennis Club
March 7-6t

CARPETS
Oriental Domestic RUGS
LINOLEUM
MATTINGS
AT LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES
John H. Pray & Sons Co.
646 Washington Street, Opp. Boylston Street
All Goods will be Delivered Free at Residences in Quincy
REPRESENTED IN QUINCY BY
Messrs. OTHO A. HAYWARD and WALTER J. WELLINGTON.

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity.

Thursday generally unsettled, with probably rain or snow.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	6.02
Sun sets	5.47
Length of day	11.45
Moon sets	6.45
High water, A. M.	11.30
High water, P. M.	11.45
Days increase 2 hours, 39 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	40 degrees
Mar. 11 1913,	40 degrees
Mar. 11, 1912,	40 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

CLERKS DEFEAT THE CARRIERS

The Clerks of the Quincy post office beat the Carriers at the City SqSuare alleys Tuesday night, 4 to 0. Joyce made high single 102 and took the high total with 267.

P. O. CLERKS.

Joyce	82	83	102	267
Barron	98	99	77	274
Sullivan	89	91	33	263
Clark	73	83	82	238
Mitchell	87	82	82	251
	429	438	426	1293

CARRIERS.

Downey	80	82	83	245
Cunniff	89	77	60	226
Cain	87	78	89	254
Connors	92	79	81	232
Hammond	90	90	99	258
	417	406	412	1235

HULL DRAFTSMEN WIN.

The Hull Draftsmen beat the Ex-Apprentices in a postponed Fore River league match on the Coliseum alleys Tuesday night, 4 to 0.

HULL DRAFTSMEN.

Fromme	85	85	86	256
Duncan	83	82	81	246
Sullivan	71	88	100	259
Ryan	83	86	88	257
Westland	103	94	85	282
	425	435	440	1300

EX-APPRENTICES.

Ash	93	68	84	245
Farquhar	66	73	73	212
Madden	80	65	76	221
Manning	85	85	81	251
Clark	81	93	74	248
	405	384	388	1177

Call Quincy 501--W

If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN. upholsterer, 1060 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School

Mar. 4 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

MY SLOGAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.

Will you help me do this?

F. W. BENT, 1052 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

WON TWO FROM CUNNINGHAM

Best Game of Season at the Quincy Y. M. C. A.

After five minutes of overtime Tuesday evening the Y. M. C. A. first team defeated the Cunningham gym team by the score of 24 to 22; Trask throwing a dandy goal from the middle of the floor. The game was the best barring none seen on the local floor this year and it will be long time before such fine passing, blocking and all-around team work is seen again.

The score see-sawed back and forth throughout the entire game and when the Cunningham boys tied the score at 22 all the gallery of rooters nearly went wild. The first half ended 14 to 1 in Quincy's favor, but the visitors were after blood in the last period, and quickly tied up the game; Quincy at one time in the last half had a lead of 6 points but the fine work of S. Duggan and D. Reid at caging the ball soon equalled the score at 16 each.

The expected battle between Syd Duggan and Henry Trask, the two centers was full of excitement throughout the entire game, and it was only Trasks sensational basket at the end of the contest that gave him the edge on his opponent. Price for Quincy was high score man making 6 goals from the floor; while Duggan excelled for the visitors. The work of Kenn was exceptionally good in the last half although J. Reid "lost" him several times in the first period.

QUINCY	CUNNINGHAM
Price, rf	lb, Maguire
Flanders, lf	rb, Carder
Rich, lf
Trask, c	c, S. Duggan
Kenn, rb	lf, J. Reid
Johnson lb	rf, D. Reid
Flanders, lb

Score—Quincy, 24; Cunningham, 22 Goals from floor—Price 6, Trask 4, Flanders 1, Johnson 1, Duggan 4, J. Reid 3, D Reid 3. Goals from fouls—Duggan 1, J. Reid 1. Referee—LaRose. Scorer—E. Jenkins. Timer—French. Time—20 min. halves. Attendance 200.

The second team had one of their easiest games of the season, although the Cunningham team was expected to put up a good fight for the honors. Quincy scored 20 points in the first half and 26 in the last, running up a total of 46 points to the visitors 10. In the last half Cunningham scored but one goal from the floor, but scored twice on foul shots. Thomas Robertson and Capt. Miller did the scoring for the locals, Robertson's work being of a very high order, he getting 8 goals in the last half. Shirley and Croucher the backs let their men down with one goal each

QUINCY	CUNNINGHAM, 2d
Bishop, rf	lb, J. Duggan
A. Robertson, rf	lb, Hyslop
Thomas, lf	rb, Gustafson
	rb, Lindvall
Miller, c	c, H. Robertson
Shirley, rb	lf, B. Duggan
	lf, S. Hern
Croucher, lb	rf, Mc Andrew

Score—Quincy, 2d, 46; Cunningham 2d, 10. Goals from floor—A. Robertson, 9, Miller, 7; Thomas, 5; Croucher, Bishop, J. Duggan, H. Robertson, B. Duggan, S. Hern,1 Goals from fouls—McAndrew 2.

ST. MARY'S WIN.

St. Mary's beat the Franco Americans in a West Quincy league match on St. Mary's alleys Tesuday night. Lan Donovan was high with 290.

ST. MARYS.

L. Donovan	82	117	91	290
W. McDonald	85	91	98	274
G. Reinhalter	91	92	94	277
R. Elcock	93	79	93	265
F. McPherson	100	93	93	286
	451	472	469	1392

FRANCO AMERICAN.

J. Morrissette	90	81	71	242
E. Lorando	87	96	80	263
John Brunett	90	68	93	251
A. Hamel	101	79	78	258
Jos. Brunett	118	87	84	289
	486	411	406	1303

David Kennedy of South Walnut street has returned from Wilmington, Del.

☞PRATT'S BREAD is liked by the most discriminating people. Grocers sell it.

Only One "BROMO QUININE"

To get the genuine call for full name, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for signature of E. W. GROVE. Cures a Cold in One Day. 25c

MICHAEL TEAM SCORES 1400

Three Matches in Clan MacGregor Bowling League

The Clan MacGregor league teams rolled on the Coliseum alleys Tuesday night. The Michaels beat the Thomsons 3 to 1.

MICHAELS.

Nicol	109	93	89	291
Craig	78	98	87	263
A. Michael	90	83	109	282
J. Michael	99	91	90	280
Morton	86	91	107	284
	462	456	482	1400

THOMSON.

Troupe	100	91	81	272
Thomsons	93	83	86	262
Hastings	97	103	86	286
Mavers	83	92	88	263
Birnie	83	94	77	254
	456	463	418	1337

The McLanes beat the McKenzies 3 to 1.

McLEAN.

Patterson	88	84	104	276
E. Niccol	91	77	85	253
Marnock	80	90	94	264
Oswald	110	79	91	280
McLean	110	85	92	287
	479	415	466	1360

McKENZIE.

Gordon	85	79	84	248
Smith	88	86	84	258
McKenzie	85	84	96	265
Mitchell	106	83	92	281
Drummond	96	110	97	303
	460	442	453	1355

The Mavers and the O'Neils divided the points. Dunbar of the Mavers had high single 114.

MAVERS.

Troupe	17	80	91	278
Michael	82	83	81	246
Mavers	83	93	91	267
Martin	91	90	99	280
Dunbar	82	114	67	263
	445	460	429	1334

O'NEIL.

D. Dackers	86	86	97	269
Raleigh	80	110	103	293
Hughes	78	83	80	241
O'Neil	83	86	81	250
P. Dackers	73	98	97	268
	400	463	458	1321

GOOD RECORD

(Continued from Page One.)

en out; was in fine condition and played his man to a standstill. He started the passing toward the Quincy goal which took Quincy out of the danger zone. Martin did good work in the few minutes he played and blocked one throw which looked as though it had started for the tying points.

Bartlett played the best game for the visitors, his seven baskets being thrown from all kinds of angles. Winthrop passed better than Quincy but was unable to penetrate the Quincy defense of Hamlin and Crocker, assisted by White.

The summary:

QUINCY	WINTHROP
Bates rf	lb Tonry
Jenkins lf	rb Edwards
White c	c King
Hamlin rb	lf Flint
Crocker lb	rf Bartlett
Martin lb

Quincy 26, Winthrop 23. Goals from floor, Jenkins 5, Bates 3, Hamlin 2, Flint, Bartlett, Edwards, Tonry. Goals from fouls, Bates 4, *Tonry 3, Referee, Coady. Scorer, Mansur. Timer, Roache. Time 15 and two 10 minute periods. Attendance 350.

*Counted for Quincy.

Quincy second won from Winthrop second in an exciting game. The score was 7 to 6 at the end of the first half and the final was 13 to 11. "Pa" Roache at centre scored seven points, two goals and three on free tries. Welsford went in place of "Whet" Brown in the second period and tossed two fouls. The basket which carried with it the winning points was thrown by Jimmie Matheson. The team was given a lively cheer when the whistle blew.

QUINCY	WINTHROP
Matheson rf	lb Donovan
Brown lf	rb Harber
Welsford lf
Roache c	c Falcott
Mullin rb	lf Fielding
Cummings rb
Crosscup lb	rf Bond

Quincy 2d 13, Winthrop 2d --. Goals from floor, Brown, Matheson, Roache, Fielding, Harber.Goals from fouls, Talcott 2, Roache 3.

WOMAN WIELDS MEAT CHOPPER

Slashes Valuable Painting In National Art Gallery

"VENUS" IS BADLY MUTILATED

Work of Art Valued at $200,000 Attacked by Miss Richardson to "Avenge" Arrest of Mrs. Pankhurst —Latter Is Secretly Removed From Glasgow to London Jail

London, March 11.—In retaliation for the rearrest of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, Mary Richardson, one of the most active of the militant suffragettes, mutilated Valesquez's $200,000 painting of Venus in the national gallery.

With a meat chopper with a five-inch blade the woman slashed the canvas six times. Officials of the gallery, which was immediately closed to the public, said they believed the damage could be repaired. The painting was recently purchased by popular subscription.

"I tried to destroy the picture of the most beautiful woman in mythology as a protest against the government destroying Mrs. Pankhurst, the most beautiful character in modern history," Mary Richardson said when she was arrested. She was held for trial.

Mary Richardson had been sentenced to several terms of imprisonment since the beginning of the woman's suffrage militant movement.

The police magistrate committed Miss Richardson for trial at the sessions and refused to grant bail when she was charged at Bow street police court with damaging the "Venus."

Hawes H. Turner, secretary and keeper of the national gallery, when giving evidence, expressed the opinion that the selling price of the picture had been depreciated by the outrage by as much as $50,000 to $75,000.

Bands of determined militant suffragettes waited at all the railway stations in Glasgow in readiness to fight for the rescue of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst.

The militant leader, however, who was arrested under dramatic circumstances while speaking in St. Andrew's hall, was removed from the station early in the morning in order to avoid the attentions of her supporters, and was hurried on board an express train for London.

Mrs. Pankhurst once more is a hunger-striking prisoner in Holloway jail, but she is confident she will secure her release in a few days under the "cat and mouse" law.

By stopping the Scotch express, on which Mrs. Pankhurst was brought from Glasgow, and compelling the militant leader to alight at a small way-station outside of London, the police succeeded in eluding swarms of militant suffragettes who were awaiting her arrival in the city railroad stations.

From the suburban station, Mrs. Pankhurst was driven to Holloway jail. A large crowd of suffragettes was assembled about the jail, but as there was a strong detachment of police there no attempt was made to rescue the militant leader.

TO CURE INSANITY

Two Patients Supplied With Glands From Dead Persons

Chicago, March 11.—Operations on two insane persons suffering from dementia precox, in which glands from dead persons were transplanted to the patient, took place at the Dunning state hospital for the insane.

The operations were performed by Dr. Lydston, assisted by Dr. Leininger, superintendent of the hospital. The patients were a girl 17 years old, who has been suffering for two years, and a woman, 26 years old, who has been insane for five years.

The Dunning operations followed an announcement last week by Lydston that he had performed a similar operation on himself and also on a woman 56 years old.

BEATEN TO DEATH

Killing of Non-Union Miner Results In Sixteen Military Arrests

Trinidad, Col., March 11.—Sixteen strikers are under military arrest in connection with the alleged murder of Neil Smith, a Forbes non-union miner, whose mutilated body was found on the railroad tracks eight miles north of here.

Smith, it is believed, was beaten to death with a club and then thrown on the tracks.

Imitates Opium Smoker In Court

New York, March 11.—Miss Belle Baron "hit the pipe" as a witness in the federal court, imitating the manner of lighting an opium pill, its inhalation and the dreamy look of the devotee.

Death of Pearl Eytinge

New York, March 11.—Pearl Eytinge, the "toast of the town" in the early '90s, who caused New York to gasp by her daring costume and acting in "The Clemenceau Case," is dead.

Army Aviator Killed

London, March 11.—Captain Cyril Downer of the army aviation corps was killed while flying at Salisbury Plain. His aeroplane turned turtle.

BY SUBSTANTIAL MAJORITY

Ray State Senate on Record In Favor of Votes For Women

Boston, March 11.—For the first time in the history of the state, the Massachusetts senate went on record in favor of amending the constitution so as to grant the right of suffrage to women.

The declaration of the upper branch of the state legislature was most emphatic, only three of the forty members being recorded in the negative.

With one member of the senate absent, the vote was 34 to 2, with two other members recorded on a pair. President Coolidge, following the custom of not voting except to cast a deciding vote, was not recorded.

The three who voted in the negative were Senators Doyle of New Bedford, O'Rourke of Worcester and Wells of Haverhill. Doyle and Wells are Republicans and O'Rourke is a Democrat.

NEW YORK'S BRIEF FILED

Questions Power of District Court to Grant Bail to Thaw

Concord, N. H., March 11.—Counsel for the state of New York in the case of Harry K. Thaw filed in the United States district court in this city their supplementary brief ordered at the hearing here a fortnight ago.

In this brief the principal questions discussed are the matter of admitting Thaw to bail and whether or not the proper mode of procedure has been adopted for returning Thaw to New York.

Counsel argue as to the matter of bail, that there being doubt as to the power of this court to grant bail, and as to the advisability of its doing so if it has power, the course suggested by the court of remitting the question to the supreme court or a justice thereof is the proper one.

ALASKA RAILROAD BILL IS APPROVED

Disposed of by Congress and Now Ready For President

Washington, March 11.—The Alaska railroad bill, providing for the construction of a thousand miles of government railroad and the expenditure of $35,000,000, was ready for the president's signature when the senate adopted the conference report already adopted by the house.

Final action on the bill in congress came after a long debate in the senate, the report of the conference committee appointed to settle differences between the two houses being adopted by a vote of 42 to 27.

The measure authorizes the construction of not more than 1000 miles of railroad to connect Alaska's coal fields with the coast, the route to be selected by the president, to whom are left also many other important details.

CLEARING BURIAL VAULTS

About 375 Bodies to Be Removed From Boston Cathedral

Boston, March 11.—About 375 bodies under St. Paul's cathedral, Tremont street, must be claimed and removed by relatives between now and March 20, or they will be reinterred by the Cathedral chapter in some cemetery.

Since the notice was issued Jan. 29 that all bodies in the tombs under the old edifice must be removed within sixty days little has been done toward complying with the request because of the bad weather. Of the 400 bodies only twenty-five have been claimed by heirs and taken away.

MILLIONAIRE AT ROCKPILE

Auto Speed Maniac Expected to Get Let Off With Fine

Portland, Ore., March 11.—Five days at hard labor on the city rockpile was the sentence for speeding given to N. C. Barker, millionaire clubman, by Judge Stevenson in the municipal court here.

Expecting to be let off with a fine, Barker pleaded guilty to speeding with his automobile fifty miles an hour within the city limits.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Senator Saulsbury of Delaware was appointed to the place on the senate committee on foreign relations left vacant by the death of Senator Bacon of Georgia.

A second case of bubonic plague in Havana has been reported to Surgeon General Blue of the public health service.

Alice Lyman, 16, fell four stories from a freight elevator down the shaft to the basement in a building at Boston and was instantly killed.

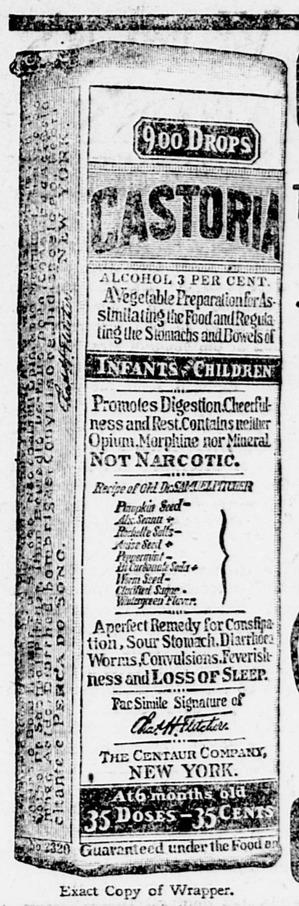
Daniel Doherty, 60 years old, was found dead in the hallway of a Boston lodging house. Death was due to a fractured skull, caused by a fall.

Minnie Scott, aged 12, of Amityville, N. Y., coughed up a pearl clasp pin she had swallowed in November. One pearl was missing.

Mary Goddard celebrated her 104th birthday by holding a special Quaker service for sixteen members of the friends church at Brunswick, Me.

A remarkable improvement in the health of the czarevitch is reported.

Kenneth Whitehorn and Charles Anderson were killed by a snowslide while hunting sheep near Chisana City, Yukon.



Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over Thirty Years
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

In effect Nov. 16, 1913

The letters in the same line as the figures below stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows.

a Wollaston	f Harrison Square
b Norfolk Downs	g Savin Hill
c Atlantic	h Ocean Avenue
d Neponset	i South Boston
e Pope's Hill	r Quincy Adams
* Saturdays Only	† Except Saturday

Exp.—Express train.

TO BOSTON			FROM BOSTON
Leave	Stop	Arrive	Leave	Stop	Arrive
r 5 14 abcdefghi		5 41	5 44 ihgfedcba		6 14 r
r 6 19 abcd		6 49	6 09 ihgfedcba		6 39 r
r 6 32 e		6 49	6 29 a		6 47
			6 47 Exp		7 04
r 6 40 abcf		7 00	7 14 hgfedcba		7 41 r
r 7 08 abcd		7 30	7 34 a		7 52
7 28 a		7 46	7 37 a		7 56
r 7 32 Exp		7 49	7 44 e		8 03 r
r 7 42 ab		8 00	8 31 cba		8 55 r
7 55 a		8 12	8 44 b		9 02
r 8 13 abc		8 32	9 00 fedba		9 32 r
8 24 a		8 41	9 44 a		10 01 r
r 8 33 a		50	10 14 ihgfedcba		10 41 r
r 8 50 ad		10	10 54 Exp		11 10
r 9 18 abc		9 39	11 14 hgfedcba		11 41 r
r 9 04 a		10 21	11 49 a		12 07
r 10 19 abcdefghi		10 46	12 14 hgfedcba		12 41 r
11 12 a		11 28	12 20 a		12 38
11 44 abcdefgh		11 50	12 50 Exp		1 06
12 04 a		12 20	1 16 fedcba		1 40 r
			* 1 32 a		1 50
r 12 27 abcdefghi		12 53	1 44 a		2 01
r 1 16 a		1 34	2 14 fedcba		2 37 r
2 04 a		2 20	2 34 Exp		2 50
r 2 19 abcdefgh		2 45	3 14 hgfedcba		3 40 r
r 3 13 Exp		3 28	3 44 a		4 02
4 04 a		4 20	4 12 fedcba		4 35 r
r 4 26 abcdefgh		4 53	4 15 a		4 32
5 12 a		5 15	4 40 c		4 58
r 5 30 abcdefg		5 55	4 55 a		5 11
6 04 a		6 21	5 13 a		5 32
6 12 ab		6 32	5 19 hgfeca		5 43
6 57 a		7 15	5 28 ba		5 46 r
r 7 22 Exp		7 39	5 40		5 57
7 29 ab		7 48	5 53 a		6 17 r
r 8 02 abcdef		8 32	6 01 iedcb		6 24
9 03 a		9 18	6 16 a		6 35
r 9 10 abc		9 29	6 30 ecba		6 52 r
* 9 17 Exp.		9 32	6 59 fedcba		7 24 r
r 10 07 abcdef		10 30	7 11 a		7 28
* 10 19 a		10 37	8 04 fedcba		8 28 r
11 13 a		11 30	* 8 19 Exp		8 35
r 11 30 abcd		11 10	9 19 a		9 37
			9 34 b		9 53 r
			10 05 ba		10 24
			10 34 fedcba		11 02 r
			*11 06 a		11 25 r
			†11 09 fedcba		11 35 r
			*11 25 ba		11 43 r
			†11 29 ba		11 49
			12 05 cba		12 26 r

SUNDAYS

r 7 48 abc	8 03	6 29 ba		6 48
8 20 Exp	8 45	8 34 cba		8 55 r
r 8 48 abcdefghi	9 13	10 39 cba		10 59 r
r 9 13 abc	9 33	12 14 ihgfedcba		12 42
9 31 a	9 47	12 44 Exp		1 01
10 25 ac	10 42	2 29 ihgfedcba		1 57 r
11 08 Exp	11 25	2 14 ngfedcba		2 42 r
r 11 16 abcdefghi	11 43	2 44 a		3 02
1 04 a	1 23	3 14 ihgfedcba		3 42 r
r 1 16 abcdefgh	1 43	4 26 cba		4 43 r
r 3 10 abc	3 30	5 14 ihgfedcba		5 47 r
r 4 16 abcdefghi	4 43	6 09 Exp		6 35
4 59 ab	5 16	6 14 ihgfedcba		6 42 r
5 06	5 23	7 02 cba		7 22 r
6 16 abcdefghi	6 43	8 14 ihgfedcba		8 41 r
7 21 Exp	7 36	8 39 a		8 56 r
7 29 abcdefghi	7 55	8 49 Exp		9 05
r 8 16 abcdefghi	8 43	9 25 ihgfedcba		9 57 r
9 46 a	10 04	10 44 cba		11 04 r
0 16 abc	11 05

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 6, 1914.

(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.35 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.38 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 9.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.30 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.25, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.15, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 6.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.25 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Wollaston—6.00, 6.35, 7.03 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.03 P. M. then 11.50, 12.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.03 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.25 P. M. then 11.42 P. M. and 12.12 midnight. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.20, 6.00, 6.30, 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sundays 7.45 A. M. then same as week days

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 12.00 P. M.

THOMAS GARNER, Superintendent.

ST. PATRICK DID IT

A Story Which Culminates on St. Patrick's Day

By TERENCE M'KEON

Little Mike Malone and Kathleen Rafferty were near neighbors in Limerick county, Ireland. Mike's father owned a few acres of ground, on which he made a scant living, and Kathleen's father and mother rented a like area from a landlord. Mike was freckled, and Kathleen's hair was red.

When Mike came to be about eighteen and Kathleen sixteen his freckles had disappeared and Kathleen's hair, which had really never been of a fiery hue, was turning into beautiful auburn, while her complexion was of that peachy hue prevalent among the Irish people. Mike had reached a period in life when young fellows begin to think about a career. He thought aloud to Kathleen, but to no one else, pouring his different plans into her ear. He would enlist in the army; he would ship for a sailor; he would go to London and seek a position.

Kathleen did not approve of any of these plans. She might have given her consent to the last named, but she was a strong Catholic and had heard that the English people were mostly Protestants. One night she had a dream which was probably induced by thinking about these matters. She dreamed that St. Patrick had appeared to her and said:

"My daughter, you are a good girl, and Mike is a good boy. I know that you are earnest for the good of your church and for Mike. Tell him to go to America. There he will find many Irish people, and since the Irish there are nearly all Catholics he will not be diverted from the true church. And since there is plenty of work in America for strong young men like Mike to do it will depend upon himself, and himself alone, whether he makes himself comfortable. After he has made a home there he can send for you."

"YOU CAN DO THAT BEFORE YOU LEAVE THE ISLAND."

Kathleen related this dream to Mike except the part about his sending for her, which she kept to herself.

"But, Kathleen," he said, "how shall I get on without you over there? Didn't St. Patrick say anything about your going with me?"

"No, he didn't."

"Then I won't go, either."

"Would you disobey the instructions of our patron saint? Go to America, and, if you care enough for me to wish me to be near you, doubtless St. Patrick will find a way to bring us together. But maybe after you have been away from me awhile you'll forget all about me."

The last sentence was spoken with a tinge of sadness. Mike declared that if all the oceans on the face of the globe were between them he would never forget her. But he said that he could not go to America without means to pay his passage and a little money to keep him while he was getting work. Indeed, some one had told him that the government of the United States would not let him into the country unless he could satisfy it that he would be self supporting.

But Kathleen, whose faith was strong, urged him to rely on St. Patrick. The saint would not have appeared to her in a dream for the purpose of telling her how to advise Mike if he did not intend to help him. So Mike determined to go, and, not having Kathleen's simple faith, he concluded that he would have to provide the means for his going. He resolved to walk to Queenstown, where he hoped to find a berth on one of the ocean steamers going to New York.

The day he left home, after bidding goodby to his father and mother, he started on his journey, and Kathleen walked a few miles with him. When she reached her turning point she took from her pocket some gold and silver coins and handed them to Mike, telling him that she had saved them for him and wished him to take them to help him on his journey. Mike's eyes grew wet, but he refused to take the money till Kathleen said to him:

"Didn't I tell you that St. Patrick would help you?"

"But this is not St. Patrick who helps me; it is you, Kathleen."

"Not a bit of it. It's St. Patrick doing it through me. How would I have been able to get the money together if he hadn't helped me to do it?"

It was not the argument, but the faith of the girl and the knowledge that he would gain her by refusal, that induced Mike to take the money. But he resolved not to use it. He had heard that in that wonderful country one may plant a little money like an acorn and it will grow to be a great tree, and he resolved to invest the money for Kathleen and send it back to her with its accumulations. Then, after a long embrace, they parted, Mike keeping up his courage by making resolutions to work hard and save what he made, Kathleen buoyed by what St. Patrick had told her in her dream.

On reaching Queenstown Mike found that stokers were needed for the ships, for this was a very hard berth, and it was difficult to find men who would heave coal down in the hot furnace room. Fortunately for Mike, he found a chance to work his passage on one of the large liners that made the voyage across the Atlantic in a few days. On reaching New York he found no difficulty in passing the immigration commissioners since they had no objection to strong and healthy men. The only use Mike ever made of the money Kathleen had given him was to show it to the officials who examined him as evidence that he was provided with funds.

Mike had promised Kathleen that he would spend the first few years in the new country in learning a trade. So he hired himself as a helper to a carpenter, working for almost nothing for awhile, but getting advanced as he learned the work. His boss became a contractor, which threw Mike into other branches of mechanical work, and, being quick to learn, he became familiar with many of the other departments of building. The result was that after serving his apprenticeship he worked as mason, plasterer, decorator, and knew a good deal about plumbing. Six years after reaching America he began to think about setting himself up as a contractor.

Mike had come over to America when some of the great railroad systems were being reorganized. One day while working on a house owned by a wealthy gentleman Mike told him of the money Kathleen had given him and asked him how he might invest it. The gentleman told him to buy a few shares of a certain railroad stock that was selling at a very low price. Mike invested the money as advised, and five years later the stock he had bought was paying 6 per cent dividend. This made the shares Mike had bought worth eight or nine hundred dollars.

Mike wrote to Kathleen that he could now support a wife and had saved the funds to enable her to come over and marry him. He also wrote her of the fortunate investment he had made for her. Kathleen wrote back that all this good fortune had come through St. Patrick, who would never have advised Mike's going to America if he hadn't intended to help him. Kathleen received her lover's letter at the beginning of the year and prepared to leave for America in the spring. Mike sent her what money she needed for the journey and enough besides to provide her with a suitable outfit as a bride.

It was the 6th day of March when Kathleen sailed for New York. The voyage was expected to require eight days, but the weather proved stormy, and the vessel did not reach Ellis island, where the immigrants have to pass the commissioners of immigration, till the tenth day after sailing, and even then it was late in the afternoon when the steerage passengers were transferred to the station. Kathleen on reaching the dock was suddenly clasped in a pair of strong arms and recognized her lover.

"Why, Mike," she said, "how big and strong you are grown!"

"And how beautiful," replied Mike, "you are! Your complexion is like the rose and your hair the color of gold!"

They went together to the emigrant office, where Mike introduced Kathleen to the commissioner, stating that she would not be a burden on the government since he proposed to marry her at once.

"Very well," said the commissioner; "you can do that before you leave the island."

"Divil a bit!" Mike protested. "Do you suppose we'd be married out of a church?"

Mike persuaded the commissioner that he was in earnest and would be responsible for the new arrival. So the couple went to New York, and, Mike having spoken to a priest and stated the necessities of the case, they were married without publication of the banns. Then Mike took his bride to his home, which was much to her liking.

Kathleen had arrived on March 16, and the first day she spent in America, the first of her married life, was St. Patrick's day. She had not counted on this when she sailed and attributed it not to coincidence, but to St. Patrick, who had in a dream advised her to tell Mike to go to America. Mike had been expected to join in the procession that was to take place, but had excused himself, knowing that he would be newly married. He had provided a place for Kathleen and himself to see the paraders, and after attending early mass the pair occupied it. As the paraders passed Kathleen said to her husband:

"St. Patrick has been at the bottom of all our prosperity."

GOVERNOR COLQUITT

Type of the Texans Who Recovered Vergara's Body

Photos by American Press Association.

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON

Visible In New England Tonight If the Sky is Clear

Washington, March 11.—There will be an eclipse of the moon, almost total, tonight, visible from points, in western Europe, North and South America and western Africa.

The moon is due to enter the shadow, according to precise reckoning at 9:41.8 o'clock tonight, eastern standard time; should reach the middle of the eclipse at 11:12.9 o'clock, and leave the shadow at 12:44 a. m., tomorrow.

MELLEN DEMURRER UPHELD BY COURT

Insufficiency of Information Plea Is Successful

Bridgeport, Conn., March 11.—Ex-President Mellen of the New Haven railroad won an important victory in his fight to escape trial on the charge of manslaughter in connection with the fatal wreck at Westport.

Judge Tuttle of the superior court sustained the demurrer made by Mellen's counsel to the warrant on which his arrest was ordered on the ground that the complaint contained insufficiency of information.

State Attorney Judson probably now will move to amend the warrant. If he fails, Mellen will escape trial.

The demurrer set up that the complaint did not show wherein Mellen was actually responsible for the wreck or that there was any connection between Mellen and the wreck.

ROBBERY CHARGE UNFAIR

Accused Man Who Was Shot by Policeman Is Set Free

New York, March 11.—As the result of a hearing in the Morrisania court, where Magistrate Marsh honorably discharged Lawrence A. Teasdale, who was shot by Policeman Flynn and later charged by him with attempted highway robbery, District Attorney Martin of the Bronx begun an investigation which he said may lead to the grand jury room.

Teasdale was in a saloon owned by Barney Kiernan on the night of his arrest. John Casey, a bartender employed by Kiernan, testified that when he realized the seriousness of the charge against Teasdale he decided to correct a statement he had made to Captain O'Connor, who had been instructed by Police Commissioner McKay to investigate the arrest.

CUMMINS IN SING SING

Financier Free Nearly Threee Years Since His Conviction

New York, March 11.—William J. Cummins, one-time head of the defunct Carnegie Trust company, who was convicted of the larceny of $140,000, was taken to Sing Sing prison from the Tombs to serve out a sentence of not less than four years and eight months and not more than eight years and eight months.

By reason of appeals and other moves counsel for Cummins had kept him out of state prison for nearly 900 days after his conviction. It is said he will now appeal to Governor Glynn for a pardon on the ground that he rendered assistance to the state in the hearings regarding the trust company.

Impeachment Charges Fail

Washington, March 11.—Charges brought by W. H. Cooper, a broker, against Justice Wright of the district supreme court, asking impeachment, were dismissed by the house judiciary committee.

Bill to Save Birds Advanced

London, March 11.—A bill prohibiting the importation of the plumage of wild birds and "bits of birds" into Great Britain passed its second reading in the house of commons.

Chicago Alderman Held Up

Chicago, March 11.—Alderman Charles Twigg was "strongarmed" and relieved of $19, a diamond stickpin and his watch.

"SOLDIERS" ARE DEJECTED

Less Than a Thousand Men Left In "Army of Unemployed"

Sacramento, Cal., March 11.—Beaten and badly disorganized, its leaders in Sacramento jails, and provided with scanty food and shelter, the "unemployed army" driven from Sacramento is encamped across the river in Yolo county, a dejected lot of men.

With no spokesmen and no leaders, the "army" has put aside temporarily its projected trip to Washington, and turned its attention to the graver subject of subsistence.

The city and county government have sent enough money to provide two meals. Yolo county, which paid the army's transportation from Davis to Sacramento, as yet has taken no action to further disperse the men.

Less than 1000 are camped across the river out of the 1700 men who originally camped on the Southern Pacific company land here. The others have deserted.

FURTHER COMPLICATIONS

Offer to Depositors In Failed Siegel Bank Is Withdrawn

New York, March 11.—The Depositors' Realization corporation, which was organized after the failure of Henry Siegel & Co., bankers, to take over the assets and liabilities of of the bank in the interests of depositors, announced through its attorney that the offer it had made the depositors had been withdrawn.

The opposition of some of the depositors is given as cause for the step, as is also the pendency of legal proceedings against Henry Siegel and his partner, Frank E. Vogel.

Most of the depositors of the bank are small wage earners. The Depositors' Realization corporation was formed by relatives and friends of Siegel and Vogel.

MADE A FORTUNE IN LIQUOR TRADE

But Friday Bars Liquor and Idleness In His Will

Pittsburg, March 11.—Although he made his fortune of considerably over $500,000 in the wholesale liquor business, Jacob Friday, who died April 13, 1913, inserted in his will this clause:

"It is my will that no idle, intemperate, wayward or vicious child shall become a beneciary. I also stipulate that any beneficiary who directly or indirectly engages in the liquor business shall forfeit all rights and claims in my estate."

The will is being contested on the ground that Friday did not have testamentary capacity at the time the document was made.

GOOD MAYOR OF CAMBRIDGE

University City Again Goes No License by a Majority of 1851

Cambridge, Mass., March 11.—No-license was victorious in the Cambridge municipal election by 1851. City Treasurer Timothy W. Good, Democrat, was elected mayor in a three-cornered contest with Wendell D. Rockwood, Citizens' candidate, and Arthur Blanchard, Progressive.

In the school committee contest the Democrats gained one school committeeman and the Citizens lost one.

The vote on license: Yes, 5006; no, 6857; majority for no-license, 1851.

The vote for mayor was: Good, 7207; Rockwood, 3886; Blanchard, 927; plurality for Good, 3421.

TANNENBAUM INDICTED

Misdemeanor Charge Against Head of "Church Raiders"

New York, March 11.—Frank Tannenbaum, leader of the I. W. W. "church raiders," was indicted by the grand jury here on a misdemeanor charge as a result of the storming of St. Alphonsus' church on the night of March 4.

It was expected that a more serious charge would be returned against Tannenbaum, as efforts had been made to show him guilty of felony, inciting to riot. Tannenbaum will be arraigned later.

NO LACK OF CANDIDATES

Seventeen After Congressional Seat Vacated by Curley

Boston, March 11.—Fifteen Democrats, one Republican and one Progressive are the candidates for congress in the Twelfth congressional district, vacated by Mayor James M. Curley.

The time for filing nomination papers expired at 5 o'clock last night and the papers on record disclosed the lineup. James B. Connolly, the Progressive candidate, filed papers for nominations in the other two parties.

POST UNDER THE KNIFE

Condition of Millionaire Manufacturer Said to Be Favorable

Rochester, Minn., March 11.—C. W. Post, millionaire manufacturer of Battle Creek, Mich., who was rushed to this city aboard a special train from Los Angeles, Cal., for surgical treatment, submitted to a major operation.

Although no official report was issued as to his condition it was understood it was considered favorable.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS — CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING — WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—Single house 6 rooms, improvements. 492 South street. Apply 96 Arnold street. 10-3t

TO LET—Two well furnished front rooms in good location. Only one minute walk from station and city square. Apply to Mrs. Johnson, 14 Upland road. 9-3t

TO LET—6 room tenement, improvements. Apply 74 Arnold street, evenings. 9-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms for light housekeeping also single rooms. Apply at 44 Massachusetts avenue. 9-6t

TO LET—In private family to refined people, two very fine corner rooms, newly furnished, with separate baths. Near centre. Write L. B. K. Ledger Office. 9-6t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

UPPER APARTMENT. In two-family house on Spear Street. Five rooms, bath, large pantry and closets also open attic with finished heated chamber. Every improvement, electric light, furnace, range etc. Ready for immediate occupancy. Telephone Quincy 278 M or enquire mornings of Miss Prescott at the Ledger Office. 1po

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate — Insurance
Auctioneer — Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 3, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC — JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-1 / Office 338-M

TO LET
Large Front Office Greenleaf Block—2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.
Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.
Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.
Hancock Building—City Square
Offices—small front office, $12 a month
Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.
City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.
Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)
Offices—Large or small.
Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.
Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.
Furnished Rooms—With care steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week

HALLS
Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.
New Colonial Hall—Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 242—the best possible location for a Hall.
Dancock Hall—Hancock Building City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Kriss.)
Greenleaf Block, 'Phone 21065 Quincy

Read Ledger Advs.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ....

TO LET

TO LET—Flat of 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-6t

TO LET—At North Weymouth, flat of 5 rooms, some improvements, near salt water and good place to keep hens. Rent reasonable to small family. Few minutes to trains to Boston. Apply at 445 Washington street, Quincy. 11-6t

TO LET—Upper tenement of five rooms and bath at 109 Franklin street. Apply to Harry W. Tirrell. Telephone Quincy 432-M. 10-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, seven rooms and bath, all modern improvements. Apply P. J. Williams, 19 Independence Ave. Tel. Quincy 369. 5-6t

TO LET—173 Whitwell street, half house, modern conveniences, $20 per month. Ready for immediate occupancy. Apply Penniman's Stable, Granite street. 19-tf

RUSSELL PARK — Commodious house of seven rooms, large hall and bath. Modern, every convenience open fireplace, furnace, range, set tubs, electric lights, cemented cellar, etc. Best residential neighborhood Ready for immediate occupancy. For further details or key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office. tf lpo

FOR SALE

AIR COMPRESSORS — We are specializing on Air Compressors, all makes, types, and sizes. Ask us for prices. Geo. S. Githens, 200 Congress Street, Boston. Feb. 11-Wed. tf

FOR SALE—22 ft. motor boat, 5 h. p. 2 cylinder engine. One year old. Price reasonable. A. D. Thompson, 47 Main street. 7-6t

FOR SALE—Three good work horses. Apply to John J. Gallagher, 230 Water street, Quincy Adams. 7-6t

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.
SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

WOOD! WOOD! WOOD!
BY THE CORD
OR SAWED AND SPLIT
ENGLISH, BEDDING AND SALT HAY
R. ALLEN GAGE
36 River St., Braintree
Telephone 138-M for prices. Jan 21 tf W&S

LOST

LOST—Friday afternoon, on Quincy Point car, pocketbook containing money and tickets. Finder please return to 30 Park avenue, South Weymouth. Reward. 9-3t

WANTED

WANTED—25 girls to be managers for agents $25 per week. Excellent chance for advancement. Fred Sharboro, P. O. Box 94, Nashua, N. H. 10-3t

WANTED—In first class family of two adults where there are three other maids kept a good cook; best of wages. L. M. Flynn, 1535 Hancock street, Oldest Employment Office in City. Phone 2235-W. 10-3t

WANTED—A small shed or building, about 16x20, suitable to be made into a garage. Will move from premises. State lowest price. Address M. M. Ledger office. 5-6t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York, N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

AGENTS LOOK—$5 to $10 per day handling fancy goods which are fully guaranteed. Send 10c coin for sample and particulars. Miss Lucy Moran, 18 Linden street, Nashua, N. H. 10-3t

BOSTON GLOBE— Picture Game Answers. Our best answers to entire set of 77 pictures, now ready. Price 50 cents. Coin, stamps or money order. The White Company, Melrose, Highlands, Lock Box Q. 10-6t

FASHIONABLE DRESSMAKING—Done with neatness and dispatch. Special attention given to evening gowns. Mrs. W. H. Russell, 392 Hancock street, Norfolk Downs. Telephone Quincy 493-W. 9-6t

$20.00 REWARD will be paid for the arrest and conviction of party or parties who broke into and set fire to our Engine House on Feb. 26th and 27th 1914. Bay View Quarry Company. 28-tf

JUST LOOK HERE
Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $45.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

QUINCY REGISTRY
FOR NURSES
28 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar, Tel. Quincy 131-W.

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c

THURS., FRI., SAT.
Program Subject to Change

MARY HIXON CO.
In the beautiful Scenic playlet
"ERIN'S ISLE"

LAMONT & MILHAN
Scenic Musical Novelty Duo

ELMIND EDDY
The Man on the Bounding Rope

KENNEY & HOLLIS
Two Comical Gentlemen

Eclair 2-Reel Feature
DEVIL FOX OF THE NORTH
A thrilling Drama of the North Woods

"A NARROW ESCAPE"
Joker Comedy

"AN OLD LOCKET"
A Delightful Drama

LOTS OF GOOD MUSIC

Mar. 11-3t

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Mrs. Nixon W. Elmer wishes to announce that her pianoforte class now being full she will be unable to take any additional pupils this season.

11--t

Too Late For Classification

WANTED—A maid would like a position for general work in small family, experienced Cook. Apply 45 Chestnut street, Quincy. 11-3t

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS—Take notice. We are selling all steel portable Automobile garages, camps and storehouses ready to put up. Prompt shipment. Send for quotations, M. W. Tilton, Box 362 Brockton. 11-6t

TO LET—218 Franklin street, second floor tenement of 5 rooms and bath Coal and gas range, all modern improvements. Fine location. Apply 220 Franklin street. 11-tf

WANTED—Girl to help in adult family of two. May go to own home every night. Good wages, work light and surroundings pleasant. 12 Elm Place, Quincy. Lower floor. 11-3t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

DEATHS

MARTIN—In Quincy, March 10, Edward J. Martin, beloved husband of Catherine Martin, aged 50 years.
Funeral from his late residence at 62 Rodman street, Thursday, March 12, at 8.30 A. M. High mass of requiem at St. John's church at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends respectfully invited to attend.

WHALL—In Quincy, March 10, Miss Mary E. Whall of 67 North Central avenue.
Funeral private.

McDONALD—In Quincy, March 10, Mary L., beloved daughter of Thomas and Ellen McDonald, aged 32 years.
Funeral from her late residence, 12 Deldorf street, Thursday, March 12, at 9.15 A. M. High mass of requiem at St. John's church at 10 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited to attend.

SAMPSON—In Braintree, March 9, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth, wife of Josephus Sampson of 27 Sampson place.

WILLIAMSON—In Weymouth, March 10, Mrs. Alice M., wife of Charles T. Williamson of 61 Broad street.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street. Quincy, Mass

YOU should not place your orders for any
MEMORIAL WORK
Without Consulting
AVARD L. WALKER
MORTUARY ARCHITECT
3636 WASHINGTON STREET
FOREST HILLS, BOSTON, MASS.
Tel. Quincy 282 W
March 4-3mos-w-s

BARNICOAT ELECTED

Had a Big Majority over Robert T. Foye

The special election in Ward Three in Tuesday resulted in the election of Charles F. Barnicoat, as councilman from that ward, to fill the vacancy caused by the ineligibility of Alexander Cowe, who was elected at themunicipal election in December, to serve.

The vote was not a heavy one, the grand total of the two precincts being 364. Of this number, Charles F. Barnicoat received 251 and Robert T. Foye, 113.

The polls closed at 4 o'clock and it was not long after before the official returns were received at City Hall. The vote of each candidate by precincts was as follows. It might also be noted that no blanks were cast.

	Pre. 1	Pre. 2	Total
Barnicoat	169	82	251
Foye	60	53	113

Charles F. Barnicoat, the councilman-elect from Ward Three is a young man, well known in the South Quincy district. He is a son of Fred Barnicoat, the well known granite sculptor and since completing his education has been connected with his father in the granite business. He is interested in municipal affairs and has been a close student of city affairs for several years although this is the first time he has ever entered the political arena.

He will be notified to apear at the Council meeting next Monday night when he will be sworn in by City Clerk Crane. He will then be assigned to seat 13, the only vacant seat but as he is not superstitious the number will be no bugaboo to him. He will be assigned to serve on the standing committees of Sewers and Water Supply, also Ordinances, Licenses, etc.

EDWARD J. MARTIN

Edward J. Martin died at his home at 62 Rodman street, Tuesday afternoon, after a long illness. He was in his 50th year and was well known in this city. Mr. Martin was a quarryman by trade.

His funeral which will take place from his home Thursday morning will be attended by a delegation from Div. 5, A. O. H., of which he was a member. A high mass of requiem will be celebrated at St. Johns church and burial will be in Dedham .

He leaves his wife, Catherine and six sons, Edward, Joseph, John George, Lawrence and Alfred.

Any one interested in the welfare of their shade or fruit trees and would like them looked over and cared for may receive the attention of expert men by applying to Mrs. John D. Mackay of the tree department of the Quincy Women's Club.

Government Markers

Friends of deceased veterans of the Civil War, wishing government markers, fort their graves, will confer a favor upon Post No. 88 G. A. R. by sending their name, Company, and Regiment, at once, to Francis P. Loud, Q. M., Quincy, Mass. 9-6t

SCIENTIFIC FORESTRY

To Woodland, orchard and shade tree owners of Quincy:

The Massachusetts Forestry Association is bringing scientific forestry to the people of the State. Our field secretary, Mr. W. L. Hamel is in your city for the purpose of arousing interest in this important subject. He is a trained forester and will be glad to give you any advice or information concerning your shade-trees orchards or woodlands free of charge. All you need to do is to write a postcard to him addressed care of Mrs. J. D. Mackay, 75 Greenleaf street, and he will call to see you.

The advice he gives will be gratis but if you think it will be of advantage to you to have your trees pruned or cemented or your woodlot thinned, we recommend that Mr. Hamel do the work because of his training and experience. You can arrange with him as to the cost of doing the work and will not be under obligations to hire him, because of the advice he gives you which is free. The object of the Association is to protect the trees and this has proved the most efficient way of doing it.

Massachusetts Forestry Association.

21—S&W-tf

TREE-PLANTING CONTEST

The Massachusetts Forestry Association in offering substantial prize of one mile of street planted to shade trees, or its equivalent of two hundred trees, does not do so with the feeling that the prize itself will be the chief incentive in reviving shade-tree planting in this State. The object itself is worthy the attention of all the towns and cities in Massachusetts. Many towns have not planted shade trees for years. Arbor Day has failed of late to create the desired effect, and the results have been very unsatisfactory. Our fathers and our father's fathers have left us an inheritance in the beautiful trees we now have which will not last forever. Shouldn't we do something for our children and our children's children in this respect Most of our old trees will have passed away in the next fifty years, and there should be others planted now to take their place.

There is something about working in unison which lends a spirit to the work A little feeling of rivalry sometimes helps. We know that anything done along this line is helping to better our State. The members of this Association are to be found in nearly every town of the State, and they are all helping to better forestry and shade-tree conditions.

The rules of this contest are absolutely fair to everybody concerned. Based as they are on the population, the small town is given an equal chance with the large city. To the average town this prize is well worth working for, and the satisfaction of winning is worth more than the intrinsic value of the trees.

A city or town, to enter in the contest must write to the Massachusetts Forestry Association stating its wish to compete, such letter to be signed by the official committee.

Many towns are already planning tree-planting campaigns this year. Why not enter this contest with real spirit and do just as much again as was originally planned? Why not make it a real get-together campaign? Why shouldn't all our towns enter into the friendly rivalry inspired by a State-wide contest which is for the general good of the State? Talk this matter over seriously with your neighbor—bring it before your clubs and put your town or city on record as having tried at least for the "One Mile Prize."

The rules of the contest are as follows:

At least fifty towns and cities must have entered the contest, and all must notify the Association of their intention to compete before July 1.

The prize will be awarded on the number of live trees on September 15, 1914, when the official count will be taken by the committee representing the town or city and reported to the Association within one week of that date. This provision is to eliminate trees improperly planted, and which have died from that or other cause during the summer.

The report must be signed by the chairman of Selectmen and the Tree Warden, or in the case of a city, the Mayor, and the officer in charge of the trees, or other parties especially appointed for this purpose by the Selectmen or the Mayor. These officers or such committee will constitute the official committee to represent the town or city.

The prize will be awarded by a competent committee appointed by the Association which will visit the town having the highest per cent. to check up the work, and if the planting is found unsatisfactory, the committee will have power to consider the city or town next highest in the list. The decision of this committee will be final. The trees must be of reasonable size and the work must be properly done in order to win the prize.

In case the winning town does not have a mile of street in one stretch which has not been planted to trees, the committee may plant two hundred trees in different parts of the town or city. Further, if there is not space for the whole two hundred trees or any part of them, the money which would have been spent in the planting of that number of trees may be turned into the treasury of said town or city to be used in the protection of its trees.

The committee of the Forestry Association will confer with the official committee of the town or city as to the location of the trees and the variety to be planted.

The trees will be planted this fall or not later than the following spring, the time most propitious being left to the judgment of the committee of the Forestry Association

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

PRIVATE AND CLASS LESSONS.

Cornet, 'Cello, Mandolin, Guitar, Banjo, Violin, Piano and Harmony by thorough instructors. Violin FREE, at BOSTON SCHOOL OF MUSIC, No. 8 Washington street, Quincy.
Prof. R. G. Nichols
Director
Phone, Quincy 148J. M4-W & S. 8t

SCHOOL CAR JUMPS TRACK

Squantum People Are Shaken Up and Injured

There was a narrow escape from a serious accident on the Squantum branch of the Bay State Street Railway Tuesday afternoon when the car due in Squantum at 4 o'clock jumped the tracks near the Aviation field, turned at right angles on the track and hung on the brink of a five foot embankment at the foot of which are the salt marshes of mud and water. Sixty school children on the car were thrown from their seats into a wild mass of humanity in the aisles, and several grown persons were badly shaken up. Mrs. L. B. Titus, who by the way, gave the Squantum line to the street railway company, was thrown from her seat and sustained severe injury to her right limb. She was barely able to walk from a severely lacerated knee and suffered considerably from shock.

The car was in charge of Motorman Perry and Conductor Dunn. The accident was in no way due to the car crew. For weeks the car tracks have been in such a condition that passengers from Squantum have daily expected to be dumped unceremoniously into the salt marshes on every trip. The high winter tides have partly undermined sections of the tracks and winter frosts and thaws have made the tracks a series of humps and bumps. Only a few weeks ago a car jumped the tracks and crossed the boulevard.

Beyond a severe shaking-up and some hysteria, the school children did not suffer from the accident. It was after 6 o'clock before traffic was resumed on the line and in the meantime Squantum people hiked a mile across the causeway to their homes.

BRIEFS

Eclipse of the moon tonight visible between 10 and 12.30.

There has been a good demand for tickets for the annual concert and ball of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows to be held at Quincy Music hall Thursday night.

Employees of the Beacon Laundry of Boston dined at the cafe of J. W. Dennen in City Square Tuesday night. There were 30 in the party and the trip was made in a motor truck.

Mary McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDonald of 12 Deldorf street, died Tuesday after a long illness. She was a sister of Henry McDonald of the American Bell Long Distance Telephone Co. Her funeral will be held from her home on Thursday morning.

DISTRICT COURT.

There was quite a batch of drunks in court this morning from Quincy, Patrick Madden being fined $10, Robert Kearney $15, Rudolph Stenak $15, Samuel A. Gallagher $15, Timothy Moriarty $15.

William Ferno was fined $10 for assault at Quincy

Frederick Roubotham was fined $15 for neglecting to send children to school.

John Henry was arraigned for breaking and entering at Quincy. Case continued until Saturday.

SECOND ARREST.

John Henry was arrested by Capt. McKay and Officer Farrell in a pool room in Boston for breaking and enterin gthe store of Charles Mangs on Farrell street last Saturday night. Henry whose home is on Claxton street, Dorchester is alleged to have been with Frank Anderson who was arraigned in court Tuesday for breaking into Mangs store. It is alleged that there is a third party to the break whom the police are now looking for. Henry was arraigned in court and his case continued until Saturday.

JOHN J. BURKE.

The funeral of John J. Burke, who served as a marine on the armored Cruiser Pennsylvania attached to the Asiatic station was held this morning from his home at 850 Sea street. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Johns church by Rev. Fr. Florence McCarty. The Gregorian chant was rendered by the regular choir under the direction of John Mahon, organist. Among the floral remembrances were pieces from the Brookline and Boston fire departments.

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY

QUINCY WOMAN'S CLUB

(Continued from Page Three.)

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

Mrs. Ellor Carlisle Ripley, chairman, of the education department of the State Federation, desires to call attention to a graphlet by Miss E. G. Willcox of Malden, author of "Reaching Parents Through the Schoolhouse." This is considered a remarkable presentation, concise and clear, of the education of the immigrant. "Massachusetts," says Miss Willcox, "is only beginning to realize that her people are no longer even predominantly of the old Puritan stock on which she used to pride herself. The old Bay State is now in its population one of the newest States in the Union. Two-thirds of her inhabitants are either immigrants or the children of immigrants. While the newcomers gather especially in cities, they are spreading rapidly into smaller places as well. Throughout the country districts—that is, in our 202 towns and villages of less than 2500 inhabitants—are scattered almost a hundred thousand foreigners and children of foreigners. So that the native stock even in these regions is not much over one-half of the whole population. The change, therefore, affects the entire State.

"The change is one for which we Americans of the older stock are responsible. It is we who have left the open door. In early days we called for immigrants, and even now the invitations of capital and the urgency of steamship companies are large factors in bringing them here. The situation which confronts us is one of our own creation. These new-comers are by no means, as we are often fond of asserting, the scum of the earth. Rather are they the cream of the countries from which they come. They show a sturdiness of physique and an ambition and stability of moral character which afford at least a chance that they or their children may become the cream of the United States. One of our leading statisticians indorses the statement that nearly all of them are young, healthy, industrious, honest, well-meaning people—good raw material for American citizenship. But the material is raw and only by long, patient labor can these ignorant and untrained people be fitted to share in the duties and responsibilities of a great democracy. The splendid opportunity, the imperative duty are ours.

"We speak sometimes of educating the immigrant as if it were a thing that might be done or left undone We forget that he is being educated from the moment he steps upon our shores—educated by every extortionate exploiter, every inefficient policeman, every unregarding American Shall this be his only education? To be great a nation need not be of one blood; it must be of one mind.' Almost nine-tenths of our foreign born are at least twenty years of age. Our evening schools are but slowly feeling their way toward adequate service of even the comparatively few among these adult foreigners whom they attract. What are we doing—what can we do—to make the new comers of one mind with ourselves? How aid them to learn at least enough English to feel at home in this country which is to be theirs as well as ours? How help them to understand our society our form of government, and the rights, the duties, the responsibilities of citizenship?

What are we doing—what can we do—to teach the immigrant how to preserve or how to regain his health? Education is not purely intellectual; it is a many-sided thing. Every man needs wholesome amusement and recreation. How can we press into service this universal demand? What can we do so to meet this primal need as to bring the newcomer into closer sympathy with the best American ideals?"

A study outline on the education of the immigrant has been prepared by the education department. A list of helpful books is given on the graphlet also speakers who have made a study of this subject at close range.

Copies of the graphlet may be obtained of Mrs. Ripley, 1247 Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

• • •

WAITING ROOM IN QUINCY.

What Brockton club women have accomplished should also be done by the club women of Quincy, uniting with the local Board of Trade and City Council in the work.

Mrs. J. Harry Poole, a former president of the Brockton Woman's Club and chairman of the Civics committee was the prime mover in the effort to obtain a proper waiting room for street car passengers on Main street, Brockton.

A few days ago Mrs. Poole held a conference, as the representative of the civics committee of the club, with Division Superintendent Walter B. Hall of the Brockton branch of the Bay State Railway Company, and received the assurance that in the early spring a petition will be presented to the Brockton city government asking for a location for a loop, and when this is arranged a waiting room will be established.

Quincy has no through street cars, every one has to change in City square and wait for their car. A waiting room is a necessity. Other cities have them why not Quincy?

• • •

PUBLIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

By invitation of the Woman's Afternoon Club of Abington, a sectional conference of the Public Health Department of the State Federation will be held in the Baptist church, North Abington, Friday, at 2 P. M. Program:

Mental Hygiene,—"The Relation of Immorality and Criminality to Mental Defect," Dr. Walter E. Fernald, Supt. of Mass. School for Feeble Minded, Waverly.

Public Health Nursing. "What the National Red Cross Society is doing for Rural Communities," Miss Mary Beard, Director of Instructive District Nursing Association, Boston.

Occupational Diseases. "Dangers of Poisoning in the Painting Trade," Miss Susan Holton, Occupational Worker for the Massachusetts General Hospital.

All interested club women are cordially invited to attend and take part in the discussion. Each club member is requested to leave at the door a card bearing her name and data of her club. Tea will be served by the hostess club during the social hour.

• • •

CHRIST CHURCH GUILD.

Mrs. Charles M. Chase president of the Woman's Guild of Christ church, has announced the following committees for the ensuing year:

Membership and Visiting—Mrs. Charles H. Wilson, chairman Mrs. F. W. Austin, Mrs. G. H. Brown, Mrs. C. E. Haskins, Mrs. Samuel Oxford, Mrs. George Pawsey, Miss M. M. Pollock, Mrs. A. M. Tylee, Miss E. C. Wilde.

Charitable—Miss C. F. Spear, chairman Mrs. F. Barnicoat, Mrs. Stanley Bone, Mrs. W. E. Cooper, Mrs. O. A. Hayward, Mrs. E. C. Hultman, Mrs. J. M. Nowland, Mrs. W. W. Osborne, Mrs. C. R. Sheppard.

Work—Mrs. C. L. Griswold, chairman Mrs. W. H. Deacon, Mrs. John Emery, Mrs. H. Grages, Mrs. J. Hector, Mrs. F. R. Leighton, Mrs. E. M. Luce, Mrs. B. F. Macomber, Mrs. W. McConnell.

Woman's Auxiliary—Mrs. W. H. Haslett, chairman Mrs. R. E. Armstrong, Mrs. W. Clements, Miss M. S. Hammond, Mrs. W. G. A. Pattee, Mrs. L. Sexton, Mrs. H. Sullivan, Mrs. A. W. Walker.

Vestment—Mrs. William White, chairman Mrs. E. T. Baldwin, Mrs. C. L. Derby, Mrs. E. W. Newcomb, Miss L. A. Putnam, Mrs. George Schools, Mrs. A. Spargo, Mrs. Charles Wilson.

Hospitality—Mrs. W. F. Torrey, Chairman, Mrs. L. C. Hewson, Mrs. F. de R. Higgins, Mrs. H. Lawton, Mrs. F. J. Leonard, Mrs. A. Macleod, Mrs. A. H. Sylvester, Mrs. M. S. Tuxton.

Entertainment—Mrs. N. E. Chaplin, chairman Mrs. W. E. Burke, Mrs. C. T. Hardwick, Mrs. S. C. Hardwick, Mrs. W. W. Jenness, Mrs. M. B. Turner, Mrs. A. W. Turtle.

Purchasing—Mrs. H. E. Ricker, chairman Mrs. F. F. Brewer, Mrs. C. L. Griswold.

• • •

The Associated charities continues its conferences next Wednesday, March 18, at 11 o'clock, with a talk on Home and school visitors by Miss Jessie Beck of Boston. The Philanthropic committee of the Quincy Womens club invites the Educational committee, the Visiting Nurse committee and the Parents and Teachers associations of the city and all others interested to come to the Women's club house and hear Miss Beck.

Suburban Remedy.

Mrs. Knicker—"Did your doctor prescribe for your dyspepsia?" Mrs. Bocker—"Yes, he gave me a medicine to be taken after cooks."

Plain to Observation.

Wife—"Notice that third chorus girl in the first row. She used to go to school with me. Poor thing! She went on the stage because she had nothing to wear." Husband—"So I see."—London Opinion.

Oakland
"THE CAR WITH A CONSCIENCE"

WATCH for the Oakland at the Boston Automobile Show. Cars of beauty, individuality and power. Fours and sixes in a wide range of body designs. $1150 to $2600, f. o. b. factory.

For Sale in Boston by OAKLAND MOTOR CO.
Direct Factory Branch
100 Massachusetts Ave.

MAINE POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.
Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.
Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.
18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 20-tf

Have Your Picture Taken in Our Studio
394 WATER STREET, QUINCY
Workmanship guaranteed. Special attention given to outside work. Photos taken evenings by electric light.
ortrait Enlarging. PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order
E. C. GREIFELD, Artist
Feb. 12-1m

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 60 QUINCY, MASS THURSDAY EVENING MARCH 12 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

UNIQUE EXCHANGE OF QUINCY PASTORS

Most of the Protestant Clergymen to Speak in Churches of Other Denominations

Rev. A. L. Hudson and Rev. B. A. Willmott to Exchange

Sixteen of the churches of Quincy will be addressed on Sunday morning March 22, by a local clergyman of a different denomination. Interested in this unique exchange are the pastors of our Congregational, Unitarian, Baptist, Universalist, Methodist, Presbyterian, and Mission churches, in different parts of the city.

This action is taken by vote of the Quincy Ministers' Association "as an expression of friendly feeling and good will," the following clergymen agreeing to occupy the pulpit of a sister denomination:

Rev. W. A. Ayers, (Congregationalist) at Wollaston Methodist church.

Rev. G. M. Bailey, (Baptist) at Wollaston Unitarian.

Rev. T. W. Davison, (Congregationalist) at Wollaston Baptist.

Rev. C. G. Horst, (Unitarian) at Park and Downs Congregational..

Rev. C. G. Horst, (Unitarian) at First Universalist, 3 P. M.

Rev. A. L. Hudson, (Unitarian) at Bethany Congregational.

Rev. S. C. Lang, (Congregationalist) at Hall Place Methodist.

Rev. T. C. Martin (Methodist) at Quincy Point Congregational.

Rev. J. A. Matheson (Presbyteriaa) at Wollaston Congregational.

Rev. Donald B. McLeod (Presbyterian) at Calvary Baptist

Rev. E. C. Pollard, (Methodist) at Houghs Neck Union.

Rev. W. J. Sayre (Union) at Atlantic Methodist.

Rev. I. W. Sneath Ph. D. (Congregational) at First Presbyterian.

Rev. C. C. Tilley, (Baptist) at United Presbyterian.

Rev. Joseph Walther, (Baptist) at Atlantic Memorial, Atlantic.

Rev. Merrill C. Ward, (Universalist) at Church of the Unity, Randolph, at 4 P. M.

Rev. B. A. Willmott (Congregational) at First Parish Church.

United action like this by the clergymen of the city should do much to unite the churches in a common cause, and should have good results.

Have Your Picture Taken in Our Studio

394 WATER STREET, QUINCY

Workmanship guaranteed. Special attention given to outside work. Photos taken evenings by electric light.

ortrait Enlarging. PICTURE FRAMES Made to Order

E. C. GREIFELD, Artist

Feb. 12-1m

JEWS OBSERVE FEAST OF PURIM

Services at School Street and Quincy Point

The Jewish residents of Quincy are today celebrating the Feast of Purim. The holiday was ushered in Wednesday at sundown by the reading of the "Megillah," by Rev. Julius Sandolavitz, at the Congregation Avath Achim, on School street. Services were also held early this morning. The synagogue at Quincy Point was also the scene of the celebration of the Feast.

The holiday is not one of the most important of the Jewish festivals, but the story connected with it is so beautiful that the feast is always celebrated by Jews all over the world. The story is that of the beautiful Queen Esther, wife of Ahasuerus, king of Persia, through whose efforts the slaves of the wicked Haman were destroyed and liberty was brought to the enslaved brethren of Esther, the Jews. The festival ends at sundown tonight.

SAMOSET CLUB CONCERT.

This evening the Samoset Club of Wollaston will give a select concert in Alpha Hall, Quincy. An Italian vocal trio from Boston and the Pierian Sodality Orchestra of Harvard University, 35 pieces strong, E. H. Barry, conductor, will be the contributors. The orchestra will play a mixed program of classical, popular and college music. At the conclusion of the program dancing will be enjoyed until shortly before midnight. Well known Wollaston ladies are the patronesses.

A whist party was held in G. A. R. hall Wednesday under the auspices of the Sons of Veterans' Aid Society. Prizes were awarded to Albert Williams, C. P. Strattard, Fannie Grignon and Abbie Our.

CLEAR SKY FOR ECLIPSE

Full Moon Was Hidden From View About Midnight

Considerable interest was shown Wednesday evening in the eclipse of the moon and as one passed along the streets late in the evening nearly everybody seemed to be watching the moon becoming overshadowed. To some it foretold the approach of the end of the world, but nowadays people are more enlightened and the old superstition did not make much headway in their minds, so that the eclipse was viewed by most people in a matter of fact way.

The eclipse began about 9.40 but it was not until sometime after that hour that people began to sit up and take notice. The moon then became rapidly overshadowed, and in a few minutes nothing bright remained except the lower corner. Then the advance of the shadow across the moon's face seemed to be arrested for it remained in practically the same position until midnight.

During the early evening the sky was slightly overcast, and it looked for a time as if the eclipse would not be visible. The sky, however, soon came out as perfectly clear and remained so throughout the evening.

Once the eclipse was started people could be seen in groups of two and three standing in the street with their eyes fixed on the moon. The best view of the eclipse was had by the aid of field glasses.

KNIGHTS TO ENTERTAIN.

The annual ladies' night of Quincy Commandery Knights Templars, will be held Friday evening at Alpha hall, and on account of the limited capacity of the hall will be exclusively for members of the commandery and their ladies.

The evening's program includes a banquet to be served by a well known Boston caterer at 6.30 in Union hall, to be followed at 8 o'clock by an entertainment which will include Poole's orchestra, Mrs. Belle Temple Priest reader and others. The evening will close with dancing from 9.30 until 11.30.

The committee in charge are Commander Walter E. Piper, Generalissimo John Morgan, Captain General Otis B. Oakman, Treasurer, J. S. Swingle and Recorder Alfred H. Richards.

☞At a big expense a new print of the beautiful hand colored Passion Play will be given at Quincy Music hall at the Saturday matinee and evening. Nothing so beautiful has ever been seen in Quincy and every strict church goer should try and be at Music hall Saturday to see this wonder production of the life of Christ.

(ADVERTISE.)

STATE FORESTS MUCH NEEDED

Will Help Some in Solving High Cost of Living

The dire need of properly protecting and conserving the trees of New England was brought strongly before the Wollaston Unitarian club at its meeting Tuesday evening by Harris A. Reynolds, secretary of the Massachusetts State Forestry Association, who took for his subject: "State forests and shade trees for Massachusetts."

In introducing the speaker, Senator Langelier mentioned his motion in the City Council some 14 years ago, providing that no streets should be accepted or laid out without proviing for the planting of shade trees. Then it was treated as a joke.

"It is high time we took some real steps toward State forests," said Mr. Reynolds. "Massachusetts has turned from a prosperous farming state into a manufacturing state." Go out of Boston 15 miles in any direction, and you will find waste land all about you. A million acres or nearly one fifth of the total area of Massachusetts is waste land. This is a serious problem.

"Waste land has much to do with the high taxes you pay. White pine growth is cut down, scrub oak and other useless trees spring up and the land is reduced in valuation from one to five dollars an acre. This is one of the main reasons that taxes go up. Is it good business to have the land lie idle?

"The cost of building material has doubled in the last 15 years. You are paying the freight. With higher cost of construction, buildings cannot be rented for the same money.

"Much land does not make good farm land. The next best thing is to raise trees. But individuals cannot do it. Towns cannot do it. The only agency in a position to cope with it is the state. This shows the advantage of State forestry."

Mr. Reynolds told of the revenue received from forests in Germany, where the annual average net income is $6.20 per acre, besides giving many employment.

The speaker declared State forests would be a boon to the unemployed in furnishing temporary work. They would provide healthy employment for prison labor and tubercular patients. They would protect the birds, who in turn would keep down the gypsy and brown tail moths.

State forests should provide fish and game preesrves as well as recreation grounds for the common people.

The importance of shade trees along streets and boulevards was dealt with, and Secretary Reynolds told of the tree planting contest the Massachusetts Forestry Association had put forward. Already many cities have joined, and he urged that Quincy follow suit. The Governor intends, he said, to issue a special proclamation, making April an arbor month.

This being the last meeting but one this season, President Langeiler was empowered to appoint a nominating committee and selected William E. Rowe, Charles E. Barker and Walter J. Wellington.

DISTRICT COURT.

John Ogeda was arraigned for assault at Quincy and was fined $15.

GYPSY MOTHS AND CAR TRACKS

Debated by Squantum Improvement Association

Speakers at the regular meeting of the Squantum Improvement association at Lee's inn Tuesday night condemned the condition of the tracks of the Squantum branch of the Bay State Street railway and the prevalence of gypsy moths on the Lotta Crabtree estate. It was voted that the matter of the street car tracks be referred to the Street railway committee for action. A letter is to be written by the secretary of the association to the Commissioner of Public Works of Quincy complaining of the gypsy moths. It was stated that if prompt action was not taken in regard to the street railway tracks there would surely be a fatal accident upon this line.

James H. Sumner said: "Today sixty school children and a number of passengers were piled in a heap upon the floor of a car which jumped the tracks and hung upon the brink of an embankment along the causeway. It was a narrow escape from a serious accident. The same kind of an accident happened a few weeks before. If attention is not given to this matter I do not see how the street railway company can escape a serious accident. I cannot understand why something is not done before human life is sacrificed in a car accident."

Mr. Dahlquist speaking of conditions on the Lotta Crabtree estate in Squantum said: "The trees there are covered with gypsy moths ready on the first warm day to hatch out their young and send them by the millions all over Squantum and all over Quincy. Last year nothing was done toward killing the moths and as a result the trees were loaded down with the pests. It is useless for anyone in Squantum to try and keep their trees clean when they are allowed to grow by the millions upon the Crabtree estate."

Other speakers condemned the action of officials who compel the poor man with two or three trees to have his trees sprayed at considerable cost while no attention is paid to the estate of a woman worth fully a million dollars.

The following committee was appointed by President Herbert A. Smith to follow up the subject of the gypsy moths, and if attention is not paid to the complaints to the City of Quincy, to see if State officials will not act; Councilman John R. Nelson, Mr. Dahlquist and Mr. Friberg.

It was voted that the association have another social affair in the near future, and the matter was left in the hands of the executive committee.

Carl Oberg was elected a member of the association. It was voted that any new members joining the association between now and the annual meeting that their dues stand paid to the annual meeting of June 1915.

Mr. Sumner, chief inspector of the Cambridge Gas Company, who has had 20 years experience in the making of gas, gave a very interesting talk on "Gas; how it is made and consumed." He touched upon every phase of the gas question and answered many questions. He said that the reason why Quincy could not expect gas as cheaply as in larger cities was the fact that there was tremendous outlay of piping in a city so widely and sparsely settled as Quincy. He said the cost of gas was greatly influenced by the mileage of pipe and the congestion of consumers. He said that even at $1.20 per thousand feet Quincy was receiving very good service. When the city is more settled and the number of consumers in a given area is greatly increased as in the City of Cambridge and Somerville, he said a reduction could be looked for.

SALARY TOO SMALL SAYS THE MAYOR

To Secure Just the Man Necessary for the Board of Assessors

Appointment Expected Tomorrow to Fill Vacancy

It was expected that Mayor Miller Miller would announce this morning the name of the gentleman whom he had selected to fill the position of chairman of the Board of Assessors, made vacant by the removal last Saturday of G. B. Bates, but this noon he said that he would not announce it today.

..In speaking of the position, the Mayor said that he wished the salary of the office was larger that he might get the man he desired. That it was difficult to get a man who was willing to sacrifice his own business, which paid him a larger income, to take a city position. There were plenty of capable men, that could be secured, but none of them felt that they were called upon to sacrifice their own business.

The Mayor gave no hint as to whom he intended to appoint, but rumor has been busy with the names of two well known citizens, William L. Buckley of Atlantic, and John F. Bruton of East Howard street, one of the foremen at the Fore River Shipbuilding plant. Both of these gentlemen have been seen in conference with the Mayor, but which one, if either, will get the plum no one seems to know. The indications seem to point to Mr. Buckley. It is probable that the appointment will be made tomorrow.

The Mayor will also have to appoint sometime between now and the first of April six assistant assessors. The latter are appointed for the remainder of the year from April 1. As both the Board of Assessors and Assistant Assessors have to begin their field work on April 1, there is not much time left. It is among the posibilities that the Mayor will send the names of the Assistant Assessors to the Council Monday evening.

The City Council Committee on Fire and Police Matters and on Ordinances meet tonight in joint session. Separate sessions of both committees will be held after the joint meeting.

Ex-Councilman Cherrington was the only one to appear in favor of the bill to extend the civil service to the Chief of the Fire department of Quincy. In opposition was Mayor Miller, City Solicitor Pinkham, Councilman Ross and Representatives Sullivan and Sandberg. Ex-Councilman Cherrington was the author of the petition, and the chairman of the committee made some comment about bothering the legislature with such matters when they were overburdened with important business.

LEAVE TO WITHDRAW.

There will be no sea wall built by the State along Manet avenue Houghs Neck this year. This is one of the matters asked by the Houghs Neck associates. Wednesday the legislative committee to whom it was referred reported leave to withdraw.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

LENTEN SERVICES.

Rev. Fr. John J. Powers of Cambridge, a former curate at St. Mary's church, preached at that church Wednesday evening at the midweek Lenten devotions. The church was thronged with members of the parish. Father Powers preached an eloquent sermon on "Prayer." Rosary and Benediction ofthe Blessed Sacrament was conducted by Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, pastor.

Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy conducted the midweek Lenten devotions at St. Johns church Wednesday evening. A large congregation attended. Father McCoy recited the Rosary, gave a sermon on "Judgment" and officiated at the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Music was by the regular choir under the direction of John Mahon, organist.

The funeral of William R. Page of 115 Cedar street, Braintree was held Tuesday afternoon and the services were conducted by Rev. Dr. H. H. French of Malden. Masons and Odd Fellows from Malden were in attendance. Burial was at Brockton.

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block 2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 ft.—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water, $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block. ('Phone 21066) Quincy

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

R. E. FOY & CO. — 2 STORES —

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

Tasty Tea and Delicious Coffee at Foy's

We do a tremendous Tea and Coffee business because we give our customers great value for their money. We buy only the best grades—keep them always fresh—sell them at small profit per pound—and please our patrons perfectly. Let us serve you.

FOY QUALITY TEAS

All our Tea comes from Chase & Sanborn. We use great care in selecting the different blends, and then re-order the same each week. Thus the uniformity for which our Teas are noted. Try a pound.

GOOD TEA 40c lb. CHOICE TEA 50c lb FANCY TEA 60c lb

In lots of 3 lbs. you save a nickle a pound

ALL POPULAR PACKAGE TEAS

Chase & Sanborn's -- S. S. Pierce's -- Salada-- Lipton's -- Ridgway's -- At Low Prices

FOY QUALITY COFFEE

"QUALITY" is the name of our best coffee and it's well named. You can pay more for coffee but you can't buy a better grade. We get it daily fresh from the roaster—grind it as ordered—and guarantee it to give satisfaction It does.

33c lb.

ADVERTISED COFFEES, TOO

Chase & Sanborn's 38c can La Touraine 38c
Barrington Hall (steel cut) 40c can
Cafe Des Invalides 40c can
G. Washington 30c. Stanzalone 25c

March 11-2t

Odd Fellows' Ball

The Annual Concert and Ball -- of --

Mt. Wollaston Lodge, I. O. O. F.

Will be held at

Music Hall, Quincy

Thursday Evening, Mar. 12

POOLE'S ORCHESTRA

Concert 8 to 9. Dancing 9 to 2
Special Cars after Ball

March 9-3t

Government Markers

Friends of deceased veterans of the Civil War, wishing government markers, fort their graves, will confer a favor upon Post No. 88 G. A. R. by sending their name, Company, and Regiment, at once, to Francis P. Loud, Q. M., Quincy, Mass. 9-6t

QUINCY MUSIC HALL Sat. Mat. and Night

THE PASSION PLAY IN BEAUTIFUL HAND COLORS

This Great Picture will be seen only this One Day. Don't Miss It, if you have to stay home from Boston.

March 12-3t

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER

Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy

Feb. 10-tf

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1869

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1434 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

The people of Mexico are willing to fight to the bitter end in the sacred cause of patriotism and disorder.

King George of England can't be considered a full fledged baseball fan until he opens his mouth wide and addresses the umpire as "Robber."

DOCTORS AND ADVERTISING.

A committee of the American Medical Association has just submitted to the national body, certain questions as to whether physicians may properly advertise their business, if so, to what extent.

The strict rules of professional etiquette have heretofore cut out advertising by physicians, other than mere professional cards. It would seem that the present tradition prevents a physician from giving the public facts that it would like to know.

When a stranger comes into a town he would like to find out how long physicians have been practising, in what diseases they make specialities or have had special experience, what medical education and hospital or other professional training they have had. It would well seem that some enlargement of the typical physician's advertising might be possible, without descending to the evils of so-called medical advertising. A little well written publicity might tend to check the tendency to waste money on untrained men and useless or harmful drugs.

A FIDDLERS' CONVENTION.

News from Atlanta, Ga., telling of a meeting of the Old-Time Fiddlers' Association, suggests one of those picturesque old types of personality that are fast becoming extinct.

Nowadays there are no fiddlers. They are all violinists. You can see the youngsters Saturday morning, piking along the streets with their instrument case and roll of music, wending their way to the music teacher's for a lesson. As this instruction is a matter of parental decree enforced on children who secretly long to be out playing games, too few real musicians are ground out.

Every country neighborhood formerly had its fiddler. He had rarely taken anything that could be called professional instruction. Often he bought his cherished fiddle at an auction, and picked up his version of technique from some old-timer who had preceded him.

Music was to him the chief joy of living. He usually had some ostensible calling at which he earned a bare living wage. But as he was hoeing corn or cobbling shoes his heart was in the breakdown to come off that night at the cross roads.

He had little conceit as to his own powers. Usually you had to use many arts of persuasion to induce him to bring along his fiddle to a public function. The writer was acquainted with a typical old-timer fiddler, who used sometimes to start out with his instrument, but to repent and conceal his fiddle behind a wall or in some barn before reaching his desination.

Once started, it was as difficult to quench the liquid melody as to induce him to begin. "Irish Washerwoman," "Money Musk," etc., rolled out of his singing bow by the league. His was a kindly soul, who brought merriment wherever he went. His place is not wholly supplied by the technically better playing of today which so often lacks the old-time enthusiasm.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

MUSEUMS FEAR ARMED WOMEN

Custodians of Public Art Treasures Are Panic Stricken

ALL VISITORS ARE BARRED

Fear That Suffragette Demonstration, When "Venus" Was Slashed, Will Be Imitated by Other Women as Has Been the Custom Heretofore—Municipal Buildings Are Burned

London, March 12.—The closing of public art galleries on account of outrages by militant suffragettes was the subject of a question in the house of commons. Home Secretary McKenna, in reply, promises to confer with the authorities in order to see whether it is not possible to arrange for efficient police protection so as to avoid the complete closure of public institutions.

It was the injury committed by the militant suffragette, Mary Richardson, on the famous Valesquez painting, known as the "Rokeby Venus" in the national gallery, which has barred temporarily, at least, Americans and other tourists from seeing many of England's art treasures during the coming season.

The lord chamberlain announced that the state apartments in Windsor castle would be closed until further orders. A similar notice was issued by the trustees of the national gallery and of the celebrated Wallace ar tcollection.

Kensington palace and Hampton court palace, which are visited yearly by thousands of foreigners, also closed their doors, and the great exhibit of Oriental porcelains, bronzes and miniatures, valued at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, bequeathed to South Kensington museum in 1909 by the late George Salting, has been locked up.

Similar action followed at nearly every art institution throughout the country. The custodians of all public art treasures are in a condition of panic, as heretofore every fresh suffragette demonstration has been followed by imitators and there is apprehension that other women armed with hatchets may be abroad. Large forces of special guards have been placed on patrol duty in the British and South Kensington museums, where they are keeping close watch.

A suffragette arson squad yesterday set fire to and destroyed all the buildings belonging to the town corporation at Bulcote, six miles northeast of Nottingham. The loss is many thousands of dollars. The usual suffrage literature was found strewn about the vicinity.

The newspapers editorially express intense indignation at the acts of vandalism of the suffragettes, but beyond suggesting that the perpetrators of the outrages be confined in insane asylums they offer no remedy for the situation.

OUT OF THE ORDINARY

Religious Services In Three Languages In a Bridgeport Church

Bridgeport, Conn., March 12.—A religious service, unique in its character, will be celebrated in St. John's Episcopal church here tonight. The Eastern Orthodox churches will join with the Angelican. No such service has ever been held in this country.

Rev. Fr. Fantelaief of the Rusisan church will be celebrant and will be assisted by Rev. Dionysius Papadates of the Greek Orthodox church and other Orthodox priests of the state. Bishop Brewster of the Episcopal diocese of Connecticut will give the blessing.

Portions of the service will be in Russian, Greek and English.

BANK MEN PLEAD GUILTY

Paying Telier and Bookkeeper Admit Embezzling Funds

Boston, March 12.—Charles P. Foster, paying teller in the Bristol County National bank of Taunton, and George H. Despardins, bookkeeper in the Fall River National bank, pleaded guilty in the United States district court to indictments charging them with embezzling bank funds.

Foster took $2500. Desjardins took $5665. Sentence was deferred one month in the case of Foster and two weeks in the case of Desjardins.

IN SIGHT OF CROWD

British Army Aviators Meet Death at Salisbury Plain

London, March 12.—Captain Clement Allen and Lieutenant J. E. Borroughs of the army aviation corps were killed yesterday afternoon flying over Salisbury Plain.

Allen, who was steering, lost control of the machine, which turned over and fell to the earth in sight of a crowd.

Captain Cyril Downer, an army aviator, was killed at Salisbury Plain Tuesday.

Ice Cream Rated as Food

Washington, March 12.—Ice cream is "an article of food," according to a ruling of the interstate commerce commission, and as such express companies are forbidden to charge more than second-class rates for transporting it. Heretofore it has gone first class.

SIR EDWARD CARSON

Ulster Leader Rejected Irish Home Rule Plan

Photo by American Press Association.

THE ULSTER ULTIMATUM

Carson Wants Counties Forever Exempt From Home Rule

London, March 12.—The offer of Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, to submit the government's proffered concessions in connection with home rule to an Ulster convention provided no limitation was placed on the period of exclusion of the Ulster counties was the subject of a lengthy conference beween cabinet ministers and Nationalist leaders.

The party comprised, besides Premier Asquith, Augustine Birrell, David Lloyd George, John Redmond, John Dillon and other prominent Nationalist members.

TOWN IS TERRIFIED BY HUNGRY WOLVES

Schools Are Closed While Farmers Hunt For Invaders

Dunkirk, N. Y., March 12.—Skulking in a gulch at Ripley, Chautauqua county, are three gaunt, hungry timber wolves that came across the ice of Lake Erie from Canada last Sunday night.

The country for miles around is alarmed. Mothers refuse to permit their children to go out of doors and school sessions have been suspended in two districts.

Farmers armed with rifles, shotguns, muskets, revolvers and pitchforks have traced the animals to a gulch which extends from the lake three miles to a range of hills.

EXONERATED OF CHARGES

Directors of Junior Republics Act on George Investigation

New York, March 12.—William R. George, founder of the George Junior Republic, was exonerated by the board of directors of the National Association of Junior Republics of the charges brought against him recently.

The action was taken by the board at a meeting here for the purpose of considering the report of a special committee which had been appointed to investigate the charges. A board of judges, to whom the records of the case had been submitted, found a week ago that George had been guilty of "wilful misconduct" in his relations to young women citizens of the Freeville Republic, but had not been swayed "by a desire to injure or abuse" them.

GOETHALS FOR GOVERNOR

Will Be Nominated by Progressives of the Empire State

New York, March 12.—George W. Goethals will be the candidate for governor of New York on the Progressive ticket next fall, according to statements by Progressive leaders. Goethals, the leaders said, had agreed to head the Progressive ticket at that time.

From the same sources it was learned that at a conference in this city prominent leaders of the Progressive party discussed the strength of Goethals and decided he was the strongest candidate to put in the field, barring Colonel Roosevelt.

UTILIZING GATUN LOCK

Used as Naval Drydock For the Overhauling of Submarines

Washington, March 12.—A novel use has been found for one of the big locks of the Panama canal at Gatun, which has temporarily been converted into a regular drydock for the overhauling of five of the naval submarines which have been stationed at the Atlantic entrance of the canal since Dec. 12 last.

As the lock chambers are arranged in pairs it is possible thus to use one of them as a drydock without interfering with the passage of vessels through the other.

Deficit of $405,000 In Accounts

London, March 12.—A deficiency of $405,000 was reported at a meeting of the creditors of Pratt, Hurst & Co., lace manufacturers, of Nottingham.

CHARGED WITH $25,000 THEFT

Siegel and Vogel Indicted by Federal Grand Jury

MADE A FALSE STATEMENT

Accused of Accepting Deposits In Insolvent Bank—Five-Year Swindle Has Been Conducted by Failed Bankers, According to the Assistant District Attorney

New York, March 12.—Indictments charging grand larceny and the acceptance of deposits in an insolvent bank were returned by the grand jury here against Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel, heads of the Siegel private bank, which closed its doors following the appointment of receivers for Siegel's big New York and Boston department stores.

Three indictments were returned against each defendant. Both are charged with the grand larceny of $25,000 from the National Bank of Commerce on May 17, 1912, as a result of making a false statement as to assets.

Two other indictments against each one charge the acceptance of deposits in the Siegel bank after it was known to be insolvent.

Bench warrants for Siegel and Vogel were issued by Judge Rosalsky.

Siegel and Vogel were arraigned in the criminal courts building before Judge Rosalsky, where both pleaded not guilty. They were released in $25,000 bail each.

After having made their plea, both men were given until March 18 in which to demur.

That for five years the Siegel business has been conducting a sort of Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford sort of affair, in which books were juggled to order and debits changed to credits, as well as numerous other shady transactions indulged in to keep the firm's credit good, even when they knew they were losing money steadily, was the astonishing charge by Assistant District Attorney Train, who has been taking an active part in the investigation.

These, he said, stripped of legal and financial verbiage, are the plain facts which the men who have fooled their customers and creditors for so long a time will have to face at their trial.

Carmody Acts For Depositors

Albany, March 12.—Desiring to restore at least $100,000 to the thousands of depositors of the defunct Henry Siegel & Co. private bank, Attorney General Carmody authorized William A. McQuaid, deputy attorney general in New York city, to bring action to recover bonds to that amount given in favor of the depositors.

Carmody took this action in preference to designating another attorney to represent the depositors to save them large counsel fees and to place all claimants on an equal footing. The depositors claim the bond is their property and that none of it should be paid to the receiver.

To Sell Boston Assets

Boston, March 12.—The petition of the trustees of the Henry Siegel company for leave to sell the assets of the company at a private sale before next Saturday was granted by Referee Olmstead in the United States bankruptcy court.

Since the trustees took charge Feb. 26 the sales at the store have netted $205,435, according to Attorney Nutter, counsel for the trustees. Nutter stated that the business had reached a point where it could no longer be conducted at a profit and that it was to the best interests of the creditors to close it out at once if possible, as the loss was estimated at $2000 a day.

A PLUCKY LITTLE CANINE

Fights Sheriff's Deputies Who Try to Remove His Master's Body

Bellefontaine, O., March 12.—A tiny mongrel dog, pitifully frowsy and neglected, but with all the defiance his little, dirty white body could muster, furiously fought off sheriff's deputies who sought to remove the body of Samuel Godwin, 62, an insane recluse, from his cabin home, where he was shot to death by a posse.

An hour before Godwin was killed by a fusillade of shots he fired on Sheriff Cook of Logan county, severely wounding him. The officer attempted to arrest the aged recluse on a lunacy warrant. Physicians say Cook will recover.

Police Inspector Resigns

Fall River, Mass., March 12.—Inspector Bartholomew Shay tendered his resignation after serving on the police force thirty-one years, twenty years of that time as inspector, to accept the position of probation officer of the second district court.

Chisel, Dynamite and Death

New Bedford, Mass., March 12.—A cold chisel driven into a charge of dynamite caused the death of one laborer and serious injury to another in an explosion on the farm of Joseph Soares in East Fairhaven.

Moth Nest Hunter Electrocuted

Portland Me., March 12.—While clearing brown-tail moth nests from the trees at South Portland, Guy Peacock, 22, came in contact with a high-tension wire and was electrocuted.

MORE TROOPS FOR BORDER

Eighteen Thousand to Protect Texas From Possible Raid

Washington, March 12.—Dispatch of two additional regiments of American infantry to Eagle Pass and Laredo, Tex., in order to allay fears of raids by Mexicans, and the appearance here of General Felix Diaz and friends with a new plan to solve the Mexican problem, are the chief developments in the Mexican situation.

The troops were ordered to the border at the request of Senator Sheppard and Representative Garner. The latter told the president there was a large amount of money in the border banks, and that Americans wanted to be protected against any sudden raid or invasion which might result from sensational developments at any time in the Mexican situation.

The orders for the dispatch of two more regiments to Texas will result in the assembly in that state of nearly 18,000 troops, more by 300 than the entire force of the regular army which General Shafter led into Cuba. Nearly 11,000 of these soldiers are in camp at Texas City.

LABOR BOARD DISMISSED

Make-Up Is Declared by Governor to Be Inefficient

Boston, March 12.—Governor Walsh ended the differences which have arisen between himself and certain members of the state board of labor and industries by summarily removing the whole board from office. The board was appointed by Governor Foss last year under the terms of an act passed in 1912.

The members of the board were: James A. Lowell of Newton, chairman; James W. Crook, Amherst; Channing Smith, Leicester; William Acton, Fall River, and Mrs. Mary H. Dewey, Cambridge.

The governor charges that the present make-up of the board is inefficient, declares the body is not lawfully constituted, and says members have violated the civil service rules.

RAISE DEMANDED BY STOCK FITTERS

Long Strike Will Affect Shoe Workers In Four Towns

Salem, Mass., March 12.—Demanding a reduction of five hours a week in time and a wage increase of from $2.50 to $5 a week, 500 stock fitters employed in shoe factories in Salem, Beverly, Danvers and Marblehead, called a strike.

Employers received no notice of the men's intentions until they failed to report for work. A delegate then called at each factory and presented the demands.

Factories affected have enough stock to operate until the end of the week. Then, if no agreement is reached, they will be forced to suspend, throwing more than 3000 out of work.

The strikers are affiliated with the United Shoe Workers of America.

TWELVE HUNDRED LAID OFF

Curtailment of Help In Car Shops Comes as a Surprise

Boston, March 12.—More than 1200 men employed at the New Haven car shops in Readville were laid off without warning yesterday afternoon.

Practically the entire force in the passenger department, about one-half of the employes, were surprised by the notice which ordered them not to report for work again until April 1. Many of the men have been working on short time for some weeks.

Those laid off were employed in various capacities. Many of them are machinists, blacksmiths, carpenters, painters, brass polishers and upholsterers. The men in the locomotive department were not affected by the order.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

President Wilson sent to the senate the nomination of William P. Malbourne of Denver as assistant secretary of the treasury.

Mrs. Borg de Balzak, 75, who was Miss Vermile Smith of New York, died at Florence. For forty-five years she was a leading figure in Florence social life.

The Western Union Telegraph company declared a quarterly dividend of 1 percent.

Samuel Yallax, a wealthy publisher of New York, eloped with Mrs. Mary Owens, 72, an inmate of the Methodist home for the aged. He is 78 years old.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed by the New England Pottery company of Boston. The liabilities are $84,174.

Fred McDonald, 15, was crushed between the fender of a street car and a stone wall at Lowell, Mass., and died of his injuries.

That the clerks of courts should keep out of politics was asserted by Governor Walsh of Massachusetts at a dinner of the Worcester County Bar association.

Secretary of State Bryan went to Annapolis to address the Maryland legislature on the initiative and referendum.

Stammering is now cured by "movies," the films showing patients the correct way of using the mouth and lips.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

DIAMONDS
RUBIES
GOLD

Tempt the dishonest when kept in a bureau or desk drawer. Keep yours in one of our steel safety deposit boxes—$5 a year—where nobody but you can get at them, but where they are convenient when you want them. Some folks pay twice as much to keep valuables in Boston safety boxes, but they're handier here and just as safe.

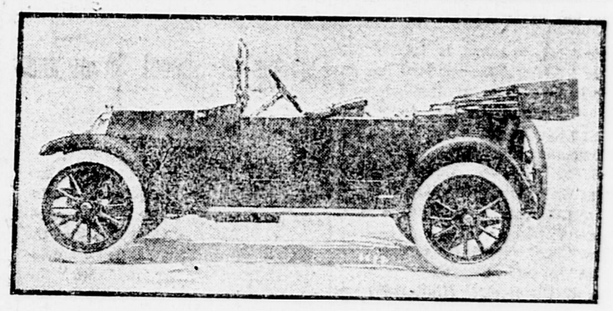
Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

How to Buy a Motor Car

Rules for the Purchaser

OAKLAND MODEL 36 TOURING CAR.



Oakland Model 36 Touring Car, $1200, with Delco electric starting, lighting and ignition system. This is one of the popular models of the famous line of Oakland cars, and sold by their direct factory branch located at 100 Massachusetts Ave., Boston.

Head of Big Company Gives Advice That Should Be of Help in Selection of an Auto.

By GEORGE E. DANIELS, President Oakland Motor Company.

With so many motor cars being offered, it is natural that the prospector, who, as a rule, is only slightly familar with mechanism of any sort, becomes confused in making a selection, and so the following rules, although not meant to be iron clad in application, should be of help to those about to buy a motor car.

Providing you have made up your mind as to the type of car you desire, that is, the passenger capacity and power, the next important thing is the dependability of the chassis. Everything else is of minor importance. The chassis should be your first consideration, for the outward goes for naught, if the interior—the life of the car"—is not efficient.

You are vitally interested in the motor, clutch, transmission and rear axle system, the construction of the body and the accessories with which the machine is equipped.

It is not necessary to be an expert to understand mechanical fundamentals. Let the popular motor cars, in a certain sense, be your standard of selection. To give you an illustration of what I mean, I will take the matter of tungsten steel valves. You need not know the exact value of this particular piece of steel to appreciate the efficiency of it. It stands to reason that if a majority of the manufacturers use it, it can be relied upon to do its work. And so, if you find half a dozen manufacturers following the same practice, it is safe to assume that the part used is right.

In a motor, satisfy yourself as to the size of the bearings, valves, the crank shaft dimensions and the lubricating system. In the transmission, it is necessary that the gears be of a very good grade of steel and it is important that the rear system be carefully and accessibly built.

The matter of weight has always been a debatable question but let your good sense guide you in this particular matter. You do not want a car that is too light, for it will not be suitable for the varying road conditions, and if it is too heavy, its own weight will likely cause so much vibration as to have a tendency to loosen the parts. So in this respect you should seek the medium—not too heavy, nor too light.

You have heard so much about accessibility, and simplicity that it is not necessary for me to dwell on these two points. The reasons are obvious.

Most manufacturers now furnish all steel bodies. They have found this method of construction to be the best, although it costs more than the wooden style. The steel body is absent of all squeaks and other annoyances that attend the wooden body.

In the matter of equipment, manufacturers are using only that which is in keeping with the car they make, that is furnishing items that reflect favorably the car, such as the top, windshield, speedmeter, they are all of a good grade and fit properly.

Motor car buying is not the guess work that it was years ago. With so many good cars on the market, the average purchaser does not take as many chances today as buyers did years awo in selecting the costliest car on the marke

The advancement has been so rapid, the competition so keen, that the companies that are withstanding the weeding process are manufacturing cars worthy of your consideration.

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

THE EDUCATIONAL FIELD

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY
HIGH SCHOOL PUBLIC SCHOOLS
WOODWARD INSTITUTE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

The delivery station of the Public Library at Norfolk Downs is now at the dry goods store of A. L. Whitman, 395 Hancock street. The express takes the basket from this store to the library early every Wednesday morning, and delivers the same in the forenoon of Thursday.

Persons already registered at the Central library may send numbers of books desired from the lists to be found at Mr. Whitman's, and new borrowers will be welcomed at Crane Memorial Hall for registration. Fuller directions will be found at the store. It is hoped that the patronage of the library from this section will increase in order that the basket privilege will not have to be discontinued.

Last Saturday was the record breaker in the circulating department of the Central library, 490 books having been given out from the main desk, and 217 from the children's room, a total of 707, being the largest output of any one day in the library's history.

A pleasing incident of this month in the children's room aside from its flourishing circulation of over 200 a day for several years, has been the call for Italian books among the children for their parents, which shows an interest aroused in the home through the children's reading.

The new books added to the children's room are constantly in demand.

The "Helen Grant Series" has been completed by "Helen Grant, Senior" and "Helen Grant, Teacher," also the "Old Mother Westwind Series" by the book "Old Mother Westwind." These are delightful nature stories of little animals characterized as personalities "Forest Rangers" and "Scouts of the Valley" by Altsheler testify to their popularity by the number of reserve postal cards constantly on file. Especially worthy of mention is a series of six dramatic readers by Augusta Stevenson. These give over sixty well-known stories and tales in dramatic form which should be found very useful in the schools. The first three books are adaptations of favorite tales from folk-lore such as Anderson, Grimm and the Arabian Nights—and are especially suitable for 2nd, 3d, and 4th grades. The other three, based on historical records and incidents and the classic myths, are for grades 5th to 8th. This series as a whole furnishes a well-grounded introduction to the study of Shakespeare's plays.

A list of the new books will be found on the bulletin in the children's room.

FOUNDERS' DAY.

Founders' Day will be observed at Woodward Institute on Friday evening of this week with a musical program by the past and present members of the school, which will include choruses from H. Rowe Shelley and Dvorak-Spross, and one arranged by H. A. Matthews; soprano solos by Miss Signe Wilhas, '09 and Miss Marian Miller '12; violin solos by Miss Helen Moulton, '15, and Miss Emma Walker, '10; and piano solos by Miss Amy Fallon, '12 and Miss Dorothy Lavery.

PENSION SYSTEM

The newly adopted State pension law for teachers will go into effect on July 1 of the present year. Under the provisions of the act teachers at present in service have the option of accepting its provisions but all teachers entering the service after the act goes into effect must accept its provisions. It is probable that nearly all the teachers now in service will elect to take advantage of it, as under any circumstance they have much to gain and nothing to lose.

Pension assessments generally speaking amount to 5 per cent of the teachers salary to be in any event not over $100 nor less than $35, and the assessments have to be deducted by the city from the salary of the teacher. In return the teacher may retire at 60, and in any event must retire at 70 with an allowance based upon previous salary of from $300 at the least up to $750 as the highest allowance.

In case the teacher does not continue in the service long enough to avoid herself of the benefit afforded by the law she is entitled to withdraw all her previous payments with interest compounded at 3 per cent, so that it becomes a compulsory savings law, even if the retirement feature is not made use of. As the School Committee is required to make the assessment deductions, a considerable amount of additional clerical labor will be required.

ATHERTON HOUGH SCHOOL.

Architect Wright is completing the working drawings for the addition to the school at Houghs Neck, and it is hoped that provision will be made for the building, so that it may be completed in time for the opening of the school in September. It will be possible to do the greater amount of work required on the addition while the other four rooms are in use leaving the summer months to make the connections and join the corridors of the two parts.

CENSUS RECORDS.

Directions have been received from the State authorities requiring that the school census records be kept in a fire proof safe As the school department safe is a very small one, the committee will find it necessary to purchase one of greater capacity.

FORESTERS TO HOLD CONVENTION

Committees representing courts John Adams, John Ericsson and Roger Wolcott, Foresters of America, met Wednesday evening at Court John Ericsson hall, School street.

Proposed legislation which will be acted on at Grand court convention to be held in Boston in May, was discussed, and the policy of the Foresters in Quincy in connection with same, was decided.

The Quincy courts at their quarterly meetings will decide whether or not delegates will be sent by them to the convention. The dates of quarterly meetings are Court Roger Wolcott on Tuesday, March 17; Court John Ericsson on Wednesday, March 25; and Court John Adams on Friday, March 27. It is believed that each court will elect delegates to the convention because matters of extraordinary importance to the Foresters of America in this city will be considered.

Pi Eta Society Play

Applications for tickets to "A BUG IN A RUG" to be given by the PI ETA SOCIETY under the auspices of the QUINCY TENNIS CLUB, on Friday, March twenty-seventh, will be received by James H. Slade, Treas., 17 Edgemere Road, Quincy.

As the tickets will be distributed in the order of application, you will recognize the importance of applying early. Tickets are $1.00 each and are reserved.

Executive Committee
Quincy Tennis Club
March 7-6t

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE
LINIMENT
Countless thousands of families have found it to be the surest and quickest remedy for Cuts, Wounds, Sore Throat, Bowel Complaint—internal and external ailments.
IN USE OVER 103 YEARS
Its long-continued use is the highest proof of its merits. Sold everywhere.
25c and 50c Bottles
Parsons' Pills
keep the bowels regular
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc.
Boston, Mass.

MONUMENTS TO THE POTATO.

There Are Several Handsome Ones in England and Germany.

Although America is the original home of the potato, it is only in Europe that monuments have been erected to honor the familiar vegetable. There are several such monuments in Germany and England costing large sums of money and presenting the work of famous sculptors. The most elaborate is that at Offenburg, which honors Sir Francis Drake as the first man to introduce potatoes into Europe.

The monument consists of an excellent statue of Drake, rising from an elaborate base decorated with garlands of the potato plant, with full grown tubers. Several tablets are placed about the base stating that Drake first brought the potato to Europe, with various laudatory inscriptions as to the value of the potato to civilization. A similar monument to Drake and the potato has been erected at Murz.

As a matter of historic fact, Drake had nothing whatever to do with introducing the potato to Europe. It is generally supposed that Sir Walter Raleigh was the discoverer of the potato, and stories are told of his appearing on the streets of London wearing a buttonhole bouquet of potato blossoms in order to attract attention to the new vegetable.

According to one version, the potatoes were first planted by Drake in Ireland. The fact is that the potato was first taken from America by the Spanish long before the exploration of either Drake or Raleigh.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

THE GOLDEN MANIA.

Baths In Gleaming Coins That Seemed to Soothe the Victims.

Some years ago a London journalist who had speculated in railroad stocks netted £5,000 as the result of a lucky venture. Drawing it in gold, the fortunate man repaired to a hotel, emptied the bags of gold in the bed and went to sleep literally in the sands of Pactolus. The man was so crazed by his good fortune that he found indescribable pleasure in reveling in a golden bath.

Paganini, the violinist, when he received the proceeds of his concerts—he insisted upon being paid in gold—used to wash his hands in sovereigns.

A French novelist, Soulie, wrote a book entitled "The Memoirs of the Devil." It took. The publishers paid him for the first volume $10,000 in gold. The author carried the gold to his bedroom, poured it into a footbath and enjoyed for half an hour the excitement of moving his feet to and fro in a bath of gold coins, smoking mean while the biggest of Havanas.

A Boston merchant of great wealth, believing certain symptoms indicated that he would become insane, consulted a specialist and, under his advice, became an inmate of a private asylum. For twelve years there his recreation was piling up gold coins and then knocking them over. At times he washed his hands in gold eagles and half eagles. At the end of the long seclusion he returned to his counting room and in twelve months confirmed the thoroughness of his recovery by amassing $500,000.—St. Louis Republic.

An Exchange of Compliments.

This correspondence, ending in true Irish fashion, actually passed between two men in England some years ago.

"Mr. Thompson presents his compliments to Mr. Simpson, and begs to request that he will keep his doggs from trespassing on his grounds."

"Mr. Simpson presents his compliments to Mr. Thompson, and begs to suggest that in future he should not spell 'dogs' with two gees."

"Mr. Thompson's respects to Mr. Simpson, and will feel obliged if he will add the letter e to the last word in the note just received so as to represent Mr. Simpson and lady."

"Mr. Simpson returns Mr. Thompson's note unopened, the impertinence it contains being only equaled by its vulgarity."—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Toothpicks In England.

Toothpicks are not so generally used in England as in the United States, being in no real sense considered a household necessity. At the hotels and restaurants, especially those frequented by Americans, they are often supplied, though in a large percentage of eating houses they are given only upon request, and there are thousands of restaurants and other eating places where they are not obtainable even on request. Silver and gold toothpicks suitable for carrying in the pockets are sold to some extent among the well to do classes.—New York Post.

Clever Scheme.

"Blink's wife seems to be quite a musician."

"Yes. She is a fine pianist."

"How does she keep in practice when she is away from home?"

"She carries a large muff."

"What for?"

"Just to keep her hand in."

The Retort Caustic.

Miss Rinkles—Everything costs so much nowadays! I suppose I'll have to live plainer. Miss Sharptung—Why, my dear, you couldn't be any plainer and live.—London Telegraph.

Well Helped.

Ethel—So Kate is finally married. How did she come to take the plunge?

Marie—She didn't. She was shoved off by three younger sisters.—Boston Transcript.

Man's great fault is that he has so many small ones.—Richter.

SAVINGS BANK INSURANCE.

Abstract of an address by Harry W. Kimball, field secretary of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League, on the subject of "The Coming Way of Doing Business as Illustrated by Savings Bank Insurance," to the Braintree Grange, Monday evening, March 9.

"There was a man by the name of John Ball who went about England in the 15th century teaching from the cross roads that fellowship is heaven and lack of fellowship is hell, and they hanged him at one of the cross roads for such dangerous teaching. Yet fellowship is one of the great watchwords of the 20th century. Now no one knows, except those who know too much, what the industrial future of this country may be; yet it requires very little gift of prophecy to realize that co-operation in various forms will be a large factor in our new industrial day.

Massachusetts Savings Bank Life Insurance is a unique co-operative movement. Its purpose is to furnish insurance protection to residents of Massachusetts at the lowest possible cost. Savings Bank Life Insurance is now five years old, and the experience of these years has proved that under this plan the very best insurance can be furnished at the lowest possible cost. Since insurance today is one of the necessities of life, and there are few wage earners' homes in which insurance policies are not found, this movement is of supreme interest to every wage- earner in the common wealth. The movement offers unique and distinct benefits to all policy-holders—low cost of premiums, large dividends returned yearly. Now how have these results been brought about? They have been accomplished through co-operation.

The co-operation of the state is secured by an appropriation of $15,000 yearly, which secures expert supervision and provides for certain necessary expenses of the insurance departments of the savings banks. The movement is also watched over by special trustees appointed by the governor, who have charge of the general insurance guaranty fund, which is a special safeguard for all policies issued by the insurance departments of the banks.

The law provides that agencies may be established in mills, shops and factories, and under this provision more than 200 agencies have been established in the leading industries of Massachusetts. The establishment of these agencies means that companies have agreed to collect the premiums of their employees through the pay envelopes, and also to give their employees an opportunity to learn about the advantages of savings bank insurance. These agencies are carried on without expense to the policyholders. It may be naturally asked why the business men of Massachusetts have gone to the trouble which these agencies involve. It is because they have become convinced that this movement is both for the benefit of their employees and for themselves. Business men are becoming somewhat more sensitive to the growing insistence upon social welfare, and many an employer is willing to do something to bring about more human and more friendly relations between himself and employees if he can be shown how this can be done in a practical way.

The present system of soliciting life insurance and collecting the industrial insurance premiums is exceedingly expensive. There are at least 4,000 industrial agents at work in Massachusetts whose salaries and expenses must be paid for by the working people who take out these policies; probably 35 or 40 cents out of each dollar collected for this insurance goes not to buy actual insurance protection, but is spent to pay the expenses of solicitation, collection of premiums and management. It has been said that the reason why life insurance agents are necessary is because it is the hardest thing in the world to drive common sense into the mind of the average man. Savings Bank Life Insurance has proved that it is possible to furnish best insurance at a very low cost. The fundamental problem is not only to acquaint the peo people with this fact, but to induce them to take advantage of it. The movement is carried on in the faith that as the people learn about savings bank life insurance they will be intelligent enough to make use of it.

JUDSON SENTENCED.

Daniel H. Judson, formerly of Wollaston, was sentenced to six to nine years in States prison by Judge Chase in the Superior Court at Boston on Tuesday. He pleaded guilty to assault with intent to rob John Gately, being armed. His pal, William J. Gainey was given a term of from seven to ten years. Each declared their downfall was due to the use of morphine. The assault took place in a Roxbury loan office.

(ADVERTISE.)

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Corkscrew Skirts—Braid Trimmings—New Suiting Materials—Some Notable Combinations.

One of the notable features of the latest fashionable skirt is the tendency toward spiral trimmings. These are usually in the form of straight gathered flounces that encircle the skirt—corkscrew fashion—from the knee up, sometimes finishing at the waist, but more often ending part way up after about three twists. This is an excellent way to use handsome old lace flounces, too precious to be cut, and lends itself well to remodelling a last year's dress that would now appear painfully plain at the hips. Matching material is used, or a complete contrast in texture and color may be employed. The same color tone in silk and woolen fabrics is a favorite combination, and where the skirt is silk and the corkscrew cloth, the flounces are usually cut circular, and put on without fullness. Silk ruffles, or those of net silk bound or trimmed with quilling are used in this fashion.

THE USE OF NET.

It is said that milliners give the cue to dressmakers for coming styles, at any rate hat styles are shown rather earlier than dresses, and most women buy the Spring hat before purchasing the new suit though some clever planners reverse this. That dress and hat shall harmonize in line is essential if a woman is to look her best, for it is what the French term the "Toute" or total effect that counts far more than any detail of the toilet.

The above designs are by The McCall Company, New York, Designers and Makers of McCall Patterns.

Net is very much to the fore both for dress and millinery purpose. For the latter dainty tulles and malines are first favorites. These are now made waterproof and are not by any means the perishable materials that they appear.

NEW SUITS AND MATERIALS.

Gabardine a fine serge cord woolen, is perhaps the leading favorite for handsome suits that go anywhere, yet stand a lot of use. Some of the most attractive are combined with soft messaline or chiffon taffeta. The silk constituting a flaring tripple tunic ending above the knee, and the ruffles that edge the jaunty loose hanging Eton coat that is tremendously popular. Short coats are decidedly in the lead for suits, yet many of these are quite long in the back, sometimes to half the skirt length. The majority however finished at the hip line or shorter, and practically all models hang in loose straight lines. Sometimes a tassel or other heavy ornament weights the stole like ends of the flat back panel, holding it in correct position and lending a touch of novelty to the trimming.

A STYLISH APPEARANCE.

No woman who wishes to appear up-to date in style can afford to neglect her silhouette, or general outline. This depends more on the foundations than upon any detail of the outer apparel. If the lines of the figure are distorted by an old fashioned misfit corset the most elegant gown will look dowdy, while the simplest little home built frock is attractive topping dainty underwear and a correctly shaped corset. The day of buying these garments on chance is past. Today one can be sure of authoritative styles, as new Warner rust-proof models are exhibited twice a year in March and September. They are not expensive, come in a variety of finishings, and whatever the price you pay the shape is guaranteed to represent the latest correct style lines, secured from trained designers resident in Paris and skillfully adapted to suit the American woman. This means an immense expenditure, possible only to the largest concern, yet it probably pays the manufacturer, since it surely pleases clever dressers.

BRAID TRIMMINGS.

We are liable to see a good deal of colored braid trimming as the season progresses, since Paris is now using this lavishly on suits and gowns. Some of the braid is six inches wide, checked, striped, or plaided, often in gorgeous colorings. It forms deep girdles, wide cuffs, turn-over collars and effective facings for rippling tunics of dark hued materials, giving color and life to such sombre costumes. It is especially happy as a trimming for dark blue serge, and this materials was never more in demand Red, yellow or brilliant green is used for contrast with frocks or suits of the serge. The V neck of blouse or coat is filled in with ruffles of net, and at the point there is apt to be a Chinese tassel with frings of gaily colored silk, or the effect is secured by wearing some of the many barbaric Oriental neck ornaments that all the shops are displaying in a profusion of striking styles. At first women were a bit shy at adopting these, but they line up so perfectly with present modes that now nearly every other girl one meets is wearing them in one form or another. They turn a gloomy dress at once into gaiety.

Rosalind May.

New York, March 7. 1914.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

WE HAVE FAITH IN THIS STOMACH REMEDY

A woman customer said to us the other day, "Say, you ought to tell everyone in town about Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. I would myself if I could." That set us to thinking. So many people have used them and have so enthusiastically sounded their praises both to us and their friends, that we had an idea you all knew about them. But, in the chance that some of you who suffer from indigestion, heartburn, dyspepsia, or some other stomach complaint, don't know about them—we are writing this.

They contain Bismuth and Pepsin, two of the greatest digestive aids known to medical science. They soothe and comfort the stomach, promote the secretion of gastric juice, help to quickly digest the food and convert it into rich, red blood, and improve the action of the bowels. We believe them to be the best remedy made for indigestion and dyspepsia. We certainly wouldn't offer them to you entirely at our risk unless we felt sure they would do you a lot of good. If Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets do not relieve your indigestion, check the heartburn, and make it possible for you to eat what you like whenever you like, come back and get your money.

Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only at our store. Three sizes, 25c, 50c, and $1.00.

Edward J. Murphy, 1415 Hancock Cor. Granite Sts., Quincy, Mass.

Try an Advertisement in
The Quincy Daily Ledger
Through the Daily Newspaper the Advertiser can make a local and intimate appeal to his prospective customer in his own community and in his own vernacular.
The Newspaper Advertisement is not buried—it is accessible. The Newspaper Advertisement of a commodity continually or daily needed is read by the very people whose continual or daily need the Advertiser desires to supply. The Newspaper Advertisement may be seen thirty times a month—it is not limited to one appearance.
Geo. W. Prescott Publishing Company
1424 Hancock Street, -- Quincy, Mass.

Gaucho and Gringo.

The gaucho (now nearly extinct) was the cowboy of the Argentine pampas, a half wild fellow who, dressed in his "poncho," spent his entire time looking after the great droves of cattle that roamed over the South American plains. "Gringo" is a term applied by the South Americans to a North American or Englishman and sometimes by the people of Mexico to an American.

In the Book Department.

"You advertise satisfaction or money refunded."

"Yes, madam."

"Well, I'm not satisfied with the way this novel turns out. The heroine married the wrong man, so I'd like my money back, please."—Pittsburgh Post.

Seeking the Lost.

"What is that poet gabbling about?"

"His lost Lenore."

"He'd better put an ad. in the lost column. By the way, what is a lenore?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Babies' Good Trait.

Another good thing about babies is that they never go around telling the smart things their daddies said.—Galveston News.

Hard work is still the road to prosperity, and there is no other.—Benjamin Franklin.

Sheriff's Sale.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
NORFOLK, ss.

Quincy, February 13, A. D., 1914.

Seized on execution and will be sold at public auction on Saturday the 28th day of March, A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock A. M., at my residence, No. 163 Franklin Street, in said Quincy, all the right, title and interest which Albert H. Hall had (not exempt by law from attachment or levy on execution) on the said 13th day of February, at eleven o'clock and fifty minutes A. M. being the time the same was seized on execution, in and to the following described real estate, to wit:—

Being property registered in Land Court, Norfolk Registry District, Certificate No. 1082, Registry Book No. 6, page 1082, and described as follows:—A certain parcel of land in that part of Quincy called Atlantic, bounded—Southerly by Appleton Street, Seventy (70) feet; Westerly by land now or formerly of Mary Gallagher, One hundred twenty--three and 70-100 (123.70) feet; Northerly by land now or formerly of Alexander L. Hill, seventy and 6-100 (70.06) feet; and Easterly by land now or formerly of Mary R. Lord, one hundred twenty-six and 60-100 (126.60) feet; said parcel is shown as Lot A, on a plan drawn by Ernest W. Branch, Civil Engineer, dated June 19, 1909, a copy of a portion of which is filed in Norfolk Registry District with the original certificate No. 775 in Vol. 4.

GEORGE H. FIELD,
Deputy Sheriff
March 12-3t 12-17-26

WOLLASTON PARK
WHY NOT HAVE THE
QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
LEFT AT YOUR HOME
EVERY AFTERNOON
BY A RELIABLE BOY
GEORGE COBB
116 KEMPER STREET
Telephone Quincy 1965 M
Will Deliver Anywhere in the Park
→ TRY HIM ←

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Generally fair Friday and Saturday with high temperature.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	6.01
Sun sets	5.48
Length of day	11.47
Moon sets	8.06
High water, A. M.	12.00
High water, P. M.	12.55
Days increase 2 hours, 41 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	35 degrees
Mar. 12 1913,	48 degrees
Mar. 12, 1912,	41 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

CLAN MacGREGOR WIN.

Clan MacGregor of Quincy beat Clan Farquharson of South Boston in the Scottish Clans Greater Boston league match rolled Wednesday night at the Coliseum alleys. The visitors took the first point but lost the next two by enough margin to drop the total. Birnie was the only man of the two teams to triple. His 113 single was high.

CLAN MacGREGOR.

Birnie	87	113	100	300
Dell	76	101	80	257
McKenzie	96	77	78	251
McLean	81	101	111	293
Drummond	80	96	87	263
	420	488	456	1364

CLAN FARQUHARSON.

S. Ferguson	94	78	74	246
P. John	79	73	88	240
Dolan	84	97	81	262
C. Ferguson	96	75	103	274
M. Ferguson	77	99	85	261
	430	422	431	1283

SCHOOL LETTERS.

Members of the first and second basket ball teams will receive school letters and the 1915 team which won the interclass championship will be given class numerals at Quincy High school. The presentation will take place within a few weeks.

The players who will receive Q's for work on the first team are Captain James Jenkins, Leon White, Horton Page, Gilbert Hamlin, Willard Crocker, Earl Bates, John L. Martin and Manager Frederick Atwood.

The second team Q's will be awarded to Wesley Brown, Charles Mullin, Frederick Roache, James Matheson, Lincoln Crosscup, William Welsford and William Cummings.

The numerals of the 1915 class will go to Thomas Barstow, David Morrison, Frederick Roache, Albert McDonald, Loyal Safford, Arthur Bowen, Robert Davis.

Frederick Roache of the second and champ team has been chosen as manager for next season.

☞PRATT'S BREAD made of the best flour by the best bakers. Your grocer.

CHICHESTER S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-ches-ter's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TERS DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 35 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

MY SLOGAN
for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

TENNIS CLUB BOWLING

Points for Jenner, Baker and Hoxie Teams

Jenner's total of 327 was high in the weekly Wollaston Tennis Club matches at the Coliseum alleys Wednesday night. He led Estes, his nearest man, by 13 pins. His high single was 120, made as a final to pretty rolling. His team took only three of the four points from the Greens, despite his score in the third single which stood alone against three less than 80 strings and one 92 string, totaling 441, 36 short of the Greens.

CAPT. JENNER.

Oldham	90	96	74	260
Baker	78	82	92	252
Ela	82	81	78	241
A. Raymond	92	96	77	265
Jenner	94	113	120	327
	436	468	441	1345

CAPT. GREEN.

Murray	81	81	107	269
Hiller	79	78	97	254
W. Raymond	71	88	96	255
Brown	90	83	88	261
Green	96	74	89	259
	417	404	477	1298

Captain Baker and his men had plain sailing from the start and their total, which closed a four point victory, was 129 better than made by Captain Litchfields men.

CAPT. BAKER.

Powers	100	95	94	289
Hutton	91	86	82	259
Carr	71	71	76	218
Estes	111	105	98	314
C. Baker	88	92	102	282
	461	449	452	1362

CAPT. LITCHFIELD.

Geddes	87	87	87	261
Nickerson	99	86	101	286
Cranshaw	52	69	70	191
Crossby	85	79	83	247
Litchfield	95	71	82	248
	418	392	423	1233

No one tripled in the Hoxie-Munroe match which went to the former, 4 to 0. The ten men made ordinary showings.

CAPT. HOXIE.

Bartlett	85	85	86	256
Albee	84	77	71	232
Smith	92	90	95	277
Hillman	78	88	89	255
Hoxie	88	98	89	275
	427	438	430	1295

CAPT. MONROE.

R Barker	75	64	73	212
L. Smith	78	92	75	245
Elson	77	66	81	224
Gardner	89	70	83	242
Munroe	90	105	77	272
	409	397	389	1195

TOTAL OF 1445.

The City Square Specials got the highest team total made at the City Square alleys this season when they defeated the Car Men Wednesday night. Their mark was 1445. Bergfors was high man with 306.

CITY SQUARE SPECIALS.

Olsen	88	98	99	285
Nodquist	100	86	91	277
Erickson	105	100	96	301
Johnson	92	99	85	276
Bergfors	109	97	100	306
	494	480	471	1445

CARMEN.

Lavoie	88	76	91	255
Ames	83	85	82	250
Cappeline	72	102	91	265
Davey	93	96	91	280
Hennessey	101	86	96	283
	437	445	451	1333

FORE RIVER LEAGUE.

The Machine Floor forfeited four points to the Hull Draftsmen at the Coliseum alleys Wednesday night in a postponed Fore River league match. The visitors rolled strings of 449, 434, and 419, a total of 1302. Westland was high on singles with 102, and on totals with 299.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS?
ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Coldin One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

In the News and Out of the Ordinary

Burglars in the house of John C. Sigler, at Clifton, N. J., passed up wines of rare vintage and bottled beer and drank two bottles of milk.

Fred Steffano of Hastings, N. Y., was sent to jail for six months for breaking his father's skull for smoking one of the son's five cent cigars.

An enterprising dentist in Paris advertises his services as follows: Ordinary extraction, 60 cents; painless extraction, $1; extraction to music, $4.

C. E. Anderson of Weston, W. Va., whose store was cleaned out by raiders during the civil war, has received 75 cents due him on a pair of shoes he sold on time in 1860.

CITY'S TRADE CELEBRATION NATIONAL IN ITS SCOPE

Features of New York Tercentenary Program March 27 to Oct. 11.

New York city's celebration of the tercentenary of the beginning of her commercial prowess will open on March 27, which is the three hundredth anniversary of the granting of its first general charter for regular commerce, and is scheduled to continue for six months. The celebration will close on Oct. 11, the tercentenary of the granting to New Netherlands of the first special charter for trading.

In April and May the celebration will be confined to commemorative exercises in public schools and higher institutions of learning, including a comparative exhibition of commercial education in America and foreign countries. In June, July and August it is proposed to hold a series of exhibitions of the material resources of the various states.

Notwithstanding the celebrations in San Francisco in 1915 of the opening of the Panama canal, New York will celebrate the practical completion of the canal as a part of the tercentenary program. In conjunction with this will be the holding of a pan-American congress for discussion of trade relations with South American republics.

The celebration will assume another broad phase in the week of Sept. 14, when there will be a musical festival to commemorate the century of peace between English speaking peoples. The latter part of September will be given over to a series of parades.

There will be a pageant of states, a merchants and manufacturers' parade, an automobile parade, a pageant of cities and a naval parade. In conjunction with the naval parade will be the laying of the cornerstone of a permanent memorial of some kind, the nature of which has not yet been decided.

Interspersed in the program are arrangements for various local features, including celebrations at all of the cities along the Erie canal, the Hudson river and in the southern counties in New York state. There will in effect be a national significance to the celebration, since the opening of the port of New York to chartered commerce marked practically the beginning of the commercial life of the entire country.

NEW KIND OF LIFE PRESERVER

Inventor Says It Will Sustain One a Week In Roughest Seas.

As the result of a remarkable demonstration of a new sort of life preserver Representative J. M. Gudger, Jr., of North Carolina will ask the government to assign an expert to the task of looking into the possibilities of the device as an article which will minimize the dangers of sea travel. The inventor is J. W. Buchanan of Asheville, N. C. The preserver is in the form of a union suit and is fleece lined and vulcanized. W. J. Staples, with a preserver on, remained in the ice cold water of the Swannanoa river over an hour, while those who witnessed the demonstration shivered in the cold as they stood in two inches of snow.

The inventor claims that the suit will keep the wearer alive in the ocean for more than a week, regardless of the roughness of the waves or the temperature of the water. It has a compartment for the storage of food and drink of sufficient quantity to last a person a week.

WILL GRADUATE WHEN 100.

Erstwhile Preacher Began Four Year University Course at Ninety-six.

A college "boy" who will be graduated from the University of California the year in which he becomes 100 years old lives at Pasadena, Cal. He is the Rev. David Jordan Higgins, who was colonel of the Twenty-fourth Ohio Volunteer infantry in the early part of the civil war and now is a retired preacher of the Methodist Episcopal church.

At the age of ninety-four Dr. Higgins completed a four year course of study in the University of California, and a few weeks ago entered upon another four year course of study in the same institution to acquire the degree of doctor of philosophy. He will be graduated when he is just 100 years old, or, as he himself puts it, when he is "100 years young."

MISSING MAN'S BODY IS FOUND

Jewelry Salesman Slain and Cut Up by Armenians

ROBBERY PROBABLE MOTIVE

Four Men Held Without Bail After Being Put Through Third Degree, Which Results In Confession and Discovery of Mutilated Remains Buried In Woods

Lawrence, Mass., March 12.—The murdered and mutilated body of John K. Shamlian, a Boston jewelry salesman, was found last night wrapped in four separate bundles, swathed in luridly colored comforters, in a lonely spot in the woods in Frye Village, three miles from Lawrence, where it has lain partially exposed since the murder was committed on the night of Feb. 9.

The crime was committed, according to the confession of two of his partners, by Bedros Takdarian, aged 18, in an Armenian clubroom in this city, almost opposite police headquarters, following a quarrel, which was believed to have been faked to secure an opportunity to kill Shamlian for the bag of jewelry he carried.

Takdarian's partners in the crime were Garabed Barbarian, aged 20, and John Ardania, all Armenian mill workers. The latter, however, has not worked in the mills of late, but is known as a sporting man and a gambler among his people.

These three, with Mike Zakoian, aged 26, keeper of a coffee house, were put through a third degree by Captain Sullivan, Inspectors Vose, Mulhare and Byon, who were responsible for clearing up the mystery.

The confessions resulted and they were immediately booked on a charge of murder and held without bail. It is believed the charge against Zakoian will be changed, but he will be held as a material witness. All the culprits agree that while he knew of the crime, he had nothing to do with its commission.

For several weeks the Lawrence police inspectors have, been putting Zakoian through periodical third degrees concerning the disappearance of Shamlian, who was last seen alive in his coffee house on the night of Feb. 9 at 9 o'clock.

According to the story which the police said the men had told, Shamlian tried to steal $10 from one of them while they were trying to arrange for the sale of a watch, and had assaulted another of their number with a poker when he remonstrated.

An attack upon Shamlian with a hammer resulted in his death. Then, in order to hide evidences of the crime, the body was cut to pieces and carried to the woods.

"ARMY" GOES SUPPERLESS

County Authorities Forbid Taking Food to Kelley's Followers

Sacramento, Cal., March 12.—"General" Kelley's army, temporarily detained on its march toward Washington, went to bed supperless last night in the shacks that form its camp in Yolo county, just across the Sacramento river.

Sacramento county not only officially shut off the food supply which had been contributed by the county, but issue an order forbidding any person conveying supplies across the bridge beyond which the Industrial Workers were camped.

This move was ordered in the belief that it would quickly result in the disintegration of the army.

CURFEW BILL DEAD

Measure Before Bay State Legislature Killed by Senators

Boston, March 12.—The curfew bill, presented to the general court to correct the habits of the young, was killed on a voice vote in the senate.

The bill had been turned down by the committee on social welfare. It was presented as a result of complaints that young girls were too much on the streets at night.

The bill provided that no child under the age of 16 years should be out after 9 o'clock unless accompanied by parent or guardian or by written permission.

Gallant Sailors Rewarded

London, March 12.—The king awarded the silver medal for gallantry in saving life at sea to 232 officers and men of the vessels forming the rescue fleet that went to the aid of the burning Volturno. The board of trade presented pieces of plate to the captains and officers and $15 each to 200 seamen.

Dalton "Slave" Case Dropped

San Francisco, March 12.—Government officials announced there would be no prosecution of Jack Dalton manager of Marie Dressler, the commedienne, on a charge of violating the white slave law.

Saws Wood at 104

Syracuse, N. Y., March 12.—Samuel Keener celebrated his 104th birthday by sawing nearly a cord of wood. He has never used tobacco or liquor.

Off For South America

Hamburg, March 12.—Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia left here on board the steamship Kap Trafalgar for South America.

ELOPERS ARE CAUGHT

Had Fled Fifty Miles In Sleigh With Three Children

Charlestown, N. H., March 12.—The police of Granville, N. Y., nipped in the bud the most sensational and unusual elopement in the history of New Hampshire.

After fleeing more than fifty miles in a stolen sleigh across several snow-covered mountain ranges, the adventurous couple, said to be Ada Hall and Fred Lovell of Lebanon, N. H., were arrested in Granville with three of the woman's children.

While police officers all over New England were searching for them to recover the horses and sleigh, they arrived at Little Granville, N. Y. The two horses were tired out when they drove into the farmyard of Mrs. John Hellett and offered to sell the outfit.

Mrs. Hellett gave them a horse and carryall and $100 in cash for the stolen animals and then notified the police who arrested the couple.

Late Monday afternoon the woman hired the horses and sleigh from W. S. Kimball, owner of a stable here.

NEGOTIATIONS BLOCKED

No Prospect of Speedy Settlement of New Haven's Affairs

Washington, March 12.—New Haven affairs have reached a stage in which none of the parties to the negotiation with the department of justice can or will bring about a settlement.

Unless something occurs to change the attitude of either the attorney general, the governor of Massachusetts or the New Haven directorate, the negotiations are in danger of coming to nought. Steps are being taken to try to prevent such a catastrophe, but it may be several days before any change in the situation can be made.

The statement of the New Haven road, received by the department of justice, has not affected the general situation materially, but may become important in a possible reopening of negotiations.

ROCKHILL IN LINE FOR MOORE'S POST

Envoy May Become Counsellor of State Department

Washington, March 12.—William W. Rockhill, one-time ambassador to Turkey, is being looked upon as a possible successor to John B. Moore, who resigned last week as counsellor of the state department. President Wilson, it is understood, is considering nominating him to the place.

Rockhill, although relieved of his post in Turkey when the Wilson administration came into power, is held in high regard by the officials here as an authority on affairs of state.

Rockhill is a Republican, but it is said that this fact would play no part in his selection.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT

Empty Guns Cause Man to Surrender While Robbing Safe

Brattleboro, Vt., March 12.—How Postmaster Perley C. Crosier of Halifax, aided by his wife, captured an alleged burglar, was told in court when John F. Anderson was arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering the Crosier store, in which the postoffice is located. Anderson was held in bonds of $2000 and will be turned over to the federal officials.

The postmaster, who lives above the store, said he was awakened by a strange noise, and, on investigating, found a man rifling the postoffice safe. He aimed a shotgun at the intruder and his wife brandished a revolver. Neither weapon was loaded, but the man surrendered. In his pockets the authorities found a roll of $89, the amount missing from the safe.

STILL DIGGING FOR BODIES

Number of Dead In St. Louis Fire Is Placed at Thirty

St. Louis, March 12.—Work of searching the ruins of the Missouri Athletic club for the bodies of the victims makes slow progress. The number at the morgue is ten.

Fire Chief Swingley says it would require two or three days to reach the other bodies. Faster progress is declared impossible because of the danger that the roof may collapse.

A conservative estimate places the number of dead at thirty, although some officers of the club think it may reach forty-five.

"BACK TO THE SOIL"

Four Thousand Jobless Men May Get Work on Farms

Albany, March 12.—New York's plan of getting the unemployed in the big cities of the state "back to the soil" was explained by Commissioner of Agriculture Hudson, who is working with Governor Glynn on the plan of transporting jobless men to farms.

Work on farms is expected to be furnished to more than 4000 men.

Principles.

We must be careful to have our principles and be ready to die for them. But we must be careful not to label our prejudices "principles" and proceed to die for them.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WELL?

Many Quincy People Know the Importance of Healthy Kidneys.

The kidneys filter the blood.
They work night and day.
Well kidneys remove impurities.
Weak kidneys allow impurities to multiply.
No kidney ills should be neglected.
There is possible danger in delay.
If you have backache or urinary troubles,
If you are nervous, dizzy or worn out,
Begin treating your kidneys at once;
Use a proven kidney remedy.
None endorsed like Doan's Kidney Pills.
Recommended by thousands.
Proved by Quincy testimony.
Mrs. George Atkinson, 80 Main street, Quincy, Mass., says: "One of my family had trouble from weak Kidneys, caused by his work. He also suffered from backache. He used six boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured him. He don't complain at all now. We give all the credit for this cure to Doan's Kidney Pills. We keep a supply in the house all the time."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name Doan's— and take no other.

Call Quincy 501--W
If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN. upholsterer, 1060 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School
Mar. 4 tf

LEWIS N CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED CLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

In effect Nov. 16, 1913

The letters in the same line as the figures below stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows.

a Wollaston	f Harrison Square
b Norfolk Downs	g Savin Hill
c Atlantic	h Cro[illegible] Avenue
d Neponset	i South Boston
e Pope's Hill	r Quincy Adams
* Saturdays Only	† Except Saturday

Exp.—Express train.

TO BOSTON			FROM BOSTON
Leave	Stop	Arrive	Leave	Stop	Arrive
r 5 14 abcdefghi		5 41	5 44 ihgfedeba		6 14 r
r 6 19 abci		6 40	6 09 ihgfedeba		6 39 r
r 6 32 e		6 49	6 29 a		6 47
			6 47 Exp		7 04
r 6 46 abcf		7 00	7 14 hgfedeba		7 41 r
r 7 08 abcd		7 30	7 34 a		7 52
7 28 a		7 46	7 37 a		7 56
r 7 32 Exp		7 49	7 44 e		8 03 r
r 7 42 ab		8 00	8 34 cba		8 55 r
7 55 a		8 12	8 44 b		9 02
r 8 13 abc		8 32	9 00 fedba		9 32 r
8 21 a		8 41	9 44 a		10 01 r
r 8 33 a		50	10 14 ihgfedeba		10 41 r
r 8 59 ad		20	10 54 Exp		11 10
r 9 18 abc		9 39	11 14 hgfedeba		11 41 r
r 10 04 a		10 21	11 49 a		12 07
r 10 19 abcdefghi		10 45	12 14 hgfedeba		12 41 r
11 12 a		11 28	12 20 a		12 38
11 24 abcdefgh		11 50	12 50 Exp		1 06
12 04 a		12 20	1 16 fedeba		1 40 r
			* 1 32 a		1 50
r 12 27 abcdefghi		12 53	1 44 a		2 01
c 1 16 a		1 34	2 14 fedeba		2 37 r
2 04 a		2 20	2 34 Exp		2 50
r 2 19 abcdefgh		2 45	3 14 hgfedeba		3 40 r
r 3 13 Exp		3 28	3 44 a		4 02
4 01 a		4 20	4 12 fedeba		4 35 r
r 4 26 abcdefgh		4 53	4 15 a		4 52
5 02 a		5 19	4 40 c		4 58
r 5 30 abcdefg		5 55	4 55 a		5 11
6 04 a		6 21	5 13 a		5 32
6 12 ab		6 32	5 19 bgfeca		5 43
6 57 a		7 15	5 28 ba		5 46 r
r 7 22 Exp		7 39	5 40		5 57
7 29 ab		7 48	5 58 a		6 17 r
r 8 09 abcdef		8 32	6 01 ledeb		6 24
9 00 a		9 18	6 16 a		6 35
r 9 10 abc		9 29	6 30 ecba		6 52 r
* 9 17 Exp.		9 32	6 59 fedeba		7 24 r
r 10 07 abcdef		10 30	7 11 a		7 28
* 10 19 a		10 37	8 04 fedeba		8 28 r
11 13 a		11 30	* 8 19 Exp		8 35
r 11 30 abcd		11 50	9 12 a		9 37
			9 34 b		9 53 r
			10 03 ba		10 24
			10 34 fedeba		11 02 r
			*11 06 a		11 25 r
			†11 09 fedeba		11 35 r
			*11 25 ba		11 43 r
			†11 29 ba		11 49
			12 05 cba		12 26 r

SUNDAYS

r 7 43 abc		8 03	6 29 ba		6 48 r
8 39 Exp		8 45	8 34 cba		8 55
r 8 46 abcdefghi		9 13	10 39 cba		10 59 r
r 9 13 abc		9 33	12 14 ihgfedeba		12 42
9 31 a		9 47	12 44 Exp		1 01
10 25 ac		10 42	2 29 ihgfedeba		1 57 r
11 08 Exp		11 25	2 14 hgfedeba		2 42 r
r 11 16 abcdefghi		11 43	2 44 a		3 02
1 04 a		1 23	3 14 ihgfedeba		3 42 r
r 1 16 abcdefgh		1 43	4 26 cba		4 48 r
r 3 10 abc		3 30	5 14 ihgfedeba		5 42 r
r 4 16 abcdefghi		4 42	6 09 Exp		6 25
4 59 ab		5 16	6 14 ihgfedeba		6 42 r
5 06		5 23	7 02 qba		7 22 r
6 16 abcdefghi		6 43	8 14 ihgfedeba		8 41 r
7 21 Exp		7 36	8 39 a		8 56 r
7 29 abcdefghi		7 55	8 49 Exp		9 05
r 8 16 abcdefghi		8 43	9 29 ihgfedeba		9 57 r
9 46 a		10 04	10 44 cba		11 04 r
a 46 abc		11 05

MAINE POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES
68 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar,
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 6, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.35 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every 60 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.59 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 6.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street,—5.45 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 12.30 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 6.20, 6.50, 6.35 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave, Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sundays 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55 8.25, 8.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 11.00 P. M.

THOMAS SAMMON, Superintendent

KIDNAPED BY AN AIR MAN

Novel Experience of a Retired Sea Captain

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"Ho—hum!" yawned Captain Lew Phinney as he tipped back in his chair and scanned the heavens with a calculating eye. "I reckon it's going to rain, Lindy."

Mrs. Phinney looked up from her stocking basket and her thin nose curled scornfully.

"Seem's if I hadn't nothing better to do than to watch the weather I'd—find something," she complained.

The front legs of the captain's chair struck the plazza floor with a sudden jarring sound. His good natured face was dark with anger.

"Lindy," he said solemnly, "when I came back from that last v'yge to Cuby, with malarial fever eating the life out of me, we decided that we had money enough to keep us comfortably off the rest of our days. I ain't had no reason to change my mind about it, and as for lazying around, you ain't fair to me.

"SAFE AS A ROCKING CHAIR WITH ME," HE BOASTED.

"I'm up at dawn every morning, and if I get my chores all done by 8 o'clock and am ready to help you with yours, why, I'm entitled to loaf the rest of the time if I want to, but I don't really do much loafin'," he went on anxiously. "You remember, Lindy, I made $15 last month selling fish. If you'd only consent to my going into business with Ham Terrell we could make a tidy sum in that boat building place of his. And"—

Here Lindy Phinney interrupted with shrill objections to her husband's investing any part of his savings in the boat building business, although it was well known that Ham Terrell was rushed with orders and could make money "hand over fist" if he only had sufficient capital to work with.

At last the captain jammed his blue cloth cap on his bald head, and, with a last indignant glance at his wife, he trotted down the path.

Soon he came to the end of the road which had terminated in a wide rolling field flanked on all sides by tall woods. In the middle of the grassy field was a large monoplane, resting lightly on its four rubber tired landing wheels. Fussing around the machine was a young man clothed in a snug fitting aviator's suit with a helmet pushed back from his carroty hair.

The aviator spied the captain at the same moment, and he came forward with outstretched hand and a most engaging smile of welcome.

"Well, Captain Phinney, how do you do?" he asked heartily.

"Middling well. How are you?" asked the captain dazedly, for he had no recollection of the stranger. "I reckon it's one of them fresh summer boarders that used to guy me last year," he muttered to himself.

"Fine—fine—you got my message, eh?"

"Message?" echoed the captain.

"Why, yes. I sent a boy down to your place asking you to come up here and try a trip in my new aeroplane—some beauty, eh?"

"I never got your note," returned the captain slowly. "I reckon it came after I left the house. Funny you should invite me to take a ride with you, because, hang it all, young man, I can't remember a thing about you—so there!"

The youth laughed cheerfully.

"Don't blame you a bit—there's so many redheaded chaps in the world," he said easily. "But I used to go fishing with you last summer, and I remember you said once that you'd sailed everything except an airship and you'd like to try one. So as I was flying over Squirrel harbor I thought I'd stop off and take you for a sail. Want to go?"

"Well, thunderation, Mr.—what's your name—eh?"

"Fales—Archie Fales, captain."

"Oh, yes! Well, Mr. Fales, I'd like to go mightily, so I would. No danger, eh?"

Fales laughed. "Safe as a rocking chair with me," he boasted. "You're as light as a feather, captain, and I'm something of a skeleton myself, so that's all to the good. Then there's that neat little aluminium cockpit where you can sit, and the seat for me is right behind."

Archie Fales buckled a strap around the captain's waist and started the motor. Then he climbed into his own seat, placed his hands on the control wheel, and in three minutes they were rocking over the uneven ground and rising obliquely to spiral upward until they reached the desired height.

Just as they lifted from the ground there came a shout from beneath, and Captain Phinney looked over and down to see the horrified upturned face of his wife, calling indistingaishable words after him. Her hands were outstretched, and behind her there ran scattering forms of men, women and children. So, after all, Captain Phinney's first flight into the blue sky was witnessed by a crowd of awed onlookers.

"I'm all right, Lindy!" called the captain as they flew up. But Lindy Phinney didn't hear a sound save the ominous droning of the monoplane's engine as the machine bore her husband away.

"By the Lord Harry, that's not a bad way to get rid of a nagging wife!" muttered old Samuel Flood as he stumped past the weeping Mrs. Phinney. Although the words were not addressed to her, Lindy heard them, and their dreadful import stilled the cries on her lips and sent her scurrying home to hide her fear and grief behind her own doors.

So she had nagged Lew into flying away from her. Perhaps he would never come back again! She was glad that she had heard from a neighbor of the projected flight. If she had not done so she would never have believed that her husband would have entered the flying machine and gone away without a farewell word. If he ever came back—well, she hoped her tongue had had a lesson. Never again would she nag him, for he was entitled to the rest that he had earned.

While Linda Phinney mourned her husband almost as if he had indeed died—for she had little faith in his return alive from this mad expedition—the monoplane had risen perhaps 500 feet in the air and was skimming along like a huge swallow above the village of Squirrel Harbor.

"This is some sport, eh, captain?" asked Fales, bending down to shout the words above the whir of the motor.

"Ye-e-e-s!" roared the captain. "I dunno as I can stand such an almighty lot of it, Mr. Fales."

Fales laughed. The captain only caught the tail end of the sound, but it made him turn around and look into the face of the aviator.

Beneath the concealing helmet, Fales' face looked sharp and white and peaked, and there was an evil grin dying away on his thin lips.

"Don't turn around that way unless you want a spill," he called sharply.

After that Captain Phinney sat with thoughtful eyes fixed on the distant hills which they were rapidly approaching. Squirrel Harbor and the blue waters of the sound had long since disappeared, and they were flying over a desolate, uncultivated region.

The captain felt a touch upon his shoulder. The machine had slowed down and was almost drifting along in the air current. Fales' face was close to his, and his eyes were distinctly dangerous.

"Captain Phinney," rasped Fales sharply, "I'll thank you for that $5,000"

"Five thousand dollars!" bellowed the captain. "What do you mean, you lunatic?"

"You know what I mean," retorted the other with deadly intensity in his tones. "I want the $5,000 that you were going to deliver to Jeremiah Fenwick this afternoon in payment for the schooner Isabelle. Hand it over!"

"I tell you I haven't got it!" insisted the captain. "I ain't got five thousand to invest in a rotten tub like the Isabelle! She ain't worth five hundred"—

"Shut up!" screamed the aviator through his teeth. "Now, see here, old man, no more fooling, understand? I brought you up here to get that five thousand, and if you don't give it to me—well, just look below there!"

Captain Phinney glanced over and shuddered. Below were the wicked rocks of Devil's hollow.

"If you don't—over you go!" laughed Fales harshly. "That's what I brought you up here for!"

"You did, eh?" blazed the captain wrathfully. "And how'll you explain the murder, eh?"

"Accident, regrettable, but unavoidable! Now that you understand my terms, captain, shell out!"

Captain Phinney laughed. "Young man, I reckon you've overreached yourself. Somehow you had word that Captain Phinney was going to Jeremiah Fenwick's to hand over $5,000 cash in payment for an old tub of a vessel. Well and good. Most any loafer in town knows that Captain Phinney always pays in cash for every deal he makes. Somebody tipped you to that information, and you waited there in Jeremiah's field thinking to waylay Captain Phinney, induce him to go for a ride with you in this thing-umbob and then hold him up for the money. After you got the money there would be a regrettable accident. It was a grand scheme, but you made one mistake in the beginning."

"Well," sneered Fales, "it wasn't that you didn't draw the money out of the bank, because my pal saw you do it, and"—

"The mistake you made," smiled Captain Phinney over his shoulder, "was that you tackled the wrong Captain Phinney. The one you wanted to rob is my brother, Captain Ben Phinney. He's got oceans of money and can afford to lose $5,000. I'm only poor Captain Lew, his younger brother. There's my name writ inside of my card from the lodge. See?"

Fales saw and turned a sickly yellow. There was a murderous look in his eyes.

"Over you go anyway!" he screamed angrily. "You'll tell this tale up and down the streets until"—

"Stop a minute!" bellowed Captain Phinney, turning suddenly in the slackened belt. His right hand flew up and rested on his left shoulder, and Fales looked into the round, blue barrel of a very efficient looking revolver.

"Get down to earta—quick!" ordered the captain in his quarter deck voice.

Fales snarled and reached forward. There was a report, and the upper part of his helmet was blown from his head. He darted back, his pale blue eyes starting with fear. He looked ridiculous with stiff locks of carroty hair sticking up through the torn helmet.

"You—old—bandit!" he gritted.

"You going to take me back to Squirrel Harbor?" roared the captain angrily.

Without a word Fales' feet pressed the rudder bar, and the monoplane circled widely and turned toward the southeast. As they fled toward home Captain Phinney observed the face of the aviator with growing surprise and recognition in his own ingenuous countenance.

"Ding bust it!" he suddenly yelled. "I've placed you at last, you cheap kidnaper! You're Jeremiah Fenwick's nephew—the one who stole $500 from him and ran away to study aviation. I guess you've studied it, too, and now you're studying how to get a whole lot of money without much effort. Well, young feller, here's my proposition: You land me safe and sound in Squirrel Harbor and I'll not say a word about this matter.

"I'll keep mum about it to everybody except my brother Ben, and I'll swear him to secrecy, too, provided that you spread these here wings of yours and fly away from these waters as far as your money will take you, see? If you don't, by cricky, I'll telephone to Nick Wayland, and he can write up the hull business for the New York newspaper he works for. Now what?"

Archie Fales scowled down at the determined little man behind the gun.

"You win," he said sullenly.

"You'll keep away from these waters?"

"Yes. You can bet I'm not going to place myself in a hazardous position," muttered Fales. "I've been offered a job in California, and I guess I'll take it."

"I advise you to," returned the captain heartily. "You'll find it a heap healthier out there than it is around here," he added significantly.

In silence they flew the rest of the way back to Squirrel Harbor, and it was a very much subdued aviator who shook hands with Captain Lew Phinney and saw him stiffly alight in Jeremiah Fenwick's field. A dark youth in leather jacket and helmet was waiting there. He glanced surprisedly

"GET DOWN TO EARTH—QUICK!" ORDERED THE CAPTAIN.

at the old sailor and stepped into the seat just vacated by the captain. The motor whirred, the monoplane glided away to rise for her flight, and the little crowd of villagers who had been waiting there for Captain Phinney's return gathered around his gallant little figure.

His keen eyes roved around in search of Lindy.

"She's gone home," volunteered somebody. So, after he had told them that he had had a most interesting trip in the air, but that he preferred the solid ground under his feet, next to a rolling deck, Captain Phinney sought his home.

Lindy welcome him back as one from the dead, and so noticeable is the change in her attitude toward her husband that many a henpecked husband of Squirrel Harbor threatens to take an air trip in hope of a cure for nagging wives. But Captain Phinney smiles secretly when he thinks of the hair raising danger of that thrilling ride and how narrow had been the margin that separated him from death in the old quarry.

Lindy's first words to him were:

"Oh, Lew, I've sent word to Ham Terrell that you're coming over to buy an interest in the business!"

PRESIDENT DOLES OUT HIS MINUTES

Mr. Wilson's Calling System Demands Brevity.

PERMITS NO "DROPPING IN"

Cabinet Officers and Senators the Only Ones Who Have Privilege—Visitors Received by Appointment Are Expected to Help Executive Economize His Time.

Dropping in to see the president and having a chat with him isn't nearly the popular pastime that it used to be. And as for going to the White House and telling your troubles—well, it simply isn't done. Most of the folks in Washington now can't even remember when that practice was in fashion. Getting in to see the president nowadays is an operation that has been put on the efficiency basis and that has the nicety, skill and precision in operation of the time tables of the planets. And as for seeing the president without having any legitimate business with him—why, that is a privilege reserved exclusively to cabinet officers and senators, and they are having more and more difficulty all the time in exercising it.

Mr. Wilson has a system all his own, says the New York Post. People say he is inaccessible, and so he is to persons who have no claim on his time. He guards his working hours and doles out minutes to those who can prove they have a claim to them. Senators and representatives do not have to tell their business to Mr. Wilson's secretary when they ask for an appointment, but everybody else does. Then the request for an appointment is laid before the president, and he approves it or not, as he sees fit. The president virtually never sees anybody except by appointment, and his appointment lists show all the persons he does see. Therefore it is easy to determine the measure of Mr. Wilson's accessibility.

Keeps Saturday For Holiday.

President Wilson does not make any engagements on Saturdays. He reserves that day for his holiday. On other days he arrives at the executive offices at about half past 9. He spends half an hour with his secretary looking at the morning's mail. At 10 o'clock precisely he begins to receive visitors by appointment. On his desk is a typewritten card showing his list of appointments for the day; carbon copies are on the desks of his secretaries, and another is posted in the outer waiting room. Any who chooses may come in and see with whom the president is talking. These appointments are seldom longer than fifteen minutes each; rarely they run to half an hour.

The caller is supposed to present himself promptly on time and to terminate his visit on the moment so that the next man on the list may not be kept waiting. The president usually indicates by some gesture or slight movement when the appointment has come to an end. There is a little clock before him on his desk. The last appointment invariably comes to an end at 1 o'clock, when the president goes to lunch. He is back in his office at 2 o'clock or, at the latest, half past 2. Usually he has one appointment after lunch and then goes out to play golf. Probably twice or three times a month the president makes an appointment in the evening. These evening appointments, however, are made on his own initiative and not by solicitation.

President Wilson gives only two days each week to general appointments. He follows a strict routine. To begin with, Tuesdays and Fridays are given over to cabinet meetings and appointments with members of the cabinet. Wednesday is reserved for conferences with members and committees of congress having in hand pending legislation in which the president is directly interested, and as the president does not visit his office on Saturdays that leaves only Mondays and Thursdays for the run of visitors. The president would not be enabled to see so many visitors as he does if he did not strictly economize his time and keep each of his callers within the limits allotted to him.

Here is a tip that may prove useful: If you have some matter of business to present to the president, obtain an appointment, get your little speech well prepared, compress it into the compactest and most succinct form, make it clear and simple and straightforward. Once you have said it to the president don't repeat and don't attempt to explain it. If it is coherent he will understand you, and he detests above all things having things repeated by way of explanation.

To China to Wed; Never Saw Fiance.

To become the bride of Arthur G. Bowman, whom she has never seen, Miss Hazel Hulse of Trenton, N. J., will go to China in May. Bowman's heart was won by the girl when he saw a photograph she sent to her brother, Aubrey Hulse, and to her uncle, Clarence Loveti, when the three Americans were struggling with the problems of custom regulations in China. Correspondence followed and then a proposal.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—New apartment of 6 rooms and bath, all improvements, maple floors, fire place, etc. 3 minutes to City Square. Apply 37 Bigelow street. Mar. 12-tf

TO LET—On Spear street, first floor 4 rooms, bath, furnace, set tubs, gas and set range. J. A. Weeden, Room 10, Greenleaf Block. 12-3t

TO LET—Two well furnished front rooms in good location. Only one minute walk from station and city square. Apply to Mrs. Johnson, 14 Upland road. 9-6t

TO LET—Upper apartment 7 rooms and bath, all improvements, Upland road. Apply at room 20 Adams building or 112 Upland road. 10-5t eod

TO LET—Single house 6 rooms, improvements, 492 South street. Apply 96 Arnold street. 10-3t

TO LET—6 room tenement, improvements. Apply 74 Arnold street, evenings. 9-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms for light housekeeping also single rooms. Apply at 44 Massachusetts avenue. 9-6t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

UPPER APARTMENT. In two-family house on Spear Street. Five rooms, bath, large pantry and closets, also open attic with finished heated chamber. Every improvement, electric light, furnace, range etc. Ready for immediate occupancy. Telephone Quincy 278 M or enquire mornings of Miss Prescott at the Ledger Office. 1po

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 3, Durgin & Merrill Block.
QUINCY

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones {Residence 541-5 Office 83-M

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ....

TO LET

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

TO LET—218 Franklin street, second floor tenement of 5 rooms and bath. Coal and gas range, all modern improvements. Fine location. Apply 220 Franklin street. 11-tf

TO LET—Flat of 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-6t

TO LET—At North Weymouth, flat of 5 rooms, some improvements, near salt water and good place to keep hens. Rent reasonable to small family. Few minutes to trains to Boston. Apply at 445 Washington street, Quincy. 11-6t

TO LET—Upper tenement of five rooms and bath at 109 Franklin street. Apply to Harry W. Tirrell. Telephone Quincy 432-M. 10-6t

TO LET—In private family to refined people, two very fine corner rooms, newly furnished, with separate baths. Near centre. Write L. B. K. Ledger Office. 9-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

TO LET—173 Whitwell street, half house, modern conveniences, $20 per month. Ready for immediate occupancy. Apply Penniman's Stable, Granite street. 19-tf

RUSSELL PARK — Commodious house of seven rooms, large hall and bath. Modern, every convenience open fireplace, furnace, range, set tubs, electric lights, cemented cellar, etc. Best residential neighborhood. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further details or key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office. tf lpo

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS—Take notice. We are selling all steel portable Automobile garages, camps and storehouses ready to put up. Prompt shipment. Send for quotations, M. W. Tilton, Box 362 Brockton. 11-6t

FOR SALE—22 ft. motor boat, 5 h. p. 2 cylinder engine. One year old. Price reasonable. A. D. Thompson, 47 Main street. 7-6t

FOR SALE—Three good work horses. Apply to John J. Gallagher, 230 Water street, Quincy Adams. 7-6t

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.
SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

FOUND

FOUND—Plain gold ring. Call at 71 Winthrop avenue, Wollaston. 12-1t

WANTED

WANTED—Two furnished, heated rooms and one small unfurnished room, with gas to be used as kitchennett. No children. Write X. O. Ledger office, Quincy. 12-3t O 14-1w

WANTED—2 bright energetic young ladies. Good pay, steady work. Apply in own handwriting, Oval Sharbono, 25 High School avenue, Quincy. 12-1t

BOY
MORE MONEY IN ONE DAY may be earned with me than during AN ENTIRE WEEK in other ways. Applicants must be bright, neatly dressed, clean hands and face. I want the MANLIEST boy in the city. Come early prepared for work. Apply to CARL H. LEANDER, 145 Whitwell St. Quincy, Mass. March 12—1t

WANTED—Girl to help in adult family of two. May go to own home every night. Good wages, work light and surroundings pleasant. 12 Elm Place, Quincy. Lower floor. 11-3t

WANTED—A maid would like a position for general work in small family, experienced Cook. Apply 45 Chestnut street, Quincy. 11-3t

WANTED—25 girls to be managers for agents $25 per week. Excellent chance for advancement. Fred Sharboro, P. O. Box 94, Nashua, N. H. 10-3t

WANTED—In first class family of two adults where there are three other maids kept a good cook; best of wages. L. M. Flynn, 1535 Hancock street, Oldest Employment Office in City. Phone 2235-W. 10-3t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York, N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

ANNOUNCEMENT.
Mrs. Nixon W. Elmer wishes to announce that her pianoforte class now being full she will be unable to take any additional pupils this season. 11--t

AGENTS LOOK—$5 to $10 per day handling fancy goods which are fully guaranteed. Send 10c coin for sample and particulars. Miss Lucy Moran, 18 Linden street, Nashua, N. H. 10-3t

BOSTON GLOBE— Picture Game Answers. Our best answers to entire set of 77 pictures, now ready. Price 50 cents. Coin, stamps or money order. The White Company, Melrose, Highlands, Lock Box Q. 10-6t

FASHIONABLE DRESSMAKING—Done with neatness and dispatch. Special attention given to evening gowns. Mrs. W. H. Russell, 392 Hancock street, Norfolk Downs. Telephone Quincy 493-W. 9-6t

JUST LOOK HERE
Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 886 M. Nov. 11-tf

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30. 5. 10. 15c.
Evenings at 7.45. 10. 15. 25c

THURS., FRI., SAT.
Program Subject to Change

MARY HIXON CO.
In the beautiful Scenic playlet
"ERIN'S ISLE"

LAMONT & MILHAN
Scenic Musical Novelty Duo

ELMIND EDDY
The Man on the Bounding Rope

KENNEY & HOLLIS
Two Comical Gentlemen

Eclair 2-Reel Feature
DEVIL FOX OF THE NORTH
A thrilling Drama of the North Woods

"A NARROW ESCAPE"
Joker Comedy

"AN OLD LOCKET"
A Delightful Drama

LOTS OF GOOD MUSIC

Mar. 11—3t

NEWSY BRIEFS

Annual ball tonight of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows.

The Pierian Sodality orchestra furnish music this evening at the concert of the Samoset club at Alpha hall.

Rev. William Hyde rector of Trinity church Weymouth preaches tonight at the Lenten service at St. Chrysostom's church.

A concert for members only was given by Wampatuck club of Hingham Wednesday evening.

Rev. O. M. Patton, rector of the Emmanuel church at Braintree preached the sermon at the Lenten services in Christ Episcopal church Wednesday evening. The attendance was good.

Charles H. Johnson gave his lecture on George Washington before the members and lady friends of the Town River Yacht Club at the club house, Wednesday evening.

Rev. Paul Smith of West Roxbury will lecture in the M. E. church course at West Quincy, Friday evening on "Our country, God's country." He comes highly recommended.

Mrs. Katie Cormack, of Town Hill street died Wednesday. Her funeral will be held from the home on Saturday. She is survived by her husband Henry Cormack and several children.

Div. 22, A. O. H., have completed preparations for a concert and lecture to be given in St. Marys hall on St. Patricks night. Chairman James Sweeney has the evening in charge He is assisted by an efficient committee.

PAID $15 FOR ASSAULT.

John Ogeda, who has been wanted by Chief Bradley of the Fore River police since early in January, came back Wednesday and gave himself up and was arraigned in court this morning for assault. The assault grew out of a dispute with another workman over money affairs, and after making the assault Ogeda skipped. After hearing the evidence in the case the court imposed a sentence of $15 which he paid.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

NOTICE.

Loyal Ladies Clan MacGregor No. 1 are requested to meet in Clan MacGregor hall at 1.45 P. M. Saturday, to attend the funeral of our late sister Katie Cormick at 53 Town Hill.

MARGARET ROSS, Pres.
MARJORIE MILNE, Sec.
12-2t

BIRTHS

TRASK—In West Quincy, March 11, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Trask of Willard street.

DEATHS

CORMACK—In Quincy, March 11, Katie H., wife of Henry Cormack in her 44th year.
Funeral services at late home 53 Town Hill street, Saturday, March 14 at 2.30 P. M. Relatives and friends invited. 12-2t

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Paine of Holbrook left this week for Palm Beach, Florida, to remain until May.

Dedham has a new High schoolhouse to accommodate 600 pupils.

William Plummer, a former Baltimore resident died at Dedham Tuesday in his 67th year.

Residents of Hull received with pleasure on Tuesday the announcement of Manager Frederick L. Lane of the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Co. that the boats would commence to run on for the season on April 18, one day earlier than usual.

Sharon's board of selectment and overseers of the poor organized with Alfred C. Sampson, as chairman of the selectmen and Charles E. Whitcomb as chairman of the overseers. C. Elbert Howard was appointed inspector of animals.

Harold Kaler was elected president of the High school class of 1913 at Sharon. The reunion will be in the Town hall Saturday evening.

Rev. Robert L. Welch of Haverhill, former pastor of the First Baptist church at Needham, has accepted a call to Battle Creek, Mich.

The Needham overseers of the poor are Alfred T. Baker chairman and Harry E. Walker secretary.

John J. Kelly has been elected president of the recently organized Columbus club at Dedham.

Ross Knight will drive the new auto fire engine at Hull. Its permanent headquarters are at Station No. 2, Hull Village.

A class of nine candidates were given their initiation by the officers of Ladies Auxiliary to Gen. James L. Bates Camp, S. of V., this week.

Edward L. Cutler of Milton and Miss Mary Perry Reed of Belmont were married Wednesday afternoon at the Unitarian church at Belmont. They go to France for their wedding trip and will later live in Milton.

LOCAL ATHLETES.

With the approach of the spring season attention is drawn to the Quincy athletes who performed well at all the meets last summer.

Allen Connor, the most promising miler in this city, will try the longer distances this year and is now training for the 10-mile run of the Cathedral Y. M. C. A. of Boston on April 11. William J. Kramer of the L. I. A. C. of New York is interested in his development and is corresponding with him continually.

Fred Kingsbury is expected to again fly the B. A. A. colors and should shade his marks. Kingsbury is now connected with a Boston dry goods house and his duties may interfere with his training hours.

The annual B. A. A. marathon will see Frank Bruce of the Italian A. C. of this city on the mark. Frank's heart is set on winning the event and most of his friends place him near the top of the first division.

George Sullivan, an employee at the Quincy post office, has not decided whether or not he will don the spikes. In the past George has made a fine showing in the quarter events. He commenced at Adams Academy where he was a valuable acquisition to his class in the track and field events, particularly the running broad jumps.

HIBERNIANS INVITED.

Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, pastor of St. Marys church has invited all of the Hibernian divisions in Quincy, Braintree and Randolph and their auxiliaries to his church on Sunday evening to hear a lecture by Rev. Fr. J. J. Ryan, P. R. of Cambridge, chaplain general of the Hibernians of the Boston diocese. Father McCoy has been flooded with acceptances and the indications are that the largest assembly of Hibernians the city has ever seen will be present.

SENDS GREETINGS.

Encouraging reports have been received from Rev. J. E. Lillback, pastor of the Finnish Congregational church at Brooklyn, N. Y., and a former local pastor. The work of Rev. Mr. Lillback takes him among the Finnish residents of the entire Brooklyn section and also as far as the immigration station. He is enjoying good health. The home of Rev. Mr. Lillback is at 744-44th street Brooklyn, N. Y.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

FOR FEMALE SUFFRAGE

Mrs. Albert Hall and Others Speak at Atlantic

At the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Benevolent Society of the Atlantic Memorial church on Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Albert Hall read a paper on Female Suffrage.

Mrs. Hall said in part:

"The reasons why women should vote, are the same as the reasons why men should vote, the same as the reasons for having a republic, rather than a monarchy. It is fair that the people who must obey laws should have a voice in choosing the law makers. A vote is merely a written expression of opinion.

"In this taking of a vote to get at the wish of the majority, certain classes of persons are passed over, whose opinions for one reason or other are thought not to be worth counting. In most of the states these classes are children, aliens, idiots, lunatics, criminals — and women.

"Of course no account ought to be taken of children, insane persons, or criminals, but is there any equally good reason why opinions of women should not be counted.

The great advantage of women in music, is that they add the soprano and alto to the tenor and bass. Women's voices, in the state, like womens voices in the choir, would be an introduction of a new element. This is recognized even by opponents, when they express the fear that equal suffrage would lead to "sentimental legislation." Men are superior to women in certain lines, and women are superior to men in others. The points in which American politics, at present are weak, are precisely the points where women are strong. There is no lack of business ability end executive talent, in our politics, but there is a dangerous lack of conscience and humanity.

One of the objections to Female Suffrage is that women have not physical strength to enforce laws; therefore they should not help make them; but one half of our male voters have not physical strength to enforce laws, and yet they help make them. Moral force, such as only women possess, is as necessary as physical force to national well being.

Will woman fail? Has she failed in any land, or any age, in the love of country? Does any man claim, in what ever respect he may excel woman that in capacity of affection she is not his superior? Man values the objects of his affections, for the comfort dignity and benefit they bestow upon him. Woman values herself for the comfort she can be to the objects of her affection. The love of country, the supremest human passion, will ever find, in woman's bosom, its most congenial home."

Mrs. Levi Turner spoke after Mrs. Hall and told her feeling of the laws as made by men. She illustrated by the Widows pension act being under the care of the "Overseers of the Poor," saying that men who made the laws did not think of the feelings of women, and that when a policeman, fireman, or army officer was pensioned he was not put in charge of the overseers of the poor.

Mrs. Harry Read, who presided at the meeting told of hearing Mrs. Pankhurst in the West and that she did not seem the militant so often described in the papers, but rather a loving, motherly, refined woman.

The hospitality committee were were Mrs. C. L. Letteney, Mrs. L. D. Gurney and Mrs. M. F. Baker.

MISS MARY McDONALD.

Many friends attended the funeral of Mary McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDonald, which was held this morning from her home at 12 Deldorf street. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Johns church by Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy and music was by the regular choir under the direction of John Mahon, organist. There were many floral remembrances from friends and the family. Burial was in St. Francis Xavier cemetery, Weymouth.

☞PRATT'S BREAD sales have increased because it satisfies. Your grocer.

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

MISSIONARY WORK AT HOME

Rev. Mr. Willmott Says There Is Big Field in Quincy

The regular meeting of Bethany Women's Union was held Wednesday from 11 to 5. Lunch was served at 12.30 in charge of Mrs. Charles England.

At 2.15 Rev. B. A. Wilmott spoke on "Home Missionary Work"—bringing it home to Quincy and especially to Bethany church. The keynote of his talk was the oneness of all people. He stated that fully two-thirds of Quincy's population was foreign born and deplored the fact that the general attitude towards this people was one of arrogance and negligence. He asked not for more generous giving, but for a casting aside of the long distance methods and for a higher cultivation of the brotherly spirit—remembering the oneness of every child of God.

Mr. Willmott announced a series of Lenten talks on "The Teachings of Jesus" to be held Wednesday afternoons at the homes of members.

Mrs. H. Everett Crane, the president, introduced Mrs. John D. Mackay who gave an excellent paper on "What the mothers of our great men did for them."

Mrs. Mackay said that it was remarkable how little was contained in literature about the mothers of great men, as she had found after considerable research on the subject. Speaking of pre-natal influences, she said that the heroism shown by mothers, in suffering, was transmitted to the child and gave him the power to endure trouble and hardships as he passed through life. The Spartan spirit described in Henley's "Invictus,"

"In the fell clutch of circumstance
I have not winced or cried aloud;
Under the bludgeonings of fate,
My head is bloody but unbowed," could be possessed by only a man who had a brave mother.

"It is worthy of note," the speaker said, "that the women who themselves became famous as a rule did not have famous sons. The genius was not transmitted, because the mother was too much absorbed in her own career. She existed for herself, not for posterity. The woman who has visions of what her boy is going to become often sees them realized. If the mother expects great things of her boy, he is going to become conscious of it without being told of it. Even boys who, because of poor environment, are not deferential to their mothers, are secretly anxious to come up to their expectations. No boy likes to disappoint his mother. Even those who utterly fail, through drink and other vices, are remorseful in moments of reflection because they have not lived up to the fond hopes of their mothers."

Mrs. Mackay spoke of certain traits in the characters of Dr. Samuel Johnson, Horace Greely, Victor Hugo, Ole Bull, Garibaldi and others which were traceable to their mothers, as showing how certain qualities can be transmitted.

Following Mrs. Mackay's paper, Mrs. saac Goddard led the devotional exercises taking for her theme "Faith and trust." Miss Florence Sabean sang very sweetly "Just for today." At the conclusion of the business meeting tea was served. There was a sale of cake and pies in charge of Mrs. John Roberts. There was a large attendance and the day was one of much interest and pleasure to all present.

ST. GEORGE TESTIMONIAL

As a testimonial to those who gave their services in the recent minstrel show, the Sons of St. George tendered them an entertainment and dance Wednesday evening in Clan MacGregor hall The hall was crowded with members of the society ad those who took part in the minstrels including the Daughters of St. George.

The entertainment included: vocal solos by Miss Lucy Brooks (who was the hit of the evening at the minstrel show), Herbert Collins, Charles Vanner, Little Colonel White and Jack Grant, a recitation by Arthur Tremayne. and selections on the piano by Mr. Richardson. The members joined in many of the songs, and the remainder of a very pleasant evening was spent in dancing.

The committee through whose efforts the affair was successful, was composed of Ernest Collins, Albert Andrews, Edward Warmington, Sr., George Reynolds, Stanley Collins, Joseph Spargo, Charles Best, Edward Warmington, Jr., Charles Vanner, Richard Wells, John Andrews and Arthur Tremayne.

SUPPER WAS POPULAR

Chicken Served by Wollaston Baptist Ladies!

The Chicken supper served by the ladies of the Social and Benevolent society in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church Wednesday evening proved such an attraction that a second table had to be set for part of the 350 that sought admission.

The supper which was a excellent one was served by a large corps of ladies headed by Mrs. Edward J. Badger. The entertainment which followed proved very interesting.

Piano solos were contributed by Mrs. Charles M. Roach and several readings were given by William Talbot. Among these were "The handsomer man than me" by Will Carlton, and "A city dude in Vermont."

The Rand class contributed a one act shadow pantomine entitled "The Chinese lunch room" and the many unusual features introduced caused much laughter and applause.

MASCOT FOR RIVADAVIA

Mayor Curley a Guest on Trial of the Battleship

Mayor Curley was a guest on board the battleship Rivadavia Wednesday when she had one of her trial runs, and almost for the first time since she has been undergoing her tests she had good weather. During this run the Rivadavia broke all of her former speed records maintaining a speed of 23 knots while her contract calls for but 22 1-2 knots. The battleship steamed down beyond the Isles of Shoals and trip was most successful in every way and especially pleasing to Capt. John Kemp who was in charge of the trial trips. The battleship reached the Commonwealth docks on her return trip about 1 o'clock this morning, and will now prepare for her gun tests.

Ten tables were in play Wednesday evening at the weekly whist tournament of the Granite City Club. The two best scores of the evening were made by John Curtis and Issac Goodnough. The entertainment committee served ice cream and cake after the tournament. The regular meeting of the club will be held Saturday evening at which time plans for the annual banquet and entertainment will be annouced.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF THE Granite Trust Co.

of Quincy, Mass., at the close of business, March 4th, 1914, as rendered to the Bank Commissioner.

ASSETS.

U. S. and Mass. Bonds	$8,723.00
Other stocks and bonds	44,861.25
Demand loans with collateral,	234,495.87
Other demand loans	87,314.02
Time loans with collateral	103,368.21
Other time loans,	506,948.74
Overdrafts,	428.15
Other assets,	58.47
Due from reserve banks	152,922,95
Due from other banks,	5,000.00
Cash: Currency and specie	63,098.04
Checks on other banks,	2,801.84
Other cash items,	428.69
	$1,210,449.23

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock,	$150,000.00
Surplus fund,	150,000.00
Undivided profits, less expenses, interest and taxes paid,	93,533.72
Deposits (demand)
Subject to check,	704,634.47
Certificates of deposit,	62,500.16
Certified checks,	3,543.60
Due to other banks,	46,207.28
Dividends unpaid	30.00
	$1,210,449.23

For the last thirty days, the average reserve carried was: currency and specie 6 per cent; deposited in reserve banks, 14 per cent; United States and Massachusetts bonds 1 per cent.

Norfolk, ss.

Quincy, March 12, 1914.

Then personally appeared Runert F. Claflin, Treasurer, and Delcevare King, Vice-President, and Clarence Burgin. Russell A. Sears, H. T. Whitman, Joseph H. Vogel, Henry L. Kincaide, directors of the Granite Trust Company and made oath that the foregoing statement, by them subscribed, is true to the best of their knowledge and belief.

Before me,
JOHN F. HUNT,
Notary Public.
March 12-1t

SAXON $395
A Good Small Car
See It at the Show
MAIN FLOOR—SPACE 134B

The first real automobile, with 4-cylinder motor, 96-inch wheelbase, standard tread, streamline body and other standard features, selling at less than $500. Built by a strong experienced organization.

The WHITTEN-GILMORE Co.
620 COMMONWEALTH AVE.

Represented in Lynn by C. E. Whitten

SHAMOKIN RANGE COAL
FREE BURNING
Like The Shamokin of 20 years ago

C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

A REASONABLE CONCLUSION

ADVERTISERS KNOW THAT A CLOSELY READ HOME NEWSPAPER HAVING THE CONFIDENCE OF ITS READERS, IS OF MUCH GREATER VALUE THAN A HURRIEDLY READ PRODUCTION, HENCE THEY ARE JUSTIFIED IN THEIR EXPECTATION OF GREATER RESULTS FROM THEIR ADVERTISING IN THE

Quincy Daily Ledger

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 61 QUINCY, MASS FRIDAY EVENING MARCH 13, 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

ANNUAL BALL OF ODD FELLOWS

Mount Wollaston Lodge Has a Large and Pretty Party at Music Hall

Mayor Miller, and Well Known Odd Fellows Among Guests

Conspicuous among the decorations at Music hall Thursday evening at the annual concert and ball of Mount Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows were the mystic three links of the order. In the first link on a background of white was the letter "F" for friendship; in the second on a blue background was the letter "L" for love, and in the third on a scarlet background was the letter "T" for truth. This is the well known motto of this ancient order now nearly 100 years old in America. The decorations were confined to the platform and included palms and flowering plants, large American flags and lighted Japanese lanterns.

The concert from 8 to 9 by Poole's orchestra was a very pleasing one, including these numbers:

1. March, "In the Trenches" Ganne
2. Medley, "Popular Airs" 1913 Remick
3. Excerpta,
   a. The Firefly
   b. Tales of Hoffmann Offenbach
4. Selection, "The Sunny South" Lampe
5. Finale, "Dream Tango" Davis

Among the guests of the evening were Mayor and Mrs. John L. Miller, District Deputy Goodwin and his marshall; the Noble Grand of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, Mrs. Sadie Wood, the chief patriarch of Manet encampment, Nathan Rich, the noble grand of Puritan lodge of Braintree, Dr. Walter Robbins; and the noble grand of John Hancock lodge of Wollaston, Alex Kennedy.

The grand march at 9 o'clock was a feature of the evening, over 100 couples participating. It was led by Noble Grand William S. Esau and Miss Esau, and Past Grand D. E. Macdonald and Mrs. Macdonald. Miss Esau was gowned in pink crepe de chine trimmed with fur and white lace. Mrs. Macdonald wore blue messaline with a flowered silk tunic and white lace trimmings. In the grand march were charter members of the lodge thirty years ago as well as the young men who have recently taken their degrees. All the ladies were prettily gowned in a variety of colors, and it was a grand sight when the marchers came down the hall eight couples abreast, receiving the plaudits of those in the balcony.

The order included twenty numbers and extras, and two encores were allowed on most of the dances. Sprinkled in with waltz, two-step, schottishe and galop were the popular Pan American, one Virginia Reel and two quadrilles.

As the dining room was not large enough to accommodate all the guests at once there was no intermission in the dancing, which continued from 9 to 2 A. M. C. C. Whittemore was the caterer and gave good satisfaction.

The floor director was D. Edward Macdonald, with F. O. Hallquist and A. C. Marnock as assistants, and the following aids: Henry L. Kincaide, Charles L. Hammond, Charles B. Wood, Gilbert A. Booth, William S. Esau, Frank W. Flowers, George F. Spooner, Howard C. Andrews, Charles F. Hodgkinson, Walter Brooks, Theodore Hallquist, Robert Wood, Maynard C. King, Bert Hodgkinson, William A. Richards, Abel S. Gomez, Charles Barron, Arthur H. Dunstan, Edward J. Sandberg, Dr. Walter C. Bradshaw, William Westland and Ernest R. McConnell.

The committee of arrangements included: D. E. Macdonald, Frank L. Carlton, Gilbert A. Booth, George R. Eaton, F. O. Hallquist, Howard C. Andrews, A. C. Marnock, Walter Brooks, C. H. Hodgkinson, Arthur H. Dunstan, Theodore Hallquist, J. Herbert Baker, Robert Wood and William Esau.

On the reception committee were, John D. Mackay, Thomas E. Furnald, Tobias Burke, Charles B. Tilton, Dr. Edward H. Bushnell, William Patterson, Arthur B. Hultman, Frank F. Prescott, Edward L. Goodridge, Sam Wood, Jr., Nathan Ames, Henry P. Kittredge, Arthur W. Stetson and E. Frank Mitchell.

By CHAS. H. JOHNSON, - Auctioneer
Office, Room 3 Adams Building, Tel. Con.

Receiver's Sale
At Public Auction
OF THE Valuable Granite Plant
— OF —
GIORDANI & CO.
Situated off Hill Place, West Quincy
Will be sold from premises on
SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1914
At 2.30 P. M.

Large cutting shed and office, about 45,000 square feet land, and the following personal property: One Compressor, Electric Motor, 2 Polishing Machines, Hoister and Derrick, Boiler, Pump, Surface Machine, Tools, Chains, lot of pneumatic tools, Office Furniture, Desk, Chairs, Table, lot of Lumber and Rough Stock. Here is an opportunity; extra equipped plant all ready for business will be sold in one lot. $100 deposit on day of sale, balance cash within 20 days from date of sale. Per order

Walter S. Pinkham, Attorney
Receiver

6t M11-13-14-18-19-20

TEXTILE SCHOOLS.

The Senate Committee on Education of which Senator Langelier is the chairman, is on a two-days inspection of textile schools at New Bedford and Fall River. The former school is seeking an appropriation of $40,000 and the latter an appropriation of $30,000. The committee expects to return to Boston tonight.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL
Sat. Mat. and Night

THE PASSION PLAY IN BEAUTIFUL HAND COLORS
This Great Picture will be seen only this One Day. Don't Miss It, if you have to stay home from Boston.

March 12-3t

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences. Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

RIVADAVIA ON LAST TRIAL

Gun Test to Take Place Today or Saturday

It is expected that the battleship Rivadavia will finish her trial tests before Sunday, when she will return to the Fore River yards to receive her finishing touches before being turned over to the Argentine government.

The battleship is expected to leave Commonwealth dock today at noon. Capt. Joseph I. Kemp will be in charge and General Manager Smith will be aboard as well as the entire Argentine Commission.

Where she will go today depends on the weather, it may be to the Georges or into Barnstable Bay, for the test of her guns. Each gun will be fired four times to test its strength and the power of the ammunition. It is hoped that she may be able to complete these trials so as to return to Boston on Sunday.

During her last trip her wireless was tested out, and it was worked to distance of 500 and 1,000 miles. On one of the trips she was able to communicate with Colon at the Panama canal.

Up to the present time she has exceeded the contract requirements in every particular and there is but little doubt but that her gun tests will be satisfactory.

THE TEXAS IN COMMISSION

The battleship Texas was turned over to the Government at the Norfolk navy yard on Thursday. As she was docking there the tug Dauntless was caught in a heavy wash from the Texas and turned over. The crew was saved.

The Texas was built at the yards of the Newport News Shipbuilding Co. and was launched two years ago. She is the first ship in the world to be equipped with a battery of ten 14-inch guns. In her main battery are 21 five-inch guns. Since the big guns were placed a Japanese ship has been similarly equipped and English and Italian vessels with 16-inch guns are being built.

The Texas is 573 feet in length with a beam of 95 feet 2 1-2 inches. In trials she maintained a speed of 22.28 knots. Her displacement is 27,000 tons, and her armor belt 11 inches thick. She has a horse power of 35,000 and draws 28 feet six inches.

The contract price for hull and machinery was $5,830,000. The new York, a sister ship is aproaching completion at the New York Navy Yard.

BURIED AT DEDHAM.

The funeral of Edward J. Martin, whose death on Tuesday followed a long illness, was held this morning from his home at 62 Rodman street. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. John's church by Rev. Fr. Walter A. Quinlan. Among those that attended was a delegation of members of Div. 5, A. O. H., of which the deceased was a member. Burial was in Dedham.

MISS MARY E. WHALL.

The funeral of Miss Mary E. Whall, who died Tuesday, was held from her home at 67 North Central avenue today. Services were conducted by Rev. Joseph Walther of the Wollaston Baptist church. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Pi Eta Society Play

Applications for tickets to "A BUG IN A RUG" to be given by the PI ETA SOCIETY under the auspices of the QUINCY TENNIS CLUB, on Friday, March twenty-seventh, will be received by James H. Slade, Treas., 17 Edgemere Road, Quincy.

As the tickets will be distributed in the order of application, you will recognize the importance of applying early. Tickets are $1.00 each and are reserved.

Executive Committee
Quincy Tennis Club
March 7-6t

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Mayor Miller Finds It Difficult to Select Assessor

Mayor Miller is having a hard time getting just the man he desires for chairman of the Board of Assessors. It was expected that the announcement of the man would be made today, but this morning the Mayor said that he was not ready yet. He said that he considered the office of assessor the most important in the city and it was difficult to get just the right man.

He has a number of persons under consideration among them being John F. Bruton, now employed at the Fore River; William L. Buckley, of Atlantic; J. Winthrop Pratt, a former member of the board, and Charles H. Johnson an ex-chairman of the board. The Mayor hopes to make the announcement tomorrow but is still in doubt whether he will be able to or not.

The Mayor had a good laugh over the alleged visit of certain citizens to Houghs Neck last Sunday, for an alleged conference with the Houghs Neck associates relative to the position, and said if the story was true he could not understand how any man would be foolish enough to take such a communication seriously. It was foolish, he said, for a man to think for a minute that the Mayor would delegate the power of selecting an assessor to the Houghs Neck Associates or to any other association.

The Committee on Fire Department of the City Council are being much sought by agents who have automobile fire apparatus to sell. Every man tells the story that his particular make of machine is the best, and it is up to the committee to determine for themselves which they consider the best. The committee will give every agent an equal show and before it makes its report will see the different makes of apparatus. It is hardly in the province of the committee to pass an order designating that a particular make of machine shall be purchased for that would be robbing the Executive of some of the power invested by the charter in him alone.

This has never been done but once. That was during the administration of Ex-Mayor Stone when an order for an auto combination chemical designated the make of apparatus to be purchased, but in that case the name of the aparatus was agreed to by Mayor Stone before the order was passed. The usual method after an order passes is for the Mayor to advertise for bids, and then select the make which he believes is the most economical for the city to buy. The committee is entitled to all information possible however and that is what they propose to get before a report is made.

The Mayor said this morning that he had been unable to get any price on the land between the present City Hall and the railroad property. Some weeks ago the Council adopted a resolution requesting the Mayor to obtain the price of the land for an addition to City Hall. The Mayor applied to the owner, in compliance with the request of the Council, for a figure on the land but had been unable to get it. The impression seems to be that the owner is not particularly desirous of selling the property.

News from Miss Tyler, clerk in the City Treasurer's office who is confined to her home with scarlet fever, is that she is doing nicely and will be able to return to her desk before long. Her position is being filled by Miss Farrell of the Tax Collectors office.

MRS. BESSIE L. CAPEN

The funeral of Mrs. Bessie L. Capen was held from her late home at 123 Beach street, Wollaston on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. William B. Ayers, pastor of the Park and Downs Congregational church conducted the services and "Still, still with thee" and "Guide me, O Thou great Jehovah" were sung by the Temple quartet. A wealth of flowers were a mute symbol of the many friendships of the deceased. The interment was in the family lot at Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Trask of Willard street are receiving congratulations o nthe birth of a son, Wednesday, March 11.

FORE RIVER RETAINER

Washington Man Says He Was Offered $5,000

Clarence W. DeKnight, in testifying before the National Senate Lobby committee Thursday, who are investigating the subject of the repeal of the toll-exemption provision of the Panama Canal act, testified that he had a contract with President Bowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation for $1,000 and a contingent fee of $4,000 to work for toll exemptions. He further declared that for his services before the Senate canals committee, when the Panama Canal toll was under consideration, he was paid only $1,000 despite the fact that the tolls exemption was included in the bill. He demanded $4,000 from President Bowles after the bill was passed, but thought the reason he did not get it was because the bill did not go through in the form that the Fore River Corp. was to build some ships. Testifying further he said he was to get $4,000 if the bill went through in a certain way. He never threatened to sue the company and the matter was dropped.

He declared that he was still retained by the company in connection with some claim cases. DeKnight was asked to produce his contract with President Bowles and promised to do so later.

It is reported from Washington that President Bowles and others mentioned by the witness may be summoned to Washington to testify.

The witness also told of contracts which he had with many firms about various matters in Congress.

President Bowles, in an interview in regard to the testimony of DeKnight, denied that he had employed him to work for toll exemption for American coastwise ships in the Panama canal act. "I employed Mr. DeKnight in connection with section 11 of the canal act, which has to do with the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission over canal shipping. The provision concerning tolls is section 5 of the act, and with this I had nothing to do."

The hearings before the Senate Lobby committee will be resumed today and it is more than probable before it completes its investigation, President Bowles will testify.

THREE INQUESTS HELD TODAY

Three inquests were held before Judge Avery at the district court this morning. One on the death of Margaret L. Ross who was killed near the Norfolk Downs depot Feb. 12, while attempting to cross the tracks in front of an approaching train.

Another on the death of Thomas Crimmings, the crossing tender near the East Weymouth railroad station, who was killed by the cars Feb. 14.

The third inquest was on the death of Margaret Middleman, known as "Scotch Mag" who was killed while crossing the tracks of the Granite branch near Robertson street on the evening of Jan. 31.

CATHERINE PETERSON.

Catherine Peterson's funeral was held from her home on Granite street this afternoon. She was in her 79th year and one of the oldest members of the Swedish Lutheran church. Services were conducted by Rev. Leander Hokenson, pastor, and music was by the church choir. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Oscar Hermanson.

TO LAUNCH SUBMARINE.

Another United States submarine, the fifth to be built at San Francisco, will be launched at the Union Iron Works on Saturday. It is in the K3 class.

☞PRATT'S BREAD is always in favor because decilcious in flavor. Your grocer.

MILK CONSUMPTION HEAVY IN QUINCY

But Inspector Scoular Estimates it at Less Than Pint Per Capita Daily

Some Interesting Figures Relative to Analyses of Samples

The annual report of Daniel Scouler, Jr., the inspector of milk, is of interest, showing the result of samples examined, laws relative to milk, etc., which interest everybody in the city. It is printed in full:

Gentlemen:—

"The widespread agitation on the milk question which has been taking place recently, particularly among people living in this city, indicates that there is a growing demand for clean milk of good quality. No one who studies this agitation can deny that the matter is a serious one. Milk in New England forms about sixteen per cent of the total food of the average American family.

"While adults consume a large quantity of milk, infants and children depend upon milk as their principal article of diet up to five years of age. At the present time Quincy consumes daily about 10,500 quarts of milk, supplied by sixty-one milkmen who deliver directly to the consumer, and through the 165 stores licensed to sell milk.

"The inspection of a city's milk supply offers a many sided problem. The average consumer believes that milk having a plainly marked cream line and no visible sediment is pure, and little or no interest has been shown in the actual cleanliness and bacterial count of the milk. By straining milk all visible particles of dirt are removed, but the bacteria pass on and continue to multiply.

"Cleanliness in the handling of milk is of prime importance and consumers are advised to visit the places where their milk is produced and bottled to see if it is handled in as cleanly a manner as are other foodstuffs in their homes.

"Too little attention seems to have been paid in the past to the provisions of Section 3, Chapter 435, Acts of 1908, which reads as follows:—'Every licensed milk dealer who sells, or has in his possession with intent to sell, milk not contained in clean vessels bearing his own name, or the name under which his business is conducted, and bearing no other name, shall be punished by a fine of ten dollars for each offense.' All dealers must observe this law.

"The statute relating to chemical standard reads as follows. (Section 56, Chapter 56, Revised Statutes) 'Milk which upon analysis is shown to contain less than 12.15 per cent of

(Continued on Page Four.)

Open tonight until 9 P. M. Saturday 'till 10

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE
'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS
'Phone Quincy 117

WANTED!

We want your week-end order for your food supplies . . .

We are prepared to promptly fill it from fresh stocks of the market's choicest offerings in Good Groceries, Meats, Fruits, Vegetables, Dairy and Bakery Products.

CLEAN PURE WHOLESOME FOOD
AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICES

Selected Spring Lamb
Fores 12c lb Leg and Loin 18c lb

PRIME WESTERN BEEF --- MILK-FED VEAL ---
CHOICE PORK --- NATIVE CHICKEN AND FOWL

EGGS LARGE AND BROWN. So fresh they're almost warm 40c doz

LARGE JUICY "SUNKIST" LEMONS 25c doz
LARGE JUICY "SUNKIST" ORANGES 27c doz

Strawberries -- Cranberries -- Cucumbers -- Celery -- Rhubarb -- Ripe Tomatoes -- New Cabbage -- New Potatoes -- Spinach and Dandelion Greens -- Lettuce -- Radishes -- etc.

LARGE FLORIDA GRAPE FRUIT 3 for 25c

Appetite Sharpeners SNYDER'S CHILI SAUCE
ROSEMARY SWEET PICKLES WILLIAM'S SOUR RELISH
in Sealed Bottles

HUNTLEY & PALMER'S ENGLISH BISCUIT Mixed 25c lb. and up

FANCY COMB HONEY 25c box

R. E. FOY & COMPANY

March 13-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Established 1889

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription

By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1434 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.

Incorporated.

TELEPHONES

News . . . Quincy 425

Business . . Quincy 1910

Although it is supposed that foreign ministers should know the language of the country to which they are sent, if they have money it seems to do all the talking required.

As Lincoln Beachey fell only 1200 feet before righting himself in his aeroplane the other day, some of the spectators were disposed to demand their money back.

An exchange asks if it is proper to dance the tango in Lent, but few cases are reported of people who stopped to wait for the answer.

IN THE TRAINING CAMPS.

In the calendar of sports, March is the month when the ball players work out the creaks in their joints and stretch their muscles in the training camps. To the star ball player, it is very far from being sport.

The high degree of efficiency which professional sport calls for is maintained only at the price of incessant and laborious work. Probably most ball players ease off a little in winter. They relax in their exercise, eat and perhaps drink too much, and by March 1, they are far from the condition in which they quit in October.

To many young and ambitious ball players this is a crisis time. In some "bush" or school league, they made a showing so brilliant that they have found the chance to try out in fast company. More and more the big league management seem disposed to give young players a try even when they are only crudely developed.

But a few in the stiff rule of the training camp reveals defects that are easily glossed over in the looser discipline of semi-professional or amateur work. Many supposed future Mathewsons and McGraws will soon be anxiously looking for a chance to enter the home town by the back door.

POETS IN MODERN LIFE.

Poets are always considered fair game for newspaper humorists. There is no closed season on them, for the spring poet bobs up indefinitely, regardless of temperatures and seasons. And persons who live so much in a world of imagination apart usually have some eccentricities at which the jokesmiths aim pleasant jests.

A real poet has still a large place in modern life. The fact is emphasized by the invitation just extended to Alfred Noyes, the brilliant and rhythmical English poet, to lecture four months each year at Princeton university.

There is always a demand for good poetry, though the pecuniary returns are usually small. The space given by the newspapers to printing verses is still large. Much of it is doggerel alleged to be humorous. But a good deal of it is at least an effort to express joy and sorrow in an elevated and imaginative way.

The troubles of the poetry editor of magazines and newspapers come from the fact that nine-tenths of the people who try to write verse have no conception of what the essential elements of poetry are. The popular idea is that it is a string of verses tacked together which end in words of rhyme. Rhyme, however, is only one of the smaller elements in real poetry, and may not be found at all.

The essence of real poetry is a gift for expressing human sentiments in an imaginative way, having some peculiar beauty of expression. A very rhythmical wording, along which the mind dances in a metrical way, is much more important than rhyme. It is this singing and dancing gift of verse that has been one of the principal factors in giving Mr. Noyes his large success here and in England.

Lacking some suggestion of these gifts, the poetry scribblers may well be cautious how they spend too many postage stamps in efforts to market their "stuff." Their effusions may be pleasing to the participants in golden weddings and old folks' reunions, but the newspapers usually want advertising rates for printing it.

Only One "BROMO QUININE"

To get the genuine call for full name, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for signature of E. W. GROVE. Cures a Cold in One Day. 25c

CHARGES ARE ACCUMULATING

Further Light on Dealings of Siegel and Vogel

LOSING MONEY FOR YEARS

Affairs In Their Establishments In Boston and Chicago to Be Probed —Discrepancy of Millions of Dollars Shown by Secret Ledger—No Hope of Reorganization

New York, March 13.—The cases against Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel, already thrice indicted and under $25,000 bail each, were multiplied as their confidential men opened wider the little secret ledger which had told the merchants they were doing a losing business for years.

To Prall and McMeekin, who knew the inside of the New York business, was added William Pridday, who was general manager of the Boston store. As a result of this, District Attorney Whitman sent one man to Boston and another to Chicago to delve into the affairs of the establishments in those cities.

As it stands now, the grand jury will be asked to vote between ten and twelve additional indictments against both men, nearly all of them felonies. There can be as many more against both if the circumstances warrant it.

Among the cases which are to be pressed, is one accusing the two men, as responsible officers, of taking $1,500,000 cash from the stockholders of the Siegel Stores' corporation.

Another is a perjury charge, accusing both Siegel and Vogel with having sworn to false statements as to the condition of the Boston store, made to the National Bank of Commerce in 1912 and 1913.

A false statement made as to the financial condition of the Simpson-Crawford company to a New York bank, April 14, 1913, in which there was a discrepancy of $1,771,528.84, is also included.

There is also another statement of the same company made to another bank on Feb. 3, 1912, in which there was a discrepancy of $1,756,333.75, likewise a Fourteenth street store statement made Feb. 1, 1913, to a bank in which there was a discrepancy of $1,860,320.02 as shown by the secret ledger.

There is still another charge that the dividends on the $2,000,000 7 percent preferred stock of the Siegel Stores corporation were paid for all the time out of the funds of the private bank borrowed by Siegel, charged to the Simpson-Crawford company and held forth by that company as earnings.

The attorney general began in the supreme court a suit for the $100,000 bond deposited with the state comptroller by the bankers. This will mean a new receiver and further inroads into the sum to be distributed.

There was no one, creditor, lawyer, receiver or expert, to say before Judge Hough that there was any hope of reorganizing and continuing any of the Siegel enterprises in this city or Boston.

The Fourteenth street store and the Simpson-Crawford company store, the Merchants Express, the wholesale company, all were not only heavily in debt but losing money as well. George Holt, in his report, declared there was no other way out of it, and ordered the receivers to sell and close up the two big establishments.

KAUFMAN SENTENCED

Prison Term Prolonged by His Confession to Police

Boston, March 13.—August Kaufman, literary burglar, was sentenced to state prison for a term of from six to nine years in the superior court. Kaufman was found guilty of blowing the safe in Rhodes Bros.' store.

If Kaufman had kept silent he would have been better off. He was previously sentenced to from four to seven years. After he had told the police he had made other breaks, he was recalled and his sentence revoked.

An investigation revealed that Kaufman had served time in Illinois.

DORR IN DEATH HOUSE

Slayer of Marsh Occupies a Cell In Massachusetts State Prison

Boston, March 13.—William A. Dorr, the convicted murderer of George E. Marsh, the wealthy Lynn soap manufacturer, was brought from Salem to the death house at state prison, Charlestown, yesterday afternoon.

Sheriff Johnson of Essex county and Deputy Sheriff Bishop were in charge of Dorr, and the trip was made by automobile.

Dorr seemed in good spirits when he arrived at the prison.

Disbarred Lawyer In Jail

Providence, March 13.—Thomas H. Holton, an attorney who was recently disbarred for unprofessional practices, is in jail, charged with defrauding Mrs. Annie M. J. Matteson out of $2400.

Turkish Aviator Killed

Constantinople, March 13.—Nuri Bey was killed when an aeroplane in which he was flying with a passenger fell into the sea. Ismail Bey, the passenger, had a narrow escape.

EDWARD BEARDSLEY.

New York Outlaw Farmer Who Surrendered After Siege

© by American Press Association.

BEARDSLEY CONVICTED

Farmer Outlaw Sentenced to Not Less Than Five Years In Prison

Mayville, N. Y., March 13.—The jury in the case of Edward Beardsley, the Summerdale farmer who shot J. W. Putnam, overseer of the poor of Chautauqua county, returned a verdict of assault in the first degree.

Beardsley shot the officer when the latter entered the farmer's home to remove his children from their squalid surroundings.

Beardsley was sentenced to serve not less than five years nor more than nine years and six months at Auburn prison.

WANTS MORE LIGHT ON BRITISH SPEECH

Senate Would Like to Know What Was Said by Page

Washington, March 13.—A demand on the state department for the full text of the speech alleged to have been delivered in London by Ambassador Page, in which Page was reported to have declared that the Monroe doctrine "simply meant that the United States would prefer that no European government should gain more land in the New World," was made in a resolution introduced by Senator Chamberlain and adopted by the senate.

Chamberlain said he was most interested in the alleged statement by Page that while he would "not say that the United States had constructed the Panama canal for Great Britain, it had added greatly to the pleasure of building that great work to know that the British would profit most by its use."

VANDERBILT'S WILL

Twelve-Year-Old Daughter Gets Biltmore and $5,000,000 In Cash

New York, March 13.—The will of George W. Vanderbilt, as filed for probate at New York, leaves his entire estate, estimated at $20,000,000 to his widow and only daughter, Cornelia.

Minor bequests providing annuities aggregating $5500 a year are made in favor of certain relatives. There are no public bequests.

Biltmore, Vanderbilt's world-famous estate in North Carolina, is left to his daughter, Cornelia, who is now 12 years old. She also receives $5,000,000 in cash and is made residuary legatee.

INDICTED FOR MURDER

Sanity of Woman Who Shot Her Husband Is Questioned

South Paris, Me., March 13.—Mrs. Hilda Kokkonen was indicted on a charge of murder for the shooting of her husband, Otto Kokkonen, at West Paris. She is now under observation at Augusta to determine whether she is sane.

Frank Salatino, who is alleged to have shot Giuseppe Parisi to death at Rumford two weeks ago as the result of a quarrel, was indicted on the charge of manslaughter.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Tannenbaum Held For Leading New York Church Invasion

New York, March 13.—Frank Tannenbaum of the Industrial Workers of the World, recently indicted for participating in an unlawful assembly because he led an army of the unemployed into a Catholic church, pleaded not guilty to the charge when arraigned.

It is expected the trial will be given about the middle of next week.

Woman Cut to Death

Cleveland, March 13.—Mrs. Anna Kadigal, aged 30, was killed here, being cut to pieces in her home while tied to a bed. Her stepson, Frank Spicha, 40 years old, was arrested, charged with murder. The police say he made a confession.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

George Hunt, one of the best known residents of Weymouth, died Thursday at his home on Front street, where he and his three unmarried brothers have lived for many years. He was in his 66th year and enjoyed the friendship of a wide circle of friends. Mr. Hunt, up to eight years ago conducted the livery stable in Weymouth Landing, now owned by Charles Hollis. He is survived by his three brothers, William, Elbridge and Edward. His funeral will take place from his home Sunday afternoon. Services will be held in the Trinity Episcopal church and burial will be in Mt. Auburn cemetery.

Rev. Fr. John B. Holland celebrated the high mass of requiem at Sacred Heart church Thursday in connection with the funeral of Mrs. Alice M. Williamson, wife of Charles T. Williamson of 61 Broad street, Weymouth. Burial was in St. Francis Xavier cemetery.

The anniversary campfire of Timothy Ingraham Post, G. A. R., of Hyde Park, will be held April 15.

Gen. Francis A. Osborn of Hingham died at his home on Linden street, on Wednesday, after a long illness. He went into service as a lieutenant-colonel in the 24th Mass. regiment, and came out a brigadier general. He was a naval officer of the port of Boston and had many business connections. He was first commander of the Massachusetts commandery of the Loyal Legion and third commander of the Massachusetts G. A. R. He was a member of John A. Andrews Post, G. A. R., and a Mason. His funeral takes place Saturday afternoon at the North Unitarian church of Hingham.

Charles T. Derry, the oldest resident in Sharon, a follower of the sea for many years, and owner at one time of several large sloops and sailing vessels has just observed his 86th birthday. Washington Park was decorated with flags in honor of his anniversary, and a large one raised on the staff near the Derry home. Mr. Derry engaged in the building of sea walls until his retirement several years ago.

Mrs. Harrison Swan of Dorchester, died on Wednesday at the home of her daughter Mrs. J. H. Woodsum of Milton.

Mrs. Oscar G. Ingalls of North Franklin street, Holbrook, died Wednesday, aged 73.

The Weymouth Board of Trade at its last meeting discussed sidewalks, taxation, public parks, signboards, street railway accommodations and other matters of interest to the town, and is unanimously in favor of booming it. Sign boards telling of its advantages will be erected. Work committees were appointed to consider everything of importance to the development of Weymouth.

PIANOFORTE RECITAL.

Pianoforte pupils of Miss Eldeine M. Young of Atlantic gave a musicale at her home Wednesday evening, the program being as follows;

Duet—Ruth Budd, Miss Young.
Busy Bee Waltz—Annie Kennedy.
Babilage, Canzoneta, March of the Little Men—Edna Hanson, Alice Hanson.
Autumn, Woodbury, and Starlight Reverie, Seidt—Miss Young.
Song of the Mill Wheel and Marching to School—Agnes Laffan.
Piano solo—Alice Hanson
Simplicity, Suter—Edna Hanson.
Murmuring of the Woods, Lichner Miss Young.
Morning Prayer—Malcolm Cook.
Qui Vive, Ganz—Edna Hanson, Miss Young.

A goodly number were present to enjoy the evening. The pupils showed careful training and did Miss Young credit. Miss Young's solos were especially well rendered, showing fine technique and style. Refreshments were served. Miss Young is a pupil of Miss Marguerite Holbrook. Miss Holbrook contribtued piano and vocal solos at the end of the programe.

NAVY YARD TO BUILD.

The United States Government will build a submarine at the Portsmouth Navy Yard. It will be the governments first attempt and the plans of the Lake Torpedo Co. will be used, for which they will receive, a small percentage of the cost. This was decided upon after the company showed inability to complete its contract for a submarine authorized at the last session of Congress.

NEW TELEPHONES.

Following are the subscribers connected with the Quincy Exchange for the week ending March 11.

90—Nash, W. G., Washington street.
1814W—Benham, Dorothy, Granite street.
1702W—Boynton, W. H., Elmwood avenue.
1583M—Lewis, Wesley I., Taylor street.
1758W—Needham, C. A., Upland road.
1822W—Ford, Julia J., Miss, Bigelow street.
1086W—Winslow, H. F., Merrymount road.
1127M—McCue, J. J., Upland road.
1859W—Pastime Club, Temple street.
647M—King, M. A., California avenue.
1015M—Stoddard, R. R.
1478W—Flanders, F. N., Beale street.
1725W—MacLeod, W. J., Bennington street.
1751W—The Field Press, Water street
1783W—Davis, A. R., Everett street.
1868W—Kimball, W. F., Grand View avenue.
1879M—Spargo, William J., Franklin street.
1717W—Butler, Lawrence, Bedford street.
1812M—Moore, E. H., Tyler street.
1813W—Harris, F. E., Lunt street.
1882M—Pickering, E. Mrs., Billings road.
1863W—Arnold, A. E., Newport terrace.
1005W—Nugent, Grace, Fayette street.

MORNING CONFERENCE.

Miss Caldwell, visitor for Day Nurseries in Boston, was the speaker at the Conference of the Associated Charities and the Day Nursery Committee at the Women's Club Wednesday morning. The talk was most interesting. Miss Caldwell spoke of the great importance of investigation before admitting children to the nursery, the importance of proper care of the children during the day, and of having just the right sort of person for Matron. Many interesting illustrations were given and the conference was very informal, and many questions were answered by Miss Caldwell.

Next week Wednesday morning at eleven a. m., the last Conference of the series will be held. Miss Sallie Beck, a Pioneer Home and School Visitor will be one of the speakers. As this line of work is new and on trial in Boston, this talk should be of great interest. It is also expected that one of the school nurses will attend this conference.

The effect of the new Widows' Aid law on the Nurseries was shown by the fact that many nurseries are closed since its passage. Mothers now being able to stay at home and care for their children when they can get aid from this fund.

QUINCY CUP CHALLENGES.

C. P. Curtis, owner and skipper of the Ellen, the yacht which captured the Quincy Yacht Club Challenge Cup from the Quincy Yacht club has been named by the Boston Yacht club as the defender of the cup in the matches to be sailed the coming summer. Up to the present time two challenges have been received for the cup, one from the Corinthian club and the second from the South Boston club. Mr. Curtis has twice defended the cup with the Ellen. While the Quincy yacht club have not as yet challenged for the cup it probably will enter a challenge before the time limit expires.

GOING TO PRISON.

Representative Sandberg is to conduct a party of visitors through the State prison at Charlestown on Saturday afternoon, and any citizen who desires to go through the prison should take the train leaving Quincy for Boston at 1.16. The Representative has conducted several parties through the prison and all have been fortunate enough to get out safely again. It is really an interesting place to visit.

BRONCHITIS CONQUERED

Royersford, Pa., Man Tells How.

At this season of year with such sudden changes, it is so easy to take cold, and almost before one is aware there is inflammation in the bronchial tubes—a hard cough and unless checked in time chronic pulmonary troubles may result.

Townsend Young of Royersford, Pa., says: "A severe bronchial trouble contracted caused me much difficulty about breathing. My chest felt clogged up and there was considerable soreness. I tried different remedies without help; but I am glad to say that Vinol cured my bronchial trouble which had lasted for three months. My breathing is all right and the soreness entirely gone from my chest."

Vinol contains the curative, healing principles of fresh cods' livers (without oil) and tonic iron. We guarantee it to be delicious in taste and to satisfy you with its medicinal effects. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy Mass.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

If It's Strong Enough For The State It's Strong Enough For You!

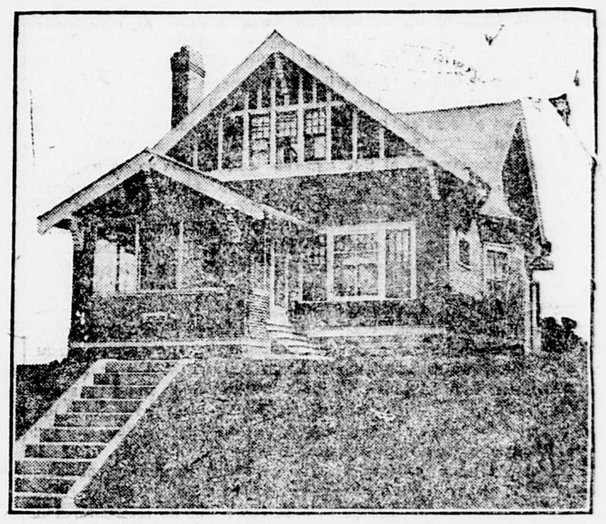
This bank is a legal depository for funds of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. It is a strong and substantial institution. It is managed with the best interests of its depositors in mind. It is safe-guarded by both state and federal regulation. Its officers and directors are men known to you as successful and level-headed. It is a good place for you to bank.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

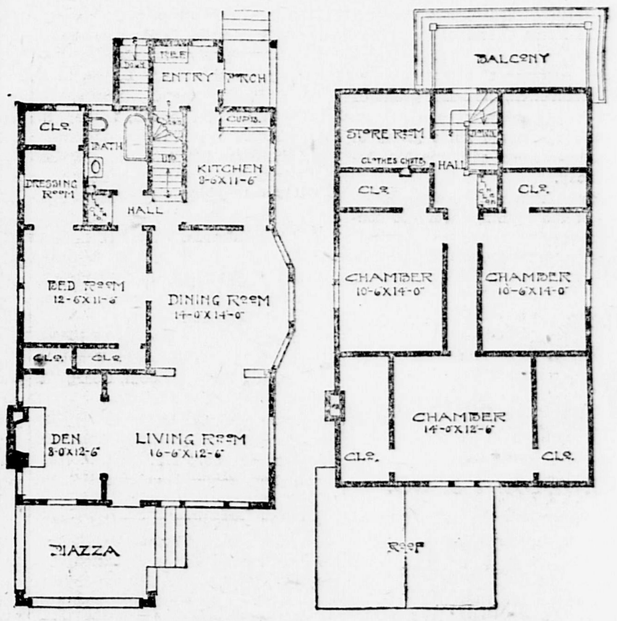
GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

AN IDEAL TWO STORY BUNGALOW.

Design 751, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.



PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN. SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

This bungalow plan has a den and living room across the front. Could be made into one large living room if desired. There is a bedroom and bath in the first story connected with a dressing room or sewing room. Second story has three chambers. Full basement under entire house. First story, 9 feet; second story, 8 feet. Size, 26 feet wide and 40 feet deep over the main part. Finish in first story red oak or birch, pine to paint in second story. Birch or maple floors. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $3,500.

Upon receipt of $1 the publisher of this paper will supply a copy of Saxton's book of plans, "American Dwellings." It contains about 250 up to date designs of cottages, bungalows and residences costing from $1,000 to $6,000.

At ATLANTIC

Quincy Daily Ledger

On Sale after 3.30 P. M.

--- AT ---

BRANSCHIED & MARTENS

Why not put in an order and have it left every day at your home?

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Bowling Contests — Athletic Leagues
Illustrated Lectures — Banquets
Basket Ball — Conferences

There will be an important meeting of the Physical department committee this evening at 7.30 to discuss plans for the Gymnasium banquet which is to be held April 3.

The Junior class is drilling faithfully in preparation for the annual exhibition on March 27. In addition to the class drills and games there will be a special stunt done by the Junior leaders.

March 21 is a red letter day for the Gymnasium bunch for it is on the evening of that day that the annual All-Around championship events will take place. Harry Glover who came back last year and "copped the cup" will endeavor to repeat this year but will be pressed hard by Djerf, Kingsbury, Trask, White, Ed Brown and others.

The Cadet class showed a marked increase in membership over last week and still others are expected next week. The little fellows took hold of the gym work in good shape and although some of them had difficulty in determining which was their right hand and which was their left, when it came to facing about, before the class was over all showed a marked improvement.

This was the last week of the Hobbs bowling tournament, and to date it looks as if either LaRose or Djerf would have his name engraved on the big trophy. Brown of Houghs Neck has handed in some good scores and is to be reckoned with.

The feature announced for the Sunday meeting in Kincaide's theatre is a lyric and dramatic recital of Ralph Connor's wonderful story of the Northwest, "Black Rock or the Miner's Guardian Angel," to be given by Mrs. Elizabeth Packard Larsen of St. Paul, Minnesota, assisted by Prof. Albert M. Kanrich of Boston, violinist, Ruth Louise Hardy, soloist, and Edward Bullock, Jr., pianist.

With the close of the gym contest, only a little over a week away, it looks as if the Pilgrims were going to win the trophy for the second term although the final meet may change the complexion of things. The standing to date is: Pilgrims, 5[illegible]; Wanderers, 45; B. A. A., 36; Puritans, 29. The Pilgrims, captained by Herbert Hendry, have maintained the lead since early in the term. B. A. A. held it during the first two weeks.

B. A. A. won the Junior bowling tournament, getting a total of 1021 for the three string. Wester, captain of the B. A. A., had high three strings with 249, and also high single, 96. The Wanderers finished second in the team contest, getting a pinfall of 953. Pilghims were third with 882 and Puritans last with a total of 830.

There will be four games in the Sunday school basketball league Saturday afternoon, the first game being called at 3 o'clock. The games are to be played in the following order. K. O. K. A., 2nd, vs. Washington Street Congregational 2nd; Park and Downs vs. Washington Street Congregational; Wollaston Methodist 2nd vs. First Presbyterian 2nd; Wollaston Congregational vs. Sacred Heart.

The second team was disappointed in its game because the Chelsea second team has disbanded. Mr. LaRose expects to get a team out here to play them, however. If not, the Employed Boys will play a student team, composed of High school players.

This is the last week of the Hobbs bowling tournament, and to date it looks as if either LaRose or Djerf would have his name engraved on the big trophy. Brown of Houghs Neck has handed in some good scores and is to be reckoned with.

Davis class and Clark class will bowl in a Sunday school league match this evening. It will be a case of the leaders against the challenders, but the latter feel confident that they can give their opponents a hard match.

The official season of the basketball team will close Saturday evening when the first team meets Chelsea Y. M. C. A. in the final league match of the year. Chelsea defeated Quincy on the former's floor a few weeks ago, but if Quincy puts up the game they did against Cunningham gym on Tuesday there will be no question about a victory.

At the Fireside talk Wednesday evening, William Coon, manager of the Larkin Co., in Boston, gave a very interesting and finely illustrated lecture on the life of John Larkin.

The time of the Mother and Son banquet is close at hand, and the committee has its plans completed. The Fathers are going to prepare and serve the banquet, and it promises to be as good as, if not better, than any which has preceded it. Music will be rendered by the Wollaston Cadet band orchestra. Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis is to serve at toastmistress and toasts will be responded to by Sturgis Hunt Mrs. Robert H. Park and H. W. Gibson, State secretary for boys.

The second annual State Boys Day will be observed on Saturday of this week. The boys are to meet at the building at 9 o'clock, and after instructions are given will start out armed with their little tin cans and their cards showing that they are authorized collectors. Last year the boys collected $104.40, which was divided as follows. Ten per cent went to India for work among the High School boys of Madras, fifteen per cent was given to the International committee for frontier work in North America, 25 per cent was given to the State committee to help in the work of the State organization, and the remainder is now drawing interest in the Quincy Saivngs Bank to be expended with other money obtained this year and later for a local camp for Boys department. Only those boys who have the cards signed by the Boys Work Director are authorized collectors and no money should be given to anyone else.

This year, as last, the boys will work by teams and the winning team will get the big trophy of the Boys department. A new idea for the day is to have all the boys report at the building at 12.30 for a "feed" after which the reports of the teams will be given and then all will start out again for more work.

There will be an important meeting of the Physical department committee this evening at 7.30 to discuss plans for the Gymnasium banquet which is to be held April 3.

The Junior class is drilling faithfully in preparation for the annual exhibition on March 27. In addition to the class drills and games there will be a special stunt done by the Junior leaders.

March 21 is a red letter day for the Gymnasium bunch for it is on the evening of that day that the annual All-Around championship events will take place. Harry Glover who came back last year and "copped the cup," will endeavor to repeat this year but will be pressed hard by Djerf, Kingsbury, Trask, White, Ed Brown and others.

The Cadet class showed a marked increase in membership over last week and still others are expected next week. The little fellows took hold of the gym work in good shape and although some of them had difficulty in determining which was their right hand and which their left, when it came to facing about, before the class was over all showed a marked improvement.

The feature announced for the Sunday meeting in Kincaide's theatre is a lyric and dramatic recital of Ralph Connor's wonderful story of the Northwest, "Black Rock or the Miner's Guardian Angel," to be given by Mrs. Elizabeth Packard Larsen of St. Paul, Minnesota, assisted by Prof. Albert M. Kanrich of Boston, violinist, Ruth Louise Hardy, soloist, and Edward Bullock, Jr., pianist.

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

SCHOOLED IN ALL FARM PROBLEMS

Great State Project About to Be Launched.

GIRLS ARE TO KEEP HOUSE

Elaborate System of Education Soon to Be Tried Out on Long Island Quite as Ambitious an Undertaking as Any of the Kind Ever Attempted and Includes Unique Features.

Some time in April a great group of buildings will begin going up on a tract of land near Farmingdale, N. Y., to be owned by the state of New York, and here young men will be taught practical and scientific farming, while young women will be trained as housewives. They will learn how to cook, sew, take care of the farm home and to economize. At the end of four years they will come out able to do anything and solve any problem likely to confront the woman in the home.

This state school will rank with the most elaborate undertakings of its kind and will have various distinguishing features.

The institution will bear officially the title of the New York State School of Agriculture on Long Island. It will be conducted under the direction of Albert A. Johnson, director of the Milwaukee County School of Agriculture at Wauwatosa.

"I do not think it is possible to teach farming without a farm," says Mr. Johnson in the New York Times. "We have been provided with a laboratory of almost 300 acres, on which the students will do practically all the work. As for the girls and young women, we do not think it possible to teach them homemaking without a home to experiment with, and such will be provided."

How Farm Will Be Laid Out.

The central part of the farm, comprising about sixty acres, will contain the buildings, of which over seventy-five are projected. The relation of one structure to another has been carefully studied.

The grounds of this central group center about a big octagon, which has a band stand in the center. The biggest structure will be the administration building, facing the entrance, but is on the opposite side of the octagon. Besides this, the educational group will consist of the agriculture, the agronomy, the science and the domestic science buildings, the gymnasium, the greenhouse, the library and the store. Just back of these buildings will be the residences of the director and the professors. In the rear of the educational group will be the farm group, consisting of machinery, farm mechanics, poultry and stock judging buildings, horse barn, cow barn, storage barn and power house.

The cow barns will contain forty cows, which will not only produce milk and butter for the school, but will be used for breeding. The horse barn will contain from ten to fifteen horses. Each boy will learn to drive, feed, clean and care for horses, and the latter will be used for judging. In the poultry building, which has big yards behind it, will be studied all the phases of poultry raising.

To the left of the educational group will be the boys' dormitories and their refectory. There will be ten dormitories, each accommodating from fifty to seventy boys. Near by will be a small hospital with a nurse in charge, who will also teach nursing to the girls.

On the right of the educational group will be thirty-five or forty girls' cottages, costing about $4,000 apiece. They will contain eight rooms, and there will be six or eight girls in each house.

Daily Mark For Housekeeping.

The girls will get their first training in the domestic science building, but much of it in their third and fourth years will be in the cottages. They will be marked each day on the way they keep house.

The store will be located near their quarters, and there they will get their training in buying. Then they will have to prepare their food. After a little time the senior girl in each house will be responsible for it, and during the course each girl will have had one year's experience in actual charge of a house.

For each cottage there will be flower and vegetable gardens, and the girls will be expected to take care of these. Each house will be different from the rest, and the whole group will be a sort of restricted village, the houses being mostly of a bungalow type.

The eventual capacity of the school will be 1,000 students. Sessions will take place during the twelve months of the year.

Profits In Cauliflowers.

Efficiency methods are helping the farming sections of Long Island, to judge by the work of the Long Island Cauliflower Growers' association. The association helped farmers to sell $500,000 worth of cauliflowers last year, and upon a capital of only $6,000 has built up in two years a $25,000 surplus. Probably it will pay an extra 15 per cent dividend this year. The officers charged $65 for their services during the year.

The Footlights Glare

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

For the Saturday matinee and night "The Passion Play," will be given at Music hall by picture films.

In 1633 the village of Oberammergau, in Bavaria, was visited by a terrible plague. On its cessation the entire population made a vow to perform the Passion Play of our Saviour every tenth year out of gratitude, and as a means of religious instruction—a vow which has ever since been faithfully observed. The inhabitants of this secluded village have a rare union of artistic ability and cultivation, with perfect simplicity. Their familiarity with religious subjects is even beyond what is usual in the Alpine parts of Germany, and the solemn spectacle is looked upon with the same feeling with which it originated—devout and edifying. Those who see it will be interested and instructed.

There is nothing in the production that can be considered sacriligious, irreverent or offensive to any Christian of any denomination. Every man, woman and child will not only enjoy it, but will be held spellbound at the sight of the fascinating and sublime life-size moving pictures. Every parent and Sunday-school teacher should take advantage of this opportunity to vividly impress upon the children these scenes in Christ's life—impressions that never can be effaced while the lamp of this life holds out to burn. In no other way, short of a personal visit to the village of Oberammergau, at the time of this stupendous enactment, can so lasting a realization of the Crucifixion of Christ be made.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

There's a mighty good show on at Kincaide Theatre now, as hundreds who saw it yesterday will tell their friends today. Elmino Eddy, 67 years of age, does some stunts on the bounding rope that "bring down the house" with applause. Kenney & Hollis, called "two comical gentlemen" were that, and then some more. LaMont & Milhan have a novelty musical act that is great all the way through. Mary Hixon Co. were well received in their Irish playlet entitled "Erin's Isle."

Monday Manager Wardwell will present a thrilling three-reel feature picture in which William Jefferson, son of the late Joseph Jefferson, plays the leading part, "Wanted by the Police." This is first of a series of the world's greatest picture productions billed to appear at this local playhouse.

Vaudeville for the first half week includes Ed DeCorsia & Co., presenting a fetching comedy sketch called "Red Ike."

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Bayard Veiller, author of "Within the Law," the great melodramatic hit, which ran for an entire year at the Gaiety theatre, New York, now at the Majestic theatre, Boston, received the following enthusiastic endorsement of his play from Colonel Theodore Roosevelt: "When I was Police Commission you were a police reporter, and there are not a few of the incidents in your play which suggest to me the original hapenings that both you and I know. As a good citizen I wish to thank you for your play. Those who criticise it as exalting anti-social practices within the law by members of the underworld seem to me utterly to fail to understand the lesson you are teaching. This lesson is not that these anti-social practices within the law by the underworld is right, but that the anti-social practices within the law by upperworld are altogether wrong. You are putting the practices of the two sets of wrongdoers exactly where they belong, that is, on the same moral level. There is no more important lesson to teach our respectable people today, the people of wealth and of social and intellectual prominence, than this lesson which your play teaches. I am not sentimentalist. You knew me when I was Police Commissioner and you may know me now. I am thoroughly awake to the need of punishing criminals no less than of reforming them, for I am concerned even more with the welfare of society as a whole than with the welfare of the individual wrongdoer. Moreover, I abhor wrongdoing in the underworld as in the upperworld—precisely as I condemn any anti-social practices in a labor union—precisely as much as similar practices in a corporation. But I wish to insist that the obverse of the matter is also true. We cannot clean the underworld if we connive at or approve in the upperworld practices as fundamentally wrong as those which we punish when committed by the people whom the law actually does condemn. We must never lose our insistence upon individual responsibility, and the need of individual high character; and yet we must remember ever more and more vividly that each must be his brother's keeper and his sister's keeper. There is always something fundamently wrong if wages go down and dividends go up; and the man who pays shop-girls a wage on which they cannot live in decency and honesty is committing a wrong against society for which no activity along charitable or similar lines in any way atones."—Theodore Roosevelt. "Within the Law" will remain at the Majestic the rest of this month. Jane Cowl heads the cast made up of the following well-known players: Florence Nash, Orme Caldara, William B. Mack, Dorothy Abbott, Wilton Taylor, Adora Andrews and Paul Everton.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

As a dramatized novel, "The Crisis" has few equals, and as Mr. Craig will offer it at the Castle Square next week, it is certain to renew its popularity. It is Winston Churchill's dramatization of his own novel, and it is a Civil War drama in which there is no sound of battle and no fighting. It reproduces the atmosphere of the conflict without involving any of the characters directly in it. Whether one has read the novel or not, one will be certain to enjoy the clever play made by the novelist from it. The leading role of Stephen Brice, created by James K. Hackett, will be agreed at the Castle Square by William P. Carleton, and the heroine, Virginia Carvel, will be played by Miss Doris Oisson. Others in the cast will be Donald Meek, Walker Walker, Frederic Ormonde, Florence Shirley and Mabel Colcord.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

"The Poor Little Rich Girl" comes to the Hollis Street theatre, Boston, Monday night, for a limited engagement. Every theatregoer who sees this announcement will be stirred by the opportunity to see a play that is universally pronounced one of the most brilliant triumphs of the American stage, and at the same time one of the most delightful entertainments it has ever been the privilege of the public to enjoy. "The Poor Little Rich Girl" is something entirely novel and original. In reality there are two plays in one and all the characters have dual personalities, for the reason that a powerful modern society comedy drama is merged in a fantasy of dreamland. A gripping play of real and actual life is acted at the same time that are shown wonderful adventures and fantastic beings in realms of imagination. Eleanor Gates who wrote "The Poor Little Rich Girl," calls it a play of fact and fancy. It is a powerful and absorbing human interest play, filled with delicious humor, tender sentiment and pathos, telling a story that reaches the heart of every man, woman and child, and at the same time presenting marvelous stage pictures, for the scenic effects are unusually magnificent as well as unique. Klaw & Erlanger are presenting this play, and are sending to the Hollis the company that appeared in New York where "The Poor Little Rich Girl" ran all of last season and far into the summer. There will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

JANE COWL
in "Within the Law" at Majestic Theatre.

CORT THEATRE.

Margaret Anglin, who has nightly received an ovation, seldom before seen in a Boston theatre for the manner in which she has played and produced her Shakespearean plays will finish her engagement at the Cort theatre this week and will be followed by Kitty Gordon in "Pretty Mrs. Smith" a new comedy with music by the well known composer Harry James. A refreshing vein of comedy runs through the three acts of the play and the musical interpolations are of the tuneful and lilting variety. The story of the play is interesting and generative of amusing situations. It concerns a dashing young woman who has in a very brief space of time taken three husbands, all named Smith. She marries the second when she erroneously learns that Number One has been drowned and likewise told Number Two has committed suicide she weds a third. Having quarrelled with her last husband, she seeks solace for her grief at Palm Beach, and is followed by the suspecting Number Three. Here to her great surprise, comes the first husband, a missionary, and before she has fairly recovered from the shock of seeing him, number Two, the "suicide" bobs up out of the grave to make her existence more miserable. All three husbands being sensible men, and not wishing to court notoriety agree to give Mrs. Smith her freedom and permit her to choose which of them she desires to retain as her mate.

WOLLASTON PARK

WHY NOT HAVE THE
QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
LEFT AT YOUR HOME
EVERY AFTERNOON
BY A RELIABLE BOY

GEORGE COBB
116 KEMPER STREET
Telephone Quincy 1965 M
Will Deliver Anywhere in the Park
→ TRY HIM ←

LILLY CAHILL
In "Under Cover" now playing at Plymouth Theatre

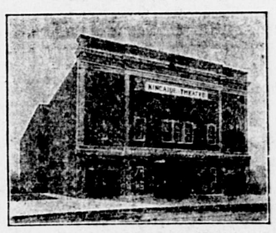
MY SLOGAN
for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb.-21-tf

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2 50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

DISTRICT COURT.

Frederick G. Wheatley was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy and fined $15. Sentence suspended on condition that he refrain from the use of intoxicating liquor and support his family.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?



MEN
HEAR THIS HERE
SUNDAY AFTERNOON
Dramatic and Lyric Recital of
"BLACK ROCK" or "MINERS' GUARDIAN ANGEL"
By ELIZABETH PACKARD LARSEN of St. Paul, Minn.
ASSISTED BY
RUTH LOUISE HARDY, Soloist
PROF. ALBERT KANRICH, Violinist
EDWARD BULLOCK, Pianist.
The Y. M. C. A. earnestly invites Men and Boys over 14 to come enjoy this truly rare treat. 'Twill thrill you.
DOORS OPEN 3 P. M. SEATS FREE. SILVER COLLECTION
March 13-2t

Advertise in the Ledger

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Saturday fair with moderate temperature. Sunday increasing cloudiness.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.29
Sun sets	5.49
Length of day	11.50
Moon sets	9.28
High water, A. M.	12.30
High water, P. M.	1.00
Days increase	2 hours, 44 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	35 degrees
Mar. 12 1913,	48 degrees
Mar. 12, 1912,	41 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

A Wonder.

Riggs—Oh, yes; he's an expert on economy.

Briggs—Yeah! Why, that fellow can cover three slices of bread with one chip of restaurant butter!—Pittsburgh Press.

NO EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY

Counsel For Dynamiters Will Not Press Appeal For Pardon

Washington, March 13.—There will be no executive clemency at this time in the cases of the former officials of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, whose conviction for implication in the country-wide dynamiting conspiracy that culminated in the destruction of the Los Angeles Times building has been affirmed by the supreme court.

This became known when it was stated that Senator Kern, who was counsel for the convicted men, has refused to press an appeal to President Wilson for pardon. It is understood Kern received an intimation that Wilson saw no reason for any interference with the mandate of the law.

ASKS FOR DISCHARGE

Mellen Makes an Unexpected Move Through His Attorney

Bridgeport, Conn., March 13.—Proceedings against Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, charged with manslaughter as a result of the Westport wreck in 1912, took an unexpected turn in the superior court when counsel for Mellen entered a motion for "the discharge of the prisoner at the bar."

Judge Tuttle, after hearing oral arguments on motions for the discharge of Mellen and for the filing of an amended complaint, ordered briefs filed and announced he would render his decision next Monday.

STONE TEAM WINS.

Two picked teams rolled at the City Square alleys Thursday night and the five captained by Melendy of the Fore River bowlers lost to Captain Stone's men by a score of 1250 to 1213 a margin of 37 pins. Stone was high man with a single of 112 and a total of 285. The string totals:

Capt. Stone	380	428	432	1250
Capt. Melendy	420	400	393	1213

HEPTASOPHS PRIZE WINNERS

Capt. Gibneys Team Had Walkover for First Place

Three candidates were initiated and the prizes won in the Heptasophs' league were awarded at the meeting of Granite conclave in Protection hall Thursday night. A members' tournament, proposed several weeks ago will be postponed until next fall.

Captain Gibney's team was given the first team prize and Captain Wilson's second. Mark Gill's five which beat Captain Mullen's men in the roll-off to decide third place received third prize. Four individual prizes were awarded. M. H. Irving took the three string total prize with 336 and Canty was second with 297. The prize for high single went to Harry Stevens who made 121. William DeCoste took the second prize with 116.

Mark Gill took the first prize offered for the individual average with 97. The others went to Dunn 96, Gitlen 88 and Healey 87. The final standing was:

	W	L.	P.C.
Capt. Gibneys	46	14	.766
Capt. Wilson	30	30	.500
Capt. Gill	*22	38	.366
Capt. Mullen	22	38	.366

*Rolloff won by Capt. Gill.

TWO DRAWS AT CHECKERS

The ninth and tenth games in the checker tournament being played by Napoleon Grignon and Michael Kiley were played at the rooms of Ave Maria council, Knights of Clumbus, Thursday night. The games were the Denney and resulted in two draws. The score now stands three wins for Mr. Grignon, one for Mr. Kiley and six draws. Alfred Jordan, champion of the world refereed the matches. The games were quickly played and witnessed by a large gallery.

MILK CONSUMPTION

(Continued from Page One)

milk solids or less than 3.35 per cent butter fat, shall not be considered of good standard quality.'

"Milk must comply with the above law, and must also be clean, wholesome, and safe, complying as well with the regulations of the local Board of Health, which requires that no milk shall contain more than 500,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter, nor having a temperature higher than 50 degrees Fahrenheit. (See regulation No. 49.)

"During the past year inspections of dairies have been regularly made and with few exceptions, conditions have been found to be satisfactory. Samples of milk have been taken from various dealers and tested for fats, solids, bacterial count per cubic centimeter, adulteration, preservatives, and coloring matter. The table below shows the result of these analyses, no coloring matter being found in any:

Name	Solids	Fats	Bacteria
A	12.71	4.2	290,000
B	13.26	4.4	150,000
C	12.25	3.1	370,000
D	16.27	6.8	400,000
E	12.02	3.7	220,000
F	12.87	3.5	360,000
G	12.36	3.4	15,340,000
H	14.05	4.0	380,000
J	14.18	4.7	380,000
K	10.99	1.43	190,000
L	13.13	3.8	1,370,000
M	11.73	3.3	410,000
N	12.60	3.5	350,000
O	12.40	3.6	200,000
P	13.20	3.8	230,000
Q	13.80	4.1	300,000
R	14.20	4.3	420,000

Number licensed to peddle milk, 61.
Numbered licensed to sell milk, 165.
Amount turned over to City Treasurer for fees, $125.00.

"Twin" Murphy, slated by the student body of Quincy High school as this year's pitcher, sprung a surprise Thursday when he announced that he would not play base ball this year. Murphy has been considered one of the most promising candidates. He reached such a decision he said at the close of last year's season.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—baked by experts in a light, well-ventilated building. All grocers.

FATE OF THE RESOLUTE.

British Economy and the End of Franklin's Exploring Ship.

The story of how the brave little exploring ship the Resolute was found by an American vessel in Davis strait after a thousand mile cruise from Melville island without a soul on board is easily the most captivating in the history of arctic exploration. The Resolute, locked in the ice, was abandoned on May 15, 1854, sorely against the will of her captain by advice of the leader of the Belcher-Franklin expedition. The reappearance of the vessel on Sept. 17 caused a great sensation, and the United States brought the vessel with great ceremony to Cowes in order to present it to the queen of England.

The queen, the prince consort and others of the royal family then at Osborne House inspected the vessel, which had been carefully repaired and all the original furniture retained in position down to the smallest trinkets. The American skipper traced before her majesty the thousand mile course of the vessel and expressed his belief that Sir John Franklin was still alive, living among the Eskimos.

After many banquets the actual transfer of the vessel took place on Dec. 30, 1856, when the American flag was replaced by the British. And now comes the tragedy. The admiralty had no sooner come into the possession of the vessel than it proceeded to break it up on the good old principle of public economy!—London Chronicle.

A TRAP FOR MARINERS.

Salmadina Bank, Off Colombia's Coast, Is a Perilous Shoal.

One of the most dangerous places for navigation is the Salmadina bank, which lies just outside the harbor of Cartagena, Colombia. Many vessels have come to grief on the treacherous sands of Salmadina in the past, and because of the impossibility of keeping buoys on it the shoal is a constant menace to ships plying those waters.

This dangerous bank is about four miles long and two miles wide. There is scarcely more than twelve feet of water over it at any time. The sea is usually smooth in that part of the Caribbean, and unless there is ground swell enough to cause waves to break on the reef there is nothing to warn the navigator that he is approaching this shallow spot. He may have his head going and get plenty of water one minute and be bang up on the shoal the next.

The lighthouse people will probably never be able to put buoys on Salmadina that will stay there. They are invariably carried away in the terrific hurricanes that periodically sweep these waters. So it seems as if Salmadina was a bad spot put there for the permanent worriment of shipmasters.—New York Sun.

Penalties For Sabbath Breaking.

Sabbath breaking in Dundee was an expensive business in former times, to judge by the table of fines, etc., drawn up by the local Guild of Bonnetmakers in 1665. For traveling or drinking in a tavern on Sunday the fine was fixed at 40 shillings for each offense. For "hanging out bonnets, clothing or fish to dry—penalty for bonnets, 6s. 8d.; for clothes, 4 shillings; for fish, 3 shillings. Carrying water from the well or washing meat thereat in time of sermon, penalty, 8 shillings; gathering kail in time of sermon, penalty, 5 shillings; going to neighbors' houses in time of sermon without lawful excuse, such as sickness, penalty for first fault, 12 shillings, and for second twice as much, with rebuke before the craft, and for the third, summons before the kirk session."—London Chronicle.

China's Millions.

Any figures for the population of China must necessarily be more or less unreliable, inasmuch as the census man is not much in evidence in the land of the Celestials. The estimate, which is probably somewhere near correct, is 402,700,000. As to whether the millions of China will ever become thoroughly modernized in the sense that the Japanese are remains to be seen. The Chinaman possesses plenty of good sense and there seems to be no valid reason why he should not some time "catch on" to things and forge ahead with the rest of the folks.—New York Journal.

As She Is Spoke In Lancashire.

First Lancashire schoolboy from the top of a passing tramcar to a school friend:

"Gooin' th' 'all t'neet?"

Second L. S.—Yi.

"Hayve past?"

"Aw reet."

The two, explains the Manchester Guardian, have made an appointment to meet at half past 6 for the first show of the local picture hall, which will be faithfully kept.

Easy to Remember.

"Beg pard—e sir," observed the tough looking waiter suggestively. "Gentlemen who dine at this table usually—er—remember me, sir."

"I don't wonder," said the customer cordially. "That mug of yours would be hard to forget."—Dallas News.

The Cranky Stage.

"What is the difference between sickness and convalescence, pa?"

"The convalescent, my boy, generally makes those around him sick."—Boston Transcript.

Honors come by diligence; riches spring from economy.—John Francis Davis.

CAMPAIGN TO TAKE CAPITAL

Rebels Prepared For Desperate Attack on Torreon

VILLA ARMY WELL SUPPLIED

But Few Unmounted Soldiers With Exception of Those Attached to Artillery—Fall of Torreon Expected to Be Followed by Evacuation of Other Large Mexican Cities

Chihuahua, Mex., March 13.—"Everything is ready for the advance on Torreon," General Villa declared after witnessing a review of the artillery corps. "I have food for thirty days, ammunition for fifteen days of fighting, unless the cartridges are wasted, and the water supply problem in the vicinity of Torreon, which has given us some concern, has been solved." Villa said he would leave a garrison of about 600 men in this city.

Villa has begun the embarkation of 5000 troops for Torreon, which he expects to capture within a week, and from there he will lead his troops against the capital.

Constitutionalist officers claim that hundreds of Huerta's soldiers at Torreon have deserted to the constitutionalist cause within the last week, and declare that the weakened garrison there is likely to surrender without long resistance.

Villa's advance from Chihuahua will be along the Mexican Central railway line by way of Escalon. He will be personally at the head of a force of more than 10,000 men in all. He expects to attack Torreon with sixty-five cannon and a like number of machine guns. He has in addition an armored auto truck, mounted with seven machine guns, which was built at Juarez to support cavalry charges.

Constitutionalist spies recently brought in reports that the federals in and around Torreon are not more than 5000 strong, with thirty cannon and twenty machine guns.

The federals still hold the railway line as far northward as Beermajillo, where Colonel Argumedo has a force of 1200 men with which to withstand the constitutionalists. The constitutionalists here say that the flower of the federal army is in Torreon and that when that city falls the cities of Saltillo and Monterey will be evacuated.

Revolutionary commanders in the vicinity of Torreon say all federal volunteers taken prisoners will be shot. Federal private regular soldiers will be disarmed and set free.

Villa's soldiers are almost all well clothed and well armed. Almost the only unmounted soldiers in the constitutionalist army, it is said, are those attached to the artillery.

Carranza Expected to Yield

Washington, March 13.—That the Mexican rebels will agree to recognize the right of the United States to intervene as "next friend" on behalf of foreign nations whose interests are threatened in northern Mexico is believed certain in official circles.

Carranza is considering Secretary of State Bryan's letter to him explaining just why this country interests itself in the affairs of other nations.

Bryan held as absurd the demand of the constitutionalist leader that nations which had recognized Huerta as the provisional head of the Mexican government should take up directly with the rebels matters affecting their interests.

Even if they wanted to they could not do so under international procedure, it was explained, and a preliminary report from Consul Simpich at Nogales indicated that Carranza has accepted the spirit at least, of the suggestion.

HELPFUL TO ALASKA

President Signs Bill Providing For Government-Owned Railroad

Washington, March 13.—President Wilson extended what he termed "the hand of real helpfulness and brotherhood to Alaska" when he signed the bill authorizing the expenditure of $35,000,000 for the first government-owned railway constructed by the United States.

The president said the enactment of the railway bill would be followed by the passage of the Alaska leasing bill which would mean the carrying out of the administration program for the development of Alaska in an incredibly short time.

Sweethearts Killed by Train

Williamson, W. Va., March 13.—While attempting to save the life of Miss Dixie Blackburn, his sweetheart, whose foot was caught in a railway trestle, William McCoy was struck by a train and fatally injured. Miss Blackburn was instantly killed.

Gift For Great Episcopal Temple

Washington, March 13.—An anonymous gift of $500,000 toward the construction of the great national cathedral of the Protestant Episcopal church on Mt. St. Albans, in the suburbs of Washington, was announced here.

Higher Wages For Carmen

Fall River, Mass., March 13.—The employes on the freight cars on the Fall River and Providence street railway line were given an advance in wages from 21 cents an hour to 28 cents.

RAISING OF POTATOES

Any One of Four States Could Supply Our Home Markets

Washington, March 13.—Warning that the United States hereafter must produce enough potatoes to supply home consumption on account of most scarces of foreign imports being closed by a plant disease quarantine, was issued by the department of agriculture.

"Within our great resources," says the department, "it should be entirely unnecessary for us to import potatoes, but unless production is increased and maintained, years of shortage may recur, and a serious condition arise.

"At the present rate of consumption of potatoes in the United States the needs of the entire country could be supplied from any one of the states of New York, Michigan, Wisconsin or Minnesota and leave a surplus unused, whereas all the states combined have several times failed to produce enough potatoes to supply domestic consumption.

COCKROACHES IN LOCKERS

Complaint of Manchester Weavers Who Are on Strike

Manchester, N. H., March 13.—Cockroaches caused a strike of 200 weavers in mill No. 11 of the Amoskeag Manufacturing company. The operatives walked out after a superintendent had ordered them to put their hats, coats and lunch boxes back in the lockers provided for them.

The men remonstrated with the order, claiming the lockers were infested with cockroaches.

A month ago the operatives were so bothered with roaches in the lockers they quit using them and since that time have been hanging their clothing on the looms. They demanded permission to continue doing so until the lockers are thoroughly cleaned and when their request was refused, walked out in a body.

MAY RICHARDSON GETS SIX MONTHS

Sentence of Suffragette Who Slashed Famous "Venus"

London, March 13.—May Richardson, the militant suffragette, who hacked the "Rokeby Venus" in the national gallery, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

The public prosecutor, in addressing the jury on behalf of the government, said one might well doubt whether the prisoner was in her right senses. There was, however, no medical evidence to show that she was a person not responsible for her actions.

Miss Richardson, in replying to the charge, said her act was premeditated and she pleaded guilty. She said she had been an art student, but cared more for justice than for art.

HELD IN $1500 EACH

Three Men Charged With Causing Death of Lynn Man

Lynn, Mass., March 13.—Pleading not guilty to the charge of manslaughter before Judge Lummus, the three men arrested in connection with the death of James P. Williams, a Lynn leather salesman, who died from injuries received Tuesday, had their case continued until next Thursday for a hearing. Lummus fixed the bail at $1500 each.

The men in custody are Frederick T. Devine, Ellsworth Cressey and Mark Brennan. The police say they told conflicting stories.

Williams was 60 years old and lived with his niece in this city.

FOREIGN SPIES SUSPECTED

Scores of Sleuths Hunting For Code Book Stolen From Warship

London, March 13.—Foreign spies were the quarry of scores of Scotland Yord detectives and secret agents of the British admiralty as the result of the theft from a warship at Shernss of a secret naval code book.

With the aid of the stolen volume the veriest amateur could make out the confidential signals between warships in time of war. For that reason the admiralty are convinced the book has fallen into the hands of a foreign government.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

The United States submarine "K-3," the fifth to be built at the Union Iron Works, San Francisco, is ready to be launched.

Postmaster General Burleson says he will make no recommendation for a postmaster at Springfield, Mass., for eight days.

Summoned for not attending school, Gertrude Schwatz, 12, of New York, told the court that the classroom seats are too small. She weighs 155 pounds.

The tango will produce big hipped women and slant shoulders, according to Dr. Maude Dunn, a fashion expert of Philadelphia.

By using a white clay pipe as a "revolver," Walter Rector, charged with theft, drove back a New York crowd repeatedly, but was later arrested.

Abraham Himmell, treasurer of the U. S. Steve company, millinery, Boston, filed a petition in bankruptcy for the firm, disclosing liabilities of $31,999.22.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Margaret Emma Hudson late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Adelbert Lathrop Hudson of said Quincy, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond: You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Brookline in said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-fifth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eleventh day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCoole, Register.

3t March 13-16-23

Call Quincy 501-W

If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN, upholsterer, 1000 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School

Mar. 4 tf

LEWIS N CURTIS

PAINTER and GLAZIER

LEADED STAINED GLASS

DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER

OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED

Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

In effect Nov. 16, 1913.

The letters in the same line as the figures below stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows.

a Wollaston	f Harrison Square
b Norfolk Downs	g Savin Hill
c Atlantic	h Oxford Avenue
d Neponset	i South Boston
e Pope's Hill	r Quincy Adams
* Saturdays Only	t Except Saturday

Exp.—Express tram.

TO BOSTON			FROM BOSTON
Leave	Stop	Arrive	Leave	Stop	Arrive
r 5 14 abcdefghi		5 41	5 44 ihgfedcba		6 14 r
r 6 19 abcd		6 40	6 09 ihgfedcba		6 39 r
r 6 32 e		6 49	6 29 a		6 47
			6 47 Exp		7 04
r 6 40 abcf		7 00	7 14 hgfedcba		7 41 r
r 7 08 abcd		7 30	7 34 a		7 52
7 28 a		7 46	7 37 a		7 56
r 7 32 Exp		7 49	7 44 c		8 03 r
r 7 42 ab		8 00	8 34 cba		8 55 r
7 55 a		8 12	8 44 b		9 02
r 8 13 abe		8 32	9 09 fedba		9 32 r
8 21 a		8 41	9 44 a		10 01 r
r 8 33 a		59	10 14 ihgfedcba		10 41 r
r 8 59 ad			10 54 Exp		11 10
r 9 18 abc		9 39	11 14 hgfedcba		11 41 r
r 10 04 a		10 21	11 49 a		12 07
r 10 19 abcdefghi		10 45	12 14 hgfedcba		12 41 r
11 12 a		11 28	12 20 a		12 38
11 24 abcdefgh		11 50	12 50 Exp		1 06
12 04 a		12 20	1 16 fedcba		1 40 r
			* 1 32 a		1 50
r 12 27 abcdefghi		12 53	1 44 a		2 01
r 1 16 a		1 34	2 14 fedcba		2 37 r
2 04 a		2 20	2 34 Exp		2 50
r 2 19 abcdefgh		2 45	3 14 hgfedcba		3 40 r
r 3 13 Exp		3 28	3 44 a		4 02
4 04 a		4 20	4 12 fedcba		4 25 r
r 4 26 abcdefgh		4 55	4 15 a		4 32
5 02 a		5 19	4 40 c		4 58
r 5 30 abcdefg		5 55	4 55 a		5 11
6 04 a		6 21	5 13 a		5 32
6 12 ab		6 32	5 19 hgfeca		5 43
6 57 a		7 15	5 28 ba		5 46 r
r 7 22 Exp		7 39	5 40		5 57
7 29 ab		7 48	5 58 a		6 17 r
r 8 09 abcdef		8 32	6 01 fedcb		6 24
9 00 a		9 18	6 16 a		6 35
r 9 10 abc		9 29	6 30 ecba		6 52 r
* 9 17 Exp.		9 32	6 59 fedcba		7 24 r
r 10 07 abcdef		10 30	7 11 a		7 28
* 10 13 a		10 37	8 04 fedcba		8 28 r
11 13 a		11 30	* 8 19 Exp		8 35
r 11 30 abcd		11 50	9 19 a		9 37
			9 34 b		9 53 r
			10 05 ba		10 21
			10 34 fedcba		11 02 r
			*11 06 a		11 25 r
			11 09 fedcba		11 35 r
			*11 25 ba		11 43 r
			11 29 ba		11 49
			12 05 cba		12 26 r

SUNDAYS

r 7 43 abe		8 03	6 29 ba		6 48 r
8 30 Exp		8 45	8 34 cba		8 55
r 8 46 abcdefghi		9 13	10 39 cba		10 59 r
r 9 13 abc		9 33	12 14 ihgfedcba		12 42
9 31 a		9 47	12 44 Exp		1 01
10 25 ae		10 42	1 29 ihgfedcba		1 57 r
11 08 Exp		11 25	2 44 hgfedcba		2 42 r
r 11 16 abcdefghi		11 43	2 44 a		3 02
1 04 a		1 23	3 14 ihgfedcba		3 42 r
r 1 15 abcdefgh		1 43	4 26 cba		4 48 r
r 3 10 abc		3 30	5 14 ihgfedcba		5 42 r
r 4 16 abcdefghi		4 43	6 09 Exp		6 25
4 59 ab		5 16	6 14 ihgfedcba		6 42 r
5 06		5 23	7 02 cba		7 22 r
6 16 abcdefghi		6 43	8 14 ihgfedcba		8 41 r
7 21 Exp		7 36	8 39 a		8 56 r
7 29 abcdefghi		7 55	8 49 Exp		9 05
r 8 16 abcdefghi		8 43	9 29 ihgfedcba		9 57 r
9 46 a		10 04	10 44 cba		11 04 r
0 46 abc		11 05

MAINE POTATOES 25c PECK

— AT —

Carlson's Restaurant

10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall

March 6-1m

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES

29 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.

MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar, Tel. Quincy 131-W.

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 2, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice.)

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.25 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 9.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.30 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 6.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street, 5.45 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 12.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.25 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Wollaston—6.05, 6.35, 7.03 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.03 P. M. then 11.20, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.03 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.35, 7.05, 7.25, A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.25 P. M. then 11.42 P. M. and 12.12 midnight. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.20, 6.00, 6.30 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15, 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sundays 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.25, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 1.00 P. M.

THOMAS GAMMON, Superintendent.

THE THUNDER BIRD

It Was Appropriately Named

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Dick Forsyth paced the earthern floor of the Chinese hovel which was his prison cell. Three weeks had passed since he and his little party of friends had been captured by the hostile natives. To his bitter amazement the others, Blakely, Dorr and Remington, had managed to escape from their huts on that first night of imprisonment, and he had not been taken into their confidence. He had been left behind.

Why?

What had become of his servants? He was almost certain that they had lost their lives in his behalf.

It was growing twilight, and he heard the conglomerate noises of the village dying down into silence.

Two men were talking beneath his window. He knew enough of the Chinese language to gather words here and there and to piece them together into some sort of comprehensive fabric. It was a welcome diversion for him in his loneliness.

In substance this is what Dick Forsyth heard:

"Every night it appears in the west and hovers over our village. It presages disaster for us," said one gloomily.

"It is an evil bird conjured by the foreign devil," returned the other.

"I never saw a bird like it. It flew straight out of the setting sun, and its color changed from red to gray, and it vanished in the clouds, and while it flew there came down a strange roaring sound like the beat of thunder."

"The thunder bird is larger than an eagle," said the first man.

"It is larger than the house we lean against," muttered the other.

Dick Forsyth, idly skeptical and a little contemptuous of the credulity of the superstitious Chinese, looked out of the window into the flaming sunset. He had noticed many of the people gathered on a little mound near the temple, and he gathered that they were watching for the thunder bird.

THE SUPERSTITIOUS VILLAGERS TOOK COUNSEL TOGETHER.

It could scarcely be an optical illusion if the entire village should witness its appearance.

Staring straight at the sun, his mind thousands of miles away from China, Dick forgot all about the thunder bird until he was conscious that a black speck floated against the red dazzle of the sun. It grew larger, and for an instant the sun was hidden from view. Then, painted with the sunset colors as it winged its way against the clouds, the thunder bird became rosy pink. Larger it grew, larger, and Dick had to strain his neck to keep it in view.

At last it appeared to pass over the roof of his prison, and then he heard the muffled throbbing that had caused the Chinese to name it "thunder bird."

He heard the yelps of frightened natives as they fled into their houses. He understood that the thunder bird had never approached so near before, had never appeared so appalling.

But Dick Forsyth was not afraid of the thunder bird.

He laughed aloud as it passed over his prison, and he even waved his handkerchief out of the window in the hope that the strange visitor might glimpse it.

The throbbing died away, and at last silence fell upon the village. There was no evening exchange of gossip, no twanging of rasping fiddle or nasal singsong of voices. The village of Pao Lao was scared into silence.

Dick realized that his prison was unguarded. Now was the time to escape. But should he venture forth yet? Was the time ripe?

He sat and pondered that question over and over after the thunder bird disappeared.

The moon arose from a pale cloud in the east and flooded the village with light. The shadows of the houses were sharp and black. The narrow street that was a filthy lane in the daylight took on a strange, mysterious half light. Somewhere a parish dog barked.

Dick took three steps toward the little window and paused.

Out of the night came the distant throbbing of the thunder bird's cry.

His guard, who had timidly returned to his post under the window, uttered a yelp of dismay.

"Ai yah!" he quavered. "'Tis the thunder bird! It is the friend of the foreign devil. We shall be destroyed!"

Dick heard the bars of the door slip aside, then the padding of the coward's footsteps as he scuttled back to his hovel.

"Saved by the thunder bird!" ejaculated Dick as he pushed open the door and stepped into the moonlit night. His first act was to pick up a stout stick from the ground, and his second was to try to locate the thunder bird, and then, seeing it flying as though it came straight out of the moon itself, Dick turned about and went to meet it.

It was still many miles away, and he had to leave the village far behind and to climb up and down many hills before he came within close view of it.

It was flying low—perhaps a hundred feet above the ground—and the closer it came, although it grew larger and more awe inspiring, the more relieved was Dick Forsyth of the United States and Shanghai, China.

Dick jumped up and down and shouted. He tore off his soiled white linen coat and waved it frantically. He swore lustily in four languages as it appeared not to heed his calls.

For an instant he was baffled.

Then he put his hands to his lips and forced all his waning strength into the bellowing roar of his college yell.

There was a queer, siren-like response from the thunder bird. The thunder dulled to a purring throb, growing slower and slower until the thunder bird descended in lessening circles and flapped on the ground.

The thunder bird was a grotesque creature. It had a wing spread of forty feet. Its wings were of canvas, its bones and tendons of steel and aluminium, and its feet were four rubber tired landing wheels. Yes, it was an aeroplane.

Moreover, it was an aeroplane familiar enough to Dick Forsyth, for it belonged to Benny Dorr, who had been one of the first foreigners in Shanghai to startle the natives with the sight of a flying machine.

It was Benny Dorr's flying machine, and there was no doubt in Dick's mind that it was Benny who was disentangling himself from the driver's seat and coming toward him with extended hands.

This explained Benny's escape. He had gone away so as to be able to return and save his friend. But how about Blakely and Remington?

"Well, old chap, I might have missed you if it hadn't been for that zip, zip, zip of yours," cried Benny tearfully as they wrung each other's hands. "I've been scouting around this God forsaken hole for two days now, hoping for a glimpse of you. Blakely has been hidden in a ruined temple back of the town here to keep an eye on you. He was to rush in and clean up the town if they harmed you. Remington went back to Shanghai with me so that in case one of us dropped out the other could go through and give the word about these haughty Chinks! We got there all right, and I came back in this affair, thinking I might discover some way of aiding you to escape by its means. Remington is up there in the temple with Blakely, and they have a dozen husky, trusty men behind them in case you needed help in getting away. How is it you're wandering around here instead of being locked up?"

In a few words Dick told him about the thunder bird and the evil name it had gained among the terrified Chinese. Then he went in to confess how bitterly he had resented the apparent desertion of his friends.

"I don't deserve this, Benny," groaned Dick as he gripped Dorr's hand.

"Don't deserve it, eh?" laughed Dorr. "Don't you suppose we remember how you stayed awake two nights without a wink of sleep when we were taking that cruise in the south Pacific? Blakely and I were about all in, and you—oh, if you object to hearing your good deeds recited, why, don't wonder why we did it!

"Just follow the thunder bird. Good name, eh? I guess I'll call it that hereafter. Just follow the thunder bird and it will lead you to Blakely's temple. Here's a gun for you in case any of the natives get over their scare and attempt to interfere. So long, Dick!"

In another moment the propeller of the thunder bird was buzzing merrily and the big machine was rocking over the uneven ground preparatory to flight. Then it arose obliquely and flew toward the southeast.

Dick followed so closely in its wake that it seemed as though he vanished with the aeroplane into the night air.

The thunder bird hovered a moment over the ruined temple before it descended to join Dick and his faithful friends.

On a distant hillside above the village of Pao Lao a little group of Chinese saw a sight that filled them with superstitious awe.

They saw the prisoner, the foreign devil, walking along. They saw the thunder bird hovering overhead. They saw it plunge down and pick up the foreign devil and fly away with him to the moon.

Then, because the evil bird had apparently taken what it came after, they lost their fear and went back to their homes relieved of their terror.

Of course the thunder bird never came back to Pao Lao.

TRAIN WIRELESS WINS OVER STORM

Its Initial Test In Coping With a Blizzard.

IS ONLY HOPE IN A CRISIS.

When All Other Means of Communication Fail Messages Sent Through the Air Keep Railroad Heads Posted Regarding Conditions and Simplify Worst Traffic Problem.

The wireless worked for the Lackawanna railroad in critical hours during the recent blizzard, when President Truesdale and the officials were worried about the predicament of stalled trains and the safety of passengers.

Hard hit, as every other railroad was, the Lackawanna snatched from the air most important bulletins of the traffic between Scranton, Pa., and Binghamton, N. Y., together with occasional news of conditions between Scranton and New York.

From Hoboken west to Scranton trains were dead in the drifts because of impeded tracks or because the telegraph signal service was ruined. Sagging poles and fallen wires prevented all usual means of communication. From Scranton eastward not a Lackawanna wire was working.

First Test In a Storm Crisis.

All news of the road from Buffalo back to Scranton would have been held up at the latter city had it not been for the wireless miracle, applied effectively for the first time in a storm crisis.

But from the two big wireless stations the road maintains at Binghamton and Scranton bulletins were flashed to the New York stations on the roof of a department store, on the tower of the Woolworth building and to the Marconi office. These bulletins were received at President Truesdale's office every half hour or so.

They gave the news that westward from Scranton the road was in excellent shape, but that the division superintendent at Scranton had learned of numerous trains stalled between Dover and Scranton. They reassured the president and officials with the tidings that there had been no wreck or accident and that none of the Lackawanna's passengers was in peril.

President Truesdale Enthusiastic.

"I am no longer skeptical," President Truesdale remarked in discussing the splendid work that the wireless had done for his company. "There is not much outlay attached to establishing and maintaining the wireless system, and our experience during the big storm has convinced me that the system pays when supplementing the telephone and telegraph."

"The wireless proved its value to the railroads," said President Truesdale's secretary. "Without it we would have had to run blindly where traffic was possible at all. With its help we knew in a general way what we were about.

"It won't be long until every through train, perhaps every suburban train, will be equipped with wireless apparatus, so that it can send messages and take orders in the worst of storms, even while maintaining speed.

"The storm was the worst in our history. Our experience with the wireless has demonstrated the necessity of extending and improving the present methods of air communication."

L. B. Foley, the Lackawanna's superintendent of telegraph, was in command of the wireless communication. He originated the idea of the train wireless system and has been in charge of the tests.

AMERICA TO SEE PEGOUD FLY

Aerial Performances on His Program the Last Word In Daring.

In a letter to President Alan R. Hawley of the Aero Club of America Alphonse Pegoud, the originator of upside down flying, says he will visit the United States for a series of flights in June. Pegoud is now in Austria, the letter says, and will tour Germany before coming to America.

A copy of Pegoud's proposed program of flights, which was inclosed with the letter, rather startled the officials of the Aero club in spite of the fact that several of them had seen the remarkable success of Niles in flying at Garden City, N. Y., at any angle his machine could possibly assume.

Here are some of the feats Pegoud suggests as his flying program:

1. Pegoud's aerial waltz. 2. Ascent in upward spirals and descent headforemost. 3. Jumping the waves. 4. Aerial somersaults. 5. Looping the loop. 6. Loops in a series. 7. Landing with a vertical corkscrew movement. 8. Spiral flight, head downward. 9. Somersault of flying machine with long head downward flight. 10. Rapid fall flights with recoveries first on the left wing and then on the right wing. 11. Flying on beam ends, with tail slides and recoveries.

"Cancer of Tongue Isn't Dangerous."

Cancer of the tongue is not dangerous if operated upon promptly, according to the announcement made by two French surgeons, who base their conclusion on the fact that out of 225 operations 108 cures have been effected. The public is warned that any white excrescences on the tongue should be examined immediately by a surgeon, as they may be the beginning of cancer.

THE SHAMLIAN MURDER

Two More Men Taken Into Custody as Accessories

Lawrence, Mass., March 13.—Two more men were arrested by the police last night in connection with the murder of John K. Shamlian, the Boston jewelry salesman. This brings the number of men in custody to six.

The newly arrested men were Bagdaser Wachsookan, a milkman, and Saprak Boroian, mill operative. Both are charged with being accessories after the fact, and their arrest, the police declare, is due to their knowledge of the disposal of Shamlian's body. They are under bonds of $1500.

The four men previously arrested were arraigned in the Lawrence police court. Mike Zakoian, through whose information the solution of Shamlian's fate was made known, was charged with being an accessory after the fact. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $1500 for the grand jury.

The other three men, Bedros Takdarian, 18; Garabed Barbarian, 23, and John Ardaman, 23, were charged with murder and held without bonds for the grand jury. The men were committed to jail.

DEATH OF WESTINGHOUSE

Famous Engineer Became an Inventor at Age of Fifteen

New York, March 13.—George Westinghouse, the famous engineer and inventor, died at his home here from disease of the heart, which became first manifest about fifteen months ago.

His mental alertness and activity remained unimpaired to the end. He was in his 68th year.

Westinghouse became an inventor at the age of 15, when he produced a rotary engine. Four years later he perfected a device for replacing derailed steam cars. Then, when 21 years old, he sought the financial backing of the late Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt for his now famous air-brake, perfected after three years of labor.

PARDONED MAN WANTED AS SLAYER

Webster's Departure From State Prison Is Postponed

Providence, March 13.—While the pardon papers for Arthur G. Webster, the long-term robber in Cranston prison, were being made out for Governor Pothier's signature, a telegram from the police of St. Louis asked that Webster be held for a murder in that city.

The news of the telegram from St. Louis caused a sensation in the state senate, which had wrangled over the Webster pardon.

Webster was sentenced sixteen years ago to twenty-five years for his part in the Portsmouth car barn robbery, in which a man was killed. Webster, who was to have been released last evening, is still in prison pending developments.

PRETTY WOMEN SAFE

Cannot Be Convicted of Murder In Cook County, Says Prosecutor

Chicago, March 13.—"You can't convict a woman of murder in this county—especially a pretty woman—and Stella was decidedly pretty," said Assistant State Attorney O'Brien, commenting on the acquittal of Stella Czemerowska, charged with the murder of her fiance because he jilted her.

O'Brien, from memory, compiled a list of thirteen women accused of murder in Cook county in recent years and acquitted.

DEATH TOLL OF THIRTY

Total of Seventeen Bodies Recovered From Clubhouse Ruins

St. Louis, March 13.—Seven more bodies were recovered from the ruins of the Missouri Athletic club, destroyed by fire Monday, bringing the total number recovered to seventeen.

The bodies of thirteen are believed to be in the ruins, making the total death toll thirty. The finding of the club register, and a comparison of the names therein with lists already prepared, confirm the belief that the fatalities will not exceed this number.

END OF KOEHLER TRIAL

Verdict May Not Be Made Known For Several Weeks

New London, Conn., March 13.—The court martial trial of Major Benjamin M. Koehler, on charges of immoral conduct, ended at Fort Terry.

No information was obtainable of the result of the trial and it is expected that it will be three or four weeks before the court's verdict is known. Meanwhile Koehler will remain at the fort.

Cairo to Khartoum by Air Route

Khartoum, March 13.—Following the route of the Nile, Aviator Schneider, who set out from Cairo in a hydro-aeroplane, arrived here. He traveled nearly 2000 miles.

Infant Victims of Whisky

Troy, N. Y., March 13.—Drinking a quart of whisky found in the house, twins, aged 5, sons of Michael Flannagan of this city, developed alcoholic poisoning. One child died and the other cannot recover.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—Two pleasant four-room tenements, one furnished, light and sunny rooms, new house, modern improvements, central location. 9 Francis Court, off Spear street. 13-6t

TO LET—New apartment of 6 rooms and bath, all improvements, maple floors, fire place, etc. 3 minutes to City Square. Apply 37 Bigelow street. Mar. 12-tf

TO LET—On Spear street, first floor 4 rooms, bath, furnace, set tubs, gas and set range. J. A. Weeden, Room 10, Greenleaf Block. 12-3t

TO LET—Two well furnished front rooms in good location. Only one minute walk from station and city square. Apply to Mrs. Johnson, 14 Upland road. 9-6t

TO LET—6 room tenement, improvements. Apply 74 Arnold street, evenings. 9-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms for light housekeeping also single rooms. Apply at 44 Massachusetts avenue. 9-6t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 3 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

UPPER APARTMENT. In two family house on Spear Street. Five rooms, bath, large pantry and closets, also open attic with finished heated chamber. Every improvement, electric light, furnace, range etc. Ready for immediate occupancy. Telephone Quincy 278 M or enquire mornings of Miss Prescott at the Ledger Office. 1po

Government Markers

Friends of deceased veterans of the Civil War, wishing government markers, fort their graves, will confer a favor upon Post No. 88 G. A. R. by sending their name, Company, and Regiment, at once, to Francis P. Loud, Q. M., Quincy, Mass. 9-6t

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block

2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office. Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square

Offices—small front office, $12 a month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust.
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ..

TO LET

TO LET—Single house of six rooms in good repair. Rent low. Apply at 97 Coddington street. 13-6t

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

TO LET—Flat of 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-6t

TO LET—At North Weymouth, flat of 5 rooms, some improvements, near salt water and good place to keep hens. Rent reasonable to small family. Few minutes to trains to Boston. Apply at 445 Washington street, Quincy. 11-6t

TO LET—Upper tenement of five rooms and bath at 109 Franklin street. Apply to Harry W. Tirrell. Telephone Quincy 432-M. 10-6t

TO LET—In private family to refined people, two very fine corner rooms, newly furnished, with separate baths. Near centre. Write L. B. K. Ledger Office. 9-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

TO LET—173 Whitwell street, hall house, modern conveniences, $20 per month. Ready for immediate occupancy. Apply Penniman's Stable, Granite street. 19-tf

RUSSELL PARK — Commodious house of seven rooms, large hall and bath. Modern, every convenience open fireplace, furnace, range, set tubs, electric lights, cemented cellar, etc. Best residential neighborhood. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further details or key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office. tf lpo

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—One "Reo the Fifth," four seated touring car, specially comfortable body, over-sized tires, extra shoe, shock absorbers, Warner speedometer, condition good as new. Apply to Central Garage, corner Washington and Pond Streets, Quincy. 13-6t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS—Take notice. We are selling all steel portable Automobile garages, camps and storehouses ready to put up. Prompt shipment. Send for quotations, M. W. Tilton, Box 362 Brockton. 11-6t

FOR SALE—22 ft. motor boat, 5 h. p. 2 cylinder engine. One year old. Price reasonable. A. D. Thompson, 47 Main street. 7-6t

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX

are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

WANTED

WANTED—Two furnished, heated rooms and one small unfurnished room, with gas to be used as kitchenett. No children. Write X. O. Ledger office, Quincy. 12-3t O 14-1w

WANTED—Girl to help in adult family of two. May go to own home every night. Good wages, work light and surroundings pleasant. 12 Elm Place, Quincy. Lower floor. 11-3t

WANTED—A maid would like a position for general work in small family, experienced Cook. Apply 45 Chestnut street, Quincy. 11-3t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York, N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Mrs. Nixon W. Elmer wishes to announce that her pianoforte class now being full she will be unable to take any additional pupils this season. 11--t

BOSTON GLOBE— Picture Game Answers. Our best answers to entire set of 77 pictures, now ready. Price 50 cents. Coin, stamps or money order. The White Company, Melrose, Highlands, Lock Box Q. 10-6t

FASHIONABLE DRESSMAKING—Done with neatness and dispatch. Special attention given to evening gowns. Mrs. W. H. Russell, 392 Hancock street, Norfolk Downs. Telephone Quincy 493-W. 9-6t

JUST LOOK HERE

Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.

HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 385 K. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 / Office 383-5

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Burgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY.
SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c

THURS., FRI., SAT.
Program Subject to Change

MARY HIXON CO.
In the beautiful Scenic playlet
"ERIN'S ISLE"

LAMONT & MILHAN
Scenic Musical Novelty Duo

ELMIND EDDY
The Man on the Bounding Rope

KENNEY & HOLLIS
Two Comical Gentlemen

Eclair 2-Reel Feature
DEVIL FOX OF THE NORTH
A thrilling Drama of the North Woods

"A NARROW ESCAPE"
Joker Comedy

"AN OLD LOCKET"
A Delightful Drama

LOTS OF GOOD MUSIC

Mar. 11-3t

NEWSY BRIEFS

Founders day concert this evening at Woodward hall.

Ladies night Quincy Commandery, K. T. at Alpha hall, this evening.

Pupils recital at the Quincy Mansion school this evening.

Banquet tonight to Royal Chief Alex Findlay by Clan MacGregor.

Grand Patriarch Whitmore and board of grand officers will visit Manet encampment I. O. O. F. tonight.

Concert this evening at Bethany church by the Weber Male Quartet, under auspices of the Brotherhood.

Mrs. Alfred W. Goodhue has been confined to her home for the past week with a severe case of grippe.

Two Wollaston clergymen are scheduled to receive their first degree in Freemasonry at special communication of Wollaston lodge.

Chief of Police Burrell is laid up with a severe head cold. He is not alone in his affliction as head colds are quite prevalent at the present time.

The $750,000 bond issue of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation is being offered for sale to mature between 1919 and 1933.

Mumps are prevalent at the Military academy, and the school hospital is not large enough to accommodate the victims. Bradford Wilson of Bigelow street, Quincy, is at a private hospital.

Earle M. Marsters and Hazel June Alexander, a 16 year old Houghs Neck girl, eloped to New Jersey, where they were married and are now on their honeymoon. They will live at 66 Putnam street, Somerville.

Neopa lodge, N. E. O. P., of Norfolk Downs, initiated six candidates on Tuesday evening with several grand officers present. A very enjoyable evenin gwas spent. A collation and entertainment followed the meeting.

Soon the golf fiends will be shouldering their clubs and hike it toward the green at Montclair if this weather continues. Quite a number of Quincy business men have taken up the fad and in good weather can be found on the links.

George W. Penniman, formerly of Quincy, was unanimously re-elected grand warden of Grand Lodge, New England Order of Protection, Wednesday in the largest convention the order has held in its 27 years of existence more than 800 past wardens being present.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS?
ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

NOTICE.

Loyal Ladies Clan MacGregor No. 1 are requested to meet in Clan MacGregor hall at 1.45 P. M. Saturday, to attend the funeral of our late sister Katie Cormick at 53 Town Hill.

MARGARET ROSS, Pres.
MARJORIE MILNE, Sec.
12-2t

DEATHS

CORMACK—In Quincy, March 11, Katie H., wife of Henry Cormack in her 44th year.
Funeral services at late home 53 Town Hill street, Saturday, March 14 at 2.30 P. M. Relatives and friends invited. 12-2t

SWAN—In Milton, March 11, Mrs. Rebecca M., widow of Harrison Swan, of Dorchester, in her 80th year.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

LANGELIER FOR MAYOR

Senator Louis F. R. Langelier is talked of for Mayor of Quincy. Those closest to him, however, are urging him not to be in too much of a hurry to announce a mayoralty candidacy. This is only his first year in the Senate, and renomination and re-election are a foregone conclusion if he cares to make the run. Senator Langelier is a young man, and has a good-sized future before him, with plenty of time for mayoralty campaigns after he has finished serving the State.—Boston Advertiser.

MANY NEW MEMBERS.

John Adams aerie, established a record in organization circles Wednesday night when it acted on 50 applications presented for consideration at the regular meeting in Electa hall.

The large number is the result of an open charter for three months and a contest for new members which is being waged by three of the most popular Eagles. A monster class initiation in Electa and Protection halls will take place March 31. Worthy Conductor John Vath of Hyde Park aerie and members from Brockton and Lawrence aeries attended the meeting.

President Frank J. Duffy announced the new entertainment committee which is again headed by James J. Mellen. His associates will be William McEwan, Angus McArthur, William Childs, Philip Pitts, Michael J. Boyle, George Woodman, William Allen, Edward M. Shaw, Charles Batson, Peter M. Dackers, Charles Casna, Christopher McDermott, John J. Feeley, Isaac McNeil and Frank W. Lynch.

TALK ON INCOME TAX.

Many citizens are vitally interested in what is known as the income tax, about which so much has been heard of late, and the members of the First Parish club are to be given an opportunity at their next dinner to hear all about this new tax from one familiar with it in all of its details.

The dinner of the club which ordinarily would come next Tuesday evening will be held on Thursday evening, March 19, and the speaker of the evening will be John F. Malley, the United States collector of Internal revenue, who has direct charge of the collection of the income tax for the state of Massachusetts.

There are many things about the income tax which the ordinary citizens do not fully understand, and many who have received the blanks upon which to make their returns are equally as much in the dark as others so that the opportunity to hear all about it from one in authority will be welcome. As usual after his talk Mr. Malley will answer questions that the members may desire to make.

—When the bustle comes back—and they say it is coming—we can't see where it's going to dovetail with the progress that has been made during its absence. Just how it is going to fit into the tonneau of a touring car and remain intact while the machine goes bumping over a rough piece of road is one of the mysteries that the future will have to solve.—Toledo Blade.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

TRIBUTE TO DR. WELCH.

At a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Quincy Savings Bank, held on Wednesday March 11, 1914, the Trustees desire to express their sense of the great loss sustained by reason of the decease of Vice President, John F. Welch, which occurred on February 23, 1914.

While the main channel of his unbounded activities was his successful professional life, as a physician, he also had conspicuous ability as a business man. The qualities which created his own prosperity were freely bestowed upon community interests, financial and otherwise.

The Doctor served as Trustee for nearly ten years and as Vice President since April 1911. His special and highly valued services were given as a member of the Investment Committee, where his sagacity, accurate information and courage of conviction were large contributions to the welfare of the Bank. He was surely a most worthy successor to the ablest of his predecessors. He loved to do things which were worth while; he was diligent, dependable, cheery and brave, even when his trained knowledge of his physical condition betokened peril.

The Trustees desire to extend to the family of the deceased their heartfelt sympathy; and it is ordered that the above memorial be spread on the records of the Bank and a copy sent to the family.

RICHARD D. CHASE.
GEORGE A. SIDELINGER.
Committee on Resolutions.
13-1t.

INSTRUMENTS ON A STRIKE

Pierian Orchestra Appears at a Disadvantage

The Pierian Sodality orchestra of Harvard University rendered an impromptu instead of the regular program at a concert in Alpha hall Thursday night, all because the engine in the auto truck carrying the instruments from Cambridge to Quincy went "dead" somewhere in Dorchester.

The Sodality appeared under the auspices of the Samoset Club of Wollaston and it was nearly 8.30 before Conductor E. H. Barry, '15, conducter of the orchestra, learned why the delivery of the instruments had been delayed. He explained the situation to President Lucien Thayer, and the audience relieved an embarrassing situation when they received the announcement of President Thayer with hearty laughter and applause.

This continued during the program which was possible only because some members carried their own instruments instead of trusting to express. President Thayer's announcement that the tickets would be returned and accepted at the regular concert which is to be given early next week was received with thunderous applause.

The program given was one of merit and met with the approval of the audience. Encores were demanded after every number and cheerfuly given. The most attractive feature was the trio of Italian vocalists whose contributions were reecived with loud applause. Igino Merolla was first tenor, Teranzo Murfalino the second tenor, and Angelo De Belis the baritone. Maestro Raffaele Martino was the accompanist.

The program opened with a piano solo, Military Polonaise by Chopin, given by W. M. Hewitt. Angelo De-Bellis then sang a group of Neapolitan songs, and R. H. Anderson gave a trumpet solo, The Rosary, Nevins.

A violin solo by W. B. Feiga was a Humoreque of Dvorak and the trio then rendered O Sole-Mio, and Santa Lucia, following which Mr. Hewitt gave another piano solo, Grieg's Spring Song. Mr. Merolla sang selections from the opera Martha and the popular Traumeri was the cello solo of L. S. Rossback. Stanley White gave several humorus readings and the program closed with the trio singing Finiculi Fincula.

Dancing followed and continued until midnight. Most of the members of the Sodality remained. The affair was attended by 350.

Dancing followed the program.

☞"If you want a strong, good looking, well fitting and properly put together hat you will appreciate the material, style and workmanship that have made Lamson & Hubbard's hats supreme for years. They are always correct and a good fit means not only good looks but good wear as well. The hat that fits your head lasts longer than one that does not. Our early season's distribution of latest styles is now yearly looked forward to and when buying your spring hat of your local dealer insist on getting Lamson & Hubbard make and you will experience greater comfort, longer wear and finer appearance—every hat is so good it is a pleasure to wear it. Made in all styles, weight and shades and never under any other name than Lamson & Hubbard.

—A Chicago candidate for alderman distributed one thousand boxes of candy to the women attending a political meeting at which he spoke. The kind of women that would be influenced by candy correspond to the men that would be influenced by cigars.—New Bedford Standard.

MEMORY OF THE HEART.

If stores of dry and learned lore we gain
We keep them in the memory of the brain.
Names, things and facts—what-e'er we knowledge call—
There is the common ledger for them all.
And images on this cold surface traced
Make slight impression and are soon effaced.
But we're a page, more glowing and more bright,
On which our friendship and our love to write,
That these may never from the soul depart,
We trust them to the memory of the heart.
There is no dimming, no effacement there.
Each new pulsation keeps the record clear.
Warm, golden, letters all the tablet fill.
Nor lose their luster till the heart stand still.
—Daniel Webster.

WINNING HAPPINESS.

Get on Good Terms With Yourself and Everything About You.

Happiness can never come from the outside to the inside unless happiness already exists in the inside. We become happy because there are certain elements within us that respond immediately to the things that make up happiness.

To be thoroughly happy you must be on good terms with yourself.

Also it means that you have fathomed the mystery of happiness in every growing thing about you. A man that is not on good terms with the trees and flowers and birds and houses and the scores of other gifts of nature can never be upon good terms with himself. For nature, though silent in its expression, speaks truths more wondrous than the expressed truths of men.

To be thoroughly happy you must be on good terms with everything about you.

Did you ever look up into the sky and ask yourself whether or not you were on good terms with the stars, with the planets—with the moon? And during the day, with the clouds and the marvelous sun that so greatly affect your disposition, as these things do affect the dispositions of every one?

To be thoroughly happy you must make the wonderful truths and expressions of nature your mental companions.

It is impossible for you to be upon good terms with all people unless you fall in alignment with their sympathies and with their viewpoints. It is impossible for you to bring out the best that is within unless you use as a basic standing a perfect equality of terms.—Toledo Times.

ANCIENT MEDICAL HUMOR.

Specimens From the Rome of Nearly Twenty Centuries Ago.

That there was no lack of medical humor in the classic days of Rome is made sure by the ancient epigrams of Martial of nearly 2,000 years ago. The London Lancet shows that the poet bore a grudge against the specialists of his day, for it seems they had this variety of practitioners then and pokes fun at the oculists and at the surgeons who indulged in clinical teaching. Of the latter he has a patient complain in good Latin, and this complaint has been made over into current English:

I lay ill, but soon Symmachus sought me
With a class of a hundred young men,
Whose hundred cold paws have brought me
The fever I lacked till then.

The journal of the American Medical association calling attention to the medical ways of the ancient city notes that diseases due to luxurious habits had multiplied greatly in Rome. What was called gout—that is, pains and aches in joints and muscles and the vague conditions that we now call rheumatism—had also greatly increased. Pliny, who was an older contemporary of Martial, says, "Gout used to be an extremely rare disease, not in the times of our fathers and grandfathers only, but even within my own memory." Although the gouty were usually rich and of luxurious habits, some of them evidently were not good pay. An evidence of this is thus given:

Diodorus, while he sues in court,
On gouty feet can stand,
But when the lawyer's bill is brought
The gout sets fast his hand.

Masked Women.

Upper class Swahili women wear curious masks, which are made of leather and beads on a wooden frame. The mask is derived from the traditional usage of Moslem women, who must keep their faces covered in the presence of men. For several centuries Arab traders have frequented this east African coast, and to their influence are due most of the civilized customs found today among the natives of the district. The clothing worn by these prosperous dames is of silk, their shoes are partly of silver, and they wear much silver jewelry. The Moslems in Zanzibar, by the way, are less fanatically strict about religious usages than their brethren in Morocco and Turkey.—Wide World Magazine.

"Bob" and "Cob" In Money.

Most people would know what was meant by the term "bob" when speaking of money. But would they be able to say offhand what a "cob" is or was in a similar connection? It was used in polite circles in the seventeenth century, for it occurs in a letter from the Earl of Essex—"So my wife gave her a cob, for which she seemed very thankful"—printed in the new volume of the "Camden" series, the editor of which gives the information that the cob was "a piece of money the value of which varied from 4 shillings to as much as 6 shillings in 1675."—London Chronicle.

No Chance to Elope.

Girls in New Guinea have little chance to run away. Their parents force them to sleep in a little house on the topmost branch of a tall tree, then the ladder is removed and the slumber of the parents is not disturbed by fears of an elopement.

Caught Enough.

Mary—The doctor says this illness of mine is caused by a germ. Agnes—What did he call it? Mary—I don't remember. I caught the disease, but not the name.—Judge.

Sometimes.

Tommy—Pop, a man and his wife are one, aren't they? Tommy's Pop—Yes, my son; sometimes one too many.—Philadelphia Record.

He is not the best carpenter who makes the most chips.—Old Saying.

NEWS ITEMS' FROM MILTON

It has been announced that Haven Keith of East Milton and Theresa Hemon of Boston were married in Boston last week.

The guard boards at the skating rink on the Cunningham pond and the toboggan slide at the park have been taken down by George Simpson, superintendent.

Dr. J. S. Shrieber of East Milton has been appointed to the staff of the Lowell City Hospital and will have charge of the free evening dispensary connected with the institution.. Dr. Shrieber and family will make their home there.

Nine members of the hockey team are eligible for the school letters. They are George Simpson, Robert Sweeney, Hugh Robertson, George Bearce, Chester Whittemore, Gerald Poole, John H. White, Walter Farrell, Axel Gustafson. The presentations will not be made for several weeks.

Captain Merle Poole will call his baseball team candidates out next week. Sid Hazleton will coach and manage the team this year. The "M" men available are Captain Poole and his brother Gerald, Gal Margeson, John Adams and John White. Riser, a former second string Mechanics Art High school pitcher, is a battery candidate.

Charles O'Connor treasurer of Quincy Lodge, B. P. O. E. is recovering from the effects of an operation performed at the Quincy City Hospital Tuesday.

Jesse B. Baxter has been re-elected chairman of the Water Commissioners.

Mrs. W. W. Churchill spoke on "Waste in the household" at the meeting of the Tucker School Association Thursday afternoon.

Wiliam W. Churchill will be chairman of the Board of Assessors and Herbert B. Tucker secretary, under the new administration. Spring work will begin April 1. Chairman Churchill will have the west district, Mr. Tucker the east, and Charles H. Horne, the new member wil have the centre.

The question of a new Town Hall will be discussed at a public meeting on March 18. The committee on increased town facilities, William Thurber, Jesse B. Baxter, Philip S. Dalton, Arthur H. Tucker and Charles W. Whittier, will submit plans and specifications.

—Two hundred unemployed men are marching from San Francisco to Washington to ask congress for work. If they are really looking for work few of them will ever reach Washington.

—The Eastport man who has served in the fire department for fifty-six years, and who has just been retired and made an honorary member, will continue to draw his salary for the remainder of his life—but it is only fifteen dollars a year!

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

NATIONAL MT. WOLLASTON BANK.

REPORT of the condition of the NATIONAL MOUNT WOLLASTON BANK, at Quincy, in the State of Massachusetts, at the close of business, March 4, 1914.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts	$653,210 04
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured	11 13
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation	137,500 00
Other bonds to secure Postal Savings	44,259 10
Bonds, securities, etc.	98,921 75
Banking house, furniture and fixtures	980 00
Due from National Banks (not reserve agents)	2,010 09
Due from approved reserve agents	72,466 87
Checks and other cash items	4,551 78
Notes of other National Banks	20,535 00
Fractional paper currency, nickels and cents	514 00
Lawful money reserve in bank, viz: Specie	50,493 95
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer, (5 p. c. of circulation)	6,375 00
Total	$1,092,328 71

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in	$150,000 00
Surplus fund	50,000 00
Undivided profits, less expenses and taxes paid	44,251 04
National bank notes outstanding	132,150 00
Due to other National Banks	1,228 28
Due to State and Private Banks and Bankers	11,679 47
Due to Trust Companies and Savings Banks	32,062 85
Dividends unpaid	6 00
Individual deposits subject to check	624,447 07
Demand certificates of deposit	8,721 80
Certified checks	312 50
Postal Savings deposits	37,469 10
Total	$1,092,328 71

State of Massachusetts, County of Norfolk, ss.

I, HORACE F. SPEAR, Cashier of the above-named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

HORACE F. SPEAR, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 11th day of March, 1914.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Notary Public

Correct—Attest:

HENRY M. FAXON
GEORGE H. FIELD } Directors
FRANK S. PATCH

Mar. 13-1t

LAMSON & HUBBARD
SPRING AND SUMMER STYLES
FOR SALE BY
GEORGE W. JONES
REMICK BROS.
Mar. 13, 20, 24, 27, 31, April 3, 7

SHAMOKIN COAL
FREE BURNING
Like The
Shamokin of 20 years ago
C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY
Agent for FORD and CASE CARS
A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock
Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.
For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-1o-tf

For Commercial Printing
Don't forget that we are headquarters.
We also print Circulars, Books Pamphlets, Posters, or anything you want
GEO. W. PRESCOTT PUB. CO.
Quincy, Mass.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 62 | QUINCY, MASS SATURDAY EVENING MARCH 14 1914 | PRICE TWO CENTS

WORKINGMEN MUST NOW LIVE IN QUINCY

Three of the Early Trains From Boston Dropped by New Timetable Changes

Minor Changes in Other Trains in Both Directions

The greatest change in the train service between Quincy and Boston by the new timetable which goes into effect at midnight Sunday is in the early morning trains from Boston. Under the new timetable Quincy loses three of its early morning outward trains, those now leaving Boston for Quincy at 6.09, 7.14 and 7.34 A. M. There are minor changes in some of the other trains. That is the train now leaving at 6.20 will leave at 6.30, the train now leaving at 7.37 will leave at 7.40, and the train now leaving at 7.44 will leave at 7.48.

It will be noticed that by the new timetable there is no train from Boston between 5.44 and 6.30, or between 6.47 and 7.40. In other words there is nearly an hours wait between trains at the hour at which many people desire a train to Quincy to reach their work on time. This means that people will have to leave home a little earlier, or become residents of Quincy. There is no change of any kind in the Sunday outward train service.

Quincy does not lose any of its trains to Boston by the new timetable, although there are a few minor changes in the leaving time. These changes briefly noted are as follows, the figures in the first column being the present time of trains leaving Quincy, while those in the second column are the time of leaving under the new timetable.

6.32 A. M. to 6.34 A. M.
9.15 A. M. to 9.18 A. M.
10.02 A. M. to 10.04 A. M.
10.17 A. M to 10.19 A. M.
12.27 P. M. to 12.32 P. M.
7.29 P. M. to 7. 25 P. M.
9.00 P. M. to 8.57 P. M.
9.17 P. M. to 9.18 P. M.

There is no change in the Sunday train service to Boston

On the Granite branch there are but few changes. The train now leaving Boston for West Quincy at 6.32 will leave at 6.22, and the train leaving Boston at 7.28 will leave at 7.19. The Sunday trains remain the same as now.

In the service from West Quincy to Boston there are but two changes. The train now leaving West Quincy at 6.53 A. M. will leave at 6.58 and the train now leaving West Quincy at 9.02 will leave at 9.15. The Sunday train service remains the same as now.

NOT CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

Senator Langelier Prefers Second Term in Legislature

Senator Langelier was interviewed this morning by the Daily Ledger relative to the rumor that he might be a candidate for Mayor next fall. The Senator desired to state absolutely and unqualifiedly that he had no intention of being a candidate, and he positively will not.

He believes that his duty is to his constituents in the First Norfolk Senatorial district and that they desire that he be a candidate for a second term, that he may carry out some work already inaugurated. At some future time he would consider it a duty to be Mayor of the city of Presidents, granite and shipbuilding.

SENATOR LANGELIER.

A. L. Remick returned Friday from a southern trip of several weeks. He reports that his health is much improved by the trip.

HOW CITY IS GROWING

Biggest Gains in Valuation in Wards One and Five

Now that the Assessors are to begin their rounds of the city another year, it will be of interest to note the increase in assessed valuation since Quincy became a city, and also the wards where the greatest gains have taken place. The valuation of the city in 1913 was $36,523,200, divided as follows: Real estate, $30,356,325; personal estate, $6,166,875.

In 1889, the first year of the city, the valuation was $12,109,425, divided as follows: Real estate $9,736,625; personal estate $2,372,800. The figures of 1888, the last year of the town government, were much less than in 1889, the valuations being increased $2,561,285 the first year of the city. There were no ward figures in 1888 however for comparison.

The total increase in real estate value of the city for the 24 years 1889 to 1913, was $22,619,700, and the next increase in personal estate of the city for the same period was $3,774,075.

Ward One leads in real estate valuation by a large margin, having $9,025,676 to $6,550,950 for the Wollaston ward and less for all other wards.

The gain in real estate valuation by wards for the 24 years has been:

Ward One	$5,807,875
Ward Five	5,150,200
Ward Six	3,769,675
Ward Two	3,076,525
Ward Three	1,838,500
Ward Four	976,925
City	22,619,700

It will be seen that above half the gain has been in Wards One and Five.

These comparisons of real and personal estate of the city will be of interest:

REAL ESTATE OF CITY.

Year	Valuation
1913	$30,356,325
1912	28,872,450
1911	26,470,425
1910	24,989,525
1905	20,896,050
1899	17,202,250
1889	9,736,625

PERSONAL ESTATE OF CITY.

Year	Valuation
1913	$6,166,875
1912	6,229,250
1911	7,567,900
1910	7,218,325
1905	4,554,975
1899	2,316,025
1889	2,372,800

The real estate valuations by wards compare as follows:

WARD ONE REAL ESTATE.

Year	Valuation
1913	$9,025,675
1912	8,628,400
1911	7,973,850
1910	7,490,025
1905	6,125,425
1899	5,307,650
1889	3,217,800

WARD TWO REAL ESTATE.

Year	Valuation
1913	$4,294,625
1912	4,018,100
1911	3,624,650
1910	3,492,500
1905	3,051,125
1899	1,670,800
1889	1,218,100

WARD THREE REAL ESTATE.

Year	Valuation
1913	$3,179,875
1912	3,098,800
1911	2,857,500
1910	2,787,100
1905	2,438,125
1899	2,109,850
1889	1,341,375

WARD FOUR REAL ESTATE.

Year	Valuation
1913	$2,530,325
1912	2,526,975
1911	2,456,775
1910	2,421,950
1905	2,294,675
1899	2,133,725
1889	1,553,400

WARD FIVE REAL ESTATE.

Year	Valuation
1913	$6,550,950
1912	6,073,950
1911	5,445,325
1910	4,996,875
1905	3,976,425
1899	3,522,575
1889	1,400,750

WARD SIX REAL ESTATE.

Year	Valuation
1913	$4,774,875
1912	4,516,225
1911	4,112,325
1910	3,801,075
1905	3,010,275
1899	2,457,550
1889	1,005,200

COMEDY AT WOLLASTON

Rainbow Kimono Presented By Girls Choir Guild

"The rainbow kimono," a comedy in two acts, was ably presented by the Girls Choir Guild before a large audience in the Wollaston Unitarian vestry on Friday evening.

All of the parts were well taken, Katherine Reed in the role of Rose, the colored maid, being exceptionally good. Both scenes were laid in Miss Penelope Wright's finishing school.

The plot revolves about one of the girls who is suspected of stealing, but later developments show that her accuser is a sleepwalker, by whom the articles have been taken.

The cast of characters included:

Nellie Van Tassel, president of Rainbow Kimono Society — Priscilla Robinson
Ruth Ashton, vice president — Gladys Glover
Alice Marion, treasurer — Ruth Sanborn
Isabel Sutro, secretary — Elizabeth Reed
Beatrice Courtney, class poet — Ernestine Hunt
Olive Mercer, president of basket ball team — Margaret Magee
Winifred Turner, student — Charlotte Barstow
Edith Jones, the new senior — Ednah Sanborn Rose Jackson, colored maid — Katharine Reed

Between the acts Haydn's toy symphony was performed by eleven of the girls assisted by Mrs. Chandler W. Smith.

The parts were taken as follows: Miss Priscilla White, nightingale; Martha Robinson, cuckoo; Gretchen Horst, quail; Dorothy Atwood, watchman's rattle; Helen Richards, triangle; Dorothy Sprague, trumpet; Helen Thompson, drum; Augusta Talbot, first violin; Helen Moulton, second violin; Ninon Lacey, 'cello; Anna Weston and Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, piano.

At the close of the play two choruses "The heavens are declaring" by Beethoven and "Forget-me-not" by Giese, were sung, the solo parts in the first named being assumed by Mrs. Frank A. Page.

Candy was sold between the acts by the following young lady ushers; Dorothy Sprague, Gretchen Horst, Helen Thompson, Marcia Adams, Dorothy Kingsbury, Helen Brown, Marion Brown, Priscilla White, Ruth Jones.

The opening overture "Mazurka" by Paul Wachs was played by Katharine Kimball. The assistance of Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, Mrs. Charles T. Baker, Mrs. Frank A. Page and Mrs. Royal Turner contributed largely to the success of the entertainment.

WORKMEN INVITED.

At the pleasant Sunday evening service at Bethany church, the pastor will give the second lecture on the principles of Protestant faith. "The Protestant and his Bible." The organ recital will commence at 7.15, and the service at 7.30. Doors open at 7.00 p. m. All seats free in this church. There are earphones for any who need them. Men are especially urged to bring their fellow workmen and friends.

ROYAL CHIEF ROYALLY ENTERTAINED

Alex D. Findlay of Seattle and Peter Kerr of Boston Guests of Clan MacGregor

Parade Followed by Banquet, Addresses and Songs

Friday, March 13, will be remembered in the history of Clan MacGregor, No. 5, as a red letter night. The clan tendered a royal welcome to Royal Chief Alex D. Findlay of Seattle, Washington.

The clansmen met at the Clan hall at 7 o'clock and at 7.30 they were joined by a delegation of forty from Clan MacDonald of Brockton. Led by a bagpipe and drum band composed of Quincy and Brockton clansmen, both clans paraded to Quincy station and there met Royal Chief Findlay and escorted him to Music hall, where a splendid banquet was served by Carroll C. Whittemore of Boston. There were over three hundred and fifty clansmen at the tables.

After the good things provided by Caterer Whittemore had been disposed of, Chief Angus D. Martin of Clan MacGregor made an excellent speech, referring to the great work of Clan MacGregor in Quincy, and informing the Royal Chief that although he was in a strange city, he was not among strangers, he then introduced Chief Findlay to the clansmen.

The Royal Chief is a man with a very pleasing personality, and is a fine speaker. He told of the many clans which he has visited on his trip across the continent, and of the excellent condition in which he had found them. He stated that he realized how Clan MacGregor was the largest clan in the organization, because its members evidently believed in doing things in a big way. He spoke on the great future of the order and of the great benefits that its "Old age pension" scheme would bring to its members who were well along in years. His remarks roused the clansmen to a high pitch of enthusiasm and when he concluded, he was vigorously applauded.

Royal Secretary Peter Kerr, whose office is in Boston and who has been a member of Clan MacGregor for almost thirty years, being a past chief, was the next speaker. Secretary Kerr is always witty and to the point. He showed the unwisdom of too much legislation at conventions, stating that if a tenth part of the energy wasted by some clans in drawing up amendments to the constitution was expended in increasing the membership of the clans, some good would be done to themselves and to the order at large. Clan MacGregor is short on legislation and long on membership.

He stated that there is an old Scottish saying the "The MacGregor sits at the head of the table," but from what he had observed the Quincy MacGregors did not worry where they sat at the table as long as they were at it and had some elbow room.

Secretary Kerr was followed by Royal Physician, George A. Johnson. The doctor was also in a happy mood and complimented Clans MacGregor and MacDonald for their fine reception to the Royal officers.

Stewart Miller, Chief of the Grand Clan of Massachusetts, was next introduced by Chief Martin. He is always a welcome visitor to Clan MacGregor and is always entertaining in his remarks.

Between the speeches songs were rendered by Clansmen, Duncan McKimmick, Newport, R. I.; James MacDuff of Brockton; and Auld and MacMillan of Quincy.

Three charter members of Clan MacGregor were present, namely Dr. John A. Gordon, Joseph Walker and James Rose. These men formed part of the nucleus of the great organization that Clan MacGregor is. They builded better than they knew. The Royal Chief shook hands with every clansman present.

The clan choir led by Past Chief Wm. Elrick led in singing "Auld Lanw Syne" which can only be sung as Robert Burns desired it to be sung namely in the "braid auld Scottish tongue" with all the sentiment so well understood by the Scottish race.

The clansmens' chain was formed after which the Royal Chief with the other Royal officers took their departure to get the 11.22 train for Boston.

It was a great night and will live long in the memories of those who were present.

PRIVATE AND CLASS LESSONS.

Cornet, 'Cello, Mandolin, Guitar, Banjo, Violin, Piano and Harmony by thorough instructors. Violin FREE, at BOSTON SCHOOL OF MUSIC, No. 8 Washington street, Quincy.

Prof. R. G. Nichols
Director

Phone, Quincy 148J. M4-W & S. 8t

QUINCY MUSIC HALL — Sat. Mat. and Night

THE PASSION PLAY IN BEAUTIFUL HAND COLORS

This Great Picture will be seen only this One Day. Don't Miss It, if you have to stay home from Boston.

March 12-3t

SAMOSET CLUB

The postponed concert of the Plerian Sodality orchestra of Harvard University will be held Monday, March 16, at 8 P. M. in

WOLLASTON SCHOOL HALL

There will be vocal music probably by one or more representatives of the Harvard Glee Club. Holders of tickets dated March 12, will be admitted free. Since there will be no dancing other admissions will be 50 cents.

March 14-4t

Open tonight until 9 P. M. Saturday 'till 10

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

WANTED!

We want your week-end order for your food supplies . . .

We are prepared to promptly fill it from fresh stocks of the market's choicest offerings in Good Groceries, Meats, Fruits, Vegetables, Dairy and Bakery Products.

CLEAN PURE WHOLESOME FOOD AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICES

Selected Spring Lamb

Fores 12c lb Leg and Loin 18c lb

PRIME WESTERN BEEF --- MILK-FED VEAL --- CHOICE PORK --- NATIVE CHICKEN AND FOWL

EGGS LARGE AND BROWN So fresh they're almost warm 40c doz

LARGE JUICY "SUNKIST" LEMONS 25c doz — LARGE JUICY "SUNKIST" ORANGES 27c doz

Strawberries -- Cranberries -- Cucumbers -- Celery -- Rhubarb -- Ripe Tomatoes -- New Cabbage -- New Potatoes -- Spinach and Dandelion Greens -- Lettuce -- Radishes -- etc.

LARGE FLORIDA GRAPE FRUIT 3 for 25c

Appetite Sharpeners — SNYDER'S CHILI SAUCE, ROSEMARY SWEET PICKLES, WILLIAM'S SOUR RELISH — in Sealed Bottles

HUNTLEY & PALMER'S ENGLISH BISCUIT Mixed 25c lb. and up

FANCY COMB HONEY 25c box

R. E. FOY & COMPANY

March 13-2t

By CHAS. H. JOHNSON, - Auctioneer
Office, Room 3 Adams Building. Tel. Con.

Receiver's Sale
At Public Auction
OF THE Valuable Granite Plant
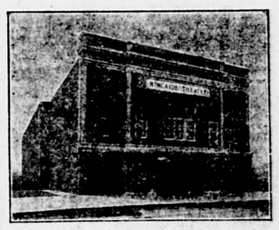
— OF —
CIORDANI & CO.
Situated off Hall Place, West Quincy
Will be sold from premises on
SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1914
At 2.30 P. M.

Large cutting shed and office, about 45,000 square feet land, and the following personal property: One Compressor, Electric Motor, 2 Polishing Machines, Hoister and Derrick, Boiler, Pump, Surface Machine, Tools, Chains, lot of pneumatic tools, Office Furniture, Desk, Chairs, Table, lot of Lumber and Rough Stock. Here is an opportunity; extra equipped plant all ready for business will be sold in one lot. $100 deposit on day of sale, balance cash within 20 days from date of sale. Per order

Walter S. Pinkham, Attorney
Receiver

6t M11-13-14-18-19-20

DANCING
— AT —
ALPHA HALL
St. Patrick's Day Night
March 14-3t



MEN
HEAR THIS HERE
SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Dramatic and Lyric Recital of
"BLACK ROCK" or "MINERS' GUARDIAN ANGEL"
By ELIZABETH PACKARD LARSEN of St. Paul, Minn.
ASSISTED BY
RUTH LOUISE HARDY, Soloist
PROF. ALBERT KANRICH, Violinist
EDWARD BULLOCK, Pianist

The Y. M. C. A. earnestly invites Men and Boys over 14 to come enjoy this truly rare treat. 'Twill thrill you.

DOORS OPEN 3 P. M. SEATS FREE. SILVER COLLECTION

March 13-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Established 1869

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription

By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at [illegible] Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.

Incorporated.

TELEPHONES

News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

As the Atlantic ocean does not look very wide on the map, many of the aviators are expecting to cross it next summer.

If this government should intervene in Mexico, it is to be hoped it doesn't have to pay pensions to every one who injures his eyes reading the war dispatches.

If a man is seen in Washington hastening along at a tearing rate of speed, it is not probably an Interstate Commerce Commissioner hurrying along to help decide the rate question promptly.

Perhaps the Mexican generals would not be so grouchy if the American representatives would prostrate themselves seven times in the dust before venturing to ask a question.

The "Safety first" campaign is making considerable progress, but it is not considered good form to mention the subject to enthusiastic motorists.

While there is a great revival of interest in bicycling in England and France, it does not cost enough to make it popular in America.

The Wisconsin law making it illegal to offer the voters campaign cigars is generally approved, but if the voters ever got any real cigars it might be different.

There is a widespread demand to have some one succeed in accidentally cutting Gen. Villa off in the midst of his career.

As the new silver breeding foxes cost only $10,000 to $20,000 a pair, it is believed that many widows will decide to take their money out of the savings bank and double it in this way.

William DeMorgan's latest novel has 862 pages, and if he had ever studied law he could have easily increased it to 1000.

THE LAW'S DELAYS.

Representatives of the American Bar Association, including ex-President Taft, Judge Alton B. Parker, Senator Root, and others, have been asking Congress for simplification of court procedure. Conscientious lawyers everywhere will assent.

The lawyers have their big share of responsibility for existing conditions. But often the trouble lies also in laws made by the legislatures. C. A. Smart, a district court judge of Kansas, told in the Outlook sometime ago the story of a murder case in that state. Defendant was sentenced six months after arrest. But the law gave him two years for appeal and final action was not taken until a year after that, so the case was kept hanging three years.

Judge Smart made the point that criminal lawyers, so many of whom are elected to state legislatures, are often unfriendly to greater legal expedition. They quietly secure the passage of statutes that tend toward delay.

It would seem that the courts are too liberal to lawyers in giving time to prepare cases. The bulk of legal work drifts into the offices of popular lawyers. They take on more work than they can do.

When cases are called, they find themselves ill-prepared. They secure continuances for more time for preparation. This often results in great injustice to poor clients or others who are suffering by delay. Lawyers ought not to be allowed to keep cases hung up so long, while they complete work they should have turned over to other offices.

In the year 1911, there were 148 murders in New York city, and but 13 convictions were ever secured. In London, during the same year, a bigger city, there were 20 murders and 15 convictions. The probability of escape revealed by these eloquent figures leads the trade of gunman to flourish, as recent tragedies have demonstrated.

ROMANCE OF WHITE HOUSE

McAdoo to Marry Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson

ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED

Gromo-to-Be Is Father of Six Children, One of Whom Has Been Important Factor In Case—Romance Said to Have Grown Apace at the Summer Capital

Washington, March 14.—Formal announcement of the engagement of Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, daughter of President and Mrs. Wilson, and the secretary of the treasury, William Gibbs McAdoo was made last night.

The secretary to the president, Joseph P. Tumulty, gave the following to the press:

"The President and Mrs. Wilson announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Eleanor Randolph, to Hon. William Gibbs McAdoo."

Information as to the date of the wedding was withheld, but there were rumors that the event will take place in June. There is also a rumor that McAdoo is planning to resign from the cabinet to accept the post of ambassador to France, but it is without confirmation.

President Wilson and his family were greatly annoyed by what proved to be a premature announcement of the engagement. The absolute silence of the family, in view of the persistent reports of the engagement, served, however, only to strengthen the belief in society circles that formal announcement would be made in the near future.

While McAdoo and his family have been on terms of greater intimacy with the White House family than any other cabinet household,, the suggestion of McAdoo as a son-in-law is said to have come as a surprise to Wilson.

Miss Nona McAdoo, the 19-year-old daughter of the secretary, has been an important factor in the case. Miss McAdoo is said to be much opposed to a stepmother, even in the person of her great friend, Miss Wilson. Miss Wilson is said to have asserted she would not marry McAdoo until Miss McAdoo asked her to. Miss Wilson, according to her friends, has not been wearing an engagement ring.

The romance, which is interesting Washington as few White House love stories have, is said to have grown apace while the Wilson family was at the summer capital in New Hampshire. There, it is said, Secretary McAdoo, who is 50 and a grandfather, wooed and won Eleanor Wilson, who is 24, while her sister Jessie and Francis B. Sayre were planning their wedding.

McAdoo is a widower and has six children, one son and one daughter married. Recently a son was born to the eldest daughter in Arizona.

Miss Wilson was educated in private schools at Princeton. She attended an art school in Philadelphia the last few years of her residence in Princeton studying painting. She is a daring horsewoman, a tennis player of exceptional ability, in fact enjoys all outdoor sports. She devotes much time to charitable and social centre work.

HELD AS WHITE SLAVER

Chief Witness Against Clergyman Is a Jealous Girl

Seattle, March 14.—Rev. Albert Dahlstrom, founder of a religious sect known as "Heliga," which he says has 10,000 members in the United States, and one of the tenets of which is said to be a belief in polygamy, was convicted of violation of the Mann white slave act in transporting Edna Englund of Tacoma, Wash., from Fresno, Cal., to the state of Washington.

Edna Englund, who turned against Dahlstrom because he showed a preference for her sister, Hilda, was a witness against the clergyman. Hilda testified for him. Both girls are young and attractive.

SULZER APPEAL DENIED

Ex-Governor Seeks Salary From Time of His Impeachment

Albany, March 14.—Without passing upon the merits of the case, the appellate division sustained Supreme Court Justice Chester in his denial of the application of William Sulzer for a writ of mandamus to compel Comptroller Sohmer to pay the salary of the former governor from the time of his impeachment.

Preparations were begun immediately to have the case reviewed in the court of appeals. Sulzer hopes to have the United States supreme court pass upon the validity of his impeachment.

Defiance to Be Launched In May

Bath, Me., March 14.—The racing sloop Defiance, a candidate for the defense of the America's cup, will be launched on May 11, according to George M. Pynchon, managing director of the syndicate which is building the boat here.

Woman Laughs to Death

Davenport, Ia., March 14.—Mrs. Charles Mohr, 43, laughed herself to death at a joke told by her husband. The woman laughed for six hours.

FOUNDER'S DAY AT WOODWARD

Musical Program by Past and Present Pupils

Founders Day, dedicated to the memory of the late Dr. Ebenezer Woodward whose endowment made possible the Woodward Institute for Girls, was observed with a concert Friday evening by past and present pupils, under the direction of John D. Buckingham, teacher of music at the school. The affair was given in the assembly hall of the school and proved to be one of the pleasantest concerts of the winter. The attendance was large and appreciative and included parents of the pupils and others interested in the welfare of the school.

The program included three songs, sung by the pupils. They were "Hark, hark, my soul" by H. Rowe Shelley, "Come sweet morning," arranged by H. A. Matthews and "Mammy's lullaby" by Dvorack—Spross. The choral effect in all three was excellent, particularly in the latter.

The feature of the evening was the piano solo of Miss Amy Fallon of the class of 1912 who gave a splendid rendition of Chopin's Andante Spinato and Polonaise in E flat op 22. The composition though very difficult was well interpreted and loudly applauded.

Owing to a severe cold Miss Signe Wilbas sang "I hear you calling me," the solo of the famous tenor John McCormack, instead of "Tell me my heart" by Bishop. Miss Wilbas received sincere applause for her effort.

Miss Mariam Miller of the class of 1912 sang two soprano solos, "The birth of morn" by Franco Leoni and "Who'll buy my lavender" by Edvard German. Her interpretation of the last was particularly well done and was well received.

Two violin solos were given by Miss Helen Moulton, class of 1915 and Miss Emma Walker, class of 1910. The former played the Faust fantasie of L. B. Singerlee and the latter Tartini's Sonato in G Minor. Both contributions were pleasant attractions to the program.

The evening closed with a piano solo, Nocturne in D flat op. 27 of Chopin by Miss Dorothy Lavery who also played as the last number the finale from Raff's Concerto in C Minor The orchestral part was played on a second piano by Mr. Buckingham.

Many expressions of profound satisfaction were heard at the close of the concert and Horace W. Rice, the school principal, Mr. Buckingham and the teachers of the school were complimented liberally by those that attended.

BROTHERHOOD ENTERTAIN

Complimentary Concert By Weber Quartet and Reader

Members of Bethany Brotherhood and their friends are indebted to H. Everett Crane, a former president, for a very enjoyable evening on Friday at Bethany chapel. It was an invitation party, tickets being distributed in advance, and both chapels were necessary to accommodate the large attendance.

A popular program was presented by the Weber Male Quartet assisted by Grace Sanborn Cole, reader. This quartet has been organized many years, but continues among the best. The tenors are A. C. Prescott and A. F. Cole, the baritone G. H. Wood, and the bass W. E. Davison.

The quartet was down for five selections but encores doubled the number. They sang "On the sea," "Goblin song," "Beautiful rose," Jenk's compound," "Sunset" and several popular encores. All were well received and the audience would have liked more.

The monologue of Grace Sanborn Cole, "Her first housekeeping," made a great hit, but all her numbers were greatly enjoyed. She presented "Sally Ann's experience," "Barbara Fritchie" in German dialect and several encores. It was one of the best concerts of the season.

DR. J. A. ZWICKER
Osteopath
79 Freeman Street
Norfolk Downs, Mass.
Tel. 1271 W. Feb. 25-w-s-tf-o-28-tf

NEWSY BRIEFS

J. Frank Davidson of Newbury avenue has been confined to his home with illness.

A Junior Epworth League is to be organized Sunday at 3.30 P. M. at the Atlantic M. E. church.

Miss Eldeine M. Young has been engaged as organist at the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church.

Maurice E. Kilpatrick is starting two houses in Bellevue Park for A. C. Allard of Boston.

Whatsoever circle, Kings Daughters, will meet next Monday with Mrs. Albert H. Sayward, 253 Belmont street.

The Ladies' Aid of the Atlantic M. E. church held a most successful sale of useful articles Tuesday evening realizing a neat little sum.

Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson will occupy his pulpit Sunday morning and resume the series of sermons on "The Great Affirmations of Unitarian Faith." The special theme will be "A Unitarian's Faith in Jesus Christ."

The Ladies Benevolent society of Memorial church are to hold a Saint Patrick's day entertainment in the vestry Tuesday evening. A fine entertainment will be given and the church appropriately decorated.

Manet encampment of Odd Fellows will visit Rockland on Tuesday evening, March 17, and exemplify the Golden Rule degree. The work of the local encampment is attracting attention all over the State.

The social for March of the Wollaston Congregational church is to be held Wednesday evening. There will be a supper followed by a stereopticon lecture on "Life in St. Petersburg" by Mrs. S. A. Gardner.

Rev. Henry M. Saville of the Church of the Ascension Waltham is to preach Sunday evening at Christ church in exchange with Rev. R. E. Armstrong. At the Wednesday night service, Rev. A. M. Taylor of the Church of the Holy Spirit, Mattapan will preach.

Dr. Daniel B. Reardon has purchased the Russell homestead on Hancock street, corner of Russell park and will shortly occupy the premises. It is understood that Prof. and Mrs. Charles Bickford (Elsie Russell) will make their summer home at Amherst, N. H., their future home.

The pastor of the Atlantic Methodist church has inaugurated an educational campaign and is sending church literature into the homes of his parishioners. The movement is a commendable one as church people need to know of the benevolences of their churches.

There will be a meeting of the Parents' and Teachers' Association of the Quincy school, Atlantic, in the assembly hall, Wednesday evening and it promises to be an interesting one. Dr. Smith, supervisor of physical culture in the Quincy schools will lecture on "Physical Culture in our Public Schools. "There will be an exhibition of the work as it is caried out in the schools today by the children from various grades.

The last of the parlor talks under the auspices of the Art Committee of the Quincy Women's Club was given at the home of Mrs. Herbert H. Albee, Highland avenue, Wollaston, Thursday afternoon. The speaker Ralph Kent of Melrose Highlands a practical landscape gardener, read a very scholarly paper, which was made doubly interesting by the presentation of about fifty large sketches of estates which had been laid out by him. He gave many helpful suggestions for the beautifying of the ordinary village home as well as the more pretentious country estate. Coming at this season of the year it cannot fail to promote a hearty interest in spring gardening. A social hour followed the address and while tea was served by the hostess, aided by members of the committee, Mr. Kent kindly answered many questions asked by those seeking advice for their own homes.

PRATT'S BREAD is wholesome, nutritious, crisp and delicious. Get it of your grocer.

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
relieves lame back, sore muscles and rheumatism.
USED 103 YEARS
as a household remedy for internal and external ills.
S. S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc. Boston, Mass.
25c and 50c
Parsons' Pills give relief to bilious people.
Sold everywhere

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

Rev. Merrill C. Ward of Jamaica Plain will preach Sunday at 3 P. M. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend this service.

There will be a supper and social at the Universalist church next Tuesday evening. Although the supper tickets are 25 cents each, this amount is only to meet the expenses. The object of the meeting is to promote fellowship among the Universalists of the city and increase the power of this church for the best interests of all. All who formerly attended this church and those who desire to assist in its prosperity are cordially invited to be present. Supper at 6.30 o'clock. There will be an orchestra of four pieces and possibly vocal selections.

The ways and means committee have done good work in securing pledges for the church for the ensuing year and financially the outlook is good for a prosperous year.

Money is being raised to put the church organ in proper condition and before Easter repairs will be made.

Thursday evening there was a meeting at the home of Mr. J. F. Hyland of the committee on by-laws. The committee prepared a new set of by-laws which will be presented at the annual parish meeting in April.

The annual Sunday school birthday party takes place Thursday March 19th. The little folks will be entertained from four to six, while the older classes will enjoy themselves from seven to nine.

The third district mission circles of the state Universalist missionary society gathered in Brockton, Wednesday, March 11, for an all day meeting. Mrs. Clarence E. Rice, president of the state board spoke on the membership campaign, Mrs. L. W. Atwood of South Weymouth on the North Carolina Work, Mrs. Charles Coolidge of Bellington on Silver Bay Conference and Rev. E. Gertrude Earle on Mission Studies. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Thomas A. Addison of this city. There was a large and appreciative attendance representing Canton, Stoughton, Plymouth, Weymouth, South Weymouth, Quincy and Braintree.

There was a tempting display of cakes, pies, etc., by the Mission Circle at Mrs. Clapp's store on Hancock street yesterday afternoon. Nearly fifteen dollars was the amount made.

PAGEANT OF TREES.

The Civics committee of the Wollaston Woman's club is busy arranging for the unique entertainment called "A Pageant of Trees," to be given in Wollaston school hall, Beale street, the evenings of March 26 and 27. It will consist of six episodes of local history represented by groups of dancers. The prologue is called "Chickatawbut's Vision."

"Pageant of Trees" will teach history in a charming way and presented as follows:

Episode 1—The Cedar—Scene—Mount Wollaston.
Episode 2—The Pine—Scene, Merry Mount.
Episode 3—The Oak.
Episode 4—The Elm, Colonial Era
Episode 5—The Liberty tree, Civil War period.
Episode 6—The Maple,—The Swallows.
Preservation of the trees.

To Save Closet Space.

Metal towel racks, that have flat places at each curved end to screw to a wall, will almost double the capacity of your closet if screwed to the bottom of the lower shelf. A dozen garment hangers may be suspended from each one.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

SCIENTIFIC FORESTRY

To Woodland, orchard and shade tree owners of Quincy:

The Massachusetts Forestry Association is bringing scientific forestry to the people of the State. Our field secretary, Mr. W. L. Hamel is in your city for the purpose of arousing interest in this important subject. He is a trained forester and will be glad to give you any advice or information concerning your shade-trees orchards or woodlands free of charge. All you need to do is to write a postcard to him addressed care of Mrs. J. D. Mackay, 75 Greenleaf street, and he will call to see you.

The advice he gives will be gratis but if you think it will be of advantage to you to have your trees pruned or cemented or your woodlot thinned, we recommend that Mr. Hamel do the work because of his training and experience. You can arrange with him as to the cost of doing the work and will not be under obligations to hire him, because of the advice he gives you which is free. The object of the Association is to protect the trees and this has proved the most efficient way of doing it.

Massachusetts Forestry Association.
21—S&W-tf

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

If It's Strong Enough For The State It's Strong Enough For You!

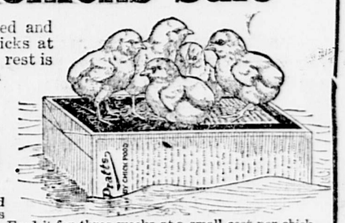
This bank is a legal depository for funds of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. It is a strong and substantial institution. It is managed with the best interests of its depositors in mind. It is safe-guarded by both state and federal regulation. Its officers and directors are men known to you as successful and level-headed. It is a good place for you to bank.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

Baby Chicks Safe

Have sturdy, big boned and constitutionally sound chicks at three weeks old—and the rest is easy. You can do it with



Pratts Baby Chick Food
25c, 50c and $1.00

It is a scientific mixture of food and tonics that starts chicks right and keeps them growing. Feed it for three weeks at a small cost per chick, and insure a profit paying flock.

George A. Cosgrove, Member of Conn. Board of Agriculture, writes: "I honestly believe that if Pratts Baby Chick Food were used exclusively for the first three weeks by all the poultry raisers in the United States the saving would amount to millions of dollars."

Don't confuse it with ordinary scratch foods. Refuse subtitutes; insist on Pratts.

Satisfaction Guaranteed or Money Back

Get Pratts 160 page Poultry Book

A. J. Richards & Son, C. W. & G. W. Nightingale, Nathan Ames, F. H. Doble & Co., and Grain Dealers, and General Stores everywhere. 4190

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. COULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences. Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

CARPETS
Oriental RUGS
Domestic
LINOLEUM
MATTINGS
AT LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES
John H. Pray & Sons Co.
646 Washington Street, Opp. Boylston Street

All Goods will be Delivered Free at Residences in Quincy
REPRESENTED IN QUINCY BY
Messrs. OTHO A. HAYWARD and WALTER J. WELLINGTON.

Advertise in the Ledger

Mrs. A. H. Hall of Faxon road entertained the Criterion club at her home on Thursday afternoon. Souvenirs were awarded Mrs. Frank Robinson, Mrs. George Grueby, Mrs. E. Swan and Mrs. Alva Beede and consolation to Mrs. Willis Tibbetts. Refreshments were served by the hostess. Mrs. J. A. Lilley will entertain the club at its next meeting, March 26th.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. Gaspar of Ocean street, Atlantic, are entertaining Edward F. Brady of Ellsworth, Maine.

* * *

Friends are receiving post cards from Mr. and Mrs. William M. Chase of Wollaston who left last fall on a trip around the world. Both are well and enjoy their trip. When last heard, from they were travelling through the Holy Land, being registered at the Grand hotel, Jerusalem.

* * *

Mary V. Richards of Central Falls, R. I., was the guest of friends in Atlantic this week.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wixtein of Eliot avenue, Bellevue Park are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son.

* * *

An enjoyable meeting is anticipated by members and friends of the New England Woman's Press Association at its literary meeting Wednesday afternoon at Hotel Somerset, Boston. Attorney-General Herbert Parker will speak on "Birds of the Woods and Wayside." He is as thoroughly at home on this subject as he is in the law courts. Ellery Brown the baritone will sing a group of songs and even the tea table will be as "springy" as the program.

* * *

Mrs. John Tower of Providence, R. I., was the week end guest of her mother, Mrs. Vogler of Botolph street.

* * *

Miss Edith Randall gave one of her interesting travel talks Wednesday afternoon at Dedham, where she was most cordially greeted by club women. She has resumed her lecture engagements which were interrupted by the accident to her arm a few weeks ago.

* * *

Mrs. Annie L. Chamberlain of Hancock street Wollaston went over to New York the first of the week for an extended visit to her sisters in New York and Brooklyn.

* * *

Miss Julia Swan of Abington is the guest of Mrs. W. Walter Ewell of Foster street.

* * *

Mrs. Elmer E. Gray of Newton street has been entertaining Mrs. Charles Anderson of New Bedford the past week.

* * *

Colonel Henry L. Kincaide and Mrs. Kincaide have returned from an enjoyable stay at Palm Beach, Florida, and are at their home on Whitney road.

* * *

Miss Grace Holbrook of Avon is visiting Mrs. John J. Maloney of Newton street.

* * *

Miss Floretta Vining is planning to attend the annual convention of the Daughters of American Revolution in Washington and is makig a large party to leave Boston on April seventeenth.

* * *

Miss Laura Bean of Tilton seminary Tilton, N. H., is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bean of Billings street.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Stone, nee Helen Dewson of Taunton, formerly of Braintree were guests in Quincy over the week end coming for a farewell visit to Mrs. Stone's uncle L. Dowley Williams, who went abroad this week.

* * *

The Samoset club announced that the postponed concert by the Pierian Sodality will be given at the Wollaston School hall next Monday evening instead of Alpha hall. A good program may be expected.

* * *

Mrs. Willis Tibbetts and son James of Round Pond, Maine, are spending a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. Albert Hall of Faxon road.

* * *

Mrs. John H. Emerson of Adams street, East Milton has gone south on an extended trip. Mrs. Emerson is the sister of Mrs. Frank Hardwick of Spear street.

* * *

Mrs. Arthur Stanley of Elm avenue has returned from Philadelphia after several weeks visit with her sister Mrs. Aaron D. Perkins.

* * *

Mrs. C. A. Rogers of Bigelow street is spending a pleasant fortnight at Ossining, New York, visiting her son Walter C. Rogers, formerly of Quincy. She will also visit friends in Newark, New Jersey and Springfield and Worcester, Mass., before returning to Quincy.

* * *

Mrs. Paul Zerrahn, nee Madeleine Brown of Springfield, arrived the first of the week for a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Brown of Elm street. She has returned to Springfield.

* * *

Mrs. Charles L. Coe of Billings street has returned from a month's visit to Montreal.

* * *

Mrs. Susan M. Pentland opened her home 13 Willow street Thursday for a demonstration and musicale. Among the speakers were Mrs. Theresa M. Stockwell, Mrs. Jessie L. Leonard and Miss Elizabeth Helena Soule of Boston. Mrs. Bertha Baltzell of Winthrop soprano soloist sang several songs, Miss Hyde at the piano. A social hour over the teacups brought a pleasant afternoon to a close.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mullin of 190 Everett street, Wollaston, announce the engagement of their younger daughter Gertrude to Russell Oliver, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Oliver of 36 Mill street, Quincy.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Gram, nee Schlehuber, who were married Monday evening at Lynn, are to make their home at Cedar Grove where they will receive their friends after October first.

* * *

Friends of Dr. and Mrs. Wm. McGlauflin will be glad to know that Dr. McGlauflin has fully recovered from his recent illness. They are planning to spend some time in Cuba before he starts in again on his arduous duties as General Secretary of the Universalist church.

* * *

L. Dowley Williams of Adams street sailed this week for Europe for a few months tour.

* * *

Mrs. William H. Doble of South street has returned from a mid-season visit to New York.

* * *

A large number of club women and their friends were entertained Thursday afternoon at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Susan M. Pentland, Willow street. Miss Elizabeth Helena Soule of Boston spoke on "Aesthetic training, or Harmony of the body" and Mrs. Jessie L. Leonard on "The normal woman." The latter talk was illustrated with poses by Mrs. Cole, who wore a specially designed gown. Mrs. Bertha Baltzell of Winthrop sang several soprano solos including "The love of the three kings" and "The Secrets of Suzanne." She also rendered several selections composed by her husband. Tea was served by Mrs. Pentland, assisted by Mrs. Samuel Chapman and Miss Florence Gammons.

* * *

SOCIAL LIFE IN BRAINTREE.

Wednesday evening, the members of the Pond Street Athletic Association held their usual whist party in their club rooms. There were seven tables in play. Those receiving the souvenirs were Mrs. Guy E. Wood, Miss Katherine McKensie, Charles Custance and William Pierce. The usual social hour followed the game.

* * *

At the conclusion of the meeting of the Braintree Catholic Women's club, Wednesday evening, a social and entertainment was given. The hall was suitably decorated for exercises commemorating St. Patrick's day. Mrs. C. A. Sullivan presided at the piano and vocal solos were rendered by Miss Ina Condon. Refreshments were served by the following committee:—Mrs. Louis King, Mrs. Frank O'Rourke, Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. William Kirby and Mrs. Michael Conley.

* * *

An enjoyable and well attended concert by the Tufts College Glee Mandolin and Guitar Club was given in the Town hall, Thursday evening. The feature of the concert was the fine rendering of the famous sextette from Lucia by two guitars, a 'cello and three mandolins. There were many fine solos for the different instruments, vocal solos, ensemble work and readings all of which made up a very pleasing entertainment.

* * *

The second of the series of dancing parties given by the ladies of East Braintree and Weymouth was held at Bates Opera House, Friday evening. About one hundred and fifty couples were present. The hall was decorated with palms and jonquils. The right hand corner was a mass of evergreen which formed a very pretty arbor in which the matrons sat. This arbor was lighted by a row of Japanese lanterns that hung from the top giving a beautiful effect. The orchestra was practically hidden with palms and the whole made a very handsome picture. The gentlemen were in evening dress and many very dainty dresses adorned the ladies.

* * *

The East Braintree Men's club met at the M. E. church Tuesday evening with president Albert L. Slater presiding. Mr. Slater made a very hearty speech of welcome introducing Guy D. Gold, immigration secretary of the Brockton Y. M. C. A., who spoke on "The New American—An Opportunity" in a way that made everybody sit up and take notice. Mr. Gold said that immigration was one of the foremost problems in America, stating that the rapid development of our coal fields, as well as all other big enterprises, was due to the common laborers who are practically all foreigners. He also stated that the greatest monopoly was not that of money, but of labor.

PHILERGIAN NOTES.

The members of the Philergians are looking forward to the next meeting of the club March 17, which is to be held in Bates Opera House, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Extra cars will leave South Braintree square at 1.15 and Braintree at 1.25 o'clock. It is the afternoon devoted to the annual dramatics and the play is to be produced and staged under the direction of Mrs. Caroline A. Bill. The comedy "The Rivals," by Richard Brinsley Sheridan, is to be given and the parts will be taken by a carefully selected cast of Braintree's amateur actors.

Mrs. Bill has served as a most efficient coach and her previous success along these lines assure the public a finished performance. New costumes have been procured and careful attention given to the stage furnishings. Those taking part are Mrs. Genevieve D. Danforth, Mrs. Mabel F. Rogers, Mrs. Pamelia G. Webber, Mrs. Mabel F. Knight, Mrs. Rowena L. Hall, Mrs. Elsie R. Treat, Mrs. Helen M. Ellsworth, Mrs. Ethel D. Davenport, Mrs. Lucy C. Wales, Mrs. E. Beatrice Hathaway, Mrs. Julia A. Grover and Mrs. Martha P. Scotcher.

The class in Modern Literature met with Mrs. C. T. Crane of Quincy avenue, Monday afternoon and considered H. G. Wells and his writings. Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney teacher of the class spoke of Wells as one of the leading English novelists of the day although she considered John Galsworthy greater in some particulars. Wells has a wonderful style and a marvelous power of expression. His early stories were filled with comfortable, lovable characters whom you laugh at and enjoy. One is carried away by the cheerful and sunny character of these first stories but his later works are different in style some of them being semi-serious and others being really great.

It was Mrs. Gurney's opinion that "The New Machiavelli" was the greatest of English novels. "Anne Veronica" portrayed the desire for individual life and taught the lesson of duty. "Marriage" brought out the idea of mutual concession and mutual compromise necessary to human happiness.

Mrs. Gurney read amusing extracts from "The Wheel of Chance" and "Anne Veronica." She pointed out the destructive period but the novelists of fact that we are living in a so-called the future would write along more constructive lines because of the good being accomplished at the present time. The discussion which followed the lesson was vitally interesting.

The next meeting of the class will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas A. Watson on the afternoon of March 26 instead of with Mrs. Avery as was advertised in the program.

Havrah Hubbard wil speak at the Quincy Woman's club house Wednesday morning, Mar 18 at 10.45 o'clock. His subject will be Die Meister Singer by Wagner. Tickets can be procured of Mrs. A. E. Avery.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

A young man, giving his name as Edward Bennett of Campello and dressed in the uniform of the U. S. coast artillery attempted suicide by jumping in front of a train at the crossing at School street, Braintree, at 6.30 this morning. He is in a critical condition at the Boston City Hospital. Beyond the name given nothing is known of the young man and his clothing contained nothing that would aid in his identification.

He was first seen headed down the track in the direction of Boston and after passing Capen's bridge he turned and commenced walking toward Braintree. A Boston bound train thundered toward him and he threw himself in front of it.

Bennett lay but a short distance from the track when picked up by the train crew. Dr. C. M. Marstin was summoned and took the young man to Boston on the train.

SERIOUS FALL.

As the result of a fall down the cellar stairs, Miss Edith Pentland of 13 Willow street, Wollaston, is lying at her home in a critical condition with a fractured skull. Hopes are entertained for her recovery.

The accident occurred Thursday evening shortly after ten o'clock when Miss Pentland went to the cellar door to put down the cat for the night. Just how she happened to fall is not known, but it is thought she must have tripped. Her mother, Mrs. Susan M. Pentland, with whom she resides, heard the sound of the fall and upon investigation found her daughter unconscious at the foot of the stairs.

Dr. E. D. Whitehouse was summoned but Miss Pentland did not fully recover consciousness until Friday afternoon. She is reported as resting comfortably and chances are fair for her recovery. Miss Pentland is employed, as a designer by the Dennison Manufacturing company of Boston.

PRESENTATION TO TENT.

One candidate was initiated and one obligated to membership at the meeting of the Rebecca Wiswell tent, No. 53, Daughters of Veterans, in Grand Army hall Friday evening. Department aide Mrs. Mabelle Gooding of Weymouth who instituted the tent about a year ago was present as the guest of the evening. Miss Ella Packard gave a reading on Rebecca Wiswell, an army nurse who saw service in the Civil war and in whose memory the tent was instituted.

Irving Berry, after being obligated presented the tent with a trunk for the keeping of paraphenalia and other articles of value. Arrangements were made for a dramatic entertainment in New Colonial hall on April 23. President Mrs. Emma Ela presided, and the meeting was well attended.

PLAINTIFFS WIN.

Suits against the N. Y. & Boston Despatch Express Co. were decided in favor of the plaintiffs, William Hendrie and George H. Foss of this city at the Friday session of the Superior court at Dedham before Judge McLaughlin. Both sued to recover from personal injuries through being struck by a truck at the Quincy station. John W. and Jeremiah J. McAnarney were attorneys for the plaintiffs and Choate, Hall & Stewart for the defendants.

BRIEFS

The Sons of Veterans Auxiliary No. 3, will hold a whist party next Tuesday at Mrs. Charles Strattard's, 24 Hersey place, Quincy Point.

The funeral of Julia, wife of Antone Magnolia, who died Thursday, was held from her home at 206 Common street this afternoon. Services were conducted in St. Mary's church and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. She is survived by her husband and family.

Sid Abbo of 53 Winter street, one of the best known Syrian residents of Quincy Point, died Friday at a Boston hospital after a short illness. His funeral will be held Sunday afternoon and services will be conducted at St. John's church.

MEN'S CLUB AT ATLANTIC

George S. Smith Tells Why He Is Optimistic

At the regular monthly meeting of the Men's club of Atlantic in the Memorial church Friday night dinner was served at 6.30. The menu was roast beef, mashed potatoes, green peas, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake.

The speaker was George S. Smith, ex-president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

After the usual introductory remarks by President Harry Read of the club, Mr. Smith spoke for fifty minutes and held the closest attention of every man in the room. He told of the movements that are in the world today and which are bringing the men together for the good of all. These movements he said were the cause of his optimism. Years ago men who were in the same line of business, would never think of speaking to each other, they viewed each other as cut throat competitors, but these men in the same line of business have been forming associations and getting the other fellows views, and the coming together has led to sympathy and friendship. These associations together make up the Chamber of Commerce and look toward helping the business and commerce of the city, the state the nation and the world.

He spoke of the cynical remark about dishonesty in business, but that the allied associations and chamber of commerce make it hard for a dishonest man in business today.

His experience would lead him to believe that 95 per cent of business men are honest, and those 95 per cent are often maligned because of the five per cent of dishonest men.

Mrs. Smith described how the national Chamber of Commerce was formed by the invitation of President Taft in 1912 to a conference in Washington.

The next movement that was working as leaven to make the world better was the City Club movement that since the organization of the Boston City Club there were about 48 clubs copied after that club, an dthat its Thursday evening meetings when some one discussed the social conditions and brought before the men the needs of the city and the tenement house problems. He told of an Episcopal minister going to one of the cheapest rooms in a city in order to study the slums and that the impure air would lead a man who never had tasted liquor to crave for it.

The next movement which Mr. Smith spoke of as making the world better was the Church club similar to the Atlantic Club. Stating that these clubs may be made up of men who have no church affiliation and many of them may be Roman Catholics, but in coming together men got a better view of what was going on inside of the other fellow, and the man Church goer was led to see the religious life as it is.

It was on the church question that Mr. Smith seemed to reach the highest mark in eloquence. tSating that he was a church member, but had no sympathy with the mushy religious views that had often been given in the name of religion.

He had travelled through Europe and had visited the great art galleries there, and had seen many of the so-called famous paintings of Christ, but the Christ the artists painted was an anaemic man, effeminate, impossible, unnatural man, and not the God man who was sympathetic, strong manly Christ that he believed in. Mr. Smith said that he would not be a Christian if he had to take the mushy religious conception given by the artists and much of the old preachments he had heard about.

After Mr. Smith's address the men applauded loud and long and it was very evident he had satisfied both head and heart in his remarks.

After the meeting adjourned remarks could be heard by every group that it was the most wonderful address they ever heard—some saying that the remarkable thing was his beginning with business life, their leading and the social life of the City Club and winding up with a manly plea for the religion of Jesus Christ and the religion of the up-to-date Church.

Owing to the number of expected guests and a large attendance of club members at the reciprocity day meeting of the Wollaston Woman's club Tuesday afternoon at the Park and Downs church, there will be no Woman's Exchange table that afternoon.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

For Your Baby.
The Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
is the only guarantee that you have the Genuine
CASTORIA
prepared by him for over 30 years.
YOU'LL give YOUR baby the BEST
Your Physician Knows Fletcher's Castoria.
Sold only in one size bottle, never in bulk or otherwise; to protect the babies.
The Centaur Company, Chas. H. Fletcher Pres't.

SHAMOKIN RANGE COAL
FREE BURNING
Like The
Shamokin of 20 years ago
C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

For Commercial Printing
Don't forget that we are headquarters.
We also print Circulars, Books Pamphlets, Posters, or anything you want
GEO. W. PRESCOTT PUB. CO.
Quincy, Mass.

Peter Parley BREAD
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
A new bread protected from human hands between our bakery and your table. Ask your grocer for and insist on getting "PETER PARLEY" BREAD.

MY SLOGAN
for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Sunday fair and warmer. Monday probably fair.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.57
Sun sets	5.50
Length of day	11.53
Moon sets	10.49
High water, A. M.	1.15
High water, P. M.	1.45
Days increase	2 hours, 47 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	46 degrees
Mar. 14. 1913,	48 degrees
Mar. 14, 1912,	51 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

ROLL OFF WAS NECESSARY

A roll off was necessary in the rubber game between the Wollaston Tennis club and a team from the American Trust Company on Friday evening at the Somerset alleys. Wollaston won the first string by 7 pins and the second by 3 pins, but lost the third by 15 pins and the total by 5 pins. The scores were:

Wollaston	493	492	472	1457
American	486	489	487	1462

On the roll off Wollaston won 460 to 456, and thereby wins the series. Addison of the American had the best single 118, and Foster the best total 308. For Wollaston, Baker excelled with 117 and 305.

BOSTON 1474, QUINCY 1468.

Two special teams representing Quincy and Boston rolled the first of a series for the championship of the Clayborn and Forbes alleys at the Summer street slides, Friday night and Quincy's defeat of 6 pins was brought about through the magnificent single rolled by Eddy of the Boston crew who made 155 in his first string. His total was 335. Herb Smith was high on the Quincy team, his total of 316 including a single of 121. High team single was made by the Boston quintette 546. The second match will be rolled at the Coliseum alleys Friday night.

BOSTON.

Eddy	155	95	85	335
Hayes	101	90	88	279
Smith	100	96	85	281
Davis	107	107	94	308
Dealey	83	81	107	271
	546	469	459	1474

QUINCY.

Connell	97	105	86	288
Tirrell	92	106	85	283
Dunn	91	92	96	279
Burke	109	97	96	302
Smith	94	121	101	316
	483	521	464	1468

W. H. HASLETT
31 Bridge Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 1092 W

Plastering and Cementing
Concrete Houses
Outside Stucco Work
Cement Walks, Steps and Cellar Floors.

PETROSILO sanitary and fireproof flooring—guaranteed to wear longer than hard wood floor—no joints one continuous piece put over any floor.

Feb. 25- W-S. tf

RAND GLASS VICTORIOUS

Take Three Points from the Clark Class

By taking three points from the Clark class last night in the Sunday-School League the Rand class increases its lead over the Makaria class by two points. The final point was not decided until the last string was rolled, as the Wollaston boys had won the first string in easy fashion. The Clark class boys came back and ran up a still larger total. The Rand Class was trailing along in the final string until the sixth box when they woke up in good fashion and at the end of the contest they had a grand total of 1156 to the Clark class 1138. Cahill was high single score man for the evening getting 99 as a mark, and also three string man with 259 to his credit.

The full score:

RAND CLASS.

Curtis	76	69	79	224
Bartlett	* 67	84	72	223
Cahill	99	82	78	259
Tabb	73	70	83	226
McLeod	81	68	75	224
	396	373	387	1156

CLARK CLASS.

Matheson	81	71	72	224
Clark	83	94	68	245
Cumming	76	93	77	246
Shirley	59	93	72	224
Hedman	64	71	64	199
	363	422	353	1138

* Rolled by Hatfield

LAST GAME OF THE SEASON

The game tonight at the Y. M. C. A. with the Chelsea Y. M. C. A. first team will mark the end of the schedule for the local teams. There is a possibility that the second team will find it necessary to play off a tie for the championship of the second division, as Quincy and Newton are now tied for first place. Newton plays at Boston tonight, and in case of a Boston victory Quincy will win the title without an extra game as there is still a forfeited game to be added to the local teams credit.

The game tonight ought to be a hummer, as Chelsea has been playing remarkably well for the past six weeks, having defeated Boston, Cambridge and Quincy. Quincy has one victory already to its credit over the visitors, but this game was played before the league season began and so does not count in the standing.

Chelsea will line up at the start with the following men: Van Poppel and Hardacre, forwards; Jones, center; Burnham and Wilcox, backs. Quincy will start with Price, Rich or Flanders, forwards; Trask, center; Kenn and Johnson, backs.

The other game of the evening will be between the Employed Boys first team and the High School Class team. The Employed Boys have not been defeated this season, and a red hot game may be expected as the students are still smarting from the defeat administered earlier in the season.

A. L. Wilband of Chelsea will officiate and the 1st game will commence at 8.15.

CIVIC WORK.

In response to the numerous enquiries regarding the offer of the Civics committee of the Quincy Woman's club to supply trees and vines at nominal prices the committee states that the opportunity of purchase is not limited to the club and the list is as follows: Peach trees 4 to 6 feet 20 cents; Plum, Pear, Cherry, Apple 5 to 7 feet, 30 cents; dwarf Pear, 2 years, 20 cents; other trees 50 cents to $1.50; Quince 4 to 5 feet, 40 cents; Goose berries 2 years, 20; Currants 2 years, 15 cents; Raspberries 3 cents; and Shrubs from 25 to 75 cents. Orders will be received by Mrs. Kitson or Mrs. Mackay of the committee before April 1st and goods can be called for at Mrs. Kitson's on their arrival from nursery.

CHICHESTER S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-ches-ter-s Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TERS DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

SPORT NEWS

The West Quincy league has three sessions next week. The Copelands and Franco Americans roll St. Patricks night, and Thursday night Div. 22 and Ave Maria council. St. Mary's and the Foresters are matched for Friday night. St. Mary's are leading the league.

The Orient A. A. and the Redmen, the two fastest amateur base ball teams in the city will reorganize. Nearly all of their last year men will play.

Drop us a line managers on the prospects of a team this season and let us announce to the fans your plans

The grammar school base ball league will open after the Easter vacation and already the diminutive stars are on the diamond. Dr. J. Gardner Smith, physical director, has the sport in charge. Several classes have organized for base ball. Locally, the basket ball season has been without accidents to date.

The Amateur Athletic Union will send boxers landing the national title in Boston to the San Francisco national championships in 1915, at their expense. This is a big incentive to the sport that is receiving additional recognition daily from the amateur standpoint.

The amateurs who are sparring for the honors are taking every opportunity to try each other out for the Boston meet April 17. On that account the entry list to the tourney to be conducted Monday night by the Quincy A. A. for members only has been large. The four classes, 108, 115, 125 and 135 are filled with the best amateurs now registered.

Mil Chapman of the champ Quincy A. A. second team is back from New York, where he spent the greater part of the winter. He has received several offers from amateur base ball teams for this season.

Bootus Chapman and Pete Chapman are both at Williston Academy where they are participating in sports. They were valuable acquisitions to the basket ball which is completing its schedule and may be the school battery. Pete is a pitcher and Bootus a catcher and both have made good in amateur base ball.

Negotiations are still incomplete for the three cornered basket ball series between Braintree A. A., Cunningham Gym and Quincy A. A. The Quincy Y. M. C. A. players talk as though they would like to make it a quartette offering. Fans would undoubtedly support the series.

One regular bowling night is schedule for next week. The Clan MacGregor teams meet at the Coliseum Tuesday night. The lineup will be McKenzies vs. O'Neils, Michaels vs. Mavers, W. Lanes vs. Thompson.

The Orient A. A. base ball team will shoot for the amateur championship of the city this season and at a recent meeting elected John Donahue business manager and Bode Bradley field manager. With very few exceptions the team will include the players on the diamond last year.

GARDNER CLUB.

The Gardner Club of Christ church was entertained Thursday evening by a very interesting lecture on Japan of today. The lecture was beautifully illustrated with stereopticon views which made the address doubly enjoyable.

Next Thursday evening Stanley Bone will give an illustrated lecture on "The Canadian Rockies and the great northwest." This also will be an open night when the members can invite friends.

With the restriction of the Japanese and Chinese from our great northwest now certain it would seem that Mr. Bone's subject is certainly timely.

The entertainment committee is now busy and promises something new for entertainment following the lecture.

At the last meeting the Play Committee made a report and stated that plans were now on foot to present two one-act farces late in April. The Club is particularly fortunate in being able to obtain the services of Erastus Osgood as coach. This in itself should assure the continued success of their dramatics.

Trouble Amidships.

Nanny Goat—"I thought father had a perfect digestion." Billy—"He has, ordinarily; but a while ago he ate a lot of adjectives off a circus poster."—Puck.

GRAND OFFICERS AS GUESTS

Manet Encampment of Odd Fellows Entertain

The visitation of the board of Grand officers to Manet encampment, I. O. O. F., Friday evening was the occasion of a large attendance of Patriarchs not only of Manet encampment but many from encampments at East Weymouth, Boston and Malden, it being the first visit of the newly elected officers.

The presence of the Grand officers in the anti room was announced early in the evening and a committee of Past Chief Patriarchs, who included Charles H. Wood, Andrew Johnson Frank L. Carlton and Frank W. Flowers, led by Senior Warden James Richardson, escorted them to the lodge room, where they were received with due honors by Chief Patriarch Ethan A. Rich and the officers of the encampment. In the board of Grand officers were:

Grand Patriarch—Bert J. Whitmore of Cambridge.

Grand High Priest—Alfred W. Bullock of Waltham.

Past Grand Representative—Walter F. Johnson of South Boston.

Grand Instructor—George H. Hartley of Malden.

Grand Junior Warden—Fred W. Pierce of Somerville.

Grand Sentinel—Benjamin L. Trull of Woburn.

Deputy Grand Sentinel—Charles W. Fewks of Newtonville.

Grand Marshal—George C. Apel of Cambridge.

There was no exemplification of work during the evening, it being devoted to speechmaking by the board of Grand officers who spoke of the growth of the order not only in this state but all over the United States. Manet encampment was congratulated on the rapid strides which it was making.

At the conclusion of the meeting an adjournment was made to the banquet hall where refreshments were served.

SEVERAL NEW HOUSES.

Inspector of Buildings Merrill has issued the following building permits:

William Lamb, dwelling, Franklin street.

W. A. Dunham, dwelling, Charles street.

A. R. McDonald, garage, Phillipps street.

Fred E. Nightingale, store, Granite street.

Russell Goldsmith, cottage, Sea street.

Alice M. Kane, dwelling, Billings road.

Richard J. Barry, dwelling, Squantum street.

Paul Lovering, alteration, Green street.

W. A. Dunham, dwelling, Sea street.

Walter Kendall, dwelling, West Elm avenue.

Mrs. Frank Byrns, dwelling, Ruthven street.

Ada Deacon, garage, Franklin street.

Cornelius Crowley, dwelling, Grove street.

John Bassett, miscellaneous, East Howard street.

Arthur C. Beale, dwelling, Phillipps street.

QUINCY CHORAL SOCIETY.

The regular weekly rehearsal of the Quincy Choral Society was held in New Hancock hall, Tuesday evening, with an attendance of about 60 members. Silas Rousseau, violinist, was a guest of the society and contributed two solos for the enjoyment of members, with Miss Ethel Raymond as accompanist.

Work on the "Elijah "choruses is rapidly being perfected, under Conductor Dunham's direction and with the splendid list of soloists secured, who have been previously announced in these columns, the performance on April 21st promises to be a grand one.

At the March 24th rehearsal, Miss Isabell Murphy, contralto will be the soloist, singing arias from "Samson et Delilah."

☞PRATT'S BREAD is baked by experts in proved ovens. Sold by grocers.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

REBEKAH LODGE IS GROWING

Reliance Rebekah lodge, 127, I. O. O. F., of Wollaston, initiated a class of twelve candidates at Odd Fellows' hall Thursday evening. The initiation was conducted by Andrew S. Johnston, degree master. He was assisted by Past Grands George C. Ela and Daniel E. Luke.

Guests were present from Dorchester Boston, Milton and Quincy, among them being D. D. G. M. Sister Richardson of Boston and members of her suite. They commended the officers for the manner in which the degree was conferred. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

The lodge has rapidly increased in membership since the lodge room was changed from Neponset to Wollaston and two classes are now awaiting initiation.

JOINT CONFERENCE.

The art, music and literature departments of the Massachusetts State Federation is to hold, by invitation of the Arlington Woman's club, a Joint Conference March 19 at 2 o'clock in Robbins' Memorial Town Hall, Arlington; subject: "Art as an expresison of life" with the program as follows:

"The Companionship of Pictures," Illustrated, Mrs. Sarah A. Drew, acting chairman of Art department.

"The Influence of Music." Mrs. Edward R. Newton, chairman of Music department.

Songs by Julia Ritter McCormick, soprano.

"The "Vitality of Literature." Mrs. True Worthy White, Chairman of Literature department.

Reading from "The Habitant," by Dr. Drummond, Alice Kent Quimby.

Mrs. Perkins will preside and time will be allowed for discussion and questions. Present visiting card with name of club represented.

Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY.

At four o'clock tomorrow afternoon there is to be an interesting meeting in each precinct of the town in behalf of the Braintree Young Men's Christian Association. At the First Congregational church there will be an address by Edward W. Hearne, state secretary for Massachusetts and Rhode Island, setting forth the Y. M. C. A. as a world-wide movement. At the Union Congregational church Dwight C. Drew, state secretary for county work, Massachusetts and Rhode Island will speak on "The Town Association" and at the South Methodist Episcopal church the popular county secretary for Norfolk County, Ernest P. Conlon of Hyde Park, will address the men and boys and their friends. Each of these meetings is to be at four o'clock and at least one director or officer of the Braintree Y. M. C. A. will be present at each meeting to briefly address the audience concerning the work now being done by the local association, the training boys are receiving through the Boy Scout Groups, and to make known the purposes and plans for activities the coming summer.

At the morning services of the various churches in all parts of the town the pastors will tomorrow deal wholly or in part with Young Men's Christian Association work, its civic and other values in the world-wide field.

At eight o'clock Tuesday evening, March 17th, in the parish house of the First Congregational church, there will be a grand rally of the Young Men's Christian Association forces of the town. Alfred O. Booth, field secretary for Massachusetts and Rhode Island, will then discuss "The Place of Braintree in the Christian Association Movement," and Miss Lydia J. Schrader, the popular vocalist, will render selections.

The directorate of the Braintree Association includes many of the most actively interested social and religious workers of the town, and the Sunday afternoon and Tuesday evening occasions will afford an unusual opportunity for our townspeople to gain definite information regarding the local association and the movement in general. All men and boys are publicly invited to attend these meetings.

QUINCY MANSION SCHOOL.

Parents and friends of students at the Quincy Mansion school were present in large numbers at Livermore hall Friday evening at the recital of the music pupils of the school. Those to contribute were Betty D. Smith, Darthea Heald, Patrice Finley, Hazel Estey, Bernice E. Savage, Mary E. Williams, Arnette Davison, Eva M. Cornish, Miriam Goodspeed, Doris Haley, Lillian N. Slayton, Fentress S. Kerlin and Ruth C. Savage. The execution of the several numbers by the pupils showed a careful musical training and they were greatly enjoyed.

BENTON SLAYER UNDER ARREST

But Alleged Assassin Is Held on Another Charge

MURDER OF TWO MEXICANS

Said to Have Been Committed by Fierro, Reputed to Be Extremely Cruel—Body of Briton Burned In Fear of American Raid—Revelations Concerning Bauch

El Paso, Tex., March 14.—Information that evidence thus far gathered by the Carranza commission indicates Major Fierro as the slayer of William S. Benton, a British subject, received credence with the arrival of American passengers from Chihuahua with reports, not confirmed, that Fierro had been arrested, charged with the murder of two Mexican railroad men.

It is said also the commission has gathered convincing evidence that Colonel Avila, in command of the garrison at Juarez, ordered the execution of Gustav Bauch, a German-American, who was tried as a spy, but in whose case no verdict was rendered. Rebel officers at Juarez and at Chihuahua repeatedly have denied that he was killed.

In the case of Fierro, who is accused by residents of being extremely cruel, those familiar with the situation say they have looked for some charge unconnected with the Benton case to be brought against him as a cloak on which he could be held or for the disappearance of apparently accidental death.

While investigators, it is said, have been convinced for the last two weeks that it was he and not General Villa who killed Benton, it is reported they did not expect he would live to face that particular charge. He was in Villa's office when Benton was killed.

The Mexican railroad men are said to have been killed in a resort at Chihuahua. They were members of a union and agents of the organization made the complaint to Villa.

Bauch, it was said, was not executed until two days after Villa left Juarez. Whether Avila had orders for the execution is not known, but it is said that evidence thus far gathered indicates that he ordered the execution of the German-American.

Developments connecting Fierro with the Benton case have been looked for since last Monday, when the sudden announcement was made that Fierro had been succeeded as general manager of the rebel railroads by Eusibio Calzaido. It was stated at the time that Fierro would have charge of the movement of military trains, but it is said this did not deceive those who were conversant with the latest developments in the Benton investigation.

Report Body Was Burned

Mexico City, March 14.—The apparent reluctance of General Villa to deliver up the body of William S. Benton, who was killed recently at Jaurez, has been explained, if messages received here are true.

Mexican residents in the north have advised relatives here that, when it was believed that Americans would cross the border and get the body, it was burned by order of Villa in the house of Colonel Onate, adjoining Villa's headquarters.

DENIES AUTHORSHIP

Mrs. Pollard Says She Did Not Write Long "Poison Pen" Letter

Elizabeth, N. J., March 14.—Mrs. Nelson L. Pollard told her story on the witness stand in the Union county court, where she is on trial for the alleged sending of a thirteen-page scurrilous letter to Mrs. Charles F. Jones.

The long promised "ripping of the cover" from Elizabeth society with resultant sensations of the first magnitude did not take place.

Mrs. Pollard's testimony was in the nature of a general denial; her cross-examination was tame and unproductive.

GET SIX-YEAR TERMS

Mining Promoters, One a Millionaire, Sentenced For Fraud

New York, March 14.—John J. Meyers and Archie L. Wisner were found guilty in the federal court of using the mails to defraud by the sale of mining stock through A. L. Wisner & Co.

Wisner was sentenced to serve six years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta. Meyers, a reputed millionaire, received a similar term and was fined $10,000.

Alleged Boy Slayers Held

Cambridge, Mass., March 14.—Nashan Aprahanian and Manoog Garabadian, two Armenian boys charged with the murder of Ismayel Ogillo, a Turk, at Watertown, were arraigned in the superior criminal court here. They pleaded not guilty and were held without bail.

Unusual Case of Parallelism

Lancaster, Pa., March 14.—Friends from boyhood, room-mates for four years at college, married the same day and spending their honeymoon together, two Lutheran ministers added another link to their parallelism by being presented with twins at the same time.

OBSERVES BIRTHDAY.

Capt. Charles T. Derry, the oldest resident of Sharon and formerly of Quincy celebrated his 86th birthday Tuesday afternoon and evening at his home in Washington Park. Mr. Derry followed the sea for several years and owned several large sloops and trading vessels. He later engaged in the erection of sea-walls, and many seawall structures along the New England coast are his work. Washington Park was decorated with American flags in his honor and a large flag was raised on the large staff near the Derry home. Mr. Derry was assisted in receiving by his daughter, Mrs. Stella Freeze.

MAINE POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To Sarah J. Clark of Quincy in said County of Norfolk, and to Her Heirs Apparent Or Presumptive:

Whereas, a petition for conservatorship has been presented to said Court by Abbie M. Kribs alleging that said Sarah J. Clark has become incapacitated by reason of advanced age and mental weakness to properly care for her property, and praying that Delevare King of Quincy or some other suitable person, may be appointed conservator of her property, agreeably to the law in such case made and provided. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Brookline in and for said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-fifth day of March, A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why a conservator should not be appointed as aforesaid. And said petitioner is hereby directed to cause you to be notified of the time and place appointed for the hearing of said petition, by serving said Sarah J. Clark with a copy of this order, seven days at least before said Court; and by mailing to said heirs apparent or presumptive at the last known post office address of each, a copy of the same, seven days at least before said Court, or instead of said mailing, by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twelfth day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t-March 14-16-23

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES
29 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar.
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

Call Quincy 501--W
If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN, upholsterer, 1060 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School
Mar. 4 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

...RVES BIRTHDAY.

...les T. Derry, the oldest ...Sharon and formerly of ...rated his 86th birthday ...rnoon and evening at his ...shington Park. Mr. Derry ...sea for several years and ...al large sloops and trad... He later engaged in the ...sea-walls, and many sea... ...res along the New Eng... ...re his work. Washington ...corated with American ...honor and a large flag ...on the large staff near the ... Mr. Derry was assisted ... by his daughter, Mrs.

...HAINE

...TATOES

...c PECK

— AT —

...'s Restaurant

...Depot Street

...p. City Hall

March 6-tm

...alth of Massachusetts, Probate Court. ...Clark of Quincy in said ...Norfolk, and to Her Heirs ...or Presumptive: ...petition for conservator... ...s presented to said Court ...Kribs alleging that said ...rk has become incapaci... ...on of advanced age and ...ness to properly care for ... and praying that Delce... Quincy or some other ...on, may be appointed con... ...er property, agreeably to ...such case made and pro... ...are hereby cited to ap... ...obate Court to be held at ... and for said County of ...the twenty-fifth day of ...1914, at ten o'clock in the ...show cause, if any you ...conservator should not be ...ranted. And said pe... ...rder directed to cause ...blished at the time and ...ed for the hearing of ...by serving said Sarah J. ...copy of this order, seven ...before said Court; and ...said heirs apparent or ...at the last known post ...of each, a copy of the ...days at least before said ...stead of said mailing, by ...the same once in each ...ree successive weeks, in ...daily Ledger a newspaper ...said Quincy the last pub... ...one day at least before

...James H. Flint, Esquire, ...Court, this twelfth day ...the year one thousand ...and fourteen. ...R. McCOOLE Register. 3t-March 14-16-23

...Y REGISTRY

...R NURSES

...Road, Quincy, Mass.

...trained and practical ...dants and nursery assis... ...charge will be made to ...y for Nurses. ...L. CRANE, Registrar. ...81-W.

...Quincy 501--W

...ur furniture, mattresses and ...in good order at low prices ...upholsterer, 1060 Hancock ...incy High School

Mar. 4 tf

N. CURTIS and GLAZIER

STAINED GLASS and PAPER HANGER

...NITURE REFINISHED

...off Spear Street, Quincy

Savings Bank

...URS: Every Business ...aturday, 8.30 A. M. to 8

...—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer,

The Station Agent

He Climbed Two Ladders at Once

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

Billy McElligott's father was a railroad man engaged in extending one of the systems through the far west up to Oregon. When Billy left school he said he would like to go out there and fit himself to manage a railroad. His father liked the idea and sent him out, intending his beginning as station agent, or something like that, and promised to boost him as fast as he could fill the different positions.

When Billy appeared as agent at Gunning Junction to step on to the first round of the ladder that was to carry him to the presidency of the road he was a trifle over eighteen, but as he weighed only a hundred pounds, stood but five feet four inches in his stockings and looked about sixteen years old it seemed very ridiculous to think of him as anything but an office boy.

Billy was to spend a month at Gunning, when he was to be promoted to trainman, then to spend another month as conductor, another as train dispatcher and to fill other positions in turn. He said nothing about being the son of the principal owner of the system or that he was to be boosted rapidly. Those with whom he came in contact wondered what the company meant by sending "a child" to do the work of a man.

HE LOOKED UP AND SAW HER AND BILLY.

But Billy, who had roughed it at times, didn't mind living for awhile in a wilderness and performed his duties, which were not onerous, tolerably well. But his father had ordered that Billy be supplied with a strong man for handling freight and trucks, and Billy spent most of his time between trains—some trains were hours apart—at a ranch house not a mile from the station. At such times his assistant, Jim Horgan, was in charge, and even if the agent wasn't there when a train passed Horgan could sell tickets.

What drew Billy to the ranch house was the seventeen-year-old daughter of the rancher, Mr. Archibald. The ranchman had been a merchant in the east and had gone west ten years before to raise sheep instead of merchandising, because he needed a dry air and an out of door life. His daughter, Daisy, was seven years old when he removed his home and had grown up a rancher's instead of a merchant's child. She could ride, shoot, swing a lasso and if necessary lend a hand at herding.

Daisy, being of the mating age, was ready for attention from the opposite sex and before Billy McElligott's appearance had permitted such attention from a cowboy named Tom Swartout. Her companions had been such as are usually to be met in new countries, and she had grown up with Swartout, not sufficiently recognizing the difference of refinement between him and her. She was in a transition state from girlhood to womanhood, and her parents were slow to realize the fact and that greater care should be taken in keeping her from one who would not make a suitable husband for a young woman of her class. When McElligott appeared Daisy herself saw the difference between him and her former playmate and was not slow in showing a decided preference for the former.

Sympathy might have run toward Swartout had he accepted his fate in a proper spirit, but he did not. The good or the bad in a man—usually the bad—comes out at seeing himself supplanted by a rival. It is natural among animals for the mate to fight for the female, and man is no exception. But refinement among men brings deference to a woman which permits her to choose for herself. The black spot in Swartout was that he lacked this deference to the lady of his love. The spirit of revenge overpowered all other considerations. Besides, he was goaded to meanness and enmity by his associates. Daisy saw at once that trouble was brewing and warned Billy.

"You mustn't come here any more," she said.

"What have I done?"

"Nothing. Tom Swartout is jealous, and I'm afraid of him."

"He won't hurt you, will he?"

"No, but he may hurt you."

"Is that the only reason I must keep away?"

"Yes."

"Then I'll come as usual."

One day Tom Swartout was playing a friendly game with some of his associates in an adobe one story house when Billy and Daisy rode by on horseback.

"There goes your girl, Tom," said one of the party. "Are you going to give her up to that purty little feller without a struggle?"

Tom didn't need the taunt to egg him on. He arose from his seat, went to the door and looked after Billy and Daisy.

"Why don't you let her see you pull his nose?" asked a cowboy. "That'll show her the difference between a man and a boy."

Tom said nothing, but ground his teeth.

"Go for him," said a third.

Swartout strode to his horse that was picketed near by, untied and mounted him, then rode after the couple. He didn't know what he was going to do. He was mad with jealousy and intended, or, rather, was impelled by the devil within him, to make a display of it. Unfortunately he had a revolver at his belt and a Winchester attached to a hook on his saddle. He had no idea of using either of the weapons. Indeed, he forgot that he had them.

Now, it seems that Daisy knew Tom's haunts and had suggested to Billy that they had better not ride by the adobe house. But Billy said if he couldn't ride where he liked he had better go back east. Daisy's anxiety led her, when she passed the house, to look in, and she saw Tom. At the same moment he looked up and saw her and Billy. As for Billy, he was looking straight ahead.

When the two had gone something over a quarter of a mile from the house where the game was going on Daisy turned to look back and saw Tom coming. She inferred that what she had dreaded was about to happen. She put the spurs to her horse. Billy looked back to see what had started her on and saw Tom coming. He also saw several cowboys one by one leaving the house, mounting and riding after Tom. They wanted to see Tom pull the little tenderfoot's nose.

Everybody in that country carried weapons except Billy, whose work at the station rendered it inconvenient for him to do so. He was not armed now, even with a knife. But Daisy, who was something of a sportswoman, usually had a rifle slung to her saddle. Billy, seeing an enemy coming, naturally longed for a weapon and, finding Daisy's rifle handy, bent over and unhooked it.

Swartout saw him do this. He didn't see Daisy prevent him. She only strongly advised putting the rifle back. Tom was maddened more than ever at seeing Billy about to use Daisy's rifle with which to shoot him. He unhooked his own rifle. Billy told Daisy she'd better ride on; she might get hurt. Instead of doing so she tried to put herself between the rivals.

Here is where Billy showed manly instincts, while Tom showed brutal ones. Billy refrained from firing at Tom from the protection of a woman's skirts, but Tom fired at Billy as soon as there was a chance of doing so without hitting Daisy. The bullet sang between the two, who were not three feet apart.

Billy was disgusted, but averse to taking his rival's life. He could have killed his enemy at a single shot, but rather than do so he permitted Daisy to get in front of him and refrained from firing.

"Come out from behind a woman, you coward!" yelled Swartout, and those behind him jeered.

Billy gave his horse the spur, the animal jumped, and when he lit on his feet a bullet went from the muzzle of Billy's rifle straight for his enemy. Tom fell from his horse. His friends galloped up and dismounted beside him. Daisy in a frenzy rode on, and Billy followed her.

It was supposed that Tom Swartout was mortally wounded. Billy knew better. He had put the ball where it would do the most damage without killing his man. Tom recovered, but the sympathy of the best people of the community was with McElligott, and his enemy was universally condemned. Long before he was well enough to be out Billy had gone up another round in the ladder of a railroad man, and the two did not meet again.

When it became known that the little station agent had fought and nearly killed Tom Swartout the people of that region were filled with astonishment.

"Why, he's nothing but a child," said one.

"Looks like a gal dressed in boy's clothes," remarked another.

"Hasn't got a sign of a beard," suggested a third.

During the period between the fight and Billy's promotion he spent most of his time with Daisy, and when he marched up to her father like a little man and asked for her the rancher was delighted.

"If it hadn't been for you, my boy," he said, "some galoot would have got her. I should have taken her away from here long ago."

Billy took her away after awhile, but when he did so he was division superintendent of the road.

SUNDAY SERVICES

A new announcement of services is required each week. No notices accepted to run indefinitely. When possible the subject of sermon should be given, also special services. Generous space will be given in the news columns for church news, music and week day gatherings.

FIRST PARISH CHURCH—City Square, Rev. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson, minister. Residence Miller Stile Inn, Tel. 2107Z. Office hours at church 9 to 12 A. M. Monday, Wednesday and Friday Tel. 1290. Morning service at 10.30 A. M. Subject of Sermon by minister: "A Unitarian's Faith in Jesus Christ." Sunday School at 12 noon. Mr. Henry W. Porter Supt. The minister's class will continue the study of the "Religions of India." Visitors are welcome.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Junction Hancock and Chestnut streets. Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, Pastor. 10.30 Morning worship message by the pastor "The new commandment" 12.00 Bible school Classes for all ages Visitors always welcome. 6.00 Christian Endeavor Meeting Topic: "Well stored memories' 7.30 Pleasant Sunday Evening service; Lecture by the pastor "The Protestant and his Bible."

CHRIST CHURCH, EPISCOPAL—Quincy corner Elm street and Quincy avenue. Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, rector. Third Sunday in Lent 9.30 A. M. Sunday School. 9.45 A. M. Holy Communion. 10.45 Morning Prayer Litany and sermon. 7.30 Evening Prayer and address. Wednesday 7.45 Evening prayer and sermon. Thursday 3.30 P. M. Devotional Service. Friday 4.00 P. M. Children's Lenten Service.

FIRST UNIVERSALIST CHURCH—Washington Street, Quincy. Rev. Merrill C. Ward, pastor Residence 2 Greenough Avenue, Jamaica Plain Telephone Jamaica 616 W. Fourth in a series of Lenten sermons on "Helps to the Christian Life" Subject Sunday at 3.00 P. M., "The Church' Sunday school at 2 o'clock. Y. P. C. U. at 4.20.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST—Quincy, Alpha Hall, cor. Hancock street and Cottage ave. Morning service and Sunday School at 10.45. Subject: "Substance." Golden Text: "The meek shall inherit the earth: and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace." Wednesday 7.45 P. M. a testimony and experience meeting. Reading room open from 3 to 5 P. M. week days, holidays excepted. Also Saturday from 7 to 9 P. M.

SPIRITUALIST MEETINGS—Electa Hall, Johnson building, Quincy Sq. Russ H. Gilbert speaker. Evening Service at 730 P. M. Subject of discourse "Life and power from within." Miss Mabelle A. Leighton, message bearer.

GOSPEL MISSIONS—Hancock chambers, City Square. Services at 3 o'clock Mr. Morse of Bridgewater will conduct the services.

WASHINGTON STREET CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Quincy Point. Rev. Stephen C. Lang pastor. 10.45 Morning Worship. Subject of sermon "Pure Nard." 12 M. Bible school and Men's class. 6.30 Christian Endeavor. 7.30 Evening Service. "Man in the Universe." Public cordially invited.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—Water and Quincy Streets. Rev. J. A. Matheson Minister, Tel. 1524-M. Morning worship at 10.30. Bible School and mens class 11.45. Jr. Christian Endeavor 2.30 Y. P. S. C. E. 6.30 Evening worship and praise 7.30. Congregational Prayer and praise service Thursday 7.30. You will be welcome at all our services.

FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—Corner of School and Pleasant streets. Rev. D. B McLeod, M. A., pastor. Residence 40 Bradford St., Preaching by the pastor at 10.30 and 7. Sabbath School and Bible Class at 11.45 Junior Endeavor at 3. Senior Endeavor at 6. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.30. Strangers nd others are invited to worship with us.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH—Franklin street Rev. C. C. Tilley, Pastor. Residence 26 Richie Road. Morning Service at 10.30. Subject: "The Keys of the Kingdom" Sunday school at 11.45 Evening service at 7. Subject: "The Secret of his Presence." Regular prayer meeting on Thursday evening at 7.30.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL—Corner Lincoln and Winthrop avenues, Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath, Ph. D., pastor. Res. No. 20 Marion street Telephone Quincy 1116 M. Morning Worship 10.45 Address by Henry T. Richardson, "Opportunities for Congregationalism in and about Boston." 12.15, Sunday School. Chas A. Campbell, Supt. Women's Class led by Mrs. A. A. Lincoln. Men's Class led by Dr. Sneath. Junior Endeavor Temperance meeting 4 P. M. led by Donald Blake. Y. P. S. C. E. at 6 P. M., leader, Mrs. E. S. Tenney. Pastors Round Table in Vestry. Thursday Evening regular midweek service will be a union service in the Methodist church at 7.45

WOLLASTON BAPTIST CHURCH—Cor. Prospect and Warren avenues. Rev. Joseph Walther minister. Morning service at 10.45 Sunday School at 12.15. Junior Endeavor at 3.30. Senior Endeavor at 6. Evening service at 7. Sermons by the minister. Everyone invited to these services who have no other church home.

ST. PAUL'S SWEDISH M. E. Church—Corner Granite and Fort Streets Quincy. Rev. A. E. Hillman, pastor. Residence 121 Glendale Road. Morning service at 10.30 A. M. Subject of sermon "Is it well with you?" Sunday School at 12 M. Epworth League Service at 6.30 P. M Evening service at 7 o'clock Subject: "The Master acting the role of a servant" All Scandinavians are welcome.

SWEDISH BAPTIST CHURCH — Brewers Cor. Paul Hallin, pastor Residence 101 Glendale Road. Sermon by the pastor at 10.45 A. M., subject: "A Searching Question." This service will be devoted especially to Parents and children. At 7.30 P. M. Subject: "The final decision." Sunday School at 9.30 A. M.; Y. P. S. C.E. at 6.45 P. M. Strangers cordially invited.

WOLLASTON METHODIST EPISCOPAL—CHURCH—Rev. George Mervyn Bailey, Pastor Residence, 52 Brook Street Telephone, Quincy 378-2 10.45 Divine Worship with sermon Theme: Jesus The Immeasurable Man. 12 M. Sunday School J. A. Sedgwick Supt. Pastor in charge of Men's Class. 6 P. M. Epworth League Leader: Mrs. George Crothers. 7 P. M. Song service and pastor's message Subject: "Fox-Hunting in Wollaston.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN CHURCH—Corner Beale and Farrington streets. Rev. Carl G. Horst, minister. Residence 39 Grand View ave. Telephone Quincy 317-1. Kindergarten for children of three years and over, in the vestry in charge of a trained kindergartner, at 10.45 Service of worship with sermon on Fundamentals of Twentieth Century Christianity at 10.45 Sunday School with classes for all at 12.00. Ministers class meets in Church Auditorium. Y. P. R. U. meeting in charge of the young ladies at 6.30. Special Lenten Service at 7.30, Sermon by Rev. Julian C. Jaynes of West Newton. All seats free, and a cordial welcome for all.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Hancock street. Wollaston—Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra, rector, residence, the rectory. 253 Hancock street. Holy Communion at 8 A. M. Morning prayer, Litany and sermon at 10.30. Sunday School at 12. Evening Prayer and address at 7.30, Monday 4.00 P. M. Junior Auxiliary. 4.45 P. M. Children's Service. Wednesday 4.00 P. M. Penitential Office and Devotional Reading Thursday 7.45 P. M. Evening prayer and sermon Friday 10.00 A. M. Litany.

MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Atlantic Rev. Thomas W. Davison, pastor. Morning service 10.45. Sermon by the pastor Subject: "The Troubled Heart." Sunday School 12. M. Junior Endeavor at 3.30 P. M. Adult Bible Class at 5.30 P. M. Y. P. S. C. E. at 6. P. M. Evening service at 7 o'clock. A cordial welcome to all.

ATLANTIC M. E. CHURCH—corner Newbury avenue and Squantum Streets. Rev. E. C. Pollard, pastor. Residence 19 Wesley Street, Newton, phone 2467 W. Morning service at 10.45 Sermon by the pastor. Subject: "Reaping as we Sow." Sunday School 12.15 M. Junior League 3.30 P. M. Epworth League at 6 P. M. Public service at 7. P. M. Subject: What shall the Harvest be?"

WOOD! WOOD! WOOD!

BY THE CORD OR SAWED AND SPLIT

ENGLISH, BEDDING AND SALT HAY

R. ALLEN GAGE

36 River St., Braintree

Telephone 138 M for prices. Jan 21 tf W&S

WILLIAM R. DIMOCK

Carpenter and Builder

Plans furnished and estimates given. All work personally and promptly attended to

133 PROSPECT AVENUE WOLLASTON

Telephone 1238 W Quincy.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

LAND COURT.

To Anne R. Cunningham, Jacob A. Turner, Llewellyn W. Higgins, Helen M. Thomas, Charles G. Waitt and Mrs. Charles G. Waitt, of Milton; the Granite Railway Company and Ida F. Kelley, of Quincy; Susie M. Harper, of Weymouth; in the County of Norfolk, and said Commonwealth; Eunice P. Waitt of Malden, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth; James H. Stark, George C. Thacher, William H. Reed, I. P. Smith, Shelton Barry, Mary C. Gately, Trustee, of Boston, in the County of Suffolk, and said Commonwealth; James S. Liddle of Lockport in the State of New York; Elizabeth C. Dustan, Robert Jaffrey Dustan, Ellen G. Dustan, Mary J. Dustan, Josephine Rowell, Julia M. Moseley, Ann McDade, Dinah McDade and Jane White; residences unknown, or their heirs, devisees, or legal representatives; the Robertson Manufacturing and Quarry Company, formerly doing business in said Quincy, or any persons claiming under them; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Charles D. Turnbull of said Boston, William H. Dunbar, of Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, and Anne L. Whitmore, of Mattapoisett, in the County of Plymouth, and said Commonwealth, Trustees of the Unity Trust under a declaration of trust dated April 29, 1897 recorded with Norfolk Deeds, book 1030, page 44, to register and confirm their title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land situate partly in said Milton and partly in said Quincy, bounded and described as follows:

Northerly by land of William H. Reed to the center line of Plymouth Avenue, 117.5 feet; Westerly by the westerly half of Plymouth Avenue, 21.50 feet, more or less; Northerly by Curtis Street, 260 feet, more or less; Easterly by land of Ida F. Kelley, 156.89 feet; Northeasterly by said land of Ida F. Kelley, 31.07 feet; Easterly by land of the Granite Railway Company 276.85 feet; Southeasterly by said land of the Granite Railway Company 129.56 feet; Northeasterly by said land of the Granite Railway Company and by land of Susie M. Harper 301.95 feet; Southerly by land of Jacob A. Turner and James S. Liddle 468 feet more or less; Westerly by land of Anne R. Cunningham 717.37 feet; containing 191,800 square feet more or less.

Also another certain parcel of land situate in said Milton, bounded and described as follows:—

Northerly by land of I. P. Smith 138.70 feet; Easterly by land of Helen M. Thomas 85.40 feet; Southerly by land of Shelton Barry 139.47 feet; Westerly by Grafton Avenue 85.40 feet; containing 8,675 square feet.

Petitioners claim as appurtenant to the above described land a right of way in common with others thereto entitled, for all street purposes in and over said Plymouth Avenue, Grafton Avenue, and Curtis Street, as shown on the plan hereinafter mentioned.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are herby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the sixth day of April A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this thirteenth day of March in the year nineteen hundred and fourteen.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

CLARENCE C. SMITH, Recorder.

(Seal.)

Mar. 14-3t 14-21-28

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath. Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Two pleasant four-room tenements, one furnished, light and sunny rooms, new house, modern improvements, central location. 9 Francis Court, off Spear street. 13-6t

TO LET—New apartment of 6 rooms and bath, all improvements, maple floors, fire place, etc. 3 minutes to City Square. Apply 37 Bigelow street. Mar. 12-tf

TO LET—On Spear street, first floor 4 rooms, bath, furnace, set tubs, gas and set range. J. A. Weeden, Room 10, Greenleaf Block. 12-3t

TO LET—Two well furnished front rooms in good location. Only one minute walk from station and city square. Apply to Mrs. Johnson, 14 Upland road. 9-6t

TO LET—6 room tenement, improvements. Apply 74 Arnold street, evenings. 9-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms for light housekeeping also single rooms. Apply at 44 Massachusetts avenue. 9-6t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

Government Markers

Friends of deceased veterans of the Civil War, wishing government markers, fort their graves, will confer a favor upon Post No. 88 G. A. R. by sending their name, Company, and Regiment, at once, to Francis P. Loud, Q. M., Quincy, Mass. 9-6t

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block

2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office. Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

CREENLEAF BLOCK

CITY SQUARE

(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water, $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 249—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,

(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)

Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ....

TO LET

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO RENT—Flat of four rooms, Francis court off Spear street. All modern improvements. Rent $18. Apply at 7 Francis court. 14-6t

TO LET—In private family in Wollaston nicely furnished front square room, plenty of hot water, handy to station and electrics. $2.50. Write K. Ledger Office. 14-3t

TO LET—Single house of six rooms in good repair. Rent low. Apply at 97 Coddington street. 13-6t

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

TO LET—Flat of 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-6t

TO LET—At North Weymouth, flat of 5 rooms, some improvements, near salt water and good place to keep hens. Rent reasonable to small family. Few minutes to trains to Boston. Apply at 445 Washington street, Quincy. 11-6t

TO LET—Upper tenement of five rooms and bath at 109 Franklin street. Apply to Harry W. Tirrell. Telephone Quincy 432-M. 10-6t

TO LET—In private family to refined people, two very fine corner rooms, newly furnished, with separate baths. Near centre. Write L. B. K. Ledger Office. 9-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

TO LET—173 Whitwell street, half house, modern conveniences, $20 per month. Ready for immediate occupancy. Apply Penniman's Stable, Granite street. 19-tf

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—One "Reo the Fifth," four seated touring car, specially comfortable body, over-sized tires, extra shoe, shock absorbers, Warner speedometer, condition good as new. Apply to Central Garage, corner Washington and Pond Streets, Quincy. 13-6t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS—Take notice. We are selling all steel portable Automobile garages, camps and storehouses ready to put up. Prompt shipment. Send for quotations, M. W. Tilton, Box 362 Brockton. 11-6t

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

A few Choice House Lots — ON — PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX

are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN

3 GREENLEAF BLOCK

Jan. 5-tf

LOST

LOST—At Quincy Music hall, on Friday March 13, a Scottish plaid brooch. Will finder kindly notify Angus D. Martin, Empire Polishing Co., Penn street. Tel. Quincy 409-W. 14-1t

LOST—A gold locket Thursday evening between City hospital and Quincy Music hall or in hall. Reward if returned to F. O. H., 30 Ryden street. 14-3t

WANTED

WANTED—Two furnished, heated rooms and one small unfurnished room, with gas to be used as kitchenett. No children. Write X. O. Ledger office, Quincy. 12-3t O 14-1w

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York. N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy. Res. 22-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

BOSTON GLOBE—Picture Game Answers. Our best answers to entire set of 77 pictures, now ready. Price 50 cents. Coin, stamps or money order. The White Company, Melrose, Highlands, Lock Box Q. 10-6t

FASHIONABLE DRESSMAKING—Done with neatness and dispatch. Special attention given to evening gowns. Mrs. W. H. Russell, 392 Hancock street, Norfolk Downs. Telephone Quincy 493-W. 9-6t

JUST LOOK HERE

Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4060—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.

HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.

Real Estate, Boston.

E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative

Telephone 1877-M Quincy. Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.

Real Estate and Insurance

Care of Property. Mortgages

Justice of Peace. Notary Public

Room 4, Savings Bank Building

Tel. 285 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE

REAL ESTATE

Insurance Mortgages

NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

Room 23 Adams Building

Telephones { Residence 544-2 / Offices 34

HOLMES & HALL

REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS

SHADES

DOOR BELLS

LOCKS and KEYS

1179 HANCOCK ST.

TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

M. T. SULLIVAN

Real Estate Insurance

Auctioneer Care of Property

Justice of the Peace

Room 3, Thomas Merrill Block, Quincy

HERBERT A. HAYDEN

PIANO TUNER

78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.

Telephone 1153-R Quincy

Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1201 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY. SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

KINCAIDE THEATRE
HANCOCK STREET — QUINCY CENTRE
HIGH CLASS VAUDEVILLE — REFINED MOVING PICTURES

MONDAY, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, AT 2.30 & 7.45 P. M.

BELL & LAPORTE
Comedy Singing, Talking and Music

TWO IRMENAS
Sensational Slack-wire Artists

THE HYLANDS
Refined Musical Entertainers

ED.D eCORSIA & CO.
Presenting their screamingly successful skit "RED IKE"

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

3-Reels of Thrills
"WANTED BY THE POLICE"
— Featuring —
WILLIAM JEFFERSON
Son of the late Jos. Jefferson]
The Most Intense and Gripping Dramatic Feature in 3-reels ever seen

COMEDY PICTURES

AFTERNOONS 5, 10, 15c. EVENINGS 10, 15, 25c.

Mar. 14—3t

RECITAL OF BLACK ROCK

Will Be Feature of Men's Meeting on Sunday

Number five of the series of Sunday afternoon meetings for men being conducted by the Y. M. C. A. will be held in Kincaide Theatre tomorrow at 3.30 o'clock.

While the previous meetings have been well attended and interesting and helpful in every way, the meeting tomorrow bids fair to be the greatest success of all. It's a service the like of which has never been held in Quincy before. It will be a dramatic and lyric recital of Ralph Connor's story, "Black Rock."

"Black Rock" portrays life in a western mining camp. And to tell the story as it should be told the Association has secured a young woman from the West who is an elocutionist of rare ability, Elizabeth Packard Larsen, of St. Paul, Minnesota.

In the story, the singing of Mrs. Mavor, one of the characters, is a strong feature, and Miss Ruth Louise Hardy will play that part. Another of the book characters is an adept with the violin, and this part will be enacted by Prof. Albert M. Kanrich, whose playing two Sundays ago made the theatre ring with applause. Edward Bullock will preside at the piano. So you see there's quite a company of high class entertainers.

The recital of this western story will hold the closest attention of every man lucky enough to get into the theatre tomorrow. It's a thrilling heart-throbbing true-to-life story presented by a pretty, vivacious western woman with a wonderful ability in portraying the many different characters. Any man who misses this will feel mighty sorry when he hears his friends tell about it.

The doors will be open at 3 o'clock and all seats are free. No boys under 14 will be admitted unless with father. The Association has been stormed with requests to open this meeting to women, but feel obliged to hold to their rule of "Men only" as the theatre will be none too large for the audience of men who are coming tomorrow afternoon. All men are invited to come and bring their men friends along with them.

There is no charge for admission and all the seats are free. To help defray the expense a silver collection will be taken, but the Association wants no man to stay away because of that. Come anyway, men, you are more than welcome.

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS?
ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

Too Late For Classification

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—Two rooms and bath with kitchenette, furnished if desired. Reasonable rent, 132 Marlborough street, Wollaston. 14-1t

With Teams and Trucks
KINCAIDE MOVES HOUSEHOLD GOODS
Our light and heavy Trucks and Teams are ready to move you anywhere anytime you say. Our men are courteous, careful, thoroughly-experienced movers. This store stands back of their work and guarantees you complete satisfaction. Charges are reasonable. Let's have your order early. Write, call or Telephone Quincy 1200.
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO. 1495 Hancock St.

WHO CONTROLS THE SCHOOLS

School Committee In Controversy With Mayor

Members of the School Committee take exceptions to the statement recently issued by Mayor Miller, that a recent act of the Legislature gives him control over the schools. The members claim the board remains an independent co-ordinate executive branch of the city government, and while they do not question the power of the City Council to cut down their appropriations they say Mayor Miller has no legal right to do so.

Chairman of the School Board, John M. Mackay, when interviewed this morning, said the act relied on by Mayor Miller relates only to municipal indebtedness and has nothing whatever to do with the schools.

The following is the provision which may become the centre of a legal controversy and is taken from Section 23, Chapter 719 of the Acts of 1913.

"It shall be the duty of the city officials when so requested by the Mayor to submit to him forthwith, in such detail as he may require, estimates for the next fiscal year of the expenditures of their departments or officers under their charge which estimates shall be transmitted to the City Council."

Is the School Board a "City Official" was asked Chairman Mackay, and he replied that if it had been the intention of the Legislature to put the schools under the control of the Mayor, it would have used unambiguous and explicit language to that effect.

Mayor Miller he said, has decreased the amount asked by the Board of Instruction by $2000 although Superintendent Barbour and I stated to the Committee on Finance that the estimate was based on careful figuring and that they could not give instuction for a smaller sum unless some of the teachers resigned during the year and their places were taken by lower salaried substitutes,—something we both told the committee we hoped would not happen in the interests of efficient teaching.

Representative Sandberg has interviewed well informed persons at the State House with a view to finding out whether the mayors of cities had been given any power over school departments and learned that no legislation has been recently passed which could be so interpreted.

As reported in the Daily Ledger a few weeks ago, the School Committee of Cambridge voted an increase of salaries to the teachers. City Auditor Thurston refused to approve the bills based on the new schedule and Florence E. Hunter, one of the teachers took the matter into the Supreme Court. Judge Crosby, after hearing both sides argued, issued a writ of mandamus commanding the auditor to approve, Mayor Barry to sign and City Treasurer Good to pay the bills, including the increases.

As in previous years, the School Committee of Quincy transmitted its estimates directly to the City Council, and the committee claim the Mayor has no authority to include them in his budget. It has not been done in previous years. The School Committee is an executive department of the city, and is not included among the administrative boards or department officials.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Appointment of Assessor Is Further Delayed

Those who have been anxiously waiting for the Mayor to announce who the new assessor is, are again doomed to disappointment, for His Honor said this morning that he should not announce the man today. He did not drop any hint as to who he should appoint, and it is believed that he has not fully made up his mind. He however said this morning that he had another new name presented to him for consideration. This party is A. L. Baker of Wollaston, a former tax collector. The Mayor will probably think it over between now and Monday and probably send the name to the City Council Monday evening.

R. D. Evans spoke on Life, Love and Liberty before a large audience in Electa hall Friday evening under the auspices of the Socialist party of Quincy.

TEMPLARS LADIES NIGHT

Banquet, Entertainment and Dance at Alpha Hall

Alouette, gentille alouette,
Alouette jety pleumerai.
Alouette gentille alouette,
Alouette jety pleumerai
Jety pleumerai later and so on were the words of the chorus of a song of forty-nine or more verses, that were sung with a telling effect during the banquet of the annual ladies' night of Quincy commandery, Knight Templars, at Alpha hall, Friday evening. Lieut Walter L. Tougas of Boston commandery sang the solo part while Sir Knights Follett Peterson, Whitehead, Bushnell and Raymond, sang the chorus.

In addition to this song, seats were placed at each cover and between the courses the sir knights and ladies joined in singing such well known airs as "Jingle Bells, "Old Gray Bonnett," "In the good old summer time," "The stein song," etc., all of which served to enliven the banquet and add a zest to the occasion that otherwise might have been lacking.

There were upwards of one hundred and fifty sir knights and their ladies present and the party was not only a very pretty one but enjoyable from start to finish.

Among the guests present were Very Em. Walter L. Medding, Deputy Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and Mrs. Meddling, also Commander Gardner R. P. Parker of South Shore commandery.

The banquet was served at 6.30, the menu including turkey, potatoes, chicken salad, escalloped oysters, cranberry sauce, chicken crouquettes, rolls, coffee and ices of all kinds.

Em. Sir Walter E. Piper and Mrs. Piper occupied seats of honor at the head table and near them aside from the guests noted above, were Past Commander Albert W. Fay and Mrs. Fay, Past Commander Arthur W. Stetson and Mrs. Stetson, and the officers of Quincy commandery with their ladies. Prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Isaiah W. Sneath of the Wollaston Congregational church, at whose church, the commandery will attend services on Easter Sunday.

The banquet was well cooked and well served. At its conclusion the party, singing "Onward Christian Soldiers" marched to the upper hall where a pleasing entertainment was given, the program including musical selections by Poole's orchestra and Mrs. Belle Temple Priest.

It was not Mrs. Priest's first appearance before a Quincy audience, and those fortunate enough to have heard her on other occasions will readily understand how much her monologues were enjoyed. Her numbers included some that had not been heard before in Quincy as well as some of those that one enjoys hearing repeated several times.

The entertainment was over at 9.30 and from then on until midnight, dancing was enjoyed. The dance program included several square dances and the spirit in which they were entered into showed that even in these modern times a good old fasioned dance is welcome now and then.

Em. Sir Albert W. Fay had charge of the floor and was assisted by other officers and members of the commandery. There was an absence of that stiffness that at times prevails at dances and everybody entered heartily into the spirit of the evening apparently bent on having a good time themselves and trying to make everybody else enjoy themselves which appearances indicated they did.

At the conclusion of the dancing a special car left for Wollaston and Atlantic. The committee in charge to whom much credit is due were Commander Walter E. Piper, Generalissimo John Morgan, Captain General Otis . Oakman, Treasurer J. S. Swingle and Recorder Alfred H. Richards.

BRASS FOUNDRY CHANGES HANDS

W. W. Stall, president and Manager of the Factory Exchange, reports the sale of the fully equipped brass foundry including building and land at Norfolk Downs, belonging to Edgar Norton of Holbrook, to a new concern known as the Reline Metal Company, which will refit the premises and commence operations at once.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

MASS. AND MISS. MICH. AND WASH.

Cause Confusion and Many Letters Go Astray

The following comment from Spokane, Washington, will be read with local interest:

Because residents of Quincy, Wash., often get mail intended for Quincy, Mass., they have started a movement to change the abbreviation designating the state named in honor of the nation's first president. They think "Wash." should be abbreviated still further to "W."

A. J. Ternent, secretary of the Quincy Commercial club, says: "The postmaster here informs me that many letters and packages addressed to towns in Maine and other states come to this postoffice. This is caused by the similarity of the abbreviations of several states, as in the case of Miss., Mass., Mich., and others, when written in longhand. On an average, one letter or package a day comes to this town addressed to Quincy in some other state. I have seen a good many from New York city which have gone first to Quincy, Mass. This, I believe could be remedied by changing "Wash." to "W." I am informed that other postoffices throughout the state have the same trouble, and a change of this kind would make the state letter very distinctive to the mail clerks.

BRIEFS

Cards have been received from ex-City Solicitor John W. McAnarney who is now in St. Joseph, Missouri.

Two candidates were initiated to membership in the Fore River lodge, I. O. O. F. M. U.., at a meeting in Protection hall Friday evening. The attendance was large.

Rev. George R. Hazard rector, Grace church, Manchester, New Hampshire will preach at the Lenten service at St. Chrysostom's church Thursday evening.

St. Patrick's night will be observed in West Quincy on Tuesday night with a concert and entertainment in St. Mary's hall under the auspices of Div. 22, A. O. H. James Sweeney is chairman of the committee.

The battleship Rivadavia, which is having her gun test today off Cape Cod is expected back at the Fore River yards Sunday or Monday. The gun tests are final, as in every other test she has more than fulfilled the requirements.

Next Thursday evening at 7.45, the prayer meeting in the Wollaston Methodist church will be a union service. The pastors and people of the Congregational, Baptist and Unitarian churches, being invited to be present Rev. Joseph Walther of the Baptist church will conduct the service assisted by the other pastors.

Utilizing Air Space.

It is proposed to span a 2,500-foot gully at Akron, Ohio, by the erection of a series of industrial buildings, the roofs of which are to be used as a passage-

DEATHS

MAGNOLIA—In West Quincy, March 12, Julia, wife of Antone Magnolia, of 206 Common street, aged 50 years.

ABBO—In Boston, March 13, Sid Abbo of 53 Winter street, Quincy Point.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

YOU should not place your orders for any
MEMORIAL WORK
Without Consulting
AVARD L. WALKER
MORTUARY ARCHITECT
3636 WASHINGTON STREET
FOREST HILLS, BOSTON, MASS.
Tel. Quincy 282.W
March 4-3mos-w-s

Better Than Wealth
is perfect health; but to enjoy good health it is necessary first to get rid of the minor ailments caused by defective or irregular action of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels,—ailments which spoil life, dull pleasure, and make all sufferers feel tired or good for nothing.
BEECHAM'S PILLS
(The Largest Sale of Any Medicine in the World) have proved themselves to be the best corrective or preventive of these troubles. They insure better feelings and those who rely upon them soon find themselves so brisk and strong they are better able to work and enjoy life. For that reason alone, Beecham's Pills are The Favorite Family Medicine
Sold everywhere. In boxes, 10c., 25c.
Directions with every box show the way to good health.

THE PI ETA SOCIETY
of Harvard University
Announces its Annual Production
"A BUG IN A RUG"
to be presented in
Quincy Music Hall, Friday, Mar. 27
Under the auspices of the
QUINCY TENNIS CLUB
Feb. 27, M 7, 14, 21, 26

ANOTHER
AUTOMOBILE NUMBER
Devoted to Auto Trucks
Will be Issued by
THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Tuesday, March 17
Large spaces have already been taken by Manufacturers
March 14-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
After 3.30 at
SHUNK'S AGENCY
WOLLASTON
Leave an order and have delivered at your door

Wealth
th it is necessary caused by defect-ch, liver, kidneys fe, dull pleasure, good for nothing.
PILLS
he World) corrective or pree better feelings
nd themselves so ble to work and echam's Pills are Medicine
25c. good health.

CIETY rsity ction RUG"
, Mar. 27
JB
30 Feb. 27, M 7, 14, 21, 26

UMBER
Trucks
by LEDGER ch 17 already facturers
March 14-2t

LEDGER
ENCY
N delivered

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 63 QUINCY, MASS MONDAY EVENING MARCH 16 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

RIVADAVIA FULFILLS ALL TESTS

Returns to Shipyard on Sunday and Is Welcomed by Hundreds Along the River

No Battleship Ever Subjected to Such Severe Gun Tests

The battleship Rivadavia returned to Commonwealth dock, Boston, about 8 o'clock Saturday night, after having successfully completed her gun tests. Sunday morning shortly after 8 o'clock she started for the Fore River yards at Quincy where she will receive the finishing touches and then be delivered to the Argentine government.

The big vessel steamed down as far as Boston light, Sunday and then turned her nose toward Hingham bay and the Fore river. For an hour or more she could be seen by people on the Quincy Point bridge slowly steaming up the river.

As she approached the bridge a great crowd of people were on both sides of the river waiting to se her pass through. Accompanying the battleship were half a dozen tugs which were used in pushing her nose around the bends of the river.

On her funnels were painted the figures 23.02 in large white letters indicating the best speed which she had made on her official trial trip, while at her mast head were two brooms and a small Christmas tree.

Just after two bells was sounded on the big battleship then off Town river word was given to clear the big drawbridge, and at 1.05 the draw began to open. At that time the battleship was almost parallel with the bridge, but she took a sharp turn with the assistance of the tugs and pointed toward the bridge.

After reaching the bridge pier, the monster came to a stop twice, until in proper position and then at 1.19 proudly steamed through the opening about five minutes being required. She did not so much as scrape the sides although but a few feet separated her from the bridge of the other side.

Outwardly she gave little appearance of having undergone a severe test during her gun trials, but was not spic and span and port holes were smashed. Had the people been allowed to go on board they would have seen the result of firing all of

(Continued on Page Six.)

SHAMOKIN COAL
RANGE
FREE BURNING
Like The
Shamokin of 20 years ago
C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

MEN'S MEETING AT KINCAIDES

Dramatic Recital of Black Rock by Mrs. Larsen

Kincaide's theatre was filled Sunday afternoon at the meeting for men held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Every seat in the auditorium was taken as were also many seats in the balcony. On the platform aside from the speaker and the soloists who assisted were Secretary Bromley of the Y. M. C. A. and the mens chorus of thirty or more voices. The meeting opened as usual with singing of gospel hymns following which came the scripture lesson and prayer.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Elizabeth Packard Larsen of St. Paul, Minn., who gave several dramatic recital from "Black Rock" or the "Miners' Guardian Angel" from Ralph connors great book.

The selections given bby Mrs. Larsen were "Mr. Craig, the sky pilot, or Christmas eve in a lumber camp," in which the supper around the round table was vividly pictured. Her second selection was the "Miners' Guardian Angel," being a story of Mrs. Mavor who came to camp with her husband who soon afterward was killed in the mine. Mrs. Mavor is an excellent singer, and this with her willingness to help the "Sky Pilot" make a telling story. After the baby came her husband could not drink liquor and kiss the baby, and this caused him to break off drinking. The story is a touching one and brings out the fact that within the rough exterior of the hardened miner there beats a kindly heart.

Her last selection was "The Great Four-Horse race." In this story Mrs. Mavor assists the Sky Pilot with her singing, the story closing with the singing of the "Holy City."

Not the least interesting part of the recital was the singing by Ruth Louise Hardy, with Pro. Albert M. Kanrich, violinist, and Edward Bullock, Jr., pianist. These served to bring out more vividly certain parts of the stories.

Prolonged clapping of hands followed the singing of the "Holy City" which closed the recital, and it was several minutes before Secretary Bromley could find an opportunity to make his closing remarks and prayer.

It was announced that the address at next Sunday afternoon's meeting would be by Rev. George C. Cady, who will be assisted by the Temple quartet.

An invitation was given to all to visit the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. on Washington street after the meeting and hear other readings by Mrs. Larsen and partake of the refreshments which were served and many accepted the invitation.

It might be added that the them of Sundays meeting was temperance, the stories of Mrs. Larsen bringing out vividly the evils of intemperance.

AUCTION SALE
I will sell at PUBLIC AUCTION
at 2 P. M.
Wednesday, March 18, 1914
Household Furniture
at residence 71 HAYWARD STREET, EAST BRAINTREE, consisting of Library book cases and books, oil paintings, pictures, art squares, carpets, Henry F. Miller square piano, tables, chairs, sideboard, desk, stoves, beds and bedding.
Sale rain or shine at 2 P. M. sharp. Weymouth Landing car from Quincy Depot get off at Hayward street.
I. JOSEPH, Auctioneer.
107 Pemberton Building,
Boston, Mass.
14-1w O 16-1t L

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, City Square
Tel. Quincy 1245 W. March 16-6t

DANCING
—AT—
ALPHA HALL
St. Patrick's Day Night
March 14-3t

10,000 to 15,000 Readers Daily

Quincy, Mass., March 16, 1914.

To the Merchants of Quincy and others:

This is to certify that over 2,000 copies of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER have been printed and circulated every issue since January 1, 1914; and averaged much higher, as many days 2,500 to 3,500 copies have been printed and circulated. This gives the Quincy Daily Ledger from 10,000 to 15,000 READERS EVERY DAY.

(Signed) FRANK F. PRESCOTT,
Managing Editor.

Then personally appeared before me this Sixteenth day of March, 1914, the said Frank F. Prescott, managing editor of the Quincy Daily Ledger, and made oath that the statements above are true.

(Notary) CLARENCE BURGIN,
(Seal) Notary Public.

A CHALLENGE.

The publishers of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER hereby challenge any other Quincy publication daily or weekly to take oath to the number of copies they print and circulate each and every issue; and call their attention to the law relative to fraudulent advertising when they make claims they cannot verify.

We invite the merchants to send a representative to the Ledger Office each afternoon to see the edition run off; to see how it is circulated and verify our statements, and we challenge other newspapers to do the same. We also ask the merchants to visit the newstands in Quincy and Boston, and see if the Ledger does not sell ten to one of any Quincy newspaper.

George W. Prescott Publishing Co.

Quincy, March 16, 1914.

BY COMPARISON.

If flyers distributed from house to house average one reader each, they do exceedingly well; but allowing this high average, 10,000 flyers would have LESS READERS than any one issue of the Quincy Daily Ledger. Have you thought of it in this light?

WE ALSO CLAIM

That no newspaper in Massachusetts does as much for the community in which it is printed and for the support that it receives from the local merchants, as the DAILY LEDGER, a newspaper which is alive, which is newsy, which has a record back of it of seventy-five years of clean journalism; a newspaper too self-respecting to enter the ranks of yellow journalism or use blackmail tactics to get business. If a corporation or merchant does not advertise in the Ledger he runs no risk of abuse in the editorial columns. If you see advertisements in other papers and not in the Ledger "there's a reason" but it is to the credit of the Ledger.

Ledger advertisements bring returns, but the newspaper cannot do it all, the merchants have got to stand back of their advertisement and deliver the goods. Their advertisement, same as their word, has got to mean something to the buying public.

Look at Quincy's largest and most successful merchant Henry L. Kincaide, another Robert E. Foy,—men who have always advertised, men who ask no favors, and meet their obligations promptly. A little of their broadness would do wonders for some of our merchants who think they do not need advertising; cannot afford to advertise, or are not advertising where they will get returns on their investment. In no way can the Quincy merchants get quicker or more substantial returns for a small outlay of money than by an advertisement in the DAILY LEDGER, yet they will spend 50, 35, or 25 cents an inch on advertising in papers that cannot back up their circulation claims. These same advertisements could be inserted in the Ledger for 25, 20 or 15 cents per inch with circulation guaranteed.

We have refrained from newspaper controversy heretofore believing the Ledger's record speaks for itself—a record of steady reliable growth from year to year; a paper with reliable people back of it—a paper well equipped to do business—a paper that meets its moral and financial obligations to the minute, need ask no favors of sheets that it does not even consider in the light of competitors. Their misinterpretation, and false statements are hardly worth noticing as they seem too much like a little dog trying to harry a St. Bernard and barking louder and louder when all its noise has no effect.

The DAILY LEDGER is working continually in season and out for the best interests of Quincy; to make the city prosper; to foster industries and encourage home trade; to build up our churches, the Y. M. C. A. and other institutions and organizations; to secure good government; to equalize taxation and keep the tax rate down; to secure city improvements, to foster civic pride and loyalty to Quincy.

Our Advertising Rates should be twice as high as at present for the circulation and service which the DAILY LEDGER is giving, but Local Merchants have not taken advantage of the opportunities which the DAILY LEDGER offers, and have wasted time and money through other channels with small returns Foreign advertisers find the Ledger a paying proposition and pay good rates for their advertising—but it is a much better one for local merchants. TRY IT AND SEE.

The Daily Ledger is considering seriously a one-cent paper with a view to still larger circulation and an enlarged field of operation. We have the equipment and the will to give the merchants a 5,000 DAILY CIRCULATION if they can support it. Cooperation is needed in this as well as other things which are for the good of the whole and not for individual or personal gain. Quincy merchants should pull together, but at the same time have individualism enough not to be coerced into helping out one or two of their number who wish to enlarge their business operations at the expense of the whole.

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING COMPANY.
Publishers of the
QUINCY DAILY LEDGER.

NEW ASSESSOR QUALIFIED TODAY

William L. Buckley Appointed to Succeed Gustave B. Bates

Lives in Ward Six and Is Teamster By Occupation

The suspense as to whom would be appointed as chairman of the Board of Assessors to succeed G. B. Bates, was relieved this morning when the Mayor announced that he had appointed William L. Buckley of Atlantic.. The apointment was made Saturday noon just before City Hall closed for the day, but the Mayor did not intend to make the apointment public until the announcement was sent to the City Council tonight. Even this morning the Mayor declined to give it out.

A few minutes later, however, Mr. Buckley walked in and qualified and the story was out as he was seen by a newspaper man to take the oath of office. The Mayor then released the appointment.

Mr. Buckley immediately entered upon the duties of the office, and will give it his undivided attention that he may be ready to enter on the field work the first of April.

William L. Buckley was born in Boston July 8, 1863. He received his early education in the public schools of Boston and after completing his education engaged in the general teaming business. Twenty-five years ago he purchased a residence in Squantum and for ten years made that his home. He then returned to Boston where he remained five years at the end of which time he purchased a residence in Atlantic and moved back to Quincy where he has since resided. He still owns the first estate he purchased at Squantum.

Since living in Quincy he has continued to carry on teaming business. He has always taken an active interest in affairs of the city, and his own ward, although he has never been a seeker after political office; and in this case the office sought the man.

Early in the year Mr. Buckley's name was prominently mentioned in connection with the office of Chief of Police. In regard to this office Mr. Buckley said this morning that he did not seek the office, but that the office of Chief was offered to him. At that time he had been informed that the present Chief was crooked and therefore he did not hesitate to accept the position. Later when he learned just what kind of a man Chief Burrell was, and how highly he was spoken of by all who knew him, he informed the Mayor that it was all off as far as he was concerned.

Mr. Buckley is a member of Robana lodge of Masons of Upham's Corner, and he is also a member of the Men's club of the Atlantic Memorial church, the Ward Six Improvement society and the Patriotic association of Ward Six and for the past two years has been chief marshal of the July Fourth morning parade at Atlantic.

MORNING ALARM.

The alarm from Box 155 at 9.54 this morning was for a slight fire on the roof of the C. F. Bates soap factory on Norton street, Wollaston, and was caused by sparks from the chimney setting fire to the shingles. A square hole was burnt on the roof entailing a damage of not over $15. The fire was extinguished with a chemical stream.

BRAINTREE FIRE.

The alarm from Box 25 at East Braintree this afternoon was for a slight fire in Charles Jordan's house. The recall sounded in a few minutes. The alarm was plainly heard in Quincy.

DISTRICT COURT.

Henry Carlson was sentenced to one month in the house of correction for drunkenness at Quincy. Sentence suspended.

Bacinn Cinuenno was arraigned for a serious assault at Quincy and was held in $500 for the grand jury.

A large new block to include a store restaurant and billiard and pool room is contemplated to be erected on the corner of Hancock and Carruth streets opposite the car barns.

AT THE FOY STORES
THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760
THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117
LENTEN OFFERINGS
We have a large assortment of the Finest Fish that's canned. Not only do we guarantee the quality to be the best, but we assure you that every single can is FRESH—without exception, of the latest pack. Let us have your order, please.
CANNED SALMON
Columbia River Pink Salmon 10c — 3 Cans 25c
Arctic Red SALMON 15c (In Tall Cans)
SELECTED SALMON STEAK
The Choicest Parts of the Choicest Fish
15c can and Fancy Red 22c can
CANNED CRAB MEAT From Japan 25c can large can 40c
TUNA FISH (Chicken of the Ocean) large can 23c
REAL BOSTON CODFISH BALLS all Prepared—new 25c can
"CRISFIELD" FRESH OYSTERS 25c pt Solid Packed in Sealed Cartons
R. E. FOY & COMPANY
March 16-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1869

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

It is believed there would be a better attendance in Congress if the ball scores could be announced by innings.

Mr. Roosevelt is returning safe and sound from the wild beasts of the Argentine to encounter the peril of public dinners at home.

So much soiled linen has been washed in the New York graft investigation, that many prominent patriots have to go to bed for lack of anything to wear.

All the popular brands of perfumery will soon be supplied by the spring bonfires in the back lots.

Some of the spring hats don't seem to be very practical, but eventually they will work in as covers for the ash barrel.

There is a good deal of criticism of the high prices paid to the college baseball coaches, but one must remember that liberal culture costs high.

EVERY ONE TAKE HOLD.

There is always one subject on which every one agrees. That is the desirability of "boosting the town." Movements of this kind always encounter the difficulty that many business men won't give time to them. Not merely that, but often they stand off and criticise those who are doing their best to push.

No town can go ahead far or fast where many people take that attitude Also it is absolutely necessary for business men to be willing to give time to serve on committees and hold office in organizations formed to promote the collective interest.

Too often efforts of this kind fail because they are left for a few to carry on. It mistakes are made, it is usually because a few have been left to shoulder the responsibility.

The growth of a town brings big dividends to all who own any property or any business there. If every business man would give a small fraction of his time to carrying on work for town advancement, there would result an uplift that would pay better dividends than can be earned in most callings.

CLOTHES AND THE TAX.

A clerk in the Chicago internal revenus office remarked, on the day that the last income tax returns were brought in, that as a general thing, the shabbier clothes people wore, the bigger a return they handed in. Perhaps he exaggerated. Yet men came in who did not look as if they could sign a check for three figures yet, they showed up property worth millions.

This converse relation of clothes and prosperity is noticed in all stages of society. Savings banks officials, particularly those dealing with recent immigrants, bear similar testimony. A Pole or Hungarian creeps humbly into the bank, as if he doubted his right to stand on its marble slabs in the presence of free born and lordly Americans. An inexperienced clerk might feel like setting a dog on him as a tramp.

Lo and behold, he pulls out a greasy but protruding wallet, and begins to count out the fives and tens, all soiled and redolent of long repose in his perspiring pocket. When the "wad" is complete, it is several times as much as the fashion plate five o'clock tea clerk behind the counter could produce.

In business life good clothes are the badge of hope and ambition. A well creased pair of trousers gives a man a sense of confidence that he thinks religion can scarce bestow. Well fitting and cared for clothes suggest both past success and habits of attention to detail that cannot fail to impress a stranger favorably.

Once the big golden goal of wealth is reached, the character often tends to soften. A man rises later in the morning and abates his habits of industry. Also the minor amenities of life may begin to look formidable. Brushing off dust and polishing boots and scrupulous cleanliness may seem like an effort. Man is at his best in many ways in his days of struggles and toil.

ASKS PEOPLE FOR "JUSTICE"

Thaw Urges Pressure on New York Legislators

IS NOT SEEKING SYMPATHY

Think He Has Suffered Enough For Crime Committed When Sorrow Wrecked His Home—Wants to Comfort Mother Whose Declining Years Are Spent In Grief

Concord, N. H., March 16.—Harry K. Thaw has addressed to the people of the state of New York, in whose name is being conducted the contest to return the slayer of Stanford White to the New York asylum for criminal insane, an appeal to end the case against him.

The statement of the case was telegraphed by Thaw to newspapers and press associations, calling attention to resolutions which have been introduced in the New York assembly by John L. Golden, demanding that the prosecution be terminated.

Reviewing his two trials, Thaw set forth that of the twenty-six men confined with him in the Tombs in 1906 charged with homicide, twenty-three are free today, and other men have escaped from Matteawan without being pursued. The statement concluded as follows:

"I do not ask for sympathy, but only justice, which should be the inherent right of every man. For the deed committed, I ask no benevolence. It was done in a moment when sorrow wrecked my home, and when I was forced to realize that the happiness of a lifetime, which after marriage should have been mine, was taken from me.

"The deed was committed; my family, those near and dear to me, publicly exposed to the closest scrutiny, my mother plunged into grief, and myself into a living death, the tortures of which I do not wish to relate.

"I am now a man, my youth passed, my resource impaired. My parents' charities have been extensive I myself have assisted many in need. The future holds for me an opportunity to bring some peace and happiness to my aged mother, who in those eight years has known none, and who has spent her declining years in untold sorrow.

"My adversary now seeks to place me in Matteawan—a living hell—there to spend the rest of my life, never again to take my place in my mother's home in her remaining years; and in respectful confidence, I now appeals to the citizens of New York, in the power of their sovereignty, to stop the prosecution, and therefore ask that all people who believe that I have suffered years of punishment commensurate with my deed, write the representatives of their own district at Albany before next Wednesday, to support and vote for these resolutions."

BISHOP SCARBOROUGH DEAD

Aged Prelate Was Long the Head of New Jersey Diocese

Trenton, March 16.—John Scarborough, 83, bishop of the New Jersey diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church since 1875, and one of the foremost leaders in his church, died from pleuro-pneumonia.

All the members of the bishop's family were at the bedside when he died.

Scarborough was quite active for his years. During the blizzard of two weeks ago he became stormbound while making a visit to a church in his diocese. He contracted a severe cold and was prostrated with pneumonia.

Scarborough was born in Ireland and was brought to this country in his early childhood.

CALLS JURORS "DARLINGS"

Ida Von Claussen Ruled Competent to Manage Her Estate

New York, March 16.—Mrs. Ida von Claussen, twice adjudged insane and committed to an asylum, was adjudged competent to manage her estate, by a sheriff's jury.

"Oh, you darlings, you darlings!" she said to the jurors, just after the verdict was announced. Then she shook each juror's hand.

Mrs. von Claussen was taken back to Matteawan, where she has been since January. Her attorney will immediately ask for a writ of habeas corpus.

Fatally Hurt by Electricity

Worcester, Mass., March 16.—Hurled into a perpendicular boiler at the plant of the Worcester Pressed Steel company by an electric shock Charles Longbottom, 48 years old, had his right hand and left heel burned off. He is dying.

City of Portland Sued For $100,000

Portland, Me., March 16.—A suit against the city of Portland was begun when John C. Tierney of Montclair, N. J., asked for $100,000 for laying a pipe line in the Portland water district.

Another Aviation Victim

Konigsberg, Ger., March 16.—Lieutenant Leffer of the imperial aviation corps was killed here while making a flight. He is the 376th victim of aviation.

WALTER H. PAGE

Congress Demands Copy of His Speech Made in England

Photo by American Press Association.

CRITICISM OF PAGE

Chamberlain Would Recall Ambassador or Seal His Lips

Washington, March 16.—Severe criticism of Ambassador Page's remarks on the Panama canal tolls and the Monroe doctrine continues to be heard in official circles.

Leading in the criticism of the ambassador is Senator Chamberlain, who introduced the resolution calling for the full text of Page's remarks. In a formal statement by the senator, he says:

"Some means ought to be found by the powers that be to seal the lips of the ambassador to Great Britain, or else, in justice to the American people, he ought to be recalled, and that as promptly as possible."

SMASHED WINDOWS IN M'KENNA'S HOME

Two Months at Hard Labor In Prison For Suffragettes

London, March 16.—Two months in prison at hard labor was the punishment imposed on six militant suffragettes who smashed all the windows on the street floor of Home Secretary McKenna's home.

The women, armed with long-handled hammers, raided the McKenna house and shattered the panes of every window they could reach. They made no attempt to run away and calmly submitted to arrest. The six received one of the quickest trials that has marked the government's efforts to check the suffragettes' campaign of militancy.

DEAD AT THE WHEEL

Boston Jurist Expires While Operating His Automobile

Boston, March 16.—Judge Louis M. Clark, former Harvard athlete and jurist, yachtsman and politician, died of heart failure while operating his automobile on Beacon street last night.

The strange course of the automobile, which zigzagged along apparently without control, attracted the attention of Dr. W. P. Cross, who stopped his own car, and, running after the other, jumped on the running board, to find Clark dead at the wheel. Cross stopped the machine and notified Medical Examiner Magrath.

Magrath declared death was due to natural causes. Clark was 54 years old and lived in Brookline.

RAINEY'S AMBITION

Would Succeed Clark as Speaker of the National House

Chicago, March 16.—Henry T. Rainey, representative in congress from the Twentieth Illinois district, is considering becoming a candidate for speaker of the national house of representatives, according to an announcement made here.

The announcement came from the camp of the anti-Sullivan candidates for the Democratic nomination for United States senator and was given as a reason for Rainey's refusal to become a candidate for senator against Sullivan.

WESTINGHOUSE HONORED

Hundred Thousand Persons Stop Work During Funeral of Inventor

New York, March 16.—A hundred thousand men and women dropped their tasks as a tribute to George Westinghouse, whose genius gave them the means of livelihood. The great inventor was buried here while machinery stood idle in a dozen factories in America and Europe.

The funeral services were held at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church and the burial was at Woodlawn cemetery in the Bronx.

Diggs Pleads Not Guilty

San Francisco, March 16.—Maury I. Diggs, former state architect, already under conviction of white slavery in connection with an elopement from Sacramento to Reno, pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault made against him by Ida Pearring, who swears she is only 17 years old.

SYNDICATE BUYS SIEGEL STORE

Employes of Boston Concern Will Not Lose Positions

A TRANSFER OF BUSINESS

Bacon Company Celebrates Its Centennial by Taking Over Assets of Big Mercantile House—Stirring Scenes as Siegel Stores In New York Are Closed by Receivers

Boston, March 16.—The Henry Siegel store was opened today under the ownership of one of the oldest merchandise firms in New England, W. & A. Bacon of Roxbury, who bought out the Siegel stock and business.

On Jan. 13 last the Bacon store was burned out. It was practically upon the centennial of the founding of the house. Now this concern has bought this downtown location and resumed business in the huge Siegel building.

By a purchase ratified before James M. Olmstead, referee in bankruptcy, a syndicate took over the assets of the Siegel store and will continue the business under the firm name of W. & A. Bacon company.

The announcement brought happiness to more than 800 employes of the Siegel concern, who had expected that the doors of the big building would be closed finally Saturday night. Representatives of the buyers said the organization would be retained much as at present.

To all intents and purposes, the new corporation represents a transfer of the business of the long established firm familiarly known as "Bacon's" from the Roxbury section to the shopping district.

As reorganized for its new departure in the retail field, the corporation will have as its president Augustus Bacon, as its vice president and general manager Fred A. Kerry and as its treasurer Horace Bacon. Associated with them in the conduct of the business will be John T. Connor, Bernard M. Wolf, William Bacon and Joseph A. Butler.

The terms upon which the purchase was concluded are: Fifty-one percent of the net cost price, a bonus of $1000 and $30,000 for other assets exclusive of accounts receivable, cash on hand and real estate.

By the terms of the agreement the Siegel business was taken over as a going concern, and this was made possible by the action of the Filene Tunnel Bargain Basement in withdrawing its bid of 51 percent on the net cost price, the best offer which the trustees had received.

New York Stores Closed

New York, March 16.—The Fourteenth street store and that of the Simpson-Crawford company, properties of Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel, closed their doors Saturday night by order of the federal court in response to a petition by receivers and creditors.

But for the assistance promised by other department stores and by charity workers and employment agencies, 2500 men, women and children would have been thrown out of work. Most of these have been promised jobs, however, and the others, it is expected, will find places before another week is out.

Aisles crowded with patrons seeking last hour bargains, the arrest of a few shoplifters, the appearance of organizers of the Industrial Workers of the World, the reported presence of agents of questionable employment bureaus offering girls work, and the hysterical weeping of women who had lost their savings in the Siegel bank, were incidents that attended the closing of the stores.

Printed lists of reputable employment agencies and respectable boarding houses were distributed among the women and girls by social workers, who had been informed of a report that white slave agents were mingling with the discharged workers.

Speechmaking by I. W. W. workers was stopped by the police. Several men who attempted to make street corner addresses to the departing employes advised them to steal bread if they got no opportunity to earn it.

FOOD SUPPLY EXHAUSTED

Hundreds of Men Turned Away From Boston's Free Soup Kitchen

Boston, March 16.—Nearly 1000 unemployed men besieged the free soup kitchen in Avery street last night. It was the largest number of applicants the kitchen has had.

Only 595 men could be fed. Nearly 500 more went away. There was no complaint. There was not even comment. The disappointed applicants simply left—silent and orderly, as they had come.

Five Years In Prison For Elliott

Lewes, Eng., March 16.—A sentence of five years' penal servitude was pronounced on John L. Elliott of New York. He was found guilty of flagrant breaches of the law. His two daughters were the complaining witnesses.

Taft Won't Be College Head

Wilmington, Del., March 16.—Former President William H. Taft has declined an offer to become president of Delaware college, which position was offered him at a salary of $5000.

THE WORLD OF SOCIETY.

Society will witness the most royal skating fete ever given in Boston on the evening of March 24, when a Mother Goose pageant "on skates" with over 150 young members of the Boston skating club, and socially well known skaters from Brookline, Winchester and elsewhere, in costumes, will carry through a pantomine performance in a bowered and enthroned sunken garden at the Boston arena.

The pageant is given as a benefit for the South End day nursery by the auxiliary of that society. The arena will blaze with lights.

At one end the King and Queen of Hearts, stepping out of the great book opened by Tweedle Dum and Tweedle Dee, will sit upon a great throne. Of course, Mother Goose comes forth first to greet all those who will follow the king and queen.

The skating, of course, will be typical. The 150 society girls and youths represent the flower of Boston's skating contingent.

The pageant is being arranged by Mrs. Stanley P. Clemens, of the Hotel Westminister, president of the auxiliary.

A number of boys from the Noble school will take part, and skating members of the Brae-Burn club will also be among the actors. A host of prominent society enthusiasts in the new international movements will be there, each in costume, each carrying out his or her part in what promises to be the most interesting extravaganza on the ice ever given here.

Among the patronesses are to be found all of Boston"s best known women.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

The Old Time Custom of "Plowing at the Horse's Tail."

Animals seem to have no idea of exercising to keep warm. They just turn their backs to the wind and crouch, but perhaps if one had only a limited amount of fuel it would be better just to keep a spark alive till the snap was over than to burn it all out in a few hours.

The first legislation against cruelty to animals is said to have been an enactment passed in the days of Queen Elizabeth prohibiting "plowing at the horse's tail," as then practiced in Ireland.

This custom consisted in lashing the plow beam to the horse's tail with a bit of rope and then, while one man held the plow, another walked backward before the animal, guiding it with blows of a stick. It seems as though this plan must have cocked the plow so high into the air that the point could take no hold on the soil. It seems also as if only the most spiritless of equines would have submitted to the treatment, but that it was frequently done the act against it proves the cruelty of the practice needs no demonstration; it could not have been profitable, but was perhaps preferable to starvation. Whether the English legislators were moved solely by pity of the miserable beast or whether they desired to make a market for English blows and harness does not appear.—From "A Farmer's Notebook," by C. E. D. Phelps.

Real Thrift In Derbyshire.

An admirable thrift prevails at a certain Sunday school in Derbyshire, and this is effectually demonstrated at the annual tea party. The needless expense of printing new tickets for this festivity is avoided, says the Manchester Guardian, by the simple expedient of using the same year after year. Those at present employed bear the inscription:

Queen Victoria: Diamond Jubilee.
Admit one to tea.

Probably the majority of the young revelers had not been born when the tickets were printed.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

MRS. W. W. LAKE

Tells Others How to Get Strong and Well.

Mrs. W. W. Lake of Aberdeen, Miss., says: "The grippe had left me in a weak, run-down condition from which I suffered for some time. I tried different remedies but nothing seemed to do me any good until I took Vinol, from which I received great benefit. My cough is almost entirely gone and I am strong and well again, and I am glad to recommend Vinol to others who suffer as I did."

Mrs. Lake's recovery was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements extracted from cods' livers—combined with the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron, which are contained in Vinol, and her cough disappeared as a natural result.

We guarantee that Vinol will do all we claim and will pay back your money if Vinol does not satisfy you. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

QUINCY SAVINGS BANK

The Annual Meeting of the members of the Quincy Savings Bank Corporation, for the election of Trustees, and any other business that may legally come before them, will be held on

TUESDAY, APRIL 14, 1914,

at 4.30 o'clock P. M. at the Banking Rooms, 1374 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

GEORGE E. ADAMS, Clerk.
9-6t Mon.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

WHY THIS BANK IS LIKE A GOOD STORE

A successful store-keeper is liberal with his customers—his clerks are courteous and ready to oblige—he gives his trade good service. This bank like the merchant wants business, and to get and hold business it offers prompt and painstaking service. Perhaps you will be surprised to find out how many things we do for our depositors—come in and let us tell you about our services.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-1o-tf

ANOTHER AUTOMOBILE NUMBER

Devoted to Auto Trucks

Will be Issued by

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Tuesday, March 17

Large spaces have already been taken by Manufacturers

March 14-2t

Advertise in the Ledger

Among Our Churches

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

Large audiences greeted Rev. B. A. Willmott on Sunday at Bethany church especially in the evening when there were nearly 700 present. "The new commandment" was the morning topic, and in the evening the "Principles of Protestantism, or the Protestant and his Bible." The musical program of the evening included a quartet number by Miss Sabean, Miss England, Miss Williams and Miss Parker.

Each Wednesday afternoon during Lent the pastor will give lectures at different houses on the teachings of Jesus. The theme this week Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. William Alden, Chestnut street, will be "The new revelation of God."

Thursday, the Junior Christian Endeavor will meet at 4.10. At 6 o'clock the public is invited to a church supper, to be followed at 7.45 with the mid week meeting.

Rev. A. L. Hudson of the First Parish church will preach at this church next Sunday in exchange with the pastor.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Rev. Father Bustin, one of three Catholic priests doing missionary work among the colored people of the south, preached at all the masses at St. John's church Sunday. Father Bustin has devoted many years to the work and gave an interesting resume of the growth of Catholicism among them in the past few years.

Because of his close association with the colored race Father Bustin could explain conditions as they exist. He said that there were over 800,000 colored Catholics in the south and spoke of one town in Alabama where a colored mammy bordering now on the nineties had publicly recited the rosary daily for fifty years and that in that time there had been no infractions of the law committed and that the place was unknown in police annals.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

Rev. Fr. John J. Ryan, P. R., of Cambridge, chaplain general of the Hibernians, addressed members of the divisions and auxiliaries from Randolph, Braintree, Atlantic and West Quincy in St. Mary's church on Sunday evening on "Ireland and her famous missionh." The attendance wa svery large. Music was by the regular choir with Miss Nora Reardon and Miss Celina Beliveau as soloists. Rev.. Fr William J. Duffy celebrated the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Father Ryan's eloquent address consumed a good half hour. He dwelt mainly with the religious history of the Emerald isle, which was the centre of learning and culture in the Middle Ages and the home of the only race in the world that has a saint for its hero, St. Patrick.

Father Ryan spoke of the founding of the first mission at Iona by St. Columbkill, established to bring about the conversion of Pagans. He gave a description of the place as related in the manuscripts of the time and the life of those people who had dedicated their life to God.

His reference to the disciples of St. Columbkill, St. Columbus, St. Gall and St. Malachi contained short sketches of the land wherein they labored and of their achievements, of the founding of seminaries and monasteries as they went throughout the country, and how 156 missionaries left Iona on the missions of preaching the faith, 26 of whom were martyred in Germany, 6 in Gaul, 30 in Belgium, 13 in Italy and 8 in Norway and Scotland.

Their founding of monasteries that became cultural spots in the world included 13 in Scotland, 12 in England, 7 in France, 11 in America, 7 in Lorraine, 110 in Alsatia, 16 in Bavaria, 11 in Rhetia, Helvetia and Albania, many along the banks of the Rhine, 6 in Italy all the result of Irish monks.

Father Ryan went on to show the glorious work and steadfast faith of the Irish and in closing asked them to remain strong in their faith in the future, having behind them, the faith of a glorious people, whose missions were the first of Christendom.

The members of the Hibernians of West Quincy observed Hibernian Sunday by going to communion in a body at the eight o'clock mass.

SWEDISH BAPTIST.

At the mid week meeting on Thursday evening at 7.30, there will be a short sermon by the pastor followed by prayer meeting.

The Sunday school will have a rally on Friday evening. Teachers and children are especially requested to be present.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

Throughout the country, Sunday was observed by the Baptist churches as Denominational day, a time set apart for special thanksgiving to God for the blessings bestowed upon the denomination during the past. Rev. Joseph Walther, pastor, chose for his morning subject "What Baptists stand for," and no one of the large audience, no matter how many years connected with the church, could fail to agree with the facts given. There, were nine principal thoughts. The Baptists stand for:

1. A regenerate church membership.
2. The divinity and Diety of Jesus Christ.
3. The literal second coming of Jesus Christ.
4. Local independence of the church.
5. World wide missions.
6. Separation of the church and state.
7. Exaltation and inspiration of the Bible.
8. Redemption of man through surrender to Christ.
9. Individual right of every man to approach God without any intermediary.

In conclusion, Mr. Walther said the question was now rising as to whether the purpose of the denominations were not accomplished, and if now some doctrinal differences might not be laid aside and a united church be the result. Mr. Walther feels that while there are still some denominations which cling to certain beliefs exactly contrary to those of others, the time has not yet come for uniting.

The other services of the day were well attended especially the Junior C. E. meeting, when Mrs. Kendall F. Harriman spoke to the children, subject "To be strong we must be Temperate." At the Song Service at 7, the pastor continued his sermon of a week ago "When is a man's heart not right?"

Friday evening, the Y.P. S. C. E. attend and conduct the meeting at the Merrimac Mission, Stanford street, Boston. The party leaves on the 7.18 train from Wollaston.

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

"Jesus, the immeasurable man" was the theme of the morning sermon by the pastor Rev. G. M. Bailey and the evening message following the song service, and a solo by Miss Marguerite L. Holbrook, was from Solomon 2:15. "The little foxes that spoil the vines."

The speaker mentioned many little things in our lives which are usually considered only trifles and of small importance which should be guarded against if we would have our lives and characters of the highest and noblest type.

The Ladies Aid Society will have a social in the vestry on Monday evening, when the holiday dime cards will be brought in. The entertainment will be appropriate for St. Patrick's day.

The choir will give "Ye olde folkes concert" on the last day of the month.

The prayer meeting on Thursday evening will be a union service with the Baptist Congregational and Unitarian churches. Rev. Joseph Walther will be the leader.

Next Sunday morning Rev. Wm. B. Ayers, pastor of the Park and Downs Congregational church, will occupy this pulpit and Rev. Bailey will preach in the Unitarian church.

PARK AND DOWNS.

At the Park and Downs Church Sunday morning the pastor Rev. Wm. A. Ayers gave a very learned discourse on the evidences and symbolisms of God in the world, from the days of chaos to the present days of progress and activity. His evening sermon was on "Self confidence." If men are to accomplish great things they must believe in themselves. But it is very difficult to believe the best for oneself. There is a world wide informal conspiracy against the man with faith in self.

Let a man rise up who thinks in his heart that he can do things and humanity gathers around and with loud voice and violent gesticulation tries to convince him he is wrong. And not one man in thousands can withstand this leveling influence. If we cant keep faith in self we must fall back on somebody else's thought concerning us. No man will consent to fail so long as he keeps his faith in somebody who believes in him.

Before you can call out the divine in men you must compel them to see that it is there. Some men fall back upon their mother's vision. The mother's hopes for her boy; let a man feel them hourly and what unscaled heights are his. Once convinced that his mother is right, he will trust her confidence in him. But men often lose faith in the judgment of others concerning them. Then they must appeal to a higher court than that of men's mind.

And that is where Jesus comes in. He came to give men confidence in themselves to show that the life of the most obscure mortal is capable of being joined to the divine, becoming thereby limitless in its possibilities.

The midweek prayer service at this church is attracting each Thursday evening a great many who find them interesting and exceedingly helpful.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The music by the Girls' choir and the soloist, the selections from the psalms for responsive reading, the beautiful hymns which most appropriately expressed in song the thought of the morning's sermon—all had their share in making the hour of worship Sunday morning helpful and refreshing to mind and heart. Rev. Mr. Horst's sermon was from the text "By their fruits ye shall know them. Not everyone that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of the Father." Matthew 7: 20-21.

In the evening Rev. Julian C. Jaynes of West Newton preached in his usual helpful manner.

Rev. Carl G. Horst will conduct the devotional service at the Tuckerman School in Boston Tuesday morning. This is a school for the training of Sunday School superintendents and teachers, parish assistants and visitors, managers of church charities and superintendents of clubs for boys and girls.

Tuesday afternoon Rev. Mr. Horst will give an address at the Women's Alliance of Channing church, Dorchester.

The Baptist, Congregational, Methodist and Unitarian churches in Wollaston unite in a union prayer meeting in the Methodist church, Thursday March 19, at 7.45 o'clock.

The Rev. George M. Bailey, pastor of the Wollaston Methodist church will occupy our pulpit next Sunday morning.

Next Sunday evening, March 22, at 7.30 o'clock, the Rev. James DeNormandie, D. D., of Boston, will preach at the special Lenten service.

The Unitarian ministers of New England will hold their annual "Quiet day" in the First Unitarian church in Lynn, Tuesday, April 28.

A dinner in honor of Prof. C. H. Toy of Harvard University will be given by the Boston Unitarian ministers, Monday, March 23, at the Twentieth Century Club.

The Unitarian Sunday School Union of Greater Boston meets in the First Unitarian church, Somerville, this evening. Supper at 6. Rev. A. M. Ribbany will give the address on "The Oriental understanding of the Bible."

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

The cause of the Congregational Church Union of Boston and vicinity was ably presented Sunday morning by Henry T. Richardson of Brookline. The organization has been in existence about 17 years and seeks to do a two-fold work. The problem is the down-town church of the city and on the other hand the growing suburb. The union seeks to aid in this two-fold problem within a radius of 15 miles from the State House. Mr. Richardson showed that in these seventeen years the union has aided thirty-two churches to the amount of $77,-500. He showed how new opportunities are arising and referred to the new church projected in Squantum and the needs of the Finnish church in this city.

At 4 o'clock Mrs. Helen T. Rice, Massachusetts State Secretary of the Loyal Temperance Legion gave a very helpful talk to the Junior Endeavor Society, Miss Madeline Morse, presiding.

At 6 o'clock the Y. P. S. C. E., held a memory meeting, Mrs. E. S. Tenney having it in charge. Mrs. M. K. Embleton sang very effectively.

At 7 o'clock, Sunday evening, Dr. Sneath presented an illustrated lecture upon "Remote places in the Philippines." Special emphasis was placed upon what our churches and our country are doing for the native population of the islands.

Wednesday evening the monthly social will be held in the church. The supper will be served at 6.30, after which Mrs. S. A. Gardner will give an illustrated lecture on "Life in St. Petersburg." There will also be vocal and instrumental music and the Clover Class will have a table of candies and Easter cards for sale.

Thursday evening this church will unite in a union service of the churches of this vicinity to be held in the Methodist church. It is a preparatory meeting to the exchange of pastors which is to be held on next Sunday in Quincy. In this exchange Dr. Sneath will go to the Presbyterian church in South Quincy and Rev. Mr. Matheson will preach in this church.

An Alphabet Tea will be held on Friday at 2.30 P. M. at the home of Mrs. Charles E. Hathaway, 222 Beale street to which all ladies are invited.

Rehearsals for the Easter cantata will begin Saturday evening, March 21 at 7.30 in the church and a large chorus is planned for.

The building committee of the new parish house which is to cost $25,000 consists of Charles A. Campbell, Charles P. Hutchins, Edward S. Tenney, Abner L. Baker and Henry C. Smalley.

BRAINTREE

The Rev. Albert P. Watson of the Union Congregational church has installed a telephone in his home on Cedarcliff road.

The Osceola Social club held their regular meeting at their club rooms on Commercial street Thursday evening. Plans were laid for a six-mile road race to take place April 19.

Mrs. Carrie I. Loring will open her residence on Front street the first of April. She will spend the summer there with her mother Mrs. Eliza B. Ludden.

At the regular meeting of Mayflower lodge No. 44 Workmen's Benefit Association held in G. A. R. hall on Thursday evening, a South Braintree-Boston ticket book was donated to Samuel McCormick of West Quincy.

Next Thursday evening the Massachusetts Division Sons of Veterans Auxiliary will hold a class initiation at Faneuil hall. All members of the G. A. R. and S. of V. are invited to attend.

Wednesday evening, the second annual banquet of the Jurors of Norfolk County of the January sitting 1913 was held in the United States hotel, Boston. There were twenty members present and arrangements were made for the reunion next year. Among the guests present were Frank A. MacDonald and Marion C. Gillette of Hancock street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Allen of Bowditch street received a few days' visit last week from their oldest son Ernest who had just returned from a pleasant trip to Italy with his father-in-law. Ernest Allen returned to his home in Chicago Friday taking his mother with him for a short visit. Mr. and Mrs. Allen have two sons in Chicago.

—After a heavy snow fall, the house-holders may serve his own selfish interests by clearing the snow away from the fire hydrant in front of his house, without waiting for the city men to come and do the job.—Somerville Journal.

—The Boston high school teacher who says that boys are at their best at 10 A. M. has an imperfect knowledge of boys. Boys are at their best about one minute before dinner.

CURB FOR MONOPOLY

Interstate Trade Commission Act Is Given to the Public

Washington, March 16.—The interstate trade commission bill, bearing the approval of President Wilson and Attorney General McReynolds, was made public, following many conferences among the members of the house interstate commerce committee.

The bill would transfer all the powers and duties of the bureau of corporations and the commissioner of corporations to the proposed commission of three members, presidential appointees subject to confirmation, whose salaries would be $10,000 annually each. Only two of the commissioners could be from the same political party. The bill makes no mention of the commissioner of corporations. It makes the fixed tenure of the commissioners six years and the commission would choose its own chairman.

The bill defines as corporations all bodies incorporated under the law and joint stock associations and all other associations having shares of capital or other capital stock or organized to carry on business for profit.

MISS WILSON'S SUNDAY

President Overshadowed at Church by Interest In His Daughter

Washington, March 16.—Miss Eleanor R. Wilson went to the Central Presbyterian church with the president and her sister, Miss Margaret Wilson, yesterday, and, for the first time since he became president, Mr. Wilson found himself of secondary importance as a person of public interest.

Strangers and regular attendants at the church looked past him and all interest centred on Miss Eleanor Wilson.

The trip to church, a run in one of the White House automobiles, a walk in the south garden of the White House with her fiance, and a family dinner, completed the first Sunday of Miss Eleanor Wilson's career as a bride-elect.

TIDAL WAVE KILLS OVER A THOUSAND

Russian Towns Are Flooded During a Hurricane

Ekaterinodar, Russia, March 16.—Over 1000 persons perished in the inundation of the towns of Stanitza and Achtyrskaja by a tidal wave from the Sea of Azov. The wave struck the town during a violent hurricane which swept the province of Kuban.

Over 150 persons also were drowned in floods in Yasenkaja.

A dam collapsed in the town of Temryuk, situated on the Tamar peninsula, ninety-eight miles northwest of this city, flooding the greater part of the city and drowning many persons.

The sea washed away 380 buildings in Achtyrskaja.

SPECIAL RATE REPEALED

Seeds, Roots, Cions and Plants May Go by Parcel Post

Washington, March 16.—Extension of the parcel post rates to seeds, cuttings, roots, cions and various kinds of plants became effective as the result of an order issued by Postmaster General Burleson.

The order puts into effect the recent act of congress, which repeals the present rate of postage heretofore chargeable on seeds, plants etc., and makes the regular parce post rates of postage applicable to parcels of such articles.

Want Finding Set Aside

Portsmouth, N. H., March 16.—The relaties of Miss Sarah J. Farmer, the founder of Green Acre, have begun legal proceedings in an endeavor to reverse the recent decision in the probate court finding Miss Farmer sane.

Severe Earthquake In Japan

Tokio, March 16.—A serious earthquake killed a number of persons in the city of Akita and many houses were destroyed or damaged. In the village of Kowakubi, which was ruined, there were many casualties.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Four buildings at Frenchville, Me., including the postoffice, customs office, Penrett's hotel and stable and a general store, were burned. The loss is $18,000.

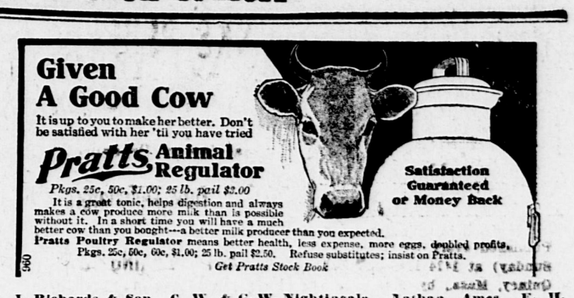
Two Philadelphia boys were seriously injured when they threw a box of dynamite caps, which they found in the rear of a gun factory, into a bonfire.

The Fitchburg National bank and the Fitchburg Safe Deposit and Trust company, two of the largest banking institutions in Fitchburg, Mass., have consolidated.

Mrs. Corinne S. Brown, a widely known Socialist and suffragist, died at her home in New York from pneumonia.

Rev. Kenneth MacKay, for twenty-five years pastor of the Presbyterian church at Houlton, Me., died at the age of 68.

Articles of incorporation for the equal suffrage party of Georgia are asked in a petition filed in the superior court at Atlanta.



A. J. Richards & Son, C. W. & G. W. Nightingale, Nathan Ames, E. H. Doble & Co., and Grain Dealers and General Stores everywhere. 4-1-3m

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER

Private Residences. Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy

Feb. 10-tf

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

The Old Colony Gas Co. of Weymouth and Braintree reports an output of 41,563,000 cubic feet for the first eight months of the fiscal year as compared with 28,637,000 cubic feet for a corresponding period last year.

The Norfolk Interscholastic League, comprising the high schools of Canton, Foxboro, Medfield, Sharon, Stoughton and Walpole, will hold its annual track meet, Saturday, May 22.

John Dahl, a lineman of the Randolph & Holbrook company fell across a live wire while at work on a pole Friday and received a current of 1100 volts. He was unconscious when taken down by fellow workmen but soon recovered.

There are clams and clams but those dug at Plymouth last week by Howard Douglas and Russell Harlow carry off the cake. Eight of the bivalves taken at random from the three buckets dug tipped the scales at 11 pounds, and one monster weighed a pound and a quarter enough in itself for a chowder.

There were 281 arrests in Dedham in 1913, of which number 273 were males and eight females. The residents numbered 161 and the non-residents, 120. The number of arrests for drunkenness was 103.

The school committee of Whitman are having a hard time to find a man for sub-master of the High school.

The Weymouth Board of Trade has appointed Martin E. Hawes, Charles L. Abbott and Russell B. Worster as a committee to consider the subject of a July Fourth celebration this year. The Board of Trade is also considering the subject of electric illuminated signs to advertise the town as a good place to live and do business in.

The newly elected board of selectmen of Plymouth have organized with William T. Eldridge as chairman.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—the staff of life for you and your wife. Get a loaf today.

FREE LONDON "TANGO" NECKLACE "EVELYN THAW" BRACELET

These two beautiful pieces of popular jewelry are the craze among society women in New York and the largest cities. They are neat and elegant gold finished articles that will gladden the heart of every girl or woman, no matter how young or old. Very stylish and attractive.

Our Free Offer. We are advertising Spearmint Chewing Gum and desire to place a big box of this fine, healthful gum into every home. It sweetens the breath—whitens the teeth and aids digestion. It is refreshing and pleasing to all. To every lady sending us but 50c we will ship a big box of 20 regular 5c packages of the Spearmint Gum and include the elegant "Tango" necklace and "Evelyn Thaw" bracelet absolutely free.

This offer is for a short time only. Not more than 2 orders to one party. Dealers not allowed to accept this.

AMERICAN SALES COMPANY
Dayton, Ohio

DR. RODERICK McLENNAN.

The Fellows of the Norfolk District of the Massachusetts Medical Society in the recent decease of our respected member, Roderick McLennan, M. D., adopted for record the following memorial:

Dr. Roderick McLennan came to Quincy in 1887, in his early manhood, gave to its people his entire professional life and was removed from their midst at the age of man's maturest judgment and safest and most valuable action.

Modest and retiring in manner, he was without fear in action, ever thoughtful and respectful of the welfare of the society and its members.

Never striving for external show, yet ever ready to advise and suggest where his wisdom and opinion were required. Never aspiring to public office, he was a valuable member of the Medical and Surgical Staff of the Quincy City Hospital from its inception; also giving his valuable time and services to offices in our local society.

Of deep and broad training with a store of wisdom and good judgment gleaned therefrom he was ever ready to give assistance to colleague and patient.

His presence will be missed at our meetings, at our hospital and in the sick room. His cordial salute, the hearty grasp of hand has gone, but the memory of the good physician will remain in the hearts of his colleagues whom he honored in life.

The members of the society extend to his bereaved family their heartfelt sympathy in their great affliction. To those to whom he gave unstintingly and unselfishly of his services as the good Samaritan, condolence is extended at this time.

Resolved: that this memorial be spread on the records of the society and a copy be sent to the bereaved family.

JOHN H. ASH, M. D.
E. H. BUSHNELL, M. D.
D. A. Bruce, M. D.
Committee on Resolutions.

16-1t

☞Do you Know What Vinol Week Means? Some years ago the Vinol Fraternity, of which E. J. Murphy is a member, originated the idea of having a National Display Week of Vinol and its companion products semi-annually. The Vinol Fraternity is an extensive organization numbering among its members the leading druggist in every town, city and hamlet in the United States, Canada, Cuba and far-off South America, and travellers often remark of the wonderful window displays of Vinol that they have noticed in different parts of the country during Vinol Week. E. J. Murphy druggist is now preparing for Vinol Week, which begins this spring March 14th. Their attractive window arrangements and store decorations show the same enthusiasm which they have for years put behind this meritorious Cod-Liver and Iron preparation. From time to time they gave away cook books, in which many women are interested. Their latest book, on good bread, will be distributed during Vinol Week, and every woman who is interested should call and get one.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

MAINE POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

Pratt's Vienna Bread
A Bread made after a fixed formula by expert workmen in a light, modern bakery.
Sold Through Grocers

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

For Commercial Printing
Don't forget that we are head quarters.
We also print Circulars, Books Pamphlets, Posters, or anything you want
GEO. W. PRESCOTT PUB. CO.
Quincy, Mass.

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Tuesday fair and warmer. Wednesday fair and a little cooler.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.54
Sun sets	5.53
Length of day	11.59
Moon sets	12.08
High water, A. M.	3.00
High water, P. M.	3.30
Days increase 2 hours, 53 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	43 degrees
Mar. 16. 1913,	69 degrees
Mar. 16, 1912,	52 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

JOHN LEGG'S PLAIN TALK.

Made In an Advertisement He Put In the Paper In 1837.

Advertising in the Sun three-quarters of a century ago was worded more picturesquely than it is now in some respects. No big type was used, but the advertisements hit the mark without its aid. It is to be doubted if some of the advertisements which appeared then could get into print now, for they were outspoken to a degree which would offend modern susceptibilities. For example, here is an advertisement which appeared in the Sun of May 26, 1837:

To Shoemakers—10 Kackmen Wanted.—The subscriber gives the highest city wages for good work and begs those worthies who would filch him of his stuffs not to visit him. It would be an agreeable surprise to him if John Kemp, Thomas Pringle, Isaac Morgan and a few others would bring in the work they have so long "forgotten" to return.

JOHN LEGG, 164 8th avenue

The trade supplied cheap and good.

"Kackmen" seems to have gone out of use completely. It is not given in any of the modern dictionaries, but one of them has "cack, a baby's shoe," which it calls shoemakers' cant.

In the same number of the Sun T. Baxter of 8 Fulton street advertised that he wanted broken bottles, but he did not state its use for them. There are several advertisements for men to go on whaling voyages.—New York Sun.

The Fog Peril.

One of the great conquests of science for human safety will be the discovery of some effectual means of disclosing to every ship at sea the approach and position of any other vessel which may come near in a fog. So far the fog peril remains as deadly as it ever was. In some respects the conditions change for the worse. The growth of commerce increases the number of ships which traverse the seas. Every year the water highways are more fully occupied, and the tendency is toward a higher average speed. Nothing can be seen through a dense fog. Nothing can be heard with sufficient distinctness and certainty as to distance and direction to meet the demands of safety. The best fog signals in use repeatedly fail to avert terrible disasters.—Cleveland Leader.

—When women really start to have their say—well, they elected their candidate for the school board at Falmouth. Now somebody asks if that town would have broken its previously clean record as a no-license community had the women had a vote on local option as well.—Brockton Enterprise.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

CHICHESTER S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chichester's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER'S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

QUINCY WINS FINAL GAME

Defeat Chelsea Y. M. C. A. by Score 42 to 31

The Y. M. C. A. first team won its closing game from Chelsea Y. M. C. A. on Saturday night by the score of 42 to 31.

The Chelsea team "got the jump" on the home team and it seemed for a while that the locals were going to be slaughtered. Trask however, got after his backs in good style and the results were soon apparent for the Chelsea boys stopped scoring and the local forwards took on a new lease of life, and the score was tied at 13 all; the half ended with Quincy leading 16 to 13. Rich took Flanders' place in the last half and "Ernie" showed that he was far from being all in, for he scored 3 goals from the floor and also figured in the passing in good style.

Price did most of his scoring in the first half, while Trask waited until the last half for his heavy work, getting 8 goals in this period. Every man on the Chelsea team scored at least once in the final period while Wilcox at center and Winsor, the right forward made 3 goals each.

QUINCY		CHELSEA
Rich	lf	rg White
Flanders	lf	lg Burnham
Price	rf
Trask	c	c Wilcox
Johnson	lg	rf Winsor
Kenn	rg	lf Hardacre

Score Quincy 42; Chelsea 31. Goals from floor, Trask 9, Price 5, Rich 3, Flanders, Johnson, Winsor 5, Wilcox 4, Burnham 3, White, Hardacre. Goals on free tries, Trask 4, Burnham 3. Referee Wilband. Timer H. Brooks.

The second team was not supposed to play but a team from Marlboro appeared at the Association about 7.30 and said they had come to play the Quincy second team. A substitute team, including Gearwar, Shirley, Brooks, Corthell and Robertson, was put on the floor and a good fast game was played with the visitors on the winning end of the score. Most of the scoring was done in the first half, Quincy scoring 14 and Marlboro 19 points. In the last half Quincy scored but 3 and the visitors 7 points, the final score being 26 to 17 in favor of Marlboro.

BASKET BALL CHAMPIONSHIP

William A. Flynn, manager of the Quincy A. A. basket ball team which has been affiliated with the N. E. A. A. A. U. for the past three years, disputes the right of the St. Josephs T. A. S. of the West End of Boston to claim the league championship.

Mr. Flynn says "that the last game between the St. Alphonsus A. A. of Roxbury and the St. Josephs, which was played at the West End ward room on March 4 was not a league contest." He also states "that the league officially ended on Saturday night, Feb. 28, when St. Josephs played St. Alphonsus at Roxbury.

His claims are based on the fact that the schedule was not made up after that date and that those two teams engaged in the contest March 4 without having a sanction from the basket ball committee.

Beyond a doubt that committee will uphold the contentions of Manager Flynn who will insist upon his team receiving proper recognition from the New England body.

The Rand class leads the Sunday School bowling league in percentage but is closely pressed by the Makaria class.

	W	L	P.C.
Rand Class	7	2	.833
Makaria	8	4	.666
Davis	3	9	.250
Clarke	3	9	.250

—The House has passed to be engrossed the bill to make New Year's day a legal holiday, but it is thought that the bill will be killed in the Senate. It is best that it should be, in the interest of manufacturers and employes. Two holidays only six days apart is rather too much of a good thing,—more luxury than the laboring man can afford or business concerns desire.—Athol Chronicle.

—When they wish to "clean up" a town in the West now, they send a frail young person named Miss Fern Hobbs, and Miss Hobbs cleans it up to the satisfaction of all except those cleaned out. In the old days they sent ferocious chunks of humanity bearing a pistol in each hand and a knife or two in the boot. Roosevelt might say we were becoming molly-coddles.—Barre Vt. Times.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

Men's Fashions

Out on this latest fashion!
We hold it is not right—
Please give us your compassion—
That clothing should be tight!
'Tis not that we are modest,
Nor yet that we are vain,
But some shapes are the oddest!
We'd spare their owners pain.

There's Jim, he's narrow chested,
And Tom's bowed as to leg;
Bill, of his coat divested,
Looks like an ostrich egg.
And most men are defective
(Of course, excepting me).
These shoulder pads? Corrective,
But really needless. See?

'Tis very well for women.
Their charms still make a hit.
With furbelows and trimming
They get away with it.
But we need baggy garments
To hide our figures' sins,
For we are ugly varmints,
Fats, mediums and thins.
—Chicago News.

HOW TO PLAY NEWCOMB; GAME BECOMING POPULAR.

It Is Devised With All the Essentials of Outdoor Exercise.

The growth of newcomb has attained such proportions that a handbook on the sport has been issued. The game was introduced at Newcomb college, Tulane university, New Orleans, in 1893.

A clear space is all that is needed to lay out the "field" for newcomb. Gymnasium, schoolyard or athletic field may be used with the same results. A basketball court indoors affords sufficient room for the game. The ball is of the same size and material as the official basketball.

Two courts of equal size, marked by chalk lines on the four sides, with a "neutral zone" between the two sections, make the field. At each end of the neutral zone a post is erected, and from these posts a rope is stretched across the zone, dividing the field and zone into two equal parts. The object of the game is to throw the ball over this rope and make it strike any clear space in the opponents' court. At the beginning of each game the captains jump for the ball, as the centers jump in basketball, but the effort is made to catch it or bat it into one's own court. Then the captains resume their places, and the one who has won the toss has the first throw.

A touchdown is scored whenever the ball touches a clear space in the enemy's court. This counts one point. A touchdown is also scored by the team sending the ball, when one of the opponents bats it, into the neutral zone. Fouls may be made by hitting the rope, throwing under the rope, throwing the ball so it strikes in the neutral zone, unnecessary delay in throwing the ball after receiving it or throwing the ball while either foot is outside the boundary line. At the conclusion of each half the fouls are added up, an equal number, amounting to the low team score in fouls, is canceled from each team's slate, and all the excess fouls are added to the score of the opponents. A dropped ball scores one point for the opposing team.

The ball always must be thrown with one hand, but exceptions are allowed in the case of quick passing, when two hands may be use.

Professor Clara Gregory Baer, director of physical education at Newcomb college, is the leading figure in the sport. She says:

"The object of the game is to secure a touchdown. Therefore, when on the receiving side guard the ground on which you stand. Catch the ball, as that will prevent the opposing team from scoring a touchdown. Learn to throw curve balls that will just clear the rope and be difficult to catch."

ARCTIC HOLIDAY DE LUXE.

Syndicate Invites Passengers at $1,000 Each For Gold Search.

If the newly formed London Exploration syndicate raises the necessary funds its proposed expedition to Baffin island, in the arctic, in search of gold, under the leadership of Captain Munn, will be carried out on a comparatively luxurious scale. The syndicate's prospectus invites passengers at £200 (about $1,000) a head for a four months' voyage. Sport will be included, and each passenger will be allowed one polar bear, one seal, one walrus, two musk oxen, one wolf and two white foxes, which he himself must shoot.

The ship will be fitted with electric lights. Passengers will be provided with separate sleeping cabins and bathrooms with hot and cold water. A library will be carried, and the best wines, spirits and cigars will be available.

THE CAPTAIN IS A LADY.

Danish Woman Mariner Gets Command of Ship In American Service.

Promotion to a steamer in the American service has been promised to Mrs. von Bauditz, Denmark's only woman sea captain, who commands a vessel running between Russia and England.

Mrs. von Bauditz, who is the wife of a physician, was for a long time interested in yachting as a sport, and after passing an examination for a master's license she took up the sea as a profession. So adept did she prove herself that a Copenhagen shipping company soon gave her command of one of its largest steamers. Captain von Bauditz wears a natty uniform with square cut coat and skirt of the same material. She claims to be the only woman master mariner in the world.

BATTLE BEGINS NEAR TORREON

Rebels Reported Victorious In Minor Engagements

INTERCEPTION OF WIRELESS

Villa Learns That Huerta Has Ordered His Troops to Take the Offensive—Conflict Is Expected to Speedily Settle Status of the Constitutional Army

El Paso, Tex., March 16.—The greatest battle in the history of the present revolution in Mexico, the battle for the possession of the city of Torreon, has begun.

General Villa with his army of 15,000 followers is marching to attack General Velasco, the Huerta commander, with an army of 20,000 soldiers, who was ordered by President Huerta yesterday to take the offensive.

On the fate of this battle hangs the future of the constitutionalist cause. If Villa can defeat the Huerta forces at Torreon there is little between him and the City of Mexico. But if he loses there are many who think that he will lose many of his followers and that the end will not be delayed for a long time.

If Villa had commenced his attack on Torreon several weeks ago, when his army was flushed with victory, nothing could have stopped him at Torreon, as the very name of Villa sent a shudder through the Huerta troops, but his long delay has cost him a great deal of prestige, and although his army is rested and he is amply supplied with guns and ammunition, the enemy is in the same condition and, furthermore, is commanded by an expert.

In the first skirmishes the constitutionalists, it is said, were put to flight, but in later minor engagements the rebel troops were reported victorious.

Orders were given by Villa for the advance of his troops late Saturday night. His action was hastened by the interception of a wireless message from Huerta to Velasco, commanding the federal garrison at Torreon. As caught by Villa's wireless station, the message directed Velasco to take the offensive against the constitutionalists immediately.

A special train has been started for Juarez to bring General Angeles, secretary of war in the cabinet of General Carranza, to Chihuahua to command the artillery.

Villa is said to be impatient for the arrival of General Angeles, in order that he may reach the scene of battle.

Inauguration of a rigid censorship over telegraph lines is believed here to indicate that important fighting already has occurred in the Torreon region.

Won't Pay For Refugees' Keep

Mexico City, March 16.—The Mexican government informed the United States government that it will refuse to meet the cost of maintenance of the Mexican prisoners now interned at Fort Bliss, Tex.

The note handed Charge O'Shaughnessy quotes extensively various international authorities in support of the Mexican government's contention that the expense of keeping the prisoners should be borne by the United States.

HEAD NEARLY SEVERED

Widow Thought to Have Been Victim of Rejected Suitor

Fall River, Mass., March 16.—Mrs. Tanka Belatski, a widow 27 years of age, was murdered in the yard in the rear of a house where she boarded at 182 Spring street. The murderer, according to the belief of the police, was Tony Ruthkevich, whose attentions had been refused by the woman. He escaped.

The assailant apparently lay in wait for Mrs. Belatski, and when she started from the house seized her and cut her throat with a knife, nearly severing the head from the body.

Ruthkevich recently was released from the house of correction at New Bedford. He is said to have a wife and two children in Poland.

MAY REPRIEVE DORR

Governor Walsh Has Received No Report From Parole Board

Boston, March 16.—Governor Walsh expressed himself as willing to grant a reprieve to William A. Dorr, sentenced to die in the electric chair during the week of March 22, provided no report is received from the state board of parole during this week.

The board has had the Dorr case under consideration for some time, and it is rumored the members are no nearer a decision now than when the matter was first taken up.

How Marshall Stays Young

Washington, March 16.—"I keep young by not thinking about the years," Vice President Marshall told his friends who called to congratulate him on his 60th birthday anniversary.

Courtesy at the Pawnshop.

"You go first, Frau Meier. I can wait."

"Thanks. I'd have you know I'm in no more hurry for my money than you."—Fliegende Blatter.

DEATH OF FATHER DORNEY

Chicago Priest Was Known as "King of the Stock Yards"

Chicago, March 16.—Rev. Maurice J. Dorney, a Catholic priest, beloved of all creeds, died at Mercy hospital, where his sister is one of the nuns in charge.

Death was due to paralysis, following heart trouble.

The stock yards priest, called "King of the Yards," as one of the strongest and most picturesque characters in the west. Counsellor, protector, friend to thousands, he had the power for thirty-five years of the ruler of a principality in one of the greatest industrial centres in the world—the packing house district of Chicago.

His prestige extended to the White House in Washington, and on a memorable occasion he earned the gratitude of Celts everywhere as a trusted envoy from Irish leaders on this side of the Atlantic to Charles S. Parnell in London.

Dorney was born in Springfield, Mass., March 11, 1851. Within a year after, his father removed to Chicago with the family.

AUTO KILLS A WOMAN

Occupants Had Just Finished Performing Task For Police

Brockton, Mass., March 16.—After playing the part last night of good Samaritan to the police of this city by taking two officers in their automobile in pursuit of a supposed murderer and returning them after the chase, which proved to be a false one, four Boston men started back for their home, ran down and killed Mrs. Annie Brophy.

Ten minutes after the men had received the profuse thanks of the policemen for their asistance they returned and surrendered themselves as prisoners.

The Boston automobile is owned and was operated by J. A. Whittemore, Jr. In it with him were his two brothers, D. W. Whittemore and Theodore Whittemore, and a cousin, Maurice Winslow.

WITTE PREDICTS WAR IN BALKANS

Says the Present Is But Intermission Between Acts

Budapest, March 16.—Count Witte, formerly premier of Russia, in an interview published here is quoted as saying:

"Only the first act of the Balkan affir has been played. It is now the intermission, which may last for years or perhaps only for months.

"The relations between Austria and Roumania constitute one of the points of danger, while the relations between the triple alliance (Germany, Italy and Austria) and the triple entente (Great Britain, France and Russia) are in no wise clear."

SAYS DAUGHTER IS DEAD

Father of Dorothy Arnold Expects to Never Hear From Her

New York, March 16.—Francis R. Arnold, father of Dorothy Arnold, said at his home, 108 East Seventy-ninth street, that he does not take any stock in the story that Ella Nevis of Los Angeles is his daughter.

He admitted the receipt of several communications from a Los Angeles man, who said that he believed that he had found Miss Arnold, but said he paid little serious attention to these.

"I have made up my mind long ago that my daughter is dead," said Arnold, "but if she were alive and wanted to come home she wouldn't go to a lawyer with carefully prepared proofs and ask him to get me to hire him to investigate the merits of her claims."

INVESTIGATION COMING

District Attorney Is Looking Into Middlesex County Affairs

Cambridge, Mass., March 16.—District Attorney Corcoran of Middlesex county says preparations for an investigation of Middlesex county affairs have been in progress several weeks. As soon as pending routine criminal cases are disposed of, Corcoran declared the evidence found will be presented at a special sitting of the grand jury.

The action of the legislature on proposed legislation for Middlesex county will in no way influence his action, Mr. Corcoran said. There is talk of a special legislative committee to look into Middlesex county conditions.

WROTE LETTER TO WILSON

Man Who Used Objectionable Language Arrested In New Jersey

Newark, N. J., March 16.—Charged with having written a letter couched in objectionable language to President Wilson, Samuel Barr, 49, was arrested by postoffice inspectors and committed to jail. Barr was later released in the custody of his counsel.

Barr, it is said, was a victim some time ago of a fall, which necessitated his confinement for several months in a hospital for treatment for concussion of the brain.

Deadlock on Naval Estimates

Tokio, March 16.—The lower house of Japanese parliament refused to approve the peers' amendments of the naval estimates.

QUINCY MAN'S LUCKY FIND

Will Interest Readers of the Ledger.

Those having the misfortune to suffer from backache, urinary disorders, gravel, dropsical swellings, rheumatic pains, or other kidney and bladder disorders, will read with gratification this encouraging statement by a Quincy may.

James W. Murray, River Road, Quincy, Mass., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills for irregular kidney action. They promptly relieved me. I don't have any need of a kidney medicine now, but I keep a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills on hand. Another of my family has taken Doan's Kidney Pills as a kidney tonic and the benefit has been very pleasing."

If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Murray had—the remedy backed by home testimoney. 50c all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES

20 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.

MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar.
Tel. Quincy 131-W

Call Quincy 501--W

If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN, upholsterer, 1060 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School

Mar. 4 tf

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

In effect Nov. 16, 1913

The letters in the same line as the figures below stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows.

a Wollaston	f Harrison Square
b Norfolk Downs	g Savin Hill
c Atlantic	h Cross Avenue
d Neponset	i South Boston
e Pope's Hill	r Quincy Adams
* Saturdays Only	† Except Saturday

Exp.—Express train.

TO BOSTON			FROM BOSTON
Leave	Stop	Arrive	Leave	Stop	Arrive
r 5 14	abcdefghi	5 41	5 44	ihgfedcba	6 14 r
r 6 19	abci	6 40	6 09	ihgfedcba	6 39 r
r 6 32	e	6 48	6 29	a	6 47
			6 47	Exp	7 04
r 6 40	abcf	7 00	7 14	hgfedcba	7 41 r
r 7 08	abcd	7 30	7 34	a	7 52
r 7 28	a	7 46	7 37	a	7 56
r 7 32	Exp	7 49	7 41	c	8 03 r
r 7 42	ab	8 00	8 34	cba	8 45 r
7 55	a	8 12	8 44	b	9 02
r 8 13	abc	8 32	9 09	fedba	9 52 r
8 24	a	8 41	9 44	a	10 01 r
r 8 33	a	50	10 14	ihgfedcba	10 43 r
r 8 59	ad		10 54	Exp	11 10
r 9 18	abc	9 32	11 14	hgfedcba	11 41 r
r 10 04	a	10 21	11 49	a	12 07
r 10 19	abcdefghi	10 46	12 14	hgfedcba	12 41 r
11 12	a	11 28	12 20	a	12 38
11 24	abcdefghi	11 50	12 50	Exp	1 06
12 04	a	12 20	1 16	fedcba	1 40 r
			* 1 22	a	1 50
r 12 27	abcdefghi	12 53	1 44	a	2 01
r 1 16	a	1 34	2 14	fedcba	2 37 r
2 04	a	2 20	2 34	Exp	2 50
r 2 19	abcdefgh	2 45	3 14	hgfedcba	3 40 r
r 3 13	Exp	3 28	3 44	a	4 02
4 01	a	4 20	4 12	fedcba	4 35 r
r 4 26	abcdefgh	4 53	4 15	a	4 32
5 02	a	5 19	4 40	c	4 58
r 5 30	abcdefg	5 55	4 55	a	5 11
6 04	a	6 24	5 13	a	5 32
6 12	ab	6 32	5 19	hgfeca	5 43
6 57	a	7 15	5 28	ba	5 46 r
r 7 22	Exp	7 39	5 40		5 57
7 29	ab	7 48	5 58	a	6 17 r
r 8 09	abcdef	8 32	6 01	fedcb	6 24
9 00	a	9 18	6 16	a	6 35
r 9 10	abc	9 29	6 30	ecba	6 52 r
* 9 17	Exp.	9 32	6 59	fedcba	7 24 r
r 10 07	abcdef	10 30	7 11	a	7 28
* 10 19	a	10 37	8 04	fedcba	8 28 r
11 13	a	11 30	* 8 19	Exp	8 35
r 11 30	abcd	11 50	9 19	a	9 37
			9 34	b	9 53 r
			10 05	ba	10 24
			10 34	fedcba	11 02 r
			†11 06	a	11 25 r
			†11 09	fedcba	11 35 r
			*11 25	ba	11 43 r
			†11 29	ba	11 48
			12 05	cba	12 26 r

SUNDAYS

r 7 42	abe	8 03	6 29	ba	6 48 r
8 39	Exp	8 45	8 34	cba	8 55
r 8 46	abcdefghi	9 13	10 39	cba	10 59 r
r 9 13	abc	9 33	12 14	ihgfedcba	12 42
9 31	a	9 47	12 44	Exp	1 01
10 25	ac	10 42	1 29	ihgfedcba	1 57 r
11 08	Exp	11 25	2 14	hgfedcba	2 42 r
r 11 18	abcdefghi	11 43	2 44	a	3 02
1 04	a	1 23	3 14	ihgfedcba	3 42 r
r 1 18	abcdefgh	1 43	4 26	cba	4 48 r
r 3 10	abc	3 30	5 14	ihgfedcba	5 42 r
r 4 16	abcdefghi	4 43	6 09	Exp	6 25
4 59	ab	5 16	6 14	ihgfedcba	6 42 r
5 46		5 23	7 02	cba	7 22 r
6 16	abcdefghi	6 42	8 14	ihgfedcba	8 41 r
7 21	Exp	7 36	8 39	a	8 56 r
7 29	abcdefghi	7 55	8 49	Exp	9 05
r 8 16	abcdefgh	8 43	9 29	ihgfedcba	9 57 r
9 46	a	10 04	10 44	cba	11 04 r
0 46	abc	11 05

LEWIS N. CURTIS

PAINTER and GLAZIER

LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED

Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 3, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 10.25 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 9.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.30 5.56, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 6.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight. Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street, 6.15 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 12.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Wollaston—6.03, 6.34, 7.03 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.03 P. M. then 11.20, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.03 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.35, 6.55, 7.25, A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.25 P. M. then 11.42 P. M. and 12.12 midnight. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.25, 8.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.36, 6.00, 6.36 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M., Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sunday 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M.

THOMAS GANNON, Superintendent

wealth of Massachusetts.
s. Probate Court.
Clark of Quincy in said
Norfolk, and to Her Heirs
Or Presumptive:
n petition for conservator-n presented to said Court Kribs alleging that said ark has become incapaci-son of advanced age and ness to properly care for and praying that Delce-Quincy or some other on, may be appointed con-er property, agreeably to such case made and pro-
are hereby cited to ap-ate Court to be held at and for said County of the twenty-fifth day of 1914, at ten o'clock in the show cause, if any you conservator should not be aforesaid. And said pereby directed to cause lished of the time and ted for the hearing of by serving said Sarah J.
copy of this order, seven before said Court; and said heirs apparent or at the last known post of each, a copy of the days at least before said ead of said mailing, by same once in each ree successive weeks, in ily Ledger a newspaper said Quincy the last pub-
one day at least before mes H. Flint, Esquire, Court, this twelfth day

the year one thousand and fourteen.
R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t-March 14-16-23

N. CURTIS
and GLAZIER
STAINED GLASS
and PAPER HANGER
RNITURE REPINISHED
, off Spear Street, Quincy

Street Railway Company
ME TABLE
ect April 5, 1913. change without notice
ve QUINCY for
5.35, 6.50 A. M. and every 10.50 P. M. Sundays,
en same as week days.
Braintree, 6.25 A. M.,
minutes to 10.25 P. M.
A. M. and then same as

15, 5.50 A. M., and every
5.50 P. M., then 5.50 P.
7.50 A. M., then same as Return, leave Braintree
and every 30 minutes to days, 8 A. M. then same cy, and East Milton, 6.30

M., and every 20 minutes
(Wednesdays and Sat-
P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A.
as week days. Return lton, 6.50, 6.15, 6.45 A. M.
minutes to 11.45 P. M.
and Saturdays, 12.10
Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then k days.

outh, 6.06, 6.15, 6.35,
M. every 30 minutes to
hen 11.50 P. M. Sundays,
en same as week days.
East Weymouth, 5.50, 0, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every o 11.45 P. M. Sundays,
en same as week days.

eck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40,
M. every 30 minutes to
hen 11.50 P. M. Sundays,
M. every 30 minutes to Return leave Heights
.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00,
M. every 30 minutes to
then 12.10 midnight.
, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M.
utes to 11.35 P. M.

n Hancock Street,—5.45
M. and every 30 min. to en 12.50 midnight. Sun-
A. M. then same as week
, leave Neponset, 6.40
M. and every 30 minutes
then 12.36 midnight. Sun-
M. then same as week

n Wollaston—6.03, 6.33, every 30 minutes to en 11.20, 11.50 P. M.
A. M., then same as week
, leave Neponset, 6.25,
M. and every 30 minutes
then 11.42 P. M. and
Sundays, 7.25 A. M.
week days.

n Norfolk Downs, 6.25,
A. M. and every 30
P. M. (Wednesdays and
P. M.) Sundays, 7.50 A. me as week days. Re-eponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and en to 10.30 P. M. Wed-
Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.)
M. then same as week

Landing, 5.36, 6.05, 6.36
A. M. then every 15
and including 10.36 P.
7.25, A. M. then same
Return, leave Wey-
, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15
n every 30 minutes un-ng 11.15 P. M. Sunday
n same as week days.

NEPONSET for
6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55
M. every 60 minutes to en 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25,
, 10.35 P. M. Wednes-
Saturdays, 11.30, P. M.
A. M. every 60 minutes
Return, leave Squan-
7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00
0 minutes to 5.00 P. M.
00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00
M. Wednesdays and
5.30 P. M. Sundays,
M. every 60 minutes to

THOMAS GANNON,
Superintendent

ON THE SAHARA DESERT

A Story of Travel

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

When I first became a globe trotter Africa claimed my especial attention, not that Africa occupied by negroes, but northern Africa, which fifteen or twenty centuries ago was a Roman possession and a part of the then civilized world. I resolved to travel through Morocco into the heart of the great Sahara desert.

When I first set up for a traveler and crossed the British channel I found on the other side of that narrow strip of water a different people, speaking a different language.

But the change there was nothing to that in crossing from Gibraltar to Tangier. On the northern coast I left a British fortress; on the southern I found an Arab city. In the one was the pompous military uniform of soldiers; in the other, the long, sweeping barracan of the native.

The centuries have passed lightly over these people, changing instead of destroying. This barracan reminds one of the toga of the Romans who in the golden age of the Eternal City subjugated and occupied the African coast, and it has doubtless been handed down from the conquerors; only the toga was made of fine texture, while the barracan is of coarse cotton cloth. As to religion, there is not much choice between the ancient mythology and the superstitions of these swarthy people.

At Tangier I obtained an outfit for my journey into the desert. To travel in such a country is a very different matter from journeying in a Pullman car or an ocean liner. I needed a number of camels, a considerable quantity of provisions, to say nothing of water, and a lot of servants and guards. The camels were to carry the provisions and water and camp equipment, consisting of tents, cots, bedding and table kit. The guards were for protection against bandits, who infest the desert.

When one considers that the Sahara desert alone is in area about equal to that of the United States, that it is a vast stretch of sand billows, that its storms are the movement of immense sand clouds, it is not remarkable that few Europeans venture upon it. The spirit of loneliness rests on the face of the ocean of sand. The only inspiring part of the time is the night. I would look up at the starry heavens, and, surrounded as I was by a waste of sand billows, could the better realize the silent immensity of the universe.

I FOUND THE DEAD SENTRY.

The days being very hot, we usually traveled at night, resting under our tents by day. But during periods when the temperature admitted we would reverse the process. Night or day when resting I posted a sentry for the purpose of keeping out thieves. They would come to us on various pretenses—to ask for water, for information, indeed for anything that would afford an excuse for a visit. While with us they would purloin anything they could get their hands on. Their eyes were continually darting hither and thither for plunder, and if we were too vigilant for them they would observe our strength, our weakness, our vulnerable points; then they would go away, and if they considered themselves strong enough to attack us they would so so.

But in my case they found little encouragement. At least the game was not worth the candle, for the candle was the lives of a number of them. They have a wholesome dread of a European, and since my force was not fully led by me—a white man—but well armed, they dared not attack us unless by stratagem. They could take us unawares or reduce our force. A plan to effect the latter object was put in operation while we were camping nights and traveling days.

One evening a band of Arabs came into our camp while we were getting ready for bed to ask for a little water. It was evident that they had called for the purpose of observation. There were as many of them as we were, and I was not sure but that they would attack us during the night. Just before morning, when the camp was wrapped in slumber and the sentinel would likely be drowsy, I heard the crack of a rifle. I arose at once, went out and found the sentry lying on the sand. I aroused the camp and sent men in different directions, while I examined the fallen man. He had been shot dead.

Those whom I had sent out returned, reporting that they had not seen a human being. One of them had seen a wolf, but that was all. Of course an enemy was near, but an Arab covered with his white barracan cannot readily be distinguished from the sand unless he stands against the sky line. This he is sure not to do if he desires concealment. He will lie down on the sand and pull his barracan over his dark body.

In the morning, having buried the dead sentry, we proceeded on our journey, re-establishing our camp in the evening. I was at a loss to know why the sentry had been shot, and during the night, being awake, I was thinking about what might have been his murderer's purpose when I was startled by another crack. I arose to find that another sentry had been killed. Again I deployed my men to hunt for the assassin, but not a living creature was to be found. He or they had excellent hiding ground among the sand billows, and the night was dark.

It was now plain to me that the Arabs who had visited us had done so to discover the number of our force. They had decided to reduce it by picking off a man every night until they had killed so many of us that they would feel warranted in attacking us. If they could appropriate an outfit it would be a fine property for them.

I confess I was staggered by their device. However, I set myself to meet stratagem by stratagem. The next night, after dark, I put a stake in the sand and on it fixed a dummy sentry by tying some of the fodder we carried for our camels about it and wrapping the whole with a barracan. Then I dug a hole, and after warning my men to sleep with their arms beside them and turn out on hearing shots I got into the hole with my rifle, intending to do the watching of a sentry myself.

Fortunately for my purpose there was a moon, though over it were thin clouds. It enabled me to see any moving object within a reasonable distance from my camp. I had been three hours or more in my hole and was getting cramped when I saw on the sky line of a sand billow some distance from me a black spot. It moved slowly down the side of the billow toward me and, getting into comparatively level ground, wandered about apparently without any definite purpose.

I was not long in discovering that it was some animal of the desert in search of food. It would scratch in one place, then in another, occasionally digging a hole. In its wandering it was constantly drawing nearer my camp. When it got within a couple of hundred yards it stopped and sat on its haunches facing the camp. At that moment the clouds on the moon thickened, and I could not see the brute. When the sky lightened again it had disappeared.

I was thinking that it had gone away when I heard a crack and my dummy sentry, the support of which had been fixed in the loose sand, toppled over at an angle of about forty degrees. I was about to jump out of my hole and run forward when it occurred to me that the animal I had seen was a man covered by the skin of a wolf; that when the moon was darkened he had got into a hole and shot my dummy. Had not I better wait a few moments to see if he would leave his hiding place? I did so, and fortunately my men slept so soundly that they did not interfere.

I had only to wait a few minutes when I saw the animal walking leisurely away. Springing from my hole, I ran after the beast, and when I had got pretty near to him I stopped, took careful aim and fired. I knew that I had hit him, for I saw him roll over. At the same moment one of my men came running toward me, and he was shortly followed by the rest. We found an Arab in a wolf's skin, dead.

With my whole force I scoured the desert in a circuit of half a mile, but found not a human or a brute being. Doubtless confederates of the man I had shot were not far away, but probably had scooped out the sand, got in the depression and covered themselves, leaving only their faces exposed.

The next night we dug holes surrounding our tents, and I put a man in each hole, getting into one myself. I knew, the Arabs' stratagem having been interfered with, they would not be likely to continue it, but I feared that, having reduced our force by two men, they might think it feasible to adopt some other ruse to get near us without our being aware of their approach and rush us. But we passed the night without seeing anything except the sand and the starlit heavens, the latter, in contrast with the former, of double splendor. Our enemies had either given up their intention or were attempting to lull us into a false security. Every night during the rest of our journey to the next oasis I posted guards in holes, but we were not disturbed.

After moving southward to the twenty-sixth degree north of the equator I turned my camels' heads to the eastward to Tidikelt and thence back to the Mediterranean sea through Tunis.

It may be asked, What was the journey for? Simply to gratify my desire to experience one of the many different parts of the globe and study the peculiar peoples to be found there.

DESCRIBES HER SPIRIT'S FLIGHT

In Wondrous Vision Visited Portals of the Hereafter.

WHILE MOURNED AS DEAD.

"A Joyous and Exhilarating Release of the Very Essence of Life Into Space," Says Clergyman's Wife—"I Was Among the Clouds; Then I Came Down and Hovered Over the City."

Mrs. Baker P. Lee, wife of the rector of Christ church, Los Angeles, Cal., firmly believes her disembodied spirit was transported into the hereafter and returned to its tenement of clay. A religious and accomplished woman, she is convinced she died, in the ordinary acceptation of the word, and that her soul, winging its way back from "among the clouds," revivified her body.

Mrs. Lee, long very ill, seemed to be dead when her wondrous vision came to her. Her husband and children briefly mourned her as dead. Her recital will be transmitted to Sir Oliver Lodge, president of the British Society For Psychical Research.

"I had been unconscious most of the time," said Mrs. Lee in telling of her experience. "My periods of lucidity were few and brief. Just before the experience which befell me, as my nurse afterward told me, my heart seemed to stop beating.

"I had been wheeled to the window in a chair, where I sat looking out. I found everything most beautiful and delightful—the trees, flowers, the sky, sunlight, the birds singing, all nature joyous under the flood tide of a perfect day.

Conscious of Family's Presence.

"The nurse suddenly started and cried, 'Why, she's gone!'

"She called to my husband and said 'Come quick, she's gone.'

"My husband rushed in and exclaimed 'My God, has it come?' I tried to open my eyes, but I could not. I said to myself 'I'm not dead,' but I was powerless to move.

"Then the four children were brought in, weeping, and they looked at me. Presently they all went out.

"Then my father stepped into the room just as he used to be in life. He and I were chums. I said, 'I'm not dead.' He replied 'Not yet, not yet.' Then he went out.

"Suddenly I felt my spirit leaving my body. It was gone in an instant, leaping out, a joyous, light and exhilarating release of the very essence of life into space.

"My form remained the same, but the substance had utterly changed. It was now a translucent vapor, capable, at my will, of going immediately to any place.

"I Possessed All My Faculties."

"I possessed all my faculties, imagination, will and memory. I was among the clouds, knowing the joy of flight. Then I came down and hovered over the city, saw the people and wished with all my strength to be able to reveal myself to some to let them know that life after death was beautiful.

"But all this while I knew I was not dead, and so at the end of a period of time of whose duration I cannot form an idea, and after experiencing unimaginable joys I went back into my body with that instantaneous possession which had characterized my departure.

"The entire experience was too real for a dream, and since having it I have been firmly convinced that I dwelt for a time upon the edge of eternity and knew in part, at least, what the future life is."

CAB SIGNALS FOR SAFETY.

French Government Orders Railroads to Install Whistle System.

As a result of the pressure which has been brought to bear on the leading railroad companies by the French government following the disastrous collision on the Paris-Lyon-Mediterranee at Melun on Nov. 4 last an improvement of the highest importance is rapidly being adopted on all French roads. The P. L. M. being the latest road to experience a serious wreck was the first to make a positive move in the matter. The improvement in question, which is intended to make almost impossible disasters such as that at Melun, consists in the use of an apparatus in the cabs of all locomotives at all signals by which a whistle is sounded in the cab when an engine passes a signal set against it.

As a matter of fact the Compagnie des Chemins de Fer du Nord, or Northern railroad, has been using cab signals for more than twenty-five years on its most important lines. The system in use is, however, an open circuit one and is subject to failure. It should nevertheless be said that this is evidently the chief reason why the government has decreed that all railroads must install the system.

Each of the principal companies has been asked to submit within one year a plan and detailed description of its proposed cab signal.

Experiments with these systems are being carried out on the P. L. M., while other roads are trying out electrical devices, the batteries being placed in some cases by the roadside and in others on the locomotives.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Margaret Emma Hudson late of Quincy in said County, deceased:
Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Adelbert Lathrop Hudson of said Quincy, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Brookline in said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-fifth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.
Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eleventh day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.
J. R. McCoole, Register.
3t March 13-16-23

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Edward Southworth late of Quincy in said County, deceased:
Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Thomas J. Emery of Cambridge, in the County of Middlesex who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond as provided by statute; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the eighteenth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.
Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this third day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.
J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t March 5-9-16

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of John F. Welch late of Quincy in said County, deceased:
Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Emma F. Welch of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the eighteenth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.
Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this second day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.
J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 5-3t. 5-9-16.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Ralph W. Hobbs late of Quincy in said County, deceased:
Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Emma A. Hobbs of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the eighteenth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.
Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this second day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.
J. R. McCOOLE. Register.
Mar. 5-3t. 5-9-16.

MY SLOGAN
for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS — CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING — WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—Two 3-room and one 4-room tenement. Just finished. All modern improvements. Apply to J. M. L. 175 Liberty street, South Quincy. 16-6t

TO LET—Lower flat five rooms and bath, set range, gas and electricity, all modern improvements, 166 Franklin street. Ready for occupancy April 15th. Apply to William T. Spargo, 160 Franklin street. 16-tf

TO LET—Housekeeping suites 3 to 5 rooms and bath fully or partially furnished. Every convenience. 5 minutes walk from square. Address Miss Spear, 118 Granite street. 16-1t

TO LET—Lower apartment 5 rooms and bath. Modern conveniences, combination range; gas and electricity etc. 95 Putnam street. Ready for occupancy April 1. Apply 97 Putnam street. 16-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 16-6t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath. Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Two pleasant four-room tenements, one furnished, light and sunny rooms, new house, modern improvements, central location. 9 Francis Court, off Spear street. 13-6t

TO LET—New apartment of 6 rooms and bath, all improvements, maple floors, fire place, etc. 3 minutes to City Square. Apply 37 Bigelow street. Mar. 12-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block
2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.
Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.
Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.
Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.
Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.
City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.
Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)
Offices—Large or small.
Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.
Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.
Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS
Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.
New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.
Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust.
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block. (Phone 21066) Quincy

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. .. ..

TO LET

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear, street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO RENT—Flat of four rooms, Francis court off Spear street. All modern improvements. Rent $18. Apply at 7 Francis court. 14-6t

TO LET—In private family in Wollaston nicely furnished front square room, plenty of hot water, handy to station and electrics. $2.50. Write K. Ledger Office. 14-3t

TO LET—Single house of six rooms in good repair. Rent low. Apply at 97 Coddington street. 13-6t

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

TO LET—Flat of 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-6t

TO LET—At North Weymouth, flat of 5 rooms, some improvements, near salt water and good place to keep hens. Rent reasonable to small family. Few minutes to trains to Boston. Apply at 445 Washington street, Quincy. 11-6t

TO LET—Upper tenement of five rooms and bath at 109 Franklin street. Apply to Harry W. Tirrell. Telephone Quincy 432-M. 10-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Loose English Hay at $18 per ton at barn. Edwin Poffley, 217 Quincy avenue, East Braintree. Mar. 16-3t

FOR SALE—One "Reo the Fifth," four seated touring car, specially comfortable body, over-sized tires, extra shoe, shock absorbers, Warner speedometer, condition good as new. Apply to Central Garage, corner Washington and Pond Streets, Quincy. 13-6t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS—Take notice. We are selling all steel portable Automobile garages, camps and storehouses ready to put up. Prompt shipment. Send for quotations, M. W. Tilton, Box 362 Brockton. 11-6t

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

LOST

LOST—A gold locket Thursday evening between City hospital and Quincy Music hall or in hall.. Reward if returned to F. O. H., 30 Ryden street. 14-3t

WANTED

WANTED—Experienced house to house salesman for Quincy for a new article of great merit selling for 50c. Address Box 2704, Boston, Mass. 16-3t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York. N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

BOSTON GLOBE— Picture Game Answers. Our best answers to entire set of 77 pictures, now ready. Price 50 cents. Coin, stamps or money order. The White Company, Melrose, Highlands, Lock Box Q. 10-6t

JUST LOOK HERE
Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.
HENRY w. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 385 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 / Office 53-M

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block,
QUINCY

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1301 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY.
SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

READ LEDGER ADS

If you want a situation, if you want to rent a house or to buy anything, look over our classified columns

KINCAIDE THEATRE
HANCOCK STREET — QUINCY CENTRE
HIGH CLASS VAUDEVILLE — REFINED MOVING PICTURES

MONDAY, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, AT 2.30 & 7.45 P. M

BELL & LAPORTE
Comedy Singing, Talking and Music

TWO IRMENAS
Sensational Slack-wire Artists

THE HYLANDS
Refined Musical Entertainers

ED.D eCORSIA & CO.
Presenting their screamingly successful skit "RED IKE"

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

AFTERNOONS 5, 10, 15c.

3-Reels of Thrills
"WANTED BY THE POLICE"
— Featuring —
WILLIAM JEFFERSON
Son of the late Jos. Jefferson]
The Most Intense and Gripping Dramatic Feature in 3-reels ever seen

COMEDY PICTURES

EVENINGS 10, 15, 25c.

Mar. 14—3t

FULFILLS ALL TESTS

(Continued from Page One)

her big guns at one time. This test was a most severe one, the guns being fired by the pressing of an electric button. All those on board had their ears stuffed full of cotton batting and as the signal to fire was given they stood on their toes. Otherwise serious results would have followed.

The most frightened people on board during these gun tests were the colored waiters, many of whom no doubt thought their time had come. When the tests began they went down below as far as they could get and buried their heads under blankets.

Anything of a breakable nature on board was smashed by the concussion during the firing and the damage done to the interior of the vessel will amount to thousands of dollars. Great iron posts were bent out of shape, while the mahogany finish on the walls of the officers quarters was cracked and broken off. A large skylight on the upper deck was torn fro mits fastenings and went sailing up seventy-five feet in the air and then landed in the water some distance away and sank.

The thick glass lights used in the portholes of the vessel were all cracked and smashed, furniture was thrown about and crockery suffered considerably. Even the paint on the outside of the steel turrets was forced off.

If is hard experience for one not familiar with the great concussion made by the firing of a dozen big guns at one time, but a visit to the ship would give an idea what it means to be on board a battleship during an actual naval engagement.

An official photographer of the company was on board to take a picture when the guns were fired but his camera was smashed by the concussion and the picture was not taken.

The vessel is now tied up at the Fore River yard and active work was commenced this morning to repair the damage caused during the gun trials and to put on the finishing touches ready for her delivery to the Argentine government.

SEVERE GUN TESTS.

The report of the gun trials describes them as being "of the severest character possible, prepared with the idea of testing out to the fullest possible extent the strength of the gun mountings and the tactical value of the designs of the echelon arrangement of the two midship turrets."

All guns were fired with battle charges and the heaviest projectiles. There were three rounds for each 12-inch gun in turrets 1, 2, 5 and 6, and four for each 12-inch gun in turrets 3 and 4. For each six-inch gun there were five rounds except gun 11, which had three. For each four-inch gun and each three-pound gun there were five rounds.

For the four-inch and six-inch guns the firing was party in sequence and partly in broadside salvo, testing extreme forward and aft train and maximum depression. The three-pound guns also tested the extreme forward and aft train and the maximum depression and elevation.

For the 12-inch turret guns the tests were even more difficult. There was one port salvo with all the 12-inch guns trained 50 degrees abaft the beam, while the six-inch port guns, trained abaft likewise, were fired simultaneously. A similar broadside was delivered on the starboard side, with all guns trained 50 degrees forward of beam. In both cases the 12-inch guns were at a five-degree elevation.

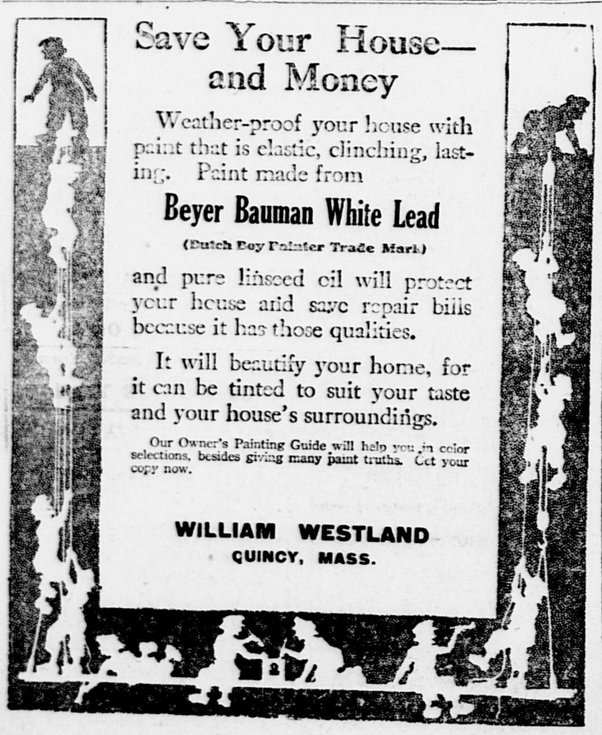
A third test called for the simultaneous firing of the two 12-inch guns in each turret, the turrets being fired in sequence, the guns of turrets 1, 2, 3 and 4 being pointed directly forward, and those of turrets 5 and 6 directly aft. A fourth test called for firing the guns of turret 3 aft, and those of turret 4, which is located on the port side, 50 degrees aft on the starboard beam.

In the previous endurance tests the highest speed obtained was 22.8 knots, though for a period of more than 14 hours the vessel, with a displacement of 27,00 tons, made a speed of from 22.4 to 22.8 knots. During that time the turbine engines developed approximately 40,000 horsepower, and absolutely no adjustments were made to the machinery from the time it was started until the engines were stopped some 32 hours later.

The other steaming tests included 30 hours at 15 knots, 30 hours at 20 knots—this made in a high gale with heavy seas—and two hours full speed using coal and oil fuel combined.

Alex W. Russell of the Granite Cutters International Association national office of this city addressed the pupils at Quincy High school this morning on the granite industry.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.



Save Your House—and Money

Weather-proof your house with paint that is elastic, clinching, lasting. Paint made from

Beyer Bauman White Lead
(Dutch Boy Painter Trade Mark)

and pure linseed oil will protect your house and save repair bills because it has those qualities.

It will beautify your home, for it can be tinted to suit your taste and your house's surroundings.

Our Owner's Painting Guide will help you in color selections, besides giving many paint truths. Get your copy now.

WILLIAM WESTLAND
QUINCY, MASS.

CHOIR DINNER CHRIST CHURCH

Prof. Wrigley Entertains and Receives a Present

The annual Choir dinner of Christ church was held at the home of Prof. F. Wrigley, 18 Washington street on Saturday evening. A bountiful dinner was served under the direction of Mrs. Wrigley whose abilities as a hostess are widely known.

The following menu was served by Miss E. Haslett, C. Hamlin, E. Hamlin and A. Wrigley:

Soups
Celery Consomme
Fillet of Sole
Roast Stuffed Turkey
Cranberry Sauce
Boiled Ham Baked Sausage
Celery, Creamed Potatoes, Turnip
Creamed Carrots
Peas Parsnips
Raspberry layer cake Grape Fruit
Strawberry Short cake and Whipped Cream
Strawberry Ices Ginger Ale
Cigars, Coffee, Roquefort

After dinner with a few well chosen words, Mr. Souther presented Mr. Wrigley with a gold mounted fountain pen in behalf of the late choir. Mr. Wrigley responded thanking them for the pen and their services in the past. Several selections were rendered by the choir with the professor at the piano. Some of the party adjourned to the billiard room, others enjoyed dancing and whist. The following members and their wives were present:

Mr. and Mrs. Haslet, Mr. and Mrs. C. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Souther, Mr. and Mrs. Macomber, Mr. and Mrs. Vanner, Elton Chase and Frank Wrigley, Jr.

MASTERS CUP PRESENTED

Numerals and Qs Awarded at High School

A Master's" Cup, given by the men teachers at Quincy High school, was presented to the Class of 1915 winners of the interclass basket ball championship, by Headmaster Ernest L. Collin, at High school this morning. It's presentation was the pleasantest surprise given the pupils this year and when announcement was made was received with thunderous applause.

The cup is of handsome design and is of silver. It bears the numerals of this year's champion class and will be an added incentive to class basket ball in years to come. The members of the team were awarded class numerals.

The players on the first team which closed its season Tuesday by defeating Winthrop and tieing that team for the second place in the Interscholastic league were given their school letters as were the second team men.

Captain Jenkins of this years team and Captain Earl Bates of next years team were accorded thrilling receptions and all ofte players receied fine applause. The affair was the best demonstration of class spirit and of future athletic growth that ever occured at the school.

The first team players receiving Q's were: Captain James Jenjins, Leon White, Horton Page, Gilbert Hamlin, Willard Crocker, Earl Bates, John L. Martin and Manager Frederick Atwood.

The second team Q's were awarded to Wesley Brown, Charles Mullin, Frederick Roache, James Matheson, Lincoln Crosscup, William Welsford and William Cummings.

The numerals of the 1915 class were given to Thomas Barstow, David Morrison, Albert McDonald, Loyal Safford, Arthur Bowen, Roebrt Davis and Frederick Roach, manager of next years school team.

JAPANESE NAVY.

The Japanese navy will not be as formidable as anticipated, because the appropriation for the construction of new ships for the Japanese Navy was reduced by the House of Peers on Friday by $15,000,000, bringing the figure down to $45,000,000. The reduction was adopted by 240 to 44 votes.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

MEMBER OF FIRST COUNCIL

Joseph W. Lovett Dies at Residence of Daughter

Joseph W. Lovett, a member of the first City Council from Ward Five, died Sunday at the home of his daughter, 2 Wilder street, Dorchester. Mr. Lovett was for many years a member of the firm of Smith & Lovett, iron workers on Albany street, Boston, and was a resident of Wollaston for many years, coming to this city from Boston. He continued to reside in Quincy up to a few years ago when he took up his residence with his daughter.

He took a deep interest in town affairs while a resident of Quincy, and when the form of government was changed he although not a politician consented to run for the office of Councilman and was elected. He was about 76 years of age.

RECENT DEATHS.

Alice Pollard, widow of John Pollard, and mother of Thomas B. Pollard principal of the Washington school and Charles R. Pollard of Germantown died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur B. Johnson at Camden, N. J. Mrs. Pollard was in her 83rd year and early in February suffered the effects of the extreme cold weather and never regained her health.

Mrs. Pollard formrly lived at Quincy Point where she had a large circle of friends and was prominent in affairs of the Washington Street Congregational church. She has lived in Camden the past three years.

Her funeral will be held there and the body will be sent to Lawrence, Mass., for burial. She also leaves another daughter, Mrs. Albert Candlin of Springfield, wife of a former principal of the Willard school of this city.

Charles W. Dailey of 126 Granite street, Braintree, died Sunday at Taunton. He conducted a farm at Five Corners for many years. He was in his 56th year.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Nichols, wife of George K. Nichols, died suddenly at her home at 14 Francis court this morning. Death was due to heart disease. She was in her 33rd year. Her body will be sent to Bath, Maine, on Tuesday, where burial will take place. Her husband is employed as a draftsman at the Fore River shipyard.

The body of Mrs. Mary M. Griswold of Brooklyn, N. Y., who lived in this city many years ago came here for burial on Sunday. The funeral was held from the undertaking rooms of John Hall, services being conducted by Rev. James A. Matheson of the First Presbyterian church. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston.

Mrs. James Whelan, wife of Patrolman Whelan of the Quincy Police department, died this afternoon at the home of her mother at 211 Willard street, after a short illness. She was in her 26th year and had a host of friends in West Quincy and East Milton. Mr. and Mrs. Whelan were married about two years ago.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held tonight, and promises to be a busy session. In addition to the report of the Finance Committee on the annual apropriations, there will be reports from several other committees on matters which have been referred to them. A public hearing is also scheduled to be held on the taking of certain land on Federal avenue for a crossing over the railroad tracks. This land is now used to a large extent by the general public as a short cut across the tracks and has been the scene of several fatal accidents. If the city takes that land it will mean a passage way across either bridge overhead or subway beneath the tracks.

The City Council Committee on Sewers and Drains took a trip about the city Saturday afternoon in an automobile looking at places where draining has become necessary. The committee has several of these orders before them.

The new office of the Mayor is now ready for the painters and it is expected that their work will be finished in a few days, so that the Mayor may occupy it. The new office will be a great improvement over the box, that has been used as the Mayor's office. It is provided with a large closet in which a wash bowl will later be located. It also has two large windows and there is plenty of opportunity for ventilation.

RUIN IN A CHINA SHOP.

A Crash That Spelled Agony For the London Curio Dealer.

George Robey, the comedian, frequently drops in for a chat with a dealer in London. In the outer room are vases and jars, cups, groups and sets of pieces valued at anything from 50 to 500 guineas. Inside is the proprietor's private apartment. To reach him you gingerly pick your way through the thousands of pounds' worth of valuable china.

"One day not long ago," Robey says, "I had been chatting within, and a friend was waiting for me in the outer room. As I bade the dealer 'Good morning' and was about to pass into the outer room there came a dreadful crashing of broken china. My friend turned upon me an eye glassy with anguish. Never shall I forget the proprietor's expression of supreme horror as he rushed from his sanctum and saw my friend and myself standing amid the debris of broken chinaware which lay strewn around our feet. He was speechless—choking.

"Legal proceedings? Five thousand pounds? In a word, what was the damage, you inquire. Well, I am sorry to have to confess it, for the proprietor was in bed for a week as the result of the shock, but it was a gag prearranged. For my friend, who had brought with him a couple of dozen cheap soup plates, had, at a given signal from me, dropped them in a heap upon the floor."—London Answers.

FLYING FOXES OF INDIA.

During the Day They Sleep In Trees, Hanging Head Downward.

People who have lived in India are familiar with the long strings of flying foxes which can often be seen wending their way in single file from their sleeping places in remote trees to the fruit gardens upon which they prey.

These curious creatures, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, sometimes measure as much as four feet across the wings and have reddish brown fur and mole colored wings. After their nocturnal depredations they fly away with the dawn to a tree in some isolated place and there rest during the day, hanging head downward from the boughs in the manner of bats, clutching the branch with their feet.

As the flying foxes gather on the tree selected there is a tremendous commotion, for each newcomer is vigorously driven off from one place after another until he eventually manages to secure a perch for himself. Those on the tree meanwhile keep up an incessant wrangling, each endeavoring to secure the highest and best place to rest on. Sometimes many hundreds of these destructive creatures may be seen hanging from the branches of a large tree.

When opportunity offers they are often shot, and some of the natives consider their flesh a delicacy, though it hardly appeals to Europeans.

A Personal Preference.

A well known magazine writer moved not so very long ago from Brooklyn to California. On the day before the family started west he went for a walk through the neighborhood with his four-year-old son.

"I suppose," said the father, "that you'll be sorry to leave all your little chums here?"

The youngster thought he would. At that he did not seem to show much emotion at the prospect of parting from all his friends.

"Which one will you miss the most?" inquired the parent.

The boy was not sure.

"Now," pressed his father, "which little boy of all the little boys you know do you like the best?"

The little chap considered a minute before answering.

"Well," he said at last, "I guess I like myself pretty well!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Uses of Menu Cards.

"It wouldn't take so many menu cards to carry us through at dinner," said the head waiter, "if people didn't scribble so many notes on them and make them unfit for use. Memoranda of all kinds are jotted down on these cards during a meal. Arithmetical puzzles are solved, the particulars of business deals are worked out, financial problems are wrestled with, sonnets are composed, and social engagements are made and broken. The fact is I have seen about everything written on a menu card except a popular novel, and no doubt I've found the plots of some of them."—New York Times.

Fickle.

"Popularity is very fickle," exclaimed the offhand orator.

"What's the trouble?"

"Every time I get a crowd interested in my remarks an automobile tire blows out and the audience rushes off to see what the matter is."—Washington Star.

Wonderful Mouse.

"Oh, mamma," exclaimed small Willie, "I'm sure there is a great big mouse in my bedroom!"

"Did you see it, dear?" she asked.

"No, I didn't see the mouse," replied Willie, "but I heard it wagging its tail."—Chicago News.

To Share a Confidence Binds.

Confidence always pleases those who receive it. It is a tribute to their merit, a deposit we commit to their trust, a pledge that gives them a claim upon us, a kind of dependence to which we voluntarily submit.—La Rochefoucauld.

Being our own master means that we are at liberty to be the slave of our own follies, caprices and passions.—Schiller.

NEWSY BRIEFS

For the third time in the past few years William Westland is confined to his home with pneumonia.

Chief of Police Burrell is confined to his home with a severe cold. He has been in the house for several days, and is repotted as being better today.

Although the snow and ice have practically disappeared in and about City Square there is still considerable snow and ice on the streets in the outlying districts. There is a lot of snow and ice all about the country, which probably accounts for the chilly air that still prevails.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Pinkham have been entertaining Miss Emily Pease and Miss Gertrude Pease of Quincy, Illinois, who took considerable pleasure in visiting the Dorothy Quincy house, the Quincy mansion and other historic sights.

Bishop Yasback of Boston, Syrian bishop of the Boston diocese, officiated at the services for Sid Abbo in St. Johns church Sunday afternoon. His funeral was held from his home at 56 Winter street and was attended by the greater number of Syrian residents of Quincy Point. There were many floral remembrances. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The Woman's Exchange of the Wollaston Woman's Club will not have its usual food sale tomorrow at the meeting of the club on account of its being reciprocity day and the room being necessary for the large attendance expected of club members and guests. The meeting is to be at the Park and Downs Church.

Sunday was the first real spring like day of the season and as a result there were many people about. The attendance at all churches in the morning was unusually large and in the afternoon many improved the opportunity for an afternoon walk. Thousands of automobiles were also out in the afternoon.

At the meeting of the Granite City Club Saturday evening, announcement was made that the annual banquet of the club would be held at Alpha hall on Tuesday evening, April 28. The program as usual will include a banquet at 7.30 to be followed by a vaudeville entertainment. A committee to nominate officers to be elected at the April meeting was also appointed Saturday evening.

A large delegation of Loyal Ladies of Clan MacGregor attended the funeral of Mrs. Katies H. Cormack, wife of Henry Cormack which was held Saturday afternoon from her home at 53 Town Hill street. Rev. James A. Matheson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated, after which the burial service of the Loyal Ladies was performed by officers of that organization. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

WEST POINT APPOINTMENT.

Congress Gilmore of this district informs the Daily Ledger that he has just received from the civil service commissioners the result of the examinations given by them for the purpose of choosing a candidate for the West Point cadetship appointment. Edward L. Barrett, Jr., 688 River street, Hyde Park, is number one on the list and will be named by me for the place. Otto M. Jank, 1414 Hyde Park avenue, Hyde Park, is number two on the list and will be named as first alternate. Palfrey L. Mather, Orono street, Milton, is number three on the list and will be named second alternate. I agreed to make my choice of the three highest on the list. They all take the regular government examinations held March 31, 1914.

☞PRATT'S BREAD is best because more care is used in the making. Grocers.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Walter S. Redding late of Quincy in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Clara F. Whiton of said Quincy without giving a surety on her bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twelfth day of March A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE,
Register.

Mar. 16-3t 16-23-30

A MEMORIAL.

At a meeting of the Norfolk South District Medical Society the following memorial was adopted:

Deeply sensible of its loss by the death of Dr. John Frederick Welch of Quincy, the Norfolk South District Medical Society desires to record the great respect and high esteem in which he was held.

Graduating in 1880 from Bellevue Hospital Medical College, his career is an example of a self-made man of the best type. Frank and outspoken in manner and ever loyal to his friends, he has always stood for honorable conduct and high ideals in the medical profession and in the community.

As a member of the Society, for many years its secretary, and its president in 1905 and 1906, he has been active in its support, and his wise conservatism and good judgment have been invaluable. For more than a generation he has practised his profession with unceasing devotion, attaining a high reputation by his skill, and enlisting the love of his patients to a marked degree. Although no longer with us, his memory is an inspiration and his example forms a perpetual ideal for his associates.

JOHN A. GORDON, M. D.
NATHANIEL S. HUNTING, M. D.
OLIVER H. HOWE, M. D.
Committee on Resolutions.

Quincy, March 3, 1914.

16-1t

Alexander G. Findlay of Seattle, Washington, royal chief of the Order of Scottish Clans, was the guest of 500 members, representing every clan in Massachusetts, at a reception and entertainment in Boston Saturday night.

FREE HALF DOZEN BEAUTIFUL SPOONS FREE

To acquaint you with the very latest, daintiest, most deliciously flavored surprising attraction in confection "LA RITA" Chocolates, we will give absolutely free six beautiful "Cuban Pattern" Extra Crown Brand silver teaspoons. A fortunate purchase of this celebrated silverware and our certainty that you'll buy our LA RITA Chocolates after one taste, prompts us to make this generous offer. La RITA Chocolates are a dollar a pound everywhere.

Upon receipt of $1.00 and the names of five lovers of good candy in your locality we will send you postpaid a full size box of LA RITA Chocolates with the six teaspoons. There is no other way you can spend a dollar and get such delicious surprising flavors and absolute purity.

PURITY CANDY COMPANY.
P. O. Box 91 Middletown, Ohio

MARRIAGES

WHYNOT—Rundle— In Middleboro, March 14, by Rev. A. C. Gilmore, John Whynot of Halifax and Miss Mittie Rundle of Quincy.

DEATHS

GOODALE—At Daytona, Fla., suddenly, March 9, Emma M. Goodale, daughter of the late George W. and Martha Newton Goodale, formerly of Dorchester, Mass. Funeral services at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Arthur W. Bartlett, 21 Lowell street, North Weymouth, Mass., Wednesday, March 18, at 2 P. M.

WHELAN—In West Quincy, March 16, Mrs. James Whelan, wife of Patrolman Whelan, at the home of her mother, Catherine C. Kelly, 211 Willard street.

CRIMMINS—In Weymouth, March 15, Mrs. Catherine, widow of Thomas Crimmins.

FARRELL—In Milton, March 15, Mrs. Ellen, widow of John Farrell, aged 74 years.

LOVETT—In Roxbury, March 15, at the residence of his daughter, Joseph W. Lovett formerly of Wollaston.

POLLARD—In Camden, N. J., Alice, widow of John Pollard, of Camden, N. J., formerly of Quincy Point, in her 83rd year.

NICHOLS—In Quincy, March 16, Elizabeth, wife of George K. Nichols of 14 Francis court, formerly of Bath, Maine.

GRISWOLD—In Brooklyn, N. Y., Mar. 13, Mary M. Griswold, formerly of this city.

DAILEY—In Taunton, March 15, Charles W. Dailey of 126 Granite street, Braintree.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

MEMORIAL.

g of the Norfolk South al Society the following adopted:
ible of its loss by the John Frederick Welch of Norfolk South District
y desires to record the and high estoem in which in 1880 from Bellevue cal College, his career of a self-made man of Frank and outspoken nd ever loyal to his s always stood for hon-

t and high ideals in the ssion and in the comer of the Society, for its secretary, and its 905 and 1906, he has its support, and his ism and good judgment luable. For more than e has practised his pro-nceasing devotion, at-reputation by his skill, he love of his patients to

ee. Although no longer emory is an inspiration le forms a perpetual ssociates.
ORDON, M. D.
EL S. HUNTING, M. D.
. HOWE, M. D.
mittee on Resolutions.
h 3, 1914.

16-1t

. Findlay of Seattle,
yal chief of the Order lans, was the guest of representing every clan ts, at a reception and in Boston Saturday

LF DOZEN FREE
TIFUL SPOONS
you with the very la-most deliciously flav-attraction in confec-
A" Chocolates, we will free six beautiful "Cu-
Extra Crown Brand sil-
A fortunate purchase ted silverware and our you'll buy our LA RITA
r one taste, prompts us generous offer. La es are a dollar a pound of $1.00 and the names of good candy in your ill send you postpaid a

of LA RITA Chocolates aspoons. There is no can spend a dollar and ious surprising flavors urity.
CANDY COMPANY.
Middletown, Ohio

ARRIAGES

ndle— In Middleboro,
by Rev. A. C. Gilmore, t of Halifax and Miss e of Quincy.

DEATHS

Daytona, Fla., sudden-
, Emma M. Goodale, the late George W. and ton Goodale, formerly of Mass. Funeral services nce of her sister, Mrs.
artlett, 21 Lowell street,
outh, Mass., Wednesday,
2 P. M.

West Quincy, March 16, Whelan, wife of Patrol-at the home of her
erine C. Kelly, 211 Wil-

Weymouth, March 15, e, widow of Thomas

Milton, March 15, Mrs. of John Farrell, aged

Roxbury, March 15, at of his daughter, Joseph merly of Wollaston.

Camden, N. J., Alice,
n Pollard, of Camden,
y of Quincy Point, in

Quincy, March 16, Eliz-George K. Nichols of urt, formerly of Bath,

Brooklyn, N. Y., Mar-
Griswold, formerly of

Taunton, March 15, ailey of 126 Granite ree.

0 Telephone
N HALL
DIRECTOR
Ambulance Service
Street, Quincy, Mass.

n's Garage
Taxi Service
rage and Supplies
Day and Night.
Touring Cars for all rner Washington and e.
NNIMAN, Prop.
hone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 64 QUINCY, MASS TUESDAY EVENING MARCH 17 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

SOME DEBATE OVER ANNUAL APPROPRIATIONS

But No Amendments Are Made and Order Is Ordered to Second Reading--Question for City Solicitor

City Council Flops on Navy Yard Contract and Adopts Resolution Against Equipment of Boston Navy Yard

Two or three short but spirited debates livened up the meeting of the City Council Monday evening. These debates were on the budget, on a resolution to amend the City Charter, and on a resolution relative to the shipyard. Every member of the Council was present and there was a large attendance of citizens.

PUBLIC RECORDS.

The Mayor forwarded a communication relative to repairing the safes and vaults where public records are kept at City Hall. He also enclosed a communication from the Commissioner of Public Records' office, stating the condition in which he had found the safes and vaults, and ordering them changed so as to remove any wooden material in them. The Mayor estimated the cost of the changes necessary at $299. Referred to Finance Committee.

APPOINTMENTS.

Communications were received from the Mayor making the following appointments.

Constables, Joseph Hayes and Paul C. Hersey. Confirmed.

Appointing William L. Buckley as chairman of Assessors. Placed on file.

Appointing the following Assistant Assessors, Francis M. Curtis, G. Wesley Sargent, August Weeden, Jeremiah J. Lyons, Charles R. Sherman, Benjamin F. Thomas. Placed on file.

AUTO FIRE ENGINE.

A communication was received from the Board of Trade relative to the auto fire engine building at the Fore River shipyard. Laid on the table until later, when Councilman Williams offered a resolve requesting the Mayor to extend an invitation to the Fore River Corp. to try out its new fire apparatus in Quincy, and for a committee consisting of the Mayor, President of the Council and three members of the Council to make arrangements for the entertaining of visiting firemen on the day of the try out; also an order appropriating $100 to be expended by the committee in entertaining visitors. Resolve and order adopted.

President Whiton appointed as the committee from the Council, Councilmen Ross, Richards and Bailey.

PETITIONS.

A petition of the American Telephone Co., for a location for poles on Willard street was referred to the Committee on Streets.

A petition was received for the building a part of Phillips street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition for a granolithic sidewalk on Davis street was referred to the Committee on Streets.

Councilman Ross presented a petition for the rebuilding of Quincy street between Marsh and Water streets. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Ross presented a petition for accepting Federal avenue extension from Independence avenue to Federal avenue. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Barker presented a petition for the acceptance of Everett street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition for a playground at Houghs Neck was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Councilman Carlson presented a petition for the acceptance of Warwick street and location of street lights on the same. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Carlson presented a petition for the acceptance of Arnold street and street lights on the same. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition from the Street Railway Co., for attachments on Sea street, and from the Telephone Co., for attachments on Fayette street, were granted.

A large number of applications for minor licenses were received and referred to the Committee on Licenses.

NEW COUNCILMAN.

The Committee on Elections reported the result of the special election in Ward Three which was declared to have been as read. Councilman-elect Charles F. Barnicoat was then sworn in by City Clerk Crane and assigned to seat 13. The president also assigned him as a member of the Committee on Water Supply and Committee on Ordinanaces.

NEW CROSSING.

A public hearing was held at 8 o'clock on accepting a lot of land between Federal avenue and the railroad tracks for a crossing over the tracks. Andrew Milne, Alfred Pinel and George Gauthier appeared in favor and told to what extent the crossing was used and on a request for a show of hands in favor 22 were counted.

The Mayor said that the order proposed to take the whole of the lot, but he thought that a strip 16 feet wide would be sufficient as it would never be possible to build a street across the tracks at this point. Then again the owner of the lot did not desire to sell the whole lot for the price named.

The hearing closed and the order was recommitted.

ANNUAL APPROPRIATIONS.

The Finance Committee reported the annual appropriation order which will be printed in full in Wedensdays Ledger. The order differs but little from the estimates sent in by the Mayor. The changes in brief are: The amount for Mayors Miscellaneous has been cut from $2,500 to $1,500, thus knocking off the amount with which the Chief Executive intended to buy a buzz wagon to go about the city. The next cut is in the appropriation for the Inspector of Buildings, the sum of $800 being taken from his Miscellaneous. This sum was also intended to buy a buzz wagon for the Inspector. The third and last cut is the appropriation of $1,000 for horses for the Fire department. The only addition made was to the amount of removal of snow which at the Mayor's request was increased from $3,000 to $4,000. The net increase of the budget therefore amounts to $1,800, leaving the total amount to be appropriated for current expenses at $537,977.94. The order was ordered to a second reading.

Councilman Craig asked the Commissioner in regard to the item for street lighting.

Commissioner Brown said that the contract was for all-night lighting, but under the amount named in the budget, $33,000, probably meant lighting until 1 o'clock only.

Councilman Craig also asked the School Committee how it was that the item for salaries had been so much increased from a year ago.

Chairman Mackay replied that the increase of teachers salaries dated from Jan. 1. Under the law the School Committee had authority to fix the

(Continued on Page Six.)

AT THE FOY STORES

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

LENTEN OFFERINGS

We have a large assortment of the Finest Fish that's canned. Not only do we guarantee the quality to be the best, but we assure you that every single can is FRESH—without exception, of the latest pack. Let us have your order, please.

CANNED SALMON

Columbia River Pink Salmon 10c — 3 Cans 25c

Arctic Red SALMON 15c (In Tall Cans)

SELECTED SALMON STEAK

The Choicest Parts of the Choicest Fish

15c can and Fancy Red 22c can

CANNED CRAB MEAT From Japan 25c can large can 40c

TUNA FISH (Chicken of the Ocean) large can 23c

REAL BOSTON CODFISH BALLS all Prepared—new 25c can

"CRISFIELD" FRESH OYSTERS 25c pt Solid Packed in Sealed Cartons

R. E. FOY & COMPANY

March 16-2t

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, Tel. Quincy 1745 W. City Square
March 16-6t

DANCING
— AT —
ALPHA HALL
St. Patrick's Day Night
March 14-3t

CONCERT A GREAT SUCCESS

Pierian Sodality Appear at The Wollaston School Hall

The Pierian Sodality orchestra of Harvard University gave its postponed concert, under the auspices of the Samoset club, in the Wollaston School hall on Monday evening with great success. From the first number until the concluding strains of "Soldiers Field" rang out it was a musical treat and the audience of over 350 that were present volleyed their applause again and again.

The concert of Monday evening was held to replace that given in Alpha hall last week Thursday, when it was necessary to give an impromptu program because the auto truck carrying most of the instruments from Cambridge to Quincy broke down.

Tickets for Thursday were again honored at the second concert and the audience expressed its pleasure at the generosity of the arrangements made.

On Monday evening the scheduled program was followed except that instead of the Italian trio the orchestra was assisted by Fay Roope, tenor of the Harvard Glee club, William Hewitt pianist, and a string quartet composed of W. B. Feiger, first violin, A. Belden, Jr., second violin; A. S. Coolidge, viola and L. B. Rosback cello.

Mr. Roope was greeted with great enthusiasm upon each appearance and received many merited encores. His voice at all times was well under control and the pieces selected were well suited for his voice. His singing was easily the most popular feature of the concert.

The program opened with two numbers by the orchestra, "Two Hungarian dances" by Brahms and ballet music from Gounod's "Faust." The orchestra was directed by E. H. Barry, '15, and each number meant an insistent call for an encore.

Mr. Roope contributed "still as the night" by Bohm, and "I love thee truly." "Sandman's song" and "Evensong" from "Haensel und Gretel" by Humperdinck were the next offerings of the orchestra.

Part one closed with bright catchy music from Sullivan's "Pinafore" introducing "Buttercup," "We sail the ocean blue," "A gallant Englishman," and other familiar strains.

The string quartet opened part two. Mr. Roope rendered "Dream" by Batlett and "Obstination" by Compe, being recalled several times. The minuet and barcarolle from "Les Contes d'Hoffman" by Offenbach were played by the orchestra.

Piano solos by William Hewitt were next in order, and he was twice recalled. His first number was the "First novelette" by Schumann.

The final number was the rousing Harvard piece "Veritas" by Densmore with "Soldiers' Field" as an encore.

The Samoset club of which Lucien Thayer is president is to be congratulated on the excellent entertainment presented, which promises to be but one of a number of similar affairs. Thirty-five well known ladies were patronesses..

GEORGE P. BERRY PASSES AWAY

George P. Berry, brother of Mrs. J. W. Dennen of the City Square cafe, and one of the most popular residents of West Quincy, died this morning in East Milton after a long illness. He was in his 43rd year.

Mr. Berry was the son of the late John and the late Annie Berry. His boyhood was spent in West Quincy and in early youth he learned the blacksmith trade which pursuit he followed until his health became poor.

Some few months ago he went west in an effort to regain his health but was unsuccessful. He returned to East Milton two months ago.

Mr. Berry is survived by his wife, who is a sister of former Representatice John J. Gallagher of East Milton, five children, and three sisters, Mrs. Joseph W. Dennen, Mrs. James Ogle and Mrs. Annie Johnson, all of Quincy.

TURKEY SUPPER IS SERVED

Gentlemen The Guests of Rebekah Sewing Circle.

Covers were laid for 24 at the turkey supper served on Monday evening at Odd Fellows' hall by the sewing circle of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, when gentlemen were guests, and it was a very select and enjoyable affair. Green predominated in the decorations which may account for the presence of the two bachelors. Of course they do not know much about married life. The supper was an excellent one, and included turkey and all the fixings, pies, cake, etc. Games and dancing followed.

The feast was enjoyed by Mrs. Sadie M. Wood and Mr. Wood, Mrs. Annie I. Pushee and Mr. Pushee, Mrs. Sadie M. Walker and Mr. Walker, Mrs. Grace S. Welch and Mr. Welch, Mrs. Mabel Spargo and Mr. Spargo, Mrs. Kate Prout and Mr. Prout, Mrs. Hannah M. Sandberg and Representative Sandberg, Mrs. Lillian Baker and Mr. Baker, Mrs. Marie Hall and Mr. Hall, Mrs. Maud Richardson and Mr. Richardson, Mrs. Emma Marnock and Archibald F. Macleod, Mrs. Mary Jones and Arthur W. Stetson.

IN HONOR OF ST. PATRICK

Land League Have Supper, Addresses And Songs

Quincy Branch, No. 61, United Irish Land League, the oldest organization of the kind in the country, celebrated the eve of St Patrick's day in Cahill's hall Tuesday night with a lengthy and interesting program.

President Peter McConarty opened the exercises with a speech of welcome to the members and friends who were present to the number of 200, after which there was an informal discussion of the Home Rule question.

Typical songs were sung by James McVey, and John Queenan gave a specialty which included Irish jig and reel steps and Irish songs. Dancing followed, music being furnished by Alex McDonald and Daniel Chisolm. Donald Aboo was sung by Peter McConarty and Patrick McInaw sang St. Patrick's day.

Later in the evening a supper was served at which the members responded to various toasts. Our Absent brothers was responded to by George Cahill.

Vice President Samuel T. Drew, the only Cape Cod Yankee that ever held office, who joined because of his love for freedom, was presented with a large bunch of shamrock.

Mr. Drew also read some original verses written by Daniel T. McCarthy entitled "When Ireland's dream comes true."

The affair closed at midnight.

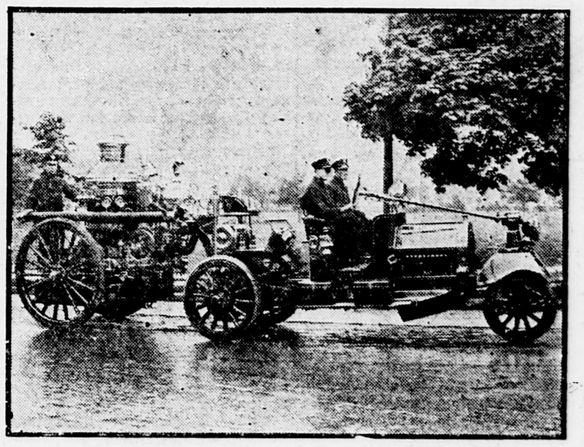
FEAST OF ST. PATRICK

Observed in The Catholic Churches of City

Many of the Catholics of the city attended masses today in observance of the Feast of St. Patrick, patron saint of Ireland. At the church of the Sacred Heart a high mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. John P. Cuffe pastor, and at St. Johns church Rev. Fr. Walter A. Quinlan celebrated a high mass. The masses at St. Mary's church were celebrated by Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy pastor, and Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy curate. The school session at the St. Johns parish school was suspended this afternoon.

Truck Show Number

See Pages 1, 3 and 4



Knox-Marlin tractor attached to steam fire engine as now used extensively for motorizing horse-drawn apparatus.

NINE LIVING OF FIRST COUNCIL

The death on Sunday of ex-Councilman Joseph W. Lovett leaves but nine living who were members of the first City Council. These nine are William B. Glover, John C. Kapples and Herbert T. Whitman at large, Frank B. Foster of Ward One, John R. Graham of Ward Two, Thomas Curtis of Ward Thre, George F. Pinkham and Henry O. Fairbanks of Ward Five and Elijah G. Hall of Ward Six. Mr. Lovett's death was the first break in the list of Councilmen from Ward Five

$800 MORE FOR CLUBHOUSE

At the meeting of the members and directors of the Sachem club held Monday evening it was announced that $800 had been raised the past week bringing the margin, between the amount raised and the $15,000 necessary to start building operations, down to $1700.

A systematic canvass is underway and the comimttee expects before next week, not only to have raised the $15,-

(Continued on Page Six.)

MOTOR TRUCK SHOW

MARCH 17 to 21

Opens Tonight

MECHANICS BUILDING

EVERY DAY--10 A. M. to 10.30 P. M.

WITH SAME GORGEOUS DECORATIONS USED IN PLEASURE CAR SHOWS

Personal Direction--CHESTER I. CAMPBELL

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889.

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

RETAIL TRADE IN MARCH.

In the calendar of retail trade, every month has its own individual characteristics. March is a time when the public, by following newspaper advertising, can still pick up some goods at low prices, which the merchant dislikes to carry over until fall. But the principal characteristic of the month is in the news about the spring styles.

The warmth of the returning sunlight sparkles in these announcements. The descriptions of light clothing in gay shades suggest all the fascinations of summer travel, sport, and outdoor life. It is a pleasure to read the spring advertising, merely as a presage of the "good old summertime."

March is the time in which people of taste and discrimination enjoy shopping because the assortments of goods are more complete than they will be later. Economically minded people ask anxiously, however, whether things are going to cost more now than if bought later.

Here is where it is up to the merchant to tell what he has been doing. He has been planning for this spring campaign for months past. If he has been alert and watchful, and well informed, he has found opportunities to build up his stock at prices that will please the public.

Not every merchant is able to buy at right prices in these times of shams. To do so calls for extended experience in a given line, thorough information about methods of manufacturing, and the gift for driving a good bargain. The man who is bright and alert enough to cope successfully with these conditions does not sit down in a corner of the business district and wait for the public to come to him. The same qualities of enterprise that appear in his buying appear in his selling. You will find his story in the advertising columns of the newspaper. It is worth your while to read it.

The only way the editor of the little country paper can get free transportation out of the railroads nowadays is to become a trust magnate, and get the free service of which the Commerce Commission is now complaining.

The American Bar Association is working for speedier court procedure in spite of all the trouble many lawyers have to make a living now.

The principal development in the educational world of late is the flocking of the people to the dancing schools.

Senator Kern is agitating against the newspapers that print reports of executive sessions. If the Senate will open the doors, the reporters, won't bother to print much of anything.

Four inches of snow in the Brooklyn ball team's training camp, yet for some reason the players don't seem to realize that shoveling snow is excellent exercise.

The authorities are now proposing to interfere with the diversions of New York life by electrocuting next April four of the leading gunmen.

King George and 30,000 Britishers saw the two American teams play ball at London a few days ago. Thus civilization spreads, even in darkest England.

It is about time for Gen. Carranza to show up whether he is the head of the Mexican Constitutionalist movement, or only Pancho Villa's errand boy.

A Rochester, N. Y., man called at the White House to borrow $2,000,000,000, and was turned down, in spite of the fact that the people voted for currency reform to supply just such needs.

Piles Cured in 6 to 14 Days
Druggists refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. First application gives relief. 50c.

SHED NO LIGHT ON $400 FUND

Boston Firemen Exhibit a Great Lack of Memory

MYSTERY STILL UNEXPLAINED

Lawyer Tells Finance Commission What He Did In Return For Money Paid Him to Secure Increase In Salaries—Prison Officials Also Had to "Dig" to Get Raise

Boston, March 17.—The finance commission's investigation of the raise of the salaries of Boston firemen came to a close after a forgetful delegation of firemen failed to remember anything about the mysterious "$400 fund."

Attorney Carroll, former acting fire commissioner, explained what he did in return for $6125 paid him by the officers and members of the department as their counsel in securing the salary increases.

About a dozen members of the fire department, including Commissioner Grady, captains, lieutenants and privates, testified. The testimony showed that, in order to secure their raises, district chiefs paid $30 each, captains and lieutenants $20 and the Russell club of privates $2800 in all. The $400 fund of the Russell club is still unexplained.

Attorney Sughrue, for the finance commission, attempted to get at the bottom of the "$400 fund" but had to give it up. Lieutenant Dermody, former secretary of the Russell club, and all the other officers and members who testified, could remember nothing about it. Dermody could not even identify a letter which the commission's agent said the lieutenant wrote in his own handwriting for the commission a short time ago.

Carroll explained how it was that he was employed as counsel for the Officers' club of the fire department only three days before Mayor Fitzgerald sent his letter to the council recommending their salary increases.

Carroll said that while the officers were not formally incorporated until one month before he was employed, they understood that the efforts being made were for the officers as well as men. The attorney for the commission did not question Carroll at great length on this point.

At the conclusion of the fire department investigation the finance commission took up the salary increases of the officers at Deer island. The house of correction officers who testified said the increases resulted in dissatisfaction among the men.

Attorney Creed, who was counsel for the officers, said only four of sixty-five officers paid him for assisting them in getting their raise. They agreed to pay him their first month's increase, but only four showed up with the money, he said.

After it had been brought out in the fire department investigation that Carroll had received $2800 from the firemen and $3325 from the officers Carroll explained what he did for the money. Aside from directing the campaign for what the firemen believed was adequate compensation for their work, Carroll also furnished legal advice to individual firemen on personal matters and acted as counsel for the fire fighters on many matters other than the salary question.

HAD AUTOMATIC GUNS

Masked Man Aims Them at Engineer of an Express Train

Plymouth, Mass., March 17.—Aiming two automatic pistols at the engineer, a masked man leaped from the bushes in West Plymouth and made an attempt to hold up an express from Providence to New York.

Only the gathering speed of the train on a down grade prevented the attempt from being successful, it is believed, as the cars went safely past and no shot was fired.

Women in the coaches screamed as they saw the supposed highwayman, and men scrambled to get out of range of the ugly looking pistols.

LAST BODY RECOVERED

Remains of All the Thirty Victims of St. Louis Fire Are Found

St. Louis, March 17.—The thirtieth and what is believed to be the last body has been removed from the ruins of the Missouri Athletic club. The body was identified as that of William A. Hunicks, a civil engineer.

The body of Thomas Shine, a typewriter salesman, and of Marx Hammer of St. Louis, have been identified. This leaves five bodies not identified.

Ecuador Rebels Win Battle

Guayaquil, March 17.—President Plaza and his government army are reported to have been defeated in a battle at or near Esmeraldas. The rebels are pursuing the shattered federal army.

A Hero In Disguise

New York, March 17.—Thousands saw a hobo brave death in the Bronx river to save Frank Longo, who went through the ice. When the rescue was made the hobo fled.

Women's Club of Divorcees

Paris, March 17.—A new women's club has just been founded in Paris. Divorce is a necessary qualification for membership.

PAGE INCIDENT CLOSED

Full Report of Speech Shows Ambassador Was Misquoted

Washington, March 17.—Ambassador Page's explanation of his London speech touching upon the Monroe doctrine and the Panama tolls repeal is satisfactory to President Wilson, who regards the incident closed so far as the administration is concerned.

When a full report of the speech is received, it will be forwarded to the senate, which asked for it by Senator Chamberlain's resolution.

President Wilson said that any agitation over Page's references was caused by a misunderstanding of what the ambassador said, and that a fuller report of the speech showed that the ambassador had correctly stated the situation. The president is satisfied that Page referred to the Panama repeal as "not to please England," instead of "not merely to please England."

KILLED BY HIS CHUM

Bullet From Rifle Passes Through Neck of Vermont Schoolboy

South Poultney, Vt., March 17.—Hayden Morris was called from school by his 11-year-old friend, William Morris, who is no relation, and was shot down and killed. After investigation the police said the shooting was accidental and took no action against William.

The sound of the shot stampeded the other children from their lessons. William was so overcome by his deed that he tried to shoot himself, but was restrained by the teacher, Miss Anna F. Dunne.

The police believe that William called at the school to show his rifle, and that while pointing it playfully the weapon was discharged. The bullet passed through Hayden's neck.

NORWEGIAN SHIP LOOTED BY PIRATES

Overpower Six Europeans on Steamer Off Hong Kong

Hong Kong, March 17.—Pirates boarded and looted the Norwegian steamer Childar off this port, carrying off booty to the value of $30,000 after overpowering, binding and gagging the six Europeans on board.

The steamer was carrying fifty native passengers and as she was lying outside the armed desperadoes sprang over the bulwarks, seized the officers and began their search for loot. The interior of the vessel was badly damaged by the band before they disappeared over the sides and escaped by the river in junks.

FOUND BURNED IN CELLAR

Police Investigating Mysterious Death of Lowell Woman

Lowell, Mass., March 17.—Investigation of the death of Mrs. John Bamfield, who was found burned to death in the cellar of her home under peculiar circumstances, has been started by the police.

So far as the officers have been able to learn there was no stove or furnace in the cellar, the house was not damaged by fire and there was nothing to indicate the cause of the blaze.

Firemen responding to a call from an excited foreigner found the woman's body sitting in a half upright position against the cellar wall.

THREE THOUSAND IDLE

Strike of Print Mill Employes Affects Lawrence Operatives

Lawrence, Mass., March 17.—Three thousand workers in the Pacific mills were thrown out of work by the strike of 250 employes of the print works connected with the mills.

The strikers are mostly boys—colormixers, soapers and others. A committee went from them to the management, demanding a raise of a cent and a half an hour, to 16 cents. The management refused to grant the raise. Then the boys went on strike.

The mills were closed down until the boys' places can be filled.

BENNETT SERIOUSLY ILL

Newspaper Man Reported Suffering From Severe Fever

London, March 17.—James Gordon Bennett, owner of the New York Herald, is seriously ill aboard his yacht Lysistrata, at Suez, according to a dispatch received here.

Bennett is reported to be suffering from a severe fever. He has been on a three weeks' cruise.

New York, March 17.—Dispatches from London announcing the illness of James Gordon Bennett were discredited at the office of the New York Herald.

Beats Officer and Escapes

Malden, Mass., March 17.—George W. Holt, 21 years old, who was held in $2000 bonds for the grand jury in court here, charged with a felonious assault on a young girl, and who later beat into unconsciousness Policeman Louis Tyzzer and effected a sensational escape, is still at large.

Canteen Charge Probed

Newport, R. I., March 17.—A naval court of inquiry heard testimony in connection with an alleged shortage of several hundred dollars' worth of commissary stores from the canteen at the naval training station. The sitting was secret.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Board of Health at Odds Over Inspector

Things have not been running quite as smoothly in the office of the Board of Health of late as might be expected. The trouble which started about two weeks ago came to a head Monday evening, at a meeting of the board which was prolonged until 11.30, and then when an adjournment was taken until this evening the matter had not been settled.

The disagreement started soon after the services of Harry Loud had been dispensed with as foreman of the department. It was understood at that time that the services of a foreman would no longer be required but it was soon found one was necessary.

Then according to reports John C. Murray, the chairman of the Board, conceived the idea that he would act as foreman. The salary as chairman of the Board was not sufficient for a man to give his whole time to the office and it was figured out that if he drew $16 a week in addition to his salary as chairman he would get a fair living out of it.

There was considerable discussion about the hall if a man could hold the office of chairman of the board and the office of foreman at the same time and draw salary for both. The pay roll went through, however, last week and Mr. Murray drew the salary as foreman.

Some of the members of the board did not like the idea but could find nothing in the charter to forbid it. The Civil Service Commissioners said that a man acting as foreman must come under their rules and a few days later an examination for foreman was scheduled, which means that as soon as a list is established the appointment will have to be made from that list.

Mr. Musgrave of the Board was one of the most strenuous objectors to the plan now in vogue, and he is the man who has brought it to a head.

At Monday nights session the matter was gone into thoroughly and while no definite action was taken it seems to be the impression this morning that at tonights meeting Mr. Murray will resign as chairman of the board and accept the position as foreman, and that Mr. Musgrave will step into the position as chairman of the board. Just what will happen when a civil service list is established and the Civil Service Commission insist on an appointment being made under its rules is hard to determine.

The City Council Committee on Finance will meet Friday evening. The Committee on Streets go out on a view of the streets Saturday afternoon, and the Committee on Fire Department go to the Fore River shipyards Sunday afternoon to see the piece of fire apparatus now building at that plant.

The same old controversy between the School Committee and city officials is again on tap. The School Committee claim that the Mayor had no right to cut its budget while the Mayor claims that under chapter 719 of 1913 he has a right. The resolution of Councilman Ericson Monday night asks what right the Mayor had to cut the budget, and it is said this morning that the School Committee are determined to find out whether they are figure heads or what power they have, all of which would seem to give the City Solicitor food for reflection.

NEW OFFICERS COPELAND CLUB

The Copeland Club of West Quincy an organization of young men of Ward Four have elected Arthur Leary president; John D. Smith, vice president; George S. Hebert, financial secretary, L. G. McLeod, treasurer; P. J. Bertrand, recording secretary; Russell Sullivan, sergeant-at-arms.

The executive committee includes John D. Smith, chairman, Joseph Desmond, Edward Desmond, Walter Ogle and John Buzzi. The entertainment committee includes Richard Barry, W. Martell, Edward Desmond, William Barron and George S. Hebert.

The Copeland Club was organized 12 years ago and its members have been active in promoting social and athletic life in the ward. During the past two years they have not been represented by an organized base ball team but such is contemplated this year. Among its past presidents are Alphonse E. LeClair and Edward J. Desmond.

SUMMONED TO WASHINGTON

President Bowles Wanted as A Witness Before Senate

A Washington dispatch of March 16 says: Ex-Rear Admiral F. T. Bowles president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation of Quincy, Mass., has been summoned to testify Wednesday before the Senate lobby committee about a contract which C. W. Knight, a Washington lawyer, claims to have had with the company to work for the Panama Canal tolls exemption.

PASTORS TO EXCHANGE.

By request, the exchanges agreed upon for next Sunday by the Quincy Ministers' Association, are republished:

Rev. A. L. Hudson, (Unitarian) at Bethany Congregational.

Rev. B. A. Willmott (Congregational) at First Parish Church.

Rev. C. G. Horst, (Unitarian) at First Universalist, 3 P. M.

Rev. I. W. Sneath Ph. D. (Congregational) at First Presbyterian.

Rev. C. C. Tilley, (Baptist) at United Presbyterian.

Rev. Donald B. McLeod (Presbyterian) at Calvary Baptist

Rev. T. C. Martin (Methodist) at Quincy Point Congregational.

Rev. S. C. Lang, (Congregationalist) at Hall Place Methodist.

Rev. W. A. Ayers, (Congregationalist) at Wollaston Methodist church.

Rev. G. M. Bailey, (Baptist) at Wollaston Unitarian.

Rev. T. W. Davison, (Congregationalist) at Wollaston Baptist.

Rev. C. G. Horst, (Unitarian) at Park and Downs Congregational..

Rev. J. A. Matheson (Presbyterian) at Wollaston Congregational.

Rev. E. C. Pollard, (Methodist) at Houghs Neck Union.

Rev. W. J. Sayre (Union) at Atlantic Methodist.

Rev. Joseph Walther, (Baptist) at Atlantic Memorial, Atlantic.

Rev. Merrill C. Ward, (Universalist) at Church of the Unity, Randolph, at 4 P. M.

Rev. Richard E. Armstrong of Christ Episcopal church, and Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra of St. Chrysostom's church were favorable to the general exchange but were unable to obtain a dispensation from Bishop William Lawrence.

The Quincy movement for a general exchange is attracting attention throughout Massachusetts.

DR. GEORGE A. THAYER.

The First Unitarian church of Cincinnati, of which the Rev. George A. Thayer, D. D., is pastor, at a recent meeting unanimousy voted that, in view of the long and highly acceptable service of Dr. Thayer as its minister, a period of thirty-three years, he be considered as having a life tenure of his ministerial office at the full present salary, and that an associate be given him whenever such an arrangement can be satisfactorily made. Dr. Thayer is president of the board of trustees of Thayer Academy, Braintree and is well known in Wollaston where he has relatives and many friends.

☞PRATT'S BREAD costs a little more—is worth a good deal more Ask your grocer.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

WHEN YOU'RE SICK YOUR WAGES STOP

You know what that means—misery—worry—big bills—debt!

You know you can't afford to get sick. Keeping in good health means food and clothing for you and your family. It is up to you to take care of yourself. It is up to you, whenever you don't feel right, to take something to make you right, to strengthen you, build you up, ward off worse sickness—protect you and your family. That thing we have in Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. In offering it to you, we protect you against money-risk, by personally promising you that, if it does not restore your health, we will give back your money without word or question. We believe it is the best builder of health, energy and strength you can get. It is helping many of your neighbors. If it don't help you, we will give back your money.

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion is composed principally of pure Olive Oil and the Hypophosphites. Each has long been endorsed by successful physicians. Here they are for the first time combined. The result is a remarkable nerve, blood and strength-building remedy that is both food and medicine. For all who are nervous, run-down and debilitated—no matter what the cause; for old people; for convalescents; for puny children, we know of nothing that will give health and strength as quickly as Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. It is a real builder of good blood, strong muscles, good digestion. Pleasant to take, it contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. If you don't feel well, economize both money and strength by beginning today to take Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. Sold only at the Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. $1.00.

Edward J. Murphy, 1415 Hancock Cor. Granite Sts., Quincy, Mass.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

DO BUSINESS HERE AT HOME.

If you are a resident of Quincy, we suggest that you patronize the merchants of your home city. Why go to Boston for goods that can be bought handily and economically here? We stand for the interests of Quincy, and like the Quincy merchants we give our customers good value. For instance a safety deposit box in our vault for $5 a year that would cost you $10 in Boston.

THINK THIS OVER!
THINK OF YOUR HOME TOWN FIRST!

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER

Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

SHAMOKIN RANGE COAL

FREE BURNING

Like The Shamokin of 20 years ago

C. PATCH & SON, Inc.
1422 Hancock Street

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES

30 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.

MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar,
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

Quincy Savings Bank

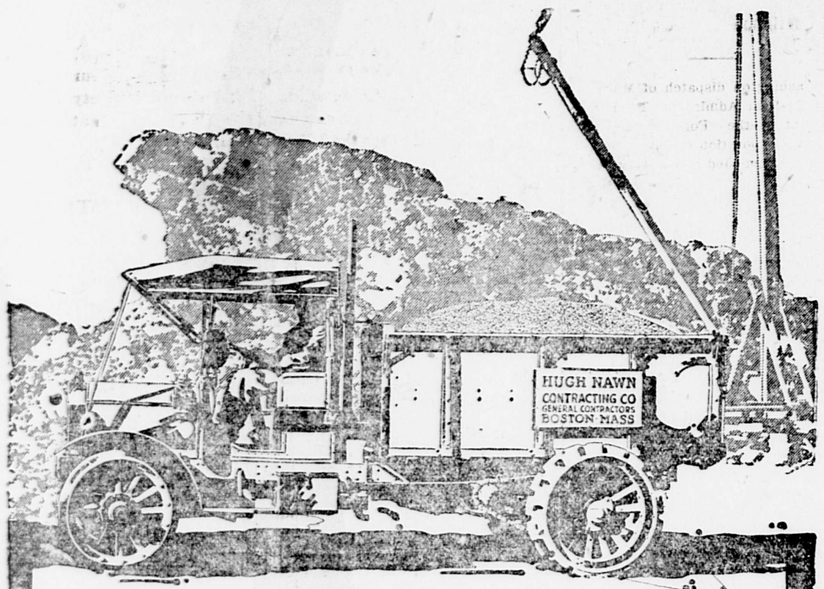
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

Advertise in the Ledger

AUTOMOBILE TRUCK SECTION--COMMERCIAL VEHICLES



PEERLESS TRUCKS

During the week of the Boston Truck Show, March 17th to 21st, we will exhibit Peerless trucks only in our salesroom, where we have unexcelled facilities for showing the various models and the quality of our product to prospective customers.

An invitation is cordialy extended to everyone to inspect our service station. We want you to become acquainted with our excellent facilities for taking care of trucks.

Peerless Motor Car Co. of N.E.

660 Beacon St. Peerless BOSTON

TRUCK SHOW OPENS TONIGHT

Will Have Same Gorgeous Setting As Great Auto Show

With the same gorgeous setting that delighted and charmed over 200,000 persons who attended the automobile show during the week, the Boston Commercial Motor Vehicle show will open this evening in Mechanic's building, and will continue until Saturday evening, March 21. This is the only national commercial power wagon show that is scheduled for 1914.

In all there will be about 40 manufacturers showing trucks with something like 240 models on exhibition. Every representative maker, showing the very latest design in motor trucks will have a display. The motor truck show is not a place for the morbid curious. It will be of absorbing interest to the business man who has to deal with transportation methods, for there will be a truck suitable for every purpose on display.

Everythingthat is new and practical will be found in the equipment and construction of the trucks that will be on exhibition. The motor truck, in the few years that it has been developed, has come faster than pleasure cars because the manufacturer of the commercial power wagon has had the advantage of noting the mistakes made in the construction of the lighter vehicle. While there will be few radical changes shown in the construction of the very latest models of trucks, yet there will be a number of improvements that all tend towards greater endurance and life of the truck, greater economy and power and greater ease of operation.

Every type of truck will be on exhibition. They will range from the 1500 pound delivery wagon to the huge 10 ton caravan with its massive steel body, with automatic hoists. In fact, there will be a truck for any use that one might require in transportation.

The various mechanical hoists that automatically operate the massive steel frame dumping bodies have been greatly improved and a number of these devices will be shown. There will also be a number of improved bodies on exhibition.

Perhaps the most radical change that will be noted will be in the num-

(Continued on Page Four.)

GMC

MOTOR TRUCKS
High Grade—Low Prices

Gasoline From 1¼ Ton, at $1500 To 5 Ton, at 2750

Electric From 1000 lb., at $1200 To 12000 lb., at 2500

We were first to build successful trucks—the first to put in effect a selling and service plan that is fair alike to buyer and seller. Every angle of our proposition will stand your searching investigation, from the quality of our trucks and our co-operation with owners, to the standing and permanence of our Company.

When you buy motor trucks consider not only the quality of the trucks, but the solidity of the company behind them.

Our Company is one of the units of the General Motors Company, the strongest organization of its kind in the world. GMC trucks have "made good" for years, and will continue to make satisfied customers for many years to come.

Since the announcement of our new policy our increased sales show that the public approves of our plan. During the next twelve months our output will be many times larger than in any previous year in our history.

Our policy is the only one on which a permanent business can be built—quality goods, quantity production, quick sales and small profits.

See Our Display at the Boston Truck Show, Mechanics Bldg.

GENERAL MOTORS TRUCK COMPANY
PONTIAC MICHIGAN
Boston Branch: 753 BOYLSTON St. M. E. BRACKETT, Manager

SAFETY FIRST

You never bought better tires than you buy in Goodrich Tires this year

We never made tires as good as we are now making them.

❖ ❖ ❖

This is simply for the reason that in all our forty-four years of manufacturing experience our motto has been "Progress and Efficiency."

❖ ❖ ❖

Longer service and more satisfaction to tire user has been our watchword.

❖ ❖ ❖

We have not only been pioneers in perfecting and devising the best means to put mileage and quality into rubber and fabric, but we have been the pioneers in bringing tire prices to their present low level and raising the standard of quality.

❖ ❖ ❖

With us it has been a history of better raw materials, improved methods —higher quality and lower price.

❖ ❖ ❖

Today Goodrich leads in quality. We set the standard by which all other tires are judged.

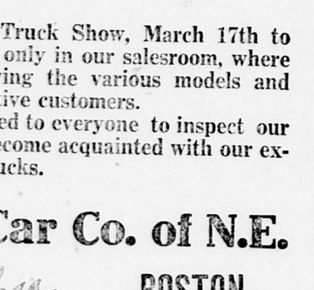
❖ ❖ ❖

All this in addition to the pleasing sense of security which you have when you equip your car with Goodrich Safety Tread Tires.

The Accepted Standard

Goodrich Safety Tread Tires

Best in the Long Run



The Goodrich Safety Tread Five Bars and a Crosstie The "Safety First" Symbol

The quality of Goodrich Tires today is the standard by which all other high grade tires are judged. That is because they represent perfection of tire-making and tire-knowledge —which gives Goodrich Tires leadership.

Just the unit-group of bars and crosstie which brace and balance the strain on the tire so that the Safety Tread runs as a smooth tread does and gives more actual service and mileage.

Here are the prices on the best tires ever produced in the Goodrich factory:

Size	Smooth Tread Prices	Safety Tread Prices	Grey Inner Tube Prices	Size	Smooth Tread Prices	Safety Tread Prices	Grey Inner Tube Prices
30 x 3	$11.70	$12.65	$2.80	34 x 4½	$33.00	$35.00	$6.15
30 x 3½	15.75	17.00	3.50	35 x 4½	34.00	36.05	6.30
32 x 3½	16.75	18.10	3.70	36 x 4½	35.00	37.10	6.45
33 x 4	23.55	25.25	4.75	37 x 5	41.95	44.45	7.70
34 x 4	24.35	26.05	4.90	38 x 5½	54.00	57.30	8.35

BOSTON BRANCH:—851-857 Boylston Street.

The B. F. Goodrich Company

Factories: Akron, Ohio Branches in All Principal Cities

There is nothing in Goodrich Advertising that isn't in Goodrich Goods

G. V. Electric Trucks for Textile Plants

ALL over New England and into parts of the middle west and southwest, the fame of G. V. Electric Trucks for mill yard trucking has spread.

G. V. Electrics are used by the mills of Lawrence, Lowell, Manchester, Claremont, Nashua, Biddeford, Fitchburg, North Adams, Waltham, Worcester, Hartford, Phillipsdale, Port Chester, Little Falls, Utica, Oneida, Buffalo, Fort Wayne (Ind.), Brooklyn, Philadelphia and several other cities. A great variety of operating conditions must be encountered, and as wool, cotton, print, underwear and hosiery mills together with dye houses and bleacheries are served, surely the right Electric will "make good" in your mill work.

This 2-Ton G. V. Electric runs between Phillipsdale and Providence

Nearly 4000 G. V. Electrics are in service, many from 6 to 11 years old. These trucks serve 108 different lines of trade in 41 of the 48 States and in 9 foreign countries. We mention these facts merely to give you confidence in our product and in us.

The Electric is particularly suited for work around inflamable material, and remember it is sanitary and odorless. The G. V. Electric leads in its field because it was the pioneer and has maintained its lead. Ask about our new improvements and send for catalogue 40.

General Vehicle Company, Inc.
General Office and Factory, LONG ISLAND CITY, NEW YORK

BOSTON OFFICE, Exposition Building
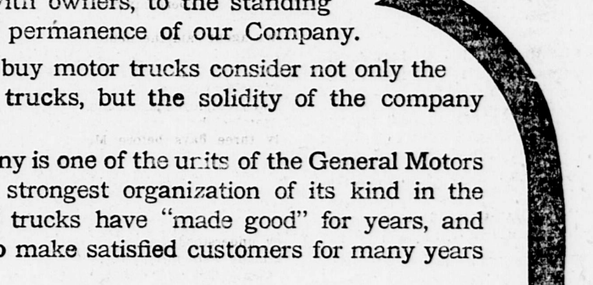
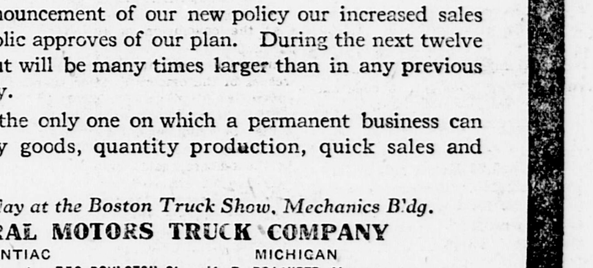
CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS
DAY BAKER, District Manager

Jeffery
MOTOR TRUCKS



Jeffery 1500 Pound Truck $1325



Jeffery One Ton Truck $1575

"These are the Trucks for Economy." Capital, equipment and experience have made the Jeffery the standard for utility.

EXHIBIT 107

Boston Commercial Motor Vehicle Show

C. P. ROCKWELL, Inc.

640 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Wednesday fair, Thursday probably fair.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.52
Sun sets	5.54
Length of day	12.02
Moon sets	1.18
High water, A. M.	4.00
High water, P. M.	4.30
Days increase	2 hours, 56 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	43 degrees
Mar. 17 1913,	44 degrees
Mar. 17, 1912,	55 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

SPORT NEWS

Wollaston had 50 March golfers on the links Saturday. The course was in grand shape for the early enthusiasts and the greens were as keen as though the season was a month or so old.

Franz Marceau of Wollaston, scratch man in the 880 yard handicap in the class track meet at Dartmouth on Saturday won in two mile.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

An audience that filled practically every seat in the house was on hand last night to enjoy the great bill being offered at Kincaide theatre the first half week.

The widely advertised feature picture "Wanted by the Police" fulfilled all the claims made for it, and more. It is a phenomenal three-reel picture with a powerful story produced on a gigantic scale and abounds with realistic and sensational scenes. William Jefferson, son of the late Joseph Jefferson, plays the leading part as Billy West, the fastest telegraph operator in the world. The story deals with the doing of Kingdom, a notorious white slave dealer and in the end lands him behind the bars where he belongs.

The vaudeville, too, is mighty good. This splendid show will continue both matinee and evening today and tomorrow.

WEDNESDAY CONFERENCE.

Miss Fannie Beck, one of the home and school visitors in Boston, is to tell of her work at the Quincy Women's club house tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Miss Beck is one of the pioneer workers in this field. Her talk should be unusually helpful and interesting. The conference is held under the auspices of the Philanthropic committee, Mrs. Wilson Marsh, chairman, and the Associated Charities. It will meet in the office of the Associated Charities, and all who are interested in seeing the closest connection between home and school are cordially invited to be present and take part in the discussion.

(ADVERTISE.)

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

ARGENTINE INSPECTORS

Defeat Pipe Fitters and Lose to Electricians

With the completion of the Rivadavia trials, the members of the bowling team of the Argentine Commission were able to roll two postponed matches in the Fore River league schedule at the Coliseum alleys on Monday night. They defeated the Pipe Fitters 3 to 1 and lost to the Electricians 3 to 1.

ARGENTINE INSPECTORS.

Kozzer	73	77	87	237
Pozzi	101	83	90	274
Cozzi	91	83	93	267
Wilkendorf	74	77	81	232
Santa Cruz	84	87	102	273
	423	407	453	1282

PIPE FITTERS.

Hamilton	88	80	78	246
Steniff	75	77	77	229
MacDonald	82	87	84	253
Holmgren	78	79	76	233
Rotin	86	95	81	262
	409	418	396	1223

The best bowling was done in the game with the Electricians the totals being 1402 to 1374:

ELECTRICIAN.

Lincoln	80	94	89	263
Dobos	78	109	80	267
Souden	97	95	77	269
Smith	87	103	76	266
Malnati	109	100	128	337
	451	501	450	1402

ARGENTINE INSPECTORS.

Kozzer	96	102	80	287
Pozzi	86	95	77	258
Cozzi	107	119	83	309
Wilkendorf	86	91	103	280
Santa Cruz	80	80	80	240
	455	487	432	1374

AMATEUR BOUTS AT FAXON HALL

Boxing Exhibition Under Auspices of Quincy A. A.

Nearly 500 lovers of boxing, including representative business and professional men of this city, attended the amateur bouts conducted for the first time in many moons by the Quincy A. A. in Faxon hall Monday night. A more orderly crowd of enthusiasts never witnessed a card.

Joseph Crowley of Malden, National 135 pound champion, had no trouble in taking the gold watch offered in that class, his outpointing of William Cole of South Boston in the finals, occurring in the last half of the third round.

Martin Zeoli of Clapp Memorial of Weymouth, one of the best New England amateur wrestlers, won from Harry Sennott in the finals of the 125 class.

In a semi-final in the 108 class, Ed. McIntosh, a pupil of Arthur Savages, physical director of the North Quincy A. A., won from Harry Ginsberg of Boston in three rounds, but injured his wrist early in the match. He was forced to default to Tony Vatlin of Brighton in the finals.

Frank Rotondo of Boston won in the 115, his victory over Frank Webb of Weymouth being decisive.

Patrick Gilcoine of Quincy Point lost to John J. Sullivan of Boston, in the trials in the 125 class.

Jack Norton, referee of the national championships, was in the ring and Edward Hopkins and Edward Walsh, two former stars were the judges.

ODD FELOWS' MATCH.

The Odd Fellows had a special match at the Coliseum alleys Monday night, John Hancock lodge beating Mt. Wollaston by nearly 100 pins. Jones was high man with 87, 127 and 110, for a total of 324. The totals:

John Hancock	419	498	452	1369
Mt. Wollaston	411	407	448	1266

GAS FITTERS WIN.

Employees of the Citizens' Gas Light Co. rolled in a special match at the Coliseum alleys Monday night. Johnston had best single 91 and Mullaney best total 257. The totals:

Gas Fitters	429	371	386	1186
Gas Office	377	362	414	1153

REBEL TROOPS KILL PRIESTS

Five Slain In Mexico, While Others Are Held For Ransom

MEXICAN CHURCHES LOOTED

Interiors Wrecked and Statuary Is Trampled Under Foot—Torch Applied to Convent—Archbishop Dies Two Days After Being Thrown Into Street With His Aged Aunt

New Orleans, March 17.—Five priests have been slain by rebels in the Mexican state of Tamaulipas since Nov. 18 last, three are held for ransom, a convent has been burned and a cathedral and a smaller church looted, according to two Catholic priests, Father Madina and Father Gonzales, who arrived here from Victoria, Mex.

"Three weeks ago soldiers under Colonel Cavalero demanded money," said Madina. "We gave them what we had, but it was not enough. Becoming angered, they took away the gold and silver utensils and wrecked the inside of the building. The figure of the Saviour was smashed to bits and other statuary broken and trampled under foot.

"Archbishop Guzman and his aged aunt were thrown into the street by the marauders," continued Madina. "Guzman died two days later and just before we left we heard the aunt was dying. The rebels then went to the American convent, drove out the sister and her charges and set the building on fire."

At Tula a church was looted by rebels in the same manner as at Victoria, said Madina, and the rector, Father Delson and his two assistants, Basili and Louise Romanes, were kidnapped. He said they were taken into the hills where they are being held for a ransom of 500 pesos each, their parishioners having been notified that unless the ransoms are paid the priests will be put to death.

Madina said five priests had been killed by rebels since they entered Tamaulipas last November.

Ciudad Victoria is the capital of the state of Tamaulipas and is a city of 220,000 people. Tamaulipas is across the Rio Grande from Texas.

MARTIAL LAW IN EFFECT

Murder of Postmaster Arouses a Section of California

San Diego, Cal., March 17.—Martial law is practically in effect along the border for miles each side of Tecate, Cal., following the destruction by fire of the general store containing the United States postoffice and customs office and the murder of Postmaster Frank Johnston by three men declared to be Mexicans.

The border is patrolled by American troops from Fort Rosecrans. Across the line, not many hundred feet away, Mexican rurales perform guard duty.

Every man within a radius of ten miles of Tecate is fully armed and rifles and ammunition have been ordered from this city.

Governor Johnson was asked to make formal demand on Governor Vasquez of Lower California for the delivery of the Mexicans suspected of having killed Johnston.

Major Davis, commander at Fort Rosecrans, received instructions from Washington to lend any assistance to the immigration and customs officials and keep the department informed of conditions. He had already taken initiative to the full scope of his authority.

Anti-Mexican feeling is aroused to fever heat in the vicinity of Tecate.

No Advance by Rebels

El Paso, Tex., March 17.—Verification of rumors that the Mexican federal army had met the rebels near Torreon and fighting had occurred was eagerly awaited here.

General Villa, commander of the rebel forces, in a statement from his headquarters at Chihuahua, said there was no truth in the rumor that the federals had advanced northwest from Torreon to meet him. At the same time it was announced at Juarez that a censorship had been inaugurated over the telegraph lines between Chihuahua and Juarez.

FISHING VESSEL WRECKED

Captain and Crew of Twenty-Two Are Rescued by Lifesavers

Highland Light, Mass., March 17.—The Boston fishing schooner Terranova ran ashore and was wrecked last night on Cape Cod, near Pamet river. Captain Hickey and twenty-two men were taken off just before midnight by lifesavers.

The Terranova was bound in from the Georges, heavily laden with 100,000 pounds of fish for Boston.

Veteran Dies at 115

Liberal, Mo., March 17.—Henry Dorman, 115 years old, died here. He served in both the Mexican and Civil wars. Family records show he was born in Steuben county, N. Y., Jan. 10, 1799.

Grandfather of Hundred Children

Pensacola, Fla., March 17.—Isaac Cooley, reputed 114 years old, died at his home in Escamba county. He had more than 100 grandchildren. He attributed his old age to regular habits.

GAS EMPLOYEES DINE AND BOWL

Officers Elected And Trade Papers Read

The first anniversary of the Citizens Gas Service Club, composed of employees of the Citizens Gas Light Co., was observed by the members on on Monday night with a chicken supper at Thompson's cafe after which the annual election was held.

Frank Johnston was elected president and Harry Jukes vice president. Otto Price was chosen secretary-treasurer. The executive board comprises Timothy Regan chairman, A. Mullaney, Fred Howe, J. Muir and A. J. LaCroix.

At the meeting papers were read by Mr. LaCroix on "Care of a house while at work in it," and Fred Howe on "Fast and slow meters and their care." Mr. Muir explained the mechanism of the prepayment meter.

Retiring president Alfred J. LaCroix and the other officers were given vote of thanks for the work the past year. After adjournment they rolled in a special match at the Coliseum alleys Monday night, Johnston had best single 91 and Mullaney best total 257. The totals:

Gas Fitters	429	371	386	1186
Gas Office	377	362	414	1153

NEWSY BRIEFS

St. Patrick's day.

Women's club notes tomorrow.

The Mother and Son banquet at the Y. M. C. A. will take place Wednesday evening at 6.30.

Mr. and Mrs. Burr O. Nichols of Gay street welcomed a little daughter on Monday.

Mrs. Sadie M. Miller is in New York this week getting the latest styles for spring millinery. After her return she will hold a parlor opening.

Owing to the change of date of First Parish men's club, the Fragment society will hold its all day meeting Friday.

Fragment Society of the First Parish does not meet tomorrow as usual but holds an all day session Friday in the church parlor with luncheon at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Huber have removed from Quincy to Portsmouth, N. H., where they will permanently reside. Mrs. Huber, was Violet Jones, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Jones of River street, and has many friends here.

Thomas A. Kelley, charged with the robbery of Henry W. Whalen of Spring street, this city, at Roxbury on March 13 pleaded not guilty to the charge Monday, and was held in $500 for the Grand Jury, by Judge Albert E. Hayden of the Roxbury District court.

Rev. A. G. Sporrong has returned from Thomaston, Conn., where he has been holding evangelistic services for two week with great success. Tonight he will meet the confirmation class, and Thursday night will conduct the regular mid-week service at the Swedish Congregational church.

A large gathering is expected tomorrow at the Women's clubhouse for the opera talk, and also for the conference in the Associated Charities room. The opera talk by William L. Hubbard of the Boston Opera house will be given in the large room at quarter of eleven. His subject will be "Die Meistersinger," and as his previous visit to the club only made members wish for more, he will doubtless be greeted by a large attendance of music lovers.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

Keep it always at hand
JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
For Aches, Pains, Colds, Sore Throat, Bowel Troubles, Rheumatism. Used internally and externally.
IN USE 103 YEARS
25c and 50c Bottles
Parsons' Pills tone the system
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc. Boston, Mass.

DESTROYER NAMED TUCKER

Capt. Samuel Tucker Was of Revolutionary Navy

The navy department has assigned these names to the six new 1000-ton destroyers now under construction: No. 57, building at Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation at Quincy, the Tucker; No. 58 and No. 59, building at William Cramp & Sons yard, the Conyngham and the Porter; No. 60, building at Bath Iron Works, the Wadsworth; Nos. 61 and 62, building at New York Shipbuilding Company's yards, the Jacob Jones and the Wainwright.

The Tucker is named for Capt. Samuel Tucker of the revolutionary navy. The Conyngham, is named for Capt. Gustavus Conyngham, also of the revolution. The Porter is named for both David Porter, an officer of the war with France, the war with Tripoli and the war of 1812, and for Admiral David D. Porter, his son, who was one of the most distinguished officers of the civil war.

NEW OFFICERS LOYAL SOLDIERS

The Loyal Soldiers of the Calvary Baptist Bible School celebrated their first anniversary Saturday evening. The entertainment opened with installation of officers, the following being installed:

President—Robert Burgess.
Vice President—Robert Elder.
Secretary—Harold Kidder.
Treasurer—Earl Prario.

Another interesting feature of the evening was a debate. The question was. "Resolved, that the ships of all nations should go through the Panama Canal free. Robert Elder and Robert Burgess were on the affirmative; Harold Kidder and Earl Prario on the negative side. The negative won.

During the evening, Master Henry Kidder gave some very good recitations. Among those present were Chairman F. G. Pettee, Rev. C. C. Tilley, Installation officer R. Bell, Verna Hilstrom, John Cummings, Hilden Hanson, Russell Johnson, Charles Williams, Sidney McLaughlin, Rees Walters, Henry Kidder, Harold Kidder, Robert Burgess, Robert Elder and Earl Prario. Refreshments were served.

To Save Closet Space.

Metal towel racks, that have flat places at each curved end to screw to a wall, will almost double the capacity of your closet if screwed to the bottom of the lower shelf. A dozen garment hangers may be suspended from each one.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

"Non-Puncture" Auto Tires
Guaranteed 7,500 Miles Service

These tires bear the greatest known mileage guarantee, yet are sold at a price even less than tires of ordinary guarantee. This guarantee covers punctures, blow-outs and general wear. Guarantee covers 7,500 miles service against everything except abuse. These tires are intended for most severe service. As a SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY offer, we will allow the following prices for the next ten days.

TIRES—TUBES

28x3	$ 9.20	$ 2.00
30x3	10.25	2.30
30x3½	13.50	2.80
32x3½	14.05	3.00
34x3½	15.25	3.20
31x4	17.00	3.25
32x4	18.00	3.30
33x4	19.50	3.40
34x4	20.40	3.60
35x4	21.00	3.80
36x4	22.00	3.90
35x4½	26.00	5.00
36x4½	27.00	5.10
37x4½	27.50	5.15
37x5	32.60	5.40

All other sizes. Non-Skids 20 per cent extra. 5 per cent discount if payment in full accompanies order and if two are so ordered, shipping charges will be paid by us. C. O. D. on 15 per cent of amount of order. Our output is limited, so we suggest early ordering. We sell direct only, giving purchaser the advantage of all middlemen's profits.
NON-PUNCTURE TIRE FACTORY
Dayton, Ohio.

Prepare NOW For Economical Spring Hauling!
No other method will save you so much money as the Knox
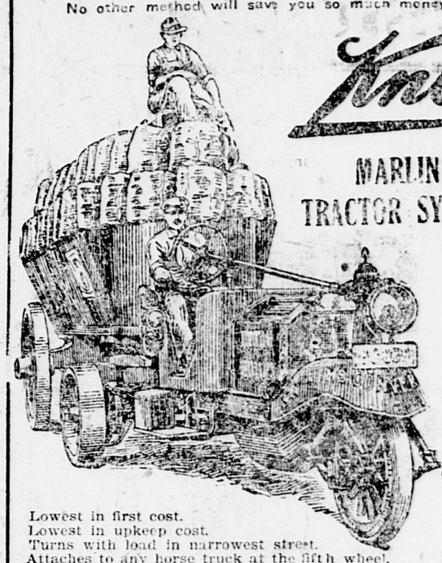
MARLIN TRACTOR SYSTEM


Cuts your delivery expense in half
Uses inexpensive steel tires under greater part of load
Lowest in first cost.
Lowest in upkeep cost.
Turns with load in narrowest street.
Attaches to any horse truck at the fifth wheel.
Quickly changed from one body to another.
Send for valuable booklet, "TRUCKING COSTS."
KNOX AUTOMOBILE COMPANY, Springfield, Mass.
885 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON, MASS.
See Our Exhibit at Boston Truck Show

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

Rev. Dr. Edward T. Ford preached his first sermon as pastor of the Congregational church at East Weymouth on Sunday. His father was a pioneer Brockton shoe manufacturer. He has been at Tacoma, Wash., for thirteen years and was dean of the Congregational ministers in Washington state at his departure.

Charles H. Bradley observed the 26th anniversary of his superintendency of the Farm and Trade school on Thompson island on Sunday.

The engagement of Miss Marion A. Hoyt of Weymouth, a New Britain, Ct., high school teacher to J. R. Hildebrand has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Hoyt.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Faxon of Holbrook have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Nellie H. Faxon to Thomas C. Dykeman of Bridgewater.

For the first time in years sufficient material is in sight for two baseball teams at Plymouth High school.

Jeremiah J. Good who served in the Boston Common council and Legislature, died Saturday at his home, 25 Woodville street, Roxbury. He is survived by his wife and four sons. He was well known here.

A frightened horse threw Stephen H. Hoppe of 98 West street, Braintree, from his back Saturday night, stepped on him and fractured the bones of his right leg and left arm.

Andrew J. Gove of South Hingham, formerly of Randolph, died on Saturday, aged 79.

Capt. Alfred A. Galiano who is ill at his home on Main street, Hull is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Gammins of Cohasset are in Bermuda for the spring.

While an orchestra played selections from the opera "Monna Vanna," Mrs. Cora Marceau Hollahan lectured on the composition in the High school Assembly hall at Canton Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the Community club.

TRUCK SHOW

(Continued from Page Three.)

ber of trucks that will have the left hand drive. Of course there are still a number of manufacturers who still make trucks with the right drive, but the experts state that most of the new models that are now emerging from the factories are built with the left drive.

Despite the fact that the great majority of pleasure cars are equipped with electric or mechanical starters, yet very few of the commercial wagons have adopted the self starter. A few of the light delivery wagons are equipped with them.

The motor fire apparatus should attract considerable attention as there will be quite a display of them. This no doubt will attract municipal authorities from all corners of New England, as the motor driven apparatus seems to be more popular in the smaller cities because of the fact of its ability to reach isolated spots with a degree of speed that was never attainable with the horse and drawn vehicles.

N. GRIGNON WINS AGAIN

Michael Kiley, representing St. Mary's Society, lost his fourth game to Napoleon Grignon of Ave Maria council, Knights of Columbus, in their sixth checker session which was played in St. Mary's hall Monday night. He drew one also. The score now stands four wins for Grignon, one for Kiley and seven draws.

The first game was drawn, but Kiley discontinued the second after getting a poor opening, with no secondary defense. Alfred Jordan, champion of the world refereed the matches which were witnessed by nearly 100 people from all parts of the city. The seventh session is at the rooms of Ave Maria council on Thursday night.

(ADVERTISE.)

VERMONT CUTS 'PHONE RATES

Seven Thousand Users Are Affected by Order

COMPANY TO TAKE APPEAL

Vice President Declares Net Revenue In State Will Vanish, While Public Service Board Chairman Says Earning Capacity Is Not Reduced Below Six Percent In Any Instance

Brattleboro, Vt., March 17.—A reduction in the rates of 7000 telephone subscribers in Vermont is ordered in the report of the public service commission, with one member dissenting.

The average reduction is a little less than $3 a year and affects only those lines on which there are six or more parties. The commission is of the opinion that the toll rates "are reasonable and should not be disturbed."

The report says the order is to be become effective within thirty days and applies to the New England Telephone and Telegraph company, three of its subsidiaries, the Vermont Telephone and Telegraph company of Montpelier, the Franklin County Telephone company of St. Albans, the Champlain Valley Telephone company of Brandon, and one independent company, the Springfield Local Telephone company of Springfield.

An appeal from the order will be made by the New England Telephone and Telegraph company. In making this announcement Vice President Hall of the company said the reductions proposed "would practically wipe out every dollar of net revenue now earned in Vermont."

The company may appeal to the Vermont supreme court or bring a bill in equity in the federal court to prevent the carrying out of the order.

Chairman Bacon of the commission stated that in no instance would the earning capacity on plant valuation as fixed by the commission be reduced below 6 percent by the reduction ordered, and that in some instances the earning capacity would be over 7 percent.

The report is signed by Chairman Bacon and Park H. Pollard. The dissenting member is William R. Warner, who says:

"Basing my judgment wholly on the evidence introduced at this hearing, it is my opinion that cause has been shown why there should not be any reduction at present."

The hearings began in Montpelier Sept. 30 and were ordered as a result of a report made to Governor Fletcher by a special commission appointed by him. This commission recommended a reduction of 20 percent in rates.

AS VIEWED BY VAIL

Danger In Government Ownership of Telephone and Telegraph

New York, March 17.—That government ownership of telephone and telegraph lines would be a disastrous experiment is the warning sounded by President Vail of the American Telephone and Telegraph company in his annual report.

"It would not be a question of capacity," he says. "The experiment would be disastrous, principally because the postmasters are not fitted by experience or training for the telegraph or telephone business, but also because it would be secondary to their grocery-drygoods-notion shop, their principal business."

The net earnings of the American Telephone and Telegraph company for the year ended Dec. 31 last were $40,576,746. Those of the Bell telephone system were $58,689,523, an increase of $1,802,833. The assets of the A. T. & T. are given as $980,004,095 and the liabilities as the same.

MURRAY KILLED BY AUTO

Naturalist's Daughter Driving When Their Machine Overturns

Edinburgh, March 17.—Sir John Murray, the noted naturalist and oceanographer, was killed near his home here in a motor car accident which occurred while his daughter Rhoda was driving.

The car swerved, climbed a high bank and turned over. The occupants were thrown out and Sir John was instantly killed.

Miss Murray was conveyed unconscious to a hospital. An examination showed that her injuries were less than at first feared.

TO FILE AN APPEAL

Counsel Prepares to Stay Death Sentence of Murderer Schmidt

New York, March 17.—Notice of appeal from the sentence of death imposed upon Hans Schmidt, the former priest, for the murder of Anna Aumuller, will be filed by Schmidt's counsel. The appeal will act as a stay of sentence.

Schmidt was sentenced to die in the week beginning next Monday. He is in the death house at Sing Sing.

Heavy Storm Visits France

Dieppe, March 17.—A terrific storm struck the French coast and it is feared a number of fishing vessels were lost. The storm resulted in earthslides along the coast.

FIGARO'S EDITOR KILLED

Succumbs to Wound Inflicted by Wife of Finance Minister

Paris, March 17.—Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro, was shot by Mme. Henriette Caillaux, wife of Joseph Caillaux, the French minister of finance. He died last night.

Mme. Caillaux went to the office of The Figaro to carry out an act of vengeance against Calmette, who had been waging a campaign characterized by great bitterness against the minister of finance.

Having committed the deed, Mme. Caillaux submitted to arrest, and was immediately removed to a police station, where she underwent a preliminary examination.

"I am sorry," she said, "for what I was obliged to do. I had no intention of killing M. Calmette and I would be happy to know that he will recover. I desire only to teach him a lesson."

END OF KELLEY'S ARMY

Wind Has Scattered All but About Three Hundred Men

Sacramento, Cal., March 17.—A strong north wind did more to solve the problem presented by "General" Kelley's army of unemployed than any human agency has yet been able to accomplish.

Camped on the level across the Sacramento river, with no protection from the wind driven sands, the army disintegrated rapidly and it is estimated that not more than 300 remain out of the 1500 that came to Sacramento a week ago. Hunger also had much to do with the desertions.

As the novelty of the army's presence wore off food contributions ceased. The march to Washington will probably be abandoned and the remnants of the army scatter.

MILITANT MEETS HER MATCH IN GLASGOW

Knocked Down by Official She Attacked With Dog Whip

Glasgow, March 17.—Dr. James Devon, prison commissioner for Scotland, was attacked by an irate militant suffragette armed with a dog-whip at the entrance to the Duke street prison.

Devon, who is an advocate of forcible feeding and is bitterly opposed to what he considers the farcial release of suffragettes because they are suffering from the effects of "hunger strikes," promptly knocked her down. The woman was placed under arrest, but Devon refused to prosecute her and she was released.

Nine coaches belonging to the Midland railway were burned by a militant suffragette "arson squad" at King's Norton. Suffrage literature was found littered about the vicinity.

"MOTHER" JONES DEPORTED

Strike Leader Declares She Will Return to Zone of Trouble

Denver, March 17.—That she was deported from Trinidad, that she never asked to see the governor, that she was accompanied to Denver by militia officers, taken to a hotel and was not told whether she had been released, that she expects to return to the strike zone soon, were emphasized in a statement made by "Mother" Mary Jones, strike leader, who has been a military prisoner at a hospital in Trinidad since Jan. 12.

General Chase, who ordered her deportation, stated that "Mother" Jones would be rearrested should she return to Trinidad.

SKIPPERS PENALIZED

Infirmary Inmates Formed Part of Crew of City Steamer

Boston, March 17.—After an investigation of the collision between the municipal steamer George A. Hibbard and the auxiliary fishing schooner Olive F. Hutchins, Steamboat Inspectors Blain and Savage revoked the license of Captain Hutchins of the schooner and suspended for ten days that of Captain Sampson of the Hibbard.

The investigation disclosed that inmates of the Long island infirmary had long been employed as deckhands on the Hibbard without pay. Since the accident, which resulted in the sinking of the schooner, paid deckhands have been substituted.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

William Lummie, a former president of the New York stock exchange, died at his home in New York, aged 73.

Policewoman Mary Boyd of Chicago, without assistance, arrested four men and two women for starting a fight on a street car.

The second stage of the attempt to unravel the alleged extensive Russian espionage campaign in Austria was opened when the Austrian government placed nine Russian subjects on trial at Vienna.

Failure to report to street car conductors instead of waiting to be asked for fare is now a misdemeanor in Berlin.

After walking to the Grove City, Pa., cemetery, and telling the sexton he had a premonition that he was going to die soon, M. E. Vogan selected the site for his grave. He fell dead a few minutes later.

CAPTAIN OSMYN BERRY.

Commander of Nantucket Tried For Sinking the Monroe In Fog.

THE MONROE DISASTER

Reports of Inspectors Divide Blame Between the Two Captains

Philadelphia, March 17.—The two United States local inspectors of steam vessels who investigated the disaster off the Virginia coast on Jan. 30, in which the steamship Nantucket rammed the steamer Monroe, causing the loss of forty-one lives, rendered a divided opinion.

One report holds Captain Berry of the Nantucket guilty of negligence and the other charges Captain Johnson of the Monroe with responsibility for the disaster. It is believed the final decision will rest with the department of commerce at Washington.

The charges were brought against Berry by the local inspectors at Norfolk after a preliminary examination. The charges include negligence in not reducing the speed of the Nantucket in a fog and with neglecting to ascertain through the wireless operator the proximity of other vessels. No charges were brought against Johnson.

IMPORTED LABOR FROM OVER BORDER

Costs Corporation $45,000 to Break Alien Contract Law

Washington, March 17.—One of the largest verdicts ever recovered by the government for a violation of the alien contract labor law—that for $45,000, against the Grant Brothers' Construction company, a California corporation—was affirmed by the supreme court.

Through its representatives the company participated in bringing into the United States forty-one Mexicans to work on railroad construction near Naco, Ari.

CHICAGO'S WOMEN VOTERS

Registration List Is Expected to Swell Today to About 300,000

Chicago, March 17.—The number of Chicago women qualified to cast their first vote under the recent Illinois equal suffrage act at the aldermanic election in April will be doubled at today's registration, according to the predictions of woman suffrage leaders.

More than 158,000 women took advantage of their first opportunity last month to become registered voters. Suffrage leaders expect this number will be increased today to at least 300,000. More than 400,000 Chicago men are eligible voters.

MRS. LINDLOFF DEAD

Recently Sentenced to Long Term In Prison For Poisoning

Chicago, March 17.—Mrs. Louisa Lindloff, convicted Feb. 28 of having poisoned her son, and sentenced to twenty-five years in the penitentiary, died in the county jail here. She was accused of having poisoned six members of her family.

Of thirteen women charged with murdering men in Chicago during the last three years, Mrs. Lindloff was the only one convicted.

French Aviator Drowned

San Sebastian, March 17.—Hanouille, a French aviator, was drowned here when he fell into the sea with his aeroplane. The accident was caused by the breaking of the rudder.

Eighty-Three Earthquake Victims

Tokio, March 17.—Eighty-three persons, according to the official estimate, were killed by the earthquake which occurred in the prefecture of Akita, island of Hondo.

Courtesy at the Pawnshop.

"You go first, Frau Meier. I can wait."

"Thanks. I'd have you know I'm in no more hurry for my money than you."—Fliegende Blatter.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Dennis Behan and Daniel Kelleher, both of Quincy in the County of Norfolk and Commenwealth of Massachusetts, to The Quincy Co-operative Bank, a corporation duly established by law, and located at said Quincy dated August 5, 1903, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, book 955, page 127, for breach of the condition of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, on Friday, the third day of April, A. D. 1914, at half past four o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, and therein described as follows:

A certain lot of land with buildings thereon situated in said Quincy and being numbered sixteen (16) on a plan made by H. T. Whitman recorded with Norfolk Plans, book 12 plan 528.

Said parcel of land is bounded and described as follows, to wit:— Northerly on Payne Street sixty (60) feet; Easterly on lot numbered fifteen (15) on said plan, eighty-one and sixty one-hundredths (81.60) feet; Southerly on lot numbered eleven (11) and a small part of lot numbered twelve (12) on said plan, sixtyand one one-hundredth (60.01) feet, and Westerly on land now or formerly of James W. Pratt, eighty-two and eighty-eight one-hundredths (82.88) feet; containing 4934 square feet of land. Being the same premises conveyed to said Dennis Behan and Daniel Kelleher by deed dated August 5, 1903, duly recorded with Norfolk Deeds.

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all tax titles, unpaid taxes, municipal liens and assessments, if any such there be. $100 will be required to be paid by the purchaser in cash at the time and place of sale; balance in ten days from date of sale on delivery of the deed.

The Quincy Co-operative Bank, by
FRANK A. REED, Treasurer,
Mortgagee.

Charles H. Wilson, Attorney, Savings Bank Bldg., Quincy, Mass.
Quincy, March 9, 1914.
10-3t 10-17-24

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Melora E. Harris to Edwin W. Newcomb, dated October twentieth, 1900, and recorded with Norfolk County Deeds, Book 882, Page 387, for breach of the condition thereof and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold by public auction on the premises hereinafter described at four o'clock in the afternoon on Wednesday, the twenty-fifth day of March, A. D., 1914, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage and described therein as follows, viz.: "a certain lot of land, containing seven thousand seven (7007) square feet, situated in said Quincy and being lot No. 5 on a plan of building lots in Quincy, belonging to Caroline F. Newcomb, made by J. E. Starbuck, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds and Plans. Said lot is bounded as follows, viz.—northwesterly by lot No. 4 on said plan, being land of Reuben Hersey, one hundred and six and one half (106 1-2) feet; northeasterly on a certain private way, thirty (30) feet wide, called Newcombville Place, sixty-five (65) feet; southeasterly on lot No. 6 on said plan, being land of John Bergfors, one hundred and nine and one tenth (109.1) feet; southwesterly on land of Keenan sixty-five and eight tenths (65.8) feet."

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all tax titles, unpaid taxes, municipal liens and assessments, if any such there be. $100 will be required to be paid by the purchaser in cash at the time and place of sale; balance in ten days from date of sale on delivery of the deed.

EDWIN W. NEWCOMB,
Mortgagee.

Richard D. Chase and Co., Agents, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, March 3, 1914.
Mar. 3-3t 3-10-17

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administrator of the estate of Ellen M. Oldham late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, intestate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

RALPH W. OLDHAM, Adm.
(Address) 305 Safford Street, Wollaston.
March 2, 1914.
3-3t 3-10-17.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscribers have been duly appointed executors of the will of Wilford C. Hunt late of Amherst in the State of New Hampshire deceased, testate, and have taken upon themselves that trust by giving bond, as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

HELEN D. RHINES,
AUDREY W. RICH,
Executors.

(Address)
Ferndale Road, Wollaston, Mass.
March 2, 1914.
10-3t 10-17-24

Call Quincy 501--W

If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN. upholsterer, 1060 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School
Mar. 4 tf

MY SLOCAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.

Will you help me do this?

F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ....

TO LET

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-12t

TO LET—Two 3-room and one 4-room tenement. Just finished. All modern improvements. Apply to J. M. L. 175 Liberty street, South Quincy. 16-6t

TO LET—Lower flat five rooms and bath, set range, gas and electricity, all modern improvements, 166 Franklin street. Ready for occupancy April 15th. Apply to William T. Spargo, 160 Franklin street. 16-tf

TO LET—Lower apartment 5 rooms and bath. Modern conveniences, combination range; gas and electricity etc. 95 Putnam street. Ready for occupancy April 1. Apply 97 Putnam street. 16-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 16-6t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath, Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Two pleasant four-room tenements, one furnished, light and sunny rooms, new house, modern improvements, central location. 9 Francis Court, off Spear street. 13-6t

TO LET—New apartment of 6 rooms and bath, all improvements, maple floors, fire place, etc. 3 minutes to City Square. Apply 37 Bigelow street. Mar. 12-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block—2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust.
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

TO LET

TO LET—Furnished rooms with or without board. Mrs. F. Wrigley, 18 Washington street corner Coddington. 17-6t

TO LET—Single house of six rooms, improvements 492 South street. Apply to 96 Arnold street. 17-6t

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO RENT—Flat of four rooms, Francis court off Spear street. All modern improvements. Rent $18. Apply at 7 Francis court. 14-6t

TO LET—In private family in Wollaston nicely furnished front square room, plenty of hot water, handy to station and electrics. $2.50. Write K. Ledger Office. 14-3t

TO LET—Single house of six rooms in good repair. Rent low. Apply at 97 Coddington street. 13-6t

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

TO LET—At North Weymouth, flat of 5 rooms, some improvements, near salt water and good place to keep hens. Rent reasonable to small family. Few minutes to trains to Boston. Apply at 445 Washington street, Quincy. 11-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

TAKE NOTICE—Free corn cutting till March 31st. Positively no hurt, 9 A. M. to 2 P. M. Dr. Rodgers, Chiropodist. 14 Sagamore street, Atlantic. Mar. 17-6t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Cheap, a second hand kitchen stove, in good condition. Apply to Mr. Magee, Ledger office. 17-6t

FOR SALE—Loose English Hay at $18 per ton at barn. Edwin Poffley, 217 Quincy avenue, East Braintree. Mar. 16-3t

FOR SALE—One "Reo the Fifth," four seated touring car, specially comfortable body, over-sized tires, extra shoe, shock absorbers, Warner speedometer, condition good as new. Apply to Central Garage, corner Washington and Pond Streets, Quincy. 13-6t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS—Take notice. We are selling all steel portable Automobile garages, camps and storehouses ready to put up. Prompt shipment. Send for quotations, M. W. Tilton, Box 362 Brockton. 11-6t

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

LOST

LOST—Dark brindle female bull doy. Answers to name of Buck. Finder will please return to 122 Billings street, Atlantic. 17-3t

LOST—A gold locket Thursday evening between City hospital and Quincy Music hall or in hall. Reward if returned to F. O. H., 30 Ryden street. 14-3t

WANTED

TO A LONELY LADY—An elderly widower desires a home with a lady who will provide him with a room and board. Has a kind disposition, would be a good companion, and do any kind of light work. First-class references. Address "A. B. C. Quincy, Mass." Correspondence will be strictly confidential forever. 17-2t

WANTED—Washing, ironing and cleaning by the hour. Write to Lydia Rajala, 5 Carlmark street, West Quincy. 17-3t

WANTED—Experienced house to house salesman for Quincy for a new article of great merit selling for 50c. Address Box 2704, Boston, Mass. 16-3t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York. N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy. Res. 22-tf

JUST LOOK HERE

Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.

HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 Office 683-M

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

KINCAIDE THEATRE
HANCOCK STREET — QUINCY CENTRE
HIGH CLASS VAUDEVILLE — REFINED MOVING PICTURES

MONDAY, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, AT 2.30 & 7.45 P. M

BELL & LAPORTE
Comedy Singing, Talking and Music

TWO IRMENAS
Sensational Slack-wire Artists

THE HYLANDS
Refined Musical Entertainers

ED.D eCORSIA & CO.
Presenting their screamingly successful skit "RED IKE"

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

AFTERNOONS 5, 10, 15c.

3-Reels of Thrills
"WANTED BY THE POLICE"
— Featuring —
WILLIAM JEFFERSON
Son of the late Jos. Jefferson]
The Most Intense and Gripping Dramatic Feature in 3-reels ever seen

COMEDY PICTURES

EVENINGS 10, 15, 25c.

Mar. 14—3t

QUINCY REAL ESTATE SALES.

Emelia T. Allard to Inez H. Sundberg, Eliot avenue, Harvard street.

Emelia T. Allard to Svea E. Allard, Harvard street.

Emelia T. Allard to Carl H. Allard, Harvard street, Broadway.

Charles C. Barton et al trs to Wilton A. Dunham, Stoughton street.

Mary A. Bragan tr to Christopher F. Brown, Ocean street, Squantum street.

Susan R. Cook to Adin C. Demary, Goffe street.

Samuel Dougherty to James P. Dougherty, Hammond court.

Wilton A. Dunham to Joseph L. Eaton, Houghs Neck.

Thomas Fenno et al trs to Josiah A. Fenno, Oxenbridge road.

Josiah A. Fenno to Thomas Fenno tr.

Josiah A. Fenno to Thomas Fenno tr Oxenbridge road.

Josiah A. Fenno to Thomas Fenno, tr, Cheriton road.

Thomas Fenno et al trs to Josiah A. Fenno, Cheriton road.

Thomas Fenno et al trs to Catherine L. Boyden, Ferndale road.

Thomas Fenno et al trs to George F. Glass, Buckingham road.

William J. Henry to Mildred Dahl, Merrymount avenue.

Leroy F. Hodge to Margaret T. Decelle, Granite street.

George B. James et al trs to Henry Lurelle, Highland avenue.

William R. Joyce gdn to Ellen Walsh Larry place.

Nicholas M. Lecount to Edwin Bishop, Intervale street, Brooks avenue.

Charlotte McConnell to Eva M. Linnell, Davis street.

John C. Murray to Robert Maver tr, Scotch Pond place.

John C. Murray to Robert Maver tr, Liberty street.

Wyman B. Nightingale to Fred E. Nightingale, Granite street.

Charles L. Pratt to Harry H. Kerr, Hamilton street.

Charles R. Sherman to Lora C. Merrill, Granger street.

William Stuper to Barbara Stuper, Sea avenue.

Catherine A. Vogel to Adam S. Vogel Willard street.

Richard H. Walsh et al to Ellen Walsh, Larry place.

August N. Weeden et al trs to Amanda Blomquist, Northfield avenue.

Eric Weren et ux to Charles L. Pratt, Hamilton street.

Fred W. Wood et al trs to Mary E. Clark, Billings road.

QUINCY POST OFFICE.

Letters unclaimed for week ending March 14:

Colletti Bros., Mrs. William Conzens, Ayuorums Ebeniso, Francesco Fraccastoro, Mrs. E. Fulmore, Antoninodi Giulio, Margaret Kelliher, Felix Morrison, Miss Minnie McKenzie, Gavel Meleshko, Rufino Mier, Alberto Monturo, Mrs. George Moorehouse, Nany Olson, Toni Pettola, Jukka Salminero, Mr. Sawyer, Carl Svanson, John Toomanvech, Miss Angie May Webster, James Williams, Vreel Yghik.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

ST. PATRICKS DAY SOCIAL

Many Unique Features at Wollaston M. E. Church

A St. Patrick's Day social was held in Wollaston Methodist vestry, Monday evening, to celebrate the return of the dime pledge cards that were given out a year ago at a similar affair.

Each card contained fifteen spaces for dimes and a goodly amount was realized from the same.

The decorations were all of green and the ladies were each presented with an Irish flag as favors, while shamrocks fell to the lot of the gentlemen.

The program opened with a reading "Why St. Patrick's Day falls on the seventeenth" by Mrs. J. A. Sedgwick. Mrs. E. A. Roberts sang "Come back to Erin."

A peanut passing contest between sides chosen by Pastor Bailey and Superintendent Sedgwick aroused much excitement. The contest was won by Mr. Sedgwick's side.

Frank Dunham sang "The Kelleys are at it again" accompanied by Mrs. F. G. Bennett and an orchestra of eight pieces. This orchestra performed in pantomine and its actions were most amusing.

A character hunt which resulted in mixed compliments for the ladies was indulged in and Miss Marguerite Louise Holbrook sang, It's very vexin'" and "Little Irish girl."

Irish washerwoman was played by Mrs. Bennett during the clothespin contest. It was won by Mrs. Walter Sutermeister.

Rev. Mr. Bailey won the map contest in placing Ireland. Refreshments were served.

SUFFRAGE PARADE.

A "marching chorus" comprised of a large number of men and women singers will be one of the features of the suffrage parade which is to be held in Boston on May 2. The suffrage leaders are planning to make this chorus one worth going miles to hear.

BRAINTREE REAL ESTATE SALES.

Daniel F. Connor tr et al to Mae L. Stark, Dyer Hill.

Climena H. Drake to James H. Stedman, Middle street, Spruce street.

Amos Eagles to George R. Dobson, Dobson road.

Town of Braintree to Bliss W. Robinson.

EVERYTHING A MAN NEEDS

$1 Complete Shaving Outfit $1
10 Articles 10

To advertise our Universal Shaving Outfit and Universal Products we will for a limited time only, send this well worth $3.00 Shaving Outfit for $1.00. We sell our products to the consumer direct and therefore you save all agents' profits which as you know are very large.

1 Hollow Ground Razor.
1 5-inch Lather Brush.
1 Razor Strop, Canvas Back.
1 Nickel Easel Back Mirror.
1 33-inch Barber Towel.
1 Bar Shaving Soap.
1 Box Talcum Powder.
1 Decorated China Mug.
1 Aluminum Barber Comb.
1 Bristle Hair Brush.

Not more than one outfit to each consumer. Agents need not write.
Each outfit packed in neat box $1.00.
UNIVERSAL PRODUCTS CO.
Dayton, Ohio.

SUDDEN DEATH IRA T. DOBLE

Was Associated With His Father in Grocery Business

Ira T. Doble, esteemed lecturing knight of the Quincy lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, who reached his 31st birthday today, was found dead in bed this morning by members of the family at their home off Furnace Brook parkway, West Quincy.

Monday, Mr. Doble complained of not feeling well and this morning did not arise as was his custom, but remained in bed. Members of the family ministered to his needs and shortly after made the discovery.

Ira T. Doble was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Doble and was born in West Quincy. Of late years he has been associated with his father in the grocery and provision business. He was gradauted from the Willard grammar school and from Adams Academy in 1900. While at the Academy he participated in football and was considered one of the best pitchers in interscholastic circles at that time, and was in the box when that team administered a 53 to 3 defeat on Quincy High school.

The Elks was the only organization with which he was affiliated and he was one of its most popular members. He has been an office holder in that society for several years. He was unmarried and leaves his parents, and four sisters.

BRIEFS

L. J. Hickey, of Brookline, a sister of Mrs. Joseph Ford of this city, died a few days ago.

Rev. Fr. Francis X. Dolan, D. D., pastor of St. Gregory's church at Milton Lower Mills will preach at the mid week Lenten service in St. Mary's church Wednesday evening. Father Dolan was appointed to that pastorate several weeks ago to fill the vacancy caused by the sudden death of the late Rev. Fr. William Fitzpatrick.

Rev. Carl G. Horst has received a letter from Mrs. W. M. Chase, who with her husband is travelling in the Orient. The letter was dated Jerusalem, Feb. 20, and contained a "rose of Sharon," picked opposite Rachael's tomb on the road between Jerusalem and Bethlehem. Mrs. Chase writes "We are seeing many strange and interesting sights, but Wollaston stands out in my mind as the one place on earth."

The American people are being blamed for spending $275,000,000 on moving picture shows last year when if they had stayed at home and gone to bed at 8 o'clock, they would have had so much more money.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—always crisp, clean, pure and wholesome. Try it. Grocers.

Give Your Neighbor an Equal Chance

By HOLLAND.

IF you have been buying goods of a mail order house you doubtless think it has been to your advantage to do so. You have believed that you were saving money or were getting better goods. Let us see if this is true.

Have you tried to do business with your local merchant—your neighbor—on the terms that the mail order house exacts? No? Then suppose you try it.

Just go into the store, plank down your cash and tell what you want. You might even tell the merchant that you will wait a few days for the goods. See if your local merchant can't serve you better and as cheaply as the mail order house.

The local merchant usually extends credit for two, four or six months. The mail order house demands cash in advance. It uses your money as working capital. It loses nothing in interest, nothing in bad debts or on slow paying customers. Try this cash in advance plan on the local merchant—the man you know—and see if he can't make it to your advantage to SPEND YOUR MONEY WHERE YOU MAKE IT.

NEW STATE PENSION BILL

The Teachers Retirement System Is Threatened

The reckless manner in which Quincy and other cities have adopted pension acts favorable to employees is shown in the report of the special commission of the Legislature just made public. The commissioners say that the public authorities, in justice to the taxpayers and to the self respect of the employees, cannot continue the present system of handing out pensions without any contributory plan.

No public treasury it holds can stand the drain. Therefore it recommends and submits a bill which provides for the installation the state over of a general contributory system by which employes make contributions each year of 5 per cent. of their earnings, the state in the end furnishing an equal amount, so that the employe at the end of 25 years of service will have a pension not in excess of $1000.

To bring this about, it suggests that the present state retirement system, in operaion for two years, and the State Teachers" Retirement Association now organized, but which does not go into effect till July 1, be discontinued, and all merged in a general state system which will operate alike in all the cities and counties, the state itself and in all towns of 10,000 population.

SUBMARINE LAUNCHING

The submarine boat, K 5, built at the Fore River shipyards, was launched this afternoon. She was christened by Mrs. Maria Childs, wife of Lieut. Warren G. Childs, inspector of machinery for the United States Navy.

The submarine is one of the fleet being constructed for the Government. K-1, a sister submarine, was delivered at the Charlestown Navy yard today. K-2 was delivered several weeks ago. and K-6 under construction, is rapidly nearing completion.

CLUBHOUSE

(Continued from Page One.)

000 but an amount greatly in excess of this.

Fifteen subscriptions of $500 each make up the bulk of money already raised and a hearty effort is being made to bring this number up to twenty in addition to a goodly number of $100 pledges, which will put the club on a sound financial basis from the start.

No action will be taken or committees appointed until over $15,000 in pledges is actually in the hands of the directors.

When this amount is reached building operations will be started and work will go on apace.

Architect William Chapman is still at work on the plans and specifications and will have the same ready for contractors to figure on by the time the $15,000 mark is reached.

Principles.

We must be careful to have our principles and be ready to die for them. But we must be careful not to label our prejudices "principles" and proceed to die for them.

Symbolism in Japan.

When a child is born in Japan the parents put up outside the house the sign of a fish or a doll, according as it a boy or a girl. The fish represents a being who has to swim against the stream and make his way in the world. The doll stands for one who is there to be petted and made much of.

Not Ideal.

"You and your wife never argue?"

"Never," replied Mr. Meekton.

"What an ideal state!"

"Perhaps it isn't so ideal. I sometimes fancy Henrietta hasn't enough respect for my opinions to bother about arguing with me."—Washington Star.

Something Like That.

"Herr Schmidt is so fat that he can't get near enough to his counter to sell goods."

"H'm! Sort of a corporation in restraint of trade."—London Answers.

Might and Mane.

Tom Hood, the punster, once described the meeting of a man and a lion, and in doing so he said, "The man ran off with all his might and the lion with all his mane."

CITY COUNCIL

(Continued from Page One.)

compensation for teachers. The law also provided that schools must be open for at least 32 weeks each year. What the School Committee would do if the amount was cut he did not know. Chairman Mackay then read a decision of the Supreme court which gave the School Committee the power to fix salaries, and that it was not restricted to the amount appropriated by the Council. The School Committee was answerable to the voters of Quincy.

Councilman Ericson asked the Mayor why it was that he had cut one of the amounts in the school budget $2000. The Mayor replied that he had done so after consultation with the Chairman and Superintendent of the Board.

Councilman Ericson then asked Chairman Mackay if he had agreed to a cut. Mr. Mckay replied that he had a consultation with Mayor in regard to the matter. He however contended that the Mayor had no power to re revise the figures as submitted by the School Board.

Councilman Ericson then asked the City Solicitor what right the Mayor had to revise the figures of the School board.

In reply, City Solicitor Pinkham said that the act of 1913 seemed to show what power the Mayor had.

Councilman Ericson—My question was, what right the Mayor had to cut the School budget. City Solicitor Pinkham declined to answer, and said if the question was placed in the "Question book" he would answer.

A little later in the evening Councilman Ericson offered a resolve that the Solicitor be requested to send to the Council at its next meeting, his opinion on the following question: "Has the Mayor any legal right or authority to revise or change the estimates asked for by the School department to meet the current expenses of their department in the budget, as submitted by him to the City Council."

Councilman Bailey asked about the Question book, or rather what the City Charter provided.

City Solicitor Pinkham said the resolution was the proper method. He further said that as City Solicitor he was not called upon to give legal opinions to councilmen as individuals, but at request of the Council as a body.

The resolution was adopted.

The Mayor spoke at length about the cut made in the appropriation for Inspector of Buildings. He said that the Inspector paid a clerk $3 a week and that the cut only gave him $200. He believed that in order to see that the provisions of the building law was carried out the Inspector should have a cheap automobile.

Councilman Little spoke on the matter of street lighting, claiming that all night street lighting was a luxury. He believed that lighting the streets until 1 o'clock was late enough. He had some figures on it.

Councilman Ross suggested that he have his stenographer make copies so that every member might have a copy of the figures to study.

The order was ordered to a second reading.

A public hearing was held at 8.20 on petition of the Electric Light Co., for a location for poles after which the order was recommitted.

WATER EXTENSION.

The committee on Water Supply reported an amendment to the order for $36,000 for water extensions and meters making the amount $35,000. The cut was made neccessary as the later amount is the balance remaining of the amount authorized by the special act of 1911. To Finance Committee.

The same committee reported ought to pass on the order for $800 for building a new drain at South Quincy. Referred to Finance Committee.

The same committee reported reference to the Executive on the petition for a sewer on Beach street, and on the order for a sewer on Water street.

FIRE ALARM BOX.

The Committee on Fire Department reported a substitute order for $100 for a fire alarm box on the corner of Appleton street and the Quincy Shore drive. Referred to Finance Committee.

STREET WATERING.

The Committee on Streets to whom was referred the various petitions for street oiling or watering reported the annual street watering or oiling order. Ordered to a second reading.

The same committee reported an order concurring with the Metropolitan Park Commission in taking of land near the Neponset bridge for park purposes. Adopted.

The same committee reported an order granting the Electric Light Co. a location for poles. Ordered to a second reading.

IN CASE OF VACANCY.

Councilman Ross offered a resolution, requesting the Mayor to petition the Legislature to amend the City Charter so as to provide that in case of a vacancy in the office of Mayor the office should be filled for the remainder of the municipal year by the President of the Council and that in case of a vacancy in the office of councilmen the vacancy should be filled by the election of a new man for the remainder of the year by the remaining members of the Council. Referred to Committee on Legislative Matters.

Later an attempt was made to withdraw the reference.

Councilman Bailey believed that resolutions of this kind should be given some consideration before being adopted. He did not believe in adopting resolutions off hand. There had been several attempts to amend the charter but they had failed.

Councilman Ross claimed that the amendment would save the city considerable expense. Take for instance the recent special election in Ward Three. It had cost the city $450 and might have been saved if this amendment was in effect. In the case of a vacancy in office of the Mayor three months from the end of the year it meant an election all over the city.

Councilman Little believed that in the interest of economy it would be a good thing.

Councilmen Thompson and Craig thought the question should be thoroughly considered before action was taken. Councilman Beeman was not ready to vote for the resolution at this stage, as all were not as wise as the member from Ward Three.

The motion to withdraw from the Committee was lost.

On motion of Councilman Bailey it was voted when the Council adjourn it be until March 30.

NEW ORDERS.

Councilman Carlson offered an order for a fire alarm box on the corner of Ocean street and the Quincy Shore drive. Referred to Committee on Fire Department.

Councilman Hadlock offered an order for a light on Channing street. Referred to the Executive.

Councilman Ericson offered an order for the laying out of that part of Saville street between Upland road and Goffe street as a public foot way. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Ericson offered an order for a granolithic sidewalk on the south side of Maple street and for a distance of fifty feet on the easterly side of Chestnut street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Williams offered an order for $1,500 for the rebuilding of Scammell street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Griffin offered an order for the acceptance of the unaccepted part of Edison. Referred to Committee on streets.

NAVY YARD CONTRACT.

Councilman Griffin offered the following resolve:

"Whereas, the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, employing about 4000 persons, is the most important industry in the City of Quincy, and its continued successful business is of vital consequence to our citizens. For these reasons we consider it distinctly opposed to our local prosperity that the Navy Yard at Charlestown should be equipped for the building of vessels which can only result in the diminution of the quantity of ship construction available for our local plant and the establishment of conditions discouraging to private industry."

Councilman Beeman thought that we ought to go slow. If the contract for the supply ship did not go to the Charlestown yard it would go to some other navy yard and Massachusetts would be out of it.

Councilman Griffin said that there was a movement in Congress to have all government work done at navy yards. As about 80 per cent of the Fore River work was government work it could be readily seen how the plant would be affected. He believed that the Council should support anything that is for the advantage of Quincy.

Councilman Ross objected to the statement in the resolution that the Fore River yard was the most important business in Quincy. He placed the Granite industry first and moved to amend by saying "one" of the important industries. Amendment accepted.

Councilman Corcoran was surprised. It was a step backward to adopt the resolution. Everything now was trending toward government ownership.

Councilman Barrows said, the question is not, shall the Charlestown navy yard build ships, but shall the government build ships? To say that the Charlestown navy yard should not build ships would be a wrong step.

Concilman Nelson opposed. We should be more broad minded.

Councilman Ross was called to the chair.

President Whiton taking the floor made a strong plea for the resolution. He said that fifteen years ago the Fore River Corp. came to Quincy.

MAINE POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

He was surprised to hear any man speak one word against anything that will benefit a Quincy industry. Mayor Curley was doing all he could to clean up the Charlestown navy yard. He considered the Quincy yards first. They are also trying to pass a bill that all work shall be done in government yards. Do you realize what it will mean to Quincy to have the Fore River plant shut down, Aside from throwing many out of employment it will make many vacant houses in that district, which it will be impossible to rent. The Board of Trade and others are doing all they can to foster local industries and you now stand up against this resolution. It was time we woke up and did something. He did not believe it necessary for the Board of Trade to tell us what to do. If a little resolve like this will help retain the Fore River plant in Quincy I am astounded that anyone should oppose it. If we continue in this way we will soon be like the city of Alexandria where the grass is growing in the streets.

Councilman Little believed that we should do what we could to help local industries and to keep the shipyard here.

Councilman Bailey said that all these government ownership matters meant a larger cost to the citizens who have to pay the bill. Take for instance the parcel post. It has been established at the sacrifice of express companies and it is the people who will have to pay the cost.

The resolution was adopted.

Adjourned at 9.30 until March 30.

(ADVERTISE.)

Too Late For Classification

TO LET—Upper flat of five rooms and bath, all improvements, Bradford street, Quincy Adams. Apply to William Duggan, Bradford street. Tel. Quincy 801W. 17-6t

LOST— Brown cocker spaniel. Answers to name of Billy, license number 1054. Reward. Dr. F. S. Andrews, Quincy, Tel. 1656W. 17-1t

BIRTHS

NICHOLS—In Quincy, March 16, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Burr O. Nichols of 57 Gay street.

DEATHS

WHELAN—In West Quincy, March 16, Mary E. (nee Kelly), beloved wife of James H. Whelan, 26 years 9 months Funeral from the home of her mother, Mrs. Katherine Kelly, 211 Willard street, Wednesday, March 18, at 8.15 a. m. High mass of requiem at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited to attend.

BERRY—In East Milton, March 17, George P. Berry of Pierce street.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
185 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 65 | QUINCY, MASS WEDNESDAY EVENING MARCH 18 1914 | PRICE TWO CENTS

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Board of Health Elect William Taylor as Foreman

The little ripple of discord in the Board of Health office at City Hall has melted away and now all is peace and harmony. There have been many rumors about the street during the past ten days of discord among the members, but the trouble has now been settled and everything will go on smoothly.

A long session was held Monday evening at which various matters were freely discussed, but no definite action was taken until the adjourned meeting Tuesday evening. At this meeting Chairman Murray who has been acting as foreman, refused to longer act in that position, and the board elected William Taylor as foreman. Mr. Murray will continue to act for the remainder of the week, and Mr. Taylor will assume his new position next Monday morning. While the business of the department was entirely new to Mr. Murray his long experience as a business man enabled him to quickly grasp the situation, and he was making good.

He is giving much of his time to the duties of the office, and now that he will not be hampered by doing the work of a foreman, in addition to his work as chairman, things will run smoothly.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

By CHAS. H. JOHNSON. Auctioneer
Office, Room 3 Adams Building. Tel. Con.

Receiver's Sale
At Public Auction
OF THE Valuable Granite Plant
— OF —
GIORDANI & CO.
Situated off Hall Place, West Quincy
Will be sold from premises on
SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1914
At 2.30 P. M.

Large cutting shed and office, about 45,000 square feet land, and the following personal property: One Compressor, Electric Motor, 2 Polishing Machines, Hoister and Derrick, Boiler, Pump, Surface Machine, Tools, Chains, lot of pneumatic tools, Office Furniture, Desk, Chairs, Table, lot of Lumber and Rough Stock. Here is an opportunity; extra equipped plant all ready for business will be sold in one lot. $100 deposit on day of sale, balance cash within 20 days from date of sale. Per order

Walter S. Pinkham, Attorney
Receiver

6t M11-13-14-18-19-20

SUBMARINE STUCK IN MUD

But Tugs Pull Her Off at High Tide

The United States submarine K-5 which was launched at the Fore River shipyard Tuesday afternoon got stuck in the mud flats on the opposite side of the river and it was not until 3 A. M. at high water that tugs succeeded in getting her off.

There is usually water enough to float vessels launched but the submarine had such a headway on when sh went down the ways that the propellors, which usually act as a check were not sufficient to stop her, and she sailed across the river and grounded on the flats.

The company's tug tried to pull her off but she was hard and fast and a towboat company tug was summoned. This tug arrived late in the afternoon and early in the morning the two tugs were able to haul her off. She was not damaged in any way and is now at the fitting-out dock.

Aside from this mishap the launch was successful in every way. Mrs. Julie M. Child, wife of Lieut. W. G. Child of the U. S. N. assistant inspector of machinery at the yards.

According to workmen at the yards who have seen many launchings, Mrs. Child smashed the bottle of wine in the best fashion seen for many a day.

FUNERAL OF DEACON LOVETT

The funeral of Joseph W. Lovett, a member of the first City Council and a former Wollaston resident was held at Dorchester this afternoon. Services were conducted by Rev. I. W. Sneath of the Wollaston Congregational church of which Mr. Lovett was a deacon for many years. He was assisted by Rev. Edward A. Robinson, of Chelmsford, a former pastor. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery, Dorchester.

ELECT DELEGATES AND DANCE.

Circle Daughters of Vikings, C. F. of A., held a dancing social after a meeting in Protection hall Tuesday night at which they acted on one application and elected Mrs. Sophie Herby and Mrs. Selma Hermanson delegates to the state convention in Gloucester June 2, 3 and 4. Mrs. Hannah Sandberg and Mrs. Matilda Johnson were elected alternates Dancing was enjoyed until midnight, music being furnished by Harry Nickerson. The committee was Mrs. Hilma O'Brien, Mrs. Sophie Herby, Miss Alice Hallquist, Miss Vera Thompson and Miss Lennea Holmgren.

AT FOY'S

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

SPECIAL FOR THURSDAY

LAMB CHOPS 20c lb

Kidney Chops—Fresh, tender, delicious. Regular 30c lb. quality reduced for THURSDAY ONLY 20c lb.

R. E. FOY & COMPANY
QUINCY'S QUALITY MARKETS

March 18-2t

SEVERE TESTS FOR AUTO PUMP

Quincy Product to be Tried Out In City Square

H. L. Houghton, who is in charge of the new department at the Fore River shipyard known as the fire engine department, proposes to put the new auto pump now building at the plant to a severe test when it is completed. It is now expected that the apparatus will be ready to try out about the first of April, and it is proposed after trying out its pumps in City Square to run the apparatus over some of the worst pieces of road that can be found in this vicinity. After that, it is proposed to run the apparatus up through New Hampshire over some of the rough roads of that state. If the apparatus stands these tests it will do well. Before the finishing coat of paint is applied to the apparatus it is proposed to run it several thousand miles, so as to try it out under the worst conditions.

Chief Billings who has visited the shipyard several times to inspect the pump is high in praise of it. On Sunday afternoon the Committee on Fire Department of the City Council which is considering the order for the purchase of an auto combination pump will visit the Fore River yards and inspect the piece of apparatus.

The new industry in Quincy is attracting wide-spread interest, and the company has received invitations from a number of places to try out the apparatus in those cities, but it will probably be given its first try out in Quincy. On that occasion it is expected that there will be many visiting fire department officials in the city, and they will be the guests of the city on that occasion.

The City Council has appropriated $100 for the entertainment of these visitors, who will be in charge of a special committee including Mayor Miller, President Whiton of the City Council and Councilmen Ross, Bailey and Richards.

MOOSE ELECT NEW DICTATOR

Quincy lodge, No. 413, Loyal Order of Moose, elected its officers for the ensuing year in Electa hall Tuesday night after several close contests. A member of the Junior Order of Moose was graduated to membership, making the fifth to become a senior within a short time. Dictator James A. Daley, who presided, will retire after the installation April 21 with the office of junior past dictator. The installation will be conducted by District Deputy Supreme Dictator Albert J. Williams. Nearly 100 members attended the meeting. Edward J. Fegan elected financial secretary for three years at the 1913 annual meeting continues in that capacity. The officers elected:

Dictator—William B. Norrie.
Vice Dictator—Walter F. Carman.
Prelate—Charles E. White.
Treasurer—John E. Brown.
Inner Guard—Herbert F. Hammond.
Outer Guard—William J. Buckley.
Trustees—John E. Heffernan for 3 years, Hiram C. Darrow for 2 years and Neil A. McDonald for 1 year.
Physician—Dr. John H. Ash.
Representative to Supreme lodge—Albert J. Williams.
Alternate—Edward C. Killen of North Weymouth.

Mrs William Howard of Squantum street spent the week end in New York.

5 FOR YOUR DEN 5
Beautiful College Pennants
Yale and Harvard, each 9 in. x 24 in.
Princeton, Cornell, Michigan
Each 7 in. x 21 in.
All best quality felt with felt heading, streamers, letters and mascot executed in proper colors. This splendid assortment sent postpaid for 50 cents. Send now.
HOWARD SPECIALTY COMPANY
Dayton Ohio.

ST. PATRICK CONCERT

Also Farce of Members of Quincy Catholic Club

All parts of the city were represented in the large crowd that attended the parish concert and entertainment in the hall of St. John's parish school Tuesday evening in honor of St. Patrick's day. A high class program was given by well known soloists and included a one-act farce by members of the Quincy Catholic club.

The quartette of the evening consisting of Paul, Peter and Joseph Morrisette and Joseph Daley opened the affair with a group of songs which included "Shannon Bells," "The last rose of summer," "A bowl of roses," and other favorites were sung by Miss Gertrude Meade. Miss Teresa Wholey rendered Irish selections, among them being "Kerry Dance" and "Mighty, like a rose."

John D. Walsh, the tenor soloist, sang Tosti's "My dreams" and "The little Shamrock," and Thomas Shufeldt, the baritone, rendered "I am off for Phillie in the morning" and "Three for Jack."

Miss Emma E. Ecker, a former soloist at St. Mary's church, now of the Boston Opera Co., rendered several solos, among which were Irish songs.

Lillian Reed, daughter of Mrs. Rose A. Reed gave two readings, "Practicing a piano" and "The Doll in the pawn shop," and there was Irish jig and reel dancing and other steps and specialties by Miss Marie Tierney.

The Catholic Club members repeated "Our Aunt from California" which was given with great success at their Gentlemen's night on Dec. 29. The cast included Miss Eva Rice, Miss Katherine Brown, Miss Marguerite McCarthy, Miss Anna J. Walsh, Miss Gertrude Carroll, Miss Julia F. Duffy, Miss Gertrude Hughes. Selections were given during the presentation by the Quincy Catholic Club kitchen orchestra, their arrangement including the popular song successes of the day.

All he contributions to the program were received with prolonged applause, and the affair from the concert and entertainment standpoint was the best given in the parish for years.

SURPRISE AND PRESENTATION

Miss Marion L. McLoon of 66 Taylor street, who contemplates an extended trip South and West about April 1, was surprised Tuesday evening when called home suddenly to find eighteen of her former school friends at the High present. To make the surprise more complete William T. Thompson in an able manner presented a gold bracelet. Green was the predominating color in the decorations, but there were also red roses, carnations and daffodils. It was a jolly evening. Refreshments were served.

Among those present were Miss Gladys DuPlessis, Miss Dorothy Brokaw, Miss Ruth Bruce, Miss Louise Wilson, Miss Martha Robinson, Miss Marion Wilson, Miss Priscilla Robinson, Miss Esther Briggs, William A. Thompson, Edward Bullock, Joseph Betts, Arthur Bullock, Harry Burr, Ralph Briggs, and Hayden Crocker, of Quincy, Rodney D. Marks and Irving Hall, Jr., of Somerville.

GARDNER CLUB.

Thursday evening, Stanley Bone will address the Gardner Club of Christ church. His subject will be "The Canadian Rockies and the great Northwest" and will be illustrated with stereopticon views. These views have been generously loaned by the Canadian Pacific Railroad. On account of the interest manifested in this talk the club has decided to make this an open meeting and consequently invites anyone who feels interested to come and hear Mr. Bone.

The club is now holding rehearsals for its dramatics. The two plays chosen this year are "Betsy Baker" and "Done on both Sides," both very amusing one-act farces.

CLOG AND STEP DANCING

At Concert by Division 22 of West Quincy

Clog dancing by B. Grogan, New England champion clog dancer, and Irish step dancing by the Coughlin brothers were the top line features of a fine program given at the first concert of Div. 22, A. O. H., in St. Mary's Hall, West Quincy, on St. Patricks night to a packed house. A fine assortment of stereopticon pictures of Ireland were shown

The dancing of Mr. Grogan was a treat to most of those present, and the fine applause given, only to be equaled a little later when the Coughlin brothers presented their double skit, was never more spontaneous at any of the many affairs conducted in St. Mary's hall.

John Hoye of Randolph, Miss Nora Reardon and Miss Mildred Donaher were the soloists of the evening, and Miss Florence Riley was the reader.

Irish airs were sung by the Park trio consisting of Joseph Daley of West Quincy and Frank and Hugh Driscoll of Mattapan, and other songs were sung by a trio the three Morrisette brothers, Joseph, Peter and Paul. Arthur Holmes sang illustrated songs and music during the evening was furnished by William Wilson at the piano and Thomas Joyce on the violin.

The affair was given under the direction of a committee including James Sweeney and Thomas Rogan and will be made an annual event.

IRISH NIGHT AT ATLANTIC

St. Kevins court of Foresters observed their anniversary with an "Irish Night" Tuesday night at Atlantic. The speakers were High Vice Chief Ranger John Clency, High Senior Conductor John Buckley, Past High Chief Ranger, Cornelius M. Duggan and Rev. Fr. John J. Cuffe, court chaplain. Violin and piano selections were given by Misses Beatrice and Agnes Costello, songs were rendered by Mrs. Catherine Canning, and there was step dancing by James Kennedy. Many were present.

ASSAULT ALLEGED.

Peter Nobile of 34 Elm street, was arrested Tuesday night by Officer Broberg on a warrant charging him with assaulting Carmine DeMatti, a 10 year old boy. It appears that Tuesday afternoon the boy found a $10 bill near the corner of Canal and Washington streets and went into the store of W. H. Stevenson to inquire if he had lost it. As he came out of the store Nobile came up and demanded the money, saying that it was his. The boy had his doubts about the claim and refused to give up the money, at which it is alleged that Nobile knocked him down and took the money away. A complaint was made to the police and a warrant issued. The case was continued for a week.

SUN—ER—GAI CLUB.

On March 15th, the Sun-er-gai club of Roxbury were entertained at the home of Misses Francis and Margaret Allen, Brunswick street. The club is made up of young ladies who live in Roxbury where the Misses Allen lived before coming to Squantum, and a feature of their club is the good times they have when they gather at the various members homes. A musical program was greatly enjoyed after which a delightful lunch was served. Francis and Margaret Allen was assisted in receiving by their mother Mrs. Allen and sister Anne Allen.

Those present were: Louise Carr, Louise Leonard, Marion Bidwell, Bess Fitzpatrick, Anna Meade, Margaret McCaffrey, Katheryn Toland, May Toland, Margaret Toland, Bertha Kelley Helen Kelley, and Mrs. SuSzanne Clifford.

DO YOU WANT PUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

SQUANTUM TO HAVE CHURCH

Preliminary Organization of Church Society

A church society was formed in Squantum Tuesday night at the home of Councilman and Mrs. John R. Nelson under the direction of the Rev. T. W. Davison, pastor of the Atlantic Memorial church of Atlantic. Committees were appointed to begin work at once looking to the building of a church and the raising of funds to finance a church building. Various speakers at the meeting showed considerable enthusiasm over the church project.

Rev. Mr. Davison in outlining his plans said that he had received assurances of $25 a month to assist in the church work from the Home Missionary Society of Boston. He thought it for the best interests of Squantum that a church society be formed as soon as possible to begin work toward securing a church building for the community.

Sixteen of those present volunteered to join in the church movement either as charter or parish members. He said he did not wish to overtax the community in the starting of a church and said that he could promise the people not to put a heavy tax upon them in the way of raising funds for church work or maintenance.

Remarks were made by Councilman John R. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Uppling, Mr. and Mrs. John Marden, Peter Olson, Captain Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mason, Perley Bostwick, Herbert A. Smith, J. H. Summer, Mr. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Lindgren.

After some discussion of the details of the church work the following were appointed to organize the church work; Clerk, Mrs. John R. Nelson; treasurer, J. H. Sumner; Finance committee, James H. Foster, chairman, John R. Nelson, C. E. Carlson, John Holmes and J. H. Sumner; Building committee, Herbert A. Smith, chairman, Joseph Uppling, T. W. Currie, Roger Mason, Peter Olson; on Organization, Mrs. Matthew McGrain, Mrs. Charles Watts, Mrs. John Holmes, Mrs. John Marden, Mrs. Lindgren, Mrs. Frank W. Anderson.

WELLESLEY SENIOR.

Gladys L. Bain of Wollaston, a studentat Wellesley college was one of the 350 girls that marched from burning College Hall Tuesday morning. The loss is set close to $1,000,000. Miss Bain is a graduate of Quincy High school and popular at Wollaston. The blaze which destroyed College Hall, the oldest Wellesley building, is believed to have started from spontaneous combustion in the labratory. Heroic work and coolness prevented any loss of life.

POWER BOAT SQUADRON

Organized in Quincy by The Navy Department

At a meeting held Tuesday evening a Powerboat Squadron was formed with the following officers: Charles W. Laing, commandant; W. S. Hibbard, vice commandant; George S. Morse, treasurer; John O. Hall, secretary.

The Powerboat Squadron (composed of members from the Boston Yacht club; Portland Yacht club; Club situated on the Hudson river; New Haven Yacht club; Savin Hill Yacht club is an organization by the Navy Department at Washington and is intended for instruction in rules of navigation among powerboat owners. A regular code of signals is used and there will be maneuvers from time to time the same as in war vessels of the navy.

This division from the Quincy Yacht club will prove to be very interesting and profitable, furnishing a great deal of pleasurable sailing among its members, and it is earnestly hoped that parties owning powerboats will avail themselves of an opportunity to join.

A meeting will be held immediately after the opening of the clubhouse at Houghs Neck at which arrangements will be made to extend the membership in the squadron.

CONCERT BY DIVISION 17

Followed by Refreshments Dancing and Good Time

A concert and dance under the auspices of Division 17, A. O. H., was held in Poland's hall. Norfolk Downs, Tuesday evening and a most sociable time was spent. The concert was all by members of the families of he order and consisted of two songs by 17 little girls in white with green sashes and carrying American and Irish flags, and accompanied by little Miss Mary McNally on the piano; a solo by Marie Boisclair; an address by Jeremiah Carroll of Boston president of the Garlic Alliance of Boston; solo by Mrs. J. J. Canning accompanied by Mrs. B. Cullen, songs and recitations by Cornelius M. Dugan assisted by Masters Duggan and Cavanagh, and accompanied by Miss Mary Duggan; addresses by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Cuffe and Rev. Fr. McCoy of Lowell. Refreshments were then served by the members and the floor was clared for dancing. Music was furnished by Frank Flynn at the piano. The affair was in charge of Michael McNally, president of the order.

Why not Made-to-Your-Order Paint?

Mix your paint to suit surface and weather conditions and tint it so it blends well with the surroundings of your house.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1869.

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC.

of the Quincy Daily Ledger, published daily at Quincy, Massachusetts, required by the act of August 24, 1912.

Managing Editor, Frank F. Prescott Quincy, Mass.

Business Managers, Board of Directors, Quincy, Mass.

Publishers, George W. Prescott Publishing Co., Quincy, Mass.

Owners: Frank F. Prescott, Quincy, Mass., Eben Prescott, Braintree, Mass., Etta M. Prescott, Quincy, Mass., Annie L. Prescott, Quincy, Mass., Alice K. P. Low, Quincy, Mass.

Average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date of this statement, 2756.

George W. Prescott Publishing Co.
by A. L. PRESCOTT, Treasurer.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 17th day of March 1914.

CLARENCE BURGIN,
(Seal) Notary Public.
My commission expires Dec. 8, 1916.
Mar. 18-tf

Fourth class postmastership candidates take exams in April. It is hoped they demonstrate their ability to read postal cards quickly.

These colored wigs they are trying to introduce to match the gowns ought to look pretty well after the women have their faces painted in the same color to harmonize.

Gen. Villa must value that book on military customs that he borrowed from one of our army officers, as it shows him new ways to violate the laws of war.

Dancing is allowed after 1 A. M. in New York now, but things do not get very lively at so early an hour in the evening.

The "unemployed" in some cities are breaking into the churches by force. After they get jobs it may take force to get them into the churches.

The income tax assessment has rounded up a lot of people who seem to live peaceably with their wives (thereby getting additional exemption,) although this type of couple long ago disappeared out of modern novels.

President Wilson's habit of delivering his messages in person deprives the Congressmen of a convenient interval to go out and get a neck-shave.

By the time that autopsy on Benon begins, the body ought to be reduced to the convenient form of a skeleton.

Now the rural carriers are hoping Congress will pass a bill giving them more pay. This job calls for men of discrimination, or the farmers' wives can't get their dress goods properly matched.

Income taxes must be paid in June, but the parents that buy the most expensive graduating gowns for their daughters are not likely to be the one's that have to make an income return.

Americans who can't get away from Mexico should remember that few people get into political difficulty from discussing the weather.

A Boston daily reports that the battleship No. 39 whose keel was laid at New York this week, will be "completed" in one year. Perhaps.

ANNUAL CITY APPROPRIATIONS

Order as Reported by Finance Committee to the City Council and Read Once

GENERAL GOVERNMENT.

City Council—Salaries	$1,100 00
Other expenses	475 00
		$1,575 00
Mayor—Salary	2,500 00
Other expenses	1,500 00
		$4,000 00
City Auditor—Salary	1,600 00
Clerk	468 00
Miscellaneous	350 00
		$2,418 00
City Treasurer—Salary	1,600 00
Clerk	780 00
Miscellaneous	500 00
		$2,880 00
Tax Collector—Salary	1,400 00
One clerk	780 00
One clerk	624 00
One clerk	468 00
Miscellaneous	1,650 00
		$4,922 00
Assessors—Salaries	2,900 00
Assistant Assessors—Salaries	600 00
One clerk	988 00
One clerk	728 00
One clerk	572 00
One clerk	416 00
Extra clerical	400 00
Other expenses	1,200 00
		$7,804 00
City Clerk—Salary	1,400 00
Clerk	676 00
Miscellaneous	750 00
		$2,826 00
City Messenger—Salary	250 00
		$250 00
City Solicitor—Salary	1,400 00
Other expenses	75 00
		$1,475 00
Registrars—Salaries	1,150 00
Election expenses	2,200 00
		$3,350 00
Commissioner of Public Works—Salary	2,400 00
Clerical	780 00
Other expenses	250 00
		$3,430 00
City Engineer—Salary	1,800 00
Office expenses	2,500 00
		$4,300 00
Repair of Buildings and care of City Hall	12,000 00
		$51,230 00

PROTECTION OF LIFE AND PROPERTY.

Police Department
Chief of Police	$1,500 00
Pay of men	39,629 94
Miscellaneous	4,600 00
		$45,729 94
Fire Department
Chief Engineer	1,400 00
Clothing	250 00
Fire alarm	1,000 00
Pay of men	36,500 00
Horse shoeing and keeping	3,500 00
Fuel and lighting	1,350 00
Repairs and fixtures	1,500 00
Hose	1,100 00
Other expenses	2,300 00
		$48,900 00
Inspection of Buildings
Inspector	1,000 00
Miscellaneous	200 00
		$1,200 00
Sealing of weights and measures
Sealer	1,000 00
Miscellaneous	400 00
		$1,400 00
Gypsy moth	7,000 00
		$7,000 00
		$104,229 94

HEALTH AND SANITATION.

Board of Health	$950 00
Contagious diseases	10,600 00
One clerk	676 00
Inspection	780 00
Inspector of Milk	150 00
Miscellaneous	150 00
Inspector of Animals	200 00
Inspector of Provisions	200 00
Other expenses	100 00
Inspector of Plumbing	1,200 00
Vital Statistics	600 00
Miscellaneous	1,200 00
School Physicians	500 00
		$17,306 00
Garbage	8,600 00
Ashes	3,850 00
Scavenger	5,500 00
Cleaning brooks	800 00
		$36,056 00

HIGHWAYS (INCLUDING BRIDGES)

Highway Expenses
(including excise tax)	$40,000 00
Bridges, culverts and drains	3,500 00
		$43,500 00
Removal of snow	4,000 00
Street lighting	33,000 00
Street Sprinkling	11,000 00
		$91,500 00

CHARITIES AND SOLDIERS' BENEFITS.

Poor Department
Overseer	$800 00
Clerk	572 00
Mothers' Aid	5,000 00

(Continued on Page Five.)

10,000 to 15,000 Readers Daily

Quincy, Mass., March 16, 1914.

To the Merchants of Quincy and others:

This is to certify that over 2,000 copies of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER have been printed and circulated every issue since January 1, 1914; and averaged much higher, as many days 2,500 to 3,500 copies have been printed and circulated. This gives the Quincy Daily Ledger from 10,000 to 15,000 READERS EVERY DAY.

(Signed) FRANK F. PRESCOTT,
Managing Editor.

Then personally appeared before me this Sixteenth day of March, 1914, the said Frank F. Prescott, managing editor of the Quincy Daily Ledger, and made oath that the statements above are true.

(Notary) CLARENCE BURGIN,
(Seal) Notary Public.

A CHALLENGE

The publishers of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER hereby challenge any other Quincy publication daily or weekly to take oath to the number of copies they print and circulate each and every issue; and call their attention to the law relative to fraudulent advertising when they make claims they cannot verify.

We invite the merchants to send a representative to the Ledger Office each afternoon to see the edition run off; to see how it is circulated and verify our statements, and we challenge other newspapers to do the same. We also ask the merchants to visit the newstands in Quincy and Boston, and see if the Ledger does not sell ten to one of any Quincy newspaper.

George W. Prescott Publishing Co.
Quincy, March 16, 1914.

BY COMPARISON

If flyers distributed from house to house average one reader each, they do exceedingly well; but allowing this high average, 10,000 flyers would have LESS READERS than any one issue of the Quincy Daily Ledger. Have you thought of it in this light?

WE ALSO CLAIM

That no newspaper in Massachusetts does as much for the community in which it is printed and for the support that it receives from the local merchants, as the DAILY LEDGER, a newspaper which is alive, which is newsy, which has a record back of it of seventy-five years of clean journalism; a newspaper too self-respecting to enter the ranks of yellow journalism or use blackmail tactics to get business. If a corporation or merchant does not advertise in the Ledger he runs no risk of abuse in the editorial columns. If you see advertisements in other papers and not in the Ledger "there's a reason" but it is to the credit of the Ledger.

Ledger advertisements bring returns, but the newspaper cannot do it all, the merchants have got to stand back of their advertisement and deliver the goods. Their advertisement, same as their word, has got to mean something to the buying public.

Look at Quincy's largest and most successful merchant Henry L. Kincaide, another Robert E. Foy,—men who have always advertised, men who ask no favors, and meet their obligations promptly. A little of their broadness would do wonders for some of our merchants who think they do not need advertising; cannot afford to advertise, or are not advertising where they will get returns on their investment. In no way can the Quincy merchants get quicker or more substantial returns for a small outlay of money than by an advertisement in the DAILY LEDGER, yet they will spend 50, 35, or 25 cents an inch on advertising in papers that cannot back up their circulation claims. These same advertisements could be inserted in the Ledger for 25, 20 or 15 cents per inch with circulation guaranteed.

We have refrained from newspaper controversy heretofore believing the Ledger's record speaks for it self—a record of steady reliable growth from year to year; a paper with reliable people back of it—a paper well equipped to do business—a paper that meets its moral and financial obligations to the minute, need ask no favors of sheets that it does not even consider in the light of competitors. Their misinterpretation, and false statements are hardly worth noticing as they seem too much like a little dog trying to harry a St. Bernard and barking louder and louder when all its noise has no effect.

The DAILY LEDGER is working continually in season and out for the best interests of Quincy; to make the city prosper; to foster industries and encourage home trade; to build up our churches, the Y. M. C. A. and other institutions and organizations; to secure good government; to equalize taxation and keep the tax rate down; to secure city improvements, to foster civic pride and loyalty to Quincy.

Our Advertising Rates should be twice as high as at present for the circulation and service which the DAILY LEDGER is giving, but Local Merchants have not taken advantage of the opportunities which the DAILY LEDGER offers, and have wasted time and money through other channels with small returns Foreign advertisers find the Ledger a paying proposition and pay good rates for their advertising—but it is a much better one for local merchants. TRY IT AND SEE.

The Daily Ledger is considering seriously a one-cent paper with a view to still larger circulation and an enlarged field of operation. We have the equipment and the will to give the merchants a 5,000 DAILY CIRCULATION if they can support it. Cooperation is needed in this as well as other things which are for the good of the whole and not for individual or personal gain. Quincy merchants should pull together, but at the same time have individualism enough not to be coerced into helping out one or two of their number who wish to enlarge their business operations at the expense of the whole.

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING COMPANY.
Publishers of the
QUINCY DAILY LEDGER.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

WHAT IS A SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX?

It is a strong steel box, in a doubly-locked compartment in our fire and burglar-proof vault. You have the keys to it. It is absolutely PRIVATE and absolutely secure. You can go to it freely at any time during business hours.

This costs you only $5 per year—only half what you would have to pay for a smaller box in Boston.

Our $5 Box is larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences. Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.
Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.
Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.
18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS
A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock
Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.
For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-1o-tf

DAVID SILVER ROSE LEVINE

United in Marriage at Otisfield Hall, Boston

David Silver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Silver of Sumner street, Quincy Point and Miss Rose Levine of Dorchester were married at Roxbury on Tuesday evening in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The ceremony, performed under a canopy, was in Otisfield hall, Rev. Rovner of Boston, officiating.

The attendants were Max Cooper of Quincy, best man and Mrs. Max Cooper, matron of honor. The bride was given away by her father. She was dressed in white charmeuse, trimmed with Irish point lace and rhinestones. Her veil was caught up with lilies of the valley and she carried a shower bouquet of the same flowers.

A reception followed and a wedding supper was served. Many Quincy residents were present. Mr. and Mrs. Silver will reside at 29 Cunningham street, Dorchester, where they will be at home to their many friends after their return from a short honeymoon.

MANY WILL TAKE EXAMINATION.

It is understood that ten men will take the examination on March 31 for first assistant to the Commissioner of Public Works, to be given by the Board of Civil Service Examiners. The position carries a salary of $5 per day and has been created by Mayor Miller in substitution of the position of foreman of streets, etc., recently held by Michael T. Shea, which was abolished by the executive shortly after he took office. Among those filing applications are some of the best road builders in the city. The examination calls for a sworn statement of training and experience, letter writing, arithmetic, and knowledge of the construction and maintenance of streets and relative subjects.

TRACTORS POPULAR IN LYNN.

Tractors on steam fire engines have proved so successful in Lynn that besides the "Amoskeag" tractor, which has been put through the most exacting service tests, four more of the same make have been ordered by the fire department to replace a dozen horses which have heretofore hauled the steamers. The horses will probably be transferred to the public Work department.

PRATT'S BREAD is good for growing children—nourishing and satisfying. Grocers sell it.

Grain Dealers & General Stores. 4199

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES
29 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar.
Tel. Quincy 121-W.

AMONG THE WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

News of Women's Clubs is a feature of the Daily Ledger every Wednesday. Secretaries of organizations should send notices of club activities, to reach the Club Editor not later than Tuesday night to insure insertion the next day.

The Katharyn Crane Memorial Club meets Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Emery L. Crane, Whitney road.

* * *

As Miss Harriet Johnson's talk to Quincy Alliance Monday afternoon will be somewhat lengthy and as there is also considerable business to be discussed, the meeting will be held earlier than usual. The executive board will meet at two o'clock and the regular meeting will be at half past two. Mrs. E. C. Butler and Mrs. John O. Short have the afternoon's program in charge.

* * *

French dramatists will be considered at next week's meeting of the Friday Club at the home of Mrs. John L. Gow, Miller Stile Inn. Mrs. Frank A. Page of Wollaston will be the chairman of the afternoon.

* * *

Mrs. Sylvester Brown is in charge of the program for the March 25th meeting of Wollaston Alliance in the vestry of the Unitarian church; subject: "The life of Edward Everett Hale." The meeting will be a symposium several speakers.

* * *

The Girls' Friendly Society of St. Chrysostom's church is to meet at half past seven for the next month in order to give more time to the class in basketry. A course of six instructions is being given on consecutive Wednesday evenings. The instructor secured is Mrs. Jelinick who teaches the basketry class of the Wollaston Woman's Club. She is being ably assisted by Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Safford who have kindly volunteered their services. One complete article is made each evening. A sandwich tray and a jardinere are the tangible result of the first two lessons. The class numbers twenty-five and each member keeps her own articles when finished.

* * *

Mrs. Walter F. Jones, Mrs. James H. Broughton, Mrs. Frank C. Blake, Mrs. Charles Pinkham and Mrs. George Taylor are the nominating committee of the Abigail Phillips Quincy Chapter D. A. R. of Wollaston to prepare the ballot for the annual meeting in May.

* * *

At its March 26th meeting the Atlantic Shakespeare Society is to read act four of King Lear under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles L. Coe.

* * *

Miss Bumstead is to speak on Mexico tomorrow afternoon at the meeting of the Women's Guild of Christ church. Her charming personality is well known and an enjoyable afternoon is assured.

* * *

The annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution it to be held in Washington as usual the week of April 20-25. Miss Florretta Vining is to conduct a large party of Massachusetts delegates.

* * *

With a membership of 600 and a waiting list of over 400 it looks says the Brockton Enterprise as though the Brockton Woman's Club could rent pretty sizeable and worth-while quarters and take care of the proposition very easily if it sees fit to go into it at all. It is a large and a strong organization and could very easily use a commodious clubhouse. The Quincy Women's club had the making of a large club but it was not thought wise so that other clubs have been formed with ambitions for large membership and clubhouses.

* * *

The Milton Woman's Club which is working hard to raise funds to buy land on which to erect a clubhouse is to give an entertainment of tableaux for the benefit of the fund Tuesday evening, March 24.

* * *

Mrs. William Alden gave her paper on Historic Quincy, Tuesday afternoon before the Boston Tea Party chapter, D. A. R. at Hotel Lenox. Mrs. Silas H. Ayer presided and Miss Marion Decrow sang.

The Quincy Young Women's Club meets every Tuesday evening in the High School gym for class work and social hour.

* * *

Mrs. E. C. Bumpus first president of the Quincy Women's Club has had a busy season with her art lectures. One of the largest and most interested of her audiences was that of last Friday morning at the Chilton Club, Commonwealth avenue, Boston. Mrs. Bumpus is thoroughly at home with her subject and holds the attention of her listeners throughout the hour.

* * *

Junior Friday Club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. Perry Lawton of Presidents hill, having its usual interesting and pleasant session.

* * *

Quincy club women attended the dramatics of The Philergians of Braintree, Tuesday afternoon at Bates Opera house, East Braintree. "The Rivals" the five act comedy by Richard Brinsley Sheridan was given a fine presentation. Those in the cast were Mesdames Danforth, Rogers, Webber, Knight, Hall, Treat, Ellsworth, Davenport, Wales, Hathaway, Grover and Scotcher all members of The Philergians. The play was produced and staged by Mrs. Bill. The audience was quick to show its appreciation of the work of the actors and applause was frequent.

* * *

One of the finest entertainments ever given in Quincy will be the presentation of the "Pageant of Trees" under the direction of Mrs. Anna Eastman Frost, a dancer of great renown. It is to be given at Wollaston School hall, March 25 and 26, under the auspices of the Civics committee of the Wollaston Woman's Club.

* * *

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Mrs. Edward S. Tenney, of the Art committee is much pleased at the interest being shown in the Picture Study lecture to be given at the clubhouse Friday afternoon, April 17. Subscriptions are coming in well and it is hoped a large sum will be realized as the proceeds are to be used in purchasing pictures for the clubhouse in memory of Mrs. Charles L. Seavey, a club member and chairman at her death of the Art committee. The lecture is to be by C. Frederick Whitney and will be illustrated by blackboard.

Mrs. Mellen of the Education committee is asking members for contributions of money, candy, grabs, etc., for the children's May festival this year instead of the usual may-baskets.

* * *

WOLLASTON WOMAN'S CLUB.

The first president's day and birthday of the Wollaston Woman's Club was celebrated Tuesday afternoon at the Park and Downs church and the edifice was filled to overflowing..

The decorations were unique being a combination of buff and blue, the colonial colors and small nosegays of bachelor buttons, marguerites and a spray of maiden-hair fern for each officer and guest.

The platform was prettily decorated with large palms and rubber plants with jonquils in profusion, making a fitting background for the fair members of the Glee Club, who rendered most perfectly the following selections: "To Thee O Country," "A Song at Sunrise" in which Miss Ruth Hardy excelled herself in the soprano solo and "Yankee Doodle" solo part by Mrs. W. H. Spooner, assisted by the chorus.

The ushers including Mrs. W. P. Tripp, Mrs. W. G. Rood, Mrs. J. R. Burke, Mrs. W. H. Nichols, Mrs. Herbert Healy and Mrs. Howard Penniman all wore colonial costumes including beauty patches, minatures and powdered hair, looking most attractive.

Mrs. A. D. Ropes, president, called the meeting promptly to order and at once seemed to spread through the audience a feeling of welcome and perfect hospitality. She gave a pleasing speech of welcome and introduced the first speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. John Amee, president of the Cantabrigia Club of Cambridge who gave a short talk on the immense amount of work done by the club in its last 22 years of life and complimented the Wollaston Woman's Club on being such a lusty baby for its age of one year.

Mrs. Henry Coolidge Mulligan of the State Federation followed and her sweet and charming manner endeared her to the hearts of all. Her address was chiefly on the benefit obtained from the Federated Club and made a very witty remark that the quickest way to obtain information was to telephone, telegraph and tell-a-woman.

The most thrilling speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Frank Young of the Boston City federation who spoke of the lack of true reverence and respect for their elders and the holy things of life by the majority of the young folks. She closed her address by the recital of America and in closing the meeting all joined in singing that anthem, till the rafters fairly rung.

A most enjoyable social hour was spent in the vestry where the color scheme was also buff and blue. Ali were served with ices and cake.

An informal reception was held and all declared it a perfect day.

Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Edward E. Jameson, Mrs. Henry C. Smalley, Mrs. I. W. Sneath and Mrs. J. K. Barber. Mrs. E. Percival Thompson had charge of the decorations.

* * *

Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY.

The regular March meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. was held March thirteenth with a good attendance. It being the annual "Mother's day," the ladies were pleased to welcome a number of the mothers of the boy members of the Y. M. C. A.

The meeting opened with devotions in charge of Mrs. J. Arthur Jewell, who read from Prov. 31-10 the familiar description of a good woman, adding many helpful and practical comments.

Mrs. Isaac Goddard sang very sweetly, "Just for Today."

Sturgis Hunt, who with a group of the Quincy boys attended the boys' conference recently held in Lawrence, brought back some of the best things the speakers said to the boys, and told of the gratifying results of the conference.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Edward S. Tead who had a message to the mothers. She took four of Christ's references to children typifying obedience, play, work and worship and urged mothers to make a study of the control and direction of their children's lives. She held the closest attention of her hearers and all were inspired and helped by her words.

During the social hour tea was served by Mrs. A. H. Brown, Mrs. George Wardwell, Mrs. Mary M. Newcomb and Mrs. E. P. Smith.

* * *

UNIVERSALIST MISSION CIRCLE.

Mrs. Harriet Lombard opened her home to the Mission Circle of the Universalist church, Monday afternoon. After the devotional exercises, reports were heard from different committees, including the outlook which reported missionary opportunities at home and abroad, while the social service committee reported as having cheered the sick, and shutins, by visits and flowers.

An instructive paper, from the reciprocity committee was read, subject: "Some of the Agencies for making the World Better," among which included: Jane Addams and her marvelous work at Hull House, Chicago, Ill.; the successful work of the George Junior Republic, in New York. The heroism displayed by Father Damien, cannot be excelled in his work on the bleak and desolate island of Molokai, out in the Pacific ocean, among eight hundred lepers. Here Father Damien worked alone for ten years. Ever in his mind, were the words of the Prophet Isaiah. Every man shall help his neighbor, and shall say to his brother, Be of good cheer." The Labrador people, must have considered Dr. Grenfell, a messenger from God, when he appeared to them twenty-one years ago, almost completely isolated as they were. Most assuredly he is about his business. Word comes that Rev. John Bancroft Bisbee, a minister of the Universalist faith, has been appointed to preach, during the absence of Dr. Grenfell, who is now in this part of the country, lecturing and raising funds to carry on his work.

At this meeting, money was appropriated to assist in the work at Camp Hill, Alabama; the Labrador Mission; the work in North Carolina and the home church. The April meeting, will be with Mrs. Addison and the watchword, "Together."

* * *

DAUGHTERS OF REVOLUTION.

Some two hundred Daughters of the Revolution were in attendance Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Society in Tremont Temple, Boston.

Mrs. Susan B. Plummer, who has held office five years in the society, three years as regent, presided and in her report said that she had visited 21 state chapters in her regency. A short account of the gifts which were received for the new state headquarters in the Hotel Westminster was given. These include rugs, a sofa, money, dishes, silver, and linen table covers. More than double the attendance of past years at the social meetings was reported, the largest number registered at one time being 50 persons.

The treasurer Mrs. Elizabeth T. Holbrook, announced balance on hand of $1500.89; expenditures for year $2,707.53; also that $43 had been raised toward a new piano for the state headquarters. The house fund is $235.48.

Miss Mary A. Todd, registrar, announced increase in membership for the year, 35.

Officers elected were: Regent, Mrs. Ethel S. Bolton of Brookline; vice-regent, Mrs. Annie M. Nye Smith of Newton; recording secretary, Mrs. Caroline F. Woodbury of Allston; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ella J. Prescott of Somerville; treasurer, Mrs. Elizabeth P. Holbrook of South Boston; registrar, Miss Mary A. Todd of Lynn; librarian, Mrs. Mae M. Buckley of Dorchester; historian, Miss Elsie K. Smith of Boston; councillors, Mrs. Julia M. Rowe of Allston, Mrs. Mary E. Fitch of Brookline, Mrs. Carolyn F. Cole of South Boston and Mrs. Sarah F. Sargent of Malden.

CLUB EVENTS

MARCH

20—K. C. M. Club—Mrs. Crane's.
23—Quincy Alliance—First Parish Chapel
24—Q. W. Club—Clubhouse.
25—Wol. Alliance—Unitarian Vestry.
26—Hospital Aid Asso.
26—Atlantic Shakespeare Society.
26-27—Civics Com. W. W. C. Pageant, W. School Hall.
27—Friday Club.
27—Educational Conference at Waltham
30—Junior Friday Club—Mrs. Litchfield's

APRIL.

1—Squantum Woman's Club
1—Wollaston Auxiliary W. B. of M.
2—Christ Church—Women's Guild
3—Quincy W. C. T. U.—Faxon Hall
6—Adams Chapter, D. R.
7—Quincy Day Nursery Asso.—Clubhouse
7—W. W. Club—Dramatic Reading
8—Q. W. Club—Current Events
8—Bethany Women's Union
8—Wollaston Alliance—Annual
9—W. W. Club—Executive Board
9—Atlantic Shakespeare Society.
10—Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary
10—W. W. Club—Parliamentary Law Class.
10—Friday Club—Mrs. H. M. Faxon
13—A. P. Q. Chapter—Mrs. Frank Burgess
13—Junior Friday Club—Miss Prescott
14—K. C. M. Club—Misses Schenkelberger
14—Q. W. Club—Alpha Hall
15—Fragment Society—First Church
15—Quincy Alliance—Neighborhood
17—Art Com. Q. W. Club—Art Lecture
20—K. C. M. Club—Mrs. Crane's
21—W. W. Club—Gentlemen's Night
22—Wollaston Alliance
23—Atlantic Shakespeare Society—Musicale.
24—Friday Club—Mrs. O. A. Hayward
27—Quincy Alliance—Annual
27—Junior Friday Club—Miss Randall
27—W. W. Club—Parliamentary Law Class
27—W. W. Club—Current Events
28—Q. W. Club—Alpha Hall
—Q. W. Club—Children's Party
29—A. P. Q. Chapter—Mrs. W. F. Kimball
30—Hospital Aid Asso.

CONDITIONS NOT SERIOUS.

Gorgas Says Sanitation Problem In Africa Appears to Be Easy

London, March 18.—The verdict of General Gorgas, surgeon general of the United States army, is that the health problems of South Africa are nothing like so complex or difficult of solution as were those overcome in the Panama canal zone.

Gorgas reached London from South Africa on his journey to the United States after a three-months' investigation of sanitary conditions at the mining camps on the Rand.

In the opinion of Gorgas the South African mining companies take good care of their employes, but he gave the authorities a mass of scientific advice on housing and feeding and other means of controlling pneumonia and tuberculosis, which are very common diseases on the Rand.

Gorgas condemned the system by which the Kaffir workers were corralled in compounds. He declared that they must be more widely distributed in order to prevent the spread of infectious pneumonia. In regard to malaria in Rhodesia Gorgas advised the starting of an educational campaign to show settlers how to protect themselves.

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY. SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

PRIVATE AND CLASS LESSONS.

Cornet, 'Cello, Mandolin, Guitar, Banjo, Violin, Piano and Harmony by thorough instructors. Violin FREE, at BOSTON SCHOOL OF MUSIC, No. 8 Washington street, Quincy.

Prof. R. G. Nichols
Director

Phone, Quincy 148J. M4-W & S. 8t

TISSUE FROM THE DEAD FOR INSANE

Surgeon Who Transplanted Glands Expects Cures.

DUE TO CARREL DISCOVERY

Rockefeller Institute Expert Found That Secreting Organ of the Human Body Retains Its Vitality, and Chicago Doctor's Experiments Are Based on That Fact.

The surgical world is awaiting the result of remarkable operations performed in Chicago on persons suffering from dementia precox and in which cases glands from dead persons were transplanted to the patients.

These operations took place at the Dunning State Hospital For the Insane and were performed by Dr. G. Frank Lydston, who has been working on the idea of gland implantation for fourteen years, and the discovery of Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller institute in New York that some glands live after death showed him the way. The greater part of recent medical and surgical research, the surgeon said, has been directed to studies of the various glands of the body the functions of which heretofore have not been understood or have been understood only slightly.

Tissues Retain Vitality.

Particularly the thyroid gland and the spleen have been under the microscope of research. Dr. Carrel has found the tissues in them retain their vitality long after what is known as death.

Dr. Lydston was assisted in the last two operations by Dr. George Leininger, superintendent of the Dunning hospital. The patients are a girl seventeen years old, who has been suffering for two years, and a woman, twenty-six years, who has been insane for five years.

The Dunning operations followed an announcement by Dr. Lydston that he had performed a similar operation on himself and also on a woman fifty-six years old.

"We are going to wait for results now," said Dr. Leininger, "and if we see that the operations have been a success we shall go right ahead and cure more insane patients."

Glands Taken From Dead Girl.

In the operation on the seventeen-year-old girl Dr. Lydston implanted a gland which was a twin to one he implanted in a woman fifty-nine years old nearly a week before. This gland had been kept in "cold storage" since that time. Both the glands he used and the one implanted in the woman six days before were removed seven days earlier from the body of an eighteen-year-old girl who had been killed by a fracture of the skull.

Dr. Lydston believes that the glands which he has implanted have the function of supplying certain secretions to the brain and nerve cells.

THE WILD AND WOOLLY WEST.

National Cowboy Rangers Organized to Perpetuate Spirit of Bygone Days.

The true characteristics of the "wild and woolly west" are to be perpetuated, according to the articles of incorporation filed at Cheyenne, Wyo., for the establishment of the Supreme Ranch of the World, National Order of Cowboy Rangers, with supreme headquarters at Cheyenne. It is a nonprofit making fraternal order, calculated to give to the real cowboys of the range and associate members whom they may elect all of the elements of freedom and liberty best known to the man of the saddle and lariat.

Ex-President Roosevelt, James C Dahlman, the "cowboy mayor" of Omaha; Lieutenant Governor Ingalls of Kansas and other well known men will be offered places in the supreme ranch. Ranches will be established in each state throughout the Union as well as in every country where the raising of live stock is an important industry.

The Rangers will be a purely fraternal society, having some ritualistic work and secrets which are not to be put into print. The initiation will be held in much the same way as the tenderfoot was made a part of the ranch.

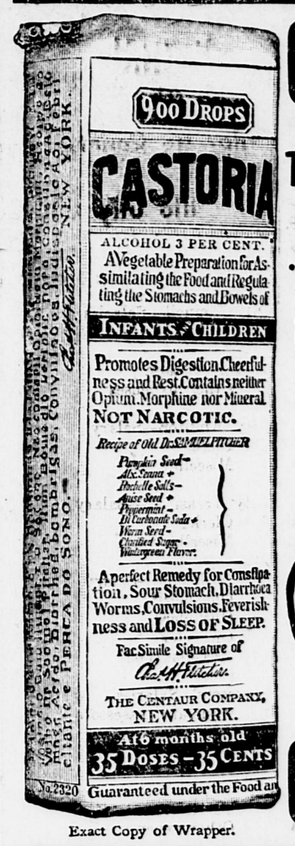
COMMODORE BARRY STATUE.

Parade of Soldiers and Sailors Part of Elaborate Program In Washington.

Representatives of the Irish-American organizations interested in the statue to be erected in Franklin park, Washington, to Commodore John Barry, May 16, have decided to follow the unveiling, which is to take place in the afternoon, with a banquet in the evening and to precede it the day before with a pilgrimage to Mount Vernon.

Some of the nation's foremost orators will be asked to speak at the banquet. Wreaths will be laid on the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon because of Barry's association with the first president.

The war department will be asked to designate Major General Barry to command a parade of United States soldiers, sailors and marines on duty in and near Washington just before the unveiling.



Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over Thirty Years
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.

At the fourth quarterly conference held at the Hall Place M. E. church, conducted by Rev. Dillon Bronson, D. D. district superintendent, the following committees were appointed:

Trustees,—Robert Newcomb, president, H. F. Doble, F. W. Fuller, Charles S. Jose, Charles A. Goucher, J. M. Francis, Henry Geer, D. H. McNeil and Albert Clarke.

Stewards,—F. W. Fuller, Charles S. Jose, Robert Newcomb, John Pierce, J. J. Nichols, J. M. Francis, Charles A. Goucher, Julius Fuller, Alex. D. Stewart, Mayo P. Fuller, Hilda Francis.

Auditors,—J. M. Francis and Charles A. Goucher.

City Missions,—Julius Fuller and Maud M. Nichols.

Delegate to lay conference at Malden,—J. M. Francis with Julius Fuller, alternate.

Foreign Missions,—Mrs. A. Stewart, the Pastor's wife and Mrs. F. W. Fuller.

Home Missions,—Mrs. J. Francis, Edna Burke and Florence Manhire.

Tracts,—Mayo P. Fuller, Nellie Rodman and Harold Norris.

Temperance,—A. D. Stewart, Camille B. Fuller, and Albert Miller.

Education,—Ernest Briggs, Jessie Burke and George Stewart.

Freedman's Aid,—Mrs. William McCormick, Miss Catherine MacCormack and Mrs. D. Thomas.

Church Records, J. M. Francis.

Estimating,—C. A. Goucher C. S. Jose and F. W. Fuller.

Music,—Pastor, C. A. Goucher, Hilda Francis, F. Manhire, Mrs. J. Francis, M. K. Shirley.

Sunday School,—Mr. and Mrs. D. McNeil, John Pierce and Mrs. Robert Newcomb.

FRAIL, WEAKLY CHILD

Made Strong by Vinol.

So many cases like this are coming to our attention for the benefit of fathers and mothers of weak, sickly, ailing children in this vicinity we publish the following letter:

Mrs. J. P. Weatherford, Litchfield, Ill., says: "We have had an invalid child for the past nine years and until we began using Vinol, we sometimes thought there was little hope for him. He would have terrible coughing spells at night, and they would leave him so exhausted. We tried everything, but to no avail. At last some one suggested that we try Vinol, and we noticed a change in him from the very first. The coughing spells ceased and he gained in strength right along. We would not be without it and would advise parents who have frail and weakly children to try Vinol."

This is because the child needed the strengthening cod liver elements and the tonic iron that Vinol contains. No oil, delicious taste. Children love it. We give back your money if Vinol does not benefit. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

Start Right
The best food for the first three weeks for newly hatched chicks is Pratt's Baby Chick Food
25c, 50c and $1.00
Reduces mortality, prevents bowel trouble, insures quick maturity—producing strong, sturdy, rapid-developing young birds.
Refuse substitutes; insist on Pratts.
Satisfaction Guaranteed or Money Back
Get Pratts 100 page Poultry Book
Grain Dealers & General Stores, 4199

DR. J. A. ZWICKER
Osteopath
79 Freeman Street
Norfolk Downs, Mass.
Tel. 1271 W. Feb. 25-w-s-tf-o-28-tf

CARPETS
Oriental Domestic RUGS
LINOLEUM
MATTINGS
AT LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES
John H. Pray & Sons Co.
646 Washington Street, Opp. Boylston Street
All Goods will be Delivered Free at Residences in Quincy
REPRESENTED IN QUINCY BY
Messrs. OTHO A. HAYWARD and WALTER J. WELLINGTON.

Be sure this trade-mark "PETER PARLEY" is on the wrapper of the next loaf of bread that you buy at your grocers.

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Wednesday rain and colder. Thursday fair and colder.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.50
Sun sets	5.55
Length of day	12.05
Moon sets	2.18
High water, A. M.	5.00
High water, P. M.	5.45
Days increase 2 hours, 59 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	38 degrees
Mar. 18 1913,	46 degrees
Mar. 18, 1912,	59 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

SPORT NEWS

The members of the Fore River bowling league will formally close a most successful season with a banquet at the New American house, Boston on Saturday night. President Joseph Larkin, supervisor of apprentices at the shipyard will present the prizes won this season. Arrangements have been made for a large attendance. The league opened with 12 teams on Sept. 29 of last yar, and closed this week with the rolling of a few postponed matches. It is expected that nearly 100 will be present.

A movement to organize a base ball league which will include teams representing Ave Maria council, Knights of Columbus, St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society, Copeland club and Div. 22, A. O. H., is on foot in West Quincy and next Sunday committees from each organization will meet for the purpose of discussing the proposition.

St. Mary's Society met Monday night and the league was given the unanimous endorsement. Their committee is Ralph Elcock, Joseph Lamb, Roderick Connolly, Frank McPherson and Oswald Shed. The other societies appointed their committees several weeks ago.

The bowling match in the West Quincy league between the Copeland Club and the Franco Americans was not rolled Tuesday night.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—not made by guess-work, but by a scientific formula. Leading grocers sell it.

EXECUTRIX NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executrix of the will of George E. Young, late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, testate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to ANNIE J. PRATT, Executrix.

(Address)
57 Quincy Street, Quincy, Mass.
March 16th, 1914.
Mar. 18-3t 18-25-30

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1158-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

NEW LEADERS CLAN LEAGUE

Micheals Win Four and Pass the O'Neil Team

The Michaels team jumped into the lead in the Clan MacGregor league by beating the Mavers five 4 to 0 in the regular matches at the Coliseum alleys Tuesday night. The O'Neils who have held that position for several weeks lost to the McKenzies 3 to 1 and were forced into second place.

The league record for the high team single, 496, held by the Mavers' quintette was jumped to 506 by the McLeans. The only man failing to pass a century was McLean.

Drummond was high man of the evening, his 319 being 12 more than Dell's total. McKenzie took the high single with 112. Mitchell, Dunbar and Peter Dackers were next with 111. The standing to date.

	Won	Lost
Capt. Michael	64	40
Capt. O'Neil	63	41
Capt. Mavers	53	51
Capt. McKenzie	52	52
Capt. McLean	48	56
Capt. Thomson	35	69

The McLeans and Thomsons divided the points equally:

McLEAN.

Patterson	98	86	103	287
Marnock	93	87	101	281
Oswald	75	78	108	261
McLean	88	83	86	257
Dell	98	101	108	307
	452	435	506	1393

THOMSON.

Hastings	102	95	91	288
Dummy	75	78	93	246
Troupe	74	85	79	239
Maver	105	104	81	289
Birnie	102	83	87	272
	458	445	431	1333

The Michaels took all four points from the Mavers.

MICHAEL.

Nicoll	93	99	83	275
Craig	92	79	86	257
A. Michael	84	92	89	265
J. Michael	94	103	84	281
Morton	101	93	90	284
	464	466	432	1362

MAVERS.

Troupe	87	92	74	253
Michael	98	79	81	258
Mavers	83	86	73	242
Martin	80	97	99	276
Dunbar	111	87	82	280
	459	441	409	1301

The McKenzies won three of the four points from the O'Neils:

McKENZIE.

Gordon	76	9	93	263
Smith	79	93	76	248
McKenzie	84	72	112	268
Mitchell	98	111	87	296
Drummond	101	110	108	319
	438	480	476	1394

O'NEIL.

D. Dackers	76	97	81	254
Raleigh	81	82	94	257
Hughes	105	91	87	283
O'Neil	95	78	82	255
P. Dackers	85	111	91	287
	442	459	435	1336

CARRIERS WIN FROM CLERKS

The Carriers of the Quincy post office beat the Clerks in an exciting match at the City Square alleys Tuesday night by 35 pins. None of the bowlers tripled, the high man being "Con" Connors who secured 262. His single of 97 was also high.

P. O. CARRIERS

Derhu	99	97	80	256
Murphy	71	89	92	252
Cain	78	83	80	241
Connors	74	97	91	262
Hammond	84	80	69	233
	406	426	412	1244

P. O. CLERKS.

Downey	71	77	80	228
Sullivan	95	77	77	249
Canavan	71	79	93	243
Reardon	95	87	72	254
Joyce	81	77	77	255
	413	397	399	1209

Only One "BROMO QUININE"
To get the genuine call for full name, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for signature of E. W. GROVE. Cures a Cold in One Day. 25c

SAYS IT WAS BEAUTIFUL

Preacher Tells of Trip to Heaven While In a Supposed Fit

Wilmington, Del., March 18.—"Howdy do, St. Peter!"

Rev. Alexander Brown, former pastor of St. Paul's African Union Methodist Episcopal church, uttered these words as he lay upon the floor of the church in a supposed cateleptic fit.

Negroes packed the little edifice and watched him in awe as he seemingly passed the door of heaven unchallenged and wandered through the golden streets. He appeared to be listening to the music of angels playing upon harps. He wandered about, saluting here and there men whom they all knew.

"Howdy, Brother Skinner!" "Howdy, Brother Cook," came from the tense lips of the preacher, and the listeners groaned amens.

"Oh, it was beautiful," gasped Brown as he was assisted to his feet. "It would take me a year to tell all I saw."

SPEECH IS INTERRUPTED

Woman Who Tries to Address Royalty at Show Is Ejected

London, March 18.—Militant suffragettes contributed an extra and unrehearsed "turn" to the program given before King George and Queen Mary at a music hall performance in aid of a hospital.

During the singing of the national anthem a shower of militant suffragette pamphlets fluttered from the gallery above the royal box. Some of the papers floated into the box.

Simultaneously a woman occupying a place in the stalls of the theatre stood up and, pointing a finger at the royal party, shouted: "Your majesties: Mrs. Pankhurst is in prison. I therefore ——"

The woman was unable to proceed further with her speech, as a detective clapped his hand over her mouth and she was escorted out of the theatre."

FORTY-SEVEN SAVED FROM WRECKED SHIP

Steamer City of Sydney Goes on Rocks During a Fog

Halifax, March 18.—With her eleven passengers, four of them women and one a 4-year-old girl, and crew of thirty-six saved, the steamer City of Sydney, which in a fog ran on the Sambro rocks, twenty-five miles east of here, was abandoned last night and is likely to become a total loss.

The passengers of the steamer arrived here on the small coasting steamer Rosemary as did also thirty of her crew. The remaining six of the crew were taken off last night by the tug Togo.

The City of Sydney was bound from New York to St. John's. The impact of the vessel striking brought some of the passengers on deck, but most of them had to be awakened by the crew. The wireless remained in commission and made quick summoning of assistance possible.

WOMEN OUT IN FORCE

Show No Hesitancy In Registering as Voters at Chicago

Chicago, March 18.—For the second time this year Chicago women visited the polling places in the city and declared their qualifications to be listed as legal voters of the city and state.

Many women who hestiated to register Feb. 3, the first registration day, visited the polls boldly and answered the questions regarding age and residence without concern.

Activity among women was decidedly noticeable in the First ward, where Alderman (Bathhouse) Coughlin will be opposed for election in April by Miss Marion Drake.

CUT FROM THEIR FRAMES

Four Valuable Canvasses Stolen From Gloucester Public Library

Gloucester, Mass., March 18.—Four valuable oil paintings, the property of the public library here, have mysteriously disappeared from their places on the walls of the art and relic room in the building.

All of the canvasses were cut from their frames and were not missed until Alexander Patillo, a trustee, made an inspection of the room.

The paintings, all of them work of early day artists, were gifts of the late Samuel Sawyer and formed a part of the P. L. Sawyer collection.

BOMB SENT BY MAIL

Australian Officials Injured and Building Partly Wrecked

Melbourne, March 18.—Government Commissioners Lee and Hastie were seriously injured by the explosion of a dynamite bomb.

The bomb was mailed in Sydney and the men were opening it in a room in the government building when the explosion occurred. The building was partly wrecked. No clue as to the person who mailed the bomb has been found.

Harlan Heads Interstate Board

Washington, March 18.—The interstate commerce commission elected Commissioner James S. Harlan as chairman, in succession to Commissioner Edward E. Clark.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

Thomas B. Nye of Brockton has been elected president of the Plymouth County Assessors' Association. They will have a joint outing with the association of Bristol County this summer.

The new school house proposed for Weymouth Landing was voted down at an adjourned Town meeting. An appropriation of $3,000 was made to cover costs in excess of the appropriation for a police station at East Weymouth. The committees in charge were severely criticised and the matter placed in the hands of the Selectmen. Judge Louis Cook completed his 25th year as moderator and received a vote of thanks.

The Needham appropriations include $4,000 for police, $8300 for fire department and $49,830 for schools.

Randolph's appropriation totals almost $35,000, the main item being $18,182.25 for schools. The police were given $700, and the fire department $2367.

The will of Mrs. Myra S. Greenwood, late of Needham bequeaths the residue of her estate to her home town for a public library and if the town now has one the money is to be used for the purchase of books for the library.

GRAM TO RETIRE.

Carl Gram, a fine specimen of athletic manhood has retired. The B. A. A., which he has represented for nearly five years loses beyond a doubt the best track general in the sport and one who has no equal running corners.

At Quincy High, from which he was graduated in 1904, he was more inclined to base ball than running, but during a chemical engineering course at M. I. T., he entered the sport and attained an enviable record. He took up sprinting and found himself specialized in the furlong and quarter mile.

His record for the 220, of 22 seconds made in 1907, still stands and he was a member of the Tech relay team that broke the American intercollegiate one mile record in 1909. He was captain of the M. I. T. track team in 1908 president of his class, and holds the Institute records of 4 1-5 seconds for 35 yards and the 440 yard run. He then joined the B. A. A.

Retiring at the same time as Eddie Merrihew who with Gram were strong men flying those colors.

MEET FORCE WITH FORCE

Redmond Says Home Rule Bill Will Be Passed Unchanged

London, March 18.—John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalist party, presided over the Irish National banquet here last night, and in responding to the toast, "Ireland a Nation," said:

"In a few short weeks, in the absence of a political earthquake, the home rule bill will be a law of the land, probably in precisely the form in which it now stands.

"If force is interposed," said Redmond, "that force will be met with force. The party of the democracy of this country will be all the stronger because nationalist Ireland has shown that it has been willing to make a great sacrifice for peace."

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

The Ashland Emery and Corundum company, manufacturers of emery and whetstones at Cambridge, Mass., was placed in the hands of a receiver.

Alexander Zalawski, 11 years old, a state ward, was drowned in a pond in the Boston Fenway.

Dr. George O. Welshman of Newark, N. J., a prominent physician, was instantly killed when his automobile was struck by a train.

The New York Athletic club will revive an old anti-tipping rule of the club.

Bishop O'Reilly of Baker City, Ore., and thirty American pilgrims were received in audience by the pope.

Clifford J. Olsen, who shot himself in the head, died at the Lynn, Mass., city hospital.

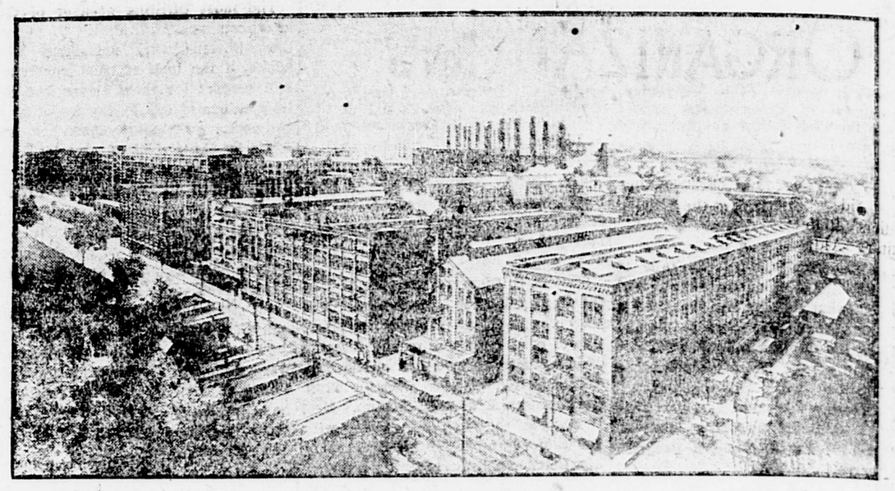
Mrs. Emma B. Kennedy, widow of John S. Kennedy, sailed from New York to begin a two-months' missionary cruise to the Asiatic stations and colleges endowed by her husband.

Fearing burglars, Philip Priore of Congers, N. Y., hid $163 in the stove. Fearing pneumonia his wife lighted a fire. The money was burned.

Naming a suicide, Dr. Edward de Baun, as corespondent, Dr. C. D. Cropsey of Rutherford, N. J., is suing his wife for divorce.

The Duchess of Marlborough opened the London headquarters for the Housework'rs' league for non-factory workwomen.

PLANT AT AKRON, O., WHICH TURNS OUT THE GOODRICH TIRES.



Plant of The B. F. Goodrich Co., Akron, Ohio.

SAFETY TREAD IS A NECESSITY NOW

Goodrich Company Builds "Safety First" Into It's Tires and Goods

By E. C. Tibbitts, Advertising Manager of The B. F. Goodrich Company.

"Safety First" has been a principle of The B. F. Goodrich Company, I might say, since the day Dr. B. F. Goodrich opened his original little factory in Akron.

That was forty-four years ago.

Dr. Goodrich not only had certain well-founded ideas about rubber manufacturing, but he had certain very helpful ideas about the method of manufacturing. He may not have had the phrase "Safety First" in his mind—most probably he would not have expressed his thought in just these words, but the underlying principle of the "Safety First" movement of today was there.

It was his policy to protect his employes and to teach them to protect themselves. That policy still governs The B. F. Goodrich company, and it is unnecessary to predict that it always will. The Goodrich company believes that a workman who takes care of himself will take care of the product.

"Safety First" as an operating principle is one great step in securing efficiency. It is, after all, a manifestation of co-operation—and of the kind of co-operation which is expressed from the farthest corner of the factory to the desk of the chief officer.

We impress upon each member of our organization the fact that "Safety First" does not end with himself or his working associates, but that it must be extended to our customers through our products. This means that we build "Safety First" into our tires and other goods. This is an era of safety tread tires, to make a concrete illustration. From a one-time novelty the safety tread feature is fast becoming an every-day necessity.

We studied this matter very seriously. We decided that if we were to establish a safety tread standard it must be peculiarly Goodrich, and that it must be a development of the Goodrich method of construction, which has always been "Safety First." Consequently the now famous Goodrich safety tread was evolved. It was designed on logical lines. Instead of giving the tread a lot of irregular projections simply to provide a rough surface, we worked out the groups of five bars and a crosstie which are now known as the "Safety First symbol." The principle upon which each group of thick, tough rubber fingers works is almost human. They dig down and grip the roadway, but more than that, they give an even, jarless ride. The groups of fingers work intelligently, because they are designed on scientific principles. There can be no undue strain at any one point—the shock and strain on the structure of the tire being distributed normally and evenly at all times, even though the fingers are stopping a skid or preventing a slide, or backing up the brake in an emergency. All this could not happen right along if the back of the tread were not a conscientously built tire; and right there comes in Dr. Goodrich's original principal of making the tire safe and sure from the beginning.

Our "Safety First" advertising campaign, which is of course centered upon the Goodrich safety tread tire, has undoubtedly been a great factor in spreading the general "Safety First" propaganda. We have often been told of how our headline "Safety First" impressed the importance of watchfulness and care upon not only working men but the owners and directors of big institutions.

The thought I want to bring out is that "Safety First" is not only a crusade for human thoughtfulness for the safety of the individual and his fellows but that it really has a basic principle which every manufacturer can adopt—that of putting "Safety First" to the consumer, not only in service, but in enduring value.

B. F. GOODRICH OFFICIAL URGES WATCHFULNESS

"Every member of your family and your driver should be instructed to use all possible care in driving during these winter months," says E. C. Tibbitts, Manager Advertising Department, B. F. Goodrich Co., Akron, Ohio.

"Only by constant watchfulness and in barring of every unnecessary risk can the chances of accidents be lowered. The avoidance of motor car accidents is to the interest of every car owner as a citizen.

"This winter weather brings dangerous street conditions. The danger of skidding is increased many times. It is well to have your brakes tested for unifomity and efficiency and to be sure that your tires are safe, so that you will always have your car under control.

25,300 MILES OF SERVICE BY TIRE

Wonderful Mileage of Set of Goodrich Wireless Motor Truck Tires.

Every motor truck owner pricks up his ears when he hears of large tire mileages and begins to wonder how it's done.

The Union Transfer Co., which handles practically all of the Pennsylvania Railroad company's transfer business in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, has solved the problem of getting the maximum performance out of the solid tires on their transfer trucks.

One of their trucks now in service in the city of Washington recently got the following remarkable mileage from a set of Goodrich wireless motor truck tires, according to a letter to Mr. Brouse, the Philadelphia representative of the Goodrich company:

The truck hauled its first load of baggage in June, 1911, and never a thought was given to the tires for nearly two years. In January, 1913, the first replacement was necessary, when one rear tire was changed after it had run 12,900 miles. In April following the other rear tire was taken off with 17,000 miles to its credit. The front tires were changed, one in May and one in September, 1913, after 18,800 and 25,300 miles of service respectively. The rear tires now on the truck have gone 12,000 miles and are good for more.

The secret of the whole matter lies right in the handling of the truck. It has been operated under good road conditions; it is never overloaded and never overspeeded. The driver resists the temptation to use the car tracks as a speedway. Any motor truck in normal service, handled as the Union Transfer Trucks are handled, should develop fully as satisfactory mileages.

LARGE MILLS USE ELECTRIC TRUCKS

Machines Decided Asset to Big Plants and Are Growing in Favor

By DAY BAKER.

That many of our most prominent and conservatively managed New England industrial plants already use scores of electric trucks may surprise some of our readers. It does not surprise the agents, superintendents and yard masters who have several such trucks in operation. The wonder is that nearly every big mill has not fallen into line.

Mill yard transfers keep thousands of horses employed in what is an old-fashioned and expensive method of moving raw material, goods in process and finished goods. The electric truck is at its best in the short haul, frequent stop work. In many cases current for charging the battery (at night) is made at the mill, so the question of fuel is in many cases insignificant and as one truck displaces two or more horses, the saving in labor is very great.

There is no danger of fire or explosion from an electric which can maneuver in and out of spaces which a team cannot. Again, the high grade electric has a life of ten or more years so that depreciation is small. It has few moving parts and is easy on tires so the upkeep expense is small.

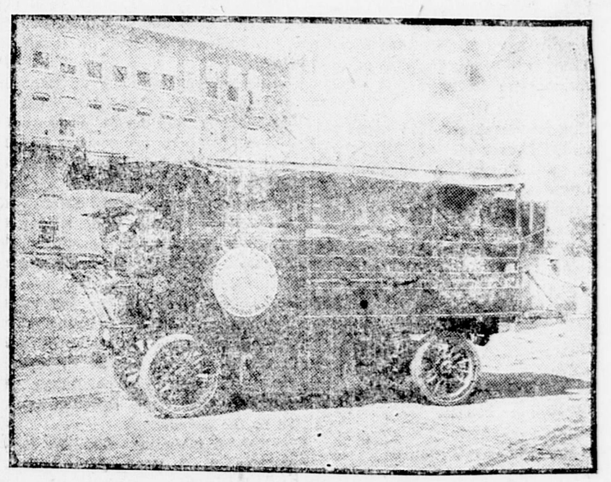
Motor truck operators are beginning to see that the mileage of a truck is limited not by the size of the battery but by the number of working hours in a day. A truck kept busy in mill yard work will often cover but 12 or 14 miles per day or half its rated mileage per charge. On the other hand, long runs of from 12 to 18 miles between plants are not uncommon, the modern two-ton electric being capable of making 50 miles per charge, at a speed of nine miles.

Instead of having limitations the modern electric truck is more versatile than most other kinds. For example, the storage battery will operate a winch, which will pull freight cars out of a shed where locomotives and gasoline vehicles are prohibited. The same winch can also be used for loading heavy cases. A hoist can be operated from the battery. This will lift bales of cotton into the door of a lofty warehouse. False bodies can be used so that while the truck is away on a trip the spare body is loaded and waiting when it gets back. The transfer of coal from railroad lines and wharves to storage or boilers is now often done with electric trucks and the ashes also hauled away. In construction work, brick, lime, cement, crushed stone, lumber, etc., are often moved with the electric.

Mention might also be made of the little electric freight truck usually of one ton capacity, which can be taken up in the freight elevator, thus moving goods from floor to floor. The little truck will climb a 20 per cent grade, turn around inside a box car and make itself generally useful as a substitute for the hand truck which it displaces often times in a ratio of 15 to 1.

Altogether, the electric truck is a decided asset to New England mills and one that is growing in favor from day to day.

3½ TON GENERAL VEHICLE TRUCK.



A 3 1-2-ton G. V. truck used in Fitchburg. Others in North Adams, Etc.

Advertise in the Quincy Daily Ledger

RICH TIRES.

MILES OF NICE BY TIRE

Mileage of Set of Wireless Motor Truck Tires.

truck owner pricks up he hears of large tire begins to wonder how

Transfer Co., which cally all of the Pennsyl-d company's transfer Philadelphia, Baltimore on, has solved the probthe maximum perform-solid tires on their trucks now in service in Washington recently got remarkable mileage of Goodrich wireless res, according to a letter the Philadelphia repre-

e Goodrich company:
nched its first load of ne, 1911, and never a ction to the tires for ears. In January, 1913, acement was necessary,
r tire was changed after
,000 miles. In April folear rear tire was taken miles to its credit. The re changed, one in May ptember 1913, after 18,- miles of service respec-ear tires now on the ne 12,000 miles and are the whole matter lies ading of the truck. It ated under good road is never overloaded and ded. The driver resists to use the car tracks

Any motor truck in handled as the Union
ks are handled, should is satisfactory mileages.

conditions. The danger increased many times.
ave your brakes tested and efficiency and to your tires are safe, so always have your car

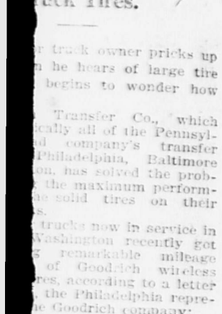
E TRUCK.



in North Adams, Etc.

when it gets back. The l from railroad lines storage or boilers is with electric trucks lso hauled away. In k, brick, lime, cement, umber, etc., are often electric.
t also be made of the eight truck usually of , which can be taken t elevator, thus mov-floor to floor. The climb a 20 per cent
nd inside a box car
f generally useful as the hand truck which n times in a ratio of e electric truck is a New England mills growing in favor from

Ledger

ANNUAL CITY APPROPRIATION

(Continued from Page Two.)

City Physician, Salary	300 00
Miscellaneous	14,000 00
		$20,672 00
Soldiers Benefits
State Aid	5,000 00
Soldiers' Relief	4,000 00
Military Aid	500 00
		$9,500 00
		$30,172 00

SCHOOLS AND LIBRARY.

School Department
Administration	$5,900 00
Instruction	145,585 00
Text Books	4,750 00
Operation	21,800 00
Maintenance of plant	250 00
Miscellaneous	2,100 00
Evening schools	2,500 00
Independent industrial	7,680 00
Industrial evening	1,300 00
Supplies	6,000 00
		$197,865 00
Public Library
Expenses and dog tax	11,825 00
		$11,825 00

PARKS AND UNCLASSIFIED.

Park—Miscellaneous	$2,500 00
Claims and Awards	3,000 00
G. A. R., Post 88	400 00
John A. Boyd, Camp 2, Spanish War Veterans	100 00
City Hospital and water	4,000 00
Advertising Ordinances	100 00
		$10,100 00

CEMETERIES.

Cemeteries	5,000 00
		$5,000 00
Grand Total		$537,977 94

RECAPITULATION—1914.

General Government
City Council	$1,575 00
Mayor	4,000 00
City Auditor	2,418 00
City Treasurer	2,880 00
Tax Collector	4,922 00
Assessors	7,804 00
City Clerk	2,826 00
City Messenger	250 00
City Solicitor	1,475 00
Registrars	3,350 00
Commissioner	3,430 00
City Engineer	4,300 00
Maintenance of Buildings,	12,000 00
		$51,230 00
Protection of Life and Property.
Police	$45,729 94
Fire	48,900 00
Inspection of Buildings	1,200 00
Sealer of Weights	1,400 00
Gypsy Moth	7,000 00
		$104,229 94
Health and Sanitation
Board of Health	$17,306 00
Ashes	3,850 00
Garbage	8,600 00
Scavenger	5,500 00
Cleaning Brooks	800 00
		$36,056 00
Highways	$43,500 00
Snow	4,000 00
Street Lighting	33,000 00
Street Sprinkling	11,000 00
		$91,500 00
Charities and Soldiers' Benefits
Poor department	$20,672 00
Soldiers' Benefits	9,500 00
		$30,172 00
Schools and Libraries.
School Department	$197,865 00
Library	11,825 00
		$209,690 00
Parks and Unclassified.
Parks	$2,500 00
Unclassified	7,600 00
		$10,100 00
Cemeteries.
Burial department	$5,000 00
		$5,000 00
Grand Total		$537,977 94

BY THE WATER DEPARTMENT.

To be paid from water receipts of 1914, and taxes to be levied
Water debt falling due	$61,500 00
Interest falling due	27,618 75
Maintenance and office expenses	14,000 00
Painting, inspection and care of hydrants	1,000 00
Clerical	1,352 00
	$105,470 75

BY THE SEWER DEPARTMENT.

To be paid from sewer assessments and taxes to be levied
Sewer debt falling due	31,000 00
Interest falling due	23,845 00
Clerical	780 00
Maintenance and office expenses	2,200
Automobiles
	$57,825 00

BY THE CITY TREASURER—BONDS COMING DUE.

City Debt	$145,695 00
Street Improvement debt	7,300 00
Park debt	2,000 00
Refunding debt	15,000 00
	$169,995 00

BY CITY TREASURER—INTEREST COMING DUE.

City debt	$23,367 99
Street Improvement debt	2,564 50
Park debt	800 00
Refunding debt	5,400 00
Temporary notes	15,000 00	14,000 00
	$47,132 49	$51,615 96

FEDERALS HAVE THE ADVANTAGE

Desperate Conflict Is Reported Raging North of Torreon

REBEL FORCES OUTNUMBERED

Main Battle Nicely Timed by Commander of Huerta's Troops—Forty Thousand Men Believed to Be Engaged—Both Sides Rush Re-enforcements to the Front

Juarez, Mex., March 18.—A battle, on which hangs the fate of northern Mexico, is raging about Escalon, according to dispatches received here.

The constitutionalists are reported to have suffered an early repulse at one point, and General Villa, with re-enforcements, is hastening to the scene from Chihuahua.

A column of federals is said to have met Villa's army at Escalon, an important railroad town 100 miles north of Torreon. A desperate conflict ensued, during which both sides were re-enforced. Between 30,000 and 40,000 men are believed to be engaged.

The railroad from Torreon runs north through Escalon to Jiminez, Chihuahua and beyond. On each side of the road are mountains. These for ten miles are marked with rifle pits dug in previous revolutions.

It is reported that the federals moved out of Torreon in two detachments, pursuant to orders from Provisional President Huerta. One detachment is said to have moved over the plains west of the railroad with the mountains between it and the road, and the main body direct by rail to Escalon.

The eastern detachment evidently was trying to get to the rear of Villa, as it was moving in the direction of Jiminez, which is fifty-five miles north of Escalon.

General Urbana of the constitutionalists, however, had been posted at Rostrio to guard against just such strategy, and last Saturday is said to have encountered the advance guard of the federals at or near that city, which is about 110 miles west of Juarez.

He is said to have been outnumbered and to have telegraphed for more men and artillery.

The main battle at Escalon, apparently nicely timed by General Velasco, the federal commander, to occur after reinforcements had been detached to assist Urbana, is believed to have begun Tuesday night or early yesterday. No details are available.

The bare facts of an engagement were contained in a telegram of only fifteen words.

The Zaragoza brigade of 1300 veterans under General Benavides encountered the federals at Escalon. This is believed to account for the sudden departure from Chihuahua of Villa.

Villa brought up reinforcements yesterday and the battle was renewed with increased vigor.

The rebel troops have been moving south from Juarez and Chihuahua and closing in from other directions for a month. Rebel leaders have laid claim to as high as 25,000 men, but 12,000 is regarded as a closer estimate.

Refugees from Torreon in the last two weeks have placed the federal force under Velasco at 7000 to 9000, and up to recently added that he was rapidly being re-enforced.

DORR'S PLEA DENIED

Parole Board Refuses to Recommend Commutation of Sentence

Boston, March 18.—The state board of parole and pardons reported three to two to Governor Walsh against the commutation of the death sentence of William A. Dorr, the slayer of George E. Marsh of Lynn.

The governor refused to to receive the report, however, on the ground that it contained comment which the board members had no right to make.

Members Randall and Spalding favored commutation, but Members O'Brien, Hebberd and Young voted against commutation.

HAS HUSBAND ARRESTED

Woman Mayor Catches Him Selling Liquor to Minors

Portland, Ore., March 18.—Mrs. Larsen, mayor of Troutdale, Ore., caused the arrest of her own husband on the charge of selling liquor to minors.

"I did not think I'd catch Mr. Larsen," the mayor said, "but if he's guilty he'll have to take his medicine like the rest."

New Balance In Europe

St. Petersburg, March 18.—The Novoe Vremya publishes a report to the effect that negotiations are proceeding for the regrouping of the powers, whereby Germany will join Russia, France and Great Britain.

March 17 Bill Lost

Boston, March 18.—The legislative committee on legal affairs reported adversely on the petition to make March 17 a legal holiday, to be known as evacuation day.

New Cabinet In Italy

Rome, March 18.— new cabinet has been formed by Sig. Salandra to succeed the cabinet headed by Premier Giolitti, which resigned March 8.

AUTOMOBILE TIRES
AT FACTORY PRICES
Save from 30 to 60 percent.

	Tire	Tube	Reliner
28x3	$7.20	$1.65	$1.35
30x3	7.80	1.95	1.40
30x3½	10.80	2.80	1.90
32x3½	11.90	2.95	2.00
34x3½	12.40	3.00	2.05
32x4	13.70	3.35	2.40
33x4	14.80	3.50	2.45
34x4	16.80	3.60	2.66
36x4	17.85	3.90	2.80
35x4½	19.75	4.85	3.45
36x4½	19.85	4.90	3.60
37x4½	21.50	5.10	3.70
37x5	24.90	5.90	4.20

All other sizes in stock Non-Skid tires 15 per cent additional, red tubes ten per cent above gray. All new clean, fresh, guaranteed tires. Best standard and independent makes. Buy direct from us and save money. 5 per cent discount if payment in full accompanies each order. C. O. D. on 10 per cent deposit.

TIRE FACTORIES SALES CO.
Dept. A Dayton, Ohio

SCIENTIFIC FORESTRY

To Woodland, orchard and shade tree owners of Quincy:

The Massachusetts Forestry Association is bringing scientific forestry to the people of the State. Our field secretary, Mr. W. L. Hamel is in your city for the purpose of arousing interest in this important subject. He is a trained forester and will be glad to give you any advice or information concerning your shade-trees orchards or woodlands free of charge. All you need to do is to write a postcard to him addressed care of Mrs. J. D. Mackay, 75 Greenleaf street, and he will call to see you.

The advice he gives will be gratis but if you think it will be of advantage to you to have your trees pruned or cemented or your woodlot thinned, we recommend that Mr. Hamel do the work because of his training and experience. You can arrange with him as to the cost of doing the work and will not be under obligations to hire him, because of the advice he gives you which is free. The object of the Association is to protect the trees and this has proved the most efficient way of doing it.

Massachusetts Forestry Association.
21—S&W-tf

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administrator of the estate of Mary Elsie Cleaves, late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, deceased, intestate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

CLARENCE LINWOOD CLEAVES, Adm.
(Address)
176 East Elm Ave., Wollaston, Mass.
March 17th, 1914
Mar. 18-3t 18_25-1

ADMINISTRATRIX NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administratrix of the estate of Edmund Griffiths, late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, deceased, intestate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

Ann Griffiths, Admx.
(Address)
304 Granite Street,
Quincy, March 11th, 1914
March 11-3t 11-18-25

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, City Square
Tel. Quincy 1745 W. March 16-6t

WOOD! WOOD! WOOD!
BY THE CORD
OR SAWED AND SPLIT
ENGLISH, BEDDING AND SALT HAY
R. ALLEN GAGE
36 River St., Braintree
Telephone 138-M for prices. Jan 21 tf W&S

Call Quincy 501--W
If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN. upholsterer, 1060 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School
Mar. 4 tf

MY SLOGAN
for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS

WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—$20.00 Cottage, 6 rooms; all improvements. On salt water; 3 minutes to Fore River entrance, yet secluded. Call C. E. Briggs, 63 Howard Avenue, Quincy. 18-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-12t

TO LET—Two 3-room and one 4-room tenement. Just finished. All modern improvements. Apply to J. M. L. 175 Liberty street, South Quincy. 16-6t

TO LET—Lower flat five rooms and bath, set range, gas and electricity, all modern improvements, 166 Franklin street. Ready for occupancy April 15th. Apply to William T. Spargo, 169 Franklin street. 16-tf

TO LET—Lower apartment 5 rooms and bath. Modern conveniences, combination range; gas and electricity etc. 95 Putnam street. Ready for occupancy April 1. Apply 97 Putnam street. 16-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 16-6t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath. Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Two pleasant four-room tenements, one furnished, light and sunny rooms, new house, modern improvements, central location. 9 Francis Court, off Spear street. 13-6t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

TO LET
Large Front Office Greenleaf Block
2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.
Office. Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.
Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.
Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.
Office—Hancock Chambers. 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.
City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.
Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)
Offices—Large or small.
Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.
Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.
Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water, $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS
Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.
New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 246—the best possible location for a Hall.
Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

TO LET

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ..

TO LET

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 18-6t

TO LET—Upper flat of five rooms and bath, all improvements, Bradford street, Quincy Adams. Apply to William Duggan, Bradford street. Tel. Quincy 801W. 17-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms with or without board. Mrs. F. Wrigley, 18 Washington street corner Coddington. 17-6t

TO LET—Single house of six rooms, improvements 492 South street. Apply to 96 Arnold street. 17-6t

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 387 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO RENT—Flat of four rooms, Francis court off Spear street. All modern improvements. Rent $18. Apply at 7 Francis court. 14-6t

TO LET—Single house of six rooms in good repair. Rent low. Apply at 97 Coddington street. 13-6t

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

TAKE NOTICE—Free corn cutting till March 31st. Positively no hurt, 9 A. M. to 2 P. M. Dr. Rodgers, Chiropodist. 14 Sagamore street, Atlantic. Mar. 17-6t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—House furniture. Apply 50 Main street, Quincy. 18-1t

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS—Take notice. We are selling all steel portable Automobile garages, camps and storehouses ready to put up. Absolutely fire proof. Prompt shipment. Send for quotations, M. W. Tilton, Box 362, Brockton. 11-12t

AIR COMPRESSORS — We are specializing on Air Compressors, all makes, types, and sizes. Ask us for prices. Geo. S. Githens, 200 Congress Street, Boston. Feb. 11-Wed. tf

FOR SALE—Cheap, a second hand kitchen stove, in good condition. Apply to Mr. Magee, 963 Hancock street near car barn. 17-6t

FOR SALE—Loose English Hay at $18 per ton at barn. Edwin Poffley, 217 Quincy avenue, East Braintree. Mar. 16-3t

FOR SALE—One "Reo the Fifth," four seated touring car, specially comfortable body, over-sized tires, extra shoe, shock absorbers, Warner speedometer, condition good as new. Apply to Central Garage, corner Washington and Pond Streets, Quincy. 13-6t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

LOST

LOST—Dark brindle female bull doy. Answers to name of Buck. Finder will please return to 122 Billings street, Atlantic. 17-3t

WANTED

TO A LONELY LADY—An elderly widower desires a home with a lady who will provide him with a room and board. Has a kind disposition, would be a good companion, and do any kind of light work. First-class references. Address "A. B. C. Quincy, Mass." Correspondence will be strictly confidential forever. 17-2t

WANTED—Washing, ironing and cleaning by the hour. Write to Lydia Rajala, 5 Carlmark street, West Quincy. 17-3t

WANTED—Experienced house to house salesman for Quincy for a new article of great merit selling for 50c. Address Box 2704, Boston, Mass. 16-3t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York. N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt. 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

JUST LOOK HERE
Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. C. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 685 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones {Residence 544-3 / Office 87-M

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.
SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

Read Ledger Ads

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c

THURS., FRI., SAT.
Program Subject to Change

MR. and MRS. EVERETT BENNETT
Presenting their Comedy Sketch
"THE MASTER"

BIANZA TRIO
Refined Singers and Musicians

BROWN BROS.
Novelty Comedians

JACK WALLACE
and his Trained Eagle

4 Reels of Thrills
OVER NIAGARA FALLS
Wonderful Picture Production of intense and gripping interest

COMEDY PICTURES
For Laughing Purposes only

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

DISTRICT COURT.

The continued cases of Dominico Bolea for assault with intent to kill at Quincy, March 8 and of Gusippe DeLorne, Frank Balgno, George Stepano and Lose Balgano arrested at the same time as witnesses and held under the charge of disturbing the peace were heard. Teber Talopi the man who was shot was one of the witnesses. After the hearing Bolea was held in the sum of $1,500 for the grand jury. The cases against the men for disturbing the peace were continued until Thursday.

The case of Peter Nobile for assault on Carmine DeMatti was called and continued for a week

The Aetna Musical club of West Quincy whose premises were raided some days ago were arraigned in court this morning through its president for keeping a club nuisance. The case was dismissed on payment of $25 on account of costs with the understanding that the club should cease to exist.

George L. Gill Rebekah lodge works the degree on several candidates at its regular meeting in I. O. O. F. hall tomorrow evening.

Too Late For Classification

TO LET—Apartment 5 rooms, all improvements; good location, on car line; rent $21. 903 Hancock street. Inquire upper suite. 18-tf

WANTED—By an experienced nurse maternity nursing. Address P. O. Box 304, Quincy. March 18-6t

MARRIAGES

SILVER—LEVINE— In Roxbury, March 17, by Rev. Rovner of Boston, David Silver of Quincy Point and Miss Rose Levine of Dorchester.

DEATHS

DOBLE—In West Quincy, March 17, Ira T. Doble of Furnace Brook parkway, aged 31 years.

HARRIS—In Squantum, March 16, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh P. Harris of Pratt road.

TORMEY—In East Weymouth, March 16, Mrs. Catherine Tormey of 15 Whitman street.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass

YOU should not place your orders for any
MEMORIAL WORK
Without Consulting
AVARD L. WALKER
MORTUARY ARCHITECT
3636 WASHINGTON STREET
FOREST HILLS, BOSTON, MASS.
Tel. Quincy 282.W
March 4-3mos-w-s

GIRLS LEAVE IN PERFECT ORDER

No Hysteria When Fire Destroys College Building

LOSE MOST ALL BELONGINGS

Friends Furnish Them With Substitute Apparel After They Flee In Night Clothing as Largest Structure at Wellesley Is Reduced to Ruins—Loss Is About $1,500,000

Boston, March 18.—College hall, Wellesley's oldest and largest structure, is in ruins following a fire that wrecked the building with a $1,500,000 loss. More than 400 girls, marshalled by Miss Mary O'Mahoney, chief of the college fire brigade, escaped, fleeing across the campus clad only in their night clothing.

While Miss O'Mahoney mustered the girls about the campus, Miss Olive Davis, director of halls and residences and instructor in fire drills, returned to the dormitory, rapping at each room until she was satisfied all had fled. Returning she had both hands badly lacerated in groping through the smoke filled halls to the open air.

Obtaining dresses of many sizes and styles at nearby houses the students returned to the burning building, formed a long line and began a spectacular fight to save a part of the hall of equipment. Miss Mary Smith, secretary to the dean, braved a rain of burning embers to reach the executive offices on the first floor, saving the dean's records, the only documents rescued from the flames.

Others ran to the rear of the building and took from the library the entire set of works on psychology. A statue of Harriet Martineau, which the students annually scrub with ceremony in May, was demolished before the squads of rescuers could carry it out of danger.

While the girls worked to save the contents of the building, Mrs. Henry F. Durant, widow of the founder of the college, watched the progress of the flames from a wheel chair. She had ordered a servant to take her to the scene of the fire as soon as she heard the college building was ablaze.

The fire started in the chemical laboratory on the fourth floor of the left wing and is believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion. It was first noticed when two of the students, Virginia Moffatt and Charlotte Donnell, notified William Mortimer, the janitor.

Mortimer sounded the college alarm, and the flight from the dormitories began, the girls running from their rooms at the first cry of danger. No one tried to save personal effects and few attempted to dress.

The big experimental room, the administrative offices, the old chapel and library were destroyed. The building was assessed at $587,000, while the furnishings and equipment were valued at $500,000 each. Few of the rare and valuable oil paintings and marble statuary were saved.

Nearly all the girls lost their personal property and the majority of them all available money. A large number had safety deposit boxes in banks for surplus money and jewels.

President Ellen F. Pendleton said all the students had been dismissed, and the faculty will make an effort to have the college reopen on April 10, which is the beginning of the spring term.

The erection of the structure started in 1871, and it was opened in 1875. The cost is said to have been about $1,000,000, which included the structure and its first furnishings. It is very difficult to estimate offhand the value of the library, paintings, statues and girls' effects.

The Boston and Albany sent several special trains to the Wellesley station and the throng of fire refugees presented a picturesque appearance. Erstwhile fashionably clad heads wore some startling hats; gowns, frocks and dresses were mostly misfits, while long raincoats were largely in evidence.

Discussing the fire drill which resulted in all getting safely out of the burning building, Miss Davis said the system is efficient and the girls were cool and courageous.

"It could not be otherwise," she declared. "The first rollcall developed the fact that eight were missing. These were mostly members of the faculty who sometimes dodge fire drills, but they were soon routed out. I was the last to leave the building."

JOBLESS ARMY BREAKS UP

But Few Remain of 1800 Who Started on Hike to Washington

Sacramento, Cal., March 18.—"General" Kelley's unemployed army, which began its march on Washington 1800 strong from San Francisco, has been dispersed.

Only a handful of irreconciliables remain in the camp on the Yolo levee, to which the army was driven last week by Sacrameto deputies.

Flock of Millions of Ducks

Providence, March 18.—Ducks to the estimated number of 3,000,000 covered the waters of the upper bay from Squantum to Pomham. This great gathering of wild fowl is believed to presage their early departure for the northern breeding grounds.

ST. PATRICKS SOCIAL

Atlantic Ladies Present Pleasing Program

The Saint Patrick's social and entertainment given by the Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Atlantic Memorial church on Tuesday evening was a huge success. The ladies in charge were Mrs. William Hersey and Mrs. Alva Beede.

The program opened with a piano duet by Miss Eleanor Phillips and Miss Regina La Tour, followed by readings by Miss Evelen Spaulding of Billerica. Miss Spaulding read "Biddy's trials among the Yankees," she responded to a loud encore with another humorous selection.

A short play entitled "The Doll's Hospital," was then given. The cast of characters was as follows:

Doctor, Nurse and Matron, Miss Eleanor Phillips.

Ladies who have an interest in the welfare of the hospital the Misses Bertha Wight, Laura Rogers, Barbara Wells, Dorothy Hall and Ruth Beeman.

Following this, Miss Jordine Davison sang "The Ould Plaid Shawl," and responded to the long applause with "My island of love." Miss Spaulding gave another reading entitled "The deacon's courtship," after which, Miss Mary Beal played two violin solos. Mrs. Harvey Holt sang "Sweet Tipperary," and responded to the encore with another Irish melody.

After the entertainment, ice cream and candy were on sale. The church was decorated with green crepe paper draped around the walls and from the chandeliers. Green flags as well as the red, white and blue were also prominent.

NEWSY BRIEFS

A little snow this morning for a change, it is doubtful however if much snow falls.

Marines and sailors from the battleship New Jersey, built at Quincy, took part in the Evacuation day parade at South Boston.

Walter E. Piper, eminent commander of Quincy commandery, K. T., attended the inspection of Calvary commandery at Providence on Tuesday evening.

Because of the rain, fog and darkness today, artificial light was necessary in stores, places of business and even the houses. It was the darkest day for many months.

The weather this morning was a reminder of the yellow day a number of years ago, when it was necessary to keep lights burning all day in order to see.

Skandia lodge, Vase Orden, will hold their anual ladies' night in Electa and Protection halls on Thursday night and a large committee has completed arrangements.

At the midweek lenten service tonight at Christ church at 7.45, Rev. A. N. Taylor rector of the Church of the Holy Spirit, Mattapan, will preach the sermon.

There have been many applications for guests tickets for the dinner of the First Parish club Thursday evening. Mr. Malley collector of internal revenue at Boston will speak on the income tax.

Maple Lodge K. & L. of H, No. 313 wil have its annual visitation this evening in Protection hall and entertain the board of grand officers and members from the surrounding lodges.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh P. Harris, Pratt road, Squantum died Monday with pneumonia. Funeral services were held at their home Tuesday, the Rev. T. W. Davison officiated. Another son age four is very ill with the same disease.

ODD FELLOWS VISITATION.

Upwards of seventy members of Manet encampment, I. O. O. F., accompanied its degree team to Rockland Tuesday evening when the Quincy team worked the Golden Rule degree upon several candidates. Following the business session a banquet was served. The trip was made in a special electric car.

—Tree planting on national forests has to be confined to comparatively short intervals in spring and fall. In spring it starts when the snow melts and stops with the drying out of the ground; in the fall it comes between the fall rains and first snowfall.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WHELAN

Fifteen members of the Quincy police department, 12 of whom acted as honorary and three as active bearers, attended the funeral of Mary E. Whelan, wife of Patrolman James Whelan held this morning from the home of her mother Mrs. Katherine Kelley of 211 Willard street.

A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's church by Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, pastor. The Gregorian chant was rendered by the regular choir under the direction of Miss Frances Cronin, organist.

The floral remembrances were many and were from East Milton and Quincy friends and associates of Patrolman Whelan.

The bearers were Henry Riley, Thomas Malone, John Duane, representing the police department, Neil Leary, William H. Teasdale and William Upton. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

—But for the newspapers most persons subject to the income tax would still be ignorant of its existence, let alone the time of making returns. Cannot the Government, therefore, contrive to give the newspapers another whack, through the post office or otherwise, for this gratuitous service?—New York World.

HAS NEW NOSE AND LIPS

Baltimore Patient Benefits by Remarkable Surgical Operation

Baltimore, March 18.—With a new nose made from one of his ribs, strapped to his face, Ross Allen is recovering from a remarkable operation at a hospital here.

It was the most important of a series of skin grafts which also have given back to him new lips. The skin for the nose was taken from the man's forehead. The last operation was completed a week ago and is considered a success by the surgeons.

Allen is said to be doing well. The operations were rendered necessary by reason of an accident in which Allen's features were badly disfigured and his nose and lips entirely destroyed.

COINERS RECEIVE SENTENCE AT HUB

One Who Helped Round Up Gang Escapes Going to Prison

Boston, March 18.—Giovanni Lalla and Guiseppi Viola, ringleaders of the counterfeiting gang arrested during a raid in the West End, were sentenced to 2½ years in state prison in the United States district court. Cologorio Ruino, another of the seven arrested, was sentenced to eighteen months in the Cambridge jail.

A fourth member of the gang was Giuseppi Piazza, who assisted the government in rounding up the gang. Judge Morton continued Piazza's sentence for two years, and placed him in the custody of Secret Service Agent Barker. A fine of $1 was also imposed on each man.

Three other members of the gang are yet to be sentenced.

Advertisers Ask Only A Fair Trial

By HOLLAND.

ADVERTISERS do not attempt to make you agree to buy their goods for the rest of your life. They only want you to give their wares a trial, to subject them to actual test by actual use, and then be guided by experience

Could anything prove more clearly that the advertiser has supreme confidence in his product, that he is absolutely certain that it will please you, that it will be all he says it is?

It would indeed be foolish to spend money to induce you to buy an article that would prove unsatisfactory and would result in your telling friends and neighbors of your experience. Advertisers spend millions making their trademarks known, and in order to make their trademarks valuable they must stand for a certain standard of worth. Having made their trademarks known, manufacturers exert every effort to keep the goods up to the expected high grade.

YOU CAN'T GO WRONG IN FOLLOWING ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE SLAYING OF CALMETTE

Stirs Bitter Political Strife In French Republic

CAILLAUX GIVES UP OFFICE

Will Devcte His Time to Fighting For Wife Who Killed Editor of Figaro—Feud of Women at Bottom of Tragedy Which May Have Far-Reaching Consequences

Paris, March 18.—The French cabinet decided to retain office in spite of the resignation of Joseph Caillaux, minister of finance, as a result of the assassination by his wife of Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro.

Although Caillaux was considered the strongest and most influential member of the cabinet his colleagues determined to accept his resignation and to reorganize the various portfolios.

The bitterest political strife since the conflict growing out of the Dreyfus case is predicted for France.

Government, social and political circles are stirred by the sensational developments in the bitter feud between Caillaux and the editor, but standing above all is the fact that two women have been the forces behind the political warfare.

The former Mme. Dupre, who married and then was divorced by Caillaux, had been intimate with Calmette. She is believed to have furnished the editor with letters published in Figaro which so aroused Mme. Caillaux that she took the editor's life.

The published letters were written to the present Mme. Caillaux before she became the wife of the minister, and Mme. Dupre is believed to have turned them over to Calmette that she might be avenged.

Caillaux is the most pitiful figure in all Paris. The press is merciless in its denunciation. The public is extremely hostile, and the minister barely escaped being mobbed as he came from the St. Lazaire women's prison after visiting his wife.

"I will devote my days and my nights to fighting for my wife," Caillaux said.

"Dragged into a political fight and helpless to prevent the publication of private letters, she shall not suffer further humiliation so long as I have the strength to fight for her."

Caillaux spent a sleepless night at the home of a friend, while his talented wife occupied a prison cell.

The night in the cell, with its attendant harrowing aspects, lack of the luxurious surroundings and care to which she is accustomed, could not dim the striking beauty of Mme. Caillaux.

She repeated that she did not intend to kill Calmette and deeply regretted her act. She first appealed to an attorney in the hope that some legal action might be taken to prevent the publication of letters written to her before she became Mme. Caillaux. Informed that nothing could be done she then decided to face Calmette in his office.

"I only expected to wound him," Mme. Caillaux said, "but I lost control of myself."

So instense was the excitement throughout Paris that the spirit of attack seemed fairly in the air.

As former Minister Auganeur, vice president of the chamber of deputies, was on the way to the chamber he was attacked by an unidentified woman. She leaped, screaming, upon Auganeur, striking at him wildly, but was easily restrained. The woman was arrested, but later released.

MRS. M'DANIELS DEPORTED

Japanese Wife of American Surgeon Cannot Enter United States

Tacoma, Wash., March 18.—Failing in an appeal to Washington Mrs. Sado McDaniels, Japanese wife of an American surgeon in the Orient, was deported on the Japanese steamship Canada.

When Mrs. McDaniels arrived a month ago she was denied admission because she had no passport. She engaged an attorney and appealed the case to Washington.

She was married seven years ago to McDaniels, then assistant in a hospital at Manila and now surgeon on a government ship.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED SLAIN

Awful Ravages of White Wolf's Bandit Band In China

Pekin, March 18.—Reports have been received from missionaries describing the ravages of White Wolf's band.

Fifteen hundred inhabitants of Lachowkow, Hupeh province, have been killed and 400 subjected to torture to compel them to disclose hidden treasures.

Many women and girls have been mutilated or murdered. Property to the value of millions of dollars has been looted.

Bonfire of Confiscated Goods

Washington, March 18.—Several tons of adulterated foods and drugs gathered by the government's pure food guardians made a monster bonfire here. The confiscated articles ranged from gallons of bad whisky to pounds of chewing gum.

JOSEPH CAILLAUX

Statesman Whose Wife Killed Figaro's Editor

AN ORIGINAL WILSON MAN

Strecker For Assistant United States Treasurer at Boston

Washington, March 18.—Charles B. Strecker, editor and one of the publishers of the Boston Financial News, was nominated for assistant treasurer of the United States at Boston.

It is given out that Strecker has not been a candidate for the position and that the administration does not know whether or not he will accept it. Strecker was an original Wilson man as a Massachusetts delegate to the Baltimore convention and voted for Wilson through all the balloting.

EXTREME CRUELTY LEADS TO DIVORCE

Decree Is Granted Mrs. Goelet In Court at Newport

Newport, R. I., March 18.—Mrs. Elsie W. Goelet, prominent in society circles of New York and Newport, and called the most beautiful woman in America, was granted a divorce from Robert Goelet on the ground of extreme cruelty.

By mutual agreement, the terms of which were not made public, both are to have custody of their elder son, Ogden, aged 6.

The mother is to keep Peter, aged 2 years, their only other child, until he is 6 years old, when she is to share the custody of the child with the father.

Neither Goelet nor his wife was in court. All the testimony was by depositions, which were read in tones so low as scarcely to be heard by any of the spectators.

FIRE RUINS COLLAPSE

At Least Three More Persons Killed at Missouri A. C. Building

St. Louis, March 18.—At least three persons were killed, fifteen buried under debris and ten injured when the west wall of the Missouri Athletic club building, which was destroyed by a fire in which thirty persons lost their lives, collapsed under a high wind and crashed through a four-story building occupied by the St. Louis Seed company.

The bodies of three workmen have been taken from the ruins. The groans of a woman buried beneath the debris ceased by the time a large force began to explore the wreckage. It is believed the woman is dead.

BANK WAS NOT BONDED

State Not Responsible For Siegel Institution at Boston

Boston, March 18.—That no bond was ever filed to protect Boston depositors in the Henry Siegel bank was pointed out by District Attorney Pelletier when he announced that, in concert with District Attorney Whitman of New York, he had formally taken up the prosecution of the Boston end of the Siegel and Vogel cases.

He said the people here had been "slumbering" under a false sense of security, and that the state of Massachusetts was in no wise responsible.

Noted Woman Lawyer Dead

Chicago, March 18.—Miss Mary E. Miller, lawyer and active suffragist, died here. Miss Miller recently received a fee of $35,000 in a case before the supreme court. She was born in Michigan forty-eight years ago.

Oil Concern With $100,000,000 Capital

San Francisco, March 18.—The stockholders of the Standard Oil company of California voted to increase its capital stock from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Principles.

We must be careful to have our principles and be ready to die for them. But we must be careful not to label our prejudices "principles" and proceed to die for them.

Act Quickly

Don't wait until you have some ailment caused by poor digestion, biliousness, or by inactive bowels which may lead to a serious sickness. Immediate relief is afforded by that best corrective and preventive

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Sold everywhere. In boxes, 10c., 25

SLIGHT FIRE ON SUMNER STREET

The alarm from Box 173 at 7.13 Tuesday night was for a slight fire in the house of J. Levowich at 105 Sumner street. The fire was in one of the upper rooms and evidently caught in some clothing. When the firemen arrived they found the room filled with stifling smoke, but there was little fire It was extinguished with a loss of not over $5.

BATTLESHIP KEEL.

The keel of battleship No. 39, the name of which may be North Carolina or Arizona was laid this week at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. The superdreadnought will be the peer of any vessel yet projected by the powers, and is 10 per cent completed, the keel being delayed 'til ribs and plates were set. Her displacement will be 31,500 tons and she will carry three 14-inch rifles in every turret, mounting 12 of these guns altogether, and will be the second vessel to be so equipped. The New York, a product of that yard, leaves for her trials in two weeks.

MAINE POTATOES

25c PECK

— AT —

Carlson's Restaurant

10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall

March 6-1m

W. H. HASLETT
31 Bridge Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 1092 W

Plastering and Cementing
Concrete Houses
Outside Stucco Work
Cement Walks, Steps and Cellar Floors.

PETROSILO sanitary and fireproof flooring—guaranteed to wear longer than hard wood floor—no joints one continuous piece put over any floor.

Feb. 25- W-S. tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer

Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

Quickly
until you have some ailsed by poor digestion, or by inactive bowels
lead to a serious sickness. relief is afforded by orrective and preventive
ECHAM'S PILLS
here. In boxes, 10c., 25

FIRE ON MNER STREET

from Box 173 at 7.13 it was for a slight fire in
J. Levowich at 105 Sum-
The fire was in one of the and evidently caught in
s. When the firemen ar-und the room filled with e, but there was little fire uished with a loss of not

TLESHIP KEEL.

battleship No. 39, the h may be North Carolina as laid this week at the vy Yard. The super-will be the peer of any ojected by the powers, cent completed, the keel
'til ribs and plates were placement will be 31,500 will carry three 14-inch y turret, mounting 12 of together, and will be the to be so equipped. The product of that yard,
r trials in two weeks.

AINE TATOES
c PECK
— AT —
's Restaurant
Depot Street
p. City Hall
March 6-1m

HASLETT
Street, Quincy uincy 1092 W nd Cementing uses co Work ks, Steps and Cellar sanitary and fireproof anteed to wear longer od floor—no joints one e put over any floor.
Feb. 25- W-S. tf

N. CURTIS
and GLAZIER
STAINED GLASS
and PAPER HANGER
NITURE REFINISHED
off Spear Street, Quincy

M F. RANKIN
holsterer
sses re-made for $2.50
acht cushions re-made or
of furniture repaired,
re-upholstered.
e. A postal will bring me.
arwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

an's Garage
Taxi Service
torage and Supplies
Day and Night.
Touring Cars for all orner Washington and
ets.
ENNIMAN, Prop.
ephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 66 QUINCY, MASS THURSDAY EVENING MARCH 19 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

MOTHER AND SON BANQUET AT Y. M. C. A.

Secretary Gibson, Mrs. Robert E. Park Sturgis Hunt and Others Speak

Men Served the Feast and Mrs. Davis Was Toastmistress

Women, interested in the welfare of the Y. M. C. A., many of them as parents and others as associates in the Ladies' Auxiliary, attended the first "Mother and Son banquet" with "their boys" in the association hall Wednesday night and had the unusual experience of partaking of food prepared and served by the men. There were 250 present.

The banquet was served almost an hour late, and all because the men neglected to provide for the extra time required to boil turnips, a necessary item on the menu. This became generally known by the Mothers, but they reserved comment and discussed other topics, securing their revenge when they attacked the heavily laden table and quietly enjoyed an awkward attempt at service now and then which just had to happen because some one was looking.

However, the affair was very successful and was on a par with the "Father and Son banquet" of several weeks ago. The menu was:

Roast Stuffed Shoulder
Mashed Potatoes Mashed Turnips
Cranberry Sauce
Rolls Butter
Shrimp Salad
Ice Cream Cake
Tea Cocoa

Music was furnished during the banquet by the Wollaston Cadet band, their program being mostly well known arrangements.

Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis was toastmistress, Sturgis Hunt responded to the toast, "If I were a Mother, the kind I would like to be;" Mrs. Robert E. Park of Wollaston to "If I were a Boy, the kind I would like to be;" and H. W. Gibson, state secretary for Boys to "A Mother and her Boy."

Mrs. Parks and Mr. Hunt in their address clearly stated their ideal of son and mother. Mr. Hunt said the three qualities of motherhood that he would choose would be, love, sympathy and plenty of patience.

Mrs. Park spoke of strength and the possibilities of accomplishment through it. She confessed to a leaning towards mechanics. A modern boy must have a modern mind she said, and a modern conscience, called a social conscience. It is one that makes us know that that which is not fair for the other fellow and makes it hard for him is not going to be good for him or anyone else. Boys know better than most people what it is to be fair.

Mr. Gibson was presented by Mrs. Davis as the person who has gotten nearer to the hearts of the boys than any other man.

Mr. Gibson's talk was direct and to the point, tempered with pleasant anecdotes and quaint illustrations. He said an Englishman recently said a boy consists of one large boiler, commonly called the brain, capable of standing very high pressure; one special sized furnace with a capacity of several tons, sometimes spoken of as the stomach; two powerful head lights in front of the boiler which will not let anything come in their path unnoticed; five extra valves, two arms two legs and one mouth."

Mr. Gibson said he would analyze a boy according to the following tests, 50 per cent fun, 20 per cent. investigation, 20 per cent. fight, 5 per cent. work and 5 per cent. sleep."

If a boy was to sum up life he would do it in two words, fun and eat, and the boy who has plenty of fun and plenty to eat thinks life is worth living. He really has the philosophy of life, because when persons lose the fun of living, and the digestive apparatus will not allow the enjoyment of food, most all commence to think of "shuffling off this mortal coil."

Mr. Gibson said that he knew a boy, who, when asked if he knew who the Three Graces were, unhesitatingly answered breakfast, dinner and supper.

In speaking of cleanliness as applied to boys, he said boys and dirt have an affinity for each other. Their sport and play gathers it. He emphasized the needs of neatness in the house, but he said he honestly believed that some boys were driven away from home because of too much good housekeeping. A boy is a boy, and when in the knickerbocker period he must not be a girl. Give a boy a room, say to him, "there is your castle, live in it," and he will be happy. A room that is furnished and cared for by a mother is never lived in by a boy ,he simply sleeps there over night.

All the speakers were applauded Alden Blanchard, boys' director, who opened the post-prandial exercises and presented Mrs. Davis as toastmistress made a special plea for the women to become interested in the auxiliary.

The committee that prepared the supper was J. S. Baker, George C. Beal, F. A. Maxwell, John F. Hunt and Rev. J. A. Matheson.

It was served by John E. Higgins, E. M. McTear, William Prime, William Hendry, David H. Goodspeed, J. H. Jenkins, W. S. Anderson, Fred Ward, Harold England, Roland Avery, M. G. Berry, F. S. Tobbenbosko and Lester Sprague.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL
Sat. Mat. and Night
BY SPECIAL REQUEST
"THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG"
Reproduction in 5 Reels of Moving Pictures of the Greatest War Event in the World's History
Every Man, Woman and Child should see this Production
March 19-3t

AT FOY'S
THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760
THE OLD WaterSt. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117
SPECIAL FOR THURSDAY
LAMB CHOPS 20c lb
Kidney Chops—Fresh, tender, delicious.
Regular 30c lb. quality reduced for THURSDAY ONLY 20c lb.
R. E. FOY & COMPANY
QUINCY'S QUALITY MARKETS
March 18 2t

PROTEST FROM BOARD OF TRADE

Object to Equipping Navy Yard for Shipbuilding

A dispatch from Washington says, that in a letter to Senator Lodge, the directors of the Quincy Board of Trade protest against equipping of the navy yard at Charlestown for the construction of government vessels. The Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, says the protest, employs 4000 men and the equipping of the navy yard at Charlestown would be distinctly opposed to the prosperity of Quincy. The protest goes on still further to say, that money is wasted in the construction of ships in government yards and that such ships can be built more economically in private yards.

The protest is doubtless similar to that adopted by the City Council on Monday evening, although there was no provision in the Council resolution for forwarding an attested copy to Washington.

DISTRICT COURT.

Edward Hannin was arraigned for the larceny of bicycle last November from E. Rosenberg and was sentenced to one month in the house of correction. A suspended sentence of one month in the house of correction was revoked, and the sentence ordered to take effect.

Richard Condon was fined $15 for drunkenness at Randolph and Adolph Wehnikanen $15 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Abel D. Gomez was arraiged for assault at Quincy. Case continued until Saturday, March 28.

☞PRATT'S BREAD never varies. It is made and baked by a fixed rule. Ask your grocer.

By CHAS. H. JOHNSON Auctioneer
Office Room 3 Adams Building. Tel. Con.

Receiver's Sale
At Public Auction
OF THE Valuable Granite Plant
— OF —
GIORDANI & CO.
Situated off Hall Place, West Quincy
Will be sold from premises on
SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1914
At 2.30 P. M.

Large cutting shed and office, about 45,000 square feet land, and the following personal property: One Compressor, Electric Motor, 2 Polishing Machines, Hoister and Derrick, Boiler, Pump, Surface Machine, Tools, Chains, lot of pneumatic tools, Office Furniture, Desk, Chairs, Table, lot of Lumber and Rough Stock. Here is an opportunity: extra equipped plant all ready for business will be sold in one lot. $100 deposit on day of sale, balance cash within 20 days from date of sale. Per order
Walter S. Pinkham, Attorney
Receiver
6t M11-13-14-18-19-20

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Efforts of the New Board of Health Misunderstood

There seems to have been some misunderstanding in regard to the Board of Health, and an investigation of what the board has been trying to do bears out the fact that there was no ground for the claim of discord.

When the present board took office, it started in to investigate a number of things that had been brought to its attention, and an effort was made to put the department in a condition where it would not make money perhaps, but would not be losing money. In carrying out this idea it seemed advisable to do away with a foreman and have the chairman of the Board look into matters. Chairman Murray could not well afford to give all the time necessary to investigate the many matters that are constantly being brought to its attention but agreed to follow up the complaints by a personal investigation. The Board then voted to allow him $16 a week for this work which was a saving of $5 a week over what had been paid the foreman, and better results were being obtained. The City Charter was consulted and nothing was found that prohibited this arrangement and it was made.

It began to be rumored about, however, that there was some discord and the result was that after this week there will be a foreman.

The compensation of the chairman is not such that any man could reasonably be expected to give his whole time to the duties of the office, which a man should do in order to do the work as it should be done.

In this connection it is only necessary to quote one item that has been cleared up. Some time ago the board agreed to remove ashes from cellars for 5 cents a barrel. Investigation by Mr. Murray has shown that in a number of cases it has cost the department twenty cents to remove a barrel of ashes from a cellar, for which the board received but five cents, so that it was a losing proposition. In regard to this the board has now decided that the rate for removing a barrel of ashes shall be 7 1-2 cents a barrel. An other department that has been investigated by Mr. Murray is the sale of garbage, as well as the matter of cesspools and vaults, and he has found that the board has been losing money, when by a little system these departments could be made to at least pay expenses. The kick, however, over his drawing two salaries will result for the present at least in checking these investigations.

At the present time the Board of Health is practically the only department in the city which does not have a permanent head. That is a member who gives his whole time to the duties of the office.

From an investigation of what has been done during the past few weeks, it would seem advisable that the ordinance should be changed so that the chairman of the Board should be paid a compensation sufficient to permit his giving his whole time to the duties of the office.

While Mr. Murray will not personally bring up the matter, owing to the agitation of the past few days, it is not among the improbabilities that a move will be made soon to make the chairman of the board a permanent officer with a salary sufficient to permit his giving his whole time to the duties of the office.

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT HEARING.

The Industrial Accident Board of Massachusetts will give a hearing March 27, in the Council Chamber, City Hall, in the case of James L. Birnie who died Jan. 30. The death return gives the cause of death as a result of a shock. Mr. Birnie was employed by William T. Spargo and this firm has been brought into the case on the matter of compensation to the family under the Industrial Accident law.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

FULL DISCUSSION OF ADVERTISING

Editor of Daily Ledger Invited to Appear Before Retail Merchants Committee

To Present Reasons Why Quincy Merchants Should Advertise

The sworn statement of the DAILY LEDGER as to its circulation, together with its "Challenge" to other newspapers, and "claims" that cannot be disputed, has attracted considerable attention throughout the city, and the Retail Merchants Committee seem disposed at last to give the DAILY LEDGER fair play. The following invitation has been received:

Quincy, Mass., March 17, 1914.

George W. Prescott Pub. Co., Inc.
Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.

Gentlemen:—There will be a meeting of the Retail Merchants Committee at Hancock hall, Thursday evening, March 19, 1914, at 6.30.

We extend to you an invitation to be present at this meeting and present your reasons "Why Quincy Merchants should advertise in your papers." Other papers will have their representatives at this meeting.

It is expected that a full discussion on advertising will be brought up at this meeting.

Very truly yours,
W. G. SHAW, Chairman.

DAILY LEDGER ACCEPTS INVITATION

It has been rumored on the street that the Daily Ledger would not accept and a hope expressed that it would not; but the editor will be there, and we hope all the Merchants of Quincy will also. Our letter of acceptance is printed in full.

Quincy, Mass., March 18, 1914.

Retail Merchants Committee
Quincy, Mass.

Gentlemen:—Your invitation to be present at a meeting of the Retail Merchants Committee at Hancock Hall, Thursday evening, March 19, 1914, comes as a surprise, as a member of our Corporation who was present at the last meeting was not only discourteously received by your chairman but was requested to leave. Although a member of the Merchants Association when it consolidated with the Quincy Board of Trade this is the first notice we have received of any recent meeting.

We accept with much pleasure your invitation to be present and give our reasons "Why Quincy Merchants should advertise in our papers," although it hardly seems necessary as circulation rather than talk is what counts with the advertiser. Our membership in the Association of American Advertisers which gives any advertiser the right to investigate our circulation at any and all times, and our connection with the Pilgrim Publicity Committee of Boston, places us on record for truthful and clean advertising, reasons in a nutshell "Why Quincy Merchants should advertise in our papers."

As your chairman has announced himself as a publisher, possibly he may have some hesitancy in presiding over the meeting, we suggest that the president of the Board of Trade or some disinterested person be asked to preside.

In the interests of clean journalism we hope the Retail Merchants of Quincy will not only see that the "challenge" as published in the Daily Ledger of March 16 and 18 is taken up by all publications of the city but also insist on a personal investigation by a reliable committee of all circulation statements.

Trusting this letter will be given publicity at the meeting Thursday evening, we remain.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
by Frank F. Prescott.

PLOT AT BODY SNATCHING

Suspicious Men Seen at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery

It became known this morning that the police, through a strict patrol of Mt. Wollaston cemetery and the installation of a guard, prevented the carrying out of what is thought to have been a body snatching plot on Tuesday night. Although the heavy fog which shrouded "the City of the Dead" would have partially concealed the men said to have been implicated they failed to put in an appearance.

The attention of the police was first attracted when a Quincy minister reported that two men, apparently medical students, were making a close examination of the territory surrounding two new graves in the cemetery and that their actions seemed contrary to those of well intentioned people. The matter was brought to his attention when he interrupted the hovering of the two men during a visit to the cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.

At the first sign of night the police auto and three men were sent to the cemetery. They made a strict examination of the rounds and after guarding the newer graves for some time they returned to the station leaving one patrolman behind.

His duty, not a pleasant one, consisting of constantly guarding the territory in which the suspected men thought to have planned to operate and the strict watch ended only when he was obliged to relieve a brother patrolman who went off duty at midnight.

The police found no persons in the cemetery and found no evidences that the start had been made to steal bodies. They will continue to keep the cemetery under surveillance.

The cemeteries of Quincy, as far as is known, have never had their dead disturbed and the prompt report of conditions and quick actions of the police were probably sufficient warning to the men whose actions gave every indication of a plot, the fulfilling of which would have created intense excitement.

RIVADAVIA NOT FOR SALE

Argentine Republic Denies the Persistent Rumor

In regard to the many rumors that the battleship Rivadavia now receiving her finishing touches at the Fore River yards is for sale a dispatch from Buenos Aires says:

"The Minister of Marine, questioned today on the propositions which have been made for the purchase of the Argentine dreadnought Rivadavia, denied the reports that the Government was favorable to negotiating the sale of any warships. He declared that notwithstanding the importance of the offers which might be made the government had decided to adopt no resolution which might tend to modify the status of the forces of the Powers."

STURGIS AND LEMON WIN.

The long anticipated tandem match was rolled at the City Square alleys Wednesday night and Sturgis and Lemon defeated Bergfors and Olsen. 1877 to 1829, a margin of 48 pins. Bergfors defeated his man, but Lemon saved the day by gathering almost a hundred more pins than Olsen. Lemon had high single, 116. The best string by Bergfors was 114. Olsen's high was 111 and Sturgis shot 106. The match was interesting and witnessed by a large crowd of fans.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC.

of the Quincy Daily Ledger, published daily at Quincy, Massachusetts, required by the act of August 24, 1912.

Managing Editor, Frank F. Prescott Quincy, Mass.

Business Managers, Board of Directors, Quincy, Mass.

Publishers, George W. Prescott Publishing Co., Quincy, Mass.

Owners: Frank F. Prescott, Quincy, Mass., Eben Prescott, Braintree, Mass., Etta M. Prescott, Quincy, Mass., Annie L. Prescott, Quincy, Mass., Alice K. P. Low, Quincy, Mass.

Average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date of this statement, 2756.

George W. Prescott Publishing Co.
by A. L. PRESCOTT, Treasurer.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 17th day of March 1914.

CLARENCE BURGIN,
(Seal) Notary Public.
My commission expires Dec. 8. 1916
Mar. 18-tf

STREET LIGHTING.

False economy is the way many look at the plan to do away with all-night street lighting, and to run the lights on a 1 o'clock moonlight schedule. The move is certainly not a popular one, especially with physicians and others whose business often calls them out late at night. As one physician says, street lights are a great aid when he is called out to attend a patient after 1 o'clock as frequently happens. It is no fool of a job to try and run an automobile through the streets, when they are pitch dark and accidents are almost unavoidable.

Then again take it in case of a fire, in the middle of the night it is risky business driving at a high speed through pitch dark streets. Aside from this many look upon all-night street lighting as good police protection.

An officer on duty at night is of but little use when it is so dark that the hand can not be seen before the face, and it is not among the impossibilities that an officer might pass within a few feet of a watching burglar and not see him. Burglars as a rule select the early hours of the morning for their work, and to have the streets dark is help to them.

Councilman Little, who is said to be one of the movers to curtail all night street lighting, looks upon it as a luxury, and it was doubtless due to his argument that the sum of $3,000 was cut from the appropriation.

At Monday night's meeting of the City Council, the Councilman said in his argument that the Mayor thought he might be able to have the street lights run all night for the sum named although it was $3,000 less than last year, and he intimated that at the next meeting he might seek to still further reduce the amount.

Weymouth and some other small towns are quoted as places where street lights run on the moonlight schedule but a small town should not be used in comparison with a growing metropolitan city.

Years ago when street lights in Quincy were run on the moonlight schedule they were very unsatisfactory as it often happened that nights when the moon was supposed to shine it was hidden by cloudy skies with the result that the streets were always in darkness. This was one of the reasons advanced by ex-Councilman Bryant at the time the moonlight schedule was abandoned and all night street lighting established. Now to go back to the old form seems like a step backward and a step that is not at all popular.

One gentleman familiar with the street lighting system says that it might be good economy to shut off some of the lights at 1 o'clock. Take for instance in City Square. On every other pole through City Square there is a cluster light. These he says it would be all right to burn until midnight but after that time about half of these lights might well be cut out which would make the streets plenty light enough for late travellers to find their way.

As the amount recommended by the Mayor for street lighting this year is $3000 less than last year the City Council cannot very well increase the amount although the law of 1913 which has so often been quoted of late provides a way in which the Council can act to get the increase in any item. That is the Council can vote to request the Mayor to make certain appropriations and after a lapse of a certain length of time the Council can take the initiative in the matter of an appropriation.

It is understood that a petition is to be circulated for presentation to the City Council protesting against the discontinuance of all-night street lighting.

VISIT FROM GRAND OFFICERS

The Grand Lodge officers of the Knights and Ladies of Honor made an official visitation to Maple lodge in Protection hall Wednesday night. All but three were present they being detained through illness.

The Grand officers are: Grand Protector Mrs. Mabel E. Williams of Saugus; Grand Vice Protector Miss Eva Hicks of Somerville; District Deputy Supreme Protector Mrs. Lottie McHugh of Somerville; Grand Treasurer Edwin Bridge of Dorchester; Grand Guardian W. E. Barbour of Roxbury; Grand Secretary Samuel Hathaway of Boston; Grand Chaplain, Mrs. Agnes G. Fletcher of Quincy; Acting Grand Guide George Boyer of Somerville.

An initiation was conducted by Protector Mrs. Sarah Williams and arrangements made for the initiation of three candidates at the next meeting. Miss M. Lizzie Furnald and Mrs. Eliza Penniman were delegated to attend the grand lodge convention in Boston in May. The alternates are Mrs. Rose A. Reid ad Mrs. Sarah Williams.

It was reported that Napoleon B. Furnald, a charter member was ill at his home on Washington street and that Mrs. Ella Fletcher is also ill.

Short addresses were made by the visiting officers after which dancing was enjoyed, music being furnished by Mrs. Effie Rhines. Refreshments were served. A committee to arrange for a whist social after next meeting is Mrs. Alberta Hewson and Mrs. Agnes C. Fletcher. There were 75 members present.

GRANITE CITY WHIST.

Ten tables were in play Wednesday evening at the weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club, the best scores of the evening being made by George F. Spooner and Dennis F. Crowley. At the conclusion of the tournament the entertainment committee served chicken pies and hot coffee. The scores as a rule run unusually high Wednesday several having in the vicinity of seventy per cent.

☞One of the greatest events in the world's history was the Battle of Gettysburg. This great battle has been reproduced in a five-reel moving picture which will be shown at Quincy Music hall, Saturday afternoon and evening. 8,000 soldiers, 2,000 horses and $4,000 worth of powder was burned in preparing the production. Nothing in moving pictures has ever been made that can approach these thrilling pictures.

THIS STOMACH REMEDY HELPS YOUR FRIENDS

Almost every day some grateful person comes into our store and tells us of benefits received from the use of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Knowing how much good they have done others and knowing what they are made of, we feel sure they will help you. So great is our faith in them that we urge you to try them entirely at our risk, with our personal promise that if they don't do all you expect them to do and make your stomach comfortable and healthy and your digestion easy, we'll hand back your money.

We couldn't endorse anything any more strongly than we do Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Containing Pepsin and Bismuth two of the greatest digestive aids known to medical science, they soothe the stomach, check heartburn and distress, promote a natural flow of the gastric juice, and help regulate the bowels. Remember, if they don't make your digestion so easy and comfortable that you can eat whatever you like whenever you like, we want you to come back and tell us and get your money. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only at our store. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00.

Edward J. Murphy, 1415 Hancock Cor. Granite Sts., Quincy, Mass.

STRIFE GROWS MORE BITTER

France Greatly Disturbed by Killing of Calmette

SLAYER REFUSES HER FOOD

Sympathy For Mme. Caillaux and Her Husband Aroused by Violence of Attacks Upon Them—Labori to Defend Her In Trial Which May Shake Republic to Its Foundation

Paris, March 19.—While sporadic demonstrations against her husband were occurring in the streets of Paris, Mme. Caillaux, who has brought France to the verge of a political crisis by killing Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro, sat on an iron cot in her cell in St. Lazare prison, brooding and weeping.

The beautiful woman who disrupted a cabinet and caused her husband's retirement as minister of finance is deeply affected by the street demonstrations.

Two nuns remained constantly near her cell, but she asked for no favors and scarcely noticed them. Food was brought to her from a restaurant, but this she refused. The maids sent from the Caillaux home to attend her were sent away.

The violence of attacks made upon Caillaux and his wife aroused sympathy for them in some quarters, and it is evident that both are on the verge of collapse. Georges Clemenceau, former premier, declared the entire affair was similar to the Dreyfus case, and for the good of France he pleaded that it be permitted to go no further.

The factional strife and public sentiment aroused by the killing of Calmette, and the charges made against Caillaux are growing more bitter hourly. The police and Republican Guard continue their vigilance in the determination to prevent any serious outbreak, and crowds that gather are speedily dispersed.

Maurice DeWaleff, editor of the Paris Midi, in a savage article declared Mme. Caillaux must go to prison. He said it was lucky he was not present when Calmette was shot and declared he could not understand why employes in The Figaro offices did not fell Mme. Caillaux in her tracks.

Out of the mixture of women and politics, tragedy and cabinet disruption, came the almost positive assurance that France will undergo an ordeal second only to the Dreyfus trial when Mme. Caillaux is placed on trial.

Fairly overshadowing the present political situation is the certainty that the defense will be the "unwritten law." Maitre Labori, one of the most noted attorneys in France, has agreed to defend Mme. Caillaux "for the sake of humanity." He was a friend of Calmette, but said the fact that the accused was a woman and without friends led him to accept the case.

With such a defense as is planned efforts will be directed toward showing justification of the killing of Calmette by Mme. Caillaux in defense of her own name and to shield her daughters. The airing of political intrigue and the shaking of the entire administration is promised by the fight that will be made to save Mme. Caillaux.

Magistrate Boucard has charge of the case against Mme. Caillaux, but the first hearing will probably not be called before next week.

Not in years have the lines between the various political factions stood out in such relief as following the Calmette tragedy.

The appearance of armed detachments of Republican Guards posted at strategic points of Paris added to the tense excitement aroused among the various political factions by the assassination of Calmette.

Everywhere in those quarters where there was likelihood of trouble, the police were supported by military, in readiness to be called on to suppress disorders.

Mme. Caillaux seems to have become a popular heroine amid all the turmoil. Among the crowds of excited, gesticulating people her name in heard constantly. She is talked of as the victim of her love for her husband and as his instrument in committing the crime which has robbed the press of a prominent writer and the French cabinet of its leading spirit.

The crowds have adopted as their own the assertion of Deputy Delahaye in the chamber that cabinet ministers nowadays send their wives to kill those obstructing their path. The excitement among the populace is worked upon by the many sensational newspapers among the 139 daily publications of Paris. These exaggerate, invent and hint at things, and the paper vendors yell the insinuations among the crowd, exciting the people still further.

South African Government Upheld

Cape Town, March 19.—The senate passed the bill to indemnify the government for its acts last January under martial law by a vote of 25 to 9.

Queen to Visit America

Sofia, March 19.—Queen Eleonora of Bulgaria, accompanied by an extensive suite, will visit the United States next May.

News Films of the Passing Show

Joseph Miller of Brockton, Mass., paid 35 cents for a blind and lame horse and wagon and found a half dollar in the wagon.

Yellow wigs will match the yellow of the "votes for women" dresses worn at a woman suffragette fete in New York, March 25, 26, 27 and 28

Hyman Schuster, a Denver tailor, prayed for a boy, while his wife prayed for a girl. She is now the mother of triplets—two boys and a girl.

Surgeons in St. Mary's hospital, Jamaica, N. Y., removed a hairpin from the stomach of Raymond Smith, aged fourteen. The boy had swallowed the hairpin a week before.

Across the ice filled Hudson Miss Maud Allison rowed a rowboat from Alpine, N. J., to Yonkers, N. Y., where her fiance, Albert G. Reichenback, was waiting to take her to the city hall for the wedding ceremony.

LIKE GABRIEL'S PITIFUL SEARCH FOR EVANGELINE.

Missionary Finds Wife After Three Year Hunt In Wilds of China.

After wandering for three years through the wildest parts of central China in search of his wife and child, Dr. George Hadden, a missionary from Ireland, tells the story of his adventures. The wife and baby were found in Hongkong.

In his hunt he covered 10,000 miles, traversed Hunan province to the border of Tibet, was pelted with clods by 2,000 semibarbarous Chinese at Kueiyangchow and had many thrilling escapes from death.

The Haddens were stationed at the mission of Yungchowfu, where Dr. Hadden was a missionary for seven years. They were separated in March, 1910, by the Shangsha riots on the Yang river, a tributary to the Yangtze river. Mrs. Hadden was carried to Hanghow, where her child was born on St. Patrick's day. Dr. Hadden was carried up the river, losing knowledge of his wife's whereabouts.

He wrote many letters, none of which brought him news of his wife, and, having no other method of travel, he walked from place to place through the great interior of the country.

When making his way across the plowed fields of Kueiyangchow the half civilized natives regarded him as a devil in flesh and blood and followed him 2,000 strong. He felt to run would be to invite destruction, so he walked calmly before the excited horde, but he admitted he walked "rather fast."

After three years of travel he finally got back to his old station in Yungchowfu and there learned that his wife was in Hongkong, where he joined her, and for the first time saw his boy, who had been named Patrick by Mrs. Hadden because he was born March 17. They went to Canton and are now going to their home in Ireland on leave of absence.

☞PRATT'S BREAD is baked for those who want good bread. Grocers sell it.

A DOCTOR IN AN EMERGENCY

Our Ever Ready Medicine Cabinet will afford immediate relief, prevent serious illness and reduce your doctor bills.

This cabinet contains carefully selected and propounded general purpose remedies, guaranteed under the pure food law, such as:

Ointments, for all aches, pains, sprains, etc.

Corn Spots for corns, bunions, callous, etc.

Laxative Tablets for headaches, bowel troubles, etc.

Pile Ointments for all kinds of piles, etc.

Bronchial Tablets for all throat and lung afflictions.

Laxative Herb Teas for liver, kidney, bowels, etc.

Cold Tablets for Lagrippe, colds, coughs, etc.

Digestive Tablets for indigestion, dyspepsia, etc.

Healing Ointments for cuts, burns, bruises, etc.

Catarrh Balm for catarrh, etc.

All safe to use with full directions and instructions as to symptoms and treatment of same.

This cabinet is a work of art and an ornament suitable for the best household. When a preparation has become exhausted the same can be duplicated.

The regular price of this cabinet is $3.00 but we are placing on the market for a short time only as an introductory offer a number of these cabinets for $1.00 each. Send now before offer is withdrawn.

THE HAMILTON DRUG CO.
Hamilton, Ohio.

HUERTA CLOSE TO LAST DITCH

Sends Personal Representative to Confer With Lind

IS IN BAD FINANCIAL STRAITS

Resumption of Exchanges Broken Off Last August Will Be In Secret—Dictator Appeals to Rich Mexicans to Supply Funds and Increase Army to Half a Milion Men

Mexico City, March 19.—Forced by the increasing seriousness of the situation in Mexico, military and financial, President Huerta at last is ready to resume negotiations with John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, which were broken off last August.

Minister of Foreign Affairs Rojas has been directed to reopen the unofficial diplomatic exchanges with Lind, and for that purpose went to Vera Cruz. Whether he will meet Lind at Vera Cruz or at some point further removed from the general public is not known.

Every effort has been made to keep the meeting a secret, and should it for any reason fail to take place, the government would be in a position to fall back upon the explanation already given—that the minister is taking the trip to celebrate Saints' day.

President Huerta summoned to the national palace sixty of the wealthiest Mexicans residing in the capital and intimated that indirect financial support would be highly agreeable in view of the vigorous campaign against the rebels which he proposes to inaugurate. He reminded them that a decree issued several months ago, calling upon owners of haciendas to equip and maintain ten men for purpose of defense, has never been complied with, and he urged them now to do this.

Such compliance would mean, according to the official figures, the maintenance of 500,000 men, as it is estimated that there are 52,000 haciendas and smaller ranches within the federal jurisdiction.

Huerta also requested these men to furnish him with horses in sufficient numbers for 120 cannon which he expected to arrive soon from Japan and Europe.

He asked their moral support, suggesting that they form a sort of military society, not for the purpose of fighting, but that insignia be worn by the members to identify them as being on the side of the government.

The report that a large number of those who mutinied recently at Jojutla had been executed is based on a verbal statement made by General Castro to the war ministers. Castro was recalled from the military governorship and reached here yesterday. The war office has no other information relative to the alleged executions.

Relative to the report of fighting north of Torreon, General Blanquet said: "Unfortunately it is not true."

Reports of Battle Doubted

El Paso, Tex., March 19.—The most thorough canvass of those in position to know military developments in the Torreon region resulted in a minimization of reports of the clashes of the federals and rebels at Escalon and Rosario.

The official tone in Juarez was optimistic, and the prediction was made that the rebel battle of Torreon lies in the future.

The report that the federals had succeeded in getting behind the rebels at Jiminez was dispelled when it was learned that official rebel reports to Chihuahua were coming by wire from a point far south of that city.

HUNT FOR $12,000,000

To Be Made by Interstate Board In a New Haven Probe

Washington, March 19.—The interstate commerce commission is to hold a new investigation into the financial operations of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

The investigation, which is made in response to a senate resolution introduced by Senator Norris of Nebraska, is designed especially to find out what became of $12,000,000 expended by the New Haven in the purchase of the New York, Westchester and Boston trolley lines, which the commission in a report made public last July declared had "vanished into thin air."

BAR AND BOTTLE LAW

Bay State Legislative Committee Votes In Favor of Its Repeal

Boston, March 19.—The committee on legislative affairs voted to report to the legislature a bill providing for the repeal of the "bar and bottle" act.

The committee's action came not only as a surprise, but caused a sensation on Beacon Hill. It will result in one of the biggest fights of the session in the legislature.

Death of David Ives

Boston, March 19.—David O. Ives, manager of the Boston chamber of commerce's transportation department and known among railroad men the country over as an expert on traffic matters, died at his home in Brookline. He had been suffering for several months from a nervous breakdown. His wife, a son and a daughter survive him. He was 55 years old.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

"THE SECRET OF SUCCESS IS TO BE READY FOR ONE'S OPPORTUNITIES"—DICKENS.

It is not enough to know an opportunity when you see it; you must be prepared to grasp it and make it your own.

Moral: A Bank account helps you to be ready for opportunities.

Our $5 Box Is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

Houghton & Dutton Co
It pays to pay Cash
NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST CASH HOUSE
Beacon and Tremont Streets—BOSTON

Announcing to the Women of this City

An Overstock Sale Of Imported LINENS

Matchless Bargains

An enormous purchase by our own buyer, who visited the great mills of Ireland and Scotland, purchasing direct, and holding goods for shipment, until the new tariff regulations placed the entire lot in our hands at the lowest possible cost. Now we are overstocked and

We will sell these Linens at much less than our regular low prices.

Our 79c Table Damask—All Linen, 68 inches wide, full bleached, and extra heavy. Various patterns. These goods are often sold at 89c and 98c. Our price, 59c per yard... 59c

Napkins to match, 22-inch size, usually $2.50 per dozen. Our price.....1.79

Our 79c Table Damask—All linen cream damask, 70 inches wide, extra heavy quality and several handsome patterns. A cloth that you will have difficulty in duplicating at less than 79c. Our price, 59c per yard..... 59c

Our $1.10 Double Damask—All linen, full 70 inches wide, and extra heavy. A very beautiful quality in a wide range of patterns. Our price, 86c per yard..... 86c

Napkins to match, 24-inch size, usually $3.50 per dozen. Our price.....2.79

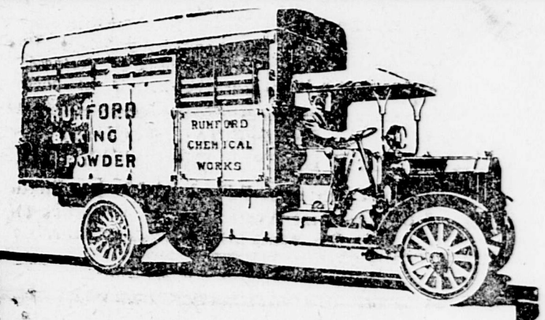
2.50 Pattern Table Cloths—Size 68x72. Purchased by our own representative in Ireland, and we doubt very much if they can be duplicated anywhere in Boston at our price. Special for this sale at..... 1.89

Napkins to match, 22-inch size, usually $3.25 per dozen Our price.....2.59

$6.00 Hemstitched Sets—Made in Germany. One cloth, size 60x78 inches, and one dozen hemstitched napkins to match. This set complete for..... 3.98

$3.50 Pattern Cloths—All linen, double damask, size 2x2½ yards, made for service and quality. Real Irish made, combining service and quality. Our price..... 2.39

STREET FLOOR



MONEY-SAVING PEERLESS TRUCKS

During the week of the Boston Truck Show, March 17th to 21st, we will exhibit Peerless trucks only in our salesroom, where we have unexcelled facilities for showing the various models and the quality of our product to prospective customers.

Peerless

An invitation is cordially extended to everyone to inspect our service station. We want you to become acquainted with our excellent facilities for taking care of trucks

Peerless Motor Car Co. of N.E.
660 BEACON STREET, BOSTON

THE EDUCATIONAL FIELD

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY
HIGH SCHOOL PUBLIC SCHOOLS
WOODWARD INSTITUTE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

The advance in book illustration during the past thirty years is well known to every reader. Not only is much of the fiction on the market today illustrated in color, but publishers are more and more striving to make their non-fiction equally attractive to the public.

In London, Charles and Adam Black have published a beautifully illustrated set of books on English cities, and in America, a similar good work has been undertaken by the Dana Estes Company of Boston.

The patrons of the Thomas Crane Public Library who appreciate good reading and artistic illustration, will find keen enjoyment in this new set of books which has just been added to its non-fiction shelves.

"Beautiful England" is the first set to be completed by the Estes Company. It includes York, Chester, Hereford, Exeter, Dickens-land, Norwalk and the Broads, Isle of Wight, Cornish, Riviera, New Forest, Hampton Court, the Dukeries, Cambridge, Dartmoor, the Peak District, the Heart of Wessex, the Thames, the English Lakes, Winchester and Windsor Castle.

"Beautiful Ireland," which follows the first set, covers Munster, Leinster, Ulster and Connaught.

Of the third series, "Beautiful Switzerland," only Chamonix and Lucerne have so far appeared.

Each book is attractively bound, exquisitely illustrated with colored plates, the greater part from landscapes by E. W. Haslehust, and the paper and print of the books are decidedly good. The subject matter is an interesting mixture of history and travel, and these small volumes should prove popular among the Library's readers.

* * *

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The following recommendations in form of a letter from United States Commissioner Claxton will be of interest to all persons interested in schools. It so hapens that his suggestions corroborate the Report of the Committee on Economy of Time in Education recently issued by the National Educational Association, and discussed at the recent meeting in Richmond. The sugested plan has many advantages and few apparent drawbacks. It would undoubtedly lead to a longer schooling for many pupils, and would probably be no more expensive than the present plan of secondary education. The plan is already being tried in several western communities and is being watched with interest.

In answer to an inquiry Commissioner Claxton states his position on the so-called "six-and-six" plan, as follows:

The reasons for grouping the twelve years of elementary and secondary schooling into six years of elementary and six years of high school are very numerous. I know no valid reason for the present plan of eight and four. My suggestion is that there should be six years of elementary school and six years of high school, the high school period being divided into two sections of three years each; the first three years might be called junior high school, the second three years senior high school. There are some of the reasons:

1. The beginning of the adolescent period comes for most children between the ages of twelve and thirteen. Children entering school at six years and attending regularly, finish the sixth grade at this time. This, the beginning of adolescense, marks the transition from childhood to youth.

2. Any careful study of schools in varius parts of the country will reveal the fact that children now mark time to a large extent through the seventh and eighth grades. This is especially true where the methods of the elementary schools are carried through these and the children are taught by women grade teachers. With a sixth-year elementary school it would be easily possible to promote the teachers with the children from grade to grade, thus gaining the large value that comes from teachers and children remaining together until the teacher knows the needs of the children, their strength, their weakness, and can build intelligently on all the work of previous years.

3. Beginning the high school with the seventh grade will make much easier the departmental work which should begin at least this low down. It will also make it much easier to begin work in such high-school subjects as foreign languages, constructive geometry, and real literature, at this point where they should be begun The study of languages, especially of modern languages, should be begun in a practical way before children have passed the time when they can learn in this way. This plan will also make it possible to introduce manual training, domestic science, and various forms of vocational work two years earlier than they are now begun. It is easy to see the advantage of this.

4. Our secondary school work is now at a great disadvantage as compared with the work done in the Gymnasien and Realschulen in Germany, the Lycees of France, and the so-called public schools of England. By giving six years to the high school, the boys and girls who go to college may easily have, on admission to college, a much larger amount of mathematics, languages, and other subjects than they now have. I feel quite sure that by an arrangement of this kind and a little more care in the preparation and selection of teachers you may gain for most children two years in the twelve.

5 The division of the high school into two sections of three years each will make easier a second differentiation of work at the end of the first three high-schol years.

6. At present only about one-fourth of the children enter the high school. The compulsory school age in most States corresponds quite closely with the elementary school period. Parents and children are thereby confirmed in the idea that the elementary education is all that is needed. Besides, the break between the elementary school and the high school at this time suggests leaving school and makes it easier. If the break came at twelve or thirteen the great majority of children would be in the high school doing high school work under high school conditions, when reaching the limit of the compulsory attendance age. For this reason, I believe a much larger number of them would remain for more high school work than now enter the high school.

In many towns and in some cities the high school buildings are now so few that many children must live inconvenient distances from them. The plan suggested would justify more high school buildings and thus make them more convenient to all children.

HIGH SCHOOL CONCERT.

The High School musical organizations will give a concert the latter part of May, the exact date, not yet being fixed. It may be safely said in advance that the public who hear this concert will realize how efficiently music is being taught in the public schools. It will be well worth the patronage of the music loving public.

CHICHESTER S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-che-ster's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, City Square
Tel. Quincy 1745 W. March 16-6t

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy. Feb. 27-tf

Sprains and cuts call for quick treatment.
JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
Should be always at hand. Taken internally it relieves Coughs, Colds, Cramps, Sore Throat, Bowel Troubles.
IN USE 103 YEARS
25c and 50c Everywhere
Parsons' Pills
the best laxative
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc.
Boston, Mass.

FOLK DANCES AT ATLANTIC

Meeting of the Parents and Teachers Association

The Parents and Teachers Association met in Quincy School assembly hall, Wednesday evening. Every seat in the hall was taken, so that many had to stand during the exercises. President, William F. Cummings introduced Dr. J. Gardner Smith who addressed the Association, his topic being "Physical culture in the public schools." Dr. Smith's lecture was very instructive. He showed how physical culture develops healthy bodies which in turn develop healthy minds.

During the evening two piano duets were rendered, the first by Margaret Gallagher and Madeline Coulson, and the second by Sybil Hobbs and Eleanor Phillips.

After this followed a demonstration of physical culture as it is taught in the schools in the different grades. From the first to the eighth grades the work showed the perfection of their training and was well executed.

Special mention should be given to the folk dances under the direction o Miss Mabel Lovejoy. They were mosably executed and nothing but words of commendation were heard on every side.

Before dismissal the motion was carried, that an attempt be made to procure a supervised playground for this ward, and to that end the following committee were appointed by the president:—Charles E. Cherrington, Mrs. Frank Emery and H. F. Mosses.

The next meeting will be the annual meeting when election of officers for the ensuing year occurs. The president appointed a nominating committee consisting of Herbert G. Beeman, Mrs. Charles J. O'Malley and George Bean who will report at that time.

FOR WHAT IS SCHOOL USED?

Federal Bureau to Study the Social Center Movement.

The federal bureau of education is undertaking, with the aid of the Russell Sage foundation, a most extensive investigation into the wider use of schools, especially the social center idea as it has been developed in Kansas City.

Commissioner Claxton, head of the bureau, has sent out more than 1,500 letters to school superintendents in towns or cities of more than 4,000 population asking for a complete record of all after school uses for the buildings during the months of February March and April. These blanks when filled out will be returned to the bureau of education for use in compiling the most complete report yet made on the subject of the use of school buildings.

The department of education is a strong advocate of the use of the schools as social centers and for public meetings and lectures. It hopes by gathering the different plans followed throughout the nation in making the school buildings more useful each city can get new ideas from the report that will be issued.

MICE HABITS HIS DEFENSE.

Doctor Relies on Natural History to Defeat Claims of His Valet.

Dr. E. Doyen of Paris is being sued by a former valet named Pignol for $210, representing, so Pignol says, advances made to the doctor for traveling expenses and amounts disbursed for the upkeep of 500 white mice, 100 white rats, 90 guinea pigs and 100 rabbits.

The doctor asserts that Pignol has greatly exaggerated the number of animals in his charge.

Dr. Doyen's argument throws an interesting light on the habits of white mice. It appears that white mice can only be kept in batches of four. If a fifth is introduced the intruder is devoured instantly.

Moreover the mother mouse is of so nervous a temperament that if the cage is touched or even looked at during the first days of her maternity she promptly eats the little ones.

Dr. Doyen argues that because of the peculiar habits of white mice it would be quite impossible for Pignol to keep 500 of them in the small space at his disposal.

TURNS HEN INTO ROOSTER.

That the sexes are not so definitely separated as has been assumed has been demonstrated by Professor Pesard of Paris, who, by means of grafting, succeeded in changing the characteristics of a rooster and a hen. The rooster, which is now living a normal existence, has lost his brilliant plumage, spurs and comb, while the hen has developed all those features.

FARM SCHOOL AT THOMPSONS

Will Observe Centennial This Week Saturday

The Farm and Trades School, located on Thompson's Island in Boston Harbor, off Squantum, which is a private school for worthy boys, will celebrate the hundredth anniversary of its incorporation on Saturday, March 21. There will be a public meeting on that day at 3.30 o'clock in the Old South Church, corner of Boylston and Dartmouth streets, Boston. President Lowell, of Harvard University, Bishop Lawrence, Charles Evans, secretary and librarian of the Chicago Historical Society, who left the School in 1866, and Superintendent Charles H. Bradley, of the school, will speak on that occasion.

Thompson's Island is about three miles fro mthe foot of State street, about a mile from City Point, and the southerly end of the Island is about 1,200 feet from Squantum. The Island is about a mile west of the main ship channel. It contains 157 acres, and by far the largest amount is allotted to the farm, comprising both arable and grazing land, which affords an opportunity for the boys to acquire a practical knowledge of farming. There is a large orchard and several large groves. There are also playing fields for foot-ball, base-ball, hockey and other games.

The Farm and Trades School receives boys not less than ten nor more than fourteen years of age. They must be of good moral character, in fair physical condition, and not lower than the sixth grade in the grammar school. An unfortunate impression has prevailed in recent years that the school was a correctionary institution. It is far removed from that. Only boys whose recommendations are satisfactory are received at the school, and if on trial a boy proves to be unfitted he is not allowed to remain. The parents, guardians or friends of the boys are asked to contribute something toward their support if they are able, but boys are not rejected on account of the inability of their parents or friends to contribute toward their support. In fact, about half of the boys now in the school are cared for without pecuniary assistance from parents or guardians.

The boys attend school half a day and are employed at industrial work the other half. They are taught mechanical drawing, cabinet work, wood turning, carpentry, blacksmithing, machine work in metal, printing, painting, cobbling, office work, farming, the handling of boats, and household duties. The practical application of all these is a most important phase in the instruction at this School. In the lower classes the course includes the usual grammar school studies. In the upper classes, United States history, general history and physiology are gradually added to the course. All classes are taught to do brush and pencil drawing from nature, drawing from memory and imagination and perspective light and shade and water color. In each class literature has an important place. All the boys are taught class singing, the elements of music and staff notation. Sloyd is the basis of the mechanical teaching in the School and in the three upper grades there is practical study of meteorology.

Farming is a fundamental in the course of study at the School. The farm takes an important place in the life of the School. In agriculture the aim of the School is to give every boy a definite and practical knowledge of the subject and to impress the truth agriculture, besides being the most independent of all occupations, is more remunerative than many others for those who are industrious, intelligent and well trained. The technical side of agriculture is presented to the pupils by lectures and experiments both in class room and on the farm. They learn by practical field lessons the preparation of the soil, planting the seed, cultivation, harvesting, rotation of crops, and setting out and caring for all kinds of shrubs and trees, including practical demonstrations in the mixing of chemicals for fertilizers. The use of farm machinery and tools, the care and management of animals and all other farm work is practically taught.

To encourage and promote thrift among the boys, there is a bank and a trading company. At the present time every boy in the School has money in The Farm and Trades School Bank.

Since March 15, 1888, the school has been under the direct charge of Charles H. Bradley. In the more than twenty-five years that he and Mrs. Bradley have directed the school his genius as an administrator has been freely acknowledged by the managers and he has been recognized in the field of education, and in the peculiar field of the direction and administration in this school, as a man possessing unique qualifications and capabilities. Norwich University of Vermont, his native State, has definitely recognized his work as an educator by conferring on him, in 1911, the honorary degree of master of arts.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

A committee of jurors at the Norfolk Superior Court at Dedham placed huge bouquets of pinks and roses on the Judge's bench, and desks, Clerk of Court Louis A. Cook and Sheriff Samuel Capen, Tuesday, in commemoration of St. Patrick's day. The flowers were the gifts of the jurors who have been sitting the past 12 weeks.

John A. Kiggen, of Hyde Park, was unanimously elected president of the Charitable Irish Society at the 177th annual meeting in Young's hotel, Boston. He is well known here. Patrick H. Crowley of the same town was elected vice president.

Ann Jane Dyer, widow of Henry Dyer, died at 518 Main street, South Weymouth, the home of H. W. Dyer, Tuesday, in her 89th year.

The annual senior class dramatics of the Canton High school was a three act comedy, "Lost, a Chaperon." It was under the direction of Dr. C. I. Porter and the proceeds will be added to the Washington fund.

TELEPHONE ACHIEVEMENTS

TELEPHONE SERVICE OF TO-DAY THE CREATION OF THE BELL SYSTEM

In no line of human endeavor has the inventive brain of the scientist contributed more to the world's progress than by the creation of the art of telephony, of which the Bell system is the embodiment.

When the telephone was born, nothing analogous to telephone service as we now know it existed. There was no tradition to guide, no experience to follow..

The system, the apparatus, the methods—an entire new art had to be created. The art of electrical engineering did not exist. The Bell pioneers, recognizing that success depended upon the highest engineering and technical skill at once organized an experimental and research department which is now directed by a staff of over 550 engineers and scientists, including former professors, post-graduate students, scientific investigators—the graduates of over 70 universities.

From its foundation the company has continuously developed the art, New improvements in telephones, switchboards, lines, cables, have followed one another with remarkable rapidity.

While each successive type of apparatus to the superficial observer suggested similarity, each step in the evolution marked a decided improvement. These changes, this evolution, has not only been continuous, but is continuing. Substantially all of the plant now in use, including telephones, switchboards, cables and wires, has been constructed, renewed or reconstructed in the past 10 years.

Particularly in switchboards have the changes been so radical that installations costing in the aggregate millions have frequently been discarded after only a few years of use.

Since 1877 there have been introduced 53 types and styles of receivers and 73 types and styles of transmitters. Of the 12,000,000 telephone receivers and transmitters owned by the Bell Company January 1, 1914, none were in use prior to 1902, while the average age is less than five years.

Within 10 years we have expended for construction and reconstruction an amount more than equal to the present book value of our entire plant.

Long-distance and underground transmission was the most formidable scientific problem confronting the telephone experts.

The retarding effect of the earth on the telephone current often impaired conversation through one mile underground as much as through 100 miles overhead. Overhead conversation had its distinct limitations.

No possible improvement in the telephone transmitter could of itself solve these difficulties.

The solution was only found in the cumulative effect of improvements, great and small, in telephone, transmitter, line, cable, switchboard, and every other piece of apparatus or plant required in the transmission of speech.

While the limit of commercial overhead talking had increased from strictly local to over 1,000 miles as early as 1893, it was not until 1905 that conversation could be had over long-distance circuits of which as much as 900 miles was in underground cables. By 1906 underground talking distance had increased to 90 miles. By 1912 it was possible to talk underground from New York to Washington.

It was then that the construction of underground conduits from Boston to Washington was determined upon,—not that it was expected to get a through underground talk between those places, but in case of storm or blizzard to utilize intermediate sections in connection with the overhead.

Our persistent study and incessant experimentation have produced results more remarkable still.

We have perfected cables, apparatus and methods that have overcome obstacles heretofore regarded as insuperable both to long-distance overhead and underground conversation.

Underground conversation is now possible between Boston and Washington, four times the length of the longest European underground line. This enabled the Bell System in the recent great storm, so destructive on land and sea, to maintain communication for the public between all the principal points on the Atlantic seaboard.

Telephone communication is established between New York and Denver, is potentially possible between all points in the United States, and by 1915 will be an accomplished fact between New York and San Francisco.

In our use of methods or apparatus, we are committed to no one system. We own, control or have the right to use inventions necessary to operate any system recognized or accepted as the most efficient. The Bell System must always recognize, and in its selection must always be governed by the necessities of a national service, with its complex requirements, which is infinitely more exacting than local or limited service.

These achievements represent vast expenditures of money and immense concentration of effort which have been justified by results of immeasurable benefit to the public. No local company unaided could bear the financial or scientific burden of this work. Such results are possible only through a centralized general staff, avoiding wasteful duplication of effort, working out problems common to all, for the benefit of all.

The pioneers of the Bell System recognized that telephone service as they saw it, was in the broadest sense a public utility; that upon them rested a public obligation to give the best possible service at the most reasonable rates consistent with risk, investment and the continued improvement and maintenance of its property.

Without this expenditure of millions and concentration of effort, the telephone art as it exists could not have been developed.

What we have done in working out these great problems in the past should be accepted as a guarantee of what we will do in the future.

THEO. N. VAIL, President.
19-1t

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.
Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.
Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.
18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY
Agent for FORD and CASE CARS
A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock
Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.
For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

IS NEWSY EVERY DAY
.THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
IS NEWSY EVERY DAY

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity.
Friday fair and colder. Saturday fair.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.48
Sun sets	5.56
Length of day	12.08
Moon sets	7.23
High water, A. M.	6.00
High water, P. M.	7.00
Days increase 3 hours,	2 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	43 degrees
Mar. 18, 1913,	64 degrees
Mar. 18, 1912,	60 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

TEAM B. WINS.

Great excitement was created by the match between teams composed of clerks at the Adams market of R. E. Foy & Co. Team B beat Team A by nearly 100 pins.

TEAM B.

Carl Mattson	71	65	89	225
Wm. Mc Granie	86	95	84	265
Ben Johnson	74	76	76	226
Dick Tinney	73	82	86	241
C. D. Taylor	76	76	71	223
	380	394	406	1180

TEAM A

B. R. McQuinn	68	83	61	212
Geo. Walsh	57	56	42	155
Edw. Wolf	63	69	78	210
Frank Foy	91	83	86	260
Geo. Guston	81	83	81	245
	360	374	348	1082

ODD FELLOWSHIP BOOMING.

Twelve candidates from Mount Wollaston lodge, and four candidates from John Hancock lodge, received the first degree of Odd Fellowship on Wednesday evening at Wollaston, the first degree staff of John Hancock lodge giving an excellent exemplification of the work. Joseph Pickering is the degree master and Past Grand George C. Ela officiated as noble grand. They have the active co-operation of all the members, and the degree staff enters keenly into the spirit of the occasion. At the request of Crescent lodge of Weymouth one of the John Hancock was initiated at Weymouth last week. John Hancock is gaining fast in membership and puts into practice the principles of Odd Fellowship.

FRATERNAL VISIT.

Quincy commandery, Knights Templars, will pay a fraternal visit to De-Molay commandery of Boston, of which Edward E. Jameson of Wollaston is the eminent commander, next Wednesday evening. The sir knights of Quincy commandery will make the trip in a special electric car which will leave early in the evening. An enjoyable evening is assured those who participate in the visitation.

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

HOXIE TEAM MAKES GAIN

Other Matches in Tennis Club League Split Even

The Wollaston Tennis Club league matches at the Coliseum alleys Wednesday night were not as fast as expected, and Jenner was the only man who tripled. His team beat Captain Hoxie's 4 to 0.

CAPT. JENNER.

Oldham	90	82	79	251
Barker	76	78	87	241
Ela	94	85	85	264
Raymond	105	86	87	278
Jenner	103	102	101	306
	468	433	439	1340

CAPT. HOXIE.

W. Smith	91	84	75	250
Albee	83	82	73	238
Bartlett	74	86	90	250
Hilman	86	86	86	258
Hoxie	83	85	97	265
	417	423	421	1261

The team of Captains Green and Litchfield divided the points, the former winning the rolloff because of the tie in the total.

CAPT. GREEN.

Murray	86	84	75	245
Hiller	74	71	75	220
Raymond	66	79	83	228
Brown	72	84	104	260
Green	84	111	95	290
	382	429	432	1243

CAPT. LITCHFIELD.

Geddes	87	90	84	261
Nickerson	92	88	82	262
Cranshaw	58	71	72	201
Crossley	82	96	83	261
Litchfield	86	91	81	258
	405	436	402	1243

Captain Baker's team and Captain Munroe's also split, two points apiece.

CAPT. BAKER.

Powers	74	99	87	260
Hutton	78	89	67	234
Carr	85	73	66	224
Estes	80	97	106	283
C. Baker	94	100	97	291
	411	458	423	1292

CAPT. MONROE.

Baker	72	77	89	238
Smith	81	84	100	265
Nelson	92	80	69	241
Gardner	81	81	81	243
Monroe	90	90	90	270
	416	412	429	1257

DAVIS CLASS 4 CLARK CLASS 0

Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. bowling alleys the Davis class defeated the Clark class to the tune of 1148 to 1040, winning four points.

Duffin of the Davis class was awarded the high single string with 93 pins, and the high three strings with a total of 264. Sedgwick, substituting for the Clarks, did very well, and no doubt would have done better had it not been for the foul line and his first appearance with the team. Neal was a close second to Duffin of Davis class and both did good work for their respective team. French excelled for the losers.

the score:

DAVIS CLASS.

Smith	88	80	63	221
McDonald	63	75	57	195
Duffin	88	83	93	264
Neal	83	74	86	263
Beaulieu	74	71	60	205
	399	383	359	1148

CLARK CLASS.

French	72	77	73	222
Kemp	67	69	68	204
McLay	56	62	74	192
Sedgwick	75	70	68	213
Sherley	61	75	73	209
	331	353	356	1040

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

MY SLOGAN
for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

PREACHER USES HIS FISTS

Knocks Out Husky Fellow Who Starts to Beat Up a Cripple

New York, March 19.—Rev. I. W. Henderson, pastor of the Sands Street Memorial M. E. church, Brooklyn, gave a thorough drubbing to a husky traveling salesman from Schenectady when the latter tried to bully a cripple from Danbury.

It was a lively fight, and when the traveling salesman was arrested and taken to court he had a black eye, a bleeding mouth and several bruises on his face, all produced by the powerful fists of the preacher.

John Stern, the salesman, and James Brennan, a one-legged hatter, got into an argument in the baggage room of the Grand Central station over the ownership of a satchel. Brennan had it in his hand, but Stern claimed it as his own. Because Brennan refused to hand it over, he started to beat up the one-legged man.

Henderson chanced to be in the baggage room. He took one glance at the unequal combat and sailed in.

HOUSE RIDDLED BY ROCK

Blast From Ledge Musses Things Up to the Extent of $2500

Southbridge, Mass., March 19.—A ton of heavy rock, blasted from a ledge that stood in the path of the construction of the Southern New England railroad in the suburbs, practically riddled the home of Eugene Suprener and caused damage of about $2500.

A 300 pound rock was catapulted through the roof of the house and landed in a bed on the upper floor. Another rock went through the side of the house against a refrigerator on the far side of the room. A third entered the parlor through the window and was stopped by the piano, which it practically demolished. Six windows and three doors were smashed.

The trolley wires over the street through which runs the Springfield and Worcester Street railway were torn down and traffic was delayed two hours.

"SUFFRAGETTE" IS SLANDEROUS TERM

Woman Convicted and Fined In a German Court

Cologne, March 19.—For calling a woman school principal a "suffragette," the wife of a physician in a neighboring village was convicted and fined on a charge of slander.

The offense was committed in the course of a quarrel over the punishment by the school principal of the physician's daughter.

The complainant, in supporting the charge before the court, argued that the suffragettes had shown themselves to be scarcely normal. Educated people, he said, were enraged against them owing to their outrages, and nobody would entrust children to her if she were a suffragette.

RIOTING IN LIMA

Demonstration Against Leguia In the Capital of Peru

Lima, March 19.—Over twenty people were wounded in the streets of Lima during a demonstration in front of the residence of Robert E. Leguia, vice president of the republic, who returned here to take over the succession of the exiled president, Billinghurst. The people shouted denunciations of Leguia and several shots were fired. The mounted police thereupon charged the crowd.

Double guards of police are on duty throughout the city and Leguia's residence was placed under strong protection.

VOTE TO REMAIN OUT

Print Mill Employes Keep Big Lawrence Plant Tied Up

Lawrence, Mass., March 19.—The 250 employes of the Pacific mills print works who have tied up the plant by their strike for an increase in wages from 14½ to 17 cents per hour voted to remain out until their demands are granted.

Charles G. Wood of the state board of conciliation and arbitration and the industrial committee of the chamber of commerce are endeavoring to bring about further conferences between the strikers and their employers.

GETS AWAY WITH $14,000

Lone Robber Holds Up Messenger on a Train In Texas

Beaumont, Tex., March 19.—A lone robber held up the express messenger on a Santa Fe railroad train near here and is reported to have secured $14,000.

Deputy sheriffs and policemen from Beaumont started in pursuit of the robber, who was said to have disappeared in a thickly wooded country. The $14,000 was being sent by a Beaumont lumber company to Browndell for payroll use.

Woman Loops the Loop In Air

London, March 19.—Miss Nelly Hozier looped the loop four times with Gustav Hamel, the aviator, at Hendon. Miss Hozier was in the air ten minutes.

Ten Go Down With Steamer

Bilbao, Spain, March 19.—The Swedish steamer Terhild foundered with a loss of ten lives. The Terhild was built in 1877.

STORY OF THE ROKEBY VENUS

Painting Suffragette Slashed Has Interesting History.

COVETED BY AMERICANS.

Fear That England Would Lose Velasquez Masterpiece Led to Public Subscription to Keep It—Acquired by National Gallery Seven Years Ago. Genuineness Once Disputed.

The slashing of the Rokeby Venus by an English suffragette centers world interest upon this wonderful painting.

The Rokeby Venus took its name from Rokeby hall, in Yorkshire, where it hung for many years before it was brought to London. The painting shows Venus half reclining before a mirror. At the time the painting was brought to the national gallery in London, about seven years ago, several Americans tried to buy it. The national gallery had to pay what was then considered an enormous sum to retain the painting in England.

In 1906 the picture was sold under an order of the court of chancery for $150,000 to Messrs. Agnew & Sons, and an outcry was started that America was after the Velasquez. A sum of $225,000 was raised by public subscription and the painting was obtained for the national gallery. When, in April, 1339 a doubt as to its genuineness was set on foot by a critic in the Morning Post Lord Balcarres, who had charge of the fund, announced that he had a standing offer from an art collector to buy the picture for $275,000. It was said at the time the offer came from an American. The genuineness of the masterpiece was soon afterward established to the satisfaction of all art critics.

The painting is one of the very few works of Velasquez which depict the nude human figure. The Spanish inquisition prescribed a fine of 1,500 ducats, excommunication and a year's exile for any one who painted an "immodest picture." In the later years of his life Velasquez painted two pictures of the woman depicted in this painting. One of them was called "Venus and Adonis" and the other "Psyche and Cupid." Both were listed among the pictures in the Alcazar at Madrid in 1666, 1686 and 1700 and then disappeared.

Charles B. Curtis in his book "Velasquez and Murillo" suggests that both paintings were in the palace at Madrid when it was burned in 1734, that "Venus and Adonis" was destroyed and that "Psyche and Cupid" survived and was the painting which eventually fell into the hands of Robert Morritt of Rokeby Park, in Yorkshire, and came to be known as the Rokeby "Venus." There is a black spot near the head of Cupid which has been attributed to scorching in the fire.

Mr. Morritt bought the picture for $2,500 on the recommendation of Sir Joshua Reynolds.

Miss May Richardson, the suffragette who mutilated the valuable canvas, was arrested on July 4 last for dropping a petition in the lap of King George while he was driving through Bristol. She served three months for that. The moment she was released she went to Hampton and was arrested there with Miss Rachel Pearce, charged with setting fire to the former home of Chancellor Tristram. Miss Richardson was sentenced to jail for four months, but would take no food and was set free when physicians said she had appendicitis.

—In the city of Boston, with a total white population of 655,696, the English and Celtic (including Irish, Scotch, or Welsh) number 311,810, or 42 per cent. Yiddish or Hebrew, 57,072, or 9 per cent; Italian 50,296, or 8 per cent; German 26,566, or 4 per cent; Slavic and Lettic, 13,161, or 2 per cent; Swedish, 12,067, or 2 per cent; and the French 9,240, or 1.4 per cent.

CRYING FOR HELP

Lots of It in Quincy But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys often cry for help.
Not another organ in the whole body more delicately constructed;
Not one more important to health.
The kidneys are the filters of the blood.
When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous.
There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.
Backache is one of the frequent indications of kidney trouble.
It is often the kidney's cry for help. Heed it.
Read what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for overworked kidneys.
Read what Doan's have done for Quincy people.
Mrs. Fred Curtis, 18 Quarry street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and weak kidneys. One box has always relieved me. They have also been used by another of my family with pleasing results. I am glad to confirm the endorsement I have given Doan's Kidney Pills before."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WILSON BOWS TO GREAT BRITAIN

Charge of Jones In Attack on Panama Tolls Repeal

MAKES A STRENUOUS PROTEST

Objects to What He Considers Price For Non-Interference In Mexico by Foreign Powers—Wants to Know What "Delicate Matters" Demand the "Humiliation" Put Upon Us

Washington, March 19.—The broad charge that President Wilson determined to ask congress to repeal the Panama canal tolls exemption as a consequence of his recent conference with Sir Lionel Carden, British minister to Mexico, and that the president's action was the culmination of negotiations with Great Britain for the preservation of the Monroe doctrine, threatened by the Mexican situation, was made in the senate by Senator Jones, Rep., of Washington. He was speaking on his pending resolution calling on the president for full information on the tolls controversy.

Jones intimated that a repeal of the tolls exemption was the price of non-interference in Mexico by other foreign powers. He further declared "it is reported as one of the conditions that Great Britain will seek reparation on its losses through confederate bonds issued during the Civil war, by a plan sanctioned by this government, under which, if successfully applied, the burden of reparation will fall upon the southern states." For that report, Jones maintained, developments had shown there was a basis.

"What is the foreign policy that requires such humiliating, cowardly, craven action on our part?" the senator demanded. "What are the delicate matters that demand this humiliation, this price? Have we become so inert, so weak, so supine, so servile that the Monroe doctrine must be sustained and invigorated by the very powers against which it was involved?

"Are we so weak, or so entangled in the meshes of our own diplomacy that the demands of England based upon the selfish interests of the Canadian Pacific Railway company must be granted, right or wrong? Have any nations besides England objected to the legislation it is proposed to repeal? These are questions that must be answered to the satisfaction of the American people."

Jones quoted from President Wilson's pre-election speeches in an attempt to show that the chief executive then favored the exemptions. Jones argued that a repeal would be a "great economic blunder," that it would "benefit the Canadian Pacific railroad, Canadian interests and the transcontinental railroad lines and no others, and injure more or less every other interest in this country. He contended that the exemption contravened no treaty obligations either in letter or in spirit, and, therefore, no question of national honor was involved.

FIRST OF ITS KIND

Court For Dealing Exclusively With Boys Opens In Chicago

Chicago, March 19.—Chicago's boys court, said to be the first tribunal of its kind in the world, was opened as a branch of the municipal judicial system.

The court will deal with cases of boys between 17 and 21 years of age. Its object is to keep the boys from contact with mature criminals and to give their cases sympathetic consideration.

It is said that nearly 3000 boys will be tried in this court every year. The opening of this court was made the occasion of a celebration by church, social and philanthropic workers.

KAISER'S SIXTH GRANDSON

Son Is Born to Only Daughter of the Ruler of Germany

Berlin, March 19.—Kaiser Wilhelm was presented with a sixth grandson when a son was born to the Duchess of Brunswick, who was Victoria Louise of Hohenzollern, his only daughter.

Princess Victoria Louise and Prince Ernest August of Cumberland were married May 24, 1913. The prince became the Duke of Brunswick last November.

Of the six grandchildren now in the kaiser's family, all are boys.

Constable's Slayer Lynched

Fayette, Mo., March 19.—Dallas Shields, negro barber, shot and killed Constable Gaines while he was trying to the arrest the negro for terrorizing a railroad yard. An hour after Shields was locked up a mob dragged him from the jail and lynched him.

Divorce Granted Minister's Wife

Boston, March 19.—Rev. James P. Chadbourne, former pastor of the Parkman Street M. E. church, figured in the divorce court as libelee in an action brought by his wife. The divorce was granted on the ground of desertion.

Courtesy at the Pawnshop.

"You go first, Frau Meier. I can wait."

"Thanks. I'd have you know I'm in no more hurry for my money than you."—Fliegende Blatter.

10,000 to 15,000 Readers Daily

Quincy, Mass., March 16, 1914.

To the Merchants of Quincy and others:

This is to certify that over 2,000 copies of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER have been printed and circulated every issue since January 1, 1914; and averaged much higher, as many days 2,500 to 3,500 copies have been printed and circulated. This gives the Quincy Daily Ledger from 10,000 to 15,000 READERS EVERY DAY.

(Signed) FRANK F. PRESCOTT,
Managing Editor.

Then personally appeared before me this Sixteenth day of March, 1914, the said Frank F. Prescott, managing editor of the Quincy Daily Ledger, and made oath that the statements above are true.

(Notary) CLARENCE BURGIN,
(Seal) Notary Public.

A CHALLENGE

The publishers of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER hereby challenge any other Quincy publication daily or weekly to take oath to the number of copies they print and circulate each and every issue; and call their attention to the law relative to fraudulent advertising when they make claims they cannot verify.

We invite the merchants to send a representative to the Ledger Office each afternoon to see the edition run off; to see how it is circulated and verify our statements, and we challenge other newspapers to do the same. We also ask the merchants to visit the newstands in Quincy and Boston, and see if the Ledger does not sell ten to one of any Quincy newspaper.

George W. Prescott Publishing Co.
Quincy, March 16, 1914.

BY COMPARISON

If flyers distributed from house to house average one reader each, they do exceedingly well; but allowing this high average, 10,000 flyers would have LESS READERS than any one issue of the Quincy Daily Ledger. Have you thought of it in this light?

WE ALSO CLAIM

That no newspaper in Massachusetts does as much for the community in which it is printed and for the support that it receives from the local merchants, as the DAILY LEDGER, a newspaper which is alive, which is newsy, which has a record back of it of seventy-five years of clean journalism; a newspaper too self-respecting to enter the ranks of yellow journalism or use blackmail tactics to get business. If a corporation or merchant does not advertise in the Ledger he runs no risk of abuse in the editorial columns. If you see advertisements in other papers and not in the Ledger "there's a reason" but it is to the credit of the Ledger.

Ledger advertisements bring returns, but the newspaper cannot do it all, the merchants have got to stand back of their advertisement and deliver the goods. Their advertisement, same as their word, has got to mean something to the buying public.

Look at Quincy's largest and most successful merchant Henry L. Kincaide, another Robert E. Foy,—men who have always advertised, men who ask no favors, and meet their obligations promptly. A little of their broadness would do wonders for some of our merchants who think they do not need advertising; cannot afford to advertise, or are not advertising where they will get returns on their investment. In no way can the Quincy merchants get quicker or more substantial returns for a small outlay of money than by an advertisement in the DAILY LEDGER, yet they will spend 50, 35, or 25 cents an inch on advertising in papers that cannot back up their circulation claims. These same advertisements could be inserted in the Ledger for 25, 20 or 15 cents per inch with circulation guaranteed.

We have refrained from newspaper controversy heretofore believing the Ledger's record speaks for it self—a record of steady reliable growth from year to year; a paper with reliable people back of it—a paper well equipped to do business—a paper that meets its moral and financial obligations to the minute, need ask no favors of sheets that it does not even consider in the light of competitors. Their misinterpretation, and false statements are hardly worth noticing as they seem too much like a little dog trying to harry a St. Bernard and barking louder and louder when all its noise has no effect.

The DAILY LEDGER is working continually in season and out for the best interests of Quincy; to make the city prosper; to foster industries and encourage home trade; to build up our churches, the Y. M. C. A. and other institutions and organizations; to secure good government; to equalize taxation and keep the tax rate down; to secure city improvements, to foster civic pride and loyalty to Quincy.

Our Advertising Rates should be twice as high as at present for the circulation and service which the DAILY LEDGER is giving, but Local Merchants have not taken advantage of the opportunities which the DAILY LEDGER offers, and have wasted time and money through other channels with small returns Foreign advertisers find the Ledger a paying proposition and pay good rates for their advertising—but it is a much better one for local merchants. TRY IT AND SEE.

The Daily Ledger is considering seriously a one-cent paper with a view to still larger circulation and an enlarged field of operation. We have the equipment and the will to give the merchants a 5,000 DAILY CIRCULATION if they can support it. Cooperation is needed in this as well as other things which are for the good of the whole and not for individual or personal gain. Quincy merchants should pull together, but at the same time have individualism enough not to be coerced into helping out one or two of their number who wish to enlarge their business operations at the expense of the whole.

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING COMPANY.
Publishers of the
QUINCY DAILY LEDGER.

"VIOLET DAY" FOR BLIND WORLD FAMOUS HYMNIST FANNY CROSBY, Composer, Who Will Be Ninety-four on March 24, Talks of Her Great Work.

Life Story of One of the Most Extraordinary of American Women.

MARCH 24 will be the ninety-fourth birthday anniversary of Frances Jane Crosby Van Alstyne, familiarly known as Fanny Crosby, and on that day the Fanny Crosby circle of King's Daughters urges that people in all parts of the world who have been helped by the hymns composed by this famous nonagenarian wear violets in her honor. Miss Crosby has made her home at Bridgeport, Conn., for fourteen years, and on March 24 a special Fanny Crosby birthday service will be held in the First Methodist church of that city, which it is hoped Miss Crosby will be able to attend.

In the fifties Miss Crosby wrote many popular songs which reached a marvelously large circulation for those days—songs such as "Rosalie the Prairie Flower," "Hazel Dell" and "There's Music In the Air," which is sung by school children even now. Later she became famous for thousands of hymns, many of which are today included in the hymnals of the evangelical churches, and her gospel songs have been the inspiration of revival meetings for years and years. "Rescue the Perishing" and "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour," have thrilled many congregations affected by the exhortations of the revivalist, while "Safe In the Arms of Jesus" has given expression to the exaltation following the success of bringing sinners to repentance.

So prolific a writer has been Miss Crosby that her compositions have not always appeared over her own name, and she has adopted various noms de plume. Her many thousands of hymns have been translated into foreign tongues, and there is scarcely a church in the land where they have not been sung.

Remarkable Life Story.

The story of Fanny Crosby is one of the most remarkable in the records of extraordinary women.

Born in Putnam county, N. Y., she became blind when six weeks old and when a young girl became an inmate of the New York Institute For the Blind.

During her pupilage in the institution her teachers noticed the child's poetic inclination, and when a tour of the pupils was made through western New York, in order to show the people what the institution was doing, Miss Crosby (Fanny, as everybody called her then, as now) delivered a poetic address at the various exhibitions. It began:

Contented, happy, though a sightless band,
Dear friends, this evening we before you stand.
We for a moment your attention claim
And trust that boon will not be asked in vain.

That was the first real evidence of the direction of her powers.

From that time forward she was constantly encouraged to write. Often she was called upon for original poems to be recited at entertainments of the pupils of the Institution. Once she recited before the senate of the state of New York, once before the legislature of New Jersey, once before the senate and house of representatives of the United States and once before a man who was later to be president of the nation, but who then was clerk to the president of the institution—Grover Cleveland. To the child these were memorable events; by the aged woman they are still looked upon as eventful.

Husband Also Blind.

In 1847 Miss Crosby became a teacher in the Institute For the Blind and remained there eleven years.

In 1858 she was married to Alexander Van Alstyne, who was also sightless like herself. He was an accomplished musician and was an instructor in the school in which she herself taught. They lived happily together until his death in 1902. It was at the request of her husband that she continued to affix her maiden name to her writings.

The development of her poetic accomplishments seemed to her to be a new way to glorify her Master, and it was in 1864 that she first began working on the long series of hymns which has run up into the thousands.

"Safe In the Arms of Jesus" appeared in 1868. "Pass Me Not" in the same year, "Rescue the Perishing" one year later and "Blessed Assurance" in 1873. The next year came three widely sung hymns—"Hold Thou My Hand," "Close to Thee" and "Every Day and Every Hour." "I Am Thine, O Lord," appeared in 1875. "Hide Thou Me" in 1876. "'Tis the Blessed Hour of Prayer" in 1881. "What a Gathering" in 1887 and "Saved by Grace," one of her favorites, in 1891.

Sudden Inspiration.

"The hymn I hold fondest," says Miss Crosby, "is 'Safe In the Arms of Jesus.' I wrote it in fifteen minutes and have always taken a little pride in this fact. W. H. Doane, who had written the music for several of my hymns, came to me one morning and said he had some music for which he wanted words. He added that he had just forty minutes to catch a train for FANNY CROSBY.

Cincinnati, and he asked me to evolve the lines in less than that time. He sat down at the piano and played the music. I sat thinking deeply for a few minutes after he had stopped, then said, 'I think I can write it.'

"The thought came to me that I ought to make the hymn something that would appeal instinctively to all.

"Suddenly there came over me the thought of the protection that always exists in the minds of children when in the arms of their parents, as the ones in whom they feel the greatest confidence.

"Thinking it over, it occurred to me that Jesus as the Son of the Heavenly Father was the one in whom we should feel a confidence equal to that of God Almighty. So, with the idea of safety in the arms and next to the heart of the One whom we all worship, I sat down and composed the hymn 'Safe In the Arms of Jesus.'

"The thought came as inspiration, and I could do nothing but heed it. I have always been thankful for it, as the hymn brought me closer and made me nearer to the hearts of those who sing my hymns than any other I have written."

Building Up a Mood.

Miss Crosby believes there is much truth in the doctrine of moods in writing. If she was not in the mood and there was pressing demand for some particular composition she would build a mood or, in her own words, "try to build one around her."

"I have sat alone many a day and night," she once wrote, "praying God to give me thoughts and the feelings wherewith to compose my hymn. After a time—perhaps not unmingled with struggle—the thought would come and I would soon be happy in my work.

"It may seem a little old fashioned to always begin one's work with prayer, but I never undertake a hymn without first asking the good Lord to be my inspiration in the work that I am about to do.

"When at last I have arrived at the right stage of thought and feeling and am sure that I am in condition to reach the minds and hearts of my constituency and sing to them something worthy for them to hear I cast about for a few minutes as to the measure and possibly the tune.

"Much more depends upon this than might at first seem to be the case for if there is a false accent or a mistake in the meter the hymn cannot stand much chance of proving a success, or at least its possibilities are very much lessened. Among the millions of hymns that have been attempted and forgotten many contained no doubt deep and pious thought and feeling, but were crippled and killed by the roughness of some line or the irregularity of some measure.

Tunes as Guides.

"Often I take in my mind some tune already well known as a model, or, perhaps, more accurately speaking, as a guide, and work to it. This, however, does not imply that the tune will ultimately be chosen as the companion of the words, for it has probably already its own true and lawful mate, with which it is happy and useful.

"After any particular hymn is done I let it lie for a few days in the writing desk of my mind, so to speak, until I have leisure to prune it, to read it through with the eyes of my memory and altogether get it into as presentable a shape as possible. I often cut it and trim it and change it."

Incidents often inspired Miss Crosby. She was attending a meeting of the famous Water Street mission in New York city. One hardened sinner, when the call for repenters to make themselves known was made, stepped forward and went toward the platform whereon Miss Crosby, in company with the missionaries, sat.

On being told that a man had come forward she exclaimed:

"Lead me to him."

Tenderly she placed her arms about the rum soaked, guilt stained man and as tenderly she whispered in his ear. Then the tears began to course their way down his cheeks. With a great sob the big, burly fellow broke down and cried like a child.

The incident so impressed itself on Miss Crosby's mind that before she retired that night "Rescue the Perishing" had been completed.

How to Stay Young.

Miss Crosby has said that she hopes to live to be 106 years old, the age which her grandmother attained.

"Right thinking keeps people young," said Miss Crosby not long ago. "It keeps them young and well in body and mind. I never fret, never worry, never think disagreeable thoughts or find fault with any one or anything. If the mind is warped by prejudice and evil thoughts and selfishness you become a pessimist. Then maybe your doctor says your liver is bad. It isn't your liver at all; it's your mind. Keep that bright, cheerful and happy."

Fanny Crosby's judgments of those about her are accurate. She comes to her conclusions through the sound of the voice. "That is a kind man; I like his voice," or "I don't want to know that person," she will say. She was seated next to a stranger in a hotel at dinner. Afterward a friend who knew his character asked her what she thought of him. "He is a deep, vile, bad man," she quickly replied. It was true. Conversing with a man who had spoken scornfully of a good impulse, she exclaimed, "Get me a hammer and let me raise a bump of reverence on this man's head!"

SAFE IN THE ARMS OF JESUS.

Safe in the arms of Jesus,
Safe on his gentle breast,
There by his love o'ershaded,
Sweetly my soul shall rest.
Hark! 'Tis the voice of angels
Borne in a song to me
Over the fields of glory,
Over the jasper sea.

CHORUS.

Safe in the arms of Jesus,
Safe on his gentle breast,
There by his love o'ershaded,
Sweetly my soul shall rest.

Safe in the arms of Jesus,
Safe from corroding care,
Safe from the world's temptations,
Sin cannot harm me there.
Free from the blight of sorrow,
Free from my doubts and fears;
Only a few more trials,
Only a few more tears.

Jesus my heart's dear refuge;
Jesus has died for me.
Firm on the Rock of Ages
Ever my trust shall be.
Here let me wait with patience,
Wait till the night is o'er,
Wait till I see the morning
Break on the golden shore.

RESCUE THE PERISHING.

Rescue the perishing,
Care for the dying,
Snatch them in pity from sin and the grave.
Weep o'er the erring one,
Lift up the fallen,
Tell them of Jesus, the mighty to save.

CHORUS.

Rescue the perishing,
Care for the dying.
Jesus is merciful;
Jesus will save.

Though they are slighting him,
Still he is waiting,
Waiting the penitent child to receive.
Plead with them earnestly;
Plead with them gently.
He will forgive if they only believe.

Down in the human heart,
Crushed by the tempter,
Feelings lie buried that grace can restore.
Touched by a loving heart,
Wakened by kindness,
Chords that were broken will vibrate once more.

Rescue the perishing.
Duty demands it.
Strength for thy labor the Lord will provide.
Back to the narrow way
Patiently win them.
Tell the poor wanderer a Saviour has died.

NEW COLLIER A SUCCESS.

Jupiter, Electrically Driven, Exceeds Speed at Which She Was Rated.

The electrically driven collier Jupiter has scored a signal success on her trial trip, just completed off the Lower California coast. Though rated as a fourteen knot boat, she maintained an average speed of 15.1 knots for forty-eight hours, during which time the electric machinery revolved the propellers at the rate of 115.7 per minute, developing 6,940 horsepower.

This is the first time the system of electric propulsion has been tried on any naval vessel, and the department officials are greatly pleased at the result. The Jupiter was, in competition with the collier Neptune, fitted with a reduction gear calculated to bring the speed of her turbines down to the point of economy by gearing, and with a third collier, the Cyclops, fitted with reciprocating engines. All three vessels were of the same size.

Sheriff's Sale.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
NORFOLK, ss.

Quincy, February 13, A. D., 1914.

Seized on execution and will be sold at public auction on Saturday the 28th day of March, A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock A. M., at my residence, No. 163 Franklin Street, in said Quincy, all the right, title and interest which Albert H. Hall had (not exempt by law from attachment or levy on execution) on the said 13th day of February, at eleven o'clock and fifty minutes A. M. being the time the same was seized on execution, in and to the following described real estate, to wit:—

Being property registered in Land Court, Norfolk Registry District, Certificate No. 1082, Registry Book No. 6, page 1082, and described as follows:—A certain parcel of land in that part of Quincy called Atlantic, bounded—Southerly by Appleton Street, Seventy (70) feet; Westerly by land now or formerly of Mary Gallagher, One hundred twenty--three and 70-100 (123.70) feet; Northerly by land now or formerly of Alexander L. Hill, seventy and 6-100 (70.06) feet; and Easterly by land now or formerly of Mary R. Lord, one hundred twenty-six and 60-100 (126.60) feet; said parcel is shown as Lot A, on a plan drawn by Ernest W. Branch, Civil Engineer, dated June 19, 1909, a copy of a portion of which is filed in Norfolk Registry District with the original certificate No. 775 in Vol. 4.

GEORGE H. FIELD,
Deputy Sheriff
March 12-3t 12-19-26

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Bessie L. Capen, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Arthur F. Capen of said Quincy without giving a surety on his bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham, in said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April, A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said court, this eighteenth day of March, A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 3t 19-23-30

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the devisees, legatees, and all other persons interested in the estate of Alvin F. Parker, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, testate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration with the will annexed, on the estate of said deceased, not already administered, to George E. Adams of said Quincy or some other suitable person. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April, A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all devisees and legatees named in said will seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of March, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 3t 19-23-30

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Alvin Parker, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, not already administered, to George E. Adams of Quincy or to some other suitable person. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of March, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register
3t Mar. 19-23-30

QUINCY REGISTRY

FOR NURSES

80 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.

MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS — CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING — WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—$20.00 Cottage, 6 rooms; all improvements. On salt water; 3 minutes to Fore River entrance, yet secluded. Call C. E. Briggs, 63 Howard Avenue, Quincy. 18-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-12t

TO LET—Two 3-room and one 4-room tenement. Just finished. All modern improvements. Apply to J. M. L. 175 Liberty street, South Quincy. 16-6t

TO LET—Lower apartment 5 rooms and bath. Modern conveniences, combination range; gas and electricity etc. 95 Putnam street. Ready for occupancy April 1. Apply 97 Putnam street. 16-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 16-6t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath. Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Two pleasant four-room tenements, one furnished, light and sunny rooms, new house, modern improvements, central location. 9 Francis Court, off Spear street. 13-6t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 3 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block—2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office. Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.

Office—Hancock Chambers. 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.

TO LET

TO LET—Apartment 5 rooms, all improvements; good location, on car line; rent $21. 902 Hancock street. Inquire upper suite. 18-tf

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 18-6t

TO LET—Upper flat of five rooms and bath, all improvements, Bradford street, Quincy Adams. Apply to William Duggan, Bradford street. Tel. Quincy 801W. 17-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms with or without board. Mrs. F. Wrigley, 18 Washington street corner Coddington. 17-6t

TO LET—Single house of six rooms, improvements 492 South street. Apply to 96 Arnold street. 17-6t

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO RENT—Flat of four rooms, Francis court off Spear street. All modern improvements. Rent $18. Apply at 7 Francis court. 14-6t

TO LET—Single house of six rooms in good repair. Rent low. Apply at 97 Coddington street. 13-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

TAKE NOTICE—Free corn cutting till March 31st. Positively no hurt, 9 A. M. to 2 P. M. Dr. Rodgers, Chiropodist. 14 Sagamore street, Atlantic. Mar. 17-6t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—22 ft. motor boat, 5 h. p. 2 cylinder engine. One year old. Price reasonable. A. D. Thompson, 47 Main street. 19-6t

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS—Take notice. We are selling all steel portable Automobile garages, camps and storehouses ready to put up. Absolutely fire proof. Prompt shipment. Send for quotations, M. W. Tilton, Box 362, Brockton. 11-12t

FOR SALE—Cheap, a second hand kitchen stove, in good condition. Apply to Mr. Magee, 963 Hancock street near car barn. 17-6t

FOR SALE—One "Reo the Fifth," four seated touring car, specially comfortable body, over-sized tires, extra shoe, shock absorbers, Warner speedometer, condition good as new. Apply to Central Garage, corner Washington and Pond Streets, Quincy. 13-6t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

BE SURE TO READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS IN TODAY'S LEDGER

LOST

LOST—Dark brindle female bull dog. Answers to name of Buck. Finder will please return to 122 Billings street, Atlantic. 17-3t

WANTED

BOY

I have a permanent position for a bright, energetic boy. The right boy can make from 50 cents to $2.00 or more a week, without interfering with his other duties. Apply to CARL H. LEANDER, 145 Whitwell St. Quincy, Mass.
March 19—1t

WANTED—By an experienced nurse maternity nursing. Address P. O. Box 304, Quincy. March 18-6t

WANTED—Washing, ironing and cleaning by the hour. Write to Lydia Rajala, 5 Carlmark street, West Quincy. 17-3t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York. N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

JUST LOOK HERE

Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.

HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 / Office 93-M

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block,
QUINCY

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30. 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45. 10, 15, 25c

THURS., FRI., SAT.
Program Subject to Change

MR. and MRS. EVERETT BENNETT
Presenting their Comedy Sketch
"THE MASTER"

BIANZA TRIO
Refined Singers and Musicians

BR N BROS.
Novelty Comedians

JACK WALLACE
and his Trained Eagle

4 Reels of Thrills

OVER NIAGARA FALLS

Wonderful Picture Production of intense and gripping interest

COMEDY PICTURES
For Laughing Purposes only

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

NEWSY BRIEFS

Probation Officer Fahey is confined to his home today by a throat trouble.

George Sullivan of Quarry street is confined to his home by illness.

Members of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps, attended the quarterly meeting of the Norfolk county association at Foxborough on Tuesday. The next meeting will be held in October at Randolph.

Levi H. Turner of this city will be the speaker at the Men's club of Christ Church, Dorchester, Friday evening, his subject being "the Single Tax."

Inquisitor John F. Vassidy of Dorchester will have charge of the conferring of the second Knights of Columbus degree on a large class of candidates of Quincy council in New Colonial hall tonight. District Deputy Supreme Knight Daniel J. Gallagher will be present.

Miss Mittie Rundle of 189 Whitwell street and John Whynot of Halifax were married at Middleboro on Saturday by Rev. Aubrey C. Gilmore.

Chief of Police Burrell who has been confined to his home for several days by a bad cold is able to be about again and was on duty this morning.

The March winds are still with us, although many thought they ad taken their departure. The weather cleared somewhat Wednesday and with the clearing weather came a high wind and colder.

Despite the stormy weather Wednesday many members of the Quincy Womens Riversife Club and guests enjoyed an instructive and entertaining talk by Miss Edith Randall. Her subject was, A German Winter. Mrs. Arthur B. Foster favored the audience with a piano solo. Miss Frances Ward and Miss Marion Peterson had charge of a cake and candy table. The affair was under the auspices of the Educational committee, composed of Mrs. Ida Crane, Mrs. Muriel Arnold Mrs. Margaret Ward, Mrs. Alice Peterson and Mrs. Gertrude Stone.

THE WOMAN BEAUTIFUL

Most Exquisite Art Portrayals Ever Shown

12 Beautiful Hand Colored Art Pictures

This latest edition of our celebrated Art Panels far excels any we have ever published and when we describe them as rare and fascinating art beauty studies we are expressing it mildly. These Art Poses are by famous French and other artists. To lovers of Art we say these portrayals must be seen to be appreciated. Finished by the celebrated phototone process on heavy art paper beautifully hand colored and life like. Size 7x10 inches.

FREE. Send in your order at once, and we will send you absolutely free one large picture, size 15x18 colored and ready for framing. This beautiful indescribable picture retails in Art studios at from $2.00 to $3.00. Just the thing for your den. Order now. Today.

We will send the entire set, all different, postpaid, for only $1.25, coin or money order, and remember our standing guarantee of "money back if not satisfied" holds good. Order now. TODAY.

DAYTON ART PORTRAYAL CO.
Dayton, Ohio.

FOUR MANIACS AT LARGE

Desperate Men Escape From State Institution at Bloomingdale

Worcester, Mass., March 19.--Four inmates of the state insane hospital at Bloomingdale, considered by the hospital authorities to be desperate men, effected their escape from the institution late yesterday afternoon through the use of keys procured in some unknown manner.

The men are Benjamin Freedman, 25, of Boston; Frank Abbott, 28, of South Boston; Thomas Garvey, 29, of South Boston, and Arthur Kitchie, 27, of Norwood.

Dr. Scribner, superintendent of the hospital, said the men were suffering from dangerous forms of insanity and are likely to be violent and brutal to those whom they meet.

The state police and the police of Springfield and Providence were informed that the four desperate men were at large.

BOWLES' ADMISSION

Paid Lawyer Retainer of $1000 as a Canal Lobby Fee

Washington, March 19.—Admission that he had paid Clarence W. DeKnight, a lawyer, a retainer of $1000 and promised him a contingent fee of $4000 if he succeeded in having the provision forbidding use of the Panama canal to railroad-owned ships stricken from the canal bill, was made to the senate lobby committee by former Admiral Bowles, president of the Fore River Shipbuilding company of Quincy, Mass.

Bowles said he had accepted this proposition of DeKnight and filed with the committee his letter so advising DeKnight. The company's opposition to the clause excluding railroad-owned ships he considered reasonable, since such a provision would make serious inroads in the shipbuilding business in which they were engaged.

GOULD WINS WORLD'S TITLE IN TENNIS

American Amateur Beats the English Professional

Philadelphia, March 19.—Jay Gould of New York, amateur champion of America and England, is now the open champion of the world.

He won the title here by defeating George F. Covey, the British professional world champion, in three out of four sets. On Monday, Gould won four straight sets from Covey, and yesterday's three gave him a total of seven, the number requisite to snatch the victory from the Briton.

In addition to winning the title Gould gets plate valued at $1250. Covey gets two-thirds of the gate receipts taken in at the contest and his expenses.

UNDER ANTI-TRUST LAWS

Government Brings Suit Against Anthracite Coal Carriers

New York, March 19.—The Lehigh Valley Railroad company was sued here by Attorney General McReynolds under the Sherman anti-trust law as being the dominant factor in a combination alleged to control the output of anthracite from Pennsylvania fields it touches.

More than a dozen other corporations and individuals were named as co-defendants and parties to a conspiracy to monopolize that trade.

It is understood the suit is to be followed by others against some of the roads which enter the Pennsylvania anthracite field.

DEFEAT SEEMS CERTAIN

Senate Likely to Reach Vote on Suffrage Before Week Ends

Washington, March 19.—"The concensus of opinion in the senate," said Senator Ashurst, "is that we should vote right away on the resolution for a constitutional amendment to extend suffrage to women. I think there will be little more delay in the matter."

The resolution comes up today as unfinished business, and despite appeals of many suffragists for postponement of vote until May, an effort will be made to reach a vote before the end of this week, with defeat of the measure apparently a certainty.

APPEAL NOTICE FILED

Stays Execution of Murderer Schmidt For Probably Another Year

New York, March 19.—Death in the electric chair, to which Hans Schmidt was sentenced "during the week of March 23," for the murder of Anna Aumuller, was postponed for probably a year.

Schmidt's respite came automatically with the filing by his counsel of a notice of appeal. It is not believed the court of appeals will reach Schmidt's case for many months.

Busch's Personal Estate $17,000,000

St. Louis, March 19.—The inventory of the estate of Adolphus Busch, filed late yesterday afternoon, lists personal property aggregating $17,000,000. The real estate is not listed.

King of Sweden Sick

Stockholm, March 19.—King Gustave, who is in his 56th year, has been in poor health for some time, and his condition is now causing anxiety.

MILLION DOLLAR ESTATE

Executors Account in Estate of Fanny C. Adams

Charles F. Adams, 2d, of Concord, and Arthur Adams of Quincy, executor under the will of Fanny C. Adams, late of this city, have filed their first account for $1,244,909.89 in the Norfolk probate court. It has been allowed by Judge Flint.

BRIEFS

Quincy lodge No. 261, N. E. O. P., will hold a roll call of members on Friday evening followed by enterment and collation.

The sewing circle of Rebecca Wiswell tent, Daughters of Veterans, will meet at the home of Mrs. Annie Grignon, 10 Bradford street on Friday evening.

Master Laurence Whitehead of Kemper street who has been critically ill following an operation for appendicitis at Quincy Hospital the first of last week, is convalescing satisfactorly and his family are much relieved.

Mrs. George L. Cole of Prospect avenue who underwent an operation at Quincy Hospital last week is convalescing favorably although it will be another fortnight before she returns home.

FUNERAL LOF GEORGE P. BARRY.

The funeral of George P. Berry, one of the highly respected residents of West Quincy, held this morning from his late home on Pierce street, East Milton, was the largest ever seen in that town. Boyhood friends from all the surrounding cities and towns were present.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Gregory's church, Milton Lower Mills, by Rev. Fr. Charles P. Heaney. Rev. Fr. Richard Howard, curate, was deacon and eRv. Fr. Francis X. Dolan, pastor, was sub deacon. The Gregorian chant was rendered by an augumented choir directed by Miss McShane, organist. Despite the family request that flowers be omitted there were many remembrances.

Four brothers-in-law, Harry, James Frank and John J. Gallagher, and two nephews, George and Walter Ogle were the bearers. Burial was in the Milton cemetery.

LINEN SHOWER.

Young lady friends of Miss Abbie B. Penley, largely from the First National bank of Boston, gave her a linen shower on Wednesday evening at the home of her brother, Theodore Penley, of South Central avenue It was a complete surprise to Miss Penley whose engagement was reported some weeks ago to Earl M. Thomas.

THOMAS LEADING.

Thomas of the Coliseum alleys beat Chisholm of the Tremont alleys of South Boston in the first leg of a 20 string match at the Coliseum alleys Wednesday night, 980 to 912. The local boy had the best single, 114. The visitor only made two strings over 100.

A BEGGAR'S HUMP OF GOLD.

Man Who Ate From Ash Cans Had $34,000.

William Kahler, aged seventy, has been a hunchback beggar in San Francisco for twenty years, eating the food he found in ash cans and sleeping wherever he could find shelter. A patrolman arrested the old man and took him to the lockup so he might have a comfortable bed.

In searching Kahler it was found that his "hump" was uncommonly hard, and investigation revealed that it was not a deformity, but a tin box packed with gold coins and paper money. Various false pockets in Kahler's clothes were emptied of additional money. When all was counted the total was found to be $11,000.

Kahler's "hump" also contained three bank books that showed deposits amounting to $23,000. He was held on a charge of vagrancy.

—A fine merry-go-round is revealed by the discovery that insurance adjusters in New York have been buying back stolen automobiles from the fences to reduce the loss. The owner pays the insurance company, the insurance adjuster pays the fence, the fence pays the thief and the thief—goes out and gets another car.—Milford Gazette.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

Economy Hints

A penny saved is a penny earned.—Benjamin Franklin.

How to Make a Kitchen Garden.

A KITCHEN garden on a sunny window sill is a convenience and a delight. It is delightful to work over and look at, and the bits of fresh green that can be gathered in it give flavor and character to many soups, salads and sauces.

The garden can be planted in a shallow wooden box or else in flower pots. It is easier to manage in the box—so far as watering and moving it are concerned. But if it is planted in several pots all parts of it can be given the full advantage of the sun.

The first thing to plant is parsley. It takes a long time to germinate, but when once it begins to grow it grows surely and steadily, and a single six inch pot filled with parsley will give a supply for months.

Soak the seeds—which should be bought of a reliable nurseryman—for twenty-four hours in tepid water. They sprout much more quickly if treated in this way. Then spread them on a blotter to absorb the superfluous water and then mix them with a little dry sand so that they can be easily handled

Have a pot full to the top of rich earth, sprinkle the sand and seeds over it, sprinkle on a little more earth mixed with sand, sprinkle with water and stand in the sun. Keep the earth slightly moist until the seeds come up. Do not soak it as this might rot the seeds. The sandy top soil keeps the earth from caking when the sun is hot and so breaking off the tops of the little plants.

The earth in the pots should always be almost level with the top of the pots so that the rim then will not cast a shadow on the earth near the edges. Of course if a single plant is in the pot in the center the earth may be an inch below the top of the pot, as the shadow around the edges will not fall on any growing thing.

Onion seeds can be planted in a rather deep box filled with very rich, black earth. These are delicious for cutting when they are no bigger than a small radish, to give flavor to salads. And the flavorsome ends, delicate but pungent, can be used in the soup pot. Of course it is difficult to get these onions to full size grown in this way, but the half grown ones are more delicate in flavor than the older ones anyway.

SUMMER GARDENS.

How to Have a Cheap and Beautiful Flower Plot.

Just at this season of the year our minds are naturally reverting to plans for next summer's gardens. This work begins in early spring. The more carefully we plan the prettier our gardens will be. Even a tiny back yard can be made atttractive. This can also be done with very little expense.

The gladiolus family offer us a variety of choice colors, and the bulbs have two decided advantages. First, they are cheap, and, second, they are easily raised. There is no garden flower that will yield such results as the gladiolus if given a small amount of care.

It is rarely troubled with insects, which is a great aid to amateurs. Then the blooming season covers a long period of time if the bulbs are planted at different times through the spring.

You can plant them almost any place in the garden. Of course in fall they must be taken up. They make attractive blooms for cutting purposes. A jardiniere of these flowers is truly gorgeous.

They have the advantage of many flowers in that they keep well for four or five days after being cut. All that is necessary to keep them in good condition is to change the water occasionally.

Gladioli thrive best in a sandy soil. Place the bulb in a hole five inches deep and space the bulbs four inches apart each way. This deep planting prevents the wind blowing them over. They do well if the soil about them is loosened up from time to time during the summer

If you are planting them merely for garden decoration plant them here and there; it makes no difference where. Of course a few bulbs in a clump is always better taste, because it gives a mass of color, which is prettier than single specimens, which merely make a dot of color. Planted in straight rows they are easier to cultivate, but not so graceful.

It is an excellent idea to plant the bulbs fifteen days apart, commencing as early in the season as the ground can be worked and continuing until July. This method gives us plenty of bloom from July until October.

In the fall lift the bulbs and store them in a warm, dry place. Sometimes during the winter examine the bulbs and see that they show no signs of decay.

How to Use Umbrella Rods.

The steel rods from old umbrellas make fine plant supports. Disconnect them where they join the upper part and also where the ring slips the handle, and you have a double rod to slip into your flowerpots, and if they are painted green they are unnoticeable.

BUY LAND FOR CAMP

Jobless Men "Put One Over" on Sheriff of Sacramento County

Sacramento, Cal., March 19.—One hundred and fifty men—the remnant of "General" Kelley's army of the unemployed—laughed at Sheriff Ahern of Sacramento county.

When the sheriff received word that the scattered members were reassembling on a ranch four miles north of this city he hurriedly collected a force of deputies and went to the scene. At the ranch he found a band of men engaged in erecting tents and shacks, and the order was given to his posse to drive them out.

The deputies responded with a will, but were halted at the boundary of the camp by a man with a legal paper. The document proved to be a contract for the purchase of one acre of land, for which $70 had been given as a first payment. There was nothing for Ahern to do but retire, while the unemployed hooted and jeered.

SARGENT'S CONFESSION

Said to Have Admitted Faking Robbery to Cover Theft

Fitchburg, Mass., March 19.—That he hit himself on the head in an effort to bear out an assault and robbery story, and, failing to knock himself out, played the "blackjacked" man to perfection for three days in the hospital here, to the mystification of doctors, was the confession said to have been made by Fred G. Sargent, local agent of the New England Telephone and Telegraph company, as announced by officials.

Officials of the company admitted that Sargent made a detailed statement in Boston of his efforts to cover up a $400 embezzlement and then disappeared.

His reasons for robbing the company were, he said, that he could not support himself, and his wife and crippled boy, who live in Haverhill, on his salary of $23.

SIEGEL GETS WEEK TO CHANGE PLEA

Depositors Want State to Pay Their Legal Expenses

New York, March 19.—Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel, promoters of the defunct Siegel enterprises, were granted an extension of one week in which to change their plea or demur to the indictments against them, charging grand larceny and violation of the state banking laws.

A plea to Governor Glynn to have the state, through the attorney general, conduct all legal proceeding on behalf of the depositors of the Siegel bank, without expense to them, is contained in a letter to the governor, written by Frederick R. Coudert, counsel for the depositors.

SHOWS NO EMOTION

Dorr Hears That Appeal In His Behalf Has Been Refused

Boston, March 19.—William A. Dorr, under sentence of death for the murder of George E. Marsh, received without the slightest sign of emotion the news that the pardon board had refused to act favorably in his case.

The news was broken to him by his attorney, C. N. Barney, as the two conversed in the death cell. Dorr's only other visitor was his spiritual adviser, Rev. Arthur E. Harriman.

Dorr is in good spirits and shows no signs of fear as the time grows short when he will pay the penalty for his crime.

FIRST WEEK IN MAY

Date of Clean-Up Campaign In New England Communities

Boston, March 19.—The Clean-Up Campaign for New England will begin the first of May and continue for seven days. A central committee for Boston has been organized with George C. Morton as chairman. There will be appointed sub-committees to look over the several sections of the city.

More than 200 towns and cities in New England have arranged for the clean-up week.

Incendiarism Is Suspected

South Portland, Me., March 19.—The fire which destroyed the sardine factory of E. W. Brown & Co., with a loss estimated at $30,000, was of incendiary origin, in the opinion of one of the members of the firm.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Mrs. John L. Noyes of Bryant's Pond, Me., an aged widow, died from the effects of burns received from a fire in her home.

Elizabeth Ruth, Countess of Devon, died at Cheltenham, Eng. She celebrated the centenary of her birth on March 12.

Dennis Lannon of Boston, well known in newspaper and business circles in New England, died at Boston of pneumonia. He was 59 years old.

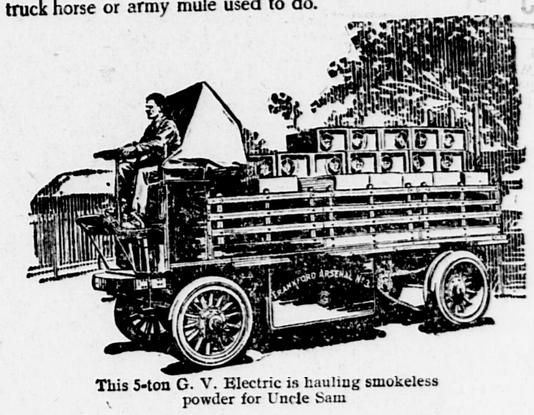
Dr. Theodore R. Waugh, aged 57, well known in northern Vermont, died at a sanitarium in Burlington while undergoing treatment.

Mrs. Roff Currie, 29 years old, missed her footing on a stairway at her home at Brockton, Mass., and fell to the bottom. She was killed.

Lieutenant Bongard, a German military aviator, died at Metz from a fractured skull, caused by an aeroplane accident.

Uncle Sam Uses Over 100 Electric Trucks

EIGHT navy yards, three arsenals, the government office in Washington, one naval hospital and two army depots use Electrics; in Manila over forty (40) are used by the War Department and the Philippine Government. That's what Uncle Sam thinks of Electric trucks for work the truck horse or army mule used to do.



This 5-ton G. V. Electric is hauling smokeless powder for Uncle Sam

But that isn't all. Over sixty (60) are used in mail transfers and parcels post work in New York, Washington, Indianapolis, etc. Twenty (20) 2-ton G. V. Electric trucks were recently bought for mail transfers in New York.

As parcels post deliveries expand we shall see more and more Electrics added. They are simple to operate and their upkeep is much less than horses or other trucks for the grind of city work. Over 1,500 Electrics in department store service, too.

It pays to buy the best, and the high grade Electric is supreme in its field. Let us figure with you on a high grade delivery system. Ask for Catalogue 40.

General Vehicle Company, Inc.
General Offices and Factory, LONG ISLAND CITY, NEW YORK
BOSTON OFFICE, Exposition Building
CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS
DAY BAKER, District Manager

☞Although word comes along the line of slack times in the printing and newspaper business, which is borne out by the number of printers on the road seeking work, it does not seem to be the case at the Ledger office for with extra hands put on this week and overtime work, we find it hard to keep ahead of our orders. Our force the year round is 25, and none are ever laid off because of dull times or lack of work.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Abby R. Buckley, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Sanford A. Sallie of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of March, in the year one thousand, nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t Mar. 19-26-Apr. 2

Too Late For Classification

WANTED—Young lady as salesgirl in drug store. Address "A" care Ledger Office. 19-3t

FOR SALE—Strictly fresh Quincy eggs. Seavey, 9 Silver street, Quincy. 19-6t

MARRIAGES

WHYNOT—RUNDLE—In Middleboro, March 14, by Rev. Aubrey C. Gilmore John Whynot of Halifax and Miss Mittie Rundle of Quincy.

DEATHS

SHEPPARD—In Quincy, March 19, Freeman Sheppard of 59 Mill street, in his 86th year.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass

MAINE POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

Call Quincy 501--W.
If you want your furniture, mattresses and cushions repaired in good order at low prices M. MIRKIN, upholsterer, 1060 Hancock street, near the Quincy High School
Mar. 4 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
Old Furniture Refinished
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY.
SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

s rucks government office and two army derty (40) are used ine Government.
ucks for work the okeless
n mail transfers and apolis, etc. Twenty ght for mail transfers ore and more Elec-upkeep is much less work. Over 1,500
lectric is supreme in elivery system. Ask any, Inc.
TY, NEW YORK
uilding
ETTS AGER
AINE
ATOES
PECK
— AT —
's Restaurant
epot Street
City Hall
March 6-1m incy 501--W.
furniture, mattresses and good order at low prices upholsterer, 1060 Hancock
ncy High School
Mar. 4 tf
N. CURTIS
and GLAZIER
STAINED GLASS
nd PAPER HANGER
NITURE REFINISHED
off Spear Street, Quincy
M F. RANKIN
holsterer
ses re-made for $2.50 cht cushions re-made or f furniture repaired,
e-upholstered.
A postal will bring me.
rwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-4m
an's Garage
Taxi Service
orage and Supplies
Day and Night.
Touring Cars for all orner Washington and
ts.
NNIMAN, Prop.
phone 207.
Feb. 7-tf
e Lodger EVERY DAY.
FOR THE LEDGER.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 67 QUINCY, MASS FRIDAY EVENING MARCH 20 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

RENTS AND AUTOS AND INCOME TAX

Collector Malley Explains Workings of New National Tax to First Parish Club

Salary Not the Only Source of Revenue Included

The address by John F. Malley, United States Collector of Internal Revenue for Massachusetts, on the "Income Tax" was one of the most interesting addresses the First Parish club has heard this season. The income tax is one in which nearly every man is interested, especially those whose income is $3,000 a year or more no matter whether it comes to him in the way of salary, or if it comes through dividends from stock, legacies, etc.

At the head table, aside from the speaker and President Hudson, were Rev. Mr. Lang of the Washington Street Congregational church who offered the invocation. Frank A. Reed of the Quincy Co-operative bank, Clarence Burgin of the Savings Bank, Rupert F. Claflin of the Granite Trust Co., H. G. Smith and Joseph A. Sedgwick of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation.

The dinner included roast beef, peas, tomatoes, mashed potatoes coffee, rolls, and ice cream and cake.

In introducing the speaker, President Hudson remarked it was a subject on which few were informed. In fact it had been said no one in the United States knew anything about it, and the the collector was compelled to look wise and answer questions. After the address however he said that he would have to take back what he said as the speaker was thoroughly informed on the subject.

In opening the speaker said that he saw before him all the income tax payers of Quincy. On his way out he had heard that Quincy had the best golf course in Massachusetts, and at the dinner he had sat next to an old Springfield boy, so that he had been greatly pleased. All men are interested in the law and its administration, for there is always something new connected with the subject. Every citizen of the United States whether residing here or not, and every person whether a citizen or not residing here comes under it.

SINGLE AND MARRIED.

A man is allowed an exemption of $3,000 if a single man and $4,000 if a married man. A man who is married and does not live with his wife, or a widower no matter whether he has children or not, is classed as a single man, and if his income exceeds the amounts stated, exclusive of dividends from corporations paying the tax, they must pay.

A man and woman living together are entitled to one exemption of $4,000. If the wife has an income she must pay a tax. Dividends on which the one percent has been paid before it reaches the stockholders is excluded. If his income, however, reaches $20,000 or over, then he must include his dividends in his return and is not allowed deductions.

If a man living with his wife, and either has not an income of $3,000 no return is necessary, but if the aggregate of both is $4,000 or over, a return must be made. Income is included from all sources. Interest on mortgages, bonds, etc., which accrue on March 1, must be included at the time when it is accrued, even though it has not been received. If received at some future time in the year it may be deducted, or if one can say the amount is absolutely lost and that it has once paid a tax, it may be deducted.

HOUSES AND AUTOS.

A man owning a house and renting it, may deduct as his expenses, insurance, interest, repairs, etc., but if it is the family home no deductions will be allowed for expenses. A man owning

(Continued on Page Six.)

OPENING NIGHT OF PI ETA PLAY

The Pi Eta Society of Harvard University opened up its 48th annual theatrical season Thursday evening at the club theatre at Cambridge, at what was known as "Grads Night." The opening production of the musical comedy was witnessed by quite a Quincy party. The name given this years comedy is "The bug in the rug" and it includes the tragic melodrama as well as an imitation of grand opera.

Quincy has more than a usual interest in this year's theatricals not only because a presentation is to be given in this city a week from tonight, but more especially because a Quincy student, Paul Blackmur, was one of the writers of the libretto and also took one of the leading parts in the cast. Associated with Mr. Blackmur in writing the libretto was J. R. O. Perkins, ivy orator of the senior class.

The comedy offered a plot which carried but by no means confined the fun of the play, though it possessed a rare musical quality. Gorgeous costumes, a pony ballet and good settings added to the interest in the play.

The plot with its Turkish milieu dealt with the adventures of an American rug buyer who won fame, love and presumably fortune by negotiating a franchise with the Sultan for the exclusive exportation of Turkish rugs. To accomplish this an intriguing grand vizier had to be put out of the way—a task which the timely arrival of $300,000 accomplished in a finale which exploited the conventions of the opera house.

Acting honors went to J. R. O. Perkins, Harvard's ivy orator and Glee Club reader, in the part of the rug buyer from New York; to J. J. Armstrong, the tennis star, as the sister of the hero, to Winthrop Faulkner, as the rug buyers official factotum; to Paul Blackmur, as the Prince, and to Ronald Allen as the Princess. P. S. Bliss did a clever character bit as the Grand Vizier.

All of the 18 musical numbers went with snap and precision. A Maxixe done by Paul Blackmur and Harry Ripley of the ballet was especially applauded, while "Boston Girls," sung by J. R. O. Perkins, Winthrop Faulkner and Paul Blackmur, was well received.

The Quincy production will be given under the auspices of the Quincy Tennis Club.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

QUINCY SPECIAL TRADE DAYS

Merchants Appoint a Committee to Make Arrangements

The publishers of the local papers were guests on Thursday evening of the Retail Merchants' Committee, being invited to present reasons why Quincy merchants should Advertise in their papers. Less than twenty of the merchants were present many of the long established business men being conspicuous by their absence.

A good dinner was served at 6.30 by Caterer Thompson.

President W. G. Shaw was at the table, and first called for the report of T. L. Williams, the secretary. A report of the Bargain Day committee followed, with the suggestion that the day be known as "Quincy Special Trade Day." The committee favored the use of the newspapers and a combination flyer.

President Shaw explained the organization, saying that the Merchants' Retail Commitee was not a continuation of the old Merchants Association, but a branch of the Quincy Board of Trade, composed of members of the Board who are in the retail business in Quincy. President Shaw apologized to Eben Prescott of the George W. Prescott Publishing Co., for rudeness at the last meeting which was accepted.

The newspaper publishers were then introduced.

Frank F. Prescott of the Daily Ledger objected to proceeding with Publisher Shaw as chairman of the meeting, but the meeting decided that he should continue in the chair. Mr. Prescott then proceeded. He assured the committee that the Daily Ledger was always ready to co-operate with the merchants, and was surprised that arrangements for Bargain day were made secretly without asking the cooperation of the newspapers.

Mr. Prescott then gave several reasons why Quincy merchants should advertise in the Quincy Daily Ledger and the Quincy Patriot which are published in full in the Ledger today.

W. G. Spargo of the Telegram was next introduced. He said strangers to a town usually obtained copies of the local papers, and from their appearance decided whether it was a good business place. It has been said we are too near Boston, but Waltham is about the same distance from Boston, and its two daily papers are filled with advertising. He thought the Quincy merchants were not giving the newspapers a chance, and suggested to them that they be given a trial. He said the circulation of the Telegram was from 1700 to 1800. If better support was given by the merchants much better work could be done.

C. E. Decker of the Bulletin was next introduced. He started to consider the claims of the Daily Ledger, but was called to order by a member. It was ruled that he should confine himself to the question "Why merchants should advertise." Mr. Decker withdrew, but finally continued. He showed statements from his printers, and said 66 pounds of papers were mailed at the post office; that most of the balance was distributed.

Several questions were asked of the publishers which were freely answered, and a better understanding now exists.

It was voted that a committee of five be appointed to draw up a six-months contract for the merchants to sign. After a very informal discussion the same committee was authorized to make arrangements for publicity.

It was also voted that a banquet be tendered to the clerks and members.

Representative Edward J. Sandberg, a member of the Harbor and Lands committee, is accompanying the committee on a three-day trip that takes in the Merrimac river and the cities of Lawrence, Lowell, Lynn and other places.

M. MIRKIN Upholsterer

Is the one who will give you the full satisfaction in work and prices of repairing furniture, mattresses and cushions. 1060 Hancock St., near the Quincy High School Tel. con.

THE REASONS WHY

The publishers of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER were asked to present to the Retail Merchants' Committee, their reasons "Why Quincy Merchants should Advertise in the Quincy Daily Ledger and the Quincy Patriot." The reasons are summed up in brief as follows:

1. Because such advertising will bring results and pay a large dividend to all investors.

2. Because rate is lower than any other Quincy paper when number of readers is the basis.

3. Because both the Ledger and Patriot are clean, reliable papers, and the publishers always honorable in their dealings.

4. Because said papers have for years been working for the best interests of Quincy, its taxpayers, and its business men.

5. Because good newspapers are a great benefit to any city or town and should be encouraged.

6. Because it has been an up-hill fight to establish a daily newspaper in a city like Quincy, so near Boston. Somerville, newton and Brookline have no daily newspapers, and the only daily in Cambridge is an experiment.

7. Because we are a local industry and entitled to some consideration. Pay roll of $15,0000 annually, giving steady employment to 25 or more, and pay regularly in full every week.

8. Because our papers are continually doing considerable free work for your Board of Trade, your church, your Y. M. C. A., your Hospital, your lodge, your club, your family.

9. Because we avoid blackmailing, slander, libel and gossip, and exert great care in reporting and editing.

10. Because cities as a whole are judged by their newspapers and the merchants who advertise.

11. Because merchants who advertise stand better with the wholesaler.

12. Because if our newspapers are encouraged we can do better and better work for the city.

13. Because the Ledger and Patriot are both EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD PAPERS, and so recognized by the newspaper publishers throughout New England. Newsy and enterprising.

14. Because the Daily Ledger has the circulation that ensures the best returns to advertisers.

10,000 to 15,000 Readers Daily

Quincy, Mass., March 16, 1914.

To the Merchants of Quincy and others:

This is to certify that over 2,000 copies of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER have been printed and circulated every issue since January 1, 1914; and averaged much higher, as many days 2,500 to 3,500 copies have been printed and circulated. This gives the Quincy Daily Ledger from 10,000 to 15,000 READERS EVERY DAY.

(Signed) FRANK F. PRESCOTT,
Managing Editor.

Then personally appeared before me this Sixteenth day of March, 1914, the said Frank F. Prescott, managing editor of the Quincy Daily Ledger, and made oath that the statements above are true.

(Notary) CLARENCE BURGIN,
(Seal) Notary Public.

A CHALLENGE

The publishers of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER hereby challenge any other Quincy publication daily or weekly to take oath to the number of copies they print and circulate each and every issue; and call their attention to the law relative to fraudulent advertising when they make claims they cannot verify.

We invite the merchants to send a representative to the Ledger Office each afternoon to see the edition run off; to see how it is circulated and verify our statements, and we challenge other newspapers to do the same. We also ask the merchants to visit the newstands in Quincy and Boston, and see if the Ledger does not sell ten to one of any Quincy newspaper.

George W. Prescott Publishing Co.

Quincy, March 16, 1914.

BY COMPARISON

If flyers distributed from house to house average one reader each, they do exceedingly well; but allowing this high average, 10,000 flyers would have LESS READERS than any one issue of the Quincy Daily Ledger. Have you thought of it in this light?

GIVEN LEAVE TO WITHDRAW

Adverse Report on Grade Crossing Petition

The committee on Railroads of the Legislature has added its say relative to the abolition of the grade crossings in Quincy, when it reported adversely on the bill Thursday. The bill before the committee was to the effect that the crossings at Saville and Water streets in Quincy be abolished according to the so called City plans for depression.

It was at the hearing on this bill that the alleged remarks against Mayor Miller were made by G. B. Bates, then chairman of the Board of Assessors, and which remarks later became the basis upon which Mayor Miller removed Mr. Bates from office.

The committee on Public Service of the Legislature reported adversely Thursday on the petition to extend the civil service regulations to the Chief Engineer of the Quincy Fire department.

The Committee on Legal Affairs also reported adversely on all Sunday baseball bills.

ROAST BEEF AT BETHANY

There was an attendance of upwards of 200 at the church supper given at Bethany church Thursday evening under the auspices of the Bethany Union. The supper was given by the last alphabet division and was in direct charge of Mrs. Herbert Pratt and Mrs. Andrew Stewart. The supper which was served at 6.30, included roast beef, mashed potatoes, string beans, pies, cake and coffee. The young ladies who acted as waitresses were in charge of Miss Evelyn Stewart.

SLIGHT BLAZE HOUGHS NECK

The woodwork around a stovepipe in a cottage at 55 Turner street, Houghs Neck, owned by Mrs. Alice Dizhely of Brockton was discovered on fire Thursday night by Walter Sturgis and his son Ben. They broke a window and crawled through into the kitchen and threw a burning box out of doors. They had the rest of the fire practically extinguished before the arrival of the department. The smoke pouring from the cottage was first noticed by Mr. Sturgis.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

By CHAS. H. JOHNSON, - Auctioneer
Office, Room 3 Adams Building. Tel. Con.

Receiver's Sale
At Public Auction
OF THE Valuable Granite Plant
— OF —
CIORDANI & CO.
Situated off Hall Place, West Quincy
Will be sold from premises on
SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1914
At 2.30 P. M.

Large cutting shed and office, about 45,000 square feet land, and the following personal property: One Compressor, Electric Motor, 2 Polishing Machines, Hoister and Derrick, Boiler, Pump, Surface Machine, Tools, Chains, lot of pneumatic tools, Office Furniture, Desk, Chairs, Table, lot of Lumber and Rough Stock. Here is an opportunity; extra equipped plant all ready for business will be sold in one lot. $100 deposit on day of sale, balance cash within 20 days from date of sale. Per order

Walter S. Pinkham, Attorney
Receiver
6t M11-13-14-18-19-20

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

R. E. FOY & CO. Stores of Quality and Service

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

We're Ready For Your Week-End Order of Groceries and Meats!

We offer you the greatest variety of "Good Things to Eat" that the market affords. Pure, Fresh, Wholesome Foods at lowest possible Prices. Clean Stores, Courteous Clerks, quick service—all invite you to trade here. We assure you satisfaction in every way. Try us.

THIS IS COFFEE WEEK

Our two stores are having a "Coffee Sales Contest" this week. The clerks in the store selling the most coffee win a cash prize. Incidentally our delicious coffee is being introduced into many new homes. Try a pound—'twill please you.

FOY'S QUALITY COFFEE 33c lb

ALL LEADING BRANDS OF ADVERTISED COFFEES At Popular Prices.

SELECTED SPRING LAMB
Real Lamb—tender and sweet
Fore-Quarters 12c lb Leg and Loin 18c lb
ALSO
the very best of
BEEF, PORK, AND VEAL
CHICKEN AND FOWL

New Potatoes — Sweet Potatoes — New Cabbage -- Cucumbers -- Lettuce-- Radishes -- Rhubarb -- Celery -- Ripe Tomatoes -- Spanish and Burmuda Onions -- Fancy Spinach -- etc., etc. at lowest prices.

100 KINDS CAKES AND CRACKERS
Both Imported and Domestic
FRESH BAKED BREAD AND PASTRY

EGGS ARE LOWER
Not only much lower in price, but higher in quality They're fresh and nice. Mighty good eating. Try them.
FRESH EASTERN EGGS
26c and 29c doz
FANCY FRESH EGGS
Received Daily from Assinippe
33c doz.

BUTTER LOWER, TOO
Best Northern Creamery 32c lb

CALIFORNIA "SUNKIST" SEEDLESS ORANGES 23c doz

LARGE LUCIOUS Sweet and Juicy FLORIDA ORANGES 29c doz

March 20-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Established 1889

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription

By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.

Incorporated.

TELEPHONES

News . . . Quincy 425

Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC.

of the Quincy Daily Ledger, published daily at Quincy, Massachusetts, required by the act of August 24, 1912.

Managing Editor, Frank F. Prescott Quincy, Mass.

Business Managers, Board of Directors, Quincy, Mass.

Publishers, George W. Prescott Publishing Co., Quincy, Mass.

Owners: Frank F. Prescott, Quincy, Mass., Eben Prescott, Braintree, Mass., Etta M. Prescott, Quincy, Mass., Annie L. Prescott, Quincy, Mass., Alice K. P. Low, Quincy, Mass.

Average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date of this statement, 2756.

George W. Prescott Publishing Co. by A. L. PRESCOTT, Treasurer.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 17th day of March 1914.

CLARENCE BURGIN,
(Seal) Notary Public.

My commission expires Dec. 8. 1916

Mar. 18-tf

STORAGE WAREHOUSE IDEA.

In the cost of living problem the three elements are land, labor, and distribution. Land in the United States will never be cheap again. Labor will never be cheap again. But by putting American brains to work on the problem of cutting out waste motions and saving duplicate profits, it ought to be possible to counter-balance at least in part the higher cost of land and labor.

The idea of erecting storage warehouses, primarily to supply the consumers of an immediately adjacent neighborhood, is attracting wide attention. It is successfully worked out in many localities now.

The farmer cannot usually peddle food products from door to door. He cannot spend his time going around from one grocer to another, one provision man to another, or one slaughter house to another.

Meanwhile the people who live in the town lying nearest to his farm are using the same products that he raises. They buy them of some retail dealer who orders them from some wholesaler. At least two profits are paid, commonly more than that. Often the produce has been hauled into some large city, and hauled out again.

The theory of the warehouse is that many classes of farm products from that immediate neighborhood could be hauled into a place where storage and refrigeration shall be provided, the same to be sold as far as possible in the country roundabout. Certainly the people of the neighborhood should get lower prices. The farmer should get more money than a commission agent would give him. On products that have to be sent away, the agent in charge ought to be able to get more money than the farmer can when selling a small lot.

The colleges may not be able to make every student proficient in baseball, but at least they seem disposed to teach them all to dance the tango.

☞Although word comes along the line of slack times in the printing and newspaper business, which is borne out by the number of printers on the road seeking work, it does not seem to be the case at the Ledger office for with extra hands put on this week and overtime work, we find it hard to keep ahead of our orders. Our force the year round is 25, and none are ever laid off because of dull times or lack of work.

DROWNS HER TWO BABIES.

Woman Then Tries to End Her Own Life With Carbolic Acid

Greenwich, Conn., March 20.—Two baby daughters, Margery, aged 3, and Vivian, 2, drowned in a bathtub and his young wife lying half unconscious on a bed while an empty bottle which had contained carbolic acid lay on the floor, was what William Anthony saw when he returned to his home as usual.

The 3-months-old boy of the couple was found in an upper chamber unharmed.

Mrs. Anthony left a note for her husband saying she realized that she was becoming a burden to him because her health was so poor; that she could not do her work, and she intended to end her life and take the children with her. Although her condition is critical, there is a possibility that she will survive. Why she neglected to kill her youngest child is not known.

The Anthonys were married four years ago. For the last month the wife has been under the care of a doctor. According to him, she imagined she had tuberculosis and could not live.

FAMILY'S COLOR CHANGES

Eight Children Declared White After Long Court Fight

New Orleans, March 20.—Eight children of Mrs. Camillo M. Padros, heretofore known officially as negroes, were officially declared white persons after a long court fight. Each of the eight, all adults, were registered by the city board of health as negroes when born. Church records showed them to be white.

Mandamus proceedings were brought to compel the health board to declare them white. During the court proceedings attorneys charge that the church records had been altered.

The first ancestor of whom there was record came here in 1786 and married a white woman. He was of Latin origin, and his complexion was dark. The Padros family declares this is the reason the family officially has been called negroes.

DIVORCE IS GIVEN MRS. DAHLSTROM

Husband, a Clergyman, Accused of Thirty-One Marriages

Everett, Wash., March 20.—Mrs. Martha Dahlstrom, wife of Rev. Albert Dahlstrom, who is now in jail in Seattle, awaiting sentence for violation of the white slave law, obtained a divorce here, the decree carrying with it all the property of the Dahlstroms.

Included in the estate is a large tract of land in Snohomish county, on which Dahlstrom had planned to found a colony of his sect known as Heliga.

According to an agent of the United States department of justice, Dahlstrom had contracted common law marriages all over the western part of the country, thirty-one of these alliances being charged against him.

MARRIAGE TIES DISSOLVED

Divorce of Prince William and Princess Marie Is Approved

Stockholm, March 20.—The council of state has approved the decision of the consistory court granting a divorce in the case of Prince William of Sweden and Princess Marie, who before her marriage was Grand Duchess Marie Pavlovna of Russia, and has declared the marriage dissolved. In their petitions for divorce incompatibility of temperament was given by both the prince and princess as the ground for their appeal.

The couple were married in 1908, and on account of alleged domestic troubles the princess separated from her husband.

DIES AFTER HIS RESCUE

Man Found Alive After Burial In Debris Thirty-Seven Hours

St. Louis, March 20.—Thirty-seven hours after a wall of the Missouri A. C. building collapsed on the St. Louis seed store, a live man was found buried in the wreckage.

"My God, give me a drink," he gasped. With desperation eighty men tore at the debris and uncovered G. Burke, a missing laborer. He died two hours after he was taken to a hospital.

With the death of Burke the total dead in the seed house collapse is brought up to seven.

GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Man Who Cut Youth to Death at Boston Goes to Prison

Boston, March 20.—William Kaminsky, 32 years old, today begun to serve a life sentence in the state prison for the killing of John Scannell, 17, in this city.

Kaminsky pleaded guilty to the charge of murder in the second degree in the superior criminal court.

The cases of four other Polanders who were with Kaminsky at the time of the murder when Scannell was riddled with knife wounds and were charged with being accessories after the fact were dropped.

Literacy Test Stands

Washington, March 20.—With the literacy test included, the Burnett immigration bill was favorably reported to the senate.

OUTPOSTS FLEE BEFORE VILLA

Rebel Leader Says He Will Be In Torreon Sunday

A CONCENTRATION OF FORCES

Federals Reported to Be Preparing to Make a Stand at Torreon and Nearby Cities, Having Abandoned Plan to Check Advance at Other Points —Veterans Bear the Brunt

El Paso, Tex., March 20.—General Francisco Villa, commanding the Mexican rebels before Torreon, broke his long silence since the battle of Torreon began by telegraphing rebel officials at Juarez that he expected to be in Torreon Sunday.

This was followed by another official dispatch in which Villa stated that the Zaragosa brigade of constitutionalists, commanded by General Benavides, had fought its way from Escalon as far south as Yerpo, one of the distant suburbs of Torreon. The federals, said Villa, were abandoning all of their outposts north of Torreon and were concentrating their forces within Torreon itself and the cities of Lerdo and Gomez Palacio

These dispatches are borne out by a long message sent to his father here by Benavides himself. Benavides referred to the fighting Saturday, Sunday and Monday about Escalon, saying it was really inconsequental. He added that the federals had been badly defeated in every skirmish so far and all their outposts were in full retreat toward Torreon.

If Benavides has succeeded in getting into Bermijillo it would indicate that General Velasquez, the federal commander at Torreon, had abandoned all idea of checking the rebel advance at that point.

Benavides' Zaragosa brigade is made up of veterans. Just as Villa relied upon General Ortega's veteran troops to carry the burden of the long attack on Ojinaga last December, so he has called upon the Zaragosa brigade to bear the brunt of the fighting in the Torreon battle.

Despite Benavides' statement that the fighting about Escalon was "inconsequential," there is a general belief here that it may have been more serious than Villa is willing to admit. This is expected to be shown when Villa permits the newspaper correspondents to file their stories.

The constitutionalist officials in Juarez were jubilant over Villa's messages, declaring they indicate that the federal defeat has been complete.

The Slaughter of Mutineers

Mexico City, March 20.—The Huerta government accepted at face value and made no definite move to investigate the report of General Castro that he had summarily executed 149 mutineers at Jojutla.

Castro has been relieved of his command at Jojutla, but not on account of the executions.

Wealthy merchants and ranch owners are in a quandary as a result of Huerta's demands for $25,000,000 and assurances from them that they will support his government in the aggressive campaign now planned.

They fear that if they wear a badge indicating their loyalty to Huerta, as he asked, and also furnish ten men each for the army in accordance with his demands, they may face ruin in case the rebels should be successful in their advance from the north.

All fear to decline to comply with any of Huerta's demands, but realize they may be put on the prescribed list of the rebels in case Huerta is driven out

USES RAZOR AND AXE

Frenzied Man Makes Savage Attack on Wife and a Friend

Lowell, Mass., March 20.—Frenzied by liquor, William B. Sweeney of Dracut slashed Michael Trumey of this city with a razor and fractured his wife's skull with an axe during a quarrel that arose between the men while they were drinking at the Sweeney home.

Sweeney is at the Lowell police station, charged with drunkenness and assault with a dangerous weapon. Mrs. Sweeney was attacked when she attempted to act as peacemaker.

Trumey and Mrs. Sweeney are at a hospital in this city. The name of Mrs. Sweeney is on the dangerous list and her recovery is said to be doubtful.

DEATH OF AGNES SISSON

Succumbs to Injuries Resulting From Revolver Shot Wound

Worcester, Mass., March 20.—Miss Agnes F. Sisson, 59 years old, died in the city hospital from pneumonia, resulting from a revolver shot wound inflicted on her March 6 by Mrs. Mary E. Powers in the Powers home, where Miss Sisson was employed as housekeeper.

Mrs. Powers has been an invalid many years and she shot Miss Sisson, it is said, during a fit of insane jealousy. She is under observation in the state hospital.

Army Aviator Killed

London, March 20.—Lieutenant H. F. Treeby, British army aviator, was killed when his biplane collapsed while he was making a flight over Salisbury Plain.

INDUSTRIAL AND SOCIAL

Rev. Nicholas Van der Pyle Speaks on Conditions

The regular monthly meeting of the Men's Club of the Congregational church at South Braintree was held in the chapel Wednesday evening and there was a good attendance of members. Supper was served at 6.45, the piece de resistance being hot roast beef, flanked by baked potatoes with gravy, macaroni, green peas, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake. After the repast, cigars were lighted and President Reed introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. Nicholas Vander Pyl of Haverhill, who spoke on "Industrial and social conditions of New England."

Mr. Van der Pyl gave a most interesting talk on the I. W. W. movement, and while he isn't in sympathy with its principles nor does he believe they will succeed, he does admire the devotion of their leaders to what they feel is right.

He is well acquainted with both Giovanitti and Ettor and describes them as cultured and polished and very far from the desperate characters they are commonly supposed to be.

Contrary to general belief, he says, the immigrants from Europe have thoughts, feelings and aspirations like ours, and they are just as human. They are more ambitious than the native Americans, and provided they are not handicapped by ill health outstrip them every time.

He ascribed the defeat of Tammany in the recent elections in New York city to the later immigrants, saying that they as a rule are for the best and cleanest in politics.

Mr. Van der Pyl said the I. W. W. is recruited almost wholly from unskilled underpaid laborers, and that it can never flourish when employees are willing to pay a decent living wage. He gave out the rather startling fact that its president and secretary are New England men, and trace their ancestry back to the Puritans.

The speaker said that the solution of this problem will not come about in weeks, months or years from now perhaps, but will obtain when we treat the immigrants as worthy of our respect, and assume that they are fellow human beings and not merely the offscouring of the earth.

His reading of a letter written by Giovanitti, and a part of his address to the jury at his trial in Salem, showed this son of Italy to be a master of English and of diction.

At the close of his address, Mr. Van der Pyl answered questions from many in the audience, and was accorded a rising vote of thanks for his clear explanation of a very interesting and timely subject.

The supper was in charge of a committee consisting of Foster F. Tupper, Chester A. Maddocks, Harry C. Thayer H. Parker Hobart, Edwin S. Loring. These gentlemen were ably assisted by Mrs. Maddocks and Mrs. Tupper.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—try it with a bowl of milk and blueberries. All grocers.

EVERY WOMAN SHOULD HAVE THIS SET

OUR MILADY'S COMBINATION TOILET PERFUME SET

This set contains 5 of our most popular preparations.

1 Bottle Milady's Perfume
1 Large Bottle Milady's Shampoo
1 Cake Milady's Cuticle Soap
1 Jar Milady's Rose Cold Cream
1 Sifter Box Milady's Talcum Powder.

You know these preparations, they are famous for their pure qualities and agreeable odors. They are being sold the world over at from 50c to $1.00 for each preparation. Your dealer would charge you not less than $2.50 for the set and we are offering it to you for a limited time only for $1.00.

VANITY PURSE FREE

FREE if you will send in your order now we will send you absolutely free with this set, One Simulation German Silver Vanity Purse, New Yorks' Latest Craze. This purse is of striped design, two ball clasp, with cable link chain Silkoline lined, one side contains half pocket, other side with spring coin holders, dime, nickel and quarter.

We will send Milday's Set complete with Vanity purse if you order at once for $1.00. We sell you direct. Order now today.

Agents need not write.

Send ten cents in stamps to cover postage. Send $1.00 coin or money order.

UNIVERSAL PRODUCTS CO.
Dayton, Ohio.

FRENCH CABINET LOSES MONIS

Caillaux' Colleague Involved In Rochette Scandal

STATE SECRETS IN JEOPARDY

Fear That Skeleton of French Diplomacy Will Rattle Unless Defense of Temporary Insanity Is Entered For Mme. Caillaux—Slayer Shows Signs of Remorse For Her Crime

Paris, March 20.—Another cabinet upheaval occurred as a result of the assassination of Gaston Calmette, editor of Le Figaro, by Mme. Henriette Caillaux. W. E. Monis, minister of marine, resigned, and Albert F. Lebrun was provisionally appointed in his stead.

Monis' resignation was directly due to the Rochette scandal, which was brought to a head by the murder of Calmette and the accusations that Monis, a colleague of Caillaux, had while premier ordered the adjournment of the trial of Henry Rochette on a charge of swindling.

All the power of the French government is being brought to bear to prevent the revelation of state secrets when Mme. Caillaux is brought to trial for the assassination of Calmette.

Government officials want Labori, who is to defend Mme. Caillaux, to enter a defense of temporary insanity. Labori, it is said, has stated that the shooting of Calmette was in defense of the family honor, and that he had taken the woman's case "for the sake of humanity."

This could be based upon the editorial attacks made by Calmette against Caillaux, and would prevent the introduction of evidence that would rattle the skeletons of French diplomacy.

Foes of Caillaux have been openly boasting ever since the murder that they would bring to light at the trial all the dark spots in the official life of the former cabinet minister and drive him from public life forever, together with the present premier and his associates. Their threats have been partly borne out by the resignation of Caillaux from the cabinet and the retirement of Monis twenty-four hours before the time set for an investigation of the Rochette affair by a committee of deputies.

Mme. Caillaux has broken down in her cell in the St. Lazare prison, and for the first time since she shot Calmette has shown signs of remorse. Labori had a long conference with her, but to the army of reporters which surrounded him after he emerged from the jail he declared he had nothing yet to say for publication. Caillaux visited his wife later, remaining with her for about an hour.

While the press considers the situation very tense and the tragedy is unanimously deplored, it is recognized that the affair will reopen the Rochette case and eventually will clear the political atmosphere.

SHIVELY IS UNOPPOSED

Renominated For Senator by Democrats of the Hoosier State

Indianapolis, March 20.—With little friction, a complete state ticket, excepting candidates for governor and lieutenant governor, but including a candidate for United States senator, was nominated and a platform which indorsed the national and state administrations and declared in favor of a state-wide primary law was adopted by the Democrats of Indiana in state convention here.

United States Senator Benjamin F. Shively was renominated by acclamation, as he was not opposed.

ECONOMY HIS CHIEF ISSUE

Pillsbury Wants Nomination For Governor of New Hampshire

Manchester, N. H., March 20.—Rosecrans W. Pillsbury announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor of New Hampshire.

Pillsbury declares the Democrats have been inefficient and suggests a long list of reforms. He would make economy his chief issue.

Senator Hutchins of Stratford and Councillor Noone of Peterborough are mentioned for the Democratic nomination.

IMPORTATION OF BEEF

Houston Does Not Think It Will Lower Our Domestic Prices

Washington, March 20.—Evidence that the so-called "beef trust" extends its influence to other countries is contained in a statement made public by authority of the secretary of agriculture.

While Secretary Houston does not say so directly, he indicates pretty plainly there is little likelihood at present that prices for meat will be influenced to any appreciable degree by imports.

Eliot's Eightieth Birthday

Cambridge, Mass., March 20.—Charles W. Eliot, under whose administration as president Harvard university advanced in less than a half century to a leading place among the educational institutions of the country, is observing his 80th birthday today.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

OPEN A BANK ACCOUNT HERE

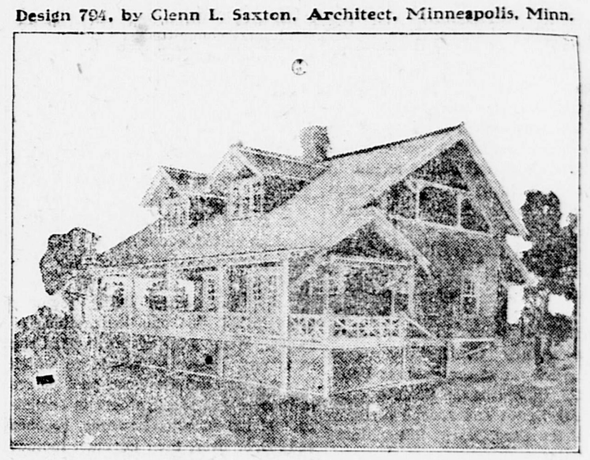
Do business in a business-like way, and secure for yourself the great number of privileges that are yours without cost as a result. Office hours are convenient and employees obliging and polite. There is much information and advice that is free to our depositors, and we are always ready to consult with you if you wish.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

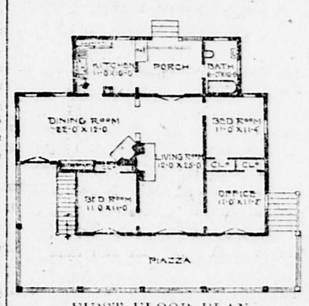
GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

A STYLISH FLORIDA RANCH HOUSE.

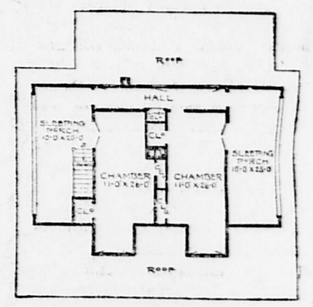
Design 794, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.



PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN.



SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

Here is a home designed for a Florida fruit grower and is an adaptation from the Spanish style of architecture to meet the requirements of American out of door life in a sunny climate; also adapted to a summer home in the north at lake, forest or mountain resorts. May be built in many ways and of many different kinds of material without altering its attractions or utility. The first appealing feature is the large ten foot piazza, which extends back on two sides, with four rooms opening into it. The central living room connects with the back screened in porch, throwing the house open from front to back. Double French doors connect the living and dining rooms with the porch. The kitchen opens upon a back porch, where the built in refrigerator may be easily reached from the outside and inside. Three bedrooms and a bathroom off the back porch complete the first floor. Fireplace in both the living room and the dining room. Stairway at one end of the long piazza or gallery, as it is called in Florida, leads to a sleeping balcony which connects by the rear hallway, with its duplicate at the other end of the house. Two sleeping rooms intervene, each opening upon one of the balconies. Size, 47 by 26 feet over the main part. First story, 10 feet; second story, 9 feet. No basement. Birch floors throughout. Finish in first story red gum, second story pine to paint. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $2,600.

Upon receipt of $1 the publisher of this paper will furnish a copy of Saxton's book of plans, "American Dwellings." It contains about 250 up to date designs of cottages, bungalows and residences costing from $1,000 to $6,000.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Why Newspaper Advertising Pays:

1. The newspaper advertisement is not buried—it is accessible.

2. The newspaper advertisement of a commodity continually or daily needed is read by the very people whose continual or daily need the advertiser desires to supply.

3. The newspaper advertisement may be seen thirty times a month—it is not limited to one appearance.

Through the daily newspaper the advertiser can make a local and intimate appeal to his prospective customer in his own community and in his own vernacular.

TRY A LEDGER AD

plus $200,000

HERE way, and per of privi-

as a result.
employees ch informadepositors, lt with you

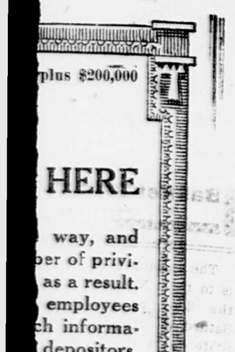
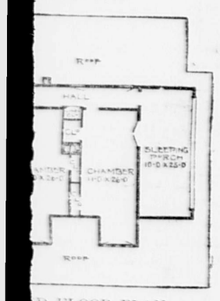
T Co.

CH HOUSE,

Minneapolis, Minn.



OTOGRAPH.



D FLOOR PLAN.

wer and is an adaptation equirements of American a summer home in the lit in many ways and of its attractions or utility.
zza, which extends back central living room con-house open from front dining rooms with the the built in refrigerator
Three bedrooms and a Fireplace in both the d of the long piazza or balcony which connects nd of the house. Two e balconies. Size, 47 by ound story, 9 feet. No story red gum, second and plumbing, $2,600.

will furnish a copy of ontains about 250 up to ing from $1,000 to $6,000.

TISING

Pays:

ied—it is accessible.
modity continually or ntinual or daily need

seen thirty times a vertiser can make prospective nity and lar.

AD

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Bowling Contests Athletic Leagues
Illustrated Lectures Banquets
Basket Ball Conferences

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. second team is to meet Newton Y. M. C. A. 2nd on the floor of the Boston Y. M. C. A. Saturday, March 28, to settle the State championship for second teams. Quincy easily defeated these rivals on the local floor about a month ago and should find no difficulty in repeating a week from Saturday.

The Mother and Son banquet which was held in Association hall was the second in the United States. Newton, Mass., Y. M. C. A. held the first one in January. Mr. Gibson, the State secretary was very well pleased with the large attendance of Mothers, Sons and members of the Auxiliary.

The Hobbs bowling tournament was won by Oscar Djerf, who had a total pinfall of 2302, an average of over 92 a string. Mr. LaRose finished second with 2283, Brooks was next with 2193. Wessels won high single with 125 and Hunt took second high with 124. Mr. LaRose refused to take the cup for second high total thus passing it along to Brooks who finished third.

Secretary Bromley has introduced a new combination game board this week and the fellows are having great fun playing indoor quoits. Other games may be played on the board including table squash and indoor shinny.

Dr. George L. Cady of Dorcester is to be the speaker at the Sunday afternoon meeting at Kincaide's. His subject is to be "The Twentieth Century Man needs the First Century Christ." The Temple Quartet of which Mr. E. E. Bullock of Wollaston is first tenor is to sing.

The Senior All round Meet is to be held tomorrow and there will be more struggle than was exepected for first place since Glover has decided not to enter. Trask, T. Djerf. Ed. Brown, White, Phelan and Shirley will all make a strong bid for first place. There are several dark horses among the Employed Boys who will also have to be reckoned with.

Members of the Junior class are getting their new Q's sewed on and are having their uniforms put in shape for the annual exhibition which takes place next Friday evening. This is the time when parents and friends go to the gymnasium to see what the boys can do after the year of training under Mr. La Rose's direction. In addition to the class work there will be a special stunt for the Junior leader and every boy in the class who has shown regularity in attendance will be given a chance to play basket ball.

The next meeting of the Women's Auxiliary will be held on April 3rd. This is the last meeting before the annual election and the ladies are making a special effort to get out a large attendance.

The meeting of the Physical Directors society of Massachusetts and Rhode Island was held on Thursday. Mr. LaRose as president had charge of the program and presided at the meeting.

The men who live in the Dormitories are beginning to talk baseball and it is more than probable that a team will be organized when the weather moderates a little. There are among these men several old college players and the team ought to round out into a very good one.

With the final athletic meet in sight the Junior teams are getting in shape for the deciding events of the second term's work. The Pilgrims are in the lead now but with many points possible in the meet all the other teams have a good chance to win out. The Pilgrims have 51 points now, with the Wandereds second with 45.1 B. A. A. has 36.3 and the Puritans 29.8.

The games in the Sunday School basket ball league for Saturday afternoon are:

K. O. K. A. vs Wollaston Methodist.
United Presbyterian vs Wollaston Baptist.
Union Chapel vs. Swedish Lutheran.
Wollaston Cong. vs Wollaston Methodist.

The first game is called at 3 o'clock.

The results of State Boys Day although not as large as last year were fairly satisfactory considering that only 25 boys worked. The others found the Auto Show more desirable than work. The total amount raised was 70.70. Of this $35.35 is deposited in the Quincy Savings Bank for the Camp fund, $17.68 was sent to the State committee, $10.60 to the International committee and $7.07 to the Foreign department Committee. The total of the Camp fund is now about $90.

In the Boys department competition B. A. A. won out by a large percentage with .927 as a total. The Wanderers were second with .599, Pilgrims third with .499 and Puritans last with .440. The cup awarded to the team was for getting attendance at Saturday morning meetings team attendance at these meetings, new members and money collected on State Boys Day. Joe Beal of the B. A. A. gave his team a big boost by collecting $25.00 on State Boys Day.

Only One "BROMO QUININE"
To get the genuine call for full name, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for signature of E. W. GROVE. Cures a Cold in One Day. 25c

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, City Square
Tel. Quincy 1745 W. March 16-6t

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy. Feb. 27-tf

MANY RECEIVE REBEKAH DEGREE

District Deputy Mrs. Estella Adams of Dorchester, accompanied by her suite was the guest of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, I. O. O. F., in Odd Fellows hall Thursday night. They were royally welcomed by over 125 members that were present.

Mrs. May Gaynor of Dorchester, degree mistress, assisted by the officers of the lodge, conferred the Rebekah degree on a large class of candidates.

The guests were very complimentary in their expressions after the exemplification and stated that it was the best they had witnessed this season.

Among the business matters was the acceptance of the invitation to be the guests of Abigail Adams lodge at South Weymouth on April 1, the trip to be made by special car, and the appointing of a committee for a dance in Electa hall.

A social hour followed the meeting, during which refreshments were served. The committee in charge was headed by Mrs. Robert Welch.

ENTERTAINED AT BANQUET.

Castle Bethany, No. 2562, K. O. K. A. of Quincy, together with Holyrood Castle of Dorchester were the guests of Boston commandery, K. of M. at their public installation Thursday evening. After the impressive installation ceremonies, a long and varied entertainment was enjoyed. The evening closed with a banquet in the dining hall, after which the sir knights returned home, voting the affair one of the most enjoyable in their experience.

RADFORD, VA., MAN
Rundown and Nervous, Restored to Health by Vinol.

A. D. Robinson, Radford, Va., says: "I was all run down in health, had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep at night. Vinol was recommended to me and after using one bottle I noticed an improvement. Continuing its use I was completely restored to health. The nervousness is all gone, I can get a good night's sleep and have a hearty appetite. I can recommend Vinol to anyone who suffers as I did."

Vinol is the greatest body builder and strength creator we know of. The curative elements of the cod's liver, aided by the blood-making, strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol, restore the lacking ingredients to the blood, and the result is health, strength and vigor.

If you need building up try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

At the Milton Club minstrels at the Central avenue clubhouse, P. M. Reynolds was interlocutor and the ends were P. S. Dalton, W. Jackson, A. W. Rice and A. L. Devens, Jr. L. A. Coolidge contributed a stump speech, D. C. Watson and L. N. Sargent gave vaudeville sketches. Lincoln Rice, solos and a musical medley was given by members of the Harvard Mandolin Club. Others took part in the lengthy program which was well received by the large number present.

A girl whose name has not been disclosed by the police was taken to the station by a Milton officer Thursday and later committed to the Physopathic hospital at Brookline for observation. Wednesday night she was in the custody of the Quincy officers and was released Thursday morning. That afternoon she appeared in East Milton and her actions resulted in her being sent to police headquarters. It is understood that she is a resident of Quincy.

Mrs. T. Schrieber and baby whose husband has been appointed to the staff of the Lowell hospital joined her husband in that city this week.

John Leary of Canton avenue is ill at his home.

The employees of the department for the suppression of gypsy moths in the town are at work in all parts of Milton.

The exhibition of paintings by Miss Harriet E. Newhall in the art room of the Milton Public Library opened Thursday morning. The exhibition is a source of gratification to art lovers of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard A. Hird of 60 Cheever street announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Kathryn Powers to Thomas Scott of Montclair N. J. Miss Powers is a graduate of Milton High school, class of 1911.

The annual reunion of the High school class will be held in Milton Town hall April 20. The committee includes Milton Margeson, Merle Hurder, Malcolm Carder, John Grundy, Veronica Wachter, Charlotte Philbrick, Elsie Keegan and Hazel Currier.

The special committee on the proposed new Town hall have been holding regular meetings and expect to hold another to hear more suggestions from the residents on the plans and specifications which are exhibited before taking final action.

Rev. Boyd Edwards conducted the midweek Lenten services in the Church of the Mission of Our Saviour on Thursday evening. The attendance was large and music was by the regular choir.

Candidates for base ball are practising and a large squad of rookies have reported.

The will of Charles F. Fairbanks of Milton, treasurer of the Bigelow Carpet Co., has been filed in the Norfolk Probate court. Household furniture, horses, carriages and personal effects are left to his wife, Julia E. Fairbanks His daughter Julia M. Fairbanks, is left $50,000. Three sons, Henry T., Charles F. and Stephen are given $25,000 each; his daughter-in-law Ethel Fairbanks, $25,000; to each of his grandchildren, the children of William Fairbanks. $1000; to Caroline L. Fairbanks and Catherine Fairbanks. $1500 each and to his nephews and neices $500 each.

ELKS ATTEND FUNERAL

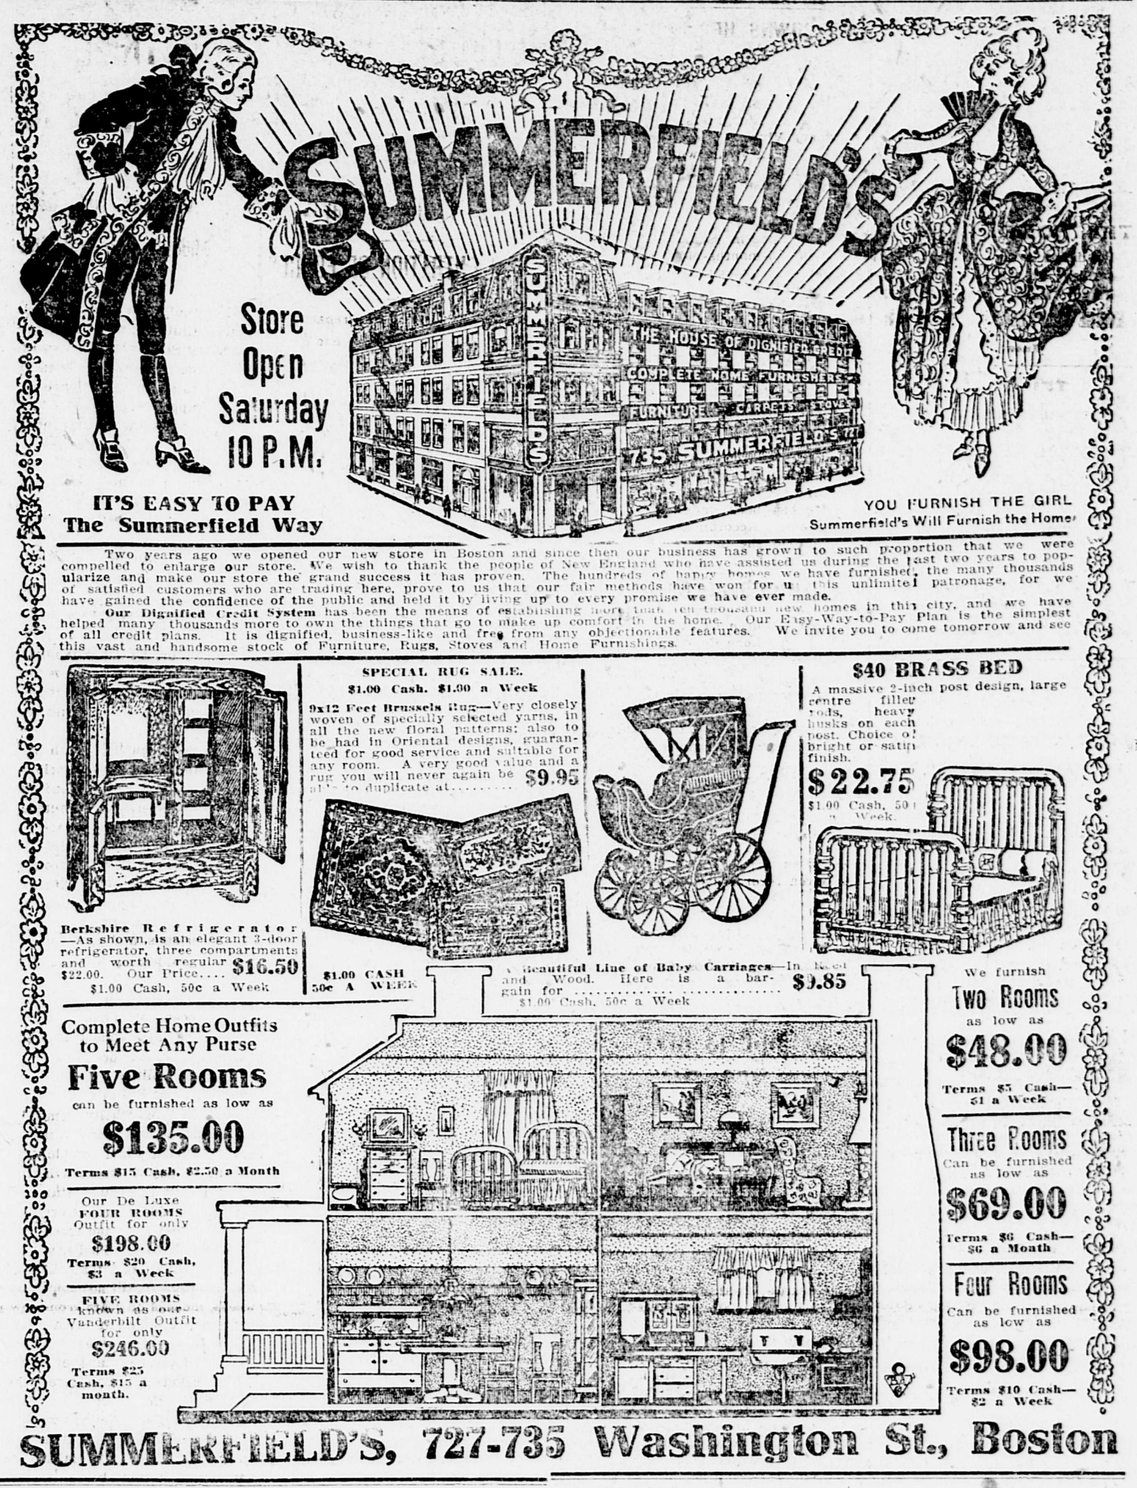
The funeral of Ira T. Doble was held from his home on Furnace Brook parkway Thursday afternoon and was largely attended, among those present being members of the Quincy Lodge of Elks of which he was esteemed leading knight. Services were conducted by Rev. T. C. Martin of the Hall Place M. E. church, and burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery. There were many floral remembrances.

PRESIDENT SAMIENTO.

Mayor James M. Curley of Boston has announced that Argentina proposes to give to his city a bronze statue of the founder and first president of their republic, Samiento. The information was given him by Dr. Ronaldo Naon, Argentine minister to this country. The statue will cost in excess of $100,000 and will be a token of the esteem that Argentina has for Boston. Bela Pratt, the sculptor has submitted a model.

KILLED ON RAILROAD.

Miss Eva Chatto, aged 53 years, a sister of the late Mrs. Hudson, wife of Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson of the First Parish church was killed Thursday at Ellsworth, Me., while walking along the tracks of the Maine Central railroad. It was only a few weeks go that Mrs. Hudson died suddenly.



Two years ago we opened our new store in Boston and since then our business has grown to such proportion that we were compelled to enlarge our store. We wish to thank the people of New England who have assisted us during the last two years to popularize and make our store the grand success it has proven. The hundreds of happy homes we have furnished, the many thousands of satisfied customers who are trading here, prove to us that our fair methods have won for us this unlimited patronage, for we have gained the confidence of the public and held it by living up to every promise we have ever made.

Our Dignified Credit System has been the means of establishing more than ten thousand new homes in this city, and we have helped many thousands more to own the things that go to make up comfort in the home. Our Easy-Way-to-Pay Plan is the simplest of all credit plans. It is dignified, business-like and free from any objectionable features. We invite you to come tomorrow and see this vast and handsome stock of Furniture, Rugs, Stoves and Home Furnishings.

Berkshire Refrigerator—As shown, is an elegant 3-door refrigerator, three compartments and worth regular $22.00. Our Price.... $16.50
$1.00 Cash, 50c a Week

SPECIAL RUG SALE.
$1.00 Cash. $1.00 a Week
9x12 Feet Brussels Rug—Very closely woven of specially selected yarns, in all the new floral patterns; also to be had in Oriental designs, guaranteed for good service and suitable for any room. A very good value and a rug you will never again be able to duplicate at..... $9.95

$1.00 CASH 50c A WEEK

A Beautiful Line of Baby Carriages—In Reed and Wood. Here is a bargain for $9.85
$1.00 Cash, 50c a Week

$40 BRASS BED
A massive 2-inch post design, large centre fillet rods, heavy husks on each post. Choice of bright or satin finish.
$22.75
$1.00 Cash, 50c a Week

Complete Home Outfits to Meet Any Purse

Five Rooms
can be furnished as low as $135.00
Terms $15 Cash, $2.50 a Month

Our De Luxe FOUR ROOMS Outfit for only $198.00
Terms $20 Cash, $3 a Week

FIVE ROOMS known as our Vanderbilt Outfit for only $246.00
Terms $25 Cash, $15 a month.

We furnish Two Rooms
as low as $48.00
Terms $5 Cash—$1 a Week

Three Rooms
Can be furnished as low as $69.00
Terms $6 Cash—$6 a Month

Four Rooms
Can be furnished as low as $98.00
Terms $10 Cash—$2 a Week

SUMMERFIELD'S, 727-735 Washington St., Boston

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH NOTES.

The Dorcas Society served one of its famous good suppers to a large number Tuesday evening. It was a social rally to promote the welfare of the parish. The president of the parish, Eben Prescott, spoke of the inspiring history of this old church, and of his pleasure at the growing attendance and interest in its work. Old workers have been faithful and new ones are proving themselves helpful in the right way and place. Other churches are gradually accepting the larger and brighter faith of Universalism, but our work as a church is not therefore done. Plans for more efficient work were outlined. A re-organization of the parish is under way, and new by-laws are ready for consideration at the annual meeting in April. The suggestions met with enthusiastic response. Other speakers were called upon. Mr. J. F. Hyland, chairman of the Ways and Means committee reported a good increase in subscriptions. It was reported for the treasurer, Mr. Hobart, who was unable to be present, that all bills are paid and there is money in the treasury.

Mrs. Florence Cutler spoke of the organ which has just been put in first class condition through the efforts of Mrs. R. G. Reed. Miss Etta Hanson, secretary of the Mission Circle spoke of the strong interest that is sustained in its meetings and work. Two recent food sales have netted $30. A student has been aided at Tuft's College and generaus gifts made to work in North Carolina and Japan. The president of the Y. P. C. U., Freeland Hyland, spoke for the Y. P. C. U. and the Teacher Training Class. Miss Emily Blake spoke for the Church. Other speakers were Mrs. G. F. Spooner, president of the Dorcas, Mrs. R. G. Reed, Charles H. Greene of the trustees, Miss Mary Cudworth, clerk, J. Edward Greene.

The pastor, Rev. M. C. Ward, spoke in appreciation of the activity in all departments of the society. The Sunday school especially deserves praise for the work being done. Mr. E. Bartlett Spooner is the youngest and one of the most efficient and hard working Sunday school superintendents. Mr. Ward spoke of the personal pleasure it has been for him to return to this parish where he had a successful pastorate ten years ago, and meet his old friends. It is good to see many who were active years ago taking a new interest in the church and there is a hearty welcome for every new comer. The spirit of the parish is growing in the most happy way.

The methods of work now being applied by the new president of the parish are commending themselves to all by their high ideals and efficiency. Mr. Ward paid a warm tribute to the life and character of his old friend, the late George W. Prescott, the former editor and publisher of this paper and father of the president of the parish. He was "faithful unto death" to his church, to whatever he believed was right, and he has left us a memory that we shall ever cherish of his loyalty and devotion. Mr. Ward closed with an earnest appeal to all to love the Lord Jesus Christ and to unite with his church and re-consecrate themselves to his service.

Mr. Phillips, a past commander of the G. A. R., recited a fitting selection. Miss Irene Homes sang three solos in fine voice and responded to several enthusiastic encores. One of the elderly members was heard to remark "It is the best parish meeting I ever attended."

The Universalist Sunday school birthday party was held in the vestry of the church Thursday. From four to six the little folks were entertained by games, music and stories. At the kindergarten tables, prettily laid with small dishes, attractively decorated cakes, candies, ice cream and hot chocolate were served by Miss Hobart and Miss Newcomb. From seven to nine the older boys and girls enjoyed themselves to their hearts' content. A series of games were played in which all took part and thoroughly enjoyed. After a grand march, with Mrs. Greene at the piano, all seated themselves at one long table with the pastor, Rev. Merrill C. Ward at the head. Favors at each place of small Easter chickens and fancy candy with the especially decorated birthday cake in the centre made the table look most inviting. After a feast of ice cream, cake and candy more games were played, then came some music as a finish to a most enjoyable evening. The party was in charge of the superintendent, E. Bartlett Spooner who arranged and carried out the most successful party which the children voted the "best ever."

TRAVEL TALK.

"Rome—Ancient and Modern" will be the subject of E. M. Newman's third Travel talk at Symphony hall, Boston, Friday evening and Saturday afternoon. The first half will be devoted to a survey of the ruins of the magnificent temples and monuments in the Forum, where new excavations are daily bringing to light ancient architectural wonders and artistic masterpieces. On the Palatine Hill, mute evidence of the reckless extravagance in the time of the Caesars will be disclosed in the stately ruins of their palaces, and Frascati and Tivoli, where a visit to Hadrian's Villa will be included, are no less impressive. In the second part of the lecture Mr. Newman will show modern Rome, the splendid structures which have been reared on the sites of decayed ruins, the modern streets in the newer sections, and the picturesque types of humanity, which are, after all, the most interesting. A visit to Pincian Hill, the garden spot of the Eternal City, will precede a comprehensive description of the Vatican and its art treasures, a collection which in many respects has no equal in the world.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

Let your Taste Govern the Color of your house but for the paint stick to

Beyer Bauman White Lead
(Dutch Boy Painter Trade Mark)
and pure linseed oil. This pure lead and oil paint covers every crevice and grips into wood pores. It expands and contracts with the wood and does not crack.

Save money by painting well and in time.

Come in and let us figure on your paint. Incidentally, see our Owner's Paint Guide. It's full of color suggestions and paint facts.

WILLIAM WESTLAND
QUINCY, MASS.

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Saturday fair. Sunday generally fair.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.47
Sun sets	5.57
Length of day	12.10
Moon sets	3.42
High water, A. M.	7.15
High water, P. M.	8.00
Days increase	3 hours, 4 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	29 degrees
Mar. 20, 1913,	57 degrees
Mar. 20, 1912,	62 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

NEW TELEPHONES.

Following are the subscribers connected with Quincy Exchange for the week ending March 18.

874W—DeForest, S. D. Sr., Goddard street.
871-M—Dixon, Lilla M., Goddard street.
876-W—Prout, George, Goddard St.
822-M—Burke, Vera Miss, Atherton street.
869M—Hosmer, Wm. H., Atlantic street.
1955-M—Berg. John A., Federal avenue.
715-M—Little, Paul J., Willard street.
1572-M—Catler Joseph, Broadway.
844-W—Samuelson, C., E. Howard street.
1783-M—Wagner, S. C., So. Central avenue.
1891-W—Webster, F. O., E. Squantum street.
1851-W—Benton, Ralph L., 43 Conant road.

COLD DAY.

The temperature at noon today was 29 degrees, making today the coldest day at noon this month as well as the coldest day since February 15 when the noon temperature was 15 above. Coupled with the cold wave is a raw March wind.

HIS DREAM REALIZED

Wear-Ever Hosiery and Paradise Garters

We offer for a limited time only, six pairs of our finest 35c value Guaranteed Hose and a pair of our well known Men's Paradise Garters for one dollar, postpaid.

You know these hose; they stood the test when all others failed. They give real foot comfort. They have no seams to rip. They never become loose and baggy as the shape is knit in, not pressed in. They are Guaranteed for fineness, for style, for superiority of material and workmanship, absolutely stainless and to wear six months without holes, or a new pair free.

Dont' delay send in your order before offer expires.

WEAR-EVER HOSIERY COMPANY
Dayton, Ohio.

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

BIG SCORE BY RHODES

Has Total of 341 in Samoset Club League

The brightest spot in the bowling matches of the members of the Samoset Club teams at the Coliseum alleys Thursday night was the total of 341 of Rhodes, who made singles of 107, 106 and 128. The total equalled the mark of Jenner and Gardner, two high men in the Wollaston Tennis Club league.

Rhodes was anchor on No. 1 team and saw his quintette defeat No. 3 team 57 pins.

TEAM ONE.

Pinkham	81	83	85	249
Ford	73	64	87	224
Stone	61	93	59	213
Campbell	70	73	56	199
Rhodes	107	106	128	341
	392	419	415	1226

TEAM THREE.

Comins	70	73	56	199
Howe	75	105	71	251
Browne	81	79	75	235
C. Armstrong	90	75	80	245
Lupton	76	75	88	239
	392	407	370	1169

Team No. 2 lost to team No. 4 by 141 pins.

TEAM FOUR.

Weston	83	71	79	253
Smith	87	73	79	239
Raymond	67	106	88	261
Hill	83	97	81	261
Pope	84	89	101	274
	404	456	428	1288

TEAM TWO.

Hogan	67	69	76	212
Roberts	75	81	86	242
Stiles	67	65	66	198
A. Armstrong	84	74	104	252
Hoxie	83	71	79	233
	376	360	411	1147

TWO GAMES FOR KILEY

Napoleon Grignon who has been leading Michael Kiley by a comfortable margin in their checker series was given quite a surprise when Kiley beat him in two games at the Knights of Columbus rooms, West Quincy, Thursday night. The standing now is four wins for Grignon, three for Kiley and seven draws. Three more sessions will take place, the next one being in St. Mary's hall on Monday evening.

Alfred Jordan, champion of the world, who has been referee at at all matches played so far, was again on hand and was one of the most interested spectators. Mr. Jordan analyzed the games after the play at the request of those present. The games played were the Kelso choice.

WON BY A. O. H.

Div. 22, A. O. H., won four points from Ave Maria council in the West Quincy league matches at the St. Mary's alleys Thursday night. Welch who made 304 was the only man to cross the line. The difference in the totals was 163, one of the widest margins of the season.

DIV. 22, A. O. H.

McDonald	92	76	90	259
Fitzgerald	73	96	78	247
Quinn	83	88	81	252
Flaherty	83	75	87	245
Welch	101	98	105	304
	432	434	441	1307

AVE MARIA, K. OF C.

McHugh	75	89	66	230
Daley	78	69	80	227
White	86	71	84	241
McGilvray	62	88	68	218
Garrity	81	74	73	228
	382	391	371	1144

FOY'S CLERKS WIN.

The Brownies at the City Square alleys were defeated by the clerks of the R. E. Foy stores in a special bowling match Thursday night. The strings:

Foy's Clerks	433	423	472	1328
Brownies	455	404	451	1310

MY SLOGAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.

Will you help me do this?

F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

PROSECUTION OF THAW

Carmody Says It Will Continue Regardless of Assembly Action

Albany, March 20.—Prosecution of Harry K. Thaw by New York state will not cease, said Attorney General Carmody, no matter what action may be taken by the assembly on resolutions looking to that end.

Senators here said that even should the assembly pass the Golden resolution it would fail in the senate.

With a petition a half-mile long and said to contain 500,000 signatures of New York citizens, two attorneys, two press agents and a messenger representing Thaw stood in the lobby of the assembly, approaching every member.

Although Assemblyman Golden had a long speech prepared in defense of Stanford White's slayer, he held up its delivery because of the absence of members who had promised to vote for it. Golden declared he would make his plea Monday night to have this state cease its efforts to return Thaw to Matteawan.

NOT AN UNUSUAL NUMBER

But Ninety-Six Thousand Men Are Idle In New York

New York, March 20.—That there are only 96,000 idle men in New York, not an unusual number, was the gist of a report by Police Commissioner McKay presented to the bureau of labor at Washington as a refutation of recent claims in congress by Republican Leader Mann.

When Mann claimed that 300,000 were idle in this city it was asserted that his was a "blue ruin" speech and foundationless.

In response to requests from Washington for accurate figures, policemen here have visited practically every family in the city and got the figures of 96,000 unemployed.

Of the number now idle many are members of seasonable vocations who expect certain periods of unemployment. Conditions here, the report says, are improving daily.

FIFTY PERISH AS STEAMER IS SUNK

Several Women and Children Among Victims of Wreck

Venice, March 20.—A torpedo boat cut down a small passenger steamer which plies between Venice and Lido, a chain of sandy islands separating the Lagoon of Venice from the Mediterranean, and fifty persons were drowned.

The sharp nose of the torpedo boat went through the stern of the steamer, which sank almost immediately. The victims included many women and several children.

Fifteen persons who were on deck at the time were saved by the crew of the torpedo boat. The others were caught in the cabin and were carried down with the wreck. The Italian sailors dived many times in futile efforts to rescue those who sank with the steamer.

WILSON STILL CONFIDENT

Opposition to His Plea For Canal Tolls Repeal Proves Stubborn

Washington, March 20.—More stubborn than anything that has arisen to stir the tranquility of the Democratic majority since the party came into control of the national government is the opposition to President Wilson's plea for repeal of the toll exemption provision for American ships in the Panama canal act.

While the president and Democratic members of both houses who will support his position are confident that the repeal will pass by a comfortable majority, few have any idea that the majority will be large.

MEETS TRAGIC DEATH

"Best Reporter In Chicago" Falls Down an Elevator Well

Chicago, March 20.—John L. Lawson, a reporter for the Chicago Tribune and one of the best known newspaper men in the middle west, was killed when he fell down an elevator shaft in the Chicago Press club building.

It is believed he opened the door of the elevator shaft used for freight, mistaking it for the door of the lavatory adjoining, and stepped in before realizing his mistake.

Among editors and reporters Lawson generally was considered "the best reporter in Chicago."

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Borrowing $50 from his sweetheart, Robert Miller of Charleston, W. Va., went to Richmond and married another woman. He was arrested.

Walter A. Abbott, the Boston police inspector, left $1000 to Miss Katherine E. A. Thompson, a detective. The rest of his estate goes to two brothers and two sisters.

"General" Coxey announced the appointment of his 11-year-old son, David, as "brigadier general" in the army of unemployed.

Contractors excavating for the Summer street tunnel, Boston, have been warned to exercise the utmost care in removing the earth beneath the buildings because of the danger of settling.

After hiccoughing persistently for four days, William Jackson, a negro, 43, of New York, died.

Conductors' Punches Are Registered.

"The passenger on a railroad train when he has his ticket punched probably does not know that the punch mark used by the conductor is one of 17,000 different designs," remarked Frank E. Brown, an old time railroad man. "On the big railroads there are no two punches that have marks designed alike, and the interstate commerce commission by examining the punch mark can trace the ticket punched to the conductor, train and road upon which the ticket was given. To get a punch a conductor has to sign seven papers before it is delivered to him. There used to be an old couplet, Mark Twain wrote it, which ran:

Punch, punch, punch with care,
Punch in the presence of the passengaire.

"In the old days the railroads—that was before the days of the interstate commerce commission—didn't care what kind of punches their employees used, but today it is different. Every punch is registered, and every mark is different."—Washington Post.

Fire Beds.

In fall, winter and spring, when the nights are very cold on the desert, prospectors, adventurers and all others who have occasion to sleep in the open find the "fire bed" a feature of outdoor craft which will enable them to sleep in comfort on a cold night. To make a fire bed a trench is dug in the sand six or seven inches in depth, about three feet wide and six feet long. The sides of this pit are banked up with the sand taken from the trench. The pit is then ready for the fire, which is built extending the full length of the pit, so that it will warm both the banked sand at the sides and the bottom of the pit. When the sand has been sufficiently heated the large, blazing sticks are thrown out, leaving all of the live coals in the pit; these are covered with about four inches of sand. This bed will retain the heat all night, and all that is left to be done is for the sleep seeker to lie down and wrap himself in a blanket, if he has one, and go to sleep in comfort.—Independent.

The Wear In Furs.

The durability of furs varies enormously and has little relation to price. For example, ermine and chinchilla, both of which fall in the rare fur class, stand respectively at twenty-five and fifteen in a table where skunk is seventy and beaver ninety. In this table sea otter, with its water hairs, is taken at a hundred. Here is the list in full:

Sea otter	100	Musquash	32
Beaver	90	Gray lamb	50
Seal	75	Nutria	27
Mink	70	Ermine	25
Skunk	70	Lynx	25
Persian lamb	65	Squirrel	25
Baum marten	65	Chinchilla	15
Sable	60	Broadtail	15
Fox, black, silver	40	Caracal kid	10
Stone marten	40	Moleskin	7
Opossum	37	Rabbit	5

The durability of furs is reduced by artificial coloring. The baum marten, which in a natural state stands at sixty-five in the table, is only forty-five after tinting.—London Times.

Restoring Crape.

To restore a crape veil place a folded sheet on a table and to it pin the veil carefully and straight; do not stretch it a particle. Dissolve one teaspoonful of granulated sugar in one pint of boiling water; wet a clean cloth with this and lay it lightly on the crape. Have an iron very hot; go over the wet cloth as though ironing it, but do not let the iron touch it; continue until the cloth is nearly dry. Then wet the cloth again and continue the same process until the entire veil has been gone over. The crape will be full of deep crinkles and as crisp as new, no matter how old and flat it was when you began. Small pieces of crape for trimming can be renewed in the same way. The crape should be shaken and brushed to remove all traces of dust before starting the restoring process.—New York Sun.

Not Time In a Mile.

A Washington horseman tells of an overanxious owner and a particularly conscientious rider at a recent meet at Pimlico. The owner had issued full orders as to the way a horse was to be ridden in a certain race. The jockey was a diminutive darky. The original orders were supplemented by provisions for all manner of emergencies, all of which somewhat bewildered the jockey.

"See heah, boss," he finally said, "dis heah race is only one mile. I can't do all them things you tells in jest one mile."—Exchange.

Games.

Games are not meant for idle people who have nothing to do but study them. Their true use is as a relaxation for the man who is doing some serious work in the world and is doing it hard enough to make games the occupation of a holiday and not of his best strength and time.—Filson Young.

Scientific Salesmanship.

"Pa, what is scientific salesmanship?"

"Selling a dress suit to a man who went into the store to buy a celluloid collar."—Detroit Free Press.

Matrimonial.

"A bride never seems able to pick a winner."

"What makes you say that?"

"Well, she never gets the best man."—Baltimore American.

All That's Left.

Mrs. Goodsole (feeding tramp)—You seem to have a good appetite. Hungry Higgins—Ah, mum, dat's all I have left in de world dat I kin rightly call me own.—Exchange.

To a well deserving man God will show favor: to an ill deserving he will be simply just.—Plautus.

The Footlights Glare

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

"Over Niagara Falls," the second of the series of big feature productions that Manager Wardwell is bringing to Quincy, was witnessed last night by a large audience. The picture is presented in four parts and abounds with thrilling, sensational and spectacular scenes. The view of the falls is very pretty, and the picture throughout is one of the best ever seen in the city.

The vaudeville attractions, too, are mighty good. The Bianza Trio sang splendidly several Grand Opera selections and their violin playing proved them artists of exceptional ability. Jack Wallace, with his big white eagle, made a great hit. The bird does all sorts of stunts and shows almost human intelligence.

Coming Monday is another star show including a great big picture production "The whirl of destiny" in 4 reels of intense interest. The vaudeville attractions include Lampe Bros. in a comedy skit entitled "Si & Maud."

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

A short story of the 3d reel of the Battle of Gettysburg to be seen at Music Hall Saturday matinee and night is as follows: June 30, 1863, Major General John F. Reynolds, commanding the left wing of the army goes into camp at Gettysburg. Early on the morning of July 1, Lee's army approaches Gettysburg. Placing his artillery he begins shelling the enemy. General Reynolds starts to the relief of Buford. The heavy guns come up and the artillery duel commences. Davis' Brigade of Mississippians is captured after having lost half their number in the fight. General Reynolds is killed while watching the charge of the "Iron Brigade." The command of the Left Wing now devolves on Major General O. O. Howard. At 3 P. M. Hancock arrives with his corps. The scene changes and the soldiers carry off their dead and wounded. Union reinforcements arrive. The struggle for the possession of Little Round Top, which is occupied as a Union signal station, begins the second day's battle. Cannon are dragged into position while Hood's Texans charge up the rough, steep slopes. Never was battle fought in a wilder spot. Through all this fierce conflict the Union signal officers wave their signal flags from the summit of the disputed hill. The scene changes to the hospital and then at sunset Pickett and his three brigades are seen arriving in camp.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

With the forthcoming week, the season of the Boston Opera Company ends, and with it performances of opera in Boston end for nine months, as the Opera House will not re-open until Jan. 4. The week will be begun with a concert Sunday evening, which will present Jan Kubelik, violinist, and Mme. Weingartner, soloist, with Mr. Weingartner directing the orchestra. "Louise" one of the most justly popular operas of the French repertory, will be given Monday evening at 7.45. "Aida" will be sung Wednesday night, with the same splendid cast that presented it so nobly Saturday. The performance of "Faust" Friday evening will be a notable occasion. Saturday afternoon, "The Jewels of the Madonna" will be sung, fittingly closing the subscription performances of the year, as it began them.

On Saturday evening, a "gala" bill will be presented. First, "The Secret of Suzanne," Wolf-Ferrari's charming one-act opera, will be sung. The second act of "Faust" will follow, with Mme. Beriza as Marguerite, Mr. Laffitte as Faust, Mr. Ludikar as Mephistopheles; followed by the third act of "Tales of Hoffmann," with Mme. Beriza as Antonia, Mr. Danges as Docteur Miracle, and Mr. Deru as Hoffmann. To close the entertainment, the delightful ballet, "The Dance of the Hours," from "LaGioconda" will be presented by the entire corps de ballet of the Opera house, with a solo dance by Miss Delores Galli.

DAVID COPPERFIELD.

"David Copperfield," Charles Dickens widely read masterpiece, presented in motion pictures, will begin the second week of its engagement at the Tremont Temple, Boston. The tremendous success of this wonderful photo-play, together with Mme. Claire Dorva, the world-renowned Parisian coloratura soprano, has stirred both the music and literary lovers of Boston. Mme. Dova, who is in herself a big attaction, endes an attractive program of operatic gems selected from the best known operatic works. Her voice is one of rare sweetness and phenomenally high in range, reaching to F above high C. The portrayal of "David" is made by Eric Desmond, an astonishingly clever juvenile actor. The work is presented in seven parts and follows closely to the book.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The two names of Augustas Thomas and Richard Harding Davis are sufficient to explain the popularity of "Soldiers of Fortune." Mr. Davis wrote the novel, and Augustus Thomas made the play from it, and it will be given by John Craig during the coming week on the Castle Square stage. It is a play of a South American revolution, and it brings to the fore the emotions of love and war, the hero being a young New Yorker who has gone to South America to direct the working of a mine, and its heroine a beautiful girl who is there on a visit with her father. The two leading roles of Robert Clay and Hope Langham will be acted by William P. Carleton and Miss Doris Olsson and others in the cast will be M. Meek, Mr. Walker, Mr. Ormonde, Mr. Roberts, Miss Shirley and Miss Colcord.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

Monday night the 100th performance of "Under Cover," will be observed at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston. An attractive souvenir will be presented each lady patron in attendance on that night. The remarkable success achieved by this play is the talk of New England. Those who have witnessed it agree that it is the best play of its type that has yet visited Boston. "Under Cover" deals with smuggeling and high social life replete with love, mystery and thrills. It keeps you on a high tension from start to finish, always with an anxious desire to know what is to follow. It is a clean, wholesome, vigorous American play and may be witnessed and enjoyed by every member of the family. The regular matinees of the Plymouth theatre are held on Thursday and Saturday. The evening performances start at 8.10 and conclude at 10.40 allowing sufficient time to patrons to obtain their theatre train home.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Klaw and Erlanger are presenting at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, the one musical comedy that created a sensation in New York this season, "The Little Cafe," by C. M. S. McLellan and Ivan Caryll, the author and composer of "The Pink Lady," which will be remembered by local theatre patrons, as one of the most attractive performances of its class ever seen in this country. "The Little Cafe" is a gem of laughter, gayety and melody in the most beautiful setting that has ever graced the staged. In this entirety it is a feast of reason and a flow of soul-peach-like pretty girls in great abundance to serve the dainty dishes of mirth and melody, garnished so temptingly and seasoned with the paprika of wit—in a theatrical menu such as has never been offered before.

In it a hundred notable comedians singers and dancers, the same as appeared during the seven months run at the New Amsterdam Theatre, New York, appear. This wonderful riot of color, magnificence and jollity is guaranteed to laugh away a night as if by magic—it is a joy-feast that insures three hours of unalloyed happiness.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

When Philip Bartholomae wrote "Little Miss Brown" he didn't go abroad for a farcical skeleton but stayed in America and evolved a comedy of the home-grown variety that kept New York in gales of laughter for four months. It will be seen at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, beginning Monday, March 23.

The story is clean, the humor is keen and the characters are not required to do the many impossible things so frequently required of them in farce. The plot revolves about little Miss Brown and the embarrassing predicament in which she finds herself when she permits a hotel porter to mistake her for a married woman whose husband had engaged apartments at the hosteiry. That she was hungry, without money and with no place to sleep because she thought Thursday was Friday and so reached a strange city a day sooner than friends expected her, explains why she was willing to let the wrong identification go uncorrected. Complications by the score, all funny follow her occupation of the reserved rooms. The husband appears, so later does the real wife. Then comes husband's uncle, aunt and brother.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

"Within the Law" is within life—every line of it. 'Tis a story of absorbing interest out of human experience," wrote Mariet Stanton Blatch, the great suffrage leader, after witnessing a performance of Bayard Veiller's smashing drama of modern conditions in New York life, which is now in its fifth big week at the Majestic Theate, Boston, where it is playing to crowded houses at each performance. It has been called "the play the Pesidents go to see" because both Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt have not only enjoyed the peformance, but have written of it in highest praise to the author. "I was never more thrilled and interested" declared the former, while the redoubtable "Teddy" began his letter of appreciation with the words "I want to thank you for your play." When such representative Americans take it upon themselves publicly to express their enthusiasm about a play, there must be a reason. Perhaps a great factor in the success of "Within the Law" is the timeliness of the topics with which it deals. It tells the story of a shopgirl underpaid and underfed, who is unjustly accused of theft. The evidence against her is so slight that her employer's intervention might save her. But in order to make an example of her, he requests the judge to impose a heavy sentence upon her. "Mary Turner" after three years of prison life, determines to find her revenge. She becomes associated with a gang of 'crooks' and proceeds to prey upon society in an ingenious and successful fashion.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

"The Poor Little Rich Girl" at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, has more than fulfilled the expectations for this novel and altogether delightful play. Much was expected, more has been given in the way of charming entertainment. It has captured the hearts and fancy of all who have seen it. Here is a play genuinely worth while. It has all qualities that make the very best and most interesting stage entertainment, and it has been in generous quantities. First of all it is something new. It has distinct novelty. A stirring comedy drama and a fantasy in dream land are acted concurrently. Their stories mingle, and the characters in the play appear as real persons and as fantastic beings in realms of imagination. The story is tremendously appealing. Delicious comedy, keen humor, gripping pathos and tender sentiment clutch the audience every minute, and there are magnificent and unique scenic spectacles. The public is aware that "The Poor Little Rich Girl" is one of the most celebrated plays ever produced in this country, in New York it ran all last season and far into the summer. It is exceptional. It has been described as a big play for big men and women. Children like it, too, for there is much in it to amuse them, but in a far bigger sense it is for grown-up, for its significance, its sentiments and its humanity are for adults.

NEW JUNIOR LEAGUE.

A junior Epworth League was organized at the Atlantic Methodist Church Sunday with the following officers: Superintendent, Mrs. J. C. Thom; president, Miss Jennette Kilpatrick; vice presidents, Gladys Ham, Winthrop Sanborn, Winifred Smith, and Mildred Nelson; secretary, Muriel Benson; treasurer, Richard Young. Miss Thomas of Neponset was present and gave valuable aid. The League will start out with about 25 members.

☞PRATT'S BREAD is liked by the most discriminating people. Grocers sell it.

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 2, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.35 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 4.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.30 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 8.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.46, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight. Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street, 6.45 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 12.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Wollaston—6.05 6.35, 7.03 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.03 P. M. then 11.20, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.03 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.25 P. M. then 11.42 P. M. and 12.12 midnight. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sunday 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.20, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 11.00 P. M.

THOMAS SHANNON,
Superintendent

The Street of Tombs

One of Its Mysteries Revealed

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Tom Newell pointed down the dark, tortuous street of the old Chinese city.

"That? My dear boy, you don't want to stroll through the Street of Tombs, do you?"

"Why not?" demanded Rex Forbes. "It looks promising as Chinese streets go."

"Promising! Ye gods!" groaned Newell, with disgust.

"Fascinating, then," laughed the other. "Has all the earmarks of oriental mystery; smells to heaven; is filthy, dark; has a name that bespeaks murder lurking around every corner, and all that, you know."

While Newell hesitated Rex laughed again and clapped a hand on his friend's shoulder.

"Not afraid of it, are you?" he gibed. "After living in China for five years"—

"I have a decent respect for a few of her unexplained mysteries," finished Newell quickly, "and, believe me, Rex, this is one of them."

"Tell me about it."

"I'll tell you after dinner. Then if you still want to walk through the Street of Tombs I'll swallow my objections and go with you," replied Newell.

"Done," agreed Forbes. And, returning to the city gate, they entered rickshas that had been waiting there and were soon bowling along the bund toward the modern city of Shanghai.

It was after dinner at the club that Forbes claimed the promised story.

Tom Newell lighted a cigar and puffed thoughtfully before he spoke:

"Two years ago I had a friend, Enderby. You may remember that I frequently mentioned his name in my letters to you. He was the agent for a well known American invention, and he was well liked by the American colony here. Only one thing was against him. He was fond of prowling around the native city yonder, and you know that it is not considered good form here in the model settlement."

"What happened?" asked Forbes curiously.

"Nobody knows—at least none of his friends in Shanghai nor anywhere else. One day he asked me to go into the old city with him to see some porcelains that were said to date from the Ming dynasty. He was going to invest in them if they were the real thing.

"I went with him, for I liked Enderby, in spite of his crudities. He typified my own fast growing, ambitious young country. I inspected the porcelains in a dim shop that looked like a thieves' den, and I discovered that they were all clumsy counterfeits. I broke the news to Enderby, and he laughed and said, 'Better luck next time.'

"On our way back to the city gate—the very gate through which we emerged today, Rex—Enderby paused on that corner of the Street of Tombs and asked me to wait for him, as he had a little errand to do down there.

"I asked him if he knew how the street had gained its name—that it was said that hundreds of men had entered it never to emerge at the other end or to return. They vanished completely, and because of their vanishing and the mystery surrounding their disappearance the street was known as the Street of Tombs, for it must contain many unknown, never to be discovered graves."

Newell lighted a fresh cigar, and his eyes stared thoughtfully at the glowing end.

Rex Forbes waited impatiently; then he spoke:

"Well, are you going to tell me that Enderby was murdered?"

"I can't tell you that, for I do not know. I do know that from the instant he vanished around the first turn in the Street of Tombs he dropped out of my life. I never saw him again." Tom Newell's voice was a little unsteady.

"And you could find no trace of him?"

"Not a trace. Four private detectives were sent into the old city"—

"And what happened?" interrupted the impatient Forbes.

"They never came back, either," ended Newell.

There fell a long silence between the two men. Newell, an old resident of Shanghai, was thinking of the loss of his friend Enderby. Rex Forbes, fresh from the United States, was eagerly hoping for an opportunity to clear up this mystery of the Street of Tombs.

At last Newell spoke.

"Still want to stroll through the Street of Tombs?" he asked. And he was not surprised at the answer he received.

"Yes," said Forbes doggedly. "I'm going into the Street of Tombs, and I'm going to uncover the mystery of the disappearance of Enderby."

"Very well," agreed Newell. "I am afraid if you are successful you will discover it is a case of sordid murder for Enderby's money and jewelry."

"I'll take a chance on that," retorted the other quickly. "And you—will you come too?"

"Yes," said Newell without hesitation. "You've inspired me with a desire to pierce the mystery of that dark street. We will go together, Rex, but first we will visit a certain armorer out on the Nanking road."

"An automatic revolver would be a handy companion," suggested Forbes.

"I'll lend you one of mine," said Newell. Then, rising and tossing aside his cigar, he added: "We better be off to bed early, for we will have a busy day tomorrow, and it may end in a long rest for both of us. You understand that, Rex?"

"I know it," nodded Forbes grimly. "But I'm thinking of that poor fellow Enderby, and I'll risk it."

* * * * * * *

The two Americans had chosen broad daylight and plenty of sunshine for their entry into the Street of Tombs.

The end of the street where it debouched upon a wider thoroughfare was a place of busy little shops, but after they had made the first turn in its tortuous windings the street bore a strangely deserted appearance.

Colored signs fluttered above their heads, above the signs were closely shuttered balconies, and still farther up, above the fantastic roof lines, was a slit of blue sky.

Tom Newell kept his eyes to the right and Rex Forbes watched out on the left hand side of the narrow street as they went slowly along.

Suddenly Forbes stopped before a shop window.

"Jove, Tom, what do you think of that?" he muttered excitedly.

Newell paused beside him and stared at the enormous polished globe of pure rock crystal that revolved dizzily on an ebony pedestal.

Already Red Forbes had been caught by the deadly fascination of that whirling ball. He was hypnotized into rigidity as he stood there.

Fortunately for both of them, Tom Newell was possessed of extraordinary will power, and as soon as he realized what was happening there before his eyes he removed his gaze from the ball, and as he did so there seemed to be revealed to him in one enlightening flash the mystery of the Street of Tombs.

Unwary foreigners, attracted by the wonderful sight of the large rock crystal ball, had gazed upon it to become hypnotized and thus rendered themselves easy victims to robbery and murder. The slimy creeks that bounded the walls of the old city and the rushing river into which they flowed would hide the evidences of crime.

Suddenly a whisper floated down to them from the closed balcony above.

"Beware, Newell! Beat it! Beat it, man!" And with the warning words there sounded a cry as if the speaker had been attacked; then shutters broke open, the frail balcony tottered under the weight of a man's heavy body, the carved railing snapped and precipitated a man garbed in Chinese clothing into Newell's outstretched arms.

Tom Newell was a giant in stature and strength. One glance in the man's face convinced him that it was the missing Enderby, his once ruddy face ravaged by pain and privation. Then he held Enderby close to his breast, and, dragging at Forbes' hand, he cried fiercely:

"Come, Rex, come! Come with me for your life! The Street of Tombs is opening her arms to you!"

Forbes, partly roused from his apathy, ran on obediently, and after he felt the fresh air in his face he recovered some of his wits. Many doorways behind them belched forth wild eyed natives, who followed them as far as they dared, for the Street of Tombs bears an evil reputation in its own city and has no wish to air its secrets.

A few scattering shots followed them, but their chain armor was proof against bullets, and soon they came out into the broad street, where a great crowd silently watched them, as if they were witnessing a resurrection from the dead.

Said a peddler of sweetmeats to his neighbor:

"Behold, they entered the Street of Tombs and came forth alive. They bear charmed lives, these foreign devils."

"Some of them do," said his neighbor dryly, for he knew that the Street of Tombs rarely gave up its victims.

When they reached the model settlement with the wounded Enderby, Newell and Forbes listened to a strange story—how Enderby, attracted by the revolving crystal, became hypnotized and was easily captured and set to work in an evil smelling underground room with countless other slaves like himself. It was an opium den, and in connection with it was a silk weaving factory, and it was here that Enderby had labored, trying in vain to escape from his slavery. In time he had proved so faithful that he had been intrusted in the stock room above the shop over the crystal ball, and it was from this vantage point that he had whispered a warning to Newell. Almost instantly he had been stabbed from behind by some secret spy, but he had retained strength to fall crashing through the window to the ground.

One day when he had been nursed back to health and was bidding farewell to his rescuers Enderby turned suddenly grave.

"Keep away from the Street of Tombs," he warned them.

"But," protested Forbes, "we have discovered the mystery, and there is no danger now."

Enderby laughed ruefully.

"My dear boy, the crystal ball is an innocent diversion compared with the real horrors of the true Street of Tombs! Believe me, that is the least harmful of its mysteries."

And they understood that Enderby knew much more than he had told them—more perhaps than he dared to tell for their safety and his own.

MISS ALICE PAUL.

Head of Congressional Union, Composed of Suffragists.

DELIGHTED AT MAJORITY

But Women Fail to Get Two-Thirds Vote For Suffrage Amendment

Washington, March 20.—Woman suffrage advocates lost their fight in the United States senate for a resolution proposing an amendment to the federal constitution giving women the ballot.

The vote was 35 for the measure to 34 against it—a two-thirds affirmative vote being required for passage—and when it was all over suffragist leaders jubilantly pointed to the majority of one as conclusive proof that their cause had scored a triumph in defeat and was immeasurably stronger than its opponents had ever been willing to concede.

A statement issued by Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage, regretted "that the Democratic leaders in charge of the suffrage amendment in the senate allowed that measure to be wrecked for the time being, by forcing it to a premature vote."

SCANDINAVIANS IN MACKEREL TRUST

War Against It In New York Expected to Reach Boston

Boston, March 20.—New York has discovered a mackerel trust in process of formation, and anong the Boston waterfront there is excited discussion of the new entry into the fish market.

The proposed trust is a Scandinavian organization, a combination of the two largeest exporting firms in Norway and Sweeden, which finds a heavy market in this country. The concern is offering to handle the output of any fisherman or fishing company at an advanced commission, which will bring a higher price and better pay to the fishermen.

New York firms, however, are fighting the combine. The war is expected to spread to Boston.

WEDDING IN TROLLEY CAR

Novel Ceremony When Pastor Fails to Keep Appointment

Parkersburg, W. Va., March 20.—With the conductor and motorman as attendants, Miss Rae A. Archer and Harry T. Butcher were married on board a street car on the south side by Rev. Arthur Hank of Calvary Baptist church.

The marriage was to have taken place at the home of the bride at Mineral Wells, but the pastor failed to appear, so the couple came here. From the home of a friend the bridegroom called up Hank and agreed to meet him at the end of the street car line for the ceremony.

SAVED BY DARING WORK

Captain and Crew of Lost Bath Schooner Arrive at Liverpool

Liverpool, March 20.—Having on board the rescued captain and crew of the schooner Julia R. Trubee of Bath, Me., which was abandoned at sea, March 7, the Leyland liner Nubian, Captain Laurenson, arrived here.

Captain Jenson of the Trubee was loud in praise of the heroism of the Nubian's men, who saved him and his crew by daring work amid mountainous waves.

Noted Scientist Burns to Death

Naples, March 20.—Guiseppe Mercalli, director of the Vesuvius observatory and one of the best known scientists in the world, was burned to death when a lamp was accidentally overturned in his bedroom.

Not Responsible For Death

Lynn, Mass., March 20.—Mark Brennan, Frederick Devine and Ellsworth Cressy, charged with the death of John P. Williams, who was found dead on Broad street, were discharged in the local police court.

To Cut Off Free Posses

Boston, March 20.—The legislative committee on railroads voted to report favorably a bill prohibiting free transportation of officers and employes of the legislature by the railroads.

MILITARY MAY OCCUPY ULSTER

Atmosphere There Has Grown Suddenly Electrical

GRAVE CRISIS BELIEVED NEAR

Unionists Say Ulster Men Can No Longer Be Restrained From Outbreak—Carson Makes Dramatic Exit From Commons—Motion For Censure of Government Is Lost

London, March 20.—Grave events are impending in Ulster, according to the Unionist newspapers, and a rumor is current that the government is preparing for the military occupation of the province. There are various indications that a crisis has been reached.

A vote of censure on the British government, which was moved in the house of commons by Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition, was rejected, 345 to 252.

Arthur J. Balfour, summoned by Bonar Law, made a hurried return from the Riviera and arrived in London in time to participate in the division.

There were reports also of the threatened arrest of Sir Edward Carson and other leaders of the Ulster Unionists, but it was officially declared there was no truth in the statement that warrants had been signed for such arrest. Carson, however, made a dramatic exit from the house before the debate was concluded to catch a train for Belfast.

Austen Chamberlain declared that Carson had been called away in response to sudden developments in Ireland. Other Unionists asserted that the Ulster men can no longer be restrained from an outbreak and that Carson's mission is to endeavor to hold them in check.

The Daily Telegraph's lobbyist says: "Unless all omens are false, blood will be spilt in Ulster before the house of commons sees Sir Edward Carson again."

The Marquis of Londonderry and other prominent Ulsterites are now on their way to Belfast, and their action is regarded as a challenge to the government if, as asserted, any intention exists to issue warrants for their arrest.

Dispatches from Belfast state that the atmosphere in Ulster has grown suddenly electrical, and important developments may occur at any moment. Sinister rumors abound and there are signs and portents indicating that early and momentous action by the government may be expected.

The guards have been doubled and the garrisons strengthened at the military barracks, with a view of preventing possible raids for munitions of war by the covenanters. It is persistently reported that the arrest of the leaders of the Ulster volunteer force is imminent. Meanwhile there is unusual activity among the Ulster volunteers.

Forty members of the motorcyclist corps left Belfast under secret orders and the Unionists are convinced that the authorities contemplate some coup.

SCHOONER SUNK BY LINER

Quickly Goes to Bottom and Every Man on Board Is Lost

Ostend, March 20.—Wireless messages received from the liner Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse reported the collision of the liner with an unidentified schooner. The schooner sank with all of her crew. The Kaiser Wilhelm was not damaged.

The report declared the liner remained on the scene for three hours. Boats were put over and an extended search was made for members of the crew of the stricken vessel.

The schooner sank almost immediately, however, carrying every man down with her. The number of men who perished is not known.

PLACED ON PROBATION

Thirty Yale Students Admit Taking Part In "Bottle Night" Row

New Haven, March 20.—When thirty members of the Yale freshman class appeared before a faculty committee and voluntarily acknowledged that they took part in the so-called "Bottle Night" disturbance, the faculty suspended the probation sentence previously imposed upon 200 members of the class.

The thirty freshmen, however, were placed on probation for an indefinite time.

Fire Destroys Yarn Mill

Fall River, Mass., March 20.—The plant of the Providence Yarn company was destroyed by fire last night, causing a loss of between $75,000 and $100,000. Four hundred hands are thrown out of employment. The cause of the blaze is not known.

Yeggs Start $150,000 Fire

Sydney, O., March 20.—Started, it is believed, by yeggmen who blew the safe in the Thiedeck drygoods store, fire destroyed business property here valued at $150,000.

The Weather

Almanac, Saturday, March 21.
Sun rises—5:47; sets—5:57.
Moon rises—3:42 a. m.
High water—7:15 a. m.; 8 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Fair; moderate west and northwest winds.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS — CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING — WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—$20.00 Cottage, 6 rooms; all improvements. On salt water; 3 minutes to Fore River entrance, yet secluded. Call C. E. Briggs, 63 Howard Avenue, Quincy. 18-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-12t

TO LET—Two 3-room and one 4-room tenement. Just finished. All modern improvements. Apply to J. M. L. 175 Liberty street, South Quincy. 16-6t

TO LET—Lower apartment 5 rooms and bath. Modern conveniences, combination range; gas and electricity etc. 95 Putnam street. Ready for occupancy April 1. Apply 97 Putnam street. 16-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 16-6t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath. Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Two pleasant four-room tenements, one furnished, light and sunny rooms, new house, modern improvements, central location. 9 Francis Court, off Spear street. 13-6t

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block

2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block. ('Phone 21066) Quincy

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ..

TO LET

TO LET—Two large, well furnished rooms with all improvements. Use of kitchen if desired. In centre of city. Write J, Ledger Office. 20-3t

TO LET—On Spear street, first floor 4 rooms, bath, furnace, set tubs, gas and set range. J. A. Weeden, Room 10, Greenleaf Block. 20-3t

TO LET—Apartment 5 rooms, all improvements; good location, on car line; rent $21. 903 Hancock street. Inquire upper suite. 18-tf

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 18-6t

TO LET—Upper flat of five rooms and bath, all improvements, Bradford street, Quincy Adams. Apply to William Duggan, Bradford street. Tel. Quincy 801W. 17-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms with or without board. Mrs. F. Wrigley, 18 Washington street corner Coddington. 17-6t

TO LET—Single house of six rooms, improvements 492 South street. Apply to 96 Arnold street. 17-6t

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO RENT—Flat of four rooms, Francis court off Spear street. All modern improvements. Rent $18. Apply at 7 Francis court. 14-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

TAKE NOTICE—Free corn cutting till March 31st. Positively no hurt, 9 A. M. to 2 P. M. Dr. Rodgers, Chiropodist. 14 Sagamore street, Atlantic. Mar. 17-6t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Three good horses, 2 sets harness, 2 wagons. Apply to John J. Gallagher, 230 Water street, Quincy Adams. 20-6t

FOR SALE—Strictly fresh Quincy eggs. Seavey, 9 Silver street, Quincy. 19-6t

FOR SALE—22 ft. motor Boat, 5 h. p. 2 cylinder engine. One year old. Price reasonable. A. D. Thompson, 47 Main street. 19-6t

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS—Take notice. We are selling all steel portable Automobile garages, camps and storehouses ready to put up. Absolutely fire proof. Prompt shipment. Send for quotations. M. W. Tilton, Box 362, Brockton. 11-12t

FOR SALE—Cheap, a second hand kitchen stove, in good condition. Apply to Mr. Magee, 963 Hancock street near car barn. 17-6t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS?
ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

WANTED

WANTED—Position as housekeeper in gentleman's home by young widow of 29, good cook. Write H. G., Ledger Office. 20-3t

WANTED—A Rivet Heater. Apply at Isbell-Porter Co., Brockton Gas Co. Works, Brockton. 20-3t

WANTED—Young lady as salesgirl in drug store. Address "A" care Ledger Office. 19-3t

WANTED—By an experienced nurse maternity nursing. Address P. O. Box 304, Quincy. March 18-6t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York. N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Mas. 22-tf

JUST LOOK HERE

Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.

HENRY w. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 Office 683-M

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX

are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES

80 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.

MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar.
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

Read Ledger Ads

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30. 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c

THURS., FRI., SAT.
Program Subject to Change

MR. and MRS. EVERETT BENNETT
Presenting their Comedy Sketch
"THE MASTER"

BIANZA TRIO
Refined Singers and Musicians

B N BROS.
Novelty Comedians

JACK WALLACE
Trained Eagle

4 Reels of Thrills
OVER NIAGARA FALLS
Wonderful Picture Production of intense and gripping interest

COMEDY PICTURES
For Laughing Purposes only

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

NEWSY BRIEFS

Mrs. J. E. Poland will hold a public whist party in Polands hall, Norfolk Downs, on Tuesday night.

Hartley L. White of Braintree who is well known in Quincy, is delighted over the arrival of a little daughter, the only girl in the family.

Auctioneer Johnson will sell a business site at the corner of Federal avenue and Goddard street Saturday noon.

The Quincy Hospital Aid Association will meet next Thursday with Miss Etta M. Prescott of Glendale road.

Last night's meeting of the First Parish Men's Club was largely attended, most of Quincy's representative business men being in attendance to hear the lecture on "The Income Tax."

Freeman Sheppard, a former resident of Morrill, Maine, died this morning at the home of his daughter Miss Fremetta Sheppard at 59 Mill street He was in his 86th year and has made his home with his daughter for several years.

George L. Gill Associates held their weekly whist party in Odd Fellows hall Thursday afternoon and had a large attendance. The scores ran high and close. J. Starr took the first souvenir, Mrs. J. Davison and Mrs. Parr were tied for second. Mrs. Kenney was fourth, Mrs. Smith fifth and Mrs. Mary Thomas sixth.

Nine members of Auxiliary 3 attended a class initiation in Faneuil hall Thursday evening. The work was performed by division officers, Mrs. Minnie Glover Division Inspector acting as color guard. Fifteen members were initiated. The entertainment following was in charge of Past National President Mary L. Warren and consisted of orchestra and vocal selections, readings and addresses by division president and others. Rev. Edward A. Horton gave a stirring address on Patriotism.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS?
ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

THE DYNAMO.

The dynamo hums like a droning bee
As it feeds its brushes lazily.
For it spins so fast that it seems quite still,
And little we deem that it turns a mill.
Drives on the trolleys and lights a town,
Whisking its people up and down,
In their great hotels and castles of trade,
Or that out on the waves in the storm's tirade
It cheers the crew of a wounded ship
And sends it aid on a wireless tip.
But it does all this while all we see
Is the dynamo there, like a droning bee
Feeding its brushes lazily.
—Ralph Bacon.

BIRTHS

WHITE—In Braintree, March 15 a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Hartley L. White.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

CROSSING ACCIDENT

Lumber Wagon Struck by Train—Driver at Hospital

While crossing the tracks near the Monatiquot Rubber Works Wednesday noon, an empty truck belonging to the A. T. Stearns lumber company of Neponset was struck by the Boston bound passenger train due at South Braintree at 12 o'clock. The team was almost across when the locomotive hit it and smashed one rear wheel to kindling wood. The horses ran and the driver John McIvers of Neponset was thrown off and kicked in the face by the frightened animals. One of the wheels passed over him and he was so severely injured that on the advice of Dr. F. R. Dame he was placed on the train and conveyed to the Massachusetts General hospital. An alarm bell was recently installed by the railroad company at this crossing but whether or not the driver heard it or whether it rang is not known.

At the hospital it was found that Mr. McIver's face was cut, his right leg broken and he received a scalp wound.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS DEGREE

A large attendance of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus members witnessed John A. Bassidy, inquisitor, conduct the second degree which was conferred on 18 candidates in New Colonial hall Thursday night. Several applications for membership were received. Among those present was District Deputy Supreme Knight Edward D. Barrett, and the guests of the evening were Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, pastor of St. John's church, and Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy, a curate at the church. There were short addresses by the clergy and deputy. District Deputy Supreme Knight Daniel Gallagher of Dorchester, deputy of Quincy council, was unable to attend because of illness. Grand Knight William A. Carey presided. The officers of the council assisted Mr. Bassidy in the degree.

TELLS OF VOYAGE AROUND WORLD

An interesting meeting of the men's club of the Hall Place M. E. church was held Thursday evening with President Daniel McNeil presiding. The speaker of the evening was Rev. W. H. Hickey of South Boston who gave an interesting talk on his voyage around the world in a sailing vessel, in search of health. During his trip he sailed in four different vessels and under different flags. His address included many personal experiences which he had during the trip and the talk was greatly enjoyed.

By C. H. JOHNSON, Auctioneer
Office Room 3 Adams Bld., Quincy ATTENTION!

Valuable Business Site
Will be Sold at PUBLIC AUCTION
From premises, corner of FEDERAL AVENUE and GODDARD STREETS SOUTH QUINCY, on Saturday, March 21st, 1914
at 12.45 P. M.,
Lot contains 4,211 square feet land, with a large frontage on each street. This is the PLACE and NOW is the time to buy for investment.
TERMS EASY
M 20—1t

NOTICE

Quincy, Mass., March 18, 1914
On and after April 1, 1914 the charge for the removal of ashes from cellars will be seven and one-half cents (7 1-2c) per barrel. Those now holding five-cent tickets may exchange the same for the new tickets or have their money refunded at the office of the Board of Health. No five cent tickets will be accepted in payment for barrels after April 1st.
Per order,
Board of Health,
John C. Murray,
JOHN C. MURRAY,
Chairman.
March 20-1t

"Doing Europe" In Olden Days.

Clare Howard in "The English Travelers of the Renaissance" tells us that the serious aim of the traveler in and before Elizabethan days was to become a "compleat person." This could be achieved only by coming into contact with the learning and life of the continent, particularly Italy—the flower of the renaissance—and as the seventeenth century advanced of France, which then became the arbiter of manners. The discomforts, dangers and risks of travel in those days were colossal. The dirty, insanitary inns were death traps, and "many an eager tourist lay down with smallpox before he had seen anything worth mentioning."

The term "grand tour," Miss Howard tells us, was used for the first time by Richard Lassels in 1670 in an English book for travelers entitled "The Grand Tour of France and the Giro of Italy." She traces the causes involved in the decadence of the grand tour, to which the decline of the courtier and the foundation of chairs of modern history and modern languages at Oxford and Cambridge contributed.

Washing Day In Sicily.

The Sicilians have the reputation of not washing themselves overfrequently, but if they are remiss in this respect they more than make up for it by washing their garments—washing, in fact, being a perennial occupation among the women. The songs of the women folk as they scrub the clothes of their husbands and children outside the doors of their homes, if living in a city, or in some brook or running stream if living in the country, are a noticeable feature of lower class Sicilian life. The long spikes on the prickly pear leaves and aloe plants make splendid natural pegs on which to dry the clothes, and in all the rural districts you will see them thus utilized, but if they do not happen to be sufficiently handy the clothes are often stretched out upon the mountainside to dry. The occupation and recreation of most of the poorer women may be summed up in three words—washing and gossip.—Wide World Magazine.

How Pythons Settle Quarrels.

It was in October, 1894, that the big python at the zoo fell into the deplorable error of swallowing his companion, a snake only a few inches shorter than himself. A similar disaster is reported from Bombay, where for some years two large Indian pythons had occupied a cage in the museum of the Bombay Natural History society. There was some misunderstanding between them over a partridge, for they were found so tightly entangled in each other's coils that the utmost endeavors of peacemaking keepers failed to effect a separation, and they were left to settle the matter according to their own lights. Next day there was only one very stout python visible. These large reptiles evidently know but one way of settling a quarrel.—London Sketch.

Webster's Home Squadron.

A few days before his death Daniel Webster wished to leave his sickroom once more to look upon the little paradise which his taste had adorned about his mansion. Dressing himself with the utmost care, he went through the house on the arm of a servant and finally reached the library. The night before there was a terrific storm, and the great statesman expressed solicitude for the safety of the fishermen off the coast. As he looked from the window his eye fell upon a number of pleasure boats which had been moored to a little mound in the artificial pond in the rear of the house. "Well," said he, "the home squadron is safe. I think I will go back." It was his last playful remark. He never left his room again.

Quick Change.

"I would rather see my daughter married to a poor man whom she really loved than to the richest man in the world if she didn't care for him."

"Well, you get your wish. I saw her about ten minutes ago eloping with one of your underpaid clerks."

"Good heaven! Where? Speak, man! Maybe I can head them off before it is forever too late!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Gossip.

"One-half of the women in this world retail gossip," remarked Mr. Stubb as he lit his after supper cigar.

"Quite considerate of you not to say all of them retail gossip," snapped Mrs. Stubb as she washed the dishes.

"Oh, no, only half, Maria. The other half wholesale it."—London Express.

The Daughter.

Oh, the blessings that a daughter can bring into a household if she only wishes to! The communion of her mother, the comfort of her father, the pride of her brothers and sisters, the joy of the whole household!—Martha Washington.

Only the Seventh.

Guest—Delightful party you are having tonight, old fellow. Host—Yes, I am giving it to my wife. It is the seventh anniversary of her twenty-eighth birthday.—Censor.

Make Up For It.

"So Kate and Alice are not on speaking terms."

"No; but they more than make up for it by what they say about each other."—Boston Transcript.

The Modern Dancer.

Madge—Do look at that girl, Billy; doesn't she dance like a chicken? William—Yes, it's the very poultry of motion.—Exchange.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

The firemen and policemen of Brookline have been each granted an increase of $200 in their salary.

Llewelyn E. Barlow, the oldest member of Revere Post 94, G. A. R. of Canton, died Wednesday evening. He was 90 years old.

The Norfolk County G. A. R. and W. R. C. held its quarterly meeting at Foxboro Wednesday. The session was observed as the 10th anniversary. The W. R. C. session was presided over by Mrs. Jessie M. Young of Dedham, president of the association. Commander Edward O. Pierson of Braintree presided over the morning meeting of the G. A. R. Comrade Jeremiah McCarthy of Wrentham, a 94 year old veteran spoke a few words and Mrs. Mary Walker of Norwood, 81 years, read a flag poem. The next meeting will be in Randolph in October.

The drama "Home Ties" was presented at North Weymouth, Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Ladies Social Union of the Pilgrim Congregational church.

The funeral of Miss Emma M. Goodale who died in Dayton, Fla., was held from the home of her sister Mrs. Arthur W. Bartlett, 2 Lovell street. North Weymouth.

Mary Theresa De Nello, formerly of South Boston, died Wednesday at Cohasset in her 69th year.

Thirty-eight children took part in an entertainment by the Kings Daughters of Baptist church at Hingham, Wednesday. Two flag drills were given.

Mrs. Mary E. Hawes, late of Foxboro, in her will, bequeaths her little home to her son Charles "who was always good to his mother."

Two petitions for divorce have been filed with the Clerk of the Courts of Norfolk County at Dedham. Mrs. Minnie L. Flagg of Franklin sues Herbert H. Flagg of Franklin, charging him with cruelty. Vernon LL. Dauphinee of Quincy, seeks a divorce from Christine Dauphinee of Boston on the grounds of unfaithfulness. They lived in Quincy and have one son, Vernon L. Dauphinee, Jr.

The articles in the town warrant of Dedham have been considered by the business men and Board of Trade of that town.

Francis S. Dunbar has been elected president of the Canton Historical Society, Joseph W. R. Rogers, vice president John C. Gerald, treasurer and Wallace S. Shaw, secretary.

LADIES NIGHT SCANDIA LODGE

Skandia lodge, Vasa Orden, held a Ladies night in Protection hall Thursday night which was attended by many members and friends. The affair opened with a grand march, headed by Chief Carl Bonivier and Past Chief Mrs. Hilma O'Brien. At the conclusion of the march refreshments were served, after which dancing was enjoyed until midnight, music being furnished by the lodge orchestra. The committee in charge was Olaf Johnson, Mrs. Ernest Johnson, Mrs. Carl Bonivier, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Pierson, Andrew Hager. The affair was held after the regular meeting at which five applications were acted upon and several matters of interest discussed. During the meeting piano selections were contributed by Miss Dagma Nelson.

CLUB WILL CONTINUE.

Editor Daily Ledger:

My attention has been called to an article in the evening edition of your paper under date of March 18, wherein it is stated that the complaint against the Aetna Musical club of West Quincy for keeping a club nuisance "was dismissed on payment of $25 on account of costs, with the understanding that the club should cease to exist."

This is not correct, the complaint was dismissed upon the payment of costs taxed in the sum of $25, and with the understanding that no liquor was in the future to be dispensed by the club. The club will continue for the purposes for which it was organized, namely, for musical and social purposes.

Will you kindly publish a statement correcting this error and setting forth these facts.

F. H. Stevens

HOME TRADE will HELP QUINCY AND EVERYONE IN QUINCY.

RENTS AND AUTOS

(Continued from Page One)

an automobile and using it for business may deduct for depreciation, gasoline, etc., but if a person owns an automobile and uses it for pleasure then he can not deduct the amounts for depreciation, gasoline, etc. Interest on mortgages held was not a proper deduction. Individuals also may be taxed at the sources of their income.

If a tax has been paid on any part of his income before it reaches him it may be deducted. Corporations were obliged to make returns for the entire year 1913. But corporations may elect to select a date when their fiscal year shall end and pay a tax for that year. No persons are excused from making their return on a certain date unless by reason of sickness or being out of the country in which cases an extension of thirty days may be made.

WITHHOLDING AGENTS.

Withholding agents, or for instance employers, who pay a salary to an employee of more than $3,000 if a single man, must pay the tax of one percent unles the employee files a certificate, in which case the tax is paid by the employee. In other words the tax must be paid at its source unless a certificate is filed.

A tennant who pays a rent of $3,000 is a withholding agent. These certificates may be filed any time thirty days before March 1, 1915, otherwise the withholding agent is responsible for the tax. These agents must file a return at the end of the year, setting forth all exemptions made and the certificates.

Another phase was the trustee under a will. When the income to be paid a beneficiary is $3,000 a return must be made. If a sum of $5,000 is paid under the trust to two persons then there would be no tax. No return is made unless $3,000 is paid to one beneficiary.

Mr. Malley then spoke of the different forms of trusts and withholding agents explaining each at length.

A question was asked if the government took the persons return for its face value or if it investigated. Mr. Malley replied that the government revenue agents were at work all of the time investigating and that he was constantly receiving reports from them. Every person's return was thoroughly investigated by these agents, to see that they are correctly made.

Another asked if the government had calculated how much the income tax would yield and as to the cost of collecting. Mr. Malley replied yes, it had, but secrecy was one of the prime features of the collectors office and every bit of information imparted to it was kept inviolate. Information of any kind was not divulged.

Several others asked questions that were posers, but the speaker was right there and readily untangled them.

At the conclusion of the address a rising vote of thanks was given the speaker.

Resolutions were passed on the death of two of the club members, Edward Southworth and Dr. John F. Welch.

Before adjournment it was voted that a committee of three be appointed to bring in a list of officers to be voted for at the next meeting.

WOLLASTON'S UNION SERVICE

The union prayer service of four of the Wollaston churches on Thursday evening was a pronounced success. It was held at the Methodist church and the pastors of the Unitarian, Congregational and Baptist churches participated, also Rev. F. H. Morgan and Rev. Thomas S. Barbour, D. D. The service was conducted by Rev. Joseph Walther of the Baptist church. So successful was the union meeting that it was voted to have another soon, and that Dr. Martin J. Kneeland be secured to speak relative to the desecration of the Sabbath.

CAR DERAILED.

The electric car leaving Squantum at 6.30 this morning left the rail near the corner of Dorchester street and Bellevue road and turned at right angles with the track. There were 15 or 20 passengers on the car at the time and they were somewhat shaken up although none were injured. The car was got back on the rail at 7.15. This is the third accident of a similar nature that has happened on this line within a month.

Delcevare King of Quincy has been re-elected treasurer and a member of the board of directors of the Watch and Ward Society.

LAMSON & HUBBARD
SPRING AND SUMMER STYLES
FOR SALE BY
GEORGE W. JONES
REMICK BROS.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL
Sat. Mat. and Night
BY SPECIAL REQUEST
"THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG"
Reproduction in 5 Reels of Moving Pictures of the Greatest War Event in the World's History
Every Man, Woman and Child should see this Production
March 19tf

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.
Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.
Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.
18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10tf

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY
Agent for FORD and CASE CARS
A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock
Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.
For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-1o-tf

GIRL SUICIDE AT BRAINTREE

Cassie Havey, a 20 year old girl employed for the past three years as housekeeper for her uncle, James H. Lane, assistant janitor at Thayer Academy, committed suicide at his home this morning on Central avenue by slashing her throat from ear to ear.

His son Frank found her body on the floor of the kitchen when he came down to breakfast, and laying beside it was an open razor with which the girl had added another chapter to the long history of tragedies in Braintree.

Miss Havey has been for several months a sufferer from insomnia and at times exhibited a condition that bordered on advanced melancholia.

This morning as was her custom she prepared the breakfast for Mr. Lane at five o'clock and when he left the house she appeared to be in normal condition. At 6.40 Frank Lane discovered the body.

Certain that the girl was beyond the skill of medical aid, he nevertheless summoned Dr. C. A. Sullivan, who pronounced her dead on his arrival.

MAINE POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

NORMAL SCHOOL NEEDS.

The Committee on Education, of which Senator Langelier is chairman will return today from Worcester and Framingham. The Normal school at former place is asking for a $10,000.00 apropriation, and South Framingham is asking for an appropriation not only for repairs, but also for additional buildings to take the place of those recently burned. It is always customary for the sergeant-at-arms to appoint one of the messengers to accompany each committee when travelling, and the friends of Henry P. Furnald will be pleased to know that he was assigned to accompany the committee on this important trip.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

EXECUTOR'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executor of the will of Edward Southworth, late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, deceased, testate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

THOMAS J. EMERY, Executor
(Address)
1145 Old South Building,
Boston, Mass.
March 19, 1914 3t Mar. 20-27 Apr. 3

BBARD
ER

ES
REQUEST GETTYSBURG" Moving Pictures of the World's History
ould see this Production
March 1938

T and BUILDER
ildings of all kinds,
nd built.
properly anticipate your ns will save you more
d. A call will bring us
581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

RAGE
QUINCY
CASE CARS on hand ord Car, $550 for
0 for Town Car
Quincy 435
C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-10-tf

L SCHOOL NEEDS.

mittee on Education, of or Langelier is chairman oday from Worcester and
. The Normal school at e is asking for a $10,000.00 and South Framingham r an appropriation not airs, but also for addi-ngs to take the place of ly burned. It is always or the sergeant-at-arms ne of the messengers to ach committee when trav-
he friends of Henry P.
be pleased to know that gned to accompany the n this important trip.

SE IN THE LEDGER.

N. CURTIS
and GLAZIER
STAINED GLASS
and PAPER HANGER
NITURE REFINISHED
, off Spear Street, Quincy
AM F. RANKIN
holsterer
sses re-made for $2.50
acht cushions re-made or
of furniture repaired,
re-upholstered.
e. A postal will bring me.
Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-4m
an's Garage
Taxi Service
Storage and Supplies
Day and Night.
Touring Cars for all corner Washington and
ets.
ENNIMAN, Prop.
lephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

TOR'S NOTICE.

reby given that the sub-een duly appointed exe-will of Edward South-Quincy, in the County of ased, testate, and has himself that trust by as the law directs. All g demands upon the eseceased, are required to me; and all persons ind estate are called upon ment to S J. EMERY, Executor outh Building,
lass.
4 3t Mar. 20-27 Apr. 3

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 68 QUINCY, MASS SATURDAY EVENING MARCH 21 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

CANTATA PRESENTED

By Choir of the Water Street Presbyterian Church

The Sacred Cantata "A Day with our Lord" by T. Mee Pattison, was given in the First Presbyterian church Friday evening under the auspices of the choir and direction of Frank C. Gilbert, organist. The attendance was large.

The soloists were Miss Helen Cummings, Miss Minnie Miller, and Mrs. F. C. Gilbert sopranos; Miss Helen Elrick, Mrs. William F. Hodgkinson and Miss Margaret McLeod, altos; Everett Clark, tenor, George Davey and Louis Marini, bass.

The cantata was given in two parts with chorus singing, solos, duets, trios and quartettes and was a fine presentation throughout. Duets and solos were given between the parts. Miss Cummings sang "Queen of the Earth" by Pinsuti. Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Hodgkinson sang Leslie's "Invisible Land," Mr. Davey sang "The New Kingdom" by Tours. "The Holy City" rendered by Mr. Clark closed the special program.

The cantata consists of 24 different numbers and is a high class sacred composition. The theme running through is deeply religious and creates a strong impression when the rendition is as good as by the First Presbyterian church choir.

LUNCHEON AT WILLARD.

The girls of the Prevocational class of the Willard school prepared and served a St. Patrick's Day luncheon to their mothers and friends, Thursday afternoon. The table was tastefully and appropriately decorated with plants, flags and place-cards of shamrock. The green color scheme was carried out in a dainty manner in the following menu: Cream of pea soup, toasted crackers, chicken salad, Parker House rolls, Pistachio ice cream, cake and cocoa.

Miss Dempsey presided, and Annie Peterson, Mary Landry, Ivy McKean, Ellen Westerinen and Lillian Bushman acted as waitresses. The luncheon was voted a great success and would have been a credit to a class of a higher institution. Miss Dempsey and the class well deserve the very sincere praise given them by all of the guests.

WATCH CHARM PRESENTED

"Admiral" Cogan Popular With Argentine Officials

A pleasing event took place on board the battleship Rivadavia last week, after she had successfully completed all of her trials, when at four bells, J. T. Cogan, who has charge of the living quarters on board the battleship Rivadavia of the Argentine Commission, as well as the line officers of both the Rivadavia and Moreno during the seven weeks they have been on board the ship, was invited by Lieutenant Roberto Craig of the Rivadavia and Lieutenant Zacarias Villacian of the battleship Moreno, to accompany them to reception room of Vice Admiral Onofre Betbeder, where in the presence of a large number of Argentine officers he was presented with a large purse of money and a handsome watch charm. On one side of the charm were the Argentine colors while on the reverse side was the following inscription: "Presented to J. T. Cogan by Argentine Officers of Battleships Rivadavia and Moreno, March 14, 1914."

It is not often that "Admiral" Cogan gets rattled, but on this occasion he was for a few minutes. Recovering himself, he said that four years ago after Admiral Bowles had secured the contract for the Rivadavia and Moreno from the Argentine government, he gave the following orders, "Be polite and courteous to the Argentiners when they come among you, as they are Americans like ourselves and our neighbors. We are North Americans and they are South Americans." As I am still one of Admiral Bowles' Fore River crew, I try to obey orders. He thanked the Argentine officers for their kind appreciation of his services and wished all hands, all kinds of good luck for themselves and for the good ships Rivadavia and Moreno.

On the occasion when Mayor Curley was a guest on board the battleship, Mr. Cogan was presented by His Honor after the cruise with a beautiful fern to be used with the other decorations of the Argentine quarters.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

Prevents Crip -- Cures Grip

LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE removes the cause. There is only one "BROMO QUININE" Look for signature of E. W. GROVE, 25c.

BACHELOR CLUB DANCE

Alpha Hall Prettily Decorated for the Occasion

The annual dancing aprty of the Bachelor Club, one of the leading social events in the city, was held in Alpha hall, Friday night. Among those present were many out of town guests.

The matrons were Mrs. George S. Pfaffmann dressed in dark Oriental colors, Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur in black and Mrs. Russell A. Sears in white lace over satin. They wore enormous bunches of sweet peas, presented by the club members.

Walter B. Binnian had charge of the affair, and the members who assisted and acted as ushers were Edward Avery, Herbert S. Barker, Jr., Carrol M. Bill, George Brown, Delecvare King, John S. Pfaffmann, C. Eaton Pierce, Winslow Sears and Morton Smith.

The hall was decorated in bright red, streamers being hung from all points in the ball. The matrons' corner was a bank of greenery, potted plants and palms. Dancing was enjoyed until midnight and frappe and lemonade were served.

Among those present were Mrs. Walter Holden, Mr. and Mrs. Laurance H. Sturtevant, Mr. and Mrs. William Dewson, Miss Elizabeth E. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. C. Drinkwater, Arthur and Miss Grace Cavanaugh, Dr. and Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Miss Louise Steele, Miss Maude McFarland, Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Sears, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burgin, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hunt of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. O. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Rice, Fred L. Rice, Miss Marguerite F. Davis, Miss Dorothy Packard, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Spillane, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Russell.

—Both Mr. Daniels, secretary of the navy, and Mr. Roosevelt, assistant secretary, will probably be present at the launching of the Oklahoma Monday at Camden, N. J. A daughter of Governor Cruse of Oklahoma will name the vessel.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

NOT SETTLED SAYS BATES

Legislature Has Not Acted on Grade Crossings

Editor Daily Ledger:

In reply to your news item, relative to Mayor Miller's petition in the Legislature for the depression of the railroad through Quincy, I wish to inform the people of Quincy that the Mayor's petition is still before the Legislative Committee on Railroads for their further consideration. This grade crossing question will be contested for the people's rights to the very end not only in the legislature but if necessary in the courts.

The people of Quincy do not propose to submit to the act of Mayor Miller, through his City Solicitor, whereby in defiance of the City Council, the Quincy Board of Trade with its petition of the people, the mass meetings, and every organization within our city taking any action on this matter, he signed, in behalf of the City of Quincy, the "Decree Plan" which results in:

The sinking of Water street 10 feet lower than it is at present and making of it a veritable cesspool with unsanitary conditions in this section of our city forever.

The raising of School street 12 feet higher than now making a prohibitive grade and an unsightly highway.

The raising of Marsh street 9 feet higher, another eyesore.

Making Granite street worse than now and we all know what that is.

The closing of Saville street in the heart of our city; this street has been open to the public for 80 years and is used by over 2500 people every day.

The stealing of Irving place, a public highway and using the same for railroad purposes.

Substituting an outlet from the westerly side of our city by a narrow foot path or dug-out under the railroad through which you would not dare to have your daughter or wife pass after dark unless escorted by a police officer.

The raising of every railroad bridge in our city, and what a mess it will be at Beale street, Squantum street, Warren avenue, Adams street, Dimmock street, to say nothing of the mess at Water, School, Granite, Saville streets and Irving place.

And the immense land damages that will accrue and result in many law suits which the city will have to defend and pay the damages caused by such a monstrosity plan of land schemers and lawyers to wax fat and grow rich at the expense of the taxpayer.

Where is our debt going to? What will our tax rate be if this abortion is committed upon our City? I believe there will be a day of reckoning for all officials who betray our city in this crisis. History and posterity will hold the officials representing the city of Quincy in 1914 responsible for the weal or woe of our city.

Representative Sullivan is making the fight of his life to save our city and I would like to ask Representative Sandberg and Senator Langelier what they are doing to save the city of Quincy from this everlasting curse confronting the future welfare of our city? A worse plan than the "Decree Plan as far as the City of Quincy is concerned is inconceivable. Will our representatives in the House and Senate right this affliction confronting our City?

Yours truly,

G. B. BATES.

Member of Grade Crossing Committee of the city of Quincy.

ROLL CALL OF QUINCY LODGE

Quincy lodge, New England Order of Protection, held its annual roll call in Protection hall Friday night, and 35 members of the local lodge and nine from out of town organizations responded.

One of the pleasantest features of the evening was the series of original verses coupled about the names of members in a humorous way which was given by Mrs. Isabella V. Sawin.

Guests were present from Dudley lodge of Roxbury, Peerless lodge of Holbrook, and Mayflower lodge of Brockton. Mrs. J. VanPell of Dudley lodge contributed a reading to the fine program of the evening.

Remarks by the various guests and local officers was followed by an entertainment which consists of piano duets, violin solos by Mrs. Alice White and her daughter Marion, and contributions by other members.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting. The committe was Mrs. Mary A. McNeil, E. C. Sawin, Miss Velma Henderson, J. M. Ellison, Mrs. Isabelle V. Sawin, H. N. Macauley.

DISTRICT COURT.

John J. Doyle was fined $10 for assault at Randolph.

Joseph Cogan was fined $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Anna Panihancho was arraigned for malicious injury to property at Quincy. Case continued until May 2.

PRESIDENT J. Q. ADAMS

Repeated Every Night Prayer Taught by Mother

One of the stories told by Henry Cabot Lodge, in his "Memories," was handed down to him from the generation that preceded him, and tells of a visit made by John Quincy Adams of Quincy to New York as late as 1844. He went on a committee from the Massachusetts Historical Society with Dr. George Ellis. They went to "Bunker's" on the Battery and took a large airy room together. Mr. Adams would have no fire, though it was November, and he insisted on having the window wide open.

After they were both in bed Mr. Adams would begin stories and tell all sorts of experiences, full of vigor and snap and extremely amusing. Dr. Ellis said that he sometimes had to stuff the sheet in his mouth to keep from roaring aloud with laughter at Mr. Adam's fun.

Presently Mr. Adams would say, "Now it is time to go to sleep and I am going to say my prayers. I shall also say the verse my mother taught me when a child. I have never failed to repeat it every nigt of my life. I have said it in Holland, Prussia, Russia, England, Washington and Quincy. I say it out loud, and I don't mumble it either." Then he would repeat in a loud clear voice, "Now I lay me down to sleep."

Next morning early Mr. Adams would take a cold bath and when dressed would sit down with the Bible on his knees, and with a candle in his hand he would expound a psalm to Dr. Ellis in the most vigorous manner.

John Quincy Adams, it will be remembered, represented the United States in the Netherlands and in Prussia before he was President and during the presidency of his father. His presidency came about in 1824, entirely without office seeking on his part. He was chosen by the House of Representatives when neither he nor Andrew Jackson had secured a majority of votes at the polls.

HOSPITAL FOR BARRE.

At the close of the fifth day of the whirlwind campaign at Brare, Vt., to raise $50,000 for a hospital the teams reported the amount pledged to be $43,153.59.

CURLEY AT SHIPYARD

Bostons Mayor Interested in Auto Fire Apparatus

Mayor Curley of Boston and Chief Engineer Grady of the Boston Fire department are to visit the Fore River shipyard this afternoon to inspect the new auto fire apparatus building at the plant. Mayor Curley has started a movement to make all of the fire apparatus of Boston auto operated, and there is a possibility that the Fore River corporation may come in for some of the contracts if the change is made.

FREEMAN SHEPHERD.

Rev. C. P. Marshall of the Church of the Pilgrimage of Plymouth, former pastor of the Washington Street Congregational church, officiated at the funeral services of Freeman Shepherd which were held Friday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Miss Freemetta Shepherd at 59 Mill street, Quincy Point. Mr. Shepherd was an active member of the church during the pastorate of Rev. M. Marshall. He came to Quincy from Morrill, Me., and his body was sent there today for burial.

—George W. Taylor of Beverly, an Odd Fellow for over 56 years, died on Friday.

SUNDAY
At 3.30 P. M
MEN'S MEETING
AT KINCAIDE THEATRE
AUSPICES Y. M. C. A.
DR. GEO. L. CADY
Will Speak
TEMPLE QUARTET
Will Sing
COME MEN!
And Boys Over 14
Doors Open 3 P. M. Seats Free

THE NEW
Adams Market
CITY SQUARE
'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

R. E. FOY & CO.
Stores of Quality and Service

THE OLD
Water St. Market
QUINCY ADAMS
'Phone Quincy 117

We're Ready For Your Week-End Order of Groceries and Meats!

We offer you the greatest variety of "Good Things to Eat" that the market affords. Pure, Fresh, Wholesome Foods at lowest possible Prices. Clean Stores, Courteous Clerks, quick service—all invite you to trade here. We assure you satisfaction in every way. Try us.

THIS IS COFFEE WEEK
Our two stores are having a "Coffee Sales Contest" this week. The clerks in the store selling the most coffee win a cash prize. Incidentally our delicious coffee is being introduced into many new homes. Try a pound—'twill please you.
FOY'S QUALITY COFFEE 33c lb
ALL LEADING BRANDS OF ADVERTISED COFFEES
At Popular Prices.

SELECTED SPRING LAMB
Real Lamb—tender and sweet
Fore-Quarters 12c lb Leg and Loin 18c lb
ALSO
the very best of
BEEF, PORK, AND VEAL
CHICKEN AND FOWL
New Potatoes — Sweet Potatoes — New Cabbage -- Cucumbers -- Lettuce -- Radishes -- Rhubarb -- Celery -- Ripe Tomatoes -- Spanish and Burmuda Onions -- Fancy Spinach -- etc., etc. at lowest prices.
100 KINDS CAKES AND CRACKERS
Both Imported and Domestic
FRESH BAKED BREAD AND PASTRY

EGGS ARE LOWER
Not only much lower in price, but higher in quality They're fresh and nice Mighty good eating. Try them.
FRESH EASTERN EGGS
26c and 29c doz
FANCY FRESH EGGS
Received Daily from Assinippe
33c doz.
BUTTER LOWER, TOO
Best Northern Creamery 32c lb

CALIFORNIA "SUNKIST" SEEDLESS ORANGES 23c doz
LARGE LUCIOUS Sweet and Juicy FLORIDA ORANGES 29c doz
March 20-2t

TO LET
Large Front Office Greenleaf Block
2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.
Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.
Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.
Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.
Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.
City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.
Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)
Offices—Large or small.
Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.
Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.
Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS
Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.
New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.
Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust.
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

At REMICK'S
TO BE CORRECT WEAR A SOFT HAT.

THE "NO NAME" HAT
We are showing as large and complete a variety in the popular Soft Hats for Young Men and Old Men as any store in Boston. All styles, all colors including the New Pearl, Blue and Brown effects.
Our $3.00 Soft Hats "The No-Name" equal to any $3.50 hat made.
$2.00 and $1.50 Soft Hats, all styles, all colors
REMICK'S
Music Hall Block

THE "NO NAME" HAT

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC.

of the Quincy Daily Ledger, published daily at Quincy, Massachusetts, required by the act of August 24, 1912.

Managing Editor, Frank F. Prescott Quincy, Mass.

Business Managers, Board of Directors, Quincy, Mass.

Publishers, George W. Prescott Publishing Co., Quincy, Mass.

Owners: Frank F. Prescott, Quincy, Mass., Eben Prescott, Braintree, Mass., Etta M. Prescott, Quincy, Mass., Annie L. Prescott, Quincy, Mass., Alice K. P. Low, Quincy, Mass.

Average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date of this statement, 2756.

George W. Prescott Publishing Co.
by A. L. PRESCOTT, Treasurer.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 17th day of March 1914.

CLARENCE BURGIN,
(Seal) Notary Public.
My commission expires Dec. 8. 1916
Mar. 18-tf

LENTEN FARE.

Few persons observe the rigors of the old time Lent, "black fasts, as they were called by some. History records that in ancient days armies and cities were reduced to starvation during Lent, while having plenty of flesh food, which they were so disciplined as to refuse.

Historians also observe that some of the old Lenten laws were aimed quite as much to promote the prosperity of the fish trade as to assist in true religious culture. So the decline of asceticism does not invariably mean a lack of religious feeling.

Edward VI. of England, desiring to reconcile his subjects to a somewhat stricter observance of Lent, very sensibly remarked that abstinence from meat saves much flesh and encourages the use of fish. In these times of high cost meat, the family that observes Lent according to the older ideas will gain not merely the benefits that come from self discipline, but may learn that one can do very well on substitutes for meat.

The constant improvement of refrigerating and transportation facilities make fish, oysters, and other sea foods more generally available than formerly. But comparatively few families cook fish nicely. Too often it is merly dried in the frying pan, a loathly object. At seashore hotels where these arts are studied, appetizing sauces are used. and the constant succession of fish food is usually popular.

No doubt there are still left a good many people who modify their diet a good deal during this period of fasting. Let no one deride their abstinence if they find it helpful. Any form of self control makes one more truly the master of his own life, and it reduces the sway of the fleshly instincts which so often are a foe to human usefulness and ambition.

W. H. HASLETT
31 Bridge Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 1092 W

Plastering and Cementing
Concrete Houses
Outside Stucco Work
Cement Walks, Steps and Cellar Floors.

PETROSILO sanitary and fireproof flooring—guaranteed to wear longer than hard wood floor—no joints one continuous piece put over any floor.

Feb. 25- W-S. tf

Y. M. C. A. AT BRAINTREE

Any citizen not acquainted with the Braintree Y. M. C. A. and who desired information certainly had abundant opportunity to become informed last Sunday and at the Tuesday evening rally. Sunday was generally observed as "Y. M. C. A. Sunday" by the pastors of the various churches in their morning services. The Rev. Tyler E. Gale at the South Congregational church spoke of this movement under the topic "The Work of the Church;" at the South Methodist church Rev. A. Lowell Ryan's sermon was on "That Boy;" and Rev. John A. Mitchell told the Baptist audience of an imaginary town and the building up of a Y. M. C. A. there. The story was primed with many actual facts as well as some which may or may not be in Braintree. At the First Congregational church, Rev. Harry Grimes spoke on "The Masculine in the Church;" At Emmanuel, Rev. M. Oakman Patton presented "The World's Case against the Church" as one in a series of sermons and Frederick C. Folsom, chairman of the boys' work committee of the Y. M. C. A., delivered a message in behalf of the association, while at the East Methodist church Rev. Nelson Allen Price gave a timely discourse on "Today's Men and Tomorrow's."

At four o'clock Sunday afternoon Edward W. Hearne, state secretary, and Fred H. Hardy, vice president of the Braintree Association, addressed a mixed audience at the First church; County Secretary Ernest P. Conlon and Herbert A. Bryant, chairman of the Manomet Camp committee of the local association, were the speakers at the South Methodist church and Dwight C. Drew, state secretary for county work and Frederick C. Folsom of the boys' work committee, spoke to an interested audience at the Union Congregational church.

The afternoon speakers emphasized the work of Y. M. C. A. along such lines as its "Boy Scout" groups are following and related many instances of manly development from the training given. It was also evident to the older attendants at these meetings that the time has arrived when more adult activities, physical and educational, can properly have a place in the Braintree Association. Tuesday evening Dwight C. Drew and Mr. Conlon addressed the rally meeting, at the conclusion of which President Arthur W. Hoe gave an opportunity for informal discussion of ideas which the members advanced. Miss Lydia J. Schrader, with Miss Lyda Tupper as accompanist, rendered several highly appreciated solos and were heartily encored by the seventy-five or more men and boys present.

The association now has over fifty members. Boys in the Scout groups who have not become members of the Y. M. C. A. will soon augment the present membership.

The finance committee of the association, James E. Folsom, Mt. Vernon street, chairman and the membership committee. Fred H. Hardy, Lisle street, chairman, are soon to begin a campaign for the summer work. A trained and experienced secretary is soon to be engaged for the Manomet Camp and early provision made for a large number to avail themselves of its privileges. For these purposes about five hundred dollars is to be raised. All contributions should be made to James E. Folsom or Frank W. Couillard, treasurer, Braintree.

GREAT REAL ESTATE AND SUMMER HOME ISSUE.

On Saturday, April 4, the Boston Evening Transcript will print a generous amount of reading matter which will be of much interest to real estate owners in New England, investors and those who lease or have summer homes at the seashore, mountains or country.

Anyone having a house, farm, cottage or desirably located land for sale or exchange, or a summer place to rent for the season, will do well to secure advertising space in this issue, for it will have a wide circulation among interested people all over the United States.

WILLS ALLOWED.

Several Quincy wills were allowed at Norfolk County probate court this week: Emma F. Welch was appointed executrix of will of Dr. John F. Welch bond $100,000; Thomas J. Emery of Cambridge to be executor of will of Edward Southworth, bond $20,000; Emma A. Hobbs to be executrix of will of Ralph W. Hobbs, bond $8,000; Rebecca Gurney to be executrix of will of Thomas Gurney, bond $12,000.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

IS OPPOSED BY PROGRESSIVES

Wilson's Stand on Toll Repeal Viewed With Disfavor

MURDOCK ISSUES STATEMENT

Says Change In Clause of Panama Canal Act Means Surrender of Sovereignty of American People—Hay-Pauncefote Treaty In Our Favor Unless It Is Misread

Washington, March 21.—All the Progressive strength in congress will be thrown against President Wilson in his effort to repeal the toll exemption clause of the Panama canal act, according to Representative Murdock, leader of the house Progressives. He issued a statement that says:

"Both Democrats and Republicans are hopelessly divided. A little over one year ago all three parties covenanted with the people to exempt coastwise traffic. Today Republicans and Democrats, as parties, are breaking their pledges.

"The Progressive party, free from the influence of sectional or selfish interest, but actuated by principle and united by mutual conviction, is standing by the contract with the people.

"Thirteen million voters in 1912 charged the American congress to carry out their will in this matter. To scorn that mandate of the people now is to violate the principles of representative government and to surrender the sovereignty of the American people."

Murdock asserted there was no violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty in the free tolls provision and declared that the machinations of the trans-continental railroads were menacing the Monroe doctrine.

"The danger of departure from traditional freedom or from entangling alliances with foreign powers and freedom of commerce between the states make necessary now an uncompromising adherence to American principles in this crisis," he said.

"We do not read the Hay-Pauncefote treaty in a spirit of easy and over-anxious accommodation to Great Britain; to us its terms are explicit," the statement continues. "Were those terms against us, we could not violate them and keep the respect of other nations, but the terms of the treaty are with us, and if we misread them against ourselves we cannot keep our own respect. The representatives of the people are not asked merely to suspend the exemption until their rights can be arbitrated, but they are asked to confess national dishonor.

"If dollar diplomacy is to be succeeded by a foreign policy of peace at any price, whereby our domestic affairs are to wait upon the dictation of foreign ministers, then a time has come for a new declaration of independence."

INJUNCTION IS ASKED

Killifer Case Brings Baseball War Into the Federal Courts

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 21.—The bitter warfare between the federal league and organized baseball was dragged into the United States courts with the filing of a petition for an injunction to restrain Catcher William Killifer from playing with the Philadelphia Nationals and so breaking his contract with the Federal league.

The suit is expected to result in a test of the "reserve" clause of baseball players' contracts. It must be prosecuted in Michigan, because Willifer's home is in this state. Hearing was set for April 3.

NINE ARRESTS ARE MADE

Crusade Against Unlicensed Dentists In Rhode Island

Providence, March 21.—Nine persons were arrested as a result of a state-wide crusade against unlicensed dentists begun by the Rhode Island Dental society. Four arrests were made here, two in Pawtucket, two in Woonsocket and one in West Warwick.

Among those taken into custody was Evan W. Rosencrans, who was arrested once before and carried his case to the United States supreme court and lost, and an employe in the office of the state board of dentistry at Woonsocket.

SWEENEY IS ARRAIGNED

His Wife Dies From Blows Inflicted With an Axe

Lowell, Mass., March 21.—William B. Sweeney of Dracut was arraigned in the Lowell police court on a charge of murdering his wife at their home. He pleaded not guilty and was held without bail for a hearing March 25.

Whispering a plea that her husband be unmolested, Mrs. Sweeney died in St. John's hospital, a victim of various injuries said to have been caused by her husband with an axe.

Dorr's Doom Is Sealed

Boston, March 21.—Governor Walsh has decided not to intervene in the case of William A. Dorr, who killed George E. Marsh of Lynn, and Dorr will die in the electric chair some time in the week beginning next Sunday.

NEWSY BRIEFS

M. F. Baker of Walker street left Sunday on a business trip west.

The Orpheus Male quartet of Boston is to sing at the Sunday evening service at the Wollaston M. E. church.

Capt. George W. Eldridge of Vineyard Haven, who lectured before the Quincy Board of Trade on tides, died on Thursday, aged 69 years.

Rev. Charles H. Brown of Grace church, Norwood will be the preacher at the Wednesday evening service at Christ church.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian society will hold a Scotch supper next Wednesday evening.

The Young Men's Hebrew association will be addressed next Thursday evening by Max Ulin, vice president of the Y. M. H. A. of New England.

Everett A. Barber of Billings street left this week for a five months' trip through Canada and the United States.

Miss Etta Spargo was pleasantly surprised Wednesday evening at her home on Centre street by thirty of her many friends, and presented with a Persian ivory toilet set.

The Albee class of the Wollaston Baptist church has elected Mrs. John Benson as President. The business session Wednesday was followed by a pleasing entertainment.

There will be an exchange of pulpits at the Atlantic Methodist church Sunday morning. The pastor goes to the Union church, Houghs Neck for the 10.45 morning service and the Rev. Sayre preaches at Atlantic.

Olive McClellan who lived on Appleton street until a few years ago, graduated from the Nathaniel Rochester grammar school, Rochester, New York, a few weeks ago and is now a pupil in the high school.

Sunday evening at 7 o'clock Rev. William B. Ayers of the Park and Downs Congregational church, will preach on the recent "Seigel-Stores Failure" and no doubt this will draw a large attendance, for Mr. Ayers portrays some vivid pictures in his talks.

Bishop Babcock will be the preacher Thursday night at the Lenten service at St. Chrysostom's church. As Archdeacon, Bishop Babcock had oversight of St. Chrysostom's church until a few years ago which makes him personally known to many of the congregation.

St. Margaret's Guild of Christ church is to have a "work night" at its meeting Tuesday evening when members will sew for the hospital in Zamboanga, Philippine islands. The Guild is also planning for a pop concert to be given after Easter.

Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham, treasurer of the Quincy Women's Club is prepared to receive the annual dues and will have membership tickets at the meeting of the club on Tuesday afternoon or will mail them to all those who enclose with their check a tamped addressed envelope. Tuesday's meeting promises to be novel and entertaining and is announced as "Hobbies."

The Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of Washington Street Congregational church held a very succesful basket social in the vestry Wednesday evening. The entertainment consisted of duets by Misses Helen Lincoln and Clara Bushnell and a two-act play entitled "A Fortunate Mistake" which was written by two members of the society. The Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of the East Weymouth Congregationa l church were invited guests. About 100 were present. A basket lunch was provided by the girls and hot chocolate was served by the Endeavorers. After a very enjoyable evening the entertainment came to a close at half past ten.

100
BEAUTIFUL AND COLORED POST CARDS

Many are rich and rare pictures of BEAUTIFUL MODELS AND ACTRESSES
Also a Self-Filling
FOUNTAIN PEN
ALL for only 50 cents

The greatest bargain in beautiful cards and rare art pictures ever offered. Many are hard to obtain and have sold singly for the price we ask for all. These will go quickly to all lovers of the beautiful in nature who appreciate rare art pictures of well developed models.

A reliable self-filling fountain pen free with each order. These alone have sold for one dollar in stores.

The 100 beautiful cards and pen all for but 50 cents. Sent postpaid.

CENTRAL MANUFACTURING CO.
Dayton, Ohio.

CIVIL WAR IS NEAR IN ULSTER

Possibilities of Bloodshed Recognized In England

PREPARING FOR EMERGENCIES

Troops Redistributed to Avoid Encounters With People With Whom They Have Formed Friendships—Carson Surrounded by Armed Volunteers Ready to Resist Arrest

London, March 21.—"War in Ulster" is the startling headline which the sensational London newspapers are displaying in the blackest type.

The government has begun to dispose of its regular troops in Ireland so that they may be in a position to deal with any situation that arises. The cooler men among the Loyalists and the Ulster Unionists, however, believe that nothing resembling war is yet in sight.

The army council some time ago considered the possibilities of home rule strife and instructed Lieutenant General Paget, who commands the Irish garrisons, to take all necessary precautions to maintain order and safeguard property.

A general redistribution of the forces in Ireland therefore was begun yesterday. Two regiments were sent from the south to reinforce the Ulster garrisons, while troops in Ulster were moved to new stations in conformity with the custom that in the event of hostilities or rioting soldiers should not be compelled to encounter people with whom they had formed friendships.

In accordance with the same rule, some Irish recruits were sent from the Armagh recruiting station to England.

The possibilities of a collision between the British soldiers and the Ulster volunteers resulting from the superheated political feeling are recognized.

John Redmond, the Nationalist leader in parliament, telegraphed the Nationalists in Belfast an urgent appeal to abandon a parade arranged for Sunday in Londonderry, which it was thought likely would result in rioting. Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, and the members of the Ulster council invoked calmness on the part of the volunteers.

Four cabinet ministers spoke of the Ulster situation at different meetings last night. John Burns, president of the local government board, said:

"Home rule is a question mainly for Ireland itself. We no more desire to yield to lawless lawyers than to lawless laborers."

Thomas McK. Wood, secretary of state for Ireland, said: "We will carry home rule by agreement if we possibly can, but without it if we must."

Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, declared the government's proposals gave Ulster freedom from coercion for six years, but the scheme of Andrew Bonar Law, the leader of the opposition in parliament, meant immediate coercion if a referendum went against Ulster.

Attorney General Simon said the government proposed to go steadily on, adding: "Whatever happens, we will see that law and order are unflinchingly observed in Ulster."

In view of the partisan claims regarding the number of men, the organization and equipment of the Ulster volunteers, statements by Colonel Dacourt, military correspondent of The London Times, and H. W. Nevinson, a prominent Liberal writer of The Nation, who have been touring Ulster, are important.

Dacourt says the 110,000 men enrolled are in the flower of their age and of excellent physique. Decentralization has been the system of organization. Each county forms a separate unit. There are sixty-five battalions, of which there are eighteen in Belfast. The volunteers have 400 motor cars, 200 motorcycles and a complete system of communication by flags, lamps and heliographs. Eighty thousand rifles, according to Dacourt, have been distributed in parcels, each containing five, to select men, so that wholesale seizure of the weapons would be impossible.

Nevinson estimates that between 60,000 and 80,000 men would respond to a call for the mobilization of the volunteers. He thinks the rifles of the volunteers obsolete and of several different patterns, and that ammunition is scarce.

"In scattered groups," continued Nevinson, "they would try to harass the regular army sent to occupy the country. The movement, therefore, is not a bluff proper. Neither is it formidable from a military point of view. The intention is serious, though fantastic, and it is formidable because no one wants to shoot his own people."

The Situation In Ulster

Belfast, March 21.—Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, is at Craighaven, surrounded by armed guards of volunteers, each with a rifle and bayonet and carrying ball cartridges. They will shoot if necessary to prevent Carson's arrest.

Belfast is much like a city in state of siege. Besides the guard about the house of Carson, armed forces surround the house of every other Orange leader. Any provocation of trouble may precipitate a pitched battle.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

MAYBE YOU DON'T REALIZE

That we can do a lot for you besides keeping your money in a safe place. We help you with your accounting, your credits, and your collections. We give free legal advice on business subjects. We have a wonderful fund of information that you would do well to remember. Call in and find out some of the advantages of being a "Granite Trust" depositor.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

QUINCY MUSIC HALL
Sat. Mat. and Night

BY SPECIAL REQUEST
"THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG"
Reproduction in 5 Reels of Moving Pictures of the Greatest War Event in the World's History
Every Man, Woman and Child should see this Production

March 1913

Extra Eggs Laid and Extra Chicks Raised mean Extra Profits

This statement requires no argument! Now plan your work to get more eggs, hatch more and better chicks, carry more chicks to maturity without additional equipment or labor. In other words, increase the efficiency of your entire plant. You can do it easily. This is the way:—Give

Pratts Poultry Regulator to your breeding stock. It will invigorate the birds, bring more eggs with better fertility. That means bigger hatches of husky chicks. Put

Pratts White Diarrhea Remedy
in the drinking water for all broods to control this destructive disease and other bowel troubles. Then feed and watch the youngsters grow! It will raise every good chick and a lot of the weak ones and make them husky and vigorous. Use this combination for better results. Remember "Your money back if it fails"

Pratts Baby Chick Food

Prices: Regulator, 25c to $9; 25-lb. Pails, $2.50; White Diarrhea Remedy, 25c, 50c; Baby Chick Food, 25c up.

A. J. Richards & Son, C. W. & G. W. Nightingale, Nathan Ames, E. B. Doble, & Co., and Grain Dealers, and General Stores everywhere. 4199

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $535 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed.
C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

CARPETS
Oriental Domestic RUGS
LINOLEUM
MATTINGS
AT LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES
John H. Pray & Sons Co.
646 Washington Street, Opp. Boylston Street

All Goods will be Delivered Free at Residences in Quincy
REPRESENTED IN QUINCY BY
Messrs. OTHO A. HAYWARD and WALTER J. WELLINGTON.

...rplus $200,000
...U
...IZE
...ides keeping
...Ve help you
...ts, and your
...l advice on
...nderful fund
...do well to
...some of the ...nite Trust"
...an
...T Co.

...REQUEST
...GETTYSBURG"
...f Moving Pictures of
...the World's History
...hould see this Production
March 1913

Extra
...s' Chicks
Raised
...ent!
...hatch
...maturity
...In other
...plant. You
...tor
...bring more eggs
...husky chicks. Put
...emedy
...structive
...al chick
...tonic
...umber
...ails,
...Sacs

...ARAGE
...QUINCY
...CASE CARS
...s on hand
...k
...ord Car, $550 for
...50 for Town Car
...l Quincy 435
...C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

...TS
...GS
...UM
...GS
...RICES
...ons Co.
...ylston Street
...sidences in Quincy
...y
...ER J. WELLINGTON.

Mrs. Samuel Nichols entertained the Current Events club at luncheon at her home on Beach street, Tuesday afternoon. After a most delightful luncheon the party attended the meeting of the Wollaston Woman's club, it being reciprocity day. It was just a year ago at one of the meetings of the club that plans were made and formulated for starting a womans club and it has had a most successful year. The luncheon was given in honor of Mrs. Thayer of Boston who was the guest of Mrs. Nichols.

• • •

Mrs. Fred Drury of Fitchburg is the guest of her brother George Sherwin of Clive street.

• • •

Miss Eva A. Hobart a teacher in a school in Whitefield, N. H., is to enjoy a two weeks' vacation beginning the 30th at the home of her mother on Independence avenue.

• • •

Mrs. William F. Cummings of Clive street, is spending a few days with friends in Washington, D. C.

• • •

Miss Dorothy M. Blake is with her sister Mrs. Carl E. Holmes of Standish avenue until her departure next month for her home at Tampa, Florida.

• • •

Although the presentation of Elijah by the Quincy Choral Society is a month off, the date being April 21st, there is a good list of subscribers and every indication of a large audience and a fine performance. The chorus is to be assisted by Madame Marie Sundelius, Miss Edith Castle, Bernard Ferguson and John E. Daniels, soloists and the Brockton Philharmonic orchestra of Brockton.

• • •

Miss Abby K. Wilde of Prospect avenue after a week's leave of absence has returned to Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., where she is an instructor at the Misses Masters' school.

• • •

No lecturer is received by Quincy club women with the enthusiasm that is accorded William L. Hubbard of the Boston Opera house who spoke Wednesday morning at the clubhouse under the auspices of the music committee of the Quincy Women's Club. His subject was "Die Meistersinger" and the story of the opera was most fascinatingly told by Mr. Hubbard and his assisting pianist Mr. Baxter.

• • •

The event next week is Harvard night of the Quincy Tennis Club, when "A Bug in a Rug" will be given Saturday night at Quincy Music hall by the Pi Eta Society it is a musical comedy in two acts, written by J. R. O. Perkins '14 and Paul Blackmur '15 of Quincy. It is the 48th season of the Society. The play was given its first presentation last night at Harvard and made a great hit, many going over from Quincy to enjoy the performance.

• • •

Mrs. Alva T. Beede entertained a party of young folks at her home Thursday evening. Games were played and souvenirs awarded to Miss Evelen Spaulding of Billerica and Mr. Gilman of Boston. Those present were Miss Hattie Waterhouse, Miss Mildred Dean, Miss Evelen Spaulding, Dwight Gearwar, Harry Bahe and F. Gilman. Miss Spaulding who has been spending a few days with Mrs. Beede returned to her home this week.

Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus of Presidents hill is leaving the last of next week for Philadelphia where she is to give a series of lectures at the Acorn club. She returns to Quincy before Easter. The Acorn club is a club of Philadelphia women similar to the Chilton club of Boston.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Magee who have made their home for several years on Hancock street at the corner of Carruth have moved nearer to the Centre, having rented the Charles H. Porter house just north of the old Porter homestead at the junction of Hancock and Adams street.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic M. Burditt of Newton Centre, formerly of Atlantic, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter born March fourteenth. She has been named Eleanor Carver.

• • •

The Pageant of Trees to be given in Wollaston Thursday and Friday evenings by the Civics committee of the Wollaston Woman's club promises to be a brilliant affair. In the cast of characters are: the Goddess of the Trees, impersonated by Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, president of the club and the Heart of the Cedar, by Mrs. Anna Eastman Frost, under whose direction the pageant is given. Well known people take the parts of Pan, Nymphs Mermaids, Lassies in the Beaver Jackets, Puritans, men and women of the Revolutionary Period, dancers in the Dance of the Winds, men and women of the Civil War Period, the Swallows the Hunters and others.

• • •

Miss Gladys Hunt of Bigelow street is in Ponemah, New Hampshire, for a short visit with friends.

• • •

Miss Theodosia Park of Hillside avenue was awarded by Mr. Tarbell the first mention in drawing from the antique at an exhibit of students' work being shown at the school of Fine Arts, Crafts and Decorative Design, Westland avenue, Boston.

• • •

Miss Clarice B. Doble of South street, returned today from Washington, D. C., where she is a pupil at the National Park Seminary for Girls. Miss Doble was accompanied by three young ladies who will be house guests during the spring recess of twelve days.

• • •

The Elm avenue book club was most delightfully entertained at a luncheon and theatre party Friday afternoon. The hostesses of the afternoon were, Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, Mrs. Samuel Nichols, Mrs. William H. F. Browne and Mrs. S. C. Chase.

• • •

Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard of Greenleaf street and her cousin Mrs. Henry L. Sanderson of Brookline, who are spending the late winter at Pasadena, California, made a trip recently over the border into Mexico and found the country most interesting. Everything seemed peaceful in that part of Mexico.

• • •

Dr. and Mrs. R. O. Clark who have been in Boston for the winter are now at their home at Wessagussett, Weymouth.

• • •

Miss Lora Gould of Farmington, Me. is spending several days in this city, as the guest of her friends.

• • •

Miss Maud Eaton of Wentworth, New Hampshire is the guest of Mrs. Walter E. Piper of Centre street.

• • •

Sixteen members of the State Council of the Massachusetts Daughters of the Revolution tendered former Regent Mrs. Susan M. Plummer of Lynn a luncheon at a Boston hotel Friday. She was presented with a black and gold beaded wrist bag from the council.

• • •

A very pretty social affair was held at the home of Mrs. Malcolm Rich of Ferndale road, Wollaston, on Tuesday afternoon, when she entertained the lady clerks of the Mt. Wollaston bank and Miss Gertrude Carroll of the Granite Trust. Music and games were enjoyed, prizes suitable to the day being awarded. A dainty collation was served, green being the predominating color in favors and decorations.

• • •

Miss Mary A. Dinnie of the Belcher school, East Milton is at Hilldale, New Jersey for a few weeks.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

Peter Parley BREAD
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
This bread comes to you in dust-proof wrappers, trade-marked "PETER PARLEY."
ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, City Square
Tel. Quincy 1245 W. March 16-6t

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy. Feb. 27-tf

SOCIAL LIFE IN BRAINTREE.

An auction bridge party was held Monday afternoon at the Cochato club under the direction of Mrs. Herbert F. Kneeland. Souvenirs were secured by Mrs. George A. Arnold, Mrs. John E. Arnold, Mrs. Lewis F. Small of Braintree and Mrs. George E. Bullock of Weymouth.

• • •

Mrs. F. H. Merriam of Holbrook avenue entertained the members of the Matrons' whist club Monday evening. Souvenirs were secured by Mrs. F. W. Brett and Mrs. A. A. Smith.

• • •

The members of the Thimble club, met with Mrs. Jennie Holbrook of Holbrook avenue, Thursday evening.

• • •

St. Patrick's day was suitably celebrated at the Hampton House last Tuesday evening by the members of the Hampton House club and their friends. Music and whist was enjoyed after which refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. Arthur C. West. The club will hold a dancing party in the Town hall, next month.

• • •

At a meeting of the Noah Torrey School Association, Wednesday afternoon, Miss Josephine B. Colbert gave an interesting talk on her recent European trip. There were piano solos by George Dunkerley and Mrs. R. E. Whitman. Mrs. Harry A. Simonds conducted a successful candy sale.

• • •

At the regular weekly whist party of the Pond Street Social Club on Wednesday evening there were seven tables in play. Souvenirs were presented to Mrs. Frank G. Southwick, Miss Edna Pawlowski of Holbrook, Mrs. Guy E. Wood and George Carmichael.

• • •

Mrs. Harry Shaw Snow entertained a party of young people at her home "The Oaks" Thursday afternoon. Bridge was enjoyed by the guests and the favor of the afternoon was awarded Mrs. Louis Forrest Wright of Rockland, the consolation going to Mrs. G. Dallas Willis, Jr., of South Braintree. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess in the dining room which was prettily decorated with ferns and jonquils.

• • •

After the regular meeting of Sunset Lodge, N. E. O. P. held in Odd Fellows' hall, Thursday evening, a whist party was enjoyed with six tables in play. Souvenirs were presented to L. P. Sprague, Miss Mary MacInnis, William Mooney and Mrs. Edward J. Hughes.

• • •

A dancing party under the auspices of the senior class, Braintree High school, was held in the Hollis school hall last evening with about 75 couples attending. The music was furnished by Atkinson's orchestra and the matrons were three of the teachers, Miss Ethel Kelley, Miss Louise Emerson and Miss Lena Paul. Ice cream was served at intermission. This is the last dance to be given by the Senior class and the proceeds will be used to assist in defraying the expenses incident to graduation. The hours of the dance were from 8 until 11 o'clock and all present spent a very pleasant evening.

• • •

The regular monthly meeting of the Hollis school association was held in the school hall Thursday evening and the attendance was the largest at any meeting thus far. An able address on "The Modern Child" was delivered by Dr. David Snedden of Boston. There were piano solos by Mrs. C. A. Sullivan, a vocal selection by Mrs. F. C. Folsom and violin solos by Miss Jeannette Shaw of Weymouth. Refreshments were served. A committee headed by Mrs. M. J. Collins was in charge of the affair.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wilde entertained the F. W. H. D. club Monday evening. Whist was enjoyed. Mrs. John B. Dyer and Mrs. C. H. Ferguson were awarded souvenirs.

• • •

Mrs. Florence Wheeler of Charles street entertained the members of "The eight club," at bridge on Thursday.

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE
LINIMENT
relieves lame back, sore muscles and rheumatism.
USED 103 YEARS
as a household remedy for internal and external ills.
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc.
Boston, Mass.
25c and 50c
Sold everywhere
Parsons' Pills
give relief to bilious people.

The members of the Amity whist club were entertained this afternoon by Mrs. A. N. White at her home 136 Shaw street.

• • •

DRAMATICS OF PHILERGIANS

Tuesday afternoon the Philergians of Braintree assembled at Bates' Opera House, East Braintree, to witness "The Rivals," a comedy in five acts by Richard Brinsley Sheridan. The day devoted to annual dramatics is always interesting and the offering this year was the most pretentious play attempted for some time.

The members of the cast are all remarkably good amateur actors, the parts being all so well taken that it would be difficult to single out any one person for special praise. Genevieve B. Danforth as "Sir Anthony Absolute" portrayed the varying emotions of her part with earnestness. The character was a most difficult one and she handled it admirably.

Mabel S. Rogers as "Captain Jack Absolute" was a dutiful son and a tender lover. She played her part with such skill that her own identity was entirely submerged in the part of the dashing young army officer.

Pamelia G. Webber as "Faulkland" was an anxious lover to the life and the audience was glad when the sweethearts were united.

Mabel F. Knight in the unique part of "Bob Acres" furnished much comedy and must have been a close student of the late Joseph Jefferson who made a world wide reputation in the same part.

Rowena L. Hall as "Sir Lucius O'Trigger," a poor but extremely honorable Irish gentleman completely won the hearts of her auditors with her delicious brogue, wit and song. Elsie R. Treat as "Fag," Helen M. Ellsworth as "David" and Ethel D. Davenport as "Boy" handled their lines with ability and made the most of their opportunities.

Lucy C. Wales as "Mrs. Malaprop" was mal apropos in very truth and was inimitable, her rendering of the lines keeping the audience in constant laughter. Although club members have seen Mrs. Wales in various capacities her rendition of Mrs. Malaprop was a masterpiece.

Beatrice E. Hathaway as "Lydia Languish" was very sweet and natural and one could not blame her lover for his many schemes to win her. She was charming in her part and was natural and unaffected.

Julia A. Grover as "Julia" made the most of her part and Martha P. Scotcher as "Lucy" was a very dainty and designing maid.

The scenes of the play are laid in the city of Bath, England, and the stage furniture and properties were of the correct period. The furniture was loaned by G. Bowditch. The costumes were dainty and beautiful and were newly made for the occasion by a Boston costumer and the wigs were furnished by the same firm. Mabel Going's ladies' orchestra of Boston rendered unusually tuneful melodies, the entr'acte music consisting of Old English ballads and minuets.

Caroline A. Bill deserves unstinted praise for her untiring efforts in presenting to the club this finished performance. She staged and coached the play and was as usual, an entire success as stage manager. She was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers by the members of the cast, who aided and abetted her efforts to make the production an unqualified success.

Interest concerning the performance was widespread and there were guests present from Salem, Cambridge Franklin, Quincy, Wollaston, Brockton, Rockland, Boston and Cohasset.

Local and out-of-town business firms were generous in purchasing "ads" in the program which was compiled by Mrs. Bill. The ushers were the members of the Social Committee and the ladies of the Exchange sold home made candies.

The members of the Philergians are looking forward to next year's dramatics and are grateful to Mrs. Bill and the members of the cast for a most delightful afternoon.

☞PRATT'S BREAD made of the best flour by the best bakers. Your grocer.

CHICHESTER S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-ches-ter s Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

PRIVATE AND CLASS LESSONS.
Cornet, 'Cello, Mandolin, Guitar, Banjo, Violin, Piano and Harmony by thorough instructors. Violin FREE, at BOSTON SCHOOL OF MUSIC, No. 8 Washington street, Quincy.
Prof. R. G. Nichols
Director
Phone, Quincy 148J. M4-W & S. 8t

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Why the Board of Health Has Raised Prices

As announced a few days ago, the Board of Health is about to put into effect its vote to hereafter make a charge of seven and one half cents per barrel for removing ashes from cellars. The new rule does not go into effect until Wednesday April 1, and persons now holding the five cent tickets have ample opportunity to exchange their old tickets for the new form. When the rule to move ashes from cellars was put into operation it was thought that the five cent charge would pay, but it was found that in some places, fifteen or twenty minutes of one man's time was consumed in removing one barrel bringing the cost considerable over the five cent charge. It is hoped that the small increase in charge will be sufficient to pay the actual expense which is all that the Board of Health desires.

Another new rule of the Board, which is to go into effect in a few days, is in regard to the sale of garbage. Heretofore the plan has been for a man desiring to purchase garbage to go to the plant near the Quincy Home and help himself, and it not infrequently happened that if there was no one about the party went away without paying anything for his load.

Under the new rule persons purchasing garbage must first obtain from the Board of Health a ticket for one or two loads, paying for the same at the Board of Health office. He will then go to the garbage house, deliver his ticket to the man in charge, and take his load. It is figured out that by this method quite a revenue that has been lost will be collected.

The board has other matters under consideration to increase the revenue, so as to put the department on a paying basis, and the changes will be announced as fast as made.

One of these which is now being worked out is the matter of cleaning cesspool and vaults, and instead of having the teams go to one place in West Quincy, for instance and then jump to Wollaston and Atlantic, it is to be planned that orders in one district may be bunched so that when teams are in that district all orders may be attended to before jumping to another section of the city. It is believed that considerable time may be saved in this way. This latter scheme however has not been fully worked out.

There will be no meeting of the City Council Monday night. The next regular meeting does not occur until Monday, April 6, but owing to the necessity of drawing jurors an adjourned meeting of the Council will be held Monday evening, March 30. Any business will be in order at this meeting and the chances are that the budget after consideration will be passed.

It will be impossible for the Council to increase the order, as reported, except in two items, namely the appropriation for Mayor's Miscellaneous which the Finance Committee cut $1,000, and the Inspector of Buildings' Miscellaneous which the committee cut $800. As it is now the Inspector of Buildings has but $200 to pay the necessary expenses of his office for the year, which include printing and travelling expenses and the $3 a week which he pays the clerk who assists him. It will be seen therefor that after paying his clerk he will have but $44 left for the incidental expenses of his office for the year, so that he will have to practice the strictest economy or come out with a deficit at the end of the year. As economy is the watchword this year, however, it is probable that he will have to get along with the smaller amount.

The Marshfield Agricultural and Horticultural Society will hold a two-session farmers' institute at Marshfield, in Sons of Veterans' hall, on Saturday, March 28. At 10.30 o'clock Charles M. Gardner of Westfield, well known throughout Massachusetts, as master of the State Grange from 1909 to 1913, will deliver his appealing address on "Community service that counts." In the afternoon at 1.30, Mr. Gardner will speak on "The spirit of 1914." Mr. Gardner is a member of the State Board of Agriculture, chairman of the State Dairy Bureau, and managing editor of the "National Grange Monthly." He is a ready, able forceful speaker, ever bringing a new message to his audiences. Both sessions are open to the public, and everybody is invited to attend.

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY.

For Your Baby.
The Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
is the only guarantee that you have the Genuine
CASTORIA
prepared by him for over 30 years.
YOU'LL give YOUR baby the BEST
Your Physician Knows Fletcher's Castoria.
Sold only in one size bottle, never in bulk or otherwise; to protect the babies.
The Centaur Company, Chas. H. Fletcher Pres't.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

The regular meeting of the Neighborhood Club was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William H. Doherty, Washington street. Miss Alice H. Grady of Boston gave a very interesting talk on "The Women's City Club of Boston" and "Savings Bank Life Insurance.

S. W. Wiley, formerly of Bunton place, has recently purchased a lot of land on Washington street and is planning to build an apartment house in the early Spring.

The Apollo Quartet of Boston assisted by Miss Ruth Garland, will give a concert and entertainment, next Wednesday at the First Baptist church of Milton, under the auspices of the Woodsum class.

Miss Mabel Bond of Belcher Circle is visiting at Lakeport, N. H.

J. Albert Simpson of Huntington road is confined to his bed with a serious attack of the grip.

Jeremiah P. Fenno of Granite avenue, is constructing several cement bungalows at Nantucket.

A very pleasant social was held in the vestry of the East Congregational church Tuesday evening. Soprano solos were given by Miss Olive Lowe, piano selections by Miss Marion Hathaway and a set of interesting readings by C. E. Snow. Refreshments were served by the social committee, Mrs. M. L. Abbott, chairman.

George S. Mayo of Granite avenue, son of George Mayo, the hardware dealer in West Quincy, is visiting in Florida where he will stay for two months.

Miss Edith C. Johnson of Washington street, has returned to Bridgewater Normal School after a two weeks vacation.

For the first time in many years the pupils of the Milton High school were dismissed at 10.30 on Wednesday on account of darkness.

Miss Harriet E. Whittier, instructor of music in the public schols of the town, and Mme. Marie Sundelius, the well known soloist, sang a large number of folk songs before the pupils of the High school Friday afternoon during the sixth period.

A very pleasing whist party was held at the home of Mrs. C. C. Hollidge, Adams street, Friday afternoon.

The regular meeting of the Forum, the debating society of the Milton High school, was held Friday afternoon. The question debated was: Resolved, that the United States should repeal the Panama toll exemption act. The affirmative was upheld by Parker B. Field, Jr., and Byron Bentley; the negative by Morris Murphy and Randall Pratt. The judges Harold Webber and Mrs. Keith, decided in favor of the negative.

The regular meeting of the Men's club of the East Congregational church was held Thursday evening with 35 present. Rev. William A. Wood of Lynn gave a very interesting talk on: "Good Citizenship."

PASTORS TO EXCHANGE.

By request; the exchanges agreed upon for next Sunday by the Quincy Ministers' Association, are republished:

Rev. A. L. Hudson, (Unitarian) at Bethany Congregational.

Rev. B. A. Wilmott (Congregational) at First Parish Church.

Rev. C. G. Horst, (Unitarian) at First Universalist, 3 P. M.

Rev. I. W. Sneath Ph. D. (Congregational) at First Presbyterian.

Rev. C. C. Tilley, (Baptist) at United Presbyterian.

Rev. Donald B. McLeod (Presbyterian) at Calvary Baptist

Rev. T. C. Martin (Methodist) at Quincy Point Congregational.

Rev. S. C. Lang, (Congregationalist) at Hall Place Methodist.

Rev. W. A. Ayers, (Congregationalist) at Wollaston Methodist church.

Rev. G. M. Bailey, (Baptist) at Wollaston Unitarian.

Rev. T. W. Davison, (Congregationalist) at Wollaston Baptist.

Rev. C. G. Horst, (Unitarian) at Park and Downs Congregational.

Rev. J. A. Matheson (Presbyterian) at Wollaston Congregational.

Rev. E. C. Pollard, (Methodist) at Houghs Neck Union.

Rev. W. J. Sayre (Union) at Atlantic Methodist.

Rev. Joseph Walther, (Baptist) at Atlantic Memorial, Atlantic.

Rev. Merrill C. Ward, (Universalist) at Church of the Unity, Randolph, at 4 P. M.

Rev. Richard E. Armstrong of Christ Episcopal church, and Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra of St. Chrysostom's church were favorable to the general exchange but were unable to obtain a dispensation from Bishop William Lawrence.

The Quincy movement for a general exchange is attracting attention throughout Massachusetts.

SCIENTIFIC FORESTRY

To Woodland, orchard and shade tree owners of Quincy:

The Massachusetts Forestry Association is bringing scientific forestry to the people of the State. Our field secretary, Mr. W. L. Hamel is in your city for the purpose of arousing interest in this important subject. He is a trained forester and will be glad to give you any advice or information concerning your shade-trees orchards or woodlands free of charge. All you need to do is to write a postcard to him addressed care of Mrs. J. D. Mackay, 75 Greenleaf street, and he will call to see you.

The advice he gives will be gratis but if you think it will be of advantage to you to have your trees pruned or cemented or your woodlot thinned, we recommend that Mr. Hamel do the work because of his training and experience. You can arrange with him as to the cost of doing the work and will not be under obligations to hire him, because of the advice he gives you which is free. The object of the Association is to protect the trees and this has proved the most efficient way of doing it.

Massachusetts Forestry Association.

21—S&W-tf

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity.
Fair Saturday and Sunday, Monday probably continued fair.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.43
Sun sets	6.00
Length of day	12.17
Moon sets	4.54
High water, A. M.	9.15
High water, P. M.	10.00
Days increase	3 hours, 11 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	38 degrees
Mar. 21 1913,	70 degrees
Mar. 21, 1912,	27 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

HIT THE PINS HARD.

Rolling the best of any team this season, the All Stars of the Coliseum alleys beat the Specials from the Summer street alleys of Boston in the second match in their series at the local alleys Friday night. The total of 1531 was 110 over that of the visitors. Both teams used a dummy. Dunn, high individual scorer reached 328, in which was a single of 127. The third match is scheduled for the Coliseum April 3.

COLISEUM ALL STARS.

Connell	91	100	115	306
Tirrell	90	119	106	316
Dunn	110	127	91	328
Smith	102	90	99	291
Dummy	100	90	100	290
	494	526	511	1531

SUMMER ST. SPECIAL.

McKay	84	87	104	275
Hayes	111	82	89	282
Smith	89	91	100	280
Davis	97	90	107	294
Dummy	100	90	109	299
	481	430	500	1421

PROBLEMS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

At Bethany church at the pleasant Sunday evening service, the pastor has promised to give another lecture on "Life problems for young people, —making a home." The presence of so many young people at these services has made the pastor feel the necessity of speaking to them on practical matters concerning life, future usefulness and happiness. Two hundred more new books have been ordered for the use of the evening congregation.

☞Soft hats are the thing in the spring of the year, and Remick is offering some popular ones.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

RAND CLASS TAKE THREE

The Rand class keeps on in its victorious march for the championship of the Sunday school bowling league, for last night, the Makaria class, with the strongest team that it could muster, was compelled to be satisfied with only one point out of the four. The Rand boys took the first string by 13 pins, but the Makarias came back for the second string and won out by 10 pins margin. This gave the Wollaston team an advantage of 3 pins for the total, and they went right after the deciding match. Up to the sixth box it was either teams string, but in the last four boxes W. Cahill "went crazy," and with two spares to help him along, he ran up the good mark of 97 which was away ahead of anything the Makaria could offer.

McLeod of the Rand Class was high man for three strings getting 269 for his mark, while Cahill was high single man. For the losers, Adrian McFarlane was hight man, having 247 as his score.

RAND CLASS.

W. Cahill	78	87	97	262
Raymond	85	69	88	242
J. Cahill	74	80	77	231
McLoed	95	94	80	269
Tabb	*63	85	79	164
	395	415	421	1231

MAKARIA.

A. McFarlane	75	87	85	247
H. Prescott	92	74	77	243
Tytler	70	77	80	227
Nicoll	67	98	74	219
Jones	*78	89	77	166
	382	425	393	1200

*Rolled by another.

MEET TONIGHT AT Y. M. C. A.

The third annual contest for the senior trophy cup will be held tonight in the Y. M. C. A. This athletic event is one of the most severe that has ever been tried by our association athletes and tonight's meet will undoubtedly bring forth some very keen competition for the men have been practicing faithfully for the last month. Fred Kingsbury is going out for the 1000 yard record, while Leon White says he will put up a new mark for the 12 lb. shot-put.

The following men will probably start in the seven events: Trask, Wood, Glover, Brown, Djerf, Shirley, Kingsbury, Phelan, White, E. Brown, Connor and Oleson.

The cup was won the first year it was put up by John McArdle and last year Harry Clover took first honors.

The first event, the eight potato race, will start at 8 o'clock.

OFF NIGHT FOR FORESTERS

The Foresters dropped four points to St. Mary's at the latter's alleys Friday night and dropped from second ot third place in the West Quincy league, while the winners who have won 22 and lost but two points strengthened their position. Badot of the losers secured high single, but failed to perform consistently. Joyce was high man for the winners.

ST. MARYS.

Donovan	81	93	80	254
Connolly	92	77	74	243
Joyce	81	102	90	273
Elcock	87	83	76	246
McPherson	84	84	85	258
	425	444	405	1274

FORESTERS.

Badot	110	80	73	263
DeCoste	65	94	72	231
Hebert	87	79	88	254
Dummy	81	77	74	232
Dummy	81	83	76	240
	424	413	383	1220

☞PRATT'S BREAD sales have increased because it satisfies. Your grocer.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS — STATE HOUSE, BOSTON MAR. 20, 1914. The committee on railroads will give a hearing to parties interested in H.1851, on forfeiture of charters for unauthorized increase of capital; H.1852, on railroad corporations taking other securities; H. 1853, that certain public service corporations may issue bonds convertible into stock; S.1, part of Governor's address on railroads; S.1, part of Governor's address on maintenance of public service commissions; P. D. 14, part of annual report of Public Service Commission on railroad corporations; S. 224, on abolition of a grade crossing in Cambridge; H.985, on punishment of officers and agents for violation of law; S. 1, part of Governor's address on Public Service Commissions;—at room 446, State House, on Tuesday, March 24th, at 10.30 A. M. A. Preston Chase, Chairman. John Mitchell, Clerk of the Committee March 21—2t

RIOT STARTED BY ROYALISTS

Clash With Police After Funeral of Paris Editor

DEFENSE OF MME. CAILLAUX

May Escape Execution by Throwing Herself Upon Mercy of the Court or Pleading Insanity—Figaro Objects to Favors Shown Slayer of Calmette In Her Prison Cell

Paris, March 21.—Violent rioting, during which several persons were reported injured, followed the funeral and burial of Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro, shot and killed by Mme. Caillaux, wife of the former minister of finance.

No untoward incident occurred when the body arrived at the church and order was maintained by the police until after the burial, but the royalists then started a demonstration. Returning from the cemetery, the royalists set up shouts of "Down with Caillaux," "Death to the assassins," in the Montmarte. They were led by Maurice Pujo, editor of the Action Francaise.

An unidentified man fired several shots from a revolver, and the wildest excitement followed. As the crowd grew in numbers and the shouting and threats increased the police charged into the throng. The royalists fought back with fury, but, aided by additional forces, the police finally dispersed the mob.

Following the riot and the withdrawal of the police the crowd reformed and started a march toward the centre of the city, singing and shouting denunciations of Caillaux. Calls for a massing of police and troops were sent out hurriedly, as it was declared the crowd was headed for the chamber of deputies.

With a strong force the police then formed a barricade across the street. The royalists continued their march and attempted to break through, when Pujo and several others were arrested.

France is now turning its attention to the political results which will follow the tragedy and to the approaching trial of Mme. Caillaux. It is now believed that the pro-government force will be successful in preventing any revelation of political skeletons when the prisoner is brought to trial.

At their meeting yesterday, M. Labori, attorney for Mme. Caillaux, urged his client again to throw herself upon the mercy of the court, at the same time pleading extenuating circumstances. Either this course or an insanity plea will in all likelihood prove the method of defense finally adopted.

M. Caillaux, husband of the prisoner, urged his wife to accept this course, arguing that it could be better for her to endure a term of imprisonment than to adopt a means of defense which, if defeated, might mean death for her upon the guillotine.

Mme. Caillaux is not entirely forsaken. Fruit and sweetmeats were sent into her cell. All were closely scanned for poison or weapon.

There was a strong force of Republican Guards around the government and other public buildings when the Juares investigation began. The commission was named to investigate the "Rochette case," but M. Juares said that all trails of intrigue would be followed. Ex-Premier Monis, who resigned as minister of marine, was summoned as one of the chief witnesses.

According to the charge against him, Monis, while head of the cabinet, brought powerful influence upon Victor Fabre, the public prosecutor, to assist Henri Rochette, a banker, who was charged with swindling persons out of $20,000,000. Caillaux is involved directly, as he is alleged to have persuaded Monis to adopt this course.

The Figaro still appears with a broad black border, and Calmette's name has not yet been removed from the head of the editorial page.

In an editorial the paper deplores that any privileges should have been extended to the prisoner. It appears that two women prisoners were removed to make way for Mme. Caillaux, after which the cell was thoroughly cleaned, renovated and a carpet laid down. The Figaro alludes to the prisoner's quarters as a cell de luxe and protests against allowing her anything but prison fare.

Postoffice Robbed of Over $1000

Freeport, N. Y., March 21.—Yeggmen blew the safe in the postoffice here and escaped with more than $1000 in cash and stamps. The explosion wrecked the postoffice and roused the entire village.

Burglar Gets $32,000 In Bank

Nashville, March 21.—The First National bank of Gallatin was robbed during the night of $32,000. The burglar is said to have worked the combination.

Real Ability.

"What is the secret of success?" asked the fool.

"The ability to conceal your lack of ability," replied the sage.—Cincinnati Engineer.

MME. CAILLAUX

French Beauty Who Killed the Editor of Le Figaro

FATHER EISELE'S WILL

Provides For High Requiem Mass Annually For a Hundred Years

New York, March 21.—The will of Rev. Cyprian Eisele, rector of St. Joseph's Catholic church at Astoria, filed for probate in Jamaica, L. I., provides that the rectors of the Roman Catholic church of Unterstadion, Ger., shall sing high requiem mass annually for 100 years for the repose of the souls of Fr. Eisele, Veronica Schlegel and Juliana Schlegel.

The duty is required in consideration of the bequest to the church by Eisele of an estate he inherited from Veronica Schlegel.

The will also provides a home for Eisele's housekeeper and leaves considerable property to St. Joseph's church and its societies.

GAVE UP GUNBOAT AS PROOF OF LOVE

Romance In Which a Mexican Officer Turned Traitor

San Diego, Cal., March 21.—Love for the beautiful daughter of the rebel general commanding the forces at Topolobambo, Mex., caused Lieutenant Malpica, executive officer of the former federal gunboat Tampico, to forget his allegiance to President Huerta of Mexico and surrender the war craft to the father of the girl he loved, according to the story told by passengers arriving here from ports on the west coast of Mexico.

Malpica met the girl, who is now his wife, at a dance in Guaymas. They fell in love, but the girl refused to accept the officer's proposal of marriage unless he took the Tampico to Topolobambo from Guaymas and turned it over to her father.

Malipca, it is said, represented to his commanding officer that he received word from Mexico City to take the Tampico to Topolobampo and shell the rebels. The captain, it is said, assented. At Topolobampo the captain was siezed and sent to Mazatian.

Malpica was put in command of the Tampico and a few days later was married to the rebel general's daughter.

SERVED AS A DELICACY

Government Bulletin Says Boston Society Circles Eat Mussels

Washington, March 21.—Rivalry between the department of commerce and the department of agriculture for the favor of Mrs. American Housewife was intensified here when the first named department issued a bulletin setting forth the value of sea mussels as food and giving several recipes for their preparation.

It is claimed the mussel has been received with favor in the most cultured circles of Boston, where 350 pounds of "mussels a la Marinere" were recently served in a single day by one hotel.

OLD TOWN CLERK DEAD

Passes Away Just After Election to Sixty-Second Term

Worcester, Mass., March 21.—Ira N. Goddard, who was elected town clerk of Milbury for his sixty-second term at the annual town meeting Monday, died after an illness of two days with pneumonia, aged 84.

He was the oldest city or town clerk in point of service in the country.

Wakefield Appeal Not Acted Upon

Hartford, March 21.—The supreme court here adjourned without deciding the request of the appeal of Mrs. Bessie Wakefield, condemned to die for murdering her husband. There will be no decisions until April 14.

Lansing Gets Moore's Place

Washington, March 21.—President Wilson selected Robert Lansing of New York as counsellor of the state department, succeeding John B. Moore.

New Altitude Record

Johannisthal, Ger., March 21.—The altitude record of 12,303 feet for a flight with three passengers was established here by Robert Thelen.

BASE BALL AT HIGH SCHOOL

Many Candidates for the Battery Work This Year

The first call for baseball battery candidates at the High school has brought out seventeen players. The fact that both of last year's pitchers, Andrews and H. Crocker, were lost by graduation, accounts for the large number out, eleven of the seventeen being boxmen. Practice is being held regularly in the gymnasium during the afternoon, Mr. Mansur and Mr. French being in charge.

It is, of course, early to attempt to size up any of the candidates except in regard to form, as nobody has been allowed to put anything on the ball as yet, and probably will not be allowed to for a week or more, Sawyer, O'Connor and D. Crocker all have particularly easy deliveries, and with a chance to let loose may develop something. None of them have had any experience in school work and have considerable to learn before tackling the teams of greater Boston.

Among the catchers, Hamlin has had a year's experience on the first team, and O'Donnell was on last year's squad, although he did not play because of scholarship difficulties.

Candidates for other positions will be called out as soon as the weather permits of outside work. An entire new outfield will have to be found as well as a first baseman. The veterans left from last year's team are Capt. Larkin, shortstop; Bates, third base; Creedon, second base; and Hamlin, catch.

The following battery candidates have reported:

Pitchers, Davis '15, Ford '15, Hunt '15, Sawyer '16, Favreau '16, Matheson '14, Crocker '15, Jenkins '17, I. Anderson '17, O'Connor '15 and A. Anderson '14.

Catchers, Dingwell '14, DeSenso '17, O'Donnell '15, Lundquist '17, Young '14, Stedman '14 and Hamlin '16.

SPORTS.

The Quincy team beat Waltham 2d at the Littlefield alleys in a Greater Boston Ladies League match on Friday night. The totals were 1283 to 1230. Mrs. Florence Caples had high total 269. The matches the past two weeks failed to produce any total to break the 300 record of Mrs. Paul Poehler which has been recognized as official by the National Duck and Candle Pin Congress.

Basket ball fans will not have the pleasure of seeing a series of games for the championship of local parts between the strong Braintree A. A. and Quincy A. A. Manager Flynn of the latter has received the final answer of Frank E. M. South of the former team in which the proposition was not accepted. Mr. South gives as his principal reason the fact that his team at present consists of but five men, and that unless seven were available be could not consistently start a series. The possibility of accident or sickness interferring with a five man team might be in his opinion a serious setback. However he speaks highly of this proposition and invites Mr. Flynn to take up the matter next fall.

The all-round tournament between Div. 22, A. O. H., and St. Mary's will take place in St. Mary's hall Tuesday night. Contests have been arranged in hand ball, whist, bid whist, cribbage, forty-five, checkers, pool billiards and bowling. St. Mary's won from Ave Maria council in a recent tournament and believe they will defeat Div. 22. The men of the latter are strong competitors and the contests should be red hot.

Two of Quincy's best athletes, "Bull Moose" Brown and "Billie" Manning have had their noses broken the past week while participating in boxing matches. The nose of Manning was fractured Sunday afternoon. Boston surgeons broke it again on Friday and he is doing well today. Brown met his misfortune while boxing at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night. He had his nose set immediately and is doing well. The accidents will keep both men out of sports for several weeks.

Miss E. E. Roteh and Miss T. Weld of the Skating Club at Boston meet at New Haven today for the championship in free skating. Both are known in this city.

William Hartley of Atlantic, one of the professionals of the B. A. A. meets Al Kirton, professional at Randolph Court at court tennis at the B. A. this afternoon.

SEXUAL KNOWLEDGE

ILLUSTRATED 320 PAGES.

Tells all about sex matters; what young men and women, young wives and husbands and all others need to know about the sacred laws that govern the sex forces. Plain truths of sex life in relation to happiness in marriage. Secrets of manhood and womanhood; sexual abuses; social evil, diseases, etc.

The latest most advanced and comprehensive work that has ever been issued on sexual hygiene. Priceless instruction for those who are ready for the true inner teaching.

This book tells nurses, teachers, doctors, lawyers, preachers, social workers, Sunday School teachers and all others, young and old, what all need to know about sex matters. By Winfield Scott Hall, Ph. D., M. D. (Leipzig).

Newspaper Comments:

"Scientifically correct. —"Chicago Tribune. "Accurate and up-to-date." —Philadelphia Press. "Standard book of knowledge."— Philadelphia Ledger. The New York World says: Plain truths for those who need or ought to know them for prevention of evils.

Under plain wrapper for only $1.00 Postage ten cents extra.

MIAMI PUBLISHING COMPANY
Dayton, Ohio.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To William Murphy of Quincy in said County of Norfolk, and to his heirs apparent or presumptive, and to the State Board of Insanity:

Whereas, a petition for guardianship has been presented to said Court, by George J. Murphy of Quincy in the County of Norfolk and Arthur B. Hultman of said Quincy alleging that said William Murphy is an insane person, and incapable of taking care of himself, and praying that said George J. Murphy of Quincy or some other suitable person, may be appointed his guardian, agreeably to the law in such case made and provided. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in and for said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why a guardian should not be appointed as aforesaid. And said petitioners are hereby directed to cause you to be notified of the time and place appointed for the hearing of said complaint, by serving said William Murphy and said State Board of Insanity, with a copy of this order, seven days at least before said Court; and by mailing to said heirs apparent or presumptive at the last known post office address of each, a copy of the same, seven days at least before said Court, or instead of said mailing, by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this seventeenth day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE,
Register.
3t Mar. 21-23-30

EXECUTRIX' NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executrix of the will of John F. Welch late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, testate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to EMMA F. WELCH, Executrix.

(Address)
1662 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.
March 20th, 1914.
3t Mar. 21-28 Apr. 4

EXECUTRIX' NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executrix of the will of Ralph W. Hobbs late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, testate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to EMMA A. HOBBS, Executrix.

(Address)
11 Clark Street, Quincy, Mass.
March 18, 1914.
3t Mar. 21-28 Apr. 4

MY SLOGAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.

Will you help me do this?

F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

WILLIAM R. DIMOCK
Carpenter and Builder
Plans furnished and estimates given. All work personally and promptly attended to 133 PROSPECT AVENUE
WOLLASTON
☞ Telephone 1238 W Quincy.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
BOARD OF BANK INCORPORATION
Boston, March 18, 1914.

George Taylor, Charles L. Gilliatt, A. N. Murray, W. O. Wellington, Charles H. McIntyre, Wm. Coulson, Charles P. Hutchins, J. A. Sedgwick, Eric H. Ewertz, A. B. Hillman, George W. Stone, Chester N. Godfrey, Charles E. Goodspeed, Geo. Crothers, Chas. S. Adams, A. E. Stephenson, Barnabas H. Bain, Charles W. Bailey having associated themselves by an agreement in writing for the purpose, and having given notice to the Board of Bank Incorporation of their intention of forming a corporation according to the provisions of Chapter 374, Acts of 1904, and all acts in amendment thereof and in addition thereto, to be known as the Norfolk Trust Company and to be located in Wollaston, within said Commonwealth, a public hearing will be given to all parties interested at Room 124, State House, Boston, on Wednesday, April 8, 1914, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

AUGUSTUS L. THORNDIKE,
Bank Commissioner.
FREDERICK W. MANSFIELD,
Treasurer and Receiver General.
WILLIAM D. T. TREFRY,
Commissioner of Corporations.
Board of Bank Incorporation.
3t Mar. 21-28-April 4

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
LAND COURT.

To Anne R. Cunningham, Jacob A. Turner, Llewellyn W. Higgins, Helen M. Thomas, Charles G. Waitt and Mrs. Charles G. Waitt, of Milton; the Granite Railway Company and Ida F. Kelley, of Quincy; Susie M. Harper, of Weymouth; in the County of Norfolk, and said Commonwealth; Eunice P. Waitt of Malden, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth; James H. Stark, George C. Thacher, William H. Reed, I. P. Smith, Shelton Barry, Mary C. Gately, Trustee, of Boston, in the County of Suffolk, and said Commonwealth; James S. Liddle of Lockport in the State of New York; Elizabeth C. Dustan, Robert Jaffrey Dustan, Ellen G. Dustan, Mary J. Dustan, Josephine Rowell, Julia M. Moseley, Ann McDade, Dinah McDade and Jane White; residences unknown, or their heirs, devisees, or legal representatives; the Robertson Manufacturing and Quarry Company, formerly doing business in said Quincy, or any persons claiming under them; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Charles D. Turnbull of said Boston, William H. Dunbar, of Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, and Anne L. Whitmore, of Mattapoisett, in the County of Plymouth, and said Commonwealth, Trustees of the Unity Trust under a declaration of trust dated April 29, 1897 recorded with Norfolk Deeds, book 1030, page 44, to register and confirm their title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land situate partly in said Milton and partly in said Quincy, bounded and described as follows.

Northerly by land of William H. Reed to the center line of Plymouth Avenue, 117.5 feet; Westerly by the westerly half of Plymouth Avenue, 21.50 feet, more or less; Northerly by Curtis Street, 260 feet, more or less; Easterly by land of Ida F. Kelley, 156.89 feet; Northeasterly by said land of Ida F. Kelley, 31.07 feet; Easterly by land of the Granite Railway Company 276.85 feet; Southeasterly by said land of the Granite Railway Company 120.56 feet; Northeasterly by said land of the Granite Railway Company and by land of Susie M. Harper 301.95 feet; Southerly by land of Jacob A. Turner and James S. Liddle 468 feet more or less; Westerly by land of Anne R. Cunningham 717.37 feet; containing 191,800 square feet more or less.

Also another certain parcel of land situate in said Milton, bounded and described as follows:—

Northerly by land of I. P. Smith 138.70 feet; Easterly by land of Helen M. Thomas 85.40 feet; Southerly by land of Shelton Barry 139.47 feet; Westerly by Grafton Avenue 85.40 feet; containing 8,675 square feet.

Petitioners claim as appurtenant to the above described land a right of way in common with others thereto entitled, for all street purposes in and over said Plymouth Avenue, Grafton Avenue, and Curtis Street, as shown on the plan hereinafter mentioned.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are herby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the sixth day of April A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this thirteenth day of March in the year nineteen hundred and fourteen.

Attest with Seal of said Court.
CLARENCE C. SMITH,
Recorder.
(Seal.)
Mar. 14-3t 14-21-28

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

ealth of Massachusetts

BANK INCORPORATION
Boston, March 18, 1914.
Taylor, Charles L. Gilliatt, rray, W. O. Wellington,
McIntyre, Wm. Coulson,
Hutchins, J. A. Sedgwick, ertz, A. B. Hillman, George Chester N. Godfrey, Charles
ed, Geo. Crothers, Chas. S.
E. Stephenson, Barnabas
Charles W. Bailey having themselves by an agreeiting for the purpose, and n notice to the Board of rporation of their inten-ning a corporation accord-provisions of Chapter 374,
4, and all acts in amend-of and in addition thereto, n as the Norfolk Trust nd to be located in Wol-in said Commonwealth, a ing will be given to all rested at Room 124, State se, on Wednesday, April 11 o'clock, A. M.
S L. THORNDIKE,
Bank Commissioner.
CK W. MANSFIELD, and Receiver General.
D. T. TREFRY,
sioner of Corporations.
rd of Bank Incorporation.
3t Mar. 21-28-April 4

ealth of Massachusetts

LAND COURT.
R. Cunningham, Jacob A.
Wellyn W. Higgins, Helen
Charles G. Waitt and Mrs.
Waitt, of Milton; the Gran-Company and Ida F. Kel-ey; Susie M. Harper, of in the County of Norfolk, mmonwealth; Eunice P. dden, in the County of nd said Commonwealth;
ark, George C. Thacher,
Reed, I. P. Smith, Shelton
C. Gately, Trustee , of e County of Suffolk, and wealth; James S. Liddle n the State of New York;
Dustan, Robert Jaffrey
G. Dustan, Mary J.
ghine Rowell, Julia M.
McDade, Dinah McDade
ose residences unknown,
s, devisees, or legal rep-
the Robertson Manufac-Quarry Company, formerly es in said Quincy, or any ming under them; and to may concern:
a petition has been pre-
d Court by Charles D. said Boston, William H.
Cambridge, in said County and Anne L. Whitmore, tt, in the County of Ply-said Commonwealth, the Unity Trust under a ct trust dated April 29, d with Norfolk Deeds, ge 44, to register and r title in the following nd:
parcel of land situate d Milton and partly in bounded and described as by land of William H. center line of Plymouth t feet; Westerly by the f of Plymouth Avenue, ere or less; Northerly by land of Ida F. Kelley, Northeasterly by said land elley, 31.07 feet; Easterly the Granite Railway Com-feet; Southeasterly by said
Granite Railway Company
Northeasterly by said land
e Railway Company and sie M. Harper 301.95 feet;
land of Jacob A. Turner
S. Liddle 468 feet more or rly by land of Anne R.
117.37 feet; containing re feet more or less.
her certain parcel of land id Milton, bounded and s follows:—
by land of I. P. Smith
Easterly by land of Helen 8.30 feet; Southerly by ton Barry 139.47 feet;
Grafton Avenue 85.40
ng 8,675 square feet.
claim as appurtenant to scribed land a right of mon with others thereto all street purposes in and ymouth Avenue, Grafton
Curtis Street, as shown ereinafter mentioned.
described land is shown d with said petition, and lines are claimed to be e granted as shown on reby cited to appear at the o be held at Boston, in the folk, on the sixth day of 914, at ten o'clock in the show cause, if any you e prayer of said petition e granted. And unless said Court at the time presaid your default will and the said petition will onfessed, and you will be d from contesting said
y decree entered thereon.
Charles Thornton Davis, ge of said Court, this y of March in the year
dred and fourteen.
Seal of said Court.
LARENCE C. SMITH,
Recorder.
Mar. 14-3t 14-21-28

N. CURTIS
and GLAZIER
STAINED GLASS
and PAPER HANGER
RNITURE REFINISHED
e, off Spear Street, Quincy

AM F. RANKIN
pholsterer esses re-made for $2.50 yacht cushions re-made or
of furniture repaired,
re-upholstered.
ee. A postal will bring me.
Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

PLAYING A PART

A Story of the War Between the States

By F. A. MITCHEL

When the war between the states opened we were a contented family living on our plantation not far from Nashville, on the south side of the Cumberland river. I was then a girl of twenty and had been at a boarding school in Ohio. Our circle consisted of father, mother, my two brothers, Clarence and Arthur, myself and Clarice.

When I say that Clarice was a slave it may appear remarkable that I should speak of her as one of our family circle. In the first place, she had so little negro blood in her veins that no one would have known from her appearance that she had any at all. Her skin was fair; her hair was light, with a tinge of red in it; her eyes were dark.

The occupation of Nashville by the Federal troops in the spring of 1862 was different from that of any other of our cities. It was at the beginning of the struggle, and most of the southern people believed that when the Yankees came down upon us they would come with fire and sword. The consequence was that when it was known they were advancing upon us from Bowling Green, Ky., and coming up the Cumberland river our people began to make preparations for flight. The night before the evacuation of the city every luxury in the way of eatables and drinkables was consumed. In every house where there were such luxuries were parties feasting and drinking. On that night there was a singular mixture in Nashville of terror, sacrifice and conviviality.

The next morning the mayor crossed the Cumberland and surrendered the city to the Federal commander advancing from Bowling Green. We had packed all our valuables—we had no transport for the heavier articles—and went to a plantation of my mother's brother some twenty miles to the southward. Having been at school in the north, I knew something of the northern people and did not believe that we should all be put to the sword. I wished to remain in the house, believing that my presence there would be a protection. But mother would not hear of such a thing. She said the house might be burned to the ground rather than that I should expose myself to a lot of vandals.

We had got well started on our journey when some one asked, "Where is Clarice?" I supposed she was in another conveyance than mine, but she was not. She had done what I had wished to do—remained in the house. We had gone too far on our journey to turn back, so it was decided by mother, who was director general of our hegira—my father and brothers being away in the army under General Albert Sidney Johnston—that if Clarice insisted on being murdered it could not be helped. So we pursued our journey to my uncle's plantation.

I was very much chagrined that Clarice had taken the risk—if indeed there were any risk in what she had done—that I proposed to take myself. I did not for a moment believe that she would remain at home for the purpose of falling into the hands of the Yankees in order to get her freedom, for she could have had it for the asking at any time. I felt sure that she had remained to do what she could for the preservation of the place. After a few days, not hearing that those few persons who had awaited the coming of the enemy had been put to the sword, I determined to go back and see what was the condition of our abandoned home. So without saying anything to mother or any one else I told one of the servants to saddle my horse, and I started up the road for our plantation.

A few miles' ride brought me to the Federal pickets, and on stating that I wished to return to my home I was permitted to pass. I found the yard occupied with tents and sentinels pacing about the house. I was riding up to the front porch and saw Clarice come running down the steps and toward me. I drew rein, thinking she might wish to see me alone, and she did. I was surprised to see her in one of my best dresses and wearing some of my ornaments.

"Don't come any farther till I tell you," she said. "The house has been taken for the headquarters of one of the generals. I thought that if I made him believe I was one of the family and not a servant it would help me to induce him to protect the place. He is doing everything I ask him. He even stopped the men from using the furnaces for fires. But your coming is going to break me all up. What shall we do?"

I thought a few moments before replying. Should I turn back and leave her to play her game? I preferred to remain.

"I tell you what we'll do, Clarice. You know I'm very dark skinned. I can pass for an octoroon. I'll be maid and leave you to go on playing mistress."

Clarice tried to think of some other way out of it, but failed, and I, dismounting, led my horse around to the barn, while Clarice went back into the house. When I had taken off the saddle and bridle I joined her. While passing through the hall I met a young officer, who looked at me with evident surprise. I surmised that he took me for a lady, so I said:

"Have you seen my mistress? I'm looking for her."

"Your mistress?"

"Yes, my mistress. I didn't know that she was going to stay here alone or I wouldn't have gone away. I've come back to take care of her."

"Miss Clayton went up to her room a moment ago. I think you'll find her there."

Grim visaged war was turned into a stage on which was enacted a comedy, Clarice and I being the principal women actors and Captain Harding, the officer I had met in the hall, the leading gentleman. While we convinced him that Clarice was white and I had negro blood in my veins, that she was mistress and I was maid, it was impossible for her to show the effects of an education she had not received, and I could not help showing both my breeding and education. I called her Missy Alice, and she called me Clarice. I obeyed her slightest nod, and she carried her part as mistress extremely well—that is, before others. When we were alone we were to each other what we had always been.

It was plain to me when I first met Captain Harding that he was pleased with me. A man doesn't usually take pains to conceal his admiration, and till I told him that I was a negro and a slave the captain's eyes were full of it. I thought I saw, when I gave him the informaion, a look of disappointment in his face, but that might have been imaginary on my part. There can scarcely arise a situation more attractive to a woman than to personate one between whom and an admirer there is a great gulf fixed. I confess I played the game with relish, though outwardly with modesty tinged with sadness—the sadness I took on when I began to feel assured that I was getting my admirer into my toils. I led him to think that it was caused by the taint of blood which separated me from him.

Had not Captain Harding's nature been of a fine texture I should have expected him to treat me for what I pretended to be. But he was as respectful to me as if I had been of the purest white blood. True, he kept a certain reserve, such as would be proper between him and a servant. He would chat with me quite freely, and when I showed an understanding that could only have been developed by education he sometimes forgot himself so far as to treat me like a lady. What I mean is that he took no advantage of my being supposedly a negro and a slave.

I was enjoying my little comedy immensely when one morning I was suddenly brought to my senses. Clarice came into my room and wakened me by crying:

"The Yankees have gone, the Lord be praised!"

"What!" I exclaimed, starting up.

"There isn't a soldier on the place. They all went away at 4 o'clock this morning."

Then and there came upon me an awakening different from that after a slumber. Captain Harding had gone! And he had gone believing me to be a negro and a slave! Had he known my true status he might return and seek me. Now this was impossible. He would never seek one tainted as I had led him to believe I was. And, as for my seeking him, no woman with womanly modesty can seek a man.

The fall was as depressing as the rise had been exhilarating. I arose from my bed and looked out through my window. Where I had been accustomed to seeing tents there was now nothing but bare ground. A month before I had execrated the coming of these Yankees; now I bemoaned their going. The morning was murky, and the wind was stirring the leaves to what to me was a requiem.

The army had moved to Murfreesboro, some thirty miles south of us. In a few days our household was at home again. All were happy at the vanishment of the enemy except me. I was desolate. The man I loved had gone, believing that an impassable barrier existed between him and me. There was an impassable barrier, but not such as he supposed.

One of the last battles of the war was fought near us. We were within the Federal lines, and our wounded enemies were brought to us. Seeing a stretcher set down in the yard with a man on it, I went out to learn if I could do anything for him. In his pale face I recognized Captain Harding, and when he looked up at me with his melancholy eyes I saw an involuntary start. As for me, I was both grieved at his condition and delighted that he had returned to me. I dreaded lest he should die still believing me to be what I had represented myself. I wished at once to correct the impression I had given him, but I could not. Nevertheless I did not personate a servant.

"Clarice!" I called. "Bring water! Some brandy! Quick! Captain Harding is here, badly wounded!"

A faint surprise came into the wounded man's eyes. But his condition was too low for me to enlighten him. Clarice brought the water and the brandy, and after giving him a drink I ordered her in no gentle tone to bring some of the negroes to carry the invalid into the house. When I got him there I went myself for a surgeon, brought him to the bedside and held my breath till he assured me the case was not hopeless.

All that happened nearly half a century ago. When Captain Harding returned to the north I went with him, and here I have lived ever since. I have often thought what my life would have been had I not had an opportunity to undo what I had done in leading him to suppose that I was a negro and a slave.

WILSON'S CONFESSIONS

Unbosoms Himself to Members of Washington Press Club

Washington, March 21.—Woodrow Wilson unbosomed himself to the members of the National Press club of Washington, telling them how he felt as President of the United States and how he had struggled to be as free as the ordinary individual without the restraints of his office.

The president did not intend to have his remarks reported, but later, at the request of the club, the unusual speech was made public. Following are the main points of his remarks:

I am trying not to make any colossal blunders.

I never stop doctoring messages.

I not only use all my own brains but all I can borrow.

I have never identified myself with being president.

I adjourn being president in my own house and take leave to be a gentleman.

If I were to interpret myself I would say that my constant embarrassment is to restrain the emotions that are inside me. I sometimes feel like a fire from a volcano. If the lava does not seem to spill over it is because you are not high enough to see into the basin. In my position there is a passionate sense of being connected with my fellow men in a peculiar relationship of responsibility. Not merely the responsibility of office. God knows there are enough things in this world that need to be corrected.

One means by which I forget is to get a rattling good detective story and chase an imaginary offender over the continent.

JOHNSON'S CAR PATENTED

May Mean Millions to Heirs of Former Mayor of Cleveland

Cleveland, March 21.—A patent has been granted at Washington to the estate of Tom L. Johnson, four times mayor of Cleveland, for a magnet aerial rail car invented by Johnson shortly before his death.

Engineering experts declare it may mean millions to his heirs, revolutionizing rapid transit. A pending patent on his invention was bequeathed to his family.

HUNTING FOR TRACE OF KIDNAPPED BOY

Philadelphia Aroused Over the Case of Warren McCarrick

Philadelphia, March 21.—With the total of rewards offered for the return of 7-year-old Warren McCarrick increased to $6000, the detectives working on the case are hopeful that they will be able to secure a clew to the whereabouts of the kidnapped child.

This is the ninth day of the search that thus far has been a complete failure. Thousands of circulars are being printed for distribution in all the cities and towns of the United States and Canada and Europe. They carry an announcement of the reward offer and a complete description of the missing boy.

The full power of the city administration is now behind the hunt for the boy. All vacant houses will be searched and the river dragged in an attempt to find trace of the boy.

FOR DUTY IN PARKS

Legislative Committee Reports In Favor of Women Policemen

Boston, March 21.—The policewoman has been provided for by a legislative committee. After a warm discussion in legal affairs about the "woman policeman" bill the committee voted to give the measure its support, and the bill was reported in the house.

Miss Marion Nichols, who has been working hard at the state house for the success of the bill, says it means that women will be detailed to patrol the parks at night and prevent young girls from seeking escorts with whom they are not personally acquainted.

KILLS WIFE AND CHILDREN

Slayer of Three Sets Fire to His Home and Then Shoots Self

Oak Park, Ga., March 21.—J. A. Eubank, a wealthy farmer living near this place, killed his wife and two daughters as they slept, set fire to his home and several other farm buildings and then fired a bullet through his forehead.

Physicians say he cannot live. He is believed to have been mentally deranged.

Hot Flatiron Foils Gunmen

New York, March 21.—Joe Yok's dexterity with a hot flatiron foiled three gunmen who raided his Chinese laundry in Brooklyn, and later one of the robbers, branded on the cheek, was captured by the police.

Lecturer Holmes Weds

New York, March 21.—E. Burton Holmes, the traveler and lecturer, and Miss Margaret E. Oliver were married today in St. Stephen's church. Holmes gave his age as 44 and his bride as 35.

Million Dollar Gift to Louvre

Paris, March 21.—Marchioness Arconati-Visconti has presented to the Louvre her entire collection of paintings, furniture and other art objects. The value of the gift is estimated at $1,000,000.

SUNDAY SERVICES

A new announcement of services is required each week. No notices accepted to run indefinitely. When possible the subject of sermon should be given, also special services. Generous space will be given in the news columns for church news, music and week day gatherings.

FIRST PARISH CHURCH—City Square, Rev. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson, minister. Residence Miller Stile Inn, Tel. 21072. Office hours at church 9 to 12 A. M. Monday, Wednesday and Friday Tel. 1290. Morning service at 10.30 A. M. Rev. B. A. Willmott of Bethany Congregational Church will preach in exchange with the minister. Subject: "A new Commandment." Sunday School at 12 noon. Mr. Henry W. Porter Supt. The minister's class will continue the study of the "Religions of India." Visitors are welcome.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Junction Hancock and Chestnut streets. Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, Pastor. 10.30 Morning worship message by Rev. Adelbert Hudson of First Parish Church. 12.00 Bible school Classes for all ages. 6.00 Christian Endeavor Meeting 7.30 Pleasant Sunday Evening service; Topic: "Life Problems for Young People—Making a Home."

FIRST UNIVERSALIST CHURCH—Washington Street, Quincy. Rev. Merrill C. Ward, pastor Residence 2 Greenough Avenue, Jamaica Plain Telephone Jamaica 616 W. Rev. Carl G. Horst of the Wollaston Unitarian ill exchange with the pastor. Service at 3.00 P. M., Sunday school at 2 o'clock. Y. P. C U. at 4.20.

CHRIST CHURCH, EPISCOPAL—Quincy corner Elm street and Quincy avenue. Rev. Richard E Armstrong, rector. Fourth Sunday in Lent. 8.00 A. M. Holy Communion. 9.30 A. M. Sunday School. 10.45 Morning Prayer and sermon. 7.30 Evening Prayer and address. Wednesday The Annunciation Holy Communion 10.00 A. M. Wednesday 7.45 Evening prayer and sermon. Thursday 3.30 Devotional Service. Friday 4.00 P. M. Children's Lenten Service.

INTERNATIONAL BIBLE STUDENTS ASSOCIATION, (undenominational) New Colonial Hall Hancock Building, Quincy Centre. Free public lectures every Sunday afternoon at 3.00 o'clock for the promotion of Christian Knowledge; and are entirely free, no collection taken. Lecture, Sunday March 22, by T. N. Elliot of Braintree. Subject: "The school of Christ"

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST—Quincy, Alpha Hall, cor. Hancock street and Cottage ave. Morning service and Sunday School at 10.45. Subject: "Matter." Golden Text: "Whom hast thou reproached and blasphemed? and against whom hast thou exalted thy voice, and lifted up thine eyes on high? even against the Holy One of Israel." Wednesday 7.45 P. M. a testimony and experience meeting. Reading room open from 3 to 5 P. M. week days, holidays excepted. Also Saturday from 7 to 9 P. M.

SPIRITUALIST MEETINGS—Electa Hall, Johnson building, Quincy Sq. Russ H. Gilbert speaker. Evening Service at 7.30 P. M. Topic of discourse "Spiritualism." Miss Mabelle A. Leighton, message bearer.

WASHINGTON STREET CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Quincy Point. Rev. Stephen C. Lang, pastor. 10.45 Morning Worship. Sermon by Rev. T. C. Martin, pastor of Hall Place M. E. Church. 12M. Bible school and Men's class. 6.30 Christian Endeavor Society led by pastor. 7.30 Evening Service. Sermon by pastor "Sin and Salvation." Public cordially invited.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—Water and Quincy Streets. Rev. J. A. Matheson Minister, Tel. 1524-M. Morning worship at 10.30. Rev. I. W Sneath Ph. D. will preach Bible School and mens class 11.45. Jr. Christian Endeavor 2.30 Y. P. S. C. E. 6.30. Evening worship 7.30. Congregational Prayer and praise service Thursday 7.30. You are invited to worship with us at all our services.

FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—Corner of School and Pleasant streets. Rev. D. B. McLeod, M. A., pastor. Residence 40 Bradford St., Preaching at 10.30 by Rev. C. E. Tilley at 7 by the pastor. Sabbath School and Bible Class at 11.45 Junior Endeavor at 3. Senior Endeavor at 6. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.30.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH—Franklin street Rev. C. C. Tilley, Pastor. Residence 26 Richie Road. Morning Service at 10.30. Rev. D. B. McLeod, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church will preach at the morning service. Sunday school at 11.45. Evening service at 7. Rev. J. W. Brigham will preach. Regular prayer meeting on Thursday evening at 7.30.

SWEDISH MISSION CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH Garfield street. Rev. A. G. Sporrong, pastor, 14 Euclid avenue. Tel. Quincy 1485-M. 9.30 A. M. Sunday School. Young people's Bible class led by pastor. 10.45 A. M. Morning service Topic: "Christ the Bread of life." 7.00 P. M. Evening service. Third sermon in passion series: Christ's Silence before Pilate.

SWEDISH BAPTIST CHURCH—Brewers Cor. Paul Hallin, pastor Residence 101 Glendale Road, Sermon by the pastor at 10.45 A. M., and 7.30 P. M. Sunday School at 9.30 A. M.; Y. P. S. C. E. at 6.45 Thursday 7.30 P. M. Sermon by Rev. Kallman Cambridge. Friday at 7.30 Rev. G. W. Lindstrow of Brockton will speak. Strangers cordially invited.

ST. PAUL'S SWEDISH M. E. Church—Corner Granite and Fort Streets Quincy, Rev. A. E. Hillman, pastor. Residence 121 Glendale Road. Morning service at 10.30 Subject "The Worldwide Call." Sunday School at 12 M. The Annual S. S. Missionary offering will be taken. Epworth League Service at 6.30 P. M Evening service at 7. Subject: "Christ's Cross-bearers." There will be special music by the choir. A cordial welcome to all.

HALL PLACE M. E. CHURCH—West Quincy Rev. T. C. Martin, pastor, Residence, 12 Hall Place. Morning worship at 10.30. Sermon by Pastor. Sunday School at 12 M. Epworth League at 6.15. Leader: Harold Norris, 2nd Vice-President. Evening service at 7 P. M. Junior League at 4 P. M. Friday. Prayer meeting Friday at 7.30. P. M. A cordial welcome to all.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL—Corner Lincoln and Winthrop avenues, Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath, Ph. D., pastor. Res. No. 20 Marion street Telephone Quincy 1116 M. Morning Worship 10.45 Sermon by Rev. J. A. Matheson. 12.15, Sunday School. Chas A. Campbell, Supt. Women's Class led by Mrs. A. A. Lincoln. Men's Class led by the pastor. Junior Endeavor Society at 4 P. M. Y. P. S. C. E. at 6 P. M., led by Dr. Sneath Topic: "Our Society a Training School." Thursday 7 P. M. in the Vestry the Pastors Round Table for young people. Topic: "The Church." The regular midweek service Thursday 7.45 P. M. in the vestry, conducted by Deacon L. F. Besse. Subject: The Trials and Judgment." All are cordially welcomed to these services.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST CHURCH—Cor. Prospect and Warren avenues. Rev. Joseph Walther minister. Morning service at 10.45 Sermon by Rev. T. W. Davison of the Atlantic Memorial Church in exchange with the pastor. Sunday School at 12.15. in charge of Elford L. Durgan Supt. Junior Endeavor meeting at 3.30. in charge of Mrs. Joseph Walther. Senior Endeavor at 6. n charge of Elford L. Durgan. Evening service a: 7. Preaching by the pastor. Everyone invited to these services.

WOLLASTON METHODIST EPISCOPAL—CHURCH—Rev. George Mervyn Bailey, Pastor Residence, 52 Brook Street Telephone, Quincy 378-2 10.45 Divine Worship with sermon by Rev. Wm. B. Ayers, pastor, Park and Downs Church. 12 M. Sunday School J. A. Sedgwick Supt. Pastor in charge of Men's Class. 6. P. M. Epworth League 7 P. M. Song service Pastor's message Subject: "In the footsteps of a spider."

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN CHURCH—Corner Beale and Farrington streets. Rev. Carl G. Horst, minister. Residence 39 Grand View ave. Telephone Quincy 317-1. Kindergarten for children of three years and over, in the vestry in charge of a trained kindergartner, at 10.45 Service of worship with sermon by Rev. George M. Bailey of the Wollaston Methodist Church at 10.45 Sunday School with classes for all at 12.00. Ministers class meets in Church Auditorium. Special Lenten Service at 7.30, Sermon by Rev. James De Normandie D. D. of Boston. All seats free, and a cordial welcome for all.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Hancock street. Wollaston—Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra, rector, residence, the rectory. 253 Hancock street. Holy Communion at 8. Morning prayer, and sermon at 10.30. Sunday School at 12M. Evening Prayer and address at 7.30.

MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Atlantic Rev. Thomas W. Davison, pastor. Morning service 10.45. Sermon by Rev. Joseph Walther of Wollaston Baptist Church. Sunday School 12.M. Junior Endeavor meeting at 3.30 P. M. Adult Bible Class at 5.30 P. M. Y. P. S. C. E. at 6. P. M. Evening service at 7 Sermon by the pastor. A cordial welcome to all.

ATLANTIC M. E. CHURCH—corner Newbury avenue and Squantum Streets. Rev. E. C. Pollard, pastor. Residence 19 Wesley Street, Newton, phone 2467 W. Morning service at 10.45 by Rev. M. Sayre of the Houghs Neck Union Church will preach in exchange with the pastor. The newly organized Junior League meets at 3.30 P. M. Epworth League at 6 P. M. the pastor will preach at 7. Subject: Man's union with God as a result of the Atonement.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS — CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING — WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—Pool room with 7 tables. Will let to cripple only. Space for shoemaker or tailor. Apply at Powers Real Estate Agency, 6 Washington Street. 21-1t

TO LET—Large pleasant sunny room. Near restaurants and R. R. station. Apply at 1187 Hancock street. 21-tf

TO LET—To small family. A flat of 5 rooms and bath. All modern improvements. Inquire at 38 Dysart street. 21-3t

TO LET—$20.00 Cottage, 6 rooms; all improvements. On salt water; 3 minutes to Fore River entrance, yet secluded. Call C. E. Briggs, 62 Howard Avenue, Quincy. 18-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-12t

TO LET—Two 3-room and one 4-room tenement. Just finished. All modern improvements. Apply to J. M. L. 175 Liberty street, South Quincy. 16-6t

TO LET—Lower apartment 5 rooms and bath. Modern conveniences, combination range; gas and electricity etc. 95 Putnam street. Ready for occupancy April 1. Apply 97 Putnam street. 16-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 16-6t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath, Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 125. 14-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

FOR RENT—In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 3 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ....

TO LET

TO LET—Two large, well furnished rooms with all improvements. Use of kitchen if desired. In centre of city. Write J, Ledger Office. 20-3t

TO LET—On Spear street, first floor 4 rooms, bath, furnace, set tubs, gas and set range. J. A. Weeden, Room 10, Greenleaf Block. 20-3t

TO LET—Apartment 5 rooms, all improvements; good location, on car line; rent $21. 903 Hancock street. Inquire upper suite. 18-tf

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 18-6t

TO LET—Upper flat of five rooms and bath, all improvements, Bradford street, Quincy Adams. Apply to William Duggan, Bradford street. Tel. Quincy 801W. 17-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms with or without board. Mrs. F. Wrigley, 18 Washington street corner Coddington. 17-6t

TO LET—Single house of six rooms, improvements 492 South street. Apply to 96 Arnold street. 17-6t

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

MISCELLANEOUS

TAKE NOTICE—Free corn cutting till March 31st. Positively no hurt, 9 A. M. to 2 P. M. Dr. Rodgers, Chiropodist. 14 Sagamore street, Atlantic. Mar. 17-6t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE OR TO LET—New house, two tenements five rooms each, all improvements. Situated on Hayward street, East Braintree. Completed April 15. Apply to W. L. Saunders, 46 Franklin street, Quincy. 21-tf

FOR SALE—Three good horses, 2 sets harness, 2 wagons. Apply to John J. Gallagher, 230 Water street, Quincy Adams. 20-6t

FOR SALE—Strictly fresh Quincy eggs. Seavey, 9 Silver street, Quincy. 19-6t

FOR SALE—22 ft. motor boat, 5 h. p. 2 cylinder engine. One year old. Price reasonable. A. D. Thompson, 47 Main street. 19-6t

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS—Take notice. We are selling all steel portable Automobile garages, camps and storehouses ready to put up. Absolutely fire proof. Prompt shipment. Send for quotations, M. W. Tilton, Box 362, Brockton. 11-12t

FOR SALE—Cheap, a second hand kitchen stove, in good condition. Apply to Mr. Magee, 963 Hancock street near car barn. 17-6t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

WANTED

WANTED—Position as housekeeper in gentleman's home by young widow of 29, good cook. Write H. G., Ledger Office. 20-3t

WANTED—A Rivet Heater. Apply at Isbell-Porter Co., Brockton Gas Co. Works, Brockton. 20-3t

WANTED—Young lady as salesgirl in drug store. Address "A" care Ledger Office. 19-3t

WANTED—By an experienced nurse maternity nursing. Address P. O. Box 304, Quincy. March 18-6t

CANDY SALESMEN WANTED. $100 Monthly, and all traveling expenses to start. Experience unnecessary. Solicit orders from dealers in your locality and surrounding territory for our high grade Chocolates, Bon-Bons and all kinds of Candies. Write quickly for full particulars and contract. Kase Candy Co., New York, N. Y. Feb. 21 to May 5.

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

JUST LOOK HERE

Two Suite House in Wollaston—7 large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.

HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 Office 543-M

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES
10 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar, Tel. Quincy 131-W.

Read Ledger Ads

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c

MON. TUES., WED.
Program Subject to Change

FORRESTER & LLOYD
Singing and Talking Funmakers

BEAU BRUMMELL TRIO
The Boys with the big voices

MASCAGNE
Novelty Musical Artist

LAMP BROS.
Comedy Skit "Si & MAUD"

Great 4 Reels Feature

"THE WHIRL OF DESTINY"

A stupendous picture production thrilling from start to finish

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

Mar. 21—3

TUBERCULOSIS CONFERENCE.

The sixth session of the Massachusetts conference on tuberculosis is to be held Thursday, March 26 from 11 A. M. to 4.30 P. M. at the Twentieth Century Club, 3 Joy street, Boston.

The program and subjects are as follows:

11.00 A. M. Some Present Problems, P. Challis Bartlett, M. D., Boston formerly superintendent Rutland State Sanitorium; discussion, Simon Cox, M. D., superintendent Consumptives' Hospital department, Boston.

11.35 A. M. Tuberculous Infection of Children, Cleaveland Floyd, M. D. of Boston, director out patient clinic, Consumptives' Hospital department, Boston; discussion, Allen G. Rice, M. D., Springfield.

12.10 P. M. The Role of Family Clusters in the Prevalence of Consumption, Carl C. MacCorison, M. D. North Reading, superintendent North Reading State Sanatorium; discussion, William E. Shannon, president Northampton Association for the prevention and control of Tuberculosis.

1.00 P. M. Luncheon at Twentieth Century Club.

2.30 P. M. The Social Workers Educational Influence in the Tuberculosis Campaign, George B. Underwood, M. D., Gardner, President Gardner Association for the Relief and Control of Tuberculosis; discussion, Walter, G. Phippen, M. D., Salem.

3.10 P. M. The Field Work of the Anti-Tuberculosis Association, Seymour H. Stone, Boston, secretary Boston Association for the Relief and Control of Tuberculosis; discussion, Mrs. Mabel G. Smith, Cambridge.

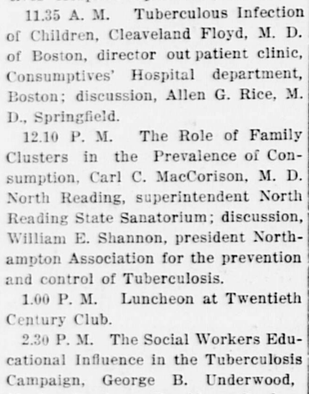
3.45 P. M. Shall the Massachusetts Anti Tuberculosis League be asked to assume the responsibility for this Conference?

DEATHS

GIBSON—In Hingham, March 20, John Gibson of Whiting street.

Established 1870 Telephone

JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.



YOU should not place your orders for any

MEMORIAL WORK

Without Consulting

AVARD L. WALKER
MORTUARY ARCHITECT
3636 WASHINGTON STREET
FOREST HILLS, BOSTON, MASS.
Tel. Quincy 282-W
March 4-3mos-w-s

COCHATO CLUB OF BRAINTREE

Don't forget the "Mother Goose" party scheduled for Wednesday evening, March 25th. It is earnestly requested for the success of the evening that as many members as possible will come as some character in "Mother Goose." There is to be a grand march of those in costume to be reviewed by Mother Goose assisted by the King and Queen of Hearts. Those in costume must be at the club house as early as 7.30 that evening. During the evening Miss Alice Diaz of Boston will do some solo dancing and there will be a dance of the "Fairies." Any further information may be obtained of the committee in charge consisting of Mrs. A. E. Avery, Mrs. H. A. Stevens, Mrs. G. M. Keating, Mrs. C. R. Marstin, Mrs. L. P. Chapin, Mrs. H. S. Barker. Tickets for invited guests at 50 cents each.

The ladies of the Cochato club gave an auction bridge party in the large hall Friday afternoon. Mrs. Lewis F. Small had charge of the affair with many assistants. There were 37 tables in play. Afternoon tea and sandwiches were served. Guests were present from Newton, Wollaston, Quincy, Weymouth as well as all parts of Braintree. A good sum was realized to purchase new furnishings for the clubhouse.

The standing of the individuals and teams in bowling at the Cochato club up to and including Thursday evening is as follows: for team singles team 1 leads with 487 pins and also on 3 string totals with 1406 pins. Ralph B. Woodsum and E. R. Olin were tied for single strings with 123 pins apiece. W. I. Arnold led in the 3 string total with 320 pins.

Members of the Hunnewell club of Newton were the guests last evening of the Cochato club and bowling was enjoyed, Boston pins being used. The first and third strings were captured by Cochato while the second string and the three string total went to Hunnewell making two points for each team. The sensational work of Olin of Cochato in the last box was a feature. Refreshments were served and there was a large attendance of local and visiting enthusiasts.

The scores:

COCHATO.

Lawley	93	89	91	273
Arnold, J. E.	129	96	89	314
Woodsum	105	83	98	286
Hollis	121	82	86	289
Olin	98	88	136	322
	546	438	500	1484

HUNNEWELL.

Dexter	116	99	101	316
Burbank	105	89	108	302
Chapman	94	107	92	293
Learnard	102	95	90	287
Paul	109	86	105	300
	526	476	496	1498

QUINCY POST OFFICE.

Letters unclaimed for week ending March 21:

Mrs. Thomas Balfour, John Beaton, Hugh Boyle (2) Ingazio Bozzeri, Miss Sarah F. Coster, Djerf Bros., J, Echelstain, Emerson Institute Pietro Frabizio, Lewis Ford, Ernesto Giovannini, Mrs. Harold Harvey, John L. Lyons, Mrs. I. R. Mahoney, John Mulready, Hughe Munrom, Antonio Netto, Tallo Oclnkm, John S. Qaltenger, Mrs. Horace Richardson, Christos Vapides, Miss Mary E. White.

POSTPONED MEETING.

The meeting of the Philanthropic committee of the Quincy Women's Club and the Associated Charities which was to have been held Wednesday morning, was postponed on account of its conflicting with another meeting in the clubhouse, and will be held next Wednesday morning, at the same hour. Miss Sallie Beck, Home and School Visitor of Boston, and one of the School Nurses will be present and speak about Home and School Visiting and Nursing work. It is hoped those interested in these lines of Social work will take advantage of this opportunity to hear these two practical workers explain just what their work is and how it is done. All interested are cordially invited to be present and to take part in the discussion.

With Teams and Trucks

KINCAIDE MOVES HOUSEHOLD GOODS

Our light and heavy Trucks and Teams are ready to move you anywhere anytime you say. Our men are courteous, careful, thoroughly-experienced movers. This store stands back of their work and guarantees you complete satisfaction. Charges are reasonable. Let's have your order early. Write, call or Telephone Quincy 1200.

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO. 1495 Hancock St.

DR. CADY THE SPEAKER

And Music by Temple Quartet and Chorus

The sixth of the series of Sunday afternoon meetings for men in Kincaide Theatre, under the auspices of the Quincy Young Men's Christian Association will be held tomorrow at 3.30 The doors will open promptly at 3 and all seats are free to men and boys over 14. All of the previous meetings have been well attended and great interest has been shown. And the meeting Sunday will be interesting and helpful to every man who attends.

Dr. George L. Cady will speak. He is a "Live Wire" and has a message for men that is well worth hearing.

The musical attraction will be the world famous Temple Quartet of Boston, and that alone is worth travelling miles to hear. Then the regular men's chorus will lead the lively singing which has been so greatly enjoyed at the previous meetings.

Not only are all the men of Quincy inivted to come but they are urged to bring their men friends along with them. Let's fill the house this Sunday men.

BRIEFS

Cold this morning—18 above zero.

The inventory of the estate of Caroline H. Eaton of Quincy shows personal estate valued at $14,623.

Eight end men are reahearsing for the annual minstrel show by St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society which will be given in their hall, April 16.

People can go to their own church Sunday, but hear a clergyman of another denomination. Sixteen of the Quincy pastors will exchange locally.

Mrs. L. J. Colgan of Augusta, Me., has returned home having been called to Quincy by the illness of her sister Mrs. W. H. Young of Coddington street.

Doris McClure, the four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McClure of Webster street is on the gain, having been seriously ill with pneumonia for some time.

Miss Ruth Seaverns of Marshfield who has been teaching in the schools in Hubbardston has recently accepted a position as primary assistant in the Quincy schools.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Atlantic Methodist church will have an Easter entertainment and sale the week previous to Easter. Exact dates will be given next week.

The Ladies Benevolent society of Memorial church netted about $32 by its St. Patrick's social given in the vestry Tuesday evening. Mrs. William Hersey and Mrs. Alva Beede were in charge.

J. C. Thom of Wollaston will lead the newly organized Epworth League at the Methodist church, Atlantic, Sunday evening at 6 P. M. His subject is the remarkable story of the conversion of Yum Chi Ha of China.

Thirteen well known men about City Square invaded the home of Clarence E. Sherman, the local merchant, on Upland road Friday night, and William Seeley, in behalf of the gathering presented him with a music cabinet. The program until midnight was "fun."

At the special Lenten service at the Wollaston Unitarian church Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock the Rev. James DeNormandie. D. D., pastor of the First church in Roxbury will preach the sermon. The public is cordially invited.

Rev. William Sullivan of New York, who was unable on account of illness to speak in King's Chapel, Boston Sunday, March 8, will speak there Sunday evening, at 7.30 o'clock. His subject will be "The Authority of a Free Faith. Mr. Sullivan will also speak at the noon-day service in King's Chapel on Monday.

The South Hanson station is to be known as Bryantville in the future, according to the new time tables issued by the N. Y., N. H., & H. R. R. It is said this is in pursuance of a policy to be adopted by this road to change the names of all stations having the points of the compass, as a prefix to be made for the convenience of train men.

C. Gustavus Rogers of Dedham has purchased and will publish the Gazette of Barre, Mass.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery L. Crane entertained the Katharyn Crane Memorial club at their home on Whitney road, Friday afternoon, it being the annual birthday anniversary party of the clubclub. There were about 37 of the club present, as well as Rev. A. L. Hudson, minister of the First Parish and Delcevare King. Friday's party took the form of a dancing party, and in addition to this Mr. King had a number of Japanese toys which created no end of amusement. On this occasion the club received for the first time its club pin. The pin, a very pretty affair, shows the club colors, forget-me-not blue, as well as a spray of that flower in the petals of which were the club initials.

As usual on these anniversary gatherings, the club made a donation, the sum of $15 for flowers for the church. This gift was received in behalf of the church by Rev. Mr. Hudson who spoke briefly in receiving it.

The club then marched to the dining room where refreshments were served and the birthday cake cut. The afternoon pleasures were continued until about 6.30.

A branch of the National Congress of Mothers and Parents-Teachers association has been formed at East Dedham.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.
To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of William H. Stevenson, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Inga M. Stevenson of said Quincy without giving a surety on her bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twentieth day of March, A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
21-3t Mar. 21-23-30

Too Late For Classification

TO LET—Three rooms and kitchenette, furnished or unfurnished, separate bath. Price reasonable. Chance for small kitchen garden, 132 Marlborough street, Wollaston. 21-1t

FOR SALE—Good black loam, delivered anywhere in Quincy. Apply at Penniman Garage, Phone 207 or J. P. Flanagan 518M. Sand and gravel for sale. March 21-6t

DR. J. A. ZWICKER
Osteopath
79 Freeman Street
Norfolk Downs, Mass.
Tel. 1271 W. Feb. 25-w-s-tf-o-28-tf

M. MIRKIN Upholsterer
Is the one who will give you the full satisfaction in work and prices of repairing furniture, mattresses and cushions. 1060 Hancock St., near the Quincy High School Tel. con.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

Four generations of the Park family were present at the golden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Wisner Park at Canton. Mr. Park was for many years connected with the Concord Reformatory. One grandson is Wisner I. Park, cashier at the First National Bank, Boston and another is George O. Park of the Old Colony Trust Co.

Henry B. Titus, 77 years old, died at Foxboro as the result of burns. He was a Civil War veteran and never recovered from the effects of being wounded in the thigh. He formerly had charge of the Town farm.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. John D. Neil of Center Hill, Hull on Friday.

The jurors of the January term of the Norfolk Superior court held a reunion and banquet at the United States hotel, Boston, this week.

The Dedham Assessors have organized with Ebenezer T. Paul as chairman and Charles T. Ziegler as clerk.

The razor-clam diggers have been finding quite a number of sea clams the past week on account of the high course of tides, and Charles Peterson of Duxbury has shipped many barrels of them to Lynn, where they are used for food. It is estimated that there have been 300 barrels taken the past two weeks.

BRAINTREE

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Stedman of Cedar street are enjoying a trip to Bermuda.

Blue Hill Lodge, A. O. U. W., moved Thursday from G. A R. hall to Odd Fellows' hall where the meetings will be held in future.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones of Monatiquot avenue left town recently for a trip to California.

Frank South of Miller avenue purchased a new six cylinder Hudson touring car while at the auto show.

Horace M. Bickford and family have returned to their summer home on Quincy avenue.

The dress rehearsal of the degree staff of Amana Rebekah lodge was held in Odd Fellows' hall last evening.

Mr. G. L. Hinckley who has been spending the winter at Daytona and the surrounding towns of Florida, has returned to his home on Town street.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus L. Urann, and little Ruth Urann returned Wednesday from an enjoyable vacation at Southern Pines, N. C., and other points South.

The prize declamation for the Penniman prize will be held next Wednesday evening in the hall of the Noah Torrey school at 7.45 o'clock Cake and ice cream will be on sale and the proceeds of the affair will go to the lantern fund.,

Edward C. Holyoke is resting very comfortably at the Brigham hospital, Brookline, where he underwent a successful operation for reajusting his shoulder and it is expected that he will return home in another week.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Roberts of Factory Hill announce the marriage of their daughter Bessie to Mr. John Barnett of Montreal, Canada. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. R. L. Burke, pastor of the Mountain street Methodist Episcopal church on Saturday evening March 14.

Next Sunday, March 22, Rev. D Roy Freeman will preach the second in a series of three sermons on the general subject of the liberal church. The title of the sermon will be, "The Social Idealism of the Liberal Church." Everyone is cordially invited to be present at All Souls' church.

WOOD! WOOD! WOOD!

BY THE CORD
OR SAWED AND SPLIT

ENGLISH, BEDDING AND SALT HAY

R. ALLEN GAGE
36 River St., Braintree
Telephone 138-M for prices. Jan 21 tf W&S

North, South, East, West

men and women are subject to the numerous ailments caused by defective or irregular action of the organs of digestion and elimination. Headaches, lazy feelings, depression of spirits are first consequences, and then worse sickness follows if the trouble is not removed. But thousands have discovered that

Beecham's Pills

(The Largest Sale of Any Medicine in the World)

are the most reliable corrective, and the best preventive of these common ailments. Better digestion, more restful sleep, greater strength, brighter spirits, clearer complexions are given to those who use occasionally this time-tested home remedy. Beecham's Pills will no doubt help you—it is to your interest to try them—for all over the world they

Are Pronounced Best

Sold everywhere. In boxes, 10c., 25c.
The directions with every box are very valuable—especially to women.

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER

Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

THE PI ETA SOCIETY
of Harvard University

Announces its Annual Production

"A BUG IN A RUG"

to be presented in

Quincy Music Hall, Friday, Mar. 27

Under the auspices of the

QUINCY TENNIS CLUB

5t-Feb. 27, M 7, 14, 21, 26

PERMITS FOR NEW HOUSES

The Spring Rush Has Started Early This Year

Business in the building line has started in with a rush this spring and the Inspector of Buildings is issuing a large number of permits. It will be noticed by the following list of permits issued this week that most of them are for dwellings:

Paul Lovering, cottage, Green street.

R. J. Barry, dwelling, Hunt street.

Alice M. Kene, dwelling, Billings road.

Russell Goldsmith, cottage, Sea street.

Mary E. and John Dunn, dwelling, Glover avenue.

F. S. Boydon, dwelling, Phillips street.

Leroy M. Hill, 3 dwellings, Vassall street.

Catherine Lennon, dwelling, Branch street.

Eva M. Leonard, addition, Davis street.

Sarah Smith, dwelling, Fayette street.

John W. Matthy, 2 dwellings, Highland avenue.

Mary Holmes, dwelling, Isabella street.

D. A. Goodwin, dwelling, Sagamore street.

Mrs. C. E. Bettoney, 2 dwellings, Chick street.

Joseph D. Griffin, dwelling, Hancock street.

Mrs. O. H. Bates, dwelling, Tyler street.

Lucy M. Marr, addition, Hamilton street.

David J. Holmes, dwelling, Dunbarton road.

There are eighteen dwellings and two cottages in the list.

SLIGHT FIRE.

A fire on the roof of the granite cutting sheds of Charles Bishop on Intervale street was extinguished by the department Friday afternoon when they responded to box 138 at 3.35.

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY AND EVERYONE IN QUINCY.

ON TOUR OF INSPECTION.

Representative Sandberg was with the Committee on Harbors and Public Lands of the legislature Friday on its visit to Salem harbor. The party were received by the Board of Trade and banqueted at the Salem clubhouse. From Salem the party went to Gloucester in a tow boat and inspected various localities along the Annisquam river and other places where appropriations for dredging are wanted.

—The citizens of Rockport at a hearing favored the acquisition of land for a public landing by eminent domain to take the place of the toll landing privately operated by the Sandy Bay Pier Co.

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

MAINE POTATOES

25c PECK

— AT —

Carlson's Restaurant

10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall

March 6-1m

st, West
ous ailments caused ans of digestion and epression of spirits cknoss follows if the ave discovered that Pills
he World)
reventive of these com-
eep, greater strength, hose who use occasion-
Pills will no doubt help l over the world they d Best 25c. pecially to women.

T and BUILDER
ildings of all kinds,
nd built.
roperly anticipate your ns will save you more
d. A call will bring us
581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

CIETY rsity ction RUG"
, Mar. 27
JB
3-Feb. 27, M 7, 14, 21, 26

R OF INSPECTION.
tive Sandberg was with e on Harbors and Pub-the legislature Friday on lem harbor. The party by the Board of Trade d at the Salem club-
Salem the party went in a tow boat and in-us localities along the iver and other places riations for dredging are ens of Rockport at a red the acquisition of blic landing by eminent ke the place of the toll tely operated by the ler Co.

an's Garage
Taxi Service
torage and Supplies
Day and Night.
Touring Cars for all orner Washington and
ets.
NNIMAN, Prop.
ephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

AINE TATOES
PECK
— AT — s Restaurant
epot Street
City Hall
March 6-1m

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 69 | QUINCY, MASS MONDAY EVENING MARCH 23 1914 | PRICE TWO CENTS

PASTORS EXCHANGE POPULAR AT CHURCHES

Sixteen Quincy Churches Listen to Quincy Pastors of Some Other Denomination

Listen to Messages on Brotherhood and Co-operation

Sixteen of the Quincy pastors made an interdenominational exchange on Sunday, and it was so popular that it may be repeated annually, perhaps oftener. The denominations entering into the arrangement were the Congregational, Unitarian, Universalist, Presbyterian, United Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist and Union churches. They carried the message of brotherhood and cooperation.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

Rev. A. L. Hudson of the Unitarian church preached at Bethany church Sunday morning in exchange with the pastor, and the welcome of the people caused him to feel very much at home. At the close most of the congregation came forward and expressed appreciation of the message.

"Who is my neighbor?" was the theme of Mr. Hudson's sermon, taken from the conversation with the Jewish lawyer which led up to the parable of the Good Samaritan. The obvious lesson of the parable is that the word "neighbor" is an inclusive one; and the law that each man shall love his neighbor as himself amounts to a declaration of universal brotherhood.

The preacher discussed with great frankness the terms brotherhood, equality and democracy, holding that the spirit of brotherhood is necessary to a successful democracy. A country in which hatred and distrust prevail may be called a democracy; but in fact it is nothing more than a cross between anarchy and despotism.

On the contrary equality, except in the sense of equality before the law, is not essential either to democracy or to brotherhood. Men may be true brothers without being equal and are apt to be all the more brotherly because of their differences. A genuine spirit of brotherhood would do away with all injustice and oppression—with class prejudice and hatred. It would insure an ideal social order.

But in what way can such a brotherhood be established? And what inducement is there for individuals to join it? An enlightened self-interest will go far in that direction. As men become wiser and understand more fully the subtle lines of connection which bind the interest of each man with the interests of all, they will realize that if this spirit of brotherhood could be made universal, it would be vastly for the benefit of each individual man.

This line of approach is good as far as it goes; but it doesn't go far enough. The trouble is that so long as self interest is the basis, many men will grasp after the thing that promises the most of immediate advantage to themselves regardless of the common good, and thus an enlightened self-interest becomes impossible.

The only adequate argument for brotherhood is the religious motive which lifts the whole subject above the level of selfish strife and reveals the higher and nobler relationship between man and man because all are kin to the divine life. When this divine kinship is once recognized brotherhood is the normal relationship between men, and an enlightened self interest demands the welfare of all.

Thus the fullest possible development of the religious impulse among men becomes essential to the successful attainment of democracy and the progress of civilization. He commented upon the significance of the exchanges among the churches of Quincy and the growing spirit of unity implied; and predicted a new career of usefulness and growth for all in their

(Continued on Page Three.)

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Board of Health Makes Sunday Visit to Department Stable

Mayor Miller is among the 21 Mayors of Massachusetts cities who have accepted the invitation of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, to attend the annual dinner at the Copley-Plaza hotel Tuesday evening at which the subject to be discussed is "What is needed for the industrial development of Massachusetts?" The meeting will be known as Mayor's night and every chief executive present will be invited to express his sentiments in regard to the question.

Tonight is an off night with the City Council. The next meeting will be held Monday evening March 30, and is an adjourned meeting.

The Council Committee on Streets spent Saturday afternoon going about the city looking at streets, etc., orders and petitions for which have been referred to them for consideration. Chairman Gilliatt started his committee out several weeks earlier than usual this year as he believes the early spring is the best time of all to look at streets and sidewalks as at that season they are in their worst condition.

The Board of Health paid a visit of inspection to their stable near the Quincy Home Sunday afternoon. The board made a thorough inspection of the city property under its charge at the stable. Rumor has it about City Hall this morning that there are to be some changes in the working force at the stable shortly.

The new office of the Mayor at City Hall is all ready for occupancy, and His Honor will probably be installed in his new quarters within a day or two.

TWO AUCTION SALES.

Auctioneer Johnson held two successful sales Saturday. The first was a parcel of land on Federal avenue and Goddard street which was sold to George Gauthier for $650. The second was of the granite plant of Giordani & Co. There was a large attendance of granite men at this sale and bidding was spirited. The plant was sold to Antonio Serafano for $3,200.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Holmes of 15 North Central avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Etta Helen and William H. Parker of Athol, Mass.

SURPRISED ON BIRTHDAY

Presentation to William H. Teasdale of West Quincy

Members of his family and near relatives tendered William W. Teasdale a reception at his home on Cross street Sunday afternoon and evening in honor of the 57th aniversary of his birth. He was given a Knights of Columbus charm in behalf of those assembled. All preparations for the reception were made in secret and the affair was a genuine surprise to Mr. Teasdale.

A supper was served after which an impromptu concert was given by those present. Napoleon Grignon also furnished considerable amusement through his magic and sleight of hand performance. Those present were from Holyoke, Jamaica Plain and Quincy.

Mr. Teasdale is one of the best known residents of the city. He has been active in affairs at St. Mary's church and is at present a member of the board of trustees of Ave Maria council, Knights of Columbus, and was instrumental in its organization. He was formerly a member of the Board of Health and has large business interests in this city.

TENNIS CLUB REVISE LAWS

Chose Governors Who Will Elect the Officers

The Quincy Tennis Club, at its annual meeting in the Johnson building Sunday afternoon, completely revised its constitution and bylaws, so that in the future the affairs will be conducted by a board of governors who will have charge of the club and elect the officers. President George E. Pfaffmann presided. Under the new laws the governors meet this week and choose the officers for the ensuing year.

The board consists of George E. Pfaffmann, James H. Slade and Carl R. Sheppard for three years; J. Brooks Keyes,, H. W. Porter and Fred H. Bresyln for two years; Henry R. Holden, Arthur W. Hall and William C. Edwards for one year.

The club is in a flourishing condition and there has been in past year an increase of 26 men, 17 women and 4 juniors. The membership at present is 74 men, 34 women and 11 juniors.

MILTON FIRM DIVIDE PROFITS.

In keeping with the custom inaugurated ten years ago, the employees of the Walter Baker Co. of Milton divided $35,000 Saturday. The checks were based upon the number of days of employment during the past year of the 650 employees and each check represented approximately 10 per cent of the year's wage.

The money was enclosed in the weekly pay envelope which also contained a not signed by President Clifford Gallagher, who believes that distributions of this kind are conducive to feelings of loyalty to the company that would not be in evidence if the money was used to swell the surplus or increase dividends. Many Quincy people shared in the distribution.

Plans for the annual banquet and entertainment of the Granite City club are well under way. The affair will be held at Alpha hall on Wednesday evening, April 28.

QUINCY SAVINGS BANK

The Annual Meeting of the members of the Quincy Savings Bank Corporation, for the election of Trustees, and any other business that may legally come before them, will be held on

TUESDAY, APRIL 14, 1914,

at 4.30 o'clock P. M. at the Banking Rooms, 1374 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

GEORGE E. ADAMS, Clerk.
9-6t Mon.

MEN'S MEETING ON SUNDAY

Dr. Cady Speaks Under Auspices of Y. M. C. A.

Another large audience of men assembled at Kincaide's Theatre Sunday afternoon for the Mens meeting under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. the speaker being Rev. George L. Cady, D. D., of Dorchester.

General Secretary Bromley presided and led the singing of the hymns, assisted by a chorus and a cornet. A special attraction for the day was the Temple Quartet, which includes E. E. Bullock, A. L. Hipson, F. A. Varney and G. E. McGowan. They sang several selections, and their closing number was so much enjoyed that a double encore was given, a lullaby and Sunset.

The Scriptures were read by Rev. W. A. Ayers of the Park and Downs church, who also led in prayer. Announcement was made for the closing meeting next Sunday, and a collection was taken.

Rev. Dr. Cady opened with a tribute to a personal friend, the late Edward Southworth, at whose solicitation he became the speaker for the afternoon. His theme was the question —"Can the twentieth century man get along without the first century Saviour?

He showed that the teachings of immortality were just as strong today as centuries ago. That while everything else had changed the people still cling to Christ.

PEEPER ARRESTED AT MILTON

Chief Maurice Pierce of Milton appeared at the District court this morning with a prisoner for the first time since early February. The defendant, Tomassi Tironi, was charged with drunkenness and ned $10. His sentence was suspended until Sept. 23.

Tironi was arrested Sunday night while peering in the windows of the almshouse and judging from the score of telephone complaints received at the station he had been peeping in all sections.

The first complaints were received early in the evening from the Milton Hiss section, and the police immediately instituted a search. Until Tironi was apprehended the calls continued He took his arrest quietly. At the station he explained his actions as being due to the excessive use of wine which went to his head and made him curious to see the inside of other people's homes.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

MAINE POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

TRUST COMPANY FOR WOLLASTON

Well Known Citizens Petition for Incorporation of Norfolk Trust Company

Will Also Include a Savings Bank Department

A long felt want in Wollaston is about to be fulfilled in the establishment of a Trust Co. with a savings bank department. The first steps toward the new company have been taken by George Taylor, Charles L. Gilliatt, Albert N. Murray, W. O. Wellington, Charles H. McIntyre, William Coulson, Charles P. Hutchins, Joseph A. Sedgwick, Eric H. Ewertz, Arthur B. Hillman, George W. Stone, Chester N. Godfrey, Charles E. Goodspeed, George Crothers, Charles S. Adams, A. E. Stephenson, Barnabas H. Bain, and Charles W. Bailey, who have associated themselves together by agreement in writing for the purpose of forming a Trust Company and have applied to the Board of Bank Incorporation for a charter. This board has given notice that a hearing on the petition will be held April 8.

The new banking institution will be known as the Norfolk Trust Company and it is proposed to locate its offices on Newport avenue between Beale and Brook streets, nearly opposite the Wollaston depot.

The movement for a bank at Wollaston was started some time ago, when the Wollaston Co-operative bank was consulted relative to establishing a Savings bank The co-operative bank while not offering any objection to a savings bank declined to establish it. Then a movement was started for an independent bank.

The capital stock of the new trust company is to be $100,000 and the par value of stock is placed at $100. It is proposed however, to sell the shares at $120 which will give the new bank a surplus of $20,000. Many have already signified their intention to subscribe for stock and no difficulty is anticipated in selling all of the stock at the above figure.

As stated above, the need of a banking institution has long been felt at Wollaston. It is said that the new bank will not interfere with the present institutions at Quincy. It is pointed out that Boston is now almost if not quite as convenient for Wollaston people as is Quincy. That most of the business houses now have much business with Boston and that their banking business is done through Boston institutions, as the business men being frequent visitors to Boston find it much more convenient than Quincy.

With a banking institution situated in Wollaston near the depot it is argued that it would be patronized by all of the Wollaston business men.

The savings bank department of the bank would also be well patronized by people who now make their deposits in savings banks of Boston or not at all. There are many of the latter class who it is said do not take advantage of any savings institution as Quincy and Boston are both too far away. But with a savings bank at their very door they would open accounts, or in other words make use of the savings bank to deposit their savings. All of the men interested in the new institution are well known in Wollaston and the new Trust Company is an assured thing.

Col. Goethals is being given some handsome medals, but it is a good guess that he does not wear them on the outside of his coat.

M. MIRKIN Upholsterer
Is the one who will give you the full satisfaction in work and prices of repairing furniture, mattresses and cushions. 1060 Hancock St., near the Quincy High School Tel. con.

At REMICK'S

THE "NO NAME" HAT

TO BE CORRECT WEAR A SOFT HAT.

We are showing as large and complete a variety in the popular Soft Hats for Young Men and Old Men as any store in Boston. All styles, all colors including the New Pearl, Blue and Brown effects.

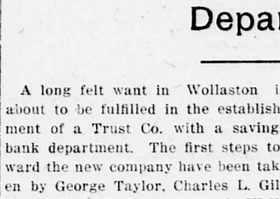
Our $3.00 Soft Hats "The No-Name" equal to any $3.50 hat made.

$2.00 and $1.50 Soft Hats, all styles, all colors

REMICK'S

Music Hall Block

THE "NO NAME" HAT



FURNITURE REPAIRED
Re-finished---Re-upholstered

Our shop has the men and materials to turn out first class work. And it does. We guarantee satisfaction. Prices are reasonable. Estimates Free.
'Phone 1200.

KINCAIDE FURNITURE STORE, 1495 HANCOCK ST. QUINCY

March 23-n-w-4-tf

AT QUINCY'S FINEST FOOD STORE

THE NEW ADAMS MARKET

A Doughnut Demonstration

You are invited to call and meet a young lady from the factory, and sample tne delicious doughnuts she makes from

PRISCILLA PREPARED DOUGHNUT FLOUR

—A perfectly pure, ready-to-use Doughnut Flour, which contains nothing but the usual ingredients of a high-grade doughnut.

There is NOTHING TO ADD BUT WATER.

A 25c Package makes 4 Dozen Doughnuts

SOLD ALSO AT OUR WATER ST. STORE

R. E. FOY & COMPANY

March 23-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1869.

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

The Country Clubs will soon open for the purpose of holding tango dances weekly through the summer.

As soon as the ball players are signed, the public can give some attention to the make-up of the Federal Reserve Board.

As the editor's supply of kindling wood is exhausted, a stock of spring poetry would now be available.

The farmers are urged to make more use of the parcel post. It is believed that some of the more enterprising ones will be disposed to order their vegetables shipped from the grocers' in that way.

While it may be all right for men to wear socks matching their neckties, it is hoped they don't feel it necessary to put ruffles on their undershirts.

The unwillingness of school authorities to abide by the vote of the children is causing school strikes in many places.

This country will never be wholly prosperous so long as so many people who should be operating wheelbarrows persist in running automobiles.

The cubist artists who paint pictures labeled "Moonlight in Venice," but which look like dry goods boxes, may be able to support their families if their wives take in washing.

A number of casualties are reported from the Mexican border, consisting of engagements of our soldiers to Texas girls.

SAVING THE OLD BALLADS.

Prof. C. A. Smith of the University of Virginia, a folk lore student, has been commissioned by the Federal Bureau of Education, to conduct a search for versions of old ballads. Will he find any of the young people singing them now?

What has become of the bunches of young folks who once sat on doorsteps and came home from picnic excursions, singing "Robin Adair" and "Swanee Ribber? Of course, as every one knows, they now go to the summer hotels, dancing the one-step or the Argentine tango, to the music of $5. graphophone records.

The life of the popular song is three months. Once in awhile some air with a haunting rhythm may survive a year. If you suggest to a company of people, that they have a "sing," some one drags out a torn and tattered bunch of popular songs, illustrated with fellows and girls in sentimental attitudes.

None of the company knows more than one or two of them. The others have at home similar collections, consisting of different compositions. The company finally settle on some one song, but no one knows the words. After wabbling off the pitch, trying to follow the pianist, they quit, and dance hesitation waltz. The pretty old art of informal choral singing is dead.

Certain fine old songs should be taught in the schools with "America," "Star Spangled Banner," and "Dixie." The school singing books should not bother with flippy little, "Lightly let the boat row." They should teach "The old home ain't what it used to be," "My old Kentucky home," and the like, with some of the even older ballads which Prof. Smith is sent out to collect and preserve.

These airs have survived across the years, because they have tender sentiment and romantic feeling.

BANQUET AND PRESENTATION

Fore River Bowling League Closes Season

The final event connected with the Fore River bowling league season was the banquet in the New American house Saturday night, which was attended by 55 members and invited guests. The affair was very successful, and aside from the banquet, the feature was the presentations.

Joseph Larkin, supervisor of apprentices at the shipyard and president of the league, was given a meerschaum pipe in recognition of his work in that office. The presentation was made by Lawrence Kateon.

President Larkin presented the team and individual prizes won in competition the past season. The league prize went to the Machine Gallery, a team that easily led three quarters of the season. The Yard five was second, the Electricians third, and the consolation prize was given to the Pipe Fitters.

The prize for the high team total went to the Machine Gallery, and the Hull Draftsmen took the high team single. Smith of the Yard with a mark of 97 was given the high individual average prize, and Bergfors of the Blacksmith was awarded the prize for high single, 140.

Lawrence Moran of the Machine Gallery took the prize for the high three string total with 328. The following men won the prizes for the high individual average on each team; Tirrell of the Machine Gallery, Roberts of the Yard, Santa Cruz of the Argentine Inspectors, Lawrence Kateon of the Pipe Fitters, Ash of the Ex-Apprentices, Westland of the Hull Draftsmen, O'Neil of the Government Draftsmen, Fitzgerald of the Electricians, Duff of the Blacksmiths, and Ryan of the Machine Floor

After the presentations there were speeches by the officers of the club, President Larkin, Secretary Walter Williamson and Treasurer Lawrence Kateon and members of the teams. It was the concensus of opinion that a reorganization of the league next fall would mean a season fully as successful as that of the past six months.

All of the speakers referred to the good fellowship that existed between the bowlers although the rivalry was keen and the men of the Argentine Inspectors team were all commended for their spirit of sport, fair play and active competition.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Richard M. Clark son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Clark of 33 Bedford street entertained his young friends Saturday evening at his home, it being the anniversary of his fourteenth birthday. Music and games were played and a good time enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served. The guests included Albert Beach, Karl Bonevia, Phillip Innis, Alex Murray, Gerhard Bonevia, Russell Williams, Frederick Jones, Mabelle Geddes, Minnie Laing, Eleanor Bates Edith Avery, Clara Warshaw, Doris Clark, Evelyn Clark, Dorothy Robertson, Beatrice Clark and Alice Charlesworth

MIDNIGHT RAIDS.

Two midnight raids were made by Inspector Goodhue Saturday night. The Inspector was accompanied by Officers Duane, Dineen and Johnson cers Duane, Dinneen and Johnson. The first place visited was the quarters of the Aero Physical Culture club, where a barrel partly full of beer was seized. Shortly after they raided the premises of Cenrico Rensetti at 3 Sargents lane where they seized 100 bottles of beer and a barrel of wine.

RUN-DOWN WOMEN

Find Health in a Simple Tonic.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well, strong and healthy as a woman should be? They may not be sick enough to lie in bed—but they are run-down, thin, nervous, tired and devitalized.

Women are so active nowadays, and so much is expected of them, that they constantly overdo and suffer from headache, backache, nervousness and kindred ills.

Such women need Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil which will create an appetite, tone up the digestive organs, make pure blood and create strength.

Mrs. Walter Price, Biloxi, Miss., says: "I was in a run-down condition for months, I had taken several medicines but they seemed to do no good. Finally Vinol was recommended, and from the first bottle I began to improve until I am strong and well as ever."

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

HAVE REQUISITION PAPERS

St. Louis Officers After Pardoned Prisoner In Rhode Island

Providence, March 23.—Detective Sergeant Joyce and Patrolman Delaney of St. Louis arrived here with a requisition for the extradition of the man recently pardoned from state prison under the name of Arthur G. Webster.

They accuse him of being the saloon robber known as William C. Thornton, who shot and killed Patrolman Hunt of St. Louis on Nov. 15, 1897.

Webster, as he was known here, was imprisoned fifteen years ago for participation in the Portsmouth carbarn robbery. Hardly had he been pardoned for good behavior when a request came from St. Louis to hold him.

Webster is to be brought to the attorney general's office today for release from further prosecution in this state. He will be rearrested for the St. Louis officers. Then his extradition will be demanded, but some decided opposition to the extradition may develop.

LABOR OF YEARS IS LOST

Scientific Specimens and Notes Wiped Out by Wellesley Fire

Wellesley, Mass., March 23.—Some lamentable features of the fire that consumed College hall became known only yesterday when it was announced that the fruits of years of special research work for the advancement of science, which had attracted international attention, had been utterly destroyed.

All notes, specimens and apparatus used in original investigation in the field of eugenics, zoology, histology and embryology were lost, and college officials say that it is improbable that some of the experiments can ever be repeated.

AGREE TO TERMS OF DISSOLUTION

Government and New Haven Road Apparently Satisfied

Washington, March 23.—Although the administration is congratulating itself upon the terms obtained whereby the New Haven railroad monopoly is to be broken by July 1, 1919, the railroad officials are also congratulating themselves upon having obtained a longer period for the dissolution than was at first intended.

It was the understanding that the New Haven must sell its Boston and Maine holdings by Jan. 1, 1917, but as it will be necessary to get an act of the Massachusetts legislature to authorize such a sale the term for dissolution was increased.

Under the terms of the agreement the Boston and Maine's affairs are to be conducted by Marcus P. Knowlton, James L. Doherty, James L. Richards, Charles P. Hall and Frank P. Carpenter.

GETTING FARM LISTS

Burleson Plans the Shipment of Produce by Parcel Post

Washington, March 23.—Preliminary steps were taken by the postoffice department to perfect its plan for reducing the cost of living by having the parcel post carry the products of the farm directly to the door of the consumer.

Ten citizens were selected to begin the work of establishing direct connections between producer and consumer, Postmaster General Burleson having already issued an order permitting the use of crates and boxes for butter, eggs, poultry, vegetables and fruit shipped by parcel post.

Orders went to the postmasters at Boston, Atlanta, St. Louis, San Francisco, Baltimore, Detroit, La Crosse, Wis.; Lynn, Mass.; Rock Island, Ills., and Washington, directing them "to receive the names of persons who are willing to supply farm products in retail quantities by parcel post."

NEW HANDS AT HELM

Matthew Hale Relinquishes Control of the Boston Journal

Boston, March 23.—The Boston Journal today went under the management of Walton A. Green, Frederick W. Enright and Hugh Cabot. It will be conducted, under this control, as a non-partisan newspaper, Matthew Hale, the former publisher, having relinquished his leadership.

Hale declared he had taken this course in order to give his time to the development of the Progressive party.

Detectives Run Across Castro

Port of Spain, Trinidad, March 23.—General Castro, formerly dictator of Venezuela, whose whereabouts had been unknown for several months, was discovered here when a party of detectives raided a hotel and found there 40,000 rounds of ammunition and a few revolvers.

Longworth Out For Congress

Cincinnati, March 23.—Nicolas Longworth announced himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress. Longworth was defeated for re-election in 1913 by Stanley Bowdle, Democrat.

Anti-Red Light Bill Passes

Albany, March 23.—The senate passed the anti-red light injunction bill. The act authorizes any citizen to secure an injunction against any suspected immoral resort.

THE REASONS WHY

The publishers of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER were asked to present to the Retail Merchants' Committee, their reasons "Why Quincy Merchants should Advertise in the Quincy Daily Ledger and the Quincy Patriot." The reasons are summed up in brief as follows:

1. Because such advertising will bring results and pay a large dividend to all investors.

2. Because rate is lower than any other Quincy paper when number of readers is the basis.

3. Because both the Ledger and Patriot are clean, reliable papers, and the publishers always honorable in their dealings.

4. Because said papers have for years been working for the best interests of Quincy, its taxpayers, and its business men.

5. Because good newspapers are a great benefit to any city or town and should be encouraged.

6. Because it has been an up-hill fight to establish a daily newspaper in a city like Quincy, so near Boston. Somerville, newton and Brookline have no daily newspapers, and the only daily in Cambridge is an experiment.

7. Because we are a local industry and entitled to some consideration. Pay roll of $15,0000 annually, giving steady employment to 25 or more, and pay regularly in full every week.

8. Because our papers are continually doing considerable free work for your Board of Trade, your church, your Y. M. C. A., your Hospital, your lodge, your club, your family.

9. Because we avoid blackmailing, slander, libel and gossip, and exert great care in reporting and editing.

10. Because cities as a whole are judged by their newspapers and the merchants who advertise.

11. Because merchants who advertise stand better with the wholesaler.

12. Because if our newspapers are encouraged we can do better and better work for the city.

13. Because the Ledger and Patriot are both EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD PAPERS, and so recognized by the newspaper publishers throughout New England. Newsy and enterprising.

14. Because the Daily Ledger has the circulation that ensures the best returns to advertisers.

10,000 to 15,000 Readers Daily

Quincy, Mass., March 16, 1914.

To the Merchants of Quincy and others:

This is to certify that over 2,000 copies of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER have been printed and circulated every issue since January 1, 1914; and averaged much higher, as many days 2,500 to 3,500 copies have been printed and circulated. This gives the Quincy Daily Ledger from 10,000 to 15,000 READERS EVERY DAY.

(Signed) FRANK F. PRESCOTT,
Managing Editor.

Then personally appeared before me this Sixteenth day of March, 1914, the said Frank F. Prescott, managing editor of the Quincy Daily Ledger, and made oath that the statements above are true.

(Notary) CLARENCE BURGIN,
(Seal) Notary Public.

A CHALLENGE

The publishers of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER hereby challenge any other Quincy publication daily or weekly to take oath to the number of copies they print and circulate each and every issue; and call their attention to the law relative to fraudulent advertising when they make claims they cannot verify.

We invite the merchants to send a representative to the Ledger Office each afternoon to see the edition run off; to see how it is circulated and verify our statements, and we challenge other newspapers to do the same. We also ask the merchants to visit the newstands in Quincy and Boston, and see if the Ledger does not sell ten to one of any Quincy newspaper.

George W. Prescott Publishing Co.
Quincy, March 16, 1914.

BY COMPARISON

If flyers distributed from house to house average one reader each, they do exceedingly well; but allowing this high average, 10,000 flyers would have LESS READERS than any one issue of the Quincy Daily Ledger. Have you thought of it in this light?

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

DO YOUR BANKING IN QUINCY

Stop a minute and think. Here is a home bank, a strong local institution. It is near the railroad station, and in the centre of city. It opens earlier and stays open later than the Boston banks. Its safety boxes are rented cheaper. You can know its officers personally. It offers you every privilege that you can get in any bank. Come in and get some facts about this.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

Your Best Cow

will beat her own record and all your herd will show improvement if you use

Pratts Animal Regulator

It aids digestion; increases the flow of milk; reduces the cost of keep, and makes a big difference in net profits. 25c. pkg. to 25 lb. pail at $3.00.

Like all our remedies Pratts Animal Regulator is guaranteed or money back.

522 Pratts Valuable Stock Book Free.

A. J. Richards & Son, C. W. & G. W. Nightingale Nathan Ames, E. H. Doble & Co., and Grain Dealers and General Stores everywhere. 4199

QUINCY REAL ESTATE SALES.

Charles F. Adams, 2d et al supervisors to James Joss, Garfield street.

Axel G. Ahlstrom to Augusta S. Ahlstrom, Butler road.

Walter T. Babcock et al supervisors to James Joss, Garfield street.

Elizabeth J. Buckley to Beatrice Zottoli, Chestnut street, Myrtle street.

Charles H. Brown ex to Lois M. Clapp, Channing street.

Richard D. Chase to Frederick J. Spencer, River street, Farnum street.

Louis S. Cleaves to August H. Morton et al, Phillips street.

Charlotte L. Crane to Axel G. Ahlstrom, Butler road.

Mary Joss adm. to James Joss, Garfield street.

Margaret M. Kelly to Mary A. Sanborn, Babcock street.

John A. Lawrence to Charles S. Dingwell, Tyler street.

Selina E. McKeen to Wilton A. Dunham, Houghs Neck.

Mary E. Nightingale et al to John Evans, Copeland street.

James M. Nowland to Annie M. Angell, Valley street.

Martha J. Peterson to Russell Goldsmith, Sea street.

Curtis W. Pierce to Eben W. Sheppard, Putnam street.

John E. Quin to Andrew S. Odom, Hanna and Cherry streets, Curtis and Newcomb avenues.

Eben W. Sheppard to Curtis W. Pierce, Greenleaf street.

Charles R. Sherman to Henry F. Marden et al, Phillip street.

Frederick J. Spencer to Joseph L. Kellell, Winter street.

Minnie K. Wiswall to Christine E. Bettoney, Morse street, Strand.

Fred W. Wood to Catherine L. Boyden et al, Phillips street.

Fred W. Wood et al trs to Ida C. Anderson, Billings road, Marshall street.

Beatrice Zottoli to William L. Buckley, Chestnut street, Myrtle street.

Karl E. Carlson et ux to Pauline Cushman, Eaton street, Beale street.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

BRAINTREE REAL ESTATE SALES.

A. Barker Austin to Emma C. Smith Commercial street.

Josephine P. Gaudreau to George E. St. Lawrence, Fountain street, Columbus avenue.

Joseph J. Kingsbury to William J. Kingsbury, River street.

Alice K. Lakin to Nathan N. Withington, Bellevue avenue and Phillips street.

Alice K. Lakin to Frank Renaldi, Newport avenue.

George T. Miller et al to Eliza C. Miller, Commercial street.

Henry B. Whitman to Mellie M. Whitman, Canal street.

FREE HALF DOZEN BEAUTIFUL SPOONS FREE

To acquaint you with the very latest, daintiest, most deliciously flavored surprising attraction in confection "LA RITA" Chocolates, we will give absolutely free six beautiful "Cuban Pattern" Extra Crown Brand silver teaspoons. A fortunate purchase of this celebrated silverware and our certainty that you'll buy our LA RITA Chocolates after one taste, prompts us to make this generous offer. La RITA Chocolates are a dollar a pound everywhere.

Upon receipt of $1.00 and the names of five lovers of good candy in your locality we will send you postpaid a full size box of LA RITA Chocolates with the six teaspoons. There is no other way you can spend a dollar and get such delicious surprising flavors and absolute purity.

PURITY CANDY COMPANY.
P. O. Box 91 Middletown, Ohio

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

rplus $200,000
KING
e is a home
t is near the tre of city.
er than the are rented ers person-
e that you nd get some
T Co.
anteed or money back.
Nathan Ames, E. H. Doble everywhere. 4199

E REAL ESTATE SALES.

Austin to Emma C. Smith street.
P. Gaudreau to George E. e, Fountain street, Colum-
Kingsbury to William J.
River street.
Lakin to Nathan N. With-levue avenue and Phillips
Lakin to Frank Renaldi, venue.
Miller et al to Eliza C. mmercial street.
Whitman to Mellie M.
anal street.

NALF DOZEN FREE
AUTIFUL SPOONS
ut you with the very lat, most delicioously flaving attraction in confec-ITA" Chocolates, we will oy free six beautiful "Cu-
Extra Crown Brand sil-
s. A fortunate purchase brated silverware and our at you'll buy our LA RITA after one taste, prompts us this generous offer. La blates are a dollar a pound ipt of $1.00 and the names rs of good candy in your will send you postpaid a
of LA RITA Chocolates teaspoons. There is no ou can spend a dollar and licious surprising flavors purity.
CANDY COMPANY,
Middletown, Ohio

han's Garage
d Taxi Service
Storage and Supplies
n Day and Night.
d Touring Cars for all
corner Washington and
eets.
ENNIMAN, Prop.
lephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

RAGE
QUINCY
CASE CARS on hand ord Car, $550 for
0 for Town Car
Quincy 435
C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

Among Our Churches

(Continued from Page One)

effort to work together for the realization of the Kingdom of God on Earth.

The pastor Rev. B. A. Willmott, gave an address Sunday evening, especially to young people, on "Life problems—making a home." Good advice was given.

Wednesday afternoon at 3 the pastor will lecture at the home of Mrs. M. T. Perry, 39 Greenleaf street, on "The greatest message of Jesus."

The subject at the midweek meeting will be "The call to repent."

FIRST PARISH CHURCH.

A most cordial reception was given Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of Bethany Congregational church at the First Parish church Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Willmott took for his subject "The new commandment" his text being found in the Gospel according to St. John, 13th chapter, the 34th and 35th verses: "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another." His scripture lesson was also taken from the same chapter

The theme of his discourse was the same as at most of the churches in which there was an exchange of pastors on Sunday. He spoke earnestly on brotherly love, and the loving of thy neighbor as thyself.

At the close of his most interesting address most of those attending the service came forward to greet the speaker. The organ postlude was continued throughout the impromptu reception.

ST. MARYS CHURCH.

Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, pastor, lectured at a special service in St. Mary's church Sunday evening on "Church extension in Canada, United States and Australia by the Irish exiles." The lecture closed a series of three dealing with the greatness of Ireland and the influence of its people on the world. The service closed with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The attendance was very large.

Father McCoy said they were prepared for their hardships through continuous sufferings for the faith during the Danish invasion in 795 when the Scandinavian hordes devastated Ireland under Cromwell and his penal laws and by expulsions and exilement. They passed through all that when they could have taken an easier course and denounced th[illegible]ch, and gained a civil freedom but they chose to remain loyal to their teachings and sought refuge in foreign lands where their influence has been wide and the tolerance of their religious beliefs was not prohibited. Father McCoy described the deep influence of these people and its result on the glory of these countries. He urged all to continue as Catholics so that the great glory, that of salvation, would be the reward of the good and just.

HALL PLACE M. E.

Rev Mr. Lang of the Congregational church, Quincy Point, preached a good sermon at the Hall Place M. E. church Sunday morning in exchange with the Pastor, Rev. T. C. Martin.

A good number were present at the Sunday School in spite of the bad weather. Rev. Mr. Lang addressed the Sunday school at the close of the lesson hour.

Harold Norris led the Epworth League devotional service on the subject "A prisoner of hope." The story of Yum Chi Ho.

Monday evening the regular business meeting of the Epworth League will be held in the vestry and all members are asked to be present and to come dressed to represent some fairly well known book.

Thursday evening the last number in the course of lectures will be given. This is the "old folks concert" given by home talent.

Friday afternoon, at 4 P. M. Mrs. McNeil will hold the Junior League. Friday evening Prayer meeting will be held in the vestry at 7.30.

CALVARY BAPTIST.

One of the largest congregations that has ever graced the Calvary Baptist church gathered Sunday morning to hear Rev. D. B. McLeod, who exchanged pulpits with Rev. C. C. Tilly and was amply rewarded for their effort. The text was Jeremiah 5:1 "Run ye to and fro and bring me one righteous man and I will save your city." He handled his subject masterfully. He showed what a great asset one good christian man was to a community, a city, a state and a nation. He stood as a keystone to an arch between God and man. The preacher said "Thank God that we have a christian man as President. That he stands between God and the element that would plunge this country into a bloody and useless war.

Bible study will be held at the home of Mrs. Hoffman, 24 Newcomb place, Tuesday evening, at 7.30.

The ladies sewing circle will be entertained by Mrs. Lindsey Smith on Wednesday.

Regular prayer meeting in the church on Thursday evening.

Lindsey Smith will entertain the Davis class at his home on Friday evening April 3. He wants all to come and bring their sweethearts or some young lady, for a good time is assured.

PARK AND DOWNS CHURCH.

Rev. Carl G. Horst of the Unitarian church occupied the pulpit at this church Sunday morning and preached to a good sized audience. He took his text from James 4:17, "Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." The speaker drew some striking illustrations from his text showing as one of his fine points, that virtue is a victory over temptation and by many similar illustrations thus given, his sermon proved one of much interest to his hearers.

At the evening service the pastor, Rev. William B. Ayers held the attention of a large and appreciative audience who listened to an unusually strong and practical lesson drawn from the "Siegel failure"—text, Luke 6:47, 49. The house built without foundation. The subject was the business of living. "The community of interest among men is largely a business interest. We must all work if we would live. The most important part of our life is the working part.

A religion of value is one that shows us how to live well in this interest Work and character act and react upon each other." After showing how religion ought to affect the business of life the speaker illustrated some strong points of his message by referring to the condition of the Seigel enterprises. The lesson he drew was that many a man is trying to construct a successful life without sufficient moral or spiritual capital Men are trying to be leaders and capitalists in the business of living without laying the foundation necessary in character.

Then men there are who are living on borrowed interest and borrowed privileges; men who enjoy all the privileges of a Christian civilization without any acknowledgment of its sources; without any return to its creator. Men whose family interests and social interests are made safe and hallowed by the church, but who deny to the church any part of themselves, their time or means; men who live under the protection and privileges of the state, but take no interest in general law making and take not the trouble to vote.

The enthusiasm and earnestness of the speaker impressed others with a sense of his knowledge and understanding, and his ability to master any subject.

It is gratifying to note the marked growth of this church, the added strength and power of the sermons, the wonderful lessons taught of definite, practical value.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

In accordance with the general pulpit exchange throughout Quincy Sunday, Rev. T. W. Davison of the Atlantic Memorial Congregational church had charge of the Sunday morning service at the Wollaston Baptist. His text was the fourth verse of the second chapter of the first epistle of Timothy, "Who will have all men to be saved and to come unto the knowledge of the truth." The main thought throughout the sermon was that we ore saved to save others, and that our religion must not be confined to four walls—we must live it. The chorus choir sang "Onward Christian Soldiers," soloist, Charles T. Kempton.

At the Sunday School session the two men's classes were addressed by Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, National secretary of Y. M. C. A. There was splendid attendance in all departments.

The Junior C. E. met as usual at 3.30 with Mrs. Walther as leader. Elford L. Durgan, superintendent of the Sunday School spoke at the Senior Young People's Society at 6.00, on the subject "Our Society a Training School." There was special music by the society quartet.

Dr. Barbour spoke again at the Sunday evening service, subject, "Life eternal." There was an unusually fine musical program.

Monday evening at 7.45, a cottage prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Forsyth, 25 Rawson road, Norfolk Downs.

Tuesday evening, at 7.30, a public meeting of the Junior Endeavor Society of the church will be held in the chapel. A stereopticon lecture on "The Boys and Girls of India," will be given by the pastor. Parents and friends of the Juniors are invited.

Wednesday evening, at 6.30, the annual meeting and supper of the Walther class will be held in the chapel.

Thursday evening at 7.45, a public prayer meeting of the Woman's Home Mission society will be held in the chapel, in connection with the regular meeting for praise, prayer and testimony. Mrs. E. R. Christopher, secretary for Eastern Massachusetts will speak on "Women's Work for Home Missions."

Thursday evening, at 8.45, the standing committee of the church will meet in the Albee class room. Those who desire to be baptized Easter Sunday should be present.

Friday evening at 7.45, a praise and preaching service will be held in Community hall, Montclair.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

All the services Sunday were helpful and inspiring. The kindergarten class, which meets during the morning service, so that the parents can come and return with their young children, has now a membership of over forty.

Rev. George M. Bailey of the Methodist church occupied the pulpit in the morning and those who were privileged to hear him will not soon forget his helpful message. The Minister's preparatory class met after the morning service as usual.

At the special Lenten service at 7.30 the Rev. James DeNormandie, D. D., of the First church in Roxbury was the visiting preacher.

Rev. Carl G. Horst attended today a complimentary luncheon at the Twentieth Century Club, tendered by the Ministerial Union to Prof. Crawford H. Toy, professor emeritus of Hiebrew and other Oriental languages in the Harvard Divinity school. This luncheon was in honor of Prof. Toy's birthday and in recognition of the recent publication of his book "An introduction to the history of religions." Among the speakers were Dean Fenn, Dr. Wm. H. Lyon, Rev. Roger Forbes, Prof. Ephraim Emerton and others.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid Alliance will be held in the vestry Wednesday. Luncheon at 1 o'clock. The business meeting will be at 2 o'clock, followed by "Reminiscences of Edward Everett Hale," D. D., given by his friend and neighbor, the Rev. James DeNormandie, D. D. The public is cordially invited.

The members and friends of the church are invited to the annual fair of the Ladies' Alliance of the Church of the Unity, Neponset, to be held in Walnut hall, Walnut street, Friday, March 27, afternoon and evening.

A neighborhood meeting of Young People's Religious Unions will be held in our church next Sunday evening at seven o'clock. Rev. Benjamin R. Bulkeley of Beverly will give the address. The public is cordially invited.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

Rev. James A. Matheson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, preached Sunday morning in exchange with Dr. Sneath, taking as his text Daniel 12:3. "He said in these days, when the very air is charged with thoughts of all kinds, and every one is extremely busy, it is the wise man who hears only the best, says only what he would have engraved on his own heart, and does only the things he wishes to least. Just as God has set the sun and stars in the firmanent for light; so has he set the Christians of all ages for lights in the work-a-day firmanent. Without the first we should have physical darkness, without the second spiritual darkness.

Tuesday will be Quincy evening at the Wollaston Congregational Men's club. Supper at 6.30; afterwards short talks by the Hon. John L. Miller, Mayor; Joseph L. Whiton, president of the City Council, and other city officials.

Wednesday, all day meeting in the vestry. Plenty of work for the ladies. Luncheon twenty-five cents.

Friday, Dr. Sneath will conduct the round table at 7 P. M.; topic: "The church." Prayer service at 7.45; topic: "The trial and judgment."

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

The Rev. Wm. B. Ayres of the Park and Downs Congregational chutch preached on Sunday morning on the subject "Church Unity," which was presented in an able and forceful manner. Mr. Ayres showed the necessity of the church in the community and that philanthropic organizations and similar societies would never fulfill the requirements of the people as a substitute for the church.

The pastor Rev. G. M. Bailey preached at the evening service from the theme "A famous quartet." The ant representing industry, the coney representing safety; the locust, cooperation; and the spider, home building. The Orpheus male quartet was present and sang. Two of our Quincy young men Messrs. F. E. Wharton and E. M. Clark are members of this quartet. Their singing is pleasing and was much enjoyed.

A special meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society is to be held at the church on Tuesday, March 24, at 2.30 P. M. Mrs. George F. Washburn, president of the Boston District W. F. M. S., is to speak. Special music, refreshments, and a fine social opportunity are also on the program for the meeting. All the ladies of the church are most cordially invited.

KING'S CHAPEL BOSTON.

A Quincy boy, the Rev. William B. Sullivan of New York, was the preacher who held spell-bound an audience of cultured Bostonians and others in King's Chapel Sunday evening. Several Quincy people were present. The historic edifice was crowded and many had to be turned away because of lack of room.

Mr. Sullivan's subject was "The authority of a free faith" and he preached a remarkable sermon. It was profound; it was eloquent, and the spirit of reverence was its dominant characteristic. It was not a doctrinal or controversial discussion, although the preacher was until quite recently a Catholic priest, but a plea for independence of thought in religious inquiry, a "passion for veracity" to use one of his expressions. In fact one couldn't tell from his sermon whether he was a Unitarian or a Trinitarian. He made no reference to his change of faith.

The success of the Rev. Mr. Sullivan is another demonstration of the fact that in the U. S. A. the door of opportunity is open wide. Here is a man who was unused in early life to any of the advantages that wealth and social station afford. He was endowed with nothing but brains and ambition. But after all these are the greatest assets one can have. He struggled to get a good education and he got it. He developed his talents and today, although yet a young man, the Arlington street church or King's Chapel cannot hold the people of culture, wealth and social standing who want to hear him, whenever he comes to Boston. Ability receives as much homage today as ever it did, although there are those who seem to think that the dollar is the only thing that wins recognition.

Although the Rev. Mr. Sullivan's time is well taken up, his services being in great demand, he may be heard at an early date in one of the churches of his native city.

CATHOLIC FEDERATION.

The annual convention of the Federation of Catholic Societies was held in the parish school hall of the Cathedral parish on Sunday afternoon with a record attendance. Delegations from the Catholic societies of this city were present. Henry V. Cunningham presided and Cardinal O'Connell was the guest of honor. He spoke on the aims and objects of the federation, besides dwelling reminiscently on his early days in the archdiocese when he first started the movement. The officers elected were: Henry V. Cunningham, president; Jeremiah E. Burke of Dorchester, James J. Lemmon of Lynn Timothy W. Haley of Cambridge, M. F. Powers of Stoughton and F. J. McSherry of Brockton, vice presidents; Charles T. Daly of West Medford, secretary; Edwin Mulready of Rockland, treasurer.

Pratt's Vienna Bread
Give your Children all the bread they want, but see that it 's Pratt's Bread
LEADING GROCERS

HERBERT A. FAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy.
Feb. 27-tf

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES
29 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar,
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

106 FEDERALS SLAIN IN FIGHT

Report of Rebel Victory Is Sent by Villa Himself

BATTLE LASTS BUT AN HOUR

March Is Continued to Torreon, There Being No Delay After Sharp Conflict at Bermejillo—Rojas Said to Have Been Decided Upon as Successor to Huerta

Juarez, Mex., March 23.—With the first victory near Torreon won by the rebels, the federals being dislodged from the outposts at Bermejillo with a loss of 106 killed, General Villa's army is cotinuing the advance to the south.

The constitutionalist forces are in high spirits, and are fully confident they will achieve the capture of Torreon. The news of the federals' defeat was contained in a dispatch from Villa himself, and is the only dispatch which has come here from the south, prohibition having been placed on the transmission of news.

The dispatch was sent to General Chao, military governor of the state of Chihuahua.

Villa reported that the advance guard, under command of General Angeles, left Yermo at an early hour in the morning, making the forty-three mile journey to Bermejillo by train. When three miles from Bermejillo the federals opened fire, upon which the constitutionalists, forming into three divisions, advanced on the village on three sides. Sharp fighting followed, but in an hour the federals retreated south and Angeles' army entered Bermejillo.

The bodies of 106 federals were found in the streets and three wounded men were taken prisoners. Angeles lost one officer and two soldiers. Villa concluded his dispatch by saying the encounter would not delay his advance one minute and that his army is moving again to the south.

All accounts agree so far in praising the precision and thoroughness with which the rebel army is carrying out its movements and remark on the skill with which Villa directs them.

ROJAS NEXT PRESIDENT?

Report That He Will Be Named as Provisional President of Mexico

Washington, March 23.—The state department unofficially confirmed the statement that Senor Rojas will be the next president of Mexico.

Rojas, who is now minister of foreign affairs, will rule until an election is held, it is intimated.

This announcement followed the arrival of a complete report of the three-hour conference held between Confidential Agent Lind and the Mexican cabinet officer.

Rojas presented to Lind his tentative proposals for a new government in Mexico which will enable the United States and the southern republic to re-establish diplomatic relations. One of the strongest claims set forth by Rojas is that he had never been actively allied with any of the political factions until after the establishment of the Huerta regime.

The report of the Rojas-Lind conference is believed to contain the expression by Lind that Rojas is one of the few available men for the Mexican provisional presidency.

Rojas, it is declared, has promised Lind and this government that if he becomes ruler of the country he will see that Huerta is sent out ahead of a federal detachment to wipe out the constitutional revolution.

STILL AFTER WRIGHT

Fresh Attempt to Impeach Judge of District of Columbia Court

Washington, March 23.—A resolution to impeach Justice Wright of the supreme court of the District of Columbia was introduced in the house by Representative Park of Georgia, and referred to the judiciary committee to decide what action shall be taken.

The committee recently dismissed as uncorroborated charges similar to those contained in the Park resolution, which allege the justice was guilty of improprieties on the bench and in private life.

PASTOR UNFROCKED

He Is Accused of Lying to Methodist Investigating Committee

Newark, N. J., March 23.—Rev. Willis S. MacRorie, who was charged by a select committee with immoral conduct, was unfrocked by the ecclesiastical court of the Methodist Episcopal church conference here.

The specific accusation on which the court ruled was untruthfulness in connection with statements made to the investigating committee which drew the complaint.

Portsmouth Yard Gets New Contract

Portsmouth, N. H., March 23.—The navy yard here received a new contract, awarded by the navy department for the construction of a tew steam lighter to cost $50,580.

Abdul Hamid Near Death

Constantinople, March 23.—Abdul Hamid, who was deposed as sultan in 1909, is critically ill and it is believed his death is a matter of only a short time.

A Salesman
mailed an important order to his house. The letter was delayed. The goods arrived 48 hours too late. A Western Union Day or Night Letter would have saved this salesman a customer. The cost would have been trifling.
THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH CO.
Telephone or call at any office for rates

WISE TELELPHONE COMMENTS.

Here are some of the conclusions drawn by President Vail in the annual report of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.: "The American public has been educated to depend on the most efficient, most extended telephone service in the world. The relative number of people reached is the largest and the average cost to each is the lowest of any important system in the world. The development of telephone uses and the decrease of cost through continued improvement in equipment and methods of operation and service, have opened up the potential market for telephones in the United States as it has been in no other country—65 per cent. of the world's telephones are in the United States."

"Referring to government ownership, he says: "All government operated telephones and telegraphs in the world have two sources of revenue—the payment by those who use and the payment of the deficit of operation out of general revenue. The price of a thing to the user is what it costs him. Part payment as a user and part payment as a taxpayer is fallacious and absurd and the direct cause of waste and extravagence in operation."—Banker & Tradesman.

ADVERTISING LAW.

As it is undoubtedly of interest to all advertisers to known what the Massachusetts advertising law is, we give it below. This will probably be amended this year, to make it even stronger and more effective.

Section 1. If any person, firm corporation or association, or any employee thereof, in a newspaper, circular, form letter or other publication published, distributed or circulated in this Commonwealth or on any billboard, sign, card, label or other advertising medium displayed on, in or near a street, electric car, show case, store or other place in this Commonwealth, knowingly makes or disseminates or causes to be made or disseminated any statement or assertion of fact concerning the quantity, the quality, the method of production or manufacture, the cost of production, the cost to the advertiser, the present or former price, or the reason for the price of the merchandise of such person, firm, corporation, or association, or concerning the manner or source of purchase of such merchandise, or the possession of rewards, prizes or distinctions conferred on account of such merchandise, which statement or assertion has the appearance of an offer advantageous to the purchaser and is untrue or calculated to mislead, the person or corporation or the member or members of a firm or association, also the employee making or disseminating such statement or assertion, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten or more than five hundred dollars for each offense.

POPULAR WITH YACHTSMEN.

The funeral services for Associate Justice Louis M. Clark of the Land court were held on Sunday in the Old South church, Boston, Rev. Dr. George A. Gordon and Rev. John W. Suter, two of his classmates in Harvard officiated and George A. Burdett, another classmate, was organist. The honorary bearers represented his extensive business, legal and yachting connections. Among the latter present were Ex-Commodore Herbert W. Robbins and Ira W. Whittemore of the Quincy Yacht club and Dr. F. E. Dawes of the Wollaston Yacht Club.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—baked by experts in a light, well-ventilated building. All grocers.

When Paint Scales--Bills!
The first paint scale is a danger signal. Moisture seeps through, the wood swells, cracks, decays. The house goes down in value.
Beyer Bauman White Lead
(Dutch Boy Painter Trade Mark)
and pure linseed oil paint doesn't scale. It forms an elastic, won't-crack film that keeps values up and cuts out repairs.
It can be tinted the color you wish for your house. Its beauty lasts for years.
We carry Dutch Boy White Lead and Linseed Oil as well as Tinting Colors and other paint and painting requisites. See us for quality.
WILLIAM WESTLAND
QUINCY, MASS.

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences. Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.
Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.
Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.
18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity.
Fair Tuesday and Wednesday and probably warmer.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.42
Sun sets	6.01
Length of day	12.19
Moon sets	4.54
High water, A. M.	10.00
High water, P. M.	10.15
Days increase	3 hours, 13 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	43 degrees
Mar. 21 1913,	55 degrees
Mar. 21, 1912,	38 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

CUP WON BY THOMAS DJERF

At All-Round Senior Meet of The Y. M. C. A.

After what was the hottest contest ever held in the Y. M. C. A. gym, Thomas Djerf was successful in winning the first prize in the all-around senior athletic meet on Saturday night. Djerf just barely nosed out Henry Trask for first honors, having a margin of only 1 1-2 points.

Although the most exciting of the three meets thus far held for the large silver cup, the records were all way below those made in other meets, last year, Harry Glover taking first place with 488 points as his mark.

Trask and Djerf were never very far apart in the entire contest, first Djerf being in the lead and then Trask going to the front. When the last event, the 1000 yard run was called, Djerf had a lead of only 11 points over Trask. Kingsbury was out for a new record for this event and Trask very promptly caught on after Fred as he figured if a new record was to be made it would benefit him to be close up at the finish.

Kingsbury was not equal to the task however, and his time was 2 minutes 49 2-5 seconds. Trask was a yard or two behind the winner while Djerf trailed along about 9 yards to the rear. When the final score was figured it was found that Trask had made up all but 1 1-2 of his 11 points. The total score for points was Djerf 407 and Trask 405 1-2.

Scores made by competitors. Djerf 407; Trask 405; White 343; Brown 282; Kingsbury 278; Wood 229; Sullivan 183; Connor 121.

The following officials had charge of the events; Timers, Frank Avery and John Wilson; judges Lee Brooks, Edward Jenkins, Russ Bates, H. B. French, Harry Glover, Fred Ward and Lester Sprague.

(ADVERTISE.)

Only One "BROMO QUININE"

Whenever you feel a cold coming on, think of the full name, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for the signature of E. W. GROVE on box. 25c.

CHICHESTER S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-ches-ter S Diamond Brand Pills in red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

SPORT NEWS

The Michaels five, leaders of the Clan MacGregor league roll the McKenzies Tuesday night. This team caused the O'Neils to drop into second place through a 3 to 1 defeat last week. They claim they are stronger than ever and have issued a warning to the leaders. The other matches will be: O'Neils vs McLeans, Mavers vs Thomsons.

The carriers and clerks of the Quincy Post Office will roll at the City Square alleys Tuesday night.

Michael Kiley and Napoleon Grignon meet in their checker series at Ave Maria council tonight. The standing is 4 wins for Grignon, 3 for Kiley and 7 draws. Kiley's win of two games Thursday night has encouraged his backers.

The popularity of bowling is demonstrated every Friday afternoon when 15 Wollaston women roll at the Coliseum alleys. The majority are good bowlers and their scores compare favorably with most of the men's strings, and are in many instances better ones.

The Kincaide block is rapidly nearing completion and work installing the bowling alleys wil be soon underway. They will be conducted by George A. Wardwell manager of the Kincaide theatre. Special arrangements will be made for women bowlers.

George Barry, son of Michael Barry of the Central fire station, since signing with the Lowell New England league team as a catcher, has received several overtures from Worcester and Brockton. George leaves for his new berth on Wednesday and takes with him the best wishes of all the people of the city.

Wes Ganzel may be unable to get into the game until late this summer because he has not fully recovered from the effects of a fractured arm. When he is ready the first sack of the team at New Newburg, N. Y., is his for the asking. Link Elcock is preparing to rejoin that team.

Three matches are scheduled in the West Quincy league this week. St. Mary's and Div. 22 roll Tuesday night, Foresters and Copelands on Thursday night and Franco Americans and Ave Maria council on Friday night, No league of the city to date has come anywhere near touching the single team record of 557 made by St. Mary's early in the schedule. A marked improvement in the bowling of some members is noticeable and it is expected that this week's matches will teem with good scores and exictement.

The re-organization of a soccer team at the Fore River shipyard failed to materialize and consequently no application for memership was presented to the executive committee of the Northern Massachussetts and New Hampshire Football Association on Sunday. New clubs were admitted and all are entered for the State Cup competition. The new members are Clan Murray of Springfield, Farr Alpaca of Holyoke, Clan Scott of Worcester and Whitinsville. The real contest at Springfield between the St. George and Clan Murray will be a real international one, between Scots men and English men. Permission was granted for the Williamson cup competition, and the Moses Marshall cup competition.

Newton and Quincy second teams will play off the tie for the championship of second teams at Newton on Wednesday night. Each team has won 7 and lost 1 game.

The special committee appointed by the Interclub Yacht Racing Association to amend the bylaws will report on April 3 at a special meeting. The revision was necessary because of the adoption of the new classes and the new racing regulations of classes A and B.

The champion 22-footer, Marie L., is being fitted out for another season by Albert W. Finlay. The yacht will spread nearly 300 square feet less of sail than last year for under the new rules the racer is limited to the original sail area of 900 square feet.

He Knew What He Meant.

We were visiting a cousin whose small boy was very fond of the desserts served. After finishing his dinner he waited for a time and then said: "Mamma, is there any last thing?"—Chicago Tribune.

PRATT'S BREAD is always in favor because decilcious in flavor. Your grocer.

FIRE STARTED AROUND BED

Diplomat Narrowly Escapes Being Killed by Negro Valet

Boston, March 23.—Nearly losing his own life in an attempt to rescue his insane negro valet who tried to murder him in his sleep, F. Munroe Endicott, first secretary to the Norwegian legation, fought his way three times to the top of the burning home at 35 Beacon street before he finally collapsed, so badly burned that he had to be removed to a hospital, where he will probably be confined for three weeks.

The valet, a huge West Indian named Daniel Martin, had suddenly gone insane and had started fires on the floor around the bed of the sleeping diplomat, piling furniture, waste baskets and crumpled papers into blazing funeral pyres.

He was overpowered by Patrolman Morrissey and Edward McDonough of the fire department after they had located the crazed valet crouching in a smoke-filled corridor chanting weird incantations and calling for death to visit him and his master.

On the floor below the fire the two sisters of the diplomat were both awakened from their sleep at 3 o'clock in the morning by the smoke.

The fire damaged the building to the extent of $1000, although the loss to the furnishings will be much in excess of this figure.

SHOE STRIKE AVERTED

Operatives Find Increased Wages Impossible at Present

Beverly, Mass., March 23.—The threatened strike of 700 lasters and stockfitters of Beverly and Salem shoe factories was averted when the lasters and shoefitters' unions met here and, after considering the wage scale presented by the manufacturers, voted not to strike.

Representatives of three companies submitted wage scales to the men and convinced them that an increase in wages was impossible at this time.

OKLAHOMA TO USE ONLY OIL FOR FUEL

Sister Battleship of the Nevada Is Launched at Camden

Camden, N. J., March 23.—One of the largest battleships in the modernized United States navy, and sister ship of the Nevada, which was recently launched, the superdreadnought Oklahoma took the water here today when Miss Lorena Cruce, daughter of the governor of Oklahoma, broke a bottle of champagne against her bows.

The christening was witnessed by Governor Cruce, Naval Secretary Daniels, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt and many other officials.

With her sister battleship, the Oklahoma is attracting much attention, as they mark the introduction of the use of three big guns mounted in one turret. The Oklahoma's steel hull is 583 feet long and she will burn only oil, thus saving space.

DEATH OF JOHN NORRIS

Prominent Newspaper Man Succumbs to Attack of Apoplexy

New York, March 23.—John Norris, formerly head of the American Newspaper Publishers' association and one of the most prominent newspaper men in the country, died at his home in Brooklyn, following a stroke of apoplexy. He was 58 years old.

Norris led the fight which was waged by the American Newspaper Publishers' asspciation to have the tariff taken from news print paper and wood pulp—a fight which ended when President Wilson signed the Underwood tariff bill on Oct. 5 last. Norris is survived by his wife and five children.

ENGLISH IN SYNAGOGUES

Necessary For the Young Jew of Today to Understand Sermons

New York, March 23.—"The sermon in the synagogue must be in English if traditional Judaism is to become intelligible to the younger generations of Jews in this country," said Dr. Schechter, president of the United Synagogue of America, in an address before the second annual convention of the organization.

Large numbers of young American Jews, he said, were not familiar with Yiddish, and were "altogether out of sympathy with the methods and arguments and the peculiar diction of the old ritual."

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Joseph Patterson, a 22-year-old bank robber, was killed in a three-hour fight with a posse near Shawnee, Okla.

Freeman H. Lothrop, judge of the probate court of Barnstable county, Mass., died at Barnstable, aged 72.

The Boston board of health reports 116 cases of scarlatina for the past week.

The exodus of dealers from T wharf, Boston, to the new fish pier in South Boston has begun.

Cambridge, Mass., inaugurated clean-up week when the city workers, with the co-operation of everybody in Cambridge, proceeded to make the city spotless.

Secretary of Labor Wilson is confined to his home with an attack of the grippe.

KEEP LETTERS FROM PUBLIC

Object of Mme. Caillaux In Killing Editor Calmette

SLAYER IS GIVEN A HEARING

Says "Thy Joe" Letter, Printed In Figaro, Invited Death Because It Was Her Private Correspondence—Describes Wrath at "Calumnies" and Love For Her Husband

Paris, March 23.—This city is excited over the declaration of Mme. Caillaux that at her next hearing before the magistrate she will furnish more details showing that the reason she killed Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro, was to prevent further publication of letters written to her by her husband prior to their marriage.

She charged that a fragment of a letter signed "Thy Joe" was one of the letters. She asserted that two other letters had been in the possession of a woman and she feared they would find their way into the columns of The Figaro.

This declaration by Mme. Caillaux has whetted the appetite of the public for more sensational revelations. Enemies of her husband, and friends of the dead editor, however, assert that her statement at this time is made to attract sympathy for her, and also to cause the enemies of the editor to declare he had invited death by publishing the private correspondence of a woman.

Magistrate Bouchard, before whom she was given her preliminary examination, charged her with not telling the truth when she said that after seeing the "Thy Joe" letter published that she concluded it was time for her to stop the calumnies. He told her that the "Thy Joe" letter was not even signed by her and demanded upon what she based her belief that The Figaro had other letters written to her by her husband before their marriage. To this she replied:

"Seeing the letter signed 'Thy Joe' in the possession of Calmette, I inferred that he had two others. I am too tired now to collect my thoughts, but at the next hearing I shall show by witnesses that I do not charge lightly that the holder of the published letters was in possession of other personal letters."

The accused woman said she had married Leo Claretie in 1834, and by him had two girl children, one of whom was dead, and the other, Germaine, 15 years old, was still living. She declared a divorce in her favor was obtained against Claretie in 1908 and that she married Caillaux in 1911.

"That was a true love match," she told the magistrate. "Our fortunes were equal and both of us were independent."

Mme. Caillaux wept when she mentioned her babies and her love for Caillaux.

Mme. Caillaux declared that since her girlhood she had been a reader of The Figaro. When it joined the enemies of Caillaux in the campaign against him her indignation was intense.

The same precaution to prevent Mme. Caillaux from committing suicide are being carried out. She is being made most comfortable in Saint Lazare prison, having three cells, which form a suite for her.

WANTS BODY CREMATED

Dorr Says He Will Bravely Meet Death In the Electric Chair

Boston, March 23.—William A. Dorr, the murderer of George E. Marsh, the Lynn millionaire, has spent his last night on earth unless something unforeseen happens to interfere with his electrocution, which is set for shortly after midnight tomorrow morning at the state prison.

Dorr is reconciled to his fate. He wants his body cremated as soon as possible after the execution. He appears to be in good spirits and says he will be brave to the end.

Dorr expressed the hope that he will be the last man to be sent to the electric chair.

QUOTATIONS FROM BIBLE

Back Claims of Adopted Daughter to the Ziegler Estate

New York, March 23.—Surrogates' records from the Pentateuch may settle the ownership of the $15,000,000 estate of the late William Ziegler.

Urging the claims of Miss Florence Brandt, adopted daughter, Attorney McCartney read the words of Abraham from the fifteenth chapter of Genesis:

"Lo, I am childless, and one born in my house is mine heir." Likewise he cited the adoption of Moses in the bullrushes by Pharaoh's daughter.

Boy Killed by Own Gun

Canterbury, N. H., March 23.—While 16-year-old Herman Pickard was dragging a shotgun, muzzle first, from a closet in his home the weapon was accidentally discharged and the youth instantly killed.

Army Bill Carries $101,755,000

Washington, March 23.—The army appropriation bill, carrying $101,755,000, was reported to the senate from the committee on military affairs.

SUNDAY SCHOOOL LEAGUE.

The standing of Sunday school bowling league show the Rand class in the lead:

	Won	Lost	Av.	P.F.
Rand	13	3	812	4734
Makaria	9	7	562	4671
Davis	7	9	437	4383
Clark	3	13	230	4410

Owing to the fact that there are still several matches to be rolled the teams are going to bowl on Wednesday nights as well as Fridays. The Rand and Clark classes are to meet Wednesday night.

East Africa's Big Game.

Big game of British East Africa, outside of the three preserves of the colony, is rapidly vanishing and, according to W. T. Hornaday, "is absolutely certain to disappear in about one-fourth the time that it took South Africa to accomplish the same result." Mr. Hornaday points out that the present legal bag limit is ruinously extravagant. For $250 any man may buy the right to kill 300 head of hoofed and horned animals of forty-four species, not counting carnivorous animals that may also be killed. Thus the richest big game fauna of any one spot in the world, which nature has been several million years in developing and placing there, seems likely to be wiped out by man within the next fifteen years.—Chicago News.

Just an Oversight.

It was 9 o'clock in the morning in an English town, and the roads were blocked with snow. The maid, who had been given a week's notice, was facing the last day of her sojourn in the house. She handed the usual cup of tea to her mistress in bed and then said sweetly, "Oh, ma'am, when ye asked me yesterday if we had everything in for tonight's party I forgot to tell ye we are out of coal and the furnace is goin' out."

MY SLOGAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.

Will you help me do this?

F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS — STATE HOUSE, BOSTON, MAR. 20, 1914. The committee on railroads will give a hearing to parties interested in H.1851, on forfeiture of charters for unauthorized increase of capital; H.1852, on railroad corporations taking other securities; H. 853, that certain public service corporations may issue bonds convertible into stock; S.1, part of Governor's address on railroads; S.1, part of Governor's address on maintenance of public service commissions; P. D. 14, part of annual report of Public Service Commission on railroad corporations; S. 21, on abolition of a grade crossing in Cambridge; H.285, on punishment of officers and agents for violation of law; S. 1, part of Governor's address on Public Service Commissions;— at room 446, State House, on Tuesday, March 24th, at 10.30 A. M. A. Preston Chase, Chairman. John Mitchell, Clerk of the Committee. March 21—2t

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Peter J. McPartlin late of Quincy in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to John J. McPartlin of said Quincy without giving a surety on his bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twentieth day of March A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t Mar. 23-30 Apr 6.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To William Murphy of Quincy in said County of Norfolk, and to his heirs apparent or presumptive, and to the State Board of Insanity:

Whereas, a petition for guardianship has been presented to said Court, by George J. Murphy of Quincy in the County of Norfolk and Arthur B. Hultman of said Quincy alleging that said William Murphy is an insane person, and incapable of taking care of himself, and praying that said George J. Murphy of Quincy or some other suitable person, may be appointed his guardian, agreeably to the law in such case made and provided. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in and for said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why a guardian should not be appointed as aforesaid. And said petitioners are hereby directed to cause you to be notified of the time and place appointed for the hearing of said complaint, by serving said William Murphy and said State Board of Insanity, with a copy of this order, seven days at least before said Court; and by mailing to said heirs apparent or presumptive at the last known post office address of each, a copy of the same, seven days at least before said Court, or instead of said mailing, by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this seventeenth day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t Mar. 21-23-30

LOOK HERE FOR IT

Many a Quincy Reader Will be Interested.

When people read about the cures made by a medicine endorsed from far away, is it surprising that they onder if the statements are true? But when they read of cases right here at home, positive proof is within their reach, for close investigation is an easy matter. Read Quincy endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills.

G. E. Mitchell, prop. restaurant, 26-27 Temple street, Quincy, Mass., says: "A severe cold settled in my kidneys and disordered them. I didn't seem able to overcome the trouble until I used one box of Doan's Kidney Pills. I improved at once and since then haven't needed a kidney medicine. I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a reliable remedy for the back and kidneys."

If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Mitchell had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Margaret Emma Hudson late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Adelbert Lathrop Hudson of said Quincy, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Brookline in said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-fifth day of March A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eleventh day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCoole, Register.
3t March 13-16-23

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To Sarah J. Clark of Quincy in said County of Norfolk, and to Her Heirs Apparent Or Presumptive:

Whereas, a petition for conservatorship has been presented to said Court by Abbie M. Kribs alleging that said Sarah J. Clark has become incapacitated by reason of advanced age and mental weakness to properly care for her property, and praying that Delcevare King of Quincy or some other suitable person, may be appointed conservator of her property, agreeably to the law in such case made and provided. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Brookline in and for said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-fifth day of March, A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why a conservator should not be appointed as aforesaid. And said petitioner is hereby directed to cause you to be notified of the time and place appointed for the hearing of said petition, by serving said Sarah J. Clark with a copy of this order, seven days at least before said Court; and by mailing to said heirs apparent or presumptive at the last known post office address of each, a copy of the same, seven days at least before said Court, or instead of said mailing, by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twelfth day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t-March 14-16-23

EXECUTRIX NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executrix of the will of George E. Young, late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, testate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to ANNIE J. PRATT, Executrix.

(Address)
57 Quincy Street, Quincy, Mass.
March 16th, 1914.
Mar. 18-3t 18-23-30

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Alvin Parker, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, not already administered, to George E. Adams of Quincy or to some other suitable person. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all devisees and legatees named in said will seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of March, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 3t 19-23-30

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the devisees, legatees, and all other persons interested in the estate of Alvin F. Parker, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, testate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration with the will annexed, on the estate of said deceased, not already administered, to George E. Adams of said Quincy or some other suitable person. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April, A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all devisees and legatees named in said will seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of March, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 3t 19-23-30

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Bessie L. Capen, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Arthur F. Capen of said Quincy without giving a surety on his bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham, in said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April, A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said court, this eighteenth day of March, A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 3t 19-23-30

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Walter S. Redding late of Quincy in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Clara F. Whiton of said Quincy without giving a surety on her bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forencon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twelfth day of March A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 16-3t 16-23-30

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of William H. Stevenson, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Inga M. Stevenson of said Quincy without giving a surety on her bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April, A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twentieth day of March, A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
21-3t Mar. 21-23-30

wealth of Massachusetts.
ss. Probate Court.
s-at-law, next-of-kin, cred-all other persons inter-
the estate of Alvin Parker, uincy, in said County, dentestate:
a petition has been pre-aid Court to grant a letnistration on the estate of ed, not already adminiseorge E. Adams of Quincy other suitable person. You cited to appear at a Proto be held at Dedham in of Norfolk, on the first day
D. 1914, at ten o'clock in
, to show cause, if any you he same should not be nd said petitioner is here-o give public notice thereshing this citation once in or three successive weeks, aily Ledger, a newspaper said Quincy, the last pub-
e one day at least before

ames H. Flint, Esquire,
d Court, this eighteenth
, in the year one thousand
d and fourteen.
R. McCOOLE, Register
3t Mar. 19-23-30

ealth of Massachusetts.
Probate Court.
sees, legatees, and all ons interested in the es-vin F. Parker, late of said County, deceased,

petition has been pre-
d Court to grant a letter ation with the will ane estate of said deceased, administered, to George said Quincy or some othperson. You are hereby ear at a Probate Court to edham in said County of the first day of April, A. n o'clock in the forenoon, se, if any you have, why uld not be granted. And er is hereby directed to otice thereof, by publish-ion once in each week, for sive weeks, in the Quincy r, a newspaper published cy, the last publication to at least before said Court.
ing, postpaid, or delivering is citation to all devisees named in said will seven
before said Court.
James H. Flint, Esquire,
d Court, this eighteenth
, in the year one thousand
d and fourteen.
R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 3t 19-23-30

ealth of Massachusetts.
Probate Court.
s-at-law, next-of-kin, credi-
all other persons interested e estate of Bessie L. Ca-of Quincy, in said County, intestate:
a petition has been pre-id Court to grant a letter
ation on the estate of said
Arthur F. Capen of said
out giving a surety on his
are hereby cited to ap-robate Court to be held at said County of Norfolk, ay of April, A. D. 1914, at the forenoon, to show
you have, why the same
e granted. And the petioner is hereby directed to give pub-ice thereof by publishing this on in each week, for three eeks, in the Quincy Daily ewspaper published in said last publication to be one before said Court.
James H. Flint, Esquire,
id court, this eighteenth ch, A. D. 1914.
R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 3t 19-23-30

ealth of Massachusetts.
Probate Court.
s-at-law, next-of-kin credi-
all other persons interested ate of Walter S. Redding ncy in said County, de-estate:
a petition has been pre-
d Court to grant a letter
ation on the estate of said
Clara F. Whiton of said ut giving a surety on her e hereby cited to appear Court to be held at Quinounty of Norfolk, on the April A. D. 1914, at nine forenoon, to show cause, ave, why the same should
ed. And the petitioner is ted to give public notice publishing this citation week, for three successive
the Quincy Daily Ledger published in said Quincy cation to be one day at said Court.
ames H. Flint, Esquire,
d Court, this twelfth day
D. 1914.
J. R. McCOOLE,
Register.
Mar. 16-3t 16-23-30

alth of Massachusetts.
Probate Court.
at-law, next-of-kin, crediall other persons interest-estate of William H. Ste-te of Quincy, in said ceased, intestate:
a petition has been pre-
d Court to grant a letter
ation on the estate of to Inga M. Stevenson of without giving a surety
You are hereby cited to Probate Court to be held
n said County of Norfolk, day of April A. D. 1914, at
in the forenoon, to show
you have, why the same
e granted. And the peti-
oner is hereby directed to give pub-ice thereof by publishing this cion each week, for three eeks, in the Quincy Daily ewspaper published in the last publication to be least before said Court.
James H. Flint, Esquire,
d Court, this twentieth
h, A. D. 1914.
R. McCOOLE, Register.
21-3t Mar. 21-23-30

The Tavern at Old Hadley

An Episode In the Days of Ghosts and Witches

By F. A. MITCHEL

There is a town in Massachusetts that smacks as much, if not more, of the early colonial times than any other in North America. Its name is Hadley, and they call it Old Hadley, but why it is considered necessary to mention the fact of its age is not apparent. Certainly no one would ever look upon it as young Hadley.

Land was cheap when Hadley was settled. Consequently they laid out the main street of the town as wide as a modern block is long, with two rows of trees on each side, a row within a stone's throw of the houses, the other row within calling distance of the houses on the other side—that is by a strong pair of lungs.

Later the settlers laid out another street not far from the first, but since there has never been use for two parallel streets in Hadley the first is now deserted. But the same trees planted several hundred years ago still stand there.

At one end of the street to which the town was moved there is a dwelling which in the olden time was the tavern. The bar is still there over which formerly passed many a mug of flip, but it is now dry. The visitor looks longingly upon it, half expecting to see the landlord hand out the steaming beverage, then turns away in disappointment, and the curtain that hides the bar is lowered.

One cheerless night long ago when the trees were throwing their great arms about in the wind a party sat in this barroom endeavoring to bear up against the weather by a frequent calling on the landlord for flip. They said it was the weather that rendered the stimulant necessary, but that was an age of superstition, and the real reason for their potations was a fear of ghosts. Every time a gust of wind would shriek through the trees above them the color would leave their faces, and when it had died away, moaning as it went, they would order a fresh fortification to brace them against the next gust.

THE ROSY CHEEKED MAN TOOK THE CANDLE AND WENT UPSTAIRS.

"There's witches in that wind," remarked one of the party, a man with a red head and a green coat. "I can tell 'em. Hark! Whenever you hear those shrieks, followed by low wails, you may be sure the witches are riding over the tops of the trees."

"Yes," chimed in a shriveled old man in a plaid waistcoat and extra sized buckles on his shoes, "and they don't always keep ridin' on the trees; sometimes they come down and get inside of some miserable sinner. And they don't all keep around Salem neither. They say there's a girl down to Holyoke that was caught the other day vomitin' crooked pins."

"It isn't the witches that make a man's marrow freeze up," said a youngster of eighteen, trembling as he spoke. "I heard the other day that a ghost was going round in the flesh."

"You don't mean it!" exclaimed the man in the plaid waistcoat, taking his clay pipe from his mouth that his chattering teeth might not bite off the stem. "I hope he won't come in here."

At that moment there was heard without a creaking and a splashing, and in a few minutes the Springfield coach drove up to the door. Among those who alighted was a man with a waxy complexion and dark rings around his eyes. As he stalked with a measured tread into the tavern every one looked at him. The man in the plaid waistcoat made his escape through a rear door. Another arrival, the exact opposite of the waxy faced man—a rosy cheeked young fellow—shook the wet off him, kicked the mud off his boots and said:

"A mug of flip, landlord, and be quick about it."

The landlord scuttled back for the beverage, and the rosy cheeked man looked about him for a seat. The waxy faced man had seated himself at a table where there were others, but one by one they had arisen and gone somewhere else. The red cheeked party marched up to the table where the ghostly looking man sat and, drawing out a chair, settled himself in it. The others in the room looked on with holy horror, for the man's waxy flesh and dark rimmed eyes gave him the appearance of being an animated corpse.

"Friend," said the rosy man, "will you have a mug of punch with me? You look as if you needed something to warm you up."

"I'm not to be warmed," replied the other in a sepulchral voice.

"Where did you get that earthy smell there is about you?"

"Young man, do you wish to communicate with the dead?"

"Reckon I'm doing that now."

"Go up to your room, blow out the candle, and you will see your grandfather."

"Who'll bring him?"

"I will."

"You! Do you suppose I'm going upstairs to sit in a cold room in the dark while you stay down here with your nose in a mug of steaming punch? Thank you, I know when I am well off. However, I've 10 shillings in my pocket. I'll bet you that you can't call up the ghost of my grandfather or any other ghost."

"Ten shillings!" replied the waxy man contemptuously. "Do you suppose that I court material things?"

"Well, if you don't want the money you can give it for charity."

"Charity! Yes, but what is 10 shillings for charity? Make it £10 and I consent."

His vis-a-vis looked through his pockets and found only the 10 shillings and a few coppers.

"Friends," he said, "this man is an impostor. He is going about trying to impress people with the belief that he has something supernatural about him. If you'll stand by me I'll show him up. Raise the £10 among you to match his stake, and you'll be the richer by that amount."

This gave courage to the others, and a desire sprang up among those present to discover whether the waxy man was really one from the dead or playing on their credulity. But it must be remembered that a desire for money was as fixed among our ancestors as in us. An effort was made to raise the stake, but failed, since there was not so much money among the company. The most that could be obtained was £6. However, the waxy man generously offered to accept this stake instead of the larger amount, and the money was put up on both sides.

"Who's to hold the stakes?" asked the rosy cheeked man. "For my part, I would be willing that the man with whom I am betting should do so—that is, if he remains here in this room till the wager is settled."

"I hold the money!" replied the other sternly. "I never touch money except—except when I am as men are. Hold the stakes yourself!"

He said this in such a ghostly tone that it brought back something of the former fear of those present. So great was the awe that the gaping settlers did not think to protest when the rosy cheeked man stuffed the money in his pocket and, taking a candle, started upstairs.

"What number, landlord?" he asked.

"No. S," replied the landlord, handing him a key.

When the man's footsteps had died away, a profound silence fell on the house. The man from the grave sat motionless, alone, at his table, and nearly every eye in the room was fixed upon him. The wind, which had continued to blow, gave several prolonged howls, at the end of which the man who had gone upstairs was heard to give a shriek, indicating some frightful experience. The man who had agreed to introduce him to his grandfather rolled his eyes about over the company, as if in triumph. No one stirred. Presently the landlord picked up courage and started upstairs. He was followed first by the most courageous, afterward by the others. The door of No. S was found to be locked. The landlord called to the man within, but, receiving no answer, he broke it down and found the chamber empty.

"He's been spirited away," suggested the man with the plain waistcoat, shuddering.

"Didn't I tell you," said the youngster who had made the prediction, "that a ghost was going around in the flesh? He's the man downstairs."

By this time it was noticed that a sash in the bedroom was open, and it occurred to the landlord that the occupant had dropped out through the window. It was no great distance to the ground and a very easy fall.

"My friends," he said thoughtfully, "it's my opinion we've been robbed. He's gone with the money."

He hurried downstairs to find the waxy man. He, too, had vanished.

"What say you, friends?" said the landlord. "Shall we give chase to these rascals?"

"What!" protested the man with the red head and green coat. "Give chase on a night like this? I prefer to lose the few shillings I contributed to curiosity."

"No one has lost very much," said the landlord. "Come, gentlemen. We may as well drown our disappointment. I'll brew a bowl of punch for the purpose."

A couple of hundred years have passed since this episode took place in the tavern at Old Hadley. The low building still stands on the broad street. Of a windy night there is a thrashing of branches, a moaning in the trees, but the age of ghosts and witches has passed, and the present inhabitants turn over in their beds without a shudder.

KING IS FOR CONCILIATION

Personally Appeals to Military Officers Not to Resign

SITUATION SOMEWHAT EASIER

Dreaded Sunday Passes Without Disturbance In Ulster—Activity Prevails In All Government Quarters—Beresford Predicts Resignation of Naval Leaders If Clash Occurs

London, March 23.—The dreaded Sunday passed without the slightest disturbance of order in Belfast or in Ulster. But the gavity of the crisis is fully indicated by the fact that King George canceled his intended weekend visit to the Earl and Countess of Derby at Liverpool.

The king has thrown his influence earnestly on the side of conciliation, and seems to have made a personal appeal to the officers who had resolved to resign rather than face the possibility of being called upon to fight in Ulster, and it may be taken for granted that the king is equally exerting his influence with his ministers in the same conciliatory direction.

Proofs are not wanting of the desire on both sides that everything possible should be done to avoid any chance of conflicts. The Nationalists abandoned their proposed parade at Londonderry, and Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, continues to voice his desire to do his utmost to avoid provocative acts.

The government announces that all intended movements of troops in Ireland have now been completed, but this may be a decision necessitated by the threatened resignations of the officers. Apparently no further actual resignations have been offered.

The prime minister conferred for an hour with the king and the utmost activity prevails in all government quarters. Among the political leaders, however, the situation is considered more favorable.

The conferences by King George, Premier Asquith and the other members with reference to the Ulster situation continued all day.

Colonel Seely, secretary of state for war, had a long audience with the king, while Premier Asquith and Field Marshal French, chief of the general staff, spent an hour at Buckingham palace, after the prime minister had been visited by the archbishop of Canterbury, head of the English church.

In a general way the situation seems somewhat easier, the public being inclined to wait with patience the expected statement in the house of commons regarding the movement of troops in Ulster and the resignations of officers.

Lord Charles Beresford, a strong advocate of the Ulster cause, in a letter to the press says:

"I know for a fact that many naval officers, including those of high rank and some of the best men we possess, will resign their commands if ordered to take part in the coercion of Ulster, or even if the army alone is utilized for that purpose."

Lord Charles contends that the argument that the officers and men who refused to coerce Ulster might refuse in the future to participate in the quelling of riots does not hold good, there being no comparison, he says, between civil war and a riot.

PROFITING BY DELAY

Opponents of Panama Tolls Repeal Are Gaining Confidence

Washington, March 23.—Believing their cause is gradually gaining ground in congress, opponents of the proposed repeal of the toll exemption provision of the Panama canal act express satisfaction over repeated delays in getting the controversy directly before congress. They are at work in the meantime on senators and representatives who still are wavering.

That there are some members of both senate and house who really have decided what to do is claimed by leading opponents of the repeal, despite the repeated publication of polls on the issue tending to show large majorities for repeal.

Starvation In Cape Verde Islands

New Bedford, Mass., March 23.—Advices received from the Cape Verde islands state that the islands are visited by the worst famine in many years. The suffering is intense, and the inhabitants on many islands are dying in large numbers.

Constantino Must Pay $25,000

New York, March 23.—Justice Platzek directed a verdict of $25,000 against Florencio Constantino in favor of Oscar Hammerstein, who alleged that Constantino broke his contract to sing exclusively for him.

Cannibals Eat Their Teachers

Sydney, N. S. W., March 23.—Natives in the north of Malekula island, of the New Hebrides group, have murdered and eaten six native teachers from the Walls island mission station.

Suffrage Resolution In May

Washington, March 23.—The Shafroth resolution, providing a method for submitting the question of woman suffrage to the individual states, will not be reported to the senate before May.

CARSON AND LAW

Leaders of Opposition In the Home Rule Contest

Photos by American Press Association.

TO LEAVE BECAUSE OF "PERSECUTION"

"Holy Ghosters" Plan to Depart From the United States

Boston, March 23.—From his cell in the federal prison at Atlanta, "Elijah" Sanford, leader of the Holy Ghost and Us society, is directing arrangements to move the society's colony at Shiloh, Me., out of the country.

According to Elder Brother Miller, an official of the society with headquarters in Boston, the society is going to leave the United States because of persecution, and especially because of the imprisonment of Sanford.

Plans are absolutely in the dark. Only "Elijah" knows, and he issues his orders only a day or two ahead. His directions are implicitly obeyed. In response to them "Chief Sam," a negro, is at Shiloh directing the preparations to go, and the steamer Curityba is in Portland harbor being fitted out for a long voyage.

SPEAKS FROM STRETCHER

Sylvia Pankhurst Addresses Crowd Outside Westminster Abbey

London, March 23.—Sylvia Pankhurst, carried on a stretcher and surrounded by about 1000 members of her East End People's Army, attempted to attend last evening's service in Westminster Abbey. She was unable to gain admission, however, as every seat in the edifice had been taken. The militant suffragette and her followers, however, held an open-air meeting in the street in the rear of the abbey.

The vanguard of the East End contingent was led by a Church of England clergyman, Rev. Edmund Willis. Clothed in full vestments, he opened the street meeting with prayer and preached a short sermon.

Miss Pankhurst then delivered an address. After the meeting she was removed from the scene in an ambulance.

FEARED BECOMING INSANE

Wealthy Lawrence Manufacturer Takes Own Life In Michigan

Mount Clemens, Mich., March 23.—Ashton W. Lee, a wealthy manufacturer of Lawrence, Mass., fired three bullets into his head in his room at a local hotel and died without recovering consciousness.

Just previous to his suicide he had told several guests at the hotel that he was in constant fear of becoming insane.

Lee was the owner of the Lee chemical works at Lawrence and is survived by his widow, two sons and two daughters.

Princess to Fare Well on Birthday

London, March 23.—The Prince of Wales has arranged to settle $50,000 on his sister, Princess Mary, on her 17th birthday, which occurs next month. At the same time the princess will come into $100,000 left to her by the late King Edward.

Sensational Tragedy on Street Car

Chicago, March 23.—While riding in a crowded street car, Nathan R. Karant committed suicide by swallowing acid after he had thrown some of the same poison into his wife's eyes, probably blinding her for life.

All That's Left.

Mrs. Goodsole (feeding tramp)—You seem to have a good appetite. Hungry Higgins—Ah, mum, dat's all I have left in de world dat I kin rightly call me own.—Exchange.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS — CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING — WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

LOST

LOST—Between Kincaide's Theatre and Emanuel's store; a mesh bag containing sum of money. Finder pelase return to Kincaide's Theatre office and receive reward. 23-1t

TO LET

TO LET—After May 7th, house of seven rooms and bathroom. All modern improvements. Rent $30. Apply any time at Mrs. G. C. Follett's, 105 Putnam street. 23-6t

TO LET—Large pleasant sunny room. Near restaurants and R. R. station. Apply at 1187 Hancock street. 21-tf

TO LET—To small family. A flat of 5 rooms and bath. All modern improvements. Inquire at 33 Dysart street. 21-3t

TO LET—$20.00 Cottage, 6 rooms; all improvements. On salt water; 3 minutes to Fore River entrance, yet secluded. Call C. E. Briggs, 63 Howard Avenue, Quincy. 18-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-12t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—Two large, well furnished rooms with all improvements. Use of kitchen if desired. In centre of city. Write J, Ledger Office. 20-3t

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath. Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 3 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

TO LET—On Spear street, first floor 4 rooms, bath, furnace, set tubs, gas and set range. J. A. Weeden, Room 10, Greenleaf Block. 20-3t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 18-6t

TO LET—Upper flat of five rooms and bath, all improvements, Bradford street, Quincy Adams. Apply to William Duggan, Bradford street. Tel. Quincy 801W. 17-6t

TO LET—Furnished rooms with or without board. Mrs. F. Wrigley, 18 Washington street corner Coddington. 17-6t

TO LET—Single house of six rooms, improvements 492 South street. Apply to 96 Arnold street. 17-6t

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

Read Ledger Advs.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ....

MISCELLANEOUS

TAKE NOTICE—Free corn cutting till March 31st. Positively no hurt, 9 A. M. to 2 P. M. Dr. Rodgers, Chiropodist. 14 Sagamore street, Atlantic. Mar. 17-6t

WANTED

WANTED—Cooks 2nd, parlor, laundress, general housework, green girl, mother helpers, all first-class places. Best of wages, positions waiting. Oldest Employment office in city, 1535 Hancock street, L. M. Flynn, Phone 2235-W. 23-2t

WANTED—Position as housekeeper or companion, would act as nurse, 20 years experience. Good references. Good home rather than high wages desired. Mrs. Root, 99 Brook street, Wollaston. 23-3t

WANTED—Position as housekeeper in gentleman's home by young widow of 29, good cook. Write H. G., Ledger Office. 20-3t

WANTED—A Rivet Heater. Apply at Isbell-Porter Co., Brockton Gas Co. Works, Brockton. 20-3t

WANTED—By an experienced nurse maternity nursing. Address P. O. Box 304, Quincy. March 18-6t

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Rea. 23-tf

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block
2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK CITY SQUARE

(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust.
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 71066) Quincy

HOLMES & HALL
REPAIRERS OF HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS
SHADES
DOOR BELLS
LOCKS and KEYS
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Good black loam, delivered anywhere in Quincy. Apply at Penniman Garage, Phone 207 or J. P. Flanagan 518M. Sand and gravel for sale. March 21-6t

FOR SALE OR TO LET—New house, two tenements five rooms each, all improvements. Situated on Hayward street, East Braintree. Completed April 15. Apply to W. L. Saunders, 46 Franklin street, Quincy. 21-tf

FOR SALE—Three good horses, 2 sets harness, 2 wagons. Apply to John J. Gallagher, 230 Water street, Quincy Adams. 20-6t

FOR SALE—Strictly fresh Quincy eggs. Seavey, 9 Silver street, Quincy. 19-6t

FOR SALE—22 ft. motor boat, 5 h. p. 2 cylinder engine. One year old. Price reasonable. A. D. Thompson, 47 Main street. 19-6t

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS—Take notice. We are selling all steel portable Automobile garages, camps and storehouses ready to put up. Absolutely fire proof. Prompt shipment. Send for quotations, M. W. Tilton, Box 362, Brockton. 11-12t

FOR SALE—Cheap, a second hand kitchen stove, in good condition. Apply to Mr. Magee, 963 Hancock street near car barn. 17-6t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

JUST LOOK HERE

Two Suite House in Wollaston—7large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.

HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy.
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 Office 83-5

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 2, Durgin & Merrill Block,
QUINCY

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY AND EVERYONE IN QUINCY.

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c

MON. TUES., WED.
Program Subject to Change

FORRESTER & LLOYD
Singing and Talking Funmakers

BEAU BRUMMELL TRIO
The Boys with the big voices

MASCAGNE
Novelty Musical Artist

LAMP BROS.
Comedy Skit "SI & MAUD"

Great 4 Reels Feature

"THE WHIRL OF DESTINY"

A stupendous picture production thrilling from start to finish

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

Mar. 21—3

NEWSY BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Slade and Mrs. Emma Slade formerly of Quincy, sail Sunday, March 29 on the S. S. Lapland, for a three months trip abroad.

Carl E. Strid of 91 Quincy street died this morning at the Quincy City Hospital from the effects of an abdominal surgical operation. He was in his 39th year and unmarried.

Arrangements will be completed at the regular conclave of Quincy commandery, Knights Templar, tonight for the fraternal visit to DeMolay commandery at Masonic Temple, Boston, Wednesday evening.

Henry Beston Sheahan of Harvard University is to given an illustrated talk on "Roman France" for the benefit of the Danvers Visiting Nurse Association, on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Butler, 40 Conant street, Danvers.

Charles Binda of 83 Columbia street, South Quincy, met his bride, Maria Cattalio, on March 14, when the S. S. Canopic docked, and the marriage ceremony was immediately performed by Rev. Pasquale di Milla at Boston. They will live in this city. The groom is a stonecutter.

James Emmett Kelly, son of Margaret and the late James B. Kelly, died Saturday at Lakeville after a long illness. He was a well known young man in South Quincy. He is survived by one brother, George Kelly and four sisters, Agnes, Evelyn, Margaret and Celia.

Esther A. Olsen, the 6-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amandus Olsen of 67 Bennington street, died Sunday morning from diphtheria. The body was taken to the receiving tomb in Mt. Wollaston cemetery Sunday afternoon and this afternoon services were held at the grave by Rev. Axel Hillman of St. Paul's M. E. church.

The Quincy Women's Club meets tomorrow afternoon at Alpha hall for its regular meeting and the unique entertainment planned by the program committee, Miss Edith Randall, chairman, promises to be most entertaining. It's subject will be "Hobbies" and various club members will be allowed two minutes in which to tell of their special hobbies. Among those speaking will be Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop, Mrs. William E. Alden, Mrs. Willard E. Dow, Mrs. Stanley Bone, Mrs. John D. Mackay, Mrs. Edward B. Marsh, Miss Esther Sidelinger and Mrs. Harriet Whitaker.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, City Square
Tel. Quincy 1745 W. March 16-12t

DEATHS

KELLEY—In Lakeville, March 21, James Emmet, beloved son of Margaret and the late James D. Kelley aged 22 years.
Funeral from his late residence 108 Liberty street, Quincy, Tuesday March 24, at 8.15 A. M. High mass of requiem at St. John's church at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited to attend.

JOHNSON—In Quincy, March 21, John H., son of Brenth and Marie J. Johnson, aged 11 months, 7 days, of 2 Rockview road.

OLSON—In Quincy, March 22, Esther A., daughter of Amandus and Annie M. Olson, aged 5 years, 10 months, 14 days, of 67 Bennington street.

STRID—In Quincy, March 23, Carl E. Strid, in his 40th year.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

NAVY YARDS IN FAVOR

Secretary Daniels Would Have Them Build Battleships

A Washington dispatch to a Boston paper says: Josephus Daniels, the secretary of the navy, went on record Saturday before the House committee on labor, in favor of building as many battleships as possible in government yards in preference to letting them out for construction in private shipyards.

Mr. Daniels was testifying with respect to the bill introduced by Representative James P. Maher of New York, to establish a fixed scale of wages for navy yard workers. Mr. Daniels opposed the bill.

During his testimony the secretary of the navy expressed the belief that ships built in United States navy yards were superior to those built by private contract. The government-built battleships, he said, were more economical in the long run though the initial cost might be greater.

Mr. Daniels told the committee it was his policy to encourage the continuous working of the government navy yards. This could only be done, he said, by maintaining the yard at the highest level of efficiency so as to enable them to compete with the private ship-building plants.

Asked about the recent idleness in the government navy yards, Mr. Daniels said this was due very largely to the fact that so many vessels of the American navy were now in Mexican waters on patrol duty. Mr. Daniels said there were numerous reasons why, in his opinion, the government yards turned out better work, one being the pride of the men in their work, and the rivalry between the yards.

Mr. Daniels said he was trying to solve the wage problem for navy yards, but was trying to do this by some other means than through the wage board method of adjustment. The matter had been taken up, he said, by the navy department, upon his initiative, with the secretary of the department of labor, and there were now two naval engineers considering the question of overhead charges, many of which in the yards, he said, were assessed improperly against vessels built in the yards. Some of these charges, he thought, should be levied against maintenance instead of against construction.

Mr. Daniels thought it would be a mistake for Congress to embark on the work of fixing wages of navy yard laborers. He thought wages should be sufficiently high to remunerate navy yard workmen and to attract a high class of workers.

DISTRICT COURT.

John Laine of Quincy was sentenced to three months in the house of correction for drunkenness at Quincy.

Angelo Mazzola, charged with assault and battery on Andrea Mazzola, pleaded not guilty. Continued to April 15 when case will be dismissed if no breach of peace occurs.

The following men were fined for drunkenness and placed on probation until Sept. 23: Timothy J. Ritchie, $10, Alex Leckie $5, Victor Hernenick $5, Walter C. Brennan $5, Walter J. Wagner of Cohasset $10, Tomassi Tironi of Milton $10.

BELATED SNOW STORM.

Quincy in common with other parts of New England was treated to a belated snow storm Sunday, and for a time it looked as though there might possibly be some more sleighing. The snow however was of the fine quality, which at times was much like rain. It did not make very fast and although the ground was covered with a white mantle the all day storm did not deposit much snow. What little snow there was will probably disappear with today's warm sun. The air was cold all day and not at all what one might expect for the second day of spring. The weather cleared about 6 o'clock Sunday evening but it remained cold all night. This morning the sun came out bright and clear but the air remained chilly.

The ninth season o fthe Milton Education Society closes with a choral concert in Town Hall Thursday evening. Charles B. Stevens will be the director of a volunteer chorus of 100 voices. They will present "The Swan and the Skylark," by Goring Thomas, and part songs by Schumann and others. The chorus is assisted by Marie Sundelius, soprano; Arthur Hackett, tenor; Frederick G. Katzmann, bass; Mary Wells Capewell, accompanist. Mme. Sundelius will also sing several songs.

WOULD REMOVE FIRE CHIEF

Milton Selectmen Prefer Charges Against Chief McCue

An effort is being made by the Milton selectmen to remove Edward McCue, Chief of the fire dept. Board preferred charges against him Saturday. Tuesday is the day set for him to appear and show cause why he should not be removed. Chief McCue has been in office one year and succeeded Chief Choate who died after a long period of service. The charges preferred have not been made public. His appointemnt was the only campaign argument at the last election which resulted in the choice of a majority of the selectmen opposed to him.

Intense excitement has been created in Milton because of the action of the board since the term of Chief McCue would have expired on May 1 and he could have been dropped at that time without a hearing.

"A study of those charges by any fair-minded, unprejudiced man," said Chief McCue, "would satisfy him that they are made for political reasons only. This of course, is also shown by the events leading up to the recent town election. I do not believe there is any doubt that my case has been already decided by a majority of selectmen and that it will make little difference in their action whether or not the charges are completely refuted.

"Apparently," the chief continued, "there is also an intention to discredit me by removing me from office during my term, instead of waiting until its expiration in six weeks. I do hope, however, that the citizens of Milton, who do not want the fire department to be a political football, and also those who are interested in fair play, will come to the hearing, so they may hear my accusers and hear my answer.

"If I am to go out of office, I want the citizens to know that it is because the selectmen sacrifice me and not because I have violated the trust which has been placed in my hands."

—The Lowell Courier-Citizen thinks a better thing than penny letters would be a larger and stronger delivery system. The postal men of a certainty do their best and do a lot of work, but it is apparent since the parcel post started that there are not enough of them in many cities; perhaps it's the fact in all.

This Earthly Stage.

"The sun," remarked the kindly citizen, "shines for all."

"And that's what worries some people," averred the caustic citizen. "They seem to think the sun ought to be handled as a spot light."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

As He Saw It.

Wife—Oh, I saw the dearest little hat today.

Hub—That's just like you—always looking for the dearest instead of the moderately priced.—Boston Transcript.

Temperamental.

"How is the star actress today?"

"I don't know. The doctor's in her room now taking her temperament."—Baltimore American.

Too much is worse than want.—German Proverb.

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY. ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

FREE LONDON "TANGO" NECKLACE "EVELYN THAW" BRACELET

These two beautiful pieces of popular jewelry are the craze among society women in New York and the largest cities. They are neat and elegant gold finished articles that will gladden the heart of every girl or woman, no matter how young or old. Very stylish and attractive.

Our Free Offer. We are advertising Spearmint Chewing Gum and desire to place a big box of this fine, healthful gum into every home. It sweetens the breath—whitens the teeth and aids digestion. It is refreshing and pleasing to all. To every lady sending us but 50c we will ship a big box of 20 regular 5c packages of the Spearmint Gum and include the elegant "Tango" necklace and "Evelyn Thaw" bracelet absolutely free.

This offer is for a short time only. Not more than 2 orders to one party. Dealers not allowed to accept this.

AMERICAN SALES COMPANY
Dayton, Ohio

Too Late For Classification

BARGAIN IN BRAINTREE.

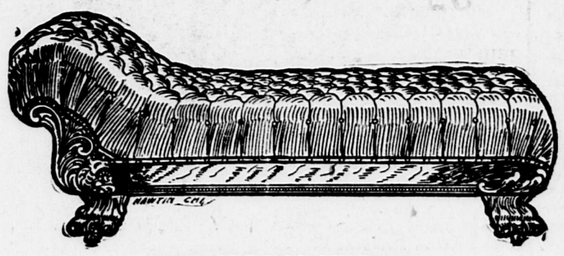
30 good building lots on car line, 5 min. walk from depot; town water and gas; must be sold at once to settle an estate. For further particulars apply to A. L. GAVIN, 125 School street, Braintree; tel. Braintree 189-W. 23-3t 23-25-27

OPEN THIS EVENING

KINCAIDE FURNITURE STORE

GRAND SPRING OPENING SALE NOW IN FULL SWING

Here are some examples of the price-savings all over the store.



NEW SPRING STYLES

COUCHES
Strong Sturdy Oak Frame, Golden finish, upholstered in imitation Spanish Leather Regular value $18.00
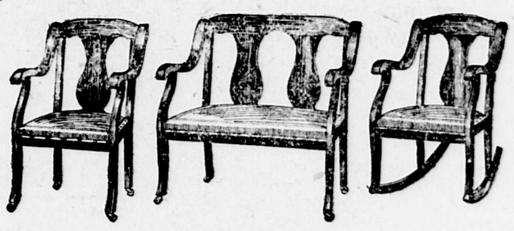
$13.75

COUCHES
Very heavy frame, Fumed Oak finish, best carbon steel springs. Genuine Goat skin upholstering.
Regular price $45.
$27.50



3-PC. PARLOR SUITE
Mahogany Finished Frames, upholstered in Genuine Leather or with loose Plush Cushions. Regular $25 value
SALE PRICE $18.75

DELIGHTFUL DAVENPORTS
2 useful articles in one! A beautiful sofa by day and a comfortable bed by night. Saves the rent of an extra room. Come and examine them

SPECIAL
Solid Oak frame, Golden finish, upholstered in brown Spanish Leatherette—Regular $42.
$35

SPECIAL
Strong Mahogany finished frame, with black leather cloth upholstering. Back lets down to make bed $14.75

Large New Line of LEATHER ROCKERS
Big, Comfortable, inviting Rocker on heavy base. Black Imperial leather upholstering. Full spring seat. Regular $15 Rockers
Sale Price $9.75
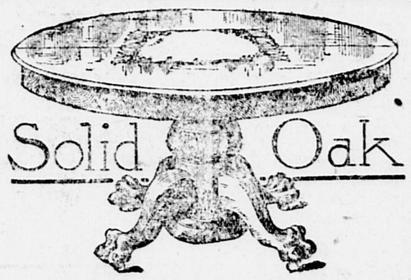
Others at $15, $18, $20, to $35



As pictured, heavy massive Table of solid Quarter-sawed Oak, 48 inch top, 12 inch pedestal, large claw feet. $35 table for $25

SPECIAL
Round Oak Dining Table, with handsome quartered 45-inch top, 6 foot extension, Colonial base, $22. value $14.75

SPECIAL
Solid oak Round Dining Table, 6ft. extension, 42 inch top, Golden finish $15. grade $8.65

8-Pc. DINING ROOM OUTFIT $35.
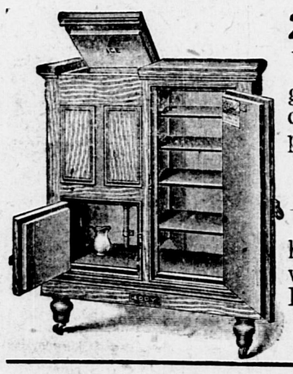
Regular $60. value. For this Sale
An attractive set in Golden Oak, consisting of Round Extension Dining Table, Beautiful Buffet and 6 Leather seat Dining Chairs. Full $60. value

Refrigerators and Ice Chests
Full Spring Line Now on Display



2 SPECIALS

Solid Oak Refrigerator 50 lb. Ice capacity Regular price $12.75
$7.50

$35. Apartment house style, hardwood Refrigerator, Porcelain lined $22.50

Sideboards Serving Tables
AND DINING CHAIRS OF ALL KINDS
At Prices that are unequalled elsewhere

BUFFETS OF BEAUTY AND SERVICE
The Largest Line we have ever Shown

SPECIAL
American Quartered Oak Buffet with mantle shelf and large French plate mirror. Regular price $23.
$14.75
Others $18, $22.50, $25, $28.75, $30, $35, up $75.

We furnish two rooms as low as $49.00 a dollar a week

We furnish three rooms as low as $69.00

We furnish four rooms as low as $98.00 $2 a week

OUR DeLUXE 4-ROOM OUTFIT $198 $3 a week

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO., ENTIRE 5-FLOOR BLDG. 1495 HANCOCK ST.

TORE SWING
t re.

SUITE
ered in Genuine
s. Regular $25

8.75

KERS
$9.75

35

$35. g of Round
Tet and 6 alue

ables NDS
ere ERVICE n
IAL
Quartered with manand large te mirror.
rice $23.
75
18, $22.50,
, $30, $35,

DeLUXE
M OUTFIT
198 week
ANCOCK ST.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 70 QUINCY, MASS TUESDAY EVENING MARCH 24 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

GOVERNOR WALSH TO VISIT CLAN MacGREGOR

Plans Being Made for Grand Reception Probably at Music Hall

Will be Accompanied by Alexander MacGregor the Councillor

Clan MacGregor, O. S. C., held its regular meeting Monday evening. The final report in connection with the reception tendered to Royal Chief Findlay was read. It was voted to send a letter of thanks to those whose assistance had enabled the clan to make this affair such a success. This applied particularly to Provost's orchestra, whose selections had made the banquet so enjoyable.

GOVERNOR WALSH.

The clan is to be visited by Gov. David I. Walsh and Councillor Alex MacGregor on April 27. Plans are being made to secure one of the large halls in Quincy so that all the clansmen may have an opportunity to meet the Governor and Councillor.

(ADVERTISE.)

ASSAULT ON SPECIAL CAR

There was a lively scrap Monday night on one of the special cars containing workmen from the shipyard. The car on which the trouble took place, was that bound for West Quincy. The car as usual was crowder, and all the way up according to other passengers on the car, there was a wordy war between Charles G. Barnham and Arvid Kinnuer. When the car reached Brewers corner, according to the police version of the affair, the argument became warm. Suddenly Kinnuer lifted his tin lunch box and struck Burnham over the head with it. The blow stunned him for a minute and before he could recover himself he fell off into the street.

The car was stoped and the injured man was found to be unconscious when fellow workmen reached him. He was taken to the office of Dr. Hjalmar Ahlstrom where his injuries were treated.

The police officer on duty at Brewers corner was near at hand and Kinnuer was placed under arrest for assault and sent to the police station.

Barnham's injuries fortunately were not of a serious nature, although his escape is considered somewhat remarkable. The case came up in the district court this morning.

The Ladies Aid of the Swedish Congregational church will meet Thursday at 2 with Mrs. Nelson of 54 Garfield street.

AT THE FOY STORES

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

GREAT SALE OF SUGAR

AT THE LOWEST PRICE FOR YEARS!

25 lb. Bag $1.07

100 lb Bag $4.20

This is the American Sugar Refining Company's best fine granulated sugar. The sale starts Wednesday morning and continues until Saturday night, if lot lasts that long Order a good supply NOW.

DOMINO CONFECTIONERS SUGAR 6½c

DOMINO CUT LOAF SUGAR 2 lb pkg. 19c

SUGAR SALE AT BOTH FOY STORES

☞ ALL THIS WEEK at the ADAMS MARKET A young lady from the factory is demonstrating PRISCILLA PREPARED DOUGHNUT FLOUR.

You are invited to call

March 24-3t

LIBRARIAN IS NEEDED

To Make Accessible Relics of Historical Society

Editor Daily Ledger:

In looking over the diary and weather journal kept during the years 1862-1868 by the father of City Clerk Emery L. Crane, which is deposited in the archives of the Quincy Historical Society, I find many entries of local interest.

For instance, on July 4, 1864, Quincy Point and Back river bridges were freed from tolls, and the event was duly celebrated by the towns which profited thereby, by a parade, etc.

The tolls had been lifted from Neponset bridge the previous year. Many of the older residents will recall that Quincy avenue was always called the "Turnpike." A few years ago the old toll-house to the left of Quincy Point bridge entrance as you cross to Weymouth, was torn down. These toll bridges and turnpikes upon which a rate was charged, were established in Quincy early in the last century, and began to wane after the Old Colony railroad was opened in 1845, as, of course, the application of steam power marked the line between the ancient and the modern in commerce and all that makes up civilization.

It seems too bad that the collections of the Quincy Historical Society should not be more easily accessible to students. The society is able to preserve what they have on hand, but funds are not as yet available to properly maintain the collection of books, manuscripts, relics, etc., so that the public may profit by them. I regret to notice that the change of temperature gradually causes the labels to fall off articles donated, as the "Cottage" is unheated in winter. Benj. King who is in charge of the cottage keeps it scrupulously clean and neat, but we need more money and members, and a librarian who would carefully care for the collections which were made almost wholly by William G. Spear.

Very often out of town students or writers call upon me to show them some of our possessions, and I am very glad to do so, but a regular custodian would be much more efficient. The Dedham Historical Society have ideal quarters, and a permanent librarian. I hope we may soon have the same.

James L. Edwards.

☞ PRATT'S BREAD is wholesome, nutritious, crisp and delicious. Get it of your grocer.

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block 2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Dargin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Dargin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK CITY SQUARE (Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust, (Ask for Mr. Kribs.) Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Mayor And President of Council To Speak at Wollaston

Tonight will be "Quincy Night" at the Wollaston Congregational Mens club and Mayor Miller and the department heads will be special guests. Among those billed to speak are Mayor Miller and President Whiton of the City Council. Possibly there may be some display of fireworks.

The Mayor's office at City Hall is all torn up, which probably accounts for the reason that His Honor did not report at City Hall this morning. The carpenters are busy finishing up the doorway leading into the new office and the Mayor's office is full of dust and dirt and it would be impossible for him to have any privacy.

The Kissel car of Chief Billings is just out of the repair shop, with a new coat and as good as new. The company agreed to thoroughly overhaul the car and put it in first class condition, and this they have done. The car is now said to be as good as new.

Commenting on recent orders introduced in the City Council for new fire alarm boxes, Chief Billings says that before any more boxes are added the capacity of the circuit repeater should be increased. As the apparatus is now it is overloaded and is likely to break down at any time. What the Chief needs is a ten circuit repeater, but as the installation of this, with the necessary work of dividing the circuits, would cost in the vicinity of $10,000 it is unlikely to be done this year. The Chief believes, however, that no more boxes should be added until the capacity of the circuit repeater is increased.

The city officials at City Hall have been invited to attend the Mayor's night meeting of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange at the Copley Plaza Boston tonight. One thing that interested those city officials who received invitations this morning was the bottom line which read $4 a plate. It is very doubtful if many of the officials will part with four cold plunks for a dinner, unless they can charge it up against the city.

TEMPLAR VISITATION.

It is expected that between sixty and seventy sir knights of Quincy commandery, Knights Templar, will participate in the visitation Wednesday evening to De Molay commandery at Masonic Temple, Boston. The sir knights of Quincy commandery will leave Quincy on the 6.57 train, which stops at Wollaston and will be received by Commander Jameson of De-Molay commandery at 7.30. After the business session, the Quincy commandery will enjoy an entertainment which has been arranged for their benefit.

MAINE POTATOES

25c PECK

— AT —

Carlson's Restaurant

10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall

March 6-1m

INTERESTED IN THE BOYS

Rev. Stephen C. Lang Building Up Point Church

The good work of new pastor at Quincy Point, has attracted the attention of Boston papers. The Herald says:

The Rev. Stephen C. Lang, who recently assumed the pastorate of the Washington Street Congregational Church of Quincy, has adopted some unique methods to arouse interest on the part of young people in church work.

Mr. Lang is greatly interested in athletics and believes that an interest in church work among young people can be best aroused by the development of the physical powers.

When Mr. Lang came to Quincy in November last, he began by mingling with the young people of Quincy Point, that being the section of the Granite City in which the Washington Street Congregational Church is. He soon learned their general characteristics and matters in which they were interested. The majority, he found, were interested in some kind of athletic sports. He then began to take part with them in their games, including baseball, basket ball, bowling, etc. As a result of his labors many of these young people began to attend Sunday services at the church and are now constant attendants.

Having aroused their interest in church work, he has not allowed their fondness for athletics to abate. He has sought to develop it. Through his efforts basket ball and bowling teams have been organized and games have been played at the Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium.

Mr. Lang believes that walking is one of the best things to develop the muscular powers. He is himself a great walker and he has interested the young men in this form of exercise. Frequently Mr. Lang invites the young men of the church to join him in a three-mile tramp after the Sunday evening service, and the invitation is readily accepted.

Mr. Lang, in addition to having a baseball nine organized this season, hopes to have a tennis court laid out. He also contemplates yachting parties and picnics.

Through Pastor Lang's efforts, a large young people's Christian Endeavor Society has been organized, and they are proving active church workers. So interested are they in the work of their society that 93 per cent of its membership was present at the recent convention of the East Norfolk union in Quincy.

Says Mr. Lang of his line of campaign:

"The uphill job of the church is to compete with the street corner hanging that leads to all forms of demoralization. If a church can create enough activity to compete with this, though it may, only appear to hold the young people, it is doing more.

"Young men will like the minister that elects their sports. There is no compromise in this. The same young men that will bowl among themselves, "loser paying," will bowl with their pastor and never suggest such a thing The same young men that will stand on the corner after church gladly accept the minister's invitation to take a walk with him for three miles after his evening service and Sunday work is done. The young men that will do anything to play ball, when spring makes us hear of Red Sox and Braves' camps, will play a celaner game if the minister is red-blooded enough to get out with the boys. He can't tell them how to do it; he must show them how, and they'll believe him more on Sunday if he knows what to do on 'first' on Saturday."

The regular business meeting of Epworth League of the Hall Place M. E. church was held Monday evening. Reports of the various committees and departments were favorably received. The Ellis Island demonstration proved a great success. A nominating committee consisting of Alex Stewart, Warren Jordan and D. H. McNeil were appointed to bring in list of nominations for officers at the next meeting. After a discussion the business session was followed by a social hour.

FAKE CONSTRUCTION IN STONE BUILDING

Artificial Stone Now in Competition With Quincy and Other Granites

New Methods Have Wrought Great Changes of Late

There is much about the construction of a modern building that seems a bit marvelous to the average onlooker says a writer in the Christian Science Monitor. In the olden days, he may remember, before such contrivances as elevators and steel frame work came into fashion, and skyscrapers threatened to make cities about as tall as long, builders did much of their work on the site of erection. The materials were delivered to them a good deal in the rough, and they could chisel and carve, and fit and try to their heart's content.

Today, the seemingly countless individual pieces of wood and iron and stone arrive so carefully cut and numbered that the task of construction becomes little else than a matter of careful putting together. The pieces fit like so many children's blocks, and seem to give the impression that they have all been assembled and reassembled many times before.

Stone planning is in itself an art. From the standpoint of art the joints must be arranged on the face of the building evenly, in balance and in pleasing proportions. From the standpoint of construction they must be so calculated that they will come in exactly the right places at the floors, at the roof, at the corners, and around the doors and windows. Moreover, allowance must be made for spaces to hold the interbinding mortar. Thus the calculations for the stone cutting involve fractions such as three-eighths of an inch and three sixteenths of an inch are not always matters of simple figuring.

Modern inventors have not overlooked the business of stone cutting. In the four fields of stone cutting, hard, soft, cast stone and terra cotta, new methods have wrought great changes of late. Most far reaching in its effect has been the pneumatic chisel and drill, which requires little labor on the part of the operator and can deliver, a hundred strokes a minute if desired. This machine has reduced the time required for stone cutting and carving enormously, and is as applicable to a six-foot granite drill as to a marble cisel no larger than a knitting needle.

Granite, because of its hardness, does not lend itself readily to anything but most patient cutting and dressing, but limestone, being much softer, can now be handled very quickly. In the larger cutting plants it is handled like so much wood, and is cut by circular saws, smoothed by planes and bored into with much the same sort of tools as are used by woodworkers.

By all means the most interesting machine used in this work is the diamond saw. The word "diamond" is not fancifully applied, for the device actually includes a huge circular saw set around the edge with real diamonds. They are not the clear, white stones that are used in jewelry, to be sure, but for all that they are real black diamonds, said to be worth about $5 a carat.

These stones are about the size of dried peas and are set in pairs in interchangeable steel teeth. When the circumference of one of these saws has attained its normal speed of two miles a minute, it will eat its way through limestone at the rate of 12 inches in a minute, and with less of a fuss than is shown by a woodsaw tackling a knotty log. At the end of a month the diamond teeth are taken out and sent away to be recut and reset. A new set of diamond teeth is then put in place, at a cost of about $600.

Another saw, less novel in construction is the gang saw, which is nothing more than a long steel band held on edge between two great hanging arms. These arms swing ceaselessly back and forth, rubbing the edge of the band into the stone underneath until it finally wears its way through with the aid of a constant stream of

(Continued on Page Two.)

KEEP AHEAD

OF THE FLY AND YOUR NEIGHBOR BY HAVING YOUR

SCREENS

RECOVERED OR PAINTED NOW

HOLMES & HALL

1179 HANCOCK ST.

TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

MONUMENTS OR TABLETS ORDERED IN MARCH

D. A. No. 3752

Will receive prompt attention and be erected before Memorial Day

DEACON BROTHERS

Main Office and Works, 307-323 Center St.

Branches at 47 Court St., Plymouth, 495 State St., Springfield

H. E. RICKER, Quincy Representative, 24 Whitney Road.

March 24-3t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Established 1869.

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription

By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.

Incorporated.

TELEPHONES

News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

The common idea of reducing the cost of living is to petition Congress for something, rather than to take hold and raise a vegetable garden.

Now that you can't send children any more by parcel post, Mother can't send the kids in this way over to a neighbor while she goes to the bridge party.

The ball games are beginning on Southern diamonds, and the American people are preparing to develop their muscles by watching the games from the bleachers.

The Suffragists warn politicians against dodging the issue, just as if women could ever throw straight.

As Secretary Bryan has six grandchildren, he can now buy presents by the half dozen and get a reduction.

The current descriptions of Gen. Villa's personality suggest that if the beefsteak were scorched some morning he might create a slight domestic unpleasantness by shooting his wife.

A delegation of San Francisco's unemployed is marching from California to Washington. All they have to do to get attention is to show that they come from a doubtful Congressional district.

CARRRYING BUNDLES.

Small facts of daily life often have considerable economic significance. Social students say the cost of household supplies is greatly increased by the popular demand that goods be delivered at the homes.

Yet one reason for the economies effected by the parcel post has been in the willingness of people to bring their packages to the post office to be mailed, while they demand of the express company that it send a team to their doors.

Years ago father used to bring an armful of household supplies with him when he returned from work. Mother used to go out with a market basket and bring home vegetables and meats. The butcher's and grocer's bills would be less if people would do the same thing today. But some people seem to think it does not look well to carry bundles in the street. That was a consideration that never occurred to a previous generation.

LARGER CITY COUNCIL.

There are many advocates these days of small city councils, but the city of Newport, Rhode Island, goes to the other extreme and has a model city government, which meets with favor in Brookline. At a meeting in Brookline this week Admiral Chadwick explained the Newport elective method and pointed out how the city had benefited since it was put in operation seven years ago. The Legislative Council is composed of 195 members. This body is not large enough to become unwieldy, nor small enough to be controlled by political influence, he said. We have never had trouble in getting candidates. An effort was made two years ago to change the charter, but only politicians and officeholders were back of the movement.

If the city of Quincy was divided into 15 or 20 precincts, and ten councilmen elected from each precinct, it would better represent all communities and become a more representative government, more like a town meeting. Then abolish all standing committees, except possibly a finance committee, and limit the number of meetings to one a month or ten a year. These meetings would be more like the town meetings, the ideal government.

THE MODERN NOVEL.

The editor, having spent some odd hours the past winter in reading a number of contemporary works of fiction, feels moved to ask his readers and brother newspaper men what they think of the modern novel anyway.

The old-time novel took a very high moral tone. The hero was a frank faced and clear eyed youth, who struggled against fate and circumstance and who fell in love with a high minded girl. Finally they married and lived happy for ever after.

Marriage now is apt to be a rather early incident in the story. The hero has a fatal capacity for picking out the girl he didn't really want. This of course was not due to his own lack of brains, but to some fateful decree of physical passion, which he couldn't help. Afterward he discovers that his wife is a nobody. Around in the next street is a pure and high ideal of femininity, whom he should have selected in the first place. Hence ructions!

Sex feeling is a big element in human life, but it is not everything. As life grows more complex with its struggles of business, society, politics, a great many other interests meet and clash and create dramatic situations worthy of fine fictional treatment. The best fiction writers are giving more and more prominence to these other aspects of life.

Ten years ago the railroad station news stands were covered with long libraries of paper 10 and 20 cent novels. Now they are apt to be put under the counter, while the news dealer displays newspapers and illustrated magazines. It is comparatively rare today to see a man reading a novel on the train. Perhaps one trouble is that modern writers have given the sex motives such a morbid prominence that it surfeits healthy minded people. As some one has said, the modern novel is too erotic, neurotic, and tommyrotic!

WILL BENEFIT QUINCY.

Cut these out, and paste them up where you can see them at least once every day.

That you will keep so busy boosting that you won't have time to knock.

That you will vote, talk and work for a bigger, better, brighter city.

That you will help to make this a good city so the city can make good.

That you will increase the value of your property by improving its appearance.

That you will say something good about Quincy every time you write a letter.

That you will invest your money here where you made it and where you can watch it.

That you will not point out the city's defects to a stranger or fail to point them out to a neighbor.

That you will keep your premises picked up and your buildings repaired as a matter of both pride and profit.

That you will never buy a thing outside the city until the local merchants have been given a chance to sell it to you.

That you will brag about Quincy so much that you will have to work for it in order to keep from being a liar.

That you will take half a day right now to pick up the odds and ends around the place and turn them into either use, money or ashes.

That you will contribute as much money as you can afford, and as much enthusiasm as anybody, to any movement to develop the city's resources.

That you will join the movement to induce the people to do their buying at home or, if there is no such movement, that you will start one.

FAKE CONSTRUCTION

(Continued from Page One)

sand and water. This progresses through the soft limestone at the rate of four inches in an hour and through the marble at the rate of about four inches in a day.

Fluid stone that is poured into molds like so much molten metal is the latest device in stone making. The stone fluid is a wet mixture of sand, cement and coloring which is poured into molds of sand and is rock-hard with in 24 hours. This is an inexpensive form of construction that deceives the layman (examples of it may be seen in the capitals and statues on the new Boston city hall annex) and lends itself to intricate designs. But many architects of good standing have refused to approve of its use, claiming that it is "fake" construction, unworthy of a place on any important building and not permanent. Other architects claim that its use is legitimate and that it makes possible ornamental buildings that otherwise would have to be absolutely simple because of lack of funds.

Inflammatory.

At a dinner of firemen recently the following sentiment was proposed: "The Ladies! Their eyes kindle the only flame which we cannot extinguish, and against which there is no insurance."

CANNOT COUNT UPON THE ARMY

England Unlikely to Engage In Hostilities In Ulster

ASQUITH CALLED A PALTERER

Law Says Moving of Troops Is Due to No New Situation In Irish Province —Indications That Premier Is Weakening—Says He Is Merely Guarding Against Possible "Contingency"

London, March 24.—Before an assemblage which packed the house of commons, War Secretary Seely admitted that many officers of the British army had declined to serve in the event of the occupation of Ulster. Seely attributes the declination of the men to serve "under certain contingencies" to a misunderstanding by the officers ordered on duty.

The movement of troops, which has been under way for the past few days, was solely for the purpose of protecting arms and ammunition, the war secretary said.

The whole affair is generally accepted as demonstrating that the army cannot be counted upon to fight Sir Edward Carson's volunteers if such a contingency should arise. Opposition politicians declare this to be the collapse of the home rule project and express their belief that the government may soon relinquish office by its own choice.

The statement that some officers had handed in their resignations as a result of the movement of troops into Ulster was made the ground of a vigorous attack on the government by Bonar Law, the Opposition leader.

In effect he charged Premier Asquith with foolish paltering. There was no new situation in Ulster, he said, to justify the use of the military, and he suggested that it was the plan of the government to provoke collisions. He furthermore said the British army was being destroyed before the eyes of the country and demanded that the officers of army and navy be assured that they would not be called upon to fight their countrymen.

Asquith, replying to Law, said it was the duty of the army, officers and men, to obey orders and to admit the dictum laid down by the Tory leader that a soldier refusing to serve was only doing his duty was to present a new danger.

If a statement given by Asquith means anything, it means that he still flinches from the task that confronts him. He says the use of troops against Ulster is "a contingency which the government hopes never will arise." The movements of the military, he says, are merely precautionary and for the protection of army depots. He says further that the arrest of Ulster leaders was never contemplated.

The Ulsterites say they are not looking for trouble and the Nationalists say they will keep the peace while the king is doing his best to prevent bloodshed. Under these conditions it is difficult to tell just what will happen, but The Chronicle, a government organ, perhaps furnishes a clew when it says Asquith has promised a general election in July in exchange for Unionist support for home rule, plural voting and Welsh disestablishment.

WILL REFUSE TO SERVE

General Defection of Army Officers Reported In Ulster

Belfast, March 24.—Reports received by the officials of the provisional government apparently indicate that at least 70 percent of the officers of the infantry battalions of regulars now quartered in Ulster would refuse to serve in a campaign against the province.

Major General Macready, of the adjutant general's staff of the war office, arrived at Belfast yesterday. He came for the purpose of making a tour of the barracks and explaining the situation in such a way as to prevent the resignation of the officers.

He was informed that nearly all the officers of the Norfolk regiment, quartered at Holy Wood barracks, four miles from Belfast, had expressed their readiness to resign rather than accept orders to take part in an anti-Ulster campaign.

All the officers of the Norfolks were informed they would be allowed a few hours to consider whether they would remain loyal. They were then cross examined separately. It is said that among those remaining loyal are officers whose sympathies are with Ulster but who cannot afford to sacrifice their pay. The same applies to many other officers of the various regiments now in Ulster.

It is understood that the percentage of refusals to serve among the Dorsets is even higher than among the Norfolks. Most of the battalions in the provinces held caucuses, showing a preponderance of sympathy among the officers for Ulster.

The provisional government officials are enthusiastic over what they consider a crushing defeat for the imperial government, but continue their active preparations for war at the behest of Sir Edward Carson, who declares that he will continue to take such action until assured that the danger has passed.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

Mrs. Nathan Buck of Adams street is confined to her home with bronchitis.

Rev. Forshee of the Baptist Berean Temple, of Dorchester, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Philippines," Monday evening in the First Baptist church.

The Evening Guild of the Mission church of Our Saviour, East Milton, are to give a may pole dancing party in Ellsworth hall, May 2-3.

The dancing class of East Milton is to give a dancing party in honor of their teacher, Miss Edna Donell, in Ellsworth hall Friday evening, April 3. The matrons will be Mrs. E. W. Pierce and Mrs. E. P. Libby.

James B. Lewis of Petersburg avenue and a foreman at the Wollaston Rivet factory has been confined to his home for several weeks on account of illness.

Mrs. George Choate of Grafton avenue, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Loury at Concord.

William McClarion of East Milton is planning to build a bungalow on Martin terrace in the early spring.

The Thursday Evening club is to give its third annual dance in Ellsworth hall, Monday evening, April 12

Mrs. Loury, nee Alice Choate of Concord, Mass., formerly of East Milton, is receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter.

The Cunningham Juniors defeated the Rail Reds of West Quincy at basketball, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 14 to 7. The lineup for Milton was: McDonald, Lewis, Holidge, Murphy and Duggan; for West Quincy, Bennet, Crowley, Connelly, Lakin and Ferider.

The Woodsum class of the First Baptist church is now in the lead in the contest with the Men's class of the Randolph Baptist church by one-half of a per cent. Sunday there were 55 men present. Sunday March 29 Daniel McKay of Boston, will speak on: "A Message from the man behind the bars."

Mrs. Sidney Cornell, nee Edna Colbranson of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., is visiting her parents at their home on Adams street, East Milton.

NEW SCOUT SHIPS.

The special naval commission of France, says a cable to Monitor, which has been sitting to consider the program of M. Baudin, former minister of marine, has lately issued a report on the proposal, made by the naval council held in February, for the substitution of a new type of scout cruiser to the three 6000 tons scouts provided for in M. Baudin's program.

The report states that the commission has decided to adopt the new vessels as additions to the fleet instead of as substitutes. The new ships will have a displacement of 4500 tons, and will be put in hand this year.

DISTRICT COURT.T

Avid Kinneur was arraigned for assault on Charles G. Barnham at Quincy. Case continued until Friday.

Charles McColgan was fined $10 for drunkennes at Quincy.

Michael Quinn was fined $15 for creating a disturbance on a street car at Quincy.

☞PRATT'S BREAD is baked by experts in proved ovens. Sold by grocers.

MAKES OLD PEOPLE STRONG AND WELL

We want to get the news to all old people about Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion, a remarkable new food-medicine which we firmly believe is the best remedy ever made to overcome the weakening, debilitating effects of increasing old age. It helps to rebuild wasted tissues, strengthen the nerves, and give new energy and a lively feeling to the body. It contains no alcohol or dangerous drug. It may not make you feel better for a few days, but if you do not feel much better and stronger before you have taken a quarter as much as you have of other medicines that have not helped you, we will gladly give back your money.

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion contains pure Olive Oil and the Hypophosphites which, though they have long been endorsed by successful physicians, are here for the first time combined. The result is a real body, nerve and blood-building food-medicine that we believe is superior to anything else in overcoming debility, weakness and liability to disease, and to tone and strengthen the nerves and enrich the blood. You who are weak and run-down—you who are often troubled by various cold weather ailments, use Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion to get and keep well and strong. It is a sensible, pleasant-tasting aid to renewed strength, better spirits, glowing health. If it doesn't help you, come and tell us and we will give back your money without a word. That is how much faith we have in it. Sold only at the 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. $1.00.

Edward J. Murphy, 1415 Hancock Cor. Granite Sts., Quincy, Mass.

BATTLE RAGING NEAR TORREON

Villa's Troops Reported Repulsed In First Encounter

FEDERALS WELL INTRENCHED

Position on Mountain Slopes Shelled at Opening of Engagement—Official Report That Benton Was Stabbed to Death—Americans Fire on and Rout Squad of Mexican Troops

Juarez, Mex., March 24.—The rebels were repulsed in the first attack on Torreon. Villa rushed his entire force to aid Ortega.

The battle of Torreon opened yesterday afternoon, according to an official dispatch received here by General Chao, military governor of the state of Chihuahua, and signed by General Villa.

"I have just begun attack on Gomez Palacio and will take it tonight," was the substance of the message. It was filed at El Verjel, a village five miles north of Gomez Palacio. The latter city is a suburb of Torreon.

Villa occupied Lerdo, a nearby manufacturing city, earlier in the day.

Gomez Palacio, a railroad centre of importance, lies on a plain, but it is commanded by a mountain called Cerro La Pila. The heights, according to recent reports, were fortified by the federals, and it is assumed that Villa's attack opened with a shelling of the federal position on its rugged slopes.

MEXICANS MAKE A MISTAKE

Fare Badly After Shooting Horses of United States Cavalrymen

Eagle Pass., Tex., March 24.—American soldiers and Mexican federals engaged in a short, sharp battle at McGee Crossing, three miles above Del Rio on the Rio Grande, in which several federal soldiers were killed.

The federals, 300 strong, were attempting to pursue a defeated constitutionalist force which was escaping to the United States and safety, when they met the resistance at the hands of the border patrol of United States cavalry, fifteen men, commanded by Captain Winterburn.

When three horses held by American troopers had been shot down, the troops returned the fire, which lasted for about ten minutes before the Mexicans withdrew, carrying with them the dead and injured. How many were killed is not known. No American was injured.

Official reports of the occurrence to Colonel Sibley, commanding at Fort Clarke, here, caused orders for all available cavalry of the border patrol to proceed to Del Rio.

The clash across the international line was precipitated, according to official reports to headquarters here, by persistent firing by the federals at the fleeing constitutionalists, who had gained American territory and surrendered to United States troops.

BENTON STABBED TO DEATH

Not Killed by Firing Squad, as First Reported by Villa

Washington, March 24.—William S. Benton, the English subject killed in Mexico by General Villa's order, was stabbed to death and not shot, according to an official report made to British Ambassador Spring-Rice by British Consul Perceval, who investigated the case.

Ambassdor Spring-Rice announced that no other details of the killing would be made public until after the report had been received at the foreign office in London.

The report establishes that Benton's death was not caused by shooting, as was first said by Villa, who alleged that Benton had been executed by a firing squad after court martial.

STRANGLES IN CARRIAGE

Bonnet String Catches Throat of Baby When He Turns Over

Cleveland, March 24.—William H. Yeomans, baby son of Henry Yeomans, a wealthy mine owner, was left alone in his carriage on the porch of his home.

When the nurse returned, she found that a string on the child's bonnet had caught on a hook at the side of the buggy and, in turning over, the infant had strangled to death.

Allowed Deserter to Get Away

Washington, March 24.—Corporal Stephen Nichols, in charge of the American recruiting station at Chicago, was sentenced by court martial to reduction to the ranks and to lose his pay for three months for failing to keep in custody a deserting soldier who had surrendered himself.

Vacation For Laborers

Boston, March 24.—In spite of the opposition of Mayor Curley and the Boston finance commission, Governor Walsh signed the bill to give laborers employed by cities and towns two weeks' vacation without loss of pay.

Fat Man Utilizes Ventilator

New York, March 24.—A few minutes before he was to be arraigned on a theft charge, John Martin, who weighs 200 pounds, escaped by squeezing through a ventilator in Jefferson market court.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

PERISHABLE PAPERS

are perhaps kept in your house with nothing between them and destruction or theft but a thin wall of wood. That isn't prudent, when for $5 you can encase them in steel—in a box accessible to YOU ONLY—in our fire and burglar proof vault. Use a Granite Trust Safety-deposit box and sleep well o'-nights

Our $5 Box Is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

CHARMING NEW FROCKS FOR TWO PRETTY LITTLE MAIDENS

EMBROIDERED LINEN FROCKS WITH SMART WIDE SASHES.

IN children's dresses the low waist line is emphasized this season. For small girls the line is generally marked by a wide sash or girdle. Two attractive spring models are shown here. They are carried out in linen and are hand embroidered. The elbow sleeves and round neck lines are finished with embroidered scallops. They are of blue velvet ribbon and of satin respectively. The frock to the left has the popular side closing and is adjusted over the shoulder with an embroidered tab.

WOLLASTON PARK

WHY NOT HAVE THE

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LEFT AT YOUR HOME
EVERY AFTERNOON
BY A RELIABLE BOY

GEORGE COBB

116 KEMPER STREET

Telephone Quincy 1965 M

Will Deliver Anywhere in the Park

→ TRY HIM ←

Advertise in the Ledger

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas West of Holbrook observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage with a reunion of family and friends Sunday.

Friedericka G. Hoffman, wife of Andrew G. Hoffman died Sunday at her home at 77 Blue Hill avenue, Milton. She was in her 74th year.

Dedham commuters claim early morning cars are cold and they have protested to the officials of the road on account of it.

Hingham appropriated, in special town meeting, $1800 for the purpose of erecting a suitable building at rifle range in South Hingham for Co. K, 5th Regiment, M. V. M. and $100 for the purpose of providing toilet facilities in the house of Combination 1 of the fire department. Capt. Walter L. Bouve of Co. K and the selectmen will direct the construction of the rifle range building.

The Milton Memorial Association meets at the Milton Public Library Wednesday evening.

The players of the 1914 hockey team of Milton high school were awarded their school letters and sweaters Saturday. They were Capt. Axel Gustafson, Gerald Poole, Hugh Robertson, George Bearse, John White, Robert Sweeney, George Simpson, Walter Farrell, Chester Whittemore.

The hearing on the charges preferred against Edward A. McCue, chief of the Milton fire department will be heard in the committee room of Town all tonight.

Hon. Albert E. Avery was re-elected president of the Cochato club Saturday night by the executive board.

The election of Local 78, Boot and Shoe Workers Union of Holbrook resulted in a tie vote between Frank B. Dumar and Patrick Ronan for business agent and treasurer. Another election will be held.

Miss Elizabeth Burgess and Miss Frances Fairchild carried hose and chemicals to the top story of the house of Theodore P. Burgess of Dedham on Sunday afternoon and held in check a fire which threatened to do heavy damage. When the department arrived it extinguished the blaze, with a loss of less than $500.

Daniel T. O'Connell, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congressman from the 12th district spoke on the possibility of developing Neponset river valley at a noon-day rally at the Stearns lumber mills, Neponset, Monday. He pledged himself to begin work "immediately as soon as elected." Mr. O'Connell is being well received in Neponset and was given an ovation by 500 workingmen from the various yards in the vicinity.

Edward W. Jones, town treasurer of Hingham, has purchased the 15-room frame house, with all modern improvements and 17000 square feet of land, situated on Lafayette avenue, Hingham, from Leonard Goodwin of Short Hills, N. J. The property is one of the most valuable in that town and is ideal for residential purposes.

CLOSE OF DANCING CLASS.

The beginners and advanced dancing classes of Miss Agnes Hayward until Monday afternoon for their closing party at Alpha hall, about 80 participating. The matrons were Mrs. A. H. Reddick, Mrs. W. W. Jenness, Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Howard Spear. The hours were from four to six and the children showed that they had mastered many steps and enjoyed dancing. The hall was prettily decorated. Ice cream and cake were served.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. R. Pettengill's, 1321 Hancock street, Quincy. Feb. 27-tf

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

Storm Gods.

Storm gods in the mountains have ever been the inspiration of some of the world's best poetry and of fascinating legends in that literary storehouse—Asiatic, Egyptian and classic mythology. And, by the way, many students are now looking beyond the Aryans, beyond the Egyptians, beyond all Greeks, Minoans and Latins, to a vast civilization antedating their most ancient histories—looking to now sunken Poseid.

All phenomena in nature, such as lightning, outbursts of rain, hail and snow in summits and ranges of peaks, all marshaling of huge mountain clouds for elemental war—earthquakes, cyclones, hurricanes, waterspouts at sea, huge waves beating over land as destroyers, outbursts of sulphurous and asphaltic flames from the earth, apparitions in the sky, as meteors, fireballs, bolides, comets, eclipses of the sun and moon—these all were supposed to be caused by an intelligence ruling each, and they were persons higher than man and called gods.—New York American.

Seven Ways of Spelling "E."

Dealing with some objections to spelling reform Mr. William Archer told the Society of Shorthand Teachers in London that there was not a single letter in the English language to which only one sound was attached, nor was there a sound which was represented by only one letter. If they took the "e" sound in "bed," they, he said, would find it spelled seven different ways in as many different words, for exactly the same vowel sound occurred in "head," "many," "leopard," "said," "says" and "pepper." When a child asked why "proceed" and "recede" were not spelled in a similar way, nobody could possibly give him a reasonable answer.

The word "sovereign," Mr. Archer said, was so spelled today because of its supposed connection with the word "reign." As a matter of fact, there was no connection between the two and the proper spelling was that which Milton used—i. e., "sovran."—London Spectator.

Systematic Birds.

"Doubtless," said the professor of natural history to the returned traveler, "you have picked up many strange bits of information regarding the animals and birds of the countries you have visited."

"A few," answered the traveler. "The most interesting thing I ever heard, however, was a story I got in Africa. It seems that a year or so ago a representative of a rubber stamp house went through there and lost his sample case, containing all kinds of office stamping apparatus. It appears that some ostriches found his sample case, broke it open and swallowed the samples."

"I see nothing odd about that. Ostriches will eat anything."

"Yes, but now every ostrich egg that is found there is seen to be numbered and dated!"—London Tit-Bits.

Sites of the Capital.

The capital of the United States has been located at different times at the following places: At Philadelphia from Sept. 5, 1774, to December, 1776; at Baltimore Dec. 20, 1776, to March 1777; Philadelphia, March 4, 1777, to September, 1777; Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 27, 1777, to Sept. 30, 1777; York, Pa., Sept. 30, 1777, to July, 1778; Philadelphia, July 2, 1778, to June 30, 1783; Princeton, N. J., June 30, 1783, to Nov. 20, 1783; Annapolis, Md., Nov. 26, 1783, to Nov. 30, 1784; Trenton, N. J., from November, 1784, to January, 1785; New York, Jan. 14, 1785 to 1790. Then the seat of the government was removed to Philadelphia, where it remained until 1800, since which time it has been in Washington.

Decimated.

We speak of a city or an army being "decimated" when we mean to imply that it has suffered from many fatalities. The term is taken—and taken wrongly—from an old and barbarous custom of punishing mutinous regiments, town defenders, etc., by killing one man out of every ten ("decimus" being the Latin word for "tenth"). Thus, unless we mean that precisely one person in ten was killed, our use of "decimate" is incorrect.

Very Considerate.

"Dis ain' de same umbrella I lent you," said Uncle Rasberry.

"'Cohse it ain'," replied Erastus Pinkley. "Wif all dem good umbrellas to pick f'um you didn' s'pose I were g'ine ter bring you back yoh same ol' cotton rain proof, did you? When I borrows I pays interest."—Washington Star.

The Reptile.

Schoolmaster—So, then, the reptile is a creature which does not stand on feet and moves along by crawling on the ground. Can any one of you boys name me such a creature? Johnny—Please, sir, my baby brother.—London Tit-Bits.

Rain Gauges.

Although the invention of the rain gauge is attributed to an Italian contemporary with Galilei, such instruments were in use in Korea at least two centuries before his time.

A Counsel For Living.

Let not future things disturb thee, for thou wilt come to them if it shall be necessary, having then the same reason which now thou usest for present things.—Marcus Aurelius.

Plain Goodness.

Do not be troubled because you have not great virtues. God made a million spears of grass when he made one tree.—Henry Ward Beecher.

CO-OPERATION OF MERCHANTS

An Example of How They Pull Together Elsewhere

Here is co-operation among merchants that amounts to something, and might well be extended to protect other local industries. Twenty-five or more of the grocers and other merchants of Spencer have signed the following agreement:

"We, the undersigned merchants of the town of Spencer, Mass., hereby agree with each other that on and after April 1, 1914 to discontinue entirely the purchase of bread from outside dealers, and agree to purchase our entire bread supply from Spencer bakeries. We do this for the purpose of encouraging home industry and Spencer merchants."

Every city and town has industries which it should protect. Quincy should not only advocate the building of warships at private yards and the use of Quincy granite, but also the use of printing from Quincy shops and newspapers printed in Quincy plants.

OFF NIGHT IN CITY SQUARE

City Square, usually the scene of bustle, excitement and heavy crowds from early evening until after midnight, with of course a gradual and natural decrease, passed through one of the quietest nights in its history Monday night. It seemed as though 10.30 sounded "lights out" signal, no one being in evidence after that other than the regulars that reach the place no matter what the weather conditions are.

In fact the quietness first struck home about seven o'clock when the incoming trolleys arrived with small passenger lists and left with a smaller one. Lodges barely secured quorums so that meetings were held and then the quietness of the night made itself felt in these surroundings and there was an early adjournment.

The only sign of life was at the Kincaide theatre where a stream of theatre goers, rain or shine, pass through the entrance. At no other place was there visible any signs of city life.

The cars arriving at City Square after 11 o'clock carried from three to five passengers and the East Weymouth last trips were made with less than seven, a small number compared with the regular patronage. The cafes in City Square were deserted and to the regulars, doctors and policemen, no stranger appeared to interrupt their peace.

NOVEL TRIP.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. McIntire returned this week from a cruise in Florida waters in their houseboat, the Nimble Turtle. Carrying an automobile on deck they were able to see all the territory adjacent to the waterways on the East coast, running the auto off on skids and touring the country at leisure. This novel arrangement caused considerable comment all along the route. The houseboat was put out of commission at Miami, Mr. and Mrs. McIntire coming up the length of the state in the automobile. They report a very enjoyable winter.

Not Triplets.

My little grandson was told by his mother to run across the street and inquire of a lady who was going by with three little babes in a cart if they were triplets. He soon came back, looking much disappointed, and said: "No, they are not triplets. They were born the same day, but two of them are girls and the other one is a boy."—Exchange.

Keep it always at hand
JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
For Aches, Pains, Colds, Sore Throat, Bowel Troubles, Rheumatism. Used internally and externally.
IN USE 100 YEARS
25c and 50c Bottles
Parsons' Pills tone the system
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc. Boston, Mass.

NEPONSET RIVER WORK

Hyde Park Appreciates Work of Senator Langelier

After an enforced idleness of six weeks because of the extremely severe wintry weather and the burning of the big dipper dredge on Sunday, Feb. 1, the work of improving the Neponset river is once more in full swing, says the Hdye Park Gazette, and it is confidently expected that the entire work under the present contract and appropriation will be finished not later than Nov. 1, 1914.

This means a new channel from the Mattapan Paper mills dam to the outlet from the Norwood Sewage Filter beds, completed before next winter, a distance of ten and one half miles with over 300,000 cubic yards of material dredged from the old channel and in the cutoffs, reducing the original length of the river by over one and one-half miles.

Senator Louis F R. Langelier and Representative Wm. L. F. Gilman of the Hyde Park district have followed up their campaign promises by showing a vital interest in the improvement of the Neponset river.

This work of improvement provides for the adjustment of the entrances of all tributary streams including Mother brook, Ponkapoag brook, Pecunit brook, Purgatory brook, two brooks just above Purgatory brook, the Canton river, two brooks above the Canton river and Traphole brook. When this work is completed the new river channel is expected to be able to satisfactorily carry off all flood waters, without flooding the meadow areas above Paul's bridge, except once in perhaps twelve or fifteen years when extreme freshets come.

In a special interview by the Gazette Senator Langelier said: "The complete improvement of the Neponset river to an extent which will assure to the farm owners on the meadows, the property owners along the stream and the public in general, the fullest benefits from this large public work, has always been foremost in my mind. The result of the work so far done under the Act of 1911, as seen in the successful handling of the recent heavy freshets, although only about 65 per cent of the dredging has so far been completed, give promise of a great improvement under the appropriations so far authorized."

HIS DREAM MATERIALIZED.

Curious Incident In the Career of Novelist S. R. Crockett.

One morning the postman brought to S. R. Crockett, the novelist, a letter from the editor of the St. James' Gazette containing a small check as payment for a contribution. Mr. Crockett knew that nothing was due to him, that he had been paid for all articles, and—remarkable man—he did the check up in an explanatory note and returned it to the editor.

The next day back came the check from the editor—remarkable man—with a note saying it was due. The St. James Gazette had published an article from the pen of Mr. Crockett which had not been paid for, hence the check. Again Mr. Crockett—remarkable man—returned the check, and still the remarkable editor reforwarded it, this time with the article cut out of the columns of the St. James' Gazette.

Now comes the curious feature of the incident. When Mr. Crockett clapped his eyes on the article he was astonished to find it one of his dreams materialized. One night, going to bed extra tired, he dreamed that a good idea for a St. James' Gazette column had occurred to him, that he then and there sat down, wrote it and posted it. Next morning he remembered his dream and made up his mind some day to write the article exactly as he dreamed he had written it, when, to his astonishment, came article and check from the newspaper. Few writers earn checks while asleep.—London Standard.

—At a recent meeting of western New York publishers in Rochester plans were made for putting a check on what they termed advertising space grafters. One of the publishers bravely placed Uncle Sam on the black list, saying: "Publishers of weekly newspapers are greeted by many requests to publish notices about the parcel post, and I have even observed that the postmasters have been instructed by the postoffice department to obtain all possible publicity for the system without expense to the department. The government made money last year in competing with express companies and we think it can and should pay for its advertising." It can safely be assumed that no intelligent newspaper conductor will bar information about the postal service that might be of advantage to his readers.—Milford Gazette.

NEW YORK SPRING MODES.

The Vogue of Coats—Goffine Cords, Bustles and Panniers—Bandeaux Hats.

No one can view any representative collection of new Spring models without being impressed with the great variety and importance of coats. From the loose-flowing lines of the Gabardine types, to the unlimited fanciful makes of little coatees, this style of garment is omnipresent. Gowns of the one piece sort are designed to give a coatee effect, and meet with instant favor from the many women who prefer a note of difference in their street attire.

Extra coats that may top odd skirts or dresses are shown in many fantastic styles, that while attractive would be too conspicuous, if it were not that so many are worn. A coat of cherry colored poplin, cut on blouse lines with the popular epaulet yoke, has an extremely wide flat belt, flaring sleeve cuffs, and the rippling skirt that averages knee length prolonged into two envelope points at the left side. Large buttons of Chinese lacquer finish the belt at the centre front, and a sizable butterfly bow of black velvet is perched on the left label.

LAPEL BOWS.

This idea of a lapel bow in strong contrast with the cost material has been widely copied from the original Paris model. One sees a touch of "Tilleul"—the color of a lime, Tango—or flame color, added in this way to quiet toned get-ups, and dark bows and butterflies used similarly to tone the brilliance of a high colored garment, taking them out of the commonplace as a decided contrast will, if cleverly employed.

A CHERUIT COAT.

A Cheruit model is a wrap of black moire silk with flaring ruffle tunics

5767
5777
5776 Hat

© McCall.

The above designs are by The McCall Company, New York. Designers and Makers of McCall Patterns.

following its curving edge. The collar of soft rose velvet, the lining rose-colored crepe-de-Chine printed in floral pattern. Another extra wrap made up in black, white or taup silk poplin has a draped hood collar, and soft revers and lining of flowered chiffon cloth.

"Non-Puncture" Auto Tires
Guaranteed 7,500 Miles Service

These tires bear the greatest known mileage guarantee, yet are sold at a price even less than tires of ordinary guarantee. This guarantee covers punctures, blow-outs and general wear. Guarantee covers 7,500 miles service against everything except abuse. These tires are intended for most severe service. As a SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY offer, we will allow the following prices for the next ten days.

TIRES	TUBES
28x3 $ 9.20	$ 2.00
30x3 10.25	2.30
30x3½ 13.50	2.80
32x3½ 14.05	3.00
34x3½ 15.25	3.20
31x4 17.00	3.25
32x4 18.00	3.30
33x4 19.50	3.40
34x4 20.40	3.60
35x4 21.00	3.80
36x4 22.00	3.90
35x4½ 26.00	5.00
36x4½ 27.00	5.10
37x4½ 27.50	5.15
37x5 32.60	5.40

All other sizes. Non-Skids 20 per cent extra. 5 per cent discount if payment in full accompanies order and if two are so ordered, shipping charges will be paid by us. C. O. D. on 15 per cent of amount of order. Our output is limited, so we suggest early ordering. We sell direct only, giving purchaser the advantage of all middlemen's profits.

NON-PUNCTURE TIRE FACTORY
Dayton, Ohio.

Granite Shoe Store
LA FRANCE SHOES

Your desire for quality and still leaves you cheerful as regards expense.

You can pay more and get no better.

You can pay the same and not get as good.

No. 351 is a classy high shoe in our Copley Model. Made in Sterling Patent Colt, mat top, button, welt, with the new kidney heel.

No. 251 is the same model in Gun Metal, cloth top.

LA FRANCE

CORRECTNESS OF LINE.

To secure the correct effect for one's gown, the underwear must be right, since any faulty lines are at once apparent with the present style of dress. "Knickers" confined at the knee in many pretty ways, are constantly gaining in favor, and are built of soft satins and silks with detachable wool linings for present wear. Outlines depend above all on the shape, style and fit of the corset these days, and the enterprise of the leading American manufacturer of these garments, who maintains agents in all the foreign style centres, gives everyone a chance to obtain the authoritative models just launched for the coming season. One can be sure that whatever the model her figure needs, or price she chooses to pay, the new Warner rust-proof corset will be up-to-date in style, and the makers guarantee wear and comfort as well as fashionable lines.

THE BUSTLE.

The much dreaded revival of the bustle has come, but so far from suggesting deformity it is distinctly smart and pretty. The difference lies in the way the lines are secured. The new bustle is obtained with a huge bow of taffeta, or with certain drapings of the material, not with any padding or stiffening. It falls in with the pannier lines that are seen on all sorts of frocks modified to suit the nature of the material employed, and the type. Flat backs and anything suggesting tightness at waist or hips, belongs in the limbo of dead styles. Gowns are loose everywhere except at the foot, but notwithstanding this if they are correctly worn the draperies suggest graceful contours not clumsiness.

BANDEAUX HATS.

Hats are apt to be poised at the desired angle by various bandeaux devices, and in very many cases the trimmings of quilted ribbon, flowers or feathers are placed on this and below the overhanging brim. Coiffures have changed in league with new hat lines, and the saying that "women conceal only their ears" is no longer apt for once more these are shown, with only now and then a quaint little curl hanging over them to partly screen their contours. Hats are either all crown, standing up in very Grenadier style, with a big flap at the side, to make them more extreme, or flat plateaux affairs tipped up to show the hair at side, or back, or both, supported by fancy bandeaux trimmings, and trimmed with quaint wreaths of flatly placed posies. All trimmings are light and no end of jet and nets are worn.

Fannie Field.

New York, March 15, 1914.

Piles Cured In 6 to 14 Days
Druggists refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. First application gives relief. 50c.

OVER 10,000 DAILY READERS

Quincy, Mass., March 16, 1914.

To the Merchants of Quincy and others:

This is to certify that over 2,000 copies of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER have been printed and circulated every issue since January 1, 1914; and averaged much higher, as many days 2,500 to 3,500 copies have been printed and circulated. This gives the Quincy Daily Ledger from 10,000 to 15,000 READERS EVERY DAY.

(Signed) FRANK F. PRESCOTT,
Managing Editor.

Then personally appeared before me this Sixteenth day of March, 1914, the said Frank F. Prescott, managing editor of the Quincy Daily Ledger, and made oath that the statements above are true.

(Notary) CLARENCE BURGIN,
(Seal) Notary Public.

A CHALLENGE

The publishers of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER hereby challenge any other Quincy publication daily or weekly to take oath to the number of copies they print and circulate each and every issue; and call their attention to the law relative to fraudulent advertising when they make claims they cannot verify.

We invite the merchants to send a representative to the Ledger Office each afternoon to see the edition run off; to see how it is circulated and verify our statements, and we challenge other newspapers to do the same. We also ask the merchants to visit the newstands in Quincy and Boston, and see if the Ledger does not sell ten to one of any Quincy newspaper.

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Wednesday fair, Thursday unsettled, somewhat warmer.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.40
Sun sets	6.02
Length of day	12.22
Moon sets	5.12
High water, A. M.	10.45
High water, P. M.	11.15
Days increase	3 hours, 16 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	43 degrees
Mar. 25 1913,	69 degrees
Mar. 25, 1912,	36 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

NO AGREEMENT ON REFEREE

Therefore Checker Matches Are Called Off

The checker series between Napoleon Grignon playing for Ave Maria council, Knights of Columbus, and Michael Kiley, representing St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. society, was called off Monday night after the players failed to agree on a referee.

It was the claim of Mr. Grignon that Alfred Jordan, champion of the world who had been acting in that capacity, has been coaching Mr. Kiley the last three sessions. Mr. Kiley and his friends poo-hooed the statement, and Mr. Grignon said that unless the champ sat behind and not beside Mr. Kiley he would not play the remaining six games of the series. The argument became general between the backers of both men, and resulted in no games being played.

The series was arranged as part of a tournament between the two organizations. In reality it offered the fans an opportunity to play the men against one another.

The claim of both to superiority has been under discussion for fifteen years, and the sudden turn of events leaves it there. Grignon has won four games, Kiley three and seven were drawn.

The series went smash before one of the largest crowds that ever attended a checker game in this city, all points of vantage in St. Mary's hall were taken when the men took their seats at the board on the stage. Most of them remained in hopes of seeing the disagreement settled but there was no such luck.

Among those present was Frank Waterhouse and John Kennedy, two strong players of the Boston Checker club. They played several games blindfolded with the pick of the crowd and were easy victors.

Not a Pleasant Surprise.

A man told his daughter that if she learned to cook he would give her a surprise. She learned the art, and he surprised her by discharging the servant girl.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

SPORT NEWS

Clan MacGregor of this city not only won the most games in the Scottish Clans league, but led Clan McPhail, the second team, by 261 pins, and Clan Lindsay by 1,054 pins.

It is expected that the Yacht Racing Association of Massachusetts will take a new lease of life under its new president, Commodore William Lambert Barnard of the Hingham Yacht Club. This organization which up to the adoption of the universal rating rule in 1906 was in full charge of all open racings in Massachusetts bay for small boats has since that time been gradually dropping behind.

Frequent trips to Bristol to see the progress on the Herreshoff cup defense sloop are made by Robert W. Emmons, 2d., and Charles Francis Adams 2d.

Johnson and Erickson of Cranch hill beat Sturgis and Lemon of Houghs Neck in a tandem 10 string match at the City Square alleys Monday night, 1858 to 1753, a margin of 105 pins. The men were tied with 1058 at the finish of the sixth string, and the wide gap was opened up mainly by Johnson whose last four strings were 109, 113, 110 and 105 and Erickson's consistent showing while the Houghs Neck boys fell down badly, failing to buy up spares. The losers are an unusual combination. Lemon rolls a slow ball that hooks into the bunch with a short sharp snap and Sturgis sends them down at mile-a-minute speed. Neither got the hits they deserved and it reacted on their break ball and head ons, full worcesters and other phoney breaks were theirs. Johnson had a total of 892 and Erickson 876. Sturgis got 880 and Lemon 873.

Paul Poehler of this city defeated Archie Walsh, his partner in tandem matches, at Lynn on Monday night, 1120 to 1068 in a 10 string match at the Palace alleys. Archie Carr who made a world's record of 418, and Harry Cole who smashed it within a week with 435, have challenged them and it has been partially accepted. Poehler got high single, 130, and had but one string less than the century. Walsh's best was 121. He had but one string less than 100 also.

The 1914 Reach American League Guide—the official handbook of the great junior major league presided over by famous Ban Johnson—has just made its ever-welcome appearance, thus ushering in one more base ball season; a function which it has fulfilled each Spring for thirty-two consecutive years. This long continuation of publication alone has served to make the Reach Guide the standard annual publication of the base ball world.

AVERTED THE DUEL.

Valor Vanished With the Choice of Weapons and Conditions.

Representative Borland of Missouri gives an account of the challenge to a duel which occurred in Louisiana, supposedly among the last challenges of that environment in the state. The affair was between a gentleman who belonged to one of the oldest families there and a sturdy blacksmith of Georgia, who had become a man of political influence.

The gentleman took offense at some remarks of the Georgian and sent him a challenge. The powerful blacksmith was nonplused.

"'I know nothing about this dueling business,' said he, 'and I positively will not fight.'

"'You must,' urged his friend. 'No gentleman can refuse.'

"'I am not a gentleman,' replied the honest citizen of Georgia. 'I'm only a blacksmith.'

"'But you will be ruined if you do not fight,' continued his friends. 'You will have the choice of weapons, and you can choose so as to give yourself an equal chance with your adversary.'

"The giant requested time in which to consider the matter and ended by accepting. He sent the following reply to the Louisiana gentleman:

"'I accept, and, in the exercise of my privilege, I stipulate that the duel shall take place in Lake Pontchartrain in six feet of water, sledgehammers to be used as weapons.'

"As his adversary was about five feet eight inches in height and the blacksmith was seven feet, the conceit of the latter so pleased the Louisiana gentleman that he declared himself satisfied, as he was one who could appreciate a joke as well as perpetrate one, and he declared the duel off."—Exchange.

Something of a Lottery.

"What I want," said the young man, "is to get married and have a peaceful, quiet home." "Well, sometimes it works that way and sometimes it's like joinin' a debatin' society."

EXPIATES CRIME IN DEATH CHAIR

Dorr Appears Absolutely Resigned to His Fate

CALMLY GOES TO EXECUTION

Cheered In Last Moments by Messages From Members of His Family—Says No Good Ever Came From Any Wrong Which He Had Committed and Expresses Repentance

Boston, March 24.—Expressing repentance for his sins and regret that someone had not guided his footsteps aright in his early youth, William A. Dorr went to his death in the electric chair early this morning for the murder of his granduncle, George E. Marsh, the Lynn soap manufacturer.

Dorr was absolutely resigned to his fate, meeting death bravely and with more apparent cheerfulness than any man who has ever been electrocuted in the state prison.

He was cheered yesterday by letters from his mother and a sister in Maine, and a few hours before midnight received a telegram from an aunt in Bethany, Cal., which read: "I wish my end were as painless as yours." In a letter to his mother Dorr sent messages to each member of his family.

The condemned man was kept awake all the night before last by attacks of acute indigestion and slept fitfully yesterday. Last night he went to sleep at 9 o'clock, and was awakened at 11:30 to prepare for his last moments on earth.

Shortly before the end Dorr stated to Rev. Arthur Harriman, pastor of the East Baptist church of Lynn, and his spiritual adviser, that he had never known good to come from any wrong which he had committed, and that if a friend had guided his footsteps when he was young the end would have been different.

Upon Dorr's special request Harriman accompanied him to the death chamber, and as this was the first time that the minister had ever witnessed an electrocution, Rev. M. J. Murphy, chaplain of the prison, went with him.

DEATH OF THOMAS MAGUIRE

Veteran Theatrical Manager Had Lived Ten Years Without Tongue

New York, March 24.—Thomas J. Maguire, veteran theatrical manager, who lived and talked and sang for ten years without a tongue, died of cancer.

It was his love for cigars that brought about the loss of his tongue. He smoked from twenty-five to thirty cigars almost every day for more than twenty years. Cancer of the tongue developed.

One operation failed and in March, 1904, Maguire greeted his friends for what he believed was the last time and submitted to the operation in which practically the whole tongue was removed.

SPEECH IS TYPEWRITTEN

Page Will Take No More Chances In His Addresses In England

London, March 24.—Ambassador Page is taking no chances with his speeches nowadays. He read his address from a typewritten manuscript when he spoke at the dinner tendered last night by the medical profession of London to General Gorgas, who was in charge of the sanitary arrangements at the Panama canal.

Page was recently severely criticised in the United States senate for his reported statements in a speech here that his country is glad to know that England will derive the greatest benefit from the Panama canal.

MARY JONES REARRESTED

Enters Colorado Strike Zone In Defiance of Military Order

Walsenburg, Col., March 24.—"Mother" Mary Jones, the strike leader who has been a storm centre during the labor trouble in the southern Colorado coal fields, was arrested by state troops on a train here while on her way to Trinidad in defiance of orders issued when she was deported from there.

She was taken off the train despite her protests and hurried to the Huerfano county hospital, where she will be kept under military guard.

Baby Played With Fire

Boston, March 24.—Two-year-old Rosemond Tinto played the childish game of putting strips of paper into the grate of the kitchen stove in her home, on the fifth floor of the tenement building at 115 Salem street, and as a result was burned to death.

Preparing For Big Fortification

Norfolk, March 24.—Condemnation of property at Cape Henry, needed for the establishment at that point of what is expected to be the nation's greatest fortification, was begun before a jury in the United States district court here.

Thaw Plea Turned Down

Albany, March 24.—The Golden resolution, censuring state officials for their efforts to have Harry K. Thaw extradited from New Hampshire, was overwhelmingly defeated in the assembly last night on a viva voce vote.

WILLIAM A. DORR

Electrocuted For Slaying His Granduncle, George E. Marsh

HOPF IS BEHEADED

Terrifying Scene at Execution of the "Bluebeard of Germany"

Frankfort, Ger., March 24.—Carl Hopf, a druggist of this city, who has been named the "Bluebeard of Germany," was beheaded here for murdering his father, his first wife and his two children.

The accused man had been found guilty also of attempting to murder his second and third wives and several other persons.

The actual execution of Hopf was a most terrifying scene. After he was led to the block, the death warrant was read to the murderer. This was followed by a statement from the kaiser refusing to commute the death sentence.

As Hopf stood quietly listening to the reading of the kaiser's statement, he was suddenly seized and thrown down with his head on the block. He cried out in terror, but immediately the axe of the executioner dropped and Hopf's head was severed.

BUMPER CROPS ARE LIKELY TO FOLLOW

Snow Blanket Is a Great Benefit to Agriculturists

Washington, March 24.—Prospects for big crops this year are particularly bright at this time, as the result of the almost continuous succession of snowstorms over the country, in the opinion of the officials of the department of agriculture.

"If this snow blanket will only take its time in departing," said Dr. Bonesteel of the bureau of soils, "we will have a better crop start this year than for several seasons. To date conditions could be hardly more ideal."

HIGHWAYMAN CORNERED

Promptly Knocked Down by His Intended Victim at Portsmouth

Portsmouth, N. H., March 24.—Isaac Evans, it is alleged, made an unsuccessful attempt last night to hold up and rob Ballard Ledgewood of Brooklyn on Market street.

Evans accosted Ledgewood in a shaded section of the street, and demanded his money, pretending to have a revolver in the palm of his hand.

Ledgewood knocked the man down and shouted for the police. Officer Condon chased Evans through side street and fire four shots after him. He was caught in a blind alley.

DIET IS PROROGUED

Mikado's Move to End Deadlock Over Appropriations For Navy

Tokio, March 24.—The Japanese diet was prorogued by the Emperor of Japan, owing to the inability of the house of peers and the house of representatives to agree on the appropriations for the navy.

The lower house had reduced the naval estimates by a considerable sum, and the house of peers afterward further diminished them, but this was not agreed to by the members of the house of representatives.

Jumps In Front of Train

Boston, March 24.—Patrick Hurley, 29, who was employed as a fireman at the Boston Elevated power station at Sulivan square, committed suicide by jumping in front of a train at the Sullivan square terminal.

Dorothy Arnold's "Double" Insane

Los Angeles, Cal. March 24.—Mrs. Ella O'Dell, who recently posed as "Dorothy Arnold," was pronounced insane by physicians at a hospital where she was taken after a violent outburst.

Two Die at Aviation Meet

Basle, Switz., March 24.—A spectator at the aerodrome was overcome when Herr Berger fell from a height of 1200 feet while looping the loop, and dropped dead. Berger had nearly every bone in his body broken.

Shakespeare to Become Pound

London, March 24.—The engagement is announced of Ezra Pound of Wyncote, Pa., and Miss Dorothy Shakespeare of Brunswick Gardens, London.

SHOOTS SELF IN HEAD

Former Professor Peck of Columbia University a Suicide

Stamford, Conn., March 24.—Harry T. Peck, formerly a professor at Columbia university, committed suicide in a lodging house here, shooting himself in the head.

For two weeks Peck had been living alone at the house where he killed himself. His first wife, who gave up a career to nurse the educator when he was stricken with paralysis, has recently lived in a suburb of Stamford. His second wife, who was nursing him when his first wife came, had also left Peck and now is reported to be living on Staten Island, N. Y.

Despondency over the wreck of his career and, possibly, from the fact that the two women who gave up all for him had finally left him, is believed to have caused the suicide.

About a year ago Peck won a suit for breach of promise to marry Esther Quinn, a Cambridge, Mass., woman. In the course of the trial of the suit Peck was removed from his position at the college.

THE CAILLAUX HEARING

Assertion of Slayer Confirmed by Former Society Editor

Paris, March 24.—Important testimony, tending to confirm Mme. Caillaux's assertion that she had reason to believe that M. Calmette, the late editor of The Figaro, had in his possession other personal letters of an even more intimate nature than the one published, was given at the examination before the investigating magistrate.

Princess De Messange-Estradere, who formerly held the position of society editor of The Figaro, said that at the time of the divorce of Caillaux and Mme. Dupre, three letters were destroyed by mutual agreement, but that Mme. Dupre had retained photographs of the letters. Calmette, she continued, knew of the existence of the photographs and offered $6000 for the arrangement of an interview with the holder of the photographs. The offer was refused.

When the "Thy Joe" letter appeared in The Figaro, the witness continued, Mme. Caillaux had reasonable grounds for supposing that Calmette had the other two.

EXPECTS REPEAL OF TOLLS EXEMPTION

Wilson Knows of No Improper Influence In the Matter

Washington, March 24.—While President Wilson has no doubt of the passage of the administration bill to repeal the Panama tolls exemption, he is anxious that it be brought to a vote promptly. He has been advised that a vote probably will be taken as soon as the rivers and harbors bill has been disposed of.

In reply to questions as to whether he thought any improper influences were being brought to bear against the repeal, the president declared he had not sought to find any and did not suspect them. He referred to the controversy as a difference of opinion among Democrats and pointed out that a majority of house Democrats really had never voted for the tolls exemption and that the act was passed by a coalition of Republicans with a minority of Democrats.

The president believes a number of Republicans will support him in his position to repeal the tolls exemption.

FATAL RIOT IN BUFFALO

Youth Killed With Rifle Bullet and Many Other Persons Wounded

Buffalo, March 24.—Fatal rioting in which a mob of more than 700 men participated with flying stones and bullets brought death to one youth and wounds to many when an attack was made on a train carrying strikebreakers to the Gould coupler plant at Lancaster, near here.

Stanislaus Skoncleski, 17, a member of the mob, was shot through his head from the rifles of the guards on the train. An unidentified youth was shot through the leg and several of the strikers sustained minor wounds. Many of the guards and strikebreakers on the train were maimed by flying rocks.

Double Funeral Results

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 24.—When an undertaker brought a coffin into her home to inclose the body of her son-in-law, William L. Sanger, Mrs. Catherine Durkin swooned and died. The Sanger funeral was delayed and both were buried today.

Suicide in Subway Station

New York, March 24.—Hundreds of persons in the big Seventy-second street subway station were thrown into a panic when a woman hurled herself under a train and was killed. She was about 35 years old.

Local Option Law Upheld

Washington, March 24.—The Michigan local option law of 1909 was upheld as constitutional by the supreme court.

All That's Left.

Mrs. Goodsole (feeding tramp)—You seem to have a good appetite, Hungry Higgins—Ah, mum, dat's all I have left in de world dat I kin rightly call me own.—Exchange.

POINTERS ON FARMING

America Invents Theories, but Other Nations Put Them Into Use

New York, March 24.—Lieutenant Governor Ingalls of Kansas was the principal speaker at a luncheon given here by the executive committee of the National Civic Federation, to consider the desirability of organizing a department of the federation for the betterment of agricultural conditions.

Ingalls compared the United States unfavorably with other nations in agricultural development, although he admitted that we had become a recognized expert in the promulgation of agricultural theories. "Other nations," he said, "have passed us in the application of these theories.

"Comparing farming by standards set for other business, I would say that the troubles of American agriculture are due largely to waste or needless expense in production, to the lack of organized systems for the purchase of supplies, to a failure to utilize credit facilities, and the isolation which makes country life lonely and monotonous."

Ingalls said the present evils would disappear through the establishment of co-operation credit societies, to be owned and managed by the farmers.

CLUB BUILDING FAULTY

But Responsibility For Loss of Thirty Lives Is Not Fixed

St. Louis, March 24.—A coroner's jury that investigated the death of thirty persons in the Missouri Athletic club fire two weeks ago did not fix the blame for the disaster because the city ordinances did not provide for the regulation of buildings used for clubs.

The jury reported that the following conditions prevailed at the building:

The fire escapes were inadequate.

Wooden doors led to the inclosed fire escapes from various floors.

Doors at the entrances of elevators had been removed, reducing the efficiency of the elevators in case of fire.

The only stairway in the building was of wood.

The building was of improper construction for sleeping purposes.

BAY STATE TEN-HOUR STATUTE IS UPHELD

Supreme Court Affirms Conviction of Mill Superintendent

Washington, March 24.—Declaring valid the Massachusetts law prohibiting employment of women and children in manufacturing and mechanical establishments more than ten hours a day, or fifty-eight hours a week, the United States supreme court affirmed conviction of Richard G. Riley, superintendent of the Davol cotton mills at New Bedford, for its violation.

Riley was convicted of violating the law by starting machinery in the Davol thread mills five minutes before the regular time at luncheon. He contended that the labor law violated the fourteenth constitutional amendment. He was fined $50.

Justice McKenna announced the decision, stating merely that the Massachusetts courts were sustained and Riley's conviction affirmed.

FURTHER DELAY IS ASKED

Counsel For Thaw Wants More Time to Complete Final Brief

Concord, N. H., March 24.—Counsel for Harry K. Thaw announced that they had filed a motion for an extension of time for completing the final brief in the extradition proceedings before the federal court.

The brief was to have been ready next Wednesday, but as it is very voluminous, counsel ask that they be given until March 27 to have it properly printed. It will go to the printer's today.

READY TO PLANK DEFIANCE

Outside of Prospective Cup Defender to Be Smooth as Piano Top

Bath, Me., March 24.—William Hodgdon has arrived here to take charge of the outer skin work on the prospective cup defender Defiance. The inner skin of the yacht is of fir.

The outer skin will be of mahogany. It will be highly polished, and is expected to be as smooth as the top of a piano. It is believed that three weeks will be necessary to fully plank the yacht, after which work will be started on the interior fittings.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

William A. Platt, 59, former state printing commissioner and former editor of the New York Mail and Express, died at Monticello, Col.

An unidentified negro was lynched at Inverness, Miss., for the murder of Sam Lusco, an Italian.

Thomas J. Costello was recommended to President Wilson for appointment as postmaster at Springfield, Mass.

George P. Longley, Republican, was elected mayor of Oldtown, Me., in a three-sided contest.

William Sawyer, who died recently at Grand Junction, Col., left his estate of $20,000 to the Socialist party.

A direct line of freighters between Australia, New Zealand and the Pacific coast will be established soon by the Union Steamboat company.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Dennis Behan and Daniel Kelleher, both of Quincy in the County of Norfolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to The Quincy Co-operative Bank, a corporation duly established by law, and located at said Quincy dated August 5, 1903, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, book 550, page 127, for breach of the condition of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, on Friday, the third day of April A. D. 1914, at half past four o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, and therein described as follows:

A certain lot of land with buildings thereon situated in said Quincy and being numbered sixteen (16) on a plan made by H. T. Whitman recorded with Norfolk Plans, book 12 plan 528.

Said parcel of land is bounded and described as follows, to wit:—Northerly on Payne Street sixty (60) feet; Easterly on lot numbered fifteen (15) on said plan, eighty-one and sixty one-hundredths ($81.60) feet; Southerly on lot numbered eleven (11) and a small part of lot numbered twelve (12) on said plan, sixty and one one-hundredth (60.01) feet, and Westerly on land now or formerly of James W. Pratt, eighty-two and eighty-eight one-hundredths ($82.88) feet; containing 4934 square feet of land. Being the same premises conveyed to said Dennis Behan and Daniel Kelleher by deed dated August 5, 1903, duly recorded with Norfolk Deeds.

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all tax titles, unpaid taxes, municipal liens and assessments, if any such there be. $100 will be required to be paid by the purchaser in cash at the time and place of sale; balance in ten days from date of sale on delivery of the deed.

The Quincy Co-operative Bank, by
FRANK A. REED, Treasurer,
Mortgagee.
Charles H. Wilson, Attorney, Savings Bank Bldg., Quincy, Mass.
Quincy, March 9, 1914.
10-3t 10-17-24

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 4, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.35 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 10.25 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.51 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 9.30 P. M. Sundays, 9 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 8.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 6.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.20, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight. Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street, 6.40 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 12.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 6.25 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 60 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.55 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.30, 5.50, 6.15, 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.55, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.30, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sundays 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.25, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 11.00 P. M.

THOMAS GANNON,
Superintendent

gee's Sale of Real Estate

ue of the power of sale con-a certain mortgage deed givnis Behan and Daniel Kelle-of Quincy in the County of nd Commonwealth of Massato The Quincy Co-operative operation duly established nd located at said Quincy ust 5, 1903, and recorded ds Deeds, book 255, page each of the condition of said and for the purpose of fore-e same, will be sold at pub-n on the premises hereinafed, on Friday, the third day
A. D. 1914, at half past four the afternoon, all and singuremises conveyed by said deed, and therein described n lot of land with buildings uated in said Quincy and ered sixteen (16) on a plan

T. Whitman recorded with ns, book 12 plan 528.
cel of land is bounded and s follows, to wit:— Northyne Street sixty (60) feet;
n lot numbered fifteen (15)
ain, eighty-one and sixty one-(81.60) feet; Southerly on ed eleven (11) and a small numbered twelve (12) on sixty-and one one-hundredth and Westerly on land now of James W. Pratt, eighty-ighty-eight one-hundredths
; containing 4934 square
. Being the same premises o said Dennis Behan and ther by deed dated August ly recorded with Norfolk mises will be sold subject all tax titles, unpaid taxes, liens and assessments, if here be. $100 will be ree paid by the purchaser in time and place of sale;

ten days from date of sale of the deed.
ncy Co-operative Bank, by
A. REED, Treasurer,
Mortgagee.
H. Wilson, Attorney, Sav-
Bldg., Quincy, Mass.
March 9, 1914.
10-3t 10-17-24

e Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

effect April 2, 1913, ct to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every
to 10.50 P. M. Sundays,
then same as week days.
ave Braintree, 6.25 A. M.,
30 minutes to 10.25 P. M.
55 A. M. and then same as

A. 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every to 10.50 P. M. then 8.44 P.
ys, 7.50 A. M., then same as
. Return, leave Brockton
M., and every 30 minutes to Sundays, 8 A. M. then same days.

uincy, and East Milton, 6.20
A. M. and every 20 minutes
M. (Wednesdays and Sat-
9.50 P. M.) Sundays, 8.50 A.
me as week days. Return
Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M.
20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. ys and Saturdays, 12.10
Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then eek days.

eymouth, 6.06, 6.18, 6.30,
A. M. every 30 minutes to
then 11.50 P. M. Sundays,
then same as week days
ave East Weymouth, 5.50, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every
to 11.45 P. M. Sundays,
then same as week days.

Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40,
A. M. every 10 minutes to
. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays,
A. M. every 20 minutes to
M. Return leave Hough's
, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00,
A. M. every 30 minutes to
M. then 12.10 midnight.
7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M.
minutes to 11.35 P. M.

via Francis Street, 5.45
A. M. and every 30 min. to then 12.50 midnight. Sun-
A. M. then same as week

ure, leave Neponset, 6.40
A. M. and every 30 minutes
. then 12.35 midnight. Sun
A. M. then same as week

via Wollaston—5.07, 5.35,
and every 30 minutes to then 11.35, 11.50 P. M.
30 A. M., then same as week urn, leave Neponset, 6.15
M. and every 30 minutes
M. then 11.42 P. M. and
ght. Sundays, 7.20 A. M.
ne as week days.

via Norfolk Downs, 6.25,
8.20 A. M. and every 20
10 P. M. (Wednesdays and
11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.35 A.
same as week days. Re-
Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wed-d Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.
A. M. then same as week

k Landing, 5.36, 5.56, 6.26
.55 A. M. then every 30
until and including 10.55 P. ys, 7.25, A. M. then same
ays. Return leave Wey-
ding, 5.46, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15
then every 30 minutes un-
ding 10.15 P. M. Sundays
then same as week days.

ve NEPONSET for

n, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55
A. M. every 60 minutes to then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25,
5.55, 10.35 P. M. Wednes-
Saturdays, 11.30, P. M.
35, A. M. every 60 minutes
M. Return, leave Squan-
8.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00
y 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M.
6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00,
P. M. Wednesdays and
11.50 P. M. Sundays,
A. M. every 60 minutes to

THOMAS GANNON,
Superintendent.

My Swimming Prize

It Was Lost, but Was Found

By JOHN TURNLEE

My summer outings are invariably passed at the seashore, for I am not only fond of the salt air, but of the salt water. I love to breathe the former and bathe in the latter. I learned to swim when I was a little girl eight years of age, and as I grew older improved so rapidly that I was at home as much in the water as out of it.

But one summer while swimming at a seaside resort I was taught the difference between the water and the land. I was swimming beyond the ropes, with no one near me, when I was taken with cramps. I called for help, but was too far from the shore for my cries to be heard. Fortunately a pier extended near me into the ocean and on the pier was a man. What he was doing there I did not know at the time. Indeed, I did not know that he was there. All I did know came to me after an interval of unconsciousness. Then I was lying on the sand with persons about me, some of whom were making me very uncomfortable by trying to get water out of me.

My first act on recovering my senses was to put my hand on my breast, where I expected to find a gold Maltese cross that was there when I went into the water. It was gone. Singularly enough my loss crowded out of my mind the fact that I had barely escaped drowning. The cross was a prize I had won at a swimming match when I was fifteen years old. I always wore it in the water and never at any other time. When I did not find it on feeling for it I assumed that it had become detached from me while I was being brought out of the surf.

Of course I asked questions as to how I came to be rescued. All I could learn was that a man saw me from the pier, jumped off into the water and swam for me. Before jumping he shouted to those on the beach, secured their attention and a boat was sent out for me. My rescuer reached me when I came to the surface and swam with me toward the beach. Those in the boat made such poor progress that he got me into shallow water almost before they got the boat launched. Indeed, I was not taken into it at all.

PINNED TO HIS BATHING SUIT WAS MY MALTESE CROSS.

As to the man who saved my life, I could gather very little about him. This was probably due to the fact that when I had recovered from my illness all those who had witnessed the rescue had left the place for their homes. At any rate, I could not find a person who was on the beach when I was brought ashore.

The next winter I was visiting a friend in a neighboring city and enjoying one social function after another. Jenny Hatch, the girl I visited, had known me from childhood and had often been with me in the water when I wore my prize won at the juvenile swimming match. One evening after a ball Jenny told me that she had seen during the evening my cross, or one exactly like it, on the lapel of a young man's coat. She had no acquaintance with him, consequently she could not speak to him about it. I asked her why she had not contrived to secure an introduction to him, whereupon she reminded me that it was the privilege of the man to ask for an introduction to a woman, not a woman's privilege to ask an introduction to a man.

The incident reopened the matter of my rescue the summer before. Could it be possible that my little cross was not under water after all, but had fallen into the possession of a stranger? My name was engraved on it as well as a statement of how it had been won. Why had this person worn it on the lapel of his coat instead of on his watch charm if indeed he must wear it at all? If I could have a look at it I could tell whether or not it was mine without looking at the inscription on the back. I charged Jenny if she saw the man who wore it again to leave no stone unturned to discover where he got it.

Several of my girl friends knew of the matter, and one of them came to me one day with a story that she had seen a young man at a reception who wore on his breast a gold Maltese cross. She had taken pains to ask one who knew him what it meant and was informed that it was a decoration given for saving life.

Naturally this story served to stimulate the interest already excited in me with regard to the decoration and its wearer. Was there any connection between my rescue and this man? I had always regretted not being able to express my gratitude to my rescuer, and now a wild hope sprang up within me that he had been discovered—discovered, but not attained. He was drifting near me as one ship may drift near another in a fog, unseen by me, only reported by others.

One evening at a dance I met and received marked attention from one Howard Woodruff. I told him that there was a young man floating on the social sea who wore a gold cross in which I was interested. He seemed much interested himself and asked me what there was in the cross that concerned me, whereupon I told him the circumstances of my rescue. He promised me that he would keep his eyes open for the possessor of the cross and if he saw him wearing it would interrogate him with regard to it and report to me at once.

For the rest of the winter Mr. Woodruff was continually tantalizing me with reports of this man who was wearing a decoration for life saving. He was always hearing of him, but never getting near him. At one time he told me that the man had won his decoration by saving some one from a burning building; at another he had heard an entirely different story—the honor had been bestowed for having snatched a child from before a locomotive.

Either of these stories would have settled my mind as to the matter if I could have depended on it. But upon questioning my informer I drew forth the fact that what he had heard was the merest hearsay.

As the winter was drawing to a close Mr. Woodruff's attentions to me increased, and he began to display some jealousy of this unknown person in whom I took such an interest. "I believe you are in love with him," he said to me one day. "In love with him?" I replied. "How can I be in love with one I have never seen?" "Well, then, you are in love with a fancy picture you have created of him. Ten to one it is no decoration he wears, but has been given him by some girl with whom he is spoons."

I grew fond of my admirer—indeed, so fond of him that when he asked me to be his wife I consented. He was always quizzing me, and the man who was wearing the Maltese cross was a favorite subject with him. He asked me when the spring came on whether I would go to the seaside resort, and, when I said that I would, but should not be so venturesome as before, he said he would spend his vacation with me there.

"Perhaps we will meet the man who is sporting your cross," he added. "If we do I shall get him out in the water and drown him."

This display of jealousy pleased me, and I retorted I had a sentimental fancy that the man who wore the cross was the person who had saved my life, and if I should meet him I was sure I should fall in love with him. Then my fiance looked grave, and I laughed him back to his former status.

When the summer came I went to my usual resort several weeks before my lover joined me. As soon as he came he asked me if I had seen anything of the fellow who had saved me or the one who wore my prize and if they had turned out to be one and the same person. I teased him for awhile by hinting that I had met him and that he was an Adonis. Whether he believed me or not I didn't know. At any rate, he pretended he did. Lovers are never very certain about anything concerning the loved one and are easily frightened.

The morning after my fiance's arrival we went to the beach together for a bath. We met on the sands, each in bathing costume, and what did I see pinned to his bathing suit but my Maltese cross. I looked at him with eyes big as saucers. He burst into a laugh.

"You have been very stupid," he said.

"Is that my cross?"

"Of course it is."

"Where did you get it?"

"Last summer, when you collapsed in the water and I brought you in, in some way or other it became detached from your bathing dress and got caught in mine."

I was paralyzed.

"I thought I would keep it," he went on, "and fool my friends by letting them think it was a decoration of some sort. I've had no end of fun with it. At last I heard of your inquiries and concluded I had better not wear it any more. In case I should meet you you might claim your property from me."

"Do you mean to tell me that you are the person who saved my life?"

"I dragged you ashore; others got the life back into you."

"And you have been fooling me all this time?"

I was half angry, but the smile he gave me brought me round, and I began to realize that my rescuer stood before me. If we had not been in the midst of a throng I would have thrown myself into his arms; as it was I impulsively grasped his hand in both of mine.

"Come," he said, "let's go take a dip."

Despite the onlookers, we walked hand in hand to the brink and swam out to the place where I had collapsed.

Ever Eat It?

There is a dish of the olden time that has been crowded almost out of memory by the ruthless tide of common events. It was a cold weather food that came with the snow and hog killing time and then vanished with the angry clouds and howling winds.

When one ate it the green grass melted away the snow, the birds sang in the blossoming cherry trees and old frigid winter became the middle of May. It was so easy to eat. It melted in the mouth like ice cream, it was so soft and delicate. Let a person fully satisfy his appetite on it, and he could go out in zero weather and enjoy a tropical blessing. This food did not last long, for it was part of an event that soon hurried by, and this was a grateful dispensation, too, for a person would be apt to eat too much of it if it lasted long. But it is well it passed away. This degenerate generation, filled with caramels and angels' food, couldn't appreciate it. But in those beautiful days before the war it was a beloved diet. We refer to hogshead cheese.—Ohio State Journal.

Moods of the Bay of Fundy.

The bay of Fundy is full of strange and contradictory features. Grand Manan island, which lies to the port hand of a vessel entering the bay, is one rocky graveyard—on the reef to the southeast an impaled ship is a common sight. Every indentation, nay, every rocky cranny, bears some terrible and suggestive name descriptive of some maritime tragedy. On the island, twelve miles in length and scarcely inhabited, is a graveyard filled with the bodies of unknown sailors. A little above Trinity rock the coast of Nova Scotia rises in rocky parapets from the sea and a narrow inlet admits to the Annapolis valley where, strange to say, the eye rests on a fertile valley of apple orchards which raise the highest priced fruit in the world. In this sheltered space is a climate which, owing partly to the gulf stream and partly to position, differs altogether from the arctic cold of the stormy sea without.—Westminster Gazette.

Cold and Colds.

"Without having gone anywhere near either pole," writes a correspondent of the London Chronicle, "I have had my experience of the fact that intense cold outside stops the cold in the head. We were six men essaying the ascent of the Grand Combin in the Alps (over 14,000 feet). From our first attempt we were driven back by a thunderstorm, and a stay of some hours to dry in the hut with the stove going woke up all the microbes. When we returned to the hut next day from the valley there were at least four severe colds among us, with sneezing and sore throats. On the third morning we traversed our peak, slowly cutting snow and ice steps in weather memorably bitter even for that height. On the other side it suddenly occurred to me that I had no 'cold' left, and the others made the same discovery."

Not on the Play Bill.

Miss Mary Moran, the English actress, tells of an incident that occurred when she was playing Belle, the wicked lady in R. C. Carton's play, "The Tree of Knowledge," to a holiday audience. At the end of the fourth act Belle leaves her husband and goes away with the villain of the piece. In a moment of remorse she bends over her sleeping husband, kisses him and, taking from her neck his mother's chain, she places it beside him, remarking as she exits: "The best and the worst of us are fools." On this particular occasion the clasp of the chain refused to unclasp. Twice she tried to remove it, when a voice from the gallery exclaimed: "Keep it, Belle. You'll want something to pawn if you're going to skip out with that other bloke!"

Prosperity Is Communistic.

A man cannot prosper in any honest business without benefiting the community as well as himself, for he cannot induce men to deal with him without offering them an advantage; and, taking all the transactions of life together, the advantages which men offer to others must, on the whole, be equal to those which they receive themselves. Doing business, therefore, is a very effectual and extended mode of doing good, and the fortune which is acquired in doing it is, in a very important sense, the measure and index of the good done.—Jacob Abbott.

Out of Harm's Way.

"And you say you never attend weddings any more?" asked the sweet young thing.

"No, I do not," replied the bachelor.

"And why not, pray?"

"Why, don't you see what's happening every day to innocent bystanders?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Testing a Man.

An epigram of Myrtle Reed's seems to have made a hit with New York women. In "Threads of Gray and Gold" she writes:

"The only way to test a man is to marry him. If you live, it's a mushroom. If you die, it's a toadstool."

Sarcastic.

"I try to mind my own business," said Mrs. Slothington.

"I never saw any one," replied Miss Cayenne, "who endured failure with greater fortitude."—Washington Star.

Life's Little Sorrows.

"Rich women have no real joys."

"No; the stores never have a clearance sale of diamond necklaces."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A young man idle, an old man needy.—Italian Proverb.

Strange Wills.

Many are the eccentricities to which wills have borne testimony from time to time. The Earl of Portarlington left instructions that he should be buried with all his rings on his fingers. The late Earl of Orkney stipulated that he should be taken to the cemetery in an old fashioned hearse, so that the coffin could not be seen and that no flowers should be placed on his grave. He also left word that his coronet would be found by his nephew and successor "in a cellar" of his house.

A Vienna millionaire, who died recently, left a sum of money with which to defray the cost of twelve months' electric lighting, not only of his vault, but even of the very coffin in which he was buried. Less particular was the Frenchman who asked that his body should be thrown into the sea a mile from the English coast.

He was, too, so disgusted with his own country that he would neither be buried there nor allow any of his relatives or fellow countrymen to benefit by his death. He left the whole of his money to the poor of London.—London Globe.

The Ship's Rat.

The black rat is the ship's rat, and it travels from country to country. The animal is found universally over the Monte Bello group of islands, even on the small outlying islets which are never visited, on which it occurs most abundantly. Its presence is attributed to a schooner which was wrecked some twelve years ago, for it is well known that this rat is a good swimmer. It is curious to find that this animal, which is now so rare in its native countries as to be looked upon as a great curiosity, should usually be one of the first species to populate new lands where it is comparatively free from competition. Driven from all civilized countries by the brown rat, it has taken to the sea, being better adapted for a life on board ship than its otherwise victorious rival.—P. D. Montague in Geographical Journal.

Curious Ball Play.

A ball club in a regular game made six hits in one inning, one of them a triple, and yet not a single run crossed the plate. This terrific bombardment with freakish result was pulled off in the first inning of the game. The first man to face the pitcher smashed the ball to the corner of the lot for a triple and was thrown out at the plate trying to stretch his hit into a home run. The second batsman swatted a single and, like his predecessor, tried to make an extra base and was heaved out at second. The third batsman and the fourth and fifth also singled, filling the bases. The sixth man at the plate hit the ball between first and second base, and the runner who had been on first was hit by the batted ball, retiring the side without a run scoring.—Chicago Tribune.

Her Game Blocked.

The timid looking little woman on the car noticed that her purse was not in her bag, where she had placed it. Instead it was hanging from her arm on a chain—hanging in full view where it would tempt the nimble fingers of the pickpockets assigned to that beat. With great forethought she picked up the purse and started to put it in the bag. But the purse didn't go in, because it was attached to the arm of the persimmony faced woman standing next to her. Of course the woman with the bag stopped right there and dropped the stranger's purse.

"You'd better let that alone," spoke up the persimmony faced woman. "I've been watching you ever since you got on, and you needn't think I didn't see what you were trying to do."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fresh Air.

There is throughout the civilized world an increasing knowledge of the value of sunlight and of fresh air. Benjamin Franklin in 1754 wrote: "Physicians have discovered that fresh air is beneficial to those who are ill. Perhaps in 100 years they will find it does not hurt those who are well." It has taken over the century prophesied by Franklin, but at last boards of health, bureaus of charity, trustees of schools, commissions on housing, intelligent bodies in all phases of civic life urge the need of securing all possible sunlight and fresh air. — Exchange.

Musical Calamity.

Mrs. Newriche—I believe our next door neighbors on the right are as poor as church mice, Hiram. Mr. Newriche—What makes you think so? Mrs. Newriche—Why, they can't afford one of them mechanical piano players; the daughter is taking lessons by hand.—Puck.

Celluloid Cement.

Celluloid articles can be mended with a cement made by dissolving bits of celluloid in acetone. It takes only a few minutes to make the cement, which is applied like glue, the broken edges are pressed together, and in fifteen minutes the cement is hard.

When a Mule Bites.

When a mule begins to bite it is a sure sign that he has rheumatism in his hind legs and can't use them.—New Orleans Picayune.

One Consolation.

First Photographer—You were rejected yesterday, weren't you? Second Ditto—Yes, but I got a clear negative.—Columbia Jester.

Art thou anvil, be patient; art thou hammer, strike hard.—German Proverb.

LOST

LOST—Between Kincaide's Theatre and Emanuel's store; a mesh bag containing sum of money. Finder please return to Kincaide's Theatre office and receive reward. 23-6t

TO LET

TO LET—After May 7th, house of seven rooms and bathroom. All modern improvements. Rent $30. Apply any time at Mrs. Elizabeth C. Follett's, 105 Putnam street. 23-6t

TO LET—Large pleasant sunny room. Near restaurants and R. R. station. Apply at 1187 Hancock street. 21-tf

TO LET—To small family. A flat of 5 rooms and bath. All modern improvements. Inquire at 33 Dysart street. 21-3t

TO LET—$20.00 Cottage, 6 rooms; all improvements. On salt water; 3 minutes to Fore River entrance, yet secluded. Call C. E. Briggs, 63 Howard Avenue, Quincy. 18-6t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 18-6t

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-18t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath, Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-2 / Office 883-M

QUINCY REGISTRY
FOR NURSES
20 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar,
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement... .. ....

WANTED

WANTED—Beard and room for elderly lady. Write Room, Ledger Office. 24-3t

WANTED—Gentleman to board and room in a private family. Home privileges. Terms reasonable. Write Mrs. O. Quincy Ledger Office. 24-3t

WANTED—Room with partial board near centre, by lady. Write R. C. Ledger Office. 24-1t

WANTED—Cooks 2nd, parlor, laundress, general housework, green girl, mothers helpers, all first-class places. Best of wages, positions waiting. Oldest Employment office in city. 1535 Hancock street, L. M. Flynn, Phone 2235-W. 23-3t

WANTED—Position as housekeeper or companion, would act as nurse, 20 years experience. Good references. Good home rather than high wages desired. Mrs. Root, 99 Brook street, Wollaston. 23-3t

WANTED—By an experienced nurse maternity nursing. Address P. O. Box 304, Quincy. March 18-6t

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy Res. 22-tf

LEWIS N CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

MY SLOGAN
for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

EXECUTORS' NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscribers have been duly appointed executors of the will of Wilford C. Hunt late of Amherst in the State of New Hampshire deceased, testate, and have taken upon themselves that trust by giving bond, as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

HELEN D. RHINES,
AUDREY W. RICH,
Executors.

(Address)
Ferndale Road, Wollaston, Mass.
March 2, 1914.
10-3t 10-17-24

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Andrew McIntosh late of Quincy in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Lulu Weaver of said Quincy without giving a surety on her bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-first day of March, A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t Mar. 24-30 April 6

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY AND EVERYONE IN QUINCY.

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—A $300 piano slightly used will sell cheap for cash. (Terms if desired.) Johnsen Music Co., 6 Chestnut street across from Bethany church, Quincy. 21-6t

FOR SALE—A good second hand range, good baker in good condition. Apply at 90 Washington street, Quincy. 24-6t

FOR SALE—Good black loam, delivered anywhere in Quincy. Apply at Penniman Garage, Phone 207 or J. P. Flanagan 518M. Sand and gravel for sale. March 21-6t

FOR SALE OR TO LET— New house, two tenements five rooms each, all improvements. Situated on Hayward street, East Braintree. Completed April 15. Apply to W. L. Saunders, 146 Franklin street, Quincy. 21-tf

FOR SALE—Three good horses, 2 sets harness, 2 wagons. Apply to John J. Gallagher, 230 Water street, Quincy Adams. 20-6t

FOR SALE—Strictly fresh Quincy eggs. Seavey, 9 Silver street, Quincy. 19-6t

FOR SALE—22 ft. motor boat, 5 h. p. 2 cylinder engine. One year old. Price reasonable. A. D. Thompson, 47 Main street. 19-6t

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS—Take notice. We are selling all steel portable Automobile garages, camps and storehouses ready to put up. Absolutely fire proof. Prompt shipment. Send for quotations, M. W. Tilton, Box 362, Brockton. 11-12t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

JUST LOOK HERE
Two Suite House in Wollaston—7large rooms and bath on upper floor; 5 large rooms and bath on street floor; one minute to electrics, three to steam; open plumbing, separate heaters, electric lights, combination ranges, upper and lower piazzas, speaking tubes and floors maple and hard pine. House rents for $46.00 but is empty to sell. Your chance at $4000—$500 cash, balance on mortgage.
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
Real Estate, Boston.
E. G. HAYDEN, Local Representative
Telephone 1877-M Quincy
Feb. 16-tf

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 5, Burgin & Merrill Block,
QUINCY

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.
SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

Read Ledger Advs.

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c

MON. TUES., WED.
Program Subject to Change

FORRESTER & LLOYD
Singing and Talking Funmakers

BEAU BRUMMELL TRIO
The Boys with the big voices

MASCAGNE
Novelty Musical Artist

LAMP BROS.
Comedy Skit "Si & MAUD"

Great 4 Reels Feature
"THE WHIRL OF DESTINY"
A stupendous picture production thrilling from start to finish

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

Mar. 21—3

NEWSY BRIEFS

Milton news is now a daily feature of the Daily Ledger.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shaw leave this week of the South, for a few weeks.

Miss Sallie Beck of Boston speaks Wednesday morning at the conference at the Woman's clubhouse.

The Women's Loyal Moose Circle will hold a public whist party in Electa hall Thursday evening.

The quarterly business meeting of the Swedish Congregational church will be held this evening at 7.30.

The Quincy lodge of Junior Moose met in Protection hall Monday night and acted on several items of interest.

Rev. Fr. William Tuohig, of St. Mark's Parish, Dorchester, will preach at the midweek Lenten devotions in St. Mary's church on Wednesday evening.

The midweek meeting of the Swedish Congregational church will be held on Wednesday evening this week, as the pastor will conduct meetings at Woburn on Thursday and Friday evenings.

The granite cutting plant of Giordani & Co., which was sold at auction Saturday was bid in by Giudo Serafinelli. It is understood that the purchaser will operate the plant, the purchase price was $3,200.

Mrs. Sylvester Brown will be in charge tomorrow afternoon at the meeting of the Wollaston Alliance in the Unitarian vestry of the symposium on the Life of Edward Everett Hale, and there will be several speakers.

The twelfth annual concert and ball of the Quincy division of the street railway employees will be held at Music hall on Friday evening, April 17. The income from these annual balls is used exclusively for the maintenance of the sick and death benefit fund of the employees.

J. Barraja-Frauenfelder who is combining business with pleasure in a tour of Europe is on his way to Berlin where he will remain for several weeks. Cards mailed from Dessau, the home of the famous Rathskeller, were received this morning. The traveler is enjoying good health.

George H. Kendrick of Wollaston who is a member of the Commercial engineers attended their annual banquet and smoker at the Revere house, Boston Saturday night. Among the speakers were Hon. Michael F. Scanlon, Mayor of Lawrence and Disdrict attorney Joseph Pelliter.

The funeral of Carl E. Strid, who died at the Quincy City Hospital from the effects of a surgical operation, was held this afternoon from the undertaking rooms of John Hall. Services were conducted by Rev. Leander Hokenson of the Swedish Lutheran church. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Monday was another one of those freak days as far as weather is concerned. At times during the day the sun was out bright and clear but in the late afternoon the sky became overcast and for a few minutes it looked as though a rousing snow storm or cyclone was coming. The weather cleared however in a few minutes and the evening was pleasant.

WILL LAY OFF ABOUT 100 MEN

No Work in Sight for Machinists at Navy Yard

Orders for the dismissal of thirty per cent of the machinist force at the Boston navy yard have been issued and Rear Admiral Griffin says they will be carried out. About 100 men will be laid off Wednesday.

Admiral Griffin explained that not even preliminary work on the supply ship could be started till the appropriation of $142,000 for Marine barracks at the yard had been transferred to the yard equipment account, and this is not expected for some time. Nor, he added, is there any other work in sight.

Opposition to this transfer of the appropriation is expected by the Massachusetts Congressmen from members from Virginia, who are anxious that the contract for the supply ship should be given to the Newport News Ship Building Company, and who also are unwilling that the Charlestown Yard should be equipped for the other construction work in the future.

CAPTURED IN BOSTON.

The Quincy police, who have been keeping a watch for Antone Rethkovitz who murdered Donka Peremebeda in Fall River on March 14, have received word that he was arrested in Boston Monday night. When arrested by Boston officers, he denied his identity and said his name was the same as that of his victim. He was taken to Fall River by Inspector Violette who captured the burglar who ransacked the Stetson house last summer.

FINED FOR DISTURBANCE.

Michael Quinn, hailing from the Fore River district, was fined $15 in court this morning for creating a disturbance on a street car in Quincy. According to the conductor, Quinn boarded a car at Newcomb Square along toward noon, going through to Neponset Evidently he did not get any nearer the hub than Harrison Square, for a little later in the day, he boarded a car at Neponset for Newcomb Square. The conductor happened to be the same as was in charge of the car in which Michael went to Neponset. On the way to Quincy the conductor alleges that Michael used some bad language and in spite of warning began to spit all over the floor. When the car reached Quincy, Officer Canavan was called to take Michael off the car and give him a ride to the police station where he sobered up. This morning he had forgotten all about his episode of Monday.

BRUTAL ASSASULT.

A 25 year old Polander brutally attacked an older countryman on South Walnut street, near Walnut terrace, Monday afternoon and escaped arrest through the mistake of the person who informed the police that the assault was being committed on Sumner street. The mistake was quickly corrected, but not before the police auto and several patrolmen had left the station. When they were sent to the proper place, half an hour later, the Polanders that allowed the assault to continue and the principles had disappeared.

The assault followed an argument which started in a boarding house run by a man named Bibilas and is said to have been brutal in the extreme, because of the physical difference in the two men. The older man all but collapsed under the heavy swings to the head but hung on so tightly that the attacker was unable to reach his pocket although he made several attempts to do so.

People in the vicinty who saw the first attempt to reach his pocket phoned the police, and while the assault continued the police where about half a mile away searching the wrong territory.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

With Teams and Trucks

KINCAIDE MOVES HOUSEHOLD GOODS

Our light and heavy Trucks and Teams are ready to move you anywhere anytime you say. Our men are courteous, careful, thoroughly-experienced movers. This store stands back of their work and guarantees you complete satisfaction. Charges are reasonable. Let's have your order early. Write, call or Telephone Quincy 1200.

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO. 1495 Hancock St.

ED. WHICHER PASSES AWAY

Formerly of Shoe Manufacturing Firm in Quincy

Word was received this morning of the death at Rockland of Edward Whicher, a former well known Quincy boy, but who for a number of years past has made his home in Rockland.

Mr. Wicher was a son of John Whicher, and during his younger days was prominently indentified with the manufacture of boots, being with the firm of Whicher Co., whose manufactury was located on the corner of Union and Main streets.

During his residence in Quincy he was very much interested in theatricals and was the coach of many amateur theatrical entertainments given in the old Town Hall.

Leaving Quincy a number of years ago he went to Rockland where he began the raising of chickens for the Boston market, in which business he was very successful. The love for theatricals however always remained with him and tome time ago he became the manager of the Rockland opear house.

Although he has not been a resident of Quincy for many years he was a frequent visitor to his native place and he was always sure to find some with whom he had been well acquainted during the good old days.

At the recent veterans' night of Rural lodge of Masons of Quincy, he was one of those on the list of veteran members whose date of admission went back forty or more years. As a matter of fact Mr. Whicher was made a Mason in Rural lodge, Aug. 3, 1865, nearly 49 years ago. At the celebration of veterans' night his illness was reported and action taken by the lodge.

Mr. Whicher was never married. His body will be brought to Quincy for burial. He was about 75 years of age.

BRAINTREE IMPROVEMENT

The annual business meeting and election of officers of the Braintree Improvement Association was held in Cochato hall Monday evening and the following officers were chosen for the ensuing term:

President—Arthur J. Cavanagh.
Vice President—Geo. H. Hamblett.
Secretary—Mrs. Poore.
Treasurer—James H. Stedman.
Executive committee—Henry M. Storm, Mrs. D. B. Hayward, Mrs. A. E. Avery, Mrs. Kenney, John W. West, Charles T. Crane, Mrs. F. O. Wellington, B. H. Woodsum, Rev. Tyler E. Gale, Rev. John A. Mitchell, Dr. L. Paul Chapin, N. Gleason Torrey, Mrs. William Gallagher, George H. Holbrook, George H. Wetherbee, Jr., Frederick E. Folsom, Rev. D. Roy Freeman, Mrs. G. H. Hamblett and Mrs. W. H. J. Fitzgerald.

BRIEFS

S. O. V. Auxiliary No. 3 is to have a supper Wednesday evening in G. A. R. Hall.

An Old Folks concert is to be given at the Hall Place M. E. church Wednesday evening.

A children's service was held Monday afternoon at 4.45 at St. Chrysostoms church.

Ex-City Solicitor John W. McAnarney returned from St. Louis Monday night. Mr. McAnarney has been in the west for several weeks conducting an important legal case.

Helen L. Barnard, daughter of James J. and Mary S. Barnard, died Monday in her 26th year. Her funeral will be held from the home Tuesday afternoon.

The degree team of Puritan lodge of Braintree will come to Quincy this evening to work the second degree of Odd Fellowship upon seventeen candidates of Mt. Wollaston and John Hancock lodges.

The funeral of James Emmet Kelley was held from his home at 108 Liberty street this morning. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Johns church by Rev. Fr. Walter R. Quinlan. The Gregorian chant was sung by the regular choir under the direction of John Mahon, organist. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. They were many floral tributes.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.
SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

WOMAN BURNED AT BON FIRE

Clothing of Mrs. Azelia Angier Takes Fire

Mrs. Azelia Angier, 74 years of age, mother of George A. Angier of 46 Central avenue, South Braintree, was seriously burned Monday afternoon while burning rubbish in the yard of her home. With her clothing ablaze she ran into the kitchen of a neighbor, Mrs. Foster F. Tupper, who seized a rug and smothered the flames and extinguished a blazing celluloid comb in the unfortunate woman's hair by dashing water on it. Dr. C. A. Sullivan was called and found Mrs. Angier had been burned severely about the neck, arms and upper part of her body. Her apron is suposed to have caught fire and thus ignited her other clothing.

BRAINTREE PINE TREE CLUB

Young People In Charge Of March Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Pine Tree Club of Braintree was held in Delta hall Monday evening and was in charge of the young people, an event which is always eagerly anticipated.

The entertainment consisted of piano solos by Miss Clara Call, readings by Miss Mabel Borden, violin solos by Miss Ethel McEwen with Miss Hazel Lothrop as accompanist, and tuneful vocal selections by a quartet consisting of Clifton Thayer, Norman Dill, Harold Bean and Moses Marsh. Mrs. Harold Bean presided most acceptably at the piano as accompanist for the quartet.

Refreshments of sherbet, cake and candies were served and the evening's enjoyment was concluded by dancing, with Miss Clara Call presiding at the piano.

The committee in charge:—John Bridgham, Evelyn Bridgham, Dr. Walter B. Robbins, Ruth Robbins, Mildred Maxham, Margaret Dam, Mildred Dam, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bean and Otis Randall.

—It is very easy to make excuses, much easier than to meet an obligation; but excuses will never redeem a man from any lapse of duty. He has to suffer, society has to suffer, everything that has to do with a betterment of general conditions has to suffer. Not to make excuse is sometimes a hard predicament to face, but it tends to make one careful to avoid occasion for further excuse, which can but make one to become more valuable to those whom one serves.—Mansfield News.

Advertisers Ask Only A Fair Trial

By HOLLAND.

ADVERTISERS do not attempt to make you agree to buy their goods for the rest of your life. They only want you to give their wares a trial, to subject them to actual test by actual use, and then be guided by experience

Could anything prove more clearly that the advertiser has supreme confidence in his product, that he is absolutely certain that it will please you, that it will be all he says it is?

It would indeed be foolish to spend money to induce you to buy an article that would prove unsatisfactory and would result in your telling friends and neighbors of your experience. Advertisers spend millions making their trademarks known, and in order to make their trademarks valuable they must stand for a certain standard of worth. Having made their trademarks known, manufacturers exert every effort to keep the goods up to the expected high grade.

YOU CAN'T GO WRONG IN FOLLOWING ADVERTISEMENTS.

MAY PLACE LARGE ORDER

Boston's Mayor Pleased With Our Auto Fire Engines

Mayor Curley and Chief Grady of the Boston fire department were very much pleased with the new auto fire engine now building at the Fore River plant which they inspected Saturday afternoon. One of the visitors to the plant to inspect the car was so well pleased with it, that he is reported as saying that if the machine did all that was claimed for it an order for 25 would be immediately placed. While the name of this party is withheld it is supposed to have been Mayor Curley, who has announced his intention to motorize the apparatus of the Boston department. Both Mayor Curley and Chief Grady were more than pleased with the apparatus.

OKLAHOMA LAUNCHED.

The battleship Oklahoma was launched Monday at the yards of the New York Shipbuilding Co., at Camden, N. J. and christened by Miss Lorena Cruce, daughter of Gov Cruce of Oklahoma. She is an Indian princess, as her ancestors on her mother's side were high in the councils of Chickasaw and Choctaw tribes.

The Oklahoma is 583 feet long and her trial displacement will register 27,500 tons. She carries ten 14-inch breech loading guns, mounted in four turrets, with a secondary battery of twenty-one 6-inch guns. She will be equipped with 21 torpedo tubes and 10 guns for signalling.

ELKS MEMORIAL.

J. N. White & Son of West Quincy has been awarded the contract for the memorial to be erected by Boston lodge of Elks over the graves of the unknown dead of the Arcadia lodging house fire in Boston several months ago. It is expected that the memorial will be completed in time to be dedicated on Memorial day.

The monument is to be of pink granite with a bottom base 4-6x4-6x1-6 The die will be 4 by 4 by 1-3 The front of the die will be polished and will contain the following inscription: "In memory of the unfortunate victims of the Hotel Arcadia fire, Dec. 3, 1913. Of the 28 who lost their lives the 18 unclaimed are buried here by Boston Lodge, No. 10. B. P O. Elks."

Judge Avery set aside the five day law for Giovani De Meo and Rose Gentile of 398 Quarry street this morning and they were married by Emery L. Crane, city clerk.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

M. MIRKIN Upholsterer

Is the one who will give you the full satisfaction in work and prices of repairing furniture, mattresses and cushions. 1069 Hancock St., near the Quincy High School Tel. con.

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, City Square
Tel. Quincy 1745 W. March 16-12t

Too Late For Classification

LOST—Box Horlick's malted milk Friday from team. Finder please notify E. V. Fitts & Co., Depot street and receive reward. Tel. 576 24-1t

MARRIAGES

DeMEO—GENTILE—In Quincy, Mar. 24, by Emery L. Crane, City Clerk, Giovanni DeMeo and Rose Gentile, both of Quincy.

DEATHS

WHICHER—In Rockland, March 24, Edward Whicher in his 75th year. Funeral services at late home 47 Franklin avenue Friday, March 27, at 1 P. M. Relatives and friends are invited. 24-3t

HOFFMAN—In Milton, March 22, Mrs. Friedericka C., wife of Andrew G. Hoffman, of Blue Hill avenue, aged 74 years.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

LAMSON & HUBBARD

SPRING AND SUMMER STYLES FOR SALE BY
GEORGE W. JONES
REMICK BROS.

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER

Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

TERSE LINES ON ADVERTISING

Will Build Up a Large and Profitable Business

One of the nation's most able advertisers gives his views upon advertising in the following paragraphs:

I believe in newspaper advertising because it gives the widest possible distribution to the product.

It links you up with your dealer and your dealer with you.

It gives the consumer a guarantee of quality. Advertised goods can generally be depended upon.

It keeps your trade name or trademark constantly before your possible buyers and your customers—they don't have a chance to forget you.

It has been the means of profitably exploiting hundreds of new lines of merchandise in a remarkably short space of time.

To my mind, advertising, if truthful and persistent, and if backed up by a fulfillment of all claims and statements made, is a wise and profitable investment.

The man who is afraid to advertise, or whose products cannot stand the test of wide publicity, better not do it. But the man who has confidence in himself, in his house and in his goods, and the ability and facilities for widely distributing his products, will find advertising a great force in building up a large and profitable turnover.

☞Deacon Bros. guarantee to erect before Memorial day monuments ordered in March. This firm does fine monumental work.

EVERYTHING A MAN NEEDS

$1 Complete Shaving Outfit $1
10 Articles 10

To advertise our Universal Shaving Outfit and Universal Products we will for a limited time only, send this well worth $2.00 Shaving Outfit for $1.00 We sell our products to the consumer direct and therefore you save all agents' profits which as you know are very large.

1 Hollow Ground Razor.
1 5-inch Lather Brush.
1 Razor Strop, Canvas Back.
1 Nickel Easel Back Mirror.
1 33-inch Barber Towel.
1 Bar Shaving Soap.
1 Box Talcum Powder.
1 Decorated China Mug.
1 Aluminum Barber Comb.
1 Bristle Hair Brush.

Not more than one outfit to each consumer. Agents need not write. Each outfit packed in neat box $1.00.

UNIVERSAL PRODUCTS CO.
Dayton, Ohio.

SCHOOL GARDENS.

Seven thousand school children of Spokane, Wash., will participate in a city-wide home garden contest to be conducted this spring and summer by the chamber of commerce and Y. M. C. A. Last year's contest, in which 3,500 children raised garden stuff valued at $15,000, will be doubled in size this year, and the board of education will hire an expert agriculturist to direct the work of the amateur farmers.

Instead of one large central fair in the autumn, as last year, there will be a series of "spring fairs," one in each of the 30 city school districts, the week after school closes in June, and the winners at these will take their exhibits to a central place the next day for the final contest. In the fall the pupils who wish to enter in the Spokane Interstate fair for prizes offered on garden products will take their exhibits individually to the fair. Competition in the "spring fairs" will be open to pupils in all schools from the fourth to the eighth grade. High school pupils will be eligible to compete at the interstate fair.

"A majority of prizes this year will be offered on vegetables, the rest going to flowers to encourage thrift," states R. R. Rogers, chairman of the committee in charge of this contest. "The school board is endeavoring to work out a plan to that school credits may be given for the work done by the pupils in their gardens.

"As a result of this contest not only are the children kept busy and off the streets during their spare hours, but they are interested in healthful work that should lay the foundation for many useful lives. This work also sets an example in thrift and industry, which, if generally followed would forever banish the high cost of living."

Flaming Finish.

"My grandfather," said the old-timer, "used to put all his money in his stocking." "Wa-all, things hain't changed much," said his old friend. "My grandson, who's takin' a course in modern deportment at one o' them eastern colleges, puts most all his money into socks."—Judge.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-1o-tf

UBBARD
MMER

ONES
OS.

ECT and BUILDER
Buildings of all kinds,
d and built.
to properly anticipate your plans will save you more kind. A call will bring us
Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10tf

SCHOOL GARDENS.

thousand school children of Wash., will participate in a home garden contest to be this spring and summer by ber of commerce and Y. M. ast year's contest, in which ldren raised garden stuff $15,000, will be doubled in year, and the board of edu- ll hire an expert agricultu- ct the work of the amateur of one large central fair umn, as last year, there will es of "spring fairs," one in he 30 city school districts, after school closes in June, winners at these will take ibits to a central place the for the final contest. In the pupils who wish to enter in ne Interstate fair for prizes garden products will take bits individually to the fair. on in the "spring fairs" will o pupils in all schools from h to the eighth grade. High pils will be eligible to com- e interstate fair. ority of prizes this year will on vegetables, the rest go- owers to encourage thrift." R. Rogers, chairman of the e in charge of this contest. ool board is endeavoring to a plan to that school cred- be given for the work done upils in their gardens. result of this contest not the children kept busy and treets during their spare t they are interested in work that should lay the n for many useful lives. k also sets an example in industry, which, if general- ed would forever banish the of living."

Flaming Finish.

ndfather," said the old-timer, put all his money in his "Wa-all, things bain't much," said his old friend. dson, who's takin' a course n department at one o' them colleges, puts most all his to socks."—Judge.

e Daily Ledger is newsy Are you a regular read-

RTISE IN THE LEDGER.

iman's Garage
nd Taxi Service
, Storage and Supplies
pen Day and Night.
and Touring Cars for all ns.
, corner Washington and Streets.
PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

GARAGE
QUINCY
CASE CARS
ys on hand
ock
4 Ford Car, $550 for
$750 for Town Car
call Quincy 435
C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 29 No. 71 QUINCY, MASS WEDNESDAY EVENING MARCH 25 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

PNEUMATIC SCALES COMPANY TO REMAIN

Efforts of the Board of Trade Directors Have Been Very Successful

Work Already Started on a New Plant of Concrete

It has not been generally known that Quincy was about to lose one of its industries. The Pneumatic Scales Corporation located at Norfolk Downs some weeks ago had practically made arrangements for removing from the city. This was learned by the directors of the Board of Trade, and after consultation with the officials of the Scale Corporation it was found that the business of the Scale Corporation was increasing so rapidly that it was imperative that they increase their plant equipment and buildings in order to take care of new business.

They had endeavored to secure acreage for this purpose but were unable to do so. While they preferred to remain in Quincy they had given up hope of securing facilities, and then the directors of the Board of Trade stepped in and quietly went to work to see whether or not the difficulties which had been encountered could be removed.

After considerable negotiation it was found possible to secure the land necessary for the enlargement of the plant, and it was purchased and turned over to the Pneumatic Scale Corporation and already they have commenced work to extend the buildings with a new concrete construction and within a short time there will be further buildings built near the present factory.

It would have been a blow to Quincy's progress if this corporation had been permitted to move away from the city. It is a rapidly growing concern and its business is increasing and spreading and a large number of our people are employed and have their property here. The plant remaining here saves the Scale Corporation considerable expense in moving, and also a large number of its employees a great inconvenience in moving or giving up their present occupations.

The directors were ably assisted by Fred Wood of the Wood, Harmon Co.

This is just one of the many things which the Board of Trade is doing. Many times successful in its undertakings, and other times failing in its attempt it is very doubtful if this corporation would have remained in Quincy if it had not been for the efforts which were put forth by the directors of the Board of Trade.

There is an effort now under way in the Board of Trade to increase its membership up to one thousand. This is entirely possible as there are many men throughout the city who should give their support to such an organization, and even if they do not take an active part, if the Board of Trade had a membership of one thousand it would make it possible for them to have their own building and own home which could be used for the different trade people of the city as a place of meeting and no doubt would pay for itself in expense saved to the different members in having headquarters.

The Board of Directors of the Quincy Board of Trade hold a meeting on Wednesday night of this week, at which time there will be brought up matters which will be of great interest to the entire city, and of which public announcement will be made at a later date.

THE BOARD
— OF —
Park Commissioners
Invite Managers and Captains of Base Ball teams to meet them in the Council Chambers,
WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 1,
At 8 O'clock
to select dates and issue permits for the Ball Fields.
Park Board,
I. M. WHITTEMORE,
Chairman
March 25-4t

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, City Square
Tel. Quincy 1745 W. March 16 12t

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy. Feb. 27-tf

MONUMENTS OR TABLETS ORDERED IN MARCH

D. N° 3752
Will receive prompt attention and be erected before Memorial Day
DEACON BROTHERS
Main Office and Works, 307-323 Center St.
Branches at 47 Court St., Plymouth, 495 State St., Springfield
H. E. RICKER, Quincy Representative, 24 Whitney Road.
March 24-3t

CITY OFFICIALS SPEAK AT WOLLASTON BANQUET

Mayor and Department Officials All Seem to Have Troubles of Their Own--School Controversy

City officials and department heads were guests on "Quincy night" of the Wollaston Congregational club Tuesday evening.

From Mayor Miller down to the ward councilmen all contributed in making the evening one of interest and several of the speakers brought new light to bear on city problems.

MAYOR MILLER.

The guests of the club included: Mayor John L. Miller, John D. Mackay chairman School Committee; Joseph L. Whiton, president of City Council; L. C. Merrill, building inspector; W. J. Buckley, chief assessor; Moses L. Brown, commissioner of public works; Walter S. Pinkham, city solicitor; John C. Murray, chairman board of health; Charles W. Bailey, chairman finance committee; E. E. Sargent, city engineer and A. H. Richards, councilman.

Chester I. Campbell, president, welcomed the guests in behalf of the club.

MAYOR MILLER.

Mayor Miller the first speaker declared it a pleasure to be present. If it had been any other club he wouldn't have attended. He considered it one of the most important clubs of the city.

"Important things have happened here," he said, "During my campaign I was represented here by A. N. Murray. I wish I might be as well represented tonight. He is like the well—he never runs dry.

"If you think of running for Mayor I have a hint for you—make your peace with Murray. If I hadn't gone to bed sick I doubt if I would have got it.

"The first thing after election that you run up against is the proposition of looking for too good a man for the office. I came down on the ladder, round by round, and even then didn't please everybody. I was elected to do as I pleased and I have done it.

"The officials appointed are intent on serving the people the best they can, and from month to month are giving honest treatment and service for the city.

"When the offices were filled then came the day laborers. You would be surprised at the number that voted for me—or said they did. I told them to go to the Commissioner of Public Works or the man that promised them a job.

"People think because it is a new administration the tax rate can be kept down when it is based on the three preceding years. We are between the ocean and the lake. All we can do is the best we can to give you a fair and square administration. If we fail you can call us to account next fall."

PRESIDENT WHITON.

"The affairs of Quincy are somewhat familiar to me," said President Whiton "The mayor stated the people put him in to do as he pleased. It is different with my job; I can't. I am at the head of a deliberative body that control themselves. (Laughter.)

"The mayor touched on taxes, a vital point in city affairs. Some think they're soaked. Others think they get by easy. Under the present system, it doesn't lie in the power of the human mind to assess the city equitably. In the time alloted the assessors could not take one ward and do it right. They are bound to take the cards of their predecessors. How long would it take to cover Ward Five alone if they paused at each house?

"I am not looking for the office of Mayor, or any other office, but I believe the assessors should go through the city without fear or favor and if an assessment is high lower it, and if low raise it, regardless of whether the tax rate is high or low."

President Whiton mentioned the large necessary appropriations and the small amount available in proportion to the improvements needed. "We know the condition of your streets," he said "There isn't a man in the City Council but would like to gild them from gutter to gutter, if we had the money." Regarding day laborers, I wish they would all go to the Mayor, but I get them first. (Laughter).

"We will never get industries in Quincy with a $23.70 tax rate. Think what a calamity it would be if Fore River shipyard went out of Quincy. There would be empty houses at Quincy Point that the owners would let you have rent free and would probably pay the taxes if you would live in them.

"We must foster our industries. We are on the verge of either going ahead or going behind. The first thing we think when a corporation comes to Quincy is—How much can we soak them?"

ASSESSSOR BUCKLEY.

"I went into office without strings, without the backing of a club or political party," said Assessor Buckley. "I am fair and square. I have that reputation now, and when I go out of the hall I want to carry that reputation with me."

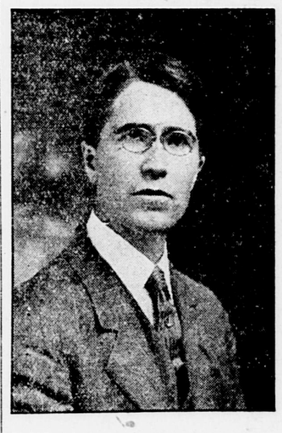
HEALTH BOARD.

Chairman Murray told of the duties and problems met by the Board of Health. The matter had grown from a primitive state to a serious problem. He dwelt on the question of contagious diseases and favored a system of local attention rather than sending the cases outside the city at what seemed to him a large expense.

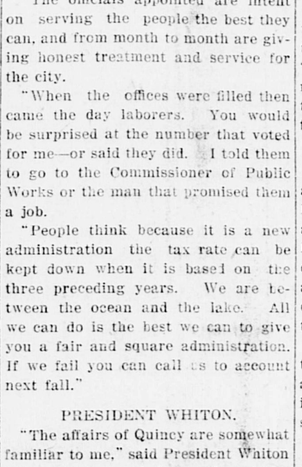
He asked more consideration for the board of health from the citizens, and explained the necessity for raising the ashes charge from five to seven and one-half cents.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

For the School board Chairman Mackay stated, "that notwithstanding the cyclone recently started in Quincy the board had maintained its identity and its usefulness was unimpaired. Its organization represented the most independent in Quincy. It was amenable only to the Supreme court. It was not a creation of the Mayor. It was not answerable to the Mayor. It was not created by the City Council, and not answerable to it. It was elected by the citizens and answerable to them.



JOHN D. MACKAY.



JOSEPH L. WHITON.

"The public school system" he said, acts as a melting pot into which diverse elements of humanity are cast. The function of the public schools is to eliminate differences and dispel Old World prejudices. It not only teaches usefulness but inspires the spirit of American ideals and American conceptions of the responsibilities of citizenship.

"It is an unpopular thing to antagonize the school. I will not speculate on the functions and powers of the School board, as this matter is soon to come up before another tribunal. I will go so far as to say, that long before we were born, the Massachusetts Legislature saw fit to invest certain powers in the school committee.

"I am from Missouri when it is said that these powers can be taken away from the School board. If recent laws have been enacted they will not stand the test of public opinion for six months.

"We must keep the schools independent. We will not always have an ex-chairman of the board for May-

(Continued on Page Six.)

MAINE POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

TWO ATTEMPTS TO GIVE HEARING

Ten Charges Have Been Preferred by Selectmen Against Milton Fire Chief

Adjourned Hearing Will Be Held at Town Hall

The Board of Selectmen of Milton made two attempts Tuesday night to give Edward A. McCue, chief of the fire department, a hearing on the ten charges preferred against him by the board. The first was defeated because the voters pounded the door of the committee room and objected to star chamber proceedings with such vigor that an adjournment was taken to the hall of Milton High school. This proved to be too small also and the hearing was postponed until Saturday afternoon in the Town Hall.

Among those who took part in the controversy were Philip S. Dalton, a former selectman, who addressed nearly 500 voters on the rights of the citizens, Harrison A. Souther, Samuel Brown and Felix Rackeman. John Monk of Watertown was attorney for the town, and Fletcher Ranney of Boston for Chief McCue. Jacob A. Turner, chairman of the board, presided.

Philip L. Saltonstall, who wanted full publicity, said, "To have one of our efficient and trusted employes brought here under fire is a serious matter, and the hearing ought to be on a Saturday afternoon when all the citizens can come and ample time will be given everybody to participate. I move you, sir, therefore, that we adjourn until next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Town Hall." This met with a unanimous response and the gathering dispersed.

The charges against the chief are ten in number. At the beginning of the meeting they were read by Chairman Turner and placed in evidence. The statement was not signed. A summary follows:

1. Taking on one occasion the fire horse and wagon from the Central Station and going, contrary to good judgment, beyond the sound of the fire bell to the hose house in East Milton for a long period.

2. Failing to arrive at a fire on premises of T. H. Billings on Oak street, Mattapan, Aug. 27 as quickly as possible.

3. Failing to arrive at a fire on premises of Ernest E. Joblin, Granite place, East Milton, on Jan. 13, 1914, as quickly as possible.

4. Ignoring, without just and proper reasons, the official suggestions of the superintendent of wires and associate engineer.

5. Not covering Hose 2, East Milton, on frequent occasions between 12 M. and 1 P. M. when the assistant chief engineer and inspector of wires with his assistant of wires were on service work.

6. Taking Engine 1 and Hose 1 of the Central Fire Station upon telephone call to a fire on the premises of the City Fuel Company, Granite avenue, East Milton, for about four hours without ordering a box alarm rung so that the fire apparatus of Boston could be ready to cover the greater part of Milton in event of fire.

7. Failing to instruct the driver of Hose 2, East Milton, upon receipt of telephone message from him that there was a fire on premises of one

(Continued on Page Two.)

1912 Rambler For Sale
Cross Country Rambler good as new. Run less than 3,000 miles, fully equipped. If bought at once will be sold at a sacrifice. Write R., Ledger O 25-3t

AT THE FOY STORES
THE NEW Adams Market
CITY SQUARE
'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760
THE OLD WaterSt. Market
QUINCY ADAMS
'Phone Quincy 117

SUGAR SALE
SPECIAL NOTICE
2 1-2 tons of sugar—all we could get delivered to us this week, was all sold by noon Wednesday. However, we will take your order for delivery next Tuesday at our Sale Price.
25 lb. Bag $1.07
100 lb. Bag $4.20
DOMINO CONFECTIONERS SUGAR 6½c
DOMINO CUT LOAF SUGAR 2 lb pkg. 19c
SUGAR SALE AT BOTH FOY STORES
ALL THIS WEEK at the ADAMS MARKET A young lady from the factory is demonstrating PRISCILLA PREPARED DOUGHNUT FLOUR.
You are invited to call
March 24-3t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Established 1899.

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription

By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.

Incorporated.

TELEPHONES

News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

Congress seems to think Uncle Sam has money to burn, but he can't always warm his hands at that bonfire.

There is strong feeling among the people who run the grab bags at the charity fairs that the boys should not be allowed to play marbles for keeps this spring.

World tour ball players home. They report that the kings of Europe were not unduly elated by the chance to shake hands with them.

Prizes of $10,000 to $40,000 are to be given for achievements by women. It is hoped that they give due prominence to making good bread.

You can send books by parcel post now. Previously Congress seemed to think it was dangerous to spread too much information about the rural districts.

A "Seats for women" campaign is being conducted in St. Louis. The poor girls are pretty well used up after they have spent an afternoon showing the styles on the avenue.

Although there is a great stir on this side of the water about starting the aviators on their flight to Europe for those big prizes, nothing is said about the preparations to receive them on the other side.

Mother may be very severe on the small folks for making those spots on the wall, but does she really feel so badly now that it is clearly demonstrated to Dad that new paper must be put on this spring?

Although Wilson is sitting as hard on the Mexican safety valve as possible, an explosion of hot air is expected any day in Congress.

Luis Terrazas must pay $250,000 to Pancho Villa or die. If he is any considerable distance from the border, the chances are that he will have to do both.

Two women have been boxing at Paris for the world's female championship. The times have gone by when these differences were settled with a rolling pin.

Some of the newspapers still keep their best correspondents at Washington, although the ball teams in the training camps are now making history.

THE "UNEMPLOYED."

In New York and other cities large bands of the "unemployed" have been marching around to the churches. They pile into the front seats, disturb the calm of meditation and the spell of music. They are a grotesque picture amid stately columns and the pictured story of religious tradition.

Of course it is all a grandstand play, done for advertising. No doubt many of these men were unwilling to shovel snow in the recent storm. Yet this fantastic contrast of human failure on one side, and the power and influence and social position of the Christian church on the other, is an incident suggesting thought.

The ministers and priests in charge of services thus interrupted seem to have felt much embarrassment. They are not alone in that. Every conscientious churchman feels it, when he meets the concrete case. What shall he do for some wreck of humanity that begs alms?

The churchman, in fact every one who even theoretically approves the Christian message, is under bonds to help the unfortunate. Yet the man who so pitifully begs for the dime for bread, may propose to spread it at the corner saloon.

The man who shows any desire to get work is worth a hearing. It is worth a busy Christian's time for a few moments to listen to his story, to offer every friendly suggestion that can be made. But it may be much better to telephone over to a restaurant and order a meal than to toss him a coin. But even at that there is the pathetic fact that injudicious giving merely turns the soliciting of charity into a trade.

Any employment agency that finds work for the workless is the most practical of philanthropies. Every town having a floating population, every neighborhood in a city, ought to have one. Church people should give such an institution their most cordial support.

IMMIGRATION! CHILD LABOR! UNEMPLOYED.!

And these three are one in their relation to great problems that are confronting us for solution. With 2600 immigrants reported as on their way in one ship, and 500 men of all nationalities and degrees of respectability standing in line for a free dish of soup, it does not require special discernment to discover the intimate relation between immigration and the unemployed. How are the 500 soup eaters to be helped to places of employment by the arrival of thousands of foreigners every week, many of whom, probably, will be compelled by stress of circumstances to take a place in the column of soup seekers, or starve?

With many great American industries compelled to curtail their output and discharge their help wholly, or in part; with England and Germany and other nations rejoicing at the opportunity to enter our markets through an open door without let or hindrance, and free of cost; with soup lines in our cities growing longer, and opportunities for employment growing more difficult to find, is it fair to our own people to encourage foreign laborers to swarm upon our shores by thousands, and is it any more fair or honest to the unemployed foreigners themselves, to encourage them to come, when only the soup line awaits them, unless they shall succeed in crowding out of their places still more of our own people who are holding on to their jobs with fear and uncertainty?

Is not the only fair and honest course to pursue, to state conditions truthfully, through channels open to our state and national governments, as well as through our newspapers and other publications, that those intending to immigrate to this country may see that it is better to remain at home until those now here have some reasonable hope of employment at a wage that shall remove the necessity of trampling upon their manhood and self-respect in the mendicant march to the soup dish?

It is not a theory but a necessity that compels most families who do so to put their children to work in factories and other places of employment. Let any one who is interested in this problem of child labor visit any of our cities or towns where there are large mill properties and see, what they will see, in the sections where the mill workers swarm. Houses close together, two or more families in each house, children from one to five years old, covering doorsteps, filling the little yards, playing in the streets, watching with little dirty faces from every window. The truth will break upon the observer, that every little hand that can add a dollar to the family income must do its part, or go hungry to bed, if there is a bed.

If ignorant and poverty-stricken foreigners must continue to flood our shores and glut the labor market more, and still more, the relation between immigration, child labor and the unemployed, will be so self-evident that no political economist will be obliged to put on his glasses to see it. Immigration is right and proper, and to be desired if, and when it can benefit both the immigrant and our own people, but not otherwise.

Some one will suggest that if there were fewer children in the families of the poor, of the factory villages, and the slums of our cities, the social problem would not be so difficult to solve. True enough, but just as true is it that if people were born without stomachs so much food would not be required to feed them. But it ever has been, is now, and ever will be the case, that the children of the poor will outnumber largely those of the well-to-do, just as they have always been born to eat and always will be.

For the unemployed there can be no relief so long as we can bring goods from abroad to be sold here at a less price than it costs to produce them in this country. Abraham Lincoln said, "If we buy of foreign manufacturers we have the goods and they have our money; but if we buy our supplies at home we have both the goods and the money." Isn't it as true now as when he said it?—Boston Times.

ANTHONY FIALA

Roosevelt Companion and Scene on Amazon River

"ROOSEVELT ALL RIGHT"

Colonel's Safety Confirmed In Cable From Consul Pickerell

New York, March 25.—A cable message confirmatory of previous dispatches that Theodore Roosevelt had met with no mishap in Brazil was received at the American Museum of Natural History in response to an inquiry sent by the museum to United States Consul Pickerell at Para.

"Roosevelt all right," said the consul's message. It added that he was expected soon at Manaos.

PAINT AND POWDER CLASSED AS "SCUM"

Faces of Young People No Place For Them, Says Judge

New York, March 25.—Face powder, in the opinion expressed in court by Judge Ryan, in Jamaica, L. I., covers "the scum of our cities." It is bad enough for older women to use it, he told 15-year-old Anna Morz, but for a child to try to improve upon nature was worse.

The girl is a probationer from the children's court. Yesterday was her day to report. When she appeared the judge had noticed that her face was powdered. He gave her a severe lecture.

"The faces of young girls," said the judge, "are no places for paint and powder. They may be good enough for old women with wrinkles."

MILITIAMEN AWE STRIKERS

Car Crews Suspended For Refusing to Carry Armed Soldiers

Buffalo, March 25.—The crews of twelve street cars of the International Railway company were suspended from duty because they refused to run cars containing militiamen on their way from armories to railroad stations. Inspectors and division superintendents were compelled to man the cars.

Bad blood has existed between the street car men and the militia ever since the street car strike here in 1913, when the soldiers were called out to quell rioting.

The bayonets of their rifles glistening in the sun, militiamen stationed on the platforms of coaches composing the Buffalo work train for Depew presented a formidable appearance as the local passed Lancaster and there was no attack by strikers and their sympathizers who lined the depot platform in large numbers.

GALLIVAN AN EASY WINNER

Boston Democrats Name Him For Vacant Seat In Congress

Boston, March 25.—James A. Gallivan swept all before him in the fight for the Democratic nomination to succeed Mayor Curley in congress from the Twelfth district.

Gallivan was away above the field, leading his nearest opponent by 2283 votes.

Frank L. Brier is the Republican nominee and James B. Connolly the Progressive, there being no contest for these nominations. The three men will fight it out on April 7, when the election will be held. The district is ordinarily Democratic.

Feat of Boy Aviator

London, March 25.—"Job" Thorneley, aged 17, son of Professor Thorneley of Cambridge university, looped the loop with a biplane at Eastbourne at a height of 2000 feet.

To Blow Up Sunken Monroe

Washington, March 25.—The revenue cutter Onondaga was ordered out to blow up any portion of the sunken Old Dominion liner Monroe that may be a menace to navigation.

First Quarrel of Twins Proves Fatal

West Fork, Ark., March 25.—Shered and Benjamin Field, twin brothers, 19 years old, had their first quarrel. It ended in the killing of Benjamin.

Women Not Worrying Over Votes

Elgin, Ills., March 25.—At the town election of Plato Centre not one woman took advantage of her right to vote.

THEY'RE THERE ON CO-OPERATION

Can Monkeys Put Anything Over Our Merchants

Wroughton tells this story which may interest Quincy merchants who are trying to co-operate:

"Remember reading about that tribe of monkeys somewhere south of here, wanting to cross a stream of any kind, will climb a tree on one bank of the stream, then each take a good, firm tail hold on his nearest neighbor and swing like a pendulum out of the tree until the lowest one in line can grab a tree on the opposite bank, and thus make a bridge which can be crossed in safety by the remaining members of the tribe?

Wonderful what can be accomplished when all pull together—even if it is only a tail hold.

Those monkeys sure believe in
A long pull,
A strong pull,
And a pull all together.

They're "there" on co-operation, mutual advancement, unselfishness and the get-together spirit.

The moral of this tale is quite plain:

Those monkeys wanted to get somewhere and by hanging together were enabled to "come across."

Come on in—let's not let it be said that monkeys can put anything over on us.

TWO ATTEMPTS

(Continued from Page One.)

Olsen in East Milton on Jan. 13, 1914, and proceeding to the scene.

8. Without authority painting over the memorandum on the inside of the doors of the fire boxes.

9. Painting without authority and against the protest of the superintendent of wires fire alarm boxes in such a negligent and wrongful manner as to interfere with the proper working of such boxes and to make it necessary to remove and clean the locks thereof.

10. Taking from the Central fire station Oct. 23, 1913, the spare permanent man who should have remained at the Central fire station for fire duty on the combination truck and going out with him to paint the fire alarm boxes without authority to do so, and being engaged in such work with exact where-abouts unknown to the Central Fire Station when a telephone alarm was there received for a fire upon the premises of W. B. Brooks, 87 Morton road, in consequence of which the combination apparatus was sent to the fire without its full quota of men.

BROKEN GLASS.

A new law of local interest is that which provides that whoever drops glass in a public street or highway, sidewalk or reservation in the immediate neighborhood of a bathing beach shall be liable to punishment by a fine of $50 or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—the staff of life for you and your wife. Get a loaf today.

5 FOR YOUR DEN 5
Beautiful College Pennants
Yale and Harvard, each 9 in. x 24 in.
Princeton, Cornell, Michigan
Each 7 in. x 21 in.
All best quality felt with felt heading, streamers, letters and mascot executed in proper colors. This splendid assortment sent postpaid for 50 cents. Send now.
HOWARD SPECIALTY COMPANY
Dayton Ohio.

You Save All
If fed right the first three weeks with
Pratts Baby Chick Food
25c, 50c and $1.00
there is little chance of fatal disease. It cuts down losses and gives you strong thriving, better chicks. No other preparation takes its place.
Pratts White Diarrhea Remedy
25c and 50c.
positively controls this costly and common disease. Prevents infection.
Refuse substitutes; insist on Pratts.
Satisfaction Guaranteed or Money Back
Get Pratts 160 page Poultry Book
A. J. Richards & Son, C. W. & G. W. Nightingale Natha Ames, E. H. Doble & Co., and Grain Dealers and General Stores everywhere. 4199.

WANTED ONLY TO WARN

Mme. Caillaux Says She Did Not Intend to Kill Editor Calmette

Paris, March 25.—"I never intended to kill M. Calmette; I wanted only to give him warning."

This assertion was made by Mme. Caillaux as the climax of her dramatic story of the shooting and a recital of the events preceding the killing of the editor of The Figaro.

Mme. Caillaux's state of mind on the eventful day, her purchase of a revolver and the last act of the tragedy, were set forth in detail by her before Magistrate Bouchard.

"France and the rebublic have need of you. I do not want you to sacrifice yourself."

Before going to The Figaro office Mme. Caillaux had left this note for her husband, who, she feared, might commit an act of violence against Calmette. She said she became frantic when she faced the man who had maligned her, and could not help shooting.

LANSING WILL ACT IN BRYAN'S ABSENCE

Counsellor to Assume All Duties Performed by Moore

Washington, March 25.—Robert Lansing, newly appointed counsellor of the state department, will act as secretary of state in the absence of Secretary Bryan, unless the president designates some other officer of the department to act in that capacity.

With the assumption of the office of counsellor by John B. Moore, President Wilson designated him to act as secretary of state during the absence of Bryan. This order has not been revoked.

Under the last and preceding administrations the assistant secretary of state acted as secretary in the absence of the official head of the department. John E. Osborn, the present assistant secretary of state, has never acted as head of the state department.

MAY SAVE POTOMAC

Fishermen Get Up Steam on United States Naval Tug

Curling, N. F., March 25.—Word reached here that a salvage crew of fishermen had succeeded in getting up steam on board the abandoned United States naval tug Potomac, imprisoned in the ice of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and would try to work the vessel clear as soon as a lead was opened up.

The tug was caught in the ice nearly two months ago while trying to free some fishing vessels, and, upon receipt of orders from Washington, was left to the mercy of the heavy floes after efforts to extricate her had failed.

TO AID EDUCATION

High School "Little Mothers" Want Real Babies to Practice On

La Crosse, Wis., March 25.—La Crosse high school girls, members of the "Little Mothers'" clubs, formed at the suggestion of Health Commissioner Furstman, to teach young girls the care of infants, have served formal notice that they want real babies to practice on.

Furstman is considering appealing to La Crosse mothers for the loan of their infants.

Round Courthouse For Gotham

New York, March 25.—The commission of experts appointed by a committee of supreme court justices to pass on Architect Lowell's plan for a round courthouse has reported favorably.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Michael Anditolla, a Worcester, Mass., merchant, was the victim of two confidence men who relieved him of $352.

Fire which originated in the headquarters of the Duke tobacco industries at Durham, N. C., destroyed the building. The damage will exceed $1,000,000.

The Massachusetts legislative committee on education reported leave to withdraw on the petition that cities and towns be required to provide clothing for needy school children.

MAN'S LITTLE DAY.

First thing a fellow knows at morn
He's born;
Then, say, at 10 o'clock the next
He's vexed
By readin', 'ritin', 'rithmetic,
Till sick.
At noon he has to go to work
Or shirk.
Then, round 'bout 2, he takes "for life"
A wife.
From 2 till time to bring in lights
He fights
And struggles with his fellow men,
And then
He sits around awhile and thinks
And blinks,
And when at last it's time for bed
He's dead.

—W. W. Whitelock in New York Times.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

DIAMONDS
RUBIES
GOLD

Tempt the dishonest when kept in a bureau or desk drawer. Keep yours in one of our steel safety deposit boxes—$5 a year—where nobody but you can get at them, but where they are convenient when you want them. Some folks pay twice as much to keep valuables in Boston safety boxes, but they're here and just as safe.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER
Private Residences. Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.
Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.
Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.
18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

OVER 10,000 DAILY READERS

Quincy, Mass., March 16, 1914.

To the Merchants of Quincy and others:

This is to certify that over 2,000 copies of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER have been printed and circulated every issue since January 1, 1914; and averaged much higher, as many days 2,500 to 3,500 copies have been printed and circulated. This gives the Quincy Daily Ledger from 10,000 to 15,000 READERS EVERY DAY.

(Signed) FRANK F. PRESCOTT,
Managing Editor.

Then personally appeared before me this Sixteenth day of March, 1914, the said Frank F. Prescott, managing editor of the Quincy Daily Ledger, and made oath that the statements above are true.

(Notary) CLARENCE BURGIN,
(Seal) Notary Public.

A CHALLENGE

The publishers of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER hereby challenge any other Quincy publication daily or weekly to take oath to the number of copies they print and circulate each and every issue; and call their attention to the law relative to fraudulent advertising when they make claims they cannot verify.

We invite the merchants to send a representative to the Ledger Office each afternoon to see the edition run off; to see how it is circulated and verify our statements, and we challenge other newspapers to do the same. We also ask the merchants to visit the newstands in Quincy and Boston, and see if the Ledger does not sell ten to one of any Quincy newspaper.

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

Advertise in the Ledger

What Local Clubs are Doing

... four of King Lear will be read at Thursday afternoon's meeting of the Atlantic Shakespeare Society, Mrs. Charles L. Coe acting as chairman.

* * *

Miss Etta M. Prescott is hostess tomorrow afternoon for the March meeting of the Hospital Aid Association, at the home of Mrs. Russell C Low, 50 Glendale road, Presidents hill.

* * *

Thursday will be an all-day meeting of the Woman's Guild of Christ church from 10 until 3.30, with a luncheon served at one o'clock. Sewing will be in order. At three o'clock Miss Katharine P. Hewins general secretary of the Church Home will give an interesting talk. At half past three the Guild will go into the church for the service. All women of the parish are invited.

* * *

At the meeting of the Old Colony Club of Weymouth Thursday afternoon in the Union church there will be a concert under the direction of Mrs. John F. Hunt of Quincy. Those to take part are Miss Marion Moorhouse, 'cello, of Wollaston, Frank Kennedy tenor at the Rogers Memorial church, airhaven, with Mrs. Hunt at the piano. As Mrs. Hunt was a former South Weymouth girl and has many friends in the town, she will probably receive a most cordial reception.

* * *

Mrs. John L. Gow is hostess and Mrs. Frank A. Page chairman of the meeting this week of the Friday Club, subject: French Dramatists—Rostand, Sardou, Sandeau.

* * *

The Junior Friday Club goes to Wollaston Monday afternoon to meet with Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield of Arlington street. Mrs. Perry Lawton of Presidents hill is chairman of the afternoon.

* * *

Mrs. Isaiah Sneath is chairman of the meeting of Wollaston Auxiliary, Woman's Board of Missions, next Wednesday afternoon. Chapter six, "The Unity of the Kingdom," of the text book "The King's Business" will be taken up at this meeting.

* * *

The Squantum Woman's Club holds its monthly meeting next Wednesday April first. With the coming of summer this club will become more active as many of its members are away for the winter being summer residents of Squantum. Work for the clubhouse is progressing slowly but surely.

* * *

Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus of the Quincy Women's Club is to give three illustrated lectures in Philadelphia at the Acorn Club, on March 30, April 1 and April 6, and leaves the last of the week for that city.

* * *

As the education committee of the Quincy Women's Club will not have may baskets this year at the annual May festival, the Flower Mission of Unity Circle of King's Daughters has decided to have a sale to replenish its treasury. Members have commenced to make may baskets and it is hoped to secure the little store on Chestnut street for the sale on April 25.

* * *

Whatsoever Circle Kings Daughters are to have a luncheon and sale of useful and fancy articles in the Wollaston Unitarian vestry, Thursday, April 2.

TRY THIS LOAF

A new Bread wrapped in wax paper, clean from bakery to table.
Always good and wholesome.
SOLD BY BEST GROCERS
PRATT BREAD CO., 3190 WASHINGTON ST., BOSTON

DR. J. A. ZWICKER
Osteopath
79 Freeman Street
Norfolk Downs, Mass.
Tel. 1271 W. Feb. 25-w-s-tf-o-28-tf

PRIVATE AND CLASS LESSONS.

Cornet, 'Cello, Mandolin, Guitar, Banjo, Violin, Piano and Harmony by thorough instructors. Violin FREE, at BOSTON SCHOOL OF MUSIC, No. 8 Washington street, Quincy.
Prof. R. G. Nichols
Director
Phone, Quincy 148J. M4-W & S. St

Mrs. W. F. Cummings of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. Aux. contributed a paper at conference of auxiliaries at North Abington, Tuesday, "How can we bring our boys to appreciate their home life?" Mrs. A. F. Bromley of Quincy gave the response to the welcome extended by Mrs. John L. Bennett the president at North Abington.

* * *

The Quincy Branch Alliance held its regular meeting Monday afternoon in the parlors of the First Parish church. After the business meeting the president introduced Miss Harriet Johnson whose subject was "Symbols in Religion." An unusually large attendance welcomed the speaker and were deeply interested in her lecture. The hostesses of the afternoon were Mrs. Frank S. Davis and Mrs. Francis F. Brewer.

* * *

Whatsoever Circle, Kings Daughters, meets with Mrs. Carroll E. Bates, 141 Warren avenue, Monday evening, at 7.45.

* * *

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

"Hobbies" sounded mysterious and attractive to members of the Quincy Women's Club and there was a large attendance at the clubhouse Tuesday afternoon. Interest was alert also because the afternoon was in charge of the Program committee, which headed by Miss Edith Randall always provides something good as well as novel.

The president Mrs. Chandler W. Smith called the business meeting to order at the usual hour. Among the announcements were: a music conference by the Music department of the State Federation to be held in Quincy, April 9, at 2 P. M. at the clubhouse, with the Music Committee of the club as hostesses; the Pageant of Trees to be given by the Wollaston Woman's Club Thursday and Friday evening asked the support of the club.

In announcing the Elijah concert by the Quincy Choral Society on April 21 the president said club members should encourage anything for the civic growth of the city and this Society was doing good work and should have the backing of all music loving citizens.

The next two meetings will be held at Alpha hall. That of April 14 by the Art committee would be an illustrated lecture by Henry Warren Poor, an artist of wide reputation. April 28 the Literature committee would present the Merrymount Monthly its contents and illustration being by club members.

Mrs. Frank J. Emery has picture postals of the clubhouse for sale, the proceeds to be used for philanthropic work.

For the Wollaston Woman's Club announcement was made of three opera talks by Havrah W. L. Hubbard in Wollaston school hall April 15, 24 and 30 for which Mrs. Charles R. Safford was receiving subscriptions.

Club members were invited to attend a conference on Household Management, March 31 at 2.15 P. M. at Auburndale, by invitation of the Auburndale Review Club.

The president spoke of the federation of the women's clubs of the city and presented a list of names from the executive board as a committee to confer with the Wollaston, Squantum and Riverside clubs.

Mrs. Tenney said a large audience was assured for the art talk April 17 at the clubhouse, and if any others desired tickets to see her at once as it might be necessary to secure a hall to accommodate all who desired to attend.

Mrs. iKtson of the Civics committee said all wishing trees, shrubs or vines must notify her or Mrs. Mackay before April 1st. Mrs. Mackay for the tree work exhibited specimens of the browntail and gypsy moth and spoke of the advisability of having the trees looked over by the experts in the city. To get the services of these men telephone her or see Mr. Moon at The Greenleaf.

Mrs. Pfaffmann announced a lecture by Winthrop Packard at Coddington school hall Friday April 3 at 4 o'clock. He would talk on birds and illustrate with colored slides. The lecture was free to all interested.

A communication was read from the Civil Service Reform regarding preferance being shown to Spanish War Veterans. It was believed merit alone should count in civil appointments and the club voted to go on record as opposed to granting favor to Spanish War Veterans, and that letters be sent to our representatives and senators at the State House opposing the passage of the bill.

Mrs. Badger told briefly of the reciprocity meeting of the Wollaston Woman's Club, she and the president being guests of that club at the meeting.

The musical program extended through the afternoon's program instead of following the business session, the artists being Miss Ruth Hardy ololst and Mrs. Harry M Watts, pianist, both of Wollaston. The opening song was "The Spirit Flower." Others were "Mary of Argyle" and "Cradle Song" and "Rose Softly Blooming." Miss Hardy has a voice of sympathetic quality and sings with a sweetness and expression that pleases her audience.

Although present Miss Randall was unable to preside over the "Hobbies" because of a severe cold and the president acted as chairman of the program. She said several club members had been persuaded to tell of their special hobbies and had been allowed five minutes each to do it in.

Mrs. Willard E. Dow of Braintree was the first to expound her special hobby her subject being "Hobbies." She gave the dictionary definition of "Hobby." She said hobbies were interesting, especially ones own hobbies and she had had several. All seemed more interesting to herself than to her family. Her first was the outcome of a visit to the old Fairbanks house at Dedham where she discovered she was a descendant from the Fairbanks family and immediately began to look up other ancestors. Then she desired to be president and to hear club members say "Madam Persident." Being on the State Federation committee and becoming interested in Food Sanitation followed. Had started in to be an Anti-Suffragist but her maiden speech before the Quincy Women's Club last spring had nipped that in the bud. Her present hobby was free transportation for the Visiting Nurses over the Bay State Street Railway for Braintree and Quincy and she hoped her hobby would have the support of club members.

Mrs. Stanley Bone's hobby was "A camp in the Maine Woods." She thought a hobby was a comfortable possession and that every one should have one. It was good also that one husband should have a hobby. A log cabin, tramps through the woods by a blazed trail, a getting close to nature was a delightful hobby.

Miss Esther Sidelinger spoke on "Work of the Children's Players." The Educational and Industrial Union of Boston wished to present good plays for children as an educational work believing that giving children an understanding of plays of the right sort was important to the next generation. The Children's Players were adults who each year presented plays for children. Next year two plays will be given and a prize of $100 was offered for the best children's play written.

Mrs. John D. Mackay's hobby was "Walking" although some may have thought it was microbes or trees. She said it is much better to walk than ride. One can't get near to nature in an automobile. You pass by on the other side. You can't smell the sweet woody roots nor see the violets growing. You can't gather the wild strawberries, nor get the odor of the sassafras unless you walk. You can't whistle to the birds and the squirrels unles you're afoot. Walking makes you healthy and wise. You can think better as you walk along a quiet road than you can at any other time except as you sit beside an open fire-place. He is poor indeed who does not know the joy of walking in the country and the woods and by the seashore.

Mrs. Edward S. Tead had a good hobby "Women's work in the church." She thought church work created a sisterly feeling and club work a friendly feeling. In church work one finds every day people. It brings one in contact with those to whom one can administer in no other way. Church work also helps children and the young people. All talent is brought out in church work, each contributing her mite whether it be consecrated needles, frying pans, or brains. She thought it jolly good fun to work for other people and was most happy when working for others along the highway of usefulness. Church work gives a wide outlook. It contributes the finest presidents and secretaries to the women's clubs. The best club workers had trained in the church work and the work was a vital seed which bore beautiful fruit.

Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes whose work in Children's welfare is well known spoke on "Rights of Children" speaking of child labor in the South. She believed that intelligent people must do their part in the struggle. Shoppers should demand the consumers label which stood for sanitary conditions and fair pay. Give the children of our nation their rights and make for a better country.

Mrs. William E. Alden took for her hobby "A Corner in Devon" and told of an interesting trip into Devonshire England; the visit to a large private estate, the road through which was called "Hobby Drive."

Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop's subject was a poser being "Philotypus." Her hobby was doing for the Finnish or Swedish comers to her home and told of various experiences in trying to understand and help them.

The last "hoppist" was Miss Harriet B. Whitaker who spoke on "Practical occupations for some of our girls," which she said was a favorite and ever recurring theme with her as she was a teacher of free hand drawing at the High school and in close touch with her girls. She exhibited the work of the girls in designing and sewing in the making of underwear, dresses, hats, embroideries etc. She asked the co-operation of club members who desired sewing done, as in this way many girls would be enabled to go through high school and get an education to fit them for more useful and larger lives. It was a plea to keep the girls in school, rather than having them go to work so young.

The "Hobbies" were varied and interesting and it was certainly one of the best meetings of the club, proving that "home talent" always entertains and attracts.

* * *

WOLLASTON WOMAN'S CLUB.

The past few weeks have been busy ones for members of the Wollaston Woman's club in preparation for the Pageant of Trees which the club is to give Thursday and Friday evenings in Wollaston School hall This unique entertainment was planned by the Civics committee to raise funds for carrying on its work of beautifying Wollaston.

The idea of the club in presenting his "drama of the trees" is to arouse interest in the trees and tree planting in the city in order that before the old ones disappear new trees may be at least partly grown to take their place. The civics committee has been especially active in helping to beautify Wollaston. It was through the efforts of Mrs. Edward J. Badger and her committee that the work of cleaning up the loose ends on the public streets was started, and rubbish cans placed on the corners of the principal streets. They also succeeded in having trees and shrubbery planted about the Wollaston railway station and in improving its sanitary condition.

The Pageant of Trees will be presented in six episodes a poem written by Mrs. Henry Litchfield, called "Chicatawbut's Dream," will be brought out by means of dances, scenes and music. Many of the trees are still in existence in Quincy and Wollaston that were a part of the forest in the days of the Indians. The pageant will show what happenned beneath these trees in the old chieftain's dream, and the grave and gay side of the daily life of his tribe will be illustrated in dance and in song. Miss Florence Olney has charge of the music and the whole pageant is under the direction of Mrs. Anna Eastman Frost.

Following is the cast of of characters:—

The Goddess of the Tree—Mrs. A. D. Ropes.

The Heart of the Cedar—Mrs. Anna Eastman Frost.

Pan—Marion Johnson.

Nymphs—Charlotte Barstow, Hildegarde Ducey, Ruth Epes, Ruth Jones, Barbara Johnson, Edna Chapman, Helen Moulton, Elizabeth Sayward, Margaret Reed, Lucy Waite, Anna Weston, Priscilla White.

Mermaids—Dorothy Brokaw, Ruth Bruce, Katherine Follett.

Lassies in the Beaver Jackets—Marcia Adams, Katherine Adams, May Blake, Lydia Keyes, Gretchen Horst, Helen Richards, Dorothy Sprague.

Puritans, Myles Standish—Arthur Raymond, John Morton.

Anne Hutchinson—Mrs. Percy L. Davidson.

Revolutionary Period—Mr. and Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Oldham, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Geddes, Mr. and Mrs. Axel G. Nelson. Mrs. Roy Baker, Mrs. Charles Sayward, Mrs. Clifton Baker, Wm. Smith, Mrs. Oscar Baker, Mrs. Charles W. Estes, Mrs. Emmerson.

Dance of the Winds—Mrs. Anna E. Frost, Marion Johnson, Muriel Badger, Caroline Lewis, Helen Seavey, Blanche Holman, Miss Thomas.

Civil War Period—Mrs. Charles Brooks, Miss Edith Chapman, Mrs. Fred J. Ricker, Mr. and Mrs. Rood, Mr. and Mrs. Payson, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gilliatt, Miss Ruth Hardy, James Cahill, Leslie Smith, Robert Merritt, Mr. Chapman.

The Swallows—Constance Fryer, Leader, Emily Parry, Betty Savage, Florence Weeks, Bernadine Barker, Gladys Paine, Eleanor Birse, Dorothy Vye, Elizabeth Trumper, Frances Brown, Edna Snow, Myra Harriman, Frances Adams, Virginia Follett, Dorothy Rawson, Arline Holmes, Verna Carr, Edna Campbell, Priscilla Streeter, Marjorie Johnson, Judith Page, Helen Alden.

The Hunters—Donald Blake, Donald Bennett, Philip Mooers, Hale Waite, Lawrence Shaw, Roland Shaw, Wallace Trumper.

The Club has made arrangements with Havrah William L. Hubbard of the Boston Opera house for a series of three opera talks to be given in April. The first on April 15 will be on "Love of Three Kings" and "Secret of Suzanne," the second April 24, "The Jewels of the Madonna," and the third will be an evening talk on "Lohengrin," or "Mona Vanna." The lectures are all to be in the Wollaston M. E. church vestry.

* * *

THE BIENNIAL.

Between ten and fifteen thousand women are expected to attend the Chicago biennial, June 9-19, and hotel managers think the number will be greater, estimating by the reservations already made. Following the complimentary concert to be given by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, on Tuesday evening, there will be a council meeting on Wednesday morning. The sessions are more intimate than those of the General Federation, because the council is a smaller body, composed of every club president in the Federation, State president, General Federation State secretaries, board of directors and chairmen of departments. The interests of the General Federation are brought before the Council, with opportunity for general discussion, and any club president may bring her problems for solution or her pet project for indorsement and adoption.

Wednesday afternoon will be left open for General Federation department chairmen to meet members of their departments. Wednesday evening the convention will formally open with a programme under the direction of the local biennial board. Miss Jane Addams will give one of the two addresses of welcome.

Thursday morning the work of the convention begins in earnest, with reports of the national officers.

Friday will be the first day given to a department and will be in charge of Mrs. O. Sheppard Barnum of Alhambra, California, chairman of education. Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of the Chicago schools, will speak on "Education in a Democracy." At the general education conference in the afternoon each chairman will present an expert. The question of social hygiene and instruction concerning it in normal schools will be handled by President William B. Owen of the Chicago Normal, chairman of the committee appointed by the president of the National Education Association to prepare plans and outlines for a suitable normal course.

In the conservation department the report of the national chairman, Mrs. Emmons Crocker of Fitchburg, Mass. will be followed by an address by Gifford Pinchot. The afternoon session at 2.30 will be a conference under the direction of Mrs. Crocker, when in ten-minute talks Mrs. Lovell White of San Francisco, will speak on forestry; Mrs. A. L. Christie of Butte, Mon., on conservation in general; Mrs. Myra L. Dock of Fayetteville, Pa., on tree nursery work; Mrs. May Riley Smith on conservation of birds, and Mrs. Lydia Adams Williams of Washington, D. C., on the forest service. Each State chairman of conservation has also been invited to speak for two minutes concerning her work or on some conservation subject in which she is especially interested.

The chief address of the civil service department will be made by its chairman, Mrs. Imogen B. Oakley of Philadelphia, on "The Domestic Side of Civil Service Reform."

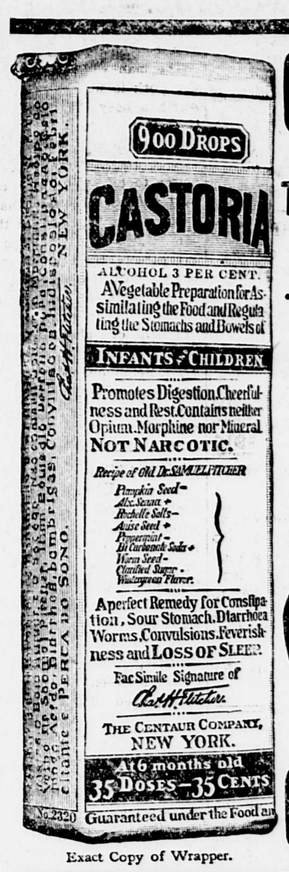
CLUB EVENTS

MARCH

26—Hospital Aid Asso. Miss Prescott.
26—Atlantic Shakespeare Society.
26-27—Civics Com. W. W. C. Pageant, W. School Hall.
27—Friday Club.
27—Educational Conference at Waltham
30—Junior Friday Club—Mrs. Litchfield's.
30—Whatsoever Circle—Mrs. Bates.

APRIL.

1—Squantum Woman's Club
1—Wollaston Auxiliary W. B. of M.
2—Christ Church—Women's Guild
2—Whatsoever Circle—Luncheon.
3—Quincy W. C. T. U.—Faxon Hall
6—Adams Chapter, D. R.
7—Quincy Day Nursery Asso.—Clubhouse
7—W. W. Club—Dramatic Reading
8—Q. W. Club—Current Events
8—Bethany Women's Union
8—Wollaston Alliance—Annual
9—W. W. Club—Executive Board
9—Atlantic Shakespeare Society.
9—Q. W. C.—Music Conference.
10—Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary
10—W. W. Club—Parliamentary Law Class.
10—Friday Club—Mrs. H. M. Faxon
13—A. P. Q. Chapter—Mrs. Frank Burgess
13—Junior Friday Club—Miss Prescott
14—K. C. M. Club—Misses Schenkelberger
14—Q. W. Club—Alpha Hall
15—Fragment Society—First Church
15—Quincy Alliance—Neighborhood
15—W. W. Club—Opera Talk.
17—Art Com. Q. W. Club—Art Lecture
20—K. C. M. Club—Mrs. Crane's
21—W. W. Club—Gentlemen's Night
22—Wollaston Alliance
23—Atlantic Shakespeare Society—Musicale.
24—Friday Club—Mrs. O. A. Hayward
24—W. W. Club—Opera Talk.
25—King's Daughters — Maybasket Sale.
27—Quincy Alliance—Annual
27—Junior Friday Club—Miss Randall
27—W. W. Club—Parliamentary Law Class
27—W. W. Club—Current Events
28—Q. W. Club—Alpha Hall
—Q. W. Club—Children's Party
29—A. P. Q. Chapter—Mrs. W. F. Kimball
30—Hospital Aid Asso.
30—W. W. Club—Opera Talk.



Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over Thirty Years
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

YOUTH IN OLD AGE

Possible With Proper Care.

A few generations back a man at 50 was considered old, gray-bearded and waiting for death. Note the change today; at a meeting of the Medico-Legal society it was stated that a man of 50 ought to have forty good years ahead of him and, thus at ninety he is in the fulness of maturity.

What if you have seen sixty, or even seventy birthdays—temperate habits, fresh air and exercise, with a simple diet and a sufficient amount of sleep will guard your health.

If perchance, your circulation is poor, if you become run down—weak and no appetite—nothing in the world will tone up these tired backsliding organs—enrich the blood and create strength so quickly as our delicious cod liver and iron tonic Vinol.

We ask every feeble, discouraged old person in this vicinity to try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it fails to give satisfaction. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

Same Thing.

Wife (bitterly)—"How can you talk that way? You know that I never pester you for money." Hub—"No, but the people you buy things from do."

Non-negotiable.

Crawford — "Are those dollar watches any good?" Crabshaw—"They're all right, except when you're broke."—Judge.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by John O. Hall to the Cohasset Savings Bank dated December 14, 1904, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the county of Norfolk, book 390, page 624, for breach of the condition contained in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction, on the premises, on Tuesday the twenty-first day of April 1914, at eleven o'clock, in the forenoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:—A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situated in Quincy in said County of Norfolk, being lot number 3 as shown on a plan made by H. T. Whitman, civil engineer, dated August 16, 1902, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, book 930, page 172, and bounded and described as follows: Westerly by the Easterly line of a private way shown on said plan fifty feet; Northerly by lot number 4 on said plan seventy-six and 10-100 feet; Easterly by land now or formerly of Carter fifty feet and Southerly by lot number 2 on said plan, being land now or formerly of Effie McKenzie, seventy-four feet, containing 3720 square feet. The premises will be sold subject to all existing incumbrances and municipal assessments.

$200 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale. Other terms will be announced at the same time and place.

JAMES W. WILSON,
Assignee and present holder of said mortgage.
Ira M. Huggan, Atty., 16 State St., Boston, Mass.
March 24, 1914.
3t Mar. 25 Apr. 1-8

CARPETS
Oriental
Domestic RUGS
LINOLEUM
MATTINGS
AT LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES
John H. Pray & Sons Co.
546 Washington Street, Opp. Boylston Street

All Goods will be Delivered Free at Residences in Quincy
REPRESENTED IN QUINCY BY
Messrs. OTHO A. HAYWARD and WALTER J. WELLINGTON.

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Thursday unsettled and warmer, probably followed by rain or snow.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.38
Sun sets	6.03
Length of day	12.25
Moon sets	6.15
High water, A. M.	11.30
High water, P. M.	11.45
Days increase	3 hours, 16 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	53 degrees
Mar. 25 1913,	68 degrees
March 25, 1914,	39 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

SPORT NEWS

Edmund I. Whittemore of Bigelow street has sold his yacht the Alpha, which has won many prizes the last two seasons.

It is extremely doubtful that the best of feelings will prevail between the backers of Michael Kiley, said to be the champion checker player of West Quincy, and Napoleon Grignon, an aspirant for that title, whose objection to Alfred Jordan champion of the world as a referee, resulted in smash of the series underway. The friends of Mr. Kiley were giving him their solid support and Mr. Grignon was receiving an equally strong support from his friends. The occurrence was a disappointment to nearly all of the West Quincy residents who hoped to see settled, after fully 15 years discussion who is the better player.

Grignon is said to have stated that he will play Kiley again but from what can be learned the latter prefers Mr. Jordan as referee, something Mr. Grignon does not care to accept. An interesting checker controversy is going on in the ward.

The Quincy A. A. will present their second amateur tourney on April 7 in Faxon hall. The classes will be 115, 125 and 135. As in the first meet the event will be sanctioned by the N. E. A. A. A. and none but registered amateurs wil be allowed to compete.

Home Made.

"My dear," said Mr. Wombat, "you look as fresh as a budding tree in your new spring dress." "The comparison is good," sneered Mrs. Wombat. "Like a tree, I had to make it myself."

Only One "BROMO QUININE"

To get the genuine call for full name, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for signature of E. W. GROVE. Cures a Cold in One Day. 25c

W. H. HASLETT
31 Bridge Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 1092 W

Plastering and Cementing
Concrete Houses
Outside Stucco Work
Cement Walks, Steps and Cellar Floors.

PETROSILO sanitary and fireproof flooring—guaranteed to wear longer than hard wood floor—no joints one continuous piece put over any floor.
Feb. 25- W-S. tf

CLOSE CLUB TOURNAMENT

St. Mary's Society Win from Division 22

St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society beat Div. 22, A. O. H. in a club tournament in St. Mary's hall Tuesday night, 11 to 10. Had the losers spruced up in the bowling match and divided the points the score would have been tied. The points were won as follows:

St. Mary's		Div. 22
4	Whist	1
0	Cribbage	5
1	Forty-five	1
1	Pool	1
1	Billiard	0
1	Hand ball	1
3	Bowling	1
11	Totals	10

The most exciting event was the cribbage tournament, which Div. 22 took with ease. Kiley and Duane's billiard match was also close and exciting. The summary at whist was:

J. McGilvray & A. Amet lost to Charles McHugh & Peter Griffin
J. DeCoste & B. Flaherty beat
Michael Manning & B. McHugh
Law Donovan & John Ryan beat
J. Murphy & Dennis Ford
J. Lamb & Clem Patriarca beat
James Flaherty & James McDonnell
C. Crowley & J. Rogers beat
B. Manning & John Sheehan

Forty-five
Team 1 lost to Team 1.
Team 2 beat Team 2.

Cribbage.
James Sweeney & D. Ford lost 2 to D. O'Connell & J. Collins
P. Duggan & P. Haggerty lost
3 to M. Mitchell & J. O'Dowd

Pool.
J. O'Rourke beat Charles Perkins.
Joseph Brunot lost to John Buckley.

Hand ball.
P. Duggan & J. O'Rourke won and lost to John Duane & B. Flaherty

Billiards.
Michael Kiley beat John Duane.
At bowling St. Mary's won 3 to 1:

ST. MARYS.

Connolly	106	86	94	286
F. Joyce	82	100	103	285
R. Elcock	96	78	75	249
D. Duggan	100	87	78	265
F. McPherson	79	82	84	245
	463	436	434	1330

DIV. 22, A. O. H.

J. McDonell	79	86	74	239
J. Fitzgerald	81	91	88	260
P. Quinn	79	88	78	245
B. Flaherty	85	108	98	291
J. Welch	83	85	88	256
	407	458	426	1291

FOR BASKET BALL CHAMPIONSHIP

The final game in Greater Boston Y. M. C. A. basket ball league will be played tonight at Newton. Newton and Quincy are tied for first honors each team having won 7 and lost 1 league game. The two teams have each won one and lost one game to each other, and game tonight will settle the title beyond dispute. Naturally Newton will have a slight advantage as the game is being played on their floor, but the Quincy players feel that the home floor will not make much difference. When the teams played before at Newton, Quincy was beaten by only 4 points, but when Newton visited Quincy they were defeated by over 20 points.

RAND CLASS VS. DAVIS CLASS.

The Davis class will endeavor to stop the Rand class tonight in their Sunday School Bowling League match. Up to date the Rand boys have lost but four points, and if the Davis bowlers cannot take the big end of the points tonight it is a sure thing that the Wollaston team will win the championship.

NEW ICE CREAM LAW.

Hereafter all substances sold under the name of ice cream must contain not less than seven per cent of milk fat, and if flavored with fruit, only sound, clean matured fruit shall be used. The fine for violation is not exceeding $100.

☞PRATT'S BREAD is best because more care is used in the making. Grocers.

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY AND EVERYONE IN QUINCY.

MICHAEL TEAM RETAIN LEAD

Capt. O'Neil a Close Second in MacGregor League

The team of Captain Michael retained its lead in the Clan MacGregor league in the rolloffs at the Coliseum alleys Tuesday night, and the O'Neils remain in second place, a difference of one point still separating the two quintettes.

The bowling of several individuals was good, and one league record was smashed when the high team single record of 506, made by the Mavers five last Tuesday, was jumped to 507 by the O'Neils. The rolling of Captain O'Neil, who made a single of 118 in that string brought about the record.

Captain O'Neil was also high man of the evening his three string total of 309, being five more than Nicolls, although the showing of the latter was very consistent and not so flashy.

The taking of four points from the McKenzies by the Michaels was disappointing to the O'Neils, who were forced into second place last week through that teams showing and hoped to see them repeat with the Michaels.

The standing to date is:

	Won	Lost
Capt. Michael	68	40
Capt. O'Neil	67	41
Capt. Mavers	54	54
Capt. McKenzie	52	56
Capt. McLane	48	60
Capt. Thomson	36	70

The Michaels whitewash of the McKenzies:

MICHAEL.

Nicoll	101	100	103	304
Craig	75	101	80	256
A. Michael	100	104	87	291
J. Michael	110	89	89	288
Morton	90	77	93	260
	476	471	452	1399

McKENZIE.

Gordon	84	85	74	243
Smith	82	89	89	260
McKenzie	93	85	80	258
Mitchell	85	83	87	255
Drummond	94	95	106	295
	438	437	436	1311

Thomsons' men lost one of four points to the Mavers:

THOMSON.

Troupe	91	94	70	255
Thomson	92	84	88	264
Hastings	106	91	101	298
Mavers	85	105	85	275
Brine	77	89	113	279
	451	463	457	1371

MAVER.

Maver	91	91	82	264
Troupe	85	91	100	276
Nicholl	95	79	85	259
Dunbar	77	78	86	241
Marting	106	82	81	269
	454	421	434	1309

The O'Neils easily beat McLanes 4 to 0 and an even 100 pins.

O'NEIL.

D. Dackers	85	102	75	262
J. Raleigh	87	95	94	276
J. Hughes	85	95	79	259
O'Neil	106	118	85	309
P. Dackers	103	97	88	288
	466	507	421	1394

McLANE.

Patterson	84	87	94	265
E. Niccol	79	87	74	240
Marnock	96	93	77	266
Oswold	88	92	71	251
McLane	82	100	80	262
	429	459	396	1284

GOLF ENTHUSIASTS.

Golf has become quite a fad with a number of City Square business men and every afternoon several of them are at the Montclair links chasing the little white ball over the green. Two of the most active enthusiasts at the present time are Edward J. Murphy the Rexal man and H. Everett Crane. Mr. Murphy started in several weeks in advance of Mr. Crane but the latter is coming fast and it is only a question of a short time when there is bound to be a spirited match between these two gentlemen. As it is now they both go over the course together and as a general rule Mr. Murphy wins out, although Mr. Crane once had the better of Mr. Murphy.

MY SLOGAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

SURRENDER TO THE MILITARY

Brings About Political Chaos In Great Britain

GOVERNMENT IS CHECKMATED

Capitulation Denounced Even by Liberal Press—May Lead to Early Dissolution of Parliament—Members of Commons Cheer as Defiance Is Hurled at King

London, March 25.—The dissolution of the British parliament has been hastened by the events of the last few days and by the surrender of the government to the officers of the army, who declined to serve against the Ulster men, according to the opinion generally expressed in political circles.

The Irish Nationalists, it is pointed out, will not accept home rule with Ulster permanently excluded, while the government has found it impossible to compel Ulster to come under a Dublin parliament.

The action of the army officers in rebelling aginst the orders given them was so unheard of that it is only now that the country has begun to realize its full significance. The masses of the people now see that by giving immunity to the officers for what is really an act of mutiny and treason the king has placed the army above parliament and the will of the people, and said in effect that the army can dictate at any time as to how its services can be used.

This temper of the masses found expression in the most remarkable demonstration against the king and his throne that has been witnessed in a century.

It came when John Ward, a Labor member, arose to speak on a motion regarding the army appropriation bill. He said that the Conservatives, by approving the rebellion of the officers, "had started to smash the British army."

The house, he said, had to decide whether it was going to maintain the discipline of the army as a neutral force, or whether the parliament elected by the people should "absolutely without interference from the king or the army make the laws of the realm."

The ominous significance of the Ward episode may be judged from the fact that it is an unwritten law of the houses of parliament that the king's name (or queen's) must never be mentioned in debate. This law has never been broken in the memory of the oldest member in the house of commons.

But Ward not only shouted the king's name and hurled defiance at the throne, but over half the members of the house rose to their feet and wildly cheered his utterance. Then, to cap the climax, members later began to shout "Buckingham Palace," in derision, across the chamber.

It is urged that the only way out of the difficulty is to hold a general election, and no one would be surprised if the government during the second reading of the home rule bill next week should offer to dissolve parliament on condition that the home rule, the Welsh disestablishment and the plural voting bills be passed.

General Paget and three senior officers from the Curragh camp—General Gough, Colonel McEwen and Colonel Parker—were summoned to London for a conference. According to official statements the misunderstanding has been cleared away and these officers returned to Ireland. The terms on which the officers remained at their posts were not disclosed, but the general belief is that they were assured they would not be compelled to fight against the Ulster men. This is considered a distinct surrender by the government.

Lord Morley of Blackburn explained in the house of lords significantly that he did not think, in the interests of the efficiency of the army, that all that transpired in the army council should be made public and that the king approved the orders to the officers to return.

The part the king played in the crisis has not been disclosed. Army officers addressed their resignations to him, and the report is that the king insisted that the resignations in the present instance should not be accepted and used his influence with the cabinet for a compromise with the army.

The Unionists firmly believe the government has participated in a fiasco. They think that the two most enterprising spirits of the cabinet, Messrs. George and Churchill, were the chief movers in the plan and that the government proposed a wholesale movement of troops into Ulster to overcome the covenanters by the display of superior force and the arrest of their leaders, and that the plan was frustrated only by the opposition of the officers.

The future of the home rule bill is wrapped in clouds. No declarations of "full steam ahead" or "meeting force with force" were heard from the Liberals in the debate in the house of commons. None of the fire and firmness which permeated the speeches of the ministers only last week was in evidence.

The army has checkmated the government, according to the Unionists' view, and the covenanters of Ulster have won their fight. No one will be surprised if the government soon relinquish armed force, as its action had the immediate result of striking a shower of sparks of class jealousies.

The provincial Liberal papers are even more outspoken on the subject of the government's surrender to the officers than are their London contemporaries. The Manchester Guardian says it is with the deepest regret and some shame it has heard of Premier Asquith's even partial acceptance of the doctrine that officers have the right to lay down for themselves the conditions under which they will continue to serve the king. It continues:

"They are so treated because they are rich men and because they had the prejudices of their class. Not only then is there one law for the rich man in the army and one for the poor, but there is one standard for the Tory officer's loyalty to his oath, and another standard for the private soldier with sympathies for the laboring man."

Similar comments appear in the Liverpool Post, also a strong Liberal paper.

ACCUSED OF MURDER

Widow of Rich Farmer Is Arrested For Second Time

East Woodstock, Conn., March 25.—On the charge that she clubbed her husband to death and then put his body in the stall with a fierce stallion to make it appear that the animal had kicked the life out of him, Mrs. Amanda U. Lawson, widow of Jonah Lawson, a rich farmer here, was arrested.

This is the second time the woman, who inherited all her husband's money, has been taken by the authorities for his alleged murder.

Lawson was found in the horse's stall on Aug. 15 of last year with his skull broken in four places, and every tooth in his head knocked out.

The police announced that they had secured further evidence which justified renewed prosecution of her for the murder. Beyond this they refused to give details of their case.

PIG'S EYE USED TO GIVE INFANT SIGHT

First Operation In Which Cornea of Swine Was Used

Baltimore, March 25.—An operation which, it is believed, is fraught with great importance to the medical profession, was performed at the Baltimore eye, ear and throat hospital, when the entire cornea of the eye of a pig was taken out and grafted on the eye of a 3-months-old boy.

The grafting of an animal cornea on a human eye has been tried several times, but has never been successful. A rabbit's eye has always been used in such operations, however. The operation performed at the local institution is believed to have been the first in medical annals in which a pig's eye was used.

The little patient is David Kane, son of Herman and Agnes Kane. The child was blind when born.

INDIANS' CHIEF ENEMY

Whisky at the Bottom of Most of the Red Men's Troubles

Washington, March 25.—Commissioner of Indian Affairs Sells has sent an appeal to the 6000 employes in the Indian service, urging them to do their utmost to protect the Indian from liquor.

"I believe that the greatest menace to the American Indian is whisky," Sells declares. "It does more to destroy his constitution and invite the ravages of distase than anything else. It does more to demoralize him and to make him an easy prey to the unscrupulous than all other causes combined."

SUSPECTS ARE RELEASED

River Now Being Searched For Body of Warren McCarrick

Philadelphia, March 25.—On the theory that Warren McCarrick, the 7-year-old boy who has been missing from his home here for nearly two weeks, was drowned in the Schuylkill river, the police began grappling the bottom of the river. Many believe the boy, while playing along the river bank, accidentally fell in.

Four men who were arrested in New Jersey on suspicion of knowing something concerning the whereabouts of the boy were released from custody.

DUE TO OVEREATING

Expert Says Increase of Cancer Is Only Among the Rich

New York, March 25.—The simple life was urged by Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, a statistician, as a cancer preventative in an address before the Society for the Control of Cancer.

"It is not a question of how much we eat," he said, "but what nutriment we obtain from our food. Cancer is rapidly increasing in this country, but only among the rich who overeat."

All That's Left.

Mrs. Goodsole (feeding tramp)—You seem to have a good appetite. Hungry Higgins—Ah, mum, dat's all I have left in de world dat I kin rightly call me own.—Exchange.

TERSE LINES ON ADVERTISING

Will Build Up a Large and Profitable Business

One of the nation's most able advertisers gives his views upon advertising in the following paragraphs:

I believe in newspaper advertising because it gives the widest possible distribution to the product.

It links you up with your dealer and your dealer with you.

It gives the consumer a guarantee of quality. Advertised goods can generally be depended upon.

It keeps your trade name or trademark constantly before your possible buyers and your customers—they don't have a chance to forget you.

It has been the means of profitably exploiting hundreds of new lines of merchandise in a remarkably short space of time.

To my mind, advertising, if truthful and persistent, and if backed up by a fulfillment of all claims and statements made, is a wise and profitable investment.

The man who is afraid to advertise, or whose products cannot stand the test of wide publicity, better not do it. But the man who has confidence in himself, in his house and in his goods, and the ability and facilities for widely distributing his products, will find advertising a great force in building up a large and profitable turnover.

Knew Where He Was.

Sportsman—"Can you tell me where to send a handkerchief I have found belonging to Father Maloney?" Irish Priest—"I can; but he'll have no use for ut. He's been in Hiven these three weeks."—Punch.

AUTOMOBILE TIRES
AT FACTORY PRICES
Save from 20 to 60 percent.

	Tire	Tube	Reliner
28x3	$7.20	$1.65	$1.35
30x3	7.80	1.95	1.40
30x3½	10.80	2.80	1.90
32x3½	11.90	2.95	2.00
34x3½	12.40	3.00	2.05
32x4	13.70	3.35	2.40
33x4	14.80	3.50	2.45
34x4	16.80	3.60	2.60
36x4	17.85	3.90	2.80
35x4½	19.75	4.85	3.45
36x4½	19.85	4.90	3.60
37x4½	21.50	5.10	3.70
37x5	24.90	5.90	4.20

All other sizes in stock Non-Skid tires 15 per cent additional, red tubes ten per cent above gray. All new clean, fresh, guaranteed tires. Best standard and independent makes. Buy direct from us and save money. 5 per cent discount if payment in full accompanies each order. C. O. D. on 10 per cent deposit.
TIRE FACTORIES SALES CO.
Dept. A Dayton, Ohio

SCIENTIFIC FORESTRY

To Woodland, orchard and shade tree owners of Quincy:

The Massachusetts Forestry Association is bringing scientific forestry to the people of the State. Our field secretary, Mr. W. L. Hamel is in your city for the purpose of arousing interest in this important subject. He is a trained forester and will be glad to give you any advice or information concerning your shade-trees orchards or woodlands free of charge. All you need to do is to write a postcard to him addressed care of Mrs. J. D. Mackay, 75 Greenleaf street, and he will call to see you.

The advice he gives will be gratis but if you think it will be of advantage to you to have your trees pruned or cemented or your woodlot thinned, we recommend that Mr. Hamel do the work because of his training and experience. You can arrange with him as to the cost of doing the work and will not be under obligations to hire him, because of the advice he gives you which is free. The object of the Association is to protect the trees and this has proved the most efficient way of doing it.

Massachusetts Forestry Association.
21—S&W-tf

QUINCY REGISTRY
FOR NURSES
20 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar,
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

ADMINISTRATRIX NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administratrix of the estate of Edmund Griffiths, late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, deceased, intestate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to Ann Griffiths, Admx.
(Address)
304 Granite Street,
Quincy, March 11th, 1914
March 11-3t 11-18-25

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administrator of the estate of Mary Elsie Cleaves, late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, deceased, intestate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to
CLARENCE LINWOOD CLEAVES,
Adm.
(Address)
176 East Elm Ave., Wollaston, Mass.
March 17th, 1914
Mar. 18-3t 18,25-1

WOOD! WOOD! WOOD!

BY THE CORD
OR SAWED AND SPLIT

ENGLISH, BEDDING AND SALT HAY

R. ALLEN GAGE
36 River St., Braintree
Telephone 138 M for prices. Jan 21 tf W&S

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE
In effect April 8, 1913.
(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.25 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 8.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.30 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 8.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 8.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight. Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street, 5.45 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 12.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Wollaston—6.03, 6.33, 7.03 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.03 P. M. then 11.20, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.03 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.25 P. M. then 11.42 P. M. and 12.12 midnight. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.10, 5.30, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sundays 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 11.00 P. M.

THOMAS GAMMON,
Superintendent

PRETTY FLOWER'S LOVE CURE

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Lew Kelsey of the Twin Star ranch rode his horse desperately over lonely trails that summer afternoon. There was a look of grim despair on his handsome face, and his bronzed hands clutched the bridle reins until the knuckles showed white.

"Turned down, turned down!" he muttered over and over again as Corney, the horse, flew madly through the dust of the trail. "And she laughed—laughed to beat the band—when I asked her! What do you know about that?"

The memory of Anita Rooney's scornful laugh still rang in his outraged ears. Why should Pat Rooney's red headed girl spurn his offer of marriage in that rude way? Had she not accepted his attentions—his gifts? Had she not flirted with him, led him to believe that she loved him? And then when he summoned his courage to offer her the greatest honor in his gift—his big, warm, honest heart—she had laughed at him and refused!

So, while Lew Kelsey rode toward the west where the Wind river mountains piled a dim blue bulk against the pale sky, he gloomed sullenly over his unfortunate love affair, and he registered many vows to have done with women forever.

SHE POINTED HERE AND THERE ON HIS HAND.

He pulled his horse to a standstill on the summit of a hill and looked away to the distant ranges, and he felt a longing to wipe out this old score of fate and start life anew without a woman in the world to turn the sweetness of living to pain and bitterness.

As he sat there like a bronze statue of despair, two riders came into view over the crest of the hill where he sat. Astride two wiry Indian ponies were a Shoshone Indian and his squaw; the woman was attired in a new dress, and she tinkled with silver ornaments, and her garments were gay with colored beads. The man wore a brand new suit of khaki, new moccasins, and his well oiled black hair hung about his ears.

Sun Dog and his wife, Pretty Flower, were on their way back to the reservation in the Wind river district after a visit to their married daughter at Fort Steele.

"How!" grunted Sun Dog as he jogged past the cowpuncher.

"How!" returned Lew pleasantly enough.

"How!" smiled Pretty Flower, looking speculatively at the young man. "Me tell you fortune, huh?"

Pretty Flower was a thrifty woman, and her skill at fortune telling added many a silver coin to Sun Dog's wampum belt.

"Fortune!" repeated Lew disdainfully. "I'm afraid you haven't got any good fortune for me, Pretty Flower."

Pretty Flower giggled.

"Me find good fortune. Me find nice squaw," she promised.

"Squaw—ugh!" sneered Lew.

Pretty Flower looked sharply at him from her little black eyes. In spite of her dull looking countenance, she was unusually keen and discerning. Being a shrewd woman who dealt in fortunes, she was quick to recognize in Lew Kelsey all the symptoms of "a young man disappointed in love."

She knew Kelsey was not a drinking man, nor was he a gambler; therefore she attributed his downcast appearance to a rebuff by the girl he loved.

So she put her neatly dressed head on one side and looked at him archly.

"Me can cure love," she insinuated.

Lew turned sharply.

"You can do what?" he roared.

"Me can cure love," she repeated.

"The dickens you can!" growled Lew, turning as red as the sunset.

"Me can cure you!"

"All right; go ahead; cure me," he ordered brazenly.

"Good!" grunted Pretty Flower approvingly.

Lew Kelsey slipped from the saddle and stood leaning against Corney's side. He held out his muscular, sunburned hand to the Indian.

Pretty Flower jumped from her pony and stood beside him, holding his hand in her own red brown fingers.

"Hum! White man want cure for love? Listen! Find pretty girl. Lots pretty girls in Red Spider. Try hard to love new pretty girl. Try hard to forget old pretty girl. Bimeby some day old pretty girl come from love and new pretty girl most got heart. Then stop there, white man, quick. Old love gone away. New love not quite come. Heart empty. White man safe! That, white man, is Pretty Flower's love cure." She dropped his hand and stepped back, surveying him with bright, watchful eyes.

"Well, of all the— Say, Pretty Flower, that's not a bad scheme of yours!" burst forth Lew excitedly. "That's some little cure. I believe I'll try it. Here!" He brought out a roll of bills and placed in the delighted squaw's palm a crisp and crackling five dollar note.

So Sun Dog and Pretty Flower went joyfully home to the reservation, while Lew Kelsey wheeled his horse about and returned to the Twin Star ranch. He reached there just in time for supper, and when the meal had been hurried through he joined his companions in making an elaborate toilet, for they were all going to attend the dance at the schoolhouse in Red Spider that evening.

All was merriment in the schoolhouse. The desks and seats had been piled outside, and on the platform were three fiddlers and a cracked piano. But the music was of the popular order, and amusements were few and far between in Red Spider, so that the dancers were not overparticular so long as the fiddlers kept in tune with the piano and their feet could beat time on the hard oaken floor.

Anita Rooney was there, the center of a laughing, joking crowd of men and girls. Lew Kelsey stood against the wall and felt a brief pang as his gaze included Anita's crisp red hair and a glimpse of her laughing face. Then he steadied himself and looked about for the girl who was to effect Pretty Flower's love cure.

He knew most of the girls present, but there were one or two who were strangers to him. One of them, a pretty, dark eyed, black haired girl, dressed in white, with a pale blue girdle about her slim waist, seemed more of a stranger than the others. She was with Dr. Blake's wife, and as Lew Kelsey was an intimate friend of the Blakes he felt no hesitation in approaching the doctor's wife and in obtaining an introduction to her guest from the east, Esther Gray.

Miss Esther Gray proved to be a most delightful acquaintance. She was as sweet and charming as she was pretty, and Lew felt that there wouldn't be the least difficulty in losing his heart to Esther. Only the trouble was he might want her to keep it. In that case, where was the good of Pretty Flower's love cure?

At any rate, he would be out of love with the scornful Anita!

As the evening wore on Lew found himself quite forgetting Miss Rooney and her ruddy charms. On the other hand, Anita sensed that she was losing an admirer. It was all very well to laugh at Lew Kelsey's pretensions to her hand and heart; still she had been proud of the attentions of the handsome young cowpuncher, only—only—well, Anita Rooney was ambitious, and she had set her heart on marrying well. No mere cowpuncher would do. It must be the ranch owner himself for Pat Rooney's daughter. It was one thing to refuse Lew Kelsey and still have him dangling at her heels a disconsolate lover. It was quite another matter to have him apparently forgetting all about her and paying devoted attention to that black eyed witch from the east.

So Anita sent for Lew and told him reproachfully that she had saved three dances for him, "as usual," and that he had not come to claim them. And Lew, who recognized Anita's wiles, grinned good naturedly and asked her to dance. Even while his strong arm guided her through the mazes of the waltz, which is still popular in Red Spider district, Anita resentfully felt that his thoughts as well as his eyes were following the graceful figure of Esther Gray.

At the end of another week Pretty Flower's love cure was working. Lew had almost forgotten his love for Anita Rooney, while his growing love for Esther Gray was an ever present joy.

One morning while he was herding cattle on the western ranges the thought of the projected love cure smote his memory.

"Ah, I couldn't—I couldn't keep myself from loving her!" he said, with a tender smile.

"I'll ask her to ride out to Sunset point with me," he decided. "There I'll ask her, and if she'll have me—why, I'll buy that little ranch of Nickerson's, and we'll—we'll call it Paradise, for it can't be anything else with Esther there!"

It was just at sunset when Esther Gray and Lew Kelsey rode slowly up the slope and rested their horses on the summit of the point. Far to the west the fiery clouds flickered and flamed along the peaks of the distant mountains.

Silhouetted against the western sky, the dark forms of the riders told a story to Pretty Flower and her husband, who were gathering herbs on the hillside.

The horses were standing close together, and Lew's arm was about Esther's slender waist, and her dark head was on his shoulder.

Pretty Flower looked at Sun Dog and smiled.

"It was the love cure," she whispered softly.

Sun Dog grunted approval, and together, hand in hand, the two Indians stole away, for they, too, had been young and had known romance.

PROGRESSIVES NAME TICKET

Gardner of Patten Their Choice For Governor of Maine

ON RECORD FOR PROHIBITION

Strict State-Wide Enforcement of Liquor Laws Is Pledged—Intelligent Protective Tariff Called For—Outline of Platform Covering Variety of Interesting Subjects

Bangor, Me., March 25.—A strong stand for prohibition was taken by the Progressive party at its first state convention, held for the purpose of nominating candidates. It advocated the submission of the question of national prohibition to the people of every state in the union and pledged itself to a strict state-wide enforcement of the prohibitory liquor law.

Halbert P. Gardner of Patten, member of the Progressive national committee, was unanimously nominated for governor, and Morton T. Goodrich of Bingham for state auditor. These are the only two elective state officers.

The platform, which was drawn up after an open debate on each plank, declared for "an intelligent protective tariff constructed on sound economic lines, laid out by a non-partisan, scientific tariff commission; a protective tariff which shall fairly measure the difference in the pay envelope at home and abroad."

The Underwood tariff law was condemned as "unjust, unfair and sectional, and especially as discriminating against the interests of agriculture." The Payne-Aldrich tariff law was also condemned as not fulfilling the pledges of the Republican party.

Declarations were made in favor of the initiative and referendum, woman suffrage, a fifty-four-hour law for women and children, workmen's compensation, a secret ballot like that used in Massachusetts, the recall of all elective executive officials in state and counties, the replacing of the governor's council by a board made up of the state auditor, attorney general, secretary of state, state treasurer and commissioner of agriculture; the direct election of the attorney general, secretary of state, state treasurer and commissioner of agriculture, who are now chosen by the legislature; conservation and development of resources, the extension of good roads, "a co-operative agricultural banking system providing for a more satisfactory method of extending credits to Maine farmers," a simplification of legal procedure, a law compelling the close of factories between 12 and 2 o'clock on election day, and "an equitable and just taxation and expenditure adequate to the public needs."

At the conclusion of the state convention, E. M. Thompson of Augusta and Dr. E. D. Morrill of Foxcroft were nominated for congress in the Third and Fourth districts respectively.

GLYNN'S BILL DEFEATED

Governor Wanted Agencies to Care For Men Out of Work

Albany, March 25. — Governor Glynn's measure intended to establish agencies for caring for the unemployed was defeated in the assembly last night, 67 to 63.

In opposing the bill Republican Leader Hinman blamed the Democratic state and national administrations for the present number of unemployed.

All the Progressives and Independents except Assemblymen Roberts and Meyer voted for the measure.

WOMEN START RIOTS

Four Men Receive a Beating In Trouble Caused by Strikers

New York, March 25.—Women strikers caused two riots in Williamsburg and Brooklyn, in the former three women being arrested.

The Williamsburg trouble came at the garment factory of Henry and Louis Krumbold. Both men were badly hurt. In the Brooklyn riot at the factory of Samuel Kalich, Morris Dotz and Louis Greenberg were beaten about the head.

Alleged Slayer Held Without Bail

Fall River, Mass., March 25.—Antone Rethovitz was arraigned here on a charge of murdering Donka Poremehida. He pleaded not guilty. The case was continued until March 30, Rethovitz being held without bail.

Baseball and Tennis In Japan

Providence, March 25.—In a lecture to Brown university students, Shosuke Sato, exchange lecturer from Japan, said baseball and tennis are the most popular intercollegiate contests with Japanese youth.

Mrs. Spaulding Acquitted

Cambridge, Mass., March 25.—Mrs. Georgiana Spaulding, a negress, who has been on trial here for a week on a charge of murdering Ralph Morrill, white, 27, in this city, was declared not guilty.

Nobleman Entertains at 103

Paris, March 25.—Baron Fernand de Turckheim of Alsace celebrated his 103d birthday at Montreax by playing to his relatives and friends two unpublished nocturns of Chopin on the piano.

REBELS REACH TORREON GATES

Villa Sweeps Aside Resistance In Reaching Stronghold

THOUSANDS IN GREAT COMBAT

Federals In Disorderly Flight After Putting Up Heroic Resistance Against Great Odds—Believed to Have Succeeded In Getting All Their Heavy Artillery Into City

Gomez Palacio, Mex., March 25.—Sweeping aside all resistance after the most sanguinary fighting in the history of the present Mexican revolution, General Villa began his final assault on the city of Torreon itself, the last stronghold of General Huerta's government in northern Mexico.

After a desperate forty-hour battle, during which heavy losses were suffered on both sides, and the issue remaining long in doubt, the federal garrison of Gomez Palacio was driven back upon Torreon in a complete rout. It is estimated 7000 rebels and 5000 federals were engaged in the fighting.

The final federal retreat from Gomez Palacio to Torreon was converted into a disorderly flight, when the constitutionalist cavalrymen, in a frenzy of excitement as the result of their success, charged repeatedly into the federal ranks.

The resistance offered by the Gomez Palacio garrison was heroic at times. Overwhelmed at nearly all points by the ferocity of the rebel attack, General Velasco's troops still fought stubbornly from Gomez Palacio and along the road running toward Torreon.

Despite the handicap under which they fought, it is believed the federals, commanded by Velasco, succeeded in getting all their artillery into Torreon, with the exception of a number of small mountain guards, which they were compelled to abandon on the precipitous slopes of Cerro del Pilar, the fortified mountain which guards the approach to Torreon.

To the rebel soldiers the mountain offered no terrors. They ascended its slopes at the double quick, and fairly overwhelmed the federal artillerymen before they could fire their pieces or flee.

How many men the federals lost is problematical. Many of their troops were cut off and taken prisoners, and Villa himself estimates that Velasco has lost 1500 in killed, wounded and captured. The main federal body has succeeded in getting into Torreon itself and the general assault by the rebels is in progress all along the line.

HELD AS ACCESSORIES

Two More Men Are Arraigned In Lawrence Murder Case

Lawrence, Mass., March 25.—Bagdasser Yaksoolian, a milk dealer, who, according to the story told the police by the alleged murderers, carted the dismembered body of John K. Shamlian, who was murdered in this city, to the place in West Andover where it was found, was held for the grand jury on a charge of being accessory after the fact of murder. Bail was fixed at $500.

Setrack Borian, who is alleged to have been aware of the steps taken to dispose of the body, was also held for the grand jury on the charge of being an accessory after the fact, under $500 bail.

Bodrus Takdarian, Garabed Barbarian and John Ardanian had previously been held for the grand jury without bail for the murder of Shamlian.

NEW NATURE STORY

Captain of Fisherman Tells of Feast Off a Golden Lobster

Boston, March 25.—While fishing off Chatham Captain King of the fishing schooner Progress said his mate, John Meade, pulled in on his trawl a seventeen-pound lobster, but the lobster, instead of being the usual green, was a bright yellow.

The men on T wharf wanted to be shown, but the captain and crew said the lobster had been boiled and the crew sat down to a lobster salad.

NEW CRISIS IN JAPAN

Neither Cabinet Nor Parliament to Conduct Nation's Affairs

Tokio, March 25.—The gravity of the Japanese political situation was increased by the resignation of the cabinet headed by Premier Yamamoto.

The country is now without parliament or ministers, the emperor having prorogued the diet Monday. The budget has not been passed and a financial crisis is threatened.

Ladysmith Hero Weds

London, March 25.—The latest example of an elderly bridegroom is Admiral Sir Percy Scott, of Ladysmith fame, who was married by the registrar to Mrs. Welman, many years his junior.

Judge Gray to Quit Bench

Washington, March 25.—Judge George W. Gray of Delaware will retire from the federal bench, according to a statement made by Senator Saulsbury.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

LOST

LOST—Between Kincaide's Theatre and Emanuel's store; a mesh bag containing sum of money. Finder please return to Kincaide's Theatre office and receive reward. 23-6t

TO LET

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 25-6t

TO LET—After May 7th, house of seven rooms and bathroom. All modern improvements. Rent $30. Apply any time at Mrs. Elizabeth C. Follett's, 105 Putnam street. 23-6t

TO LET—Large pleasant sunny room. Near restaurants and R. R. station. Apply at 1187 Hancock street. 24-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-18t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 61 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath. Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 3 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 / Office 683-M

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ....

WANTED

WANTED—In Quincy, house of nine rooms or more, by May 1st. Write C. A. Ledger office. 25-1t

WANTED—Board and room for elderly lady. Write Room, Ledger Office. 24-3t

WANTED—Gentleman to board and room in a private family. Home privileges. Terms reasonable. Write Mrs. O. Quincy Ledger Office. 24-3t

WANTED—Cooks 2nd, parlor, laundress, general housework, green girl, mothers helpers, all first-class places. Best of wages, positions waiting. Oldest Employment office in city, 1535 Hancock street, L. M. Flynn, Phone 2235-W. 23-3t

WANTED—Position as housekeeper or companion, would act as nurse, 20 years experience. Good references. Good home rather than high wages desired. Mrs. Root, 99 Brook street, Wollaston. 23-3t

FURNITURE and Piano moving boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1397-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
Old Furniture Refinished
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

TO LET
Large Front Office Greenleaf Block
2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.
Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.
Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.
Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.
Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.
City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.
Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)
Offices—Large or small.
Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.
Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.
Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS
Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.
New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.
Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block. ('Phone 21066) Quincy

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Cabin boat 23 ft. by 8 ft. beam, sails and power. Complete inventory. R. C. Loud, 21 Gannet road, Adams Shore. 25-6t

AIR COMPRESSORS — We are specializing on Air Compressors, all makes, types, and sizes. Ask us for prices. Geo. S. Githens, 200 Congress Street, Boston. Feb. 11-Wed. tf

BARGAIN IN BRAINTREE.
30 good building lots on car line, 5 min. walk from depot; town water and gas; must be sold at once to settle an estate. For further particulars apply to A. L. GAVIN, 125 School street, Braintree; tel. Braintree 189-W. 23-3t 23-25-27

FOR SALE—A $200 piano slightly used will sell cheap for cash. (Terms if desired.) Johnsen Music Co., 6 Chestnut street across from Bethany church, Quincy. 24-6t

FOR SALE—A good second hand range, good baker in good condition. Apply at 90 Washington street, Quincy. 24-6t

FOR SALE—Good black loam, delivered anywhere in Quincy. Apply at Penniman Garage, Phone 207 or J. P. Flanagan 518M. Sand and gravel for sale. March 21-6t

FOR SALE OR TO LET— New house, two tenements five rooms each, all improvements. Situated on Hayward street, East Braintree. Completed April 15. Apply to W. L. Saunders, 146 Franklin street, Quincy. 21-tf

FOR SALE—Three good horses, 2 sets harness, 2 wagons. Apply to John J. Gallagher, 230 Water street, Quincy Adams. 20-6t

FOR SALE—Strictly fresh Quincy eggs. Seavey, 9 Silver street, Quincy. 19-6t

FOR SALE—22 ft. motor boat, 5 h. p. 2 cylinder engine. One year old. Price reasonable. A. D. Thompson, 47 Main street. 19-6t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

BUSINESS SITE
Progressive business men will do well to buy this prominent corner. It is without question the most valuable business spot in our city.
Full particulars of
EDMUND C. HAYDEN
Tel. 1877-M Quincy, Representing
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
129 Tremont St., Boston,
March 25-tf

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.
SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c
THURS., FRI., SAT.
Program Subject to Change

First 3 Reels of the
"PERILS OF PAULINE"
Great $25,000 Story running in the Sunday American. Read it, and see the Pictures here Weekly

4 FLYING VALENTINES
Novelty Casting Act

QUEER & QUAINT
Singing and Talking Entertainers

HARRY BATCHELDOR
The Musical Rube

LASKY'S ELOPING
Scenic Novelty Skit

"FATTY'S FLIRTATION"
A Screaming Comedy

PROTECTING SAN FRANCISCO
FROM FIRE
A mighty interesting Picture

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

Mar. 25—3t

NEWSY BRIEFS

Spring may have come, but winter is still here.

Mrs. Harry Fuller of Rochester, New York has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Annie Wallace, who has been ill the past week.

Mrs. Edward E. Jameson of Wollaston Park is receiving messages of sympathy, her mother Mrs. Dennis Sage, passing away at Hartford, Conn., on Monday.

The play "A scrap of paper," so successfully given by the teachers is to be repeated by them for the benefit of the Associated Charities. The date selected is May 12 at Alpha hall.

Right Reverend Samuel G. Babcock, Suffragan Bishop of Massachusetts is to preach tomorrow evening at the Lenten service at St. Chrysostom's church.

Fred E. Tupper reports that winter still lingers and to strengthen his claim, he says that a pipe doubled up on account of the frost, while being driven into the ground at Houghs Neck on Tuesday.

The first official report of the arrival of spring was made Tuesday afternoon by Andrew Stewart, who has charge of suppression of gypsy moths in this city. He came across a two foot reptile near the Montclair schoolhouse. He promptly killed the snake.

Leonard S. Anderson of 389 Water street and Hilja Silta of Weymouth were married March 18 at Lanesville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. H. Ronka, pastor of the Finnish Congregational church of that place. They will live in this city.

DEGREE BY PURITAN STAFF

Class of Seventeen Receive Degree in Odd Fellowship

Odd Fellows hall in the Adams building was crowded Tuesday evening, Mt. Wollaston lodge having as visitors large delegations from Puritan lodge of Braintree, John Hancock lodge of Wollaston and other neighboring lodges. The second degree was exemplified in approved style by the degree team of Puritan lodge of which Past Grand B. H. Woodsum, Jr. is degree master and noble grand; Past Grand E. Frank Watkins the conductor and Maurice Colbert the inside conductor. Not since Mt. Wollaston lodge was instituted thirty years ago has so large a class received the degree in one evening, there being seventeen candidates, all young men. Mt. Wollaston lodge entertained with refreshments and cigars, and a social hour followed with songs. New applications were received.

BRIEFS

Geo. L. Gill associates hold a whist party Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mulligan celebrated the thirty-fifth anniversary of their marriage at their home on Water street Tuesday by receiving their friends informally during the afternoon and evening.

George E. Kelley of Barre, Vt., is in Quincy, having been called here by the death of his brother James Emmett Kelley, whose funeral was held Tuesday.

The Hospital Aid Association meets tomorrow afternoon at halp past two with Miss Prescott, 50 Glendale road, Presidents hill. All women interested in the Hospital whether members or not are invited to attend the meeting.

A story in one of the morning papers to the effect that the Rivadavia had gone to oBston for delivery, also a statement relative to her gun tests seems to have been inspired by something that took place sometime ago.

The recently elected officers of St. John Commandery, K. of M. of Brockton were installed at the meeting of the commandery, Monday evening, when the installing officers included Deputy Grand Commander George H. Jacques of Quincy and the members of his suite.

Plans to entertain the members of Quincy lodge of Quincy and Betty Alden lodge of Abington at the next meeting in three weeks, were made at the meeting of Peerless Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Brockton, Monday evening. At that time there will be an entertainment and whist.

PAINT fine enough to get into the empty cap pores anchors to the wood. Such paint holds on until it wears out, keeps the weather away from the wood and protects you from repair bills. Paint made of

Beyer Bauman White Lead

(Dutch Boy Painter Trade Mark)

and pure linseed oil does all that. Its beauty—lasting and preserving—will add to the money value of your place. Tint it any color.

Our Owner's Painting Guide will help you with the color scheme for your house. We can supply you with anything it calls for.

WILLIAM WESTLAND
QUINCY, MASS.

FURNITURE REPAIRED
Re-finished---Re-upholstered

Our shop has the men and materials to turn out first class work. And it does. We guarantee satisfaction. Prices are reasonable. Estimates Free.
'Phone 1200.

KINCAIDE FURNITURE STORE, 1495 HANCOCK ST., QUINCY

March 23-m-w-f-tf

CO-OPERATIVE BANK PETITION

Organization of New Bank in Quincy Proposed

According to banking men, it is not the lack of banks which causes the scarcity of money for the building of homes and the development of real estate, but the reason is that people do not deposit their money. This is the answer given to that advanced for the establishment of a new trust company and a new co-operative bank in Quincy.

According to officials of the Quincy Co-operative bank, new shares are issued every six months, and the money is let as fast as it is received. If more money was deposited then the bank would have more to lend. It would make no difference if there were half a dozen co-operative banks if the people did not deposit their money there would be none to loan.

One would be surprised, said Richard D. Chase of the Quincy Cooperative bank, to know how many applications for loans are received. If all of the requests were complied with there would be nothing left for the shareholders. Many of the demands for loans are all out of reason, and it would be impossible for any bank to grant them and no bank would.

A petition for a new co-operative bank in Quincy is being largely signed and it seems to be an assured thing that a new co-operative bank will come. Once established however it is up to the people to purchase shares in order for it to be made a success.

According to some of the petitioners the present banks while doing good work are not able to furnish money as fast as wanted, and therefore there is no encouragement for men to develop land and buil dhomes. They should be more liberal.

However is all depends on the people if the new banks are a success. If people purchase the shares and deposit the money success will follow. Among the petitioners are Henry L. Kincaide, Robert E. Foy, A. H. Remick Frank S. Patch and John D. Mackay.

LENTEN SERVICE.

Rev. Fr. Robert McCoy, O. M. I., of Tewksbury, preached at the midweek Lenten services in the Church of the Sacred Heart, Atlantic, on Tuesday evening. The services closed with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The attendance was large. Rev. Fr. James J. McNiff, curate at the parish has been away on account of illness for nearly four weeks and expects to return this week in a much improved condition.

MISS MARY GARRITY.

Miss Mary Garrity of Dysart street, a teacher in the Boston public schools died in North Carolina this morning where she has been living the past winter. The parents of the deceased died in her early childhood and she made her home with Mrs. William Gavin of Dysart street, an aunt. She was well known in this city and was a sister of Catherine Garrity a former teacher at the Quincy High school. The body will be brought to Quincy for burial.

TODAYS COURT.

James H. Tracy was fined $15 for drunkenness at Weymouth, Alexander Lechie $15, and Joseph Clark $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Fred Oliver was arraigned on a default warrant and his case continued on probation until Setpember.

The case of Enrico Renzetti for violation of the liquor law at Quincy was called and he was defaulted.

The continued case of Peter Noblie for assault on Carmine De Mattie was heard and he was found not guilty and discharged. Noblie is the party who is alleged to have assaulted the De Mattie boy and took a $10 bill away from him which he had found in a dump heap and which Nobile claimed he had dropped.

Past Exalted Ruler Robert Williams of this city and suite will install the officers of Brockton lodge of Elks at their next meeting.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

M. MIRKIN Upholsterer

Is the one who will give you the full satisfaction in work and prices of repairing furniture, mattresses and cushions. 1060 Hancock St., near the Quincy High School Tel. con.

DEATH OF YOUNG MAN

Philip J. Halvosa Recently Graduated from High

Philip J. Halvosa, one of the most popular young men of this city, died Tuesday night at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Halvosa of 60 Spear street after an illness extending over a period of 21 months. He had a host of friends. He was a member of the Class of 1912 of the Quincy High school and class historian. During his course he was one of the department editors of the Golden Rod, the school paper and took a prominent part in the senior dramatics of that year.

He was one of the most active of the younger members of the Christ Episcopal church and was prominently identified with affairs of the Gardner Club. As an officer in the club he was director of many events held under the auspices of the club, and much of his time was devoted to church extension in this city among his young friends.

After his graduation from Quincy High school he became connected with the financial department of the Boston Herald, having chosen to follow in the footsteps of his father, Philip Halvosa, who is the labor editor of the Boston American, but ill health forced him to retire from the newspaper field much to the regret of the members of that fraternity.

His illness gradually grew worse, and although constantly under the observation of the best physicians available they were unable to prevent the progress of his sickness. When Dr. Friedman arrived in Providence, R. I., with a serum that was said to have a lasting effect, Mr. Halvosa was one of his first patients, and on the return of the noted specialist to Germany the treatment was continued under the direction of Dr. Weilmann of that city.

Several weeks ago a general change gave slight indications that the young man was making a good fight for life, but a sudden turn Tuesday morning warned his parents of the approach of death which occurred close to midnight.

The many friends of the young man express high personal regard for him and expect to personally tender his parents their deepest sympathy. The news when received at Quincy High school cast a damper over some of the classes in which were pupils that had associated with Mr. Halvosa when he attended the school.

BRIEFS

Miss Grace Harris of Abington is visiting friends in Quincy this week.

The Mother Goose pantomime in fairyland in the Boston Arena Tuesday night under the auspices of the South End Day Nursery Auxiliary of Boston was a success socially and financially. It the cast were Roland Estey as "Tom the Piper" and Miss Minnie Hardwick as "Little Red Riding Hood" Others were inclued in the groups of fairies, the grand pageant, etc.

LINEN SHOWER.

Miss Mildred Lawton of Dorchester formerly of Quincy, was given a linen shower on Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Dorothy Packard, Hancock street which was a very happy occasion. Several of her young lady friends assembled and made offerings of linen, which were admired by all, including the groom-to-be, Charles Hull of Wollaston. It was a very pretty party with many surprises. Refreshments were served.

SNOW PREDICTED.

But little of the snow of the past winter now remains, although now and then in spots on the northerly side of large buildings there is snow. This however, is fast disappearing under the warm noon day sun, and in a few days none will be left. Most people are of the opinion that there has been enough snow for this year. The weather probabilities are however that there may be snow late on Thursday.

LOYAL ORANGE LODGE.

Quincy Loyal Orange lodge held one of its largest attended meetings in Protection hall Tuesday night Three candidates were initiated under the direction of Master Andrew Stewart. The re-organized degree staff will work the second degree on a class of candidates at an early date and are drilling for the exemplification. No social events are planned by the organization.

CITY OFFICIALS SPEAK

(Continued from Page One.)

or. What can be expected of the School board if they must feed out of the hand of the Mayor?

"You can find a law, just as you can find a Bible passage, to support every argument. If we pick here and there we lose the intent. I recall two Bible passages—'Judas went out and hanged himself,' and 'Go thou and do likewise.'

"The School board does not come to the Mayor or the City Council with a chip on its shoulder. We insist on our rights, but as far as it lies with us we will work in harmony with the Mayor and City Council."

COMMISSIONER BROWN.

Commissioner Brown said that he had not spoken in public since his

COMMISSIONER BROWN.

High school graduation. Then he spoke on the subject of the unemployed.

"When I got into deep water" he said, "I left it with future generations to solve. Regarding the laborer problem, while the Mayor and Whiton get them first they get to me eventually, and the question I attempted to duck twenty years ago is coming back at me."

CITY SOLICITOR PINKHAM.

City Solicitor Pinkham took up the grade crossing question in detail from its conception down to the present time. Concerning the Mayor's action he said:

"The public service commission asked for a conference. We were told a change was impossible, and the commission must either approve or disapprove the so-called decree plan.

"His Honor, the Mayor took the responsibility (and I agreed) saying we would rather have you approve it than to throw it back into chaos and uncertainty for years to come.

"Under the present plan there will be no wall through Quincy. The grade will be the same as at present at the Quincy station and the grade will not rise until south of Granite street. Saville street will be dead ended and the course of Upland road changed.

"Nine out of ten people coming to Quincy want to go to the east side. They will not be able to cross at grade. Under the present plan they could go down eight or ten steps to a subway.

With the overhead bridge of the so called city plan they would have to climb 21 feet in the air.

"Thousands of people come to Quincy each day and the inconvenience would be so enormous that it would outweigh any advantage of having a street bridge at Saville street, even at even money, and depression would cost half a million more.

"The one objection is School street. It will raise the street 12 feet higher, which will mean a 7.53 foot grade. This however is not prohibitive, and does not begin to be as great as Beale street or Newport avenue at the Wollaston station.

"The chairman of the School board evidently referred to me as another tribunal. I received a letter from him asking my official opinion. Then he saw me in person and said, Don't decide until I have a talk with you.

"I have heard his arguments, but I will not decide tonight. The City Council has also asked me for a decision on the matter, and I owe a courtesy to them next Monday night."

CITY ENGINEER.

City Engineer Sargent took the time allotted him in defining the course of the Boston continuation of the Quincy Shore Reservation, which will join Quincy with Columbia road at South Boston.

CITY FINANCES.

Chairman Bailey of the finance committee of the City Council declared Quincy was attempting the impossible The Mayor, he said, holds the whip hand. We cannot raise the budget. We can only cut it down. We have not been able to cut the budget much except to nip off a couple of budding automobiles. He spoke of the hardships of various departments through meagre funds, and in closing again affirmed that we were attempting the impossible in Quincy.

INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS.

L. C. Merrill, inspector of buildings, and A. H. Richards councilman from ward both spoke briefly and closed the evenings program.

The evening opened with a social hour followed by a fine supper served by the young men of the church. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath, Ph. D., the pastor.

An amendment was voted allowing the executive committee to elect six honorary members. Reports from the minstrel show were received.

ALBERT N. MURRAY.

One of the features of the evening was a spirited song-fest during which many of the minstrel songs were repeated.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Although his office is full of dust and dirt the Mayor was on deck this morning. Tuesday while the carpenters were at work he kept away from the hall, but was still looking after the city affairs, spending the morning in going about the city with the Commissioner, seeing some of the things that had been brought to his attention. Late in the afternoon he was at City Hall for a short time.

The Mayor said this morning that he expected to get into his new office this afternoon or tomorrow, and that he would be very glad to get into a room that was capable of ventilation and was a little larger than a cigar box.

LEG BROKEN.

Angelo Tinnick, of 42 Roberts street, received a broken leg in a slide of rock at the Old Colony Broken Stone Co., this morning. He was taken to the Quincy City Hospital in the police ambulance.

Past High Chief Ranger Cornelius M. Duggan of Atlantic was the speaker Tuesday evening at the meeting of Union court, M. C. O. F. in Brockton.

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

KEEP AHEAD
OF THE FLY AND YOUR NEIGHBOR BY HAVING YOUR SCREENS
RECOVERED OR PAINTED
NOW
HOLMES & HALL
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

LOST

SAVINGS BANK BOOKS

Savings Bank Books as listed below have been lost and application has been made for payment of the accounts in accordance with Section 40, Chapter 590, of the Acts of 1908. Payment has been stopped.

Book No. 4542	Book No. 38640
Book No. 9193	Book No. 39353
Book No. 14885	Book No. 39692
Book No. 38039	Book No. 41865

QUINCY SAVINGS BANK
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.
March 25-3t-25-1-8

Save Your Health

Most sicknesses that impair health have their start in quite ordinary ailments of the organs of digestion or elimination. Stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels are quickly benefited by the action of

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Sold everywhere. In boxes, 10c., 25c.

LAUNCHING AT THE SHIPYARD

The fourth of the group of submarines being built at the Fore River shipyard known as K 6, will be launched Thursday at 11 o'clock. Her sponsor will be Mrs. T. G. Roberts of Brookline, wife of superintendent of Naval Construction Roberts. There will be no special function at the launch. It will be witnessed by some of the Fore River officials and a group of friends of the sponsor.

ON DEFAULT WARRANT.

Fred Oliver was arrested Tuesday by Officer Avery on a default warrant and brought into court this morning. Nearly three years ago Oliver is alleged to have entered a garage on Adams street and taken out a car without the owners permission. He was first arraigned for breaking and entering, but this complaint was later changed to taking a car without permission. On this complaint he was fined $50 and given time to pay up. That was the last seen of him. Since that time it is alleged that Oliver has been in New York. After hearing the case the court gave him further time in which to pay up.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

Too Late For Classification

WANTED— Stenographer. Apply to Norfolk Iron Co., Norfolk Downs, near station. 25-1t

TO LET—Sunny apartment of six rooms and bath, set range, all modern improvements, 4 minutes to station. Excellent location. Rent $22. Apply to O. P. Lindberg, 160 Elm street, Quincy. 25-6t

TO LET—House of six rooms and bath, all improvements. Rent $25. Chas. F. Cavanagh, 111 School street, Braintree. Tel. 41-2 Braintree. 25-1t

MARRIAGES

ANDERSON—SITLA—In Lanesville, March 18, by Rev. S. H. Ronka, Leonard S. Anderson of Quincy and Hilja Sitla of Weymouth.

DEATHS

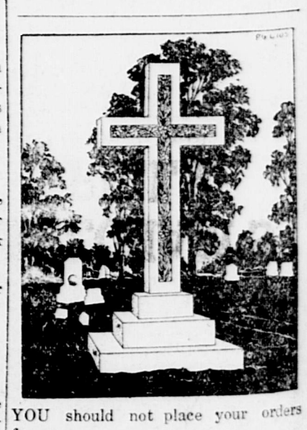
WHICHER—In Rockland, March 24, Edward Whicher in his 75th year. Funeral services at late home 47 Franklin avenue Friday, March 27, at 1 P. M. Relatives and friends are invited. 24-3t

HALVOSA—In Quincy, March 24, Philip Halvosa, Jr., of 60 Spear street, in his 21st year. Funeral services at Christ Episcopal church, Friday at 2 o'clock. 25-2t

GARRITY—In North Carolina, March 25, Miss Mary Garrity of Dysart street, Quincy.

SAGE—In Hartford, Conn., March 23, Mrs. Lucy Rogers Sage, widow of the late Dennis Sage.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.



YOU should not place your orders for any
MEMORIAL WORK
Without Consulting
AVARD L. WALKER
MORTUARY ARCHITECT
3636 WASHINGTON STREET
FOREST HILLS, BOSTON, MASS.
Tel. Quincy 282-W
March 4-3mos-w-s

ve Your Health

icknesses that impair health heir start in quite ordinary ts of the organs of diges- or elimination. Stomach, kidneys, and bowels are benefited by the action of verywhere. In boxes, 10c., 25c.

EECHAM'S PILLS

ACHING T THE SHIPYARD

urth of the group of submar- ng built at the Fore River known as K 6, will be Thursday at 11 o'clock. Her will be Mrs. T. G. Roberts of , wife of superintendent of nstruction Roberts. There no special function at the It will be witnessed by some re River officials and a group of the sponsor.

DEFAULT WARRANT.

Oliver was arrested Tuesday Avery on a default warrant ght into court this morning. hree years ago Oliver is al- have entered a garage on treet and taken out a car the owners permission. He arraigned for breaking and but this complaint was later o taking a car without per- On this complaint he was and given time to pay up. the last seen of him. Since it is alleged that Oliver has New York. After hearing the court gave him further hich to pay up.

he Daily Ledger is newsy y. Are you a regular read-

Late For Classification

LP—Stenographer. Apply k Iron Co., Norfolk Downs, ation. 25-1t

—Sunny apartment of six d bath, set range, all modern ents, 4 minutes to station. location. Rent $22. Apply Lindberg, 160 Elm street, 25-6t

T—House of six rooms and improvements. Rent $25. Cavanagh, 111 School street, e. Tel. 41-2 Braintree. 25-1t

MARRIAGES

SON—SITLA—In Lanesville, 18, by Rev. S. H. Ronka, rd S. Anderson of Quincy and Sitla of Weymouth.

DEATHS

ER—In Rockland, March 24, d Whicher in his 75th year. l services at late home 47 in avenue Friday, March 27, M. Relatives and friends ited. 24-3t

—In Quincy, March 24, Malvosa, Jr., of 60 Spear in his 21st year. services at Christ Episco- rch, Friday at 2 o'clock. 25-2t

—In North Carolina, March s Mary Garrity of Dysart Quincy.

n Hartford, Conn., March 23, ucy Rogers Sage, widow of e Dennis Sage.

ed 1870 Telephone

HN HALL ERAL DIRECTOR e and Ambulance Service cock Street, Quincy, Mass.

ould not place your orders MORIAL WORK Without Consulting RD L. WALKER RTUARY ARCHITECT WASHINGTON STREET HILLS, BOSTON, MASS. Tel. Quincy 282-W

March 4-3mos-w-s

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Average Sworn Circulation, 2,756 Copies Daily — Over 12,000 Readers

Vol. 29 No. 72 QUINCY, MASS THURSDAY EVENING MARCH 26 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

QUINCY KNIGHTS VISIT DE MOLAY

Royally Entertained by Eminent Commander E. E. Jameson and His Commandery

Quincy Commandery Paraded With About 70 Swords

Quincy commandery, Knights Templar, paid a fraternal visit to De Molay commandery at Masonic Temple Boston, Wednesday evening, and were most royally received and entertained by Em. Commander Edward E. Jameson and the sir knights of De Molay commandery. The Quincy delegation, parading about seventy swords, boarded a special car attached to the 6.57 train from Quincy and arriving at the temple were given the entire use of the Prelates room for the evening.

WALTER E. PIPER.

A little after 7.30 the sir knights were escorted to the asylum by the guard and lined up on the south side of the asylum, the sir knights of De Molay Commandery being lined up on the north side. Em Commander Walter E. Piper and the officers of Quincy commandery were then escorted to the asylum by Generalissimo William E. Farington under escort of the guard.

On the suite of Commander Piper, in addition to the officers of Quincy commandery, were past Commander Charles E. Pierce of St. Omer Commandery, an honorary member of Quincy commandery, Past Commander David J. Pierce of South Shore commandery, and Past Commanders Albert W. Fay, Henry P. Furnald and Arthur W. Stetson of Quincy commandery.

They were extended a most royal welcome by Em. Commander Jameson who said he had looked forward to the visit of his neighbors in Quincy for a long time. It was the custom of De Molay commandery each year to entertain some commandery and when he was elected as commander he made up his mind that this year it should be Quincy commandery, many of whose members were personal friends. In reply, Commander Piper expressed his thanks and that of the sir knights of Quincy commandery for the opportunity to pay the fraternal visit.

Commander Jameson presented Commander Piper with a magnificent bouquet for Mrs. Piper.

After an exemplification of the Order of the Temple, and the conferring of the Order of Malta, there was a short entertainment in the Asylum which included selections by the minstrel chorus and several vaudeville singers.

An adjournment was then made to the banquet hall where a collation was served. The color scheme here was in keeping with St. Patrick's day, the walls and tables being decorated with shamrocks, green hats, and green flags bearing harps, the affair being designated as Emerald night. In addition to this on one side of the banquet hall was a table upon which were packages of smoking tobacco and quantities of T D pipes.

The waiters, who were the committee having charge of the banquet, added to the attractiveness by the fantastic garb which they wore.

The banquet over the minstrel chorus gather around the piano and to the accompaniment of the piano and cornets many of the popular airs of the day were sung.

As each sir knight of Quincy left the banquet hall for home he was greeted by Em. Commander Jameson, who expressed his personal pleasure of the visit, and hoped that they would come again.

EDWARD E. JAMESON.

In the Quincy party were: Commander Walter E. Piper: Past Commanders Albert W. Fay, Henry P. Furnald, Arthur W. Stetson, and Charles E. Pierce; Past Commander David J. Pierce of South Shore Commandery; Generalissimo John Morgan; Captain General Otis B. Oakman; Prelate Hartley L. White; treasurer Jonathan S. Swingle; Recorder Alfred H. Richards; Senior Warden Dr. E. H. Bushnell; Junior Warden John H. Whithead; Standard Bearer Waldo B Fay; Sword Bearer Charles A. Chase; Warder George L. Cole; Guards J Francis Merrill, George B. Dexheimer, Arthur B. Hillman and Arthur F. Raymond; Sentinel Arthur Crowley and Adjutant David Hansen.

Others in line from Quincy were: J. A. Sparrow, John N. Rogers, Edward O. Woodward, W. A. Dunham, Stephen B. Wylie, John L. Payson, Charles L. Gilliatt, Albert M. Parker, F. S. Andrews, Marshall Nazro, Norton P. Potter, Harry W. Read, J. Francis Merrill, S. A. Neal, L. H. Rhoades, T. L. Williams, William Lobbie, Edward U. Wight, George T. Magee, C. R. Knight, Arthur W. Loud, Charles A. Erieson, Richard Gordon, James M. Walker, Warren A. White, George E. Sampson, Thomas Cotterill, Harry R. Terhune, Jesse F. Curtis, James R. Stickney, Walter Deacon, Jacob Peterson, S. F. Copeland, Andrew Milne, Peter Swanson, Edward A. Damon, James M. Gibb, Alfred O. Diack, H. B Chapman, Lawrence D. Duncan, L. D. Duncan, Jr., R. M. Horton, Charles S. Adams, James Christie, David Hansen, Eric N. Ewertz, W. Charles Hart, Frank D. Stiles, James Moorhead C. A. Stearns, Herbert E. Clark.

TALK ON SHIP SALVAGE

At Annual Meeting of Walther Class at Wollaston

The Walther class held its annual meeting in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church Wednesday evening and enjoyed a fine supper served by the entertainment committee.

The following officers were elected:

President—Avard L. Walker.

Vice President—Ernest B. Neal.

Secretary—William E. Oxner.

Treasurer—F. W. Bent.

Annual reports were read by Arthur E. Driscoll, secretary; Professor J. B. Marceau, treasurer; and Eben Hardy, chairman of the social committee. President Charles B. Hall presided. The records showed a membership of 83, composed of 66 regular and 17 associate members.

In his inaugural, President Walker outlined bright prospects for the year to come, and declared it would be the best the class had known.

T. E. Perley, noted in Wollaston as the editor of club papers, read the first last and only edition of the Wollaston Evening Bluff. The paper was filled with friendly knocks and personal anecdotes, and had for its motto "E pluribus unum."

The speaker of the evening was Captain Joseph Lewis of Wollaston, superintendent and business representative of the Boston Tow Boat company. His subject "Ship salvage along the New England coast," was a very novel and interesting one, being filled with stories of unusual happenings.

The business of ship and cargo salvage was on the decline, he stated, because the schooners, the class of vessel which furnished the bulk of this business, were rapidly going out of existence, and firms were obliged more and more to enter into contract work.

Salvors generally enter into the work on the "no cure, no pay" basis, and base their profits on the value of the ship or cargo saved. If the ship is eventually lost, the salvors are often under an expense of thousands of dollars.

The rescues of many ships were related, including the "Norumbega," "City of Rockland." "Onandaga." H. L. Dimmock," and others. Captain Lewis had several hundred photographs with him that proved of high interest.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

CANDIDATES AT HOUGHS NECK

Would-Be Mayors Address The Associates

The annual smoker and entertainment of the Houghs Neck Associates was held Wednesday evening at Associates hall, and was the occasion for a large gathering of members and political aspirants.

W. J. Higgins was the presiding officer, and among the speakers were Temple A. Winsloe, Chester I. Campbell, said to be a promising candidate for Mayor next year; Edward Powers, an avowed candidate for Mayor, Thomas Breen, one of Mayor Miller's henchmen during the last municipal campaign, John P. Moses, and others. Others present were Henry W. French, who sang a song; John T. Cavanagh, and many others.

The entertainment was furnished largely by Boston vaudeville artists and was exceptionally good. Then there were refreshments which were served by the committee in charge.

During the evening various petitions were in circulation, for some of the things Houghs Neck wants and which will later probably find their way to the City Council.

More or less politics was introduced by the several speakers. Mr. Winslce spoke of the campaign of Mr. Miller last fall and of the other campaigns of recent date. He had been in five he said within a year and had been successful in all. He also spoke of the candidacy of Mr. Cavanagh for commissioner, for whom he worked hard but was unable to land. He also touched upon the automobile business and its rapid growth.

Chester I. Campbell, whom rumor says is being groomed to blossom out for the Mayoralty next fall, did not touch on politics to any great extent, confining himself to telling of the different automobile shows which he had conducted. Speaking of the recent show in Boston, he said it was the largest ever held. Recently in London at an auto show they had 75 dealers exhibiting 275 cars but at the recent Boston show they had 90 dealers exhibiting 300 cars.

Mr. Powers, who is inclined to be a little bashful, did not want to say much, although he was introduced as an avowed candidate for Mayor. He however spoke of several things that he proposed to do when he entered City Hall on the first Monday of next January as Mayor. Mr. Powers also displayed his powers as a vocalist.

Allusion was made to the alleged promises made to Houghs Neck during the last campaign, none of which had as yet been fulfilled. There was however no criticism of the present administration other than the remarks of Mr. Winsloe relative to promises made.

This morning Edward J. Powers informed the Daily Ledger that he is a candidate for mayor on an Independent ticket. The statement was not unexpected in some sections of the city since Mr. Powers has repeatedly intimated that he strongly considered taking such a course. He is the first man to throw down the gauntlet to the present administration.

Mr. Powers outlined a platform which is in itself attractive. He wishes to see the city boomed to the utmost; he wants the manufacturing interests of the city increased and believes it can be done through proper influence in the mayor's chair; he desires the completion of the proposed public dock; favors a regulated social development along Quincy's waterfront and at its summer resorts, and will expect business and fraternal circles to participate in an annual carnival.

He closed his announcement by saying "in the event of my election by the voters I will favor the holding of an inaugural ball, the proceeds to be devoted to the Fourth of July celebration fund. I will appoint to office none but people that support me in my campaign, provided they have the qualifications for the office."

1912 Rambler For Sale

Cross Country Rambler good as new. Run less than 3,000 miles, fully equipped. If bought at once will be sold at a sacrifice. Write R., Ledger Office 25-3t

OLD FOLKS CONCERT

Large Chorus in Costume Sing The Old Hymns

The last in the course of lectures at the Hall Place M. E. church during the winter months, was given Wednesday evening by members of the congregation, "an old folks concert" which has not been given in this church for over twenty years, taking one back into the old fashioned days, the old style of dress and the old tunes and ways of singing them.

Charles A. Goucher, the faithful chorister of the church was the leader Miss Maud Nichols was pianist. The chorus was assisted by Albert B.B Miller and W. B. Burlough of the Copley Square School of Music, who played the violin and trombone.

Little Miss Carrie E. Shackley of Brooklyn, N. Y. was dressed in colonial style as a little boy and passed water to the thirsty singers.

John L. Martin sang, "Ben Bolt." Harold Williams sang "Home Sweet Home." The chorus was assisted by two quartets. Among the hymns sung were: "Sons of Zion, come before Him," "Early My God," "Now shall my heart be lifted high," "Cousin Jedediah," "Before Jehovah's awful throne, "Lord what a thoughtless wretch was I," "Come my beloved"," "Jerusalem my glorious home." "While shephers watch their flocks," "Thy works of glory, mighty Lord," "Strike the cymbal," "New Jerusalem," "Come holy spirit," "When strangers stand and hear me tell," and "Auld Lang Syne."

LUNCHEON OF LADIES AID

Dr. De Normandie Talks of Edward Everett Hale

The last of a series of four luncheons was enjoyed in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church, Wednesday afternoon, by the members of the Ladies' Aid Alliance.

Rev. James DeNormandie D. D. of Roxbury delivered an address entitled "Reminiscences of Edward Everett Hale." Being a close friend and neighbor of this grand old man, the speakers words were of high personal interest.

Wednesday marked the seventy-first birthday of Mrs. Martha C. Aitkin, mother of Mrs. Carl G. Horst. The members were apprised of the fact, and when Mrs. Aitkin entered all present arose and wished her many happy returns of the day in unison. She was presented with a bouquet of jonquils by Miss Harriet E. Turner, president of the Alliance.

Piano solos by Miss Katharine Kimball were enjoyed. Those present regretted the absence, through illness, of Mrs. Sylvester Brown, chairman of the afternoon's program.

The luncheon was served by a committee of ladies in charge of Mrs. Frank A. Page.

TAYLOR—ANDREWS.

Eleanor Sarah Isabelle Andrews, a nurse at the Quincy City Hospital and Frank Freeman Taylor, commodore of the Wollaston Yacht club were married Tuesday night by Rev. W. J. Rutledge of South Boston. The ceremony was a quiet one. Mr. Taylor was recently a pneumonia patient at the Quincy City hospital and after his discharge he carried on the ccurtship that commenced while Miss Andrews was his nurse. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are living at 141 Brom field street, Wollaston Park.

A large advertisement of bargains to be found at the twenty-fifth anniversary sale of Joyce Bros. Co. will appear in Fridays Daily Ledger. Those in need of stylish spring and Easter clothing would do well to watch out for this advertisement as it will contain some rare bargains.

MOTHER GOOSE PARTY OF COCHATO CLUB

Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth and Other Towns Represented at the Sport

Hall Was Converted intoa Mother Goose Paradise

In Cochato hall, Braintree Wednesday evening, there was a very pretty Mother Goose party, participated in by the club members and their invited guests. The committee in charge were Mrs. Albert E. Avery of East Braintree, Mrs. H. A. Stevens of Wollaston, Mrs. Gordon M. Keating, Braintree, Mrs. L. Paul Chapin, South Braintree, Mrs. Clayton R. Marstin, East Braintree, and Mrs. Herbert L. Barker of Quincy. They converted the hall into a Mother Goose paradise. Behind the stage decorations there was an orchestra of four pieces.

Soon after eight o'clock those who dressed in costume marched into the hall where greetings were exchanged with the matrons, Mrs. C. A. Bill, Mrs. H. S. Barker and Mrs. F. A. Bower.

Mrs. L. F. Small, as Mother Goose, introduced to the King and Queen of Hearts, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Macomber, the following ladies and gentlemen in costume:

William M. Adrian, Knave of Hearts.

Mrs. Adrian, Queen of Hearts.

President Albert E. Avery and sons, Edward and Stetson, The Butcher, the Baker, the Candle Stick maker.

Mrs. A. E. Avery, a Misty, Moisty Morning.

Mrs. H. W. Hall, Bessie Brooks.

Mr. Hall, Tommy Snooks.

Mrs. F. Edgar Norris, Mistress Mary.

Mr. Norris, School Master.

Lowell Norris, Rubber.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, Jack and Jill.

Mrs. Ralph Woodsum, Red Riding Hood.

Mr. Woodsum, Humpty Dumpty.

Mrs. J. O. Short, Miss Columbia.

Mr. Short, clown.

George A. Arnold, The Baker.

H. A. Stevens, Dr. Foster.

Miss Mary Wales, Little Bo Peep.

Dorothy Stevens, Mary who had a little lamb.

Dr. L. Paul Chapin, Hot Cross Bun Man.

Mrs. Chapin, Mistress Mary.

Carroll Bill, Hey Diddle Diddle.

Miss Susie Avery, Bo Peep.

Mr. E. G. Manning, Pieman.

Mrs. Manning, Mistress Mary.

Mrs. C. R. Marstin, Little Miss Muffet.

Mrs. G. M. Keating, Old Mother Hubbard.

Mellen H. Pingree, Jack Spratt.

Miss Olive Crocker, Maid Going a Milking.

Miss Dorothy Bower, Curley Locks.

Miss Dorothy Avery and Miss Davis, wolves.

The grand march led by the Knave and Queen of Hearts was quite interesting and represented hours of hard work in preparation. Dancing was enjoyed until 11 o'clock, with two short intermissions. At 9 o'clock Miss Alice Diaz of Boston gave an exhibition of fancy dancing, followed by a dance of the "Fairies" Mrs. Marstin, Mrs. Chapin, Miss Stevens, Miss Barker and Miss Diaz. During the second intermission hot coffee and hot cross buns were served.

Penniman's Garage

And Taxi Service

Renting, Storage and Supplies

Open Day and Night.

Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.

Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.

C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.

Telephone 207.

Feb. 7-tf

AT THE FOY STORES

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE OLD Water St. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

SUGAR SALE

SPECIAL NOTICE

2 1-2 tons of sugar—all we could get delivered to us this week, was all sold by noon Wednesday. However, we will take your order for delivery next Tuesday at our Sale Price.

25 lb. Bag $1.07

100 lb. Bag $4.20

DOMINO CONFECTIONERS SUGAR 6 1/2c

DOMINO CUT LOAF SUGAR 2 lb pkg. 19c

SUGAR SALE AT BOTH FOY STORES

ALL THIS WEEK at the ADAMS MARKET A young lady from the factory is demonstrating PRISCILLA PREPARED DOUGHNUT FLOUR.

You are invited to call

March 24-3t

THE PI ETA SOCIETY of Harvard University

Announces its Annual Production

"A BUG IN A RUG"

to be presented in

Quincy Music Hall, Friday, Mar. 27

Under the auspices of the

QUINCY TENNIS CLUB

5t-Feb. 27, M 7, 14, 21, 26

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889.

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

All of the migratory birds are flying north now except the baseball players.

The Mexican people are still looking for the strong hand of some dictator who shall maintain disorder.

The chief interest of the fashion plates the tailor shows you this spring is as examples of the kind of thing men won't wear.

As so many girls are taking cooking lessons, a lot of households have lemon meringue glace pie for breakfast, dinner and supper.

While many contemporaries are saying all kinds of mean things about the spring poets, this newspaper still pursues the generous policy of printing their fine effusions in the classified advertising at regular rates per line.

You may not be able to get invited to the parties if you don't own an automobile, but your grocer will smile on you quite as sweetly.

Owing to the ample facilities afforded by the popular winter resorts, many people are spared the disagreeable necessity of putting any money into the bank.

Grave fears are expressed lest Congress should debate the pending river and harbor bill as much as 45 minutes.

If Mary has a little lamb about now, the chances are she had to pay forty cents a pound for it.

When the "unemployed" go on a march armed with razors, it is not wholly for the purpose of shaving once a day.

RECLAIMING PRISONERS.

A few years ago in a certain county jail there was confined a defaulting bank official. This prison was small, kept in a kindly, common sense way. The "trusties" worked on a farm. They were allowed to run errands about the town.

On a few occasions this man was allowed to drive a wagon delivering chairs. Some of the metropolitan papers featured the story. It struck them as a primitive method of jail keeping, that a man shut up for a serious offence should be permitted to drive a wagon in the open air performing a useful service.

No doubt many people feel that such an offender should sit in his cell, reflecting in a repentant manner on his misdeeds. This mood, however, had been reached long before. What was called for then was a different kind of experience.

People who follow magazine literature must be impressed by the amount of space given within the past few months to studies of prison life. One thoughtful man recently in jail says 50 per cent of the criminals could be reclaimed. Actually the great majority return to crime.

Many prisons are classifying prisoners, and those giving promise of reformation are allowed more freedom. They work on farms or at trades that will some day give them a good living. They are finally let out on parole, and the probationary experience tends to fix in them the sense of responsibility.

The jails that put men at work on farms never get into trouble with the labor unions. There is always a demand for food. The plough and the hoe point to occupations in which the former convict's services will always be called for. No social stigma of a jail record affects the sale of cabbages and potatoes.

GRANITE YARDS ARE NOW BUSY

Trying to Make Up Time Lost During the Winter

The granite men report that business as a rule is exceptionally good. During the month of February and the first part of March the weather was such that little or no work was done in any of the cutting sheds, and there were many plants that were practically closed down for two and three weeks. In the meantime, however, some spring orders were being booked, so that now good weather has arrived all of the manufacturers find themselves busy and are rushing to get off their Memorial day orders.

Every first class man possible to get has been put at work, and many firms are looking for good men. There are of course some granite cutters out of work, but as one manufacturer expresses it, there is not a first class man that is idle, and there will be plenty of work for them all of the season.

GRADE CROSSING ASSESSMENTS

Among the many important matters passed by the legislature and approved by the Governor is the new law relative to the rate of interest paid by cities and towns on money advanced by the state for the abolition of grade crossings. The law as amended strikes out the rate 4 per cent and states that the rate of interest shall be fixed by the auditor of the commonwealth as approximately that paid on the last money borrowed by the state for the abolitions. This probably means if the state pays less than 4 per cent the cities and towns pay less, but if the state pays more then the cities and towns will have to pay more. The exact rate of interest therefore can not be known until the state borrows the money in the first instance.

The amendment also provides for the appointment of an auditor by the court, who shall be a disinterested person and not a resident of the town where the crossing is being abolished, the duties of this auditor being to examine all accounts of expense of railroads in abolishing crossings and for damages for land taken, unless all parties at interest in the abolition have assented in writing to the payment or settlement so made by the party liable. The amount for which the city is liable will be included in each years state tax.

HARBOR SURVEYS.

The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, Department of Commerce, has recently published a revised edition of the Table of Depths in Channels and Harbors, which gives the latest available information of the depths in the principal ports, channels and anchorages of the United States. The arrangement of the localities is geographical and there is an alphabetical index for convenient reference.

This volume will be of interest to vessel owners, masters, port authorities, yachtsmen and those interested in particular sections of our coasts, and may be obtained free upon application to the Department of Commerce.

Limit of Pessimism.

Clergyman (indignantly)—"You say you haven't anything to be thankful for? Why, look at your neighbor Hayes; he has just lost his wife by influenza." Burke—"But that don't do me any good: I ain't Hayes."

THIS STOMACH REMEDY REMARKABLY SUCCESSFUL

You know us—your home druggist. You know we wouldn't guarantee any remedy to relieve indigestion or dyspepsia, or money back, unless we felt the utmost confidence in that remedy. Therefore, when we offer you Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets with this proof of our faith in them, it leaves you no room for hesitation or doubt.

The remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is due to the fact that they contain, among other things, Bismuth and Pepsin, two ingredients endorsed by the medical profession as invaluable in the treatment of stomach ills. They soothe the inflamed stomach, check heartburn and distress, stimulate the secretion of gastric juice, aid in rapid and comfortable digestion of the food and help to quickly convert it into rich, red blood. In a short time they tend to restore the stomach to a naturally comfortable, easy-acting, healthy state. They also benefit the bowels.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00.

Edward J. Murphy, 1415 Hancock Cor. Granite Sts., Quincy, Mass.

MRS. LAWSON STRICKEN

Woman Upon Whom Police Relied to Explain Death of Husband

South Woodstock, Conn., March 26.—Death, descending unexpectedly on the only person who was supposed to know the facts, is likely to leave the strange fate of Jonas P. Lawson, the rich farmer of this place, an eternal mystery.

His widow, Mrs. Amanda U. Lawson, arrested on a charge of manslaughter, but really held on the supposition that she can clear up the mystery of the fate her husband met when his corpse, with the head crushed, was found at the end of a bloody trail from the Lawson cellar to the barn, is said to be dying of heart disease at her home.

After Judge Shumway at Putnam had held Mrs. Lawson in $2000 bonds she was carried home in charge of a trained nurse. It is said by physicians she has small chance of living till she faces a charge of killing her husband at the May term of the superior court.

HEAR PAGE'S SPEECH

Senators Refer Document to the Foreign Relations Committee

Washington, March 26.—Ambassador Page's celebrated London speech, in which he was credited with having interpreted the Monroe doctrine as meaning the United States preferred that no European governments should gain more land in the new world, and as having made certain references to the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption, was forwarded to the senate by Secretary Bryan in response to Senator Chamberlain's resolution calling for an explanation.

Page's speech, some 2500 words in length, was furnished to the senate in full and its reading was listened to in silence.

Bryan submitted the copy of Page's speech without any comment whatever, and it was read in full to the senate and referred to the foreign relations committee without debate.

ANNIVERSARY OF TRIANGLE DISASTER

Observed by Fire Drill In Many Factories In New York

New York, March 26.—A city-wide demonstration, extending from Brooklyn to the Bronx, and unique in that it commemorated not a triumph but a disaster, was held on the triennial anniversary of the great Triangle Waist factory fire, in which 147 lives were lost.

The ringing of gongs in hundreds of factories brought forth orderly streams of employes until the streets in some districts took on a holiday aspect.

This colossal fire drill, which included most of the factories and a great many of the schools in the city, was planned by Fire Commissioner Adamson, working in conjunction with several safety organizations.

In a truer sense, it was not a commemoration of the Triangle fire, but a celebration of the progress in fire prevention made since that time.

DROP FIGHT FOR PRESENT

Thaw Interests Intend to Get Busy Again In Fall Campaign

Albany, March 26.—Thaw interests here decided to give up efforts before the present legislature to stop William T. Jerome's prosecution of Stanford White's murderer.

Nothing more will be done until the campaign this fall. Then through an organized body they will ask pledges of every candidate to vote for a resolution to stop future activities of this state.

The bill which seeks to appropriate $43,000 for defraying the expense of the state in its effort to return Thaw to New York's jurisdiction passed the senate yesterday afternoon.

TWINS KILLED BY GIN

Four-Year-Olds Played "Doctor" While Their Mother Was Sick

Franklin, Mass., March 26.—Playing "doctor" while their mother was ill, the 4-year-old twins of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McCahill are dead from drinking the contents of a bottle of gin. Joseph died first and the death of the other, Margaret, followed.

Mrs. McCahill was confined to her bed with a baby born three weeks ago, and the children obtained the bottle in the absence of an attendant. McCahill is a railroad section foreman.

TOLMAN IS AGAIN FREE

"King of Loan Sharks" Completes Six Months' Term For Usury.

New York, March 26.—Daniel H. Tolman, "king of the loan sharks," was discharged from Blackwell's island prison here after having served a six months' sentence for usury.

Tolmon, who sought release recently by offering to loosen his grip on 29,000 borrowers, refused to speak when he was freed and left at once for his home in Montclair, N. J.

American Divorce Valid In England

London, March 26.—The petition of Charles W. Goodman for divorce from Annie L. Goodman was dismissed on the ground that the wife had previously obtained a divorce in 1904 in North Dakota and married William J. Ludley.

A PLEA FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE.

The following letter sent March 10th to Representative Sandberg is self-explanatory and is published because of its interest to many of our readers.

Hon. Edward J. Sandberg,
Representative Mass. Legislature.

Two generations of women have given themselves to this movement, and a third still faces it in this state. To the first group belong those leaders we know so well: Emma Willard, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Julia Ward Howe, Susan B. Anthony and their associates. It was their problem to secure woman's control of her own body and property, some share in the direction of her children, and some opportunity to train her own mind and earn an independent living. These women bore the heat and burden of a conflict in which all the blind prejudices of a fixed regime were strongly massed, presenting few promising points of attack. It is small wonder that some of these leaders gained a reputation for being hard, dogmatic, aggressive and sometimes careless of popular sensibilities. The first generation of reformers in any field must be made of stern stuff; and their beneficiaries are apt to forget the conditions that justified means no longer necessary.

To the second generation of leaders belong women like Alice Freeman Palmer, Mary Sheldon Barnes and Charlotte Perkins Gilman. They came on the scene when the first campaign had been won; they could command their own bodies and property; college doors were swinging open where they could secure the training that should fit them for the struggle to win educational, industrial, social and political opportunity for all their sisters. They were still looked upon as blue-stockings and queer, but with the rapid development of higher education, these women found themselves associated with large groups of independent women who could create a society of their own in advanced centers of population. There was still much to be done in securing opportunity for women; but they could go on establishing the type of life that free women were to live. Their problems were, however, even more complex than those which confronted their predecessors. What line of education should women pursue? What lines of work could they best undertake? How could they combine an independent professional or industrial career with the life of a home and the responsibilities of a mother? How far must older social restraints be modified in the interest of intellectual and industrial freedom? It was a time for constructive statesmanship, rather than for revolution; and each woman knew she was under criticsm and that her success or failure was vastly more than her own personal concern. In her all free women were being judged.

To the third and present generation belongs the host of women who are today filling our colleges, managing the women's clubs, teaching the state schools and competing with men in every industrial calling. Theirs is the task of completing woman's social and political emancipation, and of educating them to meet their new found liberties.

What now is the relation of women to the range of political activity surrounding us in every direction at the present time? Have they need of the protection which government gives? Are they able to form political judgments? Have they knowledge of the working of political machinery; or, lacking it, are they prepared to obtain it? Are they able to make a wise selection of people to represent them in political action? Have they need of the training which participation in political life gives? Have they the preliminary preparation to take up that training to advantage, and can they undertake these duties without serious loss of qualities desirable in women?

Women certainly have need of protection; each has a life dear to her, and honor which is dearer than life. In this respect she has a greater need than men. Most women, also, have property of some kind, and we are increasingly recognizing their right to control this for themselves; hence they need property protection the same as men. We do not need to think of Mrs. Russell Sage, Mrs. Harriman, Mrs. Helen Gould Sheppard, or Mrs. Hetty Green in this connection, for in every community we now have many women who are immediately responsible for large property interests which new legislation might affect seriously.

In matters of institutional regulation by government it is evident that women are as vitally interested as men. In all that touches the family, marriage, or divorce, women have more at stake than men; and there are as many wives as husbands involved. The schools are also nearer to women than to men; more girls than boys attend them; more women are teachers; and more women than men are interested parents of school children. On the side of industries, it is clear that our 8,000,000 independent wage-earning women have a desperate stake in all governmental action touching the regulation of working conditions. In whatever concerns general sanitation, safe water, and pure foods, all are equally interested who must breathe and eat to live. Surely the need of women for political protection in their own hands is quite as great as that of men.

We must remember, too, that during these last years the field of political life has been rapidly broadening, through the awakening of social consciousness among the people. To concern one's self with politics now is to be interested in good market facilities, in rapid and well developed transit for cities, in recreation centers for children, in mothers' pensions, in honest labelling of food products, in reformation of criminals, and in a hundred similar matters. Here women will bring a strong addition to our political efficiency. They have long been considered the natural directors of social life and in spite of being disfranchised, they mainly handle such matters at present. Now that these subjects are being brought into the political field, women should follow them there with their wider experience along these lines as they have followed their industries from the homes into the factories.

(To be continued.)

CHORAL SOCIETY CONCERT.

The executive board of the Choral Society announces that the advance subscription sale of tickets for the "Elijah" concert on Tuesday evening April 21st, is the largest ever recorded in the history of the society. An encouraging and gratifying fact indeed to those who are working so hard to put "real music" in its proper place with the Quincy public.

The regular weekly rehearsal was held Tuesday evening in New Hancock hall with a very good attendance. Work on the choruses is progressing admirably under Conductor Dunham's able direction. During intermission, Miss Isabell Murphy, mezzo-contralto a member of the society, sang most acceptably a group of Neopolitan songs.

Miss Edith Castle, contralto, who will sing for the first time at a Quincy Choral concert, is a member of the Second Universalist Church quartet of Boston, where Willard Flint, who has so firmly established himself with Quincy audiences in the past, is the bass soloist.

A delegation from the chorus is planning to attend the concert of the Milton Choral Society in the Milton Town hall this evening when the society will present "The Swan and the Skylark," by Goring Thomas. Mme. Sundelius, who will sing for the Quincy Society, also sings for the Milton society, together with Arthur Hackett, tenor and Frederick G. Katzmann, bass.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—always crisp, clean, pure and wholesome. Try it. Grocers.

A DOCTOR IN AN EMERGENCY

Our Ever Ready Medicine Cabinet will afford immediate relief, prevent serious illness and reduce your doctor bills.

This cabinet contains carefully selected and propounded general purpose remedies, guaranteed under the pure food law, such as:

Ointments, for all aches, pains, sprains, etc.

Corn Spots for corns, bunions, callous, etc.

Laxative Tablets for headaches, bowel troubles, etc.

Pile Ointments for all kinds of piles, etc.

Bronchial Tablets for all throat and lung afflictions.

Laxative Herb Teas for liver, kidney, bowels, etc.

Cold Tablets for Lagrippe, colds, coughs, etc.

Digestive Tablets for indigestion, dyspepsia, etc.

Healing Ointments for cuts, burns, bruises, etc.

Catarrh Balm for catarrh, etc.

All safe to use with full directions and instructions as to symptoms and treatment of same.

This cabinet is a work of art and an ornament suitable for the best household. When a preparation has become exhausted the same can be duplicated.

The regular price of this cabinet is $3.00 but we are placing on the market for a short time only as an introductory offer a number of these cabinets for $1.00 each. Send now before offer is withdrawn.

THE HAMILTON DRUG CO.
Hamilton, Ohio.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

If It's Strong Enough For The State It's Strong Enough For You!

This bank is a legal depository for funds of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. It is a strong and substantial institution. It is managed with the best interests of its depositors in mind. It is safe-guarded by both state and federal regulation. Its officers and directors are men known to you as successful and level-headed. It is a good place for you to bank.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER

Private Residences. Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 19-tf

OVER 12,000 DAILY READERS

Quincy, Mass., March 16, 1914.

To the Merchants of Quincy and others:

This is to certify that over 2,000 copies of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER have been printed and circulated every issue since January 1, 1914; and averaged much higher, as many days 2,500 to 3,500 copies have been printed and circulated. This gives the Quincy Daily Ledger from 10,000 to 15,000 READERS EVERY DAY.

(Signed) FRANK F. PRESCOTT,
Managing Editor.

Then personally appeared before me this Sixteenth day of March, 1914, the said Frank F. Prescott, managing editor of the Quincy Daily Ledger, and made oath that the statements above are true.

(Notary) CLARENCE BURGIN,
(Seal) Notary Public.

A CHALLENGE

The publishers of the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER hereby challenge any other Quincy publication daily or weekly to take oath to the number of copies they print and circulate each and every issue; and call their attention to the law relative to fraudulent advertising when they make claims they cannot verify.

We invite the merchants to send a representative to the Ledger Office each afternoon to see the edition run off; to see how it is circulated and verify our statements, and we challenge other newspapers to do the same. We also ask the merchants to visit the newstands in Quincy and Boston, and see if the Ledger does not sell ten to one of any Quincy newspaper.

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Why Newspaper Advertising Pays:

1. The newspaper advertisement is not buried—it is accessible.

2. The newspaper advertisement of a commodity continually or daily needed is read by the very people whose continual or daily need the advertiser desires to supply.

3. The newspaper advertisement may be seen thirty times a month—it is not limited to one appearance.

Through the daily newspaper the advertiser can make a local and intimate appeal to his prospective customer in his own community and in his own vernacular.

TRY A LEDGER AD

Surplus $200,000
Enough
te
For You!
y for funds of chusetts. It is titution. It is ests of its derded by both ts officers and u as successful od place for han
ST Co.

ECT and BUILDER
Buildings of all kinds,
d and built.
o properly anticipate your plans will save you more kind. A call will bring us
Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

Y READERS
ss., March 16, 1914. pies of the QUINCY
nd circulated every raged much higher, as een printed and circu-
Ledger from 10,000 to
F. PRESCOTT,
Managing Editor.
this Sixteenth day of t, managing editor of h that the statements
ENCE BURGIN,
Notary Public.
GE AILY LEDGER here-ion daily or weekly to rint and circulate each to the law relative to e claims they cannot representative to the edition run off; to see tements, and we chal-
We also ask the mer-and Boston, and see of any Quincy news-
BLISHING CO.

ERTISING
ing Pays:
buried—it is accessible.
ommodity continually or continual or daily need be seen thirty times a advertiser can make his prospective munity and acular.
R AD

THE EDUCATIONAL FIELD

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY
HIGH SCHOOL PUBLIC SCHOOLS
WOODWARD INSTITUTE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

A survey of the world problems which are facing men who "take thought for the morrow," is strikingly, though superficially, given in a recently published book by Herbert Quick,—"On board the good ship 'Earth.'"

The book is composed of a series of essays, presenting in a popular vein a discussion of certain philosophical and economic world problems. One group of chapters deals with the diminishing natural resources—erosion of the soil, waste in coal mining, destruction of forest, flood prevention and conservation of the supplies of iron, sulphur, phosphorus and nitrogen.

The author considers the "seven racial perils of humanity" in his second group. To quote from the preface, which is written by Edward Alsworth Ross of Wisconsin University,—"At a time when problems of race mingling and race crossing are befogged by enthusiasts whose amiable sentiments blind them to essential truths, it is well to harken to a man of broad sympathies, utterly free from race prejudice, who, nevertheless, presents with the force of a mathmatical demonstration the ugly consequences of the untrammeled mixing of dissimilar races."

For the problem of militarism, the coming of aerial warfare presents a solution. For race expansion, the new theory of a northern climate modified by the amount of carbon dioxide in the air, and the scarcely less new one of tropics made habitable by modern medical science, will provide territory for the enlarging population of the world. In fact, the too rapid growth of population will be checked, says Mr. Quick, by the exposure of all men to civilization and mental enlightenment. Government control of public utilities and a socializing of land values will prove a way out of the vexed question of monopolies.

The lack of technicalities in the book will make it one that will "bear the reader to some mount of vision and show him a panorama."

ANNUAL STATE REPORT.

The annual report of the State Board of Education has just been published and distributed, and contains some figures that will be of interest to the people of Quincy.

In the appendix of the report, the 33 cities of the state are compared in tabulated form with reference to the expenditures for different items, and Quincy appears relatively as follows:

In population, the city ranks 20th.

In the average attendance of all the schools, it ranks 18th.

In the number of graduates from its grammar schools it ranked 8th last year, which is a remarkable showing when compared with its average attendance and is a tribute both to the intelligence of Quincy parents in appreciating the value of education and to the success of the Quincy teaching corps in preventing undue retardation.

In the number of teachers who are graduates from normal schools, this city ranked 16th. In the size of its High school it ranked 14th.

In the number of its High school graduates, it ranked 16th.

The figures showing the standing of the city with reference to the size of its High schools, flattering as they are, disregards or ignores the fact that 200 pupils of High school grade are in Woodward Institute, which is not a public school. Such a condition exists in no other city in the same ratio as in Quincy, and were these to be added to the number at present in High school, the rank of Quincy would be 10th instead of 14th.

THE COST COMPARED.

Now as to costs. While the city ranked 20th in population, and 17th in average membership in the schools in per capita cost for overhead expense, superintendence, enforcement of truancy laws and so forth, it ranked 27th.

In per capita cost for principals salaries, it ranked 25th.

In teachers salaries, it ranked 24th.

In text books 17th and in stationery 15th.

It will be observed that notwithstanding the great excess in the number of High school pupils in Quincy, whose books and supplies cost vastly more than in the elementary schools, the per capita cost for those items is only about the medium for all the cities, only a very few of which by the way maintain such largely attended manual training courses as does Quincy.

In the operation of its school plant, the per capita cost in Quincy is the lowest of all the 33 cities of the state.

In the per capita cost for repairs, Quincy ranks 26th.

In the per capita cost for miscellaneous expenses, it ranks 14th.

In the expenditures for the promotion of health it ranks 27th.

Comparing the total expenditures for all purposes, the rank of Quincy was 29th among the 33 cities of state. The four cities standing below Quincy are Chelsea, Gloucester, Woburn and Newburyport.

Taking the towns of the State, it appears there are 254 towns where the per capita expenditure for schools is greater than in Quincy. Compare Quincy with a per capita cost of $31.50, with $68.10 expended in Milton, and $106 expended in Dover for instance. Comparisons with such towns of course are only for purposes of curiosity. Quincy may however honestly be compared with other cities in the Metropolitan district, and in the effectiveness of its system as measured by the number of pupils it graduates from grammar school, sends to High school, and graduates from High school, it may well be proud.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

Two special committees of the School Committee held meetings on Tuesday evening. One committee gave a hearing to the members of the Italian Drawing Society on their request for assistance. The other committee discussed the petition of the janitors for an increase in salary.

HIGH SCHOOL.

The musical organizations of the High school will entertain the school for the last period on Friday with a carefully selected and prepared musical programme. This is the second of these events for the year and they prove interesting and inspiring.

Monday morning Councilman Chas. W. Bailey who is vice president of a Boston bank, gave a splendid talk before the High school on the Clearing-House. Last week Monday, Alexander W. Russell spoke to the school in a very interesting way on the Granite Industry of Quincy.

EVENTS OF NEXT WEEK.

The School Masters Club will hold its semi-annual dinner at the Quincy House, Wednesday evening. Principal Arthur Lee of the Malden High school will speak on his experience as an exchange teacher in the schools of Germany.

Thursday evening, the Quincy Teachers Association meets in the Coddington school hall and will be entertained by the Huff Concert Co.

Friday afternoon, Winthrop Packard of Boston lectures on "Birds" in the Coddington school hall for the benefit of teachers, upper grade pupils, and any others who may care to attend.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL.

The next meeting of the Parents and Teachers' Association will be held Wednesday evening, April 1, at eight o'clock. Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann of Goffe street has kindly consented to give her talk on birds, and Mrs. James H. Slade will sing bird songs. The eighth grade pupils will give a few folk dances. This is the annual meeting and it is earnestly hoped that a large number will be present.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

In connection with the proposed Full Time Industrial School, there is every indication that it will become immediately popular. Twenty boys from the Willard school alone have already signified their intention of entering the school, and in all probability there will be many more applicants than can be accommodated the first year.

DO YOU LIKE THIS PLAN?

The Woman's Civic Club of Hawley, Colorado, desiring to help the girls of that community to become more efficient in the common duties of housekeeping co-operates with the school in the teaching of household art, the plan is as follows:

The girls of the High school are divided into four classes as indicated by the year of the work they are taking in the High school. As many divisions are made of each class as are necessary to secure the best results. These divisions meet once or twice a week at the various houses and the girls to cook, sew and do other household work such as washing, sweeping and dusting under the direct supervision of the teacher and the mistress of the house.

A definite outline of the work to be done at home is given to pupils and also to the lady of the house, that she may have the material and utensils ready for use for the girls, who do all the work and leave the house in the same order as they found it, washing and drying all dishes and putting them into their proper places.

In the latter part of the course six or seven girls prepare and serve a light luncheon to six or seven other girls. The preparation and serving of the luncheon, also the manners of the guests are carefully criticized by both pupils and teachers.

Occasionally the various divisions visit the grocery store to learn how to order groceries; the meat market to distinguish the different cuts of meat, the furniture store to plan for the furnishing of a home, the hardware store to plan for the purchase of kitchen utensils.

During the summer months the work is carried on by the mothers in the homes, who follow the outline the teacher leaves with the leader of the Civic Club. The advantages of this plan are certainly to be considered. There is no need of an expensive school apparatus. The girls learn to cook and do housework in the home with the material and equipment found there, and not in a domestic science kitchen where utensils much better than those found in the average house of the community are used. The fact that they visit several homes during the course of instruction, gives the added advantage of utilizing a variety of material under varying conditions.

In every community there are house wives, who are efficient in some one or other of the domestic arts, such as, to make a cake, bake bread, the serving of luncheons, and dinners. Under this cooperation plan the schools have the advantage of various recipes and methods, also the varied instruction, the advocates of these recipes are able to give.

Under the ordinary plan the domestic science teacher would be compelled to give this varied knowledge in the class room under artificial conditions. This would seem to be a practical method of bringing the school nearer the people and of keeping mothers close to the girls in their school work.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE.

By invitation of the Waltham Woman's Club, an Educational Conference is to be held at the Waltham Universalist church, Main street, Waltham on Friday, at 2.30 P. M. The subject of this Conference will be Moving Pictures with general discussion, by Edward Chandler, secretary of the Twentieth Century Club, of Boston; educational value discussed by Arthur N. Burke, sub master of the Waltham High school and Moral Value: discussed by Rev. Robert H. Pattison, of Waltham.

A report of the Recreative committee of Waltham will be given by Orlando C. Davis, librarian.

Each club member is requested to leave at the door a card bearing her name and that of her club and all club women are earnestly requested to attend the Conference and to take part in the discussion following the reading of the papers.

Tea will be served by the hostess club during the social hour. Trains leave North station for Waltham at 1.04 and 2.00 p. m., returning, leave Waltham at 5.24.

DORCHESTER FIRE.

The reflection in the sky toward Boston early Wednesday evening was from a fire in an old barn in the rear of 131 Harvard street, Dorchester. The loss was $1500.

☞PRATT'S BREAD costs a little more—is worth a good deal more. Ask your grocer.

BRIEFS

The old stable on the estate at 1166 Hancock street, recently occupied by Charles H. Johnson, has been torn down and the house is being remodelled inside and put in thorough repair.

Myer Abrams of Quincy was fined $50 in the District Court at Brighton Wednesday on a charge of cruelly transporting a cow. He appealed and was held in $300. The complaint was made by the Massachusetts S. P.C. A.

The funeral of Miss Helen L. Barnard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Barnard, was held from her home, at 18 Packards lane, Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Stephen C. Lang of the Quincy Point Congregational church officiated. The burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Councillor Guy of Quincy held an animated debate at the State House on Wednesday with several auditors, as to whether the word "Male" is in the United States consitution. The councillor insisted that it was not, and that women voted in the days of George Washington and that the sex can charge up to John Adams their present inability to exercise the franchise.

GIRL HELD UP.

Hilda Poumie, a Finn girl, employed as a domestic in Wollaston, was held up by four men on Beale street Wednesday night. According to the story told the police the men stopped and searched her, but failed to get anything valuable. The girl suffered no ill effects because of her experience.

THE UNIVERSAL LESSON.

"Some one knows something that I don't know"—
This is life's lesson wherever I go.

My train pours on through the night's black sieve;
I feel her joggle and veer and give.
Yet she clings to the rails, by laws divine
Applied by cannier hands than mine,
And she sings me to sleep with her rhythmic flow,
"Some one—knows something—that you—don't know."

I see in a station a yokel rude
With fowling piece rust crusted, old and crude—
Yet strewing the floor round his muddled feet
Are trophies of game for a monarch meet,
Again the lesson that goes to show
Some one knows something that
I don't know.

I raise my gaze to the stars at night,
Lending, through legions of leagues, their light.
Amazed, I murmur, "And yet I
see
The meagerest marge of immensity!"
So I whisper humbly, with head bent low.
"Some one knows something that I don't know."

This is my lesson wherever I go—
"Some one knows something that I don't know."
—Strickland Gillilan in Leslie's.

The Popular Idol.

"Was that the candidate for senator whom every one was looking at in the auto?"

"No; he's a great baseball player."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

KEEP AHEAD
OF THE FLY AND YOUR NEIGHBOR BY HAVING YOUR SCREENS
RECOVERED OR PAINTED
NOW
HOLMES & HALL
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

ORIENTAL CARPETS.

Some of Those Made of Kashmir Wool Strongly Resemble Silk.

Generally speaking, the carpets of India can never excel those of Persia, as the materials used in the former are not of the same superior quality as those employed in the latter country. The wool of which many of the best carpets are manufactured is obtained from Kashmir. Sometimes carpets which are mistaken for silk are really of an extremely fine quality of wool known as "pashm." This is obtained from the goats of Kashmir and grows close to the skin, being protected by the long and coarser wool. It is as smooth and lustrous as silk and is used for the beautiful soft shawls for which Kashmir is famous.

Peculiar methods are employed by the Indian weaver in converting his original design into a textile. Instead of working from a colored drawing or diagram, the weaver has the pattern translated on paper into rows of symbols, each of which expresses the number of stitches and the color. With this written "key" in his hand the head weaver sits behind his subordinates and dictates the pattern to them, one row at a time, all through the breadth of the carpet.

These weavers—generally small boys—sit in front of the warp strings and tie in the requisite number of stitches of each color as called out to them by the reader from his ciphered scrip. These boys, who perform the actual process of weaving the pile, follow day by day the dictations of the head man, knowing nothing of the pattern they are preparing, but gradually building up in a mechanical way the carpet on the strings before them.—Argonaut.

TRIALS OF A PARSON.

Efforts of Some of His Flock to Keep Him Meek and Humble.

Do not be a parson unless you are blessed with a strong sense of humor and a thick hide, advises an English clergyman in Pearson's Weekly.

I was asked by a friend who had been offered a living near me to go and see the vicarage and church and report. I did so, and the clerk showed me round. As we neared the end he turned to me and said:

"Be you our new parson, sir, if I may make so bold?" I assured him that I was not. "I be main glad to hear that, sir," he said, with relief. "We've always had good uns so far!"

In a scattered parish I called upon an old couple about tea time. "Would you like a cup of tea?" the housewife asked. I confessed that I should like it very much. The dear old soul prepared one and kept apologizing because she had no jam or cake. I assured her that it did not matter in the least. "Well, sir," she said, brightening, "after all, 'tisn't as if you was one of them that feed high. Any one can see that."

One more. A friend of mine had got a job for a man who had been for a long time out of work. I guessed he was getting pretty shabby, so I looked up a suit—we were much of a size—and took it round. The man's wife took it, and I waited in the room, ready to be overwhelmed with thanks. She came back and said:

"My 'usband thanks you kindly, sir, but he don't hold with parson's clothes. But if you've got anything as 'd suit a man he'll have a look at it!"

Cut His Visit Short.

The Duke of Wellington once wrote to Dr. Hutton for information as to the scientific acquirements of a young officer who had been under his instruction. The doctor thought he could not do less than answer the question verbally and made an appointment accordingly.

Directly Wellington saw him he said: "I am obliged to you, doctor, for the trouble you are taking. Is —— fit for the post?"

Clearing his throat, Dr. Hutton began: "No man more so, my lord. I can"—

"That's quite sufficient," said Wellington. "I know how valuable your time is. Mine just now is equally so. I will not detain you any longer. Good morning."

Test For Hydrochloric Acid.

A curious mishap gave us a very delicate test for hydrochloric acid in the atmosphere. In a north of England locality many houses have curtains of the cream color produced by metanil yellow, popularly known as "dolly" cream dye and to science as "the sodium salt of meta-amido-benzine sulphonic acid-azo-diphenyl-amine." Some of these cream colored curtains suddenly changed to heliotrope. Investigation showed that an accidental escape of hydrochloric acid from a neighboring alkali plant had discolored the curtains, and the dye became a most useful test.—London Globe.

Political Influence.

"What do you understand by the term political influence?"

"Political influence," replied Senator Sorghum, "is usually something that a lot of people come around and tell you they brought to bear after you have succeeded in landing a job."—Washington Star.

College Education.

A college education is not a scheme to enable a man to live without work. Its purpose is to help him to work to advantage — to make every stroke count.—David Starr Jordan.

Considerate Parent.

"What are you doing these days?"

"I have joined the sons of rest."

"How can you do it?"

"By having a father who didn't."

MONUMENTS OR TABLETS ORDERED IN MARCH

Will receive prompt attention and be erected before Memorial Day
DEACON BROTHERS
Main Office and Works, 307-323 Center St.
Branches at 47 Court St., Plymouth, 495 State St., Springfield
H. E. RICKER, Quincy Representative, 24 Whitney Road.
March 24-3t

FASHIONS AT MILTON

Well Known Ladies Take Part in March of Fashion

The social event of the week was was the "March of Fashion" presented at the Town Hall Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Milton Woman's club. In the tableaux were Miss Rachel Brewer, Mrs. Stephen B. Ames, Miss Dorothy Forbes, Miss Elizabeth Bowditch, Mrs. Clarence D. Deaney, Miss Charlotte Harding, Mrs. Walter D. Brooks, Mrs. William B. Wood, Mrs. Lawrence Bullard, Mrs. H. DeForest Lockwood, Byam Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Philip P. Chase and Miss Elizabeth Jackson. The participants in the "March of Fashion" were Mrs. Norton Wigglesworth and Lawrence Bullard, 1620; Miss Beatrice Cobb and Clarence Hovey, 1775; Mr. and Mrs. Penrose Hallowell, 1800; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander H. Ladd, 1820; Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Brooks, 1839; Mr. and Mrs. William B. Thurber, 1840; Miss Hildegarde Cobb and Alexander Forbes, 1860; Mrs. Philip Y. DeNormandie and Norton Wigglesworth, 1875; Mr. and Mrs. William B. Wheelwright, 1890; Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. O. Alsop, 1914.

The regular meeting of the Agenda class of the First Baptist church was held in the church parlor Tuesday evening. The "Experience Social" proved to be a very novel affair. The idea was to earn one dollar and then tell the experience of earning it. Some very interesting experiences were told by Mrs. Robert Forbes, Miss Frances Mooers and Miss Marion Johnson.

Other Milton items will be found among the sporting notes on page four.

The regular meeting of the Ladies Aid of the First Baptist church was held Wednesday afternoon in the church parlor, Mrs. James Smith, president, presided.

George Simpson, superintendent of Cunningham Park, is planning to lay out part of the park as a bird reserve. Bushes, bird houses and roosts, and grain will soon be set out for the purpose of the preservation of birds.

The annual business meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will be held Friday afternoon, Mrs. John L. Johnson, president, will preside and Miss Steinberg of Boston will speak on: "My Work Among the German Immigrants."

The regular meeting of the Neighborhood club of East Milton will be held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. J. Ellsworth, Eaton street. Miss Edith Randall of Quincy will speak.

The annual parish meeting of the East Congregational church will be held Monday evening in the church vestry.

Miss Ruth Abbot of Adams street, will give a dancing party Saturday afternoon at the Fitz Edward's bungalow in Dorchester.

Mrs. William B. Batchelder of Huntington road, is recovering after a week's illness.

Miss Lewella Haynes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Haynes of 290 Eliot street, Milton, and Evans E. A. Stone of Mount Vernon, N. Y., were married at Milton on Wednesday night in the presence of nearly 200 guests. The ceremony, at the home of the brides parents, was performed by Rev. Ernest S. Meredith of the Third Religious Society of Dorchester Lower Mills. Mrs. Walter Hills of Milton was matron or honor and Clarence G. Stone, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers at the reception, all young women friends of the bride, were Miss Natalie Buzzell and Miss Marion Bowker, both of Dorchester; Miss Clare Walker of Syracuse, N. Y.; Miss Charlotte Hudnut of New Bedford.

One or two newsboys are wanted at East Milton by the Daily Ledger. Please apply at Ledger office, Quincy.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER

CHICHESTER S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chichester's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY
Agent for FORD and CASE CARS
A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock
Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.
For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-1o-tf

Advertise in the Ledger

Sprains and cuts call for quick treatment.
JOHNSON'S ANODYNE
LINIMENT
Should be always at hand. Taken internally it relieves Coughs, Colds, Cramps, Sore Throat, Bowel Troubles.
IN USE 103 YEARS
25c and 50c Everywhere
Parsons' Pills
the best laxative
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc.
Boston, Mass.

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity.
Friday unsettled with probable rain.
Saturday clearing and colder.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.36
Sun sets	6.04
Length of day	12.28
Moon sets	7.13
High water, A. M.	12.00
High water, P. M.	12.00
Days increase	3 hours, 16 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	56 degrees
Mar. 26 1913,	45 degrees
March 26, 1914,	41 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

CHAMPIONSHIP FOR Y. M. C. A.

Quincy Second Team Defeats the Newton Second

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. second team won the championship of the Y. M. C. A. league Wednesday night from the Newton five, the score being 26-23.

Al. Thomas was the "star" man of the Quincy team, getting four goals from the floor and shooting six from the foul line. Bishop also did good work at forward, getting three goals. For Newton, Graveson and Irving excelled.

The game was played very poorly throughout the entire first half, neither team showing any signs of team work. The half ended 8 to 6 in Quincy's favor.

The second half brought out some fine playing by both teams, and the scoring was much greater. At one time in the period Quincy had a lead of six points, but Newton made a fine rally and two goals by Irving, and two foul shots by Niles, tied the score.

With only four minutes to play, Newton led 21 to 20 and it looked bad for Quincy. Thomas, however made a dandy shot from the side of the court, and Bishop soon followed with another beauty. Two double fouls were called in rapid succession, and Thomas succeeded in making both of his tries good, while Niles failed in his efforts.

Coady, the interscholastic official, was in charge of the game, and did very good work.

QUINCY		NEWTON
Thomas, rf		lb, Howes
Bishop, lf		rb Niles
Miller, c		c, Irving
Shirley, rb		lf, Graveson
Croucher, lb		rf, Hyatt

Referee—Quincy 26. Newton 23. Goals from floor—Thomas 4, Bishop 3, Croucher 2, Miller 1, Irving 3, Graveson 4, Hyatt 2. Goals from fouls—Thomas 6, Niles 5. Referee—Coady. Timer—Sonderman. Scorer—LaRose. Time—20 minutes.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

PRACTICALLY WINS HIS FIGHT

Wilson Certain of the Passage of the Sims Repeal Bill

LIMIT ON DEBATE IN HOUSE

Underwood In Battle Against the President and Personal Attack May Be Made by Clark—Those in Favor of Repeal Are Already on the Defensive and Are Explaining

Washington, March 26.—Barring the unforeseen the Panama canal tolls repeal bill will be started late this afternoon on its successful career through the house. Chairman Henry of the rules committee is going about with the special rule limiting debate to fifteen hours in a safe pocket and with the air of a man who knows he belongs to the winning side of a not too slose fight on his hands.

The fillibuster on the rivers and harbors bill, which the administration enemies have been aiding, is wearing itself out. Nothing but a miracle can prevent the passage of the Sims repeal bill.

All this means that the president has practically won his fight for his interpretation of the treaty over the lesser half of congress. What may happen when the senate takes up the repeal question is another story.

Contrary to reports circulated here Majority Leader Underwood will take an active part in the oratorical battle. It is not believed, however, that Underwood will allow himself to attack the president or to question the good faith of the administration. To Speaker Clark, however, people here are looking for fireworks, and it is no secret that he is being egged on to let loose his bitterness against Wilson and Bryan in a "red hot" speech on the floor.

The interesting thing about the attitude of the members of the house in the exemption repeal situation is that explaining to their colleagues and consequently of repeal are already on the defensive, and are being kept busy explaining to their colelagues and constituents why they are now running counter to the Baltimore platform while those who are voting against the administration are standing pat on their records and on the same Baltimore platform.

One Democrat who "stands in" well with the administration, puts the case this way:

"I voted for exemption because I believed with President Taft that there is nothing in the treaty to prevent our doing what we like with the canal. I am frankly disappointed in President Wilson's reference to 'matters of even greater delicacy' because he does not tell us what they are."

TALK OF GENERAL STRIKE

I. W. W. Discusses Question of Eight-Hour Day at Lawrence

Lawrence, Mass., March 26.—A proposal for a general strike for an eight-hour day was discussed at a meeting of the central committee of the Industrial Workers of the World last night. The matter was put over to Friday night for further consideration.

Members of the committee said that grievances of various kinds had been received against most of the mills in the city and that some sentiment had been expressed in favor of making these grievances the basis of a general strike.

CHARGES NON-SUPPORT

Woman Declares Aged and Lame Husband Too Fond of Tango

New York, March 26.—Mrs. Otto Koster brought her husband, 61 years old and lame, into court here on a non-support charge and declared that he has become so fond of the tango that he will not work.

"He spends the evening 'tangoing,'" she told the court. "Then he practises before he goes to bed, and the first thing in the morning he begins to tango."

The judge said he would think it over.

POTTS LOSES HIS FIGHT

Victim of Naval Retiring Board Will Have to Remain "Plucked"

Washington, March 26.—The senate naval committee decided that Captain Templin M. Potts, U. S. N., retired, will have to stay "plucked." It reported adversely the bill to restore him to the service as a rear admiral.

Potts was a victim of the navy retiring or "plucking" board and has waged an active fight to obtain the higher rank.

Women Who Live Longest

New York, March 26.—According to a statement made by Actuary Hunter of the New York Life Insurance company, a business woman lives longer than a business man and a spinster lives longer than the married woman.

Prince Adalbert Stricken

Kiel, March 26.—Prince Adalbert, third son of Emperor William, is suffering from an acute attack of stomach and intestinal catarrh. The prince was removed from the German cruiser Cologne to his villa at this port.

DAVIS CLASS SURPRISES RAND

The Rand class received a very disagreeable surprise Wednesday night when the Davis class hung up a 3 to 1 victory over them. This is the first match that the Rand class have lost and it was up to the Davis boys to stop the victories.

The first string was won by the Davis class by just one pin 390 to 389. The second was very easy for the same team, 403 to 370, but the Wollaston team came back in the last string with a great spurt and won by one pin 418 to 417.

Gillis with 263 was high for Davis. J. Cahill and McLeod were tied at 251 for the Rand class.

DAVIS CLASS.

Smith	73	63	80	216
Neal	71	84	76	231
Gillis	84	102	77	263
Olson	77	75	102	254
Dufferin	85	79	82	246
	390	403	417	1210

RAND CLASS.

Hatfield	67	79	83	229
P. Cahill	68	81	91	240
Bartlett	67	65	74	206
J. Cahill	91	79	81	251
McLeod	96	66	89	251
	389	370	418	1177

CUNNINGHAM GYM SCORES

With Teams 3 and 4 tied for first place, and other close contests, the bowling tournament at the Cunningham gym at Milton is decidedly interesting. The final matches will be rolled Friday evening April 3, and a large crowd of enthusiasts is expected. The standing of the teams at present is:

	Won	Lost	Pin Fall
Team 3	49	27	24337
Team 4	49	27	23901
Team 6	39	37	23398
Team 7	38	38	24234
Team 5	36	40	24079
Team 8	35	41	22874
Team 2	31	45	21684
Team 1	27	49	20343

The highest three string for last week was bowled by Wood,—342.

The highest single string by Wood, 125.

The percentage of the six highest are as follows: Clark 94; Wood 93; Pallouci 92; Smith 91; E. Cummins 91; and J. Cummins 91.

SOME BOWLING.

The Chauncey alleys team of the Boston City League, composed of bowlers well known here, rolled up a team total of 1692 Wednesday night against the Boylstons. The score sheet was exceptionally interesting, no man going less than 100. Their exhibition:

Walsh	111	111	110	332
Holmes	102	102	109	313
Griffin	122	110	103	335
Taylor	116	110	114	340
Poehler	138	107	127	372
	589	540	563	1692

Advice for Mother.

The small girl had been exasperating all day, and at last her mother lost patience and administered corporal punishment. The child had scarcely recovered from her sobs when she looked up and said: "Mother, you must try and control that temper of yours."

Signals of Distress

Quincy People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them.

Disordered kidneys give many signals of distress.

The secretions may be dark, contain sediment.

Passages are sometimes frequent, scanty, painful.

Backache is often present day and night.

Headaches and dizzy spells may occur.

Weakened kidneys should receive quick help.

Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys, backache and urinary disorders.

Quincy evidence proves their worth.

Mrs. Nellie A. Abbott, 33 Edison Park, Quincy, Mass., says: "I heard Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended and finally tried them. I had backache and disordered kidneys. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills fixed me up all right."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

VILLA'S TROOPS DRIVEN BACK

Mexico City Hears They Suffer Severely at Torreon

NO REPORT FROM THE REBELS

Undisciplined Horde Believed to Be Having Fight of Their Lives With Trained Federal Troops—But Little Reliance Placed Upon So-Called Official Dispatches

Mexico City, March 26.—The war department makes the claim that the rebels under Villa were routed at Torreon with great slaughter.

Eight hundred men, under General Maas and General de Moure, it is announced, arrived opportunely from Saltillo in time to add greatly to the federal victory. The rebels are said to be retreating northward, with the federals pounding at their rear.

Fierce Battle Raging

El Paso, Tex., March 26.—Although there has been no official word from the rebel forces fighting outside Torreon, enough scattering information has come through to lead those familiar with the situation to the conclusion that the fiercest battle of the revolution is raging and that Villa and his army are having the fight of their lives.

Rebel officials at Juarez and refugees here generally place more reliance in news received from legitimate correspondents than upon the so-called official dispatches.

During the course of the day the only information from the front was a short message from a correspondent which said: "Villa says wires will be opened when he reaches Torreon."

This carried the inference that the attack on the city proper had only just begun, and also that the rebel chief still had a firm belief in his ultimate victory.

On the other hand there are many rebel sympathizers who believe that Villa would not have closed the telegraph wires had things been going to his liking, and claim that the lack of news is a sure sign that he is being repulsed by the federals.

Added to this, dispatches from Mexico City claim that the Huerta troops are holding their own and that they have withstood the attack of the rebel army. These dispatches say that the federals are well armed and provisioned and are able to stand off a lengthy attack.

Villa is supposed to have taken Gomez Jalacio, an important railroad centre to the north of Torreon, but the city itself is an entirely different proposition from capturing the surrounding town.

Besides this the federal troops are all trained men and a different class from the undisciplined horde under the command of Villa, which, say the men who know, will show in the kind of fighting necessary to take a fortified city like Torreon.

AS RESULT OF SCANDALS

General Shakeup Among Officers of the Japanese Navy

Tokio, March 26.—An extensive shakeup occurred among officers of the Japanese navy in connection with the recent scandals based upon the alleged acceptance of illicit commissions by officers of the navy in return for their influence in the allotment of contracts.

Among the principal changes gazetted was that of Vice Admiral Matsumoto, who was relieved of the command of the Kure naval station. His successor there is Vice Admiral Yoshimatsu.

BUZZER FOR "BUZZERS"

Intended to Stop Chatter of Women In Vestibule of Church

St. Louis, March 26.—A buzzer has been placed in the lobby of Pilgrim Congregational church to stop the buzzing of women's chatter.

Wires connect with a button on the pulpit, and when services begin the pastor will push the button, warning those in the vestibule that the time for buzzing is over and their presence in the pews is desired.

HAS FAITH IN CHILDREN

Judge Declares Healthy Little Ones "Romance" Rather Than Lie

New York, March 26.—Discussing childhood and the new penology Justice Franklin of the court of special sessions, said:

"Children when healthy are fond of play and generally reveal impulses toward romantic fiction, or lying, falsely so called. To ignore the natural tendencies is to rob childhood of its inheritance."

Texas Sues Santa Fe Road

Liberty, Tex., March 26.—Suit asking penalties of $1,252,000 has been filed here against the Santa Fe Railroad company. Operation of an engine not equipped with brake appliances, as prescribed by Texas laws, is alleged.

Greek Prince Jilted

Paris, March 26.—A Bucharest dispatch to The Echo says Princess Elizabeth of Roumania has jilted Prince George, to whom she was betrothed shortly after the Balkan war.

THAYER ESTATE $6,273,757

Will of Late Bostonian Contains Three Large Public Bequests

Boston, March 26.—According to the appraisal of the estate of the late Nathaniel Thayer of Boston and Lancaster, a fortune aggregating $6,273,757 is left.

In the will were public bequests of $100,000 to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and $50,000 each to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the Massachusetts General hospital. There also was a provisional bequest of $150,000 to the Museum of Fine Arts, which becomes operative on the death of Mrs. Thayer, the widow.

The residue of the estate goes to the widow and children. Mrs. Thayer receives $5000 in cash and an annuity of $60,000. Three daughters, all married, receive $200,000 each, and the residuary estate is divided between them and the widow.

Thayer, who was 60 years old at the time of his death, was interested in twenty-four corporations and belonged to more clubs than any other Boston man.

MAINE DEMOCRATS MEET

Endorsement of National Administration's Policies Is Urged

Portland, Me., March 26.—William R. Pattangall of Waterville, former attorney general of Maine, presided at the Democratic state convention today.

Pattangall spoke on state matters, and was followed by Senator Johnson of Waterville, who delivered the principal address, reviewing the achievements of President Wilson's administration and urging the necessity for endorsement in the state campaign this year of the administration's policies.

The adoption of a platform of principles and the selection of state, district and county committees, will be the principal business of the convention.

LITTLE LEFT IN SIEGEL'S HUB BANK

District Attorney Finds Depositors May Get About $3000

Boston, March 26.—Examination of the books of the Henry Siegel Company bank of Boston, which were seized a few days ago by headquarters detectives acting on orders from District Attorney Pelletier, has revealed that approximately $75,000 was deposited in the Siegel bank.

According to Pelletier, the chances of the depositors, most of whom were store clerks, of getting anything back but a small dividend is slight.

Pelletier thinks he will be able to get back and save for depositors about $3000, which was put in the Siegel bank on Dec. 29 and 30, the last two days the bank was open for business.

TIP IS GIVEN WILSON

"Coxey's Army" Expects to Arrive In Washington on May 21

Cleveland, March 26.—President Wilson last night was warned of the departure for Washington of a second "Coxey's Army," which, it is said, will start April 16 from Massillon, the starting point for the first "army" twenty years ago.

J. S. Coxey, the leader, now a millionaire, mailed the president a letter telling of his plans.

The "army" expects to arrive in Washington May 21 to petition the president and congress for measures which will give work to the unemployed.

"This will give you forty-five days to inform yourself on the object of this second march," Coxey's letter says, "and to consider the practicability and justice of our demands."

Canadian Suffragists Organize

Toronto, March 26.—Women from many parts of the dominion have organized here the National Union of Woman's Suffrage Societies of Canada.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Arrested at Washington, N. J., for disorderly conduct, Abraham De Hart started a hunger strike. Fearing he might become ill the court released him.

While crossing the tracks of the New Haven railroad at Boston, Joseph J. Hennessy, 19, was killed by a train.

James Connaughton, aged 63, for thirty-eight years a keeper at Sing Sing prison, died at his home in Ossining, N. Y., of hardening of the arteries.

Fire visited the business section of Mt. Airy, Md., destroying five buildings. The loss is $75,000.

Bernard E. McKay, 60, died in the Charles street jail, Boston, probably from acute indigestion.

Despondent because of a long illness with heart disease, Austin B. Dow, 70, committed suicide by cutting his throat at the state Masonic home at Charlton, Mass.

Frederick Mistral, noted French poet, died at Marseilles. He was born Sept. 8, 1939.

The Sisseton, S. D., local saloon, which is owned by the municipality, announced a yearly profit of $10,000.

Harry M. Crookshank, formerly British controller of the public debt in Egypt, died at Monte Carlo, aged 65.

THE WOMAN BEAUTIFUL

Most Exquisite Art Portrayals Ever Shown

12 Beautiful Hand Colored Art Pictures

This latest edition of our celebrated Art Panels far excels any we have ever published and when we describe them as rare and fascinating art beauty studies we are expressing it mildly. These Art Poses are by famous French and other artists. To lovers of Art we say these portrayals must be seen to be appreciated. Finished by the celebrated phototone process on heavy art paper beautifully hand colored and life like. Size 7x10 inches.

FREE. Send in your order at once, and we will send you absolutely free one large picture, size 15x18 colored and ready for framing. This beautiful indescribable picture retails in Art studios at from $2.00 to $3.00. Just the thing for your den. Order now. Today.

We will send the entire set, all different, postpaid, for only $1.25, coin or money order, and remember our standing guarantee of "money back if not satisfied" holds good. Order now. TODAY.

DAYTON ART PORTRAYAL CO.
Dayton, Ohio.

THEY'RE THERE ON CO-OPERATION

Can Monkeys Put Anything Over Our Merchants

Wroughton tells this story which may interest Quincy merchants who are trying to co-operate:

"Remember reading about that tribe of monkeys somewhere south of here, wanting to cross a stream of any kind, will climb a tree on one bank of the stream, then each take a good, firm tail hold on his nearest neighbor and swing like a pendulum out of the tree until the lowest one in line can grab a tree on the opposite bank, and thus make a bridge which can be crossed in safety by the remaining members of the tribe?

Wonderful what can be accomplished when all pull together—even if it is only a tail hold.

Those monkeys sure believe in

A long pull,
A strong pull,
And a pull all together.

They're "there" on co-operation, mutual advancement, unselfishness and the get-together spirit.

The moral of this tale is quite plain:

Those monkeys wanted to get somewhere and by hanging together were enabled to "come across."

Come on in—let's not let it be said that monkeys can put anything over on us.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

MY SLOGAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.

Will you help me do this?

F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 24tf

Sheriff's Sale.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
NORFOLK, ss.
Quincy, February 13, A. D., 1914.

Seized on execution and will be sold at public auction on Saturday the 28th day of March, A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock A. M., at my residence, No. 163 Franklin Street, in said Quincy, all the right, title and interest which Albert H. Hall had (not exempt by law from attachment or levy on execution) on the said 13th day of February, at eleven o'clock and fifty minutes A. M. being the time the same was seized on execution, in and to the following described real estate, to wit:—

Being property registered in Land Court, Norfolk Registry District, Certificate No. 1082, Registry Book No. 6, page 1082, and described as follows:—A certain parcel of land in that part of Quincy called Atlantic, bounded—Southerly by Appleton Street, Seventy (70) feet; Westerly by land now or formerly of Mary Gallagher, One hundred twenty--three and 70-100 (123.70) feet; Northerly by land now or formerly of Alexander L. Hill, seventy and 6-100 (70.06) feet; and Easterly by land now or formerly of Mary R. Lord, one hundred twenty-six and 60-100 (126.60) feet; said parcel is shown as Lot A, on a plan drawn by Ernest W. Branch, Civil Engineer, dated June 19, 1909, a copy of a portion of which is filed in Norfolk Registry District with the original certificate No. 775 in Vol. 4.

GEORGE H. FIELD,
Deputy Sheriff
March 12-3t 12-19-26

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Abby R. Buckley, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Sanford A. Sallie of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond: You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of March, in the year one thousand, nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t Mar 19-26-Apr. 2

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES

12 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.

MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar,
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE
In effect April 3, 1913.
(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.25 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 3.50 P. M., then 4.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 6.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 4.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 6.30 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 5.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight. Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street, 5.45 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 12.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Wollaston—6.03, 6.35, 7.03 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.03 P. M. then 11.20, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.03 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.35 6.55, 7.25, A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.25 P. M. then 11.42 P. M. and 12.12 midnight. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.35, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 6.20, 6.00, 6.30 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15, 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sunday, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.00 P. M.

THOMAS GANNON,
Superintendent.

wealth of Massachusetts,
ss. Probate Court.
law, next-of-kin, and
persons interested in the Abby B. Buckley, late of in said County, deceased:
a certain instrument pur-
be the last will and testaaid deceased has been presaid Court for Probate, by Sadie of said Quincy who letters testamentary may him, the executor therein hout giving a surety on his d: You are hereby cited to a Probate Court to be held n said County of Norfolk, on day of April A. D. 1914, at in the forenoon, to show ny you have, why the same be granted. And said pe-hereby directed to give ce thereof by publishing n once in each week, for essive weeks in the Quincy er, a newspaper published ncy, the last publication day at least before said by mailing, postpaid, or copy of this citation to persons interested in the n days at least before said
James H. Flint, Esquire, uld Court, this eighteenth ch, in the year one thou-
hundred and fourteen.
R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t Mar 19-26-Apr. 2

CY REGISTRY
OR NURSES
ey Road, Quincy, Mass.
ly trained and practical endants and nursery assis-
charge will be made to ing for Nurses.
E. L. CRANE, Registrar,
181-W.

Street Railway Company
TIME TABLE
ffect April 5, 1914.
to change without notice.
eave QUINCY for
, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every
to 10.50 P. M. Sundays
then same as week days
to Braintree, 6.25 A. M.
20 minutes to 10.25 P. M.
55 A. M. and then same as
, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every
to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P.
s, 7.50 A. M., then same as Return, leave Precinct
M., and every 20 minutes to Sundays, 8 A. M. then same ys
uincy, and East Milton, 6.36
M. and every 20 minutes
M. (Wednesdays and Sat-
0 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A.
same as week days. Re-
Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and nutes to 10.30 P. M. Wed-
Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.)
A. M. then same as week s Landing, 6.20, 6.55, 7.30
.55 A. M. then every 30
ill and including 10.55 P. ys, 7.25, A. M. then same
ays. Return, leave Wey-
ding, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15
then every 30 minutes uncluding 11.15 P. M. Sundays
then same as week days.
ve NEPONSET for
, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55,
. M. every 60 minutes to then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25,
.35, 10.25 P. M. Wednes-
Saturdays, 11.30, P. M.
25, A. M. every 60 minutes
M. Return, leave Squan-
30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00
60 minutes to 5.00 P. M.
6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00,
P. M. Wednesdays and
11.50 P. M. Sundays,
M. every 60 minutes to
THOMAS GAMMON,
Superintendent

AN EASTER GIFT

No Man Can Surely Tell When a Benefaction Is Well Placed

By MAY C. ETHERIDGE

One April morning a postman in a ramshackle buggy drove up to the box of Henry Swift in free rural delivery No. 5 and, having deposited a letter, drove on. A girl ten years old ran out, with her hair flying, for the mail and, opening the box, took out the letter and read the superscription. As she did so her eyes opened wide and she exclaimed, dancing up and down:

"Why, it's for me!"

Without opening it she ran into the house, crying: "I've got a letter! I've got a letter!"

The family gathered round her, and she broke open the envelope. The contents proved to be a piece of thick brown paper and a letter. Folded in the paper was a new crisp five dollar bill.

"Oh, Dolly," exclaimed the child's mother, "some one has made you a present! Open the letter and see who it is from."

Dolly unfolded the letter and read:

My Dear Little Niece—Easter is coming, and I invariably give away a certain sum on that day for some charitable purpose. This year I want you to give a portion of my Easter offering for me to some needful person. Your affectionate UNCLE JOSH.

Dolly's brothers and sisters turned away somewhat disappointed that the money had not been given her to spend for herself, thinking that they might have shared in what it would buy, but to Dolly herself came a new sensation. She was proud at having been made the agent of her uncle for his donation and much pleased to think that she would make some one happy.

But to whom should she give the money? There were many who needed it—indeed, so many that Dolly found it a difficult matter to decide. But she had a week before Easter came to decide, and she was sure she could reach a decision much earlier. Nevertheless on the Saturday night before Easter Sunday she had thought of so many deserving cases, each needing the gift, that she was bewildered.

When Easter came it brought with it one of those hot, unseasonable temperatures that sometimes occur in the month of April. Dolly, dressed in her prettiest spring clothes, with the bill rolled in her uncle's letter, went out on to the road to walk a mile to the village to give the money to a poor woman with many children whom she had finally chosen as the most needful of all the persons she knew. But Dolly had changed her mind many times, and her father said to her as she departed:

"I hope you won't meet some undeserving person on the way, Dol, and be tempted to place your Easter gift where it will do no good."

"Never fear, pappy." And the child sallied forth.

While walking along the road Dolly suddenly stopped. Beside it in the shade of some high bushes lay a boy asleep. His clothes were ragged, his face pale, and even in slumber there was a hungry look on it. Dolly's heart was touched. If she hadn't decided irrevocably as to where she would place her gift she would bestow it upon this poor boy. Then, too, she remembered her father's caution. But Dolly was young. The woman she knew to be deserving was not present, and one who evidently needed assistance was before her. Moreover, there is something touching in a suffering slumberer.

Dolly succumbed to what was present. The palm of one of the boy's hands was open, and she laid her uncle's letter in it; then, going to the other side of the road, she hid behind a fence in the high brush and waited to observe the boy's surprise and pleasure when he should awake.

His awakening was occasioned by a passing wagon, but he would have slept again had he not seen what was in his palm. Sitting up, he opened the letter, and when he saw the bill inclosed his eyes grew big. So did Dolly's, and every feature in her face, every nerve, every muscle in her body, was alive with delight.

The recipient did not have the envelope in which the letter had come to Dolly, so he did not know who "Dolly" was, but at the head of the letter was printed "Joshua Stamper & Co., Importers," with the street and number at which it had been written. Moreover, the city was but a dozen miles distant, and the boy was on his way there.

Now, Dolly did not know what was passing in the boy's mind. She saw him look from the bill to the letter back from the letter to the bill. Then he read the letter carefully and seemed to be studying it. Finally he got up and, putting both the letter and the bill in his pocket, set off toward the city.

Dolly went back home. Surprised to see her return so soon, the family gathered round her to learn the result of her mission. When she told them that she had bestowed her uncle's gift on a ragged boy lying asleep beside the road there was a universal cry of disappointment. Even her parents, who supposed that the recipient was some farmer's boy who would not work, believed that the Easter donation had gone astray. Tears came into Dolly's eyes, whereupon her father took her in his arms and said:

"Don't cry, dear heart. Only the Lord can tell when our gifts are well placed."

On Monday morning after Easter Sunday Joshua Stamper was sitting in the office of his warehouse in the city when he was told that a ragged boy wished to see him. Mr. Stamper was easy of access, especially to persons of low degree, for he was interested in charitable work. He gave an order that the boy should be admitted. The youngster, who was in his fifteenth year, approached the merchant's desk holding out a folded paper. Mr. Stamper took it, opened it, and a five dollar bill dropped on his desk. Then he read the brief letter he had written to his niece.

"Where did you get this?" he asked the boy.

"Yesterday morning I left the farm where I was working to come to the city to get a position. The day was hot. I was tired and hungry and lay down in the shade to rest. I fell asleep, and when I woke up I found this letter and the bill in my hand."

A curious but pleasant expression came into the merchant's face. He sat conjuring up a picture of his little niece dropping his gift into the boy's hand. Whether she had run away or had hidden to see its effect upon the boy he did not know. He was delighted with the success of placing his Easter offering through the little girl.

"Why did you not use this money?" he asked the boy. "You certainly need it, and the letter explains that it is an Easter offering."

"I thought I would bring it to you, sir, so that if you wished me to have it you could give it to me and thank Dolly, whoever she is, for leaving it with me."

Mr. Stamper handed the bill to the boy, keeping the letter.

"You came to the city to get a position?"

"Yes, sir."

The merchant tapped a bell and called for his manager, whom he directed to set the boy to work, first clothing him properly and attending to his other wants.

The next day Dolly when the postman had dropped some mail in the box went out for it and was surprised to receive another letter addressed, as before, in her uncle's handwriting. Taking it into the house, she opened it in presence of the others and found inclosed a check for $100, payable to her order. The letter said that he had decided to give to charity another amount through her, but she was to keep half of it for her own use. The writer made no mention of his previous gift or its result.

Ten years passed. Joshua Stamper had given away a great deal of money for charity, but it seemed the more he gave the richer he grew. Dolly meanwhile had grown to be a woman and was made her uncle's agent in distributing a large portion of his benefactions. Shortly before the tenth Easter since the one when he had sent her the five dollars he wrote that he would spend the day at the farm and desired her to have ready a list of all the poor and deserving persons she knew, that he might relieve their wants.

Before making this visit Mr. Stamper called into his office a young man whom he had recently taken in as a junior partner and whom he intended to make his successor and said to him:

"Joe, you remember my letter to my niece that was dropped in your hand ten years ago?"

"I certainly do, Mr. Stamper. I'm not likely to forget it."

"Well, you may get ready to go with me on a visit I intend to make on Easter Sunday, and I will introduce you to Dolly, from whom you received my gift at that time."

When Joseph Kimball was introduced to Dolly Stamper she was surprised at the expression of intense interest she saw on his face. But he gave her no explanation of it. Her uncle gave her a check for $10,000 to distribute among the families of whom she had made a list, and young Kimball gave her $500 for the same purpose. A pleasant day was spent by the party, after which the two men returned to the city.

The happenings of the next two years must be condensed into a few words. Kimball, who had resolved, if possible, to win Dolly for his wife, visited the farm frequently. He made every effort to induce Dolly to consent to marry him, but they were all unsuccessful. She told him that she respected him and liked him, but she was so foolish—not to say romantic—as to carry in her heart one whom she had seen when a child. Kimball pressed her to tell him about this dream of the past that interfered with his present happiness, and at last she told him of the poor boy into whose hand she had dropped her uncle's Easter gift.

"That boy shall be my rival no longer," said Kimball, "for he and I are the same person."

But he was obliged to bring Mr Stamper to witness the truth of his statement before Dolly would believe it. When, however, her uncle confessed to a romantic resolve made ten years before that he would bring Joe up, if he proved worthy, for the express purpose of giving his niece a good husband, Dolly yielded, saying:

"Why, uncle, you have shown sentiment enough for a woman."

In a frame hanging on the walls of Joseph Kimball's residence is a five dollar bill. Since there is nothing unique about it, persons who are admitted to the room where it is are apt to ask why it is thus carefully preserved. The answer is that it was the Easter nest egg of the Kimball family.

CONFIDENCE IN THE CABINET

Asquith Ministry Not to Blame For Great Turmoil

WAR SECRETARY SEELY QUITS

Asquith Refuses to Accept After Seely Says He Inadvertently Misled Cabinet With Honest Intent—Introduction of New Political Force to Thwart Will of Parliament

London, March 26.—The Asquith ministry came back into popularity after an exciting series of incidents in the house of commons.

After a confession by Secretary of War Seely that he alone was responsible for the "backdown" before the army officers which put the ministry into such a humiliating position, and a warning by Premier Asquith that no dictation from the army would be tolerated, the government was sustained on the motion on which the debate was conducted by a vote of 314 to 222. This majority of ninety-two was the largest the government has received since the home rule bill was inaugurated.

The admission by Seely of his blunder showed that he alone was responsible for the "guarantee" by which the resigning officers were assured that "they would not be used to coerce Ulster." It was this "guarantee" which shocked the country.

The feeling is that the home rule bill will now be pushed with even greater vigor than before, and without any concessions whatever to the Ulster Unionists.

The resignation of Colonel Seely as minister of war was announced on the floor. Asquith refused to accept Seely's resignation.

After what he called the sympathetic reception by the house of commons of the secretary of war's explanation of his action regarding the army officers in Ireland the premier decided that he would not sacrifice his lieutenant.

Cheering greeted the statement of Asquith that the government would not submit to the dictation of army officers.

Seely heatedly declared suggestions that King George had interfered in any way in the situation growing out of the refusal of army officers to serve in Ulster were without the slightest foundation. Asquith placed the blame for the entire crisis on Seely and the war secretary publicly accepted full responsibility.

Churchill admitted when questioned that a squadron of battleships had been ordered to the Irish coast because of possible disturbances, but was later recalled.

The chamber was then thrown into an uproar when L. E. Amery asked Churchill if he had not hoped that his "precautionary measures would lead to bloodshed."

"I repudiate this hellish insinuation," shouted Churchill as he advanced toward Amery.

Churchill was rebuked for what the speaker termed his "unparliamentary language."

Members were on their feet shaking their fists and rallying to the support of Amery or Churchill before order was restored.

Following the announcement of his resignation, Seely sought to relieve the cabinet of all responsibility for the surrender of the government to the army officers. He exonerated General Paget, Sir John French, the war council and the cabinet, assuming the entire responsibility. He declared he had inadvertely misled the cabinet with honest intent by adding the army instructions to the cabinet document without knowing it was final.

Assuming that he acted on his initiative in telling British army officers that they need not obey the order of a superior if in their judgment he commands them to do an unreasonable act, British public opinion has not been slow to demand the secretary's retirement on the ground that he is unfit to head a military organization.

Disinterested students of the situation are forced to the conclusion that the British army has received a blow from which it can hardly recover short of radical reorganization.

The fact that the king, while he did not take the initiative, backed the army to a certain extent, in its defiance of the existing government, and that the officers who have mutinied are for the most part Protestants and Unionists, introduces a new political force in Great Britain whose use to thwart the will of the regularly elected parliament of the people has fired popular indignation.

Senator Crawford Defeated

Pierre, S. D., March 26.—Returns of the Republican primary credit Congressman Burke with a victory over Senator Crawford in the fight for nomination for United States senator.

Salt Cellar Valued at $28,000

London, March 26.—A record price of $28,000 was paid for a silver salt cellar from the collection of Lord Ashburnham. It is believed to be the earliest salt cellar in existence.

Steamer Passes Many Icebergs

London, March 26.—Steamship Oscania, Plymouth from Portland, Me., reported passing an exceptional number of icebergs.

SIR JOHN FRENCH

Field Marshal of the Troops Sent to Ulster Under Arms

Photo by American Press Association.

SUE FOR BACK PAY

Fall River School Dispute Is Taken Into Court by Teachers

Fall River, Mass., March 26.—In an effort to recover two weeks' pay, twenty school teachers brought action in the superior court through Harry Smalley, principal of a grammar school. The suit is directed against the city of Fall River and the ad damnum is placed at $3000.

The teachers claim that compensation is due them for serving the city at a time when the school board and the mayor were at loggerheads over school funds. The mayor claimed that, as there were no funds available at the time for paying salaries, the schools should have been closed, but because of a controversy as to whether the mayor or the school board should order the closing they remained open.

CUP YACHT'S NAME WILL BE RESOLUTE

Chosen For the Flyer Being Built by the Herreshoffs

New York, March 26.—Official announcement of the selection of the name Resolute as the title of the New York Yacht club's flag officers' syndicate America's cup defense candidate was made by G. A. Cormack, secretary of the syndicate.

The yacht, now building at the Herreshoff yard, Bristol, R. I., for the syndicate, is the second of the three defending candidates to be named.

The Tri-City yacht has already been named Defiance, leaving the Cochran boat the only one of the trio as yet undesignated.

In the selection of the names Resolute and Defiance, the adherence to the eight-letter designation is again evidenced, as was the case in the successful cup defenders of past years.

BARS JAIL-MADE GOODS

Measure Excluding Certain Foreign Products Passed by House

Washington, March 26.—After a vigorous partisan contest, the house passed a bill to bar foreign convict-made or pauper-made goods from competition with the products of American free labor.

The measure, which now goes to the senate, follows a bill recently passed by the house forbidding the shipment of convict-made goods in interstate commerce into states which prohibit the sale of such products in the open market.

TRIP IS ABANDONED

Crown Prince of Germany Won't Have Proposed Fine Time In Africa

Berlin, March 26.—The trip to Africa the crown prince purposed undertaking this year has been definitely abandoned. It is understood that the reason for this step is the emperor's objection to the crown prince interrupting his work on the general staff of the army by so long an absence.

Another reason put forward in some quarters is that the imperial parliament would refuse an appropriation to cover the expenses of such a trip.

Wireless 'Phone Across Ocean

Boston, March 26.—"It will not be many years before it will be possible to talk across the Atlantic ocean by means of the wireless telephone," declared Professor Elihu Thompson in speaking before members of the Commercial club.

Fortune For Charities and Churches

Cincinnati, March 26.—Charities and churches benefit to the amount of $295,000 under the will of Mrs. Francesca N. Gamble, filed for probate here.

Abdul Hamid Reported Dead

London, March 26.—A report has reached here that Abdul Hamid, the deposed Sultan of Turkey, is dead.

Celluloid articles can be mended with a cement made by dissolving bits of celluloid in acetone. It takes only a few minutes to make the cement, which is applied like glue, the broken edges are pressed together, and in fifteen minutes the cement is hard

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—Five rooms and bath, opposite Merry Mount Park, modern improvements. Also 6 room tenement, Brackett street. Apply 883 Hancock street. 26-3t

TO LET—Tenement of three rooms at 193 Whitwell street. Rent $10. 26-1t

TO LET—Five room lower flat, all improvements, new house, ready April 15th situated 41 and 43 Bradford street. Apply to W. L. Saunders 146 Franklin street. 26-tf

TO LET—Furnished rooms with or without board. Mrs. F. Wrigley, 18 Washington street corner Coddington. 26-6t

TO LET—On Spear street, first floor 4 rooms, bath, furnace, set tubs, gas and set range. J. A. Weeden, Room 10, Greenleaf Block. 26-3t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 26-12t

TO LET—Sunny apartment of six rooms and bath, set range, all modern improvements, 4 minutes to station. Excellent location. Rent $22. Apply to O. P. Lindberg, 160 Elm street, Quincy. 25-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 25-6t

TO LET—After May 7th, house of seven rooms and bathroom. All modern improvements. Rent $30. Apply any time at Mrs. Elizabeth C. Follett's, 105 Putnam street. 23-6t

TO LET—Large pleasant sunny room. Near restaurants and R. R. station. Apply at 1187 Hancock street. 21-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-18t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath. Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 Office 88-M

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ....

LOST

LOST—Between Kincaide's Theatre and Emanuel's store; a mesh bag containing sum of money. Finder please return to Kincaide's Theatre office and receive reward. 23-6t

WANTED

WANTED—Position as companion, or housekeeper by young American widow. Competent to take full charge. Best of reference. Widower or business people. Write R. M. Ledger Office. 26-3t

WANTED—Furnished room near city square by lady partial board preferred. Write W. K. Ledger Office. 26-1t

WANTED—Position as housekeeper or care of invalid. Reference and experience. Write L. M. Ledger Office. 26-3t

BOYS

ANY BOY anxious to earn money can secure a position with me. Good pay, easy hours. Also prizes—everything from tops to Shetland pony outfits. The work is easy and need not interfere with other duties. Apply to CARL H. LEANDER, 145 Whitwell St. Quincy, Mass.
March 26—1t

WANTED—Board and room for elderly lady. Write Room, Ledger Office. 24-3t

WANTED—Gentleman to board and room in a private family. Home privileges. Terms reasonable. Write Mrs. O. Quincy Ledger Office. 24-3t

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

TO LET
Large Front Office Greenleaf Block
2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.
Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.
Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.
Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.
Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.
City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.
Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

CREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)
Offices—Large or small.
Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.
Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.
Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS
Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.
New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.
Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block. ('Phone 21066) Quincy

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—A flat top office desk, a bookkeeper's desk, six office chairs, drawing table and a foot power jig saw. Apply 65 Willard street. 26-6t

FOR SALE—Cabin boat 23 ft. by 8 ft. beam, sails and power. Complete inventory. R. C. Loud, 21 Gannet road, Adams Shore. 25-6t

FOR SALE—A $300 piano slightly used will sell cheap for cash. (Terms if desired.) Johnsen Music Co., 6 Chestnut street across from Bethany church, Quincy. 24-6t

FOR SALE—A good second hand range, good baker in good condition. Apply at 90 Washington street, Quincy. 24-6t

FOR SALE—Good black loam, delivered anywhere in Quincy. Apply at Penniman Garage, Phone 207 or J. P. Flanagan 518M. Sand and gravel for sale. March 21-6t

FOR SALE OR TO LET— New house, two tenements five rooms each, all improvements. Situated on Hayward street, East Braintree. Completed April 15. Apply to W. L. Saunders, 146 Franklin street, Quincy. 21-tf

FOR SALE—Three good horses, 2 sets harness, 2 wagons. Apply to John J. Gallagher, 230 Water street, Quincy Adams. 20-6t

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

BUSINESS SITE

Progressive business men will do well to buy this prominent corner. It is without question the most valuable business spot in our city.
Full particulars of
EDMUND C. HAYDEN
Tel. 1877-M Quincy, Representing
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
129 Tremont St., Boston,
March 25-tf

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block,
QUINCY

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

Read Ledger Advs.

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c
THURS., FRI., SAT
Program Subject to Change
First 3 Reels of the
"PERILS OF PAULINE"
Great $25,000 Story running in the Sunday American. Read it, and see the Pictures here Weekly
4 FLYING VALENTINES
Novelty Casting Act
QUEEN & QUAINT
Singing and Talking Entertainers
HARRY BATCHELDOR
The Musical Rube
LASKY'S ELOPING
Scenic Novelty Skit
"FATTY'S FLIRTATION"
A Screaming Comedy
PROTECTIN SAN FRANCISCO
FROM FIRE
A mighty interesting Picture
KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA
Mar. 25—3t

NEWSY BRIEFS

Mrs. John R. Richards of 216 Centre street has been confined to the bed for several days.

The barn on the estate of Joseph D. Griffin at 1067 Hancock street is being remodelled into a house.

Mrs. J. R. Mellen of Bay View street has been seriously ill with acute indigestion, but is convalescent.

Mrs. John Loftus of South Walnut street is in New York city where she is the guest of friends. She expects to return early next week.

Mrs. Caroline A. Smith, mother of Mrs. Horace G. Crocker of Park lane, is seriously ill, having had a second shock early this month.

The Adelphians of the Hall Place M. E. Sunday school meet in the church this evening. Joseph A. Sedgwick will be the speaker.

Members of the executive committee of the Squantum Women's Club meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hiram Morse, Bellevue road.

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Harris who has been quite ill with pneumonia is reported much better.

A letter box has been located on the Faxon hall building, corner of Revere road and Chestnut streets, from which several collections will be made, the last at 10 P. M.

Miss Mary Jackson, who has been a guest of her neice Mrs. Henry B. Schulze of Park lane for a year or more, returned this week to Cincinnati Ohio, where her sister resides.

G. B. Bates is at the State House today. Before his departure he left another grade crossing broadside at the Daily Ledger office, but it is too hot for publication.

A competitive examination of applicants for the position of building inspectors in the building inspection department of the District Police will be held April 8, 1914.

Mrs. Mary S. White died Wednesday afternoon at her home ,180 Pleasant street, Brockton. She was in her 95th year and well known in that city. She was born in Avon and had lived alone in Brockton for many years. Her daughter, Mrs. Alma E. Packard of Wollaston, survives.

There was a good attendance Wednesday evening at the weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club. Amos L. Litchfield captured the first prize while the second went to Herman F. McIntire who has just returned from the south where he has spent the winter months. Ice cream and cake was served after the tournament.

LARGE CLASS INITIATION

John Adams aerie Fraernal Order of Eagles, acted on 20 applications at its meeting in Electa hall Wednesday night, swelling the total to 75 candidates that are awaiting initiation. They will be admitted at the class initiation next Tuesday evening which is being elaborately planned.

The degree will exemplified by the staff of the aerie under the direction of George Mitchell, who was elected conductor to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Bernard Burke, who left a week ago for Mare Island, Calif. To prepare for the event they will meet Sunday afternoon for rehearsal.

An invitation was received from the aerie at South Framingham to witness a large class initiation that will be held under the auspices of that organization. Many expect to attend.

It was reported that three members were patients at the Quincy City Hospital, David Taylor with appendicitis, William Kelley with pneumonia, and Jerome Gillis for an operation. Fred Beer was reported to be in the Massachusetts General hospital and William Stevenson, William Murphy and Albert Martell are ill at their homes. Frank Lynch and Thomas Mcauley were reported as convalescent after a short illness.

THE PI ETA COMEDY.

The plot of the comedy to be presented by the Pi Eta Society of Harvard university, at Quincy Music hall, Friday evening, is amusing throughout. "A Bug in a Rug" was written by J. R. O. Perkins '14 and P. Blackmur '15. Hamilton Dyke, the son of a wealthy rug merchant of New York, is commissioned by his father to go to Ucalaly, a small sultanate in the Turkish Empire, which is famed for its rugs. There he is to obtain at any cost the exclusive purchasing rights of all the product. On arriving in Ucalaly, Dyke immediately falls in love with the daughter of the Sultan. Meanwhile he has been offered the monopoly of the rugs for a large sum and has cabled for the money. It must be paid on a certain day, however, or else, in accordance with a time-honored custom, his life must be forfeited. The day arrives, the money does not come, Dyke is about to be executed, when a messenger rushes upon the scene with a cablegram from New York. This brings the necessary amount of money and not only saves Dyke's life, but wins him two equally valuable prizes—the hand of the Sultan's daughter and the monopoly of the royal rugs of Ucalaly.

SUBMARINE BOAT LAUNCHED

The submarine boat K-6, the fourth of its kind to be constructed was successfully launched at the Fore River shipyard this morning. The day was and the event was witnessed by a large number of people.

The boat was christened by Mrs. Ethel Trowbridge Roberts, wife of Lieut. Thomas G. Roberts, a naval constructor of the United States Navy In the launching party were the officials of the company, members of the Argentine Naval Commission, officers of the United States Navy and several from Brookline and Dorchester.

The boat will be rapidly completed and turned over to the Government at the Charlestown Navy Yard within a few weeks. Her sister submarines K 1, K-2 and K-5 are in service.

M. MIRKIN Upholsterer
Is the one who will give you the full satisfaction in work and prices of repairing furniture, mattresses and cushions. 1060 Hancock St., near the Quincy High School Tel. cor.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL
Sat. Mat. and Night
JAMES J. CORBETT in a 4 Reel Feature
"The Man From The Golden West"
Thrilling and Exciting.
Keystone Comedy, A Healthy Neighborhood, 3 Reel Feature, Back to Life, 8 Reel Show.
250 Seats at Night 10c.
March 26-3t

With Teams and Trucks
KINCAIDE MOVES HOUSEHOLD GOODS
Our light and heavy Trucks and Teams are ready to move you anywhere anytime you say. Our men are courteous, careful, thoroughly-experienced movers. This store stands back of their work and guarantees you complete satisfaction. Charges are reasonable. Let's have your order early. Write, call or Telephone Quincy 1200.
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO. 1495 Hancock St.

HOME RULE FOR IRELAND NEAR, MENACE OF WAR LOOMS UP

Sinister Preparations for Armed Resistance In Ulster.

British Government In a Quandary—Resume of Situation.

THE home rule for Ireland fight has now reached its most critical stage. With the measure introduced by Premier Asquith providing for the self government of the Emerald Isle awaiting its passage in the house of commons and the signature of King George of England and indications that the hostility to the bill in Ulster has taken serious form, the struggle for Ireland's independence has assumed a phase which centers worldwide attention once more upon Ireland's demand for the restoration of the parliament of which it was deprived in 1800.

The home rule bill has twice been passed by the house of commons, and should it pass that body for the third time it will become law with the signature of King George V. of Great Britain and Ireland. But two great obstacles stand in the way of the consummation of Irish home rule. One is the opposition of many thousands of Ulster Orangemen, which threatens civil war, and the other is the antagonism with which Premier Asquith's modifications of his original bill have been received.

The Ulster uprising against impending home rule for Ireland was minimized at first, but the latest advices from this recalcitrant province bear out statements as to the growing gravity of the crisis. For the past two years the Ulstermen have been threatening armed opposition should the home rule bill pass. They have signed the "new solemn covenant," started a volunteer force, enrolled thousands of men—some reports putting the number as high as 150,000—and have imported a considerable quantity of small arms.

JOHN E. REDMOND, M. P., LEADER OF IRISH NATIONALISTS.

The Ulstermen have also several pieces of artillery. There are daily drills and frequent reviews.

Women Plan For War.

Women, too, are taking an active part in the preparations in Ulster. The London Daily Telegraph publishes the following communication:

To the Editor of the Daily Telegraph:

Sir—The interclub competitions promoted by the Irish Ladies' Golfing union in Ulster, for which some eighteen of the leading Ulster clubs enter, have been entirely abandoned for this year owing to the players being so much engaged in the various branches of Unionist work. Instead of golf, which is such a popular game in the province, the members of the various clubs are busy fitting up hospitals, learning to form ambulance and signaling corps, etc., and in all possible ways learning to take their part in the work to be done by the Ulster volunteers should the threatened disaster of civil war turn into a grim and terrible reality. Yours truly, EDITH GREGG, Honorable Secretary For Irish Ladies Golfing Union Interclub Matches.

Ulster represents about a fourth of the area of Ireland, and its population is rather more than a third of the entire population of that country. The four counties of the province that would almost certainly reject home rule if submitted to popular vote—Antrim, Armagh, Londonderry and Down—represent about a tenth of the area of Ireland and their population about a seventh of the total population. How far Ulster is from being solidly against home rule is shown by the complexion of its parliamentary representation. There are actually seventeen home rulers representing the province in parliament against sixteen Unionists.

As a result of the Ulster call to arms Nationalist Ireland has established its volunteers also, and the movement has rapidly spread to almost every part of Ireland. They are not so well armed as the men of Ulster, for the latter have been importing rifles for two years, while a week after the Nationalist volunteers were established the British government issued a proclamation forbidding the passage of arms into Ireland. This makes the securing of arms and ammunition slow and difficult.

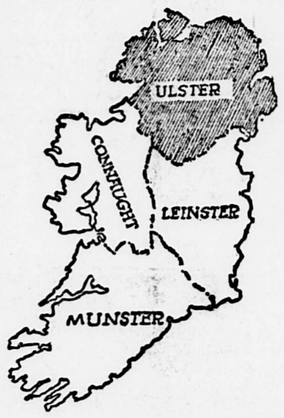
And so Ireland now has two distinct volunteer movements established to defend and secure their rights and claims, a Unionist volunteer force and a Nationalist, both straining every nerve to become well trained, armed and equipped.

Government Precautions.

The Unionist papers are giving prominence to rumors that the government has already set on foot measures against the Ulster volunteer movement which are likely to start trouble there

According to stories in the Unionist press, the guards at the military barracks in Belfast, Londonderry, Innis killing and Armagh have been doubled and the gates are kept closed. The garrison at Carrickfergus has been increased. It is said that there are large stores of munitions in all those barracks, and the government fears that the Orangemen will make raids to obtain arms and ammunition.

ULSTER SOLDIERS.



RELATIVE SIZE OF PROVINCES OF IRELAND.

The Belfast correspondent of the London Daily Mail says:

"There is great irritation here at the constant surveillance by the police of prominent men, especially leaders of the Ulster volunteers, whose movements are dogged by detectives. The rooms of the Unionist council are closely watched. An ugly feeling is spreading among the volunteers."

The London Daily Telegraph asserts that if the lords tie up the army bill the government will dissolve parliament, but will postpone a general election until the home rule bill becomes law under the parliament act.

In the event of strife in Ulster, it continues, the government will use bluejackets to handle the disturbance, employing the soldiers everywhere except in Ulster.

The Compromise Bill.

In the original home rule bill almost absolute self government for Ireland was provided. To this the Unionists of the north objected, maintaining that Ulster, with its nine counties, five of which are Nationalist, should be excluded from operation of the proposed act of parliament. Premier Asquith protested that such a concession could not be thought of, but later in the house of commons outlined this compromise scheme:

First—The counties of Ulster province will be allowed to say whether or not they desire to be excluded from the operations of the home rule for Ireland bill.

Second.—A poll will be taken of the parliamentary electors on the question of exclusion before the home rule bill becomes operative.

Third.—If a majority favors exclusion the county or counties wherein there has been such a decision will be automatically excluded for a period of six years from the time of the first meeting of the new parliament.

Fourth.—If a majority of the Ulster counties favor exclusion only the assent of a majority of the people of the whole United Kingdom can bring them under sovereignty of the proposed Dublin parliament.

Sir Edward Carson, spokesman of the Ulster Unionists, has rejected the offer because of the six-year limit.

John E. Redmond, the Nationalist leader, has characterized the proposal of Premier Asquith to grant local option to Ulster counties for six years on home rule as the Nationalists' last word.

"Beyond those principles," he adds, "we cannot and will not go an inch. The opposition have rejected the proposals with scorn and insult. If that is their last word this incident is closed. If force is interposed force will be met by force. The government is as absolutely determined as we are. Their efforts have been rejected and the passionate desire of the Liberal party is to go straight on."

When Asquith became premier of England in fulfillment of the Liberal party's pledges to Ireland he framed the home rule bill, which he introduced in the house of commons in April, 1912. In its general structure the bill as it stands at present and without the amendment suggested by Mr. Asquith is shaped on liberal lines, with conciliation as its essential feature.

Bill Restricts Powers.

The bill provides for a senate and house of representatives, the former comprising forty members and the latter 164, of whom fifty-nine—or more than one-third—will be allotted to Ulster. The parliament thus created will make laws for the government of Ireland, but will absolutely have no voice in imperial affairs, or for the present in the matter of land purchase, old age pensions, national insurance, the Irish constabulary or the postal savings bank. Control of each of these, however, will revert to the Irish parliament after a period specified in the bill. The Irish representation in the British house of commons, which now includes 103 members, will be reduced to forty-two, or one for every 100,000 of the population.

To those who argue on fear that the concession of home rule to Ireland will mean her complete independence complete reassurance is given. Plenary veto power over all legislation is vested in the lord lieutenant, who will continue to be the chief executive, and all authority or power to alter the home rule bill is denied the Irish parliament. For six years Ireland will not be required to contribute anything to the imperial exchequer, and during that period the English government will sustain the imperial credit guarantees for land purchase and old age pensions. For six years also the imperial government will have the appointment of the Irish judges.

SIR EDWARD CARSON, LEADER OF ULSTER ANTI-HOME RULERS.

Origin of Ulster's Troubles.

Outlining the causes of religious and political differences in Ulster John P. Campbell in the New York Sun writes:

"In 1641 the Irish clans rose to arms to drive the English out of Ireland. They had some success at first, but with the death of Owen Roe O'Neill, their leader, the clansmen faltered and the rising came to an end. O'Neill was poisoned, and the leaderless Irish were beaten by Cromwell and his forces. There followed a vast clearance of the Irish from their lands, and English and Scotch settlers were imported by Cromwell by thousands into Ulster.

"The land was given or sold to a class called undertakers—people who became not owners, but middlemen between the British government and the settlers and who held their land at first upon a half feudal agreement with the English crown. Among the conditions upon which the undertakers held the land, it was stipulated that they should exclude any but Protestant settlers and that they should maintain fortified places and men armed and ready for war. The smaller settlers were induced to come over upon the promises of getting farms on long leases and at low rents.

"In the succeeding century the undertakers, being in exclusive possession of all parliamentary representation, transformed themselves into landlords, and when the original leases began to expire and revert to the undertakers they transformed the descendants of the Protestant settlers into tenants at will, who were in many cases made to pay exorbitant rents for their holdings.

"As a result the Protestant farmers of Ulster started a land war, which raged from 1755 almost to 1780. There was an alternation of Protestant and Catholic tenants, and thus bitter religious rancor was imported into what in reality was an agrarian war, and the two sects were deliberately set at each other's throats in order that the landlord class might get large rents out of the farmers and workers on the land.

"These conditions have long since passed away, but their effects remain, and the peculiar intensity of the bitterness between Protestant and Catholic in Ulster is the result very largely of the long forgotten days when the two sects were by the landlords made to compete for land, which was their sole means of livelihood."

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

The Y. M. C. A. entertains the garrison at Fort Strong, Tuesday and Friday evenings with moving pictures.

Capt. Nicholas Sirovich and Edward Graves of Hull will return from Bermuda about April 1.

Grand Captain of the Guard Isaac Chase and suite were the guests Monday evening of Old Colony commandery, Knights Templar, at Abington and brought to a close his inspection tour. The order of the red cross was conferred by Old Colony's officers.

The semi-annual convention of the Norfolk Central District Sunday School Association of Dedham, Westwood, Norwood, Hyde Park, Dover, Canton, Brookline, Milton, Sharon and Needham is being held at Needham today. The afternoon addresses were by Mrs. Hamilton S. Conant and Dr. N. E. Richardson. Mrs. Ware and Mr. and Mrs. Conant conducted the conference hour and tonight the speaker will be Miss Martha K. Lawson of New York city.

Gov. David I. Walsh and other state dignitaries will attend the eighth annual meeting and banquet of the Needham Board of Trade Monday evening.

Father Brogan's evening school in the parish of St. Anthony, Cohasset, is meeting with remarkable success. The school is for Italian and Portugese young men who recently came to this country. The teachers are Misses Celia St. John, Anna Gavan, Margaret Mulvey, Edward Mulvey and William Morris.

A report on the purification of Neponset river was made by John J. Enneking at the Hyde Park Business Men's Association monthly meeting.

Horace Lucas and bride are among the early arrivals at Hull. They will spend the season on S street.

Rev. George V. Titus of the First Bantist church at West Bridgewater observes the fortieth anniversary of his ordination on Thursday. The day also marks the 40th milestone of his Masonic life.

Franz H. Kirmayer, who taught many Quincy pupils languages at the Bridgewater Normal school, Bridgewater, celebrated his 74th birthday at his home on Tuesday. He has taught at the school since 1865.

Percy Crockett is the new head of highways in Randolph. James W. McGerigle who is well known here remains chief of police.

DISTRICT COURT.

James A. Hayes was sentenced to two months in the house of correction for drunkenness at Quincy. Sentence suspended, and William F. Clarkson was sent to the state farm for drunkenness at Quincy.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. Margaret Kelley and family wish to thank all their relatives and friends for the floral tributes and expressions of sympathy in the hour of their bereavement.

Quincy, March 26 1t

Too Late For Classification

WANTED— Stenographer. Apply to Norfolk Iron Co., Norfolk Downs, near station. 25-4t

MARRIAGES

STONE—HAYNES—In Milton, Mar. 25, by Rev. Ernest S. Meredith, Evans E. A. Stone of Mount Vernon, N. J., to Miss Lewella Haynes of Milton.

DEATHS

BUCKINGHAM—In Quincy, March 25, M. Anna wife of John D. Buckingham.
Funeral services at late home 36 Whitney road, Saturday March 28 at 11 A. M. 26-2t

WHICHER—In Rockland, March 24, Edward Whicher in his 75th year.
Funeral services at late home 47 Franklin avenue Friday, March 27, at 1 P. M. Relatives and friends are invited. 24-3t HALVOSA—In Quincy, March 24, Philip Halvosa, Jr., of 60 Spear street, in his 21st year.

Funeral services at Christ Episcopal church, Friday at 2 o'clock. 25-2t

WHITE—In Brockton, March 25, Mrs. Mary S. White of 180 Pleasant street, in her 95th year.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass

SCOTS TO VISIT THE HOMELAND

The Scottish residents of Quincy Point are preparing for their annual visit to their homeland and commencing next week several of the best known residents of Ward Two will sail from Boston for extensive stays. All of them expect to return before next fall.

Mrs. Robert Carruthers of Beacon street is preparing to sail next week, and a few days after Mrs. Nellie Nugent and family of South Walnut street leave.

Mr. and Mrs. John Weair of Edison park, Miss Jeannie Kelley of Russell park and Miss Margaret Baine of Edison park leave within a few weeks, and John McKelvie and son Robert of Beacon street are preparing to visit his mother.

The list of returned tourists is headed by James Murray of Whitwell road, who arrived last week.

MRS. BUCKINGHAM.

Mrs. Mary A. Buckingham, wife of Prof. John D. Buckingham of 36 Whitney road, died Wednesday afternoon after a long illness. She was in her 60th year.

Prof. Buckingham is supervisor of music at the Woodward Institute for Girls, and one of the best known organists in the state. For many years he was an organist in Providence, R. I., at St. Michael's Catholic church. Mrs. Buckingham was a native of Colebrook, N. H. and some years ago was a singer of repute. She is survived by her husband, the only son having died in 1896. The funeral will take place at the home on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

The midweek Lenten services in the Catholic churches Wednesday evening were largely attended and closed with the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Rev. Fr. John B. Holland of Weymouth preached at St. John's church, and Rev. Fr. Tuohig at St. Mary's.

MAINE POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

THE BOARD
— OF —
Park Commissioners
Invite Managers and Captains of Base Ball teams to meet them in the Council Chambers,
WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 1,
At 8 O'clock
to select dates and issue permits for the Ball Fields.
Park Board,
I. M. WHITTEMORE.
Chairman
March 25-4t

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, City Square
Tel. Quincy 1745 W. March 16-12t

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy. Feb. 27-tf

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Average Sworn Circulation, 2,756 Copies Daily — Over 12,000 Readers

Vol. 29 No. 73 | QUINCY, MASS. FRIDAY EVENING MARCH 27 1914 | PRICE TWO CENTS

PAGEANT OF TREES IN SIX EPISODES

Presented by the Wollaston Women's Club With Great Success

Story of Local History from Pen of Mrs. Litchfield

"Pageant of trees" was given in the Wollaston School hall. Thursday evening under the auspices of the civic department of the Wollaston Woman's club. Presented by a cast of over 150 the pageant took the form of a huge spectacle full of attractive costumes, picturesque groupings and graceful dances.

The story told was one of local history and was from the pen of Mrs. John H. Litchfield of Wollaston, well known for her endeavors in the literary field. The narrative told in verse tableau and pantomime of the vision of Chickatawbut, the chief of the Mos-wetusets. Sitting moodly in his lodge under the trees of the sea bound hummock he is overcome with a strange narcotic power which causes the known and unknown to mingle strangely.

As the tale proceeds Chicatawbut sees the changes wrought by flight of time and the events which mark the conquest of the pale face and the passing of the Indian.

SIX EPISODES.

The pageant is divided into six episodes a prelude and an epilogue, each withs its peculiar significance in tree life and in the history of the nation.

In the prelude Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes appears as Goddess of the Tree. and from a golden scroll reads an ode addressed to the different trees that later play their part in the pageant.

MYTHOLOGICAL ERA.

Episode one is the mythological era. typified by the cedar. The stage grows dark and as the orchestral music is stilled are heard persuasive notes from the pipes of Pan, at first in the distance, but growing ever nearer until the little faun himself comes bounding on the stage in the person of Miss Muriel Badger.

Pan is joined in his dance by the nymphs but tiring of it is lured away by the mermaids with whom he frolics. The nymphs finally prevail and exit in triumph, bearing with them their little god Pan.

INDIAN ERA.

The second episode is the Indian era typified by the pine. Squanto and his Indians are seen raising their tepees and spreading their furs.

Enter the traders and colonists headed by Captain Wollaston and mingle with the red men, trading trinkets for beaver skins.

The Indians repair to their camp fires and to the monotonous rythm of the tom tom dance their war dance.

Then come Morton and his merry men stripping the tallest pine of branches and decking it with ribbons. Up strikes the merry music and in company with the "lassies in beaver coats" the may pole dance is on to blithesome measure.

Hardly dies the refrain when enters the grim Puritan commander and Morton, gay leader of the revels is carried away bound in cords. Dancing comes the Indian maiden and as the episode dies away nothing remains but the names "Wollaston" and "Merry Mount."

THE RELIGIOUS ERA.

The oak—The religious era. As he looks toward the three hills to the north on the domain of his brother chieftain Shawmut. Chicatawbut sees a band of reverend Puritans gathered around their prophetess Mistress Anne Hutchinson.

Singing hymns they await the solemn conclave of the clergy that will drive her into the wintry wilderness by boat across the bay to "The Cedar" from which she will make her way to her farm in Wollaston.

COLONIAL ERA.

Episode four depicts the Colonial era with the lofty elm as reigning type. To Josiah Quincy's country homestead come the presidents John Adams, James Monroe and other Colonial families of note.

nter the stately couples, be-powdered and be-patched according to the fashion of that day. In stately court-

(Continued on Page Six.)

THE basis of elastic paint—the kind that expands and contracts with the wood, leaving no cracks exposed to the weather—is

Beyer Bauman White Lead

(Dutch Boy Painter Trade Mark)

and pure linseed oil. We sell these prime paint ingredients as well as the necessary tinting matter to get the color combination you desire.

Owner's Painting Guide to help you is another service feature. It's full of color schemes, painting truths and suggestions. Come in and get your copy.

WILLIAM WESTLAND
QUINCY, MASS.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL
Sat. Mat. and Night

JAMES J. CORBETT in a 4 Reel Feature
"The Man From The Golden West"
Thrilling and Exciting.
Keystone Comedy, A Healthy Neighborhood,
3 Reel Feature, Back to Life, 8 Reel Show.
250 Seats at Night 10c.

March 26-3t

TEACHERS SUE FOR BACK PAY

Fall River Mayor and School Committee Disagree

The following news item from Fall River will interest people in Quincy because of the fact that Mayor Miller lopped $2000 off the amount which the School Committee and Superintendent of Schools figured they needed for teachers salaries.

"In an effort to recover two weeks' pay, twenty school teachers brought action in the Superior Court today, through Harry Smalley, principal of the John J. McDonough Grammar School. The suit is directed against the City of Fall River and the ad damnum is placed at $3000.

"The teachers claim that compensation is due them for serving the city at a time when the School Board and the Mayor were at loggerheads over school funds. The Mayor claimed that, as there were no funds available at the time for paying salaries, the school should have been closed, but because of a controversy as to whether the Mayor or the School Board should order the closing they remained open."

"Judging from a previous decision made by the Supreme court, it may in this case decide that the Mayor could not and the School Committee need not close the schools. That power seems to be vested in the City Council. The question arose in a case in which the School Committee in Charlestown voted more money for salaries than had been appropriated for the purpose. The court decided that they had power to do so and that the City Council had no control over the School Committee in this respect, except by voting to close a school after it had been kept the length of time required by law.

"The Court also took occasion to say that the School Committee was an independent body entrusted with great powers and responsibilities. Members of the Council or others who may be interested will find the case in the law library at City Hall, in volume 98 of the Supreme court reports, page 587."

QUINCY MAN SENTENCED

One of De Luxe Men Who Swindled Mrs. Rogers

Michael J. Powers, who made his home in Quincy for some time was one of the three "de luxe" book swindlers who were sentenced in the Superior court at Boston on Thursday. Powers was found guilty by Judge Chase of conspiracy and larceny on one count and was sentenced to two years in the house of correction at hard labor. Roland Sherman, counsel for Powers made a strong plea for his client emphasizing the fact that he had a wife and adopted son who would be left without support during his imprisonment. The alleged transactions upon which Powers and two others, Samuel Rosenfield and Glen F. Farmer, were found guilty was that with Mrs. Mary L. Rogers of Beacon street, Boston.

DR. JULIA A. MARSHALL.

Dr. Julia A. Marshall, a practising physician of Brockton, died Thursday at the Homoeopathic hospital at Boston. She was 74 years of age. Dr. Marshall was a sister of Mrs. Deborah Billings of 61 Glover avenue, Atlantic, mother of Faxon Billings, chief of the Fire department. The body will be brought to this city today and the funeral will be held from the home of Mrs. Billings on Saturday afternoon.

1912 Rambler For Sale

Cross Country Rambler good as new Run less than 3,000 miles, fully equipped. If bought at once will be sold at a sacrifice. Write R., Ledger Office 25-3t

FAREWELL TO REV. LILLBACK

Leaves Today With His Family for Brooklyn

Rev. J. E. Lillback of Brooklyn, N. Y., preached to his former parishioners at the Finnish Congregational Church Thursday night. Practically the entire membership of the church was present. His text was from John 12:32 and special reference was made to a continuance of the firm spirit and strong religious convictions of his parishioners. He asked that they ever be faithful and recommended that their labors of the future in the interest of church extension be as earnest as in the past.

Previous to the evening services Rev. Mr. Lillback officiated at the baptisms of two children, the sons of Matthew E. Tapio and Aldrich Jaukkuri.

Rev. Mr. Lillback assumed the pastorate of the Finnish congregational church at Brooklyn, N. Y., several months ago and has been very successful. He was warmly received by the members of that church and there has been a fine increase in its membership.

Mrs. Lillback was there one week but the family of eight children have been living here while their parents prepared their new home and this morning they bade their many friends adieu and left for New York.

The seven passenger touring car of Charles H. Penniman carried them to the Quincy station where they were given a fine sendoff by parishoners. Edith, a daughter did not accompany her parents but will remain to finish her term at the Lincoln school where she is an eighth grade pupil. She will join them in New York next July.

The church has extended calls to three pastors to succeed Mr. Lillback but none of them have accepted. A call to another well known minister who is prominent in the Finnish Congregational church will be extended within a week.

DIRECT MAILS TO QUINCY

Better Service From Atlantic and Wollaston

Quincy newspapers, banks and merchants will appreciate the direct mails from Atlantic and Wollaston which Superintendent Charles L. Hammond has just added. Heretofore it has been impossible to mail a letter at either place in the morning and have it delivered in other parts of Quincy before afternoon, but the new mails will arrive in Quincy in season for the second morning delivery.

By the new arrangement, extra mails will close at Atlantic at 8.15 and Wollaston at 9.15 reaching Quincy about an hour later. To take full advantage of these mails it will be necessary to deposit letters at the post offices and not in the letter boxes, as the letter carriers do not return in season from their first deliveries. Another suggestion, when mailing letters for these two mails, please take then to the stamp window, and say "letter for Quincy."

Correspondents of the Daily Ledger are requested to use these extra mails as other mails are too late. Remember to mail the letters at the post office.

WHIST PARTY.

The George L. Gill Associates, all members of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, held a weekly whist party in Odd Fellows hall Thursday afternoon. There were 14 tables in play and the souvenirs were awarded to Mrs. Sarah A. Williams, Mrs. E. Sproule, Mrs. Isabella Davison, Mrs. Miles Stratton, Mrs. Nettie Lewis, Mrs. William Westland. The consolation prize went to Mrs. Mary L. Thomas.

(ADVERTISE.)

CONTESTS FOR THE OFFICERS

Many Anxious to Work in Improvement Association

The Norfolk Downs Improvement Association held its annual meeting in Poland's hall, Atlantic, on Thursday night, elected a new board of officers and received reports from several of its active committees. There were contests for all of the offices. A large membership was present.

James Thomas, who retired from the presidency, reported that the commitee for a new school in the district had appeared before the School Committee and been well received, and that the only active opposition to a new building was from the people living in the immediate vicinity of the Massachusetts Fields school. He said they favored an enlargement. The report was discussed and the council may be asked within a few weeks to make the necessary appropriation for a new building. The committee after investigation finds that several sites are available, particularly one at Billings road and Faxon road.

Chairman Dunmore of the committee working in conjunction with the Montclair Improvement Association for an overhead traffic bridge at the Norfolk Downs station reported that prompt attention rested on the solution of the abolition of grade questins because the present grade may be affected. He said that land-owners have agreed that the amount of land damages that could be claimed would be nominal and in some cases forfeited.

The new officers elected were:
President—Warren S. Gould.
Vice President—John Small.
Treasurer—Albert S. Robinson.
Secretary—William Kell.

Mrs. George H. Kendrick of 18 Beach street has been entertaining this week her aunt Mrs. George Bearce and daughter Miss Eleanor of Gloucester.

IS WANTED IN VERMONT

Rubino Meyer Said to Have Jumped His Bail

Rubino Meyer, an alleged fugitive from justice was arrested in this city, Thursday night for the police of Waterbury, Vt., where he was defaulted last week. Meyer was the defendant in a liquor case and jumped his bail.

Since he has has been in Quincy he has been employed by three different granite firms. the last being the Columbia Co, where he was arrested Thursday. His family have been living on Penn street.

Myer consented to return to Vermont, to face trial without the necessity of procuring requisition papers and he left with Deputy Sheriff Campbell this morning.

Meyrs defence for skipping is a peculiar one. He claims that under the laws of Vermont a man cannot be admitted legally to bail on the oLrd's Day. He was however admitted to bail on a Sunday. and as in his opinion this was an illegal act, it acted the same as if he had been released from custody, and would not thereafter have to appear to answer to the complaint. However he has gone back to fight his liquor case leaving his family in Quincy.

Spring is here for the tulip bulbs have nosed up through the ground in front of the Public library and crocuses are in bloom.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Miss Minnie R. Hardwick and Lyman W. Morrison

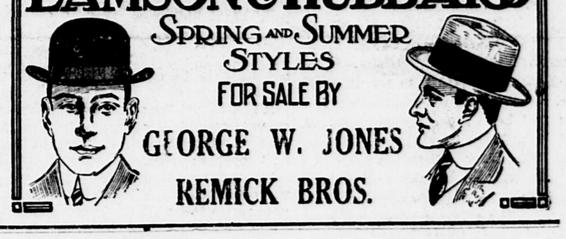
Mrs. Sidney Hardwick of Elm street gave a bridge party Thursday evening at her home to announce the engagement of her niece, Miss Minnie Rideout Hardwick ,daughter of Mrs. Henry E. Hardwick of Revere road to Lyman Howard Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Willard Morrison of Elm street Braintree.

The announcement came as a surprise, the secret being very prettily told by pinks tied with red and white hearts, bearing their initals, while on a tray was the ring also tied with initial hearts. Congratulations were most hearty and sincere both young people being well known and having a wide circle of friends. Bridge was enjoyed souvenirs going to Mrs. Robert Hardwick, Miss Beatrice Morrison and Miss Catherine Saville.

NEW GUILD OFFICERS.

St. Mary's Guild of St. Mary's parish West Quincy, have elected their officers for the ensuing term. The guild is in a flourishing condition and there has been a large increase in its membership. The officers are: President Mrs. Steven B. Little; vice president, Miss Annie H. McGilvray; secretary, Miss Sadie Monohan; and treasurer, Miss Mercedes O'Brien.

LAMSON & HUBBARD
SPRING AND SUMMER STYLES
FOR SALE BY
GEORGE W. JONES
REMICK BROS.



TRADE AT

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE
'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE FOY STORES
Open Friday till 9 P. M.
Saturday until 10

THE OLD WaterSt. Market QUINCY ADAMS
'Phone Quincy 117

Good Things to Eat In Abundance

Just come and see what a wonderful variety of good things to eat these up-to-date food shops are showing. Everything Fresh and good in Groceries, Meats, Fruits, Vegetables, Dairy and Bakery Products are here ready to be served you promptly And you can't beat our prices, quality considered.

AT ADAMS MARKET
SATURDAY ONLY
1 Doz. DOUGHNUTS FREE
With a large, 28 ounce Package of PRISCILLA PREPARED DOUGHNUT FLOUR 25c

MEATS! MEATS!

Just take a look in our big refrigerators if you want to see the pick of the market's meat offerings. The cleanliness of the place is appetizing.

RIB ROAST BEEF 18c lb
Fifth Rib—real good eating
RIB STEAK ROAST 22c lb
All meat—not bone or fat
SIRLOIN TIP ROAST 25c lb

CALIFORNIA ASPARAGUS 35c
Large Double Bunches
CHOICE RIPE TOMATOES 15c lb
STRAWBERRIES 35c
Large Boxes of Beautiful Berries
Spinach and Dandelions, String Beans, Lettuce, Celery, Cucumbers, Radishes, Etc.

Delicious Juicy ORANGES
FANCY FLORIDA'S 23c doz | CAL. NAVELS 20c doz
LARGE JUICY "SUNKIST" LEMONS 23c doz

Fresh from the roaster QUALITY COFFEE 33c lb. PEER'S TEA just arrived

March 27-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Established 1889.

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription

By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.

Incorporated.

TELEPHONES

News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

Carranza's commission is thoroughly investigating the death of Benton by reading the New York newspapers

Only about 500 words in President Wilson's last message. It looks as if he never learned how to sell his copy by space rates.

ARMY EFFICIENCY.

Some people want two battleships built yearly, others want four, while some wish none at all. Yet all these diverging points of view should agree in this, that our military forces should be organized with the efficiency of a private corporation, and so systematically that they could fight at the traditional drop of a hat.

During the few days that the Benton incident seemed to reach the proportions of a real war-cloud, many citizens were anxiously asking what our army could do if called on to act in a hurry.

Over in England some years ago a government was turned out of power merely because it allowed the supply of ammunition to get low. In this country, one questions whether a single clerk would lose his job on that account. The public is not much concerned over military affairs. What it principally wants is to get an army post located near by, where the soldiers will buy groceries and fodder, and help boom local trade.

At the army posts life goes on sleepily enough. Baby carts are a more familiar sight than gun carriages. The soldiers practise the art of war, when they aren't mowing the lawns, repairing the walks, or listening to the military band. A fine type of suburban village is built up, and a graceful and refined social life exists. But is it preparation for war?

American citizens have reason for pride in the development of the navy. Where only three per cent of the shots took effect at Santiago, in recent practice as many as 45 per cent have been hits. But the army life is less spectacular. Efficiency here does not interest the people so much, and they do not demand it so strenuously. Bitter complaints are made by military students, that personal friendship and political considerations count too much in making promotions. If the army is called into Mexico it will make a fine showing of courage and science, but it could do the job much more quickly if such defects could be done away with.

A SIGNFICANT POINTER.

There is something for both business men and workmen to ponder well in the customs report of Collector Billings for the month of February.

Under the new tariff the valuation of imports that came in free of duty amounted to $12,447,023. The valuation of those that paid duty was only $2,601,627.

The valuation of exports for the same time was $4,591,605, leaving a balance of trade against us for one month of $10,457,045.

Who produced these goods to the value of more than ten millions of dollars? Workmen in foreign countries.

Do you not think it would have been better if our employers labor had try, on farms and in factories, if they had performed the labor necessary to produce them, and had received good wages therefor?

Do you not think it would have been better if our employesof labor had been permitted to produce these and so kept the money cost of production in this country instead of sending it abroad?

If Boston makes this showing, what about all the other ports of entry in this country?

Is there any connection between these facts and the necessity for soup kitchens to feed the unemployed.

We are not seeking for political effect, but with all who are anxious for the prosperity of our own country and people, we are searching for the causes, of certain conditions that are apparent to everyone who has eyes to see and ears to hear.—Boston Times.

SHALL THE ARMY RULE ENGLAND?

Question Still Uppermost In Mind of British Public

ASSURANCES GIVEN TO GOUGH

They Lead to Resignation of Field Marshal French and Adjutant Ewart —Downfall of Asquith Cabinet Believed to Have Been Only Temporarily Averted—Generals In Council

London, March 27.—Field Marshal Sir John French and General John S. Ewart, his adjutant, have resigned their positions on the army staff.

As members of the war council, French and Ewart signed the "Gough treaty" with War Secretary Seely. The repudiation of the assurances given Gough that the Irish officers would not be expected to serve against Ulster led to their resignations. The two generals, it is said, were led to believe that the two paragraphs repudiated in the house of commons by Asquith had been approved by the cabinet.

French served with great distinction in the British army since 1874.

Much comment was aroused by a conference at the war office of all the principal commanding generals of the British army. Colonel Seely and Winston S. Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, also had a long conference with Premier Asquith.

The atmosphere is far from cleared. The question is still, "Shall the army rule England?" Asquith's belated repudiation of the "Gough treaty" in the commons only temporarily averts the downfall of his cabinet. Many Liberals regard the retention of War Minister Seely as a most serious blunder.

The premier repudiated his action in temporizing with the officers stationed in Ireland but in failing to accept Seely's resignation his opponents believe Asquith placed the government in a position from which it will not be able to emerge without disruption.

It is declared the officers of the Irish commands will never consent to fight Ulster. Gough stated his position in an interview:

"We have a guarantee signed by the army council which the premier cannot repudiate without overthrowing the council. We will hold the council to its promise but if the premier stands by his statement I fear the entire question may be reopened."

In all opposition quarters, as well as among the Laborites, Socialists and Nationalists, it is emphatically decired that the fight is far from conclusion. Rising out of the struggle will be the drawing of a clear line between the aristocratic and democratic factions.

LETTER FROM "THY JOE"

Mme. Caillaux Says It Alone Caused the Killing of Calmette

Paris, March 27.—With a cry of indignation during her cross examination by Magistrate Boucard at the preliminary inquiry into the killing of M. Calmette, Mme. Caillaux reminded the magistrate how The Figaro had baited her husband about the "Thy Joe" letter. She then began to weep.

"I regret profoundly the consequences of my act," said the witness amid her tears. "I would prefer that the campaign had continued rather than I should have killed Calmette. It is impossible to find in my act another cause than that which I have given."

AIR TRIP TO NORTH POLE

Peary Thinks It Will Be a Possibility Within Five Years

Washington, March 27.—Arctic exploration by the air route will become a possibility within five years, according to Rear Admiral Peary. Aviation, the discoverer of the North Pole thinks, will greatly simplify travel and soon such trips will be common.

"I would like to go to the pole again—in summer time," Peary said at a dinner given to him and Mrs. Peary by Vice President and Mrs. Marshall.

Indian Slayer Convicted

Stillwell, Okla., March 27.—Tandy Folsom, a Cherokee Indian, was found guilty of the murder of Patrick Dora, a politician, at Westville. He was sentenced to life imprisonment. The crime was the result of a quarrel over an estate.

Insect Holds Up Electric Lines

London, March 27.—When an earwig got into the signalling apparatus, danger signals were set, and a section of the London electric lines was held up. The insect was electrocuted.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

ORDER TO LIMIT DEBATE

Brings About Great Legislative Battle on the Tolls Repeal

Washington, March 27.—The greatest legislative battle yet undertaken by President Wilson's administration was begun with the presentation of a special "gag rule" in the house to limit debate and prohibit amendment on the administration's proposal to repeal the provision of the Panama canal act allowing free passage to American ships.

For two hours the rule was alternately defended and attacked in heated debate in the house. When adjournment came Speaker Clark, who had not yet announced his position on the repeal policy, issued a statement vigorously opposing the rule.

"Surely there is nothing sacred about this repeal bill, and there is no reason for this mad rush," said the speaker's statement. "I will not be a party to ramming such a rule down the throats of members."

FREEMAN WINS APPEAL

Man Convicted With Hawthorne and Morton Granted New Trial

New York, March 27.—Albert Freeman, who was convicted with Julian Hawthorne and Dr. W. J. Morton of using the United States mails to defraud investors, and sentenced to five years in the Atlanta prison, was granted a new trial in the federal district court.

In his decision Judge Mayer said the new trial was granted because Michael Kehoe, who served in the case, was an improper juror, in that he had "a prejudicial bias."

Freeman, who was sentenced a year ago, has been at liberty under $50,000 bail pending his appeal. Hawthorne and Morton, convicted by the same jury, served sentences of a year, which were subsequently commuted.

GREAT TRIUMPH FOR BAY STATE WOMEN

House Passes Suffrage Amendment by Large Majority

Boston, March 27.—By a rollcall vote of 168 to 39 the woman's suffrage amendment passed the house amid loud applause from the galleries, where hundreds of women were assembled.

The measure now goes to Governor Walsh. This is the first time in twenty years that it has passed the Massachusetts legislature. The debate lated four hours.

The measure must now go to next year's legislature, and if passed, goes to the people in the form of a referendum.

After the victory in the house the suffragists hurried to Copley square for a suffrage parade, which ended in a jollification celebration last night.

BOSTON SCHOOL BUDGET

Committee's Appropriation For This Year Reaches Total of $5,900,000

Boston, March 27.—The annual school budget, which this year totals $5,900,000, was passed by the school committee last night at a special meeting held to consider the annual appropriations.

Under the legislative acts of 1907 the school committee appropriated $500,000 for new buildings, sites, yards, etc. For this same purpose they also passed an appropriation for $295,417 as authorized under the act of 1913.

The estimated increase in the salaries of instructors for the current year over a year ago is $232,068.96. It is estimated that the proposed pensions for janitors will amount to $7337.52.

TO LIVE IN COUNTRY

Jockey Maher Retires From Racing With $200,000 to His Credit

London, March 27.—Danny Maher, the American jockey, has retired from racing, mainly on account of his health, which has been poor since his illness at the beginning of the winter.

Maher, who became a naturalized British subject last year, has bought a country estate near Nottingham, where he intends to live, breeding prize cattle and indulging in other rural pursuits.

There is much speculation regarding Maher's wealth. He is believed to have made about $200,000.

TO STUDY OUR PEOPLE

Queen of Bulgaria Will Visit the United States In May

Sofia, March 27.—Queen Eleanore of Bulgaria announced that she would depart on her journey from the Bulgarian capital to the United States during the third week of May.

Queen Eleanore, who will be the first reigning queen to visit the United States, intends to make a study of the institutions and people of America.

It is stated semi-officially that King Ferdinand also will pay a visit to the United States, probably in 1915.

Old Sweethearts Wed

Greensboro, N. C., March 27.—John M. Henderson, 69, and Mary A. Coble, 66, sweethearts since the Civil war, were married here. They quarrelled fifty years ago and only recently made up.

PROMINENT IN GRAND ARMY

Charles W. Hastings of South Weymouth Dead

Charles W. Hastings of South Weymouth, a man widely known among the Grand Army men throughout the state, passed away at his home in South Weymouth Thursday night aged 83 years. Capt. Hastings was born in Schenectady, N. Y., January 19, 1831. He came to Boston at the age of 16 years and was employed as a office boy in the stereoptying department of S. N. Dickerson & Co. Later he worked at railroading and in 1852 he went to Weymouth and found employment in a shoe manufactory where he remained until 1861.

He was elected to the state legislature in the fall of 1860, but resigned at the breaking out of the war and enlisted April 5, 1861 in Co. H, 12th Mass. Inf. He became a lieutenant June 26, 1861, and was promoted to the rank of captain, Oct. 8, 1862. During the war he participated in many of the noted battles including those at Antietam and Gettysburg, being taken prisoner at North Anna river.

He was confined in Libby and other notorious rebel prisons until paroled, after which he was honorably discharged on account of wounds received June 11, 1864.

He returned to South Weymouth at the close of the war and in 1877 he was appointed a documentary clerk in the office of the secretary of the state and later became a member of the board of State Aid Commissioners which position he held for thirty years, resigning in 1911 on account of all health.

He was one of the organizers of Reynolds Post, 58, G. A. R., and served in many of its offices including that of Commander. He was a member of the Loyal Legion, and an officer of the 12th regiment association, and was affiliated with the Universalist church at South Weymouth.

He was twice married. He leaves two sons, Alfred W. Hastings of South Weymouth and Edward B. Hastings of Milton. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Alfred Tirrell of South Weymouth.

QUINCY MAN PRESIDENT

John T. Conway, assistant general superintendent of the New England Street Railway Club, was elected as president of the club at its annual meeting Thursday afternoon. J. E. Dozier, formerly of Quincy, but now general superintendent of the Nahant and Lynn street railway, was elected on the board of directors. At the banquet of the club at the Somerset later in the evening, Gov. Walsh and Mayor Curley were guests and among the speakers.

EVERY WOMAN SHOULD HAVE THIS SET

OUR MILADY'S COMBINATION TOILET PERFUME SET

This set contains 5 of our most popular preparations:

1 Bottle Milady's Perfume
1 Large Bottle Milady's Shampoo
1 Cake Milady's Cuticle Soap
1 Jar Milady's Rose Cold Cream
1 Sifter Box Milady's Talcum Powder.

You know these preparations, they are famous for their pure qualities and agreeable odors. They are being sold the world over at from 50c to $1.00 for each preparation. Your dealer would charge you not less than $2.50 for the set and we are offering it to you for a limited time only for $1.00.

VANITY PURSE FREE

FREE if you will send in your order now we will send you absolutely free with this set, One Simulation German Silver Vanity Purse, New Yorks' Latest Craze. This purse is of striped design, two ball clasp, with cable link chain Silkoline lined, one side contains half pocket, other side with spring coin holders, dime, nickel and quarter.

We will send Milday's Set complete with Vanity purse if you order at once for $1.00. We sell you direct. Order now today.

Agents need not write.

Send ten cents in stamps to cover postage. Send $1.00 coin or money order.

UNIVERSAL PRODUCTS CO.
Dayton, Ohio.

A PLEA FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE.

(Continued from last issue.)

PART II.

It is often claimed that women do not want to vote; and, of course, there are women who do not care to assume the responsibilities of suffrage if they can avoid it. The same holds true of many intelligent, but selfish men who desire the advantages of good government without its burdens. All such must be urged to do their duty to the state. Those who have vision and a large sense of duty can be trusted to do their fair part in caring for the public welfare. Those who wish to enjoy the benefits of peace and settled government, participating in the advantages of education, engaging in business, and having their persons and property protected, without sharing the burden of government should be forced to play their part. The woman who leads the movement against equal suffrage in England has made a fortune in the open market as a writer, protected by the national copyrights; she maintains a house where she is protected in person and property in the city of London, the organization and administration of which calls for the constant attention of all intelligent citizens; and yet she urges women to take what they can get, but to refrain from doing their fair share of the city and national housekeeping, lest they lose their feminine charm. Surely those who profit by government should give their share of service.

Dr. Charles Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard college, says, "There is a very urgent need that women take action—a new need, an urgent need, and, sometimes I think, a desperate need. The civilization of the last 120 years has developed evils which will work destruction of the white race unless remedies are applied. One of these evils is city life and the other is the factory system. The human body was not made for either. We cannot expect to correct these evils on the spot. It is for future generations that we must work. It seems to me that women are better adapted to work for the human beings of the future than men are." How more efficiently can she do this tremendous task than directly through the political weapon of the vote?"

We are told our place is in the home. So it is, but only so long as there is work there for us to do. The changes which have taken place during the last centuries, and which we sum up under the term "modern civilization" have tended to rob woman, not merely in part but almost wholly, of the more valuable part of her former domain of productive and social labor. Our spinning-wheels are all broken; in a thousand huge buildings stream-driven, guided by a few thousands of hands (often those of men, produce the clothings of half the world; and we dare no longer say, proudly, as of old, that we and we alone clothe our peoples. For a time we kept fast possession of the kneading-trough and the brewing-vat, but today, steam often shapes our bread, and the history of our household drinks we know no longer. We merely see them set before us at our tables. Even the minor domestic operations are tending to pass out of the circle of woman's labor. In modern cities our carpets are beaten, our windows cleaned, our floors polished, by machinery. Already machine made clothing has supplanted almost entirely the ancient needle, and a thousand machines driven in factories are supplying not only the husband and son, but the woman herself with almost every article of clothing she wears. Time was when the woman kept her children about her till adult years. Hers was the training and influence which shaped them. But, today, so complex have become even the technical and simpler branches of education, so constant the demands which modern civilization makes for specialized instruction and training for all individuals who are to survive and retain their usefulness that from the earliest years of its life, the child is of necessity largely removed from the hands of the mother and placed in those of the specialized instructor.

Looking round, then, with the utmost impartiality we can command on the entire field of women's traditional labors in the home, we find that fully three-fourths of it have shrunk away forever and that the remaining fourth still tends to shrink. It is this great fact which lies as the propelling force behind that vast and restless "Woman's Suffrage Movement" that marks our day.

Since we have been obliged to follow the work out of the realm of woman, into the mill, into the factory, into the department store, into the office and the many allied employments and are doing this work, not under the watchful and loving protection of our own fathers, brothers or other near male relatives, but under the often indifferent and always impersonal supervision of the modern corporation; by what other way than by direct representation can we attempt to control the conditions under which our work must be done. We must represent ourselves. No one else can know our own particular condition so well.

It is often urged that woman cannot back up her position with physical force, in other words, go to war. We have always borne part of the weight of war, and the major part. Our relation to war is very intimate, personal, and indissoluble. Men have made swords and guns to destroy one another, we have made the men who destroyed and were destroyed. We have in all ages produced at an enormous cost the primal munition of war. There is no battlefield on earth which has not cost the women of the race more in actual bloodshed and anguish to supply, than it has cost the men who lie there. We pay the first cost on all human life.

The smaller size of her muscle, which might have severely disadvantaged her when war was conducted with a battle-axe or sword hand to hand, would now little or not at all affect her. If intent on training for war, she might acquire the skill for guiding a Maxim or shooting down a foe with a Springfield at four thousand yards as any man. It has not been only the peasant girl of France who has carried latent and hidden qualifications that would make the great general. If we continue to advance our position in the outside world of affairs it is not improbable that as financiers, as inspectors of provisions and clothing for the army, women may play a leading part, and that the nation which is first to employ women in such capacities may be placed at a vast advantage over its enemy in time of war. It is not because of woman's cowardice, incapacity, nor, above all because of general superior virtue, that she will end war when her voice is fully and clearly heard in the governance of states—it is because, on this one point, and on this point almost alone, the knowledge of woman, simply as woman, is superior to that of man; she knows the history of human flesh; she knows its cost; he does not.

Helen E. Comins, Secretary.
Wollaston Equal Suffrage League.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

WHY THIS BANK IS LIKE A GOOD STORE

A successful store-keeper is liberal with his customers—his clerks are courteous and ready to oblige—he gives his trade good service. This bank like the merchant wants business, and to get and hold business it offers prompt and painstaking service. Perhaps you will be surprised to find out how many things we do for our depositors—come in and let us tell you about our services.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER

Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy

Feb. 10-tf

SPRING HAS ARRIVED.

Spring, gentle spring, has evidently arrived. Thursday afternoon the air was very mild, so much so that top coats were uncomfortable, yet one hardly dared to lay them aside. This morning dawned warm and balmy and still another sign of spring was the hand organ man and monkey which made its appearance in City Square before 8 o'clock. March came in like a lion, and according to the old saying, it should go out like a lamb. There is another old saying, that the weather of the last Friday of the month governs the weather of the coming month. Today is the last Friday of March and the weather today augurs well for a pleasant April.

Draining a Metropolis.

London sewage has its main drainage outfalls at Barking and Crossness the average daily quantity dealt with is about 260,000,000 gallons, while the total quantity of sludge collected at Barking and Crossness is over 2,500,000 tons.

Granite Shoe Store

LA FRANCE SHOP

LA FRANCE Shoes can't be "ground out". The makers make as many as they can, right — no more.

We're glad to say we have a good supply, awaiting your early selection.

No. 804 is the kind of pump every woman needs one pair of. Made in Sterling Patent Colt, welt, flat heel.

No. 704 is a similar model in Gun Metal.

LA FRANCE

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Bowling Contests — Athletic Leagues
Illustrated Lectures — Banquets
Basket Ball — Conferences

Dr. F. M. Seerley of Springfield will address the High school boys and employed boys over fourteen years of age at a meeting to be held in High school hall tonight at 7.30. Dr. Seerley's medical training and long experience enables him to speak most wisely on the vital subject of "Personal Purity." His pleasing personal, optimistic outlook on life and spirit of comradeship with young men make him eminently qualified to speak at a meeting of this kind.

At the Men's meeting in Kincaide's theatre Sunday afternoon Dr. Seerley is also to be the speaker. The University City Bell Ringers will give a concert from 3.05 to 3.30, and a double male quartet will take part in the program as well as the men's chorus.

By taking three points from the Rand class in the Sunday school bowling league Wednesday evening it has come about that Makaria and the Davis class will have a show at the championship. The winner in the above contest bowled the best of the season, while their opponents were not quite up to form. Gillis and Olson, who appeared in the lineup of the Davis class for the first time showed up well and aided materially in the victory.

Bethany K. O. K. A. 2nd and Swedish Lutheran meet on the Gym floor this afternoon for a Sunday School league basketball game. On Saturday afternoon there will be four games: Washington street Congregational meeting Park and Downs; Sacred Heart vs Christ church; Washington street Congregational vs Swedish Lutheran and First Presbyterian vs Wollaston Congregational.

The standing in the league is as follows:

Class A-1	Won	Lost	P.C.
K. O. K. A.	2	0	1.000
Park and Downs	1	1	.500
Washington St. Cong.	1	1	.500
Class A-2
Sacred Heart	2	0	1.000
Christ Church	1	0	1.000
United Presbyterian	1	1	.500
Wollaston Cong.	0	1	.000
Class B-1
K. O. K. A.	2	0	1.000
Swedish Lutheran	2	0	1.000
Washington St. Cong.	0	2	.000
Class B-2
First Presbyterian	2	0	1.000
Wollaston Methodist	2	1	.666
Wollaston Cong.	0	3	.000

The Junior exhibition is to take place this evening in the Gymnasium and the boys are all ready to show their parents what they can do in the way of light gymnastics and stunts. The program includes a Character Drill entitled "A Trip down the River." The class goes through all the movements used in taking a [illegible] outing down the river; A [illegible], led by Frank Morrison, Ap[illegible]as work led by Marshall McMillan, Theodore Brown, Frank Morrison, Herbert Hendry, William Torrey, Frederick Tobbenboske, Gusta Wester, Roger Ahlstrom and Eric Nelson; Horse vault and Mat work by the leaders and Skinning the snake and basketball by the entire class. The final event of the Junior class season will be the Athletic meet Saturday morning. The different teams will compete in running, jumping and team races and competition will be keen for this will determine the championship of the class.

The official windup of the season for Seniors will take place on Friday April 3, although the class will continue to meet regularly through April and part of May. This final event will include an entertainment, report of the Physical director, awarding of prizes for the year and refreshments and will be held in Association hall. The victorious second basketball team will be awarded the Championship shield which was won Wednesday night at Newton when Quincy settled the question of supremacy to the tune of 26 to 23. This is the second year that Quincy 2nd has held the Championship of Eastern Massachusetts in Basketball among Young Men's Christian Associations.

There will be a meeting of fellows interested in the annual show, next Tuesday evening, March 31, at 7.30, in Association hall. It is probable that either a minstrel show or a vaudeville show will be given in the latter part of April or early in May.

Through error in adding up the scores, it was thought that Oscar Djerf had won the Hobbs bowling tournament. The winner is Sturgis Hunt who beat out Djerf by four pins getting 2206. Wessels took high single with 125 and Brooks, second high single with 111.

Blanchard rolled the highest string of the year thus far on Tuesday getting 130 for single and 318 for three strings.

Clark Class and Makaria try conclusions on the alleys this evening. If Makaria wins three or four points they will be in line for the Championship, practically tying Rand class.

DELICATE CHILD

Made Strong and Healthy by Vinol.

Growing children play hard and work hard at school, which with rapid growth uses up an enormous amount of energy and vitality that must be replaced.

When a child is tired all the time, no appetite, weak delicatee and sickly we guarantee Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, will build them up, create a hearty appetite, sound flesh and muscle tissue, pure, healthy blood, and make them strong.

Mrs. L. L. Bertrand, New Iberia, La., says: "My little one was weak and run-down in health, and was continually taking cold. Different medicines failed to help, but when Vinol was recommended I found it a wonderful help to my child. It broke up the cold, and quickly restored health and strength. Vinol is a most excellent tonic for children."

If Vinol fails to do just what we say, we will give back your money. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer

Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

KENNENEN FINED $50

For Assault on Charles G. Bonham on Street Car

Arvid Kinnenen is $50 poorer for the scrap which he had on a street car last Tuesday night, when he banged Charles G. Bonham over the head with a dinner box, inflicting numerous cuts. The two men were returning to West Quincy from the Fore River on one of the special workmens cars. When near rewers Corner there was some dispute and pushing between the two men as Bonham tried to get off the car. According to witness, Bonham was struck over the head with the dinner box and knocked off the car. He received a bad cut on the top of the head and his right eye was cut and badly blackened. When picked up he was unconscious and after being attended by a physician was taken to his home.

The case was heard in court this morning, a number of witnesses appearing for both sides. After the hearing Bonhom acknowledged satisfaction, with the understanding that he should be reimbursed to the amount of $30 for time lost from his work and that he should also be paid the sum of $17 for the doctors services and witness fees.

The defendant readily paid.

GEO. W. HIGHT PASSES AWAY

George W. Hight, a former well known Boston and New York lumber merchant, died at his home at 54 Walker street, Atlantic on Thursday. He was in his 71st year. Mr. Hight was a native of Nantucket and retired from business several years ago. Since that time he has made his home in this city. He was a veteran of the Civil war, having enlisted in Co. D, 44th Mass. Infantry. He is survived by a wife, a son and three daughters.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Newsy Up-to-Date Items from Neighboring Towns

Miss Edith Magoun, formerly of Marshfield, was killed instantly in Tacoma, Wash., on Wednesday, in an automobile accident.

Gov. Walsh has affixed his signature to the Cronin bill authorizing the appropriation of $100,000 for the improvement of navigation in Dorchester bay.

Ellen Farrell, late of Milton, in her will, filed Wednesday afternoon bequeathes $300 and the rest residue and remainder of her estate to the Little Sisters of the Poor, Roxbury.

The Canton Bird Club is holding an exhibition of birds, their haunts, nests and feeding boxes in the Public Library until April 4.

Mrs. Suzanne Stenbeck, widow of John Victor Stenbeck died at Scituate on Tuesday in her 79th year. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Annie E. Brown and Miss Doris Stenbeck, and two sons, Harry T. and Charles V. Stenack.

Roger Wolcott of Milton, a recent appointee to the State Board of insanity, has recorded his opposition to the recommendations of the Governor and the State Board of Economy and Efficiency, as to the advisability for a central board of control for some forty State institutions.

GRASS FIRE AT WOLLASTON

The alarm from Box 524 at 1.09 this afternoon was for a grass fire near the Tubular Rivet & Stud Co. plant at Wollaston. The recall was sounded a few minutes after the alarm.

BRIEFS

Mrs. Agnes G. Fletcher, grand chaplain of the Knights and Ladies of Honor, accompanied by her husband, atended the 30th anniversary banquet of Evening Star lodge at Somerville on Thursday evening. The banquet was followed by an entertainment. The affair was a fine success socially. Mrs. Fletcher is a member of Maple lodge of this city and has been grand chaplain for eveal terms.

Mrs. Beatrice Porterfield of Hancock street is the guest of relatives in Connecticut for three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hathorne of Edward street are the parents of a son, born on Thursday night. Mrs. athorne and child are doing well. Mr. athorne is a Metropolitan police officer and partois Furnace Brook parkway.

There were 18 tables in play at the whist party of Neozsa lodge, N. E. O P., in Poland's hall, Tuesday night Another party will be held on April 14.

Mr. and Mrs. William Marden of Edwards street are entertaining their daughter Eva of North Hanson at their home.

Fourteen aplications were passed at a meeting of Quincy lodge, S. B. F. of A., in Court John Ericson hall on School street Thursday night. Refreshments and a social closed the evening's program.

BURNS WERE FATAL.

Despite the heroism of Mrs. Foster F. Tupper of Braintree, who saved her from being burned to death and the best of medical treatment, Mrs Azzalia Angier died this morning at Graintree from the effects of the burns received on Monday. She was in her 74th year and mother of George Angier of Central avenue with whom she made her home.

LABOR LEAGUE CONCERT.

A concert was given in Alpha hall Thursday night under the auspices of Branch 8 of the Labor League and was well attended. The soprano soloist was Pauline Alman and Vital Podolsky was violinist. Piano solos were given by S. Ullian and Traumere was rendered by a trio consisting of Miss Jennie Weinhouse, pianist, Miss Julia Weinhouse cellist and Master David Weinhouse, violinst. Dramatic recitations were given by Miss Jeanette Ullian. The concert was one of merit and appreciated by those present particularly the contributions of Vital Podolsky.

For the Old Man to Decide.

Old Gotrox (savagely)—So you want to marry my daughter, do you? Do you think two can live as cheaply as one?" Young Softly (slightly embarrassed)—"I—I hardly think you will notice any difference, sir."—Puck.

Makes Healthy Bowels

THIS simple rule of health is daily called attention to by every doctor in the land, whose first question to the patient almost invariably is, "Are your bowels regular?" Yet there's not one person in fifty who takes proper care of the bowels. And the result of this foolish neglect is nine-tenths of all ill-health.

If today you are unable to free your body of waste matter at the usual time, or if the act causes straining, pains and discomfort, don't let that condition occur again tomorrow. Unless your bowels can carry away the waste materials left after food is digested, decay sets in, the poisons of which, taken up by the blood, increase the risk of Typhoid Fever, Appendicitis, and many other serious diseases.

In treating constipation, there is a right way and a wrong way. The wrong way is to take harsh purgatives which even though they do clear the bowels, cause griping and nausea, injure the delicate tissues, and so disturb the normal functions as to cause the return of constipation. The right way is to help Nature to produce natural movement, without pain or discomfort, by using

Rexall Orderlies

More Than One Hundred Million Were Sold Last Year

This enormous quantity was used with good results by busy men who suffered from constipation, due to lack of exercise, or indigestion caused by overwork—by children whose parents realize the harmful effect of common purgatives—by old people whose systems cannot stand anything harsh—by women during pregnancy, and after childbirth, when any medicine with a violent action would be particularly dangerous. Many of these people are your neighbors and friends. Ask anyone who has ever used them—they'll tell you Rexall Orderlies satisfied and helped them.

—a gentle laxative in the form of a chocolate-tasting tablet. One of these tablets eaten just before going to bed will help to restore your bowels to normal activity at a time when, your body being at rest, the medicine can do its best work. As a result of taking that tablet (or say two, if your case is obstinate), your bowels will move easily and naturally in the morning. The use of Rexall Orderlies for a few days afterward will restore normal regularity. Even chronic constipation is benefited by them, and it is not necessary to continue the treatment for a long time, because, instead of driving Nature, they simply help her to help herself.

Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores and in this town only by us. In vest pocket tin boxes, 10c, 25c, 50c

This Is Our Guarantee—You Risk No Money

If Rexall Orderlies do not make your bowels act right, tell us so and we'll give back your money without asking a single question. There is no red tape to this guarantee. It means just what it says. You sign nothing. We won't hesitate, or ask you any questions. Your word is enough. If Rexall Orderlies do not do all you expect them to—if you don't feel better after using them and find that they are the pleasantest-acting and best laxative you have ever used, we want you to tell us and get your money back.

EDWARD J. MURPHY

1415 Hancock Cor. Granite Street, QUINCY, MASS.

Rexall Means "KING OF ALL"—Ours is The Rexall Store in this town.

Chorus of the Pi Eta Show — "A Bug in a Rug"

Dr. A. T. Davison, Jr, '06. in a review of the Pi Eta play which comes to Quincy tonight, says:

Mr. Perkins, Mr. Blackmur, and Mr. Bliss were excellent actors and the comedy of Mr. Faulkner was vigorous and untiring. Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Allen were delightful apparitions and the latter, by his singing, added much to the success of the play.

Unusual care had evidently been exercised in the selection of costumes; this was particularly noticeable at the beginning of the second act, where the subdued color was thoroughly in harmony with the action and with the sense of the play; it was at this point, —in music, action, costume, and scene —that the play made its nearest approach to professional excellence.

This year's Pi Eta show is well worth seeing. It is a new idea set in an old scene, and the whole revitalized by means of exceedingly clever lines and good music. No opinion is so frank and unrestrained as that of the graduate who looks back on an array of former shows, good and otherwise; but if this year's play can everywhere arouse such unqualified enthusiasm as that of Thursday night, it will receive what it well deserves—success.

GRIFFITH JONES.

Griffiths Jones, of 272 Granite street, died this morning after a short illness. He was in his 50th year and is survived by a wife and family. Mr. Jones was a well known Quincy resident and member of Quincy lodge, No. 413, Loyal Order of Moose.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

James H. Fullerton, 85, and Charles E. Phillips 78, died at Whitman on Wednesday.

WOODWARD ALUMNAE.

The midyear meeting of the Woodward Alumnae will be held at the school on Monday evening, March 30 at 7.45 o'clock. All who have at any time attended the school are cordially invited.

Helen E. Mitchell, Secretary
Quincy, March 27 2t

THE QUINCY GARAGE

87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity.
Fair Saturday and Sunday and colder.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.35
Sun sets	6.05
Length of day	12.30
Moon sets	8.16
High water, A. M.	12.15
High water, P. M.	12.30
Days increase	3 hours, 16 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	66 degrees
Mar. 26 1913,	65 degrees
March 26, 1914,	56 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

COPELAND CLUB TAKE THREE

The Copeland Club found the Forester of America of America easy picking in a West Quincy league match at the St. Mary's alleys Thursday evening. They took three out of four points. losing a sweep by four pins in the last string. High single of the match was tied by Buzzie and Badot, both of wham had 108. Badot of the Foresters took a high total with 287.

COPELAND CLUB.

Buzzie	108	93	79	280
J. Desmond	77	91	95	263
W. Martel	74	68	91	233
W. Ogle	85	82	91	258
E. Desmond	85	83	100	268
	429	417	456	1302

FORESTERS OF AMERICA.

Hodge	73	79	97	249
Bradbury	84	75	74	233
De Coste	74	83	95	252
Badot	96	83	107	287
W, Hebert	80	90	86	256
	407	410	460	1277

DISTRICT COURT.

Enrico Renzetti was fined $50 for violation of the liquor law at Quincy. Renzetti was represented by Count Orlandini.

Robert Daley was fined $15 for drunkenness at Milton.

The continued case of Arvid Kinnenen for assault on Charles G. Bonham at Quincy was heard. The complainant acknowledged satisfaction and the case was dismissed on the payment to the defendant of $33 for time lost at his work and the payment of $17 for doctors and witness fees, a total of $50. He paid.

A TRIBUTE.

Mrs. John D. Buckingham, who passed away on Wednesday will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends.

Her sweet and sympathetic nature endeared her to all who knew her. She was a cultivated and most enjoyable singer, entering into the real spirit of the old English and Scotch ballads, and interpreting sacred songs with deep musical feeling and beautiful expression.—S. W. H.

☞PRATT'S BREAD is good for growing children—nourishing and satisfying. Grocers sell it.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE Tablets Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

DEMOCRATS FOR LOCAL OPTION

Favor Home Rule on Liquor Question In Maine

PROHIBITION IMPRACTICABLE

State Constitution Declared a Bar to Progressive and Reformatory Legislation and Should Be Revised—Adoption of Platform Upon Which Candidate For Governor Will Stand

Portland, Me., March 27.—A non-partisan convention to revise the state constitution was favored in the platform adopted by the Democratic state convention. The platform advocated the repeal of the prohibitory amendment and the resubmission of the matter to the voters "in order that the city or town may be substituted for the state as the basis of laws designed to control or abolish the liquor traffic."

"The state constitution as it stands, in some important particulars, is a bar to much-needed progressive and reformatory legislation," the platform declares. "To revise it properly, through the medium of the legislature, is an impracticable method of performing it.

"We favor the calling of a convention, the members of which shall be elected without party designation, to undertake a revision of the constitution, the work of said revision to be submitted to popular vote at an election held for that purpose alone, at which election amendment of the revised constitution may be voted upon separately and accepted or rejected by the people.

"The Democratic party," the platform continues, "absolutely believes in temperance, in law and order and in enforcement of law. It believes in prohibition wherever prohibition is practicable."

In urging resubmission of the question to the people the resolutions assert "that statewide prohibition has proved impracticable."

Approval of the national administration was expressed. A constitutional amendment permitting towns and cities home rule in taxation was favored. Other planks urged a workman's compensation act, a fifty-four-hour law for women and children in industrial plants; a reformatory for women; and "such legislation as will expedite the administration of justice in our courts."

William R. Pattangall of Waterville presided. As an indication that friction in the Third congressional district was smoothed over Pattangall and Edgar F. Hanson of Belfast shook hands publicly. Hanson, who opposed Pattangall in the special election in that district last September, said he would not again oppose him for any office. Later announcement was made that Pattangall would be a candidate again for the party nomination in the Third district.

The adoption of the platform upon which the candidate for governor to be chosen at the June primaries will stand, was the most important business transacted by the delegates.

WORK OF A FIREBUG

Lives of Two Hundred In a Lynn Factory Are Placed In Jeopardy

Lynn, Mass., March 27.—While three cool-headed girls marshalled their 200 panic-stricken shopmates to safety down a narrow fire escape, when flames cut off every other ordinary means of egress, three others risked their lives to save the firm's papers when fire ruined the big box factory of Littlefield & Moulton.

That the lives of the men and girls at work on the second and third floors of the building were placed in jeopardy by the work of the same incendiary, who is believed to have burned down two other box factories within two months, and to have fired the one destroyed yesterday once before in the last two weeks, is the opinion expressed by the fire authorities.

BUSINESS IS POOR

Machine Company to Lay Off Large Number of Employes

Biddeford, Me., March 27.—Announcement was made at the offices of the Saco-Lowell Machine company of this city that at the close of business at the end of this week there would be a reduction of 25 percent in the working force of the company. In all, between 200 and 250 men will be allowed to go.

Poor business conditions are given as the cause. The company, which operates large shops in this city and at Newton, Mass., manufactures mill machinery.

American Bride of Army Man

London, March 27.—The marriage of Major W. C. Palaeologus, late of the Indian army, and Miss Harriet Hutchinson of New York took place at St. Paul's church, Knights Bridge.

Two Firemen Killed In Big Blaze

Sioux City, Ia., March 27.—Two firemen were killed and seven others injured when fire destroyed nearly an entire block in the business district with $300,000 loss.

Earthquake Causes Panic

Messina, March 27.—Residents of this city were thrown into a panic by earthquake shocks which accompanied a terrific storm.

GREAT SPORT FOR JUNIORS

Varied Program for the Y. M. C. A. Exhibition

Many novel features will be introduced at the fourth annual exhibition of the Junior class of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. this evening.

Character drill—A trip down the river. The exercises used in this drill are supposed to illustrate the different movements that a person would use in taking a day's outing down the river: Pulling in the tender—Bailing out the water—Rowing out to the yacht—Climbing up the ladder—Hoisting the sail—Pulling up the anchor—Starting the engine (due to calm)—Rowing to shore—Hauling up the tender—Turning over the tender—Chopping wood for fire—Digging clams for dinner—Pumping water—Running—Putting the shot—Throwing the base ball—Batting the base ball—Swimming—Drying off with towel.

Maze run—Led by Frank Morrison.

Apparatus work by class\ Horse led by M. McMillan, T. Brown and Frank Morrison. Buck led by H. Hendry, W. Torrey and F\ Tobbenboske. Spring board and high jump led by G. Wester, R. Ahlstrom and E. Nelson.

Obstacle relay race by the Junior teams, Wanderers and the B. A. A. against the Pilgrims and the Puritans.

Horse vault for height by Junior Leaders.

Skinning the snake by Junior class.

Mat work by Leaders.

Basket ball—B. A. A. against Puritans. Wanderers against Pilgrims. The team standing is as follows: First Pilgrims 52.5 points, second Wanderers 50.2 points, third B. A. A. 42.8 points, fourth Puritans 35.6.

The team work will end Saturday morning with a general all-around athletic meet in which all of the boys are to take part in each event. The parents and friends of the boys are cordially invited to attend this meet. The first event commencing at 10 o'clock.

The B. A. A. team is led by Gus Wester, the Wanderers by Roger Ahlstrom, the Puritans by Stanley Jenkins and the Pilgrims by Herbert Hendry.

The Makaria class will have a good chance tonight to get back into second place in the Sunday School bowling league for they roll against the Clark class. The latter team has not shown much form up to date and the Makaria boys hope to clean up four points.

The dual athletic meet which was scheduled for Saturday night between the Somerville and Quincy Y. M. C. A. track teams has been postponed until Saturday night. April 4.

The club tournament of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus. will commence Saturday night in the club rooms. The games include checker. pool, whist. bid whist. forty fives and cribbage. The members are manifesting much interest in the tournament and the event promsies to be the most successful one ever held.

Candidates for the base ball team. of Cunningham Gym will hold a meeting Sunday afternoon at the gym. A large number of candidates are expected to come out this year and there is certain to be a mighty fast team.

HIS DREAM REALIZED

Wear-Ever Hosiery and Paradise Garters

We offer for a limited time only, six pairs of our finest 35c value Guaranteed Hose and a pair of our well known Men's Paradise Garters for one dollar. postpaid.

You know these hose; they stood the test when all others failed. They give real foot comfort. They have no seams to rip. They never become loose and baggy as the shape is knit in, not pressed in. They are Guaranteed for fineness, for style, for superiority of material and workmanship, absolutely stainless and to wear six months without holes, or a new pair free.

Dont' delay send in your order before offer expires.

WEAR-EVER HOSIERY COMPANY
Dayton. Ohio.

The Footlights Glare

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

"The Perils of Pauline" was presented in moving pictures to a crowded house at Kincaide Theatre last night and greatly pleased the large audience. It's a continued picture play of great interest, two reels of which will be presented each week at this popular playhouse.

The vaudeville is extra good this week. The four Flying Valentines have a casting act that abounds in hair raising stunts, and Lasky's Eloping was a screaming success as a novel musical act.

Coming Monday is another great show. Daniel Froham presents Cecelia Loftus in the famous play "A Lady of Quality." This great feature picture of that famous player in that famous play should pack the house alone. But Manager Wardwell has engaged star vaudeville acts also.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

At Music hall Saturday matinee and night, James J. Corbett in "The Man from the Golden West," an exciting story in four parts will be shown. Everyone has heard of "Gentleman Jim," ex-champion heavyweight fighter; how many know that he is also a wonderful actor? In this recent production Corbett does some magnificent dramatic work, and the result is a feature of clean-cut, snappy action. Although this is Corbett's first appearance in motion pictures, he has achieved marked success on the American and English stage in several different plays.

Jim, employed in the Bank of California, grubstakes a gold prospector, and wakes up one morning to find himself half-owner of a rich strike. After numerous exciting adventures in the West, including a hold-up of a stage-coach in which Jim is rushing $100,000.00 in gold to the Bank of California, and the pursuit of the bandits in a high-powered automobile, he returns to New York, and learns that his partner, Dick, has ruined the firm by gambling in Wall Street. Thrill follows thrill in this great Warner's Feature, woven into a story that can be readily followed.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The Charity Ball" is an unforgettable play. It has always been cordially received at the Castle Square, and it will be greeted with an unusually emphatic welcome next week after an absence of several seasons. It is a play of the early days of David Belasco's first successes as a playwright, and it tells a vigorously romantic tale of social life in New York. The characters and scenes are of the present day, and comedy and drama are mingled judiciously and with no little dramatic feeling. In Mr. Craig's production of "The Charity Ball" the leading roles will be acted by Mr. Carleton, Mr. Walker, Mr. Ormonde, Mr. Meek, Miss Shirley, Miss Colcord and Miss Olsson.

CORT THEATRE.

Kitty Gordon and her merry associates are now in the second week of their engagement at the Cort Theatre and from present indications it looks as though this merry comedy, with its dozen song numbers that are as tuneful to the ear as anything heard in Boston in the past several seasons, had settled down for a long stay in our midst. In this latest starring vehicle of Miss Gordon's she may safely be described as gorgeous, thought that sounds commonplace when one notes the sublimely glorious way in which she moves through the performance. "Pretty Mrs. Smith" is really a bright farce set to tuneful and lilting melody. In addition to Miss Gordon who now seems to be at the zenith of all her glorious beauty, Oliver Morosco has given his latest success an ideal supporting company. Matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays at 2.10 and night performances at 8.10.

BOSTON THEATRE.

"In Old Kentucky" will be presented on an elaborate scale at the Boston Theatre, beginning on Monday evening, March 30th. In no city in the United States has this favorite American play been given with greater success than in Boston, where its many prosperous engagements at the big Boston Theatre made a name and a fame for the play throughout all New England. Its characters are real, living personages and they find a place in one's memory. The Julep-loving Colonel, Madge (the mountain heroine,) dear Aunt Alathea, the villian Holton, the moonshiner Joe Lorey, faithful old Uncle Neb and the pickaninnies, all are recalled with genuine pleasure by any one who has ever witnessed a performance of the play.

The story thrills and glows and stirs. It has fun and childish gayety, and a stageful of real little pickaninnies from Dixieland, who sing, dance and render spirited music as a complete brass band. It has an exciting horse race, a terrific combat in the Kentucky hills between rivals for the hand of winsome Madge Brierly; it shows Madge, in jockey attire (later in the play) riding to victory, in place of a disqualified jockey, the favorite "Queen Bess," owned by the man with whom Madge has fallen in love. Probably, in all the range of modern stage fiction, there is no more lovable heroine than Madge Brierly. A fine company has been assembled to present the play again on the Boston Theatre stage. The services of that able character actor, John W. Cope, have been secured to play the part of the "Colonel", through arrangement with David Belasco. Miss Maude Parker will be seen in the role of Madge Brierly. During the Boston Theatre engagement of "In Old Kentucky" four matinees will be given weekly, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

ALFRED NOYES.

At his last apearance in Boston, scheduled for Tuesday evening, March 31, at Tremont Temple, Boston Alfred Noyes, the eminent English poet, will read by special request "The Wine Press" and other poems. On his tour, covering 23 states and 64 cities and lecture centres, Mr. Noyes has been asked to read "The Wine Press" over half a hundred times. The honorary committee in charge of the meeting to be held here on Tuesday week is headed by William Dean Howells. Among the other names on the list are the Hon. Curtis Guild, Mr. Ellery Sedgwick, Thomas Russell Sullivan, President Pendleton of Wellesley, Judge Robert Grant, William Roscoe Thayer, Professor L. B. R. Briggs, the Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham, Edwin D. Mead, Professor Barrett Wendell, the Rev. S. M. Crothers, the Rev. Father van Allen, Mrs. James T. Fields, Professor William H. Schofield and Mr. Arlo Bates.

DAVID COPPERFIELD.

The third week of the engagement of "David Copperfield" begins Monday at Tremont Temple, Boston. This wonderful photo adaptation of Charles Dicken's famous novel, is presented in seven parts and includes many of the important scenes described in the book. In fact a great many of the views presented were photographed in the identical parts of England where the story of the book is laid. The principal parts are played by a cast of capable English actors. Mme. Claire Dorva, the Parisian coloratura soprano, who appears as an added attraction rendered an entirely new program of operatic gems. Her voice is very pleasing and unusually high in range, reaching F above high C with little difficulty. The attraction is well worth seeing both from a literary and musical point of view. There are daily matinees at a popular scale of prices. Friday evening performances are omitted.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

The fact that on Monday "Under Cover," enters upon the fifteenth week of its engagement, at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, ought to prove of great interest to New England playgoers. To miss this play is the regret of a lifetime. "Under Cover" is the work of Roi Cooper Megrue, who has cleverly constructed a play concerning smuggling and the upper social set of New York's society. It rings throughout with many bright, breezy and snappy dialogues and is filled with love, mystery and thrills. In short it is a vital, vigorous American play that may be witnessed by any member of the family. The play sets you on a high nervous tension from the very start and you are pleasantly relieved under the most unexpectedly surprising finish. Matinees Thursday and Saturday matinees are given. Friday afternoon April 3rd. Selwyn & Co., will produce for the first time on any stage, "The Force," a new play by A. E. Thomas, author of "The Rainbow," and other big successes. Mr. Selwyn decided, upon accepting the piece, to submit it to New England playgoers, because of the gratifying patronage and liberal success of "Under Cover." The piece, is in four acts and presents an interesting study of police and politics. The cast has been selected from the "Within the Law" and "Under Cover" companies and will include Jane Cowl, William Courtenay, Margaret Wycherly, Orme Caldara, De Witt Jennings, William B. Mack, William Norton and others.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

"A girl cannot be paid at the rate of $7.00 a week and dress at the rate of $1.00 without getting the extra five from somewhere," opined the Rev. Dr. Chas. H. Parkhurst, in a recent editorial, written as a result of a visit to the Eltinge Theatre, New York, where the eminent clergyman saw and was greatly impressed by "Within the Law." Bayard Veiller's melodrama of modern conditions in New York life. Dr. Parkhursts editorial was published in the New York Evening Journal and contained more than one paragraph of scathing denunciation addressed to the great employers of department stores who underpay their shop-girls and thus drive them into various kinds of temptations. "These proprietors," declares the clergyman, "instead of interesting themselves in the girl's behalf, squeeze their wages down to the lowest figure and let them go to the devil for enough more to keep themselves out of the poorhouse or the grave." "Within the Law" tells the story of a New York shop-girl employed in a department store at a pitiful wage. "Mary Turner" unjustly accused of theft, seeks revenge after her release from prison by consorting with a gang of "crooks" and preying upon society. Mary is a girl of superior intelligence and so she is wise enough to keep "Within the Law," How she obtains revenge upon the hard-hearted employer makes up the interest of the four-act play, which presents many amusing and strongly drawn characters besides that of "Mary Turner." Matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

Not since "Over Night" was staged at the Shubert has there been such an emphatic hit as was scored last Monday by "Little Miss Brown," which is from the same pen as "Over Night." Its second week starts March 30th, and it seems certain that it will be there for many weeks to come. "Little Miss Brown" is typically American in its humor and its situations. William A. Brady, the producer, has given it a remarkably clever cast of farceurs, with scenic sets comprising three acts and five scenes. In brief, the story concerns Little Miss Brown impersonatel by Madge Kennedy who reaches the city late at night in the expectation of finding her financee at the station to meet her. A confusion of dates in a telegram accounts for his failure to appear. A pickpocket steals her purse and she is left with nothing but a suitcase and the obvious necessity of finding a place to sleep. Hotel clerks refused to admit an unescorted girl, with no money and so little baggage. Hungry, tired and discouraged, she is at her wits end when a kindly telephone girl advises her to register as a married woman who expects her husband to join her the next day. It so happens that at this hotel a Mr. Dennison has reserved a suite for himself and his wife. They were expected to arrive separately and the porter mistakes Miss Brown for Mrs. Dennison. Dennison reaches the hotel later, learns that his wife is ahead of him and has retired. Complications arise but the fun is clean, fast and plentiful.

In the Paddock "Madge" and "Queen Bess" Scene from "IN OLD KENTUCKY" which comes to the Bos ton Theatre for four weeks beginning Monday. March 30.

EXECUTOR'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executor of the will of Edward Southworth, late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, deceased, testate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

THOMAS J. EMERY, Executor
(Address)
1145 Old South Building,
Boston, Mass.
March 19, 1914 3t Mar. 20-27 Apr. 3

MY SLOGAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.

Will you help me do this?

F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

Penniman's Garage

And Taxi Service

Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.

C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of John Garmory late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Mary Garmory of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the state, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-fifth day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCoole, Register.
3t Mar. 27 April 3-6

EXECUTORS NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executor of the will of Margaret Emma Hudson late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, testate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

ADELBERT L. HUDSON,
Executor.
(Address)
Care of Fowers & Hall, 101 Milk street, Boston Mass.
March 26, 1914.
3t Mar. 27 April 3-10

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 8, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.35 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.40 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 5.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 6.50 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 6.15 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 8.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.10 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.15, 6.46 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 5.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight. Sundays, 7.20, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street, 5.45 6.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 12.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset via Washington—5.03, 6.35, 7.03 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 1.03 P. M. then 11.30, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.03 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.35, 6.55, 7.25, A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.25 P. M. then 11.42 P. M. and 12.12 midnight. Sundays, 7.25 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.30, 5.55, 6.25 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sundays 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 7.00 P. M.

THOMAS GAMMON,
Superintendent.

FOUND IN THE SNOW

A Rescue and a Romance

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Dell Pearson faced her father across the library table. Her face was pale and resolute, and her eyes shone strangely.

"Father," she said firmly, "you cannot make me marry Hugo Forest against my will. I am of age, and even if Cousin Fortescue did leave me $500,000 with the understanding that I was to marry the son of his old friend I would forfeit the money rather than marry a man whom I do not love!"

"Bravo, my dear!" smiled her father approvingly. "While $500,000 is not to be sneezed at in these mercenary days, still I'd rather have my girl marry a man who, though penniless, has very much the making of a man in him than a good for nothing gilded fool. Of course Fortescue has hinted that which ever one of the two beneficiaries under his singular will declines to marry the other, according to his stipulations, that one will forfeit his money."

"I am glad that my refusal to marry Mr. Forest will not affect his enjoyment of his $500,000," Dell sighed relievedly.

Mr. Pearson smiled dryly. His finger tapped an open letter under his hand.

"Your feelings are very creditable, my dear, and I am sure that young Forest would appreciate your position, only"— He hesitated such a long time that Dell became impatient and prompted him.

"Only?"

"Only, you see, Hugo Forest refuses to sell himself for $500,000. He expresses himself very delicately. You may read his letter, my dear."

"Well, it is settled, then, daddy. And I am glad that you are worth a few millions yourself so that I am not causing you any distress by going my own sweet way."

Mr. Pearson looked at her keenly.

"And if I told you that my millions had dwindled to a bare hundred thousand in the last year, daughter?" he questioned gravely.

Dell gasped faintly.

"Daddy Pearson—that changes the matter entirely—if you need it in your business"— She suddenly faltered and blushed and hid her face on his shoulder. "If you need it I could marry him, father, but not unless you do."

"I wouldn't have you furnish me with money in that manner," said James Pearson, smoothing back the fair hair from her broad forehead and looking deep into her true, blue eyes. "We can get along without the Fortescue money. And, besides, we forget that Master Forest has declined the honor!"

Della blushed scarlet.

"Of course! How stupid of me! Well, the incident is closed. And if evil times have fallen on the business, daddy, please tell me how to economize."

"I've thought it over. We must lop off all the motorcars save the limousine and your runabout. We must close up the house and lease it for a year, furnished, while I make that business trip abroad. When I return we will stop at a hotel until the year is up. Cousin Madeline will be glad to come on and chaperon you. I'd like to take you abroad with me, but I'll confess it would add mightily to my expenses."

"Don't mind; I've decided in an instant what to do with myself during your absence."

"And what is that, Miss Independence?" asked Pearson, kissing her pink ear.

"I'm going to Big Horn to pay a long promised visit to the Appletons."

* * * * * * *

Big Horn was a large town in Alberta, and the Appletons, who were Canadians and old friends of the Pearsons, welcomed Dell into the large family with a cordiality that brought tears to the girl's eyes.

"Now that winter is coming on you will enjoy all our snow sports," promised Alice as she lingered in Dell's room before going to bed that first night. "We have a fine slide beyond the pine forest. Father had it built. It's a mile and a half to the bottom. Wait until we have another heavy snowfall and a good freeze after it!"

"I can wait," laughed Dell, snuggling under the eiderdown comfortables.

But when snow came the very next day she could hardly wait for Alice to finish her music lesson and give her a first lesson on walking with snowshoes.

So Dell, who was adventurous, put on the pretty white tobogganing costume of white angora which she had provided, tossed a white fox stole about her throat and, swinging snowshoes over her shoulder, set forth in the midst of the snowstorm.

When she was out of sight of the house, where no one could observe her ridiculous maneuvers, she slipped on the broad shoes and made her way on the crust of new snow among the pine trees back of the house.

The sport was fascinating. Dell quite forgot the lapse of time. The location was strange, and she took no heed and presently she took a wrong turning, lost her bearings and came to an open tract of unbroken snow bordered on three sides by forest.

"I'll cross this field to the trees, and then I'll go home. Alice will be surprised to find how well I have learned by myself," thought Dell proudly as she skimmed over the snow with all an amateur's heedless enjoyment of the treacherous snowshoes.

Before she reached the forest the ground inclined sharply to a deep gully. Dell was upon the brink before she realized the danger. Then it was too late. Her shoe caught in a half covered root, and she plunged down to the bottom of the gully, where she lay unconscious while the snow drifted silently over her like a pale blanket.

* * * * * * *

At dusk the Appleton home was in a frenzy of excitement. They had been searching for Dell Pearson for four hours, and no sign of her had been discovered. Mr. Appleton had telephoned to the mounted police and asked for assistance, and a searching party had set forth to look for the lost girl.

The little file of mounted policemen trailed out of the avenue and separated. The troopers, under orders from their captain, rode down to distant points on the road with the intention of beating back through the forest. Of course there was a limit to the distance the girl might have traveled, and the captain had taken this into consideration. For himself he had chosen the piece of snow covered country across which Dell had skimmed so blithely on her new snowshoes.

And so it was the captain of them all who came tearing up the avenue and into the Appleton home with a silent white burden in his strong arms. He had applied restoratives as soon as he discovered the girl, and she had opened her eyes upon him once and smiled drowsily before trying to resume her slumber.

Dell was revived, and before the captain departed Mr. Appleton insisted that he come to dinner the next evening.

He accepted the invitation, and it was not until he had departed that the Appletons looked at one another and laughed.

"We don't even know his name," they cried. "But he'll come all right," added young Tom Appleton sagely. "He's struck all of a heap with Dell. Any one could see that with half an eye! Jove, but he's a big chap! They say he's brave and has no end of medals."

The next evening Dell was well enough to come down to dinner, and it was with a faint stirring of interest that she awaited the coming of the captain who had found her in the snow. She remembered a dark, strong face bending above her own, and she had felt a strange confidence in him as he picked her up in his strong arms with a murmured word of pity and carried her home.

Dell was alone in the room when Mr. Appleton came in from the library, where he had been entertaining the captain since his arrival. Dell in her white evening gown looked very lovely as she arose and held out her hand to her rescuer. He appeared more of a giant than ever in his well fitting evening clothes, and she wondered a little as Mr. Appleton made the introduction.

"Dell, let me present Captain Forest. Captain, I am sure Miss Pearson will want to thank you for saving her life."

"Captain — Forest?" faltered Dell wondering.

"And—Dell Pearson? Is it possible you are James Pearson's daughter?" asked the amazed policeman.

"Yes—and—oh, dear, but it's very amusing," bubbled Dell.

"Permit me to say that it's not amusing to me. It's a serious matter," corrected the captain. "I—I hope you didn't see that letter I wrote to your father."

"I did," admitted Dell as he came and sat beside her on the sofa, "and I want to tell you how much father and I liked the letter."

Captain Forest frowned and bit his lip.

"It was a hard letter to write," he said at last, "but if—if I had known you first—well, pardon me, Miss Pearson, but I must tell you the rest another time."

Dell's heart was fluttering curiously. The remainder of the party had entered the room, and they were waiting the summons to dinner. There was a bustle of arrival in the hall and presently James Pearson was announced.

When the confusion of his greeting was over he explained that for business reasons he had been obliged to postpone his trip for another month, and he had come to join his daughter among the Canadian snows.

It was after dinner, while the men of the party were on their way to join the ladies in the drawing room, when Captain Forest laid a hand on Mr. Pearson's sleeve.

"Pardon me, sir," he said with his quiet smile, "I am wondering if I may retract the terms of the letter I sent to you."

"Why?" asked Pearson with Yankee directness.

"Because I've changed my mind," returned Forest.

"And you desire to marry for the Fortescue fortune?" rapped out Pearson with a twinkle in his eyes.

"Not exactly, sir. I wish to marry for love, and I'm afraid I'm going to get tangled up in that money after all," admitted the captain, "if I should be successful in my wooing."

"Ah!" smiled Pearson understandingly, for he had read their telltale eyes across the dinner table.

So it happened that the terms of the Fortescue will were carried out to the letter in spite of the fact that the interested parties married for love alone. And in addition James Pearson gained a son, such a son as he had always yearned for, and Dell won the man of her dreams, and Forest himself took to his manly heart his ideal woman whom he had found in the snow.

DRIVEN BACK TWENTY MILES

Villa Suffers Severe Repulse at Hands of Federals.

TRYING TO RETRIEVE DEFEAT

Troops Under Velasco Cut In Between Rebel Leader and Benavide's Men, Leaving Them In Desperate Plight —Fears That They May Become Disheartened and Give Up Struggle

El Paso, Tex., March 27.—Late dispatches from El Vergil by the way of Juarez give detailed and thrilling accounts of Villa's desperate plight and his mad effort to retrieve the defeat at Torreon and save the shattered remnants of his army.

Villa, his army divided, and he himself, with a third of his troops, defeated once, made a desperate and bloody effort to regain Gomez Palacio, the little railroad junction across the Nazas river from Torreon. The outcome is still in doubt.

Villa won that place at the cost of many of his best soldiers, only to be driven back again. Now he is staking his ambition on its recapture with such forces as were left under his immediate command when the regulars from Mexico City cut in between him and Benavides.

Benavides, with two-thirds of the rebel forces, is across the river, hammering at the defenses of Torreon itself, which show no disposition to yield. The forces with him must win or be utterly crushed.

Should they be forced to retreat two courses are open to them. They must either take to the open country on the east, with no supplies available and no means of holding themselves intact, or ford the river under the raking fire of the federal machine guns.

They are said not to know that their chief, with a third of their comrades, was dislodged from Gomez Palacio and driven back twenty miles. They must, however, be aware that heavy firing is now going on in that suburb of Torreon, and Villa went into battle fearful that Benavides' men, when they learned what had happened to him, would become disheartened and give up their struggle.

In this crisis, when ill-fortune is pressing him so hard, Villa's personal spirit remains uncrushed. However severe may have been the check his army has received in battle, Villa, the man, is still unbeaten.

General Velasco and his victorious troops, the machine guns and artillery of Torreon, barbed wire impediments, muddy morasses and death stand between the gigantic, unwhipped fighter and Torreon.

From the standpoint of the military strategist, Villa has been woefully outpointed.

HAD MANY VICTIMS

"De Luxe" Edition Book Agents Are Given Stiff Sentences to Prison

Boston, March 27.—Stiff sentences were administered to Samuel Rosenfield, Glen Farmer and James T. Clarke, members of the band of "de luxe" edition book agents who trimmed New Englanders out of more than $100,000, after the jury had found them guilty of larceny from customers.

Rosenfield was sentenced to serve from six to eight years in state prison, Farmer was given from three to five years in state prison and Clarke got two years in the house of correction. Pleas for mercy were made to Judge Chase of the Suffolk superior court before he imposed sentence.

BUT $9.11 DAILY SALES

Chicago's Municipal Store For the Needy Proves a Failure

Chicago, March 27.—Chicago's municipal store where the needy were to purchase supplies at cost has done a daily average business of $9.11 since it opened on Feb. 19. Advocates of the enterprise admit that it has not filled any long-felt want.

The store does not deliver goods; and a rigid investigation is made of each prospective customer.

Only persons out of work and not owners of any property are eligible as customers.

CANNOT STAY IN DENVER

Altitude Too High For Constitution of Judge Lindsey's Wife

Denver, March 27.—Mrs. Ben B. Lindsey, wife of Denver's juvenile court judge, must leave Denver. This is the decree of her physicians.

Mrs. Lindsey has been under medical treatment virtually since her arrival here as the bride of Lindsey. The altitude is too high for her constitution. The physicians have prescribed that she must go to the Pacific coast.

Hub Mayor Slashes More Salaries

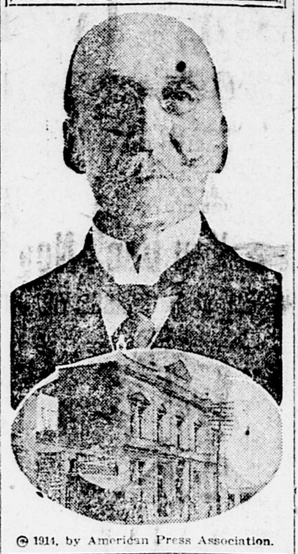
Boston, March 27.—A cut of $200 a year in the salaries of thirteen members of City Treasurer Slattery's staff, and a reduction of $100 for one other, was announced by Mayor Curley.

Still Fighting In Hayti

Cape Haitien, March 27.—Fighting is almost continuous between the government troops and rebels. The rebels are on the defensive.

JOSE ROJAS

Leading Huerta Aid and Torreon Postoffice



© 1914, by American Press Association.

EDDY ESTATE SETTLED

Sum of $2,590,632 Turned Over to Trustees by Administrator

Concord, N. H., March 27.—Josiah E. Fernald, administrator of the estate of Mary B. G. Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church, completed the settlement of his account in the probate court.

Fernald turned over the sum of $2,590,632 to the trustees appointed to administer the trust created under the will. He also made a final payment of $9892 on account of the inheritance tax, making the total paid to the state $118,582.

During Fernald's administration the estate has been taxable in Concord. Hereafter Concord will get only one-sixth, while Brookline, Mass., the residence of most of the trustees, will get the remainder of the taxes.

VETO ON PACIFIC 'PHONE MONOPOLY

Independent Companies Are Safeguarded by Court

Portland, Ore., March 27.—A decree by which competition in long distance telephone business in the Pacific coast states is restored and an illegal combination in violation of the Sherman law is dissolved was entered in the United States court in the government suit against the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company and the Pacific States Telephone and Telegraph company, known as the Bell company.

The decree enlarges and intensifies the independent telephone situation and surrounds it with safeguards provided by law.

HUSBANDS NOT CITIZENS

Two Suffrage Leaders Find They Are Deprived of the Vote

Greenwich, Conn., March 27.—Mrs. Ernest T. Seton and Mrs. Herman Pauli, two suffrage leaders of Connecticut and New York, have just discovered that after years of work for the suffrage cause they are aliens.

Both married foreigners who have never become naturalized; thus they have lost by their marriage any suffrage rights that might have accrued to them if votes for women were won.

Seton, the author, has lived in this country many years, but remains a British subject, having been born in Canada. Mrs. Seton is a native of California.

LAWRENCE MILL TROUBLES

Agent Will Meet Strikers In Effort to Smooth Things Over

Lawrence, Mass., March 27.—In answer to a summons served by Sheriff Abbott, Walter E. Parker, agent of the Pacific mills of this city, appeared before the state board of conciliation and arbitration.

Parker agreed with the members of the state board at the conference which was considering the two weeks' strike at the mills to meet a committee of four strikers this afternoon and make an effort to bring the strike to an end.

SCHOONER LOST AT SEA

Captain and Five Men of the Hattie P. Simpson Are Drowned

Washington, March 27.—Loss at sea of the American schooner Hattie P. Simpson of Boston, with her captain and five other members of the crew, was reported to the navy department.

The news came in a relayed wireless message from the steamship Caracas, which has on board three survivors of the schooner.

Celluloid articles can be mended with a cement made by dissolving bits of celluloid in acetone. It takes only a few minutes to make the cement, which is applied like glue, the broken edges are pressed together, and in fifteen minutes the cement is hard

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS — CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING — WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ..

TO LET

TO LET—Five rooms and bath, opposite Merry Mount Park, modern improvements. Also 6 room tenement, Brackett street. Apply 883 Hancock street. 26-3t

TO LET—Five room lower flat, all improvements, new house, ready April 15th situated 41 and 43 Bradford street. Apply to W. L. Saunders 146 Franklin street. 26-tf

TO LET—Furnished rooms with or without board. Mrs. F. Wrigley, 18 Washington street corner Coddington. 26-6t

TO LET—On Spear street, first floor 4 rooms, bath, furnace, set tubs, gas and set range. J. A. Weeden, Room 10, Greenleaf Block. 26-3t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street, A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 26-12t

TO LET—Sunny apartment of six rooms and bath, set range, all modern improvements, 4 minutes to station. Excellent location. Rent $22. Apply to O. P. Lindberg, 160 Elm street, Quincy. 25-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 25-6t

TO LET—After May 7th, house of seven rooms and bathroom. All modern improvements. Rent $30. Apply any time at Mrs. Elizabeth C. Follett's, 105 Putnam street. 23-6t

TO LET—Large pleasant sunny room. Near restaurants and R. R. station. Apply at 1187 Hancock street. 21-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-18t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath. Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Single house, 8 rooms, steam heat. Ready Feb. 1st. Apply to C. H. Penniman, 104 Washington street corner Wibird street. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 28 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 Office 563-M

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY AND EVERYONE IN QUINCY.

LOST

LOST—Between Kincaide's Theatre and Emanuel's store; a mesh bag containing sum of money. Finder please return to Kincaide's Theatre office and receive reward. 23-6t

WANTED

WANTED—Painters. Apply to John F. Anderson, 159 Whitwell street. 27-1t

WANTED— Stenographer. Apply to Norfolk Iron Co., Norfolk Downs, near station. 25-4t

WANTED—Position as companion, or housekeeper by young American widow. Competent to take full charge. Best of reference. Widower or business people. Write R. M. Ledger Office. 26-3t

WANTED—Position as housekeeper or care of invalid. Reference and experience. Write L. M. Ledger Office. 26-3t

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 4 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy. Res. 22-tf

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block—2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust.
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES

20 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.

MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar, Tel. Quincy 131-W.

Read Ledger Advs.

FOR SALE

BARGAIN IN BRAINTREE.

30 good building lots on car line, 5 min. walk from depot; town water and gas; must be sold at once to settle an estate. For further particulars apply to A. L. GAVIN, 125 School street, Braintree; tel. Braintree 189-W. 23-3t 23-25-27

FOR SALE—A flat top office desk, a bookkeeper's desk, six office chairs, drawing table and a foot power jig saw. Apply 65 Willard street. 26-6t

FOR SALE—Cabin boat 23 ft. by 8 ft. beam, sails and power. Complete inventory. R. C. Loud, 21 Gannat road, Adams Shore. 25-6t

FOR SALE—A $300 piano slightly used will sell cheap for cash. (Terms if desired.) Johnsen Music Co., 6 Chestnut street across from Bethany church, Quincy. 24-6t

FOR SALE—A good second hand range, good baker in good condition. Apply at 90 Washington street, Quincy. 24-6t

FOR SALE—Good black loam, delivered anywhere in Quincy. Apply at Penniman Garage, Phone 207 or J. P. Flanagan 518M. Sand and gravel for sale. March 21-6t

FOR SALE OR TO LET— New house, two tenements five rooms each, all improvements. Situated on Hayward street, East Braintree. Completed April 15. Apply to W. L. Saunders, 146 Franklin street, Quincy. 21-tf

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

BUSINESS SITE

Progressive business men will do well to buy this prominent corner. It is without question the most valuable business spot in our city.

Full particulars of
EDMUND G. HAYDEN
Tel. 1877-M Quincy, Representing
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
129 Tremont St., Boston,
March 25-tf

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 895 M. Nov. 11-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX

are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c
THURS., FRI., SAT.
Program Subject to Change
First 3 Reels of the
"PERILS OF PAULINE"
Great $25,000 Story running in the Sunday American. Read it, and see the Pictures here Weekly
4 FLYING VALENTINES
Novelty Casting Act
QUEER & QUAINT
Singing and Talking Entertainers
HARRY BATCHELDOR
The Musical Rube
LASKY'S ELOPING
Scenic Novelty Skit
"FATTY'S FLIRTATION"
A Screaming Comedy
PROTECTIN SAN FRANCISCO
FROM FIRE
A mighty interesting Picture
KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

Mar. 25—3t

NEWSY BRIEFS

Many squires, dames and damsels of ye olden days will entertain in song and story at the "Olde Folkes' concerte" next Monday evening in the Wollaston Methodist church.

Rt. Rev. Samuel G. Babcock, Suffragan Bishop of Massachusetts officiated at the midweek Lenten services in St. Chrysotom's Episcopal church on Thursday evening. The services were well attended.

Modern dances prevailed at the third of a series of private parties being conducted in Alpha hall on Thursday night and 40 couples were in attendance The affair was a grand success socially, among those present being some of the best known people of the city. The matrons were Mrs. Annie Betts and Mrs. Fred Drake. Ices were served until adjournment at midnight.

Quincy circle of Lady Moose held another of their successful whist parties in Electa hall Thursday night and 20 tables were in play. The scores were high and the winners were: Mrs. William Norrie, Mrs. Herbert Selden, Mrs. Nettie Lewis, Albert J. Williams. Theodore Gagnon, George Mark. Stephen M. Menemy . Another is planned in the immediate future.

President John Donahue and Past President Daniel Mannex of Div. 5, A. O. H., have issued a call to all Hibernians in this city to meet in Hibernian hall Sunday afternoon to arrange a Memorial Sunday to be dedicated to deceased members. The organizations included are Div. 5, and Auxiliaries 8 and 10 of Quincy, Div. 17 of Atlantic, Div. 4 and 22 and Auxiliaries 19 and 23 of West Quincy.

Div. 5, A. O. H. voted Wednesday night to attend holy communion in a body at St. John's church Sunday Sunday morning. The preliminary arrangements were made for the society to participate in the exercises at the dedication of the memorial to be erected to the Irish emigrants who perished off the Cohasset coast which will take place at Cohasset on Memorial Day. The memorial is being cut at the granite yard of Patrick Tangney and is rapidly nearing completion.

The Missionary Society of the Wollaston Methodist church had a most enjoyable afternoon at their meeting this week. Mrs. George F. Washburn, president of Boston District. W. F. M.S was guest of honor and speaker. Mrs. F. G. Bennett contributed piano selections and Mrs Orville Estes sang two solos which were much enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served and with Mrs. W. C. Sanders and Mrs. G. H. Morgan presiding at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. T. N Lane and Miss Helena Euerle.

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy. Feb. 27-tf

PAGAENT OF TREES

(Continued from Page One.)

esy they are presented to the host and hostess.

Notes from the harpischord begin to sound and the couples join in the graceful and dignified minuet with all the courtliness of the period.

The Dorothy Q maidens enter led by Miss Ruth Jones in the title part. With their flowered walking sticks, gay bonnets and overdresses they perform the dainty evolutions of the dance.

Enter two hay makers from the fields who trot through the steps of a rustic jig. Then follows the ceremonious leave taking of the assembled company.

CIVIL WAR ERA.

The Civil War era with the liberty tree is the theme of the fifth episode. On come the Civil War dames in their quaint costumes. "Johnny comes marching home" and soon the dames are enveloped in the arms of their "boys in blue."

To the tune of "Pop goes the weasel" they step through the lively dance. The bugle calls. There is an affectionate and hasty leave taking and to the strains of "The girl I left behind me" the weeping damsels wave their heroes back to the front.

A patriotic pantomine introducing the "Star spangled banner" brought the episode to a close.

PALE FACE ERA.

Episode the sixth was the pale face era, represented by the maple. As Chicatawbut gazes he sees the birds driven further and further by the onward march of the white men.

The episode was introduced by a dance of the winds the young ladies in flowing costumes with rippling veils upon which colored lights were thrown, made a beautiful picture of motion.

Mrs. Anna Eastman Frost was leader of the winds and the wind sprites were Muriel Badger, Carolyn Lewis, Helen Seavey and Blanche Holman.

Enter the hunters with their taut bows. They dance a woodland step and exit on the chase.

On fly the swallows led by Miss Constance Fryer gracefully sailing hither and thither over the stage. The hunters appear and away they fly.

As the hunters dance the swallows steal their bows and the hunters are obliged to flee before their prey. A graceful solo dance is performed by Miss Fryer and the swallows flit away.

Enter the soldier boys in stalwart companies attired in rough rider uniforms and with a salute to the flag and the strains of "America" the episode ends. This feature was performed by the Wollaston Boy Scouts under the leadership of George Brown.

Enter once more the Godess of the trees with an epilogue addressed to the cedar importuning it to 'Help Quincy keeps its ancient fame and hold "Manet" rooted in each breast.'

Appears the Heart of the cedar in the person of Mrs. Frost in flowing gown. With measured step and rhythmic motion she ushers the characters of the pageant in final review before the eyes of Chief Chicatawbut.

Beginning with the Goddess of the tree and ending with the soldier boys the cast passed across the stage to the thundererous applause of the audience.

As the last one disappeared the "Heart of the cedar" swept into another graceful dance and the pageant was over. A pretty effect of the dance was the throwing of flowers to the audience.

THE STAGE SETTING.

The stage setting for the pageant was a woodland scene with all varieties of trees and foliage depicted. On each side of the stage stood a massive rock. The lack of other decorations left ample space for the movement of the large cast.

The originator and director of the dances was Mrs. Anna Eastman Frost. Responsible for the idea and largely responsible for the success of the pageant was Mrs. Edward J. Badger.

She was assisted by Miss Florence G. Olney, Mrs. Percy Davidson, Miss Maria Weston, Mrs. George E. Rundlett, Mrs. Albert G. Olney, Miss Hattie Turner, Mrs. Charles R. Safford, Mrs. Harrison Loud.

Music was furnished by the Tempo club: Director, Miss Ethel Raymond, pianist, Miss Hazel Clark, violin, Mr. Harold W. Raymond, flute, Miss Doris White, cellist.

Following is the cast of of characters:—

The Goddess of the Tree—Mrs. A. D. Ropes.

The Heart of the Cedar—Mrs. Anna Eastman Frost.

Pan—Muriel Badger.

Nymphs—Charlotte Barstow, Hildegarde Ducey, Ruth Epes, Ruth Jones, Barbara Johnson, Edna Chapman, Helen Moulton, Elizabeth Sayward, Margaret Reed, Lucy Waite, Anna Weston, Priscilla White.

Mermaids—Dorothy Brokaw, Ruth Bruce, Katherine Follett.

Traders and Indians—Brandt Lupton, Harry Titus, Mr. Kinneburg, chief and the Hodenesaunee lodge of Red men.

Lassies in the Beaver Jackets—Marcia Adams, Katherine Adams, May Blake, Lydia Keyes, Gretchen Horst, Helen Richards, Dorothy Sprague.

Myles Standish—Arthur Raymond.

John Morton,—Charles B. Hall.

Anne Hutchinson—Mrs. Percy L. Davidson.

Puritans—Mrs. Charles B. Hall, Mrs. George Fleming, Mrs. Harry Titus Mrs. Charles Roache, Mrs. Myrton Vye Miss Annie Flieger, Miss Gladys Flieger, Mrs. H. Y. Follett, Edward Bullock, Arthur Bullock, C. P. Foss, Miss Marion Rand, Stuart B. Walther, Harold Neal, Mrs. Frank Rawson.

Revolutionary Period—Mr. and Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Oldham, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Geddes, Mr. and Mrs. Axel G. Nelson. Mrs. Roy Baker, Mrs. Charles Sayward, Mrs. Clifton Baker, Wm. Smith, Mrs. Oscar Baker, Mrs. Charles W. Estes, Mrs. Emmerson.

Dance of the Winds—Mrs. Anna E. Frost, Marion Johnson, Muriel Badger, Caroline Lewis, Helen Seavey, Blanche Holman, Miss Thomas.

Dorothy Q. Dance—Ruth Jones, Caroline Lewis, Elinor Jones, Priscilla White, Barbara Johnson, Muriel Badger.

Civil War Period—Mrs. Charles Brooks, Miss Edith Chapman, Mrs. Fred J. Ricker, Mr. and Mrs. Rood, Mr. and Mrs. Payson, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gilliatt, Miss Ruth Hardy, James Cahill, Leslie Smith, Robert Merritt, Mr. Chapman.

The Swallows—Constance Fryer, Leader, Emily Parry, Betty Savage, Florence Weeks, Bernadine Barker, Gladys Paine, Eleanor Birse, Dorothy Vye, Elizabeth Trumper, Frances Brown, Edna Snow, Myra Harriman, Frances Adams, Virginia Follett, Dorothy Rawson, Arline Holmes, Verna Carr, Edna Campbell, Priscilla Streeter, Marjorie Johnson, Judith Page, Helen Alden.

The Hunters—Donald Blake, Donald Bennett, Philip Mooers, Hale Waite, Lawrence Shaw, Roland Shaw, Wallace Trumper.

Other committees contributing to the success of the affair were:

Costume committee—Mrs. Albert Waite, Mrs. R. F. Trumper, Mrs. Arthur W. Rohn, Mrs. F. L. Rawson, Mrs. Charles H. Brooks.

Stage committee—Mr. and Mrs. Rohn, Mrs. N. G. Nickerson, Mrs. W. E. Rowe.

Publicity committee—Miss Hattie Turner, Miss F. G. Olney, Mrs. Davidson.

Electricians—Roy Baker and Percy L. Davidson.

REBEKAHS GAINING.

The Reliance Rebekah lodge which recently moved from Neponset to Wollaston. continues to make rapid gains in membership. Thursday evening sixteen were initiated in the presence of a large number representing Quincy and Milton as well as Wollaston. April 9 the lodge will observe its 20th anniversary and initiate twelve more candidates. Much of the success is due to Mrs. Campbell the noble grand. and Mrs. Maud Luke, the conductor. Mrs. Sadie Wood of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge and Past Grand Frank W. Flowers were among the guests on Thursday evening.

INSPECTOR OF MILK
NOTICE

Quincy, March 27, 1914.

Because of the apparent misunderstanding as to the enforcement of regulation 65 it was not intended that the provisions of this regulation be enforced immediately; but a period of sixty (60) days will be allowed from this date for all milk dealers to comply with the following:—

Regulation 65—No person or corporation shall sell or offer, expose or keep for sale in any shop, store or other place, milk or cream, unless the same is sold or offered, exposed or kept for sale in tightly closed or capped bottles or receptacles. Nothing contained herein shall prevent the sale of milk or cream from cans, crocks, coolers or other receptacles in restaurants, hotels, barrooms, or at soda fountains when milk or cream is to be consumed on the premises by guests or patrons ordering the same. Whoever violates any provision of any kind of this regulation shall be punished by a fine of not less than $25 or more than $100 for each offense.

DANIEL SCOULER, Jr.
Inspector of Milk.
7-6t

QUINCY. BOSTON. MALDEN. PROVIDENCE. PAWTUCKET. MANCHESTER.

JOYCE BROS. & CO. JOYCE BROS. & CO. JOYCE BROS. & CO.

Our Twenty-Fifth Anniversary Sale
1889--of Stylish Spring and Easter Clothes--1914

For men, women and children starts tomorrow. We will celebrate our 25TH COMMERCIAL BIRTHDAY BY OFFERING to the people the greatest array of UNPARALLELED BARGAINS in reliable, STYLISH APPAREL that has ever been our privilege to submit. We want to show our appreciation for the unstinted confidence and support of the people who, DURING THE PAST QUARTER OF A CENTURY have enabled us TO BUILD UP THE GREATEST CHAIN OF SUCCESSFUL RETAIL STORES of any HOUSE IN OUR LINE IN NEW ENGLAND. We intend to make THIS SALE A NEW RECORD-BREAKING EVENT FOR VALUE-GIVING THAT WILL carry our name and our values into thousands of New England homes. We invite you to our BIRTHDAY SALE and BARGAIN FEAST with every assurance that you will be amply repaid.

You Don't Need to Pay Cash for Your Spring and Easter Clothing

We will gladly CHARGE YOUR PURCHASES, and you may pay for them in easy partial payments as you earn the money

LADIES' STYLISH SUITS

In fine serge. garbardine. crepe. poplin, fancy checks and Bedford cord. Made by skilled tailors in the latest accepted styles and colors. Why not save $3.00 to $8.00 on your Spring suit?

$12.50, $16.98, $18.50 up to $40.00

LADIES' DRESSES

New stylish Spring dresses in messaline, charmeuse, crepe de chine, serge, poplin and crepe meteor. Colors king blue, apple green, navy, copenhagen, tango and golden brown. Styles the latest. Priced from

$6.98, $9.98, $12.50 up to $35.00

NEW SPRING COATS

Stylish coats for ladies and misses in eponge. Bedford cord, crepe. serge, honeycomb fabrics, etc. All the latest models, including the popular English Balmacaan in gray and brown mixtures.

$7.98, $12.50, $16.50 up to $25.00

GIRLS' COATS

Ages 4 to 14. Nobby, stylish Spring coats for girls in all the new shades and latest styles. Materials serge, crepe, poplin and fancy mixtures. All colors.

$1.98, $2.50, $4.98, up to $10.00

MEN'S SPRING SUITS

This department is now replete with stylish Spring suits for men and represents the best products of the country's best manufacturers. Our prices are the lowest obtainable for equally good merchandise.

$9.98, $12.50, $14.98 up to $30.00

YOUNG MEN'S SUITS

Our line of young men's Spring suits is particularly attractive. Stylish, snappy models in new, handsome fabrics and popular colors, gray. tans, browns and blues.

$7.98, $12.50, $14.98 up to $24.00

MEN'S OVERCOATS

We show a splendid assortment of stylish Spring overcoats in worsteds, vicuna, cheviots and gray and brown mixtures in the new stunning Balmacaan. Fit, tailoring and price right.

$9.98, $12.50, $16.50 up to $24.00

BOYS' SUITS

Well made, dignified, handsome suits for boys are what we show in this department. Made from stylish, sturdy fabrics in Russian, Norfolk, sailor and double-breasted models.

$2.98, $3.50, $4.98 up to $10.00

LADIES' WAISTS
We exhibit a fine assortment of waists in various materials and designs; cotton, linen, embroidered voile, silk chiffon, messaline, etc. Plain and fancy trimmed.
98c to $15

WE ARE COMPLETE OUTFITTERS FOR MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD

Joyce Bros. & Co.

HAVE YOUR PURCHASES CHARGED

13 and 15 GRANITE STREET, QUINCY

STYLISH MILLINERY
We show the dictates of fashion and taste in Millinery for Ladies, Misses and Girls. Our assortment is most complete, meeting every requirement and fancy.
$1.98 to $18

JOYCE BROS. & CO. JOYCE BROS. & CO. JOYCE BROS. & CO.

March 27—Apr 1

NEW TELEPHONES.

Following are the subscribers connected with the Quincy exchange for the week ending March 25.

878W Jefferson, Ruel O., Elm av.
1920 Gilbert, John, Elm av.
862W Greer, Alexander, Upland rd.
866M Birse, A. N., Beale st.
1221M Berman, John, Grafton st.
2237W Dill R. V., Fayette st.
1273M Henault, L. A., N. Central av.
1776W Farrell, Fred N., Ocean st.
1216W Drohan, Joseph, Copeland st.
1031W Jackson, G. H. Mrs., Eddy st.
1223W Nash, Clement B. Poplar st.
1199M Nelson and Olson, Bellevue rd.
1274W Bradford, S. M. Norfolk st.
1275M MacCarey, Aubrey C., Marion st.
2234M O'Toole O. H., Dayton st.
248M Batcheider, H. E., Farrington st.
338W Yacobucci R., Dayton st.

DIXIE SOCIAL.

The second anniversary of the Dixie Social club was celebrated at the clubrooms Thursday evening. The club rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion.

After a few selections on the new piano, which was installed lately, refreshments were served. Frederick Carson officiated as toastmaster.. The Rocky Hill quartet rendered a few selections. Guests were present from Quincy, Weymouth and Neponset. The success was due to the committee George Sullivan, George Curtis and Albert Tinney.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—not made by guess-work, but by a scientific formula. Leading grocers sell it.

Too Late For Classification

LOST—Baby's white dress, also gold pin, set with blue stone, between Beale street and Norfolk Downs. Reward. Mrs. I. F. Mandell, 230 Everett street, Wollaston. 27-3t

BIRTHS

FREEMAN—In Braintree, March 23, a daughter to Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Roy Freeman of West street.

HATHORNE—In Quincy, March 26, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hathorne of Edwards street.

DEATHS

BUCKINGHAM—In Quincy, March 25, M. Anna wife of John D. Buckingham.
Funeral services at late home 36 Whitney road, Saturday March 28 at 11 A. M. 26-2t

JONES—In Quincy, March 27, Griffith Jones of 227 Granite street, aged 50 years.

ANGIER—In Braintree, March 27, Mrs. Azalia Angier, in her 74th year.

HASTINGS— In South Weymouth, March 26, Captain Charles W. Hastings aged 83 years, 2 months and 7 days.

MARSHALL—In Boston, March 26, Dr. Julia A. Marshall of Brockton, aged 74 years.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

M. MIRKIN Upholsterer
Is the one who will give you the full satisfaction in work and prices of repairing furniture, mattresses and cushions. 1060 Hancock St., near the Quincy High School Tel. con.

MAINE POTATOES
25c PECK
—AT—
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

THE BOARD
—OF—
Park Commissioners
Invite Managers and Captains of Base Ball teams to meet them in the Council Chambers,
WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 1,
At 8 O'clock
to select dates and issue permits for the Ball Fields.
Park Board,
I. M. WHITTEMORE,
Chairman
March 25-1t

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, City Square
Tel. Quincy 1715 W. March 16-1m

KEEP AHEAD
OF THE FLY AND YOUR NEIGHBOR BY HAVING YOUR SCREENS
RECOVERED OR PAINTED
NOW
HOLMES & HALL
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

FURNITURE REPAIRED
Re-finished---Re-upholstered
Our shop has the men and materials to turn out first class work. And it does. We guarantee satisfaction. Prices are reasonable. Estimates Free.
'Phone 1200.
KINCAIDE FURNITURE STORE, 1495 HANCOCK ST., QUINCY
March 23-m.w.f.-tf

MANCHESTER.
& CO.
Sale
s--1914
people the greatest array how our appreciation for BUILD UP THE GREAT-THIS SALE A NEW
gland homes. We invite othing ou earn the money
STYLISH MILLINERY
We show the dictates of fashion and taste in Millinery for Ladies, Misses and Girls. Our assortment is most complete, meeting every requirement and fancy.
$1.98 to $18
A CO.
March 27—Apr 1
E BOARD
— OF — ommissioners
agers and Captains of teams to meet them
cil Chambers,
AY EVENING, APRIL 1,
8 O'clock
ates and issue permits Fields,
ard,
. WHITTEMORE,
Chairman
March 25-1t
cial and Scalp Massage
RE, CHIROPODY.
rders a specialty.
E. M. KENNEY
ambers, City Square
1745 W. March 16-12t
P AHEAD
FLY AND YOUR BOR BY HAVING UR CREENS
ERED OR PAINTED
NOW
MES & HALL
HANCOCK ST.
QUINCY 1696 W

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Average Sworn Circulation, 2,756 Copies Daily — Over 12,000 Readers

Vol. 29 No. 74 QUINCY, MASS SATURDAY EVENING MARCH 28 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

BROAD SHORE DRIVE QUINCY TO BOSTON

Mayor Curley of Boston to Give a Hearing to The Public Next Week Tuesday

Favors A Location to The East of The Railroad

Mayor Curley favors a relocation for the Metropolitan shore boulevard from Boston to Quincy to connect the Columbia road boulevard and the Quincy Shore reservation, evidently to the east of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. as advocated by the Daily Ledger. The location means much to Quincy which will probably be assessed for the cost and maintenance.

A Boston paper says: Mayor Curley, as a result of a communication received from the Metropolitan Park Commission, has decided to call a meeting in the old Aldermanic chamber at 3 P. M. Tuesday, to which will be invited the City Council, Commissioner Rourke of the Public Works Department and the public generally for the purpose of discussing and agreeing upon a route for the shore boulevard, to cost $475,000, and which, according to plans submitted by the commission, will run from a point near Columbia road and the tracks of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., to a point near Neponset Bridge, and thence to the Quincy Shore Reservation.

Preliminary land takings have been made by the Metropolitan Commission and now before further work is done the approval of the Mayor and the City Council is required, and the 60 days allowed for that, after the first land taking, will end April 18, when, if the approval is not given, the whole project will fall through.

The Mayor said that he heartily approves of the project, but would like to have the route so changed as to include in the land takings Tenean Beach and Savin Hill Playground. His reason for this is that he believes that Tenean Beach should be under the control of the Metropolitan Park Commission.

In regard to the boulevard itself, the Mayor said that it would be a splendid thing as it would give a broad shore drive into Quincy, besides abating a number of nuisances now existing to the danger of the public health.

As Memorial church is to observe the Lord's Supper and reception of members Good Friday evening it is expected the men's club will put off its service until the 17th.

☞PRATT'S BREAD is baked for those who want good bread. Grocers sell it.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL
Sat. Mat. and Night

JAMES J. CORBETT in a 4 Reel Feature
"The Man From The Golden West"
Thrilling and Exciting.
Keystone Comedy. A Healthy Neighborhood,
3 Reel Feature, Back to Life, 8 Reel Show.
250 Seats at Night 10c.

March 26-3t

BUSY SESSION IS PROMISED

Important Matters for Special Council Meeting

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening. The adjournment to Monday evening was largely for the drawing of jurors although it will give the Council an opportunity to discuss the annual appropriation order and pass it, if desired. There is also in the calendar another important matter, namely the annual street watering order.

Reports may also be expected from committees as several have met since the last Council meeting.

One of the things in which there is considerable interest that will come up will be the opinion of the City Solicitor relative to the powers of the School Committee and the Mayor. This will come in the form of an answer to the resolution of Councilman Ericson, asking what authority the Mayor had to change the budget of the School department as submitted by them.

Heretofore the rule has been for the school budget to go direct to the Council but under the new law of 1913 the Mayor, evidently with the advice of his Solicitor, ruled that the budget this year must be submitted to the Council through the Mayor just the same as every other department of the city. The law of 1913 like most long laws is capable of different interpretations.

TALK ON PERSONAL PURITY.

About 75 boys responded to the invitations issued to them to hear Dr. Seerley of the Springfield College talk on "Personal Purity" at the High school last night. Dr. Seerly gave a straight from the shoulder talk which made such an impression on the boys present that they asked him to speak again tonight, which he consented to do. Tonights meeting will be held at the Y. M. C. A. hall and all boys over 15 years of age are invited to attend this lecture.

HOUSE DAMAGED $400 BY FIRE

Early Morning Blaze in Moreton T. Swallow Home

The alarm from Box 226 at 6.49 this morning was for a lively blaze in the house of Moreton T. Swallow on Geffe street and before it was extinguished had done a damage of upwards of $400. Th fire started from some unknown cause in the laundry room on the first floor and when discovered was burning fiercely.

Mrs. Swallow was the first to discover the fire, being awakened by smoke. Mr. Swallow ran down stairs and opening the kitchen door was confronted with a thick volume of smoke. He immediately telephoned Central Fire Station and when Chief Billings arrived with the at to chemical flames were shooting through the windows of the room. One of the firemen was sent to the box to sound the alarm which brought in addition to the apparatus at the Central Station the apparatus from Wollaston and Atlantic.

Lines of hose were laid and the fire was confined to the laundry room although the smoke penetrated nearly every room in the house and caused considerable damage. The firemen made a good stop in preventing the fire from communicating to any of the other rooms although as noted above the smoke penetrated nearly every room.

Just what caused the fire is unknown. Mr. Swallow thinks crossed wires may have caused it while others think that it may have been caused by oily rags. Chief Billings said this morning that some men had been at work in the laundry room and it is possible that matches left in their clothing might have caused the fire.

FAIL TO REACH AGREEMENT

Even Police Unable to Entangle Family Argument

The police received word Friday afternoon that a robbery had been committed at 14 Revere road and thinking that a "catch" might be made through quick action Inspector Goodhue and Officer Broberg were sent from headquarters in the auto. On their arrival they found that Mr. and Mrs. Enrico DiAngelis, occupants of the house disagreed as to the cause for the loss of a watch, a week ago.

The wife said it had been lost and the husband was inclined to believe that another occupant had taken it. Some one suggested that the police be called and on their arrival they explained the situation, but failed to come to an agreement. The matter is now unsettled.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

INSPECTOR OF MILK NOTICE

Quincy, March 27, 1914.

Because of the apparent misunderstanding as to the enforcement of regulation 65 it was not intended that the provisions of this regulation be enforced immediately; but a period of sixty (60) days will be allowed from this date for all milk dealers to comply with the following:—

Regulation 65—No person or corporation shall sell or offer, expose or keep for sale in any shop, store or other place, milk or cream, unless the same is sold or offered, exposed or kept for sale in tightly closed or capped bottles or receptacles. Nothing contained herein shall prevent the sale of milk or cream from cans, crocks, coolers or other receptacles in restaurants, hotels, barrooms, or at soda fountains when milk or cream is to be consumed on the premises by guests or patrons ordering the same. Whoever violates any provision of any kind of this regulation shall be punished by a fine of not less than $25 or more than $100 for each offense.

DANIEL SCOULER, Jr.
Inspector of Milk.
7-6t

LAST OF THE MEN'S MEETINGS

Dr. Seerley to Speak on Personal Purity--Good Music

The seventh and last meeting of the series being conducted by the Y. M. C. A. will be held Sunday afternoon in Kincaide Theatre at 3.30 o'clock.

The old saying "The best for the last" seems to be what the Association is providing for the men tomorrow. The meeting will truly be a feast of music and vital food for thought. It will be for men only, and no boys under 14 will be admitted.

Promptly at 3 P. M. the doors will open and five minutes later will begin a half hour concert by the University City Bell Singers. This trio of talented artists play piano, violin, 'cello and Swiss hand bells, and are as strong an attraction as any vaudevile act. In fact they really excell most of the acts in vaudeville, and they play twice as long, too. So, Mr. Man, be on hand early and enjoy every number of their concert program.

DR. SEERLEY.

At 3.30 there will be a short spirited song service after which F. M. Seerley, M. D. of Springfield, will talk to men on "Personal Purity." Dr. Seerley is perhaps better fitted by medical training and wide experience to talk to men on this vitally important subject than any man in New England. In fact, he is recognized all over America as an authority on this subject. The men of Quincy have indeed a great privilege to hear Dr. Seerley.

Several Sundays ago a double male quartet sang with such success that men have been talking about it ever since. That same double quartet with James White, soloist, will be on hand tomorrow and their singing alone is well worth coming clear from Hingham to hear. So you who live nearer surely ought to be around. Bring every man in sight along with you. The seats are all free, admission free, and there's a big welcome for every man at this last great meeting of the present series.

SPIRITUALISM

Sixty-six Anniversary of Modern Spiritualism to be held Sunday March 29 in Electa Hall, Johnson Building. Addresses on the Philosophy Messages Demonstrating Phenomena.

At 2.30 P. M. Rev. Louis J. Richards of Stoughton Universalist church will speak on "The Contributions of Spiritualism to Religion."

At 7 P. M. Rev. William G. Brett, Supt. Workingmen's Home, Boston, will speak on "Spiritualism." There will be other speakers, message bearers, inspirational reader, soloists, and pianist. 28-1t

Members of Court John Adams No. 144 F. of A.

Will meet at Clan MacGregor Hall, on Sunday, March 29, at one forty-five P. M., to attend funeral of our late brother Griffiths Jones from his residence 272 A Granite Street.

Members will wear badges and white gloves.

JAMES CONWAY, S. C. R.
March 28-1t

QUINCY LODGE, NO. 413. L. O. O. M.

Members are hereby notified of the death of Bro. Griffith T. Jones, of 272A Granite street. Funeral from his late residence, Sunday afternoon, at 2.30. All members are requested to attend.

JAMES A. DALEY, Dictator.
E. J. FEGAN, Secretary.
28-1t

QUINCY ENTHUSIASTIC OVER PI ETA SHOW

"A Bug in a Rug" Has a Large Audience of Society People of the City

Paul Blackmur One of The Most Prominent In Cast

The Pi Eta theatricals of 1914 were greeted by a large and enthusiastic audience at Quincy Music hall last night, one of the most appreciative of any the Harvard University boys have received this season. It was the sixth performance of "A Bug in a Rug" which is the unique title of this year's musical which has been well received in Cambridge, Andover and Boston and will be seen tonight at Exeter, N. H.

The prominence of Paul Blackmur, '15, of this city, increased greatly the local interest in the performance. Not only was he one of the two authors of the play but he had one of the leading parts in the cast, sang several solos, and gave exhibitions of the new dances which were encored. Richard Z. Crane, '17, of Quincy, was one of the show girls and a good one, too. E. M. Ellsworth, well known in this city, is also a member.

Sixteen men were in the cast of characters, there were also six in the pony ballet, six show girls and six chorus men, seventeen in all taking girls' parts. They were lovely girls, too, the cast of characters being:

Hills, U. S. Consul, A. W. Poole '14
Hors de Combat, Secretary to Consul, W. E. Wellington '17
Julius Woodrow Napoleon Finney, Valet, W. Faulkner '14
Hamilton Dyke, American rug agent, J. F. Fuller '15
Prince Nicomede, Prince of Ucalaly, P. Blackmur '15
Princess Maami, Daughter of Sultan, R. H. Allen '14
Sultan, R. B. Whidden '15
Venus Snow, S. B. Hoar '15
Diana Snow, twins, W. D. Foote '15
Grace Dyke, sister to Hamilton Dyke, J. J. Armstrong '14
Lion, J. B. Camp '15
Alina, Maami's maid, A. R. Boynton '14
Captain of guards, S. L. Simonds '14
Two slaves, G. L. Elken '15, H. W. Schroeder '15

Pony Ballet—W. P. Fay, '15, G. W. F. Hoehn, '14, E. H. Marrett, '14, H. T. Nickerson, 1G.B., H. L. Reycroft, '15, and H. H. Ripley, Jr., '14.

Show Girls—C. G. Browne, sG.B., R. Z. Crane, '17, F. B. Davis, '15, P. S. Davison, '16, S. F. Haines, '15, and E. A. Manning, '16.

Chorus Men—J. C. Bennett, '15, J. O. Beebe, '16, A. N. Colton, '16, J. R. Lincoln, '14, M. C. Patten, uC., and J. Wooldredge, '16.

The scene was laid in the Orient, the first act in the Royal Garden outside the castle at Ucalaly and the second act in the court yard of the Sultan's palace. The Princess Maami dropped the information that she was educated at the Quincy Mansion school.

The music was charming and melodious, sometimes a bit evasive as to tonality, but thoroughly spontaneous, and in at least a few instances quite distinguished—as in the opening theme of the dance used with the song "Modern Dances." "Conventionality," "Any Ragtime Tune," "My Own American Girl," and the "Finale" to the second act are much above the average.

Finney, the valet, and Camp as a lion, added variety and Paul Blackmur showed up well as a comedian with Finney and Hors de Combat. But everybody in the cast was good, and it was a great show.

The pony ballet, show girls and "other girls" in the cast were richly gowned and there were good exhibitions of dancing and many pretty stage scenes.

The large orchestra under the direction of Lloyd G. DelCastillo, '14, contributed much to the pleasure of the evening:

Over 100 well known Quincy ladies were among the patronesses and the performance was given under the auspices of the Quincy Tennis club, being more successful than usual.

M. MIRKIN Upholsterer

Is the one who will give you the full satisfaction in work and prices of repairing furniture, mattresses and cushions. 1060 Hancock St., near the Quincy High School Tel. con.

MRS. S. M. MILLER
Announces a
MILLINERY OPENING
At her home 44 Pearl Street
THURSDAY, FRIDAY and SATURDAY AFTERNOONS
APRIL 2, 3, and 4
Also on Evenings of the 2d, and 3d
Tel. 1937-W. March 28-3t--28-1-2

TRADE AT

THE NEW Adams Market
CITY SQUARE
'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE FOY STORES
Open Friday till 9 P. M.
Saturday until 10

THE OLD WaterSt. Market
QUINCY ADAMS
'Phone Quincy 117

Good Things to Eat In Abundance

Just come and see what a wonderful variety of good things to eat these up-to-date food shops are showing. Everything Fresh and good in Groceries, Meats, Fruits, Vegetables, Dairy and Bakery Products are here ready to be served you promptly. And you can't beat our prices, quality considered.

AT ADAMS MARKET
SATURDAY ONLY
1 Doz. DOUGHNUTS FREE
With a large, 28 ounce Package of PRISCILLA PREPARED DOUGHNUT FLOUR 25c

MEATS! MEATS!

Just take a look in our big refrigerators if you want to see the pick of the market's meat offerings. The cleanliness of the place is appetizing.

RIB ROAST BEEF 18c lb
Fifth Rib—real good eating

RIB STEAK ROAST 22c lb
All meat—not bone or fat

SIRLOIN TIP ROAST 25c lb

CALIFORNIA ASPARAGUS 35c
Large Double Bunches

CHOICE RIPE TOMATOES 15c lb

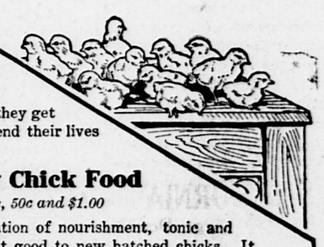
STRAWBERRIES 35c
Large Boxes of Beautiful Berries

Spinach and Dandelions, String Beans, Lettuce, Celery, Cucumbers, Radishes, Etc.

Delicious Juicy ORANGES
FANCY FLORIDA'S 23c doz
CAL. NAVELS 20c doz
LARGE JUICY "SUNKIST" LEMONS 23c doz

Fesh from the roaster QUALITY COFFEE 33c lb. PEEK'S TEA just arrived
March 27-2t

When Chicks Come



keep them. On the care they get the first three weeks depend their lives and your profits.

Pratts Baby Chick Food
25c, 50c and $1.00

is just the right combination of nourishment, tonic and conditioner to do the most good to new hatched chicks. It makes for rapid, sturdy growth and protects from bowel trouble and other diseases waiting to attack weaklings. No other food is as well suited to start the babies right.

Lester Tompkins, Concord, Mass., the Rhode Island Red King, writes: "I cannot say too much in favor of Pratts Baby Chick Food for baby chicks. I have just got to feeling I must have it when I have little chicks coming along, as they take such a start and the weakly ones brace up and seem to be as strong as the rest. You can certainly quote me as recommending it for baby chicks."

Pratts White Diarrhea Remedy
25c and 50c

kills the germs of this costly common profit killer. It saved millions of little lives last year. Refuse substitutes; insist on Pratts.

Satisfaction Guaranteed or Money Back
Get Pratts 160 page Poultry Book

214

A. J. Richards & Son, C. W. & G. W. Nightingale Nathan Ai E. H. Doble & Co., and Grain Dealers and General Stores everywhere. 4190.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889.

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

THE SCHOOL CONTROVERSY.

The controversy going on as to the right of the Mayor to cut $2000 off the amount figured by the School Committee as necessary to run the schools this year is attracting considerable attention. His Honor says he is friendly to the schools, but the School Board claim that reducing their appropriations must result in impairing the efficiency of the schools, and that they should be allowed every dollar which they asked in view of the fact that their estimates are based on close figuring.

There is no doubt that under the law the School Committee can run the schools regardless of the appropriation and leave the bills to be paid by the city, but they don't want to do business in that way. As the chairman stated at Wollaston Tuesday evening, they want to have harmonious relations with the City Council and the Executive. Such relations cannot long exist if proper respect is not shown for the judgment of the School Committee.

Last year the City Council appropriated less than was asked and the amount expended exceeded the appropriation by $702.98. There was enough realized from tuition and renting school halls, however, to make up the deficit and the School Committee had an unexpended balance of $6.80. Were it not for the fact, however, that several teachers resigned and several were ill, their places being taken by substitutes at lower compensation, the schools would have run short of funds and the children would not have received what they were entitled to.

The people of Quincy will insist on the public schools being saved from political influences. They will continue to expect the School Board to exercise every economy consistent with efficiency. They will also rebuke any interference with the administration of the schools, whether it take the form of cutting down the appropriations or any other form. The work of the schools is so important, not only to Quincy, but also to the Nation, that we cannot permit them to be handicapped or crippled. The sooner public sentiment is understood regarding this question the better for all concerned.

TERSE LINES ON ADVERTISING

One of the nation's most able advertisers gives his views upon advertising in the following paragraphs:

I believe in newspaper advertising because it gives the widest possible distribution to the product.

It links you up with your dealer and your dealer with you.

It gives the consumer a guarantee of quality. Advertised goods can generally be depended upon.

It keeps your trade name or trademark constantly before your possible buyers and your customers—they don't have a chance to forget you.

It has been the means of profitably exploiting hundreds of new lines of merchandise in a remarkably short space of time.

To my mind, advertising, if truthful and persistent, and if backed up by a fulfillment of all claims and statements made, is a wise and profitable investment.

The man who is afraid to advertise, or whose products cannot stand the test of wide publicity, better not do it. But the man who has confidence in himself, in his house and in his goods, and the ability and facilities for widely distributing his products, will find advertising a great force in building up a large and profitable turnover.

HOLDS NEARLY ALL TORREON

Rebel General Enters the City With Four Thousand Men

STORY OF TERRIBLE FIGHTING

Great Carnage In Four Days' Battle Which Results In Villa Driving Federal Forces From Gomez Palacio—Dead and Wounded Piled In Streets After Furious Attack

Juarez, Mex., March 28.—A telegram from General Villa says that practically all of Torreon, including the entire business section, is in the hands of the rebels.

General Herrera, at the head of 4000 men, is said to have entered the city from the east, instead of the north, as at first reported, and to have fought his way through the streets to the bull ring on the northern edge of the city.

A second telegram from Villa amended the first, to show that the federals were concentrated in their last defenses in the western portion of the city. Rebel officials here say that if the federals do not hold their position there, they must inevitably be captured.

Villa was said to be preparing to renew the assault.

The same telegram says that federal Generals Pena, Reyna and Anaya have been killed and General Ocaranza seriously wounded.

WORD PICTURE OF BATTLE

Story of Terrible Conflict Told by Newspaper Correspondent

Gomez Palacio, Mex., March 28.—Four days of fighting, including three desperate assaults by rebels, were crowned when General Villa moved into this city and established his headquarters within three miles of Torreon.

The final and deciding assault was preceded by a bombardment, after which the infantry and cavalry dashed into the streets.

Rifles, machetes, pistols and hand grenades were used in a hundred different encounters in the narrow thoroughfares. The grenades, of home manufacture, were lighted with the cigarets which are an unofficial part of the equipment of every Mexican soldier.

Villa does yet know his own loss, except that it was heavy. The wounded suffered terribly from thirst, and many died because of lack of water and surgical attention.

The dead of both sides were mingled in the streets or found huddled under the piles of earth which had once been adobe houses or corrals, wrecked by rebel shells.

Veterans say that no more furious battle ever was fought in Mexico. It was a delirium. Villa did not stop to mourn his losses, but with characteristic energy began preparations to move on Torreon.

The newspaper correspondents were permitted to enter the city with Villa. Everywhere rebel soldiers were engaged in rescuing the injured and taking them to the railroad.

The day was hot and the air fairly smelt of stale blood. Those with flesh wounds disdained to desert, and many a soldier limping from a wound in the leg, or with one arm supported in a bloodstained bandage, was seen among the stretcher bearers.

Villa's first assault in force took place Tuesday. There was a comparatively small number of federals in the city, and premature reports of victory were sent out. Soon, however, the federals received reinforcements, and, in the desperate fighting which followed, the rebels had rather the worst of it, and Villa withdrew.

The next day General Angeles, the artillery commander, shelled the city all day and part of the night. Villa had learned that the federal commander, General Velasco, had concentrated his forces in the town and was himself in the trenches inspiring his men to do their duty; and the rebel leaders, under cover of the bombardment, concentrated every available man for a fresh assault.

This was delivered Wednesday night, but it was not decisive, although the rebels held the stone roundhouse and a few other natural defenses in the outskirts of the city.

Thursday night the third and final assault was delivered. Villa, grimy with dust and sweat, a red bandanna handkerchief about his neck, participated. He rode up and down the lines, swearing and cheering, cursing and calling on the saints. At times he apparently was calm and again he was furious. Through it all he urged his men forward, and all seemed to realize that the attack was the last one. Human flesh could stand no more of the heat, the thirst and hunger, and the cruel scenes which followed one another until the whole picture was a confused blur of blood and fire, where men in their dying agonies whined for water or cried out uncanny vivas.

On the way into the city from El Varjel, and particularly in the streets of the town itself, Villa was constantly called on to return the salutes of the wounded.

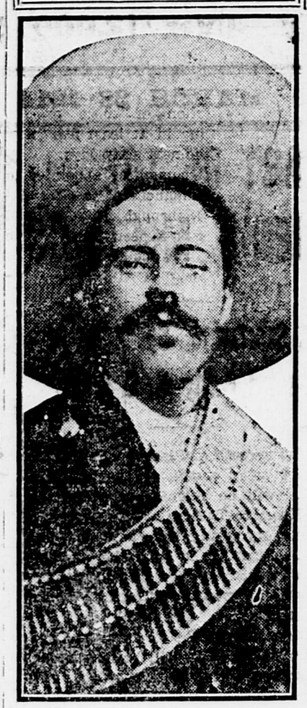
Some of these were limping, not to the rear, but to the front, to catch up with their comrades. Some of them, already placed on hospital trains, escaped and returned to their commands. Others, regaining consciousness as they were being borne away in litters, promptly cursed their would-be rescuers and tumbled out, joining the scattered procession following in the train of the general.

"Viva Villa! Viva Madero! Viva el Constitution!" they cried in cracked voices from parched throats.

The remarkable endurance of these peons and their mad obsession to return to the front greatly impressed the Americans in the train of General Villa. There were men in that strange procession with deep gashes across their cheeks, men with great masses of flesh torn from their backs or thighs, in uniforms literally soaked in blood; with arms and legs torn and lacerated, and blood matted hair pasted over their eyes.

FRANCISCO VILLA

Newest Picture of Rebel General Ready For Battle



© 1914, by American Press Association.

ROOSEVELT BEYOND REACH FOR MONTH

Is Now Traversing Territory Never Explored Before

Rio Janeiro, March 28.—Theodore Roosevelt and his exploration party are still proceeding down the Duvieda river to Manaos, Brazil, according to advices received here from Colonel Rondon, the representative of the Brazilian government with the expedition.

The dispatch said the territory being traversed had never before been explored, and that it was unlikely the party would again be heard from for a month.

Another section of the expedition, commanded by Leo E. Miller, naturalist of the American Museum of Natural History, will undertake a descent of the Parana river. The section through which this party will pass is well peopled and has telegraphic communication.

WON'T RETURN TO MEXICO

Carden May Sail Direct to His Post as Minister to Brazil

London, March 28.—Sir Lionel Carden, British minister to Mexico, cancelled his booking on board the Mauretania, on which he was to sail from Liverpool today for New York on his return to Mexico City. It is understood he may go direct to Rio de Janeiro to take up his post as minister to Brazil, instead of returning to Mexico.

The only statement the foreign office would authorize was that Carden's passage to New York has been cancelled, and that no date had been fixed for his return to Mexico City.

Thinks Woman Jurors Necessary

Washington, March 28.—Mrs. John B. Henderson, prominent social leader in the capital, declared that women jurors are needed to offset the tears of fair defendants in blackmail cases. She made the proposal as a new argument for equal suffrage.

Eighteen Drown In Wreck

Brisbane, Aus., March 28.—Eighteen men and women were drowned when the French steamer St. Paul struck the rocks while entering the harbor and sank in deep water.

Empress Dowager of Japan Ill

Tokio, March 28.—Great concern is expressed here for the empress dowager, who is suffering from heart trouble.

Takes Long Jump to Death

New York, March 28.—Robert M. Friedman, a civil engineer, ended his life by jumping from the circular stairway on the twenty-fourth floor of the new municipal building. He had been out of work.

NEWSY BRIEFS

Miss Martha Jenkins is very ill at her home on Billings street.

The store at the corner of Atlantic and Squantum streets has been reopened under new management.

Mr. and Mrs. George Colburn of Ocean street are moving to Freeman street.

The alarm from Box 138 Friday afternoon was for a slight fire in the kitchen of the house at 136 Liberty street.

Miss Nichols of Cambridge, a district junior league superintendent is to speak Sunday evening at the Junior League meeting at the Atlantic M. E. church. Miss Bunker will also speak.

Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson will continue Sunday morning his series of sermons on "The Great affirmations of Unitarian Faith," the special theme being "Faith in Humanity."

The many friends of Mrs. H. L. Nash will be sorry to learn that she is confined to her home on Upland road, having met with an accident on Wednesday.

Rev. Samuel Raymond Maxwell of Greenfield has been called to the Second church of Boston. The First Parish church of Quincy a few years ago considered calling Mr. Maxwell.

Frank Leavitt, Jr., of Ocean street and Alton Westhaver of Conant road are arranging a party, the proceeds of which will be used to help increase the fund to buy elephants for Franklin Park Zoo.

Wednesday afternoon the Squantum Women's Club meets at the home of Mrs. S. H. Adams, Park avenue. With this meeting the club resumes its two meetings a month; the first held in the afternoon and the second in the evening.

Wollaston correspondents of the Daily Ledger are requested to use the new direct mail to Quincy which closes at Wollaston at 9.15. Letters for this mail should be taken to the post office, and not deposited in the letter boxes, and when late should be left at the stamp window.

Atlantic and Squantum correspondents of the Daily Ledger are requested to use the new direct mail to Quincy which closes at Atlantic at 8.15. Letters for this mail should be taken to the post office and not deposited in the letter boxes, and when late should be left at the stamp window.

The Ladies Benevolent Society of Memorial church has planned an Easter sale to be held in the vestry April 8, Mrs. Harry W. Read and Mrs. M. F. Baker acting as joint chairmen. The ladies of the fancy and useful table had an all day sew Friday and meet two days for the same purpose next week.

An interesting lecture is to be given Sunday evening at the Park and Downs Congregational church by the pastor, Rev. William B. Ayers on "Our popular songs and their effect on our National life." Last Sunday evening this church at its evening service was packed and no doubt this Sunday evening will bring out an audience equally as large.

Epworth League of the Atlantic M. E. church gave its first social Tuesday evening. The vestry was well arranged for the occasion. Miss Ethel Dicy presided at the piano. Games were enjoyed and refreshments were served. These socials are to be held monthly and will be a pleasing factor in church life. Mrs. Thom had charge of the literary program, receiving much credit for its excellence.

The World's Confidence in any article intended to relieve the sufferings of humanity is not lightly won. There must be continued proof of value. But for three generations, and throughout the world, enduring and growing fame and favor have been accorded because they have proved to be the best corrective and preventive of disordered conditions of stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. The first dose gives quick relief and permanent improvement follows their systematic use. A trial will show why, in all homes, the use of Beecham's Pills

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Continues To Increase

Sold everywhere. In boxes 10c., 25c. The largest sale of any medicine. No one should neglect to read the directions with every box.

RIVADAVIA AND MORENO

Why Names Were Selected for Argentina Battleships

Although the battleship Argentina has been building in Quincy for two or three years, little is known why the name "Rivadavia" and Moreno were selected or the history of Argentina. The Monitor of Boston in a special article, says:

In order properly to understand and appreciate the activities and aspirations of any people it would seem necessary to know something about such a people's historic past. A nation like Argentina, for instance, illustrates through its political evolution how struggles for liberty, governmental and economic, have planted this South American republic on its present firm foundation.

It may not be common knowledge, but almost all of the republics to the south have formed their constitutions along the lines of the United States, No name is held in higher honor in Buenos Aires than that of Washington. United States history is taught in Argentina, and democracy is far removed from the autocratic rule that once gave Spain dominion in the southern latitude.

The George Washington of South America belongs to several nations. The 25th of May, 1810, is regarded the birthday of Argentine independence and Mariano Moreno, secretary of the revolutionary junta, is considered one of the pioneers in the war for freedom. But General Jose de San Martin comes upon the scene as the great liberator, and with him are linked such names as Manuel Belgrano and Martin Pueyrredon.

In 1826 Bernado Rivadavia was elected President of the Argentine confederation. Although a builder-up, Rivadavia was compelled to go to war with Brazil. As a result of this conflict Uruguay was made independent. A serious opposition developed to Rivadavia's plan for unifying the nation. Buenos Aires, as well as the provinces, protested. The President resigned and Vicente Lopez, a federalist succeeded him.

For the next two years Argentina suffered from political strife. Then Juan Manuel de Rosas made himself the master of the country. From 1829 to 1852 Rosas played the dictator to the full, and then his downfall came as a result of the blockade by the united French and English fleets.

Bartolome Mitre may be termed a Lincoln of Argentina. On him devolved the task of putting down a civil war of great dimensions. When elected President in 1861 he also succeeded in bridging the gap between the opposing factions. Disturbances in the provinces continued, but during his term he paved the way for the peaceful election of Dr. Domingo Faustino Sarmiento, whose conduct of affairs was broad-minded and upright.

From the time of Sarmiento to President Roque Saenz Pena, Argentine history was not without its ruffled surface. But the nation was established firmly and today this South American republic is a fine example of self-government. The public squares of Buenos Aires teem with monuments to the loyal sons who contributed toward making the country great.

DISTRICT COURT.

Fred Connors of East Braintree was fined $24 for having 24 smelts in his possession unlawfully.

Harry A. Hubbard pleaded nolo to a charge of violation of the auto laws at Milton and the case was placed on file on the payment of $20 costs.

100 BEAUTIFUL AND COLORED POST CARDS

Many are rich and rare pictures of BEAUTIFUL MODELS AND ACTRESSES
Also a Self-Filling
FOUNTAIN PEN
ALL for only 50 cents

The greatest bargain in beautiful cards and rare art pictures ever offered. Many are hard to obtain and have sold singly for the price we ask for all. These will go quickly to all lovers of the beautiful in nature who appreciate rare art pictures of well developed models.

A reliable self-filling fountain pen free with each order. These alone have sold for one dollar in stores.

The 100 beautiful cards and pen all for but 50 cents. Sent postpaid.

CENTRAL MANUFACTURING CO.
Dayton, Ohio.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

DO BUSINESS HERE AT HOME.

If you are a resident of Quincy, we suggest that you patronize the merchants of your home city. Why go to Boston for goods that can be bought handily and economically here? We stand for the interests of Quincy, and like the Quincy merchants we give our customers good value. For instance a safety deposit box in our vault for $5 a year that would cost you $10 in Boston.

THINK THIS OVER!
THINK OF YOUR HOME TOWN FIRST!

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER

Private Residences. Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

THE QUINCY GARAGE

87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

SIXTY SIX ANNIVERSARY.

The Spiritualists of Quincy are to observe the 66th anniversary of modern Spiritualism Sunday with services afternoon and evening at Electa hall, Johnson building.

The afternoon speaker will be Rev. Louis J. Richards, pastor of the Stoughton Universalist church subject, "The Contribution of Spiritualism to Religion."

In the evening Rev. William G. Brett, superintendent of the Workingmen's Home, 63 Warrenton street, Boston, and the Brett Farm Home for unfortunate girls, Avon will speak on, "Spiritualism." Others to assist will be E. P. Jones, M. D., Boston, former vice president Mass. State Spiritualist association, "My Idea of Spiritualism;" Russ H. Gilbert, Editor Stoughton News, "Historical Sketch of Modern Spiritualism" and reading of inspirational anniversary poem entitled, "To-Day" Arthur B. Shedd, Weymouth, reading of inspirational writings; Message Bearers, Miss Jeanette Peters, Boston; Miss Mabelle A. Leighton, Watertown; H. L. Berry, Quincy; Soloists, Mrs. A. W. Pierce, Quincy; Mrs. Lillian Gordon-Cambridge, Stoughton; Pianists, Miss Dalga Nelson; Mrs. H. L. Berry, Quincy.

EDWARD WHICHER.

Rev. Allan B. Hudson of Brockton a personal friend, officiated on Friday at the funeral of Edward Whicher at Rockland. Relatives and friends were present from Quincy, Falmouth and Rockland, including his adopted son, Louis Whicher of New York and his wife. South Shore commandery, K. T., sent a large maltese cross, and Rural lodge, A. F. & A. M. of Quincy a wreath. There were many other beautiful flowers. John Hall of Quincy was the funeral director, and the burial was at Mount Wollaston cemetery, Quincy.

CARPETS
Oriental Domestic RUGS
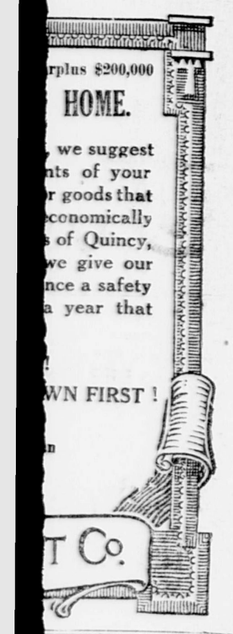
LINOLEUM
MATTINGS
AT LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES
John H. Pray & Sons Co.
646 Washington Street, Opp. Boylston Street

All Goods will be Delivered Free at Residences in Quincy
REPRESENTED IN QUINCY BY
Messrs. OTHO A. HAYWARD and WALTER J. WELLINGTON.



T and BUILDER
uildings of all kinds,
and built.
properly anticipate your ans will save you more
nd. A call will bring us
l. 581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf

ARAGE
QUINCY
CASE CARS on hand
k
Ford Car, $550 for
50 for Town Car
ll Quincy 435
C. P. COULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

mouth, reading of inspir-tings; Message Bearers, te Peters, Boston; Miss
Leighton, Watertown; H.
Quincy; Soloists, Mrs. A.
Quincy; Mrs. Lillian Gor-dge, Stoughton; Pianists, Nelson; Mrs. H. L. Berry,

WARD WHICHER.

n B. Hudson of Brockton friend, officiated on Friday al of Edward Whicher at Relatives and friends were Quincy, Falmouth and cluding his adopted son, er of New York and his Shore commandery, K.
ge maltese cross, and
A. F. & A. M. of Quincy
There were many other vers. John Hall of Quinfuneral director, and the t Mount Wollaston ceme-

TS
GS
UM
GS RICES
ons Co.
lston Street
idences in Quincy
R J. WELLINGTON.

In SOCIETY

Mrs. Richard R. Freeman of Grand View avenue has returned from Brooklyn, New York, where she has been since the middle of February, with her son-in-law and daughter Lieut. Chester W. Nimitz and Mrs. Nimitz.

• • •

The Henry S. Epes of Grand View avenue sail for Holland in May where Mr. Epes goes in the interests of the Holland Boat Co. They may be abroad several years or a few months as the business requires.

• • •

Mrs. Joseph Shackley and four sons and daughter Carrie of Brooklyn, New York are visiting relatives in West Quincy.

• • •

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Eben Stocker are sorry to learn that they have sold their home on Botolph street and leave New England for Victoria, B. C., where they will make their home near their son, Carl, who left here several years ago. Mr. Stocker has been one of the Quincy Tax Assessors for the past two years. They have been residents of Atlantic for the past twenty-five years and both leave a host of friends who wish them every good fortune.

• • •

Mrs. Christopher A. Wyatt of Taylor street who has been in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, D. C. for the past month returned the first of the week.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Holmes of 15 North Central avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Etta Helen and William H. Parker of Athol, Mass.

• • •

John LaTour of Sagamore street, spent the week end with his mother in Meriden, Conn.

• • •

The Harry L. Rices who have been spending a few weeks at Grenwold on Adams street are leaving the first of the week for their home in Dover, Mass.

• • •

Miss Edith L. Abbott of Ocean street entertained friends Monday evening. Games were enjoyed during the first part of the evening, in which souvenirs were awarded Miss Eldine Young, Miss Winnie Cole, Arthur Hall Miss Jordine Davison and Harry Burr. The young people then marched into the prettily decorated dining room, where refreshments consisting of punch, ice cream, cake, cookies and candy were served. Pretty favors each bearing the name of guest were found at every cover. Among those present were Misses Eldine Young, Winnie Cole, Thelma Holt, Hazel Davison, Pearl Keay, Essie Betts, Jordine Davison, Edith Abbott, Clifton Young, Alvin Mitchell, Harry Burr, Arthur Hall, William Cole, Howard Abbott and Herman Kay and Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. John Allan Campbell, nee Elsie B. Martin, who were married in January are at home to their friends after April first at Cochituate road, South Framingham.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Beede of Appleton street entertained the Evening club at their home Saturday evening Whist and other games were enjoyed during the evening and dainty refreshments were served.

• • •

Mrs. Horace M. Willard of the Quincy Mansion school has issued cards for an at home for Thursday afternoon April second from four until seven o'clock.

Peter Parley BREAD
Baked with great care and wrapped in Wax Paper. Dust proof between our bakery and your table. Ask for it.
YOUR GROCERS SELL IT
PRATT BREAD CO. 3190 WASHINGTON ST., BOSTON

PRIVATE AND CLASS LESSONS.

Cornet, 'Cello, Mandolin, Guitar, Banjo, Violin, Piano and Harmony by thorough instructors. Violin FREE, at BOSTON SCHOOL OF MUSIC, No. 8 Washington street, Quincy.
Prof. R. G. Nichols
Director
Phone, Quincy 148J. M4-W & S. 8t

Mrs. Robert Harding of Botolph street is spending a week with her daughter, Mrs. Corle Allan of Worcester.

• • •

Mrs. William E. Alden of Chestnut street was hostess Wednesday evening for the annual Dicken's night of the Quincy Pickwick Club. Mrs. Hattie E. Sargent and Herbert J. Gurney arranged the program.

• • •

The club formerly known as the Golden Stars changed its name to W. D. D. U. at the meeting held Thursday evening at the home of Miss Grace Williams, Granite street. Important business was transacted, after which a delightful luncheon was served by the hostess. Piano selections were rendered and dancing enjoyed. The officers are as follows: Miss Grace Williams, President; Miss Evelyn Rogers, Secretary and Miss Reta Vergobbi Treasurer. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Emma Tucker.

• • •

Mrs. Clara A. Penley of 77 South Central avenue has sent out invitations to the wedding of her daughter Abbie Bartlett Penley and Earl Mountain Thomas, on Wednesday evening, April fifteenth at eight o'clock at the Wollaston Unitarian church. A reception will follow the ceremony in the church vestry.

• • •

Mrs. John Lily of Newbury avenue, entertained the Criterion club at whist Friday afternoon. Souvenirs were awarded Mrs. William Hersey, Mrs. E. Swan, Mrs. John Lily and Mrs. George Grouby; the consolation was given to Mrs. John Burke. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

• • •

Stanley Bone of Putman street is leaving tonight for Edmonton, Alberta, his former home about fifteen years ago. He is to go into business there and will be joined later by Mrs. Bone who is now planning to leave Quincy in May. They have many friends here who much regret their going. Mrs. Bone is an active member of the Quincy Women's Club and will be missed.

• • •

The Hon. Robert Watson, formerly Colonial Secretary of Newmoundland is the guest of Col. Edward Anderson of Presidents hill.

• • •

Mrs. Willis Tibbetts and son James, have returned to their home in Round Pond, Maine, after spending a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. Albert Hall of Faxon road. Mr. Hall accompanied her as far as Biddeford, Maine, where he went on business.

• • •

About fifty Quincy people motored over to Brookline Wednesday night to attend a dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Bigelow, nee May Rice at their Chestnut Hill home.

• • •

Miss Laura Bean of Tilton Seminary, Tilton, N. H., who has been spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bean of Billings street, returned to school this week.

• • •

Miss Bertha Nash of Weymouth Heights is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. A. J. Grassick of East Howard street.

• • •

Cards have been sent out by Col. Edward Anderson and Mrs. Dexter Emerson Wadsworth of Presidents hill for Monday afternoon, to meet their guests Hon. Robert Watson and Mr. Shraed of St. John's Newfoundland.

• • •

Charles F. Wilmore, Jr., entertained several of his little friends Thursday, the occasion being his seventh birthday. Those present were Leon Dennison, Harold Gurney, James Brown, Robert Brown. William Halward, Charles Deans, Frederick Littlefield. George Churchill, Hargrave Heap, Jr., Ruth and Althea Wilmore.

• • •

The Hospital Aid Association met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Russell C. Low, Presidents hill, with Miss Etta M. Prescott as the hostess. Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur president conducted the business and there was a good attendance and much sewing done. Several new members have been added to the Association and there is a goodly sum in the treasury for the purchase of Hospital supplies. The next meeting will be with Mrs. William H. Doble of South street.

Miss Minnie Rideout Hardwick only daughter of Mrs. Henry E. Hardwick of Revere road has received many congratulatory messages and gifts since the announcement of her engagement to Lyman Howard Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Willard Morrison of Elm street, Braintree. The announcement was made Thursday night at a bridge party given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Hardwick on Elm street in honor of their sister.

• • •

The engagement of Miss Florence Nightingale, a member of the class of 1913 of Quincy High school, and E. Nelson of Brooklyn, N. Y. has been announced. Miss Nightingale leaves for New York today. At a farewell party Thursday night she was presented with a suit case and a five dollar gold piece. She is a well known South Quincy girl.

• • •

Miss Elizabeth Lyons was tendered a linen shower Thursday night at her home on West street by employees of the collection department of the N. E. T. & T. Co., where she is employed. Her engagement to Herman H. Cull of Concord was announced last Thanksgiving.

• • •

Miss Mildred Wilmore of Billings street, was very pleasantly surprised on Friday evening, by a large party of friends and schoolmates. The evening was spent in playing games, and dancing. Mrs. George A. Deans assisted Mrs. Wilmore in serving the refreshments. Among those present were the Misses Dorothy Wetmore, Muriel Fratus, Cora Pratt, Laura Pratt Mildred Hill, Louise Tuttle, Margaret Buzzell, Laura Maxwell, Mary Brown, and Mildred Wilmore and the Messrs. Roy Brown, George Witcher, Ray Lamb , Lawrence Wetmore, Harvard Bowen, Ernest Doring, Arthur St. John, Francis McCabe, and Ralph Lyons.

SOCIAL LIFE IN BRAINTREE.

The Ivaloo whist club met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Ann M. Brooks, Franklin street. Refreshments were served.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ferguson entertained the F. W. H. D. club at their home Monday evening. Whist was enjoyed, Mr. W. W. Hesselton and Edgar Wilde were awarded souvenirs.

• • •

The A. B. C. met Friday afternoon with Mrs. F. H. Gile, Vine street. Souvenirs were captured by Mrs. F. Eugene Dyer and Mrs. Eben Prescott.

• • •

L. B. Spaulding of Mt. Vernon avenue was tendered a birthday party at his home Monday evening. He received a number of presents. Whist was played, souvenirs being awarded to Mrs. Hannah Tenney, James Wheaton, Herbert Wheaton and Mrs. James D. Fox. Music and refreshments followed.

• • •

The members of the E. Z. whist club met last Thursday afternoon with Mrs. George T. Butterworth. Dainty refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

• • •

Robert Witherell of Tremont street gave a party to a number of his friends and schoolmates last Thursday evening. Games were played and there were cornet solos by Louis Foster and piano solos and duets by Miss Lena I. Paul. Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Porter Witherell, assisted by Mrs. F. H. Merriam and Mrs. G. W. Stevens.

• • •

The E. Z. whist club were entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. George Butterworth, Mt. Vernon avenue. A social hour and refreshments followed the whist play.

• • •

Miss Bessie M. Thayer of North Weymouth is ready to start for Porto Rico where she will become the bride of Charles L. Strattard of Quincy Point, now a teacher in an industrial school on the island. Their engagement was announced before Mr. Strattard left to assume his position.

• • •

Miss Agnes B. Hayward's advanced class in dancing held its annual ball last evening in Cochato hall. The matrons were Mrs. Atherton Hunt, Mrs. Plummer C Spring, Mrs. G. V. Pennock and Mrs. George Andrews. The class was unusually large and made a very pretty party to the delight of the parents and guests as well as the children themselves.

• • •

The twenty associates held a private dancing party in Delta hall Wednesday evening, at which old fashioned dancing was enjoyed. The grand march was led by Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Stoddard. About 40 couples attended, Woodworth's orchestra of six pieces furnishing music. A pleasant evening was enjoyed and plans laid for another one in the near future. The committee o farrangements is E. G. McGill and W. M. Stoddard.

• • •

On Friday evening April third, from eight until ten o'clock, the Union Congregational church of Weymouth and Braintree will give a reception to its new pastor, Rev. Albert P. Watson and Mrs. Watson. All members of this church and congregation are most cordially invited to be present.

• • •

Many friends of the Washington Whist club, gathered at Delta hall, Wednesday evening and joined in an old fashioned dancing party from eight o'clock until eleven. The march at eight o'clock was led by Mr. and Mrs. Willard Stoddard, followed by about thirty couples. Mr. Woodworth's orchestra of Wollaston consisting of five pieces furnished delightful music and during intermission gave several old time selections. Every one present was in the best of spirits and enjoyed every dance, particularly the Virginia reels. Excellent punch was served by Mr. Stoddard during the evening. Floor was in charge of the members of the club. Another party will be held in the near future and many requests to join the party have been received.

CHICHESTER S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chichester's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TERS DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

WILLIAM F. RANKIN
Upholsterer
Hair Mattresses re-made for $2.50
House and yacht cushions re-made or made to order.
All kinds of furniture repaired, refinished and re-upholstered.
Estimates Free. A postal will bring me.
46 Warwick St., Wollaston.
Feb. 27-1m

DR. JULIA A. MARSHALL.

The funeral of Dr. Julia A. Marshall a practising physician of Brockton, who died Thursday at the Homeopathic hospital at Boston was held this afternoon from the home of Mrs. Deborah Billings of 61 Glover avenue, Atlantic. Among those present were members of the medical fraternity of Brockton. Services were conducted by Rev. William B. Ayres of the Park and Downs Congregational church. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

SMELTER FINED.

Fred Connors of East Braintree was arrested at five o'clock this morning for smelting on the banks of the Town brook at Weymouth. When taken into custody by Officer Tribou of the Fish and Game Commission he had 24 smelts in his possession. In court this morning he was found guilty and the regular fine, $1 for each smelt, was imposed. He is the first man convicted on that charge this season.

BRAINTREE

The teachers of the Abraham Lincoln school and those of the Jonas Perkins school enjoyed a four o'clock tea at the latter school on Wednesday.

Miss Mabel T. Knight of Randolph, a teacher in the Braintree public schools for many years, has been elected to a position in the new Franklin school in Brockton at an increase in salary. She first taught in the old Middle street school at Danas corner and for the past fourteen years has been teaching the Kindergarten and grades one and two at the Penniman school. She is popular with parents and pupils, the school teachers and school committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. Whitton are receiving the sympathy of their many friends on the loss of their infant girl Thursday.

Miss Sumner, teacher of grade one at the Jonas Perkins school, will spend the spring vacation at her father's home in Norwood. Miss Bean of grade four is enjoying the vacation at her home in Falmouth.

At present, there is a little disagreement in regard to the laying out of the drives at Blue Hill cemetery. One party interested maintains, there should be one front drive, as has been already started, running parallel with the drives now completed. The other party contend that to lay out a drive so near the front, is waste of valuable land, which should be used for lots. Now while the latter theory may hold true, still one should remember that when a person purchases a lot, they do so generally with the understanding, that it is not to be crossed by vehicles and therefore it would seem advisable—knowing that all lots must be cared for—to have a drive in the place in question, thereby saving time and labor.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

CITIZENS ASSOCIATION.

An active campaign for new members was inaugurated at the regular meeting of the Wollaston Citizens Association in their quarters at the Wollaston hotel Friday evening. Under the direction of its energetic president Chester I. Campbell, prospects for the coming year are very promising. A large proportion of those present agreed to bring in at least five new members in the next sixty days.

The special committee appointed to look into the finances of the association reported through its chairman A. L. Baker. A permanent finance committee was appointed consisting of A. L. Baker, T. C. Du Plessis and A. E. Walker.

A vote was passed extending the endorsement of the association to the new Norfolk Trust company which proposes to locate in Wollaston.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Norman McKenzie has been appointed chief of police of Needham.

The schools of Cohasset were closed Friday because of scarlet fever.

Residents of Hingham are raising $3500 to secure a public beach off Otis street. It will be presented to the town.

The seniors of the Ralph Wheelock High school of Medfield are on a Washington trip.

Judge Charles F. Jenney will give an illustrated talk on "A trip to the Shetland and Orkney Isles" at the public meeting, Monday of the Hyde Park Historical Society.

A special service will be held in Universalist church, Canton, Sunday evening for the members of Revere Post, G. A. R., W. R. C. and Col. Fletcher camp, S. of V., Col. John D. Billings will lecture on Civil War days.

Division Organizer Hamilton instituted the new Frederick H. Curtis camp, S. of V. at West Norwell Wednesday night. Past Division Commander Wellington of Norwood installed the officers.

A sum of $25 has been appropriated by the Abington Board of Trade for prizes for school gardens. They are opposed to the closing of the telegraph office in the town.

The Stoughton Congregational Society is enthused over the scheme of Rev. Louis J. Richards to raise funds for renovating their church. He has taken the Parable of the Talents as a working basis and has distributed dollar bills among the congregation with the understanding that the recipients shall make that dollar earn as much as possible. The returns will be made during the third week of November, 1914, after which the church will be painted, reshingled, the pews cushioned and granolithic steps will take the place of the old wooden ones. A novel clock idea is also advanced but not yet perfected.

The Forest and Field Association of Boston will tramp cross country through the Blue Hills Saturday and will meet at the Pleasant street bungalow, Canton, for a social and supper.

Canton High schools senior class holds a whist party Saturday night for the Washington trip fund.

Mr. Sarah Janes Thayer, widow of E. Monroe Thayer died in Weymouth Friday in her 79th year. Her funeral will be from her home on 20 Franklin street, Weymouth on Monday afternoon.

Deputy Sheriff Jerome B. Fitzpatrick died at Franklin Thursday. He was 55 years of age and held the office for 20 years. He was well known throughout Norfolk county and is survived by his wife and one sister who is a resident of California.

Offier Schofield of Weymouth who charges that Henry Cohen and James Dessendo had 269 smelts unlawfully in their possession presented only circumstantial evidence at the hearing before Judge Avery Thursday morning. His testimony was that the two men were seen going from the direction of the river to a shed, carrying two bags and that two bags afterward found in the shed contained the smelts. The defendants deny the charge and before continuing the case to June 1 Judge Avery said he was sorry that the officer did not have a stronger case.

The contract for a Primary school in Needham has been awarded to Charles A. Batson of Brockton. The heating, lighting and ventilating contract has been awarded to Stone, Underhill & Co. The total cost will be almost $40,000 and the building must by completed not later than Oct. 15. Clarence P. Hoyt of Boston is the architect.

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, Tel. Quincy 1745 W.
City Square
March 16-12t

For Your Baby.
The Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
is the only guarantee that you have the Genuine
CASTORIA
prepared by him for over 30 years.
YOU'LL give YOUR baby the BEST
Your Physician Knows Fletcher's Castoria.
Sold only in one size bottle, never in bulk or otherwise; to protect the babies.
The Centaur Company, Chas. H. Fletcher Pres't.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

Miss Editha Keith of the Belcher school teaching staff, is confined to her home with bronchitis.

Miss Ellen Stuart of Central avenue is seriously ill with appendicts.

The debating society of the High school is planning to run another interscholastic debate, similar to the one held with Brockton High. Among the members of the society intending trying for the team, are: J. Randall Pratt Morris Murphy, Byron Bentley, Theron Appollonio, Kenneth Johnson, Parker B. Feld and Russell Phipps.

The third choral concert of the Milton Education Soicety was held Thursday evening at the Town hall with an exceptionally large audience present. The Education Society chorus, Charles B. Stevens director, was assisted by Mme. Marie Sandelius, soprano, Miss Harriet Whittier, contralto, Arthur Hackett, tenor, Frederick G. Katzmann, bass, and Miss Mary Wells Capewell, accompanist.

A very pleasing birthday party was given by Master Horace Preble, at his home on Bates road, Thursday afternoon. Among those present were: Elizabeth Becker, Una Maguire, Margerite Kent, Elizabeth Preble, Alice Joblin, Gertrude Robinson, Marion Gilbert, Helen Hoxey, Ruth Mooers, Kenneth Clapp, John Lynch, Frances Ingersoll, Sherman Hastings, Milton Kent, Samuel Shaw, Sayward and Eugene Gilbert.

The annual business meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church was held Friday afternoon in the church parlor. Miss Steinburg of Boston gave a very interesting and impressive talk on "My Work among the German Emmigrants." The following officers were elected for the coming year: President Mrs. David J. Brown; vice president, Mrs. Charles A. Geddes; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. James B. Leuirs. Refreshments were served by Mrs. John L. Johnson.

There was a large attendance at the regular meeting of the Neighborhood club, held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. J. Ellsworth, Eaton street. Miss Edith Randall of Quincy was unable to speak on account of illness. Readings were given by Mrs. Henry A. McCurdy and soprano solos by Miss Olive Lowe. After the regular business meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. A. J. Ellsworth, The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. L. R. Bolton Bunton park, April 10.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

DR. J. A. ZWICKER
Osteopath
79 Freeman Street
Norfolk Downs, Mass.
Tel. 1271 W. Feb. 25-w-s-tf-o-28-tf

WOODWARD ALUMNAE.

The midyear meeting of the Woodward Alumnae will be held at the school on Monday evening, March 30 at 7.45 o'clock. All who have at any time attended the school are cordially invited.

Helen E. Mitchell, Secretary
Quincy, March 27 2t

Correct Corsetry
is the desire of every woman. There is no garment more important in your Spring wardrobe than the
CORSET
Carrying a large assortment of the leading well known brands—you will find here a corset to fit every figure. The Spring models have many new features such as the Topless Corset—Normal Line—Free Hip Bone—and those giving the "slouch" so much in vogue.
CAREFUL ATTENTION GIVEN TO FITTING
CORSETS PRICED FROM
$1.00 to $10.00
New and dainty effects in perfect fitting
— BRASSIERES —
Also
Hosiery and McCalls Pattern
DeBevoise

THE CORSET SHOP
S. E. DUNPHY 8 MAPLE STREET
March 28-tf

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Sunday clearing and colder. Monday fair.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.31
Sun sets	6.08
Length of day	12.37
Moon sets	10.25
High water, A. M.	1.30
High water, P. M.	1.45
Days increase 3 hours, 31 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	48 degrees
Mar. 26 1913,	48 degrees
March 26, 1914,	60 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

WEST QUINCY LEAGUE.

The West Quincy league closed another week at the St. Mary's alleys Friday night with the defeat of the Ave Maria council Knights of Columbue by the Franco American 3 to 1 The St. Mary's team which has been in first place since the league opened remains there with a lead that is secure for some time to come. A stiff fight is on between the Copelands, Div. 22 and Ave Maria council and the Foresters. The summary:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
St. Mary's	25	3	892
Copeland	12	12	500
Div. 22	13	15	464
Ave Maria	12	16	428
Foresters	11	17	392
Franco American	8	16	333

The regular mach was rolled with a dummy on each team.

FRANCO AMERICAN.

John Brunot	85	85	68	256
A. Hamel	81	91	87	259
Joseph Brunot	80	108	87	275
E. Larandeau	89	96	83	268
Dummy	69	79	75	223
	404	459	418	1281

AVE MARIA, K. OF C.

J. Daley	85	108	87	280
E. Howley	69	85	99	253
J. White	79	79	82	240
L. Garrity	85	79	75	239
Dummy	81	85	83	249
	399	436	426	1261

MAKARIA CLASS WIN.

The Makaria class took three points from the lowly Clark class last night in the Sunday School bowling league and the winners are now but a few points behind the Rand Class for second place in the standing. For the Makarias the best man was Nicoll who hit the wood for a total of 263 with a high single of 99. French did the best work for the Clark class getting a total of 268. Clark was high single man with 101 to his credit. The totals:

Makaria	375	413	378	1166
Clark	370	387	392	1149

Prevents Grip -- Cures Grip

LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE removes the cause. There is only one "BROMO QUININE" Look for signature of E. W. GROVE, 25c.

WILLIAM R. DIMOCK

Carpenter and Builder

Plans furnished and estimates given. All work personally and promptly attended to

133 PROSPECT AVENUE

WOLLASTON

Telephone 1535 W Quincy.

BRITISH CRISIS NOT SETTLED

Commons Adjourns Without Attack on Asquith Cabinet

PREMIER MAKES A STATEMENT

Waits Decision of French and Ewart In Regard to Their Resignations—Army Officers Can No Longer Ask For "Exemptions"—Lynch Makes Sinister Reference to King

London, March 28.—The Asquith government still lives. Although the premier was unable to bring about a settlement of the issue which threatened most serious results in the army through the resignation of Field Marshal French and General Ewart, the house of commons adjourned without an effort to make a concerted attack upon the Asquith cabinet.

In regard to the resignation of French and Ewart, the premier said:

"The government has conveyed to them its wish that, as there is no difference of opinion on any ground or policy, they should not persist in their request, the carrying out of which the government would regard as a serious misfortune to both the army and the state. We still are awaiting their final reply.

"These two gallant officers believe that in the circumstances they were justified in believing their action was in accordance with the instructions of the cabinet and that they were transmitting those directions to the officers concerned.

"It is clear to us and to them that there has been a misconception—a genuine misconception—in regard to the intention and purport of the proceedings in Ireland, out of which these difficulties have arisen.

"In view of these misconceptions and to obviate the possibility of their recurrence in the future the army council has today—Field Marshal Sir John French and Lieutenant General Sir John Ewart being present—unanimously determined to issue a new army order."

The new order declares that officers shall not question their subordinates as to their attitude in the future, and forbids asking of exemptions from orders by either officers or men. It requires that all officers and soldiers shall obey all lawful orders for the safeguarding of property and supporting the civil authorities in the preservation of peace.

Sinister reference to King George as the "man" in a letter from Arthur Lynch, M. P., published by the Daily Citizen, organ of the Labor party, startled London. "The man" was the way in which Oliver Cromwell always referred to Charles I. before the parliament of that day took the monarch's head.

Under the heading "The Name You Must Not Mention," Lynch's letter read:

"The man has interfered in our affairs. He has brought the Liberal party to the verge of ruin, but it is not etiquette to mention that man's name, to ask where he comes from, by whom he is charged with wisdom, whence he gets his mandate or why he is there."

SHIPS HAVE FEWER GUNS

It Means the Loss of Many Jobs In Washington Navy Yard

Washington, March 28.—Development of the "all-big gun" ship will cost 125 men their jobs in the Washington navy yard after April 9, it was announced at the navy department.

The new dreadnought type of ship, though vastly more powerful than the old style of battleship, even of almost similar displacement, has less than half as many guns, and consequently there is less work to be done at the naval factory where all of the guns are turned out.

WEDDING DAY ON WHARF

Thirteen Marriages In Immigration Detention Pens at Boston

Boston, March 28.—Thirteen weddings were solemnized today in the immigration pens on Long wharf.

When the White Star liner Cretic arrived from the Mediterranean, there were thirteen prospective brides who were not called for through a misunderstanding in some quarters. However, yesterday served to straighten out who was who and bring anxious would-be benedicts to the front with a rush.

Gunman Murders Stepmother

New York, March 28.—Every policeman in New York is on the lookout for George Disma, gunman, who shot and killed his stepmother because she refused to disclose the whereabouts of the young man's wife, who had fled to hiding in fear of her life.

Maryland Kills Prohibition Bill

Annapolis, Md., March 28.—The bill providing for the submission to the voters of a constitutional amendment for state-wide prohibition was killed in the house of delegates by a vote of 57 to 42.

Smallpox In Virginia

Richmond, March 28.—Dr. Williams, Virginia state health commissioner, says his reports are to the effect that smallpox had infected 40 percent of the counties of the state.

SPORT NEWS

Paul Larkin, in addition to being captain of this year's High school team will lead the football eleven next year. Paul is the first student for several years, chosen as captain of two teams.

The soggy Merrymount park field is the scene of daily practice of High school base ball candidates. It looks as though spring was here overhead, but a trot around the diamond brings home the truth.

A peek at the bowling scores made in leagues outside of Quincy, excepting of course the pro combinations of Boston, reveals a truth that is not willingly accepted—that our boys are better than some high raters.

Quincy High is gradually forcing itself to the front in interscholastic circles, due in a great measure to the organized sport in grammar schools in which most of the pupils who enter High schools have participated. In fact the grammar school baseball league in Quincy has been a boom to school baseball everywhere, because its success has prompted other cities to take up the scheme with a view of developing sport and fair play in their prospective High school teams.

The committees from the Copeland Club, Ave Maria council, St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society and Div. 22, A. O. H. that are interested in formation of a West Quincy baseball league will meet Sunday afternoon. It is understood that the committees are favorable and that an organization will be effected immediately. A call for candidates has been issued by all the societies and it looks as though the past rivalry between the four societies the past winter will continue throughout the summer season.

Michael Kiley, who claims the West Quincy checker championship is out with a defi to Napoleon Grignon and it may be possible to finish the series which apparently went to smash through the objection of Mr. Grignon to the refereeing of Alfred Jordan, champion of the world. Sentiment is evenly divided in the ward, and the question as to whether or not Mr. Jordan did coach while refereeing is being generally discussed.

The Clan MacGregor league matches Tuesday night will be between the McKenzies, Mavers, O'Neils and Thomsons, McLanes, Michaels quintettes. The Michaels are leading the O'Neils by one point. Both are slated for clean sweeps. The O'Neils set a new team single, 507 last Tuesday night.

Div. 22 and the Copeland Club are matched in the West Quincy league on the last night of the month at St. Mary's alleys. Wednesday, St. Mary's and Ave Marie roll and Friday the Franco Americans and Foresters. The league record single of 557, made by St. Mary's still holds all over the city.

Bowling for the week at the Cochato club up to last night was Team 4 high single string 496 pins. Team 4 also high for three string total 1393 pins. R. B. Woodsum highest single, 132 pins and a 3 string total of 329 pins

SINGLE vs MARRIED.

The Clan MacGregor team of this city which made so remarkable a showing in the Scottish Clans Greater Boston league had a makeup of 10 men, and at the Coliseum alleys Friday evening the married men rolled the single men and lost in the first of a series of three matches to determine which team is the better. The losers buy the suppers for the winners.

SINGLE MEN

Paterson	87	93	68	248
O'Neil	87	117	99	303
Hastings	87	78	87	252
Dackers	89	100	108	297
Dell	95	86	85	266
	445	474	447	1366

MARRIED MEN

Birnie	69	85	89	243
McKenzie	81	83	91	255
Mitchell	77	78	85	240
McLean	86	84	95	265
Drummond	96	82	79	257
	409	412	439	1260

LADIES LEAGUE.

Mrs. Paul Poehler piloted her team to a win over the East Boston team in a Greater Boston Ladies League match at Littlefields alleys Friday night. She had high single of 106 and a total of 291, nine pins short of her world's record total. The strings:

Quincy	437	427	400	1264
East Boston	405	411	390	1206

THAYER MEET TEN EVENTS

Battle Game New to Braintree Pyramids Good

Thayer Academy A. A. held its annual Gymnastic exhibition at Bates' Opera House, East Braintree, Friday evening. The first event was the fifteen yard dash. In the first heat were: Chase, Bower and Thompson. Chase won. Second heat: McClure, Greeley and Cate. McClure won. Third heat: Leonard, Cole and Palmer Leonard won. In the final heat were Chase, McClure and Leonard. Chase was the winner.

The second event was the wheelbarrow race, Goodwin and Galvin won against Smith and Reed. An Indian club drill followed in which Bower, Cole, Chase, Dyer, Frazer, Greeley, Holmes, McClure, Palmer and Crowe exhibited much skill. The fourth event was the potato race in three heats, first heat, Chase, Cate and Worthen, Chase won the heat. Second heat Hanson, Bower and Holmes. Holmes won. Third heat, Clapp, Reed and Frazer. Frazer won. In the final, Holmes was the winner. The fifth event was high jumping with the following contestants: Chapman, McClure, Palmer, Parker, Leonard, Cleveland, Cole, Greeley, Cate, Holmes and Hanson. Leonard won the jump with the pole at five feet one inch. McClure was second with five feet and Palmer third with four feet nine.

The sixth event was the battle game. This game is very unique and Friday evening was the first time a Braintree audience had the pleasure of witnessing one. The game is played with two teams, an even number of men on each who stand about twenty feet apart facing each other. Each man has two Indian clubs standing directly behind him. A six pound ball about the size of a basket ball is given to the team that starts the game and they whirl it at the row of pins in back of their opponents. The object of the game being to knock down as many of the opponents' pins as possible. It proved to be very exciting. The first game was a twenty minute one played with the following teams: Team A. Galvin, White and Small, team B, Goodwin, Dunkerly and Reed, team A. won with a score of 20 to 17. The second game was a game between the senior middles and the Junior middles Senior middles Cole, Leonard, Thompson and Greeley. Junior Middles, Holmes, Bower, Hanson and Dyer. The junior middle class won by a score of 32 to 16.

The next event was the three-legged race in which Clapp and Dunkerly, Goodwin and Gallivan, Smith and Reed and Palmer and McClure raced. The race was won by Goodwin and Gallivan.

The eighth event was played by Leonard, Bower, Greeley, Cate, Dunkerly, Goodwin, Thompson, Cole, Hanson, Frazer, Chase and Gallivan. The ninth event was two stick drills, the first by Cole, Frazer, Hanson, Holmes Greeley, Thompson, Abercrombie and Cate. The second by Leonard, Palmer Cleveland, Chase, Chapman and McClure.

The tenth and last event was the pyramids which were unusually good. The following students took part in them: Chapman, Abercrombie, Greeley Palmer, Parker, Dunkerly, Frazer, Hanson, Holmes, Thompson, Claff, Cole, Goodwin, Gallivan and Dyer. The pyramids were many, the last one being a walking pyramid which paraded around the hall and just before it broke up the boys gave the Thayer yell ending with three cheers.

POST OFFICE MATCH.

The Quincy Post Office employees bowling match at the City Square alleys Friday night resulted in a tie between the Clerks and the Carriers on points. The latter took the first string and their total was one ahead of the Clerks.

CARRIERS.

Devlin	72	67	84	223
Flaherty	103	72	75	250
Cain	70	77	98	245
Connors	81	79	90	250
Hammond	103	82	72	257
	429	377	419	1225

CLERKS.

Clark	75	70	76	221
Canavan	96	66	80	242
Reardon	82	95	87	264
Joyce	78	77	82	237
Mitchell	77	87	96	260
	408	395	421	1224

☞PRATT'S BREAD never varies. It is made and baked by a fixed rule. Ask your grocer.

BRAINTREE

Mr. and Mrs. James Bruce of Belmont street welcomed a baby boy into their home Tuesday.

Thomas H. Watson of East Braintree will give his lecture on "The birth of the telephone" at the Noah Torrey school hall, April 8th.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Gillette of Hancock street left yesterday for a trip to the south. They will sail from New York via the Savannah line of steamers and will return to Boston on a steamer of the same fleet.

The friends of Henry Scanlon of Town street, one of the carriers from the South Braintree post office, are sorry not to see him on his route and hope for his speedy recovery from an attack of the grip.

The Selectmen made the following appointments Monday afternoon: Sealer of Weights & Measures C. S. Hannaford, Supt. of Braintree Home, Daniel James, Supt. of fire alarm system, F B. Laurence.

Mrs. Harriet A. Fuller of 240 Tremont street, passed away Friday, March 27. She leaves three children William M. Fuller of West Newton, Mrs. A. C. Anderson of Brockton and Mrs. Fletcher F. Stoddard of Braintree.

PHILIP J. HALVOSA.

Th funeral of Philip J. Halvosa was held Friday afternoon from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Halvosa of 60 Spear street, and was attended by a throng of friends that included former classmates at the Quincy High school and the Gardner Club of Christ Church.

Rev. Richard E. Armstrong held private services at the house, after which public services were held in Christ church. The deceased was the son of Philip Halvosa, labor editor of the Boston American, and among the floral reemmbrances were many pieces from labor organizations. The staff of the Boston American's tribute was an immense basket of flowers and a mammoth piece was from the Cigar Maker's Union of Boston.

The committment prayers were read at the grave in Mt. Wollaston cemetery by Rev. Mr. Armstrong. The bearers were two cousins, Charles Moyle of Quincy and James Powers of Brockton; two High school classmates, Everett Andrews and Ellis Young and two members of the Gardner Club of Christ church, Wellington Owens and Robert King.

TEAM TWO WINS.

The bowlers of the Quincy Point Congregational church held a match at the Coliseum alleys Friday night and team No. 2 beat No. 1 by 59 pins. The totals were:

Team Two	442	436	451	132
Team One	417	426	427	1270

SCIENTIFIC FORESTRY

To Woodland, orchard and shade tree owners of Quincy:

The Massachusetts Forestry Association is bringing scientific forestry to the people of the State. Our field secretary, Mr. W. L. Hamel is in your city for the purpose of arousing interest in this important subject. He is a trained forester and will be glad to give you any advice or information concerning your shade-trees orchards or woodlands free of charge. All you need to do is to write a postcard to him addressed care of Mrs. J. D. Mackay, 75 Greenleaf street, and he will call to see you.

The advice he gives will be gratis but if you think it will be of advantage to you to have your trees pruned or cemented or your woodlot thinned, we recommend that Mr. Hamel do the work because of his training and experience. You can arrange with him as to the cost of doing the work and will not be under obligations to hire him, because of the advice he gives you which is free. The object of the Association is to protect the trees and this has proved the most efficient way of doing it.

Massachusetts Forestry Association.

21—S&W-tf

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

relieves lame back, sore muscles and rheumatism.

USED 103 YEARS

as a household remedy for internal and external ills.

S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc. Boston, Mass.

25c and 50c

Sold everywhere

Persons' Pills give relief to billion people.

SEXUAL KNOWLEDGE

ILLUSTRATED 320 PAGES.

Tells all about sex matters; what young men and women, young wives and husbands and all others need to know about the sacred laws that govern the sex forces. Plain truths of sex life in relation to happiness in marriage. Secrets of manhood and womanhood; sexual abuses, social evil, diseases, etc.

The latest most advanced and comprehensive work that has ever been issued on sexual hygiene. Priceless instruction for those who are ready for the true inner teaching.

This book tells nurses, teachers, doctors, lawyers, preachers, social workers, Sunday School teachers and all others, young and old, what all need to know about sex matters. By Winfield Scott Hall, Ph. D., M. D. (Leipzig).

Newspaper Comments:

"Scientifically correct. —"Chicago Tribune. "Accurate and up-to-date." —Philadelphia Press. "Standard book of knowledge."— Philadelphia Ledger. The New York World says:

Plain truths for those who need or ought to know them for prevention of evils.

Under plain wrapper for only $1.00 Postage ten cents extra.

MIAMI PUBLISHING COMPANY
Dayton, Ohio.

EXECUTRIX' NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executrix of the will of Ralph W. Hobbs late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, testate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to EMMA A. HOBBS, Executrix.

(Address)
11 Clark Street, Quincy, Mass.
March 18, 1914.
3t Mar. 21-28 Apr. 4

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To all persons interested in the trusts under the will of Joseph W. Robertson late of Quincy in said County deceased:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by John F. Hunt of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, praying that he be appointed trustee under the will of said deceased, which has been proven in said Court You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-seventh day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t Mar. 28-30 April 6

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Joseph Sworoski late of Quincy in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Emma A. Sworoski of said Quincy without giving a surety on her bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the fifteenth day of April A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-seventh day of March A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t Mar. 28 April 4-11

MY SLOGAN

for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 galions of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.

Will you help me do this?

F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 21-tf

Penniman's Garage

And Taxi Service

Renting, Storage and Supplies

Open Day and Night.

Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.

Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.

C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.

Telephone 207.

Feb. 7-tf.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

LAND COURT.

To Anne R. Cunningham, Jacob A. Turner, Llewellyn W. Higgins, Helen M. Thomas, Charles G. Waitt and Mrs. Charles G. Waitt, of Milton; the Granite Railway Company and Ida F. Kelley, of Quincy; Susie M. Harper, of Weymouth; in the County of Norfolk, and said Commonwealth; Eunice P. Waitt of Malden, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth; James H. Stark, George C. Thacher, William H. Reed, I. P. Smith, Shelton Barry, Mary C. Gately, Trustee, of Boston, in the County of Suffolk, and said Commonwealth; James S. Liddle of Lockport in the State of New York; Elizabeth C. Dustan, Robert Jaffrey Dustan, Ellen G. Dustan, Mary J. Dustan, Josephine Rowell, Julia M. Moseley, Ann McDade, Dinah McDade and Jane White; residences unknown, or their heirs, devisees, or legal representatives: the Robertson Manufacturing and Quarry Company, formerly doing business in said Quincy, or any persons claiming under them; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Charles D. Turnbull of said Boston, William H. Dunbar, of Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, and Anne L. Whitmore, of Mattapoisett, in the County of Plymouth, and said Commonwealth, Trustees of the Unity Trust under a declaration of trust dated April 29, 1897 recorded with Norfolk Deeds, book 1030, page 44, to register and confirm their title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land situate partly in said Milton and partly in said Quincy, bounded and described as follows.

Northerly by land of William H. Reed to the center line of Plymouth Avenue, 117.5 feet; Westerly by the westerly half of Plymouth Avenue, 21.50 feet, more or less; Northerly by Curtis Street, 260 feet, more or less; Easterly by land of Ida F. Kelley, 156.89 feet; Northeasterly by said land of Ida F. Kelley, 31.07 feet; Easterly by land of the Granite Railway Company 276.85 feet; Southeasterly by said land of the Granite Railway Company 120.56 feet; Northeasterly by said land of the Granite Railway Company and by land of Susie M. Harper 301.95 feet; Southerly by land of Jacob A. Turner and James S. Liddle 468 feet more or less; Westerly by land of Anne R. Cunningham 717.37 feet; containing 191,800 square feet more or less.

Also another certain parcel of land situate in said Milton, bounded and described as follows:—

Northerly by land of I. P. Smith 138.70 feet; Easterly by land of Helen M. Thomas 85.40 feet; Southerly by land of Shelton Barry 139.47 feet; Westerly by Grafton Avenue 85.40 feet; containing 8,675 square feet.

Petitioners claim as appurtenant to the above described land a right of way in common with others thereto entitled, for all street purposes in and over said Plymouth Avenue, Grafton Avenue, and Curtis Street, as shown on the plan hereinafter mentioned.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are herby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the sixth day of April A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this thirteenth day of March in the year nineteen hundred and fourteen.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

CLARENCE C. SMITH, Recorder.

(Seal.)

Mar. 14-3t 14-21-28

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

BOARD OF BANK INCORPORATION

Boston, March 18, 1914.

George Taylor, Charles L. Gilliatt, A. N. Murray, W. O. Wellington, Charles H. McIntyre, Wm. Coulson, Charles P. Hutchins, J. A. Sedgwick, Eric H. Ewertz, A. B. Hillman, George W. Stone, Chester N. Godfrey, Charles E. Goodspeed, Geo. Crothers, Chas. S. Adams, A. E. Stephenson, Barnabas H. Bain, Charles W. Bailey having associated themselves by an agreement in writing for the purpose, and having given notice to the Board of Bank Incorporation of their intention of forming a corporation according to the provisions of Chapter 374, Acts of 1904, and all acts in amendment thereof and in addition thereto, to be known as the Norfolk Trust Company and to be located in Wollaston, within said Commonwealth, a public hearing will be given to all parties interested at Room 124, State House, Boston, on Wednesday, April 8, 1914, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

AUGUSTUS L. THORNDIKE, Bank Commissioner.
FREDERICK W. MANSFIELD, Treasurer and Receiver General.
WILLIAM D. T. TREFRY, Commissioner of Corporations.
Board of Bank Incorporation.
3t Mar. 21-28-April 4

EXECUTRIX' NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executrix of the will of John F. Welch late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, testate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to EMMA F. WELCH, Executrix.

(Address)
1662 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.
March 20th, 1914.
3t Mar. 21-28 Apr. 4

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

wealth of Massachusetts

LAND COURT.

R. Cunningham, Jacob A. wellyn W. Higgins, Helen Charles G. Weitt and Mrs. Waitt, of Milton; the Gran- Company and Ida F. Kel- ley; susie M. Harper, of in the County of Norfolk, ommonwealth; Eunice P. alden, in the County of and said Commonwealth; Stark, George C. Thacher, Reed, I. P. Smith, Shelton y C. Gately, Trustee, of the County of Suffolk, and onwealth; James S. Liddle in the State of New York; Dustan, Robert Jaffrey len G. Dustan, Mary J. ephine Rowell, Julia M. n McDade, Dinah McDade nite; residences unknown. es, devisees, or legal rep- the Robertson Manufac- Quarry Company, formerly ess in said Quincy, or any ming under them; and to may concern:

a petition has been pre- id Court by Charles D. said Boston, William H. Cambridge, in said County and Anne L. Whitmore, ett, in the County of Ply- said Commonwealth, the Unity Trust under a of trust dated April 29, d with Norfolk Deeds, ge 44, to register and title in the following nd:

parcel of land situate d Milton and partly in bounded and described as by land of William H. center line of Plymouth feet; Westerly by the of Plymouth Avenue, ore or less; Northerly by 260 feet, more or less; land of Ida F. Kelley, Northeasterly by said land lley, 31.07 feet; Easterly he Granite Railway Com- ; Southeasterly by said Granite Railway Company Northeasterly by said land te Railway Company and sie M. Harper 301.95 feet; land of Jacob A. Turner S. Liddle 468 feet more or by land of Anne R. 717.37 feet; containing re feet more or less. ther certain parcel of land id Milton, bounded and follows:—

by land of I. P. Smith Easterly by land of Helen 85.40 feet; Southerly by on Barry 139.47 feet; Grafton Avenue 85.40 ning 8,675 square feet. s claim as appurtenant to escribed land a right of mon with others thereto all street purposes in and Plymouth Avenue, Grafton d Curtis Street, as shown hereinafter mentioned. e described land is shown led with said petition, and y lines are claimed to be the ground as shown on erly cited to appear at the e be held at Boston, in the Suffolk, on the sixth day of 1914, at ten o'clock in the show cause, if any you he prayer of said petition e granted. And unless at said Court at the time foresaid your default will and the said petition will confessed, and you will be red from contesting said ny decree entered thereon. Charles Thornton Davis, dge of said Court, this ay of March in the year ndred and fourteen. h Seal of said Court. CLARENCE C. SMITH, Recorder.

Mar. 14-3t 14-21-28

alth of Massachusetts

BANK INCORPORATION

Boston, March 18, 1914.

gislor, Charles L. Gilliatt, ray, W. O. Wellington, McIntyre, Wm. Coulson, Hutchins, J. A. Sedgwick, tz, A. B. Hillman, George ester N. Godfrey, Charles d, Geo. Crothers, Chas. S. E. Stephenson, Barnabas arles W. Bailey having themselves by an agree- ing for the purpose, and a notice to the Board of poration of their inten- ng a corporation accord- rovisions of Chapter 374, and all acts in amend- and in addition thereto, as the Norfolk Trust d to be located in Wol- n said Commonwealth, a ng will be given to all sted at Room 124, State on, on Wednesday, April 1 o'clock, A. M.

S L. THORNDIKE, Bank Commissioner. CK W. MANSFIELD, and Receiver General. D. T. TREFRY, sioner of Corporations. rd of Bank Incorporation. 3t Mar. 21-28-April 4

UTRIX' NOTICE.

ereby given that the sub- been duly appointed ex- e will be John F. Welch cy in the County of Nor- d, testate, and has tak- self that trust by giving law directs. All persons nds upon the estate of d, are required to exhibit nd all persons indebted e are called upon to make

F. WELCH, Executrix.

ock St., Quincy, Mass. n, 1914. 3t Mar. 21-28 Apr. 4

I WANT BUSINESS? ISE IN THE LEDGER.

TRAPPING A CROOK

A Detective Story

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

It is generally supposed that we detectives have to deal exclusively with low grade criminals. Most of our small robbers are of that sort, but occasionally we run across either a gentleman or one who is very capable of personating a gentleman.

One of the dangers thieves and robbers encounter is being given away by a pal. It is singular how many cases there are of quarrelings over the division of plunder taken by rascals who work together, and once a break is made among them it widens indefinitely. Revenge is always within reach by informing, though this course is liable to react on the informer.

One morning the mail brought my chief a letter, badly written and misspelled, informing him that Jim McFarland, alias Slippery Jim and several other aliases, would that evening attend as a guest a function to be given by one of the swells of the place, his object being to get away with certain articles of value. No description of Mr. McFarland was given—indeed, no other information than here mentioned. I was directed to examine the police records and the rogues' gallery with a view to discovering a biography or a photograph of the crook. But I found no mention of any such person, so I inferred that if the information received were genuine he must be a newcomer. I believed that it was genuine, for I could not see that anything was to be gained by sending in a false statement. Indeed, it was apparent to me that thieves had fallen out and honest men were likely to get their dues.

I must attend the function, but I must do so either without an invitation or the host must know that I am a detective. To secure admission as a detective would require taking the host into my confidence and as many others as he chose to confide in. These people would all be looking for the crook, and he would be scared away. I preferred to go to the ball myself incognito. Sometimes a guest will be known to the host, but not to the hostess, and vice versa. Therefore a person without an invitation stands a good chance to attend a function without being questioned. On this chance I relied.

I got myself up as immaculately as possible, parting my hair in the middle in order to give me the appearance of a superfine gentleman. In the dressing room I made remarks upon the weather to several different men in order to give the impression that I was acquainted with them and went downstairs chatting with a man who seemed not averse to my advances. I refrained from going at once to salute the host and hostess, keeping away from them purposely while they were together so they could not compare notes concerning me.

I had not been long on the main floor when I began to scan the faces for my quarry, though I expected to find him, if at all, upstairs. I made frequent visits to the dressing room and after the guests had ceased to arrive and the upper stories were deserted took the risk of looking into rooms, sometimes opening the doors in order to get an inside view. In one of these explorations I opened the door of a room where a nurse was sitting beside a child in its crib. I apologized for making a mistake and withdrew at once.

Among the guests I noticed one who seemed to be receiving the lion's share of attention. I asked who he was and was informed that he was the Hon. Clifford Radcliffe, a younger son of a British earl. He seemed to be a quiet sort of person, listening to what was said to him rather than talking himself and not flattered by the attention paid him. While observing him I saw a man presented to him—one in fine clothes, but with a very ordinary face. His hair and beard were of a disagreeable shade of red. Edging near enough to hear him speak, I found that his accent was English. What especially struck me was that, while I could not be sure he dropped his h's, the word "have" sounded very like "ave."

While I am never disposed to jump at conclusions, this red headed individual seemed to me to look more out of place than any other of the guests. At any rate, I resolved to keep an eye on him. Considering that all were moving constantly, this was not easy. Some time after I had first noticed him I looked about for him, but did not see him. Thinking that I might catch him upstairs purloining, I went up there. Returning to my expedient of opening doors "by mistake," I turned several knobs. On one of these entrances I was surprised to see the red headed man standing at a dresser. He had divested himself of his dress coat and had put on a sack. At the moment I opened the door, which I did softly, he was looking for something on the dresser. I recognized him by his reflection in the mirror. His eyes being lowered, he was not aware of my presence. Desirous of preserving this advantage over him, I closed the door without making the slightest noise, hurried to a telephone booth, which I had taken pains to locate early in the evening, and called for a couple of men in plain clothes to come to the house at once. They arrived in exactly four minutes. I met them at the door and directed them to wait there till I called for them. Then I sought the host. I found him chatting with the Hon. Clifford Radcliffe and, calling him aside, told him that there was a crook in his house and that I had called for the police to arrest him. I had caught him in a room upstairs and thought it quite probable he was there still. Would he go with me and either confirm or nullify my suspicions by having a look at the man?

He went with me, I calling in the two men at the door, and we all climbed the stairs together. As we reached the landing above the red headed man came out of the room attired in ordinary dress.

"Do you know him?" I asked the host.

"No. I've been wondering who he is all the evening."

"Have I your permission to arrest him?"

"Yes. Can you do it without making a scene?"

"Certainly. We'll take him down the back stairway."

The man we were talking about on seeing us recoiled. At first he seemed disposed to go back into the room from which he had emerged, but reconsidered this move and came on toward us. I looked an order to my men to take him, and in a jiffy he was hustled to a rear staircase, down it and out through a door. I told the men that I would join them presently at the police station and they must not let him throw anything away, especially the bundle he carried under his arm. Then I went down the front stairs with the host.

We met the Hon. Clifford Radcliffe at the foot of the stairs. At that moment the man arrested shouted from the rear of the house, "You fools, you've spoiled"— A door was shut, preventing any more from being heard.

"What's the trouble?" asked Mr. Radcliffe.

"Only a thief in the house being taken to a police station," replied the host. "I'm thankful that his cry was not heard in the rooms."

"Indeed!" said the Englishman. "I've often thought what a fine chance thieves have to come into houses when functions are going on and steal."

"We've got this fellow, anyway. Going so early, Mr. Radcliffe?"

"Yes; I must be going. You Americans have been so kind to me since I came over that I've been kept up late every night since I arrived here. I bid you good night. I've already taken leave of your good wife."

"Good night, Mr. Radcliffe."

The Englishman went on upstairs. I remained with the host for a time to instruct him in what he should do on the morrow in appearing against the thief, telling him that we should probably find the man's bundle filled with stolen goods. I did not hurry because there was no occasion to hurry, and the gentleman with whom I was talking was constantly called upon with "Good night; have enjoyed your hospitality immensely." Finally, having said all I wished to say and apologized for coming without an invitation, I bade him good night myself and went up to the dressing room for my hat and overcoat. Then I left the house for the police station.

I sallied into the station puffing a cigar I had lighted, feeling that I had done a nice bit of work. The prisoner and his captors were waiting for me, as was the sergeant at the desk.

"Are you sure," said the latter, "that you hit the right man?"

"Why do you ask?"

"This man says he's a Scotland Yard detective come over here to take back a British crook wanted for murder."

"That's what I ham," said the prisoner. "I'm 'ere to git Hedward 'Ammerton, charged with the killin' o' 'Oward 'Enderson in Lunnon. I 'ad 'im all right, unsuspectin'. I'd put on plain clothes and was goin' down to wait houtside for 'im when you butted in and spoiled my game. Hi've lost 'im now."

It was like being doused with cold water.

"Did you find nothing on him?" I asked.

"Not a thing except an evening suit in the bundle."

"Who was your quarry?" I asked the prisoner.

"The fellow as called 'imself Clifford Radcliffe."

I dashed to the phone, called up my host of the evening and asked if the Hon. Clifford Radcliffe was still there. The reply came back that he had gone, and I was asked if we had found certain missing articles on the man I had arrested.

Then I knew that I had made the blunder of my life. After the arrest of the man who was saying he was the Hon. Mr. Radcliffe had had plenty of time to help himself to anything handy and walk leisurely away. Moreover, the arrest had given him a warning which he would surely heed. Indeed, I had spoiled the game of the man who had come over the water for him. The culprit made his escape and so far as I know has not to this day been taken.

When I reported the result of my exploit to my chief he paid me my salary to date and discharged me. I asked him if he didn't think it quite natural under the circumstances that I should have made the mistake I did. He replied that I was not hired to make mistakes, but to take advantage of the mistakes of other persons.

I was constrained to leave defective work for some time after this episode, but I afterward drifted back to it and when I did adopted for my motto "Go slow." So in the end my mistake was a blessing in disguise, for I now have the reputation of never clapping the bracelets on a person without being sure I'm right.

SUNDAY SERVICES

A new announcement of services is required each week. No notices accepted to run indefinitely. When possible the subject of sermon should be given, also special services. Generous space will be given in the news columns for church news, music and week day gatherings.

FIRST PARISH CHURCH—City Square, Rev. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson, minister. Residence Miller Stile Inn, Tel. 21072. Office hours at church 9 to 12 A. M. Monday, Wednesday and Friday Tel. 1220. Morning service at 10.30 A. M. Subject of sermon by the minister. "Faith in Humanity." Sunday School at 12 noon. Mr. Henry W. Porter Supt. The minister's class will continue the study of the "Religions of India." Visitors are welcome.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Junction Hancock and Chestnut streets. Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, Pastor. 10.30 A Lenten message. 12.00 Bible school Classes for all ages. 6 Christian Endeavor Meeting Speaker Mr. Harold Thomas, A Student Volunteer of Harvard Medical School. 7.30 Pleasant Sunday Evening service; Subject: "A Young Man's Ambition."

CHRIST CHURCH, EPISCOPAL—Quincy corner Elm street and Quincy avenue. Rev. Richard E Armstrong, rector. 8.00 A. M. Holy Communion. 9.30 A. M. Sunday School. 10.45 Morning Prayer and sermon. 7.30 Evening Prayer and address. Wednesday 7.45 Evening prayer and Address. Thursday 3.30 P. M. Devotional Service. Friday 4.00 P. M. Children's Lenten Service.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST—Quincy, Alpha Hall, cor. Hancock street and Cottage ave. Morning service and Sunday School at 10.45. Subject: "Reality." Golden Text: "Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God the powers tha are ordained of God." Wednesday 7.45 P. M. a testimony and experience meeting. Reading room open from 3 to 5 P. M. week days, holidays excepted. Also Saturday from 7 to 9 P. M.

INTERNATIONAL BIBLE STUDENTS ASSOCIATION, (undenominational) New Colonial Hall Hancock Building Quincy Centre. Free public lectures every Sunday afternoon at 3.00 o'clock Pastor W. B. Fowler of Boston will speak on "The Spiritual Guidance of God's Elect." All seats free. No collections.

SPIRITUALIST MEETINGS—Electa Hall, Johnson building, Quincy Sq. Russ H. Gilbert speaker. Special services commemorative of the 66th anniversary of Modern Spiritualism at 2.30 o'clock and 7. Afternoon speaker, Rev. Louis J. J. Richards of the Stoughton Universalist church. Evening speaker, Rev. William G. Breet, Supt. Workmans Home, 63 Warrenton street, Boston. E. P. Jones, M. D., Boston and Russ H. Gilbert editor Stoughton News will speak. Miss Mabelle A. Leighton, Miss Jeanette Peters and H. L. Berry will give Messages. C. J. Prevoa will speak and give messages. These meetings are entirely free.

WASHINGTON STREET CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Quincy Point, Rev. Stephen C. Lang, pastor. 10.45 Morning Worship. Sermon by the Pastor. "Office Seekers" 12M. Bible school and Men's class. 6.30 Y. P. S. C. E. 7.30 Evening Service. Sermon by Rev. Raymond Lang Subject "Face to Face." Public cordially invited.

FIRST UNIVERSALIST CHURCH—Washington Street, Quincy. Rev. Merrill C. Ward, pastor Residence 2 Greenough Avenue, Jamaica Plain Telephone Jamaica 616 W. Service at 3.00 P. M. Subject: "The Bible" Sunday school at 2 o'clock. Y. P. C. U. at 4.30.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—Water and Quincy Streets. Rev. J. A. Matheson Minister, Tel. 1524-M. Morning worship at 10.30. Bible School and mens class 11.45. Jr. Christian Endeavor 2.30 Y. P. S. C. E. 6.30. Evening worship and praise 7.30. Special preparatory services Wednesday Thursday and Friday evenings 7.30.

FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—Corner of School and Pleasant streets. Rev. D. B. McLeod, M. A., pastor. Residence 40 Bradford St., Preaching by the pastor at 10.30 Subject: "Fallen Gods." Evening at 7 Subject: The power of the Gospel. Sabbath School and Bible Class 11.45. Junior Endeavor at 3. Senior Endeavor at 6. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.30 led by Elder McLeod.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH—Franklin street Rev. C. C. Tilley, Pastor. Residence 26 Richie Road. Morning Service at 10.30. Subject: "The Ministry and the Word" Sunday school at 11.45. Evening service at 7 Subject: "Smoothing Out the Wrinkles." Regular prayer meeting on Thursday evening at 7.30.

SWEDISH MISSION CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH Garfield street. Rev. A. G. Sporrong, pastor, 14 Euclid avenue. Tel. Quincy 148-M. 9.30 A. M. Sunday School. Young people's Bible class led by pastor. 10.45 A. M. Morning service Topic: "The Sanhedrin resolves the death of Christ." 7.00 P. M. Evening service. Topic: Fourth sermon in passion series: A choice: Christ or Barabbas. 5 o'clock P. M. Young People's meeting. The young men will give the programme. Everybody cordially invited to all these services and meetings.

SWEDISH BAPTIST CHURCH—Brewers Cor. Paul Hallin, pastor Residence 101 Glendale Road, Services under the auspices of the N. E. Swedish Sunday School Union as follows:—9.30 A. M.: Sunday School. 10.45 A. M., Sermon by Rev. C. E. Johnson, Lynn. 3.30 P. M. Sermon and free Conference, Speakers Rev. C. E. Johnson and Rev. G. W. Lindstrom of Brockton. 7.30 P. M. Sermon by Rev. J. O. Backland Boston The Scandinavian people are most cordially invited to attend these services.

HALL PLACE M. E. CHURCH—West Quincy Rev. T. C. Martin, pastor, Residence, 12 Hall Place. Morning worship at 10.30. Sunday School at 12 M. Epworth League at 6.15. P. M. Leader: J. M. Francis. Evening service at 7 P. M. Junior League Friday at 4 P. M. Prayer meeting Friday at 7.30.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST CHURCH— Cor. Prospect and Warren avenues. Rev. Joseph Walther minister. Morning service at 10.45. Sunday School at 12.15. in charge of Elford L. Durgan Supt. Junior Endeavor meeting at 3.30. in charge of Mrs. Joseph Walther. Senior Endeavor at 6. in charge of Kenneth F. Albee. Evening service at 7. The pastor will preach Morning and Evening Everyone invited to these services.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL — Corner Lincoln and Winthrop avenues, Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath, Ph. D., pastor, Res. No. 20 Marion street Telephone Quincy 1116 M. Morning Worship 10.45 Sermon by the pastor. "The Unrecognized Christ." Sunday School at 12.15, Chas A. Campbell, Supt. Women's Class led by Mrs. A. A. Lincoln. Men's Class led by Dr. Sneath. Junior Endeavor Society at 4 P. M. led by Junior Johnson. Y. P. S. C. E. at 6 P. M. in the Vestry, Topic: "What Missions are doing for the World," led by Missionary Committee. Regumidweek service Thursday 7.45 P. M. in the vestry Leader: Deacon Smith, Topic: The Crucifixon." Everybody is invited to these Services.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Hancock street. Wollaston—Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra, rector, residence, the rectory. 253 Hancock street. 8 Morning prayer. Anti-Communion at 10.30. Sunday School at 12M. Evening Prayer and address at 7.30.

TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Daughters of Veterans to Entertain Patriotic Societies

Rebecca Wiswell Tent, No. 53, Daughters of Veterans will celebrate the first anniversary Tuesday night in Grand Army hall with an elaborate program. The other patriotic organizations of the city have been invited to be present.

Mrs. J. Ramsdell of Atlantic who enjoyed a personal friendship with Mrs. Rebecca Wiswell, the Civil War Army nurse, in whose memory the tent is named will be present and will give an address on her life and work.

Department Aid Mrs. Mabel Gooding of Weymouth who instituted the tent will be the guest of the evening and arrangements are being made for a large attendance. The supper which precedes the exercises will be at seven o'clock.

The sewing circle of the tent meets with Mrs. Melissa Fisher of Whitwell street on Thursday afternoon.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN CHURCH—Corner Beale and Farrington streets. Rev. Carl G. Horst, minister. Residence 39 Grand View ave. Telephone Quincy 317-1. Kindergarten for children of three years and over, in the vestry in charge of a trained kindergartner, at 10.45. Service of worship with sermon by the minister at 10.45. Sunday School with classes for all at 12.00. Ministers class meets in Church Auditorium. Neighborhood meeting of Young People's Religion Unions addressed by Rev. Benjamin K. Bulkeley of Beverly at 7.08. All seats free, and a cordial welcome for all.

MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Atlantic Rev. Thomas W. Davison, pastor. Morning service 10.45. Sermon by the pastor Subject: "Facing the Cross." Sunday School 12M. Junior Endeavor Society at 3.30 P. M. Y. P. S. C. E. at 6. Evening service at 7, Sermon by Rev. Sampson Nicholls. Excellent music at both services. A cordial welcome to all.

ATLANTIC M. E. CHURCH—corner Newbury avenue and Squantum Streets. Rev. E. C. Pollard, pastor. Residence 19 Wesley Street, Newton, phone 2467 W. Morning service at 10.45 "A divine supply for Human Need." Sacrament oft Lord's Supper. Sunday School 12.45 Junior League at 3.30 P. M. Epworth League at 6 P. M. Subject John Wesley as an Evangelist. Other helpers in church building. 7.00 P. M. Installation officers; Junior League and address by Misses Bunker and Nichols.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER. YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY.

MAINE POTATOES 25c PECK

—AT—

Carlson's Restaurant

10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall

March 6-1m

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES.

20 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.

MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar, Tel. Quincy 131-W.

KEEP AHEAD

OF THE FLY AND YOUR NEIGHBOR BY HAVING YOUR

SCREENS

RECOVERED OR PAINTED NOW

HOLMES & HALL

1179 HANCOCK ST.

TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

TO LET

TO LET—At 209 Kendrick avenue, upper tenement of six rooms and bath. All modern improvements. Combination stoves. Apply to 220 Franklin street. 28-tf

TO LET—Ten rooms set range, bath etc., land for garden or hens $25 per month. Also two suites four rooms each, gas and use of bath, all in perfect repair. $3.00 per week. Apply Room 200, Durgin & Merril Block. March 28-3t

TO LET—To small family. A flat of 5 rooms and bath. All modern improvements. Inquire at 33 Dysart street. 28-3t

TO LET—Five rooms and bath, opposite Merry Mount Park, modern improvements. Also 6 room tenement, Brackett street. Apply 883 Hancock street. 26-3t

TO LET—Five room lower flat, all improvements, new house, ready April 15th situated 41 and 43 Bradford street. Apply to W. L. Saunders 146 Franklin street. 26-tf

TO LET—Furnished rooms with or without board. Mrs. F. Wrigley, 18 Washington street corner Coddington. 26-6t

TO LET—On Spear street, first floor 4 rooms, bath, furnace, set tubs, gas and set range. J. A. Weeden, Room 10, Greenleaf Block. 26-3t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 26-12t

TO LET—Sunny apartment of six rooms and bath, set range, all modern improvements, 4 minutes to station. Excellent location. Rent $22. Apply to O. P. Lindberg, 160 Elm street, Quincy. 25-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 25-6t

TO LET—After May 7th, house of seven rooms and bathroom. All modern improvements. Rent $30. Apply any time at Mrs. Elizabeth C. Follett's, 105 Putnam street. 23-6t

TO LET—Large pleasant sunny room. Near restaurants and R. R. station. Apply at 1187 Hancock street. 21-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-18t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath. Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ....

LOST

LOST—Child's bracelet on Whitney road or Hancock street. Return to Charles W. Hall, 1175 Hancock street, Reward. 28-1t

LOST—Baby's white dress, also gold pin, set with blue stone, between Beale street and Norfolk Downs. Reward. Mrs. I. F. Mandell, 230 Everett street, Wollaston. 27-3t

LOST—Between Kincaide's Theatre and Emanuel's store; a mesh bag containing sum of money. Finder please return to Kincaide's Theatre office and receive reward. 23-6t

WANTED

WANTED—To rent. A house of nine rooms or more, near Quincy Centre by May 1st. Write C. A. Ledger office. 28-1t

WANTED—Medium size room near centre with or without board, by a lady. Write C. M. Ledger Office. 28-1t

WANTED— Stenographer. Apply to Norfolk Iron Co., Norfolk Downs, near station. 25-1t

WANTED—Position as companion, or housekeeper by young American widow. Competent to take full charge. Best of reference. Widower or business people. Write R. M. Ledger Office. 26-3t

WANTED—Position as housekeeper or care of invalid. Reference and experience. Write L. M. Ledger Office. 26-3t

FURNITURE and Piano moving boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block—2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust.
(Ask for Mr. Kribe.)
Greenleaf Block, 'Phone 21066) Quincy

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 514-3 / Office 383-M

MISCELLANEOUS

WILL STORE A FINE UPRIGHT PIANO with private party for the use of the same, or will sell cheap on easy terms. For particulars Address Box 10 this office. 28-6t L 1-W O

FOR SALE

AT A BARGAIN, for sale six room all year round cottage. Land for garden. Phone 5698-M. Brookline. 28-1t

FOR SALE—A flat top office desk, a bookkeeper's desk, six office chairs, drawing table and a foot power jig saw. Apply 65 Willard street. 26-6t

FOR SALE—Cabin boat 23 ft. by 8 ft. beam, sails and power. Complete inventory. R. C. Loud, 21 Gannet road, Adams Shore. 25-6t

FOR SALE—A $300 piano slightly used will sell cheap for cash. (Terms if desired.) Johnsen Music Co., 6 Chestnut street across from Bethany church, Quincy. 24-6t

FOR SALE—A good second hand range, good baker in good condition. Apply at 90 Washington street, Quincy. 24-6t

FOR SALE OR TO LET— New house, two tenements five rooms each, all improvements. Situated on Hayward street, East Braintree. Completed April 15. Apply to W. L. Saunders, 146 Franklin street, Quincy. 21-tf

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

BUSINESS SITE

Progressive business men will do well to buy this prominent corner. It is without question the most valuable business spot in our city.

Full particulars of
EDMUND G. HAYDEN
Tel. 1877-M Quincy, Representing
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
129 Tremont St., Boston,
March 25-tf

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 3, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public.
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 485 M. Nov. 11-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.

SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
'an. 5-tf

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED CLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS?
ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30, 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45, 10, 15, 25c

MON. TUES., WED.
Program Subject to Change

Daniel Frohman Presents
CECELIA LOFTUS
In the popular Novel and Famous Play
"A LADY OF QUALITY"
First of the "Famous Players" Photo-plays to be shown here

THREE BOYDS
Character Singers and Dancers

SILENT MORA
Novelty Magician

DALE & BOYLE
The Belle and the Beau

WATSON-HUTCHINS-EDWARDS
Screaming Comedy Sketch
"SCHULTZ NIGHT OUT"

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

Mar. 28—3t

D. E. WADSWORTH & CO.

SPRING OPENING

Stylish Suits of new materials
All the fashionable colors
Alterations Free

Latest styles in shirt waists
Just from New York
We invite inspection

THE SHIRT WAIST STORE

When you contemplate the stock of rent receipts that your industry in the interests of the landlord has accumulated, you realize that there is more truth than fiction in the real estate dealers' statements.

Now there is really something in owning your own home and it will pay you well to consider a cottage house we have in a good location for $3000. Two hundred dollars down.

FRANK FESSENDEN CRANE
19 Temple St, Quincy
March 28-1t

THE BOARD
— OF —
Park Commissioners

Invite Managers and Captains of Base Ball teams to meet them in the Council Chambers,

WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 1,
At 8 O'clock
to select dates and issue permits for the Ball Fields.

Park Board,
I. M. WHITTEMORE,
Chairman
March 25-4t

BRIEFS

Mrs. J. D. Rogers of Webster street has been confined to her home three weeks a victim of bronchitis.

The Wollaston Glee Club is actively at work for its second concert of the season which is announced for Wednesday night April 8.

Abigail Adams Lodge No, 11, I. C. of A. is to hold a whist and dancing party in Clan MacGregor hall Tuesday evening.

Fore River lodge, I. O. O. F. & M. U. met in Protection hall Friday night for their regular session and considerable routine business was transacted.

The service of the Stations of the Cross was given in the Catholic church of the city Friday night with a good attendance.

For the pleasant Sunday evening service at Bethany church the pastor has prepared a lecture for men; subject. "A young man's ambition." Men are invited to bring their friends; it is a message for all men and future citizens.

The superdreadnought Texas, on her way from Hampton roads to the Brooklyn Navy yard for a final trimming was halted when the wireless poles overtopped the girders at the center of Brooklyn bridge by five feet. When the wireless masts were lowered there was five of head room.

Miss Gertrude Jones, president of St. Margaret's Guild of Christ church invites all women of the parish to attend the meeting of the Guild Tuesday evening, when Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick will give one of her delightful readings.

Winthrop Packard of Boston is to give a talk on birds in Coddington school hall Friday afternoon April 3 at four o'clock. Colored slides will illustrate his talk and a cordial invitation to attend is extended to all interested in birds.

Mrs. Elizabeth Burr an honored member of the Atlantic Methodist church had a stroke of paralysis Sunday at her home on Glover avenue and is in a serious condition. Mrs. Burr is the only charter member of the church which organized 25 years ago. She has many friends in the church and community. She is the widow of James Burr, who was a member of Quincy's first City Council.

A number of librarians from the cities and towns of greater Boston have been gathering once a month for a social lunch at Filene's restaurant. Such an informal meeting, allowing for discussion of topics of interest in connection with the profession, was found enjoyable by 33 librarians and others, members of the Massachusetts Library Club, on Thursday. Miss White of the Thomas Crane Public Library being among the number. Miss White is one of the vice presidents of the state organization this year.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

This is to inform my friends, customers and general public that William Nash and Lemuel Murray are no longer in my employ.

I also desire to announce that I am now located at my new garage on the corner of Washington and Wibird streets and am better prepared than ever to give prompt and reliable taxi service.

We have five and seven passenger touring cars which we furnish for all occasions at reasonable rates.

Thanking the public for their patronage in the past and soliciting a continuance of the same, we remain yours for prompt service.

PENNIMAN TAXI SERVICE.
Telephone night or day, Quincy 207
28-3t

THE SCHOOL OF RESULTS.

The work in this Institute is accomplished in one season. No original pupil has ever been carried over.

The results are by far the greatest obtained in any school and can be verified by calling and seeing the pupils at work.

Let us tell you how little effort it requires to master Shorthand and Typewriting.

This Institute courts the closest investigation.

Register Now For Summer Classes.

The Clark Shorthand Institute,
338 Washington St., Boston, Mass.
A. S. K. Clark, Principal.
March 28-3mos -s.-w.

1912 Rambler For Sale

Cross Country Rambler good as new Run less than 3,000 miles, fully equipped. If bought at once will be sold at a sacrifice. Write R., Ledger Office. 28-3t

FOLK MUSIC OF EUROPE

Pleasing Program Given by High School Pupils

A pleasing entertainment ws given at the High school Friday at 12.30 the program being in the form of characteristic music and folk dancing of European countries. The program with the exception of that given by the German class, being under the direction of Miss Amsden, supervisor of music.

The first number was an essay on folk music in general by Horton Page.

Part one, opened with music of the British Isles.

Irish—"Minstrel boy" by Glee club and orchestra, "Kilarney" and "Last Rose of Summer" by Miss Rose Blair Delano.

English—"Drink to me with thine eyes" by Glee club.

Welch—"All thro the night" by Glee club. Essay, Richard De Normandie.

Scotch—"Loch Lomond," Mrs. Delano; "Maid of Dundee," "Coming thro the rye" and "Annie Laurie," by Miss Abbott and orchestra; "Robin Adair" by Glee club.

Part two included music and dancing of the continent and opened with an essay by Jennie Gibb. Then came a Hungarian dance by the orchestra; "Santa Lucis" by the Glee club, and "Trene Liebe Lebewohl" by Miss Zeller's German class..

The program closed with folk dances by Miss Kirmeyer's class and included the Clapp dance and Flox dance.

CARD OF THANKS.

Our heartfelt thanks are extended to our many friends for their kindness, their many expressions of sympathy and their floral remembrances during our recent bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Halvosa, and son Walter.
Quincy, March 28, 1914. 1t

MRS. M. ANNA BUCKINGHAM.

The funeral of Mrs. M. Anna, wife of Mr. John D. Buckingham, was held this morning from her late home 36 Whitney road. The services were conducted by Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson of the First Parish church and were largely attended. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

BIRTHS

ANDERSON—In Quincy, March 28, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Anderson of Glendale road.

DEATHS

GARRITY—In Asheville, N. C., Mar. 25, Mary E., daughter of the late William and Katherine Garrity. Funeral from residence of her aunt, Mrs. William A. Gavin, 30 Dysart street, Quincy, Monday, March 30, at 8.15 A. M. High mass of requiem at St. John's Church at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited to attend.

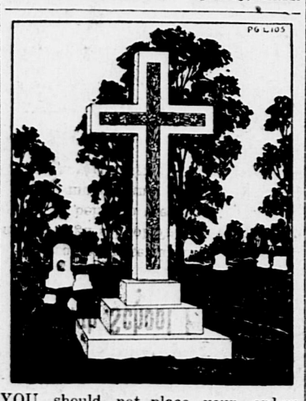
JONES—In Quincy, March 27, Griffith T. Jones in his 50th year. Funeral services at late home 272 Granite street, Sunday March 29 at 2.30 P. M. Relatives and friends invited.

FULLER—In Braintree, March 27, Mrs. Harriet A. Fuller at the home of her daughter Mrs. Fletcher F. Stoddard, 240 Tremont street.

WESSLING—In Roxbury, March 27, Henry Wessling of 20 Hawthorne street, age 63 years.

GARDNER—In Milton, March 27, Mrs. Lusanna F., widow of Anthony C. Gardner, of Centre street, aged 82 years.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street. Quincy, Mass.



YOU should not place your orders for any
MEMORIAL WORK
Without Consulting
AVARD L. WALKER
MORTUARY ARCHITECT
3636 WASHINGTON STREET
FOREST HILLS, BOSTON, MASS.
Tel. Quincy 282.W
March 4-3mos-w-s

SUPT. VAUGHN IS REMOVED

Services Will Not be Required After April 27

William J. Vaughn, superintendent at the Quincy Home, will sever his connection with the home on April 27, having been given a month's notice that his services will no longer be required. It is also announced that William Campbell, nurse at the Mt. Pleasant Anti-tuberculosis camp, will succeed him as superintendent.

Mr. Vaughn came to Quincy from Weymouth having first been appointed by Fred F. Green when he held the position of Overseer of the Poor some years ago.

William Campbell, who succeeds Mr. Vaughn, has had charge of the Anti-tuberculosis camp at Mt. Pleasant ever since it was opened. He is a nurse by profession and for the past 25 years has been connected with institutional work.

BRIEFS

The Board of Trade will meet next Wednesday evening.

Dr. J. Driscoll of Broad street Weymouth, is at the Quincy Hospital for treatment.

No claimant appeared at court this morning and the liquors seized at the Aetna Musical Club two weeks ago were forfeited.

Harriett A. Fuller, widow of W. Andrews Fuller died Friday night at her home at 240 Tremont street, Braintree She was in her 58th year and well known in Quincy.

Among the Boston dog prize winners Thursday at the Chicago Kennel Club show, were two Boston terriors owned by Dr. Norman T. Harris of Chelsea, formerly of Quincy, Evergreen Evelyn 3 and Evergreen Pro. They won both winners classes and also a trophy as the best brace of dogs in the show.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Anderson who eloped a year ago and were married in Dorchester are the parents of a son born this morning. Both mother and child are doing well. Mrs. Anderson before her marriage was Irene Williams of South Quincy. Mr. Anderson is employed at the Fore River shipyard and one of the popular young men of the city.

Milton H. Irving conducted his first initiation since becoming archon of the Quincy lodge of Heptasophs in Protection hall Thursday night. The meeting was attended by 40 members. Archon Irving, has been pledged the support of all and committees have been appointed to aid in the material growth of the order. Steamed clams were served at the close of the meeting.

FAIR AT BRAINTREE.

The benevolent society of the Union Congregational church held their annual fair Friday afternoon and evening. The tables were very prettily arranged in the Sunday school rooms. The cake table was managed by Mrs. Lucy Voorhees who was assisted by Mrs. Ira P. Morrison, Mrs. Annie French and Miss Gillespie. Mrs. J. F. Sheppard was chairman of the domestic table and was assisted by Mrs. Albert P. Worthen, Mrs. Charles T. Crane Mrs. Francis Gardner and Mrs. W. D. Aitken. The candy table had for its chairman, Mrs. Edgar Bolles, assisted by Mrs. James Hollywood and Miss Anna Hayward. Mrs. Ernest Baraud was chairman of the box table. The tables were the attraction all the afternoon and the early part of the evening and when the entertainment started everything had been sold which speaks very well for the success of the fair. The entertainment began at eight o'clock and consisted of violin solos by Mrs. Emily Hagan accompanied at the piano by Miss Emma L. Clapp, readings by Miss Lucia Hutchins and vocal solos by Miss Madeline Gay of Weymouth who gave three selections.

Merciful Wife.

A Cincinnati man who attempted to dictate what his wife should wear is now defendant in a divorce suit. It is a wonder he isn't the central attraction in a jam-up funeral.—Houston Post.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

Too Late For Classification

AT A BARGAIN, for sale six orom all year round cottage. Land for garden. Phone 5698M, Brookline.
28-1t

A LEGAL STAMP WITH EVERY 10c PURCHASE IT PAYS TO PAY CASH
HOUGHTON & DUTTON CO.
NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST CASH STORE—TREMONT AND BEACON STS., BOSTON

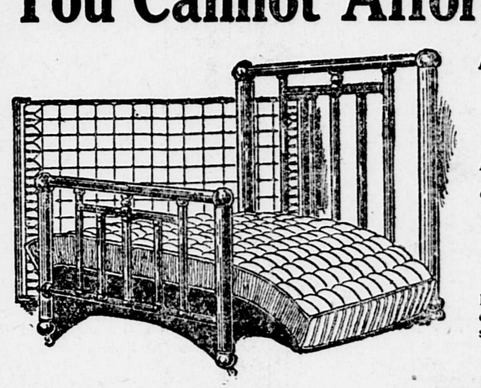
Every Homekeeper of this City who Has Occasion to Visit Boston Next Week, Should Not Fail to Attend

Our Annual Spring Carnival

A Store-wide Event, and Every Department in Line With Sensationally Low Prices.

We Call Especial Attention to an Important Sale in Our Mammoth Department of Furniture, Beds and Bedding. These Departments are Among the Largest in New England. That our prices are undoubtedly the Lowest is evidenced in the Following Specimen values.

You Cannot Afford to Miss This



A Fine Brass Bed Outfit usually sold at $30.00, offered for this sale at

Bed, Spring and Mattress, Complete 19.98

Bed has large corner balls, two-inch posts and heavy one-inch fillers. Mattress is all pure white cotton and extra heavy ticking. All-iron National spring, bright or satin finish. All sizes.

You will have much difficulty in duplicating this anywhere in Boston at $19.98

Fourth Floor

Swell Front DRESSER 17.50

Chiffonier to match. Polished golden oak and birdseye maple finish. Several patterns at same price in golden oak and mahogany finish for 17.50.

$44.50 Parlor Suite for 31.50

This handsome 3-Piece Parlor Suit, mahogany finished, with large shaped legs, claw feet and massive frame, covered in high grade panne plush or tapestry, four patterns tapestry to select from, tufted or plain back. At..... 31.50

This $28.98 BUFFET 18.98

Fifth Floor

As shown, all polished quartered oak, with finished interior, claw feet, deep drawers and bevel plate mirrors. A great bargain at 18.98.

In Addition, we will give Double Legal Stamps, All Day, Every Day Next Week

NEW MILK LAW.

The attention of milk dealers is called to the notice of Inspector of Milk Daniel Scouler, Jr., relative to milk offered or kept for sale in shops or stores. Under the regulations hereafter all milk kept for sale in stores and shops must be in tightly closed capped bottles. Such dealers however have sixty days from this date to comply with the requirements of the law.

KING ARTHUR VICTORY.

The K. O. K. A. second team administered a defeat to the Swedish Lutheran boys in a Sunday School league game at the Y. M. C. A. Friday afternoon by a score of 24 to 4. Jenkins and Williams did the heavy scoring for the victors. For the losers, Nelson excelled in defensive work.

QUINCY BOY SELECTED

Master Myles Bernard Golbranson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Golbranson of Dysart street has been selected to represent the State of Massachusetts in "The Temple of Childhood" at the Panama exposition in San Francisco in 1915. The choice of the boy was announced this week. The entry list was large. The happy parents are being extensively congratulated.

Lusanna F., widow of Anthony C. Gardner died Friday in her 82d year. The funeral services will be held at her late residence 142 Centre street, Tuesday afternoon.

W. H. HASLETT
31 Bridge Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 1092 W

Plastering and Cementing
Concrete Houses
Outside Stucco Work
Cement Walks, Steps and Cellar Floors.

PETROSILO sanitary and fireproof flooring—guaranteed to wear longer than hard wood floor—no joints one continuous piece put over any floor.
Feb. 25- W-S. tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy. Feb. 27-tf

AUDITORIUM THEATRE
One Week Commencing March 30
THE ORIGINAL PROF. BRISTOLS TRAINED HORSES

Special Matinee every day at 4 P. M. Evenings at 7.30 and 8.30
See our Big Street Parade, and our usual good photo plays
ADMISSION 10c
March 28-3t

With Teams and Trucks
KINCAIDE MOVES HOUSEHOLD GOODS

Our light and heavy Trucks and Teams are ready to move you anywhere anytime you say. Our men are courteous, careful, thoroughly-experienced movers. This store stands back of their work and guarantees you complete satisfaction. Charges are reasonable. Let's have your order early. Write, call or Telephone Quincy 1200.

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO. 1495 Hancock St.

N Co.
TS., BOSTON who lext end rnival ment rices.
oth Department g the Largest in evidenced in the ss This Outfit usually 0, offered ale at 9.98
ls, two-inch posts and ress is all pure white
ng. All-iron National
All sizes.
ulty in duplicating ton at $19.88 oor
$28.98
FFET 18.98

Fifth Floor
hown, all polished quar-
ook, with finished inclaw feet, deep dawned bevel plate mirrors,
at bargain at 18.98
. HASLETT
e Street, Quincy
Quincy 1092 W
and Cementing louses ucco Work
alks, Steps and Cellar
0 sanitary and fireproof ranteed to wear longer ood floor—no joints one ece put over any floor.
Feb. 25- W-S. tf
T A. HAYDEN
O TUNER
y Court, Quincy Point.
one 1153-M Quincy
F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock
Feb. 27-tf
ATRE
30 HORSES
THE DRILL

7.30 and 8.30 plays
March 28 3t

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Average Sworn Circulation, 2,756 Copies Daily — Over 12,000 Readers

Vol. 29 No. 75 QUINCY, MASS MONDAY EVENING MARCH 30 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

DR. SEERLEY'S ADDRESS

Talks at Men's Meeting on Personal Purity

The last of the Sunday Men's meetings at Kincaide's Theatre drew the largest crowd of all, about 700 being present. The audience was interested both in the lecture of Dr. F. M. Seerley and the musical numbers by the University City Bell Ringers.

The concert occupied the first half hour and included selections on the Swiss bells both by two and three players, with and without piano accompaniment, numbers on the xylophone, also by viola, violin and piano, but the most pleasing novelty was the selection on the musical lyre, accompanied by piano and violin. All these numbers were encored. James S. White contributed a pleasing solo, and there were the usual hymns and chorus numbers.

Rev. I. W. Sneath of the Wollaston Congregational church read the Scriptures and led in prayer, and also introduced the speaker of the afternoon.

Dr. Seerley's subject was "Personal purity" and from his life work among college students was able to speak as an expert. At the outset he said there was much that might be said against the system at our educational institutions which should make men, not merely educate them. The human soul came into the world helpless and it was well that they did, that lives might be molded.

By aid of a blackboard he divided a boy's life into three periods, from 1 to 9 years, 9 to 12 years, and 12 to 25 years, and showed the various influences—of mother, of father, of church and organizations, and of chums. It was difficult to change the thoughts of man after once they become a habit. In closing, he said God save America if she does not build character.

At the close a general invitation was extended to all to visit the Y. M. C. A. where Dr. Seerley spoke again and refreshments were served.

Another meeting will probably be held next Sunday at the Y. M. C. A. building.

Horace Jenkins of Hartford, Conn., spent the week end with his father, Frank Jenkins of Billings street.

BOTH LEGS AMPUTATED

James H. Nelligan Fatally Injured on Railroad

James H. Nelligan of Brockton was found beside the railroad tracks at Braintree shortly before midnight with both legs mangled below the knees. He was taken to the Quincy City Hospital where both were amputated. He passed away at noon today. Nelligan was 38 years of age and unmarried. He was employed as a shoe worker at the George E. Keith Co., at Brockton.

Nelligan lived with his brother in that city and has visited relatives in Weymouth every Saturday night. He is thought to have attempted to board the 11.19 train for Brockton and slipped under the wheels. Dr. F. L. Doucette of Weymouth rendered first aid and patrolman Galivan sent him to th hospital.

Th clue to identification was a card from the probation office of the Quincy district court which showed that Neligan had been fined $10 several weeks ago and that sentence had been suspended until May 24.

He is survived by four sisters, Mrs. James Gallagher of Brockton, Mrs. Benjamin McDermott of North Weymouth, Mrs. M. E. Shea of Quincy, Miss Margaret Nelligan of East Weymouth, and four brothers, John and William of Brockton, Peter and Frank Nelligan of East Weymouth.

RECEPTION AT HOUGHS NECK

The opening reception of the social season of the Houghs Neck Catholic Lyceum will be held in Bungalow hall on April 18, and the affair gives promise of being the most successful ever held by the organization. Invitations have been extended to a number of distinguished public men who have already signified their intention of being present and a gathering of several hundred is looked for. President Charles S. Shea will be chairman of the reception committee, and others arranging the preliminary details include D. J. Maloney, P. C. Cleary, treasurer and Miss Gertude C. Farrell secretary.

MADE FARCE OF HEARING

Charges Against Fire Chief of Milton Investigated

Each step in the hearing of the 1 charges preferred by the Milton Selectmen against Chief Edward McCue of the fire department, heard Saturday afternoon by the Selectmen was greeted with uproarious laughter and it took Chief Maurice Pierce and 17 policemen to preserve order.

Chief McCue defended himself against the charge of using a department auto for other purposes than business by testifying that he had carried to their homes, women friends of Selectmen Eaton when they missed their car, and when he was charged with painting without authorization the fire boxes he declared they needed it. When he denied interfering with the working of the boxes by getting paint into the keyholes he could scarcely be heard because of the laughter.

Jacob A. Turner, chairman of the board of selectmen, acting chairman of the judiciary body, trying Chief McCue had as his associates George R. Eaton and Secretary Maurice Duffy. They reserved judgment but it is expected that they will make a finding within a few days.

C. Merrill Brown and his son Merrill, presented the case against Chief McCue who was defended by Fletcher Ranney.

The witnesses for the town were James F. Hannan, a call fireman; Ernest A. Choate of the Board of Engineers; Louis Esau and Peter Manning call men; Elias Williams and Sanborn Littlefield. For Chief McCue there appeared former Chief John A. Mullen of the Boston department, Chief John W. Ahearn of Watertown, William E. Cate of Wakefield and former Captain William Brophy of Boston.

Former Chief Mullen received an ovation, and when the attorneys for the prosecution attempted to attack his claim to being an expert they drew upon themselves the ire of the spectators.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY.

Committees representing the Hibernian organizations of the city met in Div. 5 hall Sunday afternoon to arrange for a memorial service.

Although no day was chosen it will probably be held on May 24, the Sunday preceding Memorial Day. President John Donahue of Division 5 was elected chairman and Miss Mary Costello of Auxiliary 10 was chosen secretary. Representatives were present from Div. 4, 5, 17 and 22, and Auxiliaries 5, 10 and 23. The next meeting will be on Easter Sunday.

Edward Linehan, clerk at the Walsh pharmacy at Hancock and School streets, is ill at his home in East Milton.

OLD CONDUCTOR PASSES AWAY

William Kelley Also Prominent in Democratic Party

William Kelley, one of the long time conductors on the street railway died at the City Hospital Saturday afternoon of pneumonia, after a short illness. Something over a year ago Mr. Kelley underwent a surgical operation, and he has never been as well since. His system was weakened and when he took pneumonia it went hard with him. His home was on Deldorf street where he leaves a widow and one son.

Mr. Kelley before taking up the street railway business was employed as a granite cutter in the yards of John Kelley at East Braintree. With the building of the street railway line to Braintree however, he sought and obtained employment as a conductor. He was one of those prominent in the forming of the Street Railway Employees' Union and was the first president of the Quincy local. He was a ready debater, and became quite a labor agitator. Later he became affiliated with the Democratic party and took an active part in local political affairs being at the time of his death chairman of the Democratic City Committee, and also a member of the Democratic State Committee. He has a host of friends among the different labor organizations as well as political friends in the Democratic party.

He was a member of the Quincy division of the Street Railway Employees' Union and of John Adams aerie of Eagles. He was about 50 years of age.

GRANITE AVENUE BRIDGE WORK

It is expected that the new bridge over the Neponset river at Granite avenue, will be finished in early August and will accommodate hundreds of automobilists as well as granite teams from the Quincy quarries to Boston. It will also meet the increasing demands of traffic between Boston and cities and towns south of Boston.

The steel girders and stays are in progress of manufacture at the Boston Bridge Works plant and will be placed in position in a short time. The latest type of bascule, the balance lever in the draw, is to be used, and it will be operated by electricity. A large part of the upper structure has been considerably advanced.

The bridge is 200 feet long and at each end there will be an approach of 200 feet, giving a crossing length of 600 feet. Its width is 45 feet, or seventeen feet wider than the old structure. The cost of bridge is to be $75,000.

MARY E. GARRITY.

The funeral of Mary E., daughter of the late William and Katherine Garrity, who died Wednesday in Asheville, N. C., was held this morning from the residence of her aunt, Mrs. William A. Gavin of 30 Dysart street, with a good attendance.

A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Johns church, where she was a faithful attendant, by Rev. Fr. Florence McaCrthy. The Gregorian chant was rendered by the regular choir under the direction of John Mahon, organist. Miss Eva Rice and Mrs. Mary Burns King were the soloists.

Seated on the altar at the mass was Rev. Fr. William J. Foley of Roxbury, a former curate at St. John's church and St. Mary's church, who read prayers at the grave in St. Mary's cemetery where burial took place.

There was a profusion of floral remembrances, among them a large piece from the men at the Central Fire Station. The bearers were Alfred W. Goodhue, Joseph Sweeney, Michael Barry, John Meaney of Quincy and Samuel Foster and John Kelliher of Randolph.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Annual Appropriation Order in Council Tonight

Gas fitters, electricians and carpet layers were busy all Saturday afternoon at City Hall fitting up the new office of Mayor Miller so that he could occupy it officially for the first time today. The Mayor's' office furniture was moved in so that when he arrived at City Hall today, he found everything in readiness for his occupancy. The office is considerably larger than the cigarbox-like room that has been used as a Mayor's office for several years, and windows on west and north sides make it possible for the sun to find its way into the room the greater part of the day. In addition, arrangement are made so that it is now possible to get a little ventilation in the office, a thing that was impossible in the old office.

Perhaps the most important matter that will come up tonight at the adjourned meeting of the City Council will be action on the annual appropriation order. Under the new law of 1913 it will be impossible to increase any of the items from what was recommended by the Mayor, but it is possible under the provisions of another law for the Mayor, if he sees fit to send a supplementary budget to the City Council at a later date recommending additional appropriations for current expenses, which the Council can pass at any time before the tax rate of the year is fixed.

As there are some items on which cuts were made that may later have to be increased it is not among the impossibilities that a second budget may be forwarded. This is particularly true in relation to the school budget in which quite a sum was cut by the Mayor before it went to the Council. If the City Solicitor should decide in answer to the questions contained in the resolution of Councilman Ericson at the last meeting, as to what authority the Mayor had if any, to cut the amount as recommended by the School department, that the Mayor had the authority and it is found that the amount will not be sufficient the second budget may be forwarded. Then there are the items for the Mayor's and Inspector of Buildings "buz wagons" which the council cut out which may be again forwarded to the Council.

Still another matter is that of curtailing in street lighting for the amount as named in the appropriation order now going through only provides street lighting until 1 o'clock. Later the Mayor may find it advisable to continue the street lighting all night, in which event more money would be required. Still another item is that pending relative to increasing the number of permanent men of the Fire department. If additional men are voted then it will be necessary to make an additional appropriation to cover their salaries for the remainder. All of these things point to the probability of a second budget before the tax rate is announced.

But it should be remembered also that there is a limit which may be appropriated in 1914 and that the limit may be exhausted.

It is understood that quite a number of Quincy men took the civil service examination for the police and fire service at the State House last week. An examination was also scheduled for foreman of laborers but as no applications for these positions had been filed it is understood that no examination was held for that position.

The examination for the position of assistant commissioner is scheduled for this week and it is reported that a dozen or more will take that examination.

(Continued on Page Six.)

QUINCY SAVINGS BANK

The Annual Meeting of the members of the Quincy Savings Bank Corporation, for the election of Trustees, and any other business that may legally come before them, will be held on

TUESDAY, APRIL 14, 1914,

at 4.30 o'clock P. M. at the Banking Rooms, 1374 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

GEORGE E. ADAMS, Clerk.
9-6t Mon.

BY-LAWS READY TO REPORT

Improvement Association to Learn of Co-operative Banks

The directors of the Atlantic Improvement Association met with the president Henry F. Mosses recently and planned a set of by-laws to be presented to the association at their regular monthly meeting next Friday evening at the Patriotic Association rooms. They also planned the nomination of men for the different offices that were left unfilled at their annual meeting.

It is planned to have Mr. Swain of the firm of Swain, Carpenter & Nay, give a talk on "How to organize and carry on a co-operative bank" at the next meeting.

The association is strong in the belief that the bank ought to be organized in Atlantic for the good of Atlantic, Squantum and the Downs.

Councilman C. E. Carlson has been working indefatigably to help bring the bank into this section. Those who know Mr. Carlson most intimately have stated publicly that he has not any real estate deal to foster, but is wholly looking for the good of Quincy. In questioning several about their connections with co-operative banks many of the residents of Atlantic have shares in banks in Boston and different sections that will gladly patronize the bank if it is started in Atlantic.

GRIFFITH JONES.

Th funeral of Griffith Jones was held Sunday afternoon from his late home 272 Granite street and was largely attended by many of his friends including delegations from Court John Adams Foresters of America and Quincy lodge Loyal Order of Moose, each of which organizations sent floral tributes, the services were conducted by Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of Bethany church. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

LARGE SUMS IN BENEFITS

Report of Treasurer of Shipyard Employees Association

The Employees' Benefit Association Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, was organized May 1, 1902, and will shortly close its twelfth year.

Benefits are paid to disabled and sick members who are absent from their regular employment.

The total assessments received to March 1, 1914, amount to $115,988.71, received in amounts ranging from 2 cents to ten cents per week, according to wages of each mmber.

The total benefits paid to members to March 1, 1914, amount to $99,923.28 paid to 5,744 different members, and including 50 death claims.

In addition to benefits paid several dividends have been declared.

The annual election of officers and board of directors is to take place in April, their term of office beginning in May.

The present officers of the association are H. A. Marr, president; F. Duffy, vice president; J. A. Sedgwick, secretary and treasurer.

The accounts of the treasurer have just been audited, from which it will be seen that the association will enter upon its thirteenth year with a substantial amount in its treasury. The receipts of the year were $11,974.99, and the expenses $13,014.11. The cash balance March 1 was $$6,413.36 all on deposit in banks.

DISTRICT COURT.

John B. Johnson was fined $15, John McGilvray $10, William Whelan $10, Neil Strahan $10, Thomas Hernon $10, Edwin E. Baxter $10 and Patrick J. Manning was sentenced to one month in the house of correction for drunkenness at Quincy.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

THINKING OF SELLING
YOUR REAL ESTATE?
Spring Is The Very Best Time
LIST YOUR PROPERTY WITH ME
I HAVE A CONSTANT LIST OF BUYERS
FOR ONE AND TWO FAMILY HOUSES
W. T. DONOVAN, Room 4, Adams Bldg. (Over Cox Drug Store)
Real Estate and Mortgage Insurance of Every Description
Telephones: Quincy 1057-J and 304-1
March 30-6t

AUDITORIUM THEATRE
One Week Commencing March 30
THE ORIGINAL PROF. BRISTOLS TRAINED HORSES
READY FOR THE DRILL

Matinee 2.30 and 4 P. M. Evenings at 7.30 and 8.45
See our Big Street Parade, and our usual good photo plays
ADMISSION 10c
March 28 3t

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

This is to announce that WILLIAM G. NASH severed his connections with C. H. Penniman last October and he and LEMUEL MURRAY are now in a position to cater to the general public with

TOURING CARS AND TAXI SERVICE

for all occasions.
Careful drivers and prompt attention given to all orders.
Hospital work and Weddings a specialty.
Day and night service. Telephone connection Quincy 90. 30-3t

AT THE FOY STORES

THE NEW Adams Market CITY SQUARE 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE OLD WaterSt. Market QUINCY ADAMS 'Phone Quincy 117

A New addition to our line of High Grade Teas

PEEK'S TEA

—An English Tea of exquisite flavor, absolute purity, careful selection, extra strength, and quality that has seldom, if ever before, been offered to American People. In England PEEK'S TEA has been famous for 100 years. It is being introduced into New England now with great success. We are sole agents for Quincy. Come, buy a pound, use it half up and then if you don't like it, we'll refund the full price.

GIVE THIS NEW TEA A TRIAL

Sold in Airtight, Flavor-retaining Canisters

10c 25c 50c and 75c

Another Delicious Drink is

FOY'S QUALITY COFFEE

The very best coffee you, or we can buy. Fresh from the roaster daily. Try a pound 33c lb

March 30-2t

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1869.

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

TELEPHONES
News . . . Quincy 425
Business . . Quincy 1910

NOTICE

Again we ask those sending news or other matter by mail to direct it to the company or newspaper rather than to individual members of the company or employees. If addressed to individuals and they were ill or not at the office, it might be several days in reaching its proper destination and if news matter would be too late for use.

The fashion news from Paris says gowns are more decollete than ever, but it is pleasant to learn that clothing has not been entirely abandoned.

The sculptors say the beauty of American women is spoiled by their hands and their feet. The girls are doing the best they can in this respect by avoiding cooking and sewing and by riding in automobiles instead of walking.

Under the eugenic marriage system, it is to be expected that healthy girls will want to exhibit themselves at cattle show.

There is a growing feeling that the railroads must put in steel cars at once so that the engineers can disregard cautionary signals.

Many couples are doing the dance called the "lame duck," but unfortunately no way exists to put them out of their misery.

Vincent Astor says he is going to make farming his life work. He can always go ashore from his steam yacht and telephone up to the barn.

If President Wilson does not run back and forth between Washington and New York more frequently, he won't get the worth of that $25,000 travelling appropriation.

The sanctum philosopher makes the incendiary suggestion that the advertisements of "Smoking gowns for ladies," should be amended to read "Smoking gowns for women."

DANCING AND WALLFLOWERS.

One of the notable features of the prevailing craze for dancing, is the way middle aged and elderly people are renewing their youth. Many people sixty years and more are found trying the new twisting steps.

In dancing crowds, couples are apt to drop out soon after they are married. This is commonly attributed to the fact that married people have new interests and get over their frisky ways. But the feeling of musical rhythm and dance steps is a very fundamental one, not greatly affected by marriage and its occupations and cares.

Perhaps the real reason is that dance customs give the young and popular girl such an unfair advantage. The belle of the ball is overwhelmed with invitations. Meanwhile if a girl is a few years older, if her friends have dropped out or moved away, she is slighted. She may be a better dancer and more charming woman. But if the lordly men of the contemporary dancing set are not well acquainted with her, they pass her one side. She soon gets tired of being a "wallflower" and quits.

The host of dancing schools that have sprung up all over the country to teach the new steps are run on a different basis. It is the business of the teacher to see that every one who buys a ticket gets the chance to dance. Partners are shifted around and none are wallflowers against their will.

Ballroom manners are selfish. The men seek out their intimates and the best dancers. The fact that some nice girl is having a miserable time never occurs to them.

While protests are being made against some of the coarser features of dancing, let some thought be given to the unmannerly treatment accorded the "wallflower." In these days of equal opportunity, much could be said for making half of the numbers "ladies' choice." Customs are pretty crude when so many graceful dancers are outlawed because they must wait until they are invited.

TORREON IS IN REBELS' HANDS

Federals' Escape In Huerta Stronghold Is Cut Off

FOUR THOUSAND DIE IN FIGHT

Villa Determined to Capture Velasco and His Entire Army to Prevent Forming of Junction and Delaying Rebel March to City of Mexico—Streets Filled With Dead and Wounded After Severe Fighting

Gomez Palacio, Mex. March 30.—General Villa has carried the greater part of the city of Torreon, the Huerta stronghold, and the federal garrison is seeking only to cut its way through the rebel lines and escape to Saltillo.

Villa has ordered his commanders to take no thought of themselves or their men in hurling back these sorties, for his determination is to capture and hold as prisoners the entire federal force.

Villa sent back word from the firing line that the surrender of the garrison is imminent. At the time, with a tremendous loss of life, his men forced an entrance into the northern part of the city, at which General Angeles' artillery had been hammering for days.

As he penetrated the federal northern lines, General Velasco's men sought to evacuate the city by cutting their way out through the southeast and were hurled back by the brigades of Generals Herrara and Benavides.

The loss of life in the heavy fighting, which began March 22, has been heavier than in all the other battles of the revolution.

It is estimated that at least 2000 rebels have fallen, and the federal loss is believed to be as great, if not more so.

The Zaragoza brigade, which went into the fighting 1300 strong, is reported to have lost 25 percent of its men. The Durango veterans, under Herrera, which shared with the Zaragoza brigade in the brunt of the work, has lost almost as heavily. When Herrera made the charge into the southern outskirts of Torreon, which gave the rebels the first foothold in the city itself, he lost more than 100 men in that one engagement. He reports that 800 federals were killed.

Villa received reports that federal reinforcements are approaching eastward from Coahuila, and detached a force to patrol the road and intercept them. He telegraphed orders to Juarez for a detachment to leave there on the same errand.

Villa would have had possession of Torreon probably two days ago, it was learned, had it not been for his determination to capture Velasco and the entire federal army. If he had permitted them to evacuate the city they would have been able to join the strong federal garrison at Saltillo and Monterey and make most difficult the capture of those places, which must be accomplished before he resumes his march to Mexico City.

The rebels effected their entrance into the northern port of the city after an incessant artillery fire, kept up for hours, had leveled the greater part of that portion of the town and forced the federals, harassed on the east by Herrera and Benavides, to fall back onto the southwest of the city.

Hours of artillery fighting made it possible for Villa to advance his field guns to within a mile and a half of the city. The federals could not stand before this withering fire, and Villa hurled forward the cavalry and infantry he had massed behind his artillery. Sweeping into the city he was able to effect a junction with the Zaragoza and Durango veterans near the bull ring, which gave him possession of the greater part of the city. In the street fighting scores were slain. The federals lost heavily from the hand grenades used by the rebels.

The rebels were fresh from a twelve hours' rest, while the federals were exhausted. The heavy artillery fire, which Villa kept up while his men slept, permitted no rest for the defenders.

Rebel sharpshooters during this time crept close to the federal lines and kept up a continuous "snipping," which told on the nerves of the federals.

After Villa forced his entrance to the northern part of the city, the plight of the federal garrison became desperate. Escape from the city to the southwest was barred by the rebels occupying Lerdo, and eastward Benavides and Herrera barred the way.

It was to the eastward that the most determined efforts were made to escape from the net Villa had flung about them. General Argumedo attempted to cut his way free by hurling his brigade of 2000 men against the left flank of the Zaragoza brigade. He won as far as the smelter at the extreme eastern end of the city, but was hurled back.

Herrera had fortified the smelter immediately after getting into the city, and the rifle and machine gun fire was so terrific that the federals wilted before it and fled back into the city.

Twice after that Velasco sent his entire cavalry against the rebels in a hope to cut through the lines. Each time the charge was hurled back with great loss.

The street fighting continued without cessation for hours. Machine guns were mounted on the higher buildings in the teritory held by the federals, where they could rake the streets. Every housetop had riflemen firing from behind sandbags. The rebels placed their heavier guns at the ends of the streets they held and pounded at the federal defenses with these, while their sharpshooters, sent to the roofs, sought to pick off the federal officers.

The streets of the city are strewn with the dead and wounded. The most seriously wounded have been sent to the hospitals in the rear. Few of the wounded have left the firing line so long as they could press forward or sight a rifle.

The determination of the men has been without precedent in the history of Mexican revolutions. Villa has somehow planted into the breast of every one of his men his own resolution—disregard for life and courage tinctured with ferocity.

In the fighting through the week about 20,000 men have been engaged. There are about 12,000 constitutionalists under Villa, and Velasco is believed to have about 8000 men.

BY WAY OF CHIHUAHUA

Wounded Soldier Says Villa Was Wounded In Fight at Torreon

Chihuahua, Mex., March 30.—Such news as reached here from the front was unfavorable to the rebels. Wounded rebel soldiers continued to arrive by train, bringing the number now here to 588.

Several hundred other wounded were being provided for at Jiminez, and batches of wounded were distributed at Rarral and Santa Rosalia.

These evidences of the sanguinary conflict at Torreon, with the suggestion that the list of dead on the rebel side necessarily would be great, tend to make headquarters reticent about the progress of the rebels.

The officers admitted they had received messages from the front, but they declined to reveal the contents.

The report originated from one of the hospitals, after more wounded came in, that General Villa had been wounded slightly and compelled to retire from the front. The report was based merely on the word of a wounded soldier, who insisted he had seen Villa wounded. He declared that for moral effect the news was withheld from the ranks of the rebel army.

YOUTH IS HELD FOR DEATH OF TEACHER

Had Been Expelled From School Taught by Young Woman

Little Falls, N. Y., March 30.—Eugene Gianini, 17 years old, arrested in connection with the murder of Miss Lydia Beecher, a teacher in the country school at Poland, whose body was found hidden in a clump of bushes on the outskirts of the village, is in the Herkimer county jail.

Some time ago the boy was expelled from Miss Beecher's school, and for the last two weeks he met her at every possible opportunity and pleaded to be reinstated. It is reported that the boy has confessed he killed the teacher.

Miss Beecher, who was 20 years old, had taught school in Poland for two years. Gianini was one of her most troublesome pupils.

DEATH OF RANDALL M'COY

Feud Leader Dies From Effects of Burns at Age of Ninety

Pikeville, Ky., March 30.—Randall McCoy, nonagenarian and one of the leaders of the famous Hatfield-McCoy feud, which for years terrorized the border districts of the states of Kentucky and West Virginia, died at the home of his grandson in this city. Death was caused by burns which he suffered last autumn.

Twenty-seven years ago McCoy's home was burned and one daughter and two sons were killed by the Hatfield clan. He lost two brothers in a subsequent fight, but pursued the feud so relentlessly that he eventually forced his enemies into hiding or out of the state.

The life history of McCoy is the history of a period where the reign of law was forgotten for many years.

BULLET 225 YEARS OLD

Probable Relic of Indian Battle Found Imbedded In Tree Trunk

Portland, Me., March 30.—Deeply imbedded in the solid trunk of a tree in Deerings Oaks, where it probably had rested for about 225 years, a bullet was disclosed when an employe of the park department felled the tree.

Examination of the bullet showed it is of a kind used more than two centuries ago, and it probably was fired in the Indian battle of Sept. 28, 1689.

Lillian Bell Granted Divorce

Delaware O., March 30.—Mrs. Lillian Bell Bogue, known in the literary world as Lillian Bell, obtained a divorce here from Arthur H. Bogue and the custody of her 11-year-old daughter. The charge was gross neglect.

Principles.

We must be careful to have our principles and be ready to die for them. But we must be careful not to label our prejudices "principles" and proceed to die for them.

CRISIS SIMMERS OVER SUNDAY

Heavy Guns Ready to Be Trained on Home Rule Bill

EACH SIDE EAGER FOR FRAY

Unionists Do Not Say Measure Is Doomed, While Nationalists Appear Confident of Victory—Predicted Dissolution of Parliament Means Coalition of Anti-Conservative Forces

London, March 30.—Sunday was indeed a day of rest, so far as the Ulster situation is concerned. Even the Downing street residence of the premier, the scene of so much bustle and excitement a week ago yesterday, was deserted.

All was quiet in the opposing home rule camps, while both sides gathered their breath before the great battle shall be renewed today.

Meanwhile Dublin is wondering how the home rule bill will be approached. The unionists are not prepared to assert that it is doomed, while the Nationalists express themselves as confident of victory.

The army incident, instead of weakening the government and injuring the prospects of home rule, has had precisely the opposite effect.

At any rate, today will see the fight renewed more bitterly than ever in the house of commons. Both parties are so eager that the respective leaders have not even considered it necessary to send the urgent three lined "whip" as usual in anticipation of critical divisions.

With a full house and united coalition, the government is assured of a majority on the second reading of the bill, but the belief is gaining ground that dissolution is not far off.

Even among the Liberals there are many who say they would welcome carrying the war into the open country.

If the outcome of the crisis is to be a general election in the near future, the Radical wing of the Liberal party will form a close alliance with the labor party, the coalition crystallizing its platform into the battle cry "The aristocrats against the people." Whatever may be the merits of their campaign, it seems to hold possibilities of vote-getting, which the Conservatives shy at.

HOSPITALS ARE FULL

Scarlet Fever Patients at Boston Cannot Be Accommodated

Boston, March 30.—It is admitted that Boston is housing hundreds of scarlet fever cases in crowded homes because suitable hospital accommodations are lacking. The lack of appropriation by the city is blamed for the conditions, described as "appalling."

It is understood that some 600 cases of scarlet fever are being cared for in the homes of the patients, almost all under conditions favoring contamination and working against the recovery of the stricken.

The city hospital is filled up to the last bed, and the old smallpox hospital on Northampton street is also full. Only paying patients are taken in hospitals in the suburbs, most of which, even at that, are filled up.

SLIDING INTO VALLEY

French Mountain Has Already Blotted Out a Number of Farms

Brive, France, March 30.—A large section of a mountain has become detached by seismic disturbances and is slowly sliding down the valley, sweeping everything in its path.

Already a number of farms and cottages have been blotted out and the highroads from Brive and Lanteuil have been destroyed for more than half a mile.

Heavy rumblings indicate that the mass is gaining impetus and the inhabitants are fleeing from their houses. Government engineers are seeking a means to limit the extent of the disaster.

PLUNGE INTO RIVER

Auto Party of Five Drown as Suspension Bridge Breaks

Fresno, Cal., March 30.—By the breaking of a suspension bridge across the San Joaquin river four men and one woman, crossing in an automobile, were plunged fifty feet into the swift stream and drowned. The bodies were not recovered.

Among the ocucpants of the machine were L. N. Peart, general superintendent of the San Joaquin Light and Power corporation, and J. E. Burgess, assistant superintendent.

Gets $11,800 For Crushed Arm

Boston, March 30.—Frank H. Page, whose right arm was crushed by having it caught in the machinery of the ferryboat Newtowne, was awarded damages in the sum of $11,800 in the Suffolk county superior court. The defendants were the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Railroad company.

Murder Suspect Exonerated

Salem, Mass., March 30.—Arthur Argeros, who was held on suspicion by the police in connection with the death of Elini Erinis, was exonerated and discharged by City Marshal Lehan.

GILMORE FAVORS PANAMA TOLLS

A Washington dispatch to a Boston paper says: Reports that Representative Gilmore of the Quincy district proposed to vote against the bill for repeal of the Panama Canal tolls exemption were declared by him today to be erroneous as he will vote for the measure. Mr. Gilmore said he had not given the subject very much thought until the proposal for repeal was made by President Wilson, when he began to study it deeply. Recently, he concluded, he had become convinced that the President was in the right, and decided to vote for the Repeal bill.

DOING PHILANTHROPIC WORK.

The Katharyn Crane Memorial Club is making preparation for a sale to be held Saturday afternoon, April 4th, at the home of Mrs. Emery L. Crane, 20 Whitney road. There will be fancy articles, cake, candy and ice cream and grabs for the children. The proceeds will be used for philanthropic work the coming year. During the past year this club of ten little girls has paid out over $167 in response to various appeals, besides, establishing a junior membership of the Day Nursery, which has added to the treasury of the Nursery nearly $20. The account of their expenditures is as follows:

Groceries	$51.40
Quincy Day Nursery	25.00
Needle-work Guild	5.00
Children's shoes	10.10
Coal	3.90
Country Week	15.00
Flowers for the sick	7.50
Visiting Nurse's salary	10.00
Christmas Gifts	1.87
Stationery	.55
Printing	2.50
Associated Charities	10.00
Alliance Christmas party	2.00
12 Ride Ticket to Boston (For children needing treatment	1.10
Eye-glasses for boy	.95
Cloth	2.02
Easter hair-ribbons (For the Children's Hospital, Boston)	4.00
Memorial Flowers First Church	15.00
	$167.89

All who are interested in the work of this Club are invited to attend the sale.

BUILDING PERMITS.

The Inspector of Buildings reports that the receipts for building permits issued during the month of March amounted to $92. There has been another rush for permits this week and of the number issued the greater part were for dwelling houses. They were as follows:

Joseph Morehouse, alteration, Centre street.

Inez H. Sandberg, dwelling, Elliot street.

Emelia T. Allard, dwelling, Eliot street.

Bridget McKeoun, dwelling, Sea street.

Frank A. Landgram, dwelling, Belevue road.

C. P. Mellows, dwelling, Conant road.

Elizabeth A. Billings, dwelling, Billings street.

Estate Fanny C. Adams, alteration, Hancock street.

H. B. Allen, dwelling, Bird street.

George Doring, dwelling, Gordon street.

John A. Clark, addition Thayer street.

Gustaf V. E. Brunstion, addition, Carleson street.

Quincy Lumber Co., miscellaneous, Pond street.

C. N. Brown, dwelling, Ocean street.

George F. Ray, dwelling, Squantum street.

Alfred B. Parker, garage, North Central avenue.

Connie E. LaBrecque, miscellaneous, Sea street.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

FREE LONDON "TANGO" NECKLACE "EVELYN THAW" BRACELET

These two beautiful pieces of popular jewelry are the craze among society women in New York and the largest cities. They are neat and elegant gold finished articles that will gladden the heart of every girl or woman, no matter how young or old. Very stylish and attractive.

Our Free Offer. We are advertising Spearmint Chewing Gum and desire to place a big box of this fine, healthful gum into every home. It sweetens the breath—whitens the teeth and aids digestion. It is refreshing and pleasing to all. To every lady sending us but 50c we will ship a big box of 20 regular 5c packages of the Spearmint Gum and include the elegant "Tango" necklace and "Evelyn Thaw" bracelet absolutely free.

This offer is for a short time only. Not more than 2 orders to one party. Dealers not allowed to accept this.

AMERICAN SALES COMPANY
Dayton, Ohio

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

WHAT IS A SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX?

It is a strong steel box, in a doubly-locked compartment in our fire and burglar-proof vault. You have the keys to it. It is absolutely PRIVATE and absolutely secure. You can go to it freely at any time during business hours.

This costs you only $5 per year—only half what you would have to pay for a smaller box in Boston.

Our $5 Box is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER

Private Residences. Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy
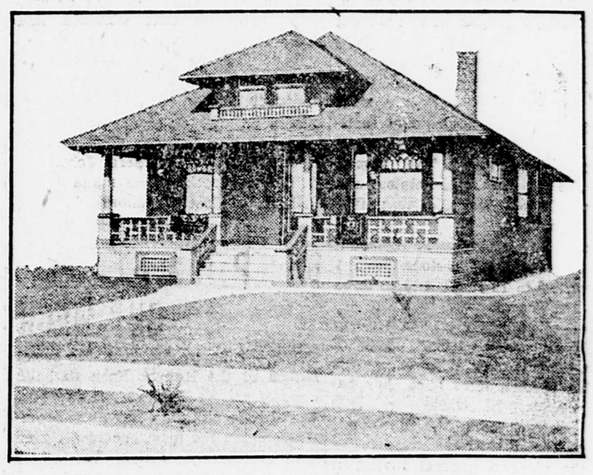
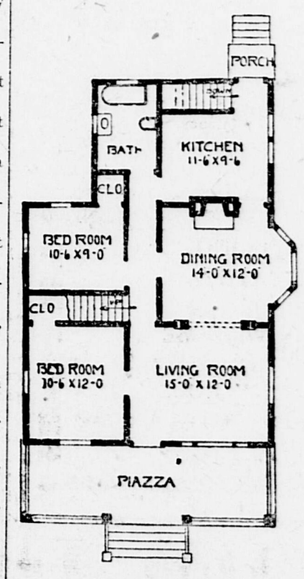
Feb. 10-tf

PLAIN ONE STORY BUNGALOW.

Design 766, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.



PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.



ROOM PLAN.

This bungalow has a well arranged first story plan, there being two good sized bedrooms and bathroom in the first story. There is also one large room that can be finished in second story. The dining room and living room are opened together by an archway. Dining room has an open fireplace; also a projecting bow window, which makes this room very attractive. Kitchen has space for built-in cupboards and stairway to basement. Size, 27 feet wide and 38 feet deep. Full basement. First story, 9 feet high. Finish throughout first story in clear quality of birch, with birch or maple floors throughout. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $2,100.

Upon receipt of $1 the publisher of this paper will supply a copy of Saxton's book of plans, "American Dwellings." It contains about 250 up to date designs of cottages, bungalows and residences costing from $1,000 to $6,000.

THE QUINCY GARAGE
87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435
Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-lo-tf

Among Our Churches

FIRST PARISH.

"Faith in Humanity" was the subject of Mr. Hudson's sermon on Sunday morning. He spoke of the Psalmist feeling of awe and humiliation in the face of the visible universe as expressed in the exclamation "What is man, that thou art mindful of him?" This, he said was a very natural feeling— and even more so today when we know so much more than the Psalmist did about the wonders of the universe. But on the other hand the will of man has made the forces of nature serve him; and the mind that can trace the orbit of a star is greater than the star.

But man becomes more significant when we consider, not his intellect or will, but, himself as a moral being. Here, however we meet the paradox that he is also an immoral being; and he is both at once. "The singular case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" is in some degree the life of every man. The soul of man is an endless battle ground of good and evil forces.

This fact has led to two diametrically opposite views in regard to mankind: First—that he is in his natural state an utterly lost depraved and fallen being and doomed to endless perdition unless saved by some power external to himself; second—that he is not ruined and lost, but incomplete. On his physical side he has instincts and tendencies which have grown strong through centuries of savage, if not through animal ancestors. On his spiritual side he is a child of God—kin to the Eternal Wisdom, Love and Goodness. And as between these two warring elements he is gifted with freedom of choice—a freedom in which lies tragedy, but in which also lies the possibility of character and growth. Accepting this second point of view a Unitarian's faith is in the essential dignity and worth of human life. Such faith is not an easy going optimism. It recognizes all the weakness and the sin that hinders human progress. The long and painful discipline through which human nature must win its way against opposing forces. But faith in man is, in the last analysis, faith in the power of the divine life implanted in each human soul.

Man has a body but he is a soul, and the most important thing in life, both for the individual and for society, is that each soul shall realize its highest possibilities. In this vast undertaking the christian church finds its greatest opportunity and its greatest need.

On next Sunday morning Mr. Hudson will preach upon "Faith in the church."

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

Large audiences attended the services at Bethany church Sunday, especially in the evening when every seat was taken. Over 500 were present at the Sunday School.

"A young man's ambition" was the subject of the pastor in the evening, and Rev. Mr. Willmott recommended that the young men become interested in questions of church and state. He criticised young women because they have not encouraged young men to go into religious and political life; also because they have not encouraged young men to have high ideals. Until their attitude is changed we can hardly expect improvement. Mothers also have discouraged their sons from going into politics and the ministry. Is it any wonder that there are weaklings in office, and in the pulpit?

The speaker noted that the tide was turning in favor of the church; that there was a great inflow religiously, and stronger men were getting in. It must also come to the state, but is now discouraging.

Our young men ought to lead in upholding the church and the government. They should inculcate in foreigners a better idea of the attitude of the church toward them, which is entirely different than in the old country. Break down race prejudices and make Syrian and Greek and Italians and others good citizens. To serve the stranger at our gates.

CALVARY BAPTIST.

Rev. C. C. Tilley returned to his flock Sunday with renewed vigor and preached a sterling sermon from the second Corinthian 4:1-2. He said that away back in the heart of vilest and most hardened sinner there was a consciousness of God. He related also two incidents to prove his contention. Where a minister had gone out West with only a Bible to protect him and among men who were robbers and thieves. When he read the Bible and knelt to pray every man there bowed in the presence of Almighty God. And again of the woman who found herself in Japan without funds. She made a futile appeal to the hotel proprietor who was holding her trunk to allow her to take her Bible that was given her by her mother. A company of American soldiers were present and the officer in charge gave the man just three minutes to give up that Bible. When the lady had recovered her precious gift the officer brought his company to attention, paying a great tribute to the Bible.

Bible study will be held in the church on Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Regular prayer meeting Thursday evening.

Mrs. Blodgdon will entertain the Ladies' sewing circle on Wednesday evening with a musical.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The music by the Girls' choir and the soloist, Mrs. Royal L. Turner, added much to the hour of worship Sunday morning. The pastor preached a helpful sermon on "Christian Living" which according to St. Paul consisted in living "soberly, righteously and Godly in this present age."

The pastor's preparatory class met after the morning service as usual. At the neighborhood meeting of the Young People's Religious Unions, Rev. Benjamin R. Bulkeley of Beverly gave the address.

"The Dial," the weekly calendar of the church, is to be made self-supporting and to this end every member and friend of the church is asked to make a subscription of fifty cents. The committee appointed by the church to solicit subscriptions to finance the Dial are Rev. Carl G. Horst, chairman, Dr. Charles L. Monroe, J. Harry Hooper, Mrs. William M. Burrell and Miss Fannie L. Johnson.

The last church supper and social of the season will be held in the vestry Friday evening, April 3, at 6.30 o'clock. Mrs. Clifton H. Baker and Mrs. Harold Green are in charge and will be assisted by a number of the young married ladies.

For the past two or three weeks there has been intense excitement in Newport, R. I., over the attempt of the Roman Catholics to secure an appropriation from the Representative Council toward the support of their parochial school. Happily for the preservation of our civil and religious liberty, the attempt was frustrated. What is needed in Massachusetts is a constitutional amendment prohibiting the use of public money for sectarian purposes.

The last in the series of special Lenten services will be held next Sunday evening, April 5, at 7.30 o'clock. The Rev. Frederic Gill of Abington will be the visiting preacher and a fine musical program will be rendered by the Shuman male Quartet of this city.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

Rev. I. W. Sneath's Sunday morning topic was: "The Unrecognized Christ;" text John 14:9. In the twentieth century, as in the first, Christ is unrecognized in the great works of the times in spite of the fact that it is through His power that these philanthropic movements have come about We need to recognize Him in our opportunities, our spiritual privileges, our personal relations. The highest ideal of service is the consciousness that you are rendering it unto His glory. The primary purpose of life is to grow a soul and we can never do it until we consciously recognize our Master. The recognized Christ means the happier life, the more successful life, the Christian life."

The Ladies' Auxiliary of W. B. M. will meet Wednesday with Mrs. Lincoln. The study chapter is in charge of Mrs. Sneath.

Regular midweek service on Thursday evening, conducted by Deacon Smith. Topic: "The Crucifixion."

An Alphabet Tea will be held Friday with Mrs. A. A. Lincoln, 109 Lincoln Avenue. Come and be social—help and be helped.

Friday evening in the vestry, Mrs. Bammon, a missionary from China, will talk, and show pictures with the antern, for the benefit of the Mission Band.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

"A life well pleasing," Romans 14: 17-18, was the subject and text of the morning sermon by the pastor, Rev. Joseph Walther. The whole of the chapter mentioned applies to the subject, but the two verses chosen sum it all up: "For the kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost for he that in these things serveth Christ, is well pleasing unto God, and approved of men." We cannot judge others for we are not worthy, only One can do that. But if we have this righteousness and peace and joy in our lives, not only will we please God, but men in their best judgment, will approve us.

The membership contest of the Junior C. E. closed Sunday, the winners being the Red team, Captain Norman Hall. During the past weeks the children have collected $21.09 in their mite boxes, the most collected by one child being $1.14. At the meeting of the Senior C. E. society, Dr. Atkins of Chowchowfu, spoke of his hospital work in China.

The duets on the organ and piano are becoming quite a feature of the Sunday evening services; last evening "The Chimes" was repeated by request. Miss R. L. Hardy sang "O, rest in the Lord," and there was also music by the chorus choir. The pastor's subject was "Riches of the best sort."

Tuesday evening, the Rand class holds its annual ladies' night at 8.45 in the chapel.

Monday evening, a cottage prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Forsyth, 25 Rawson road, Norfolk Downs.

Wednesday afternoon at 3 the regular business meeting of the Social and Benevolent Society will be held in the chapel.

Thursday evening, the monthly Covenant meeting of the church will be held in the chapel. Those who are to unite with the church by letter or baptism should be present.

Friday evening, a praise and preaching service will be held in Community hall, Montclair.

PARK AND DOWNS.

Rev. William B. Ayers, pastor, gave his hearers Sunday morning a very practical lesson for every day life—from Ephesians IV-15-25. He demonstrated most forcibly how strong are the tendencies of humanity to be untruthful, both in social and business life. The lesson was an inspiration that we might live up to the high standard of truth and purity which brought to the writer's mind the words of the poet—

"I would be true, for there are those who trust me.
I would be pure, for there are those who care,
I would be strong for there is much to suffer.
I would be brave for there is much to dare.

The evening sermon was on the subject: "Popular songs and their effect on the nation's life." The text was taken from 9th Psalm—"May the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength and my Redeemer." The minister explained to his people how the various forces play upon our lives and help determine what shall be the qualities of our being. If we are at all interested in what our natures are becoming, then no influence that acts upon those natures is without significance.

The speaker then examined music and song as an "influence upon character and it was extremely interesting to follow the history of music and the development of its influence. Then he scored the popular songs of our day, revealing the subtle and sinister influence of many of them; their tendency to mock at conventionality and laugh at restraint. Others he referred to as being not immoral but unmoral and silly, bad examples of grammar and a waste of time. He said that the most of them are not bold enough to be excluded from the mails and if forbidden by our new legislative enactments would but appear in more subtle forms.

He referred to law as being unreliable, not permanent. The reform measure of one session amended beyond usefulness at the next. There must be developed a universal standard, by which these and all other things shall be judged and measured Law is not the same in any two States or nations. Mankind cannot agree on man made laws. There must be some heavenly standard and people must be brought to agree that the law is divine. Therefore the reasonable and universal method of reform is to bend all energies toward the universal acceptance of Christ and His standard. Upon that ground alone can all classes, all races, meet.

The characteristic eloquence and energy of the speaker and his uplifting influences impress others with the helpfulness of the lesson taught.

HALL PLACE M. E.

Rev. T. C. Martin preached on the text "Christ in you the hope of glory," Col. 1-27, at the Sunday morning service at the Hall Place M. E. church.

The Sunday School showed an increased in attendance over the past two Sundays. J. M. Francis led the Epworth League devotional service at 6.15 on the life of John Wesley.

Wednesday evening the Ladies Aid will hold a social in the vestry, at which time the "Self-Denial" envelopes wil be brought in.

Thursday evening, the Fowler chapter of the Brotherhood will meet in the vestry.

Friday evening, the pastor desires to meet the Sunday school teachers, the probationers, and those who took a stand in the Sunday school on Decision day.

Sunday evening, April 5, the old folks choir will repeat some of the music of the old folks concert.

PASSION PLAY.

Moving pictures of the Passion Play at Oberamergau were given in St. Joseph's hall Sunday under the auspices of St. Mary's Guild and practically the entire membership of the St. Mary's parish were present. The afternoon was devoted to children and adults in the evening. The lecture in the evening was delivered by Joseph H. McPherson, a member of the School Committee, and sacred songs were rendered by Joseph Daley, Walter Pendis Thomas Joyce, Paul and Joseph Morrisette.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

THE SOUL.

The soul of man is audible, not visible. A sound alone betrays the flowing of the eternal fountain, invisible to man.—Longfellow.

The soul is a fire that darts its rays through all the senses; it is in this fire that existence consists; all the observations and all the efforts of philosophers ought to turn toward this fire, the center and moving power of our sentiments and our ideas.—Mme. de Stael.

Advertisers Ask Only A Fair Trial

By HOLLAND.

ADVERTISERS do not attempt to make you agree to buy their goods for the rest of your life. They only want you to give their wares a trial, to subject them to actual test by actual use, and then be guided by experience.

Could anything prove more clearly that the advertiser has supreme confidence in his product, that he is absolutely certain that it will please you, that it will be all he says it is?

It would indeed be foolish to spend money to induce you to buy an article that would prove unsatisfactory and would result in your telling friends and neighbors of your experience. Advertisers spend millions making their trademarks known, and in order to make their trademarks valuable they must stand for a certain standard of worth. Having made their trademarks known, manufacturers exert every effort to keep the goods up to the expected high grade.

YOU CAN'T GO WRONG IN FOLLOWING ADVERTISEMENTS.

A bread made after a fixed formula by expert bakers, sold by Grocers under its trade-mark name "PETER PARLEY." It is wrapped for protection.

CHAMP CLARK

He Opposes Administration on Canal Tolls Repeal

© 1914, by American Press Association.

LOSS OF SPEAKERSHIP

What May Happen to Clark For Opposing Wilson on Canal Tolls

Washington, March 30.—Predictions are made that when the Sims bill for the repeal of the exemption clause of the Panama canal act comes up for vote next Wednesday that it will be carried by a majority of about seventy-five votes.

Speaker Clark's stand against the president and the bill appears likely to cost him dearly. Democrats in the house who stand with the president declare Clark will not be permitted to succeed himself even if the next house is Democratic.

Those in favor of the bill predict that when the vote is taken there will be 205 Democrats, 22 Republicans and 2 Progressives for the bill, with 50 Democrats, 22 Republicans and 17 Progressives against it. This estimate does not make any allowance for absentees.

AN EIGHT-HOUR DAY AT PRESENT WAGES

Demanded by Members of I. W. W. In Lawrence Mills

Lawrence, Mass., March 30.—In resolutions adopted here the I. W. W. announced that it would make new demands of the mill owners which might result in a labor crisis here more serious than any since the great strike two years ago.

The resolutions, which were sent to the state board of conciliation and arbitration, announce that the I. W. W. intends to demand an eight-hour day in the mills, with no reduction of pay.

The I. W. W. suggests that members of the board go into the mills as employes for a few weeks to observe conditions.

The resolutions are prompted by the existing strike of employes of the Pacific Print works.

USED MAILS TO DEFRAUD

Man Who Posed as Rich and Pretty Woman Is Sent to Prison

Chicago, March 30.—August Pajonk, who, under the names of "Mrs Anna Schwartz" and "Miss Eva Kline," masqueraded as a marriageable woman who would bring beauty and wealth to her husband, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for using the mails to defraud.

In addition to obtaining more than $3000 from men who believed they could marry the original of attractive photographs sent them by Pajonk, the defendant obtained much money through mail orders for choice geraniums which never grew.

KILLS HIS ASSAILANT

Action of Buffalo Patrolman Commended by Chief of Police

Buffalo, March 30.—Patrolman Tigue was exonerated and commended by Chief of Police Regan for killing Charles G. Keller, 27 years old, a stationary engineer.

The policeman interfered in a fight between Keller and another man, and Keller turned on him. Tigue was being beaten when he drew his revolver and shot Keller through the heart.

Woman Freed of Murder Charge

Irvine, Ky., March 30.—Miss Maud Tipton, on her second trial, was acquitted by a jury in the circuit court here of the charge of having murdered Reuben Todd, a merchant.

To Enforce Sanitary Rules

Washington, March 30.—The senate passed the house bill directing the issue of regulations for keeping in sanitary condition all interstate passenger cars.

Armed Men Rob Bank

Tacoma, Wash., March 30.—Seven armed men entered the Elma National bank at Elma, made a prisoner of the cashier and escaped with about $40[illegible]

Correct Corsetry

is the desire of every woman. There is no garment more important in your Spring wardrobe than the

CORSET

Carrying a large assortment of the leading well known brands—you will find here a corset to fit every figure. The Spring models have many new features such as the Topless Corset—Normal Line—Free Hip Bone—and those giving the "slouch" so much in vogue.

CAREFUL ATTENTION GIVEN TO FITTING

CORSETS PRICED FROM

$1.00 to $10.00

New and dainty effects in perfect fitting

— BRASSIERES —

Also Hosiery and McCalls Patterns

DeBevoise

THE CORSET SHOP

S. E. DUNPHY 8 MAPLE STREET

March 28-tf

CITY AND TOWN CONFERENCE

Called by Governor Walsh for Saturday April 4

Governor Walsh has called a conference to begin at Ford hall, Boston, at 9.30, April 4, dealing with the development of agricultural and rural life, similar to conferences of a like nature which have been held in many cities. The idea is for a free discussion of the important problems of city and town progress, and a discussion of ways and means of making Massachusetts cities and towns better places in which to live and work.

The Governor has extended an invitation to attend the conference to the Boards of Trade throughout the Commonwealth and hopes that the results of the conference will be far reaching.

In his notice the Governor says "it is time we began more seriously to plan and build them for the greatest future than can be theirs. A multitude of problems enter into the best city planning and city building. This conference is called for getting information and practical suggestions that will assist in making our cities and towns greater in the entire field of civic advancement and industria: progress. It will discuss methods of securing these benefits without burdensome and unnecessary increase of taxation."

The conference will have the assistance of Benjamin M. Rastall, director of the municipal service bureau of New York, and a man of national reputation in development work.

James H. Fahey, the newly elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America, will act as chairman.

In closing the Governor says "I propose, with your assistance, that Massachusetts shall lead the states in a great movement for city and town development, in all that makes for beauty of order, health, education, happiness of life and sane industrial progress.

"Ours is one of the greatest industrial states of the Union. Let us keep her in the forefront as such. Our factories and their products are known in every corner of the civilized world. Let us extend their influence and add to their reputation."

WORK FOR NAVY YARD.

Four battleships and seven destroyers are coming to the Charlestown Navy yard for repairs. Senator Weeks was informed Friday by Secretary Daniels at Washington that the department contemplated no reductions in the force of workingmen. The battleships due are the Rhode Island, Nebraska, Virginia and George. The destroyers coming in are Ammen, Burrows, Cassin, Cummings, Paterson, Paulding and Trippe.

Limit of Pessimism.

Clergyman (indignantly)—"You say you haven't anything to be thankful for? Why, look at your neighbor Hayes; he has just lost his wife by influenza." Burke—"But that don't do me any good; I ain't Hayes."

EVERYDAY THOUGHTS.

We can't all win in the battle of life, but if fortune doesn't favor us we can at least try to be good losers. It isn't easy, but it is possible.

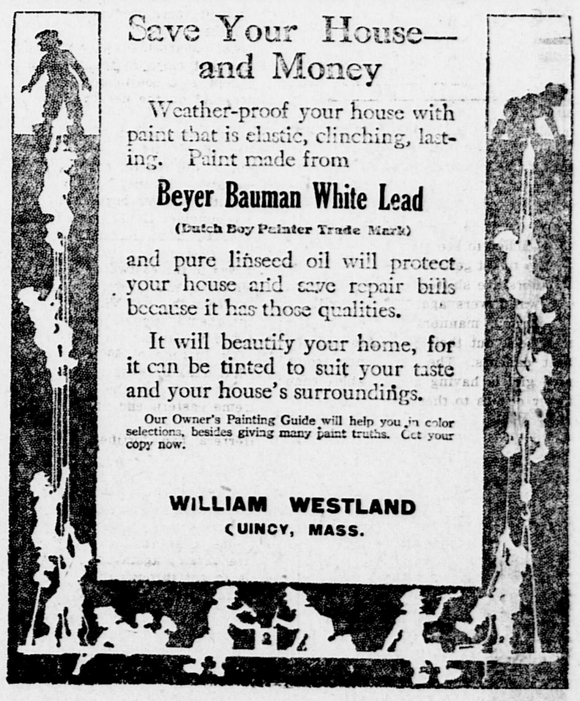
It would save such a lot of disappointment if we could all make up our minds to the fact that never so long as the world lasts will other people agree with us as to what they should or should not do.

Some of us badly need to be reminded that home is not a place provided for the express convenience of people who want to grumble.

If you want to enjoy life set out every day with a determination to be amused and interested and refuse to be bored.

If a blessing is removed don't make yourself miserable by lamenting its loss. Look round and see if there are other blessings within reach that you have never made the most of. Give these a little attention.

Discontent is so infectious that people who habitually allow their discontent to get the upper hand really ought to be isolated for the benefit of the community.



Save Your House— and Money

Weather-proof your house with paint that is elastic, clinching, lasting. Paint made from

Beyer Bauman White Lead

(Dutch Boy Painter Trade Mark)

and pure linseed oil will protect your house and save repair bills because it has those qualities.

It will beautify your home, for it can be tinted to suit your taste and your house's surroundings.

Our Owner's Painting Guide will help you in color selections, besides giving many paint truths. Get your copy now.

WILLIAM WESTLAND
QUINCY, MASS.

CHICHESTER S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-ches-ter-s Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER-S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

FREE HALF DOZEN BEAUTIFUL SPOONS FREE

We acquaint you with the very latest, daintiest, most deliciously flavored surprising attraction in confection "LA RITA" Chocolates, we will give absolutely free six beautiful "Cuban Pattern" Extra Crown Brand silver teaspoons. A fortunate purchase of this celebrated silverware and our certainty that you'll buy our LA RITA Chocolates after one taste, prompts us to make this generous offer. La RITA Chocolates are a dollar a pound everywhere.

Upon receipt of $1.00 and the names of five lovers of good candy in your locality we will send you postpaid a full size box of LA RITA Chocolates with the six teaspoons. There is no other way you can spend a dollar and get such delicious surprising flavors and absolute purity.

PURITY CANDY COMPANY.
P. O. Box 91 Middletown, Ohio

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
F. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Unsettled with occasional showers Monday and Tuesday with somewhat warmer weather Tuesday.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.29
Sun sets	6.09
Length of day	12.40
Moon sets	3.23
High water, A. M.	2.00
High water, P. M.	2.30
Days increase 3 hours, 34 minutes
First Quarter, March 5	12.03 A. M.
Full Moon, March 11	11.19 P. M.
Last Quarter, March 18	2.39 P. M.
New Moon, March 26	1.09 P. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	40 degrees
Mar. 52 1913,	58 degrees
March 30, 1914,	52 degrees
Mar. Noon Maximum, 18 years	75
March Noon Minimum, 18 years	23

Sibilant Sound.

The Critic—You'll have to change this line: "I have my doubts, be hissed." No one could hiss those words.

The Author—Well, a villain has to hiss, so let's make it "I still see some suspicious circumstances." — Boston Globe.

NEWSY BRIEFS

Maple lodge Knights and Ladies of Honor, will close their meeting on Wednesday evening with a whist party.

The Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. Carl E. Bates, 141 Warren avenue, this evening.

Charles G. Mansfield, 62 years of age, died about midnight in his home in the rear of 3 Granite street. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Arthur Taylor of 33 Cottage avenue. His funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Abigail Adams Rebekah lodge of South Weymouth will receive a visitation from the members of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge of this city on Wednesday evening, and arrangements have been made for a large number. The trip will be made by trolley, leaving City Square at 5.55 P. M.

Had to Be Watched.

"Woa, dar, Politician!" shouted old Brother Bogus to the animal he was endeavoring to drive in the way it should go. "Woa, dar, dad-souse yo' ornery picter, or I'll—Sah? W'y—uh-kee-hee—sah, I calls dis yuh mule Politician uh-kaze de minute yo' takes yo' eye off'n de bodacious scoun'el right den he's into devilbent. Uh-yaw! haw! haw!"

PRATT'S BREAD is liked by the most discriminating people. Grocers sell it.

Only One "BROMO QUININE"

Whenever you feel a cold coming on, think of the full name, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for the signature of E. W. GROVE on box. 25c.

K. C. CLUB TOURNAMENT

Quincy Council Is Leading Ave Maria

The first leg of the club tournament between Ave Maria council and Quincy council in the Knights of Columbus rooms, Quincy, on Saturday night resulted in a 5 to 4 lead by Quincy council. The second leg is a bowling match which takes place at the City Square alleys Tuesday evening.

The play was witnessed by a large gallery of members of both councils and their friends. Napoleon Grignon the checker champ of Ave Maria was not with the visitors, and many lost an opportunity to see him in action. The matches were full of action. Refreshments were served at their close. The points garnered were:

Quincy		Ave Maria
4	Whist	1
0	Pool	2
1	Cribbage	0
0	Checkers	1

The play was as follows:

WHIST.

Quincy	Ave Maria
T. Ford & C. Geating	39
J. McGilvray & G. Reinhalter	12
G. Bliss & McDermott	25
O. O'Toole & M. Crowley	14
E. Parker & R. Sullivan	33
T. J. Shortle & M. King	21
A. Driscoll & H. McGrath	15
J. Dunn & A. Paradise	2
Welsh & J. Cantfill	7
Mahoney & J. LeClair	49

CRIBBAGE.

P. Cahill & B. Myatt	5
Buzzie & E. Martell	2

CHECKERS.

T. J. McLaughlin	3
M. E. Barrett	1

POOL.

Moriarty 28 lost to Desmond 50
Boyle 30 lost to Bizzozero 50

BASE BALL AT WEST QUINCY

Committees representing St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society, Ave Maria council, Knights of Columbus; Copeland Club and Div. 22, A. O. H. met in Hibernian hall, Sunday afternoon and organized the West Quincy base ball league. The cardinal point on which the organization is based is that all players must be members of the society they represent.

Committees were appointed to draw up a constitution and bylaws which will be presented to the league at their meeting on Thursday night in St. Mary's hall.

The league will hold a May party in St. Mary's hall on May night and the committee in charge is Charles J. McHugh, Ralph A. Elcock, Joseph LeClair, James Sweeney, A. Cohen.

The officers are: President—Charles J. McHugh; Secretary—Frank L. McPherson; Treasurer—James Sweeney; Board of Directors—Charles J. McHugh, Walter Ogle, Michael Perkins, Angelo Bizzozero, Oswald D. Shea.

WANDERERS WIN.

After trailing along in third position for over one half of the schedule in the Junior Class of the Y. M. C. A. team work, the Wanderers, led by Roger Ahlstrom took a fine spurt and succeeded in winning out from the Pilgrims by just one half of a point. The final score was as follows: Wanderers, 69 points; Pilgrims, Capt. Hendry, 68.5 points; Puritans, Capt. Jenkins 53.8 points; B. A. A., Capt. Wester, 53.1 points. A shield or cup will be awarded to the winning team and individual ribbons given to the boys.

RAND CLASS LEAD.

The Sunday School bowling league standing to date is:

	W	L	P.C.
Rand	14	6	.700
Makaria	12	8	.600
Davis	10	10	.500
Clark	4	16	.200

The final matches will be rolled this week and it looks now as if the Rand Class would win the championship. On Wednesday night the Davis and Makaria classes will meet, and on Friday night the Rand and Clark teams will roll each other.

Make the Milk Jug Sweet.

To sweeten a milk jug, scald it with boiling water, then fill with cold water and add a teaspoonful of salt and leave it for five minutes before emptying it.

SPORT NEWS

Franz R. Marceau, '14, of Wollaston ran the fastest mile in his life when he trooped around a six lap track and broke the tape in 4 minutes, 25 1-2 seconds,— 4 seconds better than his own time of 4 minutes 29 1-5 seconds made last year at the annual games, at Dartmouth college on Saturday.

Poehler has an average of 112 in the Boston City league as a member of the Chauncey team and in the Littlefield All-Star league his average is 108. Christopher tops him in the latter with one pin.

Mark Gill of Atlantic, high average man in the Heptasophs bowling league which closed a week ago is one of three men leading in the Columbus Club league with averages of 98.

SCHEDULE IN TWO DIVISIONS

The convention of the Massachusetts baseball league was held in the Revere police station Friday with 50 delegates present. The welcome was extended by Chief C. T. Bradbury of Revere. Lynn is back this year with a strong team after an absence of a year.

The schedule will be arranged in two divisions Division 1, will comprise Lowell, Lawrence, Somerville, Everett, Lynn and Revere. Division 2 will consist of Newton, Quincy, Chelsea, Metropolitan park and Cambridge, and Boston.

Division 13 of Boston will receive assistance from two other stations in mailing up their Boston team. Somerville and Everett will be permitted to draft three men from Saugus.

SUNDAY SCHOOL BASKET BALL.

Three games were played Saturday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. Gym in the Sunday School league and one was forfeited. The big score of the afternoon was made by the First Presbyterian team of Class "B" Div. 2, who defeated the Wollaston Congregational 44 to 0. McDonald of the winners made 9 goals from the floor getting 8 in the second half.

In Class "B," Div. 1 the Washington Street Congregational won from the Swedish Lutheran in a hot game the score ending 6 to 3.

In Class "A" Div I, the Washington Street Congregational defeated the Park and Downs by the score of 18 to 10. "Legs" Roache was the star for the winners while Morris did good work for the losing team.

The Sacred Hearts of Atlantic forfeited to the Christ Church team, but a scrub game was played and the Christ Church boys won out the score being 21 to 16.

QUINCY POST OFFICE.

Letters unclaimed for week ending Saturday March 28: Kustaa Aromaa, Mrs. Bearis, Mada Bona Belanga, Patrick Boyle, Miss May Chandler, Cirillo Cometti, B. J. Coyle, C. E. Crawford, Miss Edith Downey, Mrs. Katie Houghton, George B. Keene, John Kujanpaa, B. H. Lord & Co., A. G. Lundin, Bouodska Mmbunrykz, Mimmi Paakkonen, Miss Florenc Paige, Charles O. Peterson, Antonio Pirrtano Kristian Raas, Miss Anna Rauvari, Lieut. J. H. Rowen, Luigi Suazini, George V. Stewart, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Wright, Peter Yalska, Vrel Yghirz.

OUR FRIENDS IN WOLLASTON

Give Added Praise. Their Statements Are Convincing.

It is gratifying for us to read such good news as the following, for it shows that the experience of our friends in Wollaston is the same as that of many Quincy men and women who have spoken out so heartily in these columns:

Richard W. Smith, painter, 14 Blake street, Wollaston, Mass., says: "I suffered from a painful back and kidney trouble for a long time. I was so stiff in damp and rainy mornings that it was some time before I got limbered up enough to dress myself. There was a dull, heavy pain through the small of my back. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills fixed me up all right. I have used this remedy off and on since, whenever I have needed a kidney tonic. Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to put me in good shape. In my present work, painting, I find Doan's Kidney Pills to be just the medicine I need for keeping my kidneys in good working order. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills before, and am glad to do so again."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

ASKED TO STAY DEATH PENALTY

Petition to Governor Glynn Is Signed by Ten Jurors

PLEA IN BEHALF OF GUNMEN

Four Under Sentence of Death Should Have Opportunity to Avail Themselves of Any Development In Their Favor During Second Trial of Former Lieutenant Becker

New York, March 30.—Ten of the twelve trial jurors who found the four gunmen guilty of the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, have signed a petition asking Governor Glynn to stay the execution of death, set for next month, until after the second trial of Charles Becker, the former police lieutenant, whose conviction was set aside last month by the state court of appeals.

Every possibility of error should be eliminated, the ten jurors pointed out; hence their request for a reprieve or a stay, "to the end that if anything hereafter may occur, or any information be procured during the trial of Charles Becker which may redound to the benefit of the defendants, they may have an opportunity, at the proper time, to avail themselves of such development or relation."

Counsel for the gunmen will present the petition to the governor today, with various other petitions, among them one by the gunmen—"Dago Frank "Cirofioi, "Leftie Louie" Rosenberg, Harry Horowitz ("Gyp the Blood") and Jacob Seidensher ("Whitey Louis").

The four request, first, that the judgment of death be commuted "to such term of imprisonment as to the governor may seem just and proper," and second, "that the execution of judgment be stayed and reprieve be granted until after the final determination of the indictment" against Becker.

COAL MINES TO CLOSE

About Fifty Thousand Men Will Be Affected by Shutdown In Ohio

Cleveland, March 30.—All coal mines in Ohio will shut down on April 1, and remain closed until a wage contract can be made with the miners and the mine run payment basis removed, C. E. Maurer, president of the Ohio coal operators, announced here.

About 50,000 men will be affected by the shutdown, which Maurer says is a matter of self-protection for the operators, in view of the contracts made between mine workers and mine owners in the competitive states, Pennsylvania and Indiana, at Chicago, recently.

OLD LANDMARK GONE

Tilden Homestead Is Destroyed by Fire of Unknown Origin

Pittsfield, Mass., March 30.—The Samuel J. Tilden homestead in New Lebanon, N. Y., was destroyed by fire. The inmates, employes of the Tilden Chemical company, were able to make their escape just in time. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The house was built about 125 years ago by Elan Tilden, father of Samuel J. Tilden. It was the chief historic building in the Lebanons. In Tilden's will the place was left to two nephews, Samuel J. Tilden, who died recently, and George H. Tilden of this city. The loss is about $5000.

TIME TO SELL OUT

W. C. T. U. Leader Says Brewery Stock Will Soon Be Worthless

Kansas City, March 30.—"If you have any money in the liquor business, get it out and get it out quick; in five years brewery stock in this country will not be worth as much as confederate money was in 1865," declared Mrs. Mary H. Armor, addressing the Interstate National W. C. T. U. rally held here.

The meeting was the first of a series of interstate gatherings to be convened throughout the country to fight for national constitutional prohibition.

OPERATED FOR YEARS

Carefully Concealed Moonshiners' Plant Finally Unearthed

Charlestown, W. Va., March 30.—Revenue officers raided a moonshine still in Mercer City, capturing a quantity of corn whisky and 130 gallons of beer.

The plant, of seventy-three gallons capacity and complete in every particular, is said to have been in operation for several years, but was so carefully concealed that federal officers were unable to locate it. Charles R. Mills was arrested.

Drops Dead at Bowling Match

Brockton, Mass., March 30.—While in the act of winning a closely drawn bowling match, Professor Frank E. Gurney, for fifteen years a teacher at the Bridgewater normal school, dropped dead from apoplexy. He was 50 years old.

Man and Wife Killed by Gas

Fall River, Mass., March 30.—William Pickering and his wife, Mary, were found dead in their tenement at 1681 Main street, as a result of inhaling illuminating gas fumes.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Andrew McIntosh late of Quincy in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Lulu Weaver of said Quincy without giving a surety on her bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twelfth day of March A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 16-3t 16-23-30

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Bessie L. Capen, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Arthur F. Capen of said Quincy without giving a surety on his bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham, in said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April, A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said court, this eighteenth day of March, A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 3t 19-23-30

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the devisees, legatees, and all other persons interested in the estate of Alvin F. Parker, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, testate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration with the will annexed, on the estate of said deceased, not already administered, to George E. Adams of said Quincy or some other suitable person. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April, A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all devisees and legatees named in said will seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of March, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
Mar. 3t 19-23-30

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To all persons interested in the trusts under the will of Joseph W. Robertson late of Quincy in said County deceased:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by John F. Hunt of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, praying that he be appointed trustee under the will of said deceased, which has been proven in said Court. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-seventh day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t Mar. 28-30 April 6

EXECUTRIX NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executrix of the will of George E. Young, late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased, testate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to ANNIE J. PRATT, Executrix.

(Address)
57 Quincy Street, Quincy, Mass.
March 16th, 1914.
Mar. 18-3t 18-23-30

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Peter J. McPartlin late of Quincy in said County, deceased intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to John J. McPartlin of said Quincy without giving a surety on his bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court this twentieth day of March A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t Mar. 23-30 Apr 6.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To William Murphy of Quincy in said County of Norfolk, and to his heirs apparent or presumptive, and to the State Board of Insanity:

Whereas, a petition for guardianship has been presented to said Court, by George J. Murphy of Quincy in the County of Norfolk and Arthur B. Hultman of said Quincy alleging that said William Murphy is an insane person, and incapable of taking care of himself, and praying that said George J. Murphy of Quincy or some other suitable person, may be appointed his guardian, agreeably to the law in such case made and provided. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in and for said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why a guardian should not be appointed as aforesaid. And said petitioners are hereby directed to cause you to be notified of the time and place appointed for the hearing of said complaint, by serving said William Murphy and said State Board of Insanity, with a copy of this order, seven days at least before said Court; and by mailing to said heirs apparent or presumptive at the last known post office address of each, a copy of the same, seven days at least before said Court, or instead of said mailing, by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this seventeenth day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
3t Mar. 21-23-30

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of William H. Stevenson, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Inga M. Stevenson of said Quincy without giving a surety on her bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twentieth day of March, A. D. 1914.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register.
21-3t Mar. 21-23-30

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of Alvin Parker, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, not already administered, to George E. Adams of Quincy or to some other suitable person. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the first day of April A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of March, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

J. R. McCOOLE, Register
3t Mar. 19-23-30

MAINE POTATOES

25c PECK

— AT —

Carlson's Restaurant

10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall

March 6-1m

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES

20 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.

Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.

MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar,
Tel. Quincy 131-W.

Bay State Street Railway Company

TIME TABLE

In effect April 8, 1913.

(Subject to change without notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Braintree, 5.15, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 10.25 P. M. Sundays, 7.55 A. M. and then same as week days.

Brockton, 6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.50 A. M., then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton 5.20, 7 A. M., and every 30 minutes to 9.30 P. M. Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

West Quincy, and East Milton, 5.30 5.50, 6.10 A. M., and every 20 minutes to 11.10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.) Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M. and every 20 minutes to 11.45 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.15 midnight.) Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.05 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.35 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 5.50, 6.15, 6.45, 7.00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.45 P. M. Sundays, 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40, 7.10, 7.40, A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 8.50, 7.40 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. Return leave Houghs Neck, 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M. then 12.10 midnight. Sundays, 7.30, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M. every 30 minutes to 11.35 P. M.

Neponset via Hancock Street,—5.15 5.20, 6.50 A. M. and every 30 min. to 10.50 P. M. then 11.50 midnight. Sundays, 6.50 A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.40 7.10, 7.40 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 11.10 P. M. then 12.35 midnight. Sundays, 7.40 A. M. then same as week days.

Neponset, via Norfolk Downs, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 8, 8.30 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11 P. M.) Sundays, 7.30 A. M. then the same as week days Return, leave Neponset, 7, 7.20 A. M. and every 30 minutes to 10.30 P. M. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30 P. M.) Sundays, 8 A. M. then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.30, 6.00, 6.25 6.55, 7.25 7.55 A. M. then every 30 minutes, until and including 10.55 P. M. Sundays, 7.25, A. M. then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15 7.45 A. M. then every 30 minutes until and including 11.15 P. M. Sundays 7.45 A. M. then same as week days.

Leave NEPONSET for

Squantum, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55 8.25, 9.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 4.35 P. M. then 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.30, P. M. Sundays, 7.35, A. M. every 60 minutes to 10.35 P. M. Return, leave Squantum, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 5.00 P. M. then 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 11.50 P. M. Sundays, 7.15, 8.00 A. M. every 60 minutes to 11.00 P. M.

THOMAS GAMMON, Superintendent.

MAINE
TATOES
5c PECK
— AT — n's Restaurant
Depot Street
p. City Hall
March 6-1m

CY REGISTRY
OR NURSES
ey Road, Quincy, Mass.
bly trained and practical ndants and nursery assis-
charge will be made to ng for Nurses.
L. CRANE, Registrar,
181-W.

Street Railway Company
TIME TABLE
fect April 2, 1913,
to change without notice,
ave QUINCY for
6.15, 6.50 A. M. and every
to 10.50 P. M. Sundays,
then same as week days.
e Braintree, 6.25 A. M.,
minutes to 10.25 P. M.
5 A. M. and then same as
6.15, 6.50 A. M., and every
to 8.50 P. M., then 9.50 P.
7.50 A. M., then same as
Return, leave Brockton
., and every 30 minutes to Sundays, 8 A. M. then same ys
ney, and East Milton, 5.30
M., and every 20 minutes
M. (Wednesdays and Sat-
0 P. M.) Sundays, 5.50 A.
as week days. Return
Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 A. M.
minutes to 11.45 P. M. s and Saturdays, 12.10
Sundays, 7.25 A. M., then
ek days.
rmouth, 6.00, 6.15, 6.35,
M. every 30 minutes to
then 11.50 P. M. Sundays,
then same as week days.
East Weymouth, 5.50,
00, 7.10, 7.45, A. M. every
to 11.45 P. M. Sundays,
then same as week days.
eck, 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40,
M. every 30 minutes to
then 11.50 P. M. Sundays,
M. every 30 minutes to Return leave Heaghs
.30, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00,
M. every 30 minutes to
. then 12.10 midnight.
0, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05 A. M.
utes to 11.35 P. M.
via Hancock Street,—5.45
M. and every 30 min. to hen 12.50 midnight. Sun-
M. then same as week
rn, leave Neponset, 6.40
M. and every 30 minutes
then 12.35 midnight. Sun
M. then same as week
via Norfolk Downs, 6.25,
8.20 A. M. and every 20
0 P. M. (Wednesdays and
P. M.) Sundays, 7.20 A.
same as week days Re-eponset, 7, 7.20 A. M. and utes to 10.40 P. M. Wed-
Saturdays, 11.50 P. M.)
A. M. then same as week
Lawley, 5.36, 6.02, 6.22
6 A. M. then every 20
ll and including 10.40 P.
8, 7.25, A. M. then same
ys. Return, leave Ashine, 5.45, 6.15, 6.40, 7.15 en every 30 minutes un-ing 12.15 P. M. Sundays
hen same as week days
e NEPONSET for
6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55
M. every 60 minutes to hen 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25,
25, 10.35 P. M. Wednes-
Saturdays, 11.30, P. M.
5, A. M. every 60 minutes
. Return, leave Squan-
30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00
60 minutes to 5.00 P. M.
6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00,
P. M. Wednesdays and
11.50 P. M. Sundays,
M. every 60 minutes to
THOMAS GAFFNEY,
Superintendent.

AGenius

But a Genius In His Own Way

By EVERETT P. CLARKE

Ned Meacham was born to a singular career. As a child he was called Dombey, from Paul Dombey, the little boy in one of Charles Dickens' novels. It was not that he was especially spiritual, like little Paul, but was queer. He never took the same view of things as other children, never did things in the same way as other children. At an early age he displayed a fancy for impressing his playmates with tricks of sleight of hand. At fifteen he burned his hand so severely with phosphorus, which he used for a ghostly performance, as to leave an ugly scar. He would go to the shows of prestidigitators and repeat their tricks. By the time he was eighteen he was quite proficient in the art.

His next fancy was the stage, not as an actor, but inventing devices in the matter of stage properties. However, he became a personator of minor parts, and so odd was he in his methods that he soon attracted attention. His inventive powers coming into play, he soon became a feature, mingling singular impersonations with ingenious mechanical surprises. By one of his contrivances he blew himself into fragments before the audience, shortly afterward appearing to have lighted in a united live body in the branch of a tree.

One would suppose that Ned Meacham would have turned his faculties to account. But a genius is liable to tire of what he has accomplished, always desirous of striking out into new paths. As soon as Ned had put himself in a position where he might have commanded of the manager almost anything he desired he left the theater for good and all. Miss Helen Beach was playing a part wherein she was to stab the leading gentleman of the company. Her part was a trying one and brought on temporary insanity. One evening just before the opening of the performance Ned was in the property room tinkering with a dagger he had invented wherein the blade, on striking an object, went back into the handle. Ned had made an addition by which blood appeared to spurt out like water from a spout. Hearing a commotion, he went outside and saw Miss Beach, who had become demented, reciting some lines of her part to the manager, whom she was about to kill with a pistol. Ned ran up to her, handed her his patent dagger and took away the pistol, crying, "Don't shoot him—stab him!" She adopted the suggestion, stabbing the manager with the spring dagger. Blood spurted over her and her victim, the latter falling in a stage death.

This saving of the manager's life laid the latter under a great obligation to Ned Meacham, and he would have done anything in his power for the young man. But what could he do for one who had been born unlike other persons? Ned thanked him and said that he was engaged on contriving an artificial leg that would step out of its own accord.

But just as the young contriver was about to perfect his invention the Boxer movement in China broke out, and Ned, desirous to go where no one else would have wished to go, got aboard a ship and sailed for the Flowery Kingdom. When he reached it the allied forces were advancing upon Peking to liberate the pentup embassies.

One day Ned went to the commander in chief—a German general—and volunteered to bring him such information of the city as he might require, but when Ned told him that he was a fourth rate actor from an American theater the general spurned him, telling him that when he wanted information of an enemy he would send a soldier to get it.

Ned, by no means discouraged, went to the commander of the United States forces and repeated his offer. The officer told him there was no reason why he should not go out, get the information and bring it in. The main features to be observed were such weak points as might enable the allies to gain entrance into the city.

Ned spent some time fixing up a few contrivances in the property line with which he had long been familiar. Indeed, it was several days before he was ready to go on his mission. When he sallied forth he wore a tight fitting garb to represent the devil, with a pair of horns, a tail and such other appendages as are presumed to belong to Satan. He was passed by the American commander's order from the Yankee boys' lines and walked briskly, swinging a cane, down the road. Slung to his belt was a case containing such articles as he needed, among others a pair of glasses for examining distant objects.

Meacham was seen sallying from the allied lines just before dark by an outpost of Chinamen. He had not gone far before he could see that they had their eyes on him, and as he drew sufficiently near for them to distinguish his peculiar appearance they showed signs of trepidation.

The superstition of the Chinese is equal to if not greater than that of any other race. Their most important acts are often determined by inferences they draw from burning bits of paper. With such men to deal with Meacham had but to move forward, spit a little fire and the whole outpost broke and ran.

The Yankee had by this means got within the Chinese outposts, but being at some distance from the city it was essential for him to proceed, which he did under cover of the darkness. Leaving the road, he walked in the fields for a time, directing his course to the dark walls of the city that loomed in the distance against the sky line. At times he would come upon a campfire with Chinamen lounging around it or eating their suppers. These he would go around, leaving the chattering Chinamen in his rear.

Suddenly he stumbled upon one of these groups where there was no fire and the men were asleep. He trod on a slumbering Chinaman. The fellow growled and sat up. Another who had been awakened lighted a bit of inflammable wood and held it in Meacham's face. The latter had a battery over his stomach and was well strung with wires. Closing an electric key, his eyes (or glasses he pulled down over them) shone with a brilliant green. The yell the man with the torch gave awakened the rest, and one and all took to flight.

Thus did Meacham work his way during the night toward the city. At midnight he was directly under the walls and as luck would have it near one of the principal gates. A drowsy sentry standing by the portals roused himself, and there before him stood Satan all aglow, leering at him. The apparition's eyes were red, but turned green, then a bright yellow. The sentry dropped on his knees and hid his face on the ground. Meacham, without waiting for him to finish his salaam, pushed through the gate and entered the city.

Meacham, after various adventures, found himself among the besiegers of the embassies. Being a nondescript, when not plainly seen he was not noticed. When seen he had only to draw a fiery circle about him with his cane or put himself aglow or cause his hair to stand straight upon his head to send all who saw him as far away from him as they could get. In trying to get into the embassy lines he came very near being shot. Crawling near to a battery, he stood up. A ball sang by his ear and he dropped. He was among the besiegers, but they did not understand English, and he cried out to the embassy force, "A friend!" This changed matters, and, showing himself to the Chinamen about him as an illuminated devil, he scattered them, then ran into the embassy lines of their enemies.

Meacham asked to be conducted to the American minister and told his story. He was directed, if he could make a return, to inform the allies that the besieged Europeans had held out as long as they were able and if help did not come at once they would be overpowered and murdered. Meacham, desiring to leave the city before daylight, departed immediately. An American soldier, who had done some scouting duty, led him to a point the besiegers had left uncovered and showed him the way to the gate by which he had entered. The Yankee passed the sentries by the same means he had used in entering, and found himself when dawn was breaking on the plain surrounding the city.

He now had some miles to go by daylight which rendered some of his devices useless and he was obliged to rely on others. He could no longer frighten the Boxers by illuminating himself, and this rendered his return far more perilous than his going. True, he was still Satan, but without Satan's terrifying methods. His route lay along the road by which he had come and it would now be useless to leave it, for he could be seen. He went on till he came to an outpost. They caught sight of him coming behind them and observed him wonderingly. He kept on and as he drew near some of the Chinamen fled, while others stood their ground. One more valiant than the rest called out something, which Meacham took to mean an order to halt. But the Yankee kept right on. The Chinamen raised a gun, and Meacham, uttering a loud "Ha, ha!" whirled his cane about his head, enveloping himself with smoke, which came from one end of it. Since the Chinaman could not see him he did not hit him.

The cloud of smoke drove off all but their brave leader and three other Chinamen. The leader stood firm; the others fell on their faces. Meacham still advanced. The man who opposed him could not shoot at him again without reloading. Drawing a knife, he received Meacham when he came up by thrusting it against his breast. Instead of hurting his enemy he was knocked back on the ground. Meacham wore a breastplate which, when the knife struck it, was charged with electricity.

The Chinaman was rising for another attack when his comrades clung to him to prevent his trying to conquer the devil. Meacham passed them with a sardonic "Ha, ha," and was not followed.

Soon after this escape he came upon a Chinaman who had been killed in a fight with a European outpost and concluded to cease personating the devil and turn himself into a Chinaman. Appropriating the man's costume, he went on without further trouble till nearing the lines he hailed a Yankee picket in the American lines and was admitted to camp.

Meacham made his report to the commander of the United States troops and delivered to him the ambassador's message, which was forwarded to the German commander in chief.

"Mein Gott!" exclaimed the general. "Vat vill not these Yankees do? Dey don't know how to pe soldiers, but dey do somet'ings in a different vay."

After the allies entered Peking Meacham returned to America. He was one of the pioneers among aviators and was killed by a drop of 10,000 feet.

CITY MAN AS A PRIZE FARMER

Unusual Story of Success In Spite Handicaps.

STARTED TO LEARN AT 57.

Knew Absolutely Nothing About Agriculture, but Persevered and Won Out—Relates His Experience to Point Out the Compensations of Life In the Country.

George A. Cosgrove of the Connecticut state board of agriculture, speaking at Columbia university, New York, in the course of the institute for city dwelling farmers, told of his experiences in breaking away from the city at the age of fifty-seven years and establishing himself successfully in the country.

"It was the panic of 1893 that closed the factory in which I was working as shipping clerk, and that sent me out on a farm," he said. "I saw an attractive advertisement in the paper, followed it up in March, came back to my family in Brooklyn disgusted with the look of the farm in March weather. I looked about in vain until September, when I returned to see again that first farm. The floor of the orchard was covered with its carpet of apples, and the weather was beautiful. We bought eagerly then what we would not have taken as a gift in rainy, soggy March. That was twenty years ago and not an hour have we regretted our purchase.

Handicapped From Every Viewpoint.

"I was city born and bred, in very poor health, fifty-seven years old, with a family of wife and two granddaughters. None of us had ever milked a cow, nor did we know anything about the commonest farm activities. We bought three milk cows, seventeen mongrel bred chickens and two half grown pigs. While I was yet in the city I had tried to practice milking in my imagination as I went home from my work.

"Strange as it may seem, my wife, who had never made a pound of butter before in her life, was an instant success as a butter maker. Our product soon achieved a reputation of its own, and, though we raised the price 5 cents a pound above the ruling rate, we did not lose a customer.

"Soon I found that for labor and capital invested our hens were paying a far larger profit than the cows and so sold one, getting from the two remaining our cream and butter and utilizing the skimmilk for pigs and chickens. So we enlarged our poultry plant from year to year in a conservative and perfectly safe way, a method of development that recommends itself strongly, to my mind.

Getting the Most of Farm Life.

"We did not sell any of our apples. There was an abundance of apples in the locality, but not a single commercial orchard. In our orchard were three or four trees of many varieties, thus making it unsuited to commercial orcharding. We made our extra apples into cider and vinegar. We had an excellent garden, the exception on most farms, and from it and berries picked up many dollars from neighboring farmers, who might quite as easily have grown their own truck and fruit.

"We did not try to get rich, nor did we stint ourselves of any needed comfort. Nearly every year we afforded ourselves a luxury of life in having our friends visit us—an item that without the abundance of the country would not have been an unalloyed joy. I think the largest amount we ever saved in a single month was $100. The greatest success was regained health, but, in addition, there were mental growth for self and family, a broader outlook on life and an added independence of character.

"It seems to me that a man could hardly have gone into the country worse handicapped than I was on going; without experience, without youth, with little capital and with little health. Yet we have 'retired' now from farm life! We are taking life 'easy' in the village hard by."

AN INCOME TAX TEST CASE.

Automobile Makers Contend Statute Is Unfair In Its Provisions.

Suits attacking the constitutionality of the income tax law have been filed in the District of Columbia supreme court by John F. and Horace B. Dodge of Detroit, Mich., automobile manufacturers.

They contend that the law unduly discriminates against individuals and partnerships in favor of corporations in the laying of surtaxes and in permitting corporations to withhold from taxation such portions of income as may be necessary for the needs and purposes of their business. The latter privilege is not allowed to individuals, their bill says.

While the Dodge brothers appear as the only plaintiffs in the suit, it is understood that the case is a test suit in which all the automobile industry is concerned.

The Dodge bill does not contest the constitutionality of an income tax as such, but attacks the provisions of the present law, which, it is contended, discriminates in favor of corporations as against individuals and partnerships.

Queer Things That Turn Up In the News

Mrs. John Larsen, mayor of Troutdale, Ore., had her own husband arrested on a charge of selling liquor to minors.

Mrs. Winfield Stoner of Quarryville, Pa., thirty-one years old and the mother of nine children, won the championship in a cake baking contest with 350 women.

Washington society is paying tribute to Miss Eleanor Wilson and her fiance, Secretary McAdoo, by introducing the "McAdoo wave" in a new dance, the Nell Rose waltz.

C. E. Cashmore, a juror in the New York supreme court, reported ten minutes late because he remained at his place of business to make $25. Justice Ford fined him $25 for his tardiness.

150,000-YEAR-OLD MAN AMAZES ANTHROPOLOGISTS

Remarkable Skeleton Found With Mammoth Fossils In East Africa.

Details about a remarkable human skeleton found in East Africa are contained in a dispatch from Berlin to the London Times, which says:

"Dr. Hans Reck of the Geological institute of Berlin university discovered at Oldoway, in North German East Africa a human skeleton which for the anthropologist seems to be of the first importance.

"The remains were found with mammoth fossils, of which one is a tooth ten feet five inches long, and when these are compared with fossils it will be possible to determine the man's age.

"At present all that Dr. Reck can say is that the man is, roughly, 150,000 years old, and belongs to the diluvian period of Africa, which synchronizes with the ice period of northern Europe.

"It is a wonderful skull, wonderfully preserved, long, narrow, with an unmistakably negroid jaw, and the back of the head finely developed and deep. The ribs and breast are akin to those of the ape, but the skull is unmistakably human.

"There are indications that the muscles of the neck were enormously strong and that the man did not walk quite upright. His thirty-six teeth are complete and beautifully preserved. There are marks upon them as if they had been filed.

"The formation of the eye sockets and the bridge of the nose is akin to that of the primitive African bushman.

"The man was found lying on his back, with his head turned over to the right. His hands were before his face and his legs drawn up in a crouching position.

"Dr. Reck is almost certain that the position is not one of burial. On the spot where the man was found there was once a lake, and it is conjectured that the man was drowned and the body was gradually covered with deposits of sand and chalk, which, in the course of centuries turned into the volcanic tufa in which the skeleton was found."

URGES PEARY CELEBRATIONS.

The Explorers' Club to Start Movement by Dinner to Pole Discoverer.

The Explorers' club has taken the initiative in a movement for a world-wide annual celebration by individual explorers and geographical societies of Rear Admiral Peary's conquest of the north pole. The club has set April 6, the fifth anniversary of the discovery, as the date for the first of its own celebrations in honor of the arctic achievement, when at a dinner in New York the club's first gold medal of honor will be presented to Admiral Peary, in whose honor the dinner will be given.

Special invitations have been extended to President Wilson, the secretaries of war and navy; Commander Evans of the ill fated Scott expedition, Colonel Francis Younghusband, British commissioner to Tibet, who opened up Lassa, the Forbidden City, and officers of the Peary Arctic club, which gave the explorer his financial backing during his long struggle to reach the "top of the world."

Honking Geese Scare Boy to Death.

Frank Chumik, ten years old, was scared to death at Racine, Wis., by the honking of a flock of geese, which suddenly appeared while he was playing at his home. The boy, who had a weak heart, died shortly after the geese had frightened him into convulsions.

DODGING DOCTORS' BILLS.

By United States Senator Tillman of South Carolina.

Lie flat on your back.

Take a deep breath and then, first with one foot, then the other, then with both, try to kick the headboard of the bed.

Take a cold shower and brisk rubdown every morning.

Be careful of your diet, drink plenty of hot water and breathe deeply.

Do these things and you'll dodge doctors' bills and live to a fine old age.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—After May 7th, house of seven rooms and bathroom. All modern improvements. Rent $30. Apply any time at Mrs. Elizabeth C. Follett's, 105 Putnam street. 23-12t

TO LET—At 209 Kendrick avenue, upper tenement of six rooms and bath. All modern improvements. Combination stoves. Apply to 220 Franklin street. 28-tf

TO LET—Ten rooms set range, bath etc., land for garden or hens $25 per month. Also two suites four rooms each, gas and use of bath, all in perfect repair. $2.00 per week. Apply Room 20, Durgin & Merril Block. March 28-3t

TO LET—To small family. A flat of 5 rooms and bath. All modern improvements. Inquire at 33 Dysart street. 28-3t

TO LET—Five room lower flat, all improvements, new house, ready April 15th situated 41 and 43 Bradford street. Apply to W. L. Saunders 146 Franklin street. 26-tf

TO LET—Furnished rooms with or without board. Mrs. F. Wrigley, 18 Washington street corner Coddington. 26-6t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 26-12t

TO LET—Sunny apartment of six rooms and bath, set range, all modern improvements, 4 minutes to station. Excellent location. Rent $22. Apply to O. P. Lindberg, 160 Elm street, Quincy. 25-6t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 25-6t

TO LET—Large pleasant sunny room. Near restaurants and R. R. station. Apply at 1187 Hancock street. 21-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-18t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath. Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas, beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 23 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-3 / Office 683-M

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

☞In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement.. .. ....

LOST

LOST—New gray suit of clothes, also pair of pants. Fell off furniture wagon between Brewers corner and Quincy Adams. Reward, 23 High street, Quincy Adams. 30-3t

MISCELLANEOUS

WILL STORE A FINE UPRIGHT PIANO with private party for the use of the same, or will sell cheap on easy terms. For particulars Address Box 10 this office. 28-6t L 1-w O

WANTED

WANTED—By young man, furnished room with breakfast in private family. Write A. B. C. Ledger office. 30-3t

FURNITURE and Piano moving, boat hauling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1307-M. Quincy. Res. 22-tf

TO LET
Large Front Office Greenleaf Block
2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.
Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.
Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.
Hancock Building—City Square
Offices—small front office, $12 a month.
Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.
City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.
Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)
Offices—Large or small.
Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.
Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.
Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS
Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State. "Excellent" in every particular.
New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.
Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Fully equipped lunch room doing a first class business, near large manufacturing plant. Owner has best of reasons for selling. Apply at 557 Washington street, Quincy Point. 30-6t

FOR SALE—Will sell cheap a nine room, rooming house, well furnished everything complete. Apply 24 Chestnut street. 30-6t

FOR SALE—A flat top office desk, a bookkeeper's desk, six office chairs, drawing table and a foot power jig saw. Apply 65 Willard street. 26-6t

FOR SALE—Cabin boat 23 ft. by 8 ft. beam, sails and power. Complete inventory. R. C. Loud, 21 Gannet road, Adams Shore. 25-6t

FOR SALE—A $300 piano slightly used will sell cheap for cash. (Terms if desired.) Johnsen Music Co., 6 Chestnut street across from Bethany church, Quincy. 24-6t

FOR SALE—A good second hand range, good baker in good condition. Apply at 90 Washington street, Quincy. 24-6t

FOR SALE OR TO LET— New house: two tenements five rooms each, all improvements. Situated on Hayward street, East Braintree. Completed April 15. Apply to W. L. Saunders, 146 Franklin street, Quincy. 21-tf

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.
SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
'an. 5-tf

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
Old Furniture Refinished
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

KEEP AHEAD
OF THE FLY AND YOUR NEIGHBOR BY HAVING YOUR SCREENS
RECOVERED OR PAINTED
NOW
HOLMES & HALL
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY. SUBSCRIBE FOR THE LEDGER.

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30. 5, 10, 15c.
Evenings at 7.45. 10, 15, 25c.

MON. TUES., WED.
Program Subject to Change

Daniel Frohman Presents
CECELIA LOFTUS
In the popular Novel and Famous Play
"A LADY OF QUALITY"
First of the "Famous Players" Photo-plays to be shown here

THREE BOYDS
Character Singers and Dancers

SILENT MORA
Novelty Magician

DALE & BOYLE
The Belle and the Beau

WATSON-HUTCHINS-EDWARDS
Screaming Comedy Sketch
"SCHULTZ NIGHT OUT"

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

Mar. 28—3t

Easy Remedy.

The Joke Broker—These wheezes are all old and worn out.

The Broke Joker — I know they're pretty bad, but if you ascribe them to a lot of prominent men they'll go in the magazines.—Kansas City Times.

ANNIVERSARY OF SPIRITUALISM

The Spiritualists of Quincy and vicinity observed the 66th anniversary of Modern Spiritualism with special exercises in Electa hall Sunday. Rev. Louis J. Richards of the Stoughton Universalist church spoke on "The Contribution of Spiritualism to religion" in the afternoon.

The evening addresses were by Rev. William C. Brett, superintendent of the Workingmen's Home, 63 Warrenton street, Boston, and at the Brett Farm for Unfortunate Girls, Avon; Dr. E. P. Jones of Boston, "My idea of Spiritualism"; Russ H. Gilbert of Stoughton, "Historical sketch of modern Spiritualism. Arthur B. Shedd of Weymouth read an anniversary poem and there were readings of inspirational writings by Miss Jeanette Powers of Boston, Miss Mabelle A. Leighton of Watertown and H. L. Berry of Quincy. Mrs. Lillian Gordon-Cambridge of Stoughton sang and piano selections were played by Miss Dagma Nelson and Mrs. H. L. Berry of Quincy.

DEATHS

KELLEY—In Quincy City Hospital, March 28, William Kelley, 48 years. Funeral from his late residence, 14 Deldorf street, Tuesday, March 31, at 8.15 a. m. High mass of requiem at St. John's church at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited to attend.

MANSFIELD—In Quincy, March 30, Charles G. Mansfield, in his 62d year.
Funeral services at home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur F. Taylor, 33 Cottage avenue, Tuesday March 31 at 2.30 P. M. Relatives and friends are invited.

TAYLOR—In Marshfield, March 28, Mrs. Mary Alice, widow of Nathaniel Taylor, aged 70 years.

THAYER—In Weymouth, March 28, Mrs. Sarah Jane, widow of E. Monroe Thayer of Franklin street, aged 78 years.

NELLIGAN—In Quincy, March 30, James H. Nelligan of Weymouth, aged 38 years.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass

HIGH SCHOOL MASTERS CLUB

The New Dances Subject of a Committee Report

Frederick W. Plummer of Fall River, formerly principal of the Woodward Institute in this city, was elected as president of the High School Masters club at its annual meeting, Saturday in Boston. James D. Howlett of Medford, a former master of the Quincy High school, was elected as vice president. Addresses were made at the meeting by President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University, President Ira Nelson Hollis of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute and Clarence D. Kingsley agent of the Massachusetts State Board of Education.

A report on the social activities, in view of the attitude of some of the schools in regard to the "new" dances, is interesting. It was, in part, as follows:

"Your committee is ready to recommend that dances be held, where this is possible, on the school premises and on Friday afternoon under faculty supervision; that they be free to all pupils; that outsiders be excluded unless their names are on a carefully revised complimentary list: that school attire be the rule for all; and that they be thoroughly democratic, simple and social.

"The expense of a small orchestra can be met by subscription or by the School Department and there need be no other expense. We further recommend that until any dance has become conventionalized and freed of objectionable features, when danced by non-professionals, it be prohibited in school assemblies and that the conventional dances alone be allowed."

☞Attention is called to the taxi service of William G. Nash and Lemuel Murray as advertised in today's Ledger. They are prepared to furnish touring cars and taxi service day or night.

AFTER COUGHING TWO YEARS

Waycross, Ga., Woman Found Relief in Vinol.

Did you ever cough for a week? Then just think how distressing it must be to have a cough hang on for two years.

Mrs. D. A. McGee, Waycross, Ga., says: "I had a very heavy cold which settled into a chronic cough which kept me awake nights for fully two years, and felt tired all the time. The effect of taking your cod liver and iron remedy, Vinol, is that my cough is gone. I can now get a good night's rest and I feel much stronger in every way. I am 74 years old."

It is the combined action of the medical elements of the cod's livers aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron which makes Vinol so efficient for chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis—at the same time building up the weakened, run-down system.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

INSPECTOR OF MILK

NOTICE

Quincy, March 27, 1914.

Because of the apparent misunderstanding as to the enforcement of regulation 65 it was not intended that the provisions of this regulation be enforced immediately; but a period of sixty (60) days will be allowed from this date for all milk dealers to comply with the following:—

Regulation 65—No person or corporation shall sell or offer, expose or keep for sale in any shop, store or other place, milk or cream, unless the same is sold or offered, exposed or kept for sale in tightly closed or capped bottles or receptacles. Nothing contained herein shall prevent the sale of milk or cream from cans, crocks, coolers or other receptacles in restaurants, hotels, barrooms, or at soda fountains when milk or cream is to be consumed on the premises by guests or patrons ordering the same. Whoever violates any provision of any kind of this regulation shall be punished by a fine of not less than $25 or more than $100 for each offense.

DANIEL SCOULER, Jr.
Inspector of Milk.
7-6t

FURNITURE REPAIRED
Re-finished---Re-upholstered
Our shop has the men and materials to turn out first class work. And it does. We guarantee satisfaction. Prices are reasonable. Estimates Free.
'Phone 1200.
KINCAIDE FURNITURE STORE, 1495 HANCOCK ST., QUINCY
March 23—m.-w.-f.-tf

MIND PROBABLY DERANGED

Father of Nine Children Kills Wife and Attempts Suicide

Everett, Mass., March 30.—Nine children were left motherless when Charles F. Starratt, a master plasterer, murdered his wife by means of a hatchet, a razor and a knife, afterward attempting suicide three times, once by cutting his throat and twice by hanging.

The eldest child, Ethel, is 15 years old; the youngest, John, will be 2 years old on May 31. In a few months there would have been ten children.

Mental derangement, due to worries over the expense of his large family, are believed by the police and neighbors to have been the cause of the tragedy.

Two weeks ago the police were called to the Starratt house by the eldest daughter, who feared her father would harm her mother. Efforts of his family to have him committed to an asylum were rejected by the wife, however, and Starratt was permitted to remain at home.

HAS PASSION FOR JEWELS

Girl Arrested While Leading Grand March at a German Ball

Philadelphia, March 30.—Alice Heyne, characterized by the detectives as one of the most astonishing jewel thieves they have ever had to contend with, was arrested at a German ball as she was leading the grand march and while wearing jewels she is accused of having stolen from Mrs. William L. Elkins, by whom she formerly was employed as a maid.

A passion for impressing relatives and friends whom she had left behind in Europe seems to have been the ruling motive in the girl's alleged operations. She had more than 500 photographs of herself made showing herself arrayed in various gowns belonging to Mrs. Elkins and wearing Mrs. Elkins' jewels. These pictures she mailed broadcast to relatives abroad.

DEMANDED $10.000 ON PAIN OF DEATH

Blackmailer Wanted to Establish Airship Service

San Francisco, March 30.—Just as William R. Corbin handed over a little black stachel, supposed to contain $10,000, to Roy Snyder on the Folsom street pier, two detectives stepped from behind a lumber pile and arrested Snyder, who was found to be armed. He was charged with attempted extortion.

A little girl had delivered a note to Corbin informing him that if he valued his life he would hand over $10,000 to a man who would be waiting for him on the pier, and if he informed the police it would be worse for him. Corbin informed the police.

Snyder said he was 19 years old, a painter, and that he intended to build an aeroplane with the $10,000 to establish a passenger service between New York and San Francisco.

SIGHT IS REGAINED

Grafting of Cornea of Pig's Eye on Baby Has Proved Successful

Baltimore, March 30.—Sight has been given to the left eye of David Kane, 9 months old, through the grafting of the cornea of a pig's eye to the child's eyeball, according to a statement of physicians at a hospital here. Certain tests, they declare, have brought out this fact without a doubt.

When the bandage was removed from the eye, it was declared, the child followed the course of a lighted candle which was moved before him. Moreover, he now winks his eyelid if a finger or a small object is waved close to the eye.

DISEASE IN COLORED WIG

Leprosy Develops on Head of Wife of French Government Official

Paris, March 30.—The popularity of colored wigs brings up again the question of dissemination by Chinese hair of germs, more particularly those of leprosy.

The wife of a government official in a provincial city wore a violet wig at a masked ball. Soon her own hair begun to fall and scales appeared on her scalp. A specialist diagnosed it as a case of leprosy.

Murderess Gunness Not Found

Neville, Sask., March 30.—The woman living near here suspected of being Mrs. Belle Gunnesss, the accused Laporte, Ind., murderess, is not the person sought.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

The national senate passed a house bill appropriating $23,620 toward improving the facilities of the quarantine station at Portland, Me.

More than 18,000 telephones were put out of commission when a fire in the telephone building at Worcester, Mass., caused a damage of nearly $100,000.

Another general railway strike is threatened for April 15 in Italy.

The Newburyport, Mass., pest house was practically destroyed by a fire believed to be of incendiary origin.

The Havana sanitary officials believe they have the bubonic plague under control.

MEMORIAL GATEWAY

And $3000 Drinking Fountain Among Public Bequests

Joseph B. Groce of this city has been named one of the three executors in the will of his aunt, Mrs. Ada B. W. Bacon of Hingham, widow of Cyrus V. Bacon.

The sum of $5,000 is left for the purpose of erecting at the Main street entrance of the High street Cemetery Association of South Hingham a memorial gateway in memory of her late husband, Cyrus V. Bacon and herself, also $3,000 for an ornamental drinking fountain, to be inscribed in memory of Cyrus V. Bacon, at Queen Ann's corner in Hingham. The sum of $15,000 is left to found a permanent fund to be known as the Hannah Lincoln Whiting fund, in memory of her mother, for the poor or unfortunate of South Hingham.

Susan W. J. Groce, wife of Joseph B. Groce is given $1,000.

After many bequests provision the residue is bequeathed to Joseph L. Groce. In case no issue survives provision is made to change the old home into a hospital, or if in expedient, to erect a suitable building to be known as the Whiting hospital for the benefit of the people of Hingham and surrounding towns.

Granite men of Quincy may see a copy of the will at the Daily Ledger office.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

(Continued from Page One.)

Mayor Miller has sent notices to the heads of departments at City Hall extending an invitation to attend the annual dinner of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange at the Copley Plaza hotel, Boston, tomorrow. The notice received by the department heads stated that tickets could be procured at $4 per. A canvass of the different offices at City Hall does not bring to light any who are going to part with the $4 in order to attend the dinner. The Mayor, however has accepted an invitation to attend and will be present with City Solicitor Pinkham.

A large array of prominent speakers have been announced for the dinner who include John Hayes Hammond on the "Industrial situation in the United States," Edwin Farnham Green on the "Pacific Mills of Lawrence," Hon. John S. Kent on "The Massachusetts Shoe Industry," Walter C. Fish on "The development of the electrical industries of the state," Henry I. Harriman on "The power possibilities of Massachusetts" and Hon. Levi Greenwood on "The manufacture of chairs."

Among the prominent guests present in addition to the Mayors of the cities of the commonwealth will be Hon. Eugene R. Foss, Hon. John Q. A. Brackett, Hon. William B. Lawrence, August Belmont, Robert Winsor, Col. Everett C. Benton, Frederick Ayer, William Minot and Edmund B. Codman. Governor Walsh is also expected to be present.

The affair is in charge of a large committee, Frank Fessenden Crane of this city being on the reception committee. The guests will be treated to a broad discussion upon the industrial development of Massachusetts as will be seen by the list given above.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

The automobile stolen from the garage of Elmer E. Leonard of Commercial street, East Weymouth, early Saturday morning was found later in the day in a sparsely settled district near Brockton, where it had been abandoned by the thieves. The garage was entered by breaking a lock on the door and a watchman near by saw the car leave the garage about 2 o'colck in the morning.

The Norfolk county Christian Endeavor convention will be held Patriots day, April 20, in the Congregational church at Rockland.

Old Colony chapter, Daughters American Revolution of Hingham, has just come into possession of an old time clock which was purchased in Hingham, Eng., and is said to be over 250 years old.

William Carter, an 84 years old Library Trustee of Needham, has offered $20,000 to the town for a new public library.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

Analyzing a Raindrop.

Rain water as it leaves the clouds is pure. As it passes through the atmosphere it absorbs more or less carbonic acid gas and air, which it carries with it into the ground. As it seeps through the upper soil it will generally absorb still more carbonic acid gas from the decaying animal and vegetable matter almost always present. Should the water fall on insoluble rocks, such as granite or marble, it will remain fairly pure. But if it passes through a layer of limestone the carbonic acid gas which it carries will cause it to dissolve away this rock, and as a result bicarbonate of lime will be present in the water. Should it pass through a layer of sulphate of lime or gypsum, the water will contain a large amount of this material.

It is generally known that the bicarbonates of lime and magnesia when present in the water form a comparatively soft scale; the chlorides and nitrates are apt to cause corrosion, and the salts of soda and potash present, while not scale forming, are apt to cause foaming when sufficiently concentrated.—Power.

Sunlight and Fresh Air.

The word disinfectant has become a household term, and almost every one knows that it means something that destroys germs, though comparatively few know what our best and cheapest disinfectants are.

The most useful and efficient all round disinfectant that we have is the sun, and the air is his worthy ally. Fresh air dilutes germs as water dilutes filth, and the lustiest germ will quickly curl up its toes and die if exposed to the sunlight. But fresh air and sunlight are abundant and cheap, so of course we usually prefer to use some disinfectant that smells bad and can be bought at the drug store.

Open windows and rolled up shades would save many lives, but what do we have windows and shades for if not to keep them down? Besides, if we left them up it would let in the flies and fade the carpets, so we pamper the germs and employ the doctor.—Rural New Yorker.

The Thrifty Spirit.

It seems easier to be a deacon or elder nowadays than it was in our fathers' time. The portentous solemnity of countenance has gone out with the "blacks" that used to be essential for the duty of standing at "the plate." Only last Sunday, says a correspondent in the Glasgow News, I laid down my mite under the gaze of quite a sprightly deacon wearing a soft gray hat and a suit of light tweeds! When daddy stands at the plate a certain small boy finds it difficult to observe due decorum as he passes in to worship. In fact, he shows a desire to take his parent's hand and stand at the receipt of collection too. On Sunday, as I sat waiting for the service to begin, listening to the chink of the coin in the "plate" in the vestibule, I heard a young voice uplifted in argument with a fond mamma: "But, mummy, it's daddy! He'll let us in for nothing. Can't I keep my penny for another time?"

AN OLD FASHIONED EFFECT.

Reminiscent of the seventies is this delightful hat of milan with garland of roses and their foliage. The frock is of pussy willow taffeta. The hat is slightly raised at the back and has streamers of rose colored velvet.

Reasons Philosophically.

"If a man is not actually a lover, he likes to marry the woman who will cause him the least bother."—"The Decoy Duck," by a Peer.

BRIEFS

Frank M. Chubbuck of John A. Boyd camp, Spanish War Veterans, has been endorsed as the delegate to the National convention.

Prominent members of the Knights of Columbus of this city will attend the State Council banquet at the Copley-Plaza on the night of April 18.

Three candidates will be initiated by Maple lodge Knights and Ladies of Honor, in Protection hall on Wednesday evening. The social which follows will be in charge of Mrs. Agnes G. Fletcher and Mrs. Alberta Hewson.

The funeral of George W. Hight, Sr., took place at the home of his son George Hight, Jr., of Walker street, Sunday noon. Rev. T. W. Davison, of the Memorial church officiated. The interment was at Marshfield Hills Cemetery.

EDUCATED HORSES AT AUDITORIUM

Prof. Bristol's school of educated horses, ponies and mules have arrived in town and during the week may be seen afternoon and evening at the Auditorium theatre. Everybody loves an educated pony, especially children, and there is but little doubt that the daily exhibitions of the school will be largely attended. In order to accommodate the school children a special matinee performance will be given every afternoon at 4 o'clock. There will also be performances in the evening at 7.30 and 8.30.

Prof. Bristol's educated school has been exhibited all over the world, and wherever seen have been enthusiastically received. His gifted animals all appear on the platform at one time without bridle or rein and the exhibition they give is perfectly wonderful.

It is hardly possible to describe what these animals do, and the sagacious manner in which they do it. One rings a bell calling the pupils to order, takes the professors hat off and brings table and chair, helps him off with his coat and rubbers, brushes them and puts them away, answers calls at the door, acts as cashier, and brings silver or paper money from a closed desk. Others mail letters, another is a mathemetician, another serves lunch for the teacher and still others go through a military drill act, wonderful swinging and trapez act, and other complicated movements that make them appear like human beings. It is really a wonderful exhibition and one well worth seeing.

SQUANTUM BRIEFS.

Mrs. Hiram Morse, Bellevue road, entertained the following ladies at a board meeting of the Squantum Women's club Friday. Mrs. William Reed, Mrs. James Foster, Mrs. S. H. Adams, Mrs. Charles Ramsdell. Mrs. John Holmes and Mrs. William Donovan.

William Spargo of the Boston Herald staff, who is building an attractive year-round cement bungalow on Bayside road, expects to occupy it in about a month.

George Sawyer and E. C. Amazeen are putting up some very attractive summer bungalows on the land they own on the Quincy bay side of Squantum. Two are nearly completed and ground is broken for several others.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Caryl of Medford Hillside were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith, Wedgewood street.

Paul Lovejoy spent Sunday at his home Hampden street. He will return to his business in Maine today.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

This is to inform my friends, customers and general public that William Nash and Lemuel Murray are no longer in my employ.

I also desire to announce that I am now located at my new garage on the corner of Washington and Wibird streets and am better prepared than ever to give prompt and reliable taxi service.

We have five and seven passenger touring cars which we furnish for all occasions at reasonable rates.

Thanking the public for their patronage in the past and soliciting a continuance of the same, we remain yours for prompt service,

PENNIMAN TAXI SERVICE.
Telephone night or day, Quincy 207
28-3t

CITY SQUARE

I have for sale the best 11 room unoccupied new house that can be bought for anything like the price $9,000. It was privately built at a much greater cost. Investigate and convince yourself of reasons for selling. Remember the offer is an exceptional one.

Full particulars of
EDMUND G. HAYDEN
Tel. 1877-M Quincy, Representing
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
129 Tremont St., Boston,
March 30 tf

M. MIRKIN Upholsterer

Is the one who will give you the full satisfaction in work and prices of repairing furniture, mattresses and cushions. 1060 Hancock St., near the Quincy High School Tel. con.

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, City Square
Tel. Quincy 1745 W. March 16-18t

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy, Feb. 27-tf

TRIBUTE TO WILLIAM KELLEY

Editor of Daily Ledger:

In the death of William Kelly, the Trade Unions of this city have lost the council and active influence of one who practiced the principles in his daily life that he proclaimed in the union. I mention one act which he did, and as I am the only person who has knowledge, I desire to make it public. A union man had been discharged by his employer, one of the big corporations, and had secured employment in three different cities. He was discharged after a week or two and found he was blacklisted and in order to secure employment must assume a false name. This he would not do. In the meantime his rent was due, and his family needed food. Then our late brother said to the writer, "Do you know where he lives" I did not. He says we can find the place, come with me. He went to the grocery store, he purchased food and I helped him carry it to the family, and no one was the wiser. When the mother inquired who sent it, he replied a friend. This was only one of the many acts for which he was noted. Now the Central Labor Union has dissolved therefore cannot pass resolutions on his demise. I am glad to testify to his worth as a man and a brother Trade Unionist. He was twice president of the C. L. U. at a critical period in its history.

Union Man.

HENRY WESSLING.

Henry Wessling, a prominent man in Catholic affairs throughout the country died at his Roxbury home Friday afternoon in his 63d year. For eight years he has been president of the Boston branch of the American Federation of Catholic Societies and Parishes and for six years president of the National Federation of Catholic Societies. He is survived by his wife and four daughters. He was president of the Germania Co-operative Bank of Boston, The Cathedral Guild and Germania court, M. C. O. F. The funeral will take place Monday morning. A solemn high mass will be celebrated at Holy Trinity church on Shawmut avenue, Boston at 9 o'clock.

RAW WIND SUNDAY.

Sunday was rather a disagreeable day in which to be about for a cold raw easterly wind prevailed all day. The sun was out however, until late in the afternoon, when there was a fine rain storm which continued through the night. At sunrise this morning quite a rain storm was in progress. The weather indications are that it will be stormy for the remainder of the day and unsettled weather is indicated for Tuesday. Tomorrow is the last day of the monththt has the reputation of being one of the most disagreeable of the year. April iwth its warm winds and spring showers should start thing moving.

☞PRATT'S BREAD—try it with a bowl of milk and blueberries. All grocers.

Milk Money
The margin of dairy profit varies with the health of the herd.
Pratts Animal Regulator
Pkgs. 25c, 50, $1.00; 25 lb. pail $3.00 will do more to keep cows in perfect health, and profits at a uniformly high percentage than any other system yet devised.
For over forty years Pratts Remedies have been standard---absolutely essential to utmost success. Refuse substitutes; insist on Pratts.
630 Satisfaction Guaranteed or Money Back
Get Pratts Stock Book
Grain Dealers & General Stores. 4199

1912 Rambler For Sale
Cross Country Rambler good as new. Run less than 3,000 miles, fully equipped. If bought at once will be sold at a sacrifice. Write R., Ledger Office. 28-3t

MY SLOGAN
for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 24-tf

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

UTE TO VILLIAM KELLEY

f Daily Ledger: death of William Kelly, the nions of this city have lost ncil and active influence of practiced the principles in life that he proclaimed in n. I mention one act which nd as I am the only person knowledge, I desire to make A union man had been dis-by his employer, one of the rations, and had secured emin three different cities.
discharged after a week or found he was blacklisted and to secure employment must false name. This he would
In the meantime his rent and his family needed food.
late brother said to the o you know where he lives"
He says we can find the ne with me. He went to y store, he purchased food ped him carry it to the d no one was the wiser.
mother inquired who sent ied a friend. This was only e many acts for which he
d. Now the Central Labor s dissolved therefore cannot lutions on his demise. I o testify to his worth as a a brother Trade Unionist. ice president of the C. L. U.
al period in its history.
Union Man.

ENRY WESSLING.

Vessling, a prominent man in ffairs throughout the count his Roxbury home Friday in his 63d year. For s he has been president of n branch of the American of Catholic Societies and nd for six years president tional Federation of Catho-es. He is survived by his four daughters. He was of the Germania Co-opera-of Boston, The Cathedral
Germania court, M. C. O. F.
ral will take place Monday
A solemn high mass will ted at Holy Trinity church mut avenue, Boston at 9

AW WIND SUNDAY.

was rather a disagreeable hich to be about for a cold rly wind prevailed all day.
was out however, until late ernoon, when there was a storm which continued the night. At sunrise this quite a rain storm was in The weather indications t will be stormy for the re f the day and unsettled s indicated for Tuesday.
is the last day of the has the reputation of bef the most disagreeable of April iwth its warm winds g showers should start ing.

ATT'S BREAD—try it vl of milk and blueberries.

Money
rgin of dairy ns with the the herd.
atts,
Regulator
c., $0, $1.00;
, $3.00
re to keep cows health, and a uniformly ntage than any n yet devised.
forty years Pratts Remedies have ard—absolutely essential to utmost
Refuse substitutes; insist on Pratts.
ion Guaranteed or Money Back
Get Pratts Stock Book
ers & General Stores. 4199

Rambler For Sale
untry Rambler good as new.
than 3,000 miles, fully If bought at once will be acrifice. Write R., Ledger
28-3t

Y SLOGAN
the sale of 4 Automobile
0 gallons of lubrication oil tomobile owned in Quincy.
help me do this?
NT, 1058 Hancock St.
R. Feb. 24-tf man's Garage

nd Taxi Service
Storage and Supplies
en Day and Night.
and Touring Cars for all
s.
, corner Washington and treets.
PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Average Sworn Circulation, 2,756 Copies Daily — Over 12,000 Readers

Vol. 29 No. 76 QUINCY, MASS TUESDAY EVENING MARCH 31 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

APPROPRIATION ORDER PASSED

Only Change an Increase of $100 for the Inspector of Buildings

Mayor's Cut of School Budget Is Adopted

But two attempts were made at Monday night's meeting of the City Council to change the annual appropriation order. One of these was to increase the Miscellaneous account of the Inspector of Buildings from $200 to $1,000 or $8200 and the second was to decrease the amount for street lighting from $23,000 to $20,000. In the first instance the attempt to make the amount for the Building Inspector $1,000, failed but it was increased to $800. In the second attempt the Council refused to change the amount.

Councilman Carlson wanted to reduce one of the items in the Board of Health budget, and add it onto another item, that the Board might spray ponds, etc., but when informed that no item could be increased beyond what had been recommended by the Mayor, he withdrew his motion.

There was considerable other important business transacted at the meeting. Councilman Sodergren was the only absent member.

JURORS DRAWN.

A venire was received for the drawing of one grand juror and the Mayor, City Clerk and Councilman Little drew Daniel Donahue. A venire was also received for the drawing of six jurors for he traverse jury and the Mayor, City Clerk and Councilman Griffin drew William F. Noble, Isaac E. Nickerson, Michael M. Flaherty, Alexander Howie, James Hector and Dennis Shugrue.

APPOINTMENT.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Clarence W. Ralph, a weigher of coal. Confirmed.

PETITIONS.

Councilman Craig presented a petition for the draining of the water on High street that flowed across Verchild street. To Committee on Sewers.

Councilman Beeman presented a petition for the acceptance of Montclair avenue. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Carlson presented a petition for the oiling of Tyler street which was laid on the table until later, when he tried to have this street added to the street oiling schedule, but it was refused.

Councilman Ericson presented a petition for the acceptance of Roselin avenue. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Ericson presented a petition for the rebuilding of Cranch street between Deldorf and Whitwell streets. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Ericson presened a petition for the widening of Sea street at the junction of Sea avenue and Island avenue. To Committee on Streets.

A large number of applications for minor licenses were received and referred to the Committee on Licenses.

An application of Frank F. Crane for an auctioneer's license was laid on the table until later when Councilman Beeman offered an order grant ing the license which was adopted.

A petition for the acceptance of Green street was referred to the Committee on Streets.

A petition of the Electric Light Co. for a relocation of one pole on Mill street was granted.

FINANCE REPORTS.

The Finance Committee reported on the following matters:

Reference to the Executive on the communication relative to paying Beatrice H. Rothwell $277 for injuries received. Accepted.

An amendment to the order for $200 for making borings for a site for a public dock charging the same to unexpended balances of 1913. Order adopted.

An order for $299 for placing steel fittings in vaults at City Hall. Order adopted.

Appropriating $1,744.15 for the following deficit bills of 1913: Assessors $75.75; Fire department $705.44; suspended and order passed. Poor department $962.96. Rules suspended and order passed.

An order appropriating $500 to pay James R. Qualey and Patrick A. Milford the city reward for recovering the body of Louis G. Restelli. Order adopted.

WATER EXTENSIONS.

A substitute order for $26,000 for extension of water mains, of which sum $5,000 is for water meters; also an order for $9,000 for making repairs

(Continued on Page Four.)

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

This is to announce that WILLIAM G. NASH severed his connections with C. H. Penniman last October and he and LEMUEL MURRAY are now in a position to cater to the general public with

TOURING CARS AND TAXI SERVICE

FOR ALL OCCASIONS.

Careful drivers and prompt attention given to all orders.
Hospital work and Weddings a specialty.
Day and night service. Telephone connection Quincy 90. 30-3t

$15,000 LIMIT ALMOST REACHED

Ground Will Be Broken Soon For Wollaston Clubhouse

At the meeting of the Sachem club directors at the headquarters on Newport avenue Monday evening it was reported that subscriptions turned in to date amounted to $12,900. With only $1100 necessary before the $15,000 mark is reached definite steps toward building construction will be taken at the next meeting.

A number of directors were absent. It was felt if these had reported that the $15,000 mark would have been reached, as it is understood that some subscriptions have been written that have not been turned in. Every effort will be made to have all of the directors present at the next meeting in order that accounts may be closed up and work started.

During the present week an active campaign will be in progress to raise the fund as much over $15,000 as possible; and to cut down part of the overhead expense from the start.

At the next meeting steps will be taken to take up the option on the land on Beale street for the club site.

Committees for the various phases of building operations will probably be appointed and bids will no doubt be called for at an early date.

A few weeks will probably see ground broken and visible signs of a social club for Wollaston under way.

NOTABLE GUESTS ENTERTAINED

At Reception to Robert Watson and Abraham Sheard

Authors were among the guests present at the reception to Hon. Robert Watson, formerly Colonial Secretary for Newfoundland, and Abraham Sheard, secretary of the Grenfell international Association tendered at the home of Col. Edward Anderson and his daughter, Mrs. Dexter E Wadsworth on Presidents Hill on Monday afternoon. The guests were members of the Puddingstone Club Authors' Club and Edward W. Kingsley Post, G. A. R. of Boston. Col Anderson was assisted in receiving by his daughter. Refreshments were served during the afternoon. Among those present were Ex-Gov. John D. Long, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Haskell Dole, Prof. and Mrs. D. L. Sharpe, Prof. Oppenheim of Berlin University, Gen. Thomas R. Mathews, Miss Abbie Farwell Brown, Misses Caroline and Edith Ticknor of Jamacia Plain, Mrs. Marion Boy Allen, Judge Robert Grant, Prof. Benjamin Rand, Charles Follen Adams, Miss Ethel Howard, John Townsend Trowbridge, Oscar Fay Adams, Prof. Edward von Mach, Ellen Douglas Deland, Charles Gibson, Rev. Dr. Samuel M. Crothers of Cambridge, Mrs. Josephine Peabody Marks of Cambridge and Miss Charlotte Porter of Cambridge.

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY AND EVERYONE IN QUINCY.

LABOR MEN AND CAR MEN

Largely Represented at Funeral of William Kelley

Representative men and former associates attended the funeral of William Kelley, one of the best known conductors and labor men of the city, and chairman of the Democratic city committee, which was held from his home at 14 Deldorf street this morning.

Among those present were Jeremiah J. Leary, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, to which Mr. Kelley was the delegate from this district, city committee members, delegations from the John Adams aerie Fraternal Order of Eagles; Representative Michael T. Sullivan and Superintendent Thomas G. Gammons of the street railway.

Forty conductors and motormen, including the oldest employees in the point of service, escorted the body to St. John's church, where a high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Walter J. Quinlan. The Gregorian chant was rendered by the regular choir under the direction of John Mahon organist. The soloists were Arthur Holmes, Miss Eva Rice and Mrs. Mary Burns King.

After the mass, the body was escorted by the car men as far as Quincy avenue, where the lines divided and the funeral passed between on its way to St. Francis Xavier cemetery Weymouth where burial took place.

The bearers were President William Gould and Walter H. Barnard, representing the car men's union; Thomas Griffin and Philip T. Cook representing the Democratic city committee, and President Frank J. Duffy and William McEwan representing the Eagles.

There was a profusion of floral tributes, among which were remembrances from the Democratic State Committee, Car men's union, Democratic city committee, Old Colony Division of the Bay State Street Railway, John Adams Aerie of Eagles, relatives and friends.

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT CASE

Friends of James Birnie Put in a Claim

A hearing was held before the Industrial Accident Commission in the Council Chamber, this morning in the case of James Birnie. Birnie was employed at the granite yard of W. T. Spargo, but died at his home. According to the death return of natural diseases. It is understood, however, that the claim is made that his death was due to injuries received at the granite yard, and the Industrial Insurance Commission is hearing the case to determine if he is entitled to recover under workingman's compensation act.

DISTRICT COURT.

Harry Bowdoin and Robert J. Stewart were fined $10 each, John Foley $5 and James H. Morris sentenced to three months in the house of correction, for drunkenness at Quincy.

TO IMPROVE ATLANTIC BEACH

Bill Reported in Legislature Authorising $3,000

(Special from State House.)

In this era of retrenchment and reform in the matter of the State's finances, Quincy may congratulate itself in receiving a favorable report from the committee on ways and means on the resolve appropriating $3000 for the removal of objectionable material from the Quincy Shore Reservation, advocated by Senator Langelier and others.

The committee has reported the following bill, which is self-explanatory: "Resolved, That there be allowed and paid out of the metropolitan parks maintenance fund a sum not exceeding $3000, to be expended in the discretion and under the direction of the Metropolitan Park Commission for the removal of certain surplus and objectionable material from that part of Quincy called Atlantic, between Appleton and Beach streets."

Patrick A. Milford of Quincy and James R. Qualey of Braintree are in line to receive another $500 for locating the body of the late Louis G. Restelli. From the committee on ways and means there came today a favorable report on the petition of Representative Michael T. Sullivan for an appropriation for $500 to pay the reward offered by the state for the apprehension of the murderer.

Before the committee, during the hearing, it was contended that technically the men were not entitled to the reward, as they discovered the body rather than apprehended Restelli. Friends of the two men contended that they rendered to the state the service for which the state expected to pay the reward.

CLASS OF 1913 ADMITTED

Playlet Presented at Meeting of Woodward Alumnae

The Class of 1913 which is preparing for graduation in June was admitted to membership in the Alumnae Association of the Woodward Institute for Girls at a meeting held Monday evening in the assembly hall of the school. There were 125 present.

President Miss Mary Geary presided at a short business meeting, after which an entertaining program was given. Included in the program was a playlet which was given by Miss Mary Geary, Miss Esther Sidelinger, Miss Elsie Patterson and Miss Edith Baxter. Piano solos were given by Miss Amy Fallon, violin solos by Miss Emma Walker, and readings by Miss Maud Read.

Refreshments were served and the evening closed with dancing.

☞ A good chance to fill up that stamp book this week, Remick is giving double legal stamps every day. They count up fast on gentlemen's furnishing goods.

☞ The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

BE KIND TO THEM WHEN THEY CALL

New Board of Assessors Will Begin Their Field Work Tomorrow

Have Difficult Task To Fulfill Pledges of Mayor

The Assessors are already to start in on their field work of the city bright and early Wednesday morning. This year the Assessors will begin their field work in Ward Six. They have no particular plan. Chairman Buckley when asked Monday night of the board had mapped out any general plan for this year said that it had not. He further said that Assessor Duggan was out of town and this would be taken up on his return.

Assessor Duggan who has been in Washington and Baltimore returned ot Quincy this morning and is ready to start out with the board Wednesday morning. Up to noon no plan for assessing had been taken up.

The Assistant Assessors will also start Wednesday morning. The Assistant Assessors will have to finish their work during the month of April but the Assessors have the months of April and May for their part of the field work. They have a difficult task to fulfill the pledges of Mayor Miller.

The Board of Assessors this year is entirely new, as follows: William L. Buckley, chairman, John A. Duggan and Eric G. Bergfors. The assistant assessors are: Ward One, Francis M. Curtis; Ward Two, G. Wesley Sargent; Ward Three, August Weeden; Ward Four, Jeremiah J. Lyons; Ward Five, Charles R. Sherman; Ward Six, Benjamin F. Thomas.

Last year the real estate valuation of the city was $30,356,325 divided by wards as follows:

Ward One	$9,025,675
Ward Two	4,294,625
Ward Three	3,179,875
Ward Four	2,530,325
Ward Five	6,550,950
Ward Six	4,774,875
City	$30,356,325

The gain in real estate valuation by wards for the 24 years has been:

Ward One	$5,807,875
Ward Five	5,150,200
Ward Six	3,769,675
Ward Two	3,076,525
Ward Three	1,838,500
Ward Four	976,925
City	22,619,700

The personal estate of the city was valued in 1913 at $6,166,875, being a loss of $62,375 in one year, and $1,401,025 in two years.

TENNIS DATES ANNOUNCED

The recently elected board of governors of the Quincy Tennis Club elected officers at a meeting Monday night and set the tournament dates. George E. Pfaffmann was chosen president; Arthur W. Hall, vice president; Carl R. Shepard secretary, and James H. Slade treasurer. The grand opening will take place when the courts are ready. The dates are:

May 30—Lobster tournament, singles.

June 17—Club doubles.

July 4—Open doubles for the Quincy Challenge cup, now held by Niles & Davenport.

Labor Day—Handicap club singles.

The date for the ladies tournament, one of the most interesting of the season, will be announced later.

EDUCATED PONIES.

Prof. D. M. Bristol's educated ponies and mules are the feature attractions offered at the Auditorium theatre, and in order to accommodate the children who trailed along in the rear of the street parade a special matinee performance is being given at 4.30. Prof. Bristol is assisted by Mlle. De Shon, known as the Queen of all horsewomen. The animals are well trained and neat in appearance. All are thoroughbreds and are considered in professional circles to be the best group of equines in vaudeville.

TO LET

Large Front Office Greenleaf Block 2 entrances—right at the head of the stairs—one of the most desirable offices in Quincy.

Office, Durgin-Merrill Block—3 large windows—only 1 flight up—exceptional opportunity.

Small Office Durgin-Merrill Block—Front window only one flight up.

Hancock Building—City Square Offices—small front office, $12 a month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, 16x18 feet one flight up, very low rent.

City Square Store House—22x24 feet—ground floor—rear Greenleaf Block.

Shop—22x55 feet—splendid light—Granite Street, off City Square.

GREENLEAF BLOCK
CITY SQUARE
(Best Location in City)

Offices—Large or small.

Desk Room—Street floor, right in the rear of main entrance, good light and air, $5 up a month.

Transient Rooms—Well furnished and with care, $1 a day.

Furnished Rooms—With care, steam heat, and detached bath with hot and cold water. $2.00 to $5.50 per week.

HALLS

Music Hall—Music Hall Block—Capacity 962—highest possible rating by the State, "Excellent" in every particular.

New Colonial Hall — Hancock Building, City Square—Capacity 240—the best possible location for a Hall.

Hancock Hall—Hancock Building—City Square—Capacity 150.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
(Ask for Mr. Kribs.)
Greenleaf Block, ('Phone 21066) Quincy

DOUBLE LEGAL STAMPS

ALL DAY --- EVERY DAY --- THIS WEEK

AT REMICK'S

Music Hall Block — Hancock Street

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

ESTABLISHED 1889

Entered at Post Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class matter.

SUBSCRIPTION

BY THE YEAR $6.00
BY THE MONTH 50

THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.

Incorporated.

TELEPHONES: News, Quincy 425. Business, Quincy 1910.

MAYORALTY CANDIDATES.

Before a crocus has had the courage to push its hood through the ground and with election day more than eight months away, three mayoralty booms have been gotten under way and doubtless there are others about to be started. But now is the time to select nominees rather than a few months hence, for then the heat may interfere with the voter's cold processes of reasoning.

Without expressing any opinion on the relative merits of the present incumbent and those willing to relieve him of the duties of the mayoralty next January, it is suggested to the business men and heavy tax-payers (the men who pay the freight) that they might well begin now to have informal conferences, to see whether they can agree upon some strong man to run for Mayor next fall. If they succeed, let the fact be promptly published. A boom started under such auspices and conditions would probably prove irresistible.

It is a singular fact that in the past the people who had most at stake said the least before election, although after the appointments were made they had enough to say in the way of criticism. Let the plan suggested be tried and who knows but it may mean the dawning of a better day for Quincy in the administration of her municipal affairs.

This is not in indorsement, nor condemnation of the present Mayor, but simply a plea for an effort at the present time to consider securing next fall the best man available, whoever he may be, whether the present incumbent or some other.

UNEMPLOYED WOMEN.

It is a singular cross current of modern economics, that while in some cities women have been holding mass meetings for the unemployed the past month or two, yet it is as hard as ever to find domestic help.

Probably these idle women think that with spring weather trade will look up, and that the factories that previously employed them will ask for help again. Apparently they would prefer to suffer some immediate hardship rather than give up the independence of the factory.

Their bargain seems to be a poor one. Domestic service would give nearly the same cash wage as unskilled shop work, it would save the payment of board and provide better food.

But human nature is as it is. The early colonists found that the Indians would barter much more corn in return for glass beads than they would for the standard gold and silver coins of Europe. If working women want the freer life that goes with shop work the employing class must give them that freedom; or pay a higher price for control over their time, or must put up with very raw help, or no help at all.

The domestic worker has her own social aspirations. At certain hours the girls of her set who work in shops have the luxurious freedom of the streets. They can meet the men of their acquaintance and form plans for the evening's entertainment. No doubt it is much more prudent and safer to be serving a late dinner to the mistress and her family at home. But a sense of deprivation rises under these circumstances in the heart of the girl, as she rebelliously washes her dishes, incidentally smashing a little china by way of emphasis.

Household wages will be high, and many unemployed women will be reluctant to enter this field, until its hours are more like those of a factory schedule.

FINANCIAL OUTLOOK. SPECIAL.

The financial community is still in a state of hopeful expectancy. No little disappointment exists that the market has not shown greater strength; yet it must be remembered that we are passing through a period of trade depression and industrial readjustment, which is worldwide and not by any means confined to the United States. We are inevitably in one of those periods of economic reaction to which we must adjust ourselves whether we like it or not, and which are best met by candid appreciation of the facts.

The great transportation interests of the country are still paralyzed by indecision of the Interstate Commerce Commission regarding an advance of rates; by the unfriendly attitude of Congress; by the losses inflicted through severe weather, and by general trade sluggishness. The steel industry is suffering from a continuous lack of orders, due chiefly to financial inability of the railroads, and to the reaction in building as well as to general trade slackness. The great textile industries are also feeling reactionary tendencies. Consumption is declining somewhat owing to unemployment among the masses and general necessity for economy. Our cotton mills are still facing serious problems owing to declining prices for fabrics, relatively high prices for raw material and rumblings of fresh demands for higher wages from labor. The woolen industry is exceedingly spotty. All of the oil companies have been doing a tremendous business and making unusual profits owing to the great expansion in the uses of petroleum. Our fertilizer companies are expecting a good year. The real estate business is anything but satisfactory for reasons already well understood.

The financial outlook for the future should still be regarded hopefully. We have fairly discounted all unfavorable factors; financial and industrial conditions are intrinsically sound; the oncoming of spring should impart some recovery; political conditions at Washington, though unsatisfactory, are less threatening, and we are in for a period of easy money. These are all factors of a curative sort. The first of April, when over $180,000,000 in dividends will be distributed, is now at hand, and in the absence of unfavorable developments there is nothing to prevent a fair recovery in the best classes of stocks. The new banking system will soon begin to be in operation and that will be helpful.—Henry Clews, Banker, New York.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse B. Baxter of Brackett street are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter.

The old Robertson farm on Adams street has recently been sold to a real estate firm and will soon be laid out into house lots.

The Woodsum Class of the First Baptist church is now leading by 22 per cent in the contest with the Men's class of the Randolph Baptist church Sunday, Daniel A. McKay of Boston, gave a very impressive talk to the class on: "A message from the man behind the bars," and there were 74 men out to hear him. Mr. McKay said that the majority of prisoners, if given the chance, would urge the young people to follow the Christian life and keep away from rum.

Mrs. Sidney Cornell, nee Miss Edna Golbranson, who has been visiting her parents, on Adams street left Saturday for Pawling, N. Y., where she will stay for six weeks before going to her home at Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Charles S. Margeson of 83 Thayer street, has recently purchased a farm in North Stoughton, where he will move this week and make his home.

The boys' afternoon class of the Gym held a fine exhibition Saturday afternoon. Some very promising athletes were assured by the work which was accomplished.

A horse belonging to Joseph Cutler of Quincy was reported strolling about the streets Monday afternoon in a short time it was found and stopped by Robert Roberts and returned to its owner.

☞PRATT'S BREAD sales have increased because it satisfies. Your grocer.

INSPECTOR OF MILK

NOTICE

Quincy, March 27, 1914.

Because of the apparent misunderstanding as to the enforcement of regulation 65 it was not intended that the provisions of this regulation be enforced immediately; but a period of sixty (60) days will be allowed from this date for all milk dealers to comply with the following:—

Regulation 65—No person or corporation shall sell or offer, expose or keep for sale in any shop, store or other place, milk or cream, unless the same is sold or offered, exposed or kept for sale in tightly closed or capped bottles or receptacles. Nothing contained herein shall prevent the sale of milk or cream from cans, crocks, coolers or other receptacles in restaurants, hotels, barrooms, or at soda fountains when milk or cream is to be consumed on the premises by guests or patrons ordering the same. Whoever violates any provision of any kind of this regulation shall be punished by a fine of not less than $25 or more than $100 for each offense.

DANIEL SCOULER, Jr.
Inspector of Milk.
7-6t

ASQUITH TAKES WAR MINISTRY

Resignation of Seely Accepted by British Premier

MOST ADROIT POLITICAL MOVE

Drastic Action Made Necessary by Refusal of Army Chiefs to Be Placated Following Repudiation of War Council Note to Gough—Action Prevents Cabinet's Downfall

London, March 31.—One of the most adroit moves in the history of English politics was made by Premier Asquith when he accepted the resignation of Colonel Seely as war secretary, assumed the portfolio himself, and then by a clever maneuver made it possible for him to go before the country for indorsement of his cabinet's policy on home rule without the entire ministry resigning.

The unexpected manner in which the premier met the opposition's attempts to overthrow his government as a result of the army tangle threw the coalition forces into a frenzy of excited approval, even though Asquith did announce that Field Marshal French and Adjutant General Ewart stood firm in their intention to resign.

Failure to placate these officers following the repudiation of the war council note to General Gough giving a guarantee that his troops would not be expected to fight Ulster made drastic action necessary to save the cabinet.

Their refusal to withdraw their resignations, even with the acceptance of the resignation of Seely, brought matters to a crisis. The premier faced open revolt in the house of commons. His cabinet was on the verge of dissolution, but this is the manner in which the retirement of the entire cabinet will be avoided.

Asquith announced that he would assume the war office portfolio, that he would resign his seat in parliament as a representative of East Fife, and would then go before the people of his district for re-election as premier and war minister.

As the premier is practically certain of re-election he will then secure the electoral indorsement of the country for his administration without a dissolution.

In the meantime the home rule fight will go on under the leadership of Reginald McKenna, the home secretary.

The meaning of it all is this: The premier has full confidence that in the present crisis the country is with him. The Unionists have for weeks been insisting that the government should resign and go to the country for a general election before pressing the home rule bill any further.

Now the premier will give them a general election on a small scale. He stakes his entire career, home rule prospects and all, on the result of a single bye-election in the constituency of East Fife in Scotland.

There is no doubt that the issue will be clear cut and closely drawn. They will be home rule and army dictation. If Asquith comes back with an increased majority over his figures in the last election there can be no doubt of the feeling in the country. If he should get a decreased vote then his opponents might be justified in saying that a general election would cut down the Liberal following.

And in the meantime the home rule debate will go on in the commons. "I'll be handy if I'm wanted," was the remark of the premier when one of his opponents suggested that the home rule debate could not well go on with Asquith out of the commons.

HELD FOR WIFE MURDER

Police Declare Their Belief That Starratt Is Sane

Malden, Mass., March 31.—While his nine young children mourned for their dead mother, Charles F. Starratt of Everett appeared in court here charged with wife murder.

Starratt was held without bail for a hearing April 7, on a charge of wife murder, after his counsel entered a plea of not guilty.

The prisoner showed no emotion when he appeared in court.

For several weeks his mental condition has been under suspicion, and the police have been keeping a watch on him. His wife had stood in the way of having him removed to some institution for observation. The police say they believe Starratt is sane.

Earthquake Shocks Recorded

Cleveland, March 31.—Fr. Ogdenbach, professor at St. Ignatus university, reports his seismograph recorded an earthquake 3000 miles away. He thinks the earthquake was either in Mexico or South America.

Prouty For Senator

Montpelier, Vt., March 31.—Charles A. Prouty, former interstate commerce commissioner, signified his intention to accept the Progressive nomination for senator, if it is tendered him.

Real Ability.

"What is the secret of success?" asked the fool.

"The ability to conceal your lack of ability," replied the sage.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

HERBERT H. ASQUITH

Premier Stakes All Upon His Re-election

GIRLS IN A PANIC

Hurriedly Flee When Explosion Occurs In a Chocolate Factory

Boston, March 31.—Several girls were thrown into a panic and six men were burned and scalded when an explosion, the cause of which is unknown, wrecked the cooling room on the second floor of the Massachusetts Chocolate company's factory.

Smoke, escaping from steam and cocoa dust, filled the building. The girls, who were in the labelling room, which adjoins the cooling room, were enveloped in the cocoa dust, and rushed, panic stricken, to the street.

TWO BOSTON COPS LOSE THEIR JOBS

Found Guilty of Assault Upon Fellow Officer

Boston, March 31.—The discharge from the Boston police department of Patrolmen John T. Flatley and Roland P. Green of the Dedham street station was announced in a general order issued by Commissioner O'Meara as the result of their assault upon Patrolman Edward C. Fitzgerald on Garland street.

This means that each man loses a job paying $1400 a year with pension of half-pay on retirement.

O'Meara took occasion to congratulate the department on its freedom from scandals, declaring that the discipline of the 1600 men in the department is unimpaired.

FUNERAL OF KEITH

Many Persons Attend Services In Newton Cemetery Chapel

Newton, Mass., March 31.—Funeral services for B. F. Keith were held in the chapel at the Newton cemetery. Although the attendance was limited to relatives and intimate friends about 200 persons were in the chapel. Rev. Edward A. Horton officiated.

There was a profusion of flowers from friends in all parts of the country. The Meistersingers choir sang "Consolation," "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Still, Still With Thee." The ceremony was brief and simple.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the body was placed in a receiving tomb and will later be buried in the Keith lot, where lie buried Keith's mother and sister.

RAILROAD STARTS PIGGERY

New Haven Will Fatten Pork on Dining Car Garbage

Springfield, Mass., March 31.—The newest economy instituted by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad is the establishment of a piggery in West Springfield, at which pork will be fattened on garbage from the company's dining cars.

A recently adopted city ordinance provides that all garbage must be turned over to the city's collectors. Hotels and restaurants, which have sold their garbage, have rebelled at the ordinance, and in some instances have circumvented the city by leasing farm property as a legal outlet for their table and kitchen refuse. The New Haven railroad has joined these ranks.

Woman Loses Leg In Explosion

Worcester, Mass., March 31.—The right leg of Mrs. Octavia L. Walley, aged 27, was almost blown off and other injuries sustained when the water front in a wash room range blew out. Mrs. Walley is in a critical condition, following amputation of the leg above the knee.

Worcester 'Phones Are Working

Worcester, Mass., March 31.—Forty-eight hundred telephones are in operation and the telephone company hopes to have 10,000 ready for use tonight. Thirty-two miles of wire were destroyed in the fire that consumed the main exchange here Saturday.

QUINCY REAL ESTATE SALES.

Blanche G. Barclay to Henrietta E. Richardson, Henry street.

Lottie G. Bassett to John O. Hall, Newport avenue.

Jeannie W. Bennett to Henry M. Faxon, Goffe street.

Louise A. Broughton to James H. Broughton, Greenwood avenue, Woodbine street.

Ella M. Cunniff gdn. to Thomas M. Cunniff, Liberty street, $200.

Ella M. Cunniff et al to Thomas M. Cunniff, Liberty street.

Wilton A. Dunham to William E. Preston, Houghs Neck.

Wilton A. Dunham to George H. Curran, Houghs Neck.

Axel F. Ericson to Elin M. Ericson, Cranch street.

Henry M. Faxon to Carle R. Hayward, Goffe street.

Henry M. Faxon to Jeannie W. Bennett.

Julia E. Fuller to Alice S. Blackwell, Sagamore street, Walker place.

Henry M. Faxon to Jeannie W. Bennett, Goffe street.

Mary L. Fulton to David J. Fulton, Oxenbridge road.

Patrick Greeley to Mary Greeley, Safford street.

Francis J. Greeley to Margaret M. Greeley, Safford street.

Patrick Greeley tr to Francis J. Greeley, Safford street.

Reuben A. Grossman to Isabelle R. Pierce, Trescott street.

John O. Hall to Pneumatic Scale Corp, Newport avenue.

Carle R. Hayward to Henry M. Faxon, Goffe street.

Carle R. Hayward to Henry M. Faxon et al.

George B. Huntington to Ida L. Harlow, Marion street.

Annie M. Kelley to Alice S. Blackwell, Sagamore street, Prospect street.

Alfred A. MacLaren to Old Colony R. R. Co.

Lydia A. Mann to Barney D. Mann, Highland avenue, North Central avenue, Elmwood avenue.

Charlotte McConnell to Mabel T. Jaycox, Davis street.

Mandarin Association to Franklin P. Hill, Babcock street.

Myron L. Morton to Leroy M. Hill, Cummings avenue.

Old Colony R. R. Co., et al to Alfred A. MacLaren.

Bessie Rappaport to Lizzie Grossman, Federal avenue, Verchild street.

Bella Reichner to Mary L. Martineau, Rockland street.

Sarah J. Rich to Matilda J. McFarland, Tyler street.

Naomi W. Sawyer et al to Charles N. Brown, Ocean street.

Minnie Smith et al to Florence M. Muirhead, Scammell street.

Arthur C. Sprague to Elvena B. Melendy, Prospect avenue.

Nathan Sternberg to John Berman, Grafton street.

Nathan Sternberg to John Berman, Brook road.

Teresa B. Vilk to Gertrude P. Reimer, Billings road.

David A. Walker adm. to Agnes A. Robertson, Winter street, $3400.

August N. Weeden et al trs to Annie M. Weeden, Broady avenue, Lind street.

Edith S. Winslow to Frank F. Taylor, Bromfield street.

Fred W. Wood et al trs to John O. Newport avenue.

Fred W. Woode et al trs to John O. Hall, Newport avenue.

Fred W. Wood et al trs to Leroy M. Hill, Cummings avenue.

BRAINTREE REAL ESTATE SALES

Margaret O. Edison to Edwin W. Hunt, Hewmason road, Bellevue road.

Edwin W. Hunt gdn to Margaret O. Edson, Bellevue road, Hewmason road.

Edwin W. Hunt to Charles B. Putnam, Bellevue road, Hewmason road.

Henry S. Moody tr to Timothy Crowley.

Frederick G. Pennock et al to Sarah L. Schraut, Frederick road.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

EVERYTHING A MAN NEEDS

$1 Complete Shaving Outfit $1
10 Articles 10

To advertise our Universal Shaving Outfit and Universal Products we will for a limited time only, send this well worth $3.00 Shaving Outfit for $1.00. We sell our products to the consumer direct and therefore you save all agents' profits which as you know are very large.

1 Hollow Ground Razor.
1 5-inch Lather Brush.
1 Razor Strop, Canvas Back.
1 Nickel Easel Back Mirror.
1 33-inch Barber Towel.
1 Bar Shaving Soap.
1 Box Talcum Powder.
1 Decorated China Mug.
1 Aluminum Barber Comb.
1 Bristle Hair Brush.

Not more than one outfit to each consumer. Agents need not write. Each outfit packed in neat box $1.00.

UNIVERSAL PRODUCTS CO.
Dayton, Ohio.

Capital $150,000 Surplus $200,000

"THE SECRET OF SUCCESS IS TO BE READY FOR ONE'S OPPORTUNITIES"—DICKENS.

It is not enough to know an opportunity when you see it; you must be prepared to grasp it and make it your own.

Moral: A Bank account helps you to be ready for opportunities.

Our $5 Box Is Larger Than a $10 Box in Boston.

GRANITE TRUST CO.
FOUNDED 1836

LAMSON & HUBBARD

SPRING AND SUMMER STYLES FOR SALE BY

GEORGE W. JONES
REMICK BROS.

AT THE FOY STORES

THE NEW Adams Market, CITY SQUARE, 'Phone Quincy 153 and 1760

THE OLD Water St. Market, QUINCY ADAMS, 'Phone Quincy 117

A New addition to our line of High Grade Teas

PEEK'S TEA

—An English Tea of exquisite flavor, absolute purity, careful selection, extra strength, and quality that has seldom, if ever before, been offered to American People. In England PEEK'S TEA has been famous for 100 years. It is being introduced into New England now with great success. We are sole agents for Quincy. Come, buy a pound, use it half up and then if you don't like it, we'll refund the full price.

GIVE THIS NEW TEA A TRIAL

Sold in Airtight, Flavor-retaining Canisters

10c 25c 50c and 75c

Another Delicious Drink is FOY'S QUALITY COFFEE

The very best coffee you, or we can buy. Fresh from the roaster daily. Try a pound 33c lb

March 30-2t

J. W. PRATT, ARCHITECT and BUILDER

Private Residences, Apartments, and Buildings of all kinds, of the highest order designed and built.

Our long established business enables us to properly anticipate your requirements, and our accurate and reliable plans will save you more than their cost.

Estimates given on any work, any size, any kind. A call will bring us without any obligation to you.

18 Faxon Ave. (From City Square) Tel. 581-W Quincy

Feb. 10-tf

THE QUINCY GARAGE

87 ADAMS STREET, QUINCY

Agent for FORD and CASE CARS

A full Line of Supplies always on hand
Michelin Tires in stock

Now Ready for Delivery the 1914 Ford Car, $550 for 5 Passenger, $500 for Runabout, $750 for Town Car F. O. B. Detroit.

For Particulars or Demonstration call Quincy 435

Night or Day never closed. C. P. GOULD, Prop.

Dec. 12-lo-tf

Advertise in the Ledger

plus $200,000
IS TO BE NITIES"...
DICKENS.
w an ; you
t and you to be T Co.
BBARD IER
ES TORES
THE OLD er St. Market
NCY ADAMS hone Quincy 117
ligh Grade Teas
TEA solute purity, careful has seldom, if ever
In England PEEK'S is being introduced
We are sole agents lf up and then if you
A TRIAL
g Canisters
75c
Drink is COFFEE buy pound
33 c lb
March 30-2t
T and BUILDER
ildings of all kinds,
nd built.
properly anticipate your ns will save you more
d. A call will bring us
581-W Quincy
Feb. 10-tf
RAGE
QUINCY
CASE CARS on hand ord Car, $550 for
0 for Town Car
Quincy 435
C. P. GOULD, Prop.
Dec. 12-10-tf
Ledger

BAD MONEY IN CIRCULATION

Several Counterfeit Half Dollars Have Been Passed

Quincy, after an interval of several months, has again been chosen as a center in which to circulate counterfeit coins, and during the past week spurious half dollars have been put in general circulation in all parts of the city.

The half dollars bear the year 1909 and are good imitations. They possess a ring enough to cover a slight suspicion, but are somewhat thicker than those coined at government mints. The coin contains some lead but its other parts have not been determined.

The fact that the coins were being circulated was first noticed at the cashier's office at the Quincy car barn, where the conductors turn in their daily receipts. Merchants of the city have also found the fake coin in the money drawer.

Several months ago Federal officers were in this city making an investigation in connection with the passing of spurious coin, but their quest was unsuccessful as far as is known. Since that time the Brockton police unearthed a den in their city, and two men arrested were convicted.

It is estimated that the aggregate loss to the city to date has been several hundred dollars, and up to Monday, as far as is known, the local police had not been made acquainted with conditions.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Rev. David B. Matthews of St. Paul's church of Brockton will preach at the midweek Lenten service in Christ church on Wednesday evening.

Miss Gertrude Jones, president of St. Margaret's Guild, has issued an invitation to all the women in the parish to be present this evening at the regular meeting when Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick will give one of her delightful readings.

Miss Loring of Boston, former president of the Women's Auxiliary will speak at the monthly business meeting of the Women's Guild on Thursday afternoon. The meeting is the last of the weekly meetings held this winter.

The initiatory degree will be conferred on several candidates at the Thursday evening meeting of the Gardner Club. An entertainment will be given and refreshments will be served.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

"A Lady of Quality" was the screen attraction that packed Kincaide Theatre to the doors last evening, and also was enjoyed by seven hundred people in the afternoon. The leading part in this great production is taken by that famous actress Cecelia Loftus and she has a splendid company. The picture is produced by the Famous Players Film Co. and is the first of three to be shown in this theatre.

Vaudeville attractions are all good. Silent Nora, the Magician, held the close attention of his audience, with his seemingly impossible feats. Three Boyds proved pleasing entertainers in singing, dancing and musical selections. Dale & Boyle "The Belle and the Beau" make a great hit with their act which ended in a great surprise. The Watson-Hutchings-Edwards Co. presented a screaming comedy sketch entitled "Schultz's Night Out" which was fun from beginning to end.

RAINE
POTATOES
25c PECK
— AT —
Carlson's Restaurant
10 Depot Street
Opp. City Hall
March 6-1m

A BIT OF WAX

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

I had gone out to India to serve as an accountant in a banking house; but, becoming homesick, I decided to return to America. A few days before I sailed the head of the firm called me into his private office and told me that a client of the house desired that I carry for him to Boston a valuable sapphire. He would pay me handsomely for its delivery in that city.

I needed the money and accepted the commission. I called for it the day I sailed, wearing a coat with a pocket in the lining, in which the sapphire was sewed by an Indian woman who was called in for the purpose, though she did not see the contents of the pocket or know that there was a pocket there.

My route was by Aden, the Suez canal, the Mediterranean and over the Atlantic to New York, quite a long journey and all in the same vessel. I made the acquaintance of an American lady, Mrs. Gillette, whose maid was a young Indian woman. The lady told me that shortly before she sailed the woman—Susan she was called, because her Indian name was hard to pronounce—hearing that she was intending to sail for America, came and begged her to take her with her as her maid, with no compensation except paying for her passage. The lady, who was subject to seasickness and wished some one to wait on her, consented. Mrs. Gillette was ill in rough weather, but well on a smooth sea Susan took very good care of her.

Since I had told no one that I carried a valuable gem and no one except myself and the man through whom it came to me knew where it was I felt very little fear of losing it. I simply wore the coat in which it was sewed by day and used it for a pillow by night, so that it was always either on my back or under my head. But one thing occurred during the voyage to cause me to suspect the possibility of any one being on my track. One day when about to enter my state room I noticed something white not as big as a pea on the floor directly under the lock. I have no idea what induced me to pick it up, but I did so and, crushing it between my thumb and forefinger, found it to be wax. Could any one have been taking an impression of the lock on my state room door? I dismissed the suggestion at once as farfetched.

We had left Gibraltar and were nearing the Azores when one morning I awoke with a head swimming sensation. I smelled a peculiar odor in the room. I put up my hand to grasp my coat, for I felt that my head was without support, and was horrified to find the coat was not there. I arose and looked about the room for it as best I could, but it was not in the room. I tried the door and found it locked. The key I had concealed under my mattress. It was where I had placed it.

The remembrance of the bit of wax I had found came back to me as the only clew to this robbery. If an impression had been made for a key the key must have been made aboard the ship. It could not have been filed without the filing being heard. Doubtless it had been made in the ship's workshop. I went below and asked the man in charge of the metal working shop if he had been called to make a key. He said that he had not, but, after some thought, said that one of the stewards had been in the shop filing something. He remembered the steward, and we found him.

I reported the matter to the captain, who called the steward before him and obtained a confession that he had been tipped by a lady's maid to do some filing on a key. When called upon to identify the lady's maid he pointed out Mrs. Gillette's Indian girl, Susan.

Before Susan got wind of the matter a stewardess took her in charge and another went through her effects. My coat was found among them, but the sapphire was missing. We were obliged to tie a rope around Susan, threatening to put her overboard, before she broke down and told us where she had concealed it.

No blame whatever was attached to Mrs. Gillette. She had not the slightest conception that her maid was not only a thief, but had entered her service knowing that she was about to leave for America on the same steamer as I and believing that I carried the sapphire.

This is the explanation of how Susan acquired this information. She had been chambermaid in the hotel where the owner of the sapphire stayed and had suddenly entered the room and had seen him handling it. She had watched him and had seen him go to the bankers. There she had succeeded in making the acquaintance of the woman who had done the sewing on my coat. This was enough. A brother of hers had got from the passenger list of the steamer on which I was to sail the names of several ladies. Susan had gone to each of these ladies, proposing to go with her as maid, and had been successful with Mrs. Gillette.

Susan was kept in limbo to the end of the voyage, when I went ashore. I learned afterward that she was taken back to India, being made to do menial work on the return voyage. What became of her after reaching India I do not know.

The incident convinced me that the natives of Asia are very shrewd.

PLATFORM IS CONTRADICTORY

Wilson Says It Opposes Subsidy and Declares For Exemption

DEMOCRATS' DUTY IS CLEAR

Should Not Hesitate to Vote For Repeal of Panama Tolls Exemption, According to President, Who Says We Must Act In Good Faith Toward the Rest of the World

Washington, March 31.—President Wilson declared that on account of the contradictory statements in the Baltimore platform, Democrats should have no hesitation in voting for the repeal of the Panama canal tolls exemption. The president emphatically characterized the exemption as a subsidy and pointed out that one plank in the Baltimore platform expressed opposition to any subsidy, direct or indirect, while another plank declared for tolls exemption.

The president asserted there should be no doubt among Democrats as to which should take precedence. The president reiterated that the exemption never was a policy of the Democratic house, because it was passed through a coalition of Republicans and a minority of Democrats, the majority of Democrats voting against it on the ground that it was a subsidy.

The president explained that even if the international situation to which he referred in his message had not arisen exemption was against Democratic doctrine. But he indicated, however, that if it were not for the international situation he did not feel that it would have been proper for him to question the acts of a previous administration.

Mr. Wilson talked frankly about the tolls controversy in congress, saying that the story that he had entered into a bargain with Great Britain was one of a number of insults that had been introduced in the congressional debate. The president declared he wanted to express his regret that what had promised to be a dignified contest, with genuine differences of opinion seemed to be degenerating, in his opinion, into an attempt to discredit the administration.

Mr. Wilson let it be known that he was unqualifiedly opposed to any compromise or amendments such as have been proposed in the senate. He is for a straight repeal without equivocation.

Mr. Wilson is being questioned repeatedly as to the meaning of the celebrated phrase in his Panama canal tolls message in which, asking support of the foreign policy of the administration, he says: "I shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequences if you do not grant it to me in ungrudging measure."

To all inquirers the president replies that he takes his stand upon the broad fact that while honest differences of opinion as to the proper construction of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty exists in the United States, the opinion of all the rest of the world is unanimous that we would act in bad faith if we allowed American ships free passage through the canal.

For us to fail to act in good faith, the president says, would embarrass our foreign policy everywhere, consequently a double reason exists why the free tolls clause should be repealed. The president is convinced that in time the country will support this point of view.

Debate on the repeal bill continues in the house and senate. In the former the Sims bill is the centre of controversy. That the Sims bill, providing for the repeal in accordance with the president's request, is virtually assured of adoption, so far as the house is concerned, is the consensus of opinion.

Because of the differences in parliamentary procedure of the two houses senators do not expect a vote in the senate within six weeks.

TURNED INTO NASHUA RIVER

Boston City Water Fills Reservoir to Its Utmost Capacity

Clinton, Mass., March 31.—Wachusett reservoir, part of Boston's water supply system, is filled to its limit and the metropolitan water and sewage commission ordered that the gates be opened to allow the waste water to flow into the Nashua river.

Manufacturers along the river were notified. In twenty-four hours 10,000,000 gallons of water has been turned into the Nashua.

Stole From Parcel Post

Boston, March 31.—John Van Bramer, parcel post wagon driver in Pittsfield, pleaded guilty in the federal district court to thefts from the mails and was sentenced to fifteen months in the Concord reformatory.

Officer Cools Suffragettes

Paris, March 31.—A few words from a braided officer took all the militancy out of 300 suffragettes who had planned to march from the Bourse to the Place de l'Opera. Meeting the officer they quit cold.

Gift of $50,000 to Barnard

New York, March 31.—A contribution of $50,000 from Mrs. E. H. Harriman to the endowment fund of Barnard college is announced.

NO TRACE OF HEAD

Body of Woman Washed Ashore Some Months Ago Identified

Hampton Beach, N. H., March 31.—The headless body found here Nov. 13, and which was thought for a time to have been thrown overboard from an ocean liner, was identified as that of Mrs. Mary L. Danielson of Portsmouth.

No trace of the head has been discovered. It was taken off smoothly, and the authorities are in doubt as to whether the woman's death was due to foul play.

Identification was made by Mrs. George Bullock, at whose home Mrs. Danielson lived. Mrs. Danielson, whose husband is now serving a sentence for drunkenness, disappeared on the evening of Oct. 21, just after she had gone to the home of a friend and borrowed $2.

Toward evening she was seen walking toward the waterfront. It was nearly a month later when the body was washed ashore here. Mrs. Danielson was 45 years old.

CHARGED WITH BLACKMAIL

Accused Man Tries to Use Empty Revolver on Detective

Hartford, March 31.—With revolver shots rending the ordinary quiet, and a detective pursuing a fleet-footed man who carried a long manila paper envelope, there was some little excitement on State street, in the centre of the business district.

The running battle ended with the arrest of Thomas Sweeney, who got as far in his attempt to kill Detective Melberger as to poke his gun to the detective's stomach, to discover that the cartridge chamber was emptied.

Sweeney will appear in court on the charge of attempting to get $5000 blackmail from President Dunham of the Travelers' Insurance company.

Dunham had received a letter advising him to be prepared to deliver $5000, uder penalty of disclosures, the nature of which was not explained.

STEWARD STUNNED BY BIG APPETITE

Prisoner Makes Hole In Larder of Liner Philadelphia

New York, March 31.—A new financial problem came to the notice of the marine experts when the American liner Philadelphia arrived from Cherbourg with Detective Leigh and his prisoner, Josef von Slenozuki, a Polish violinist.

Chief Steward Bell never had a passenger with such an enormous appetite as that displayed by Leigh's prisoner on the run from Cherbourg.

The violinist's breakfast, his lightest meal of the day, is reported to have consisted of eight eggs, a steak, four potatoes, two kippered herring, one dish of oatmeal, four stuffed tomatoes, two oranges, one grapefruit, five crullers, seven rolls and two cups of coffee.

Von Slenozuki is charged with having left the country with two violins, valued at $4000 and owned by a local violin maker.

DEPORTED INSANE MAN

New York Declared to Have Acted Within Its Rights

Los Angeles, Cal., March 30.—At the conclusion of an investigation by Judge Jackson of the superior court and a lunacy commission, it was announced that New York state had acted within its rights in deporting persons discharged from its asylums for the insane and committing them to the care of relatives in other states.

The inquiry resulted from the arrest here of Charles Frank, who came west with a number of former patients of a New York hospital. Relatives of Frank were found here and he was ordered sent to Patton hospital at their expense.

SAVED FROM THE GALLOWS

Governor Refuses to Pardon Convict Who Is Sentenced to Death

Jefferson City, Mo., March 31.—By refusing to pardon James Schrum from a ninety-nine-year prison term for the murder of Mont Hall, Governor Major saved the man from death on the gallows.

The prison sentence makes it impossible for the sheriff of St. Francois county to obtain Schrum and hang him for the murder of Gint Gibson, although the sentence of execution has been approved by the state supreme court.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Emile Gentil, former commission general in the Charin district of the French Congo and well known as an explorer, died at Bordeaux, France.

Another mysterious attack on a soldier on guard at the Kirschback, Ger., fort was made.

Captain Reinhardt was killed in an aeroplane accident at Strassburg, Ger.

Fire in Belfonte hotel, Webster, Mass., caused a loss of $6000. Twenty guests at dinner hurried to the street.

Schedules in bankruptcy of the H. & J. Brewer company of Springfield, Mass., dealers in druggists' sundries, were filed, showing liabilities of $216,219.

Glenwood
"It certainly does make cooking easy"

H. L. Kincaide & Co., Quincy

NEW FIRE ALARM.

Many changes in the Quincy fire alarm boxes have been noted in the Daily Ledger recently and a revised list of the boxes is printed below:

12 Palmer st. near Brockton av.
13 Shelton rd. and Sea st.
14 Church Turnout, Manet av.
15 Germantown, Sailor's Snug Har.
16 Sea st., near Rock Island rd.
17 Sea st., near Dunham's
18 Sea and Palmer sts.
19 Rock Island.
112 Sea st., near Willows.
113 Post Island.
114 Engine House, Houghs Neck.
116 Centre Road and Darrow Street.
117 Great Hill, Houghs Neck.
119 Rockland and Rhoda sts., Rock Is.

21 Whitwell and Granite sts.
23 Hancock st. and Cottage av.
24 Hancock and Chestnut sts.
25 Washington and Foster sts.
26 Hancock, opposite City Hall.
27 Washington and Elm sts.
28 Hancock and Greenleaf sts.
29 Butler rd. and Putnam st.
121 President's Hill.
122 Chestnut st. and Revere rd.
123 Hancock st., near Car Barn.
124 Adams and Goffe sts.
126 Russell Park.
221 Glendale rd. and Bedford st.
223 Whitwell st., near Hospital.
224 Adams st., near Whitwell st.
225 Field and Brackett sts.
226 Dimmock st. and Upland rd.
227 Newcomb and Canal sts.
228 Edgemere rd. and Putnam st.
235 Elm st. and Miller Stile rd.
242 (P) City Hospital.

31 Phipps, near Payne st.
32 Phipps st and Kendrick av.
34 Franklin and High sts.
35 Hancock and School sts.
36 School and Franklin sts.
37 Franklin and Water sts.
38 Penn and Liberty sts.
39 Liberty and Plain sts.
136 Quincy and Pleasant sts.
137 Water st. and Brook rd.
138 Intervale st. and Brook av.
139 Vernon st.
321 Brook av. and Centre sts.
322 Centre and Granite sts.

331 Presidents and Independence av.
332 Independence and Federal av.

41 School and Granite sts.
42 Copeland and Granite sts.
43 Copeland and Common sts.
45 Crescent and Willard sts.
46 Copeland st., near Furnace av.
47 Bates av. and Grove st.
48 Willard and Robertson sts.
49 Willard and Doble sts.
143 Station st.
147 Granite Railway Yard.
412 Willard and West sts.
413 Buckley and Arthur sts.
421 Rogers st., off Hall Place.
432 Willard st. and Furnace av.
435 Reardon and Barry sts.
441 Smith st., near Quarry st.
442 Quarry st., near Hitchcock's.
443 West and Hayden sts.
445 Quarry and Common sts.
446 Copeland opp. Willard school.
447 Grove st. and Forest av.

51 Tubular Rivet and Stud Factory
52 Elmwood av. and Farrington st.
53 Winthrop and Warren av.
54 Hancock st., near Elm av.
56 Beale st. and Newport av.
57 Beach and Willow sts.
58 Beale and Adams sts.
59 Beale st. and Central av.
151 Billings rd. and Beach st.
152 Billings and Rawson rds.
153 Farrington st., near Wollastn F'y
154 Fenno st., near Sailors' Home.
155 Waren av., near Newton st.

512 Grand View and So. Central avs.
513 Foot of Beach st.
515 Quincy Mansion School.
524 Berlin and Woodbine sts.
552 Brook st. and North Central av.
553 Belmont st. and Lincoln av.

61 Hancock and Squantum sts.
62 Hancock and Atlantic sts.
63 Hancock st., near Atlantic Depot.
64 Billings st. and Newbury av.
64 (D) Auto Com. No. 2 House.
65 Squantum st. and Faxon road.
66 Prospect and Billings sts.
67 Squantum and Atlantic sts.
68 Squantum st., Montclair school.
69 Sterling st. and Sagamore av.
161 Newport av. opp. Wollaston F'dy.
612 Hancock st. and Billings rd.
613 Hayward st., opp. Gear Works.

614 Glover and Newbury av.
615 Oak and Walnut sts.

7 Washington and Union sts.
71 Washington and Mill sts.
72 Washington and River sts.
73 Washington and Pray sts.
74 Washington and South sts.
75 Quincy av. near Mrs. Baxter's.
76 Washington and Wharf sts.
76 (D) Power House St. Ry.
78 Fore River Shipbuilding Works.
171 Main and Union sts.
172 South Walnut, near Oak st.
173 Main and Sumner sts.
174 North st., and Commonwealth av.
175 Quincy av. and Howard st.
272 Farnum and Edison sts.
273 (P) Baker Basin.
712 Broadway and Commonwealth av.
718 (P) Johnson's Lumber Wharf.
721 Scammell st. and Glencoe pl.
722 South st. and Winthrop park.
723 South st. and Clairmont av.
725 Howard and Winter sts.

8 Squantum st. and Huckins av.
81 Bellevue rd. and Ocean rd.
82 Bellevue rd. and Huckins av.
83 Bellevue rd. and Standish rd.
84 Dorchester and Pratt sts.
(D) Duplicate (P) Private

WEEK OF PRAYER.

The Wollaston Congregational church announces that the Week of Prayer will be observed this year from April 5-12. The program is as follows:—

Tuesday evening—Young People's night. Addresses by Rev. J. Woodburne Sayre and Rev. Stephen C. Lang.

Wednesday evening—Father and Son Night. Addresses by A. Fitch Bromley and the pastor.

Thursday evening—The observance of the Lord's Supper.

Friday, 3 P. M.—Mothers' meeting. Address by Mrs. I. W. Sneath.

Solo, chorus and congregational singing at each service. Everybody invited to every service.

AUDITORIUM THEATRE
One Week Commencing March 30
THE ORIGINAL PROF. BRISTOLS TRAINED HORSES

Matinee 2.30 and 4 P. M. Evenings at 7.30 and 8.45
See our Big Street Parade, and our usual good photo plays
ADMISSION 10c
March 28 3t

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—South Station after 3.30.
QUINCY—Ledger Office, Hancock st.
Brown & Co., 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock st.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
NORFOLK DOWNS—Branschied & Marten.
Bugbee & Neal, Hancock St.
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
Newcomb Square—Stetson Pierce.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith.
McGilvray Pharmacy cor. Chubbuck
L. A. Cook, Washington Street.
J. C. M. Sharpe, 538 Washington St.
E. H. Lowe, Washington Street.
George E. Sprague, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water st.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks Avenue.
BREWER'S CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
WEST QUINCY—Edward F. Drohan.
John C. Belanger.
HOUGHS NECK—Capt. Fosdick's.
NEPONSET—Thompson's at the Quincy car barn.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast for Quincy and vicinity. Tuesday generally fair. Wednesday fair. Thursday unsettled.

TOMORROW'S ALMANAC.

Sun rises	5.28
Sun sets	6.10
Length of day	12.42
Moon sets	12.00
High water, A. M.	2.45
High water, P. M.	3.00
Days increase	3 hours, 36 minutes
First Quarter, April 3	2.42 P. M.
Full Moon, April 10	8.28 A. M.
Last Quarter, April 17	2.52 A. M.
New Moon, April 25	6.22 A. M.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

At 12 M. today	degrees
April 1 1913,	66 degrees
April 1, 1912,	60 degrees
April Noon Maximum, 18 years	86
April Noon Minimum, 18 years	30

Couldn't Believe It.

Mr. Stingey—There is more than $30,000,000 in circulation in the United States.

Mrs. Stingey—Judging from the trouble I have to take to get half a dollar out of you I thought that there was no more than $8 or $10 in circulation.—Philadelphia Ledger.

NEWSY BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Branch are expected home this week from Wilbur-by-the Sea, Florida.

J. W. Harvey of Waukena, Cal., is in town for a few days in connection with the settlement of the Torrey estate.

The degree staff of Mount Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., will work the third degree upon seventeen candidates this evening.

Ex-Commissioner Fred E. Tupper is at the island of Chappaquiddick where he is engaged as a civil engineer.

Wednesday will be April Fools day.

Miss Mary Williams of Bigelow street, who teaches in Vermont, has been spending the spring vacation at home.

Special services will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at the First Presbyterian church in preparation for communion Sunday on April 5. A sermon will be given each night by visiting clergymen.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

LEWIS N. CURTIS
PAINTER and GLAZIER
LEADED STAINED GLASS
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED
Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy

TENNIS CLUB REPORTS

Charles E. Barker New President Wollaston Club

At the annual meeting of the Wollaston Tennis club held in Odd Fellows hall Saturday evening the following officers and directors were elected:

President—Charles E. Barker.
Clerk—Jesse I. Litchfield.
Treasurer—N. G. Nickerson, Jr.
Directors—Herbert H. Albee, George E. Brown, Harold Green, Arthur B. Hillman (Clerk and treasurer ex-officiis.)

The retirement of Mr. Hillman after six years service as president of the club was marked by general regret. During his term of office his personal efforts and financial backing have done much to put the club where it is today.

An amendment to the by-laws was voted making the treasurer and clerk members ex-officiis of the board of directors.

Reports of Jesse I. Litchfield, clerk, N. G. Nickerson, Jr., treasurer; and Charles E. Barker and Herbert H. Albee auditors were received. Reports showed the club in excellent financial condition with 90 members, divided into 40 corporation, 44 associate, two associate special and four junior members.

The club was again awarded the Norfolk County championship doubles by the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association. The preliminary rounds will be held June 13 to 16, with the finals on June 17.

It is planned to have the courts on Beale street ready for play on April 19. Extensive repairs are planned and several improvements will be instituted, bringing the courts and grounds up to a high standard.

The club was awarded the championship shield of the Suburban League. Harold Green reported for the tournament committee.

Eugene F. DeNormandie reported that the entertainment committee was successful both socially and financially.

James B. Geddes reported for the bowling committee. Great interest has been aroused in this sport and during the winter two tournaments of several months duration have been held, participated in by seven and six teams respectively.

ODD FELLOWS BOWLING MATCH

The Odd Fellows match at the Coliseum alleys Monday night resulted in a win for Mt. Wollaston over John Hancock by the narrow margin of nine pins. Stevens of the losers had high single 108 and best total of 286. The scores in the last string were close and the match was decided in the last two boxes.

MT. WOLLASTOON.

Esau	82	97	86	265
Gomez	87	84	90	258
A. Hallquist	83	76	97	256
Williams	91	89	79	259
J. Hallquist	83	99	81	263
	426	442	433	1301

JOHN HANCOCK.

Wilson	79	92	79	250
Gordon	86	90	84	260
Herst	74	79	84	237
Thomas	76	98	85	259
Stevens	86	108	92	286
	401	467	424	1292

THAYER SCHEDULE.

The Thayer Academy base ball team will be out this week for practice, weather permitting. Porter Thompson is the manager. H. E. Chapman, captain. The team is being coached by Prof. John M. Townsend. The schedule:

April 3—RoxburyLatin at South Braintree.
April 7—Weymouth High at Weymouth.
April 15—Milton Academy at Milton.
April 17—Brown and Nichols at Cambridge.
May 1—Hingham High at South Braintree.
May 2—Mitchell Academy at South Braintree.
May 9—County Day School at South Braintree.
May 16—Oliver Ames High at North Easton.
May 22—Mitchell Acadecy at Billerica.
May 23—Plymouth High at South Braintree.

SPORT NEWS

The Quincy A. A. contemplates putting a fast team on the diamond, and in all probability their pitcher will be Con Duggan of Atlantic, a brother of Patsy Duggan. Con is one of the younger pitchers. He flirts with six feet in height and has sufficient weight. Last summer he pitched for several of the teams in nearby towns and made a good record. If he plays with Quincy it will be his first home season.

Frank Hoyt is considering several offers from various teams throughout the state, but expects to play with the Fall River representation.

Charles Knight is planning a return to the Provinces for the third season there.

John Pettipit of West Quincy, who caught last summer at Braintree is strongly thinking of going to Canada.

Joe Desmond, said to be the makings of a major ball player, may get back in the game this summer in the Provinces. Joe remained in Quincy last year and only played occasionally

Pete Chapman is home from Williston for the Easter vacation, and his brother Bootus is taking the exams and will be home the last of the week. Both played with the academy basket ball team the past season and were strong point getters. In all probability they will be the school battery for this summer. Bootus, according to good dopesters, has a fine career on the diamond before him, while Pete is still a boy that possesses the judgment and arm necessary before a fast job artist can be developed.

Patsy Duggan is in Memphis, Tenn., with one Southern league team of that city. Pat is on first sack. Mike Finn, formerly of Natick is the controlling factor in the team.

Geo. Barry, son of Michael Barry of the Central fire station, joins the Lowell New England league team on Easter Sunday. When news of his signing up with the team became known he was flooded with offers, Worcester and Brockton being included.

ALL-CITY TOURNAMENT

TThe first of the tandem matches in the All-City tournament were rolled at the City Square alleys Monday night before a large gallery. Sturgis and Lemon the Houghs Neck representatives and Giles and G. Erickson were the winners. The scores were:

Giles	84	104	98	286
G. Erickson	97	89	89	275
	181	193	187	561
Olsen	78	80	95	253
Bergfors	97	102	81	280
	175	182	176	533

SECOND MATCH.

Sturgis	82	90	88	260
Lemon	86	114	94	294
	168	204	182	554
G. Erickson	86	98	83	267
Johnson	77	93	80	250
	163	191	163	517

Advice for Mother.

The small girl had been exasperating all day, and at last her mother lost patience and administered corporal punishment. The child had scarcely recovered from her sobs when she looked up and said: "Mother, you must try and control that temper of yours."

Keep it always at hand
JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
For Aches, Pains, Colds, Sore Throat, Bowel Troubles, Rheumatism. Used internally and externally.
IN USE FOR 75 YEARS
25c and 50c Bottles
Parsons' Pills
tone the system
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Inc. Boston, Mass.

FEDERALS ASK FOR AMNESTY

Reported to Be Ready to Capitulate to Villa

ANSWER LEFT TO CARRANZA

Latter Said to Rely Upon Attitude of Washington Government — Huerta Supporters Claim All Is Not Well With Rebels, Who Have Lost Heavily at the Front

Juarez, Mex., March 31.—Although there have been no newspaper dispatches from Torreon and no official dispatches made public from Villa, the constitutionalists here declare that General Velasco has offered to surrender to the rebel forces on condition that Villa give amnesty to all the officers and men of the garrison.

They claim Villa took one of the three defenses which Velasco has been holding and that the federal commander now has his army in a large warehouse which he has converted into a main fort and in a smaller one which has been used for some time as a garrison.

On the other hand the federal Mexican consul at El Paso received a telegram from General Maure, a federal commander, saying that reinforcements were pouring into Torreon and that the rebels were defeated at Gomez Palacio.

Villa is in doubt, the rebels here say, in regard to accepting the conditional surrender of the federals. He does not wish to grant them amnesty, and he has asked Carranza about it.

A conference of rebel officers was held in Juarez and arrangements were made, to get a through wire to Washington city. It is presumed Carranza will ask the Washington government for recognition upon the promise of the rebels to give amnesty to all of the federals at Torreon.

Conflicting reports are coming from the front at Torreon. Official rebel advices are not so confident in tone as they have been and people arriving from the fighting zone bring pessimistic news. Villa has not taken Torreon, the rebels admit, but they insist that he has the greater portion of the city.

Villa did take Gomez Palacio, but it was only because he had 12,000 men and could afford to have 1000 of them killed or wounded. It was a doubtful victory.

Laredo was taken and lost by Villa and then taken, and each time the battle was a costly one to the rebels and the federals got off lightly.

In Torreon Villa found himself trapped, his men cut off from retreat, and it was a battle not so much for the possession of Torreon as for the preservation of the rebel army from annihilation.

That portion of the city which the federals did not care to hold was given to the rebels, it is asserted, in order to lure them to destruction. The federal losses have been heavy; no one outside of the federal quartels knows how heavy they were, but the losses of Villa were tremendous.

Of Villa's 12,000 men, it is believed 4000 are incapacitated and nearly 1000 dead. These are the reports people from the battle zone bring and tell in whispers. To spread such news openly in Juarez would be dangerous, but the people are learning gradually that all is not well at the front and that Villa probably has his greatest fight yet to make for the capture of Torreon.

The campaign up to the beginning of the Torreon battle was a series of rebel victories. But with the best generalship Villa could command he was unable to dislodge the federals from their positions in the city, and if federal advices are true, he has been unable to prevent them from getting reinforcements.

General Orozco, who won the revolution for Francisco Madero when he caused the downfall of Porfirio Diaz, is said to be approaching Torreon with 6000 men. General Vaure, with several thousand reinforcements, is supposed to have reached Torreon.

If the federal garrison has been strongly reinforced, the report of Velasco's willingness to surrender cannot be based upon fact.

This is the position local federals take, and they insist that already many reinforcements have reached Velasco and many more are on the way, that Velasco is in wirelss communication with Mexico City, and that the situation at Torreon is far from discouraging the federal cause.

Won't Allow Children on Stage

Boston, March 31.—The legislative committee on social welfare reported against the bill to allow children to appear upon the stage on individual permits from the mayor of a city or the selectmen of a town.

Missions Menaced by Brigands

Pekin, March 31.—All foreign missions in China have been imperilled as a result of a declaration of war against these organizations by "White Wolf," the notorious brigand chief.

Young Poetical Wonder

London, March 31.—The Poetry Review publishes several poems of a remarkable 7-year-old, Logan Wiltshire, who cannot yet read or write, but dictates fine verse.

CONFESSES TO MURDER

Boy Used Wrench and Knife In Taking Life of Young Teacher

Little Falls, N. Y., March 31.—Full details of a swern confession by 17-year-old Jean Gianipi of how he brutally murdered Miss Lida Beecher at Poland were given out by District Attorney Farrell.

To get revenge on the school teacher, Gianini swore he used her love for her parents, saying they wanted to see her, to lure her to a lonely spot where he could kill her.

Near the outskirts of the village Gianini pulled a wrench from his pocket and rained about a dozen blows upon her head. Then he stabbed her. After puling the body over in the bushes, Gianini said, he went home and went to bed. He said he slept soundly after having his bloody revenge for being discharged from school.

Rev. and Mrs. Beecher left Poland for their home in Sennett, N. Y., with the body of their daughter.

RESPITE FOR GUNMEN

Chances For Delay of Execution Appear to Be Bright

Albany, March 31.—The chances that the four gunmen who are awaiting the execution of the death sentence during the week of April 13 for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, will be granted a respite until after the second trial of former Police Lieutenant Becker seem bright.

H. L. Kringle, their attorney, filed their petition for a commutation or a respite of their death sentence with the executive pardon clerk, and although Governor Glynn said he had not had time to look over the papers he indicated he was in favor of granting the request for a respite. He declared a commutation of sentence was impossible.

The governor takes the position that it will do no particular harm to suspend the execution of the death sentence temporarily.

TEN THOUSAND BOYS TO CLEAN NEW YORK

Youngsters Divided Into Squads Just Like Real Police

New York, March 31.—Under supervision of officers of the East Side Protective association, 10,000 juvenile policemen started to give the East Side a spring clean-up.

Flies will be swatted wherever found, janitors will be told to keep fire-escapes clear, and smokers will be advised not to throw cigarets on the pavements or on the floors of factories or homes.

The boys, all of whom attend public schools, have been divided into squads, just like real "cops." Every night they will assemble to report delinquencies and delinquents.

RETAINS HER "IDENTITY"

Dr. Walker Tells of Having Given President Arthur the Mitten

Washington, March 31.—Dr. Mary Walker, she of the trousers and silk hat, might have been the first lady of the land, but she wouldn't take the heart and hand of Colonel, later President Arthur, because he "smoked tobacco and because she didn't want to lose her identity."

She said Arthur twice proposed. "He would have given up the use of the weed if I would have consented to become his bride," she explained, "but then I'd have lost my identity in his.

"As his wife I would have been the first lady of the land for a few years, and then would have been a nobody as his widow. I will always be a somebody."

RUN DOWN IN BOSTON

Chicago Officer Starts After Chinaman Accused of Murder

Chicago, March 31.—A Chicago police officer, armed with extradition papers, left here for Boston to take charge of Eng Hong, a Chinaman who is charged with killing Mock Chung in this city in 1912.

The murder was said to have resulted from a Chinese tong war. More than $10,000 was spent by the Hep Sing tong, of which Chung was a member, in this search for Eng Hong, who was arrested in Boston on the eve of his departure for China.

LONG STRUGGLE EXPECTED

British Miners' Strike Begins With Walkout of Thirty-Five Thousand

Leeds, Eng., March 31.—Thirty-five thousand coal miners in the Yorkshire pits laid down their tools because of their dispute with the operators over a minimum rate of wages.

Notices have been handed in by a further 135,000 and these expire at the latest on Thursday, which will bring the total to 170,000. The Miners' Federation of Great Britain has given its support to the strike and a long struggle is expected.

Police Officer a Suicide

Malden, Mass., March 31.—Arthur E. Perham, assistant inspector of the Malden police force, killed himself with his revolver last night at his home. He had been seriously ill and was discouraged by the failure of physicians to diagnose his malady.

CITY COUNCIL

(Continued from Page One.)

and replacements of the Water department, the latter sum being transferred from receipts for water revenue receipts. Ordered to a second reading.

NEW ORDERS.

Councilman Bailey offered an order for catch basins at the westerly corner of Highland avenue and Beale street. Referred to Committee on Sewers.

Councilman Beeman offered an order for street lights on the corner of Squantum street and Bowdoin streets Bowdoin street and Broadway, Broadway and Safford street, Harriet avenue, Sagamore street and two on Squantum street between the entrance to the golf links and the Milton line. Referred to Executive.

Councilman Hadlock offered an order transferring the receipts from house connections with the sewer for 1914 to the appropriation for house connections with the sewer. Adopted.

Councilman Ericson offered an order for a street light on Stillwater street. To Executive.

Councilman Ericson offered an order for $800 for paved gutters on the easterly side of Glendale road and Whitwell street. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Ericson offered an order for crosswalks on Nelson and Curtis streets. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman O'Dowd offered orders for a light on Hayden street, and to change the light on Kent street to the corner of Kent street and Kent place. To Executive.

NO MUNICIPAL GARAGE.

Councilman O'Dowd offered an order for a committee of three to investigate the advisability of establishing a municipal garage for the repair and keeping of city automobiles. Order rejected on a rising vote of 8 yes and 11 no.

Councilman Thompson offered an amendment to the Building ordinance. The amendment was to section 12, and provided that in case a party was dissatisfied with the ruling of the Inspector he could submit his objections in writing to the Inspector who should submit them to the Mayor, Commissioner of Public Works and City Solicitor, and if they approved the Inspector should allow the objections. If however, one of these three disapproved then the objections should be presented to the City Council. Referred to Committee on Ordinances.

The order granting the Electric Light Co. a location for poles took its second reading and was passed.

STREET WATERING.

The annual street watering order took its second reading. Councilman Carlson moved to amend by adding Tyler street. He spoke of the street which was now in good condition and well built up, and said that it should be watered. The amendment was rejected on a rising vote of 8 yes and 11 no. The order was then passed.

ANNUAL APPROPRIATIONS.

The annual appropriation order then took its second reading, and the rules were suspended. On motion of Councilman Bailey the order was taken up item by item.

The first move to amend came on the appropriation of $200 for Miscellaneous for the Inspector of Buildings. Councilman Bailey moved to amend by making the amount $300 and Councilman Thompson moved an amendment to the amendment making the amount $1,000.

Several of the Councilmen asked the Inspector questions as to the duties of his office.

The Mayor said that the work of this office was growing fast. The Inspector now pays a clerk $156. It was necessary for him to make inspections if it was intended to enforce the ordinance and that the street cars were too slow.

Inspector Merrill in reply to questions said that it was necessary to make several inspections. Then he had to pay for half the telephone in his office at City Hall, postage, etc. The balance of the $1,000 would purchase a Ford car and take care of it for the year.

In answer to a question as to how the number of permits tallied with last year, the Inspector said that last year the number of permits was 365 and that he had issued a large number, but could not tell off hand whether the number thus far this year was in increase or not over last year. He told of the number of times he had to make calls for inspection of buildings. That he had found buildings being erected for which no permits had been issued. On an average he had to visit each building under construction from three to five times.

Several Councilmen spoke briefly on the subject and all were opposed to purchasing any more automobiles for departments. It was also argued that as there were several automobiles at City Hall it would be an easy matter in case of necessity to borrow one from some other department.

The amendment to increase the amount to $1,000 was lost, and the amendment increasing the amount to $300 was adopted.

Councilman Carlson desired to take part of the appropriation from one item of the Board of Health and add it to another. He was informed that while he could decrease any item he could not increase any. He dropped the matter.

Under the item of $33,000 for street lighting, Councilman Little asked the Mayor if he had made a new contract with the Electric Lighting Co. The Mayor replied no, but one was under consideration. The Mayor further said that under the present contract, lights were burning late in the morning after the sun was up. That there were three or four months in a year when lights could be turned off at 4 o'clock in the morning instead of running until 7 o'clock, and that it was not necessary to light them during these months until 7 or 8 o'clock in the evening.

Councilman Little spoke at length. He believed all night street lighting a luxury.

A point was raised that there was no motion before the Council, and Councilman Little then moved to make the amount for street lighting $30,000. Motion lost.

The order was then passed to be ordained.

The grand total of the annual appropriations for current expenses as passed is $538,977.94, as against a total for current expenses in 1913 of $508,352.15, an increase of $30,625.79.

BEFORE SUPREME COURT.

Councilman Craig asked about the opinion the City Solicitor was to give at this meeting.

City Solicitor Pinkham said that there was a case from Newburyport argued before the full bench of the Supreme court last week, that was exactly similar to the case in Quincy, and inasmuch as the Supreme court was considering the matter he did not desire to give his ruling until the court had passed upon the question. He was given further time.

The Council at 9.21 adjourned until Monday, April 6.

PRATT'S BREAD made of the best flour by the best bakers. Your grocer.

Piles Cured in 6 to 14 Days
Druggists refund money if PAZO OINTMENT ails to cure Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. First application gives relief. 50c.

"Non-Puncture" Auto Tires
Guaranteed 7,500 Miles Service

These tires bear the greatest known mileage guarantee, yet are sold at a price even less than tires of ordinary guarantee. This guarantee covers punctures, blow-outs and general wear. Guarantee covers 7,500 miles service against everything except abuse. These tires are intended for most severe service. As a SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY offer, we will allow the following prices for the next ten days.

TIRES	TUBES
28x3 $ 9.20	$ 2.00
30x3 10.25	2.20
30x3½ 13.50	2.80
32x3½ 14.05	3.00
34x3½ 15.25	3.20
31x4 17.00	3.25
32x4 18.00	3.30
33x4 19.50	3.40
34x4 20.40	3.60
35x4 21.00	3.80
36x4 22.00	3.90
35x4½ 26.00	5.00
36x4½ 27.00	5.10
37x4½ 27.50	5.15
37x5 32.60	5.40

All other sizes. Non-Skids 20 per cent extra. 5 per cent discount if payment in full accompanies order and if two are so ordered, shipping charges will be paid by us. C. O. D. on 15 per cent of amount of order. Our output is limited, so we suggest early ordering. We sell direct only, giving purchaser the advantage of all middlemen's profits.
NON-PUNCTURE TIRE FACTORY, Dayton, Ohio.

QUINCY REGISTRY FOR NURSES
59 Whitney Road, Quincy, Mass.
Will supply trained and practical nurses, attendants and nursery assistants. No charge will be made to those applying for Nurses.
MRS. E. L. CRANE, Registrar, Tel. Quincy 181-W.

Penniman's Garage
And Taxi Service
Renting, Storage and Supplies
Open Day and Night.
Taxis and Touring Cars for all occasions.
Garage, corner Washington and Wibird Streets.
C. H. PENNIMAN, Prop.
Telephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

WHO'S WHO IN IRELAND'S FIGHT

Sketches of Men Upon Whom the Spotlight Is Turned.

REDMOND AS A FIGHTER.

Characteristics of Parnell's Successor to Home Rule Leadership—Carson, the Ulster Oppositionist, Has Had High Honors—Lord Londonderry a Great Nobleman—Asquith's Rise to Power.

Sir Edward Carson, who, with the Marquis of Londonderry, is regarded as the leader of the Ulster movement against home rule for Ireland, has been a law officer of the crown and is one of the most successful members of the British bar. An Ulster man by birth, he was a graduate of Trinity college, Dublin, and now represents it in parliament. He is sixty years old.

His first preferment under the government came in 1892, when he was made solicitor general for Ireland, and in the last Unionist ministry he served as solicitor general of England from 1900 to 1906. This meant that in the normal course of events he might look for still higher office, and he was in the direct line for appointment as lord chancellor of England.

Activities of Lord Londonderry.

Lord Londonderry is one of the great noblemen of the United Kingdom. He owns over 50,000 acres and is a Knight of the Garter and an aide-de-camp to the king. Tracing his descent from Sir Piers Tempest, who fought at Agincourt, through a family distinguished in English history, he has himself had an active official life. Outside the political career open almost as a matter of course to a man of his rank he served for two years, from 1895 to 1897, as chairman of the school board of London.

Before that he had been a member of parliament for County Down, from 1878 to 1884, and viceroy of Ireland from 1886 to 1889. Then, in the Balfour ministry, he held several offices, as postmaster general, president of the board of education and lord president of the council.

Andrew Bonar Law, parliamentary leader of the opposition, left Canada when twelve years old. He was educated in Hamilton and Glasgow.

For thirty-two years he lived at Helensburgh, Scotland, before migrating two years ago to London. As Sunday school teacher at the Presbyterian church there, as lecturer up and down Scotland and as a champion of the doctrine that tariffs protect industries, he steadily won his way.

Round headed and dark, with a bristling mustache and bright, active eyes, he is a typical example of the clear headed Scottish business man.

Redmond, the Fighter.

John E. Redmond, the doughty leader of Ireland's fight for freedom, is a wonderful organizer. He has succeeded after long years of struggle, where Isaac Butt, who started the home rule movement, Daniel O'Connell and Parnell failed.

He is greater in some respects than those who preceded him, and in some ways his luck has been better. O'Connell was before his time, Butt was an idealist. Parnell, while greater in some respects than Redmond and also less lucky, lacked some of the qualities which have enabled Redmond to bring the hopes of his countrymen within measurable distance of realization. Parnell, while a great leader, was essentially an aristocrat. Redmond, while of as good birth as Parnell, is a great deal more human. He can be all things to all men and at the same time. He is cold to his enemies, but genial and hearty to his friends. Redmond took the Irish party when it was split into half a dozen warring fragments and welded it into a compact whole and made of it a weapon ready to his hand when the time came to use it.

When Parnell was compelled to give up the leadership Redmond stuck to him. He became the leader of the Parnellite faction in the Irish party, he defended Parnell in parliament and out of it and all the time labored assiduously to bring about harmony among his countrymen. His first reward came in 1900, when he succeeded in uniting the party and was chosen its leader. Since then he has continued to fight doggedly to maintain harmony and to win home rule.

Asquith a Gladstone Protege.

Brought into parliament under Gladstone's auspices, Herbert Henry Asquith, the English premier, at once made his mark as a debater, as almost indeed the only debater who could hold his own against Mr. Chamberlain.

Mr. Asquith had to face a parliament in which Liberals were in tremendous majority, but Liberals among whom the old pro-Boers were especially strong. Their suspicion he had to face. He had to face also the deeper suspicion of the Irish Nationalists, for he had been associated for some years with Lord Rosebery, and by that time Lord Rosebery had already vacated his place among the advocates of Irish liberty.

And yet Asquith succeeded where others had failed in convincing a great part of England that a policy of conciliation toward Ireland was the wisest policy.

The Story of "Mrs. Rescue"

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.

We were between the Azores and Madeira, bound for a port in the West Indies, in the American ship Ben Joyce when a curious thing happened one morning about an hour before daylight. I was digging my eyes and fighting away sleep when a curious sound from over the bows caught my ear. As I listened to the noise the only thing I could compare it to was the noses of sharks bumping up against a small boat. It would have been ridiculous to call to the mate and give him any such wild explanation, but I finally called his attention to the curious noises and left the cause to his own perception.

"There's a raft or a boat out there," he said after a moment, "and the noise may be made by oars. I'll burn a port fire."

The port fire lighted up the sea for a hundred feet around, and the first thing we saw was a ship's boat within forty feet of us on the port bow. In the bottom of the boat were two human figures, and one of them was a woman, and all around the boat the sea was alive with sharks. As soon as we caught sight of the boat the mate ran to call the captain. By the time the captain arrived the boat had drifted right down against us, and one of the crew lowered himself into her and made fast the painter. Then I got down to assist him, and we passed up the bodies—the man first. We might just as well have dropped him into the sea, for he had been dead for twenty-four hours at least. He was recognized by all as a sailor. As we picked up the woman, having not a doubt that she was dead also, she moved and uttered a groan. We had her on board after a couple of minutes, and the small boat, which was a captain's gig, new and without a name, was later hoisted up.

The woman awoke to find herself aboard of a strange ship, with strange men around her. She was a handsome, well formed woman, English in looks and speech and about thirty years of age. Her apparel was fine and costly, but she wore no jewelry and had neither a purse nor a cardcase. When asked how she came to be at sea in the gig, what her name was, if she had visited Madeira or the Azores, if she lived in England, she could tell nothing. She began a new life when she opened her eyes in the cabin of the Joyce. After three or four days both cabin and fo'castle came to the same conclusion, which was this: The sailor must have been rowing the woman off to a ship or from a ship to shore at some of the islands.

That's the way we figured it out, and it looked reasonable enough, and, of course, the right thing to do was to leave the woman at Trinidad and report the case as widely as possible. Queerly enough, she fought and baffled this plan. Our captain was a good looking man, and, feeling that she owed him her life and doubtless being rather romantic by nature, what did she do but fall in love with him! That is only half the story. He fell head over heels in love with her. The position was most embarrassing for him, however. All of us agreed that the woman was or had been a wife, though she had no finger ring to prove it. I think he saw things as an honorable man should, and yet he could not help loving her. When we reached Trinidad he notified the English consul, placed the woman in the household of a friend and then sailed for the port of New York.

The story of our picking up the living and the dead was published far and wide. The publication of that story all over the world did not solve the mystery. No husband came forward; no relatives wrote.

When three years had elapsed and still no news had come the two were married. The woman had not recovered one single point of memory. She was a stranger to herself. She had no country, no relatives, no name except by chance. After marriage the captain left the sea and went into the ship chandlery business in Brooklyn. One evening two years after the wedding the captain of an English tramp steamer just in called to ask for some information. He complained of not being well, and, one thing leading to another, he finally related a tale of woe. Several years before, while his ship was at the Azores, his wife, who had been sent ashore in the morning, attempted to return about nightfall, just as a squall was coming up. The boat upset, and the occupants were lost. They found neither the boat nor the bodies, but there was no doubt of the calamity. The loss of the wife so affected the husband that he was ill of brain fever for months, and he had never read a line of her rescue in mid-ocean. There was the husband at last, and Captain Clark realized that he had rights before him. They were alone in the office, and perhaps he thought of killing the man who had come to break up his happy home. It was only a step to the edge of the slip, and perhaps he thought of suicide as the best way out. The climax was a curious one, but in keeping. The strange captain, who had given his name as Burke, was looking at Captain Clark in a puzzled way and wondering why he should be so affected by the story when a yacht anchor swinging from a beam above his head parted its fastenings and fell upon him and crushed him to the floor, and, though he did not die for two days, he never spoke again.

LITTLE MISS CLOVER.

"Where is Clover?" cried Mrs. Hastings, entering the great, shady sitting room of her large country house late one afternoon. Miss Perkins, the village dressmaker, sat there alone, bending over a sewing machine. "I want her particularly," went on rosy-faced little Mrs. Hastings; "there are biscuits to be baked and strawberries hulled for tea; and I've got my cake in the oven, and the tea is a-drawing. I was sure I'd find Clover in here."

Miss Perkins glanced up with a contemptuous sniff.

"You won't find her any place where she has any work to do," cried that lady, in her shrill, high-pitched voice. "I'm sorry to say it myself, but that girl is the laziest, uselessest—"

"There, that'll do, Miss Perkins!" interrupted Mrs. Hastings. "Clover is as dear to me as my own child and I don't like to hear her censured. We have no child of our own, but John; and we have loved her ever since we found her lying out in the sweet clover at the door, eighteen years ago—a little, laughing child of about a year—and she smiled up into my face with her big brown eyes; from that hour, Clover—we gave her the name because we found her in the clover—has filled a daughter's place in our hearts. She needn't work if she doesn't want to; she was made for happiness—for life in the free open air—to dance and sing and be happy after her own fashion."

Miss Perkins—a prim maiden of uncertain age, sandy-haired, greeneyed, and with a tendency to freckles—filled her mouth with pins and proceeded grimly to "tack" together the skirt of the pretty organdie that she was making for Clover, a dainty device of ruffles and lace, and bows and sashes; "for all the world like a party dress!" she had snapped when Mrs. Hastings had given her the directions.

"Oh, dear me, Mrs. Hastings!" she sneered, dropping the pins at last, and thus freeing her tongue, which ached with unaccustomed silence. "I don't pretend to interfere with you and Clover, though why on earth you couldn't give her a Christian name is more than I can tell! But do you think it quite the thing to—hand me the lace, if you please; thanks—to allow her to be so much in the company of your son? Aren't you afraid of consequences? The girl will certainly fall in love with him, and then what will you do? You surely want no daughter-in-law who hasn't a name of her own?"

Mrs. Hastings' rosy face had become quite pale, but she tried to force a smile.

"Clover and John are like brother and sister," she said thoughtfully," and John, since he has his diploma, and has become a full-fledged physician, is wrapped up in his profession, and has no thought of marriage."

Miss Perkins nodded her saucy head until she looked like a Chinese mandarin.

"Perhaps so, perhaps so," she returned. "But if that is really the case, Mrs. Hastings, then your son must be an atrocious flirt; for I have reason to believe"—and she paused to bite off her thread with a vicious snip—"to believe he rather preferred me!"

Mrs. Hastings had all she could do to suppress a laugh.

"You?" she repeated blandly. "Why John is only twenty-eight."

"And I'm an old woman, I suppose?" snapped the spinster viciously. "I was twenty-five on the third day of May; that's hardly antediluvian!"

But she forgot to add that that third of May in question had gone down the broad aisle of the past a dozen years before.

A clear, ringing laugh broke the silence which followed the speech, and a pretty, brown-eyed girl in pink muslin, and with a broad-brimmed straw hat on her flowing hair, danced into the room, her white apron full of wild flowers. There was a wreath of blossoms around the crown of her hat, and knots of wild roses in her corsage. A tall, handsome, blue-eyed man, Doctor John Hastings himself, was not far behind.

"Here we are, mother!" he cried cheerily; "Clover and I have been out in the woods, and we have come home hungry as bears. Eh, Clover?"

"You bet!" cried Clover enjoying, the maiden's lady's face of horror at the slang, for these two young people delighted in teasing Miss Perkins their mutual aversion. "Mamma," she went on slyly. "I'll go right to work to get tea, and John will entertain Miss Perkins."

"Not this afternoon!" began John hastily, muttering something about "business down at the office."

Miss Perkins gave him a withering glance.

"Will entertain Miss Perkins!" she repeated slowly. For in that country place the village dressmaker was wont to be treated with all due deference. So Clover deposited her flowers upon a small, side table, and ran up to her own room, returning soon, fresh and fair, and with her own deft hands prepared the evening meal.

Miss Perkins looked as sweet as honey, as she bent over her work, occasionally "making eyes" at the handsome doctor. She managed to inveigle him into escorting her home in the early moonlight, and when John returned he told Clover that he felt as though he had taken a dose of wormwood.

"Kissed her, eh?" cried Clover saucily.

His answer was to seize the audacious girl and kiss her again and again.

"Father and mother will both be so pleased," he whispered. "They love you as a daughter already, darling.

"You do not even know my proper name," she said, "and you want me to be your wife!"

And one little hand slipped into the pocket of her dress where a letter lay snugly concealed—a letter which Clover had taken from the post office that very day, and had read and reread a hundred times. And as she thought of its strange romantic contents, her heart beat with joy and rapture.

Time passed, and at length Miss Perkins heard of the engagement of Clover and John. She was horrified.

"I can't believe it!" she cried. I'll go right straight to John Hastings this very minute, and demand the truth. If I only had a little more testimony, I'd have him up for breach of promise!"

And, tying on her hat, and profusely powdering her prominent nose, which always would get red when she was angry and excited, the irate lady started for Doctor Hasting's office, thinking that there she would secure an uninterrupted tete-a-tete.

One glance through the half-open door revealed John in a great leathern armchair, and at his side Clover, sobbing violently.

"I'll run upstairs the back way, and slip into the room overhead," she decided. "The plaster is all safe but in one spot, and I'll be able to hear everything. Oh, won't this be a triumph over Mrs. Hastings when I am able to unmask that treacherous hussy!"

So she ran upstairs by the back entrance of the building, and in a few moments was safely ensconced overhead, and crouching down, could hear and see also all that transpired below. There sat John Hastings with his arm about Clover's waist, and kising her as though he liked to.

"The minx!" snapped the unseen watcher. "I'd like to catch any man kissing me like that!"

"My own little love," Doctor Hastings was saying, "you have proved my love for you to be unselfish, and I am glad that you are satisfied. But don't cry, Clover!"

The girl glanced up with smiles and tears, and kissed him full upon the lips.

"Merciful Heaven!" panted the watcher upstairs. "I never was guilty of such conduct in my life!"

"And to think," went on the doctor, below, "that you have found out all the truth; who your parents were and all! And that you are an heiress, too! Why, Clover, you are a sharp little manager to keep it to your self so long. To think of your seeing the advertisement which called for the heirs of Lawrence Montgomery, and that name being found upon the handkerchief wrapped about you when you were discovered lying out in the clover; you secretly applied to the address appended to the notice, and the result is that you are proved to be the only child of a rich man stolen from your home when a babe. Your parents both being dead, all the Montgomery fortune is now yours. Quite a romance. Clover, why do you cry?"

"For joy," she faltered, smiling through her tears as she added: "Nobody can say that you married me for my money, John, because I have been your wife for three weeks now, before the great news was fully ascertained, and no one but your mother knows of our marriage. Why, John, what is that?"

For the watcher above, bending lower and lower lest a single syllable should escape her, had ventured too near the half-dry plaster which bordered the hole in the ceiling, and, with one wild shriek, like an Indian warwhoop, she fell through the ceiling, and, stunned and half dead, lay at Doctor Hastings' feet. He glanced upward as though he were looking for more.

"Is she dead?" whispered Clover, in an awe-stricken tone, as her husband stooped over the insensible form upon the floor.

"No," he answered, "but it would serve her right, for I understand the whole situation."

Clover insisted upon taking Miss Perkins to their own home, and there she nursed the spinster back to life and health. Thoroughly ashamed of her own conduct, Miss Perkins begged Clover's forgiveness, and Clover blessed by the love of her devoted husband, and surrounded by luxury, thought that, with all her great store of blessings, she could afford to practice that "charity which suffereth long and is kind."—Mrs. E. Burke Collins, in N. Y. Weekly.

KEEP POSTED ON THE PEOPLE'S WANTS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

WHY WORRY LET THESE ADS LIFT YOUR BURDEN

TO LET

TO LET—After May 7th, house of seven rooms and bathroom. All modern improvements. Rent $30. Apply any time at Mrs. Elizabeth C. Follett's, 105 Putnam street. 23-12t

TO LET—At 209 Kendrick avenue, upper tenement of six rooms and bath. All modern improvements. Combination stoves. Apply to 220 Franklin street. 28-tf

TO LET—Ten rooms set range, bath etc., land for garden or hens $25 per month. Also two suites four rooms each, gas and use of bath, all in perfect repair $3.00 per week. Apply Room 20, Durgin & Merril Block. March 28-3t

TO LET—To small family, A flat of 5 rooms and bath. All modern improvements. Inquire at 33 Dysart street. 28-3t

TO LET—Five room lower flat, all improvements, new house, ready April 15th situated 41 and 43 Bradford street. Apply to W. L. Saunders 146 Franklin street. 26-tf

TO LET—Furnished rooms with or without board. Mrs. F. Wrigley, 18 Washington street corner Coddington. 26-6t

TO LET—A six room tenement with bath, set tubs, range, etc. Apply at 90 Arnold street. A. T. Bradford, Quincy. 26-12t

TO LET—Sunny apartment of six rooms and bath, set range, all modern improvements, 4 minutes to station. Excellent location. Rent $22. Apply to O. P. Lindberg, 160 Elm street, Quincy. 25-12t

TO LET—After April 1, 1914, house No. 5 Summer street, 9 rooms and bath with all modern improvements. Apply to Dr. D. B. Reardon, 22 School street. 25-6t

TO LET—Large pleasant sunny room. Near restaurants and R. R. station. Apply at 1187 Hancock street. 21-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 or 7 rooms all improvements, near High school. Apply at 99 Putnam street, Quincy. 11-24t

TO LET—House of seven rooms, bath and all improvements at 64 Merrymount road. Enquire W. W. Adams 12 Greenleaf street, Quincy. 14-tf

TO LET—On Russell Park commodious house of 7 rooms and bath, Open fireplace, range, furnace, electric lights, shades, screens and all modern conveniences. Best residential section in Quincy Centre. Ready for immediate occupancy. For further particulars and key see Miss Prescott at Ledger Office or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of six rooms and bath all improvements including combination range etc. On car line, 10 minutes walk from city square. Apply to Fred D. Williams, at Murphy's Drug store, 1415 Hancock street, Quincy. 17-tf

TO LET—April 1st, 28 Park Lane, second floor 7 rooms, combination lighting fixtures. Combination range furnace heat, back and front piazzas. beautiful location. Apply 22 Berkely. Telephone 349-M. 11-tf

FOR RENT— In Quincy Centre opposite Adams Academy house of 8 rooms and bath, also garage. Tel. 414 M, Weymouth. 6-tf

TO LET—Upper apartment of 7 rooms and bath, all improvements including set range and gas stove, now ready. Inquire, A. W. Parker, 87 Merrymount road. Tel. Quincy 258-1 16-tf

FOR man and wife, furnished lower apartment of three rooms, with modern improvements. Central, convenient, quiet. Address P. O. box 367 Quincy. 16-tf

TO LET—Upper and Lower Suites in 2-family house on Spear street of 5 rooms and bath each. All improvements. Rent $27 per month. Upper suite ready for immediate occupancy; lower one ready April 15. Apply to Miss Prescott Ledger Office, or telephone 425. 14-tf

TO LET—Flat of 5 rooms and bath at 38 Revere road. Apply at 36 Revere road. 6-tf

WM. H. TEASDALE
REAL ESTATE
Insurance Mortgages
NOTARY PUBLIC JUSTICE OF THE PEACE
Room 32 Adams Building
Telephones { Residence 544-2 / Office 683-M

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three consecutive insertions 50 cents. 6 consecutive insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

☞In answering advertisements in this column please read carefully and follow instructions. We know nothing of the advertiser except as stated in the advertisement... .. ....

LOST

LOST—New gray suit of clothes, also pair of pants. Fell off furniture wagon between Brewers corner and Quincy Adams. Reward, 23 High street, Quincy Adams. 30-3t

MISCELLANEOUS

WILL STORE A FINE UPRIGHT PIANO with private party for the use of the same, or will sell cheap on easy terms. For particulars Address Box 10 this office. 28-6t L 1-w O

WANTED

WANTED—Assistant bookkeeper with some office experience. Apply to Henry L. Kincaide & Co. 31-tf

WANTED—By registered nurse, position to care for chronic or other cases. No obstetric cases taken. Terms $15 per week. Write Nurse, Ledger Office. 31-3t

WANTED—By young man, furnished room with breakfast in private family. Write A. B. C. Ledger office. 30-3t

FURNITURE and Piano moving, coal handling and jobbing. Myatt, 40 Baxter street. Tel. 1397-M. Quincy, Res. 22-tf

MY SLOGAN
for 1914 is the sale of 4 Automobile tires and 10 gallons of lubrication oil to every automobile owned in Quincy.
Will you help me do this?
F. W. BENT, 1058 Hancock St.
Tel. 619 R. Feb. 24-tf

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAY—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

1912 Rambler For Sale
Cross Country Rambler good as new. Run less than 3,000 miles, fully equipped. If bought at once will be sold at a sacrifice. Write R., Ledger Office. 28-3t

Shampoo, Facial and Scalp Massage
MANICURE, CHIROPODY.
Hair orders a specialty.
MISS E. M. KENNEY
Hancock Chambers, City Square
Tel. Quincy 1745 W. March 16-18t

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
PIANO TUNER
78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point.
Telephone 1153-M Quincy
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy. Feb. 27-tf

KEEP AHEAD
OF THE FLY AND YOUR NEIGHBOR BY HAVING YOUR SCREENS
RECOVERED OR PAINTED
NOW
HOLMES & HALL
1179 HANCOCK ST.
TEL. QUINCY 1696 W

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Storage batteries, also storage battery charging at reasonable rates. W. F. Hodgkinson, 70 Chestnut street, Tel. 1448W. 31-6t

FOR SALE—Fresh eggs, also eggs for hatching Rhode Island Reds and W. P. Rocks $1.00 per setting., 21 Cherry Ave., Quincy. 31-3t

FOR SALE—Fully equipped lunch room doing a first class business, near large manufacturing plant. Owner has best of reasons for selling. Apply at 557 Washington street, Quincy Point. 30-6t

FOR SALE—Will sell cheap a nine room, rooming house, well furnished everything complete. Apply 24 Chestnut street. 30-6t

FOR SALE—A flat top office desk, a bookkeeper's desk, six office chairs, drawing table and a foot power jig saw. Apply 65 Willard street. 26-6t

FOR SALE—Cabin boat 23 ft. by 8 ft. beam, sails and power. Complete inventory. R. C. Loud, 21 Gannet road, Adams Shore. 25-6t

FOR SALE OR TO LET— New house, two tenements five rooms each, all improvements. Situated on Hayward street, East Braintree. Completed April 15. Apply to W. L. Saunders, 146 Franklin street, Quincy. 21-tf

FOR SALE—A large quantity of rotted cow and horse manure, also manure bought. Peter McConarty, 5 Pearl street, Tel. 1016M Quincy. 11-tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—New houses Apply to Thompson B. Crane, 403 Washington street, Quincy. 1-tf

M. T. SULLIVAN
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property
Justice of the Peace
Room 3, Durgin & Merrill Block, QUINCY

JAMES F. BURKE & CO.
Real Estate and Insurance
Care of Property. Mortgages
Justice of Peace. Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 885 M. Nov. 11-tf

A few Choice House Lots
— ON —
PRESIDENT'S HILL ANNEX
are now offered for sale at very reasonable prices. All lots are high and dry, overlooking Boston Harbor. Also houses and land in all parts of the city.
SWITHIN
3 GREENLEAF BLOCK
Jan. 5-tf

CITY SQUARE
I have for sale the best 11 room unoccupied new house that can be bought for anything like the price $9,000. It was privately built at a much greater cost. Investigate and convince yourself of reasons for selling. Remember the offer is an exceptional one.
Full particulars of
EDMUND G. HAYDEN
Tel. 1877-M Quincy, Representing
HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
129 Tremont St., Boston,
March 30-tf

M. MIRKIN Upholsterer
Is the one who will give you the full satisfaction in work and prices of repairing furniture, mattresses and cushions. 1060 Hancock St., near the Quincy High School Tel. con.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

ase of necessity to borrow me other department.
dment to increase the 1,000 was lost, and the increasing the amount to dopted.
Carlson desired to take appropriation from one Board of Health and add
r. He was informed that uld decrease any item he crease any. He dropped item of $33,000 for street nciliman Little asked the had made a new contract ectric Lighting Co. The d no, but one was under

n. The Mayor further der the present contract, urning late in the morn-sun was up. That there r four months in a year could be turned off at the morning instead of l 7 o'clock, and that it ssary to light them dur-nths until 7 or 8 o'clock ng.
Little spoke at length.
all night street lighting

s raised that there was efore the Council, and Little then moved to nount for street lighting ion lost.
was then passed to be total of the annual ap-for current expenses as $8,977.94, as against a to ent expenses in 1913 of n increase of $30,625.79.

SUPREME COURT.
Craig asked about the ity Solicitor was to give
ing.
or Pinkham said that case from Newburyport
e the full bench of the t last week, that was ex-
to the case in Quincy, h as the Supreme court
ing the matter he did not e his ruling until the ssed upon the question.
further time.
ll at 9.21 adjourned un-
April 6.

T'S BREAD made of the the best bakers. Your red in 6 to 14 Days money if PAZO OINTMENT ng, Blind, Bleeding or Protrudapplication gives relief. 50c.

uncture" Auto
Tires
ed 7,500 Miles
Service bear the greatest known antee, yet are sold at a ss than tires of ordinary
This guarantee covers blow-outs and general antee covers 7,500 miles inst everything except e tires are intended for service. As a SPECIAL TORY offer, we will allow prices for the next ten

TIRES—TUBES
$ 9.20 $ 2.00
10.25 2.30
13.50 2.80
14.05 3.00
15.25 3.20
17.00 3.25
18.00 3.30
19.50 3.40
20.50 3.60
21.00 3.80
22.00 3.90
26.00 5.00
27.00 5.10
27.50 5.15
32.60 5.40
izes. Non-Skids 20 per per cent discount if pay-accompanies order and if rdered, shipping charges r us. C. O. D. on 25 per nt of order. Our output we suggest early order-direct only, giving pur-dvantage of all middle-

URE TIRE FACTORY,
Dayton, Ohio.

Y REGISTRY
R NURSES
y Road, Quincy, Mass.
y trained and practical dants and nursery assis-
charge will be made to
g for Nurses.
L. CRANE, Registrar,
181-W.

han's Garage
Taxi Service
Storage and Supplies
Day and Night.
d Touring Cars for all corner Washington and
eets.
ENNIMAN, Prop.
lephone 207.
Feb. 7-tf

KINCAIDE THEATRE

Every Afternoon at 2.30. 5. 10. 15c.
Evenings at 7.45. 10. 15. 25c

MON. TUES. WED.
Program Subject to Change

Daniel Frohman Presents
CECELIA LOFTUS
In the popular Novel and Famous Play
"A LADY OF QUALITY"
First of the "Famous Players" Photo-plays to be shown here

THREE BOYDS
Character Singers and Dancers

SILENT MORA
Novelty Magician

DALE & BOYLE
The Belle and the Beau

WATSON-HUTCHINS-EDWARDS
Screaming Comedy Sketch
"SCHULTZ NIGHT OUT"

KINCAIDE THEATRE ORCHESTRA

Mar. 28—3t

Not True In All Cases.

"All things come to those who wait, you know."

"G'long! Suppose you are waiting on a mountain top for an ocean liner?" —Philadelphia Press.

Make Money in Fox Farms.

Fox farming is a growing industry in southern Yukon.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Two Banquets in One Day Too Much For Mayor

Mayor Miller has been notified that he will be called upon tonight at the annual dinner of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange at the Copley-Plaza for a few remarks. When asked this morning what line of thought he would speak on, he said that it would be on the use of Massachusetts granite for the public dock about to be build in Boston. The Mayor believes in fostering Massachusetts industries, especially in State work, and while it would possibly cost a little less if the granite came from Quincy or Rockport he believes that home industries should be encouraged. He also believes that the dock should be built of granite rather than of cement as cement in salt water does not work well, while granite piers laid in salt water stand for ages.

The Mayor received an invitation this morning to dine today with the Chairman of the Republican State Committee but was obliged to decline on account of the engagement tonight.

CONCERT AT SOUTH END HOUSE

The Cecilian quartet consisting of four young ladies of Bethany church, Alice Parker, first soprano; Ada Williams, second soprano; Isabelle Laing, first alto, Florence Sabaen, second alto; and Agnes Ruggles, pianist under the direction of Mrs. Frank J. Moore, gave a most enjoyable concert at the South End House, 20 Union park, Boston, Monday evening. The audience consisting of Irish and Russian Jews, with a sprinkling of Italians and the American residents of the house gave hearty applause to the beautiful rendering of Scotch, Irish and Indian melodies. Mrs. Moore's solos were highly appreciated.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

THINKING OF SELLING
YOUR REAL ESTATE?
Spring Is The Very Best Time
LIST YOUR PROPERTY WITH ME
I HAVE A CONSTANT LIST OF BUYERS
FOR ONE AND TWO FAMILY HOUSES
W. T. DONOVAN, Room 4, Adams Bldg. (Over Cox Drug Store)
Real Estate and Mortgage Insurance of Every Description
Telephones: Quincy 1057-J and 304-1

March 30-6t

Correct Corsetry

is the desire of every woman. There is no garment more important in your Spring wardrobe than the

CORSET

Carrying a large assortment of the leading well known brands—you will find here a corset to fit every figure. The Spring models have many new features such as the Topless Corset—Normal Line—Free Hip Bone—and those giving the "slouch" so much in vogue.

CAREFUL ATTENTION GIVEN TO FITTING
CORSETS PRICED FROM
$1.00 to $10.00
New and dainty effects in perfect fitting
— BRASSIERES —
Also
Hosiery and McCalls Patterns

THE CORSET SHOP
S. E. DUNPHY 8 MAPLE STREET
March 28-tf

With Teams and Trucks

KINCAIDE MOVES HOUSEHOLD GOODS

Our light and heavy Trucks and Teams are ready to move you anywhere anytime you say. Our men are courteous, careful, thoroughly-experienced movers. This store stands back of their work and guarantees you complete satisfaction. Charges are reasonable. Let's have your order early. Write, call or Telephone Quincy 1200.

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO. 1495 Hancock St.

UNCLE SAM AT PANAMA SHOW

Exhibitions of Every Phase of Government Activity.

HOW OUR MONEY IS MINTED

Elaborate Plans For This Public Demonstration—Army and Navy, Postal Service, Fish Commission and Bureau of Standards Among Departments to Be Represented.

The United States government is preparing a series of elaborate exhibits for the Panama-Pacific International exposition, which will be distributed among all of the various exhibit palaces and will show every phase of the government's activities.

A feature of a sightseeing trip through Washington always is a visit to the bureau of engraving, where the actual making of the paper notes is shown. A reproduction of this part of the treasury will be found in San Francisco, and visitors to the exposition will be enabled to witness the actual manufacture of United States money in one of the exhibit palaces. The machinery that turns out millions of dollars a day will be taken direct from one of the United States mints to the exposition, and every detail of the mintage displayed.

Few realize just what the United States fish commission is doing for the American people, and the government is now preparing the construction of an aquarium, and, in connection with it, the hatchery in which the various stages of development from the spawn to the full sized fish will be shown.

It is the fish commission, explains the New York Post, that keeps the streams and lakes stocked with the edible fishes, and by scientific breeding prevents the extinction of species. The spawn are hatched in numbers ranging into the billions, yet despite the remarkable care with which they are handled only a small percentage of these ever attain maturity. Large cans of the eggs and the hatched fish are transported from the hatcheries to the streams and must be fed with air every few moments. This requires constant care and exceptional knowledge

Big Gun Practice.

For many years the privilage of witnessing actual practice with the big disappearing coast defense guns has been greatly limited, and only acquaintance with army men or influence in Washington could gain the desired permission.

The government now has consented to permit the visitors to the exposition to have free access to forts adjoining the exposition grounds.

Daily practice on the big guns with subcaliber charges will be held and weekly target practice with full charges. Each time one of these guns is fired with a full charge the cost to the government amounts to several hundred dollars.

In addition to this unusual feature, several regiments of soldiers stationed at the Presidio, the largest army post of the west, will maneuver and hold daily drills and exercises and may even compete with detachments of troops from foreign nations attending the international military tournament.

Scene Showing Busy Mail Car.

In the Palace of Transportation a postal car will be shown in its entirety with the postal clerks actually operating a railway mail car. There will also be on the grounds a small post-office, where letters may be mailed. Every detail of the operation of checking, handling and transmitting mail may be seen here.

On the sea front of the exposition site there will be maintained and operated a United States government life saving station, fully equipped, where exhibition drills will be held daily.

Work done on battleships will be displayed and explained in detail by the officers in charge, and the education of the enlisted men will be shown.

The bureau of standards is one of the least known departments of the government, yet its work is without question highly important. This department also will be represented by an elaborate exhibit.

BIG PRIZES FOR WOMEN.

Chicago Plan For Recognition of Notable Achievements.

A movement which is receiving considerable support and arousing much enthusiasm has been inaugurated by the Chicago Woman's Association of Commerce, whereby American recognition is to be accorded the notable achievements of women by the bestowal of a series of prizes similar to the Nobel prizes. It is tentatively suggested that the prizes range from $10,000 to $40,000.

The plan will be presented in June to a body of women consisting of the great women writers, artists, musicians, financiers, scientists and thinkers of the age. Calls are being sent all over the world to summon these women to a meeting in Chicago to be held between the 13th and 20th of June.

The biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which will meet in Chicago at that time, will call thousands of women from all over the world to that city. A congress of women's achievements to be held by the Woman's Association of Commerce at that time will provide an appropriate setting for the meeting.

OLD SWEETHEARTS ARE MARRIED

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mason, Bayside road was the scene of a pretty wedding Monday evening when Harriet Meachin and William Hayes were united in marriage, the Rev. T. W. Davison of Atlantic performing the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes were sweethearts in England where their parents now reside although Mr. Hayes has been in this country some time and holds a good position at Bradford, R. I. Mrs. Hayes came to Squantum last September returning with her sister, Mrs. Mason, who had been spending the summer with her parents. The happy couple will make their home in Bradford.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Many friends of Elmer Asklund gathered at the home of his parents 156 Glendale road to celebrate his fifteenth birthday on Monday. The evening was spent in playing all kinds of games. Refreshments were served during the evening. While the happy party was gathered around the table Miss Elvira Backman presented him with a handsome fountain pen and gold clasp in behalf of those present. He was very much surprised. Elmer received presents from his family also.

Among those present were: Esther Asklund, Elsie Broberg, Leona Byrne Elvira Backman, Hilda Erickson, Ebba Holteen, Gertrude Hibbett, Alice Lindholm, Helen M. Peterson, Effie Weeden, Eugenia Wilbas, Helen Swanson William Stevenson, Elmer Asklund Arthur Asklund, Ellis Backman, John Byrne, Henry Erickson, Edward Gibson, William Hibbert, Carl Mattson George Norris, Erik Nelson, Swen Chilsted and Mr. and Mrs. Asklund.

BOARD OF TRADE.

The Quincy Board of Trade has started a campaign for a membership of 1000. The Board now has a membership of 330 members, and if each of these will secure two applications the desired number will be reached. Once the goal is reached steps will be taken to erect a Board of Trade building, which in addition to containing rooms for meetings of the board will have committee rooms banquet hall, etc. It is also proposed that the first or street floor shall be devoted to business stores. During the next sixty days he usual initiation fee will be omitted so that the cost will be but $5 for the year. A regular meeting will be held Wednesday evening.

Alfred W. Cuchman who for many years ran what was known as the "Dude" train to Cape Cod through Quincy and O. A. Symes of Braintree were among the 38 old employes of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad that have just been retired on a pension. Mr. Cushman has been with the railroad for 48 years and Mr. Symes for 41 years.

DO YOU WANT BUSINESS? ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

DRUGS AND CRIME.

A new species of offender is making his appearance in our prisons as a result of the steadily growing drug habit—those who steal in order to buy drugs. They come to us as men and boys charged with petty larceny, but they are victims of drugs, for if they did not indulge the chances are that they would not steal. Few of us can know the extent to which the use of drugs has spread. Mothers write to me by almost every mail for advice as to measures they may take for the saving of their sons and daughters. They face, as we do, the fact that heroin is a drug to which nearly every one may have access. It is under no ban, and because of that it has become the most generally used of all. We are seeking now to secure at Albany legislation which will put heroin in the forbidden class.—Miss Katherine B. Davis, Commissioner of Corrections, New York City.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

This is to inform my friends, customers and general public that William Nash and Lemuel Murray are no longer in my employ.

I also desire to announce that I am now located at my new garage on the corner of Washington and Wibird streets and am better prepared than ever to give prompt and reliable taxi service.

We have five and seven passenger touring cars which we furnish for all occasions at reasonable rates.

Thanking the public for their patronage in the past and soliciting a continuance of the same, we remain yours for prompt service,

PENNIMAN TAXI SERVICE.
Telephone night or day, Quincy 207
28-3t

BRIEFS

A regular meeting of the School Committee will be held this evening.

March came in like a lion and it is going out like a lamb, thus keeping true the old saying.

The joint City Council committees on Fire Department and Ordinances will mee Thursday evening.

"Ye Olde Folkes' Concerte" will be given by the choir of the Wollaston Methodist church this evening.

A meeting of the teachers of Bethany Bible school will be held Wednesday evening, a supper being served at 6.30.

The Epworth League of the Wollaston Methodist church will have the regular social and business meeting in the church on Friday evening.

The annual conference of the Methodist church will convene in Malden Center church on April 15, Bishop Bristol presiding.

The S. Agnes Parker sewing circle will meet with Mrs. Eliza Penniman at her home on Elm place Wednesday afternoon.

The executive committee of Corps 103, Mrs. Agnes Fletcher chairman, will meet with Mrs. Powers on Bigelow street Thursday afternoon.

John T. Conway, superintendent of the Old Colony division of the Bay State street railway, accompanied by his daughter, is in Norfolk, Va., for a short visit.

Peter Rowell, 45 years of age, died this morning at his home at 81 Walnut street. He has lived in Atlantic for many years and was a mason by trade.

The monthly meeting of the Quincy Board of Trade will be held Wednesday evening when the first returns from the campaign for a membership of 1000 will be received.

The kindergarten class at the Park and Downs church give an entertainment at the church Wednesday evening. It is the "Kiddies" Easter offering to their church, and a fine vaudeville program is promised.

Among the preachers for Holy Week at Bethany church will be Rev. Albert L. Hyde, D. D., of Brockton, and Rev. Joseph Walther of the Wollaston Baptist church.

Inspector of Buildings Merrill promises to give the public some interesting facts Wednesday aboutt the number of building permits issued this year, with the amount of money received for the same.

Rev. C. E. Johnson of Lynn preached at the special services Sunday at the Swedish Baptist church under the auspices of the Swedish Sunday School Association of New England. Other addresses were by Rev. G. W. Lindstrom of Brockton and Rev. J. C. Backland of Boston.

The pastor of Bethany church will give a lenten lecture at the home of Mrs. John F. Welch, 1662 Hancock street on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock; subject "The teachings of Jesus." The ladies of the church are invited to extend the invitation to their friends.

Daniel McNeil, of Wollaston was in the Dorchester court Monday charged with assaulting S. Taylor, a conductor of the Boston Elevated Railway, at the Neponset car barns the night of March 22. McNeil was also charged with spitting on the floor of the car He was found guilty by Judge Churchill and sentenced to three months in the House of Correction for assault, then fined $10 for spitting.

☞The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

MARRIAGES

HAYES—MEACHIN— In Squantum March 30, by Rev. T. W. Davison, William Hayes of Bradford, R. I., and Miss Harriet Meachin.

DEATHS

BEAL—In Hingham, March 28, Adelia S., wife of Arthur Beal, aged 74 years.

MEEK—In Milton, March 30, Maud C. daughter of David and the late Catherine Meek, (nee Collins) of 17 Capen street, aged 17 years.

STROUT—In Holbrook, March 30, Miss Martha G. Strout, aged 85 years.

ROWELL—In Atlantic, March 31, Peter Rowell, aged 49 years. Funeral from his late residence, 81 Walnut street, Thursday, April 2, at 8.15 A. M. High mass of requiem at Church of the Sacred Heart at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited to attend. 31-2t

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

MERCHANTS' RATE

For Advertising In Daily Ledger

15 Cts. Per Inch!

ALMOST If Not QUITE One Thousand Readers For EVERY CENT You Pay Per Inch

WHY PAY MORE!

Then again, 15 Cents per Inch in the DAILY LEDGER is worth more to you than 10 Cents per Inch in any other Quincy newspaper.

EVERY MERCHANT

Can obtain the 15 Cent Rate provided he uses over 125 Inches in a calendar month, and allows every "Ad" to run two or more days. These rates apply to—

Half Page, 2 days or more per Month
Quarter Page, 4 days or more per Month
30 Inch Space, 5 days or more per Month
20 Inch Space, 7 days or more per Month
10 Inch Space, 13 days or more per Month
5 Inch Space, Every day for Month

Or you can use 40 inches one week, 60 inches another week, and 80 inches another, provided the aggregate for the month is over 125 inches.

DISCOUNTS

Are also allowed from these prices to all Merchants who use 250 Inches in a month, and a bigger discount to all who use 500 Inches.

THE MERCHANTS' RATE

Is much lower than the Transient Rate, which applies to all who use less than 125 Inches per month, and is as follows: One Inch for one day only, costs 50 cents; for two days, 75 cents; for three days, $1.00; for six days $1.50, which makes the weekly rate 25 cents per inch each day.

Drop In and Talk It Over.

We employ no regular Solicitor of Advertising, but are always glad to have Merchants drop in and talk it over. Ask for the Managing Editor, and he will be ready to co-operate with you at any time.

IF YOU ARE READY

To Expend $18.75 per Month for Advertising Which is Only 75 cts. per Day. You Can Obtain the 15 Cent Rate.

WHY NOT CO-OPERATE

And Stimulate HOME TRADE